ED MYATT ... Pampa's Beau Brummell

Myatt Feels Every Citizen Owes Duty

By BILL KERR Pampa News Staff Writer At a meeting of the Lions Club Board of Directors recently concerted efforts on the part of all present were made to induce Ed Myatt to continue as general chairman of the Lions Club Minstrel Show.

Myatt declined the chairmanship saying, "I have already served three times, and in view of family and business responsibilities, you had better seek another man."

Texas Boosts Oil Allowable

AUSTIN, Nov. 15—UP—The Texas Railroad Commission Monday boosted the state's oil allowable 64,374 barrels a day, fixing permissible production for December at 2,961,782 barrels daily.

The increase, second straight for Texas, followed a brief statewide prorating hearing.

The number of state-wide producing days was upped one to 16. The vast East Texas Field also was placed on 14 days, as was the Pantex field, the Pickett Field was set on nine days, and Sandusky (Oil Creek), 13.

Texas fields this month are producing generally on a 15-day schedule. Virtually all producers recommended the 15-day level of production, with one asking 17 and three others suggesting 15-day production.

Railroad Commissioner Olin Culberson pointed out that Texas' share of the national production of oil has dropped from January, 1953.

On Jan. 1, 1953, he said, Texas produced 44.76 per cent of the total. That share has now declined, he added, to 42.05 per cent.

"As Texas has surrendered the market," Culberson pointed out, "other U. S. areas have been taking it."

He said there has been "too much weight on (purchasers) nominations and not enough consideration of the effect on royalty owners and producers."

Cabot President Again On Board Thomas D. Cabot, president of the Cabot Companies, was re-elected to the National Industrial Conference Board for a term of one year at the group's recent meeting in New York.

Demos To Probe Contracts

GOP Power Deals Are Prime Target

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—UP—The Democrats may dig into other administration power deals when they launch their promised investigation of the Dixon-Yates contract in the next Congress, it was learned Monday.

A key Democrat said the inquiry may embrace Atomic Energy Commission contracts with Electric Energy Inc. and the Ohio Valley Electric Corp. Both are private power groups supplying AEC installations.

Administration spokesmen justified some of the terms of the Dixon-Yates agreement during hearings before the Congressional Atomic Energy committee last week by citing the precedents of the other two agreements. Democrats were understood to believe they can show that these contracts, too, have had bad features.

The promised "ventilation" of the Dixon-Yates contract was announced by Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.). It is expected to be entrusted to the Congressional Atomic Energy committee.

The committee voted 10 to 8 along party lines Saturday to let the administration move quickly ahead with the plan. But Democrats will have the 10 votes when the new Congress convenes. And an outspoken critic of the contract, Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), is expected to be committee chairman.

As Johnson put it, the contract will be subjected to the glare of a "New Mexico sun."

Financing Only Holdup With the committee's speed-up order Saturday, only the approval of financing arrangements by the Securities and Exchange Commission now is holding up action on the Dixon-Yates project. The utility group is expected to ask SEC approval this week, but hearings will almost certainly be ordered.

Under the contract the Dixon-Yates group — Middle South Utilities Inc. and the Southern Co. — will build a 600,000-kilowatt steam plant at West Memphis, Ark., and sell the power to the AEC. The power would be supplied to the Tennessee Valley Authority at Memphis to replace power supplied by TVA to AEC installations elsewhere.

Myatt retorted, "It's time for some new faces, and someone else's jokes."

Myatt is a unique performer, a showman and as any playwright will tell you, character shows itself in action. And though Myatt was never a professional showman he bears many of the qualities of a sincere "old" trouper.

Myatt has an instinctive identification with his "audience," the people of his community, Pampa. He is willing to give unstintingly of his time and talent to almost any worthy cause. Actually when he might be home resting, Myatt is like so many actors — out playing or taking part in a benefit. His is a keen sense of responsibility to his community that might well be emulated by other members who are so often the "talker" and never the "doers."

As Myatt puts it "If you're living in a community and taking something out of it, you ought to do your level best to put something back in it."

And Myatt has done just that. Pampa's Beau Brummell (considered among the town's best dressers) (See MYATT, Page 2)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15—UP—Arnoldo Orantes, press attache of the Guatemalan embassy, was assassinated here early Sunday by an unidentified gunman, possibly an agent of the Communist underground, police reported.

The embassy expressed the belief that killing was a retaliation for Guatemala's request that Mexico extradite officials of the pro-Red regime of ousted ex-President Jacobo Arbenz.

'Big Blow' Season Ends

MIAMI, Nov. 15—UP—The most destructive hurricane season of modern times ended officially Monday with authorities still counting the damage and the dead.

A total of eight tropical storms roared northward from the Caribbean Sea or Gulf of Mexico in a four-month period to leave at least 361 dead and damage estimated in excess of $1.5 billion.

The final official count of death and destruction from the six hurricanes and two storms of lesser fury won't be available until next month from the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Six Added to Toll Only last week, Acting Chief Forecaster Walter Davis of the Miami Weather Bureau learned that six of 15 persons aboard a sailboat lost their lives when the craft capsized on a trip between the Bahamas during Hurricane Hazel.

In death and damage toll in the Negro island Republic of Haiti probably never will be determined fully. Hazel devastated two peninsulas of the island with 115 mile-an-hour winds Oct. 13.

The Haitian government listed 74 dead shortly after the storm passed, but torrential rains in the wake of the hurricane caused further destruction. A landslide killed some 260 more Haitians and authorities said the toll would likely reach 1,000 lives from the hurricane, floods and disease. The island's sugar crop, its chief source of income, was wiped out.

Greatest Damage There have been hurricanes of the past that took more lives. But never has the damage been as great. Seven of the eight storms hit land, three in Central America and four in the United States.

After lashing Haiti, Hurricane Hazel slammed into the Carolinas coast Oct. 15 and raked its furious winds and rain through the heart of the eastern seaboard, through Canada to Hudson's Bay. Its long course overlaid was probably the most destructive of nature's rampages on record.

Hazel's total damage could only be estimated conservatively at $1 billion.

Strangely, the Florida peninsula, which has been the target of many tempests, escaped this year. But indirectly the 1954 hurricanes cost the state the life of its foremost guardian.

Forecasters Dies Grady Norton, chief hurricane forecaster for Florida for 19 years, died of a stroke a few hours after plotting the course of Hazel as it turned toward Haiti. Friends reported (See HURRICANE, Page 2)

Families Of Trapped Miners Keep Vigil

FARMINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 15—UP—Grief-stricken families of 15 men entombed by an explosion at the Jamison Coal and Coke Co. No. 9 mine kept a lonely vigil Monday waiting for a raging underground fire to be choked off so rescue squads can bring out the bodies of the victims.

All five entrances to the large mine, which recently had undergone a $4 million remodeling to make it safe, were sealed off Sunday after state and federal mine officials and the United Mine Workers Union decided it was not safe to send additional rescue squads into the pit.

The 15 men, all maintenance workers, were trapped in the mine when an explosion, believed to have been caused by an accumulation of methane gas, belched black smoke and flames into the sky through the main portal and a fan house Saturday afternoon.

Howard Jenkins, a 38-year-old father of four children, was the first known victim. He was killed while standing in the fan house. The 16 deaths made it the worst mining disaster in West Virginia in 10 years.

Officials said it may take days or even as long as a month for the fire to be extinguished by shutting off the air, depending on how big the fire was and how much air already was in the mine.

They will keep a constant check on the atmosphere in the mine by taking air samples at various bore holes to see when it will be safe to crack the concrete seals.

19-Inch Rain Hits Key West

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 15—UP—Damage mounted above the $250,000 mark Monday from a weekend soaking of 19.88 inches of rainfall.

A freak black cloud, 20 miles wide, singled out this five-mile square island and cascaded rain for nearly 24 hours Saturday and early Monday. Nearly eight and one-half inches fell in one three-hour period.

Streets, homes and stores were flooded. Service stations estimated 50 to 80 per cent of the island's automobile population would need servicing because of water damage. Three telephone cables were knocked out.

Water ran six to eight inches deep over the ground floors and scores of downtown business places. However, the Navy submarine base and former President Harry Truman's "little White House" escaped damage.

The rainfall, worst in the memory of old-time island residents, approached the national record of a 24-hour period of 26.12 inches set in California on Jan. 22, 1943. The world record of 46 inches was recorded in July 1911 in the Philippines.

Strangely, the Florida peninsula, which has been the target of many tempests, escaped this year. But indirectly the 1954 hurricanes cost the state the life of its foremost guardian.

