DOWNTOWN STROLLER

Was interested to hear that door bell ringing will be in order again for postmen. This sounds like a swell idea and a good way of letting people know if they have mail without running to the box, but we're wondering just what service there will be for those here in town without door-bells.

Parents and the public in general might well be interested in the variety program which is to be presented at the high school gym Friday evening by the South Ward P.T.A. Mrs. GEORGE FRENCH was telling us that they're anxious for a big turnout, as proceeds will go into the P.T.A. treasury.

Saw MRS. OTIS GRAFA the other morning, and decided that she just always looks as pretty as she did then. She was dressed in a trim red suit with black accessories.

Couldn't help noticing the attractive displays the BOY SCOUTS have in the display windows downtown. The nice thing about it is the boys arrange them themselves in observance of Boy Scout Week.

Many a war has been won... many a case been tried... and many worldly affairs settled... on the courthouse corner where some of the oldtimers gather. Heard them discussing world affairs and politics yesterday, and noticed that some of their opinions are just as good and some just as radical as those expressed by our law-makers.

Editor Suggests 36th Monument

TEMPLE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Harry C. Withers, managing editor of the Dallas News, has proposed that the people of Texas honor the 36th division with a monument and suggests it be erected at Temple.

The newspaper executive praised the fighting qualities of the 36th, and listed three reasons why he thought the monument should be located here.

These reasons, given in Withers' address yesterday before a joint service clubs luncheon honoring the division and its wounded men recuperating here at McCloskey General Hospital, were:

Because so many men of the division are brought to McCloskey hospital, because Temple is near the geographical center of Texas and because Temple contributed one of the infantry companies comprising the division.

MaJ. Gen. Claude V. Birkhead, retired, who trained the 36th for battle as its commanding general and who attended the luncheon, was proposed as chairman of the monument committee.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion?  YES  NO

Do you feel headachy after eating?

Do you get sour or upset easily?

Do you feel tired—listless?

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juices—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—be sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

That's why it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

Postmen Must Ring Doorbell Upon Delivery

Ringings of the doorbell will inform Big Spring residents hereafter of arrival of their mail.

That announcement was made by Nat Shick, postmaster, who said the superintendent of mails would give instructions to carriers to ring the doorbell when placing mail in boxes of residences and apartments in the city.

The latest issue of the Postal Bulletin, issued in Washington, D. C., stated that "in view of the importance of mail now being delivered throughout the country, postmasters are required to secure compliance with these instructions." Attention was called to postal instructions requiring ringing of the doorbell.

No reports of theft of mail have been made to the Big Spring post-office. A few persons have filled in forms stating they did not receive expected mail.

WFA Wages "Behind-The-Scenes" Fight To Hold Butter Reserves

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—The War Food Administration is waging a "behind-the-scenes" fight to hold a 20,000,000-pound "bank reserve" of butter for possible emergency needs by the military forces, foreign relief agencies, lend-lease recipients, or American civilians.

Pressure is being exerted by consumer and trade groups and some government leaders to release this reserve to civilians now but the food administration is resisting it.

Requests for release of WFA stocks developed after publication of reports that the government held about 130,000,000 pounds of butter on Feb. 1 and that additional supplies were being brought in from Argentina.

The WFA said that all but 20,000,000 pounds of the government stocks had been earmarked for the armed services, lend-lease, and other war programs. The 20,000,000-pound stock is being held in what is called a "contingency reserve." Most of that earmarked for the armed services and lend-lease will have been used, officials said, by the time the government re-enters the butter market next April.

Government stocks were accumulated during the heavy production season of 1943, and officials said that if the 20,000,000 pound emergency stock were released to civilians now, government purchases would have to be 20,000,000 pounds heavier during the coming heavy production season, with the result that there would be smaller civilian supplies later.

As to the Argentine butter, they

Sellers Accused Of Overlooking Constitution

AUSTIN, Feb. 9 (AP)—Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith—as a member of the state's executive department—today asserted Attorney General Grover Sellers in refusing to give Smith and State Senator Karl Lovelady a legal opinion had overlooked the constitution "which you have sought to employ as a bar to granting the soldiers a free ballot in the forthcoming primaries."

