Water Rate Increase Up For Council Study

An ordinance hiking city water rates approximately 10 per cent will be considered by city commissioners when they meet at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

City Manager Mack Wofford said two or three proposals will be discussed for inclusion in the legislation.

The city manager said it is pretty well established there will be an increase in the minimum rate from $3 to $3.30 for the first 3,000 gallons.

The average monthly consumption rate per residential consumer in Pampa is 8,600 gallons of water.

Wofford said probably two other proposals will be studied for inclusion in the rate boost.

If they are accepted by commissioners the year-around average rate of 5.80 a month for residential consumers probably would be increased about 86 cents a month to $6.86.

He said reason for the rate hike is to cover cost of increased operation of the city's new water treatment plant and automation of city water wells.

"We had hoped to put the new rates into effect last October," Wofford said, "but have the city lost all increased revenue since that time, because of the delay caused by questions arising over the President's price control regulations."

It was only last week that the city received notification from the Internal Revenue Association that it was okay to place the water rate increase into effect.

Other items on the Tuesday agenda will include: Opening of bids for the purchase of additional disaster warning equipment. Acceptance of auditor's report on city operations for fiscal 1970-71.

Setting of date to receive bids on the purchase of trucks for the water and street departments, paint and supplies for repairing ground water storage tanks, paving of parking areas around M.K. Brown auditorium.

Setting public hearing for the purpose of annexing of land tracts in Meadow Lark Hills and Mesilla Park Additions and part of the northeast quarter-section 115 and the southeast quarter-section 116 of the I&GN Railroad Survey.

Resolution concerning the designation of Lovett Memorial Library as an area library.

Second reading of an ordinance changing the zoning of properties fronting on the east side of N. Hobart between Kentucky and 22nd Sts.

Connally, Actress Will Be Named Year's Headliners

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of Treasury John Connally and television actress Eva Gabor will be named "Headliners of the Year" at this year's annual awards party of the Headliners Club on Feb. 5.

Dan Crowley, awards party chairman, said the presentations would be made at both the Headliners annual luncheon, Feb. 5, and the black tie dinner that night.

Texas' top writers and photographers in both the news and broadcast field will be presented $5,000 in prizes at the dinner as winners in the Charles E. Green Journalism Awards contest. The winners were selected by a panel of out-of-state judges.

A star attraction at the luncheon will be the three announced Democratic candidates for governor—Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Dolph Briscoe.

4 Nations Join Common Market

BRUSSELS (AP)—Britain, Denmark, Ireland and Norway signed the treaties Saturday to make them members of the European Common Market, uniting 257 million people of 10 countries in the world's most powerful trading bloc.

The ceremony was delayed for 50 minutes after a young Swedish woman hit British Prime Minister Edward Heath in the face with a bag of black ink as he walked up the steps of Egmont Palace for the signing. He was not hurt but had to send for clean clothes.

C-C And PHS To Host Vocational Conference

Pampa is the first of 29 cities on the itinerary of the Advisory Council for Technical-Vocational Education for a series of conferences to gather local community reaction to proposed plans for increased career-oriented training programs.

According to William L. Jones Jr., council chairman, the sessions will examine education resources, programs and activities in all sections of the state.

Three members of the council with representatives of its Austin-based staff will tour local training facilities from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday. At 7 p.m. there will be a public forum in the Robert E. Lee auditorium to test local viewpoints on vocational-technical education.

Hosting the session is a joint venture between the Chamber of Commerce, Roy Sparkman, president and Dr. James Malone, superintendent of schools with other members of the school staff.

In a letter to pertinent firms and business organizations seeking their participation in the forum, Don Nelson, vocational coordinator for the schools, pointed out that only some 33 per cent of Pampa school students are receiving needed vocational-technical education while approximately 80 per cent need this training and instruction.

Nelson feels the future and employability of students today may depend on the business-community representation Monday night.

Goal of the visiting group is to effectively contact civic groups, employers, labor organizations and any apprentice programs, industrial developers and both public and private educational programs in the vocational field.

Local Florist Is Burglarized

Sometime Friday night a thief or thieves entered Robert's Flowers, 217 N. Ballard via the rear door and made off with some $30.60.

According to the police report, the burglar(s) left by the same route after ransacking for more money. Evidently they used matches for light for the police account noted several burnt stems on the floor.

Police are conducting the usual investigation for fingerprints and other clues.

SIMULATED -- The Mothers March for the 1972 March of Dimes campaign is set for Monday 6-8 p.m. but this quartet is showing it like they hope it will be. Mrs. Dale Greenhouse (left) and Mrs. Pat Wilson (right), two of the 23 district chairmen for Pampa, present their credentials and their plea for children everywhere to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Martindale, 1729 Fir. Tomorrow night Pampans will leave their porch lights on and 600 dedicated mothers and students will be calling. Oh, yes. Please note Mrs. Martindale has her checkbook! (staff photo)

600 Mothers, Students Join March Of Dimes

The president's birthday ball across the nation, a "march of dimes" for a block of Cuyler sidewalk, fears of a polio epidemic — all have been written into history but the March of Dimes is with us still.

Staged each year in January remembering the birthday of the nation's most celebrated polio victim and what he did for others, the March of Dimes goes to fight other cripples of children.

To do this, 600 able-bodied mothers and students will participate in the traditional "Mothers March" Monday from 6-8 p.m. appealing to the hearts and purse strings of Pampans.

Leave your porch light on and when the marcher comes to your door showing proper credentials remember that your gift yields unusual power in Pampa in the fight to help children.

The Gray County chapter of the national foundation has no paid workers to pull salaries from your contributions. All work-throughout the year is done by volunteers just as the campaign for funds is conducted by workers whose only reward is the cause.

There is no set goal. The campaign hopes to garner all the traffic will bear. When it is counted, 25 per cent then goes to the Salk Foundation for research. It was research by Dr. Jonas Salk that laid low the dread crippler, poliomyelitis.

Of the remainder, 37 1-2 per cent goes to the national foundation and the rest stays in Gray County to provide such things as wheelchairs, leg and arm braces, medication, other special equipment and in many cases, hospital bills.

The amount Gray County administrators each year ranges from $2,000 to $2,500 at a total cost of some $125 in administration expenses.

Emmett Saltzman has a film graphically depicting the work of the foundation and has shown it to number of civic clubs and church groups.

Those who have seen it recommend that every club and service organization in Pampa contact Saltzman and try to see this film. He may be reached at 699-2581.

Monday night's Mothers March is headed up by Mrs. Tommie Williams and Mrs. Keet Hicks. The city has been divided into 23 districts with a district chairman over each.

Rep. Phil Cates, chairman for the overall effort in Pampa, announced that the "Bucket Brigade" manned by members of Pampa's various clubs will be conducted Saturday. It was postponed after the Sunday chill that moved in last Saturday.

Should bad weather surprise the Mothers March, it will be conducted Jan. 31. However, all forecasts point to almost ideal weather tomorrow night.

Lawrence Fischman, lawyer for the plaintiffs, said members of the legislature made two trips to Washington "at the expense of the people of Texas" to consult Texas congressmen about their redistricting wishes.

He also quoted House Speaker Gus Mutscher Jr. as saying "with a most remarkable piece of political candor" that the approach to redistricting is determined by what can be avoided.

Fischman said he took this to mean: "We can make a deal."

A comparison of the maps of districts as created by the legislature and the court show occasional remarkable differences in some areas.

Dist. 13 in the Panhandle and South Plains, for instance, went as far east as Clay County. It now is a compact area in the Panhandle and to the south.

Dist. 17, which under the legislature's districting sprawled from roughly Lubbock to Dallas with all sorts of dips and curves, now is a tightly-knit area.

The new Dist. 24, which once took in Denton County and the population-rich area between Dallas and Fort Worth, now takes in Hill and Ellis Counties and about half of Dallas County. This includes a portion of the Mid-Cities area.

Sam McDaniel for the State of Texas argued that "the people of the state have a better chance of making their elected representatives" than through "self-appointed guardians of their interest" such as the plaintiffs.

The judges apparently did not agree.

In their 700-word opinion and order they said the record shows that enactment of the legislature's order, known as S.B.1, did not come "as close to equality as it might have come."

They held that the state failed to justify population variances between the various districts and that S.B.1 was therefore unconstitutional.

"Accordingly," intoned Judge Ingraham, "defendant is enjoined from conducting or permitting any primary or general elections based upon the districts established by S.B.1."

The court noted that the defendant, Bullock, had not submitted any plan for reapportionment of congressional seats as an alternative to S.B.1, whereas the plaintiffs had submitted two, known as Plan B and Plan C.

Plan B, the judges found, was based on S.B.1 but had a "significantly lower" deviation between district populations. Plan C was based solely on population and showed a variance between districts of less than 310ths of one per cent (.0028).

Under S.B.1 the population of the largest legislative district established was 19,275 persons greater than that of the smallest, producing a deviation of 4.1 per cent. The plaintiffs' Plan B showed a deviation of 2.5 per cent, and the Bexar County Republican plan about 2 per cent.

The court adopted Plan C, concluding that it "best effectuates the principle of one man, one vote, enunciated by the Supreme Court."

It ordered Plan C to be "in effect and operative immediately," adding: "This order is entered without prejudice to the legislative

Federal Court Adopts Population-Based Plan

DALLAS (AP) — A three-judge federal panel threw out the Texas Legislature's congressional redistricting Saturday, ruling it unconstitutional.

At the same time, the jurists accepted a proposed new plan based solely on population and said it will be the law until the next census in 1980 unless the legislature meanwhile comes up with some new plan that the court will accept.

