WATER OVER ROAD...Texas Highway Department officials were out Tuesday night, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday supervising the crossing this huge lake that developed Tuesday night at the Bailey and Parmer Countyline on State Road 214. At one point during the week, the lake was impassable, but on Wednesday, it was opened to trucks and pickups. This picture was taken on Thursday when the "lake level" was about two feet. The water accumulated over the road and in a playa lake after the cloud-bursts received Tuesday night. Some people in the area north of Muleshoe reported up to six inches of rain Tuesday night and several people reported some moderate flooding in their homes.

Local Farm Bureau Will Not Sympathize With Chavez

Farm Bureau will not capitulate to the demands of Cesar Chavez and his sympathizers and stand idly by while farm workers are coerced into unions they do not want," Ernest Ramm, President of the Bailey County Farm Bureau said Tuesday.

Carrying out an ultimatum delivered to the Farm Bureau national leadership recently, began demonstrating at Farm Bureau offices by Chavez supporters Tuesday. The Chavez group demanded that Farm Bureau desist from its efforts to secure the enactment of constructive farm labor legislation and threatened a massive "incremental" campaign to smear the Farm Bureau.

"We have nothing to hide and will not yield to such pressure," the farm leader said. He emphasized that the Farm Bureau is not opposing the right of farm laborers to organize and be represented by a union. But the farm organization contends that workers should have a choice in the matter.

Farm Bureau supports proposed farm labor legislation that would: first, guarantee secret ballot elections for farm workers on the question of which-if any-union they wish to represent (in the only such election held to date, Chavez forces were soundly defeated); second, prohibit the secondary boycott in agriculture as it is presently prohibited in industry under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act; third, create an Agricultural Labor Relations Board to administer the act; and fourth, protect against the strike at harvest by specifying a reasonable period of notification before a strike, and by setting guidelines for fair arbitrations of disputes.

The Chavez apparatus has successfully employed the secondary boycott technique to coerce thousands of farm workers into its ranks. When growers could not market the boycotted products they had no alternative but to sign their workers over to the Chavez union. The fact that

A History Of Bailey County Pioneer Families

Mr. & Mrs. John L. Alsop

The John L. Alsop family came to Bailey County from Kopper, Texas in Dodge touring car during the fall of 1925. Population of Muleshoe at that time was about 400, says Mrs. Alsop. Of course, there was no electricity, no natural gas. Mrs. Alsop says there was only no doctor in town and no hospital.

There was no city water and all the water was pumped from private windmills. The women boiled their clothes in kettles to launder them and used lye soap.

The Alsups had their furniture moved to Muleshoe by train. After arriving, they went into the grocery business. Their first home was located in the back of their grocery store.

John Alsop was the second district clerk here. At the time of the Depression everyone was under a hardship just to get their family fed, Mrs. Alsop helped out by working in their grocery store.

She remembers hearing of a man in Farwell who became so depressed about the economic situation that he killed his family and put them in a cellar.

Later, this man came into the Alsups' grocery store wanting to put up circulars to sell his furniture. She let him in not knowing who he was.

Mrs. Alsop recalls that there were bar ditches on main street in those days. One day after school, her son Charles fell into one of the bar ditches and got buried in the snow.

This is one in a series of historical biographies of Bailey County pioneer families who arrived here prior to 1930.