In a letter to Sellers, Smith cited constitutional provisions he said required the attorney general to give legal advice to executive officers and named the lieutenant governor as one of eight state executive officers.

Sellers had refused to answer 10 questions submitted by Smith as chairman of a legislative audit committee and Lovelady as chairman of a joint committee to recodify school laws.

Hanson Speaks At Rotary Meet

Peace making will, if lasting peace is to be made, be more of a responsibility for us, than the winning of the war, Wayne Hanson, lecturer, of Oak Park, Ill., told Rotarians at their meeting Tuesday.

Hanson, who has spent many of the years of his life in the capitals of Europe and other countries, as a special representative of different branches of our government, and was one of their representatives at many meetings of the League of Nations council, and who only last November returned from a trip to Mexico as special representative of the relief and rehabilitation committee was on his way to Lamesa where he was to speak Tuesday night to the people of Lamesa as a member of the Rotary Institute.

He spoke to a similar gathering at Midland Monday night and to the schools there Tuesday morning.

Hanson says that regional setups to cover the world will have to be linked together and that the United States will have more responsibility than ever before in the affairs of the world.

Some of the problems, Hanson believes, that the regional organizations will have to overcome, are to get the peoples to cooperate together on their mutual problems; to weed out political groups that are not democratic; to see that minorities are given proper representation; as well as to not only teach others efficient civil governmental functions, but to apply such teachings to our own civil governments, pointing out that a lot of our own communities are even now governed by laws and regulations that were here even before "horse and buggy days," many of them being "ox cart" vintage.

Hanson was accompanied by Big Spring by a delegation of Midland Rotarians, to meet a delegation from the Lamesa Rotary club, all of them being guests of the local club.

"So can your boy be proud of you!"

"You've earned some sort of medal yourself, I'd say, for giving lots of us drivers safe warning. Good thing you kept harping on rationing. You said limited driving couldn't keep clearing out the rank acids always left from combustion; they'd linger and corrode the engine. But you said that plating, of course, wouldn't soon let metals corrode. And you convinced me, all right, about keeping my engine OIL-PLATED with your patented Conoco Nth oil. Now my OIL-PLATED engine is seeing me through, and I say good for you!... helping the home front! They all should know how Conoco Nth gives engines protective OIL-PLATING!"

The how of it is that Conoco Nth motor oil—popular-priced—includes a costly modern synthetic. Its strong "power of attraction" fastens and maintains the OIL-PLATING on inner surfaces. Despite engine inactivity, the unavoidable acids aren't "working right through" the OIL-PLATING, and so the wartime risk of corrosion is cut! ## Henry Paces Rice To 67-33 Victory Over Ag Quintet

By The Associated Press
Bill Henry made Southwest conference scoring history last night in a dazzling display of goal-shooting artistry by pouring 41 points through the meshes as he paced the Rice Owls to a 67-33 win over Texas A. & M. at Houston.

The victory pushed the Owls out in front for the loop lead ahead of the Arkansas Razorbacks, who were idle, while the Southern Methodist Mustangs moved into fourth place ahead of the Texas Christian by downing the Baylor Bears at Dallas, 64-41.

Rice and Arkansas have been tied for top honors prior to last night's game, each with seven wins and a loss. Texas is in third place with five wins in eight games.

Henry's scoring spree broke Johnny Adams' record of 36, set for Arkansas two years ago and at that he left the game with two minutes to play. His season total rests at 193 and puts him in a good position to break the full season record of 214 held by Baylor's Dwight Parks. Rice has three games to play.

The Rice center made 16 points the first half against the Aggies, who trailed at the rest period 22-28, and he finished in 25 more of the last half, "breaking Adams' record with five minutes to go. Burdett led the cellar-dwelling Aggies with 7 points.

SMU took an early lead against

Baylor and kept it throughout the game; they led 36-24 at the half. After five minutes of play in the last half, the Pony second team went in and finished the game. Dennis Haden scored 22 points in 25 minutes of play for the winners, while Hicks led Baylor with 18 tallies.

