

Local Steer Second At Frisco Show

Howard County had annexed another of the leading livestock honors Monday at San Francisco, but for the third time this year the top Hereford was nudged by an Angus in the final round.

Low Of 34 Due Tonight

Tonight's Big Spring low is forecast as 34 degrees, just this side of freezing. This morning's low was recorded as 36 with the high today seen as 50 degrees. High tomorrow is forecast as 54 degrees. Possibility of scattered showers is seen for tomorrow and skies were likely to remain overcast.

Election day dawned cold in Texas' northern half and balmy in the south. A new norther had nipped the temperatures and was whipping Panhandle with more freezing temperatures and was whipping southeast.

Temperatures were mild ahead of the front—Brownsville had a pre-dawn low of 61—but were expected to drop fast as the cold front pushed in. The front was expected to blanket Texas by Wednesday daybreak.

Behind the front, Dalhart shivered in 24-degree morning cold. Amarillo had 27, Lubbock 30, and Wichita Falls 33. The nippy weather extended deep into Central Texas. Waco had 46.

Brisk winds made the cold seem colder. Only two points reported measurable rain. Houston .25 inch and Beaumont .06, but the Weather Bureau forecast rain over most of the state by Wednesday night.

Moist, Gulf air sliding up over the wedge of cold air was expected to set off showers along the coast Tuesday, spreading north over most of the state by Wednesday night. As the cold front approached the coast, the Weather Bureau ordered small craft warnings up from Brownsville, Tex., to St. Marks, Fla., for increasing northerly winds reaching 20-30 m.p.h. Tuesday and Tuesday night.

Three Teen-Agers Nabbed In Theft Of Car Hub Caps

Three teen-agers were in juvenile jail today after having been arrested in connection with recent hub cap thefts.

Juvenile Officer A. E. Long said this morning that the three have admitted stealing more than 30 hub caps, some of them over the weekend. Two of the youths are 15, and the other is 14.

They were arrested last evening in West Big Spring by Policemen J. D. Campbell and Vernell Johnson. Officers said that 21 hub caps now located at the station were found in the trunk of one youth's car.

The boys told Juvenile Officer Long that they sold about 12 of the automobile accessories prior to arrest. Patrolmen Campbell and Johnson arrested the youths after receiving a "tip" from Highway Patrolman Jimmy Parks, who noticed two hub caps in a car he had stopped as a open class, had the grand champion Hereford of the Grand National Livestock Show at San Francisco. To attain this honor with his classy 1,150-pound steer from the Smallwood ranch at Abilene, he had to nudge out the T-O entry of Sue White, Big Spring, who was showing in the 4-H Class. Sue's calf took reserve Hereford honors.

Grand championship of the show went to a 1,000-pound Aberdeen-Angus steer fed out by Penny & James of Hamilton, Mo., and Robinson's animal copped the reserve championship of the show.

This was the second time this year that the Howard County delegation has lost out in the final round at a major stock show. At Kansas City Jimmy Fryar had the top junior calf as well as top Hereford, while Robinson had the top Hereford in the open class. They both were nudged by an Angus in the final round.

County Agent Durward Lewler, who was in San Francisco for the judging, is expected to return here Tuesday evening. The club exhibitors will continue on to Ogden, Utah, to enter the show there.

Martin Case Set Nov. 15

First of the cases growing out of the tangled fiscal affairs of Martin County will go to trial in Sweetwater on Nov. 15.

Judge A. S. Mauzey set three cases involving former Martin County Judge James McMorris for trial on that date. Two are in connection with an alleged fence post trade between the former judge and Amos Jones, Marble Falls. The other has to do with a transaction between a Stanton cleaning shop and a Dallas tailor supply firm, according to District Attorney Gullford Jones, Big Spring.

The cases were transferred to the 32nd Judicial District on a change of venue from Martin County in September when Judge Charles Sullivan of the 118th District Court concluded it would be impossible to obtain a jury because of the widespread publicity concerning the probe into alleged irregularities of the county's finances.

The three youths now in jail will in all probability be arraigned and tried in juvenile court.

Orders Conflict On Impounding Of Duval Votes

Duval County ballots in Tuesday's general election were under separate—and apparently conflicting—impoundment orders by two district judges.

One order directed the ballots be safeguarded at Alice after polls close. The other said take them to Hebronville.

It wasn't known right off what the outcome would be. It has become almost standard practice in recent elections to impound ballots in Duval County, politically stormy halliwick of George Parr.

An order impounding Duval County ballots was issued at Laredo Monday night by 49th Dist. Judge R. D. Wright. He acted on an application by Duval County Atty. R. F. Luna. Wright ordered Duval election records taken to the Jim Hogg County district clerk at Hebronville.

At Alice Tuesday morning acting 79th Dist. Judge Ray Winder of Gainesville ordered ballots in Duval and Brooks counties impounded at Alice, county seat of Jim Wells County.

Winder acted on a request by Asst. Texas Atty. Gen. Willis Gresham.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepherd's office has been making an intensive investigation of conditions in Duval County, which along with Jim Wells, Brooks and Starr counties makes up the 79th District.

There were these events coincident with Tuesday's general election:

1. The state attorney general requested that all ballots in the four counties of the 79th Judicial District be impounded for safekeeping as soon as they are counted.

2. A new Duval County Grand Jury was sworn in after much argument from attorneys representing Parr.

3. A new grand jury at Houston subpoenaed records of Duval County and the Benavides Independent School District.

4. A transfer of cases involving former Duval County Auditor C. T. Stansell to Tarrant County was revealed by Judge Maxwell Welch of New-Boston.

Besides Duval County, the other counties whose ballots were to be impounded after counting today included Jim Wells, Starr and Brooks.

Political interest in the district centers around the district judgeship and district attorney post.

Democrat C. Woodrow Laughlin, removed from the 79th bench last spring by the State Supreme Court, faces State Rep. A. J. Vele, who announced as a write-in candidate, County Atty. Sam Burris is the Democrat nominee for district attorney and is opposed by independent Gerald Weatherly of Rio Grande City.