The judges retained jurisdiction for extending the filing deadline for candidates, now set at Feb. 7, "in the event it is made known to this court that a called session of the legislature will include congressional reapportionment."

The plan adopted is one of two submitted by plaintiffs in the suit—10 Texas voters, headed by Don Weiser, a Dallas mathematician employed in the research department of an oil corporation.

But the judges said their order was "determinative of the rights of all others."

However, they did allow the intervention of Van Henry Archer Jr., chairman of the Bexar County Republican party, although they did not use a plan he submitted.

U.S. Circuit Judge Joe M. Ingraham of Houston presided over the court, sitting with U.S. District Court Judges William M. Taylor Jr. and Robert M. Hill.

Texas Secretary of State Bob Bullock was defendant.

The case was argued before the judges Friday morning, but they reserved their opinion until 11 a.m. Saturday.

Lawrence Fischman, lawyer for the plaintiffs, said members of the legislature made two trips to Washington "at the expense of the people of Texas" to consult Texas congressmen about their redistricting wishes.

He also quoted House Speaker Gus Mutscher Jr. as saying "with a most remarkable piece of political candor" that the approach to redistricting is determined by what can be avoided.

It ordered Plan C to be "in effect and operative immediately," adding: "This order is entered without prejudice to the legislative and executive branches of the State of Texas to proceed with consideration and adoption of any other constitutionally permissible plan of congressional redistricting at a called or regular session of the legislature of the State of Texas.

"This court retains jurisdiction of this cause for the purposes of considering any such plan might be adopted by the legislature of the State of Texas until congressional reapportionment is enacted, based on the 20th Decennial Census to be conducted in 1980."

Ingraham ordered copies of the judgment to be sent to Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, House Speaker Gus Mutscher, Secretary of State Bullock, and Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

And he concluded with the warning that "this judgment be considered for purposes of appeal and otherwise, as a final judgment in this case, and that no stay of proceedings pending appeal will be granted by this court."

Redrawing Unlikely

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said Saturday "There is little reason to believe that the legislature in special session could draw a new plan acceptable to the court in the short time remaining before the filing deadline (Feb. 7) and the primary elections."

Smokers Withdrawal Clinic Opens Monday

To smoke or not to smoke, paraphrasing Shakespeare, is the question. And it isn't a question with an easy answer, according to Mrs. Lillian Jordan, president of the Top O' Texas TBIRD Association.

Just like the Bard's Hamlet, she states, the smoker wavers back and forth. Knowing what one ought to do, and actually doing it, are two different things.

"One smoker in three can stop cold turkey," Mrs. Jordan said. "The other two can quit, but they need help in doing so, and usually succeed in kicking the habit after numerous attempts."

"The smoker whose first attempt to quit fails usually suffers a humiliating emotional experience. What we are trying to get people to understand is that they learned how to smoke, and did it in gradual steps until finally they could inhale without feeling sick. Now they must often quit the same way they started. They have to learn how not to smoke, and frequently this takes several tries, too."

Mrs. Jordan said the week-long series of withdrawal sessions to be held in Pampa starting Monday is designed to teach the smoker how to quit—and to do so without humiliation if his first attempts are not successful.

The program will start at 7:30 p.m. daily at the Seventh Day Adventist Church building, 425 N. Ward. A charge of $5 pays for the entire series, which will stress diet, harmful effects of smoking, and breaking of behavior patterns associated with tobacco usage.

57th Anniversary Of Kiwanis International Celebrated Here

The 57th anniversary of Kiwanis International was marked Friday by the Downtown Pampa Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon in Methodist Church.

Fred Thompson, a past governor of the Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis district and long-time member of the Pampa Club was the anniversary speaker.

Introduced by Arthur Aftergut, chairman of the club's Education Committee, Thompson touched on Kiwanis history and its goals for today and the future.

"Kiwanis translates money and men into community service," he said, "and Kiwanis does not buy its projects—it sends men out to work and accomplish them."

The speaker said it should be kept in mind that people need people and that is what Kiwanians stress in their community service projects.

Thompson also urged local Kiwanians to strive for the enrollment of young members.

"We need to give younger men the opportunities to assume leadership responsibilities," he added.

Wedding anniversary guests at Friday's luncheon were Mrs. Kathleen Anderson, Mrs. Shirley Doak, Mrs. Helen Lindsey, Mrs. June McCoy and Mrs. Pat Hopkins.

O. L. PRESLEY

Area Man Seeks County Office

O. L. Presley, Lefors heavy equipment contractor, has announced his candidacy for the post of County Commissioner, precinct one.

Presley, a resident of Gray County for 32 years, points to his experience as such a contractor as at least a partial qualification to handle the affairs of the county and the needs of its citizens.

"I am simply asking for the support of the people in the Democratic Primary and their influence in making me and my capabilities known to their friends." Thus Presley officially went on record as being in the race.

greeters, all of Amarillo, and director W. R. Knight of Dumas.

Forty-three members of the local Shrine Club and four guests also were in attendance at Friday night's installation ceremonial.

County Tax Assessor Seeking Another Term

Gray County's veteran Tax Assessor, Jack Back, has "making tracks" among the fiscal records of the county for almost two decades. Now, he has announced that he wishes to "make some more."

To those that know him, this means Back is saying he is not ashamed of his record, not afraid of hard work and would appreciate the voters who have placed him in office in the past keeping him at the job yet another term.

He has seen the work load of the Tax Assessor's office grow and notes with pride that, while additional workers have been added to his staff, the additions have not been as many as a first look at their load would seem to indicate.

"Why, the amount of work required to register a motor vehicle now is almost triple what it was when I first came to this office," Back pointed out.

Canadian PCA Lends $77 Million To Area Farmers

CANADIAN (Spl)—Farmers and ranchers from a six-county area borrowed more than $77.7 million from Canadian Production Credit Association in 1971, according to Larry E. Albin, the association's president. This amount represents loans to 588 stockholders.

Loan volume is up more than $5.8 million or 8 percent over the same period a year ago, Albin reported. Canadian PCA is one of 34 Texas associations that together loaned more than $942 million to the state's farmers and ranchers in 1971, he said.

Canadian PCA, with offices in Canadian, Pampa, Perryton and Wheeler makes agricultural loans in Gray, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts and Wheeler counties.

JACK BACK

He went on: "The population increase along with the changes in voter registration requires more bookkeeping than was needed in the old days of the poll tax."

Back reiterated that he was hoping his record combined with the courtesy and efficiency with which each person was treated would be sufficient to carry him back into office.

Lulu Charged

District Court Judge R. K. Seales said he would sentence Lulu at a later date. She said she would appeal.

Trial For Speaker Mutschers And Aides Set For Feb. 28

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — District Court Judge Neil Daniel, who will preside over the Feb. 28 trial of Texas House Speaker Gus Mutschers and two others here, has issued orders prohibiting cameras and recording devices from the courthouse.

The judge also outlined rules of conduct for court officials and the newsman reporting the trial.

More than 30 newsmen have notified Judge Daniel that they plan to attend.

Anticipating the ruling on cameras, several television stations informed the judge that they plan to send artists to make courtroom sketches.

Judge Daniel ordered that no counsel or defendant release any information or opinion by means of public communication in connection with the case.

"If there is a reasonable likelihood that such dissemination will interfere with a fair trial or otherwise prejudice the due administration of justice," He ordered all courthouse personnel including sheriff, bailiffs and court reporters not to disclose any information relating to the case that is not a part of the public record of the court.

Mutschers has been indicted on accusations of accepting a bribe and conspiracy to accept a bribe in what has become known as the Texas stock scandals.

Life Insurance: Delicate Balance

AP Business Writer

A sure way to go broke is to feel that you must have insurance for every risk in life. An only slightly less likely route to poverty is to have no insurance at all. Between these extremes lie many questions and decisions.

All that you can say for certain about insurance is that almost everyone needs it but that, because of differing responsibilities, incomes and goals, one family's needs might vary widely from another.

Basic to any breadwinner's thinking must be concern for (1) paying off the mortgage or assuring sufficient income to continue monthly payments; (2) sufficient funds to raise and educate the children and permit the family to otherwise live in the accustomed manner.

Every family, therefore, should have at least a smattering of knowledge about the entire field, enough let us say to talk intelligently to the agent from whom the insurance is to be purchased.

LIFE: If life insurance were insurance alone it wouldn't be hard to understand, but most policies combine insurance and savings rather than limiting themselves to protection.

1. If you want protection alone you must buy TERM insurance. It has no savings or loan value whatever. It is issued for a stated time rather than for a lifetime, but during that period it offers you protection as good as any other policy.

Term provides the most protection for the price, but the premiums will rise steadily or the coverage decrease. Every renewal means less satisfactory coverage because you constitute a greater risk.

The best term policies are renewable and convertible to whole life without another medical exam. This is very important. Without these features you might suddenly find yourself without insurance when you most need it.

2. STRAIGHT, or ORDINARY life insurance combines protection and savings.

The premiums are higher than term at first but they remain level rather than rise as in term.

The money that you accumulate in these policies is available for the asking as a loan, usually at 5 per cent, but so long as the loan is outstanding it reduces the value of the policy by that much.

3. LIMITED PAYMENT LIFE is another combination of protection and savings in which the premiums stop after a certain number of years, with the face value paid on death. You'll sometimes hear it referred to as "30-pay" or "30-pay," which means it is paid up in 30 or 30 years.

This type of policy is more costly than straight, but it has distinct advantages, especially for the elderly, whose incomes generally decline, and for those whose incomes reach an early peak, such as athletes.

