Gemayel army losing control of Beirut

BEIRUT. Lebanon (AP) - Moslem militiamen poured through the heart of Beirut today in running battles with the Lebanese army, and the government appeared to have lost control of much of the city's western half.

Two U.S. Marines guarding the American and British embassies were wounded in a brief firefight, witnesses reported.

Gunfire rang out at the U.S. and British embassies on west Beirut's seafront boulevard, and two wounded U.S. Marines were seen being put in a station wagon by other Marines, said witnesses in an adjacent apartment building. One could walk, but the other was on a stretcher, his head bandaged, they said

There was no confirmation of the report from Marine spokesmen, since telephone communication was disrupted. A top Moslem leader claimed that U.S.-backed Lebanese President Amin Gemayel, whose Cabinet resigned Sunday, was searching for a new president. "The battle is about to end, the Lebanon's little shah (Gemayel) is on the verge of collapse!" the Moslem leader, Nabih Berri of the Shiite militia Amal, declared in a radio

soon resign could not be immediately confirmed.

Later, the army command announced a cease-fire at 4 p.m. (9 a.m. EST) "at the request of political and religious leaderships and an Amal representative.... A committee of officers will be put in charge of overseeing the cease-fire.' But the sound of artillery blasts continued to shake the city past the truce deadline. The heavy fighting had engulfed several neighborhoods of Moslem west Beirut as Amal militiamen and fighters of the leftist Druse movement took command of the streets, which echoed with artillery, rocket and mortar fire. Government troops holed up in isolated strongpoints or pulled back into the city's Christian eastern sector. It was the first time in weeks that gunfire had crackled through west Beirut neighborhoods. Civilians dashed toward their homes or into nearby buildings for cover, or sounded their car horns in panic as they tried to drive through jammed intersections. The U.S. Marine contingent in Beirut apparently was not going to the aid of the embattled Lebanese army. There was no direct word from the Marine headquarters at Beirut International Airport, as telephone exchanges quickly began breaking down, but people fleeing to the city center from the southern suburbs said the Marines were not believed involved in the fighting. The airport was closed. Earlier, Marine spokesman Maj. Dennis Brooks said the Lebanese antagonists were battling around the base. "There are rounds going off around us, and some going over our heads.... We are staying very close to our bunkers," Brooks said. But a soldier reached at the headquarters of the French contingent of the multinational peacekeeping force in mid-city said French troops were in a firefight. Blasts could be heard around the post. The Lebanese army announced a total curfew on both

Moslem and Christian sectors and said anyone seen on the streets would be shot

There were no reports of casualties in today's fighting, but more than 70 people have been killed and 250 wounded since the new surge in fighting started last Thursday

The resignation of the Lebanese Cabinet on Sunday deepened the political crisis. Gemayel accepted the resignation of Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan and his eight-member Cabinet and said he might he might scrap the May 17 troop withdrawal agreement with Israel — a key demand of Gemayel's opponents.

He said the failure of the U.S.-sponsored agreement with Israel, which envisioned the withdrawal of both Israeli and Syrian troops from Lebanon, "has put us in an embarrassing impasse

Wazzan, a Sunni Moslem, said he and the eight other ministers were stepping down in hopes that a coalition government could be formed to help end the civil war. Gemayel said he was inviting the warring Moslem and Christian factions to Geneva, Switzerland, for reconciliation talks Feb. 27

The president said he had a plan for reforms that would guarantee equal rights and power-sharing among Lebanon's various communities.

Sources in Beirut said today the Syrian government invited five Sunni politicians to Damascus for talks on the situation and that this delayed the designation of a new prime minister

But later today Amal leader Berri for the first time joined Druse leftist chief Walid Jumblatt in demanding that Gemayel resign. "Amin Gemayel is holding consultations to to find a new president," Berri told The Associated Press in

Fed plans tighter rein

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Reserve Board confirmed today it will keep a tighter rein on the nation's money supply this year than it did during last year's economic revival, but added that there should be enough cash and credit to keep the recovery

The semiannual report to Congress from chairman Paul Volcker and his Fed colleagues had nothing but sour comments about the problems created by the Reagan administration's record and near-record budget deficits

"Unless decisive action is taken, the federal government deficit will continue to drain off an extremely large portion of available net saving in the economy," the report said.

And that drain, it added, could mean higher interest rates, continuing export problems and the probability that such important parts of the economy as housing and business investment "will continue to operate well below their underlying potential and below the levels consistent with sustained, balanced economic growth

Blinding storm claims 27 lives

Associated Press Writer Blowing snow and bitter cold blamed for at least 27 deaths roared out of the Midwest today, leaving a family of six dead in their car and turning travel into an icy hazard from Kentucky to Maine and as far south as Georgia. Temperatures tumbled into the teens overnight in northern Georgia and up to four inches of snow was reported today in Jasper, with an inch on the ground in Athens and Atlanta. State police warned against all but essential travel in the northern third of the state.

