

White, Lewis, Hobby celebrate tax increase

AUSTIN (AP) — A tax bill to provide more money for public schools had just passed, and the shouts of joy were still echoing in the Capitol when Gov. Mark White told cheering spectators there was work still to do.

"This is not going to be a perfect (education) document," cautioned White as he stood in the glare of television lights. "And we must continue to work together to try to keep the emphasis on educational quality."

Thoughts of the future didn't curb Speaker Gib Lewis' enthusiasm, however, as he said, "Today is a great victory for all of us."

White, Lewis and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby used power and persuasion to push a $4.61 billion tax increase through the Legislature to pay for better highways and public school reform.

Final Senate approval came 22-9 in mid-afternoon Tuesday. The House followed in the evening, sending the bill to White on a 83-66 vote. The governor's signature will put it into law.

Many spectators, including a number of teachers, responded with cheers and applause when the tax bill was passed on the final day of a special legislative session.

"This has got to be one of the greatest days in the history of Texas," White exclaimed. "I feel about as good as I ever have."

The tax hike would be the first major increase since 1971. It was adopted after the governor insisted that legislators pay for the most extensive school reform in 35 years to reverse what he perceived as declining quality in public education.

White's power was felt when he apparently let it be known that failure to finish the tasks he had listed for the 30-day session would only result in his calling another session.

Legislators chose to approve a tax bill and spend today, the Fourth of July, on holiday.

All legislators, however, did not feel like celebrating.

"It's going to be difficult to explain a 0.125 sales tax on everybody. I'm sure everybody in here would like a pay increase. The teachers want one. I want one," said Rep. Jimmy Mankins, D-Kilgore. "The economy is not in shape at this time for this kind of an increase. But there's no particular hurry in this. It's hard on the working people."

Chairman Stan Schlueter of the House Ways and Means Committee said, "When we were going through the last regular (legislative) session, we all made a commitment... that we would come down here and put together a good, quality education package and fund a highway bill. I think we've done that."

"This bill will put $400 million new dollars into the highway system in the first year. It will put $800 million into education," said Schlueter, D-Killeen. He added that it also would provide money to equalize state aid to poor districts "and that's something we had no choice on."

Hobby was so delighted with the bill's passage that he hand-carried it to the House.

The joyous scene was a far cry from Monday night when the special session seemed on the brink of ending without a tax bill after House members had rejected Senate amendments to the original House measure.

On Tuesday, however, the $4.61 billion compromise surfaced that would cover $2.8 billion in education reform costs over three years, as well as paying for upgrading Texas' vast highway system.

The final tax proposal, worked out in Hobby's office by informal teams of negotiators from the House and Senate, would raise the state sales tax from 4 percent to 4.125 percent.

The new Texas taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Here, at a glance, are major provisions of the tax increase bill approved Tuesday by the Texas Legislature. It would raise $4.8 billion over the next three years to fund school reform and highway improvements.

MOTOR FUELS
— Increases motor fuel tax from 5 cents to 10 cents per gallon
— Hikes diesel fuel tax from 6.5 cents to 10 cents per gallon
— Boosts tax on liquefied petroleum gas used as motor fuel from five cents to 10 cents per gallon.

MOTOR VEHICLES
— Raises the motor vehicle sales and rental tax rate from 4 percent to 5 percent
— Changes computation of the motor vehicle registration fee from weight to model year. Fees for newer cars and trucks would be higher than for older models.

SALES TAX
— Raises the general state sales tax rate from 4 percent to 4.125 percent.

— Includes under the sales tax a variety of items and services, including: newspaper subscriptions and newsstand sales; magazine sales; amusement services such as movies and recreational activities; cable television; motor vehicle parking; repair and maintenance of some tangible property but not automobiles; computer software.

TOBACCO
— Increases the tax on cigarettes from 18.5 cents per pack to 20.5

cents per pack by 1986.
— Includes under the sales tax cigarettes, cigars, snuff, chewing tobacco and other tobacco products.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES
— Raises tax on liquor from $2 to $2.40 per gallon
— Hikes beer tax from $5 per 31-gallon barrel to $6
— Increases taxes on wine. For most table wine, tax would rise from 17 cents per gallon to 20.4 cents. For high-alcohol wines, tax would rise from 34 cents per gallon to 40.8 cents. For champagne, tax would rise from 43 cents per gallon to 51.5 cents.

— Increases from 16.5 cents per gallon to 19.8 cents the tax on ale and malt liquor.
— Raises the gross receipts tax on mixed drinks from 10 percent to 12 percent.

BUSINESS TAXES
— Raises corporate franchise tax from $4.25 per $1,000 of capital and surplus to $5.25 per $1,000.
— Requires banks to pay state corporate franchise tax. Repeals present bank stocks tax.
— Increases hotel-motel tax from 3 percent to 4 percent of room rate.

— Removes tax exemption on first-year insurance premiums.
— Doubles $15 annual tax paid by owners of coin-operated amusement machines.

COLLEGE TUITION
— Increases state college tuition for out-of-state and foreign students. Will raise $11 million for the 1986-87 fiscal years.

Americans observing gala 208th birthday

By RON SIRAK
Associated Press Writer

Forty thousand people joined voices in patriotic song today when Gatlinburg, Tenn., ushered in a "goose-bumpy" Independence Day as Americans from the largest city to the smallest country town prepared to celebrate the nation's 208th star-spangled birthday.

Precisely at 12:01 a.m., as it has since the gala bicentennial celebration in 1976, Gatlinburg got the jump on the rest of America with what it bills as the nation's first Fourth of July parade.

"The final float covered the entire four-lane street," said parade organizer George Hawkins. "It just barely made it under the traffic light. As the float came by people started singing patriotic songs. It was just real goose bumpy."

About 40,000 people lined the streets of the community of 3,500 in a parade longer than the entire four-mile length of the town, police Capt. Robbie Fox said.

Celebrations were planned across the country, including a special observance in New York City. There the Statue of Liberty, the great lady who has welcomed wave after wave of immigrants fleeing tyranny and chasing freedom, was to have its torch removed as part of a $230 million restoration project.

Hundreds of thousands of people were expected to jam the shores of the Charles River in Boston tonight to hear the Boston Pops Orchestra pay musical tribute to America.

The nation's capital braced for a rocking birthday celebration at the Washington Monument highlighted

County official may forfeit pay

RICHMOND, Texas (AP) — A former county commissioner will owe Fort Bend County two years' worth of wages if a state attorney general's ruling holds.

Alton Pressley resigned his position on a municipal utility board in April when questions arose about his holding that job at the same time he was a county combining some good old-fashioned politicking today with the thrills of high-speed auto racing by joining an expected crowd of 70,000 people at the Firecracker 400 stock car race in Daytona Beach, Fla. The trip kicks off a three-day campaign trip for the president through some key Southern states.

"America still has much to celebrate on this day — unity and affection, prosperity and freedom," Reagan told the nation in his Fourth of July message.

"No one emigrates to Cuba or jumps over the wall into East Berlin," the president said. "Those who look for freedom seek sanctuary here."

In Moscow, the Soviet Union extended congratulations and "wishes of prosperity" on the day. But Soviet officials refused permission for U.S. Ambassador Arthur Hartman to give a televised speech.

The state attorney general's office said June 12 that under state law certain officials who file to run for elected office, such as for utility district boards, forfeit their county post if they have more than one year left in office.

If the ruling holds, Pressley would owe the county $70,000.

The Senate vote

Building here down in June

By LARRY HOLLIS
Staff Writer

Valuation of buildings issued permits by the city's Department of Building Inspection showed a decline for June, with yearly totals running about $3 million behind last year.

The city issued 29 building permits last month with a total valuation of $970,094, about $343,000 less than the $1,313,097 valuation for 33 permits in May.

In June, 1983, valuation of 27 buildings receiving permits was $1,271,860.50, according to Steve Vaughn, chief building inspector.

Total valuation for the fiscal year to date is $10,147,232, compared with $13,256,428 for the same 1982-1983 period. Calendar year to date totals are $7,042,743, compared with $10,014,825 for the first half of 1983.

The city collected $1,934 in building permit fees last month, a drop of more than $1,200 from the $3,177.18 in fees for last June. Total building permit fees for the fiscal year to date are $21,153,68, about $3,000 less than the $24,127.25 collected in the same 1982-1983 period. For the first half of the calendar year, fees total $16,388.68.

Buildings issued permits last month included six single family dwellings, valuation of $494,344; one relocation, $2,000; six mobile homes, $102,500; one miscellaneous building, $267,000; 13 alterations or additions to dwellings, $69,250; and one alteration-addition to a commercial building, $35,000, Vaughn reported.

The department issued 18 electrical permits in June for fees of $394.10. In May the city issued 28 permits, collecting $756.24. Seventeen electrical permits were issued in June, 1983, with fees of $285.34.

The city has collected $5,679.27 in fees for 163 electrical permits for the fiscal year to date, compared with 207 permits and $3,865.80 in fees for the same period for the previous fiscal year. For the current calendar year, the department has issued 126 permits, collecting $4,955.40 in fees.

Twenty-two plumbing permits were issued last month, with fees of $523.70, a decrease from the 48 permits and $1,008.89 in fees for May. In June, 1983, the city issued 26 plumbing permits, collecting $419.47 in fees.

For the fiscal year to date, the city has issued 324 plumbing permits and collected fees of $7,929.14. For the same period in fiscal 1982-1983, the department issued 382 permits and collected $5,885.70 in fees. The city has issued 222 permits for the first half of this year, receiving fees of $5,293.62.

Total of all fees and fines for June was $2,956.80, about $2,000

Groom won't add new water customers outside city limits

BY CATHY SPAULDING
 Staff Writer

GROOM - City officials edged closer to getting state funding for water improvements, but residents living outside the city limits will no longer be able to share the water.
 The Groom City Council voted Tuesday to deny water service to people living outside the city limits. Four council members - the three others were absent - unanimously passed the motion after discussing whether to allow water service to homeowners north of Interstate 40 who live outside the city.
 City secretary Pat Ashford said that a special meeting was held earlier in June to "give the people involved a chance to talk about sharing the cost of putting the line under the interstate."

 She said that few people showed up.