A 20-year-old policyholder would have his limited payment premiums completed by the time he is 40 or 50. If he had a straight life policy his payments would continue for life. Moreover, the loan value will be higher.

4. The ENDOWMENT policy is primarily for savings. It has lower coverage and higher premiums than other policies. The face value is paid to the insured when the policy matures, say in 20 years, or to the beneficiary should death occur before then.

Portrait Of a Queen

A hard subject to paint and please all her subjects, Queen Elizabeth has figured in past art circle tempers raised by portraits British critics deemed too modern, unflattering or otherwise not quite fitting. Her latest however, accentuates the traditional and is by an American artist—Joseph Wallace King of Winston-Salem, N.C. Unveiled in London, the King portrait, right, shows the queen in a soft blue gown and wearing a necklace once the possession of her great-great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, against a castle-crowned landscape. The North Carolina artist, who signs his paintings "Vincitata" and is known for an Italianate style featuring a castle symbol—in the queen's portrait it is Dover Castle—is pictured below with the subject of another of his portraits, which hangs in Duke University law school, the President's alma mater.

Shopping Is A Science

By JOHN T. CUNIFF
AP Business Writer

The marketplace often is an arena where the amateur meets the professional, where the buyer, equipped with little more than desire and money, confronts the seller, armed with the latest selling techniques.

In almost all endeavors, we consider contests between amateur and professional to be unfair. Now we are extending that concept to the market, where the consumer movement attempts to strengthen the buyer's power and restrain that of the seller.

But no amount of effort by government institutions, educators and consumer advocates is going to permanently improve your marketplace position unless you yourself make more scientific those shopping habits that were formed so casually.

Shopping is not nearly so much an art as it is a science. Everyone is familiar with at least one individual who somehow seems to get one, spectacular buy after another. Somehow, it appears, that person is always in the right place at the right time.

Question that person closely and you'll find he or she acts more like a scientist, hardly trusting to instinct at all but relying on precise knowledge of sales, products and selling techniques. You must do the same.

Understand, for example, that a sale is not always a total sale. Some items might be red-tagged but there in the midst of the mark-downs is a fully priced item waiting to be grabbed by an unwary shopper.

Never forget either that prices are highest when demand is highest and that, conversely, you can extract a real bargain in the off-season. Remember too that the most popular of competitive items is not necessarily the best.

—Avoid impulses. Never go shopping without having a clear idea of what you want or need. Preferably, have a checklist, especially at the supermarket, where little impulse items add up to great bills.

This is not to say that you shouldn't roam through the stores to see what is available. That's idea shopping, and it's how many people obtain their information on availability and relative values.

But, don't confuse idea shopping with buying. When you go to buy, know what you are going to buy. If you go on a shopping expedition "just looking for something to buy," you'll find it. You might also regret it.

—Don't pay for services you don't need. Services are offered in amazing abundance in our economy, often without the buyer even being aware. We often purchase something—a service—for which we have no need or desire.

Some grocery stores specialize in shop-at-home service. You merely call in your order and it arrives at a specified time. Wonderful. But a study made in one store showed the customer paid about 20 per cent for this service.

When you pay for your insurance on a monthly or quarterly basis instead of in a lump sum you pay for the convenience. When you use the services of a telephone operator instead of dialing your long distance calls you pay more.

Consider some less obvious ones: A daily shoeshine (and a tip for service) instead of shining our own; whole life insurance when inexpensive term insurance would do; a house call by the doctor instead of a visit to his office; a box seat instead of the bleachers; a toll road instead of a freeway; a prepared meal instead of cooking.

—Don't use short-term credit needlessly. This is a credit as well as a service economy and you will find easy terms offered at every turn. This presents the dangers of loading up on items that you really cannot afford and needlessly paying credit charges that range around 18 per cent.

—Avoid buying items that are to be used but once or twice.

African Youths Talk About Things American

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Television, football and high good prices, common to Americans, represent the new and different to two South African youths visiting America for the first time.

Jessica Sadler and Shirley Baillie, both 19, were in Fort Worth recently as part of a youth exchange program.

Both were out of college for the summer vacation—summer in Africa, that is. The two young women lived with families of the downtown Lions Club.

Jessica attended the Cotton Bowl football game and came away with mixed emotions.

"I didn't think much of football at first. They go out and jump around, then stop and then jump around some more," she said.

"We play rugby in South Africa, only the players don't have all those pads. At first, I thought the players were a bit silly. But after the game was explained to me, I really began to enjoy it."

You know, it's more difficult than it looks.

Both girls were impressed by television, which they said was not available in South Africa.

Kidneys are 4 or 5 inches long and weigh more than four ounces.

Where Has All The Money Gone?

By JOHN T. CUNIFF
AP Business Writer

"You have the highest standard of living in the world." You hear the words so often they irritate. "Who me?" you say. "Why, I can barely pay my bills. I'm poor."

Perhaps you are, relative to your neighbors. But generically, Americans are wealthy if measured in terms of their material possessions. They have one motor vehicle to serve every 2.5 persons, one telephone for every two.

They are high among nations in spending for health and education, which suggests the money is available to be spent. The median income of an American family is close to $10,000 a year.

In some nations, there is little money left after the essentials of food, clothing and shelter are paid for. In some, more than 50 per cent of income is commonly spent on food alone.

In the United States, less than 20 per cent of the pay check goes for groceries and the percentage is falling, a result attributable more to rising incomes than to low prices.

To buy a pound of rib roast, the Moscow resident works more than an hour, the New Yorker less than 20 minutes. For a woman's dress the Moscovite works 42 hours, the New Yorker less than six.

Are conditions improving for the ordinary American? You judge. In 1911, income per person after taxes was $994; since then it has risen $1,700, averaged out for every man, woman and child. And those figures are discounted for inflation.

"Then why can't I make ends meet?" you ask. For at least three major reasons: inflation, taxes and the style of living.

Inflation is a termite, working behind the scenes and observable mainly by its results, which are devastating. Between 1955 and 1970 more than 30 cents was eaten from the dollar's buying power.

Inflation is the economy's way of taxing for excess. Although unofficial, unannounced and unacceptable, it is just as prevalent as a legislated tax.

Official taxes have taken their share too. In the years 1956-1970 the total of federal, state and local taxes rose from $2,045 per household to $4,353, according to the Tax Foundation. Wring out inflation, and the comparable figure is still more than $3,000.

Observant people often clearly see the impact of inflation and taxes. But, being immersed in the activities of modern life, some of us fail to observe that the maintenance of the American way of life is expensive.

American society is acquisitive. It is one of possessions, of competition, and of change that generally is called progress. We are forever seeking new levels. Our appetites are never satisfied.

Take note of your own situation: Before you reach one economic level you have planned your assault on the next. Even if the means aren't there the dream is: two cars, a bigger house, a boat, a vacation home.

Sometimes the desire for the better (is it?) life is less noticeable, involving almost imperceptible changes in diet, goals, standards, habits, fashions.

In 1920, Americans consumed on average 165 pounds of potatoes and 136 pounds of meat. Fifty years later, potato consumption was down to 100 pounds, meat up to 185 pounds. AAnd better meats they were, too.

Similarly, we choose to drive on tollways instead of on freeways, send youngsters to private rather than public schools. We live in a high pressure society. New images are placed before us by advertising. Desires are aroused. Competition, even with neighbors, is subtly encouraged. Ambition is acclaimed, success admired. An easy credit pays the way.

There is nothing sinister about activity designed to entice you into buying. But if you remain unaware of the commercial world's methods you cannot deal with it on an equal basis.

The person who remains unaware, who doesn't set his own goals and standards, loses his options by default. He will be buffeted about. Instead of pursuing a straight course, he will frantically react to a million stimuli directed his way.

He will wonder: Where has all the money gone?

Demo-Leaders Strike Back At Nixon's Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats struck back at President Nixon Friday, charging his administration has failed to end the Vietnam war while starving financially the programs aimed at relieving domestic problems.

They made clear, in a nationally televised and radio broadcast response to Nixon's State of the Union speech a day earlier, there will be no political truce in 1973 between the Democratic Congress and the Republican chief executive.

Four senators and five House members presented statements dealing with various issues, such as the war, the economy, education and crime, and then answered questions phoned in from around the country on the live broadcast.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas charged that, amid a still-rising crime rate, Nixon inherited "the most comprehensive anticrime legislation in history" from the Democrats but that "this promising program has been so miserably underfunded that its potential has been wasted."

"The President now says we should not inject politics in the issues such as this," the Texas Democrat said, "but he is the one who made the ground rules and he is the one who must answer for the shortcomings of national leadership in waging the war against crime."

Listing administration opposition to more funds for education, school lunch and child care programs, Rep. John Brademas of Indiana charged that "no administration of this generation has been so hostile to education as has that of Richard Nixon."

In other statements, Rep. Ralph H. Metcalfe of Illinois charged Nixon failed to respond to the needs of urban areas and its minority groups; Rep. Leonor Sullivan of Missouri said the administration's approach to consumer problems "has been timid and indecisive"; and Rep. Martha W. Griffiths of Michigan said the nation "desperately" needs a national health insurance program.

Nixon's hopes of avoiding Democratic criticism lasted about as long as it took Edmund S. Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey to reach the television cameras.

Nursing Home Complex To Be Named After LBJ's Mother

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Directors of Austin Geriatric Center Inc. said Friday its highrise nursing home-apartment complex will be named in memory of former President Lyndon Johnson's mother.

The most Rev. Louis Retcher, former bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Austin, selected the name of Rebekah Baines Johnson Center "to honor my dear friend of 30 years, President Lyndon Johnson."