Heavy snow was reported today in southeast Kentucky, where 6 inches were expected before the day is out. Early today, accumulations from 2 to 4 inches were reported in Clay, Knox and Harlan counties, where some roads were closed and travel was described by the National Weather Service as 'treacherous.

Blinding snow whipped by winds gusting to 60 mph produced blizzard conditions over the weekend in parts of the Dakotas. Iowa and Minnesota. stranding hundreds of motorists. As the snow moved east today bitter cold set in, sending the mercury plunging as low as 15 degrees below zero.

Of the 27 known weather-related deaths, 14 were in Minnesota, including a family of six who froze when their car stalled in swirling snow and got stuck in a snowbank, authorities said.

"The real heavy snow and high winds are dying down, but snow will continue today across the northeast accompanied by highs only in the teens," said Nolan Duke of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo. "Freezing temperatures stretched to the Gulf Coast this morning," Duke said. "In fact, at 44 degrees, it was warmer in Billings, Mont., than in Houston and New Orleans.

It was 35 early today in New Orleans and 40 in Houston. The mercury fell to 28 in Dallas

By Tuesday morning, the mercury could fall below freezing in northern Florida, Duke said rocket firing. Crewman Bruce McCandless monitored the operation.

Palapa B2 will add to a network that serves the nation of 13,000 islands as well as the Philippines, Thailand, Malayasia, Singapore and Papua, New Guinea. The satellite's name means national unity.

Although the Westar failure remained a mystery, the Indonesian government gave the go-ahead for the spacemen to launch Palapa B2, after delaying the exercise, which had been set for Saturday suspected of causing the loss on Friday. The rocket has logged 16 space firings, five on shuttle flights, without a miss.

The string was broken with Westar VI. There was evidence of at least a brief ignition. But rocket and satellite rose only a few miles, and the rocket separated and broke into one large and 11 smaller pieces

The package was lost in space for several hours until Air Force radar detected a cluster of objects in orbit near Challenger on Saturday. NASA and Western Union, which owns the satellite, felt certain they had found

Westar VI, but did not confirm this until Sunday

A ground station in California succeeded in changing the satellite's attitude so that its batteries could be charged by the sun's energy, said Western Union spokesman Bill Ziegler. "As far as we know we have a spacecraft that's in the wrong orbit that's completely healthy," he said.

However, there was no hope of raising the satellite to its planned 22,300-mile-high orbit where it would be stationary above Earth, he said. The most that could be hoped for is that "we might get a few hours twice a day."

Senate considering new anti-crime laws

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate considers some of the nation's most controversial anti-crime legislation this week, including a death penalty measure, while Lebanon and El Salvador share the House spotlight.

Meanwhile, jockeying over President Reagan's 1985 federal budget continues as top administration officials shuttle among congressional hearing rooms to answer questions and deflect criticism of the $925.5 billion spending plan.

Legislators planned to quit Washington at the end of the week for a 10-day Lincoln-Washington recess. The Senate's anti-crime legislation includes measures that would legalize the death penalty for certain federal crimes and allow admission in court of some illegally seized evidence.

These measures and others were kept out of a comprehensive crime control bill that passed the Senate on Thursday, 91-1. Sponsors felt the subjects are so divisive they could have scuttled the omnibus legislation.

The bills would: -Establish constitutional procedures for imposing the death penalty in such federal crimes as treason, espionage and attempts to assassinate the president.

-Create an exception to the exclusionary rule to permit introduction of evidence obtained by officers acting with the reasonable, good faith belief their conduct was legal. Currently, the rule allows courts to throw out improperly obtained evidence regardless of the officer's -Restrict access of state prisoners to federal courts. The measure would require federal judges to respect "full and fair" state court proceedings, and limit the time during which a criminal can appeal a state verdict to the federal courts.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee plans to meet Tuesday to draft a non-binding resolution seeking the "prompt and orderly" withdrawal of U.S. servicemen from Lebanon and calling on Reagan to report within 30 days on progress toward that goal.

House leaders said the resolution received overwhelming approval at a Democratic caucus last week, but Democratic members of the committee decided to delay a committee vote while they worked on language designed to secure Republican support.

Also on Tuesday, the House is scheduled to consider reinstating a requirement that the president certify each six months that the Salvadoran government is making progress in human rights as a condition of continued U.S. aid.

Reagan pocket-vetoed a measure approved by Congress late last year, waiting until legislators began their long Christmas recess before refusing to sign the legislation.

Meanwhile, the president plans to send Congress legislation that would implement a bipartisan commission's recommendation of a five-year, $8 billion economic aid package for Central America.

Fieldstein's back, talking budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential economist Martin Feldstein, returning to Congress to discuss the administration's 1985 budget plan, is apparently caught in a fresh squabble with White House officials over his outspoken remarks about the spending plan and growing deficits. Even so, President Reagan still has confidence in his embattled chief economist, according to Vice President George Bush

And, Feldstein, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, has no plans to leave his post before his scheduled departure next fall, according to a spokesman Feldstein, rebuked late last year by White House officials for his warnings about giant budget deficits, again ran into trouble, apparently because of his less-than-ringing endorsement of the president's new spending plan after it was unveiled last Wednesday.

