Okay Is Given Defense Pact At Conference

QUITANDIANHA, Brazil—(AP)—A mutual defense treaty providing collective action to block aggression against the territory of any American state was unanimously approved yesterday by the 19 North and South American Republics participating in the Inter-American conference.

The accord was approved by a standing vote of the chief delegates assembled at the semi-circular conference table in the chamber that once was the night club of the Quitandinha Resort Hotel.

It followed article-by-article voting in which all 19 delegations were consistently unanimous in approval. The last articles to be so adopted were those defining aggression to which the pact will apply and specifying enforcement measures.

Nicaragua, unrepresented because her government was unrecognized at the conference opening, and Ecuador, whose delegation withdrew after its president was deposed in a coup d'etat a week ago, are the only American Republics not participating in the creation of the history-making pact, but they may become parties to it later. Canada also may adhere to the mutual defense pact if the chooses.

The treaty, written in two weeks of comprehensive negotiation, established a Western Hemisphere security zone extending from the North to the South Pole and including a number of islands lying off the North and South American continents.

It provides that in the event of armed attack on the territory of any American state or any point in the security zone the other parties to the treaty shall undertake immediately to material aid to the attacked country. If territory of an American state outside the zone is attacked, the treaty signers will consult immediately to determine whether the situation endangers the peace and security of the Hemisphere.

The treaty is to be signed by chief delegates in ceremonies after the conference's closing session which will be addressed by President Truman. The signing ceremony will be held at the Tamara Palace in Rio de Janeiro, home of the Brazilian Foreign Ministry.

The final session also will receive an invitation from Colombian Foreign Minister Domingo Esguerra to attend an Inter-American meeting at Bogota next January, at which the signers will be named to administer armed defense provisions of the treaty and where Pan-American cooperation in the educational, social and welfare fields will be considered.

Most of Pampa Grads Will Take In College Life

As the last weeks of summer fade and the fall season begins, schools over the country again open their doors for work.

From "kids" to "teen-agers" a moan and sigh is heard, but last spring's graduates give cries of "Just one more week." "When are you leaving?" and "Gee, I can hardly wait." Naturally they're talking of the college days to come.

Out of the approximately 70 graduates contacted we found 57 planning to enter a college in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Missouri, Kansas or Texas this fall. Texas Tech, Lubbock, claims the highest percent with 15 enrolled and Texas State College for Women, Denton, runs a close second with 11.

Enrolled in Texas Tech are Lyman Osborne, Orin Allen, Harold Anderson, Ivan Collier, Charlie Duenkel, Bill Gething, Margie Lawrence, Charles Lockhart, Tommy McLaughlin, James Niver, Patsy Pierson, Tommy Riggs, John Spearman, Bill Tarpley, and Angela Duncan.

TSCW will have Bobby Clements, Jeanne Conyers, June Dalton, Ethel Gilbert, Gloria Jay, Avis Kelley, Leona McClelland, Betty Myatt, Carol Perkins, Patty Reynolds and Ash Spencer.

North Texas Agricultural College, Arlington, will be third in the running with four including Jerry Barber, Cecil Link, Weldon Mitchell, and Lawrence Baines.

Oklahoma A. and M., Stillwater, Okla., claims three, Ronald Bump, Kathryn Dean, and J. H. Reeves. McMurray, Abilene, will have Clyde Smith, and Eleanor Carruth Beard, while in the same town we find Hardin, who will have Mildred McClelland and Peggy Rene.

Lefors Schools Open This Week

LEFORS—The opening of the Lefors schools will be marked with a "back to school" party at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. It was announced Saturday by Supt. E. R. Reeves.

But, he said, no students need come to the school until Tuesday. Beginning at 8:30 Tuesday, students will be enrolled and the regular schedule will go into effect on Wednesday.

Very little increase in enrollment is expected, he said. There were about 450 pupils enrolled last year. A few extra students are expected from outlying schools. Supt. Reeves stated.

Little remains to be done in rounding out the faculty, it was stated. Only two vacancies exist on one hand and two on the other. Four new teachers have joined the faculty. They are Mr. and Mrs. James Love, Mr. Love will teach math in Junior High, and will be assistant coach. Mrs. Love will teach language arts in Junior High.

Miss Sybil Chambers will be librarian, and Miss Mavis Frost will be commercial teacher.

50 Newsboys Attend News' Annual Picnic

About 50 newsboys attended The News' annual picnic at Lake McClellan Saturday. Around 300 hot-dogs went the one-way route, along with dozens and dozens of bottles of pop, and 350 containers of ice cream.

The boys played football—notwithstanding the weather—and softball, and then they went swimming. Some of them, at least, were accompanied by Francis Green, circulation manager, and other News personnel.

Letters to Editor Must Have Signature

Several unsigned letters to the editor have been received recently at The Pampa Daily News. These letters will not be published because they are not signed.

If letter-writers wish their names withheld from publication, they may so indicate in writing at the bottom of the letter, and that will be done. But the letters, to be publishable, must be signed.

Paul Mantz Wins Bendix With P-51

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Swashbuckling Paul Mantz, of Hollywood flew his red P-51 Mustang "wide open all the way" to win the $10,000 first prize in the 2,650-mile Bendix Trophy Race yesterday with an average speed of 450.425 miles an hour—25 miles faster than his winning and record time in the same plane last year.

Only a couple thousand spectators were in Cleveland Airport's rain-soaked stands as Mantz's souped-up Air Force fighter roared across the finish line in a course time of four hours, 26 minutes and 57 seconds.

One minute and 18 seconds behind Mantz came Joe Debona, flying a P-51 entered by Thomas C. Call of Los Angeles. His time was 4:28:15 and his average speed 458.2 miles an hour.

Edmund Lunken of Cincinnati, Ohio, flying a P-51, landed in third place and won $3,000 with an elapsed time of four hours 58 minutes and 43 seconds and an average speed of 411.4 miles per hour.

Behind him in fourth place was Bruce Gimbel, flying a P-51 entered by Jacqueline Cochran, wife of Floyd Oidium, New York financier, who flew the same plane to second place herself last year. Gimbel's time was five hours four minutes and ten seconds and his speed 494 miles an hour.

Miss Cochran announced that, as last year, her plane's $2,500 winnings will go to the Air Forces Aid Society.

Fifth place and $1,500 went to William Eddy of La Jolla, Calif., also in a P-51 who covered the course in five hours 26 minutes and 25 seconds for an average speed of 376.5 miles per hour.

A dozen Bendix racers had taken off from Van Nuys, Calif., for the 2,650 mile dash before the race manager yielded to a new deluge at Municipal Airport and told the customers they could come back tomorrow by merely exchanging their tickets.

Mantz hadn't wasted an ounce of effort for De Bona came in just one minute 18 seconds behind the fabulous flying man of the flickers to win $4,500.

Both men flew North American P-51 Mustangs surplus Air Force fighters of a type used in all theaters during the war.

Except for the Bendix, which has run in two divisions, with four Air Force Lockheed P-80 Shooting Stars in the "J" or jet division, all races were cancelled because of local thunderstorms. One of the jets, flown by Col. Leon Gray, landed in Cleveland, while the others were directed to Patterson Field near Dayton, Ohio, because of bad weather at the time they were due here.

Gray said he failed to receive word of the change in plans.

So many people decided to stay despite cancellation of the six-hour program of flying acrobatics, demonstrations and races, that the management put on a lengthy show of stunt flying and glider demonstrations. The crowd refused to be dispersed by the occasional rain which kept the grassy field soggy and some time ankle deep in water.