"In my judgment no man in our generation has contributed more to the physical welfare of the elderly than President Johnson."

"We believe it is an ideal choice of names," said Austin lawyer Frank Erwin Jr., president of the center and a friend of Johnson's.

The center, scheduled to open this spring, will include a 168 bed nursing home to care for the chronically ill and a 250 unit apartment house for the low-income elderly.

The corporation says it is non-profit.

E. B. Baker, 45, administrator of St. Jude's Hospital and nursing home here, also will administer the new geriatric center.

Orr Says He Won't Resign As State Demo Party Head

DALLAS (AP) — Roy Orr, says he will not resign as chairman of State Democratic Executive Committee although Secretary of State Bob Bullock says Orr must give up one of his two jobs.

Orr was appointed this week as a Dallas County commissioner, causing immediate questions of whether he could be state Demo chairman as well as holder of the $27,900 a year job as a county official.

"In the legal opinion of Dist. Atty Henry Wade (of Dallas County), I can hold both offices," Orr said Thursday. "There is not a conflict of interests and I will not resign."

Secretary of state Bullock has withheld the certificate of appointment of Orr as commissioner until the dispute is resolved.

Said Bullock, "There is wellgrounded common law precedent that no person may legally hold two offices whose duties are incompatible. Both county commissioner and state executive committee chairman have definite statutory election duties which could prove incompatible in some circumstances."

A commissioner has numerous duties in arranging for a general election, including establishment of election precincts, appointment of election judges and clerks and opening and canvassing election results, Bullock said.

A commissioner also has some duties in the primaries.

NY Banks To Lower Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — Two major New York banks, Chase Manhattan and Chemical Bank, said Friday that effective Monday they were cutting their prime lending rate from 5 per cent to 4 3/4 per cent.

The two banks, third- and sixth-largest in the nation, made their announcements shortly after second-ranked First National City Bank of New York said it was trimming its floating base interest rate to 4 1/2 per cent starting Monday.

Citibank's base lending rate, pegged directly to commercial paper and reviewed weekly, is similar to the fixed prime rates still used by most commercial banks, and is the interest charged by the bank to its best corporate customers.

First National City and Irving Trust Co. of New York, which also has a floating base rate system, both cut their rate to 4 1/2 per cent last week. Most other banks, including Bank of America, the nation's biggest, held their prime rates at 5 per cent.

Camera Sometimes Can Tell A Story

NEW YORK (AP) — A camera sometimes can tell a story, create an impression and build a mood more effectively than any other theatrical medium. One of those occasions was Thursday night when the public broadcasting stations showed an unusual portrait of Lorraine Hansberry, the talented and perceptive playwright who died at age 34.

Robert Nemiroff's memoir of his late wife, called "To Be Young, Gifted and Black," was presented with great success as an off-Broadway production about three years ago. It was more powerful and effective as a television production partly because the performers were not limited to a stage background.

An artful interweaving of Miss Hansberry's writing—letters, scenes from plays—and remembered conversations were put together. The result was a moving and sometimes infuriating picture of what it is like to be a black maturing in a white-dominated society.

Navy Young Officers May Be Given More Responsibility

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Navy's Mod Squad—seven destroyers run by younger-than-usual officers—was such a success in its initial deployment that the concept of giving larger responsibility to the young soon may be extended to men in the enlisted ranks.

Organized a year ago, the Mod Squad—nickname of Destroyer Squadron 26—was a brainchild of the chief of naval operations, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt. It began operations under its young officers last June, and in July sailed for the Mediterranean for a five-month deployment with the 6th Fleet.

There, it "met its first test in high-tempo operations very well," says Capt. Richard E. Nicholson, who commands the squadron from his flagship, the USS Josephus Daniels, a destroyer leader missile ship.

The operations included antisubmarine and anti-aircraft warfare exercises and aircraft carrier escort duty, and the Mod Squad's showing, Nicholson says, "demonstrated that these ships under this manning concept were able to participate effectively..."

In the six-month period that ended in December, Nicholson says, the Mod Squad "was a leader in operational readiness among Atlantic Fleet destroyer squadrons."

The chief purpose of the Mod Squad experiment is to attract young men to the Navy and induce them to make it a career.

Only one of the squadron's seven skippers is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy. Two are Merchant Marine Academy graduates. Four are graduates of other colleges.

In June, Nicholson points out, 55 per cent of the squadron's officers were on their first tour of sea duty, and only 27 per cent had destroyer backgrounds.

On each of the seven ships, the commanding officer, the executive officer and the department heads were one rank below the ranks normally assigned to a destroyer squadron.

Skippers were lieutenant commanders, executive officers were lieutenants, department heads were junior grade lieutenants or ensigns. Several have been promoted since June.

The Josephus Daniels rates a captain as skipper because of her size—but she was given a commander. The commanding officer of a destroyer squadron normally is a senior captain. Nicholson, 48, has been a captain only 18 months.

From the start, the Navy's top brass labeled the Mod Squad an experiment—a test of what would happen if young officers were given more responsibility, more exciting assignments.

"We are trying to create a spirit of pride in the Navy profession," Nicholson said in an interview aboard his flagship.

"Now that we've found that the officers with less sea experience could meet the test, the next step could be to test a similar concept among enlisted ranks by giving younger enlisted men increased responsibility."

"The success of the Mod Squad is attributable to the performance not only of the officers but also of the enlisted men who assumed additional responsibility to make up for the lack of sea experience of some of the officers."

The majority of the chief petty officers have supported the Mod Squad concept "because they are the chiefs who are the true professionals," Nicholson said. "There are naturally the usual few dissenters, but this is a healthy attitude."

Besides the Josephus Daniels, the Mod Squad's ships are the Mitscher, Blandy, Dupont, Hawkins, Furse and Conroe.

Another major objective of the Mod Squad, Nicholson said, is greater rapport between officers and enlisted men. "What we are attempting to do in the Mod Squad," he said, "and we still have a lot of work to do in this area, is to become more people-sensitive, and to surface our personnel relations and resolve them before they become problems."

Another Animal Faces Extinction, Says OSU

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1972. There are 343 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1968, North Korea seized the U.S. Navy ship Pueblo and held its 83 crewmen as spies.

On this date: In 1799, French troops captured the Italian city of Naples.

In 1845, Congress ruled that all national elections would take place on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

In 1909, radio was first used to save lives at sea. A distress signal brought help when the ship Republic rammed and sank the Florida off the New England coast.

In 1920, the Dutch refused to surrender ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to the Allies for punishment as a war criminal.

In 1937, 17 Communist leaders confessed in Moscow that they had conspired with Leon Trotsky to undermine the Soviet regime of Joseph Stalin.

In 1948, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said he would not seek the presidency.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy issued a report in which his Council of Economic advisers laid down general guidelines for restraint on wages and prices.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson asked for increases in Social Security benefits to be financed by raising the individual's taxable salary base to $10,800.

One year ago: American military intelligence sources in Washington reported a surprising drop in the infiltration rate of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam.

Hollywood Wants To Revive Box Office Record

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The state of the union, the president reported, is rocky but hopeful.

The union in this instance is the Screen Actors Guild, which numbers among its 24,000 members some of the most famous faces in the world. But there are among its members a high percentage of faces which never will be recognized. And that's part of the guild's problems, says John Gavin, its president.

"From 1939 to 1950, the guild membership ran the same—around 9,000," Gavin said. "After 1950, the total climbed, and it now remains steady at 24,000."

"When the guild had 9,000 members, employment was mostly in feature pictures. In 1948, the studios were making 500 a year. Now they make 200 a year, 100 of them abroad. Our members also draw a great amount of revenue from television, the majority of it from commercials."

"Television employment has declined. In earlier years, a series filmed 30 to 36 segments. Then the total came down to 30, 26, 20. This season some shows are shooting only 17."

"There has always been a large percentage of our membership that is not thriving. With the total number so large the employment opportunities is diminishing, the situation is exacerbated."

Gavin (who appeared in "Tammy," "Thoroughly Modern Millie"), sees hope for the future of the guild and its members. The basis for his hope is help from Washington in the form of tax credits and faster amortization of film investments.

Another aid the guild is seeking is rescinding of the Federal Communications Commission ruling that erased a half-hour of prime time from television network schedules. The ruling cut down the number of series and hence deprived actors of work, Gavin said.

"I think there will be a terrific market for actors' services in the future—if we can survive the current difficulties," Gavin said. "One is in cassettes, the other is cable television, or some form of pay TV."

"We need a new kind of box office to replace the one we have lost at the theaters—only 13 million go to the movies now, compared to 90 million in the 1930s. Television came along, but its box office is the advertising dollar, and there is a ceiling on how much can be spent."

Drinking fruit juice helps to disperse crystallization in the kidneys.

STILLWATER—Wildlife lovers from Canada to Mexico banded together to save the much publicized whooping crane from extinction. Now they are being asked to furnish information that could save another endangered wildlife species.

If you've seen a small, long-bodied animal lurking near prairie dog towns—especially if the animal has yellowish-brown fur with black feet, black-tipped tail and a black forehead resembling a mask—an Oklahoma State University team interested in endangering animal species would like to hear from you.

The animal, called black-footed ferret (Mustela nigripes), feeds predominately on prairie dogs and is in danger of becoming extinct as a result of farmer-stockman drives to eliminate prairie dogs from their land because they compete with grazing animals for forage.