Soaking Rains Fall On State

By UNITED PRESS Soaking rains that have fallen on most parts of Texas the past two days, including up to four inches in some parts, began slackening off Monday, leaving partly overcast skies and somewhat cooler temperatures in their wake.

Some parts of Mills county in West Texas reported up to four inches. Goldthwaite in Mills county recorded 3.11 inches. Two municipal lakes at Comanche rose six inches after rains of nearly two inches.

Water level in other municipal lakes of West Texas also was reported increased because of the rainfall. But it also caused slick roads and created a flurry of traffic accidents over the state, including at least one fatality.

Dallas police got more than 50 accident calls during one eight-hour period Sunday. A traffic fatality near Fort Worth was blamed on slick roads.

Nearly two inches of rainfall was measured over many parts of Stonewall county. Stamford reported 1.89 inches, Breckenridge 1.37, Sweetwater up to 1.25, and Abilene 1.52.

Rising Star in Eastland county received 1.75 inches, Eastland 1.26, while Stephenville in Erath county got 1.40 and Dublin 1.33. Haskell got 2.20 inches and up to two inches fell in the Munday area.

Other points receiving rainfall during the 24-hour period ended at 6:30 a. m. Monday included Waco 1.56 inches, Potts 1.82, Trinidad 1.80, Kniss 1.32, Houston 95 of an inch, Cresson 50, San Antonio 45, Beaumont 68, Dallas 38, Fort Worth 25, Mineral Wells 26, Austin 10, and Galveston .06.

Experts To Testify At Sheppard Trial

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15—UP—Prosecution attorneys Monday lined up an array of expert police witnesses to testify in the first-degree murder trial of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

Chief Assistant County Prosecutor John J. Mahon made it plain that his experts would concentrate on showing that the 30-year-old osteopath was reluctant to answer questions about events which occurred July 4, the morning his pregnant wife Marilyn was bludgeoned to death in her bed.

Fred Drenkhan, the Bay Village patrolman who investigated the murder, returns to the witness stand to complete his testimony Monday morning. He will be followed by Bay Village Police Chief John P. Eaton.

Larry Houk, 16-year-old son of Bay Village Mayor J. Spencer Houk, will follow Eaton to the stand.

Mahon indicated young Houk would complete his testimony before Monday's trial session is over.

He said would then introduce two Cleveland detectives and police technical experts to tell of their findings in the murder.

The two Cleveland detectives, it was learned, had urged Sheppard's arrest the day of the crime. The osteopath finally was taken into custody July 30.

Says Public Wants Clean-Cut Decision

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—UP—Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa), assailed the idea of a censure compromise Monday, declaring "the public will not be satisfied with anything other than a clean-cut decision."

Gillette, head of a 1951-52 elections subcommittee which Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy is accused of abusing, said the Senate will render a "more worthwhile decision" if it meets the issue head on and votes "up or down" on McCarthy's censure.

He spoke out after Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.), a member of the special censure committee, said that McCarthy not only should be censured but there may be grounds for expelling him from the Senate for either moral or mental "incapacity."

McCarthy's forces were energetically at work on a compromise formula as the formal Senate debate rolled into its second week (10 a. m. est). They held secret strategy conferences Sunday and hoped to unveil a plan shortly, possibly Monday.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland revealed in an interview Monday, however, that the GOP leadership will not sponsor any compromise. "This will not be a party matter on either side of the aisle," he said.

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) chairman of the censure committee, announced he planned to make a major Senate speech Monday on the censure charge that McCarthy was "contemptuous" of the Gillette subcommittee when it investigated his finances.

Before the Senate session, however, he was called before McCarthy's investigating subcommittee to explain why the censure committee cleared Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker of blame for the honorable discharge of an Army dentist who refused to tell McCarthy about alleged Communist ties. One censure charge is that McCarthy abused Zwicker.

Emergency Meet Called By Chiang

TAIPEI, Formosa, Nov. 15—UP—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's military chiefs met Monday to cope with an emergency caused by the sinking of a U.S.-built Nationalist warship by four Communist Chinese torpedo boats.

Latest unconfirmed reports said Nationalist warplanes and sea planes had picked up all but 28 of the 200 crewmen who were aboard the destroyer-escort, Tai Ping when it was attacked early Sunday.

Vital Answer In Joe's Files, Says Watkins

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—UP—Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) told Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy Monday that the files of McCarthy's own investigating subcommittee contain the answer to "who promoted Peress?"

As Watkins spoke, McCarthy held in his hand a document stamped in red "confidential" which was apparently the material to which Watkins referred.

Watkins told McCarthy that Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens furnished a list of 30 names, "beginning with a general" to the Army-McCarthy investigation last spring and asked that the document be kept confidential.

Watkins said the list "contained all the names of those who had anything to do with" the promotion and honorable discharge of former Maj. Irving Peress, a dentist whom McCarthy has called a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

Watkins gave the testimony at a public hearing before McCarthy's investigating subcommittee. The hearing first was scheduled to be opened at 8 a. m. est. When it was re-scheduled as a closed session at 9 a. m. and then finally opened to the public.

Watkins said McCarthy got possession of the Peress promotion list so that he only has to call in the officers named for questioning. He said Stevens promised to do his best to make the officers available as witnesses.

Petition Drive On For McCarthy NEW YORK, Nov. 15—UP—Supporters of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy opened a 10-day drive Monday for 10 million signatures on petitions urging the U. S. Senate to reject censure charges against the Wisconsin Republican.

The organization, which Stratemeyer said was formed on a "non-political and non-partisan" basis, includes as vice chairman Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former United Nations commander in Korea; Sprull Braden, writer announced to die in Argentina; Mrs. Grace L. H. Brossard, president of the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies, and Charles Edison, former Navy Secretary and governor of New Jersey.

Rep. Rogers Attends Reception For Queen Mother Of England

Walter Rogers promised account of the reception Tuesday for Queen Mother Elizabeth was the subject of his weekly newsletter. Rogers, along with 2,000 other guests attended the reception for the noted English visitor at the British Embassy.

Rogers said that no matter how well you were acquainted with the person stationed at the door you must present proper identification as well as the highly coveted invitation.

Myatt (Continued from Page One) ed men, only returned to local scene these past four years, has compressed more community work into these than most might in an entire lifetime.

Served As Interlocutor Known as the man with "more jokes than a dog has fleas," Myatt has been general business manager in charge of production of the last three Lions Minstrels. Not limiting himself to the managerial end of the show, he has served either as Mr. Interlocutor or end man in all three. Myatt feels strongly about the value of the shows because the funds which yearly approach some $2,500 are used in Lions' sight conservation work, providing glasses to needy youngsters, and other causes.

And despite what he has said, everyone knows Myatt, when the time comes, will certainly serve in an advisory capacity for 1955's show.

Serving as a director in the Jaycees for three years, Myatt has also been a director of the Chamber of Commerce since 1952. Last year he held down the financial directors' job of the C of C, and at the unusually youthful age of 38 is serving as vice-president, based on his active work not only in Chamber committees and community service, but his natural ability as a leader and a personality that is pleasingly contagious.

After Dinner Speaker In 1951-1952 he was active in the Girl Scout fund drive, serving as fund drive chairman for 1953. At the inception of the United Fund, Myatt was in on the ground floor working first as a major, and finally co-chairman of the 1954 drive. Known to be a good after-dinner speaker and emcee, one of his local "rivals" admitted recently, "Young Ed is certainly able to turn out a fairly accomplished piece. His services are requested in a good part of the Panhandle, for he is an accomplished master in the handling of almost any social event."

Myatt's personality has certainly flavored his men's clothing business in which he is co-partner with his father, Cecil. Myatt's showman-like qualities showed up when in the summer months he was convincing a customer of the value and coolness of a straw hat. With studied certainty Myatt confirmed the rumor that the hat "had been woven under water by a blind man."

Born in Konowa, Okla., Myatt attended grade school in Vernon and moved here with his parents in 1931. It was then off to Pampa High School from which he graduated in 1936, followed by a two-year stint in mechanical engineering at Texas Tech and then as Myatt puts it "I had to go to work for a living."

Served In Air Corps After a tour of some of the Panhandle haberdasheries, he returned to work for his father in 1940 for a couple of years. Prior to his entering the Air Corps in 1942 he worked for the Civil Aeronautics Administration for two years. His talents were employed by the service club at Keesing China where he was an N.C.O. in charge of all air-ground communications of "Hump" traffic with 400 men under him. Discharged in 1946 with the Bronze Star, Myatt returned stateside. For four years he was with the CAA before returning to Pampa. Married to the former Rose LaNell Williams, the Myatts make their home at 1109 Starkweather with their two daughters, Marilyn, 13, and Martha, 4.