Local races stirred up some interest. Many loyal party members, too, wanted a good showing, for the vote for governor has a significant part in determining a delegate strength to the 1966 national presidential conventions.

In Dallas, where Democrat Wallace Savage and Republican Bruce Alger were running for Congress, some boxes reported early voting almost as heavy as the August run-off. Others, however, said it was light, slow or poor. Dallas expected about 40,000 to 45,000 votes.

Fort Worth reported voting "extremely light." Near-freezing temperatures and a working day were cited as major factors in holding down the vote during the early hours.

Abilene, too, reported voting "extremely light."

Borger had light voting but expected business to pick up during the afternoon.

Waco said the turnout was light

Voter Turnout Runs Higher Than Forecast Over Nation

Democrats Show Most Optimism

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's millions chose today between Republicans and Democrats to control the new Congress. And first reports from the polling places indicated neither party had reason for concern over voter apathy—something both had said they feared.

How much the last minute get-out-the-vote prodding by President Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson and other leaders on both sides had to do with it was uncertain, but fragmentary early surveys suggested heavy ballot boxes. Both parties had insisted in advance that such reports would be good news for them.

Actually there was no certainty that even the heat of the closing drives by the two parties had much to do with it. All along there had been some observers who clung to the view the voters had already made up their minds and were indifferent only to the politicians' pleas.

Whatever the reason, there were indications of a heavier than anticipated vote in Eastern population centers soon after the polls opened. And the trend appeared to be running that way westward across the country.

In New York City's Manhattan and Bronx districts, 30 per cent of the registered voters had cast ballots by 11 a. m., although it was raining and cold. The percentage was the same as had voted at that hour in idea weather in last year's mayoralty election.

In Brooklyn, voting started at a slower pace but soon picked up speed.

"Extremely heavy" was the report on early voting in the Maryland and Virginia suburbs of Washington. The capital itself is voteless.

In the 10th Virginia congressional district just across the Potomac from the capital, the early balloting was reported much heavier than normal for an off year with no presidential race. There was a bitter contest for the district's House seat between Republican Joel T. Brodyhill and Democrat John C. Webb.

Some election judges were predicting a voting record there.

From the biggest precinct in Prince Georges County, Md., just outside the District of Columbia, came a report of "terrific heavy" balloting with over 200 votes in the first hour out of a registration of about 3,000.

A judge at one of the houses in populous Silver Spring, Md., said the first hour count was the highest he had ever seen. At another box over 20 per cent of the eligibles had voted in the first hour.

In the Baltimore metropolitan district, election officials described the vote as "unexpectedly heavy."

In Chicago, the first hour's voting brought predictions of a very heavy turnout.

Similarly, Ohio cities had an early rush to the polls. New Jersey officials called the voting there normal but increasing in intensity.

The forenoon brought a few scattering returns from small precincts which had polled their entire registered vote. First in with a count was Hart's Location, N. H., always an early runner.

The little mountain community gave Democratic candidates in major races 6 votes to 4 for Republicans. Two years ago, the village voted Republican, 5-4. Since then, two voters have moved away and three newcomers have settled in Hart's Location.

Republicans, as they have in the past, mopped up the 14 votes of Point Aux Barques, Mich.