The first woman flier to finish in the Bendix was Mrs. Jane Page Havack of Wilmette, Ill., tall and attractive blond, who made a stop at St. Joseph, Mo., after getting worried about her plane. Her time was 8 hours 15 minutes 50 seconds and her speed 247.8 miles per hour.

Ex-Soldier Charged in Atomic Photos Theft

NEW YORK—(AP)—Former Army Sergeant Arnold Frederick Kivi, 26, holder of the Good Conduct Medal, was arraigned yesterday by a U. S. Commissioner yesterday and consented to removal to New Mexico where he will face charges of stealing secret photographs of Los Alamos Atomic installation.

Kivi, a tall, thin, sorrow-faced Brooklyn resident, was allowed Friday night to leave his home by F. B. I. men. J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. director, said that agents seized 37 photographs and 10 negatives when they searched the apartment. He shared with his widowed mother.

Arraigned before Commissioner Jacob Visel, Kivi unemotionally stated that "if they want to remove me, it's all right with me." Visel held him in $10,000 bail and the prisoner was removed to the Federal House of Detention, managed to two deputy U. S. Marshals.

Hoover, who first announced the arrest from Washington, said that Kivi had in his possession photographs showing Atomic Research Apparatus used in the production of the bomb, as well as pictures of visitors to the project.

Although Kivi first denied possession of any classified pictures, Hoover said, he later admitted he took some from the Los Alamos installation, site of the assembly and test of the first atomic bomb and still a major center of atomic research.

The warrant on which Kivi was arraigned specifically charged that on or about Oct. 3, 1945, the defendant "did steal and convert to his own use certain restricted and certified photographs which were U. S. property. The maximum punishment for such an offense in peacetime is five years in prison and a $5,000 fine. The maximum wartime sentence is death.

The Brooklyn veteran served in the Army for three and one-half years, leaving in February, 1946. After his separation, Hoover said, Kivi was employed at the Brookhaven National Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission at Patchogue, N. Y., but was released almost immediately "as a result of the investigation of the prior theft."

Two other persons have been charged this year with removing documents from an atomic project.

At his arraignment yesterday, Kivi appeared weary, unshaven but calm. He answered Visel's questions clearly and in a firm voice.

Some of the photographs, a native of Finland, said at her apartment that she knew nothing about pictures there, but maintained that her son was "a good boy."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Marlo Pittor appeared before Visel as the prosecutor. Later, federal officials said Kivi would go before a Federal grand jury.

Come and Get It—Free Parking Space

Don't rush, folks, but there's one free parking lot to accommodate one car at a time and the cops ain't gonna do anything about it, cuz they can't.

The spot is located in front of the Home Builder's Supply Company, 312 W. Foster St. It so happens there is no parking meter there just now. Somebody broke it off. Besides there is no parking limit sign there to replace the parking meter. Therefore—no parking meter, no parking limit sign, or no sign reading: "NO PARKING" leaves meter patrolmen powerless because of no receptacle for placing pennies or nickels. Come one, come all, first to make it without a dented fender or minus paint is the lucky guy.

Official Word on PAAF Received

Due to the fact that many rumors had been circulating through Pampa as to the re-opening of the Pampa Army Air Field, the News sent a telegram to Congressman Eugene Wesley, of the 14th-Congressional District, for information as to the disposition of the field.

Wesley's reply was as follows: "War Department officials advise Pampa Field is being withdrawn from report for school maintenance, surplus in case of emergency or until such time as satisfactory sale can be worked out." From this and other sources reports show that apparently the field will not be re-opened.

High School to Follow Schedule on Tuesday

All Pampa High School students are expected to report for school Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, Frank Wilson, principal, stated yesterday. Buses will run as usual and will return students to their homes at noon. Students will run through an abbreviated schedule the first day.

A full schedule will be maintained Wednesday, Wilson said, and the school cafeteria will be open for lunch.

Wilson urged that late registrants report to the High School office Tuesday between the hours of 1 p. m. and 5 p. m. The office will not be open Tuesday morning.

Gen. Wainwright Will Retire to 'Fiddler's Green'

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—General Jonathan M. Wainwright's cat Cleo straddled across the patio at the white two-story, three-car house the hero of Bataan will live in when he retires from the Army today.

"That cat had anything to eat yet?" the general asked.

Before Master Sergeant Hubert Carroll of Paris, Tex., could answer one way or the other, Wainwright ordered:

"Get that cat something to eat. Put a little milk in a pan and put it someplace in the shade."

"Yes sir," replied Carroll, who spent the last seven years with Wainwright as his orderly.

The general stopped at the fish pond.

"Give those fish some food," he said. "They're mighty hungry." The sergeant bent over the pool, looked at the fish and said to Wainwright:

"I feed them once a week, sir."

"That's all right," Wainwright said. "Feed 'em now. They're hungry."

The sergeant moved off after some milk for the cat and some food for the fish.

Sgt. Joseph Kretowicz, an Army man of 29 years, smiled at the general.

"I've been yard man for a dozen generals, but of all of them I've liked General Wainwright best," he said.

He nodded at how General Wainwright said to it that the cat was fed and the fish got something to eat.

"He's got the enlisted men at heart more than any of the other generals," Kretowicz said.

The sergeant wasn't polishing an apple. The general was too far away from him to hear it.

Kretowicz started to name the general who was the hardest one for him to work for, but Sgt. Joel See WAINWRIGHT, Page 5

New Accusation Is Aimed at U.S.

BERLIN—(AP)—The United States and Great Britain were accused yesterday by Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet commander in Germany, of "dismembering Germany" and "rupturing" the 1945 Potsdam agreement by their new program for increasing industrial production in Western Germany.

The new policy, uniting the U. S. military government and State Department for the first time in months on a program for Germany, appeared to have driven the last nail in the coffin of the so-called Morgenthau "hard peace" plan for Germany.

Sokolovsky's five-minute statement, read at a meeting of the Allied Control Council, brought from Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American member, the measured retort that his efforts had been devoted for two years to bringing about the economic unification of Germany and the ending of economic chaos and that the invitation to the other powers to join the British-American merger was still open.

The Sokolovsky statement set off a full-scale attack in the Soviet-Centred Press which declared the United States and Britain were trying to split Germany into East and West camps and deliver the Ruhr into the hands of "western capitalists."

The Nacht Express said the Anglo-American plans looked "dangerously" like the isolation of the most important industrial center of Germany.

Berliner Zeitung said the plan meant "American capitalists will take over the management of the Ruhr."

A Moscow radio commentator said the plan would turn "western Germany into a protectorate of the United States."

This was the Russian reaction to the plan announced Friday, the essence of which is to restore German living standards to about 75 percent of 1936, make the western part of the country self-sufficient in an apparent compromise, and "bread basket" in the Soviet-occupied east, and enable the German industrial potential to contribute to the recovery of Europe.

Price Is Set on Condemned Land

Three Special Commissioners, Friday returned a decision that the Gray County Commission should pay H. M. Roth, and his wife, $950 for a disputed strip of land the County needs for right-of-way in widening Highway 66. The decision was an apparent compromise.

Earlier a series of meetings between Commission representatives and the land owners had failed to yield any settlement to the dispute over 743 acre tract of land that contains several peach trees and a shelter belt of other trees.

The Commission had bid $900 for the land, but the Roth's had staunchly demanded $1,000. After prolonged talks shed little light on the problem, County Judge Sherman White ordered County Attorney Bruce Parker to file a Petition for Condemnation.