The ones who have an abnormal reading are notified by a first-class letter which urges them to contact their private physician, or the local health officer for further examination. Everyone is urged to keep the card with the number of his X-ray film and date taken. The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm is bound to be kidding in his letter this week.
Dear editor:
According to an item I read in a newspaper the other day, there is such a big backlog of un-tried criminal cases stacked up in New York City that if the police made no arrests at all it'd take a year for the courts to catch up, and other big cities and some not so big are reporting similar situations.
Even the Supreme Court is having trouble, the Chief Justice having reported that there were 4,000 cases filed with the high court last year compared with only 1100 in 1940.
I have been thinking about this, trying to find a solution. Take the Supreme Court. If it's getting four times as many cases now, you'd assume maybe we ought to have four times as many Justices, or 36, but judging by the way Congress turns down appointees, there may not be 36 men in the country qualified to serve.
Or take the big cities. Maybe they should have four times as many courts, but that'd require four times as many court rooms, four times as many prosecutors, four times as many grand juries, petit juries, bailiffs, etc. Half the city would be tied up in court most of the time and half the criminals would have to start robbing each other.
The only solution I can think of is to devalopno-fault crimes, like the town I know that cut down on speeding violations on its streets by raising the speed limit.
Why not? We've got no-fault insurance in some places, haven't we?
I never had understood what no-fault insurance meant until just the other day when a friend explained it to me.
"No-fault insurance," he said, "is the kind of insurance the insurance companies never have to pay off on. They say 'We find no fault with that type insurance.'"
This doesn't sound right to me, but in a political year a man is naturally confused. Why just last night I read that some consumer organization has claimed that there are 88,900 bridges in this country un-safe to use. This leaves a politician not only unwilling to cross a bridge before he comes to it, but unwilling after he gets to it, although I guess it's only fair to say a lot of them have been following that practice for years anyway.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

In Fashion

Many older women find the sleeveless dresses, which are so popular for summer wear, unbecoming. Arms tend to become flabby with age but sleeves are in style this season and the variety is great.

The long puffed sleeve, with tight cuff, is very good and the short sleeve may be a puff or flounce. It may also be merely a cap over the top part of the arm.

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION--"Today's dollar buys high-quality food, a year-round choice of foods in many forms and foods that save work, time and energy," noted Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Houston consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

Fryer chickens offer one of the best budget-buys in many stores this week. Most markets feature whole fryers, fryer parts and chicken hens. Look for turkeys at attractive price levels in some markets, especially turkey parts.

The specialist reported that pork prices remain about the same as last week. Best pork values include Boston butt roasts, quarter loin-sliced, smoked picnics, hams and ham portions.

One of the less familiar cuts of pork--Boston Butt roast--offers real economy to budget-minded consumers. Forequarter cuts of beef, chuck and shoulder roasts and short ribs are among the best beef values.

Beef prices have decreased somewhat, but they're still higher than at this time a year ago. Various cuts of mature and baby beef are offered at markets this week. In general, look for best values on chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, ground beef, calf and beef liver.

Enjoy navel oranges and grapefruit before the supply season ends in a few weeks.

"Apples cost a bit more because they're coming from controlled atmosphere storage," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Their quality is excellent when they first come from storage, but keep them in the refrigerator to maintain their crisp juiciness." Look for lower watermelon prices as the supply increases. Tangerines, strawberries, pineapples, pears, bananas, lemons and cantaloupe are other fruit choices worthy of consideration.

"Onions remain quite plentiful now so use them as a side dish as well as for seasoning and enhancing the flavor of other foods," the specialist suggested.

Potatoes, cabbage, carrots, bulk turnips and cooking greens are generally the most economical vegetables. Asparagus prices are moderately low now, but the season is quite short.

To moisten dry brown sugar, place a slice of apple or apple core in the box with the brown sugar.

To curb impulse buying and save on grocery shopping, always use a shopping list stating the exact amount and forms of food items.

Goodland Bible Study Meets In Lowe Home

The Goodland Bible Study Club met May 9 in the home of Frieda Lowe with 13 members present.

The president's thought of the day was "It's not the distance a man goes, but the direction." The members voted to buy Phyllis Grissom of Gristown a graduation dress. A committee consisting of Drucilla Hutton, Kay Kindel and Frieda Lowe was appointed to take her shopping for the dress.

The white elephant gift went to Lyndell Galt.

The next meeting will be in the home of Cloe Klutts on May 23. The study will be Daniel, Chapters One and Two.