"I don't feel we should be responsible for furnishing water to anyone outside the city," said council member Bob Babcock, who called for the ordinance. He added that the ordinance should not apply to outsiders who are already on Groom water lines.

"We have enough problems taking care of what we have," one councilman said.
 Referring to what he thought could be an extra burden on the city's aging water system, Mayor Alfred Homer said "I'd hate to loose our state approved water system while I'm mayor."

Ashford said earlier that the city is seeking to improve its aging water system, most of which dates from the 1920s, she says. Earlier this year, the Texas Department of Health inspected the city water system and ruled that the 50,000 gallon underground tank and the elevated 50,000 tank do not provide enough water for the town of 736 people.

If approved, the state grant will pay for a 200,000 ground level storage tank, which could cost about $200,000.

A review committee with the Texas DCA will meet July 17 at the Texas A & M Service Center in Amarillo to review Groom's request. The request is among 30 funding requests from towns throughout the Panhandle. Other area towns seeking the state funding include Pampa, Borger and McLean. Total allocation for the Panhandle region is about $1,369,000, according to a spokesperson for the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission which is processing the state grant applications for area communities.

In addition to a boost in its storage, city water facilities area in for a paint job. Council members discussed renewing a contract to clean and paint the city's water tanks. Ashford said that the city must make a decision by November.

In other business, Groom city officials discovered that they may be able to set a lower tax rate this year. Ashford told the council members that because of increased property values in the area, the tax rate can be set at 68 cents per $100 assessment for 1984. The 1983 tax rate was 80 cents per $100.

Council members met in executive session to discuss city employee salaries for the upcoming fiscal year, but made no decision on the salaries. Ashford told the council that she needed to know about the salary rate so that she can compute the budget for FY 1984. She told the board that she also needed information about allocation for sewer and street repair and whether the city will be using Revenue Sharing funds.

City officials also agreed to increase group accident insurance coverage for volunteer fire fighters. Insurance representative John Brumley also told council members that they should look into getting an attorney or some sort of legal representation.

Lefors meet set

LEFORS - Trustees of the Lefors Independent School District will have a special called meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday to consider the resignation of Lefors High School Principal Allen Jenkins.

In other business, the school board members will consider applicants for the principal position and meet in executive session.

Mondale to meet Cisneros after session with Jackson

NORTH OAKS, Minn. (AP) - Walter F. Mondale returns to the question of a vice presidential choice today as he interviews San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros after crossing "a significant threshold" to Democratic Party unity in a successful meeting with rival Jesse Jackson.
 Cisneros, 37, the first Hispanic to make Mondale's public list of possible running mates, was meeting with Mondale today at his home in this Minneapolis-St. Paul suburb.
 Mondale aides say they are confident the Democratic National Convention will not be marked by divisive fights after his two-hour meeting with Jackson over lunch Tuesday in Kansas City.

 Jackson talked about the vice presidency with Mondale, the likely Democratic presidential nominee, and gave him a list of black and Hispanic women Jackson said should be considered.
 After their conciliatory session, Jackson said he would support a ticket with Sen. Gary Hart as the vice presidential nominee if he is Mondale's choice.
 And despite his own suggestions for a vice presidential nominee, Jackson said there was "some objective basis" to conclude that Hart would be the strongest running mate for Mondale because of his showing in the presidential primaries.

 "Gary Hart proved that he could win votes in vital areas of the country. Many of the women who are being recommended represent to me a broadening of the base. But objectively, the polls showed they could not compare with Gary Hart, for example, as a vote-getter," Jackson said.
 Mondale's campaign manager, Robert Beckel, said important progress was made during Mondale's meeting with Jackson.

Air Florida halts operations, leaves passengers stranded

MIAMI (AP) - Air Florida, forced by massive debts to abruptly ground its planes and lay off all 1,200 employees, leaving hundreds of passengers stranded, is working on a "definitive plan" that may have it flying again soon, a spokeswoman said.
 The Miami-based airline halted operations and filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act on Tuesday, forcing surprised passengers to scramble to make other travel arrangements.
 "I have no money to buy a new ticket," said Dana Bernadel, a young Haitian woman who was stuck at Miami International Airport on her way to New York. "I don't know what I'm going to do. They (Air Florida) told me Eastern would accept my ticket, but Eastern says no."

 By late Tuesday, nine other airlines, including Pan Am, Eastern and Delta, had agreed to honor Air Florida tickets under certain conditions. The Miami Herald reported today.
 Air Florida officials did not know how many customers on the airline's approximately 75 daily flights were affected by the grounding of the carrier's 11 jetliners, said spokeswoman Robin Cohn. The airline served 35 cities in 13 countries, primarily in the Caribbean and Central America.

 Although the airline terminated all employees, some ticket clerks planned to work today to help passengers book flights on other airlines, said Scott Eyers, manager of Air Florida departure services in Miami.
 The grounding marked the third collapse of a major U.S. carrier since the industry was deregulated in 1978. Braniff International and Continental Airlines sought protection in bankruptcy court, and both have returned to the air.
 In the last three years, Air Florida posted net losses of $134.8 million and recorded a net loss of $8.4 million in the first quarter of 1984.

Building permits

less than the $4,972.31 collected in May. Last June the city collected total fees of $2,900.31.
 For the current fiscal period the city has collected total fees and fines of $37,172.09, about $1,200 more than the $35,940.75 total for the previous fiscal year period. Total for the calendar year to date is $27,792.70, Vaughn reported.
 Department personnel conducted 91 building inspections last month, down from the 130 inspections in May but up from the 77 conducted in June, 1983. Total building inspections for the fiscal year period are 597, up from the 489 for the previous fiscal year period. Calendar year totals are 450.

Personnel made 58 inspections of electrical work in June, down slightly from the 62 in May and up slightly from the 56 in June, 1983. The city reported a total of 390 electrical inspections for the fiscal year to date, nearly equal to the 391 for the 1982-1983 fiscal year period. For the first half of this year, 265 inspections have been made.
 Plumbing inspections totaled 70 in June, compared with 104 in May and 84 in June, 1983. For the fiscal year to date, department personnel have made 707 plumbing inspections, compared with 764 inspections in the previous 1982-1983 period. For the first half of this year, personnel have conducted 475 inspections.

 The city conducted 30 miscellaneous inspections in June, compared with 41 in May and 21 in June, 1983. Total miscellaneous inspections are 316 for the fiscal year period and 188 for the calendar year to date. Personnel made 225 miscellaneous inspections for the comparable 1982-1983 fiscal year period.
 Violations and complaints received by the department last month included open sewers, zoning complaints, a gas leak, a blocked alley and a fence on the city right of way.

Businesses will buy water to improve area recreation

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (AP) — A group of Guadalupe River merchants, impatient with the lack of rain that has dwindled the river and springs, say they will pay $5,400 for 100 acres-feet of water to be released from Canyon Lake this weekend.

Betty Walls, president of the Lower Guadalupe Business Association and manager of a canoe-rental store, said Tuesday businesses were not going to wait for possible rain to bring relief.

"To keep the river industry alive and tourism, we need to look at these purchases at this time," Ms. Walls said.

She said water would probably start being released from Canyon Dam late Friday and would continue through midday Sunday. She said the river flow should then be enough for canoes and tubers.

A total of 500 acre-feet of water from Canyon Dam is available for recreational use, and Ms. Walls said merchants were looking into the possibility of buying even more water from the lake during the summer.

The dry weather has reduced the Comal and Guadalupe rivers, both focal points of tourist activity in the area. Businesses along the rivers said they did not know what to expect for the Fourth of July holiday today.

"Our motel is booked, and the condominiums are about three-fourths filled," said Rusty Brandt, manager of Camp Warnecke. "In the way of daily business, I'm not sure what to anticipate."

He said since Independence Day falls in the middle of the week, the crowd is not expected to be that big anyway.

While the rapids are down, there still is enough water for people to go tubing, he said. "You can still float without dragging bottom," Brandt said.

The dwindling Comal Springs in New Braunfels prompted city officials to ask residents to comply with a one-day strict water conservation effort that lasted until midnight Monday.

The so-called experiment, dubbed "C-Day" for Conservation Day, was hailed an "overwhelming success" by city officials who said consumption dropped 30 percent.

Results were so positive that a spokesman for the Edwards Underground Water District, which provides water to New Braunfels residents and about 1 million others, said the district's board may recommend a similar effort throughout the area.

"There may be a time in a week or two that we will need to put an emphasis again on conservation," said Thomas Fox, general manager of the 100-mile Edwards Aquifer district.

New Braunfels residents are asked not to water their lawns, wash their cars, take long showers or fill their swimming pools and hot tubs. Restaurants were asked to serve water only on request.

During the 24-hour period, consumption dropped three million gallons compared to the daily average in June, utility officials said.

Woman 'dying' of allergies is listed in stable condition

BEDFORD, Texas (AP) — Parents of a Canadian woman suffering from allergies so severe that she hallucinated after eating organic carrots say they hope doctors care can cure their daughter's unusual disease.

Sandra Stronge, 24, was listed in stable condition Tuesday night at the Northeast Community Hospital, where she was flown in Monday afternoon by the Canadian government.

Miss Stronge, who has been unable to eat for more than two weeks, will be gradually exposed to a wide range of food so her tolerance level can be determined, said associate hospital administrator Rob Martin. He said Ms. Stronge will probably be hospitalized for at least two weeks.

Miss Stronge suffers from "environmental sensitivity," or "20th century disease," a condition so extreme that her mail is aired on a clothesline for 48 hours so the ink fumes won't cause a reaction, her parents say. She is allergic to both chemicals and foods.

Miss Stronge last ate 15 days ago, said her mother, Shirley Stronge.

After eating organic carrots, her daughter "started seeing orange. It was really frightening at the time," Mrs. Stronge said.

Mrs. Stronge said at a news conference Tuesday that her daughter was brought to Texas with the help of the Canadian government because "she was dying."

The parents said that the 5½-hour flight in a private plane from Oshawa, Ontario, was arduous for their daughter, who has been drinking only spring water for two weeks because she could not tolerate food.

"She was exposed to a lot of chemicals on the trip," said her father, David Stronge.

The 17-bed environmental care unit here is one of five such units in the United States. The hospital was built without varnished or plastic objects that emit fumes and has systems that filter air and water to 99 percent purity.