At the same time the judge appointed three men, I. D. Shaw and C. J. Cash, McClelland, and B. E. Glass, Alameda, whom he described as "uninterested parties," as Special Commissioners.

After appraising the land, the Special Group called a hearing at the County Court on Friday, at which they heard testimony from both the land owners and several members of the Commission.

Members of the County Commission will vote at their next meeting whether or not to accept the Special Commissioners' ruling. The land owners have not expressed their feelings in regard to the decision. Either side may appeal the ruling to higher court.

Lefors Telephone System Goes Modern

Lefors will have dial telephones by the end of this year.

That was the prediction made yesterday by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company manager, G. H. Newberry, of Pampa.

The system will be controlled from a board in Pampa, it was stated, and will make it possible for the users of that city to have service day and night. Heretofore, they have had service only at day, except in cases of emergency.

Newberry announced that 40 rural phones have been installed northwest of Pampa in a new effort for better service. In the past, rural users have furnished their own lines and a crank phone. Southwestern is putting in its own lines and hand set phones—making it possible to talk to a rural friend just as easily as to one in town.

About 500 such sets are to be installed in the environs of Pampa, Newberry stated. Three hundred twenty-eight phones will be installed at Lefors.

"We will close now; wishing Pampa and all of Texas the best of everything. God Bless all of you." The letter was signed "Sincerely yours, Queen Helen and Little Joe."

New Plea Concerning Water Supply Issued

As a new water well, Well No. 5, temporarily came into service, another city water well temporarily went out of service.

Well 5, the new one that the city and the McDonald Well Drilling Company are attempting to develop, is pumping only a little over 300 gallons a minute. At the same time the city has a minute late Monday south side for repair. This well had been down to at least 250 to 300 gallons a minute.

Water Department officials said this morning that they expected to have Well 2 working at full capacity of 700 gallons a minute late Monday afternoon or night.

In the meantime city officials asked everyone to continue to use their water sparingly, especially by not watering lawns or flowers until a full and normal supply is on hand.

About 750,000 Spectators Cheer as 65,000 Legionnaires Parade Up Fifth Avenue

NEW YORK—(AP)—A seemingly never-ending army of American Legionnaires marched yesterday in the shrouded plaza of 1,750,000 persons lining Fifth Avenue, the street where the nation greeted its conquering heroes of two World Wars.

Army searchlights were set up to light the area around the reviewing stand as thousands of veterans continued to stamp by in the gathering dusk.

At 8:45 p. m. (CST) the great parade was about two-thirds complete, with Legion officials estimating it would run well after 8 p. m. (CST).

Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallender estimated the crowd at 750,000, making the spectacle one of the biggest such occasions in the city's history.

Hour after hour, the graying, paunchy former doughboys from the first war and the lithe, quick-stepping veterans of the recent conflict veterans up the Avenue which some of them had trodden in the hallowed victory parades in 1919 and 1946.

New Yorkers, connoisseurs of parades, were lined up along the two-and-a-half mile route long before the first unit stepped off at 7:30 a. m. (CST).

Scores of bands and drum corps furnished pulse-tingling music for the estimated 65,000 marchers. Units from the Army, Navy and Marines were interspersed among them.

Primarily, though, it was a parade of Legionnaires from every state of the Union and many foreign lands—veterans marching to honor the dead and living who twice victoriously fought two great wars.

Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City, a Legionnaire himself, and brigadier general in World War Two, led the parade as it started off at 34th Street, the Empire State Building corner.

The mayor and the three grand marshals—Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, Admiral Thomas C. Kincaid and Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer—all dropped out at 42nd St. and entered the reviewing stand on the steps of New York's Public Library.

But the marchers swept ahead, up the Avenue past Rockefeller Center and St. Patrick's Cathedral, where Cardinal Spellman waved his blessing, past his luxurious shops and hotels, and out into the open area along Central Park, where the units disbanded between 73rd and 79th Streets.

Some of the Legionnaires exchanged banter with the friendly confetti-throwing crowd along the Avenue, but many marched with eyes straight ahead, chests out, in regular military fashion.

For many, there was a note of solemnity which contrasted with the hilarity of the Legion's tramp up the Avenue at its convention 10 years ago.

In 1937, the fighting and dying were almost 20 years past, dim in the minds of most marchers. But this time, two years after V-J Day, many a Legionnaire strode along with the memory of a comrade whose sacrifice helped make this hour of celebration possible.

The weather man's forecast of clear and cool weather went partly wrong. There was alternating sunshine and cloudy skies, and a few sprinkles. But there was a breeze which whipped up the massed flags along the Avenue and the temperature was low enough to take the edge off the discomfort of the muggy atmosphere.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was in the reviewing stand with the mayor, Legion National Commander Paul E. Griffin, and the top military leaders.

Dewey declared "I have never seen a more impressive parade" and Griffin commented "New York is seeing one of its greatest parades.

Brooks Eke Giants 2nd Straight, 3-1

BROOKLYN—(AP)—Harry LaVaette's rousing single to left center with the bases full in the last of the eighth inning, led the Dodgers to a 3-1 victory over the New York Giants yesterday.

With the Giants ahead 1-0 after the second inning, the Dodgers could do nothing with Hansen despite his six bases on balls until the eighth. Then the middle finger on his pitching hand, bruised the inning before.

Ken Trinkle took over and after Eddie Stanky's sacrifice bunt and an infield out, walked Pete Reiser and Gene Hermanski to fill the bases.

Beas But Shotton of the Dodgers sent LaVaette up to hit for Johnny Jorgensen against the left-handed pitcher, who had struck out three batters in the eighth.

Hugh Casey, the old fireman, produced the victory neatly for King, getting the deadly Johnny Mize, Walker Cooper and Sid Gordon in order in the ninth.

Mize, in quest of Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs, was stymied again in four trips to the plate, although he had the second inning with a single and eventually scored the lone Giant run. Singles by Cooper and Billy Rigney enabled Mize to cross the plate. His homer total still stands at 44, three games ahead of Ruth's pace.

Two Sessions Are Scheduled For First Day

The Pampa High School Harvester football team will start workouts tomorrow morning at 7:30. Coaches Tom Tipps and Aubra Nooncaester announced yesterday afternoon.

Coach Tipps indicated that the workout was slated early to avoid too much work in the still hot weather.

Most of the opening session will be spent in fitting the boys with correct sized equipment and doing a few limbering exercises.

A second practice session will be held in the afternoon and is scheduled to get under way at 3:30.

The Harvesters will have only nine workouts in which to prepare for the season opener, which is a night game with Electra, here, Sept. 12.

Many fans are hoping this fall will be the best season that the locals have enjoyed in several years. Particularly after the Harvesters came out on the short end of a tough schedule in '46.

Boys who are expected to be present at the initial practice, and the positions they play are:

Ends—Jimmy King, Kelley Anderson, Bob Boyles, Darrel Davis, Tommy Chisholm and Bill Bond.

Tackles—Zake Griffin, Roscoe Russell, Bob Phillips, Leroy Troop, Bill Runyon and Bob Montgomery.

Decision on Armed-Assault Match Running Is Left Up to Trainers

NEW YORK—(AP)—It was up to Ben Jones, trainer of Calumet Farm's Armed, and Max Hirsch, conditioner of King Ranch's Assault today to decide whether the great match race between the two stars of the turf might still take place this season.

Belmont Park is willing to stage the spectacle on Saturday, Sept. 27, if the two trainers find their horses are fit, George D. Widener, president of Belmont, said in a statement yesterday. Conditions identical with those planned for the race in Chicago which was cancelled because of soreness in Assault's hoof would prevail, Widener announced.