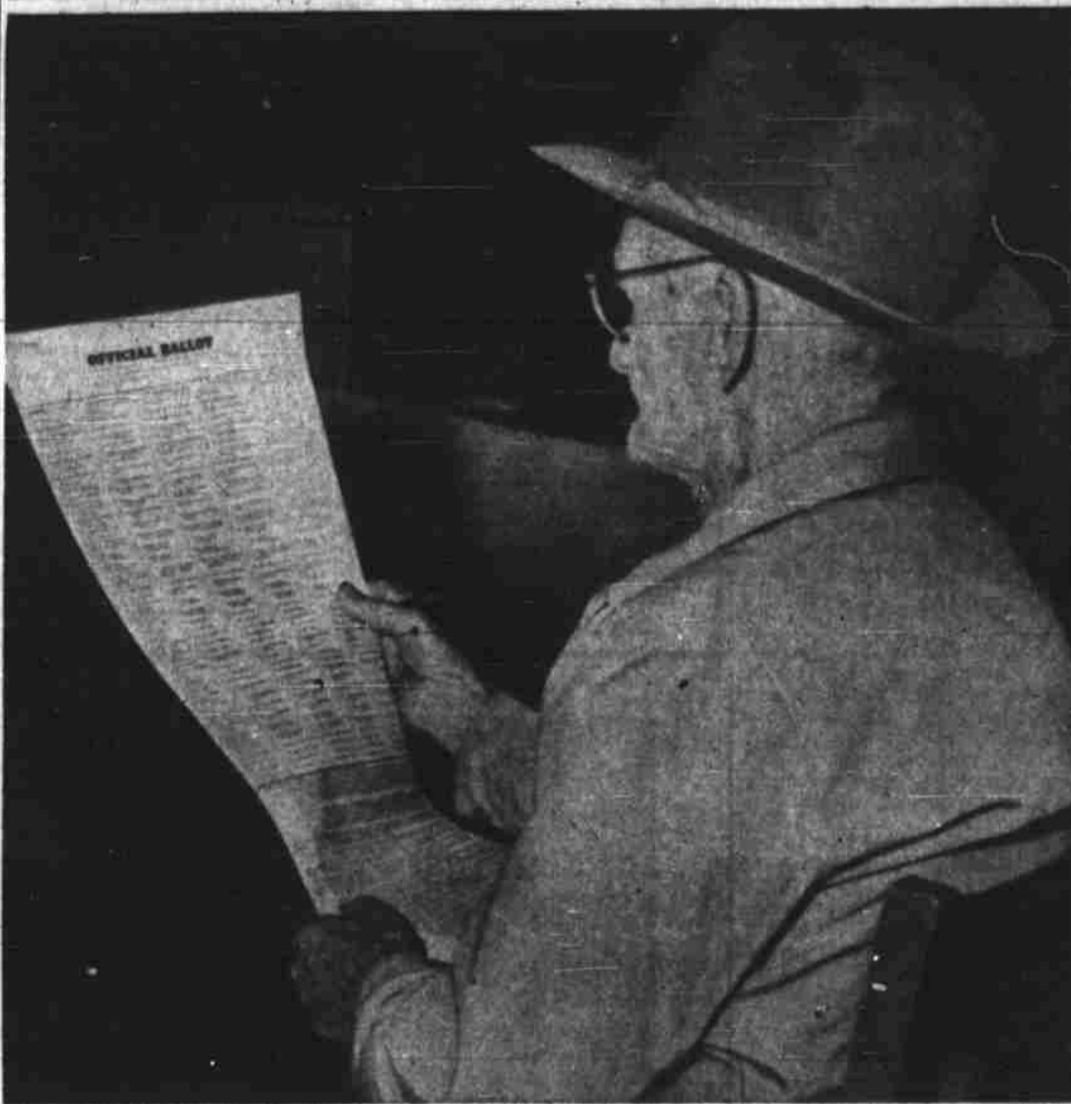

In addition to choosing the new Congress, voters are picking governors in 33 states and hundreds of local and state officials.

The campaign itself closed out last night with major appeals from both sides.

President Eisenhower from Washington told the voters "there is no such thing as sitting out" the election. He said in a nationwide radio-television broadcast that any absentee from the polls doubles the value of the ballot cast by a citizen of opposing views.

The President stuck rather closely to a nonpartisan approach. He called for voters to make up their minds "what program is more in

Big Ballot, Big Vote

B. S. Davis, 305 Benton, looks over one of the king-size general election ballots as he prepares to vote at Box No. 1, City Hall Fire Station. Davis was one of the first to vote and his vote loomed larger and larger as the day progresses with relatively few taking the time to go to the polls. A check of three city polling places at noon today showed a total of only 259 votes were cast during the morning. There were only 46 absentee ballots marked in the election. Voting was expected to pick up this afternoon, however.

Voting Pattern Varied Across State Of Texas

BY CLAYTON HICKERSON

By The Associated Press

Voting in Texas Tuesday was like the weather—brisk in spots, mild in others.

One election judge in Borger called the turnout "just a steady sprinkle."

On a statewide basis only the races for governor, U.S. senator, congressman-at-large and state commissioner of agriculture were contested. The state also voted on 11 proposed amendments to the state constitution.

No rain was reported in the state before noon to keep people at home. But in the northern part of the state cold weather was blamed for slow morning starts.

No big hullabaloo arose in any of the statewide contests, and observers stuck to their original prediction of about 500,000 votes—less than a third of the state's potential.

Local races stirred up some interest. Many loyal party members, too, wanted a good showing, for the vote for governor has a significant part in determining a delegate strength to the 1966 national presidential conventions.

In Dallas, where Democrat Wallace Savage and Republican Bruce Alger were running for Congress, some boxes reported early voting almost as heavy as the August run-off. Others, however, said it was light, slow or poor. Dallas expected about 40,000 to 45,000 votes.

Fort Worth reported voting "extremely light." Near-freezing temperatures and a working day were cited as major factors in holding down the vote during the early hours.

Abilene, too, reported voting "extremely light."

Borger had light voting but expected business to pick up during the afternoon.

Waco said the turnout was light in spite of the fact McLennan County was voting on the estimate dollar road bond issue. The millage was 16 to 20 per cent of the 33,000 voters in the county would vote.

Houston reported heavy voting. Most judges said it was as heavy or heavier as in the summer primaries. This would mean a vote of more than 100,000 in Harris County—unless the threatening weather interfered.

Houston had three elections—the general election, a city election for mayor and three councilmen and a school board election for three members of the board.

The Houston mayor's race was hot. Incumbent Roy Hofheinz was opposed by Louis Welch, former city councilman, and Alvin S. Moody, an attorney.

It was on a nationwide Democratic victory that Texans—because every member of Congress from Texas is a Democrat—stood to gain the most.

If the Democrats should win, the party would take over re-organization of the U.S. House and U.S. Senate, now organized by Republicans, none from Texas.

Such a victory would elevate Rep. Rayburn to his former post of Speaker of the House and would make Senator Johnson the Senate Majority Leader. Both positions are among the most powerful in the federal government.

Two other Texans, Rep. Olin Teague of College Station and Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson, would be elevated to committee chairmanships, both all-powerful posts in the scheme of things in Washington.

Although Teague and Burleson are comparatively new members of the House when compared to a 21-term veteran such as Rayburn; they would occupy positions it has taken others decades to attain. Teague would become chairman of the important House Committee on Veterans Affairs while Burleson would take over chairmanship of the very important House Administration Committee.

Reports that Liberal Democrats in the state might vote Republican in retaliation to Gov. Shivers seemed just rumors on the eve of the voting.

Ralph Yarborough, who carried the Liberal banner in the primary campaigns only to lose by some $2,000 votes in the run-off, said he would certainly vote for the party's nominee.

"By voting for him as a Democrat," Yarborough said of Shivers, "you can defeat his plan to destroy the Democratic Party in 1956."

Precinct voting strength in county conventions in 1956, he explained, will be determined by the precinct total vote in Tuesday's governor's election.

Yarborough said he would vote for all 11 constitutional amendments as well as for Shivers.

Lower Gas Price Seen

The consensus among service station operators here is that Big Spring residents can look forward to buying cheaper gas in the near future.

This opinion was expressed in a meeting of service station operators at the Chamber of Commerce last night. Representatives of practically all gasoline stations were present.

The operators discussed prospects for a leveling off of gasoline prices, but there were too many circumstances standing in the way.

The gasoline outlook with the various companies differed so that a general price level appeared impossible to those attending.