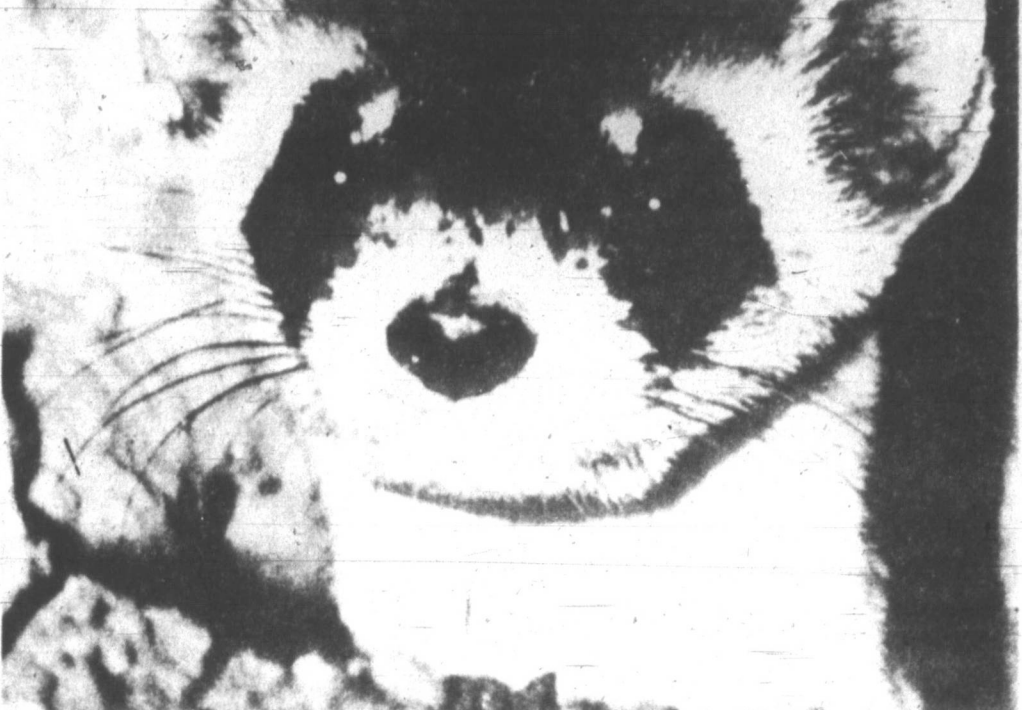

Personnel from the Oklahoma Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at OSU, headed by Jim Lewis, assistant until leader, are compiling any information they can learn about the black-footed ferret and are planning detailed studies of the animals and their habitats this summer in the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles, southwestern Kansas and southeastern Colorado.

The survey is being funded by the Weider Wildlife Foundation, Sinton, Tex., an organization interested in wildlife conservation and preservation of endangered species.

Researchers will compile information of reported sightings of black-footed ferret during the past 20 years, study remnant ferret populations in the areas where sightings were reported, make a census of these populations and make recommendations for protecting them.

Lewis said the adult black-footed ferret is approximately 20 inches long and the average weight is slightly over two pounds—about the same weight as the adult prairie dog.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS ANIMAL?—He's a black-footed ferret (Mustela nigripes) and has become an endangered wildlife species because his favorite food, the prairie dog, is gradually being eliminated in the central prairie states. The Oklahoma Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, Oklahoma State University, is conducting a study of this animal and would like to hear from anyone who can recall seeing any in or near a prairie dog town during the past several years.

School Melee Reported In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A wild melee involving 50 to 60 pupils broke out between blacks and whites at the city's new Skyline High School shortly after noon Friday.

Four ambulances and police canine units were rushed to the scene.

Later police said two women teachers were taken to Baylor Medical Center, one with a broken leg.

A white youth was hospitalized with head injuries and six other white pupils were injured, mainly suffering cuts.

A police spokesman said the trouble started in the school cafeteria and soon spread "all over the building."

He did not know what touched off the fighting, but said there had been racial trouble brewing there since the beginning of the year.

An incident of rock throwing was reported Thursday, but police were not called in on that occasion.

Police said the disturbance Friday lasted from 15 to 20 minutes.

Skyline High School is part of the sprawling Skyline Learning Center in Southeast Dallas which opened last year.

It has approximately 2,000 pupils, more than 20 per cent of them black.

Nuns Interested In Show Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Breaking into show business is hard enough. But being a nun makes it even tougher, two sisters say.

Sister Rosalie Deck and her sister, Sister Rosemonde, said Thursday the most difficult thing is getting across that they want to be in entertainment on a full-time basis and aren't on leave from their order.

"It's hard to get people to understand this," Sister Rosalie said in an interview. "I think they just don't believe nuns can be professionals."

Their order, the Sisters of Divine Providence, would permit them to work in show business full-time if they could get a regular schedule, they said.

The sisters play guitar and sing—with a repertoire of soft rock music to opera—and have been performing since they were 7.

Pampa Dehorns Longhorns

MAKING IT LOOK EASY—Don Cain is jumping for one of the seven field goals he scored for the Pampa squad as the Harvies butchered the Caprock Longhorns by a 30 point margin, 80-50. Next Tuesday the Harvesters will trek to Amarillo to face the Tascosa Rebels. (Staff Photo)

Pampa chalked up their first conference victory as the Harvesters branded the Caprock Longhorns by a tally of 80-50.

Ramblin' Richard Buntion came up to be high point man with 24 total points. Richard completed his score with 10 field goals, four free throws made, eight free throws missed and five fouls.

Following for the Harvesters were: Don Cain with seven field goals, five free throws made, five free throws missed and three fouls for 19 total points; Bill Simon was next on the Harvester list with six field goals, four free shots made, three missed and three fouls for 16 total points; Gary Haynes was next with 10 total points which came from five field goals accompanied by four fouls; Steve Richardson and A. J. Brewer finished with four points each. Richardson scored his four with two field goals and fouls; Brewer got his with four free throws and two fouls.

Caprock started their whole squad with the exception of sophomore Eddie Owens. The Longhorn high point man was Gregg Day with four field goals, five free throws made, one free missed and three fouls for 13 points.

Next, behind Day, was Nacho Quintero, who ended with 11 total points. He completed four field goals, three free throws, missed six and had four fouls. Sonny Teague followed next in line with three field goals, four free throws made, two missed and three fouls for 10 points. Rodney Skelton finished with five points which came from two field goals, one free throw made, one missed and four fouls. Steve Summerlin and Jay Petty both finished with four points. Petty scored two field goals and got one foul called against him. Summerlin ended with one field goal and two free throws made. Mark Glass stopped with one field goal, and one free throw made for three points.

The remainder of the Caprock squad didn't complete any field goals though many of them ended with fouls.

Pampa stayed in the lead throughout the game and managed to increase their lead at the end of each quarter. The first quarter ended with Pampa 13 points ahead; 26-13. The second quarter showed Pampa adding two points to the lead; 37-22. The third quarter ended with Pampa 21 points ahead; 55-34. The end of the fourth quarter revealed butchered beef with the tall 80-50, favor of Pampa.

Pampa's Harvie cagers didn't handle the ball as well as is customary for this season of play. In several instances bad passes and poor timing caused them to lose the ball, but due to having a superior team, the ball was quickly regained.

The Harvesters took the win without the assistance of Mike Edgar, who was reportedly out with the flu, and Freddy Wilbon, who is still having trouble with his sprained ankle.

The next game on the Harvester roster will be the Tascosa Rebels. The Rebs have lost their first conference game to the powerful Palo Duro Dons by a tally of 60-50. The Rebs went into the game healthy as did the Dons and both came out in the same condition, though Palo Duro was victorious.

Tascosa features Kent Ladd, 6'4" senior; Robert Scott, 5'10" senior; Mark Ortbal, 6'6" senior; Craig Sulkins 6'0".

Tascosa likes the hard press defense and Pampa may have some difficulty as the bout will be put into action on Tascosa's home court.

MAKING THE LAYUP—Gary Haynes (20) drives in for a successful layup as teammates Bill Simon (14) and Marsh Gamblin (24) look on. The mighty Harvesters took the Caprock Longhorns under 80-50 in the first conference game of the year. Next Pampa will face Tascosa on Rebel grounds. (Staff Photo)

22nd Annual Pro Bowl Will Be Played Today

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National Football League's Most Valuable Player on the suicide squad?

When everyone's an All-Star, that's the way it has to be, Coach Dick Nolan of San Francisco said Friday. He is coaching the National Conference team against the American Conference in Sunday's 22nd annual Pro Bowl game in Memorial Coliseum.

When the game kicks off at 4:15 p.m. EST, nationally televised with Southern California blacked out, MVP Alan Page will be in on the kickoff team—the suicide squad.

The 6-foot-4, 250-pound Page, a defensive tackle from the Minnesota Vikings, doesn't mind the extra action.

"Page was saying last night it probably will be a lot of fun," said Nolan.

"He (Page) was pretty good on special teams at Notre Dame," chipped in Don McCafferty of Baltimore, head coach of the American Conference team.

"There's a hell of a lot of talent there," McCafferty said of his AFC team. "and I'm sure Dick feels the same way."

"A lot of the players won't be familiar with special teams," said McCafferty, "but they were important last year."

Other attractions will include a great variety of display booths, door prizes and free gifts for the kiddies.

Admission is 50 cents for children under 12, 75 cents for the youngsters age 12-16 and students, $1.00 for adults, and the youngsters under 8 years of age will be admitted free. The show is sponsored by the Panhandle Boat and Ski

Of the 80 Pro Bowlers, only two were selected because of their play on special teams—kick returners Leslie "Speedy" Duncan of Washington for the NFC and Eugene "Mercury" Morris of Miami for the AFC.

Olympics Committee To Make Decisions

TOKYO (AP)—The International Olympic Committee opens a series of meetings Monday amid controversy over alleged professionalism and commercialism in amateur sports.