Feldstein, in testimony before the House Budget Committee today, urged Congress to take the steps necessary to reduce the deficits, which are running

In his prepared testimony, Feldstein said "everything is negotiable" in the bipartisan negotiations scheduled to start this week on ways to come up with a $100 million "down payment" over three years to start trimming back the deficits.

"It should be possible to achieve such reductions by a combination of specific spending reductions and revenue increases that can command a widespread consensus," he said:

Feldstein said that action to wash away some of the red ink would send a signal of confidence to financial markets and help ensure a healthy expansion of the economy over the next few years.

But he warned that deficits in the $200 billion range "would be a serious problem for the American economy, causing a more fragile and slower recovery with more inflation than would otherwise occur.

"It is important that last year's stalemate not be repeated this year The budget negotiations should proceed quickly and legislation should be enacted as soon as possible," he said

The latest Feldstein flap occurred over the weekend when White House officials reportedly told him to cancel a planned appearance Sunday on ABC's 'This Week With David Brinkley' to discuss the newly released budget. Brinkley said on the program that Feldstein canceled "apparently under White House pressure.

A White House spokesman, Robin Gray, confirmed that Feldstein had canceled a scheduled appearance on the program, but said it was for personal reasons.

On Friday, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said of the Economic Report of the President prepared by Feldstein, "As far as I'm concerned you can throw it away.

Questioned about the dispute, Bush, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press" shrugged it off, saying "these things happen in every administration." He also said: "I've never seen an administration where everybody had to

Loss of informants hampers Salvadoran death squad probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - The loss of two key informants about Salvadoran 'death squads'' - one possibly murdered for what he knew - has undermined the U.S. Embassy's investigation of El Salvador's right-wing violence, administration officials sav The officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said losing the sources - and not an intentional cover-up by the Reagan administration - explains the failure to act against Miami-based exiles linked to the killings or against rightist leader Roberto D'Aubuisson.

Last week, Robert E. White, former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, accused the administration of concealing evidence implicating D'Aubuisson in the 1980 murder of that country's Roman Catholic archbishop. White also said the administration had done little with information on six wealthy Salvadorans in Miami who, he charged, direct death squad activity.

three years the administration has pretended it did not know that death squads and military butchery are intrinsic features of the government and military of El Salvador," said White, who was fired as ambassador by President Reagan in

White was expected to expand on his accusations during testimony today before the House Foreign Affairs

An administation official said the military officer who implicated D'Aubuisson in the assassination of Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero was himself murdered in San Salvador about two years ago "probably because of what he knew.

D'Aubuisson, an ex-military intelligence officer, has denied involvement in the still-unsolved assassination of Romero, who was considered by Salvadoran rightists to be sympathetic to the left.

The skimpiness of U.S. evidence about the rightist death squads in El Salvador has long been criticized by Congress and opponents of the administration's military backing

Theological feud erupts over inspirational book book designed to pay tribute to the "Year of the Bible" in 1983 have triggered a theological feud complete with charges of

The book, "Power for Living," was promoted by Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry and other celebrities in one of the most expensive evangelistic media campaigns ever mounted.

But David Chilton of Tyler, Texas - one of three men who teamed to write the book - protested after learning that the material in the book was revised and published under another author's name, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

Chilton has leveled charges of plagiarism and called the new work "a very defective version of Christianity, a very watered-down version of Christianity.

Florida minister and writer Jamie Buckingham, who put together the second version, said his only mission was to make the book more readable.

'I'm concerned that this project could degenerate into a theological debate or name-throwing situation," Buckingham

The project was born in August in a discussion between Bill Bright, founder of the Campus Crusade for Christ, and Nancy DeMoss, head of the Philadelphia-based Arthur S. DeMoss Foundation, which eventually funded the media blitz and book. Another writer of the first edition, the Rev. Ray Sutton of Tyler, said the total cost of the project would approach $25

"To my knowledge, no one has ever mounted this kind of campaign before," he said.

Television commercials, which ended Jan. 1, featured testimonies by Landry, entertainer Pat Boone, Atlanta Falcons quarterback Steve Bartkowski, U.S. Sen. Bill Armstrong of Colorado, and others.

Full-page advertisements also appeared in the Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Fortune, Time Reader's Digest, TV Guide and other publications. Landry said he is distressed that the controversy had erupted. But he said eight million copies of the book had been 'The response has been tremendous,' he said

"If it were being sold, it would unquestionably be the best seller of the year," Chilton said. DeMoss foundation officials, who commissioned Atlanta-based American Vision Inc. to write the book, declined to discuss the project.

American Vision turned the book over to Chilton, a writer ard editor for the ultra-conservative Institute for Christian Economics in Tyler. Chilton completed the project in four days with the help of colleagues Sutton and Michael Gilstrap.

But late in December, after 2.5 million copies of the book had been printed, the three writers learned that a revised edition written by Buckingham was being published.

Although substantial parts of the book were retained Buckingham was listed as the sole author, Sutton said.