Those present for the meeting were Allene Chapman, Lyndell Galt, Drucilla Hutton, Rosemary Johnson, Kay Kindel, Cloe Klutts, Betty Parkman, Maxine Ragsdale, Sammie Simpson, Frances Stegall, Chloris Tarlton Ruby Waldrip and the hostess.

Mrs. Beverley Tiller, bride-elect of Dennis Hill, was honored with a miscellaneous shower

Thursday afternoon from 3:30 to 6 p.m. in the Bula school lunchroom.

Sheila Medlin and Joan Williams assisted in serving the cake, pink fruit punch, nuts and mints.

Fifty-seven guests registered in the brides book during the evening.

The honoree and her mother, Mrs. Dewitt Tiller, were presented corsages of pink carnations to wear during the evening.

Beverley's sister, Mrs. Johnny Hall, registered the gifts in the bride's book. Her mother assisted her in opening the packages, that were afterwards displayed on a table.

Hostesses were Mrs. R.B. Wright, Mrs. L.H. Medlin, Mrs. Edd Crume, Mrs. E.O. Battles, Mrs. C.A. Williams, Mrs. Rowena Richardson, Mrs. Ashel Richardson, Mrs. Robert Clauch, Mrs. Bill Sowder, Mrs. Clyde Hogue, Mrs. J.L. Latham, Mrs. Larry McCain, Mrs. Jimmy Cannon and Mrs. Ronnie Green.

NEW DAY ROOM...N.F. (Pop) Stovall, a resident of the Muleshoe Nursing Home is visiting with Mrs. Stovall in a corner of the new Day Room in the Nursing Home. The recently completed room, a project of the Muleshoe Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary, is for the residents to use for birthday parties, church services, visiting and other activities.

Infant-Mother Relationship

COLLEGE STATION--New mothers shouldn't feel guilty if they don't have an immediate attachment for their child.

"Most expectant mothers can hardly wait to hold their newborn baby," said Jane Fleischer, family life education specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A & M University.

"Then, when they don't have a deep and immediate love for the child, they feel terribly guilty."

The specialist explained that the baby nurse puts into the new mother's arms is a little stranger--even though it's her own child. The bond between mother and baby is seldom a strong one at birth. But it grows day by day as mother and child respond to each other.

Researchers found that it often takes as long as three months for a new mother to really have strong feelings for her baby.

For about the first month she feels a rather impersonal affection.

It's not until the baby itself begins showing responsiveness that the mother's feelings deepen. That's around the second month when the baby begins to smile and recognize his mother's voice and reacts to her attention.

"New mothers shouldn't be concerned if they don't have an immediate love for that squirming little bundle that's plunked down beside them in the hospital bed," the specialist concluded. "Like anything new, it takes mother and child a little time to get used to each other--perhaps even a few months."

The use of instant onion rather than fresh onion is economical as it never spoils or gets old.

Adding a small amount of vinegar to the cooking water when boiling eggs will prevent the whites of eggs that crack from seeping through the shell.

LOUISIA'S LETTER

Dear Louisia,

I am 15 years old and I have been going with a boy four months and have broke up twice in the last two weeks over him riding other girls around, but he says they're just his friends. I know he cares a lot about me because he has told me over and over. I would give anything to go back with him. I have tried other boys but I still care about him.

What am I suppose to do? Troubled--Tenn.

P.S. He said we would get back together.

Answer:

At your age it is nice to have someone you like a great deal and a person you enjoy being with, also one on whom you can depend for special dates such as school socials, etc., as a steady.

But it is a different matter at that age, to insist that such a friend have no association whatever with the other sex except yourself.

It will be several years before you are old enough to accept the responsibilities of a home and family or before you really know what you desire in a husband.

Very often the boy we adore at your present age will not attract us at all as we become more mature.

I really think it is a good idea to have group get-togethers at your age and let all of the boys and girls enjoy dancing and associating with one another.