The decisions are likely to have a direct bearing on the 1972 Winter Games in Sapporo and perhaps on the entire Olympic structure.

Avery Brundage, 84-year-old president of the IOC, is expected to arrive Monday with the first crucial meeting scheduled for Wednesday, when the eligibility commission holds its session.

Then the scene shifts to Sapporo, 500 miles north of Tokyo for the Winter Olympics, Feb. 3-13. The general meetings open there Jan. 30 and continue until the start of the Games.

Brundage has said repeatedly that about 30-50 Alpine and Nordic skiers in his view were "out" of the games for alleged commercialism.

Marc Hodler, president of the International Ski Federation (FIS) countered by saying "if the differences with the IOC remain unbridgeable, world championships instead of Olympic competitions should be held at the Sapporo sites."

Tomoo Sato, secretary general of the Japanese organizing committee, said, "We have been preparing for Olympic Games, and not for world championships."

Hodler and Sato have expressed hope that a solution would be reached to keep skiing in the Olympics but they did not have the answer.

There are two possibilities—a compromise acceptable to all or a clear disavowal of Brundage by the IOC's plenary session.

There is even the possibility—although unlikely—that the Olympic Winter Games will be abolished altogether after the Sapporo Games or even that the Sapporo Games will be lem of choosing a starting quarterback by flipping a coin. Miami's Bob Griese won, and he'll be joined on offense by wide receivers Paul Warfield of Miami and Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland.

Kansas City's 15-year veteran Len Dawson, will play at least half the game and McCafferty said Dawson's outside receivers will be Otis Taylor of Kansas City and Gary Garrison of San Diego.

Nolan said Roger Staubach of Dallas and Greg Landry of Detroit will share quarterbacking chores, with Staubach starting. Their targets include Ted Kwalick of San Francisco, Charlie Sanders of Detroit, Gene Washington of San Francisco, Bob Grim of Minnesota and Dick Gordon of Chicago.

The AFC boasts the national Football League's leading rusher in Denver's Floyd Little, 1,133 yards, along with Miami's Larry Csonka, 1,051. The NFC also has a pair of 1,000-yard ground gainers in Green Bay's John Brockington, 1,105, and Detroit's Steve Owens, 1,035, plus Larry Brown of Washington, who gained 948.

Knocking off what was reportedly the strongest team in district the Pampa Shockers were smiling this morning remembering the 58 to 33 defeat of the Caprock Shorthorns.

According to coach Ronnie Hearne, "The team played perhaps their best game of the season both on offense and defense. The biggest advantage we had over the Amarillo school was on the backboards."

We had several outstanding players, "Hearne continued, "Richard Stowers played his best game of the season and Ray Powell played a great defensive game." Stowers scored 13 points and brought down seven rebounds.

High point man for the Shockers was Damon DeWitt with 17 points and four rebounds. DeWitt seemed to keep coming up with the basket when the Shockers needed to score.

Kilen had nine points for top scoring honors for the Shorthorns.

Going into the game Friday night the Shorthorns were boasting of a 13-3 season while the under-rated Shockers had tallied a 9 and 7 won loss record.

Stowers and Randy Warner gave evidence to the underrating as they continuously blocked shorthorn shots throughout the game.

Hearne said, "One of the biggest factors on our team is Keith Samples. He isn't big for the team in key situations. He stands 5'11 and weighs about 145 lbs, but as a guard you won't find a better player."

The Shockers' next game will be 6 p.m. Tuesday night in the Rebel Gym at Tascosa High School at Amarillo.

Long Beach St. Cracks Loyola

CHICAGO (AP)—With four players hitting in double figures, led by Ed Ratleff with 22 points, fourth-ranked Long Beach State breezed to its 15th basketball victory in 16 starts by defeating Loyola of Chicago 79-58 Saturday in the opener of a Chicago Stadium doubleheader.

In the second game, Iowa led all the way to upset fifth-ranked South Carolina 91-85.

Long Beach's fluid 49ers took command early by rolling up a 20-7 lead, as the Ramblers went without a basket for 2 1/2 minutes. Loyola, 7-7, never recovered after that.

A spurt by Long Beach made the score 54-38 when Loyola failed to hit from the field in four minutes; and, with 10 minutes left in the game, the 49ers drew away 57-44 and ballooned that to 73-44 with five minutes left to go.

NRA Honors City Club For "Sight-In" Day

The Pampa Rifle Club working with the Perryton, Borger and Amarillo rifle clubs will hold a sight-in today on the Pampa Rifle Club range six miles west of Pampa.

The Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club received a National Rifle Association Public Service Award for conducting a "Sighting-In" Day last month to prepare area hunters and their equipment for the hunting season.

Three classifications are fired and trophies are awarded to the winners in each class.

More than 30 hunters checked their firearms for safety, "sighted them in" for accuracy, and reviewed the fundamental principles of hunter safety to reduce the possibility of accidents and improve chances of hunting success in the field.

The club is one of hundreds throughout the country that conduct the NRA Sighting-In Day program each year. The NRA affiliated clubs open their ranges to sportsmen prior to the hunting season as part of the overall Hunter Safety Program that has

Monday Set For Booster Club Meeting

The purpose of the Harvester Booster Club is to back the team no matter the season or record. The Pampa Harvester Basketball team is going strong into one of their best seasons and the Booster Club will be there backing them 100 per cent.

On the agenda for Monday night is a meeting at 7 p.m. in the Pampa High School Cafeteria where game films of the Harvester's 80 to 50 defeat of the Caprock longhorns will be narrated by head coach Robert McPherson.

The booster club carried weekly meeting during the football season and needs support to continue the same throughout the rest of the year.

Athletic Director Ed Lehnick said, "We expect 100 per cent attendance at the meeting Monday and would like to invite the public to attend and give their support to the athletic programs in the Pampa school system."

Back the Harvesters is the big motto of the club for 1972 and the News will be on the scene for all the district clashes doing just that. Make plans on attending the meeting Monday night and attending the Tascosa clash in Amarillo Tuesday night in Rebel Gym.

continually reduced the hunting accident toll and increased hunting skill.

With more than 21 million licensed hunters taking to the fields this year, the program has assumed major importance.

In addition to cooperating with clubs in the sighting in day activities, NRA provides other hunter services. These include its annual Uniform Hunter Casualty Report, which analyzes information from the majority of states and Canadian provinces on the causes of hunting accidents, technical services on hunting equipment and techniques, and the NRA Hunter Safety Training Program, which is required in 16 U.S. states and 2 Canadian provinces and which is voluntary in 25 other states and other provinces.

The Hunter Safety Training Program has graduated more than 4 million students and has grown to the stage where approximately 500,000 participants complete the course each year.

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League has wheeled out some heavy artillery in the form of a Harris poll to underscore its exalted position on the American scene, pointing to ascendancy over major league baseball as the nation's No. 1 sport.

But the poll also underscores the fact that the general public has become increasingly aware of the vocal criticism of the sport by several former players—and that a significant segment of fans believes the critics are justified.

At the same time, the general public has been forming its own opinions, significant numbers taking a negative attitude toward pro football's commercialism, the number of injuries to players and the prevalence of field goal kicking.

The Harris poll, in which 1,614 people representing a cross-section of the nation's population were surveyed, was sponsored by the NFL and released at the time of the Super Bowl. It actually was conducted between Dec. 27 and Dec. 31, the peak point of the football season when baseball is pushed far into the background.

Even Commissioner Pete Rozelle, appearing at a press conference at the Super Bowl site, acknowledged that timing might be a factor in the results showing that football is followed by more people 18 years of age than any other sport in America.

According to the Harris poll, the top five are:

1. Football, followed by 51 per cent.
2. Baseball, 50 per cent.
3. Basketball, 37 per cent.
4. Boxing, 23 per cent.
5. Bowling, 23 per cent.

When the same people were asked to name their favorite sport, football had an even wider margin. In response to that question, 29 per cent favored football and 21 per cent baseball.

Rickey stalked the baseline and in the 11th game, assisted by two foot-fault calls. He broke Graebner's serve for a 6-5 lead and held his own serve to go one set up at 7-5.

Graebner took the second set 7-6 but Rickey clinched the third 7-5 as both players tottered with fatigue after playing for two hours 40 minutes.

Rickey then ripped his opponent apart with accurate placements and took the fourth set 6-0 for the match which had lasted three hours and 15 minutes.

Rickey Over Graebner In Tennis Tournament

LONDON (AP)—Cliff Rickey of Sarasota, Fla., beat Clark Graebner of New York 7-5, 6-7, 7-5, 6-0 Saturday night in a marathon all-American final in the Rothman's International Tennis Tournament.

The $8,400 final was probably the longest world class tennis match in history since the advent of the tie-break system. It was played before a capacity crowd of almost 6,000 spectators, spread over the six tiers of historic Royal Albert Hall.

The crowd was treated to a game of precision tennis with both finalists volleying and lobbing to perfection.

Early in the match, Rickey had a couple of lucky shots fall the right way after hitting the net.

Ted Williams Takes A Look At The New Texas Rangers

Editor's Note: The Texas Rangers will begin spring training in several weeks and here's the outlook from fiery manager Ted Williams who hopes to lead the American League club out of the dark depths of the second division.

By TED WILLIAMS
ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — New personnel, younger players developing, and the enthusiastic welcome given the club by the Dallas-Fort Worth area should make the Texas Rangers a more respectable baseball team this year.

In the past three years owner Bob Short has signed a covey of youngsters who are on the verge of blossoming into major leaguers. I expect some of them—outfielder Jeff Burroughs and pitcher Pete Broberg particularly—to start helping the Rangers this year.