"I produced a piece of work for someone, and it was changed without myu permission, and someone else's name was placed on it, which we call plagiarism," Sutton said.

Sutton and the other Tyler writers said their version emphasized Chr.stian life as a matter of obedience to God's laws. Buckingham's book, they said, emphasizes Christian life as a matter of feelings and experience.

'Buckingham's book and a lot of churches say, 'Come to Jesus and feel good and be happy.' The danger is that people would come to Mickey Mouse if they thought they would get a joy ride out of it. What people need to know is what God wants us to do," Chilton said.

Buckingham, senior minister of an interdenominational church in Melbourne, Fla., said the DeMoss Foundation asked

"They didn't have any problem with the theology of it. They had problems with the literary construction. They didn't think it was very readable," Buckingham said.

Buckingham said he wrote a whole new book using only the outline of the original version, but the DeMoss Foundation later asked that certain passages from the old book be incorporated into his.

"The second book is my book," he said. "All I did was use maybe seven or eight pages from the first book. And it wasn't plagiarism because the DeMoss Foundation said they hold all

Doctor on witness stand eighth day

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) - Defense attorneys prepared today to take aim at the testimony of a Kerrville pediatrician who has spent seven days calmly and quietly recounting how infants under the care of her nurse fell limp and stopped breathing.

Dr. Kathleen Holland, who stuck to her story Friday during cross-examination by Burt Carnes, a defense attorney for vocational nurse Genene Jones.

Ms. Jones, 33, is charged with killing a 15-month-old Kerrville girl, Chelsea McClellan, with an injection of succinylcholine, a powerful, hard-to-trace muscle relaxant.

Ms. Holland has testified that six children under Ms. Jones care fell into respiratory arrest after receiving injections or intravenous solutions prepared by the nurse. Chelsea was the only child to die, she said.

Ms. Holland, somber throughout the cross-examination admitted she suspected Ms. Jones might have injected succinylcholine only after possible use of the drug was raised

She said she was first asked about succinvlcholine on Sept

"After Sept. 27, was it not clear in your mind that succinylcholine was suspected in every case you've testified about?" asked Carnes. "Aren't you setting it up so it could be succinvlcholine?

Ms. Holland responded: "After Sept. 27, I had occasion to reflect back while it was still close to the events.

Later she added. "I knew in retrospect that it (finding the vial) was something that could be extremely important.

Prosecutors have shown that, during Ms. Jones' employment in Ms. Holland's office, all five infants younger than two years who had a history of illness and who were subjected to intraveneous solutions or injections prepared by Ms. Jones inexplicably went limp and stopped breathing

Once the cross-examination of Ms. Holland is completed. prosecutors say they will call mothers of infants stricken in Ms. Holland's office to testify, and will attempt to develop a

The state will probably not rest its case until Tuesday or Wednesday, attorneys said.

Carnes attempted to show Friday that Ms. Holland has altered her recollection of events in order to tighten the case against Ms. Jones

Keeton was killed as he tried to buy a newspaper near his north Dallas apartment. Last Thursday, Keeton's stepson and Cornett's nephew, Marshall Dewayne Williams, 21, turned Back home in League City on Sunday, Cornett told The Dallas Morning News that he had spoken with Williams, but could give police little help in their investigation.

The university plans to establish a program at its Texas Engineering Experiment Station to aid both industry and government in developing the economic potential of space,

About $200,000 has been allocated by the univeristy so far to design the program and recruit faculty members. The program has a five-year goal of attracting $5 million in space research proposals, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday. In the next year, four to eight professors will be hired to help staff the program, which will start with about 20 graduate

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve heir own freedom and encourage others to see its bles-sings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Sound and fury of hunger debate

After three months of study, the president's Task Force on Food Assistance reported that hunger exists in America, but that evidence is lacking that the problem is serious and widespread.

Anti-hunger activists met the report with such a storm of criticism that you would think Americans are collapsing from starvation like residents of Bangladesh

What is going on? In a word, politics. So much so that if politics were nutritious the average American would be the size of a Washington Redskins' lineman.

Sen. Edward Kennedy's hyperbole was typical of the hunger lobby's attack on the report: "The task force draft is an insult to every American who has ever visited a soup kitchen. It is a transparent coverup of the serious and worsening problem of hunger of America. In effect, this commission says to the hungry: Let them eat block grants.'

Nonsense. The task force said no such thing. It suggested that programs such as food stamps and school lunches could be turned over to the states—if the states wanted them-along with block grants to pay for the programs

On the surface, that is not a bad idea since states often can deliver aid more quickly and flexibly than the federal government. In any case, the task force recommendation is academic. Congress will not give up control of a benefit as popular as food stamps, nor do the governors wish to be responsible for it.

The outcry against the report stems largely from plans by Democrats and advocacy groups to make hunger an anti-Reagan campaign issue. For his part, the president stacked the task force with a majority which doubts that hunger is a major national problem.

With the economic recovery a year old and the jobless rate down sharply, it is hard to see how hunger can be, as Sen. Kennedy claimed, "a serious and worsening problem.