Some dealers at the meeting expressed the opinion that Big Spring will have a "real" gas war in the immediate future such as that now under way in Midland. The price cuts here up to now have been described as a "limited" gas war.

UF Drive Feared Behind Schedule

Last scheduled reports were to be heard at noon today in the United Fund campaign, but as late contributions were being tabulated drive leaders were fearful the $82,151 would not be reached on schedule.

The big question mark was in the Employe Division, which prior substantial contributions. If these come through at the last minute, the goal will be attained, said Dick Simpson, general campaign chairman. Otherwise, the drive will be continued.

Pledges and contributions prior to today's reports totaled $65,258. This was 79 per cent of the goal.

Simpson was to preside at today's meeting. One of the highlights was to be the presentation of awards to top campaign workers, including division chairmen who exceeded their quotas.

The only person assured of a trophy prior to the reports was Mrs. Norman Read, whose Women's Division has collected $1,300 or 100 per cent of its quota.

The desk-top trophies are to go to all division chairmen attaining their quotas by the time the campaign is ended, as well as to the top worker in each division and the section chairman in whose section the top worker turns in the report.

Her father told her when she was a little girl, she said, that "it wasn't safe for a woman to vote." (AP Wirephoto).

Shepherd Drops School Poll Plan On Segregation

AUSTIN (U) — State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepherd says there is no use polling school students on segregation if it can't be a surprise.

Shepherd's office asked for a poll in high schools at Marshall and Waco yesterday to get the students' feelings on segregation. Then he cancelled the polls suddenly when it was called to public attention.

He said the poll's only possible value had been in spontaneous answers given quickly without outside influence.

The attorney general said he had hoped to use the responses to the poll as "a very small part" of the brief his department is preparing for the U.S. Supreme Court in joining with an appeal against the desegregation ruling.

Batista Celebrates Victory In Election

By SAM SUMMERLIN
HAVANA, Cuba, (U) — Maj. Gen. Fulgencio Batista and his supporters celebrated victory early today as election returns gave the former army sergeant a commanding lead in his presidential race against the opponent who quit the fight at the 23rd hour.

The official count reported at 2 a.m. today by the electoral tribunal showed Batista with 186,500 votes from yesterday's balloting to 12,950 for ex-President Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau withdrew Sunday night and ordered his followers to boycott the election. The official returns were from only 647 of the 8,000 polling places.

Semi-official returns announced at the same time from army headquarters credited Batista with 954,857 votes to 135,417 for Grau. This count was based on 8,017 polling places.

Army headquarters said Batista was carrying with him to victory most of the candidates of his four-party coalition for congressional, provincial and municipal offices, including vice presidential candidate Rafael Gusas Inclan.

The Cuban strong man accused Grau of withdrawing because "he felt he would lose."

Grau, in quitting, accused the Batista regime of using terrorism to intimidate voters, but his name still appeared on the ballots.

DATE DATA

By Beverly Brandow

First Date Kiss?

What about a first date kiss? Could you ever, ever kiss a person the first time you are out together?

The standard answer is "no" and usually it's a plenty good one, but let's be human and admit that there can be exceptions.

You may meet a girl and know instantly that she's the gal who's going to be your "steady," however, though your intentions may be the highest and sincerest, trying for a kiss too soon may make her think you are fresh or the wrong kind of a boy for to be dating.

She may need a little time to like you as much as you like her. Rushing things too fast could get you nowhere quick.

If you are a girl, and really like the fellow, patience is a must. Even though he makes the advances, he may be testing you to find out if you will kiss him, and if you will, he may conclude that your kisses are too easily won to have much value.

Yet, in spite of the reasons against first date kisses, there are once-in-a-blue-moon occasions which make the risks involved worthwhile. For instance, if you have a date with a person you really, really like and that person has so many other friends, and diverting interests you might well be forgotten as just "another date" unless you make the date a memorable one.

Naturally your personality can do a great deal, too. An interested boy can pursue a girl, but once a fellow gets away, the girl is pretty helpless to call him back. Hence the need for a kiss. This is especially true if the date is a blind one; if the couple attend different high schools, or live across town from each other, or even in different towns.

Even so, don't overdo it. A little restraint has its own merit in arousing interest.

School Changes Before Voters In Deep South

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wide range of special issues—from school segregation to social security—face voters today in 37 states.

In addition to selecting senators, representatives and state officers, voters will decide the fate of 232 constitutional amendments, initiatives and referendum proposals.

Most involve complex bond issues, tax questions and proposed changes in legislative procedures. Georgia and Louisiana voters tackle perhaps the most widely watched proposals, designed to avoid mingling of white and Negro children in grade and high schools.

The Supreme Court has ruled public school segregation unconstitutional.

A proposed constitutional amendment in Georgia would authorize the state to advance public funds to private individuals for educational purposes. If approved as expected, this would clear the way for eventual elimination of the Georgia public school system and its replacement by state-supported private schools.

South Carolina took a similar step two years ago by voting to eliminate a state constitutional clause requiring free public schools.

Louisiana voters are expected to approve a proposed constitutional amendment invoking the "state police power" to continue segregated elementary and secondary schools "to promote and protect public health, better education and the peace and good order in the state and not because of race."

In a showdown, this might pit the 10th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which grants police powers to the states, against the 14th Amendment, which guarantees equal rights for all citizens.

Mississippi votes on a proposal to require that potential voters be able to read and understand the Constitution. Legislative debate produced the acknowledgement that this is designed to reduce the number of Negro voters.

Both Louisiana and Michigan decide whether to pay special bonuses to Korean War veterans and their dependents.

Michigan also votes on a hotly debated proposal to legalize bingo, under state control, for nonprofit charitable organizations.

Washington state decides whether to ban TV liquor advertising between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. This is one of several local liquor issues throughout the country.

Sterling, Nolan Put On Drought Aid List

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers said Monday he had been told the U.S. Department of Agriculture has approved 17 more Texas counties for drought disaster relief.