Hobby-wise Myatt is "quite" the golfer, known as a links-kibitzer. He is reputed to shoot in the low 80s. As one of the links devotees puts it, "Myatt's good game is based on his ability to talk—that is, talk his opponent out of an opportune shot with advice of using the wrong iron or wood." But it is generally conceded his game is played strictly for laughs.

Scouts Help Rancher Fight Fire

The 53 Explorer Scout and Boy Scout leaders who attended a leader training session last week end at Camp Ki-o-wah got more than they bargained for — a grass fire. About 40 of them got word of a raging grass fire on the I. V. Ranch, north of the camp, and went to work with wet gunny sacks and brooms. According to Paul Beisenherz, Adobe Walls Council Scout executive, The camp is located 15 miles northeast of Canadian.

"The rancher was all alone," Beisenherz reported today. "He never would have got it out by himself."

Spelling Bee To Be Held In February The 1955 Gray County Spelling Bee will be held sometime in February.

County Schools Supt. B. R. Nuckols today said he was sending out letters to all school principals in the county, advising them of the bee.

The regional meet will be held March 12 in Amarillo, Nuckols continued. And the National Spelling Bee will be held in May in Washington, D. C. The Amarillo winner — the High Plains champion — goes to Washington.

The winner of the Gray County bee — a school student under 18 from any grade through the eighth — will compete in Amarillo. The superintendent went on. A junior county champion, from the sixth grade or under, is also picked. But he or she only goes to Amarillo as an observer. Both county winners get a plaque and a pin.

Each school — public or private — in the county can send one representative from each grade through the eighth to the county spelling-down. However, there never has been an entry from first, second or third grades.

Miss Martha Gordon was the 1954 county spelling winner. She also won it in 1953 and the year before she was junior county champion in Amarillo last year she placed second, thereby just missing a trip to Washington. She is ineligible to compete this year.

State Department Store Sales Up

DALLAS, Nov. 15—UP—Department store sales in four Texas cities showed gains up to 14 per cent for the four-week period ending Nov. 6, compared with that period a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas reported Monday.

Houston stores reported gains of 14 per cent for the period, while Dallas and Fort Worth stores had 7 per cent increases. El Paso reported a 4 per cent gain. El Paso stores, showed a 13 per cent gain for the week ending Nov. 6, compared with that period last year, Dallas had an 11 per cent increase, Houston 8 and Fort Worth 3.

Other families followed, about 300 altogether. They bought land built homes and tried to take up life where they had left off in the South. The settlers were well established in 1888 when the Brazilian government abolished slavery. The Americans this time freed their slaves without argument but, as in the South, some slaves stayed on with the families. Then in 1890, the emperor resigned and Brazil became a republic. "Very few of the descendants live in Brazil today," Mrs. Jones said. "At Vila Americana there are only two or three families."

Ratification Of London, Paris Treaties Seems Set For March

By CHARLES M. MCCANN United Press Foreign Analyst It looks as if March 1 may be made the target date for ratification of the London and Paris agreements to rearm Western Germany and make it a sovereign nation—despite Russian attempts at sabotage.

March 1 is about the earliest possible date for final approval of the agreements by the nine powers concerned. There may be minor crises meantime between France and West Germany over their agreement on the Saar coal region, which is linked with the armament treaty.

Russia is making a desperate attempt to sabotage the agreement, and its note of Saturday proposing an "all-Europe security agreement" was its first big move.

The Kremlin has 15 weeks before March 1 to make new moves. But advice from the capitals of the signatory countries indicate that ratification is certain, and that if there is any delay it will be due to Russia. The nine countries which agreed to the armament treaty are the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Western Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

A survey of the nine capitals indicates that Great Britain will lead the ratification parade and that the "Benelux" countries—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—will be last. The situation at the moment is: Great Britain—the House of Commons will debate the agreements Wednesday and Thursday. They will be invited to approve the government's policy. But Queen Elizabeth, not parliament, ratifies treaties. Soon after the debate a copy of the agreements will be given to her for her signature.

France—the national assembly is to debate the agreements starting Dec. 14. Then Premier Pierre Mendes-France will ask for a ratification vote. The prediction is that with the support of the Socialists he will get it easily.

United States—President Eisenhower submitted the agreements to the Senate Monday for its ratification. He recommended that the ratification vote, which is sure to be favorable overwhelmingly, be taken soon after the new Congress meets Jan. 5.

HURRICANE

(Continued from Page One) vealed that the 60-year-old Norton, whose drawing, folksy radio warnings had made him a familiar Florida figure, had refused to sign up his work this season although he was in ill health. Norton was considered the nation's top expert on hurricanes.

The 1954 tropical storm season began June 27 as Hurricane Alice hit the Mexican coast south of Brownsville, Tex., causing one death and floods in the Rio Grande River Valley.

Storm Barbara ripped through the Louisiana rice fields July 29 with 40 mile an hour winds. On Aug. 31, Hurricane Carol screamed out of the Atlantic to hit New England. Some 66 persons were killed and property damage equaled $500 million.

Employment Takes A Jump

"We've been filling more jobs in the last two weeks than we have in some time," according to Bill Ragsdale, manager of the local Texas Employment Commission office.

Ragsdale reported this is the normal peak season of the year. "We've placed some 40 people in jobs during the last week, whereas normal weekly placements are nearer 20."

Most jobs were in temporary construction work with a few openings for salesmen. As usual as the present mild weather holds out, there will be additional needs for construction labor, Ragsdale said.

Present openings, numbering 18, are for carpenters, waitresses, ranch hands, salesmen, and housekeepers. In addition to construction workers. More openings are expected during the course of the week.

2 Hurt As Auto, Motorcycle Hit

A collision Sunday afternoon between a motorcycle and an automobile resulted in injuries to a 17-year-old boy and a 13-year-old girl, police records showed today.

Terance Lee Kotara, was driving the motorcycle which was in collision with an Oldsmobile driven by William Lonnie McLeary in the 500 block of West Foster about 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The girl, Patricia Ann Dalton, was riding on the motorcycle with Kotara, the police reported. Kotara and the Dalton girl were injured slightly, but neither was admitted to the hospital, records showed.

Damage to the motorcycle was estimated at $50 and the auto was damaged in the amount of $75.

More Than 600 Drop Water Rate

Many persons who contracted for water rates earlier this year have begun switching back to regular rates.

More than 600 Pampans have switched over from the lawn rates to the last three or four weeks, according to Miss Ellen Keough, chief bookkeeper in the city water office.

An estimated 1,200-1,500 persons signed up for the lawn rates last spring. Miss Keough said today, pointing out that a resident could pay on the lawn rate all year if he wished.

It is just a matter of how much water is used, she said, if a resident uses as much as 6,500 gallons a month, the lawn rate is cheaper. If the consumption is less than 6,500 gallons, the residential — or regular — rate is cheaper.

DECISION

1. Ervin lashed out in a television interview Monday night against McCarthy's charge that the Senate committee were "unfitting handmaidens" of the Communist party. If McCarthy made a statement without believing it, Ervin said it would be "pretty solid ground" that he should be expelled for "moral incapacity."

If he does believe it, Ervin continued, then McCarthy is "suffering under a gigantic mental delusion," and it might be argued that he should be expelled for mental incapacity. "Ervin did not actually urge expulsion, however. He said this would require a "difficult" two-thirds vote.

2. Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) told newsmen Sunday that the Senate might expel McCarthy if the committee charges if he would give an accounting of the funds he has received to fight communism. McCarthy laughed at the suggestion, but he said he would only bare his accounts if every other senator required to do the same. Ellender also branded as "poppycock" McCarthy's argument that the coming move is an attack on the anti-Communist fight.

MONUMENT

Begin Farming Colonel and Dr. Norris arrived in Santa Barbara the day after Christmas, 1865. They bought land and some slaves (slavery was the custom in Brazil, too, then), built homes and began farming. They wrote back for the others to join them.

Other families followed, about 300 altogether. They bought land built homes and tried to take up life where they had left off in the South. The settlers were well established in 1888 when the Brazilian government abolished slavery. The Americans this time freed their slaves without argument but, as in the South, some slaves stayed on with the families. Then in 1890, the emperor resigned and Brazil became a republic.

"Very few of the descendants live in Brazil today," Mrs. Jones said. "At Vila Americana there are only two or three families."

'MR. SAM' STEPS into the administration's picture as new House Speaker. Rayburn, center, replaces Joe Martin, left, as the man with whom the President will have to deal heavily for the next two years.

New History Textbook Is 'In English'

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—UP—My old pal, John Jay Daly, has written a textbook about our government that the very young can understand.

It may not sell. But Jack, as we like to call him, gave it a hard try, he being the father of more than several and once the "national father of the year."