However, when Americans face the possible suffering of their fellow citizens, they prefer to be safe rather than sorry. Thus everyone who can may want to make an extra contribution of the local Salvation Army, whose job it is to make sure there is available food and clothing for those who fell through even a well-constructed federal safety net

Election to affect court's future

Here is a judicial opinion from which no thinking American will dissent. "The next election," declares Mr. Justice Blackmun, will have a profound effect upon the Supreme Court of the U.S.

That could be putting it mildly. The justices' average age is 69. Between 1984 and 1989, four or five are likely to hang up their robes. Whoever is president will choose their successors - and in so doing leave his stamp on the U.S. Supreme Court for a generation or more.

Ronald Reagan, if invited back to the White House, is certain to pick conservatives, men - and likely one more woman, too - of judicial restraint. A Democratic president - whether he is Mondale or someone else - would pick liberal activist judges.

History shows that appointing philosophically compatible jurists isn't so cut - and - dried a matter as it might seem. Presidents have been startled before when their hand - picked men went astray; as was violently leftward.

In our own day, Lewis Powell and John Paul Stevens have proved more liberal than the men who nominated them, Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford respectively, can have thought likely. Sandra Day O'Connor, Reagan's only high court appointee, has if anything functioned as a stronger conservative presence than we expected.

The truth is that presidential appointment is the only effective check on judicial power. It is not that way on paper, to be sure. The Constitution, so earnest about checking and balancing, provides that federal judges may be impeached; that appellate jurisdiction may be changed; that judicial salaries may

Franklin Roosevelt tried to "pack" the court by increasing its membership. In the last resort, specific decisions can be reverse by constitutional amendment (as happened with a decision that invalidated the income tax). But none of this reckons with Congress' indisposition to confront the court when powerful voting blocs (e.g., blacks, pro - abortionists) think what the court is doing is swell.

The court is less ambitious and power grabbing than in the Warren era (which ended officially with Warren's retirement in 1969). The Nixon - Ford - era justices have made a difference. Yet not enough of one. Busing - the all - time constitutional inanity and abortion are policies of the Nixon - era court. In the latter case the majority sat down and wrote what is for all practical purposes a statute (the Blackmun Act, if you will), enshrining a constitutional right of the justices' own devising - the right to abort a

But courts aren't supposed to wield the legislative power. Legislatures are. This is for various sound reasons: the foremost being that judges cannot, like mortal politicos, be booted from office. As we see, there is virtually no effective way to restrain, far less control, them

There are many splendid federal judges

(names furnished on request). There are alas - too many of the other sort: little tin gods, sitting on their benches handing down opinions like decress from Olympus.

on't take Canada for granted

Under the circumstances, it is hard to be a Canadian. Canada is profoundly affected by everything that haappens in and to the United States. Americans are hardly award at all that Canada was harshly affected by the U.S. recession of 1980-82. The Canadian recovery has been much slower.

To be sure, the Canadian government, under Prime Minister Trudeau, has been responsible for much of the economic trouble experienced by the Canadian people. In the 1980s, Mr. Trudeau determined to crack down on U.S. investment in Canada. This policy damaged economic opportunities for Canadians. He also engaged in a politically unwise policy of granting foreign aid to Cuba and other countries in the Soviet American investment in Canada always will be a sensitive matter, but U.S. financial resources are necessary for Canadian economic development. However, Canadian can now take into account the fact that their investors have put tremendous sums into commercial development in the United States. This means that investment is a two-way street.

The two peoples-Canadians and Americans-are different, though the differences some times are hard to define exactly. They share Anglo-Saxon political traditions, but have different political traditions. They should be able to coexist and cooperate in a good spirit, keeping their political institutions separate but accepting a very large degree of continental economic integration.

Progress in U.S.-Canadian relations would be more rapid if the American people devoted more attention to Canadian attitudes about the United States. For this to happen, the American news media must report more extensively on Canadian affairs.

Without a background of understanding, the United States won't be able to maintain good relations with Canada. And the United States can't afford bad feeling to develop between the two major nations of North America.

In this feature we excerpt material that has appeared in The Pampa New's editorial pages in previous years, whether from the editorials or the column written for many years by Freedom Newspapers founder R.C. Hoiles.

When education becomes a political tool and is little more an arm of government, it must follow that political objectives will color that education

This invariably will provide students with inferior education; for education to be superior, it must have educational objectives, not political aims. History bears out the fact that human well - being improves much faster when it is undertaken on a voluntary basis than when political mechanisms of force and violence are Distinguished from force and violence are persuasion and example, both hallmarks of marketplace activities and also handmaidens of educational excellence.

Teach by your example. The ways you settle your own disagreements - with your children or with other adults - will show your children how to settle their own, no matter what you say.

Be fair. If you must punish your children for fighting, make your "punishment fit sides. Don't punish either of them so harshly that you cause them to fee even angrier at each other and at you. And remember that there is seldom only one person at fault in an argument.