Schedule for other games this week:
Friday—Rice vs. Texas Christian at Houston; Texas vs. Arkansas at Fayetteville.
Saturday—Texas Christian vs. Texas A. & M. at College Station; Baylor vs. Southern Methodist at Waco and Texas vs. Arkansas at Fayetteville.

Landis Invites Five Sergeants To 1944 Series

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—All it will cost five army sergeants to witness the 1944 world series eight months hence is their sixth sense.

They will be the guests of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's 77-year-old commissioner. They wrote Landis that their "sixth sense" told them they would be back to attend the fall classic. The sergeants, presumably fighting overseas, advised Landis they would like to have the honor of being the first holders of tickets for the 1944 series games "no matter where played", and in so doing would be made "very happy."

Landis said he did not know where the soldiers were stationed, where their homes were or anything concerning their background. They merely signed their letter: "S/Sgt. Rodney N. Lewis, S/Sgt. Philip H. Candloro, S/Sgt. James C. Putnam, S/Sgt. Elsi G. McFulgen, S/Sgt. Steve J. Mester."

Taking his well-known pen in hand, Landis sent them this letter, care of APO Postmaster, New York:

"Gentlemen: I am in receipt of your letter which bears no date—which, I suppose, must forever remain a military secret. I consider myself lucky to be dealing with five army sergeants at a distance of whatever thousands of miles it is, rather than to be a member of a company and have five sergeants on my back. You will perceive I have had some contact with private soldiers during my 108 years. Having said this much about sergeants, I have got to add that my observation is that the private's bark at and about sergeants really doesn't express any desire to bite.

"More power to your sixth sense. You have a date with me at the 1944 world series. Contact with me in time. We will see the ball games together.

"Wishing you and the whole outfit whatever worthwhile thing there may be left in this pestered and bedeviled world.

"Truly yours, Kenesaw M. Landis."

Top Lightweight Contenders Clash In Madison Square

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Tippy Larkin, who thought he beat Bob Ruffin, and Lulu Costantino, who thought he beat Beau Jack, clash tonight in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden that may produce another contender in the lightweight division.

Larkin, a Garfield, N. J., lad regarded as a better puncher than Lulu, ruled a 2 to 1 favorite in the overnight line, but the price is likely to drop as ringtime approaches. Costantino is acknowledged a master boxer and has demonstrated he can take a punch.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who anticipates a crowd of some 12,000 and a gross gate of around $35,000, isn't talking, but he probably hopes the scrap doesn't wind up a draw like the last two fights in the Garden, the Larkin-Ruffin and the Sammy Angott-Jack affairs. A winner would be regarded as a likely challenger to the survivor of the forthcoming elimination championship bouts between Jack, Bob Montgomery and Angott.

Costantino, a product of New York's East Side, was the center of a storm of controversy when he dropped a split decision to Beau

Jack on Jan. 7. Jack won the decision because the two judges voted for him, but his manager, Chick Wergel, squawked loud and long because Referee Eddie Joseph gave Costantino eight rounds and Jack only two.

A week later, Jan. 24, Larkin and Ruffin engaged in their draw, a decision that split ringiders as much as the officials. Judge Bill Healy thought Larkin won, six rounds to four. Judge Joe Agnelo gave it to Ruffin by the same count while Referee Arthur Susskind gave each five rounds.

Larkin may forfeit $1,000 if he fails to weigh 137 pounds or less at the weighing-in ceremonies. He weighed 138 1/4, against Ruffin, but was up to 140 at a preliminary examination last week. However, his handlers do not expect any difficulty.

When Will I Get Synthetic Tires?
Facts on the rubber situation by Phillips Petroleum Company, operating a 90,000,000 pound butadiene plant, for an annual production of rubber equivalent to 11,000,000 tires

THE RACE FOR RUBBER is right now entering the homestretch. Swiftly and surely, the nation's synthetic rubber plants are approaching peak annual production of 850,000 tons.