Jack started out by calling his book, "Government USA." And it went along as simple as that. There's a foreword by Joe Martin, the gavel man of the House of Representatives. Also recitations about the Capitol itself, the Senate and the House and the big house on Pennsylvania Ave., not to mention the Supreme Court and the Department of Defense and other things.

Jack, an old newspaperman himself, has the "feel" of Capitol Hill.

He has one chapter which concerns an average day in the life of a congressman.

"Shortly after a person is elected to Congress, etc.," it begins.

The congressman can expect a $12,500 salary and also an expense account of $2,500 and 20 cents a mile for each time he is called back to Washington. For office staff he gets another $22,500. If he hires his wife or sister or daughter-in-law, there are seldom any questions asked.

This whole book is in English and not Latin.

For example, Jack says:

"The congressional secretary is sometimes referred to as the ghost of the congressman."

"That is the way it goes."

Jack, who once had a hankering to be a legislator himself, would like to add:

"The newly elected congressman has a job that, by its very nature, will take almost all of his waking hours — from the time he gets up in the morning—until..."

If you never have been around Capitol Hill, you have no idea of what a congressman goes through in making his appointed rounds.

He has to make the rounds, all right. But he has to hold his head and try to be a human being while he is at it.

Jack's book is a textbook. But it is written in the parlance of a good reporter.

Joe, Marilyn Keep Company

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15—UP—Marilyn Monroe insisted Monday she and Joe DiMaggio are "just friends" but the divorced couple continued to act like romancers.

The curvy actress and the ex-baseball player made their first public appearance Saturday when he treated her to lazagne and veal scallopini at Villa Capri, the Italian restaurant where the couple held hands on dates two years ago.

Joe's brother, Dominic, also an ex-ball player, was in town and made the date a threesome.

But when reconciliation rumors flourished around Hollywood, Marilyn issued a statement through her studio:

"Joe and I are just friendly, that's all. There's nothing to it."

Marilyn indicated she did not think there was anything unusual about their recent companionship. Friends of hers also insisted, "there's absolutely no chance of a reconciliation."

But it was odd, even for Hollywood, that the country's favorite sweater girl began dating DiMaggio immediately after casting him aside in divorce court on grounds he was moody, cold and indifferent.

Marilyn and Joe separated Oct. 1, but continued to live under the same roof for several days. Joe finally tamped out with the cry, "I'll never come back." Marilyn's divorce was hurried up on the court calendar for Oct. 27 because she said she was too nervous about the headline breakup to wait.

But after legal formalities of the divorce were over, Joe and Marilyn calmed down to speaking terms again.

Rayburn Finds He's In 'Crowd With Ike'

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—During the recent campaign, Rep. Sam Rayburn (D., Tex., charged: "The crowd around Eisenhower can't take hold because they are uncertain, unsure and unknowing."

It apparently didn't dawn on Sam that a first result of the election would add him to the "crowd around Eisenhower."

At his press conference the day after the election, the President announced he planned to confer regularly with the speaker of the Democrat-controlled House, Rayburn, on at least every important legislative matter and on all sorts of other problems.

This is one good break John Q. Citizen gets from the confusing election. If there are two genies in town who can sit down together, forget old conflicts and harsh campaign oratory and work toward statesmanlike goals they're Mr. Eisenhower and Speaker Rayburn.

It's this quality of bigness in Rayburn which has kept him as House speaker longer than any man in history. Sam's dad, William Rayburn, a "Hard Shell" Baptist, once told his son, "character is all I have to give you, be a man."

Sam's record in Washington as a representative since 1912 proves that he has this heritage.

Rayburn's expected ability to get along with Ike, however, doesn't mean anything like weak compromise with the White House. Far from it.

"I make no pledge of rubber stamp support," Rayburn wired Ike during the heat of the campaign in reply to Ike's statement that chaos would result if Democrats won control of the House.

"But there will be no cold war conducted against you by the Democrats when we gain control of Congress."

The wire also said: "We will continue to support an enlightened foreign policy against the Republican reactionaries and of course we will continue to vote you adequate funds to defend our great country."

During the coming sessions between the President and Rayburn, Ike is going to have to ignore some of the campaign statements and past actions of the hard-hitting Texan. For instance, Rayburn charged:

"The Eisenhower Administration has been as dynamic as the dodo and as forward-looking as yesterday. It has done a big job — a big job on the farmer, the consumer, the laborer and the family with a small income."

During the 83rd Congress Rayburn personally blocked Ike's promised statehood for Hawaii. He fought the President's farm program and opposed that part of the Republican tax law which denied cuts to small wage earners while granting relief to corporations and their stockholders.

Aside from pure politics, Rayburn is reported to have expressed serious personal irritation with Ike only once. He privately accused Ike of sanctioning a statement which called the Democrats the "party of treason."

"I can stand charges of crime and corruption," he said, "but charges implying treason are unforgivable. And my back is getting tired."

It's already predicted that his unique position as House Speaker and White House conferee will make Rayburn for the next two years at least one of the most-sought-after men in town and second in importance only to the President.

This pleases everyone because "plain Sam of Texas," or "Mr. Sam" is rated a delightful character, socially. He's no cocktail party hound but in recent years has been getting around more than he used to.

In spite of his age, 72, and having been married for a year in his youth, he still makes every "most eligible bachelor" list.

CREOMULSION

Relieves Coughs, Croup, Colic, Acute Bronchitis

"Are you single because no woman will have you?" a friend asked him recently.

"Nope," he replied, "one with courage enough to ask me hasn't come along."

A friend says Rayburn has the best digestive system in town: "Every year on his birthday, Sam is given a party by Mrs. J. Lee Aston, widow of an old Texas pal of his, and every year Sam demands the same menu — turkey, sauerkraut, coconut cake and ginger beer."

Sam was born in Kingston, Tenn., and at the age of five his parents took him to Fannin County, Tex., where he went to school. He studied law at the University of Texas and practiced at Bonham, Tex., in 1906.

He served six years in the Texas legislature, the last two as speaker.

Former Vice President John N. Garner showed Rayburn the "ropes" in town and they are close friends. Although rated a political middle-of-the-roader, Rayburn was of tremendous help to the Roosevelt "New Deal" and the Truman "Fair Deal" in getting Democratic-sponsored legislation passed.

In his House speeches, Rayburn rarely talks for more than five minutes and in an undramatic, matter-of-fact voice. He has been called "a Texan without a ten-gallon hat" and "a politician who refuses to slip back."

He owns a ranch stocked with thoroughbred cattle and has a favorite retreat on it, a one-story shack equipped with a stove for steak-broiling and icebox stocked in season with watermelons.

Reds Sink U.S.-Lent Destroyer

TAIPEI, Nov. 15—UP—All but 28 of 180 crewmen aboard a U.S.-built Nationalist warship sunk Sunday by Chinese Communist torpedo boats survived the attack, Nationalist authorities said Monday.

Although U.S. personnel have been serving as military and naval advisers to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, there were no Americans aboard the 1,430-ton destroyer escort Taiping when it was sunk in the Tachen Island area about 200 miles north of Formosa.

A sister ship picked up the 152 Nationalist Chinese survivors from rough seas.

Chiang summoned his top-ranking military leaders to a conference to discuss counter-measures to the sinking of the first destroyer-escort reported lost by the Nationalists.

Red China claimed in a propaganda broadcast from Peiping, however, that it has sunk two ships and shot down 88 Nationalist planes during the last two months.

The Taiping, formerly of the U.S.S. Decker, went to the bottom of the East China Sea after a night-long battle with Red torpedo boats in an area frequently patrolled by the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

Communist ships scored several hits on the Taiping, but the destroyer-escort fought back for six hours before it went down.

2 Trustees Flee Tarrant County Jail

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15—UP—Two trustees escaped the Tarrant county jail shortly after midnight Monday after Sunday midnight after taking the night jailer's gun from a drawer while he was in a nearby restroom and forcing him to give them the keys when he returned.

The escapers were last reported seen at an all-night north side supermarket where one bought some meat and bread.

The pair were identified as Donald Dean Cast, 24, being held for trial on charges of forgery and passing; and Albert Steigerwalt, 56, convicted of Dyer act violation (transporting a stolen car interstate). Steigerwalt was being held pending an appeal from a three year and six month federal sentence.

Sheriff Harlon Sright said Cast took a gun from the fingerprint department desk of Jailer N. J. McBride, 61, when McBride left them for a few minutes to go to a nearby restroom.

When McBride returned, the prisoners met him with his own .38-caliber pistol and ordered him to give them the jail keys.