Remember the Golden Rule. Try to put yourself in each child's shoes before you judge behavior. Try to remember your own childhood and how you felt when your parents stepped into your fights. Treat your Discipline with kindness fulfilling prophesies. If you do slip in anger, apologize to your child later and explain that you don't really feel that way about her.

Accent the positive. Pay attention to the things each of your children does well and to their interactions that are cooperative and constructive. They will tend to repeat these behaviors since they earned your attention. Minimize the negative.

Whenever possible avoid pointing out your children's "faults" and mistakes, especially in comparison to siblings. Also, unless they're hurting each other, ignore your children's petty disputes with each other. They may decrease simply from lack of attention from you. Remember, if you want to see a behavior repeated, pay attention to it. If you don't want to see a behavior again, ignore it.

Explain your expectations. Let your children know what responsibilities you expect them to assume; what the limits are on each of them: what behaviors you will not tolerate; and what they can expect if they don't meet these expectations.

Cultivate patience.

Patience and a sense of humor are two of the most important qualities you can cultivate as a parent. Try to be patient with your children's bickering. Even though you may think the things they're squabbling about are silly, they're important to them, and when your patience wears thin, try to find some humor in the situation. Dear Abby

Children rarely lie about sexual abuse

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The recent ABC television special, "Something About Amelia," caused hundreds of people to come forward and admit that they are-or had beenvictims of child sexual abuse.

I am enclosing a column you wrote several years ago. I think it should be printed on the front page of every newspaper in the country.

Please run it again. The message it contains cannot be repeated often enough. SACRAMENTO SOCIAL WORKER DEAR SOCIAL WORKER: The column you sent sionals dedicated to halting child abuse requested permission to reprint it. And here it is: DEAR ABBY: I am a psychiatrist who works closely with a child development specialist. As an example of the

Expecting current events and human interest stories, the teacher was surprised when a quiet 12-year-old approached her desk with a clipping from your column about a girl who was being sexually abused (raped), and said, "This is happening to me." The teacher and the school's guidance person obtained our help in providing supportive counseling during the difficult process in which the child was placed in foster care because her mother "stood by" her husband (the child's stepfather) and called her daughter a "lying bitch." You have many young readers. We urge you to encourage children to seek help from their school guidance people, doctors or community health center if they are being involved sexually by adults. You may use our

CONCERNED PROFESSIONALS

DEAR CONCERNED: The importance of your message cannot be overstated. Whenever I publish a letter from someone who has been sexually abused as a child, I am inundated with letters from readers saying that this has happened to them. (Many confide that they had lived with that ugly secret for as ong as 40 and 50 years-too ash

It is the responsibility of adults to teach children (3- and 4-year-olds are not too young to understand) that it is not OK for ANYONE to touch their private parts, and if someone does, the child should tell a trusted adult immediately. Stress that even if the person who has made these advances has threatened to "kill" her (or him-little boys are molested, too), the child must tell anyway and be assured she (or

he) will be protected. Some facts: Today in many communities there is a 1-in-4 chance that a child will be the victim of incest, child molestation or rape by the time he or she reaches 18 years of age. Statistics tell us that 80 percent of the offenders had themselves been physically or sexually abused as children.

Children seldom lie about sexual abuse. Child molesters are rarely strangers. They are usually related to or living near the child and are known and trusted by the child. A child needs to tell a trusted adult if he or she has been molested; if not believed, the child should tell another adult, and still another adult until believed

A child needs to be assured that if he or she has been molested, the shame and blame belong to the adult-the child is the victim! P.S. To report suspected child abuse, dial this toll-

A more important question is whether the stone needs to be removed at all. In old studies, about half the patients who had gallstones developed complications that required surgery within 11 to 20 years. But those older studies were based primarily on patients who had symptoms. More recent studies show that individuals who have silent gallstones that do not cause any symptoms, or just mild symp toms, seldom have complications from their stones. In one study, only 10 percent of the patients with silent stones developed any symptoms at all in the succeeding five years. Only 15 percent developed symptoms in a 10-year span. If

"Everybody will wait until tomorrow night and file their rosters and take their chances," Canadian Olympic Association President Roger Jackson said Sunday.

Finnish, American and Canadian Olympic officials met with Willie Daume, head of the IOC's eligibility 'committee, for 11/2 hours Sunday evening. After the meeting, Kosti Rasinpera, secretary general of the Finnish Olympic Committee, revealed the protest and the disqualification of goalie Hannu Kamppure, who had played in one World Hockey Association game in 1979. Rasinpera declined to identify the 11 players were from the United States. He said four were from Italy, three from Austria and one each from Canada and flagstick with his third shot on the hole, Irwin tapped in for a birdie. He finished off the round of par 72 tied with Nelford at 278, 10 under par.