Despite this record-breaking achievement, the next six months are the time of crisis, because the full fighting power of rubber is needed for war: Tires for planes, and combat trucks and cars... rubber for life rafts and landing boats... rubber for bullet-sealing tanks and electrical insulation... rubber for a thousand and one victory needs.

This is why only the most essential civilian drivers can be supplied with new tires of synthetic rubber, at least until late in the year. The rest of us must continue to save miles and rubber, and recap in time to keep rolling.

As a major producer of butadiene (the chief ingredient in synthetic rubber) and 100 octane-aviation gasoline, the Phillips Petroleum Company presents these facts as a contribution to general understanding of the present transportation problem.

With us, as with every American motorist, the needs of war come first. But when victory is won, car owners will begin enjoying the benefits and product-improvements flowing from Phillips gigantic chemical plants, devoted to producing new and better things from petroleum gases as well as petroleum.

Basis For Meeting Quotas

We are now at that stage in the Fourth War Loan where a little extra effort will bring the fulfillment of the mission.

Of this, little less than $100,000 ought to be in E bonds, and this is the thing about which we would like to reason with the people of Big Spring and Howard county.

The quota of E bonds set for the Fourth War Loan drive was $455,000, which, after all represents only a small part of the several million dollars that individuals have on deposit in Big Spring banks.

Although progress seems slow, the general drive is coming on fairly well, but our sales of E bonds is lagging shamefully. The first week of the campaign should have seen this part of the quota satisfied, for after all this business is an individual responsibility.

This is not a war for business and big corporations.

It is a mighty poor brand of patriotism that wants the other fellow to make the sacrifice, invest his money, or that shoves big companies on the one hand and then placidly leaves up to these same concerns the task of financing the war effort.

The root of reaching all these quotas quickly is to first accept personal responsibility. When we reach the point where we are willing to give our money unreservedly to the cause, because we believe in it with all our hearts and souls, then our investments from other sources will take care of themselves.

We can't run the war on the basis of business making gestures of good will, but upon the principle of citizens making peace with their conscience.

Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — It appears now that the national Democratic convention in Chicago in July isn't going to be without interest after all.

The recent Democratic national committee meeting here made it pretty clear that even if they do "draft Roosevelt" for a fourth term, they are not going to be deprived this year of a good old-fashioned scrap over the vice presidential nominee.

Talks with Democrats in Congress and political observers bear that out and two leading candidates for the nomination, sharply divided over issues, already are in the field. They are, of course, Vice President Wallace, who launched his campaign with the avowed intent of extending the policies of the New Deal; and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, who is a conservative by nature and an old-line party Democrat of long, unblemished standing.

Results of the Associated Press committee poll, which showed these two about equally favored, with Wallace having a slight edge, shouldn't be considered as ruling out other possibilities. In spite of the fact that Wallace and Rayburn were far out in front and that third place fell to James A. Farley, whose nomination would be a miracle regardless of his popularity, such men as "Little President" James F. Byrnes and Sen. Harry S. Truman can't be written off.

Even if the convention delegates assemble with the sole intention of nominating President Roosevelt on the first ballot, they are going to have some say about his running mate. The President's nod will be important, naturally, but it won't be as important as it was in 1940, if the delegates don't like the man the President names.

At no time in the President's long career has his selection of a running mate been so important to party unity and perhaps even to preventing a split in the party at the polls.

The selection of Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis, as national committee chairman to succeed Postmaster General Frank Walker is no real clew. He got his job mainly because Walker wanted him and neither the White House nor any important party faction had any serious objection to him.

Whether his is a "second Farley" remains to be seen. He was the first to deny any such comparison, declaring he wasn't skilled or even familiar with big-time national politics. His only comment about Farley was "I like him and I hope he likes me." Observers attach considerable importance to the fact that one of his first acts was to hie to New York for a session with the man who headed the party national committee until he bitterly walked out on the third term.

Some observers here think Farley, still potent nationally, is more amenable to reconciliation than any at this time. If young Hannegan can affect that or even contribute to it, he will have won his spurs. The price the President would have to pay, observers say, would be to allow the convention to name a good strong old-line party conservative to second place on the ticket.