They are Clay, Coke, DeWitt, Garza, Guadalupe, Hardeman, Haskell, Irion, Karnes, Live Oak, McMullen, Motley, Nolan, Shackelford, Sterling, Sutton and Tom Green.

The new designations bring the total of counties approved for the relief to 127.

Whiteface Is Landmark

The giant plastic Hereford bull atop the 90-foot pylon in front of the new headquarters building of the American Hereford Association, which was lighted up for the first time Oct. 18, has already become a landmark on the Kansas City skyline, both by day and night. The bull, in true colors, is lighted from within and can be seen for many miles, especially by air travelers. The bull is 19 feet long and 12 feet high and perfectly proportioned.

A Bantam Book (25-cent) edition of J. Frank Dobie's "A Vaquero of the Brush Country" is due to reach all the nation's hundred thousand newsstands in the next few days.

This is the Austin author's story of John Young of Alpine, who was sheriff, Texas Ranger, trail driver, hunter of Mexican bandits, killer of horse thieves, fighter of prairie fires and ranch manager. Earlier Bantam Books reprinted Dobie's "The Mustangs."

Hereford breeding cattle will complete for $13,800 in premium money at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, Jan. 23 through Feb. 6, and this amount does not include the cash premiums totaling $2,335 and offered for the Hereford bulls in the carlot and pen divisions.

Among the classes for which this prize money is offered in addition to the grand and reserve champion bulls and females, there will be the best three bulls owned by one exhibitor; best two females bred and owned by one exhibitor; get of sire, both sexes to be represented and all to be owned by one exhibitor, junior get of sire, both sexes to be represented, four calves, all owned by one exhibitor; pair of yearlings, one summer or junior yearling bull and one summer or junior yearling heifer; pair of calves, one junior, senior or summer bull calf and one junior, senior or summer heifer calf.

Deadline for livestock entries is Dec. 15. George T. Halsell is superintendent of the Hereford division. He will be assisted by Leon Turner.

For a long time Bruce Frazier of Howard County Junior College has been insisting that the way to deal with mesquite, as with all other desert plants, is to find some good use for it.

That is what a Dimmit County rancher has done, according to Dr. Carl H. Moore, agricultural economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.

Last winter this rancher carried 300 calves through on a ration of cottonseed meal (about 10 per cent), molasses (about 25 per cent), and ground mesquite.

All the mesquite plant, branches, leaves and beans, were utilized. The mesquite was put through a chipping machine, cutting the wood into from one-inch to two-inch chips. These chips were blown into a grinder set with

Bing Crosby Set To Return To Air

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bing Crosby is returning to radio, starting Nov. 22. He will be heard Monday through Friday on CBS from 9:15 to 9:30 p.m. It will be the same type of program that skyrocketed the crooner to fame nearly 25 years ago.

finished combining his grain sorghum he didn't need to make any change at all in the combine to harvest the guar.

Eldon Moody, who farms near Lamesa, says he plans to build some contour borders on dry land. These borders are easily built, from eight to 12 inches high, and it is estimated they will hold all of a five to six-inch rain without losing a drop. Some farmers on flat land prefer borders to terraces because they can be maintained very easily.

Jack Baldwin has had contour lines run on his farm northeast of Lamesa. Dawson County farmers are still drilling small grains for pasture and cover crops. Bob Koger has 100 acres of small grain up to a good stand. Earl Barron has drilled small grain on terraces to protect them from wind and water erosion. Among others who have planted small grains for pasture and protection are Olga Fitzgerald of Punkin Center, Bob Leath of Evaline, Walter Burkett and Sid Wristen of Midway. Walter and Herman Burkett are working their old terraces with a whirlwind terracer.

Two years ago the big pasture on the W. T. Dabbs Ranch, half a mile west of Horn Chapel in Mitchell County, or six miles northwest of Colorado City, was bare of grass with the exception of some Tobosa and a few apparently dead clumps of Alkali Sacaton. This was about as far gone as a pasture can go and still produce beef.

At this point Mr. Dabbs established a supplemental pasture to handle his cattle. He used small grains, Sudan and Blue Panic grass to do this, but the drought didn't give the Blue Panic much of a chance to help him. The stand of Blue Panic was good enough not to plow up, however, and now in the second year it is fairly well established and promises to provide supplemental grazing in the years ahead.

For two years now, Mr. Dabbs has been able to keep his cattle off his big pasture, and while at the present there isn't a complete stand of grass on it, the hills and flats that had a partial cover have a good start of Buffalo Grass and Black Grama coming back on them. The supposedly dead clumps of Alkali Sacaton have grown larger and are showing up through the Tobosa. This Sacaton has made a good seed crop this year. Some spots that were completely bare a couple of years ago still don't show any improvement so far as good perennial range grasses are concerned, but these spots have been improved by weeds and some annual grasses, and these, in turn, will provide a litter which will serve as a nesting place for the better grasses to move into later. This grass-and-weed litter will channel more moisture into the soil and hold it there, it will keep down the soil temperature, and thus prevent, in a large measure, the evaporation of such moisture as does get into the ground. The good grasses cannot be expected to come in until there is a good litter for them to grow in. After that, and with proper handling, they will produce their own litter. Mr. Dabbs has expressed himself as mighty well pleased with the results of his pasture resting plan. Other pastures over the area, particularly in Glasscock County, that have been deferred for even shorter periods show great improvement.

We're Ripe For A Campaign Which Might At Least Clean Up Downtown

Walking downtown, our eyes fell upon a "beautiful" sight right in the midst of the area which is supposed to be capable of attracting business. And what did we see?

To a place which they will not keep attractive on the exterior? As for those vacant situations, isn't there some way that heaps of border and gutter junk can be cleared from them?

Save Sympathy For Those Who Have Yet To Store Away Memories

One of the compensations of accumulated years is the remembrance of things long gone, the accidental recapture of a pleasant moment presumably forgotten forever, the return of a state of exaltation one supposed could never quite be recaptured again.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs Administration Prestige Has Been Gambled On Today's Vote

CHICAGO — In the last days of the campaign Republicans in state after state bombarded the White House with appeals for direct assistance from President Eisenhower. The whole prestige of the Administration, in effect, has been gambled on the outcome of tomorrow's elections.