UN Is Dying

An article in the Readers Digest says the United Nations is dying. And we say "good riddance." It never should have been born in the first place. Its charter was the brain child of Alger Hiss, a traitor. It copied its so-called "Bill of Human Rights" from the Russian Communist constitution.

Amid a great ballyhoo of propaganda by the radio and by the press that should have been better informed, the UN was put over by hysterical one worlders and its charter ratified by the U. S. Senate without most members bothering to read it, thus involving us in a mesh of "entangling alliances" that our senators had brains enough to avoid after World War I.

The old League of Nations, which died years ago but wasn't buried until the birth of UN might have been founded by men of good will who loved humanity and who hoped to prevent war. But it was a freak and foolish organization which didn't deserve to live, and our Senate did well to keep us out of it.

The United Nations was founded by men of ill will bent on only one thing, the destruction of the American capitalist system and the substitution of communism. The schemers knew that if they destroyed the United States the rest of the world would be easy to conquer. Every move made or attempted by the UN has been aimed directly at us with evil intent.

The Senate has the power today to nullify our domestic laws and the rights guaranteed us by the constitution simply by ratifying a few of the "treaties" proposed by the United Nations. And, if we elect only a few more internationalist senators, that could conceivably happen in the next session of Congress.

It is our duty as citizens to inform the senators in no uncertain terms that we won't stand for this and to demand that they revive and pass the Bricker Amendment at the earliest opportunity. If it is passed and ratified by the states it will eliminate the greatest danger threatening us today.

The UN is dying? Let it die. It's either the UN or the U. S.

Free Speech

Our freedom of speech and association (get that association) are being threatened, says a prominent social worker, because we allow one man to exercise his right to free speech. If we don't shut up McCarthy, he says, we will lose our glorious freedom of speech. Is that how we gained it in the first place... by shutting people up? If the Senate succeeds in shutting McCarthy that will be the beginning of the end of free speech for congressmen... and eventually for all of us.

And as for association, if a man loves left wingers so much that he is always seen in their company, why shouldn't he be classed as one of them? The wisdom of the ages has been condensed for us into proverbs and epigrams, and they are as true today as in past generations.

"Birds of a feather flock together," "A man is known by the company he keeps," "You can't wallow with the swine without getting muddy." Despite the anguished cries of the fellow travelers, good Americans everywhere will continue to judge men by the company they keep.

One-Act Playlet Shows State Department Muddle

By HENRY McLEMORE

The action in this one act playlet takes place in the office of Homer Winkle, a minor State Department official in Washington.

When the curtain rises Winkle is busy at his job, which is trying to find more rivers like the Yalu, which U. S. fliers won't be allowed to cross in case of another war. Winkle (to himself): Here's a dandy. The Volga. Wait'll the boys upstairs see this one.

BETTER JOBS

U.S. Citizens Loyal To UN Or U. S.?

I cannot emphasize too much that individuals who believe in the American way of life, become better posted on how the United Nations is subtly taking over the U.S. I know of no way that a person who is interested in our form of government could spend 50 cents better than sending it to the magazine U. S. A., P. O. Box 134 Lenox Hill Station, New York 21, N. Y., and get a copy of the October 22, 1954 issue of this magazine. In order to stimulate your interest to know how the United Nations is fooling the American people, I want to quote from an article by the publisher, Alice Widener, under the subject "If This Be Treason." She writes:

"Under the headline 'Loyalty Dispute at U. N. Subsidies,' the New York Times reported on October 11, 1954: 'A one day tempest over the loyalties of United Nations employees apparently came to an end today.' 'Blindly, the Times went on to tell how a nationwide outburst of indignation against the U. N. call for employees' loyalty to the United Nations above loyalty to their own country was hushed in a hurry by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

"In an official press release, the U. N. Secretary General declared that some of the public discussion about certain statements made by the International Civil Service Advisory Board in its recent report on Standards of Conduct in the International Civil Service 'is based on a misunderstanding.' 'Remember the cause of the resentment recently published was this:

"Reference is sometimes made to possible conflict between national and international loyalties. If such circumstances should arise, the conduct of the international civil servant must clearly reflect his obligation to the international organization."

Then U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is quoted by Mrs. Widener as saying: "That was a mistake. Americans who work for the United Nations are good citizens. I think that what was meant was that, when they work for the United Nations, they ought to give it their full time. I think they (the U. N. Civil Service Board) should not have used that word—that it was badly chosen."

Then the magazine article says: "There shouldn't be any difficulty in establishing it. On the record, the simple fact is that the United Nations commands the supreme loyalty of all and has jurisdiction over its American employees (2300 U. S. employees) in all their activities as inter-national civil servants enjoying diplomatic privileges and immunities.

"The juridical basis for this fact rests on pertinent excerpts from the United Nations Charter which was signed by the United States in 1945 and which, according to the internationalist interpretation of our Constitutional provision concerning treaties, is now a part of the supreme law of our land."

Now, listen to these two articles from the U. N. Charter and make up your own mind whether the American citizens working for the U. N. should be loyal to the U. N. or to the U. S. Here are the two articles. Article 100 reads: "1. In the performance of their duties the secretary general and the staff shall not seek or receive instructions from any government or from any other authority external to the organization. They shall refrain from any action which might reflect on their position as international officials responsible only to the organization."

"2. Each member of the United Nations undertakes to respect the exclusively international character of the responsibilities of the secretary general and the staff, and not to seek to influence them in the discharge of their responsibilities."

Article 101 reads: "1. The staff shall be appointed by the secretary general under regulations established by the General Assembly..."

These two articles were the basis on which the U. S. employees in the United Nations who would not answer questions before a Congressional Committee were ordered back to work with back pay after they had been fired. That ought to be proof enough that employees of the U. N. must be loyal to the U. N. rather than to their own government.

Difference Between UN Charter And US Constitution
Notice how the above two articles 100 and 101 make no exceptions. Now compare the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States with the above two articles. This amendment reads: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the people."

This Tenth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution was intended to make the United States Government a limited government. But even the U. S. Government has become an almost unlimited government by the passing of the 16th Amendment. But there is no such limitation in articles 100 and 101 of the United Nations Charter.

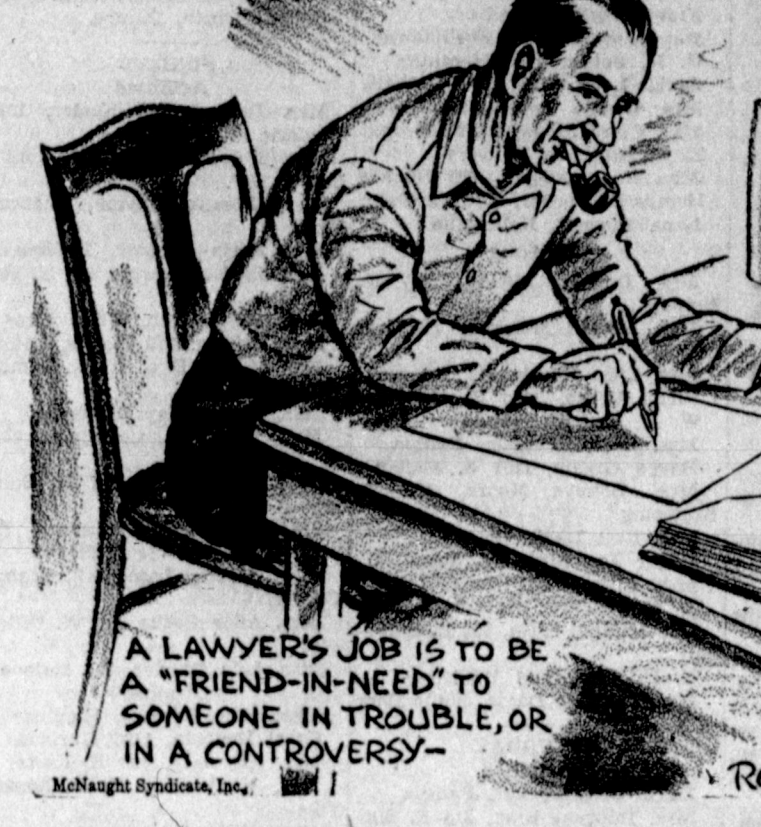

How can any rational person who cherishes in liberty believe that the United Nations Charter can produce the liberty that the Founding Fathers mutually pledged to each other their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to secure?

Freedom Newspapers still have available "Let's Get Out Of UN" buttons.

Losses By Liberal GOP Men Most Significant

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The most significant but least publicized aspect of the late election is the stunning reverses suffered by the liberal Republican leaders who headed the movement which resulted in President Eisenhower's nomination in 1952. Literally and figuratively, they have been wiped off the political map from New England to Texas.