That means it would be at the distance of a mile and a quarter, weight for age, $100,000 added, winner take all.

Widener said Robert J. Kleberg, Assault's owner, had asked him if Belmont would be interested in staging the special event if Assault completed his apparent recovery. Widener quoted the master of King Ranch as saying he was most anxious for a match and felt the racing public had been disappointed at the cancellation in Chicago.

"I thus spoke to Warren Wright, Armed's owner, in Chicago," Widener related. "His response was the decision would lay with his trainer and might be a week or more in the making, since his horse was in the midst of a hard campaign and was facing a big race now. Mr. Kleberg also wants to see how Assault returns to hard work before making his final decision."

Assault is now at Belmont Park and is slated for a serious training move on Monday and another on Wednesday. Those trails will determine whether Hirsch considers the Clubfoot Comet fit. Hirsch

Texans Hold Oklahomans Scoreless In Winning 3rd Oil Bowl Classic

WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—Texas held its third straight victory and a clean sweep over Oklahoma today in the Oil Bowl football game meeting High School stars of the two states.

Oklahoma has yet to score a point in this annual game. Friday night the count was 14-0 as Vernon Glass, Corpus Christi all-star, ran 16 yards for one touchdown and passed 12 yards to Ken Martin of Wichita Falls for the other.

A crowd of 16,000 saw the game played in sweltering heat. The game developed into a stiff defensive battle from the start, the Oklahomans able to trade fairly even in everything except speed and passing.

For all the speed packed by Glass, James Mott of Lufkin and Bobby Rogers of Wichita Falls, the Texans gained only 134 yards rushing. Four of their passes elicited for 55 yards.

Oklahoma counted only 14 yards from rushing and had a net of seven yards lost on the ground. Gene Read passed nine yards to Gene Gower of Lawton for Oklahoma's lone first down in the fourth period. Rogers intercepted one of Read's heaves in the first period to start Texas goalward by galloping 20 yards to the Oklahoma 40.

Hayden Fry and Harvey Gabriel, both of Odessa, pushed to the 31, and Fry passed to Rogers for 16. Two passes were batted down before Glass, twice faking passes, ran the last 16 yards for a touchdown.

I. D. Russell of Wellington converted the first of two extra points. Glass returned a punt 20 yards and a penalty accounted for five more to put the ball on the Oklahoma 10-yard line. Rogers lost two before Fry lateralled to Glass who rifled a throw to Martin in the end zone for a touchdown.

McCullough Methodist Junior Boys, First Methodist Seniors Win in Softball Playoffs

Kiwanis Sunday School Softball League play was officially closed last Friday night in Oiler Park when the finals in Both the Jr. and Senior Boys' League were played, with the McCullough Methodist Juniors and the First Methodist Seniors coming out victorious.

The McCullough Methodist Jr. Boys had scrap all the way to bring victory from the first inning. Central Baptist, 4-3, with the winning tally being scored in the last half of the seventh. Although pitched by his opponent, Methodist Pitcher Alvin Ward was never in really serious trouble as he allowed the losing Baptists only 7 scattered hits. Baptist Pitcher Eugene Whiffle 9 men while Ward fanned 2.

The Methodists drew first blood, as they scored in the very first frame when Bobby Hulseley got on first through a costly error and Jimmy Baines slugged out a double to right field, scoring Hulseley. Bynum then settled down to retire the side with 2 timely strike-outs. The Central Baptists started their scoring in the fourth inning when, with nobody on, Arthur Smith, catcher, stepped to the plate and lifted a home run over the centerfielder's head. In the bottom half of this inning, the Methodists combined Jimmy Baines' single with Thurman Weathered's and James Shelton's double for 2 more runs, to again shove them into the lead. The Baptists came within one run of the winners in the top of the fifth when Rightfielder David Engle blasted out the second Baptist four-bagger of the game with nobody on base. The Central Boys tied the score in the top of the seventh when Eugene Bynum singled, the second and third and then on a wild pitch came home with the tying run. The Methodists then broke the deadlock with the winning run when Alvin Ward walked and James Shelton again got an extra base hit with a triple to right field, scoring Ward and giving the Methodists their hard earned 4-3 victory. In the Senior Boys' game, the fans witnessed a game not quite as close as this first one, when the First Methodists walloped the Central Baptists 11-1. The Methodists scored 4 runs in the very first inning to give them a very determining lead which was never threatened.

In the first inning after Don Lane and Malcolm Douglas had been issued walks and Lamar Lively had got on first via the error route, Bill Speer, Methodist pitcher, blasted a home run with the bases loaded. This was the only scoring that was done this inning, although James Gallimore and Dick Wilson also got hits, but died on base. The Methodists tallied one more run in the second, when Lively singled in Lane, who had just doubled. The winners had their big inning in the third when they crossed home plate 5 times. Bob Davis led off with a walk, Dick Wilson then scored Davis with a triple, Paul Boswell then singled, scoring Wilson. Walks were then issued to Lane, Lively and Speer, and Douglas and Gallimore both collected singles, but Davis batted into a double play to put out the fire. The lone Central Baptist tally came in the fourth when Jack McPeak collected a home run with the sacks empty. The Methodists then finished their scoring in the bottom of the fourth when Wilson walked and Oden singled Wilson to third, and he scored on a wild pitch.

Failure to find proper pitching talent may have cost the Baptists the game as Ronnie Maxwell, Paul Hulseley and Eugene Bynum all three tried their hand at the chore but neither Maxwell nor Hulseley could stop the Methodist onslaught and Bynum was called in the bottom of the sixth and quickly retired the side with 2 strike-outs and a pop-up. Bill Speer was the winning Methodist hurler as he allowed the losers only 5 hits and issued only 2 charity bases.

Plaques were awarded to each winning and runner-up team in each of the respective leagues after the final game, in front of the stands. A. C. Troop made the presentation to each of the team's captains. The girls' league had finished their play last Thursday night with the McCullough Methodist Jr. Girls and the First Baptist Seniors coming out on top.

FACTS TIED TOGETHER

Here we are at the beginning of another week. While outwardly it's no different from any other Sunday, it assumes a little difference because we happened to think of a number of things which make it rare.

For instance, man, who came forth with the atomic bomb, has again sought to out-do nature by dropping dry ice in cumulus clouds—bringing rain to thirsty earth. However, the universe has not, so far as we can see, grown to any sort of stop. It's still going around.

And the Little Below the Knees Club is now some three weeks old, and there's still talk of a change in the fashions. Dress lengths, it seems, are coming down, even as prices of things continue to go up. As the dress lengths go down the family cost-of-living will go up just a little more, too.

There has been no noticeable trembling of the high heavens, with the economists and mystic seers predicting darkly that the world is faced with new perils in the form of war, pestilence and starvation. The cataclysms of the laboratories, the preachments of the do-gooders, the gnashing of teeth against those who set fashions—none of these things have affected the rising and setting of the sun.

The world moves on. And, as the writer Maugham said one time, man is born, he suffers and then he dies. That is the world moving on, and, with Christian faith and trust, we must consider that it all must have a purpose.

These are the thoughts of adulthood. And while we ponder philosophically—or not—children get ready to go back to school.

These facts make a set. Somewhere they will all fit together, and then we will call it history. That is the way history is made. . . . Many incidents are tied together with weekends.

PENSIONS—A small but influential group within the American Legion demands that the powerful veterans' organization mass behind a movement for general pensions for World War I warriors at the next session of Congress. It will furnish one of the stormiest, behind-the-scenes issues at the current national convention in New York City.