OPA Will Consider Rice Price Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP) — Office of Price Administration (OPA) officials yesterday assured a delegation of congressmen from Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas—the principal rice-growing states—that their opposition to a price ceiling on rough rice would receive "careful consideration."

Rep. Norrell (D-Ark) said the group protested what they understood was an OPA-contemplated move to roll back the rough rice ceiling to a level below the 1942 prices. He asserted this had been prohibited by congress in the price control act which declared prices of no commodity should be reduced below the 1942 level.

Conferring with Bruce Hancock and C. S. Gordon of OPA were Rep. Norrell and Mills (D-Ark), Dies (D-Texas) and Larcade (D-La.).

You'd Be Surprised

By GEORGE STIMPSON

WASHINGTON — Inez Ward sent me from Austin a copy of Walter Prescott Webb's "The Texas Rangers," which I am enjoying very much. Her husband, Fred T. Ward, who is in the Air Corps, is now recuperating in a San Antonio hospital. Fred, before he joined up, was secretary to Cousin Nat Patton, of Crockett, and before that he had been with the late Senator Sheppard.

"Mr. President," declared Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, "I am opposed to the payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. As governor of Texas, I recommended legislation which would have abolished the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. Regardless of my recommendation, the Texas Constitution still requires the payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting and we must deal with actual conditions as they exist."

"Attendance of a Senator," is heading of following item in Congressional Record: "Robert F. Wagner, a senator from the state of New York, appeared in his seat today."

Under the rules of the Senate every member is accounted for every day there is a session.

Cong. Gene Worley, of Shamrock, chairman of the House Elections committee, interjects: "I have no disposition to indulge in personalities either now or later. So far as I am concerned, I have no disposition whatever to delay action either way on the soldiers' vote bill."

Ewing Thomason, of El Paso, ranking member of the House Military Affairs Committee, made by far the clearest and best exposition of the provisions of the bill providing $300 to every serviceman who is mustered out after 60 days of service. More than a million men have been discharged already, he said, and more are being discharged every day. Of these, some 635,000 have already been returned to private employment. There are some hardship cases, of course, but the veterans' administration is trying to do the best it can. Thomason explained that it was nothing more than a mustering-out measure. It does not affect pensions, hospitalization and other rights, but merely provides "a reasonable sum of money to tide them over until they can get re-established." A man just discharged perhaps wants a couple of suits of clothes. "Perhaps he has a two or three weeks' bill at a boarding house or hotel before he gets reinstated in his former employment."

Judge Hatton Summers, of Dallas: "We are the trustees of our soldiers in these appropriations. Our faces are going to be mighty red when they ask us how it came about that we incurred some of these debts—avoidable debts, some of them, which got political advantage for us maybe—and then we charged the debts up to them. We are not going to fool them by scattering money around which we have borrowed on their credit. . . . Our boys are dying now in the jungles of southern seas because, when we ought to have been exercising caution, we were strutting our stuff, saying we could whip Japan before breakfast. Egotism breeds inaction. Inaction breeds disaster like that at Pearl Harbor that Sunday morning. We have not yet acquired the solidarity which comes with the consciousness of a common danger."

FLIGHT FROM LOVE

by JOHN C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY

Chapter 16

"Combat duty!" She stood staring at him as he turned, swung open the door and turned back to her. She had read the words so often—had accepted them with distant understanding. But now when he said them they had a real and terrible clarity.

"No, Dave!" she gasped. He dropped her keys into her hand and laughed gently. "Just a part of the game, Julie. It was grand seeing you tonight."

Blindly she stepped into the hall. She felt cold suddenly, and began to tremble. "Yes, such fun," she murmured. She looked up at him desperately. "I thought—I'd be seeing you now." "I thought—you'd be here for a while."

"We never know," he answered lightly. She clutched his arm. "You'll write me, Dave?"

He hesitated. "I'll try," the promise sounded reluctant. Julie's lips trembled. Her hand tightened on his arm. "I—don't—want you to go," she whispered fiercely.