If the only thing that worries you is the fact that he occasionally takes other girls for a ride you would do well to take it calmly--go for a ride with someone yourself--and greet your friend pleasantly when he comes around.

More couples "break up" because one of them is too possessive than for any other reason. We can squeeze the love out of anything if we hold it too tightly.

Louisia.

Comment On Sports

BASEBALL * * *

BY PETE FRITCHIE

Washington, D. C.--The season is still young and not until about All-Star time will the 1972 pattern of power be apparent. But there are a few hints which can now be taken into account.

In the National League Montreal and Philadelphia are comers. Montreal might have been the biggest surprise of early season play. The Mets under Yogi Berra look strong. Pittsburgh and San Francisco have failed to live up to advance billing. Los Angeles and Houston began well; Houston is a long-shot flag hope.

In the American League Boston began weakly, Detroit strongly and Cleveland looked better than in 1971. Oakland appeared strong even before Vida Blue signed. Minnesota was a strong surprise at the outset and Chicago also looked solid. Texas seems better balanced this year.

The pennant races this year might be multi-teamed in all four divisions. Detroit and Baltimore might have it all to themselves in the American east and Oakland could run away in the west but that doesn't seem likely in the last half of the season.

In the National east no team is likely to run away from the pack; Los Angeles has the best chance to pull away in the west.

One of the keys to old age is in knowing how to relax and break the tension which builds up while making a living.

FFA Officers Elected

By Gary Lackey

The meeting was called to order by Gary Lackey, on May 11. Speeches were made by candidates seeking office. Voting was close and runoffs were required. The chapter feels it has a hard working winning team with this set of officers for next year. They are President, Rex Black; Vice-President, Mike Slayden; Secretary, Tim Black; Treasurer, Gene Rogers; Reporter, Jimny Henderson; Sentinel, Jody Jones; Chaplain, Gary Hooten, and Parliamentarian, Bobby Henderson.

The Future Of America Is In The Hands Of Its People

A consideration every American should keep in mind, especially militants and extremists, is that the future of our country is in our hands. We are a country of various peoples and races and, historically, the great American melting-pot idea is an experiment.

The experiment has worked well, generally, since the Revolution two hundred years ago, mainly because of the nation's good fortune in beginning with basic Anglo-Saxon law and a sound democratic philosophy developed under it. Also, the nation was basically composed, at the time of the Revolution, of a relatively homogenous population in that the vast majority came from the countries of northern Europe.

Since that time we have absorbed millions from many other races and geographical areas of the world. Today, as a result, we have scores of millions of citizens of various and different origins. With this in mind we should recall the many lessons in history when melting-pot nations broke up under the stress and strain of friction and bitterness between racial groupings. A good twentieth century example is Austro-Hungary, which collapsed at the end of World War I in 1918 and disintegrated into many states.

In demanding change, in criticizing our government's and country's failings, every American should keep in mind that the United States as a revolutionary experiment in the last two centuries has enjoyed remarkable success. It is still the country where the lowliest citizen, the poorest emigrant, can rise to the top, economically and socially.

What is wrong, all Americans should seek to remedy; but to protest so violently or divisively as to threaten the functioning of our democracy, the future of the nation, only serves the interests of those who have, all along, predicted that the American melting-pot experiment cannot permanently work.

When doctors go into conference, the probability is that the patient is either very sick or very rich.

Family mystery: How junior can know his lessons when he doesn't even look at his books.

John Tower
United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

Our country today is facing a tremendous challenge to overcome its own affluence. One cannot overstress the importance of conquering our waste reduction problems, our environmental protection requirements, and our need for non-pollutant energy sources.

These problems cannot be overcome by a simple refusal to utilize technological advancement, for our problems do not stem so much from technological advancement as from inefficient use of our resources and the sheer size of our population. We cannot conquer pollution by abandoning technological development. Actually, the reverse is true.