Advocates of the program argue that a presidential year is the psychological moment for such a stroke recalling that they achieved most of their gains in the two years on the eve of a national campaign. They doubt whether President Truman, members of Congress or the Republican presidential nominee would dare to oppose the move at this time.

The Legionnaires also want to "get theirs," as this clique phrases it rather baldly, before additional appropriations for G.I.'s of the last conflict make it impossible for the Treasury to finance or float a bonus. In the back of their minds, too, is the fear that the Veterans of Foreign Wars may headline this issue at their own convention later in the fall.

FAR-REACHING—The average of the World War I fighters is now approximately fifty-four although a good proportion are nearing the Townsend age. The younger have become home-owners, business men, industrial executives, and built themselves solid stakes. They are inclined to look with disfavor on any demand that will boost the national debt or pile heavier taxes on their shoulders.

Possible compromise is a resolution providing that pensions, or some form of federal assistance be granted to over-sixty veterans whose economic state is found to justify such aid. The emphasis in recent pension legislation has been to narrow benefits down to the disabled and dependents (widows and children) who suffer because of the death or disability of the breadwinner.

The Legion's attitude and action will have a far-reaching effect. They have reached the age and stage at which veterans of the Civil and Spanish Wars attained pension status. If they demand and obtain similar grants, it will set a "minor precedent for World War II alumni twenty or thirty years hence.

If they seek no bounty, now or in the future, they may outlive the idea force and for all—save the U. S. Treasury from bankruptcy.

STRATEGY—The Republican Congressional leadership has become extremely sensitive and concerned over indictments leveled against its legislative record by certain spokesmen for the World War II veterans, especially organizations in which Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and other New Deal heirs are the moving figures. They realize that they need at least an even break in this important element of the electorate.

Speaker Martin outlined House strategy in several off-the-record talks with Legion and Foreign Wars members of that body toward the end of the session. He listed measures which the first session enacted on behalf of Civil, Spanish and World War II grants. Including the authority to cash terminal

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN

Well, I see that a member of the New York Ethical Culture Society says that hard work is the best way to keep from having fights when you're married. In other words, if you spend more time mopping up the floor with a mop you won't have enough energy left to mop it up with your wife or husband.

He claims there were far fewer marital spat in the good old days before household gadgets made housework so easy. According to that theory, home life must have been a dream of bliss during the war years when all the washing machines, vacuum cleaners and electric toasters broke down but I don't remember it being that way.

However, I'm willing to give any theory a fair try if it might mean a happier marriage. The next time George and I start to have a fuss about my hat bills, I'll stick a broom in his hands and put him right to work.

It is time the federal government begins to balance its budget and that we cease to raid the federal Treasury for every single item that is needed for the operation of schools or anything else in the U. S.

GUARDING PRESIDENTS

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Peter Edison is on vacation)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—All the fantastic details of the extreme caution which went into the personal protection of Franklin D. Roosevelt during the war are now revealed. They're told in a new book called "Reilly of the White House," the latest in the popular I-was-close-to-Roosevelt series. It's by Michael F. Reilly, the Secret Service man in charge of guarding President Roosevelt during the war, as told to William J. Storum.

Here's Reilly's logical justification for what he had to spend:

"I decided that if something or somebody killed FDR, I would find very little sympathy in the halls of Congress or from the American people if I allied that the contraption necessary to combat the weapon that murdered FDR cost almost $10,000 and I didn't want to waste too much of Uncle Sam's money."

With the question of cost thus neatly bypassed, Reilly swung into action immediately after Pearl Harbor.

For a while the President only had one armored car, which was borrowed from the Treasury and which was originally made for Al Capone. Then Reilly got two armored sedans and two armored convertibles, which were capable of withstanding a direct hit from a heavy-caliber machine gun. The fabric tops of the convertibles were reinforced to repel hand grenades dropped from a height of 250 feet.

TAKEN ALONG BY TRAIN

When the President traveled by train, a baggage car with a special ramp carried the armored vehicles along. They could be unloaded in three minutes.

At Reilly's request the Pullman Company built an armored railroad car with bullet-proof windows three inches thick, with case-hardened steel capable of withstanding a crash with any railroad engine without smashing or telescoping. According to Reilly, it will remain intact if dropped from a railroad trestle and is impervious to projectiles short of cannon fire, and to dynamic charges placed on the hooded.

The car is also waterproof, with battleship bulkheads for doors and three easily-reached submarine escape hatches, in case it should plunge into a river or be submerged.

He reveals one suggested precaution, however, which was not taken because it would have been too costly.

"In other things . . . it was suggested that the course of the Potomac and Anacostia rivers should be changed. This last was not quite as silly as it sounds, because no canalage of the White House is practical while the confluence of these rivers remains a mile from the Mansion. A pilot would find it quite simple to hit the White House by flying up either river and getting his 'fix' at the confluence."

BOMB-PROOF SHELTERS

The first bomb-proof shelter, Reilly reveals, was a remodeled vault under the Treasury Building with a zig-zag connecting tunnel from the White House. The zig-zag was to stop a bomb fragment which might fly right straight through the straight tunnel of the vault built under the White House grounds, Reilly says. "Knowing the material that went into its construction, I feel for the contractor who is ever charged with removing or changing it."

A part of the defense plans included the following:

"There were troops always ready to defend the White House against Axis paratroopers, in secret places near Washington for presidential residence in case of bombings, and a perpetually ready airplane to speed him inland in case of invasion."

Other protective devices employed by Reilly and his men included tiny microphones, seeing-eye doors, pocket-size senders and receivers. An armored speaking stand, a sheet of steel which would shoot up two feet above the President's head, was built. A Geiger Counter was always kept near the President, to warn of radiation.

Reilly also reveals the physical safety traps that were used. In other chapters Reilly reveals all the elaborate planning and investigations which went into protecting the President.

Council Message Issued Relative To Labor Day

(Approved by the Executive Committee of The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and issued through the Department of the Church and Economic Life.)

The relations between workers and employers, whether in factory or on farm, in office or in store, create some of the most important problems of our time. The decisions of responsible men and women in these relationships profoundly affect the lives of millions of people. An employer can put thousands off the payroll, a union can put thousands on the streets and either can discriminate against a race.

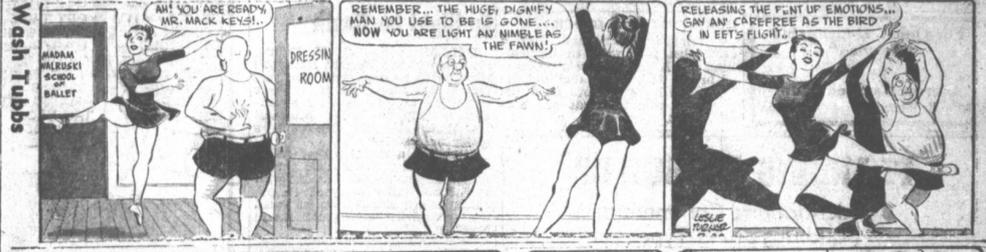

The church cannot disregard the image of God and each is important in His sight. How can the church effectively express its concern for people? How can it promote a true recognition of the inherent worth of each person, and of each one to a place in society, however humble, in which he can contribute to the community while he supports himself and his family?

The beginning must surely be made in the church itself. There must be a vigorous effort to see that no congregation in a class church or a racial church. That is not easy, for churches are usually neighborhood organizations, and people live in neighborhoods of similar economic status. But a true visitation evangelism by the laymen of the churches will make possible a congregation that crosses economic and racial and class lines. A local church-family is the place to lay a foundation of sure and sympathetic understanding of other

American School Systems Get Overhauling as Bells Ring

NEW YORK—(AP)—America's education systems, on the eve of a banner season, are undergoing some major adjustments.