"When we leave, we'll have a whole lot of new tools and new information," her mother said. "Hopefully Sandra's immune system will begin to rebuild itself, but this takes five to seven years."

Mrs. Strong said Sandra first became ill three years ago, but that it took doctors a long time to diagnose the problem as an allergic reaction.

"It can literally make a person crazy," Mrs. Strong said.

She said her daughter requires constant care and at home must stay in a room equipped with special filters to purify the air. Mrs. Stronge said she has watched her daughter go from a sociable athletic college student to a recluse.

Session's outcome pleases governor

AUSTIN (AP) — It took all 30 days of the special legislative session he called, but Gov. Mark White was delighted to get what he wanted from lawmakers — sweeping school reform and a tax increase.

"This has got to be one of the best days in the history of Texas," White said Tuesday night as the House and Senate ended the session by passing a $4.8 billion tax hike to fund education reform and highway improvements.

"I feel about as good as I have ever felt in my life," White said. "We are going to have one of the best education reform programs and one of the best financing measures that we have ever had in Texas."

House Speaker Gib Lewis said that at the outset of the session June 4, many people didn't believe the action White sought was possible.

"I think we addressed a very difficult subject, and many people said it couldn't be done. Of course, we proved it could be done," he said.

"I learned with the cooperation of the gov and the lieutenant governor and the speaker, that's a pretty powerful force that can pretty well move mountains if you have to," Lewis said.

The school reforms grew out of a year-long study by the Select Committee on Public Education, headed by Dallas businessman H. Ross Perot. Perot said Tuesday he also was pleased with the reform bill and tax package.

Also praising the school reforms were officials of a trio of high-technology companies, who said the education reform would improve Texas' image nationwide.

It was "far-sighted legislation which takes the Texas public education system a significant step toward becoming one of the finest in the nation," said Bobby R. Inman, president of the Austin-based Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corp.

The president of Lockheed's Missiles, Space and Electronic Systems group, Robert A. Fuhrman, said the bill would continue the growth of high-tech industry in Texas.

Jacksons Dallas visit said soldout

DALLAS (AP) — Promoters of the Jacksons' Victory Tour have announced a sellout of the 117,000 seats they said are available for the July 13-15 concerts at Texas Stadium.

However, the announcement was quickly challenged by local officials in the promotion and advertising industries.

"It's a total fabrication," said Stan Allen, marketing director for Rainbow-Ticketmaster in Dallas.

"Look at the logistics. First they announce there's going to be 43,000 seats per concert. That's 129,000. Then, today, they announce it sold out at 117,000. How much do you think they pumped that figure up? They can announce it sold out at 15,000 if they want to. It just depends how much they're willing to eat."

The announcement of a sellout came Tuesday from the Howard Bloom Organization in New York.

The fact that only about 12,000 money orders for tickets were sold in the Dallas-Fort Worth area failed to accurately reflect response to the concert, said spokeswoman Ellen Golden, because ticket orders for the Dallas concert also were received from Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

However, the Dallas Times Herald reported today that its canvass of major newspapers in those states located only one major newspaper — the San Antonio Light — that carried the coupon required for ordering tickets to the Texas Stadium shows.

Newspapers in Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Little Rock and New Orleans said they had not run the coupon and did not intend to, the Times Herald said.

Fireworks crackdown nets results

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston fire officials are cracking down on illegal use of Fourth of July fireworks with a record number of citations, including one confiscation worth $30,000.

Houston chief fire inspector Dan Pruitt said 137 tickets had been issued so far compared to only 23 for the 1983 holiday period.

Two men, carrying $30,000 worth of fireworks, were stopped on Texas 6 near the Katy Freeway and told authorities they did not realize they were in the city limits, Pruitt said.

Houston firefighters have seized an estimated $37,500 in fireworks since they started watching for violators on June 24, Pruitt said.

Firemen keep a close watch on the 400 to 500 fireworks stands in Harris County, where it is legal to sell and discharge fireworks. Authorities stop residents they see crossing into the city limits with fireworks.

It is a Class C misdemeanor to bring fireworks into the city limits. The offense carries a maximum fine of $200. Many of those stopped are not charged, Pruitt said, because they are juveniles.

Ticketing has increased this year, however, and persons are more likely to receive the stiffer $200 fine if it is learned that they intended to sell, rather than discharge, the explosives.

"They're citing more people this year than in the past," District Fire Chief Wayne Collins said. "They're concerned about the dry conditions we've experienced in the past few months."

Inspectors bagged $117,000 worth of fireworks in 1981, Pruitt said, but only 47 persons were cited. Pruitt said the high number of fireworks for 1981 included the arrests of more "carriers" or fireworks dealers, inside the city limits.

Raul G. Perez, 31, one of those cited this year, says he doesn't think he should be fined for being caught with less than $3 worth of fireworks.

"I had a couple of sparklers for my kids," Perez said. "They'd better not fine me for anything. I could see it if I had firecrackers or something dangerous like that. But a little package of sparklers."

Perez said it also is hard to determine the city limits in some areas.

Government effect, not cause

BY LEONARD P. LIGGIO

Two hundred years ago, the thirteen American states were celebrating their first full year of peace and independence. They had recently formed a constitutional system of government assimilating many different confederations, including the Dutch Seven Provinces and the Six Nations of the Iroquois.

The American colonists had formed several congresses before finally assembling the Continental Congress in 1774, to protest the British government's attempts to impose undue taxes and trade restrictions. The Continental Congress was formed without much concern for a formal constitution, for the shared philosophy and the shared goals of the rebels made it almost unnecessary.

As immigrants and settlers, the colonists had created a new civilization characterized by self-reliance, self-responsibility, and self-initiative. When at least they had the time to formulate and ratify the Articles of Confederation, the new constitution embodied the practices they had followed habitually as self-governing individuals.

The American Constitution has been copied in philosophy and in form by many other countries for two hundred years. Most have not made a success of their emulation. What other nations have failed to understand is that our government and our constitution are the final stages of a social process, not the beginning. A government cannot create a good polity, much less a good economy or a virtuous society; a good government is the result of these things.

Rather than examining the two centuries that preceded the American Constitution, our admirers copy the Constitution itself - a mere piece of paper - and cannot understand why they do not have the success and prosperity that we have had. America is great, not because of the Constitution, but because of the basic values that the Constitution reflects.

We have developed the society most free of government regulation, controls, and taxes and, therefore, the society with the highest degree of private ownership. Hopeful immigrants came from all over Europe in the colonial period, from Germany, from England and Wales, from Scotland and Ireland. Success, beyond anything dreamed of in Europe, came to all with self-initiative and self-responsibility.

Later, the Americans revolted against government attempts to control their trade with the rest of the world. The matchless prosperity of unregulated American farms led to trade with countries throughout the Atlantic and Mediterranean. Although the colonists did not seek to export to the Far East (they were forbidden to do so by the British government, which had granted a monopoly to the English East India Company), they wanted the right to buy cheaper tea from any merchant, regardless of his country.

The British government's attempt to enforce the purchase of tea from the East India Company monopoly led to the Boston Tea Party, then to the military occupation of Boston to collect taxes, and eventually to the Declaration of Independence. The Americans did succeed in trading with China; 1984 marks the two hundredth anniversary of the sailing of the first American ship to the Far East, the Empress of China, reflecting American independence from government monopoly trading.

The creation of an economy almost free from controls, regulation, and taxation is the first step to a free society. The nations around the world that copy American governmental forms and practices are aping the effect, not the cause.

The success of our Constitution has stood on the shoulders of the millions of Americans of each generation who have pursued their individual interests without infringing on others' rights. With that experience behind us, government forms are secondary - an important lesson on July 4th.

Liggio is the president for the Institute for Humane Studies in Menlo Park, Calif.

Congress' action will curb growth

Let's get one thing straight about the $50 billion tax bill Congress is in the midst of passing. It has nothing to do with fiscal responsibility, deficits and interest rates - at least not in any constructive way. It is a means to get more money so that Congress can spend more. And nothing else.

Consider a few of the provisions in the tax bill approved by a House-Senate conference committee.

Perhaps its worst feature is the repeal of a law set to go into effect next year that would have increased the amount - to $450 - of earned interest that could be exempted from the tax man by individual taxpayers. The higher exemption would have encouraged more savings, thus increasing the "savings pool" and exerting downward pressure on interest rates.

The same can be said for the conference committee's refusal to accept a Senate plan to allow a non-wage-earning spouse to set aside $2,000 in an individual retirement account, which exempts the money from taxation. This, too, would have enlarged the amount of savings in this country, making more money available for investment.

The conferees voted to tighten depreciation laws governing business equipment and real estate. The stricter laws will make it more difficult for businesses to modernize and expand plants and machinery. Along with an increase in the corporate tax approved by the committee, the new depreciation laws will cut into corporate cash flow. This will require more businesses to enter the credit markets to make ends meet, exerting upward pressure on interest rates.

What this all means is that many members of Congress love to talk about "cutting the deficit" and "getting interest rates down," but they apparently could not care less about the real world impact of what they are doing.

The $50 million tax bill has nothing to do with lower interest rates. Its anti-savings, anti-investment, anti-profits bias will probably bring in some extra cash to the Treasury, at least for a while, but it will also curb economic growth, raise the cost of money and ultimately bring on larger deficits than we otherwise would have had if congressional leaders had not burdened us with their fiscal double talk.

Today in History

Today is Wednesday, July 4, the 186th day of 1984. There are 180 days left in the year. Today is Independence Day.