"He gave a gently scoffing laugh. 'You'll be so busy with your career, you'll never know I'm gone. I'm proud of you, Julie. I'll be wishing you the best of luck. You know that, Goodbye now.'"

He bent to kiss her quickly. But Julie clung to him for one long moment. She didn't see him go. She stood there in the dark hall, her eyes still shut, crying.

Kay came running out to meet her and lead her into the apartment. In jerky sobs she told her of Dave's going.

Kay got Julie into her bed, and tucked the electric pad at her feet. "Now you go to sleep," she ordered. "You're in no condition to rivet tonight."

"Dimly Julie heard Jack's car when it came, and its snorting rattle as it started off again. Then the phone rang.

"Hello," her voice sounded watery.

"Did I get you up?" The deep, round tones were Marek's. "Yes—but it's all right."

"Are you ill?" Marek's concern was sharp.

"No, I—I just had some bad news, that's all. I'll be all right."

"Is there anything I can do, Julie?"

"Nothing, thanks." Julie's throat felt dry and stiff.

"How about dinner tomorrow night? There's some things I'd like to talk over with you."

"That would be fine," Julie managed.

"Better go to bed now and get some sleep," Marek said. "I'll stop by for you about six-thirty tomorrow evening."

Julie went back to the bedroom feeling dazed and set in the low chair by the open window. Far back in the hills a rancher's dog barked, the wind from the sea was rattling the palm trees side of the house with dry, papery sounds. In her mind she could hear the humming roar of the machinery at the plant. Suddenly it dawned on her that sleep was impossible. The thing she wanted most now was to be back in the plant at work—work tonight until she couldn't think—couldn't bear those words—combat duty—ringing in her mind.

She glanced at her wristwatch as she snapped on the bathroom light. It had only been thirty minutes since Kay and Jack had left. It was a twenty minute walk to the plant. If she hurried she would only have lost an hour. She threw some cold water on her tear-stained cheeks. She slipped out of her slacks and into her overalls.

Her flat heeled shoes beat a staccato note as she walked rapidly along the darkened sidewalk on Camillo Street.

The sprawling buildings of Empire loomed ahead. They too, were swathed in total darkness. The guard at gate 23 snapped on his flashlight long enough to examine her badge then let her pass. She hurriedly found her card in the metal rack and punched it in the timeclock.

Her fingers flew at her work as the night wore on and she was welding her rivets for the thirty minute rest period. Her teammate shouted for her to stop.

"Hey!" she said. "You don't get overtime for working through the rest period, you know!"

Julie lifted her head and smiled a little sheepishly.

"I'm in a fog tonight," she said. "I didn't even hear the bell."

The girls left their work and joined the surging rivulets of workers who were pressing toward the company cafeteria. They each got a coke and a sandwich and found a table in the corner. Julie felt a frantic urge to get back to her job. She had found she could lose herself in the absorption of her work.

Under the curtain of blue light the factory roared on again. Julie worked madly until four o'clock. It was strange how almost on the stroke of four she had looked at the clock on the wall. She thought of David. He would just be leaving. A group of jumpered-figures climbing into transport planes, heading for an unknown destination. She pulled herself back to her work.

"Julie!" Julie jerked the rivet gun back from the metal guilily at the lead girl's sharp tone. She didn't have to be told this time. She had been day dreaming again. Probably her rivets were crooked as a dog's hind leg. Well, she deserved this call-down.

But the lead girl was looking at her, not her work. "You're pale," she accused her. "You don't look fit to be working tonight. I think you'd better go

Really? Then I can't stop."

Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD — For several reasons the currently producing film version of "The Hairy Ape" is due to attract considerable attention, and not the least of these is the return of Dorothy Comingore.

Miss Comingore to date has had one of the town's more brilliant and brief careers. Her last—and only major—role was in Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane" in 1941. Acclaimed for her performance as Kane's second wife, a dramatic role of the sort rarely awarded to newcomers, Miss Comingore then down to the dispensary and have the nurse look you over." Relief flooded through Julie. "I'm fine," she said firmly. "I feel much better when I'm working."