In the last year, at least 44 state legislatures have made noteworthy changes in the status of school-marm and pupil. This follows a rash of strikes and complaints against salaries and working conditions and reports that a bumper crop of new pupils is coming up.

When the legislative halls cleared, according to information gathered by the National Education Association, the lawmakers had passed nearly 400 statutes providing in general for more adequate school financing, greater equalization of educational opportunities, increased teachers' salaries, liberalized teachers' retirement benefits, tightened requirements for teaching certification and modified instructional programs.

Analysis of the new laws discloses that 3 states increased the amounts appropriated to support their minimum programs and that 26 boosted appropriations to help equalize educational opportunities among school districts.

The high spot in school legislation was widespread agreement that teachers' salaries were too low. With the exceptions of Connecticut, Iowa, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Dakota and Wyoming, each of the 44 states reported passing emergency appropriations to grant cost-of-living bonuses or raised minimum salaries.

New or liberalized retirement plans also were authorized by 27 states.

In the matter of professional standards, Arkansas provided for progressive raising of certification requirements after July 1, 1948. Idaho made four years' college training mandatory after September 1, 1948, and Nevada sought to eliminate emergency certificates "as soon as possible."

Both Maryland and Arkansas ruled that classes should be cut to average 30 pupils.

New York, Pennsylvania and Texas all passed laws outlawing teacher strikes. Texas also outlawed collective bargaining.

The legislatures of Pennsylvania and Missouri decreed revisions in the teaching of American History and government. In Missouri, in addition, the Constitution of the United States and the History of Missouri were required subjects to be taught not later than the seventh grade and running through high school and into college.

In Oregon, state law now requires the teaching of racial and religious tolerance in the public schools.

Both Montana and Indiana require elementary and high schools to teach the effects of intoxicating liquors and narcotics.

Washington's call for a four-power conference to hasten Korea's independence turns the spotlight on one of the unhelpful communities in the post-war world. Korea, like Austria, is considered a liberated land, not conquered enemy territory. The Japanese have been driven out, but other alien rulers have taken their place, and the coming of real peace, freedom and wellbeing is postponed because the liberators can not or will not agree.

It can not be said that this is the fault of the United States, which shares with Soviet Russia the occupation of this former Japanese possession. The American government and its representatives in Korea have tried continuously and insistently since 1945 to come to some understanding with the Russians which would permit fulfillment of the pledge of Korean freedom made at Cairo in 1943 and repeated and amplified in the Moscow conference of 1945. The newest call is further evidence of the United States' desire to make those promises real and to turn over the burdens of administration to the Koreans themselves as soon as possible.

The Russian response in the past has been as unhelpful as most Russian responses to allied advances in the postwar period. It requires a considerable degree of optimism to expect that the reply to this invitation will be more encouraging.

Korea is the easiest to understand of the post-war examples of divided occupation and rule, because it is the simplest. It is compact geographically, with a homogenous population, a comparatively uncomplicated economy. There are only two occupations, instead of the four in Germany and Austria.

But, as in Germany and Austria, the divided rule means economic strangulation.

The major question is whether the Russians will be willing to permit unified government to return to Korea by truly Democratic as the Western nations understand the word.

But the Russians insist, and may continue to insist that there be a purge of rightist parties before there can be elections. The program they support looks at this point much like that followed in Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, all of which began with comparatively free elections in which anti-Communist parties were permitted to participate freely. The fate of these opponents of Communism now has been sealed in all three countries, to such an extent that the Kremlin apparently feels it can withdraw the Red Army. In Eastern Europe the United States has been powerless to halt this process. In Korea the case is different; we still hold a strong hand of trumps.

people and of why they act as they do.

Clearly the church must reject both the idea that most employers are greedy conspirators who combine in gigantic soulless corporate entities and the idea that organizations of employees, are usually a rabble led by demagogues. The church recognizes that each individual is a part of many groups almost from the cradle to the grave. He is a part of a family, a school, a lunch club, the round-house crowd. But the church will always appeal to the conscience of the single person and call upon him to assert in his group what that conscience says, even in the face of hostility of that group.

In a stable community human beings are naturally team workers. But our communities today are not stable. We have to adapt ourselves to constant change, and because as a civilization we have not learned how to do that, we feel profoundly insecure. Team work thus suffers in our every day life, especially in our employment relations.

Much valuable research has been done in the principles of a society where constant adaptation to social change is required. But something is still lacking. The missing element in industry is the goal for the team work and for the adaptation. The goal is to serve God's purpose in the light of the Christian Gospel. With a sound knowledge of actual relations between employers and employees, the church can present the community with the demand that men shall go beyond expediency or even bare justice, and shall work for a partnership based on Christian goodwill.

It is also important that the church should see the problems of the responsible leaders of labor and of management. It has been increasingly effective, during and since the war, in service to the sick, the bereaved, and the troubled. But the church has not faced adequately the problems of the layman, employer and labor leader alike, who have to decide between alternatives, none of which is pleasant, each of which carries with it some apparent evil to some people. The church today is seeking ways to meet such problems, and the help of every pastor and every Christian layman should be enlisted.

One of the serious elements in this particular field is the corruption of power. Most of us have an urge for power. Organization is essential in society but the corruption of power is a danger in any organized activity. The danger of the organization, the greater the danger. The urge and competition for power can exist among employer and union leaders, and even among church officials. The danger of business monopolies requires constant limitation by government and constant vigilance by the people. Internal politics today troubles many labor organizations. That has been the problem of democracy. It grows in size, ever since its dawn in Greece.

The democracy that we in America derive so largely from the independent churches of three hundred and more years ago gives us hope that the church today can greatly help to solve the problem. For the kind of democracy exemplified by our forefathers depends upon our seeking God's voice to guide us in what each of us does and says, and equally upon listening for God's word in what others seek to tell us. This humble reliance upon a Power higher than ourselves and this constant recognition that others may be closer to God's will than we, have always been characteristic of those most trusted by the American people. These qualities have helped to make our country great.

The church can stimulate the conscience of people as we listen to the threat of the future, derived from our past experience of the business cycle. We Christians cannot face with silence or inaction the prospect of recurrent business depressions in which unemployment rots the souls of men. We recognize that this is a problem of profound complexity and that men, highly qualified, differ widely in their interpretations and their remedies. But we are equally impressed with the area of agreement among these experts. We propose to the utmost of our ability to create a background of Christian principle in which the study, discussions, and plans for action to meet the situation will proceed.

Tomorrow will confront us with new problems and new crises. We

TIPPS FOR TEENS

Is there something on your mind that makes you puzzled, sad or angry? Here's one girl's problem; perhaps it's yours too.

"I'm just out of the teens, but lots of girls who are 18 and 19 have the same trouble, if they have a job. It's this: Since I've been working, young men have a different attitude toward me, yet I haven't changed a bit.

"They all have such wrong ideas about girls with jobs. They think we're 'career girls' and most of us aren't—certainly not beginners like me. They think that because we have jobs, we spend all our salary on clothes, so would make extravagant, demanding wives. As a matter of fact, lots of us help pay family expenses or pay the rent and all our own bills, so we don't have much money left for clothes. I make most of mine, and because I manage to look neat and up-to-date in my home-made, inexpensive clothes, my dates say they don't suppose a husband could afford to buy my clothes. It's so unfair.