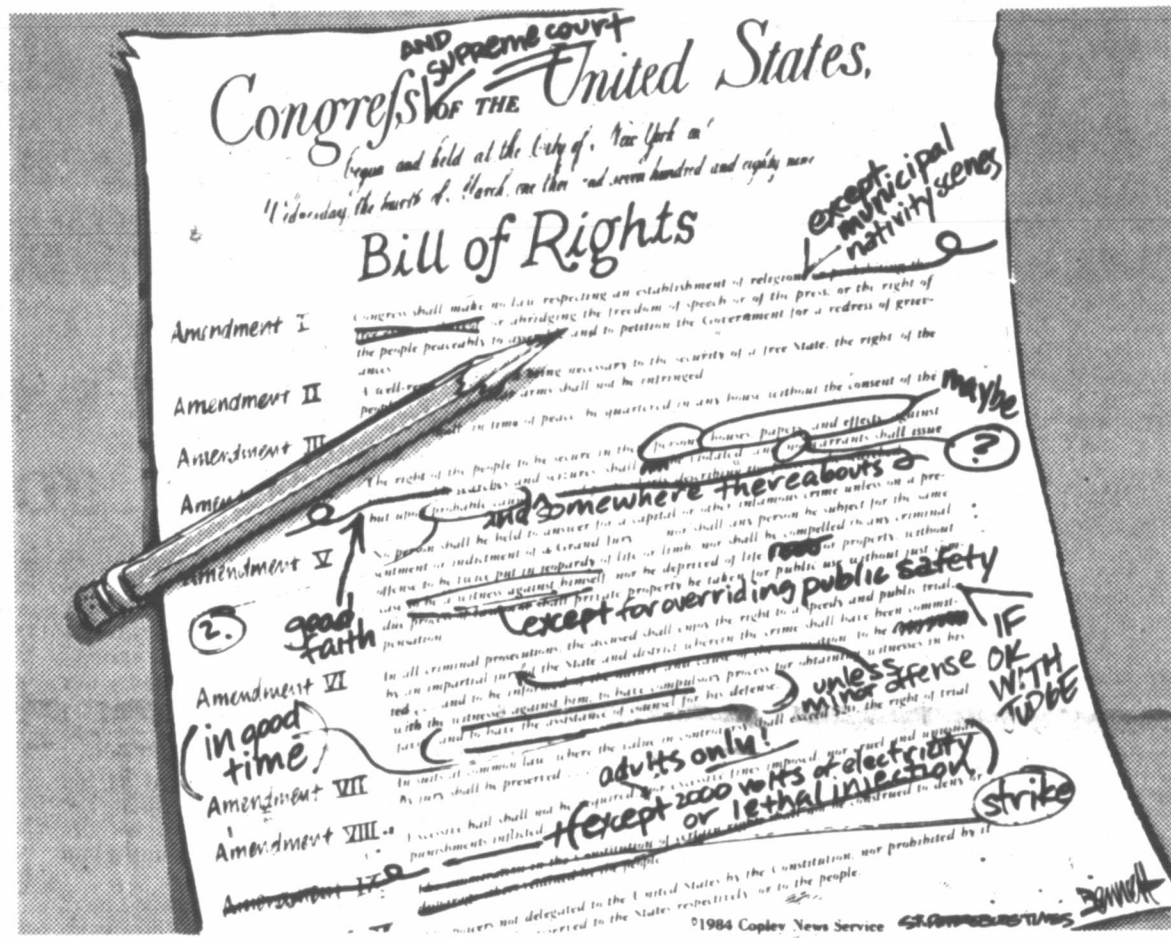

Today's highlight in history: On July 4, 1776, the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence.

On this date: Ten years ago: Two Soviet cosmonauts orbited the Earth, then entered the "Salyut Three" space lab after linking their spacecraft with the orbiting space station.

Five years ago: The White House announced that President Jimmy Carter had abruptly canceled plans for a nationwide speech on energy scheduled for July 5.

One year ago: New York Yankees pitcher Dave Righetti pitched the Yankees' first no-hitter in 27 years as New York beat the Boston Red Sox 4-0 at Yankee Stadium.

Thought for today: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness..." - The Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson (1743-1826).

The Michael Jackson tour

The trouble all started when I told my wife's sister that I had been taken to the Orlando airport by the same chauffeur who had driven Michael Jackson the previous week.

My sister - in - law apparently got the story mixed up and told her 15 - year - old daughter I had driven Michael Jackson to the airport.

The next day I got a call from my niece, "Uncle Arthur, I have to go to the Michael Jackson concert or I'm going to die."

"I'm sorry to hear that," I said. "Mommy said you know him personally."

"I don't know him personally," I said. "I told your mother I met the man who took him to the airport from Disney World."

"What's he like?" "He's a very good chauffeur."

"I don't mean him. I mean Michael Jackson." "I've never met Michael Jackson."

"Please, Uncle Arthur. I'll never ask anything from you ever. This is the most important thing I'll ever do in my whole life. I told all my friends you knew Michael Jackson and you'd get us seats. I'll never be able to show my face again if you can't get us into his concert."

"How many friends did you promise?" "Just 20."

"I have no idea how to get seats. I swear it." "The next day I got a call from her father. "What the hell did you say to Lilly?"

"I told her the truth. I don't know Michael Jackson. What's wrong?"

"She doesn't believe you. She's gone on a hunger strike, until you come up with the tickets."

"I can't get her any tickets," I said. "Look, I have friends at the Department of Interior. I can arrange for her to see the Beach Boys on the Mall on the Fourth of July. But that's as far as my musical connections go."

"You're one rotten person," he said and hung up.

That night I heard from the doctor who was trying to get Lilly to eat.

He was speaking in a low voice. "One of my patients tells me you saved Michael Jackson's life in Orlando."

"I can't get Lilly any seats for a concert," I said.

"I wasn't calling about her. I'm trying to get some for my kids. I'll give you a hundred dollars a ticket, no questions asked."

"I don't have any tickets." "Okay, $200. But that's my final offer."

"I'm not scalping tickets. If you want to get Lilly well persuade her I've never met Michael Jackson in my life."

"That doesn't solve my problem. I already told my kids I knew someone who could get them tickets. What do I do now?"

"You better call a doctor."

Apparently the word had spread all over town. One friend said, "I hear you're booking the Michael Jackson tour. I'll trade you my Mercedes Benz for a box at RFK stadium."

"I don't even know if he's playing RFK stadium."

"I get it. You don't want anyone to know you're financing the tour. Your secret will die with me. But this is serious. If I don't get my banker a box for his kids, he's going to call in the loan on a shopping center I'm building in Seven Corners."

"I can't help you," I said.

"Thanks, rat. I won't forget this."

The final call came from a friend at the Pentagon who is developing a new super death ray that can wipe out an army with one zap.

He was desperate. "You have to get me a pair of tickets to the Jackson concert or my 13 - year - old son will kill me."

When utopianism goes wild

One of the basic confusions among liberal utopians is the mixup of wants and needs. Every motorist may want a Cadillac, but that doesn't mean he needs one or that the federal government should provide each citizen with the luxury car of his choice.

I was reminded of this in reading a news account of a statement made by Mayor Richard Fulton of Nashville, Tenn., in an appearance before the Democratic National Platform Committee. Mr. Fulton appeared in his capacity as the outgoing president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Mayor Fulton's plea was for more federal money for cities, a plea that has become standard for mayors these days. They look to Washington to finance local government to the maximum degree possible. "The federal government," he said, "must assure that the basic necessities of life - food, shelter and health care - are met." A mayor's job, one would gather, consists largely of handing out federal goodies, including free cheese and other commodities.

I was struck most forcefully by Mayor Fulton's statement that every American "must have an opportunity to live in a decent home, in a neighborhood of their choice, at an affordable price." He urged the federal government to promote rent subsidies and new construction and preservation of existing lower income housing.

Well, that's an astonishing statement, true utopianism. Certainly, one hopes that every citizen will have a decent home, but the attainment of that is an individual's responsibility.

Over the years, the federal government has built hundreds of thousands of federal housing units, only to have the occupants turn them into dens of vice and crime. In St. Louis, Mo., a model federal housing apartment had to be dynamited by the authorities because it was unsafe and beyond repair.

The high rise public housing in Chicago is notorious as a crime center. In Mayor Fulton's city, many of these same conditions prevail in public housing. The tenants who try to maintain the public properties are swamped by far more numerous tenants who abuse the housing rented to them at minimum cost. In short, public housing is a national scandal. The taxpayers, who provide such housing, are victimized.

Nevertheless, Mayor Fulton wants more of the same.

Liberal politicians, however, have sought in the past 20 years to place public housing for welfare recipients in middle class communities as an exercise in social engineering. Is this what Mayor Fulton has in mind? If so, it is a social policy that is opposed, and properly so by the people who pay the taxes in a city. It is utopianism gone wild.

Court's ruling on Jaycees warning to male-only groups

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court ruling expected to help women use the Jaycees as many men do — to advance their careers and develop professional alliances — also could spark a spate of challenges to the male-only status of other groups.

"I'm ecstatic," said Judith Avner, an attorney for the National Organization for Women Legal Defense Fund. "The decision sends out a signal. It may have an impact beyond what the decision itself says."

The court ruled 7-0 Tuesday in a Minnesota case that the Jaycees, dedicated to developing America's future leaders, can be forced by states to admit women as full members.

At its national headquarters in Tulsa, Okla., the Jaycees said it quickly will allow women to join chapters in Minnesota and possibly in other states as well.

Jaycees executive vice president Sam Willits said the ruling may affect all 7,000 chapters in the 64-year-old organization. There are nearly 300,000 members now, men ages 18 to 35.

The impact on other groups is less clear because the ruling is based on a finding that the Jaycees is "a public accommodation" subject to a Minnesota law that bans discrimination by public accommodations.

The court suggested, for example, that the Kiwanis International is a "private" organization — not a public accommodation. But since the court provided no checklist on which groups could be covered by such guidelines it likely will mean many more lawsuits to sort out the impact.

Some groups contend that the ruling will not affect them.

G.H. Zitzelberger, secretary of Kiwanis International, said his group "meets all the requirements of a private organization" with the right "to select members as it chooses."

Philip Lacovora, representing the Boy Scouts, said he was pleased that the court recognized distinctions between various membership groups and that not all automatically qualify as public accommodations.

Some 40 states have public accommodations laws and more than half include sex as one of the categories where discrimination is forbidden.

Tuesday's ruling apparently will not lead to new federal anti-bias cases since the 1964 Civil Rights Act does not bar public accommodations from discriminating according to gender.

Movie house accepts credit cards to purchase tickets

DALLAS (AP) — Movie-goers who grow weary of waiting in long lines outside theaters may be able in the future to purchase their tickets with credit cards — thanks to an automated system dubbed "The Agent."

Jeff Schnabel, vice president of operations for the Texas division of American Multi-Cinema Inc., said the automated teller is the first of its kind in the world. "For now, The Agent is just an experiment," Schnabel said.