After they made routine pars on the first playoff hole, Irwin popped his drive into a fairway bunker. Moments after the national television commentators had completed their analysis - "He's dead." said one; "He has no chance to reach the green," said another - Irwin lashed a 2-iron shot 195 yards to within 10 feet of the flag and holed the putt for the winning

Treatment of Indians criticized

EL PASO, Texas (AP) -The executive director of the Texas Indian Commission says the state's native Americans, who suffer from inadequate health care and staggering unemployment rates, are still the victims of discrimination and old stereotypes. Raymond Apodaca, the commission's head, said a report describing the treatment of Indians residing in Texas as a "national shame" was designed to "shock people into action." The report, delivered to the Texas congressional delegation and the Legislature, calls for more jobs and better health care for the state's native Americans, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

The commission, based in El Paso, called on state and federal governments to step up aid to the 40,075 American Indians in Texas, who come from an estimated 97 tribes and are live primarily in the most Texas Indians live in cities or rural areas - not on reservations. Dallas-Fort Worth is home to a fourth of all Indians in Texas, with 11,226 residing in the area. More than a third of all Texas Indians are employed, according to the report. While the national unemployment rate runs about 9 percent, the rate among the state's Indians is at least 35 percent, the commission said.

Indians also suffer from health-related problems and 96 percent have little or no health services, according to the commission.

Although dramatic declines have been recorded in reported incidences of tuberculosis, infant mortality, chronic anemia and malnutrition, more reports are being noted in diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure and dental problems, the report said.

The commission has estimated that 55 to 65 percent of the Indian population in Texas is G-97

- Former South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky was the center of attention when Southeast Asians turned out with bright celebrate the Year of the Rat.

Ky, 53, was dogged by a television news camera crew and reporters Saturday as he made his way through the thousands of Vietnamese observing the start of year 4682. The Vietnamese and Chinese calendars concide.

However, the flamboyant Ky urged the news media to focus on the accomplishments of Vietnamese refugees instead

Asian refugee populations.

Hussein, 48, met with Dr. William Sheldon and the royal physician Sunday to go over the test results, which were not immediately released, clinic spokesman Frank Weaver said.

Auburn cagers led by 270-pounder

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD

AP Sports Writer Auburn University leads the Southeastern Conference and has a high national ranking thanks in part to a player who's 6-foot-6 and weighs 270 pounds.

That's the high-powered Tigers' football team, right? Could be, but right now it's basketball season and Auburn is following its successful football campaign with a tough group of players led by Charles Barkley, who looks more like a football lineman than a basketball player.

Barkley scored 28 points Sunday to lead the 19th-ranked Tigers to a 67-65 victory over Florida in front of a hostile crowd at Gainesville

'Barkley played as hard as any 270-pound man can," said Auburn Coach Sonny Smith, who compared Barkley to Joe Namath because "he does what he talks about." 'We're in first place for at least another week," Barkley said. "Nobody can dictate that for at least another week." Auburn's 8-2 SEC record is one game better than Kentucky, but that lead is safe for a while because the Tigers are idle until next Saturday, when they travel to Lexington, Ky., to by Washington 89-81 in triple overtime face the Wildcats.

In Sunday's only other game involving a Top 20 team,

Villanova beat 13th-ranked Syracuse 77-75. In Top Ten games Saturday, top-ranked North Carolina routed The Citadel 76-60; No. 2 DePaul stayed unbeaten with a 59-57 overtime victory over St. John's; third-ranked Kentucky was upset 69-62 by Alabama; fourth-ranked Georgetown rolled past Connecticut 87-62; fifth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas beat Long Beach State 79-65; sixth-rated Houston hammered SMU 76-57; seventh-ranked Texas-El Paso beat Brigham Young 85-77: No. 8 Illinois trimmed Northwestern 71-52; No. 9 Memphis State edged Alabama-Birmingham 53-51 in overtime, and 10th-ranked Maryland was beaten by No. 18

Georgia Tech 71-70 in double overtime. Elsewhere, No. 11 Tulsa walloped Drake 93-74; No. 12 Oklahoma topped Missouri 76-65; No. 14 LSU defeated Georgia 69-68 in overtime: 15th-ranked Wake Forest beat Clemson 76-72 in overtime: No. 16 Purdue downed Iowa 48-46; No. 17 Louisville tripped La Salle 93-88, and No. 20 UCLA was beaten

Barkley's 10 points in the first half, plus three blocked shots, helped Auburn take a 31-24 halftime lead over Florida.

But the Gators, behind the shooting of freshmen Andrew Moten and Joe Lawrence, caught up with 6:37 to play when Moten, who led Florida with 18 points, hit a jumper to tie it at

But two minutes later, Moten fouled out on a charging call, although his basket deadlocked the score again at 56-56. The Gators then went ahead 58-56, but four consecutive free throws by Barkley, who hit 12 of 14 from the foul line, put Auburn on top 60-58 and the Tigers never relinquished the lead.

"I think a big factor in the game was Andrew Moten fouling out," Smith said. "He's a tremendous guard who just doesn't play like a freshman.

North Carolina, which stomped Furman 83-48 on Friday night, completed a two-day rout of non-conference opponents as Michael Jordan scored 19 of his 24 points in the first half to lead the Tar Heels past The Citadel North Carolina is now 20-0. a victory plateau it has reached for the past 14 years.