The most spectacular evidence of this repudiation was the collapse of the Dewey machine in New York state, although the rout of the President's 1952 organization was duplicated in many other states.

Despite his 12 years in power and his painstaking efforts to build the liberal Party in the State, Ike's principal backer could not hold it against a generally unknown New Dealer making his first run for office — Averell Harriman.

For the first time in many years, Tammany controls New York City Hall, the Governorship at Albany and elected an unprecedented number of Democrats to the normally overwhelming Republican Legislature. And this in spite of the fact that Dewey is regarded to have been an able and efficient Governor.

New Hampshire, the home of Sherman Adams, White House Chief of Staff, remained Republican, but by a slim margin. And the outstanding victor there was Senator Styles Bridges, who has been feuding with Ike's closest adviser for many years, and still is.

The Lodges, Henry and John, were among Eisenhower's most enthusiastic supporters two years ago. In fact, Henry made several trips to SHAPE's headquarters at Versailles to persuade Ike to abandon his military career for politics.

He was the liaison man between the General and the anti-Taft faction within the Republican Party. But he was defeated for the Senate in 1952 by a relative youngster making his first try for national office—Senator John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

The other Lodge, John, suffered a surprising defeat a few weeks ago when he sought re-election as Governor of Connecticut. A rabid New Dealer, Abraham A. Ribicoff, won over this blue-blood Yankee and former Hollywood star.

Two other prominent figures in the Eisenhower-for-President camp were former Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey and Governor John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, although the latter sat on the fence until the last victorious moment. Both of their normally Republican strongholds elected Democratic Governors this year, meaning oblivion for Driscoll and Fine.

Ranking alongside the Dewey debacle is the utter crack-up of the Stassen-Youngdahl dynasty in Minnesota. New Dealers and opportunists at heart, neither made a serious attempt to build a strong and permanent organization at home.

They leaped at the chance for Federal office when Truman named Youngdahl to a judgeship in the District of Columbia, and Eisen-

The United Nations will go on TV in a rather big way next year if the plans of Henry Cassirer, head of the television unit of UNESCO, materialize. He expects "a considerable increase" of funds soon for his expanding television unit.

"The idea," Mr. Cassirer is quoted as saying, "is to pick a subject like health services, the life of a farmer, children's games, the winter season, or street music. Then the TV station or some other organization in each country would shoot a five-minute sequence in its area. These sequences would be put together as a world-wide documentary and made available to all TV stations participating."

Shades of boondoggling! Maybe an interesting "subject" for this international TV series would be the life of the American taxpayer dancing to the street music of collectivism while his pockets are being picked to finance the world-wide telecasting of his inane performance. Think how Malenkov, Mao, and Aneurin Bevan would chuckle as they watched this amusing scene on their TV sets!

Governor Dan Thornton of Colorado did not run again, and Senator Ed Johnson, an old-time Democrat, succeeded him. In Oregon, another Eisenhower intimate, Senator Guy Gordon, lost out to a former law student of Senator Wayne Morse, who quit the GOP because of Ike's policies and Cabinet personalities.

In view of these casualties, the political landscape presents a dismal scene to viewers from White House windows. Although Ike is still personally popular, it appears that the so-called "palace-guard" are not. Many leading Republicans, thinking of Ike's and the Party's future, recall Dewey's 1948 slogan: "It's time for a change!"

Quality Of Federal Bench Should Alarm U. S. Public

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It will take time and some heavy hammering, but the general quality of the federal bench is such that public alarm should be raised. I am not able to say which are the worst, but generally the personnel does not measure up to the exalted standard which constitutes the old ideal. There are some high class men on the federal bench. Some western districts are distinctly more American in the grass-roots meaning of the word than those in the east.

There are a number of reasons for the decline. First, the scope of federal law was broadened greatly under the Roosevelt-Truman regime, which deliberately intruded federal authority into areas formerly reserved to the state. Thus many more judges were appointed, all Democrats or New Deal Republicans.

Second, the morals of the regime were low, in consistency with the general communist "international" purpose to degrade the standards of the people by personal wantonness, booze and corruption in public office. This reign was much worse than Grant's administration, which was the previous record "low." And this trait of the regime naturally was reflected in the cheapening of the federal bench.

It is not enough to say that none of them has ever been convicted of a felony or compelled to take the fifth amendment. They should be expelled from men in all respects, including intellectual and political devotion to the constitution, which, to almost the whole federal bench, is now a version of Karl Marx. Social security is one instance. The Supreme Court's emotional display on segregation is another.

One justice of the supreme Court seriously introduced a bill when he was a senator which would have held a publisher responsible for the absolute truth of everything appearing in his publication whether newspaper, book, magazine or pamphlet, subject to penalty for failure. This fellow is Sherman Minton of Indiana, a coarse, common New Deal politician who tried thus to throttle the whole press of the country, and suppress the very Bible itself, in order to get revenge on Robert R. McCormick, the publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

Minton met senatorial standards. Indeed, he may have had something to spare over such as Lehman, Flanders and Mrs. Smith, of Maine, whose increasing prominence, incidentally, will entail an increase in the candor and vigor of her opposition.

Frank Murphy was sent to the Supreme Court in reward for an act of treason and cowardice. As governor of Michigan his politeness curled up before John L. Lewis when mobs were rioting and actual violent revolution justified the use of armed force by the national guard, which was on duty ready to rescue the constituted government. An officer of an infantry company of this military force wrote me that he and his command were in a line, willing to put down the insurrection, which, of itself, was treason against the constitution of state of Michigan. He wrote that the guard could have done this without worse bloodshed than a few split lips. But Murphy flinched, whining that he was not willing to shed blood, and John L. Lewis was set up by the Committee for Industrial Organization, which retained the same sinister initials when it became the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The CIO was conceived by the Communist international, and brought forth in the crime of violent insurrection against the constituted governments of Michigan and other states and of the United States. Yet, today, eminent clergy break bread with the CIO. And Phil Murray, a craven scoundrel who ran in the train of the swagging Lewis, and with obvious Communist aid, was exalted by labor as an altruistic "leader" of labor.

The recent dispute over the refusal of Judge Luther Youngdahl to disqualify himself in the approaching trial of Owen Lattimore has ignored the worst that can be said of Youngdahl. The fact that he already has disparaged the indictment and thus may have prejudged the case is the legal bone of contention.

Several other Congressmen and Senators supported this principle by introducing bills to investigate the legal, moral, economic and functional activities of the federal corporations. This would furnish knowledge to either confirm or reject the propriety of this "Proposed 23rd Amendment."

We were elated, in those early days of the 83rd Congress, that the American concepts were to have the odds against us. We had elected 435 Congressmen, 96 Senators, a President and a Vice-President, but the 2,500,000 federal bureaucrats had previously captured the machinery of government and proposed to keep it.

Our elected representatives were far away from the home folks and powerful forces worked to put them under the spell of the most skillful political wire-pullers of history. The bureaucratic machine blunted the sharp edge of our crusade to restore economic justice under law.

Hearings were denied the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" which was bottled up in the House Judiciary Committee. Every proposal to investigate the corrupt practices of the federal corporations was killed in Committee. A few minor concessions, such as the sale of the barge lines and the closing of coffee roasting plants, acted to sop the public will while public attention was diverted from the real issues by a billion dollar a year bureaucratic propaganda machine.

But the confusion and clamor failed to stop the growing demands for the "Proposed 23rd Amendment." The bureaucrats felt something had to be done to trick private enterprise into aiding its own destruction under the guise of destroying the federal corporations.

So a Trojan Horse was devised — an age-old trick — yet capable of deceiving a gullible people. A bill was prepared and introduced into Congress which literally dripped with high purpose and good intentions. A frantic campaign to enlist the support of "free-enterprisers" was carried on with great success.

The American Way

By WILLIS E. STONE

Studying the performance of the 83rd Congress we learn that it was very effectively controlled by our bureaucratic empire.

Two years ago we were busy selecting candidates most likely to restore constitutional protection for individual enterprise by getting the federal corporations out of competition with taxpaying private citizens.

When the 83rd Congress first met it looked like we had a fine team. Congressman Ralph W. Gwinn (R) of New York promptly introduced a proposed 23rd Amendment to the Constitution, still pending in Congress as H. J. Res. 123, designed to outlaw the practices of socialism and communism in America. It provides that:

"The Government of the United States shall not engage in any business, financial or industrial enterprise except as specified in the Constitution."

Several other Congressmen and Senators supported this principle by introducing bills to investigate the legal, moral, economic and functional activities of the federal corporations. This would furnish knowledge to either confirm or reject the propriety of this "Proposed 23rd Amendment."