The system, the invention of a Dallas-based electronics company, Agent Systems, was implemented at the Prestonwood 5 Theaters in mid-April and is being tested for cost effectiveness and public acceptance, Schnabel said.

"I can't measure if the number of movie-goers has increased. A lot has to do with the movie selection. It's just too early to tell right now," he said.

The system resembles an automatic teller banking machine and works by running a VISA or MasterCard through a slot, which in turn lights up a screen indicating the movies showing at the theater.

By touching the screen, customers can select the movie and number of tickets they want. The tickets are dispensed immediately and the stub serves as the transaction receipt.

Credit-card users are charged the same ticket price as those paying cash.

Guy Gamble, the theater's manager, said he didn't think the system had increased sales. He says more viewers take advantage of credit card sales on the weekends.

"They (customers) are not going to go across town to use the machine," Gamble said. "It's not a draw."

Rick King, the assistant division operations manager for American Multi-Cinema, said between 5 and 15 percent of the theater's patrons have been using the machine.

Ronda Dillard, a graduate student at the University of Texas at Dallas, said she used the machine when she was low on cash and to avoid the long lines.

"It's nice to use your credit card when you're low on cash and won't get billed until next month," she said.

Bill McCann said he didn't know the machine existed but would use it in the future.

"If there's a line, I'd use it in a second," the self-employed Dallas resident said.

McCann, however, says he is pessimistic about purchasing tickets in advance.

"Sometimes using the machine is still not an advantage to buying tickets early," he said. "You risk not sitting together and still have to stand in line to get in."

Rich Flaten, a commercial real estate agent for Hank Dickerson & Co. of Dallas, said the system had not lured him to the theater but would consider using the system if the lines were long.

Real estate developer Carlos Fonts said he was not aware the machine existed but would be willing to use it. Fonts, who said he goes to the movies twice a week, said he would use the machine when he was low in cash and didn't have time to cash a check.

Residents of Austin neighborhood are angry with police over rapes

AUSTIN (AP) — Residents of a North Austin neighborhood are angry because police didn't warn them that a rapist had attacked six women in the area in the last month.

Police arrested 30-year-old Gary Wayne Polson over the weekend after discovering a photograph of a bound-and-gagged rape victim in his sports car.

Polson was charged with burglary and attempted rape following an investigation into a string of early morning attacks. He is in police custody in lieu of $150,000 bond.

Residents of the Crestview neighborhood say they would have taken extra precautions if they had known a rapist was stalking the area.

"I think there will be a lot of people who are going to be upset about not being told about it," said Laurie Jans.

"My first reaction when I read it was, 'My God. Why didn't I know about it?' I would have been more cautious had I known," said Linda Phillips, a Crestview resident.

"People have a right to know when there's a rapist loose in their neighborhoods."

Police said they are sympathetic to the resident's concerns, but said they could not have warned residents without tipping the attacker that they were tracking him.

Polson, owner of Chemco carpet cleaning company, was placed under surveillance last week after the sixth rape.

Police investigating as many as 25 rapes said photographs of a number of the victims were found in Polson's north Austin home.

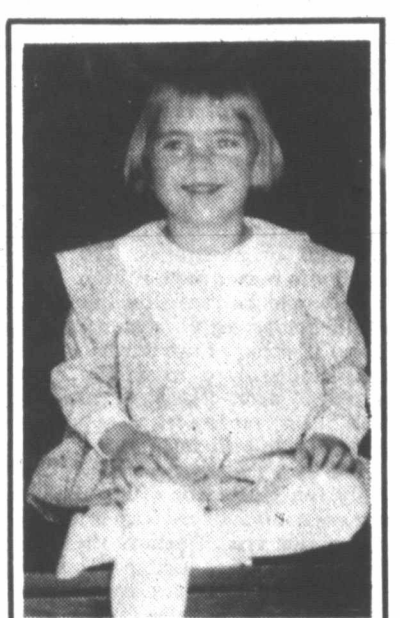

Polson's arrest followed a week-long stakeout of a neighborhood in which there had been six rapes since May 27, police said.

All of the rapes had taken place in the early morning. The rapist broke into the victims' houses, threatened them with a knife, and assaulted them. The victims were bound and their mouths were taped, investigators said.

"Part of our battle is trying to figure out the best strategy in fighting these attacks," said Lt. Bob Jasek, head of the Austin Police Department Sex Crimes Unit.

Refreshing frosty fruit sippers

One of the best ways to find relief from summer's heat is to sip something tall and cool. Even if you spend the day in air conditioning, just looking out the window at a heavy, hot haze can be enough to bring on a yen for an icy cooler.

Refreshing summer sippers are often based on fruits of the season. When they're frothy, full-flavored and briskly blended in almost no time, they're ideal warm-weather snacks, desserts or mealtime accompaniments.

Frosty Fruit Shake is a hot new bumper-crop cooler to make in a trio of favorite fruit flavors — seasonal strawberry, peach perfection or year 'round banana. Whirled up in seconds from just three ingredients plus fruit at its peak of ripeness, the rich, lightly-sweet taste and just-right sipping consistency are achieved by using marshmallow creme.

FROSTY FRUIT SHAKE

- 1½ c. milk
- 1 (7 oz.) jar marshmallow creme
- 1 c. ice cubes
- 2 c. peeled peach or nectarine slices

Place milk and marshmallow creme in blender container. Cover; process until well blended. Add remaining ingredients; process until smooth. Serve immediately. Makes 3 cups.

Variations: Substitute strawberry halves or banana slices for peaches.

FROSTY FRUIT SHAKES —

Cool a big summer thirst with ice cold, refreshing Frosty Fruit Shake. With a choice of fresh strawberry, peach or banana, this milk-based concoction is made in minutes whenever the mood strikes.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: I was asked by a "Worried" reader if it was possible to omit that portion of the marriage ceremony which asks, "If there is anybody present who has any objections to this marriage, let him speak up now or forever hold his peace." I said it was indeed possible, and if any of my readers had ever witnessed such a happening to please let me know. Many did. Some responses:

DEAR ABBY: When I served as a justice of the peace, I performed hundreds of marriages. The only legitimate reason for halting a marriage would be that said marriage would not be legal. A marriage is illegal if either of the parties had a prior undissolved marriage, were related to each other in a manner prohibiting marriage, were underage, were judged insane or incompetent by a court, or were involuntarily intoxicated or drugged. If a witness came forward with information of this type, I believe the marriage ceremony should be stopped.

Such objections were never raised in any of the ceremonies I performed, but I would hope that if anyone were to raise those questions, they would seek out the officiant in advance and let him know.

ROBERT C. SACKS,
LILBURN, GA.

DEAR ABBY: Back in the '50s I served a parish in Philadelphia. A young businesswoman who had been a member for two years arranged the wedding for herself and a young man. At the point in the ceremony when I asked, "If anyone can show just cause why these two may not be joined together in holy wedlock, etc.," a solitary figure stepped out near the rear. He said nothing, just stood there until all were aware of his presence. The bride slowly turned, and seeing him, left her place at the altar rail, went up the aisle and left the church with him.

Of course, there was no wedding. I later learned that the bride was married, and it was her husband who had appeared at the church. She had come to Philadelphia from the Midwest to start a new life and thought her past would never catch up with her.

THE REV. W. CARTER
MERBREIER, PHILADELPHIA

DEAR ABBY: My mother was in charge of marriage licenses at the Washoe County Court House in Reno, Nev., in which city there were many spur-of-the-moment marriages. One couple who had been obviously partying, but were apparently sufficiently sober to decide to get married, were issued a license. They decided to be married by a judge at the local courthouse, and asked my mother if she would act as their witness. She agreed.

The judge gave the ritual a serious tone and asked the groom, "Do you take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife?" The man looked at the bride, then the judge, and boomed, "Hell no!" and stalked out of the room.

The bride turned to my mother, then to the judge and asked, "What do you suppose got into that s.o.b.?" Then she departed.

They left my mother holding their marriage license, and never returned for it.

ROBERT O. JOHNS,
SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR ABBY: In the state of New Hampshire a justice of the peace may eliminate that part of the ceremony, and most of them do. (Why ask for trouble?) He can also add anything he wants to the ceremony with only two restrictions: He may not suggest the violent overthrowing of the government, and he may not call anybody any dirty names.

I should know. I am a licensed justice of the peace.

LESTER COLLINS,
CLAREMONT, N.H.

DEAR ABBY: As a young clergyman I lived in a community where a deranged woman made it her business to attend prominent weddings and voice an objection at the appropriate time in the ceremony. Needless to say, kindly people made it their business to spot her beforehand and gently remove her from the premises.

THE REV. JAMES ELLIOTT
LINDSLEY, ST. PAUL'S CHURCH,
TIVOLI, N.Y.

Army Airfield Asso. plans annual reunion

The Pampa Army Air Field Reunion Association's board of directors and committee members finalized plans for the annual reunion at a June 29 meeting.

Col. Harold Ottaway of Dodge City, Kan., president, reported on the proposed air show in Pampa scheduled for Aug. 11. The reunion is planned for Aug. 9-12. A B-25 bomber and UC-78 training planes from the Pampa Air Base are to be displayed at the reunion, as well as an exhibition of the Texas National Guard mechanized unit.

Committee chairmen made progress reports on the following activities: registration — Hadda Moore, chairman; Western Get Acquainted party; tour of Celanese and Ingersoll-Rand — Russell Abbott, chairman; tour of homes with a reception at the R.D. Mack home — Thelma Bray, chairman; Golf Tee Off at Country Club — Ralph Prock, chairman; chartered bus tour of Palo Duro Canyon and "Texas" — Calvin Whatley, chairman; business meeting and installation of officers; luncheon style show — Louis Epps, chairman; banquet and dance; sunrise breakfast at Coronado Inn patio — Louise Brown, chairman.

Members of several Pampa Air Base units are to have their reunion at Pampa, including pilots of graduating classes 1943-E and 1944-K. The reunion association is composed of military and civilian personnel stationed at the Pampa Air Base with more than 100 now living in Pampa.

Do you need volunteers?

Does your organization need volunteers?