We are loaded with kids. Some could be ready to rise, others may be a year or two away, but the Rangers definitely have an excellent crop of prospects coming along. Our situation suddenly could be a lot brighter.

Broberg's fast ball rates with any in the game. All he needs to achieve stardom is experience and better control of his breaking stuff. We plucked a prize in this Dartmouth kid and if he doesn't develop to be a standout I'll be greatly disappointed. He came right off the campus in mid-season last year and in winning five and losing nine he showed me tremendous ability.

Among games Pete didn't win last year was his first one against Boston. He tied in the seventh inning and left with a 3-0 lead. He pitched nine shut-out innings against the Tigers and left with a scoreless tie. He lost a 2-0 game to Chicago and a 2-1 tussle to California.

Broberg pitched in 18 games as a raw rookie. He went nine innings seven times, was beaten by a home run in the ninth on another occasion. He'll be 22 years old in March.

Burroughs by no means has made our club, but this is the year he should jump forward and that's after only two full years in the minors. He has the power to be a drawing card as a home run hitter, but so far has been inclined to take too many strikes. When he swings he can make pitchers shudder. He is 21 years old.

A key to our club will be shortstop Jim Mason, 21 years old. I don't know whether he can make the grade this year due to limited experience, but he can do it all in the field and his hitting helped Denver win the American Association championship last year. If he doesn't hit well enough we'll go with Toby Harrah. Toby wasn't quite ready as a rookie last year, hitting .230, but he'll be better after a year of knowing what he's up against.

He is 21 years old.

Outfielder Tom Grieve, 22, now has had enough minor league experience, plus a smattering of major league time, to make his move this season. He hit 19 home runs for Denver last year and due to military calls he batted only 316 times.

There's another youngster, 21-year-old Joe Lovitto, who keeps improving the higher he is moved. He hit .286 at Burlington in 1970. He was hitting .301 at Pittsfield last season when he was moved up to Denver. He batted .326 there. He's a switch-hitting cocky kid who may be a year away, but he might not think so and I have to like that. He has a great arm, has played second, the outfield, and has caught.

Our catching will be considerably more versatile this year. We have added Hal King and Ken Suarez to go along with Dick Billings, who stepped in and did a good job last year. We didn't have any maneuverability with our catching staff last year. Now we do and it has to help.

Our pitching will be stronger. In addition to Broberg we have 24-year-old Bill Gogolewski coming along nicely. He's a steady righthander who came on excellently last year. I have the feeling now that anytime he starts for us we're going to get a good effort.

Dick Bosman can be an 18 or 20-game winner with any batting support. He's 49-49 in the majors pitching for clubs which haven't done that well.

Last season was one of adjustment for Denny McLain. He wasn't as fast as when he won 31 games for the Tigers in 1968 and won all the awards in sight. But Denny has pride and knows what he must do to return to the top. He was 10-22 last year and lost nine games in a row, but he wasn't all that bad. Know how many runs we got for him in that nine-game losing streak? A total of 10 runs.

We picked up Rich Hand and Mike Paul from Cleveland. They haven't been big winners, but I've liked what I've seen of them and I think they can be valuable to us. Mike Thompson, 22, can fire the ball and when he gets it over the plate he'll be a winner. We'll get competent relief pitching from Casey Cox, Paul Lindblad and Horacio Pina. Another possibility is Jim Miles, who had a 6-0 record in relief with Denver.

Frank Howard's power should be supplemented with some from outfielder Roy Foster, who we acquired from Cleveland. He hit 41 homers in two years with the Indians. Don Mincher is a dependable distance hitter.

Around the infield it will be Howard or Mincher at first base, depending on the opposing pitcher. Ted Kubiak, Lenny Randle and Tim Cullen will battle it out at second base. It will be Mason or Harrah at shortstop, where Kubiak also has played quite a bit. Dave Nelson and Jim Driscoll will fight it out at third base.

Elliott Maddox is a fine centerfielder who should start to come on as a hitter. Larry Blittner, a good contact man with the bat, will be competing for an outfield position along with Maddox, Howard, Foster, Burroughs, Lovitto and Grieve. Howard and Blittner, along with Mincher and Tom McCraw, also play first base, so we'll have job competition. That's healthy.

I think we can play .500 ball while moving along with the kids. We have some other youngsters—among them Catcher Bill Fahey, Outfielder First Baseman Don Castle and Second Baseman Pete Mackanin—who will be on the major league scene shortly. The Rangers are accenting youth and we're on our way to good things.

Dean Martin-Tucson Open Led By Nichols

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Big Bobby Nichols, bolstered by some incredible putting, stormed into the third-round lead in the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open Golf Tournament Saturday, shooting a five-under-par 67.

Nichols had a 54-hole total of 204, 12-under-par on the 7,306-yard Tucson National Golf Club course and one stroke ahead of George Archer.

Archer, who teams with Nichols in the National Team Championship, had a 69 for 205.

Dale Douglass, Bob Murphy and Don Massengale followed at 206. Massengale, now a club pro in suburban New York, had a 67, Douglass a 68 and Murphy a 69.

J.C. Sneed, the defending champion who had a 68, and Dave Bill, 70, followed at 207 in the closely bunched field chasing the $30,000 first prize over this desert layout.

Lee Trevino, the current American, British and Canadian Open champion and the man picked by most to win here, had a 69 for 211 and was seven strokes back.

"It's the best putting round I've had since the '64 PGA," said Nichols, who won that national title.

Evel Knievel Record Broken
HOUSTON (AP) — An Arizona teen-ager set an indoor motorcycle jump record last week in the Astrodome.

Gary Wells, 15, of Phoenix, set the new high with a jump over 15 cars last Saturday night. The previous high jump was over 14 cars set last year in the Astrodome by Evel Knievel.

Young Wells tied Knievel's mark of 14 cars the night before and then broke it the next night.

A spokesman for the young rider said Wells' final leap would have cleared two more cars.

He had eight birdies, including four in a row and another stretch of three in succession, and three bogeys. According to the distances he estimated his putts, he sank about 150 feet of birdies, including three in the 35-40 foot range.

And a national television audience watched him chip in from about 25 feet when he missed the dyed green on the 16th. The fairways were given a coat of dark green dye and the greens a darker olive color.

Nichols, a 35-year-old club pro at the Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio who plays about 25 tournaments a year, pulled away with a string of three consecutive birdies starting on the 14th.

He got a share of it with a 35-foot birdie putt there and went in front alone when he reached the par-five 15th with two big wood shots and two-putted for a birdie.

The United States is one of the major skiing countries in the world. Ten years ago I could not have made such a sweeping statement.

An amazing growth, that started in the 1950s has resulted in hundreds—perhaps even thousands—of ski clubs throughout the country. Each year, new ski shops are popping up all over the place.

Fashion is the word in skiing. It has added great impetus to the sport. No longer is skiing indulged in only by Gung-Ho devotees, willing to brave the worst elements under any conditions to enjoy their sport. Now there is sophistication, even snob appeal, in skiing. But above all, the sport remains a great exercise and offers attractions not found in other pastimes.

The techniques of our boys and girls competing in world competition are now respected as never before by the ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The National Hockey League's expansion-laded West Division, flexing the added firepower of nine Chicago Black Hawk players; will try to make it two straight over their big brothers from the East in the league's Silver Anniversary AllStar game Tuesday night.

The switch of the Hawks from East to West led to a 2-1 victory for the newer division in last year's game. Both West goals were scored by Chicago players—Bobby Hull and Chico Maki.

Those two are back on this year's West team, along with seven teammates—goalie Tony Esposito, defenseman Keith Magnuson, Pat Stapleton and Bill White and forwards Pit, Martin, Dennis Hull and Stan Mikita.

Minnesota, running second to the Hawks in the West Division race, placed four men on the team—goalie Gump Worsley, who at 42 is the oldest player in the game, defenseman Ted Harris and Doug Mohs and right winger Bill Goldsworthy.

Esposito will start in goal with Stapleton and White on defense, Bobby Hull, the lone unanimous choice on the team, at left wing, Mikita at center, and Goldsworthy on right wing. Goldsworthy is the only non-Chicago starter.

The starting teams were elected in balloting by the Professional Hockey Writers Association, with the first 12 players on each team named that way. The remaining seven were selected by coaches Al MacNeil of the East and Billy Ray of the West.

Astros Expecting Best Season Ever
HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros Manager Harry "The Hat" Walker says the 1972 Houston Astros will be the best ever and his players don't need a great year to be a contender—an average performance by all hands will do it.

"I'm more excited about this spring training than ever before and I've been in baseball 35 years," Walker said.

"This club has a great future," Walker said. "We feel we can put together one of the best teams in baseball. My players won't need a great year. We just need an average year."

An impressive off-season trading performance by Astros General Manager Spec Richardson is one reason for Walker's optimism.

Richardson got three pitchers, Jim York and Lance Clemens from Kansas City and

Dave Roberts from San Diego in one of the most-talked about coups of the trading season.

Richardson also got Lee May and Tommy Helms from Cincinnati to bolster the Astros infield. The Astros' defense was the second best in the National League last year and could be better this season.

Roberts is expected to add to the Astro pitching staff. Roberts, Don Wilson and Ken Forsch—expected to be part of the 1972 rotation—were second, third and fourth in the NL in earned run averages in 1971.

And Walker also said he expects outfielder Jim Wynn, the Toy Cannon who slumped badly last season, to rebound. "I really expect him to hit 25 to 35 home runs this season," Walker said.

"I think this spring will really be something to look forward to," Walker said. "This is a club with a future. It can play together four or five more years."