But for each one who has appealed openly, according to those close to the direction of the campaign, a dozen others have wired the Republican National Committee and friends in the White House pleading for the last-minute grace of the President's beaming smile and his hearty word of endorsement. This has put the President in a difficult position.

Congressional Campaign Hasn't Been What Eisenhower Had Hoped It To Be

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON, (AP)—No matter who wins today's elections — Democrats or Republicans — the 1954 campaign hasn't been the kind President Eisenhower had in mind. In 1953 he indicated he wouldn't be very active in this year's campaign. But he was. In 1953 he expressed hope Communists-in-government wouldn't be a campaign issue this year. But it was.

publican politicians happy. And in his next news conference, a week later, Eisenhower said he wanted to see a Republican Congress elected in 1954.

NEW YORK — In the great lonely, angry, embittered men. Almost invariably he feels he lost because of two reasons: 1. His own party friends knifed him by failing to carry out their pre-campaign pledges.

Winchester Model 1894 Carbine Stays Popular After 50 Years

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald. — Editor's Note.

Not so long ago I heard the Winchester Model 1894 carbine, usually in the .30-30 caliber, described as the gun that has killed more men, more deer, and that has stood as best man at more weddings than any other gun in the history of the West.

And I suppose that if a man could lift the truth from the rumors he would probably find that to be literally true. The Winchester Repeating Arms Company admits that it is "America's favorite deer gun."

Now, with the hunting season just around the bend in the calendar all sorts of expensive rifles, and reconditioned old models, are being brought out and oiled up and sighted-in, some of them with power enough to stop a tank, drop a jet plane from its flight or to knock an elephant down for keeps, and yet with all this there will still be plenty of .30-30s, mainly Winchester 94s, that will also go out into hills and bring home the bacon in the form of a deer or elk or bear.

But something about this rifle that is another invention of the late John M. Browning, whose name has become famous throughout the world in connection with shotguns, machine guns, automatic rifles and automatic pistols.

Austin Recollections—Raymond Brooks Political Playback

As a freak episode that happened in a political campaign, this belongs in history's footnotes. But I think the name of a senator should drop out of such memory of it that lasts. There are few to remember. Two of the principals are dead. We never heard the name of the third.

Several speakers went along with the late Ross S. Sterling when he campaigned for governor. He was a business man, not a speaker. One of the group was a senator of the old formal political school, and of the aristocratic pattern. And he was a man of known quick temper.

On this platform were the candidate, the speakers, the political notables of the city, and several of the city's most socially prominent women.

When the senator started speaking, this spectator began to heckle him, loud and frequently. The senator flushed in anger, stopped talking, pointed at the gawling figure, and shouted: "Just look at him. I'll bet you he hasn't got five cents in his pocket."

POTOMAC FEVER

WASHINGTON — Democrats forecast victory and Republicans claim an "up-surge." Either way you look at it, the deficit will be under experienced management.

Both parties wind up their campaign for Congress. Tuesday there will be brief pause for station identification. Wednesday the 1956 presidential campaign will get under way.

Joe McCarthy's friends are expected to charge the press with prejudice: Crowding him off the front page to make room for a bunch of little, local elections, involving nothing but Republicans and Democrats.

President Ike phones 10 friends and urges them to vote Republican and call 10 of their friends. Private enterprise fans say the plan can't miss. It will either bring another GOP Congress — or another AT&T dividend.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Petty were Mrs. Frank Morgan, Frankie Mae Morgan, Mrs. J. M. Morgan and Mrs. Ray Shaw. The rooms were decorated with fall flowers and a wood fire burned in the open fireplace. Punch was served from a crystal service and white candles were used in crystal holders. Mrs. Petty, Mrs. J. M. Morgan and the honoree greeted guests. Actress Linda Leighton, NBC star of the "One Man's Family" series, tells Lydia Lane how she developed a fashion sense. She also stresses the importance of being worry-free if you want beauty.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY Find Your Own Style Of Dress, Says Star

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—Linda Leighton is known to her TV fans as Hazel on the "One Man's Family" show. And if you have a mirrored how gracefully she carries herself, it is because she was one of New York's top models. "I went to New York from Texas and decided I would try the top agency first. Much to my surprise they signed me," Linda told me as we chatted on the set at NBC. "What did you have that enabled you to meet such potent competition?" "It was my wholesomeness. I was well scrubbed and natural. I think it is nice to hold on to these qualities as long as you can." "I quickly learned what she learned from her experience as a model. The routine procedure is to classify you as to type. You are sent to a top photographer who takes your picture in every conceivable costume. I had about twenty costume changes and it was quite apparent that the dramatic clothes which were my first choice did nothing for me," Linda laughed. "In the picture they chose for the book, I was wearing a round off-the-face hat and a soft peter pan-type collar. "Seeing is believing. Nothing but these pictures would have convinced me that I was dressing all wrong. I strongly recommend every girl getting snapshots of herself in a variety of costumes. You can be so much more objective this way than by using a mirror. "Another thing I learned," Linda continued, "was that one good dress is worth three bargains. You usually get what you pay for. If you choose a dress that is well made but basically simple you can dress it up with pearls and jewelry, or down with scarves and sweaters. "I wanted to know what Hollywood had taught Linda. "That worry is the arch enemy to beauty. When you get tied up in knots you cause lines to be etched in your face and you tear yourself down in every way. "When you do five live TV shows a week, run a house, work at being a good wife and mother you could be writing a ticket for a nervous breakdown. But I've learned the hard way to take each task as it comes and to close my mind to the other things that must be done. I live by a motto which has saved me many times. When I feel my motor starting to race inside I murmur, "Life is hard by the yard but by the inch it's a cinch."