"Men also think that a girl who has had a salary of her own will demand more as a wife. Just the opposite is true. Girls like me, who have had to earn and budget their money carefully know it doesn't grow on trees; I don't believe girls who have never worked know the value of things half so well.

"Men also seem to believe that a girl who wants a job will want her own way too much as a wife, because she's used to managing her own affairs. Most of us have found it's no fun, fending for ourselves and would love to have a husband decide things for us. We'd appreciate him more than a girl who has never been 'on her own,' and wouldn't expect more than a 50-50 share in running things."

Perhaps you can convince your dates that business girls aren't extravagant and "bossy" by their serving ability, show consideration for his views and pocket-book and cook dinner for him occasionally.

Lining Is Important For Sleek Fitting Suit

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The reason linings get so little credit for the big job they do of guarding the svelte lines of a figure is because they work under cover.

They rate more plaudits. Linings are much too important, for instance, to be omitted by the woman who sews. If she thinks that a lining doesn't make enough difference in the way a garment looks to go to the trouble it takes to put one in, she's wrong.

It's usually the lining that spells the difference between a jacket that sags, rides up or crumples on her figure and the jacket that holds, taut lines and keeps a silhouette sleek through a day of hard wear.

Proof of the importance of linings as foundations is that they're going into one line of dresses this spring. The designer who is doing this is creating a mild revolution in the ready-to-wear field. She lines dresses from neck to hem, she says, to guarantee sleeker fit and better grooming for women wearers.

Wedding Rites Read In Pasadena, California

Shamrock—(Special)—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Virginia Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Walker of the Pagan Community and Capt. John L. McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jay of Pasadena, Calif.

The vows were exchanged in St. Philip's Church in Pasadena, Calif., August 2, with Rev. Charles Dachtler officiating.

Mrs. Laverne Lenhart of Altadena, Calif., was the bride's only attendant. She wore a pastel frock and carried a bouquet of carnations.

Luella Held Weds Arthur L. Brodin

PANHANDLE—(Special)—In a candlelight ceremony in the First Baptist Church, the marriage of Luella E. Held, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerald Held, and Arthur L. Brodin, son of Theodore S. Brodin of Denver, Colo., was solemnized at 8 p. m. Saturday. Rev. Herbert Brown, pastor, read the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Douglas Smith, organist, played pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Violet Huber of Amarillo as she sang "Because" and "Always." The traditional wedding marches were used.

Preceding the ceremony, Leslie Deldric and George Derrell Held, cousins of the bride, lighted the altar candles.

Miss Mary June Held was her sister's maid-of-honor and wore a blue crepe dress with a long full skirt, tight gathered bodice, with cap sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her headress was a matching wreath of flowers with a shoulder-length veil of the same color. She carried a heart shaped bouquet of blue asters, with streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Alvin Lewis of White Deer, Mrs. R. M. Jensen of Amarillo, Mrs. Noel C. Mathias, and Miss Peggy Pemberton wearing dresses fashioned like the maid of honor's in orchid, green, yellow and pink.

The flower girls, Judy Shepherd and Zella Mae Weatherly, wore matching floor length dresses of pink net over satin and carried white heart shaped baskets with pink streamers. Mike Stone was ring-bearer.

Emerald Lee Held, brother of the bride, served as bestman. Ushers were Hubert Marvel, Noel C. Mathias, R. M. Jensen and Billy George Pemberton, cousin of the bride.

Entering on the arm of her father, the bride wore a dress of white lace and marquisette over blue. Her gown was fashioned with a tight bodice, lace peplum, sweetheart neckline with lace bertha and long tight sleeves. Her full skirt ended in a train, lined with lace. Her headress was a halo of lace with a two-tiered fingertip veil of illusion. For something old and borrowed she carried a white Bible belonging to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rosamond Haswell, topped with orchid, showered with stephanotis and white satin streamers. She also carried out the other traditions.

Mrs. Held, mother of the bride, wore a black crepe dress with aqua accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The parlor of the church was the scene of the wedding reception for the bridal party and members of the immediate families of the couple. Bouquets of garden flowers in blue and white decorated the room. The lace covered serving table was decorated with blue and white flowers and white candles in blue crystal holders, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a miniature bridal couple and blue flowers. Punch was served by Miss Mary June Held and the cake by Mrs. A. M. Pemberton, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Emerald Lee Held presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Brodin is a graduate of Panhandle High School and West Texas State College, Canyon. She is a Past Worthy Advisor of Panhandle Assembly, No. 99, Order of the Rainbow for Girls and served one year as Grand Nature in the State Assembly. For the past year, she has been employed with the Denver Glass Bottle Company, Denver, Colo.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Longmont High School, Longmont, Colo.; attended the University of Colorado, Boulder and Denver University, Denver. He served three years with the Army Medical Corps in the European Theatre and is now employed by the Physician's and Surgeon's Supply House, Denver.

The couple will be at home in Denver after September 10. For her wedding trip, the bride chose a white linen suit with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Middle-Aged Woman Has Time for Life

By RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

She is middle-aged, and the children in her large family are grown and gone from home. So, for the first time in 30 years, she has leisure time on her hands.

By all rights—according to those who tell American women what's wrong with them—she should be unhappy, neurotic, and a problem to her husband and children.

Instead she is a happy woman and a joy to her family. What is her answer to the experts?

It is so simple they probably wouldn't be impressed. But here it is:

She is doing the things she always wanted to do, and never had time for.

Such things as becoming an expert at raising flowers, reading everything about flower growing that she can lay her hands on, experimenting with all sorts of seeds.

TIME FOR TRAVEL

Her gardening isn't limited to flowers, but flowers give her the most pleasure.

She has time for doing her own home decorating, too, and time to plan her traveling carefully and far enough ahead of time so that she can get the fun of pouring over travel literature and making an adventure of her trips.

She is simply using her leisure to do some of the things she always wanted to do. Funny that we have

Texan Says Oil Shortage Cure Is In Longer and Bigger Pipelines

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—What the United States needs to rid itself of oil shortage is bigger and longer pipe lines, says William C. Kinsolving, the man with a Texas drawl who was a top official in construction of the 1,300-mile "Big Inch."

"The oil is there, if we can just get it around," declared Kinsolving, new president of the Sun Pipe Line Company (Texas) and the Susquehanna Pipe Line Company.

"The pipe line industry could use 21,000 miles of pipe right now if the steel and pipe mills were available. But orders placed now won't be delivered until the first quarter of 1951," he said.

Building pipe lines has been Bill Kinsolving's business from the day he stuffed an electrical engineering degree in his pocket at Cornell and headed back to Texas and a roughshod job with Sun Oil.

"I got my first small oil well when I was six months old when my dad took me from Corsicana to Beaumont to see the Lucas gusher — Texas' first big oil well brought in during January, 1901," the stocky bespectacled Kinsolving recalls.

"Son of an oilfield worker, the iron-gray haired, broad-faced pipe line president calls himself a "pipe-liner"—a rugged classmate breed of men who build the pipe lines.

Every pipe-liner has a nickname and proof that Kinsolving "belongs" is the "El, Kingfish," greeting he'll get from any other member of the clan.

As assistant director of transportation for the Petroleum Administration for War in 1942, Kinsolving helped push through construction of the 24-inch pipe line known as the "Big Inch."

Then at the Cairo conference in November, 1943, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek promised three things by the Allies: The Lido Road, a China-Burma-India pipe line and air transport over the Himalayan "hump."