The lead girl hesitated. "You're sure?" She gave Julie one of her sudden, rare smiles. "We don't want you folding up on us just when the army inspector has stopped ordering re-does on your rivets."

disappeared from the screen. "My last picture," she laughs. "Well, there were five or six of them—all of which might be titled "Suspension!"

After time out to have her baby (Judith Collins, now three), the actress returned to her RKO contract and was suspended time and again for refusing picture assignments. Looking back on the list, she can take comfort in that her judgment was vindicated. Most of the films turned out to be the lemons she had anticipated.

"I took this role without even reading the script," she says. "After all, one can't go wrong on Eugene O'Neill and this play. Maybe I'll stay in pictures this time—though I'm retiring again for a while after it, to have another baby." She is the wife of Richard Collins, screen writer.

It has taken more than 20 years for O'Neill's Nobel prize play to reach the screen. At various times RKO and Warner Brothers attempted its purchase, and once O'Neill himself prepared a screen treatment, for Dudley Nichols, but the playwright's insistence at the time on script approval and other rights quered the deal.

The current producer is Jules Levey (of "Hellzapoppin'"). "The boys from Syracuse," etc.) who bought the play to star William Bendix, long before the big blond bruter had gained his present fame. To Levey, Bendix's "Guadalcanal Diary" and "Lifeboat" hits are so much gravy—pleasant but not foreseen at the time.

The "Ape" has been modernized for the screen, and the freighter on which Bendix plays stoker now plows the submarine-infested waters of a world at war. Miss Comingore plays a nurse returning from the war zone, and the venomous society girl heroine is Susan Hayward's. ("I'll cut your throat if I don't get that part," she told Levey.)

John Loder, the man Hedy Lamarr married, plays Susan's suitor. Hedy may have chosen Loder, but the script says Susan is to choose burly Bill, as far as she does any romantic choosing at all.

Levey promises "the biggest fight scene ever" — with 200 or more extras slugging it out in a Lisbon bar. The freighter itself, the black forbidding Cresta Blanca, has risen life-size on a sound stage ocean, looking so real you have to tap its wooden sides to be sure it's not of real, honest, pre-war steel.

ation of its precepts. We will wake up and find we have a government of men instead of law.

The constitution, he said, was "a chart for action," and that "we should not pass laws in defiance of it, but rather propose amendments to it. Unless people keep their constitutional compacts at home, they cannot be relied upon to keep international compacts for peace."

James Little presided as master of ceremonies at the affair, introducing Wanda Lou Petty and Sgt. Joe Kling, each of whom were roundly applauded for their vocal selections. Mrs. Anne Gibson House was at the piano. Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. H. Coleson, East Fourth Baptist pastor.

Willard Sullivan, retiring president, expressed appreciation for cooperative efforts extended the organization during 1943 lauded J. H. Deason, W. G. Hayden, Dr. P. W. Malone, C. J. Staples, Charles Sullivan, Willard Sullivan and Elmo Wasson.

Albert Darby, installed as new president, expressed the hope that none had joined the chamber for personal gain, but for contributing to community development. H. H. Hurt was installed as vice-president, and other members of the executive committee were announced as A. V. Karcher, Robert Currie and Sullivan.

Representatives were here from Colorado City, Andrews, Can Angelo, Slaton, Coahoma, Midland, Odessa, Sweetwater, Lamesa, Allene, Kermil, Houston and Fort Worth. Among dignitaries were Sen. When the power shift was made, the well was kicked up to 350 gallons per minute without visibly affecting the water level and pumped for seven hours at this rate. During the time the well was pumped, it yielded 1,473,000 gallons.

A well located 2,000 feet to the east showed only a full down of 42 of a foot during the pumping operation. City Manager B. J. McDaniel said that the second well would be tested this week. Both are located in section 27-30, W&N.W. and are about 20 miles south of the city's nearest water production.

City Water Test May Set Record

The city of Big Spring water test on the O'Barr ranch in northern Glasscock county gives every indication of surpassing any well the municipality now operates.

On a 96-hour run last week the well pumped at 232 gallons per minute and pulled the static level down only four feet in that time. While the power was shifted, the test came back rapidly and after resting filled to within a foot of the static level.