Half Of Population Not Church-Goers, Church Women Told

Nearly one-half of the population of Big Spring is outside the church, it was concluded by Mrs. H. G. Keaton at the final session of the study of "The City" sponsored by the United Council of Church Women.

Mrs. Keaton, who has been directing the study, quoted that about half of the country's population is un-church-ed and by contacting all local ministers she found the same situation on the local level. She offered as a challenge, "What are you doing to reach the unchurched people?" Mrs. Clyde Thomas Sr. gave a report on the Negroes and told what is being done for them. Mrs. Darrell Webb gave a similar report on Latin-Americans.

Newspapers Are A Vital Part A Natural Part OF YOUR Daily Life . . . !

Your newspaper is with you all through life . . . It tells of your birth . . . It tells of your passing . . . it brings you the big news of the national and international scene and at the same time it brings you the small news of your home town . . . the big and small events . . . you enjoy the color of its sports pages . . . your wife dresses by its fashion columns . . . she paints the kitchen by the home decorating column . . . the kids laugh at the comics and you value the reasoning of its editorial columns . . . In short? It is a vital everyday part of you . . . you read it, you enjoy it, and above all you have confidence in it.

Newspapers are—more than any other medium—the servant of the public interest . . . they are the tie that binds the community together . . . the good friend to whom the Community Chest . . . the Chamber of Commerce . . . the P-TA . . . the Church . . . the City Council . . . or the aroused citizens turn to when they need help in accomplishing those countless things that make Texas a good place to live . . . Yes, even the little tot who has lost his dog knows who can best help him . . . his Newspaper.

It's the newspaper, too, who—day in and day out—is the staunchest friend and partner of business . . . Its news columns tell of your growth . . . It voices your opinions when others attack you . . . It carries the good news of your promotions . . . and besides all of that it is constantly striving to help you prosper through advertising . . . Yes, let's don't forget the advertising . . . Advertising in today's newspaper is just as important as its news reporting . . . proven by the fact that 19 out of 20 women readers and 16 out of 20 men readers read newspaper advertising EVERY DAY! . . . these are the same men and women who make up the great buying public.

Market research today tells us that the women do most of the buying . . . those same 19 out of 20 women who read newspaper advertising every day.

The same women who buy 80 per cent of ALL home purchases . . . they are the same women who buy the groceries, the clothes and the furniture for the home. And what does the woman as the purchasing agent of the home think of her newspaper? To her it's an absolute necessity to aid her in her buying decisions . . . All of us know how the housewife actually "shops" the ads for her food purchases.

The woman not only wants advertising in her newspaper—she expects it . . . As a matter of fact the American housewife and her husband consider the newspaper such a necessity that they spend more money for newspapers than they do for ALL their other reading matter combined! . . . More than ONE BILLION DOLLARS a year . . . and at five cents a purchase that's a lot of newspapers!

Yes, that is a lot of newspapers . . . How many? 54 and a half million copies EVERY day! And that isn't just one year's record . . . Mr. and Mrs. America are sold on newspapers all the time . . . year in and year out . . . and have been for scores and scores of years.

And how do advertisers evaluate newspapers as compared to other media?

Advertisers in the U.S. spend TWICE as much in newspapers as they do in any other medium . . . One third of the SIX AND ONE HALF BILLION dollars spent annually in advertising is spent in newspapers!

That is convincing evidence that newspapers are the BEST value in advertising.

Proven by advertisers themselves! By the fact that they spend one third of all advertising money . . . amounting to SIX AND ONE HALF BILLION DOLLARS in newspapers . . . and let us emphasize the fact that that covers ALL advertising . . . newspapers, radio, television, magazines, outdoor, car cards, direct mail . . . every medium . . . newspapers get one third of all those advertising dollars.

There Can Be Only One Reason RESULTS!

Newspapers Sell The Best!

Jury Answers Special Issues

A jury answered five of seven special issues submitted in the trial of a damages suit in 118th District Court Monday, but no judgment has been entered in the case.

The suit was brought by W. L. Eggleston against Richard Bowerman and wife and asked judgment for $37,500 for damages to a car and for loss of use of the vehicle resulting from a collision at Eleventh Place and Goliad.

The jury found that Mrs. Bowerman failed to keep a proper lookout prior to the collision and that failure to do so was "proximate cause" of the collision. It found, however, that Mrs. Bowerman did not fail to yield right-of-way to the Eggleston car.

The jury said that cost of repairing damages to the Eggleston vehicle was $402.50 but that there was no compensation due for loss of use of the vehicle.

Jurors were Bob Satterwhite, foreman, and Doyle Thomas, C. L. Coffman, T. A. Harris Jr., Charles H. Houston, Alfred G. Martell, Roy Lee, J. C. Humphries, Paul D. Sledge, Jeff Painter, L. C. Underwood Jr., and Eil McComb.

Dodge Men See '55 Models With Drastic Changes

A stimulant for sales enthusiasm to come in the next few weeks was provided for Dodge dealers all over Texas this past weekend, as they gathered in Fort Worth for an impressive showing of the Dodge line for 1955.

H. G. Jones and Tom Guis of Jones Motor Company were on hand with fellow dealers of the region, to talk with Dodge officials and to witness a colorful array of the 1955 models, representing some of the most drastic changes in Dodge history.

The 1955 public presentation is to be backed up by the strongest advertising campaign the company has ever devised. Newspapers, magazines, radio, TV, billboards and other methods are being set up for record budgets.

Dealers were enthusiastic over the product itself. Dodge has made sweeping changes in body designs, with the longer, lower, wider look achieved by additional body length and different treatment of hood, rear deck, door and fender lines.

There is a "different" new panoramic windshield. The horsepower rating is stepped up, too, to make possible a car of top engineering performance.

Stressing appearance more heavily than ever before, Dodge is adapting flashy colors, and will have some models in three-tone color combinations. Interior appointments are more luxurious, with the instrument panel following a "cockpit" arrangement, and with upholstery fabrics and colors of greater refinement.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of our kind friends and neighbors for their many kind expressions of sympathy and condolence during our recent bereavement.