As a public service to the community, the Pampa News Lifestyles section plans to print the column, "Helping Hands" each week in the Sunday edition. The column is to feature volunteer opportunities in local organizations along with the persons to contact.

If you would like your organization to be included in this column, please call Dee Dee Laramore at 669-2525 or write to her at The Pampa News, P.O. Drawer 2198, Pampa, 79066-2198.

Compare cost of serving

When making selections at the meat counter, think in terms of cost per serving rather than cost per pound. This way you'll be able to compare cuts to determine which are the best buys.

Some boneless cuts, although priced higher than bone-in cuts, may be better buys because there is less waste. To determine approximate cost per serving, simply divide the price per pound by the number of servings per pound the cut will yield.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

CITIES SERVICE OIL AND GAS CORPORATION

Panhandle East and West Gathering System
Gray County

It has come to Cities Service Oil and Gas Corporation's attention that some residences are receiving natural gas through unauthorized connections, or "tapping," onto the field gas pipeline serving the Panhandle East and West Gathering System. The residue pipeline system is not designed for safe use by residential owners. The gas is extremely hazardous for residential use since it is not odorized, and it may be subject to explosion and/or fire due to possible loss of pressure.

Cities Service Oil and Gas Corporation will not accept liability for personal injury, death or property damage that may result from any unauthorized use of this natural gas. For the safety of those unauthorized users, and the public in general, we ask that action be taken immediately to disconnect any such gas pipeline connections and that all future tapping cease. Any failure to immediately disconnect unauthorized pipeline connections serving residences or other buildings will result in Cities Service taking whatever action is necessary, including legal action, to protect and retain Cities Service's property and to eliminate the safety hazard created.

Prepare well for happy July picnics

By GAYLA MALONEY
TDA Marketing Representative
July — midsummer, hot, lazy days that seem to literally melt into each other. The most American of all holidays — the Fourth of July — is one day that stands apart in our potpourri of summer memories. The celebrations and traditions associated with this holiday are purely American — firecrackers dazzling the evening sky, flags waving in the breeze, parades and of course who could forget the cookout or picnic.

Since to summertime brings forth an abundance and variety of fresh fruits and vegetables, planning a cookout or picnic menu can be colorful and creative. A variety of produce from Texas, along with other Texas food products are abundant at this time. Purchasing fruits and vegetables in season usually assures consumers of high quality and good price. Texas produce which is currently available includes cantaloupe, honeydews, watermelon, squash, onions, cabbage, potatoes, cucumbers, peaches and bell pepper. Texas eggs and poultry are also good summertime buys.

In order to make your outdoor picnic or cookout fun and safe, follow these tips shared with me by our marketing representative in Tyler:

Plan our cookout or picnic carefully.

Transport your food in woven picnic baskets, insulated thermal bags, backpacks and coolers. Instead of using one huge cooler take two smaller ones to separate food and drinks.

If you chill an insulated thermal bag overnight in the refrigerator, cold foods placed inside will stay cold for four to six hours rather than one or two hours.

To chill coolers, put a bag of ice inside, close the top and allow to stand for 15 minutes. Place perishables directly on top. To keep the cooler chilled at the picnic, set it in a shaded spot or cover with newspapers.

If you bring fruit juices, meats, poultry or foods containing eggs, mayonnaise or milk products, be sure to keep them cold until they are served. Carry mayonnaise in an airtight container and add to a dish just before serving.

Prepare foods in shapes that pack easily. Leave cakes in the pans. Cut and wrap meats in individual portions.

Easy ways to serve cherries

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Sweet red cherries — one of the most delectable and popular of fresh fruits — have a short season. They are at their peak just now and taper off in August.

Cherries are so good in themselves that the simpler they are treated the better. Here are three easy ways to use them.

One way is to accompany them with a dip. For the dip, a friend of mine uses sour cream mixed with finely chopped syrup-preserved ginger plus a little of the syrup. Or she uses ginger marmalade to mix with the sour cream. This combination is fine to serve as a dessert for a luncheon, supper or dinner.

Another cook enjoys teaming them with other fruits to make a compote and serving it as a topping for ice cream or sherbet.

Or you may enjoy serving them with a sabayon sauce. Here is the recipe.

CHERRIES SABAYON
1 to 1½ cups pitted fresh sweet red cherries
2 large egg yolks
1-3rd cup dry white wine
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind

Place cherries in individual serving dishes and set aside.

In the top of a double boiler whisk together the egg yolks, wine, sugar and orange rind. Place over boiling water (do not have water touch bottom of double boiler top) and beat with a wire whisk or electric beater until very thick — about 10 minutes. At once spoon sauce over cherries.

Makes 2 or 3 servings.

For safety, tape the blade of your knife and lay it cutting edge down, along side of your picnic basket or cooler.

For neatness sake and to avoid possible contamination, always put leftovers back in the cooler.

To avoid a possible explosion, never put cold carbonated beverages in a vacuum bottle.

Commonly forgotten picnic items include: a paring knife, can opener, cork screw, premoistened towels, foil, garbage bags, paper napkins, towels, first aid kit, insect repellent, sweaters, matches, small cutting board, flash light, salt and pepper and table cloth.

Recipes are courtesy the Texas Department of Agriculture.

PARMESAN CHICKEN BITS

- 3 whole chicken breast, boned, skinned, and cut into bite size pieces
- 2 eggs
- ½ t. salt
- ½ t. black pepper
- ¼ t. cayenne pepper
- 1½ c. seasoned bread crumbs

- ½ c. parmesan cheese, grated type
- ½ c. minced fresh parsley
- 1-3rd c. olive oil
- ½ c. butter

Wipe chicken with damp towel. Beat eggs in large mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Add salt and pepper; beat to blend. Add chicken pieces to mixture and toss using fingers to coat well. Combine bread crumbs, cheese and parsley in a small mixing bowl and stir to blend. Spread mixture on wax paper or foil.

Dredge chicken pieces through crumb mixture to coat. Place oil and butter in a large skillet. Heat over medium heat until bubbly. Add several pieces of chicken at a time and cook until brown, about three minutes, each side. Remove with slotted spoon. Cook remaining chicken the same way. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

GREEN BEAN POTATO SALAD

- ¼ c. olive oil
- 2 T. wine vinegar
- ¼ t. salt
- ½ t. dry mustard
- ½ t. basil
- ½ t. parsley
- ½ t. garlic salt
- ½ t. pepper
- ½ lb. cooked green beans

- 3 med. potatoes, cooked, and diced
  - 1 lg. diced tomato
  - 2 T. finely chopped onion
- Mix together oil, vinegar, salt, mustard, basil, parsley, garlic and pepper. Add remaining ingredients. Toss and chill until serving time. Serves 6-8.

PEANUT BUTTER

SURPRISE COOKIES

- 1 c. peanut butter
- ½ c. margarine
- 1 c. packed brown sugar
- 2 T. honey
- 2 eggs
- 1 c. all purpose flour
- 1 t. baking powder
- 1 t. salt
- 1 t. cinnamon
- 1½ c. chopped, roasted peanuts
- 1 pkg. (6 oz.) chocolate chips

1 pkg. (6 oz.) butterscotch chips.

Cream peanut butter, margarine, sugar and honey. Beat in eggs. Combine flour, salt, baking powder, and cinnamon. Add gradually to peanut butter mixture until well blended. Add peanuts, chocolate and butterscotch chips. Spoon and flatten on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in 350 degrees F. oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Remove and cool slightly. Makes about 10 dozen.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) People with whom you'll associate today may lack your facility for swiftness. Encourage slower types; don't put them down.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're a prudent manager, but today you may be tempted to spend unwisely, hoping you'll have the money to cover your bills later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Shrewd maneuvers devised to further your ambitious aims could backfire today if put to the test. Don't operate beneath your high standards.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's unwise today to try to sell others on a scheme you've heard about, but aren't sure will work. Get more facts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In your commercial dealings today, it's imperative that you keep your guard up at all times. Don't let your competition get the upper hand.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Think before speaking today because a few ill-chosen words may be all it takes to alienate you from an ally worth having.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Co-workers will resent it today if you jockey things around to where they get the difficult tasks, while you end up with the easy ones.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Major achievements are possible today, provided you don't introduce chances in matters that are presently running smoothly. Let well enough alone.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may be confronted by someone in authority today who tends to throw his or her weight around. Be careful you don't over-react.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be aware of your limitations today and try not to take on projects that exceed your abilities. Get backup help if necessary.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try not to involve yourself in situations today where you know going in you have a poor chance of winning. Leave the gambles to others.

Photographer can't withhold pictures

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled that a photographer for The Dallas Morning News has no journalistic privilege that allows him to withhold photos taken at a crime scene in a public place.

In a 6-0 decision with three judges not participating, the court said Tuesday that Randy Eli Grothe must surrender unpublished pictures he took on Sept. 23, 1983 of protesters who had chained themselves to the doorway of the Dallas Power & Light Building.

One of the protesters, Mavis Belisle, is on trial on a misdemeanor charge of obstructing a public passageway during the demonstration in protest of nuclear power. She said she was not chained to the doorway and that Grothe's unpublished photos could support her claim.

State District Judge Robert Moss held Grothe, a nine-year veteran of the newspaper, in contempt in April for refusing to produce the photographs.

In Tuesday's decision, Judge Charles Campbell said for the court, "We fail to see how (Grothe's) rights will be in any way diminished in requiring production of photographs of an alleged criminal offense occurring in a public place."

Ralph Langer, executive editor of the Morning News, said the newspaper's lawyers would study the decision before deciding whether to appeal.

The court limited its ruling to the question of a journalist's privilege in reporting on criminal activities in public places.

Campbell told the Dallas Times Herald on Tuesday in a telephone interview, "It's not any broad, sweeping ruling on the rights of the news media in Texas."

Army deployed in Beirut as militias pull out

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Army units fanned out into neighborhoods of Christian east and Moslem west Beirut at dawn today in the first step of a plan to free the capital from nine years of militia control and civil warfare.

Troops in armored personnel carriers also moved into Beirut's port and airport, and state-controlled radio said both facilities were expected to open Friday, ending a five-month shutdown.

The deployment of 8,000 soldiers is the first element in a peace plan developed by Syrian-backed Prime Minister Rashid Karami's coalition government. More than 60,000 of Lebanon's 4 million people have been killed in the nine years of fighting.