Technology is not man's enemy. Man himself is his own enemy. It is man who has not adequately understood his technology and has not guided it properly. It is man whose drive for material satisfaction has led to the exploitation of technology without proper regard for environmental and social impact. The answer to social and material advances for our society, and the answer to environmental protection, lies in the field of advanced technology. We are going to be able to clean up our environment and we are going to be able to provide for the disadvantaged and to help humanize our society, not through a discontinuation of technological research, but by pushing forward with technological advances and by utilizing these advances more intelligently than we have in the past.

One of the very practical social concerns of our society is the continuation of an adequate long-range energy supply relatively or totally free of pollutant efforts. The ultimate mechanical key to the satisfactory resolution of this problem may be ours when we learn to tap direct solar power. Thus far, efforts to convert solar power in large enough quantities to meet a significant portion of our energy demands have not been attainable. But with technological advancement, it may be possible in the future to trap solar energy in space, before it reaches the Earth's atmosphere, and then to transmit that energy, possibly through the use of laser beams, to power stations here on Earth. This is the type of advanced technology I have in mind. This is the type of technological advancement which might help us solve some of our environmental problems.

Another form of technological advancement which we must eagerly seek is that of expanding our capabilities for reusing or recycling of materials. The soundest technical solution to most forms of pollution is recycling.

To provide our population with all of the goods and services it desires, requires an enormous extraction of raw materials. Too often these materials are returned to "Mother Earth" in the form of junked automobiles, chemical wastes, gaseous by-products, non-biodegradable plastics and inadequately treated organic waste. This corruption of natural raw materials into substances which poison our earth, air and water cannot continue at present levels without disastrous effects. We must place greater emphasis on developing the technical processes for recycling waste materials.

While I firmly believe that the solution to many of our environmental problems lies in the development of technology, I would be irresponsible in the extreme if I did not candidly admit that we are going to have to pay the price of this advanced technology. The expense of recycling and pollution control will eventually be built into the price structure of the goods and services we purchase in the marketplace.

One of the few failings of our great economy is that it has not taken into account, in its price structure, the cost of pollution. As a result, not only has much of the pollution problem gone untreated, but where it has been treated it has been largely financed by the taxpayer rather than by the consumer. Of course taxpayers are also consumers; but the charges against product and service pollution would be more fairly apportioned if they were made against consumers rather than taxpayers. In that way each consumer would pay the price of his own pollution.

When we begin to assess the consumer for the full price of the goods and services he is purchasing, including the pollution caused by his purchase, there will then be in operation a natural brake on highly-pollutant activities, for the consumer will be restrained by the price of the product.

I have outlined here a philosophy I believe we must accept and pursue. As the Congress considers legislation affecting the environment, and indeed many other issues, we shall have to realize that technological advancement is required and that the cost of that advancement shall have to be reflected in the price or products and services.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service has recently announced a change in the dates for designating set-aside acres for the 1972 crop participation programs. Although the original ruling stated that set-aside acres for all crops must be designated at the time of sign up for the first participating crop, the change now makes it possible for producers to designate set-aside for each individual crop as they sign up for that particular crop. The final certification date has also been changed from July 15 to August 1.

On March 24, I contacted Undersecretary Campbell pointing out the hardship that would be placed on many Texas farmers if they were required to designate all set-aside at the time of first sign-up. I feel this most recent ruling is an indication of the Department's sincere desire to be responsive to the needs of America's farmers, and command them for this change which I feel will be most beneficial to Texans.

Capital NEWS

By BILL BOYKIN

AUSTIN, Tex.--The spiraling cost of welfare in Texas has leveled off, and no reduction in grants will be necessary this year, according to reports reaching Gov. Preston Smith.

Welfare demands are slowing down for the first time in a decade, and expenditures for 1973 may be less than in 1972, the Governor said.

Smith's reports indicated the cost of programs in fiscal 1973 may be $75 million less than the $347 estimated a year ago.

"It now appears most likely that grant payments to welfare recipients will not have to be cut, and we will still be able to stay within the constitutional limitation on spending," the Governor said.