Four Youngsters Die In Explosion

ASHTABULA, Ohio, (AP)—Joint funeral services were arranged today for four youngsters who died yesterday when a stove exploded and burned down a small rural home.

Ashtabula County sheriff's deputies said the stove was fueled with bottled gas. What caused the blast wasn't known.

Dead were Richard R. Tryon, 4, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Tryon, and three children of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gordon Riggs; Kathryn, 11 months, Erlene, 3, and Richard, 2.

Mrs. Tryon, who lived in a house trailer near the Riggs house, was minding the children while the other parents were at work. The explosion blew her out of the house. Flames stopped her rescue efforts.

Large Sums Of Money Await Missing Persons Once In Area

Today's the day we start looking for 38 residents of this area or former residents, so they can share in a $25,000 windfall.

There are sums ranging from a few dollars to $5,000 waiting for each of these 38 persons, and all they have to do is step up and claim them. It's something in the nature of a treasure hunt throughout the metropolitan area for men or women or their heirs who have forgotten their own valuable stocks and cash interests await them.

Starting today, the Big Spring Herald, in cooperation with the Tracers Company of America, 515 Madison, New York, N. Y., will publish the names of missing stockholders—12 names today—a long with their last known addresses. Some of the addresses are 15 or 20 years old. Some are as old as 30 or 40 years.

The Tracers Company, acting as agents for various corporations, wants to locate these people so the corporations can pay the accumulated dividends and other cash surpluses. All you have to do is check the list. See if your name is on it. If your name isn't there, maybe there will be the name of a relative or someone about whom you know something. Any information you have is valuable—and it might be profitable to you.

If you have any information about the people on this list, just sit down and write a letter to Dan Eisenberg, president of Tracers Company of America, and tell him about it. Do not phone or write the Herald. Mr. Eisenberg is the man with all the information. If you are not on the list today, keep your chin up, and look again tomorrow and Friday.

The people on the lists are stockholders who either have forgotten they own the stock, or have misplaced or lost the certificates. Some do not know they are the rightful heirs to the "Forgotten Fortunes." They will get the accumulated dividends or other cash interest if they can prove that they are the rightful owners of the stock.

Before you conclude, arbitrarily, that you could not be one of the missing stockholders, listen to this: Many of the persons who have received large sums of money never knew that they owned the stocks until Tracers Company started looking for them. Back in the late 1920's husbands often bought stocks on the sly without telling their wives. Today some of the stocks are worth several times the original investment—if the widows who owned them only knew how to collect.

And since the depression of the 1930's, many corporations have merged resulting in changed names of the businesses. Some of the missing stockholders, unaware of the change in name may think they hold worthless stock in a defunct corporation. Maybe one of your relatives bought stock in your name. Who knows?

A few of the people on today's list have sizable sums coming to them. Take the case of Leslie V. Milance. He can pick up over $4,000 just for the asking. Sandra Lustig, formerly of Stamford, about $1,800 and a few hundred dollars awaits Allan W. Burbank who lived in Wink around 1932. Milance, a former stock salesman was in Ballinger during the late 1920's or early 1930's. Information has it that he went there for a large oil concern. However, the money that is awaiting him is for an investment he made in steel. Sandra Lustig, former show girl of the early 1920s reportedly married a Texas cattle merchant and a lead indicates she is somewhere in Southern Texas. Oddly enough, Sandra's marriage conformed with her investment—in a dairy concern.

If you are on this list or have any information about any of these people, write Tracers Company of America, 515 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.—and keep watching the lists every day. Here's today's names and their last known addresses:

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Last time I said that the Zuider Zee vanished between my visit to Holland in 1928 and my present visit. Now the question comes: "How was the shallow sea turned into a fresh water lake and areas of dry land?"

To a large degree, the change was brought about by a dike, or dam. Other things were needed to complete the change, but the dike was the key.

Huge electric pumps have helped the Dutch in the Zuider Zee project. One will pump 250,000 gallons of water a minute.

After long planning, the Dutch experts decided on the best place to cut off the Zuider Zee. Then they started to construct a hill almost 20 miles long. You may call it a dike, if you wish, but at first it was a sandy ridge, or low hill. It was meant to stretch from the province of Friesland to one edge of the province of North Holland. Mattresses made of willow branches were lowered to the bottom. Stones were dropped on these until they were borne down by great weight.

Different kinds of dredges were used, some of them being pump dredges. The dredging was done in several places at the same time. At length only two gaps remained to be filled. By this time, the tide was making trouble by forming strong currents. A report came of an approaching storm. Engineers feared that a vital part of the wall would be swept away.

An alarm went out, and all manner of boats gathered to fight the threatened trouble. Tugs, floating cranes and hopper barges answered the call. New support was given to the wall, and it stood the strain. After the next-to-last gap was closed, the ocean seemed to give up the main effort to destroy what man had done. There was little trouble when the last gap was closed on a May day, 22 years and seven months ago. A throng gathered to watch. Later a monument was reared above the place where the gap was closed. On the monument are words with this meaning: "A nation that lives builds its own future."

Ford Line For '55 Presented To Dealers

There is far more than a "face lifting" in the Ford for 1955. This became obviously apparent in Fort Worth over the weekend, when Ford made a private showing of its new models for dealers in the Texas zone. An impressive presentation was made for dealers and the press at the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum.

V. A. Merrick and John Fort of Big Spring Motor Company were on hand with other dealers for an all-day session which featured talks by Ford officials, sales and promotion plans, and a full presentation of the Ford changes.

Date for public showing of the 1955 line has not been officially announced, but is due to be some time this month.

Ford has gone in for increased horsepower, in engine refinements, but even more markedly has stressed refinement of body lines, development of more elaborate interiors, and the overall building of "big car" quality. There are some new body styles that brought high enthusiasm from the dealer group. High color marks body trim, with heavier use of chrome, and the over all design is touched off with a new panoramic windshield.