I'VE GOT PLENTY TO SELL THIS WEEK

Wonder who the bird is they're going to radio on the parking meter violation... He's got more nerve than me... I've been pretty lucky, never had to pay off but this time since the things were put in... I just wonder if they're a help to the town... I've argued all along that we were getting up in the big town class, and needed parking meters, but somehow I've never convinced myself... We might need them on the three main blocks of Cuyler St., on Saturdays, but I doubt if they're needed any place at all during the week... They take in a lot of money for the city alright, and there's no arguing that the city does need the money, but I do think that they should have been the 2-hour kind... especially the ones on the side streets. You know when a farmer or any out-of-town man comes to town to do his trading, if he does park by a meter... an hour is not much time for him and his family to get in much shopping... and if I know my farmers, they don't like to be bothered every few minutes going back and forth to a parking meter... I like to see a lot of cars parked up and down the street every day in the week... Makes you think the town's a busy place... (even if they are the clerk's cars who get the choice spots early) I've had out-of-town people in my office during week days, and they wanted to know where the people were (no cars on the street)... and I've been down on the streets lots of times when everybody I met said, sure is a quiet day... nobody in town... Anyway I think I'll go down when this trial comes off... I might get sold and convinced this time... one way or the other...

But to get back to my trading, I'm a busy man... I've spent the entire week getting something to sell, so I'm ready to go again...

The Buick's gone... quit calling me up... I don't want to hear no more about it... and I didn't make any money out of it... Some people can ask the silliest questions...

Need a big truck tarp?... A lady's got one out here, and she don't know much about it... It's a big one, and it water proof... Says she bet it cost as much as 35 or 40 dollars when it was new... You might buy a big bargain here.

I have 51 head of good mixed yearlings, weight around 500 lbs that I want 17c for... They're all steers...

I have a good grocery store, that's doing between six and seven thousand a month that I can sell you for 3,000, and invoice the stock... The rent on the bldg. is 42.60 a month...

One of the choice small cafes in this town, for 850.00 and it is netting the owners between 250 and 300 per month... This would make an ideal business for some couple... The owners want to move away...

Don't any body want this vacuum cleaner... I'll guarantee it... Come up and make a bid... I never was so tired of anything in my life... I'll bet my advertising bill on the thing has already eat up the commission...

Who wants to buy a water well drilling set-up... I've got one that's practically new, only drilled about 8 wells... This is a rotary outfit, and it's complete, and we've got to sell it right now, so if you want to get in that business, or want to better your equipment, come take a look... Will sell it cheap...

Need a blacksmith shop... I have one of the best... a good building and all the equipment... take 1000... building lot and all...

I've just had listed with me a beautiful 3-bedroom home. I won't give out any information on the telephone... If you are interested I will be glad to show you thru this home... You'll like it, just like I did...

I still have the nice little house at 931 East Francis... This is the best buy in town for the money... I'll take 4850 for it and will finance up to 3000 on it... Would like to sell this week...

DOCTOR WOODWARD'S AMBITION

By Elizabeth Seifert
© by Elizabeth Seifert, Distributed by FEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Pop McAn, hospitality Chief of Staff, chafes at the inactivity forced on him by a partially paralyzing stroke. He tells Dr. Malcolm Glenn, top obstetrical surgeon and Acting Chief, that Woodward, the new staff doctor, is due to arrive soon. Dr. Malcolm Glenn, Malcolm's brother, is in love with Susan, Malcolm's office nurse. Nancy is Malcolm's wife, Pete and Jerry are his sons. Andrew Woodward arrives on a Sunday, looks over the hospital without making himself known to anyone. Next day, he meets the staff. When Miss Huppert, head nurse, shows him around, she implies he may be in line for Dr.
McAn's job. Woodward thanks her for the tip.

MISS HUPPERT smiled. She knocked softly on the door before which they had stopped, turned the knob and went in, Dr.
Woodward at her shoulder.
Pop sat in his huge wheel chair in the bay, a book-littered table at his left hand, a radio at his right. He snapped the latter off at sight of his caller.

"Dr. McAn," said Miss Huppert quickly, "this is the new Pediatric Chief, Dr. Woodward." Andrew strode forward; his hand shot out. Forceful personality blazed from the man. "How are you, sir? Believe me, it is an honor to meet Dr. Angus McAn." Pop peers at him from beneath his shaggy eyebrows. "It is, eh?
Stand over here in the window where I can look at you. And you may as well wipe the smile off your face—I'm too old to bother with charm."

Almost hurriedly, Andrew stepped into the window embrasure; his bright cheeks had paled several shades, his blue eyes looked hard.
"Set a chair for him, Miss Hup-pert," Pop directed, "and leave us alone for ten minutes. I want to talk with the man who means to take over my work."

Miss Huppert laughed. "You are not supposed to find your nurse attractive."
"Don't worry. I won't. Now—you treat Dr. Glenn much better."
"You mean Dr. Malcolm? Yes, Susan is as pretty a girl as the Staff can boast. But she's a good nurse, too."
"Then why can't I have her?"
Miss Huppert laughed again.
"Not a chance. She's strictly Malcolm Glenn's property. You wouldn't be the first to try to get her away from him, and I fail. I don't believe one thinks the other could function alone."
"Could they?"
"Malcolm could. I was his personal nurse, until I was made Surge. Then he took on Miss Perry.
At the time, he said he couldn't work without me."
"I imagine you still are a great help to him."
"Well, I try to keep the place running smoothly. He's a very busy man."
They had come again to the main corridor. Andrew smiled at Miss Huppert. "You've been very kind," he thanked her. "And I shall count on your helping me."
She looked up at him. "In just what way, Doctor?"
His smile was gay. "Oh, you know—put me wise to all the little, hidden things a Staff doctor needs to know, and which might elude me while I'm strange here. Help keep me out of hot water."
"I think you're smart enough to keep yourself out," she assured him. "But I'll enjoy a gossip with you, now and then."
He laughed, low in his throat.
"Good girl!" he said approvingly.
As she turned away, his hand resoundingly whacked her well rounded hip. Miss Huppert squealed, jumped a little, looked back at the smiling Staff with excited blue eyes. He nodded, opened his office door, and went in.
But with the door handle still in his fingers, he stopped short, his eyes fogged with thought.
His nurse looked up, and Andrew winced. "I'm going to Dr. Malcolm's office," he said quickly, and backed out. He'd go speak to the Acting Chief about this nurse business.

Oil Industry

stocks represented increases in other sections of the nation which were great enough to offset a stock loss of 12,000,000 barrels in the District 2 states incurred during the twelvemonth period.
States in District 2 are Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and Minnesota.

The Committee stated that crude oil production in the District 2 states is now running 250,000 barrels a day lower than in 1941, but that consumption in the same area has increased by 375,000 barrels daily.
The decline of local production plus the requirements of an expanded market have placed an increased load of 625,000 barrels daily on transportation facilities. Dow quoted from the report. The transportation system thus far has proven to be inadequate.
"Pipe lines are being operated at capacity into the area, and substantial movements by tank cars at high cost are already being made."
The present rate of deliveries still does not appear adequate. Extraorinary efforts to increase tank car and barge movements into the Midwest will be required promptly if demands are to be met next winter.
Such efforts can be especially helpful during the remaining summer months, while the railroads can handle additional cars, for winter conditions will reduce the quantities that can be delivered by tank cars, barges, and pipelines.

The report stated that the industry had under way a number of pipeline projects to move more oil into District 2, but no immediate reliever can be expected. They should be expedited to the maximum extent, however, in view of the fact that demand is expected to keep increasing at least through the winter of 1949-49.