Due to state constitutional ceiling on general revenue state expenditures for welfare assistance, a reduction in grants beginning September 1 had been regarded as unavoidable.

Main reason for the slowdown in the welfare's cost climb is a decline in old age assistance rolls and the fact that the increase in Aid to Families with Dependent Children eligibility has not been as large as anticipated.

AFDC rolls, expected to expand by 10,000 a month, actually grew about 5,000 monthly.

"There is still much work that needs to be done, but for the first time in recent years, I believe we now have a handle on the problems and have finally brought them under control," Smith stated.

He credited these factors as contributing to the cost leveling:

New controls over medical assistance expenses, improved management techniques, a program utilization review, more effective use of electronic data processing and a reduction of program abuse.

STARTS ALL OVER AGAIN--With the hard-fought first primary election just behind them, some candidates plunged right into the June 3 runoff campaign.

Of one thing they can be sure: the cost of campaigning, like everything else, is rising.

A hasty total of first primary expense-contribution reports indicates spending by the statewide candidates in contested races totalled more than $5 million. There is no telling how many millions were spent by congressional, legislative and local-county candidates in the rush to be first at the ballot box.

For most of the candidates, the race is over, but for a few the big one is just starting.

INSURANCE PLAN SUBMITTED--A personal injury protection plan for the motorist is proposed by State Insurance Board Chairman Larry Teaver as an alternative to controversial no-fault auto insurance.

Teaver will unveil his plan officially at the Board's annual hearing on auto insurance in July. It would eliminate uninsured motorist coverage and medical payments sections of standard auto policies. It would substitute a provision giving policyholders, without regard to fault in accidents, unlimited medical expenses, life insurance in event of fatal accident and income replacement guarantees.

Governor Smith, meanwhile, called on Teaver to intensify efforts to bring lower insurance rates for responsible young and elderly drivers. A reduction in rates for drivers under 25 would encourage them to drive safely and curb the accident toll, Smith contended.

DEATH RATE LOWER--Department of Public Safety reports the death rate from auto accidents last year was the lowest since 1962.

The number of deaths per 100 million travel miles was 5.1. This is the best figure since 1962's 4.9 per 100 million miles.

Still, 4,594 died in traffic accidents in 1971. Ninety-five per cent, DPS noted, wore no safety belts.

UNEMPLOYMENT DROPS--Texas Employment Commission noted a modest increase in the number of labor force participants during March and the lowest unemployment level since May, 1970.

The March unemployment figure was 167,000, representing 3.5 per cent of the workforce--20,000 fewer than for the same period last year.

Employment for the period increased 29,100. All segments reported gains, and the number of jobholders was up 2.2 per cent over the March-a-year-ago figure.