A basket by Regan Truesdale, who led The Citadel with 26 points, gave the Bulldogs a 28-26 lead in the first half, but a dunk and three-point play gave the Tar Heels a 31-28 edge and

The Citdel never caught up. Kenny Patterson scored four of his 10 points in the final minute of overtime as DePaul rallied to beat St. John's, which has lost six of its last seven games after an 11-1 start.

With the score tied at 55, Patterson sank two free throws with 17 seconds remaining in overtime, giving the Blue Demons a 57-55 lead. But St. John's guard Chris Mullin, who led all scorers with 21 points, hit two free throws with nine seconds left to make it 57-57 before Patterson won it with a 10-foot jumper with three seconds to go.

Patterson also hit a key 20-footer with 1:27 remaining in

Buck Johnson's 18 points and a strong Alabama defense that forced 23 Kentucky turnovers keyed the Crimson Tide's upset

Patrick Ewing had 23 points, 15 rebounds and six blocked shots to pace Georgetown over Connecticut. The victory, combined with Syracuse's loss to Villanova, vaulted the Hoyas into first place in the Big East at 8-1.

Nevada-Las Vegas got 19 points from Richie Adams and 15 from Frank James in its victory over Long Beach State.

Many reasons to remember Hayes

HOUSTON (AP) - Elvin Hayes expects to break John Havlicek's National Basketball Association lengevity record when the Houston Rockets play Philadelphia on

But despite the approach of his 1,271st NBA game, the 6-9 forward is virtually sure to be remembered as much for his foul moods as for the fact that he has been an All-Star for 12

Haves is widely known for his abrasive statements and lone-wolf behavior

"He was the dominant force on an NBA championship team and he'll go down in history as probably the greatest forward who ever lived," said Dick Motta, one of Hayes' former coaches, in an interview with the Houston Chronicle.

'He was always the first one to practice and the last one to leave," said Motta, who coached Hayes with the Washington Bullets and now coaches the Dallas Mavericks. "I had him for four years and never fined him once. But you could never relax with Elvin. I've seen his mood change in the middle of a game from good to bad to worse to better, every level of emotion."

The 38-year-old Hayes, coming off the bench for spot duty in his 16th NBA season, is already the all-time leader in minutes played, shots taken and personal fouls.

He ranks third on the all-time scoring list, behind Wilt Chamberlain and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Only Chamberlain and Bill Russell lead him in rebounds and he is third in blocked shots behind Abdul-Jabbar and George Hayes doesn't drink or smoke. He rarely socializes with his teammates, either in Houston or on the road.

He admits his behavior has upset a lot of people. But he says he wouldn't change his ways.

"If keeping quiet and not speaking my mind is what I have to do to gain that acceptance. I've got to wonder if it would have been worth it," Hayes said. "In my mind, the main thing has always been to be true to the real me."

Kareem closes in o

SAN ANTONIO, Texas Kareem Abdul-Jabbar needs only 25 more field goals to pass Wilt Chamberlain as the player with the most career field

Chamberlain made 12,681 field goals in his career. Abdul-Jabbar scored 27 points on 11-of-14 shooting from the field Sunday night to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a 110-98 victory over the San Antonio Spurs in a National Basketball Association game.

"I was ready to play tonight, and I was looking for my shot because I felt I had end of the first period. my rhythm. The trajectory on my hook shot depends upon who is guarding me. The Spurs lost a potent offensive force in George Gervin, but we were still ready,'' Abdul-Jabbar said.

Gervin did not play for San Antonio because of an injured Center Artis Gilmore scored 23 to lead the Spurs:

The Spurs held a slim lead through most of the first quarter, but the Lakers' Bob McAdoo hit two 17-foot jumpers to give Los Angeles a

"Tonight was a game of dips and valleys. We made two very good runs at them San Antonio played well tonight, but our defense and rebounding really hurt them. James Worthy played one of his best games of the year. I could see it in his eyes before the game, that he was ready to play," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said.

Worthy scored 14 points and pulled down a game-high 13 rebounds for Los Angeles.

"It was a good game for me. My effort was good and three-point lead, 22-19, at the my concentration was good.

We didn't let down mentally tonight because the Spurs are still very explosive without Gervin," Worthy said. San Antonio guard John Lucas picked up his first "triple-double" of his career in the game. He scored 18 points, dished out 16 assists and grabbed 10 rebounds.

"To get a triple-double is not very rewarding when you lose," Lucas said. "What cost us the game was when our offense broke down in the fourth quarter and we had to force our shots.

Spurs Coach Bob Bass said the game was low scoring, but not by his design.

"We didn't execute our fast break tonight. When our offense breaks down, we have to free lance. But tonight, we just couldn't get a shot. Our passing game was not very good tonight," Bass said.

San Antonio forward Mike Mitchell scored six of his 17 points in the first two minutes of the fourth quarter to put the Spurs back into the lead at

79-78. But Magic Johnson and Jamaal Wilkes scored seven points each in the game's last five minutes to put the Lakers up by 16, 108-92, with less than a minute to play.

The loss was the fourth in a row for the Spurs, now 20-28. The Lakers extended their current win streak to six and are now 30-16.