June Talk

By JANE KADINCO
Pampa News Women's Editor

I CERTAINLY LIKE the idea of mixing furniture, very much a trend these days. It does away with that problem of what to do with an older dark piece when you acquire some modern blond pieces. The idea now is that they do go together in one room. I ran across an article which elaborates on this idea.

"FREEDOM, A WORD little associated with home furnishings, is today one of the greatest assets of furniture design. In reviewing the latest furniture offerings Daily note that the homemaker has freedom of style selection, with the gamut ever widening. Styles demanding extra attention include Italian Provincial and Italian Directoire, in some instances simplified in accordance with the trend of traditional to be less formal. Another style of note is modern as it adopts more Colonial characteristics.

NEW YORK — If you're redecorating on a budget with ready-to-paint furniture, explore the many possibilities of furniture-finishing before you just apply a coat of paint. Unpainted furniture takes to staining, stenciling, spattering and papering, as well as time-honored paint. Here are six ways to finish furniture suggested in a recent issue of "Seventeen."

1. Natural wood stains. Sandpaper lightly, dust carefully and apply maple, pine or mahogany stain. When dry, add light coat of clear varnish. As a final flourish, wax—but not until the stain has dried for two or three weeks.

2. Paper and paint. If you have wallpaper in your room, you can get an intriguing effect by papering the top and sides of a chest and just painting its front. Use the wallpaper pattern of your room and paint the front of the chest in the background color of the paper.

3. Spatter painting. First paint the piece you intend to spatter in a dark background color. When it's thoroughly dry, dip brush lightly in one of two lighter "spatter" colors and knock the handle sharply against a broomstick in order to spatter in a nicely irregular way. Do all of one color first and let dry before you start with the second one.

4. Stenciled or freehand designs. What could be prettier than a Pennsylvania Dutch chest? You can stencil the graceful designs or draw them freehand. Paint the wood a fairly deep background color, or first and let dry before adding the design.

5. Trompe l'oeil. The French "fool the eye" technique is a super realistic type of painting that makes the objects painted on the background look three-dimensional, or as if they were really there. If you're talented with a paintbrush, try your hand at this sort of decoration; paint on clocks, gloves, keys, levers, dishes, scarves—and you'll find you have a conversation piece as well as a piece of furniture.

6. Paint, sandpaper first, then dust and give the wood a light sealer-coat of shellac. Let it dry before you sand and dust again. Two coats of paint plus a light sandpapering after each coat are needed—and an industrious waxing after two weeks for a protective finish.

"And painted finishes return with vigor. French designs in particular adopt the painted finish, and even floral decoration, to provide a fresh appeal to this familiar style. And the interest in colored finishes rides the crest of fashion into Directoire and even into modern design. Sometimes the painted finish has a rough texture, sometimes it's a lacquered finish which is merely tinted to provide the additional interest of wood grain.

"Latest case pieces are designed to be versatile. In many instances these cases forego a one-room character and prove adaptable to living room, dining room and bedroom. There are cases which answer the problems of storing table leaves inconspicuously in base sections. There are long, long cases, some extending to 72 inches, with varied facade interest to break the long line.

"There are also more case pieces with piano-hinged doors, such doors folding aside in a minimum of space to give access to contents and to disclose fitted interiors. And there are also higher cases, either pieces which are a single overhead unit or cases with decks capitalist* on vertical space and eliminating the need for two floor pieces.

ALTHOUGH THESE TIPS appeared in a magazine for teenagers, it certainly is of interest to us all... especially to those bent on a little home decorating.

For years magazines that cater to women have been running how-to-hold-your-husband articles. Most of them hit hard on such "musts" as keeping up with a husband in his climb up the success ladder, staying as trim, slim and glamorous as the women he meets in business, feeding his ego, and so on.

How many husbands have been made uncomfortable and kept poor by wives trying to live up to all the how-to-hold-your-husband advice, may never be known.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

The sooner you write a bread-and-butter letter to the hostess who has entertained you as a house guest, the better. It's difficult to make your "I had a wonderful time" sound convincing if you put off writing as long as you can.

A prompt letter carries enthusiasm by its promptness.

Weaver Brothers' Know-How Protects Your Automobile

THEIR KNOW-HOW COUNTS

The Service Know-How of Clyde Weaver (right) and Jake Weaver, who operate Weaver Brothers' Texaco Service Station, 600 W. Foster, counts for your automobile. They can help you add thousands of miles to the life of your car by the right servicing. Drive in, enjoy Weavers' courteous service. Or in an emergency call Weavers at 4-5581 for road service.

It takes Service Station Know-How to guard your car. The best way to get the know-how is to drive into Weaver Brothers' Texaco Service Station, 600 W. Foster (telephone 4-5581).

There you guard your automobile with the know-how and care of careful, experienced, skilled service men, Clyde and Jake Weaver who own and operate the station.

And there you enjoy the extras of the station which was judged first in the Pampa area for cleanliness, service, courtesy and decorations. Weaver Brothers' Texaco Station won that award in a contest during Oil Progress Week about a month ago.

Fall Change Over

Have Weaver Brothers give your automobile a fall change-over. Have Clyde and Jake get the car ready for winter driving.

ready for winter driving. Select your anti-freeze from such high quality products as Texaco PT, Prestone and Zarex. Protecting your car with anti-freeze is one of the important steps in the fall change-over.

Let the Weaver Brothers lubricate the automobile for cold weather driving. They know the right grease, the weight of oil. To most motorists grease and oil are just two things cars need. To the Weaver Brothers they are lubricants that can prolong the life of the car and can give many, many extra miles of pleasant, carefree driving. That is one reason it is wise to come to Weavers'.

Change Lubricants

How about the lubricants in the differential and transmission? This is a good time of year to change the lubricants. Give your car clean, fresh oils for faster starts, easier going on cold days.

That oil filter. Why not give your car the extra push of a clean oil filter during the cold months. During the summer the old filter was taking dust and summer road dirt out of the oil. Now cold weather is coming. Oil is stiffer. Get a fresh, clean oil filter to clear out the grime.

Lubricate Often

In cold weather, too, it is a good idea to have your car lubricated more often than in warm weather for this reason: more road dirt gets into automobile moving parts during the winter months. When roads are slushy, wheels splash dirt up on the under side of automobiles — and into moving parts. Protect your car by bringing it to Weaver Brothers for lubrication.

What about using a thermostat set for a higher temperature in the cooling system of your car for cold weather? Then your automobile hot water heater will bring you more comfort. Often use of the thermostat set for higher temperature means you can enjoy driving in a warm car in winter.

Skilled Men

You know that, when you drive into Weaver Brothers' for a grease job, the brothers will look over the under side of your car to see if any parts are damaged, loose or worn. Such extra interest often can save you a major repair bill — can mean pleasant motoring instead of unpleasant delays.

Clyde and Jake Weaver personally do all the lubricating work. That means they give you all the benefit of their years of experience and skill. Both are specialists in maintaining hydraulic transmissions, and have studied at automotive service training schools.

Clyde and Jake worked several years with Top of Texas service stations before they bought their first station 10 years ago. This year they moved to 600 W. Foster.

Drive into Weaver Brothers' Station for a tankful of Texaco Sky Chief Petrox Gasoline, a fuel developed with a lubricating quality to give longer life, more power and better combustion to your car. After years of research Texaco built a new refinery to produce the gas.

Weaver Brothers' also features the Texaco Fire Chief Gasoline, a fuel that is being improved constantly to please motorists.

6 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Drive into Weavers' any time from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. week days or from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays. Enjoy Weaver Brothers' courtesy. Have the auto glass cleaned, the interior of your car swept out, the battery, oil and anti-freeze or water checked. You will enjoy the cheerful atmosphere.

Remember, this station features Texaco's famous Havoline Motor Oil, E. F. Goodrich Tires and Delco Batteries. These are quality products that will give you long, satisfactory service.

Sunday Lubricating

Of course, for your convenience Weaver Brothers lubricate and wash automobiles on Sundays. If you need your car for work during the week, have it lubricated and cleaned when you can afford the time, not when you are rushing.

For the Know-How that guards your automobile, prize-winning courtesy, service, careful work, quality products, Texaco Gasoline, drive into Weaver Brothers' Texaco Service Station, 600 W. Foster. Or, in an emergency, telephone 4-5581 for Weaver Brothers' road service.

OPPOSER—Sen. Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.) says he'll try to get the Senate to oppose ratification of the treaty granting West Germany her sovereignty until France and Germany give the documents their final approval. A member of the Foreign Relations Committee, Mansfield says the U. S. shouldn't jump the gun on the final settlement.