Meet Called Of Relief Groups

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Dr. H. V. Spensley of Albuquerque, N. M., has called a national meeting here tomorrow of representatives of Bataan Relief organizations and associated groups from 14 states.

Spensley said a national organization will be formed tomorrow which will probably request congress to take cognizance of the Philippines situation.

The representatives from the 14 states will consider asking congress to adopt a resolution urging the war department to "give General Douglas MacArthur the men and equipment to go in and get our boys out of the Philippines now."

Spensley, founder of the Bataan Relief organization in his state, estimated that 1,500 New Mexico boys are among the survivors in the Philippines.

States other than New Mexico that will be represented at tomorrow's meeting are Illinois, California, Georgia, Michigan, Minnesota, Texas, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New York, Ohio, South Carolina and Wisconsin.

Jap Factories Produce 1,200 Planes Monthly

By WILLIAM FREY
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—An estimate that Japanese factories are turning out aircraft at a rate of 1,200 or more a month came from high quarters here today, coupled with a report that the Japanese—like the Germans—are concentrating significantly on defensive types.

This report on Japanese production, about 100 per cent higher than most of the guesses made since Pearl Harbor, would go far to explain the enemy's apparent ability to keep replacing his heavy losses, and indicate that his reserve of planes has not been reduced appreciably.

In a little more than a month from Jan. 1 to Feb. 6, the Japanese lost more than 700 planes in the Pacific—more than 200 of them destroyed on the ground. The total was nearly 60 per cent of the estimated Japanese monthly output.

The greatest destruction was wrought in the South and Southwest Pacific, where Allied airmen in 28 missions during this period demolished 519 enemy planes, 111 of them on the ground at Rabaul and Wewak in the Marshalls, land and carrier based attacks in 29 missions in January destroyed 151 enemy planes, of which 90 were caught on the ground. Thirty-three were shot down in Burma-India, and five in China.

Chinese Scoring Further Gains Against Nips

NEW DELHI, Feb. 9 (AP)—Chinese forces have scored further gains against the Japanese in the Hukawng valley in northern Burma but on the Arakan front north of Akyab the Japanese still are on the offensive against Allied hill positions, a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia headquarters said today.

The Chinese have wiped out pockets of enemy resistance and cleared the west bank of the Tanai River west of Taipa Ga where the Chinese are seeking to push out the enemy to allow completion of the new Ledo road through the area.

CHUNGKING, Feb. 9 (AP)—Medium and fighter-bombers of the 14th U. S. Air Force have ranged over French Indo-China and central China bombing and strafing Japanese rail and river transport in support of the Chinese for the past two days, a communique said today.

Mitchell bombers sank four Japanese cargo boats of the Yangtze river and probably sank two more and a large barge on Monday.

One plane was lost but the pilot is believed safe.

Senate Picks Up Another Pain

By DON HYNDMAN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Having let go of one legislative hot potato—the service vote controversy—the senate picked up another today in the form of a bill to continue the Commodity Credit Corporation minus its authority to subsidize retail food prices.

Resumption of the subsidy fight found congress up against an urgent deadline. Because the statutory life of the CCC expires Feb. 17, the issue will have to be settled within eight days unless the CCC is either extended temporarily or allowed to lapse.

As the debate got under way Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) rejected an indirect effort by subsidy opponents to continue the CCC on a temporary basis to allow more time for senate consideration of subsidy repeal.

Expectations were that the administration would try for a quick decision in the belief that President Roosevelt would veto the repealer if it passed and that the veto would be sustained.

The central issue in the subsidy fight is whether the CCC and other federal agencies are to be permitted to continue paying subsidies to farmers and food processors as part of the government's attempt to hold consumer food prices near September, 1942, levels. President Roosevelt has termed subsidies a vital phase of the entire price and wage stabilization program.

WOULD BAN HOBBY
ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP)—A bill which would require a thrice-divorced person to obtain supreme court permission for remarriage within three years was introduced in the New York legislature today to curb those who the sponsor said "turn marriage into a hobby."