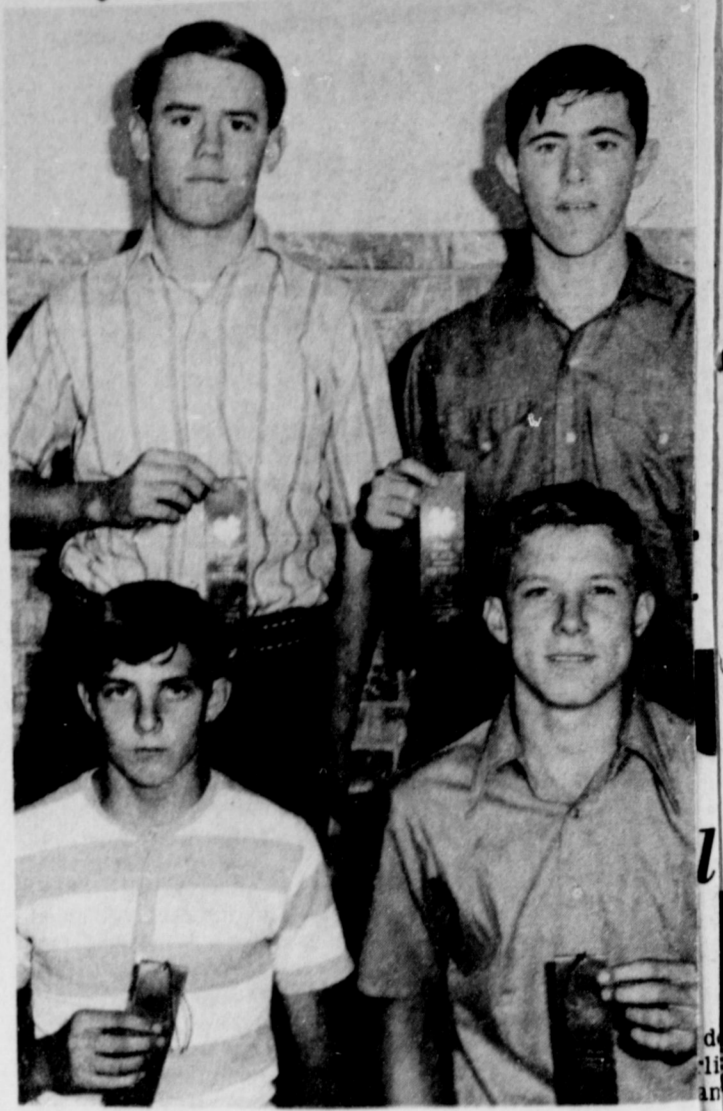

COURTS SPEAK--The U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans asked the U.S. Department of Justice to prepare a plan involving minimum busing of pupils which could be applied to the Austin Independent School District integration appeal.

Texas Supreme Court held a Lubbock nursing home with paying patients only is not entitled to a tax exemption as a charitable institution.

Court of Criminal Appeals reversed convictions in Dallas and Kinney County murder cases and overturned a 35-year prison sentence assessed a Dallas County man for possession of marijuana.

APPOINTMENTS-- Governor Smith appointed Frank W. Hustmyre, Orange attorney, district judge of the 128th judicial district, succeeding Judge James N. Neff who resigned.

House Speaker Rayford Price named to the powerful budget-writing appropriations committee Reps. Hilary Doran of Del Rio, vice-chairman; Fred Agnich of Dallas, William Brecklein of Dallas, Harold Davis of Austin, Grant Jones of Abilene, Mike Moncrief of Fort Worth, Walter Parker of Denton, Byron Poff Jr. of Amarillo, Bill Presnal of Bryan, Robert Salter of Gatesville and Bill Swanson of Houston. Nine others were picked on the basis of seniority. Rep.

Rifle Team Wins District

A rifle team composed of Aubrey Pitts, Durk Green, Jim Allison and Gary Don Gartin, all students in the Muleshoe Schools placed first in the District II 4-H Rifle Contest held in Lubbock on Saturday, May 6.

The rifle team represented Pleasant Valley 4-H Club and Lamb County. It was coached by Don Gartin.

This is the second year the rifle team has won first place in district competition.

The team will represent District II at the State 4-H Roundup at Texas A & M University at College Station, June 6-8.

...and God bless Mother

This little one is aware of his mother's tender care, and responds with love. It would be wonderful if all of us showed our love for our Mothers all of the time. Even if we have been a little neglectful, we have an opportunity to go all out this Sunday, and express to her our love and appreciation for her goodness to us. The Bible tells us to "Honour thy Father and thy Mother."

On this special Mother's Day attend church and share in celebrating this time with others.

EVER VOKE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERY VOKE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The ability to hear better in noisy places than in quiet locations may be a sign that you are suffering from a hearing loss. Officials urge persons who encounter this experience to have a hearing test, either by a medical ear specialist, at hearing clinic or by a hearing aid dialer.

Children who have hearing losses of more than 25 decibel (dB), but not more than 40 (dB) probably will require a hearing aid, may need speech reading, should be given preferential seating in classrooms, but should remain in regular schools.