BEING INVESTIGATED—Lt. Charles Anderson is under investigation by a special Army board for using alleged brutal disciplinary measures against Army trainees at Camp Gordon, Ga. Witnesses allege he ordered trainees to scrub their bodies with sand, and had one G.I. strung up on a tree by his ankles. Lieutenant Anderson is a Korean war veteran.

Wedding Night Spent In Jug

HOUSTON, Nov. 13 — UP—The wedding of Billy Blair Blevins, 19, a millworker, and Peggy Uphaw, 17, went off as scheduled Friday night but what happened afterwards was not on the program.

After the ceremony, the wedding party stopped at a tavern and a fight broke out, not once but twice through a chance remark someone made.

Blevins and his brother-in-law, Kenneth Uphaw spent the night in police custody and the bride's sister, Mrs. Marylin Uphaw, who was maid of honor, was knocked unconscious.

Several unidentified tavern patrons nursed a variety of bruises, cuts and slightly damaged heads. The bride went home to mother.

Crossing Accident Hurts Two
WACO, Tex., Nov. 13—UP—Two men were hurt when their truck-trailer, en route from Mineral Wells to Houston, hit the first car of a freight at a Waco crossing Saturday. They were Owen R. Thomas, 28, Millspaugh, Tex., and Marvin R. Van Natta, 28, Mineral Wells.

And you find the right expressions of the Christmas season in the Pampa Office Supply gift suggestions and car displays.

Christmas, the one time in this cynical year when the spirit of giving and the fun of remembering other people and making them happy triumph over cynicism.

The spirit of Christmas, the feeling that rises from the birth of a Babe in Bethlehem because He loved the world and came into the world to save man from man's own weaknesses.

Christmas Spirit
That Christmas atmosphere and that Christmas feeling are expressed in the gift suggestions and cards Pampa Office Supply has placed in its displays.

Consider the new Advent Christmas cards by Hallmark. One card depicts the events that preceded the Birth of Christ. Each of 20-plus illustrations is to be opened a certain day before Christmas.

Under each illustration is the Biblical description of a happening.

Another Hallmark card presents illustrations keyed to the Biblical Christmas story.

Card Styles
Other cards by Hallmark and other famous manufacturers describe the Christmas atmosphere, tell of Christmas spirit, combine comedy and sentiment with Christmas giving, depict beautiful, nostalgic and familiar scenes with a Christmas touch.

There are the snow-glow and winter scenes, pictures of happy gifters sleighing or motoring on winter roads, formal cards, and pictures of jolly Santa Claus busy making others happy.

Come in to Pampa Office Supply and look at the personalized cards. Have your name engraved or printed on your cards. Select the ones you like most from many albums of religious, sentimental, nostalgic, scenic, comic, Santa Claus and formal cards. You may have your name printed on the cards and your selections delivered to you on time for Christmas mailing.

Bibles
While you are browsing through Pampa Office Supply's Yule cards and gift suggestions be sure to look at the great group of Bibles.

You find Bibles to please every person — pocket, desk books, of course all Bibles tell the inspiring messages all appreciate. All will like their new Bibles — in leather and other bindings, in various sizes.

Personalized Soap
Look over the wide assortment of other gift suggestions. What do you think of this novelty: personalized soap. His or her own face, shower or bath bars. Marked with his or her name. Or wrapped in pictures of western scenes, dogs, horses, flowers.

Just about every one will like a pen and pencil set by Scheaffer, Easterbrook, Parker or ball point. Sets to please every person and every budget. There are Sheaffer's famed, popular "anorkel" pens; Easterbrook's points to fit every style of writing; Parker's popular "air" and "21" sets.

Leather Cases, Albums
How about giving him or her a desk pen set? Nothing better for the busy correspondent, for making social notes, for the business man or student.

Look at the leather brief cases, photograph albums, guest books, scrap books, address books, bride books, baby books, and many others. Students, professional and business men will like the brief cases — just the thing to protect valuable papers, notes.

All businesses will appreciate guest books. And bride's books! Address books, baby books, photo albums! You will find them all in leather and imitation leather.

The prospective artist will like pictures they can paint by numbers — and be proud of every picture.

Students, busy professional people will like a Royal portable typewriter, a fast, efficient machine that packs and carries easily. It has the "magic" margin feature for gold, even margins, the full size, "office" keyboard, complete "office type" controls, improved touch controls.

The deluxe portable has the speed selector, the line meter, visible tabulator setting, automatic paper lock and adjustable paper support.

Who wouldn't like a gift of stationery, a bill fold or wallet? Find the ideal ones at Pampa Office Supply.

Come first to the first name on your Christmas shopping program — Pampa Office Supply, 211 N. Cuyler

FRANKLIN, Tex., Nov. 15—UP—Walter W. Williams, the nation's oldest living veteran of the Civil War, resumed his quiet farm life Monday after a festive 112th birthday celebration.

The talkative, tobacco-chewing Confederate veteran was surrounded by hundreds of well-wishers on his birthday Sunday.

Sitting in a wheelchair on the front porch of his farmhouse, he declared:

"I'll just sit here, chew tobacco and watch the crowd, for I will live after everyone else goes."

His 89-year-old second wife was at his side, and told friends, "I just hope and pray the Lord will give me strength to take care of Papa as long as he lives."

Four Still Alive
Williams is one of four Civil War veterans still alive. Two other Confederates and one former Union soldier also have survived since Lee's surrender at Appomattox 89 years ago.

Williams' 12 living children — seven others have died — were at the farm for the birthday celebration. In the dining room of the modest home was a gigantic three-tiered cake for him, topped with a Confederate flag. The top tier read "happy 112th birthday," the second tier "Col. Williams" and the bottom tier "from the children," and the date.

At noon, more than 200 guests helped the old soldier celebrate at a barbecue dinner. Three goats and one steer were slaughtered for the affair. In addition, some 100 persons called during the day.

Mind Still Clear
Williams, who took his first airplane ride just two years ago, has spent most of his time in a bed and a wheel chair for the past two months. He is very hard of hearing and almost blind, but friends report that his mind is clear.

Next week he has a date with a Houston doctor to have his eyes treated.

"My eyes first began to fail me when I was 105 years old," he explained.

Mrs. Williams, who still milks the cows and does many other chores around the farm despite heart trouble, said "tons of letters and cards" had poured in from all over the United States to wish her husband a happy birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Swink were Amarillo visitors Friday.

Dewey Ready With Shingle

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 — UP—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who gave up a promising law practice 23 years ago for a political career that twice brought him within the shadows of the White House, is ready to hang out his shingle again.

In just 46 days the three-term governor and two-time unsuccessful Republican presidential candidate will become Thomas E. Dewey, senior partner of Root, Ballantine, Shubby and Palmer, one of the oldest and largest law firms in the country.

Fleeger Rites Held Today

TULSA, Nov. 15 — UP—Christian Science services were scheduled at 10 a. m. Monday for Burton Fleeger, 47, wealthy Tulsa businessman and philanthropist.

Fleeger died Friday night of a heart attack.

His daughter, Mrs. Mary Jean Parsons, recently began serving a sentence at the Texas State Women's prison for the slaying of her husband.

Prison authorities refused to allow Mrs. Parsons to attend her father's funeral, stating they would have no legal restraint on her if she crossed a state line.

REPAYING CURTIS-SY—Actor Tony Curtis, center, who probably owes his election as mayor of Universal City, Calif., to the female population, pays his debt by placing some women in civic jobs. Blonde Mamie Van Doren, left, takes the oath as the township's honorary police chief, while waiting her turn is Mara Corday, the new fire chief. Curtis will serve as mayor for a year.

I'M TERRIBLY SORRY WE DIDN'T MIND THAT I DELAYED WAITING, MR. TUTTLE! IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR US, YOU MIGHT STILL BE WAITING FOR HEADACHE TO COME IN!

OH, I WOULDN'T SAY THAT! I'M SURE HE'D HAVE WON NO MATTER WHO WAS RIDING HIM!—AND THAT YOU'LL BE BRINGING HIM HOME IN FRONT EVERY TIME!

WELL—AH—I HOPE SO, PHIL! FRANKLY I'VE NEVER HAD ANYTHING THRILL LONG DISTANCE ME AS MUCH AS HE DOES—WHEN HE STARTS PASSING THE OTHER HORSES!

PARDON, MR. TUTTLE—THERE IS A CALL FOR YOU AT THE DESK!

Freckles

LOOKS LIKE WAYMAN'S TRYING TO GET MY ATTENTION!

WINDOW! YOUR WINDOW, HENRY! LIFT YOUR WINDOW!

WHAP!

YOUR POKIES AREN'T JUST ALL DAY LONG ABOUT YOU AND THE DOORWAY!