Civil war fronts were reported to be quiet today, and militiamen were seen trudging with their rifles away from dozens of shell-pocked buildings on both sides of the "green line" separating the Moslem and Christian sectors of the city.

"You have a delicate and sensitive mission in a situation that does not afford a fall or a setback," Gen. Michel Aoun, the newly appointed army commander, told the troops in his order of the day. He instructed them to be "evenhanded, flexible but firm."

Karami's Cabinet was expected to empower the army to eliminate the green line during a mid-morning meeting at President Amin Gemayel's summer residence in the mountain resort of Bikfaya.

The peace plan called for the army to finish deploying along the green line by midnight, and to reopen all crossings between east and west Beirut by Thursday.

Christian, Druse and Shiite Moslem militias, who have agreed to abide by the peace plan, removed their heavy arms from Beirut during the previous four days.

The army said it would raid any suspected arms cache and confiscate whatever weapons it found. The security plan prohibits all weapons bigger than 12.7mm machine guns, but even rifles and other small weapons are not to be carried in public.

Militias also ordered their fighters to stay off the streets, and to offer no resistance to the army.

The army lost control of mostly Moslem west Beirut to anti-government militias in February. Christian militiamen then re-established gun positions along the green line. The green line has been the scene of almost daily fighting since.

Witnesses said residents stood on balconies waving, cheering and clapping as army tanks and armored vehicles drove to the edge of the city Tuesday. Lebanese flag flying.

Women and children lined both sides of the road throwing rice and flowers, and spraying the soldiers with rosewater in a traditional expression of joy, the witnesses said.

The 8,000 government troops include two infantry brigades, an armored brigade and a U.S.-trained helicopter-borne battalion for rapid intervention in case the army encounters resistance.

Deny Salvadorans forced to join the guerrillas

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Salvadoran leftist leaders said Tuesday that guerrillas use forced recruitment in some friendly areas to avoid reprisals against families, but the tactic is not general because "How are we going to keep people by force?"

One of them, Ana Guadalupe Martinez, said reports that refugees in eastern El Salvador were fleeing press-gang tactics by the guerrillas are part of new "psychological warfare" by the army.

The leftist leaders also said reports from Washington that a major fall offensive will be mounted against the U.S.-supported government to coincide with the American election campaign are "bad intentioned."

Five members of the Political Diplomatic Commission of the guerrillas and their political allies made the comments to a small group of reporters here.

"In the Salvadoran guerrillas, you can't have people by force," said Ms. Martinez, a commander of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front. "How are we going to keep people by force?"

The front links the five guerrilla groups fighting the 4½-year-old war.

Wife, mother help Twins win

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

If Minnesota's Walter Mondale is serious about considering a woman for a vice presidential running mate, he might do well to look at Kent Hrbek's mother or Mike Smithson's wife. They seem to be pretty good at solving problems.

"Kent was in a little bit of a slump and I told him to get his elbows up," Mrs. Tina Hrbek said after her strapping son slammed a double and his 10th homer in the Minnesota Twins' 3-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night. "He's been doing all right since then, hasn't he?"

That's putting it mildly. Hrbek is batting .485 over his last eight games with five doubles, three homers — one in each of the last three games — and 10 RBIs.

Smithson, who had been hit hard in his two previous starts, also made some changes and held Baltimore to five hits.

"I was trying to be too cute with my pitches the last couple of games and my wife, Jenny, noticed I was tentative and told me to be more aggressive," said Smithson. "Any advice is good advice as long as it's constructive. I'm never too cocky to take advice. My wife knows what she's talking about."

As a result, the second-place Twins climbed over .500 this late in the season for the first time since 1979 and trail California by just two games in the American League West. In other AL action, Chicago whipped Detroit 9-5. Toronto blanked California 4-0. Cleveland flogged Kansas City 15-3. Boston nipped Oakland 6-5. Milwaukee trimmed Seattle 11-6 and New York edged Texas 5-4.

Smithson retired the first 11 Orioles and blanked them until the eighth when Jim Dwyer doubled and Al Bumbry singled. By that time, the Twins led 3-0 on Hrbek's two-run homer off Mike Flanagan in the first inning and Dave Engle's sacrifice fly in the fifth.

"Of all the games I've played in since I was a kid, mom's seen about 90 percent of them," said Hrbek, whose .329 batting average is third in the AL.

White Sox 9, Tigers 5

Greg Luzinski drove in four runs, three with a towering roof-shot home run, Tom Seaver was the winner despite yielding three homers, and Jack Morris lost in his first appearance against the White Sox since he no-hit them April 7. The setback gave the Tigers a three-game losing streak for only the second time all season and sliced their lead over Toronto in the AL East to eight games.

Lance Parrish put Detroit ahead 3-0 with a first-inning homer, but Seaver, who worked six innings, did not allow another hit until Ruppert Jones and Howard Johnson hit solo homers in the sixth. Jones' shot landed on the roof in right field, the 29th blast in Comiskey Park history to reach the stadium's 74-year history that two homers were hit onto the roof in the same game.

Morris retired the first eight Chicago batters but was rocked for five runs in the fourth, including RBI singles by Luzinski and Vance

Law, and RBI doubles by Marc Hill — who homered in the eighth — and Rudy Law. Luzinski homered onto the roof in left-center in the fifth with two teammates on base.

Blue Jays 4, Angels 0

Damaso Garcia hit his first two home runs of the season and Jesse Barfield also homered, all leadoff shots off Tommy John in the first three innings, while Jim Gott hurled a two-hitter for his fifth consecutive victory, striking out eighth and facing only one batter over the minimum. California's only hits were singles by Rod Carew and Reggie Jackson in the fourth and fifth innings, respectively. Garcia singled home Toronto's final run in the seventh.

Indians 15, Royals 3

Andre Thornton drove in three runs with three hits, including his 200th career home run, as Cleveland snapped Kansas City's longest winning streak of the season at five games. The Indians hammered out 23 hits off four pitchers. Royals outfielder Leon Roberts pitched the eighth inning, allowing three runs and four hits, walking one and striking out one. Chris Bando tagged him for a two-run homer and Julio Franco had an RBI single, one of his four hits.

Bert Blyleven earned the victory with a four-hitter despite yielding two solo homers to Steve Balboni, who has 14 for the season and nine in his last 12 games. The Indians jumped on Bud Black for four runs on six hits in the first inning and followed with four runs on six hits in the second off Black and Joe Beckwith.

Red Sox 6, Athletics 5

Gary Allenson lined a run-scoring single off the left-field wall with none out in the bottom of the ninth inning, ending Boston's four-game losing streak. Mike Easler, who hit a two-run homer as Boston erased a 4-1 deficit in the fifth inning, and Bill Buckner began the ninth with singles. Allenson squared away to bunt against the charging infield on the first pitch from Larry Sorensen and then crossed up the A's with his line shot on the next delivery.

"I was up there to bunt on the first pitch, but it was a ball," Allenson said. "Then I told Yostie (third base coach Eddie Yost) that if they're going to charge, I'm going to swing away because all the fielders were moving. I just thought I could poke the ball through some hole. The bunt sign was taken off and I got a pitch to hit."

Brewers 11, Mariners 6

Ted Simmons drove in three runs and Jim Sundberg had a homer and RBI double for Milwaukee. The Brewers took a 2-1 lead in the first inning on Simmons' bases-loaded single and made it 3-1 in the second on Sundberg's fourth homer. After rookie Alvin Davis hit a two-run homer for Seattle in the third, Milwaukee scored four times in the bottom of the third on RBI singles by Ben Oglivie and Mark Brouhard and Ed Romero's two-run single. Simmons drove in a third run with a seventh-inning grounder and Bobby Clark had a two-run double.

Yankees 5, Rangers 4

Don Baylor hit a two-run homer and Marty Bystrom allowed two runs in six innings in his AL debut as the Yankees withstood a pair of homers by Texas' Gary Ward.

Bystrom, acquired from the Philadelphia Phillies on Saturday for Shane Rawley, allowed five hits while striking out four and walking none. Ken Griffey's two-run single off Frank Tanana in the sixth inning put the Yankees ahead to stay.

Cubs edge Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Keith Moreland drove in two runs with a homer and a single to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 3-2 victory over the San Diego Padres Tuesday night.

Steve Trout, 9-3, went five innings before leaving the game with a blister on his hand. Tim Stoddard went the final four innings, allowing two hits and striking out six to earn his fifth save.

Mark Thurmond, 5-1, started for the Padres, but lasted just 3 2/3 innings and was tagged for six hits, two walks and all three runs.

The Padres scored a run in their first out. $5gins' bunt single, a balk by Trout, a grounder and Steve Garvey's sacrifice fly.

But the Cubs tied it in the second on Moreland's seventh homer and took the lead in the third on Moreland's single that scored Ryne Sandberg from second.

Larry Bowa, Trout and Bob Dernier hit consecutive two-out singles to chase Thurmond in the fourth for a 3-1 Cubs lead.

Mets beat Astros, Ryan, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Astros desperately needed to get a relief pitcher into the game for Nolan Ryan.

Yet with their bullpen not quite ready, the Astros could not make the move they wanted to when they needed to. And by the time they did something about it, it was too late and they were on their way to a 4-3 loss Tuesday night to the New York Mets.

Ryan, activated from the 15-day disabled list earlier in the day, breezed through the first four innings, showing no signs of the layoff. He had struck out seven and allowed just one baserunner — Keith Hernandez on a walk in the first inning.

George Foster led off the New York fifth with his 12th home run of the season, the first hit off Ryan, yet the fastballing right-hander still took a 3-1 lead into the bottom of the sixth.

Overstreet intoxicated, officials say

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Dolphins running back David Overstreet bought $40 worth of liquor and spent four hours at a Dallas party before embarking on the automobile trip which led to his death, according to a published report.

Overstreet, 25, was legally intoxicated when he died in a high-speed crash just outside his East Texas hometown last month, law enforcement officials told The Miami Herald on Tuesday.

"What it looks like is that he just had enough liquor in him to make him drowsy, and he probably went to sleep at the wheel," said Trooper Joe Don Abernathy of the Texas

Houston Manager Bob Lillis told reliever Dave Smith to start warming up as the inning began, but as Wally Backman led off with a single, two problems developed.

"Smith had trouble getting loose. He had some feeling in his elbow," said Lillis, who then told Bill Dawley to get ready.

Meanwhile, Ryan was tiring, and when Backman took second on a wild pitch and scored when Danny Heep lined an RBI single past Ryan's head, Lillis went to the mound.

"I would've taken him out if I could have," Lillis said. "Ordinarily, Smith would've been loose. And Dawley didn't have enough time."

So Lillis, after a lengthy conference on the mound and with no other option, had to let Ryan face Keith Hernandez.

"I was out of gas," Ryan said. "We were trying to get me out of the game at that point. I didn't want to face Keith Hernandez at that point, but we had no other choice."

Hernandez, who has not hit Ryan well in the past, quickly made up for that by belting an 0-1 pitch over the right-center field fence to put the Mets ahead 4-3. His seventh home run of the season also finished Ryan.

"We caught him at the right time for the one big inning," said Hernandez. "That was my first home run ever off Nolan. I looked at Davey's (Mets Manager Johnson) computer before the game and I had only four career hits off him in 35 at-bats."

Ryan, 7-3, had won his previous six decisions. He was on the disabled list from June 2-18 with a recurring blister problem and then spent June 28 to July 2 out of action with a pulled left calf muscle.

Jordan surprises Shriver, Lloyd advances

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pam Shriver had taken the first set from Kathy Jordan, and down in the interview room Martina Navratilova was already fielding questions about how she'd feel seeing her friend and doubles partner in the semifinals of the Wimbledon championships.

But all the lovely quotes about friendship sharpening the challenge went right out the window when Shriver blew a break point that would have put her up 4-2 in the second set. Jordan seized the game, the two following, the set, and the initiative to win 6-2, 3-6, 4-6.

So it's Jordan, the No. 6 seed, who now has the privilege — if it can be called that — of facing the top seed, defending and four-time champion Navratilova in the semifinals of the All-England Lawn Tennis tournament.

The last time the two faced each other across a net was 11 days ago at Eastbourne on England's south coast. Navratilova was an easy 6-4, 6-1 winner. She is 11-0 against the 24-year-old from King of Prussia, Pa.

The No. 2 seed, three-time Wimbledon titlist Chris Evert Lloyd, was to face 20-year-old Swedish qualifier Carina Karlsson in the remaining women's quarter-final today.

Lloyd, No. 2 in the world rankings and the seedings here, advanced Tuesday with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over No. 12 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany.

All of the men's quarter-finals were on today's card.

Defending champ John McEnroe was to meet John Sadri, the 27-year-old from Charlotte, N.C., who ousted No. 15 seed Vitas Gerulaitis on Monday. In the nine times Sadri has met McEnroe, Sadri has yet to win.

The other matched feature Australian Pat Cash against No. 6 seed Andres Gomez of Ecuador. 13th seed Tomas Smid against second seed Ivan Lendl in a battle of Czechoslovakian Davis Cup teammates, and third seed Jimmy Connors playing Paul Annacone of East Hampton, N.Y., the qualifier playing in his first tournament as a pro. He toppled 12th seed Johan Kriek in the fourth round.

Navratilova, such a prohibitive favorite that many of the British bookies have refused to take bets on women's play, dismissed Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria in straight sets Tuesday, then told reporters she expects to meet "either Hana (Mandlikova) or Chris (Lloyd) in the final."

Mandlikova ousted the last British hope, Jo Durie, the No. 10 seed, in straight sets.

Shriver, who until Eastbourne was out of singles for four months because of injuries to her elbow, shoulder and leg, said she was dispirited about missing the chance to face Navratilova.

Sheehan favored in Toledo Golf Classic

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Patty Sheehan admits she may have trouble keeping her thoughts from drifting into next week when she plays in the Jamie Farr Toledo Classic starting Thursday.

Sheehan, the LPGA's No. 1 money-winner this year, will be bidding for her fourth 1984 victory in this $175,000 tournament, a new stop on the women's pro golf tour.

Next week, Sheehan will go for her second major title this year in the U.S. Women's Open, trying to become the first player since Sandra Haynie to win two majors in a single season. Haynie won the LPGA Championship and the Open in 1974.

"It (the Open) is in my thoughts a lot in practice this week," Sheehan said after tuning up over the Glangarry Country Club course Tuesday.

"I'm hitting a lot of chip shots from the high rough around the greens and a lot of long irons — just like we'll have to do in the Open," said Sheehan, the winner of an official $169,732 and the Elizabeth Arden, LPGA Championship and Lady Keystone stops in 1984.

"This course is good preparation for the Open," the 27-year-old

Californian said. "But I have to think about this week. I'm playing a tournament."

And anytime Sheehan tees it up now, she is a threat to win. In the last three years, she has finished in the top 10 in 42 of 64 tournaments, including nine of 13 this season.

"I just like to be up there in the hunt," she said of her 11 victories in her first four full seasons. "I don't like to be finishing in 40th, 50th place. It's no fun."

The field of 115 pros includes 14 of the top 20 money-winners this year. The LPGA announced the withdrawals Tuesday of Barbara Mizrahe and Alice Ritzman and the addition of Missie McGeorge.

Besides Sheehan, the main threats should come from a group led by Amy Alcott, last Sunday's winner in Hershey, Pa.; Juli Inkster, who has a first-year record earnings total of more than $118,000; Nancy Lopez, Betsy King and JoAnne Carner.

Sheehan ranks herself among the leading challengers for the first prize of $26,250, but added: "Just look at your smarter players. Course management will be a big factor."

Hough selected as top pitcher

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Knuckleballer Charlie Hough of the Texas Rangers has been named the American League's pitcher of the month for June for the second straight year, the club has announced.

Hough was 4-0 during the month with a 1.31 earned-run average. In 55 innings, he allowed 38 hits, eight earned runs and 18 walks while striking out 39. In six starts, he had four complete games.

He left one game with a 3-2 lead after eight innings, but the bullpen lost the lead. He left his other game with a 2-2 tie after 11 innings.

Last season, Hough was 5-1 in June with a 1.33 ERA.

Catch the 84 Spirit

LIFTING THE LID—Deborah Sussman, creative director for the design team planning Olympic venues in Los Angeles, holds a rafter model for the Los Angeles Sports Arena, site of Olympic boxing events, to display the banner and flag array, which will be in the facility for the Games. The "Festive Federalism" design scheme calls for bright pastel colors and bold graphic designs typical at all the venues.

Family firm succeeds despite oil slump

By PATTI MUCK
Port Arthur News

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Snappy, staccato music from a Spanish radio station fills the warehouse and mixes with the smell of fermenting fruit. Big, blue 55-gallon drums are stacked in neat clusters bound for local factories as well as plants in South Africa, the Far East, Europe and Australia.

"You get twice the work done with the music going," laughs Don Rozell, operations manager at Southwest Industrial Terminals Inc.

The 4-year-old business, owned and operated by three Rozells, has danced its way to the top of downtown light industry.

Their terminal is a filling operation. The Rozells bring in products from various oil and chemical companies and put the product in containers — usually 55-gallon fiber or metal drums made at one of two local container companies. Many of the drums are stored for inventory in Southwest's 40,000 square feet of warehouse space.

The fruity fragrance on this particular day stemmed from a lube additive that the 12-man filler crew is loading into drums.

"Most of our business is from local oil and chemical refineries, although we have received products from Houston," says Howard Rozell, Don's brother. Howard handles administration and marketing. His 20-year-old son, Brent, is the terminal manager.

The three sit in a cramped office that they share. Don has just arrived from Cleveland, Texas, where he has a private dental practice part of the week. Howard spent seven years at Texaco's Port Neches chemical plant

Weekend cowboys work for 'Mr. Gus'

By CAROL RUST
Beaumont Enterprise

ORANGE, Texas (AP) — Bandanas tucked in their back pockets and spurs clanking with each step, they stroll into Gus's house every Sunday before the roosters make their daybreak declarations.

"Who's cooking breakfast?" they always ask as the screen door slams behind them, knowing full well that according to Gus's schedule, breakfast was an hour ago.

Gus Harris, 73-year-old rancher and proprietor of Farmers Mercantile, will point them to the two coffee pots on his kitchen counter.

"Now this here's the strong stuff," he'll say, "and this is just stuff."

They slurp the steaming coffee as greedily as they listen to him talk about the beef market, the weather or the fate of his rye grass last season.

They enjoy listening to these dawn dialogues before work begins. They might as well: they have a long day ahead of them.

From all over the county they come every Sunday morning to help work cattle for "Mr. Gus," as he is reverently known. They ask no pay, only the chance to help.

His impromptu posse, comprising math teachers, pipefitters, longshoremen, housewives and electricians, takes pride in its weekend operation, sliding boldly into the mud and manure to wrestle a stubborn calf, wiping specks of gray worm medicine from their faces and passing around a single cup of water before they go to the next pasture.

"OK, boys and girls, get your horses," Gus will say, wiping the water from his lips. And that's just about the only order they will hear all day. The rest are hand motions the posse discerns with a kind of sixth sense.

As the sun beats down on one of the 15 pastures he owns or leases in Orange County, Gus scrapes the air with his first two fingers, and the posse, yelping like Indians on the warpath, begins sweeping cattle from their hiding

Federal agents seize accounts

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal agents seized $6.8 million from two bank accounts Tuesday in what authorities said was the largest single cash confiscation of drug trafficking funds in the history of federal law enforcement.

The money was deposited in two accounts of the Republic Bank of Houston and U.S. Attorney Dan Hedges of Houston said the seizure was part of a continuing investigation into a major multinational drug organization.

One account was in the name of European Commodities Ltd., and the other in the name of Continental Resources Ltd. Hedges said that virtually nothing was known about the companies.

The attorney said that there are four names associated with the accounts, including a Los Angeles lawyer whose only apparent association, said Hedges, is that he once made an inquiry about one of the accounts. The other names are of Mexican citizens.

The seizure was under a federal law that permits assets to be taken by the government if it can be proven that they were used in illegal drug operations or if they were purchased with the profits from drug trafficking.

Hedges declined to give many details because, he said, the seizure was part of a continuing investigation. He said the seizure was a civil action and that no criminal charges have been filed.