Walker said Wilson, voted the Astros' most valuable player for his 16 victories last season, is just coming into his prime as a pitcher.

"Last year, I thought he was one of the best pitchers in the league," Walker said. "The next five or six years will be his best in baseball."

Coaching Posts Starting To Fill

The list of major college football coaching vacancies was cut down to one Friday when California, Stanford and Georgia Tech all named new head coaches.

California and Stanford both tapped Stanford assistants—Mike White, 36, and Jack Christiansen, 43, respectively—while Georgia Tech picked 37-year-old Bill Fulcher, a 1967 Tech graduate and former assistant who posted a 6-5 record last season as head man at the University of Tampa.

That leaves Oregon, where Jerry Frei stepped down earlier in the week, as the only major opening.

California's naming of White capped a turnaround week in the Bay Area. White had been expected to fill the Stanford job vacated when John Ralston resigned after two consecutive Pacific-8 championships and Rose Bowl triumphs.

But when Ray Willsey resigned early in the week after eight seasons at Cal, White jumped at the chance to return to his alma mater.

At the same time, Cal appointed Dave Maggard, its 32-year-old track coach, as athletic director. Willsey had been acting athletic director following Paul Brechler's resignation last year.

"I never considered anyone else," Maggard said of White. "I know Mike White's strong feelings for Cal."

When it became obvious that White was headed for Cal, Stanford sent out a call for Christiansen, who had been an assistant under Ralston since 1968 following five years as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers and was all-set to accompany Ralston to Denver.

"It got down to whether you want to be an assistant coach in pro ball or a head coach at the college level," said Christiansen. "I made the decision to be a head coach. It's going to be a lot of hard work. It's a tough act to follow with the success we've had at Stanford."

At Georgia Tech, Fulcher succeeds Bud Carson, the only football coach ever fired by the Atlanta school although he took the Yellow Jackets to bowl games the past two years.

Fulcher was a 185-pound guard and linebacker for Tech from 1964-6 and later spent three seasons with the Washington Redskins.

"This is the fulfillment of a life's dream," he said. "I've been dreaming of this day ever since I arrived at Georgia Tech in 1952 as a skinny guard."

The Oregon job has two announced candidates—Dick Enright, a member of Frei's staff, and Spike Hillstrom, an aide at the Air Force Academy who played for Oregon in 1955-56.

An important message for people who prepare their own income tax returns.

Maybe you've been cheating yourself all these years.

Every year, between January and April, millions of people sit down to do battle with Uncle Sam. Some are "self styled" accountants. Others think they can save a few dollars doing it themselves—so why not?

The sad truth is, however, no matter what their reason was for starting, many of them end the same. On the short end.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H&R Block. We have all the facilities to help you make "income tax time" a pleasant experience. To begin with, H&R Block now has over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed. For example, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? And maybe you aren't aware that if your income increased last year, you may be able to save tax dollars by "income averaging."

Well, when it comes to income taxes, H&R Block is aware of just about everything because we're a company that eats, sleeps, and drinks tax returns 365 days a year.

Yes, maybe you can save a couple of bucks by doing your own return but it really may be costing you a lot more by not having your return done by H&R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

H&R Block.
The income tax people.

PLAN TICKET SALE—A coffee was held Thursday in the Pampa Country Club for women involved in the planning for the ticket sale and for the reception for the Van Cliburn concert in May, to be sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association. Shown above, looking over the seating arrangement of the new M.K. Brown auditorium and the posters on the concert are, left to right, Mrs. Homer Johnson of Pampa, ticket committee member; Mrs. Ellis Locke, Miami ticket chairman; Mrs. Frank Shaller, Canadian ticket chairman; and Mrs. Thurmond Brown of Pampa, ticket committee member.

Quotable Fine Arts Association Organizes For Concert Quotes

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:
"Unlike other dancing, belly dancing is sensual. To do it, you have to put on a different face, like holding up a mask. I'm basically a shy person."—Carolyn Muellbauer, opening a belly dancer school in London.

"This helps Australia over a critical time and helps the teachers put that education to good use. Education is expensive. All the more reason a teacher should teach, not check out groceries in a supermarket."—Dr. Clarie Pedersen, who helped arrange flights of jobless American teachers to Australia to fill a shortage of high school instructors.

"I believe that what is at issue for us is a clear constitutional confrontation. Does the President have the authority under the Constitution to pick and choose which sections of the law he will obey and which he will disobey?"—Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., urging Congress to censure Nixon for not setting an Indochina troop withdrawal date.

"People say they love their dogs and they hate the dogcatcher. But then they don't want the responsibility of their animals, and they just dump them out on the street. Or they let them run loose and get vicious. Or they move away and leave them to starve."—Pat Conner, Albuquerque's only female dogcatcher.

"Worst thing the government ever did was close the community schools. The children up here used to really learn something. And there was discipline. They didn't dare mess around at school because they knew the teacher wouldn't stand for it and their folks wouldn't either."—Alice Willard who, at 76, runs her own farm near Thurmont, Md.

"I hate it when people say women's lib—it sound so chichi. It's worth taking a little extra time to say the whole thing."—Susan Davis, editor and publisher of the newsletter, "The Spokeswoman."

Create An Illusion In Limited Areas

"Creating space can provide very real problems in today's living," said Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, Extension county home demonstration agent.

"Living space has become one of our most expensive commodities," she said. "That's one reason why many young married couples decide on apartment living. And in an apartment, space becomes a major factor. To see how to make it work for you, let's take a look at these guidelines."

Use low, contemporary furniture with legs.

Divide your space with furnishings that don't take much room—for example, plants, mobiles or bookcases.

Use some "fool-the-eye" techniques such as mirrors or painting one wall a different color. A black wall seems to disappear and therefore opens up a room.

Keep your color scheme simple. Too many colors can make a small room appear cluttered.

Save your favorite art objects and books for shelves where they'll look more attractive and help divert the eye from the size of a room.

Let your furnishings serve more than one purpose.

"One secret of making a small space work for you is to think through and decide exactly what you need."

Miss Wainscott said, "Maybe your husband is a student and needs a private place to study. If so, you can 'build' a room by setting up a divider such as a bookcase that extends to the ceiling.

"In a kitchen-dining and living room combination, area rugs and plants or furniture may be used as dividers to separate different activities," she said. "These create mental walls as well as help organize space."

PLAN DISTRICT MEETING—Some members of Kappa Alpha chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha International, are shown looking over the register books they have prepared for the District X meeting being held in the Coronado Inn today. Epsilon Sigma Alpha Hosts District Meet

Kappa Alpha chapter of Pampa, Epsilon Sigma Alpha International, is hosting a District X meeting in the Coronado Inn, at 9:30 a.m. today.

Included in District X are Amarillo, Perryton, Canadian, and Pampa. Chairman for the meeting is Mrs. Glenn McConnell.

District officers include Mrs. Joan Pride of Perryton, president; Mrs. Irvin Hungerford of Pampa, vice president; Miss June Sojvey of Amarillo, secretary; Mrs. Zell Cain of Amarillo, coordinator; Mrs. Milton Jones of Pampa, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Joe Miller of Pampa, treasurer.

ESA International, with world headquarters in Loveland, Colo., was founded in 1929 and today is one of the world's most distinctive leadership service organizations with 33,000 members working together to aid the handicapped and meet community needs, according to Mrs. McConnell.

In addition to stressing benevolent projects and furthering personal education, ESA encourages social events for members and their guests to complete the triad of "education, service and association," she explained.

Locally, Kappa Alpha chapter does volunteer work for the local Muscular Dystrophy Association, which includes the annual Jerry Lewis Telethon, Mothers March and patient service for a 13-county area. The chapter sponsors a benefit dance in the Spring for the MD drive, also. As another local project, chapter members have been working at Genesis House, assisting in getting the new home ready.

Better Keep Watchful Eye When Buying Used Cars

COLLEGE STATION — In the market for a used car?

Better keep your wits about you, said Mrs. Bonnie Fowler, Extension specialist in home management at Texas A&M University.

"Use these guidelines when choosing a used car," she said. "Begin by carefully inspecting both the inside and outside of the car. Look for signs of wear and age in repainted areas along body sides, rust spots around body edges and inside the trunk and town or worn seats, upholstery and floor mats. Dampness or rust under floor mats broken windows or ill-fitting doors may also be signs of wear."

"Next, operate all switches and controls," the specialist advised. "Try door handles, window cranks, vents and seat adjustments. Start the engine with the hood up; listen for unusual grinding, hissing or grating noises."

Mrs. Fowler also suggested checking the car's mileage. "Low mileage on an older car should be questioned," she said. "A good mechanic can tell if the mileage reading has been changed."

"Take the car for a road test and listen for squeaks, rattles, knocks and other unusual noises. Look for such things as a smooth start, tight and even steering, quick engine pick-up, and a radiator that doesn't overheat."

Ask about a guarantee on the car. A common type of used car guarantee is one that lasts 30 days, with cost of repairs split 50-50 between the buyer and the seller. "Verbal promises should be put in writing," she pointed out.

"Take the car to a competent, reputable mechanic for a thorough check-up. Ask the mechanic to test drive the car. Money spent for a check-up before buying may save many dollars later on. Question the dealer who refuses to let you get a car check-up from an impartial source."

The specialist suggested visiting more than one used car dealer. "Be suspicious of the dealer who has a car lot that's surrounded by signs like 'fantastic discounts' and 'we undersell everybody.' Also be wary of the salesman who tries to pressure you into a quick sale.

Mrs. Fowler said that used cars don't go just to people who can't afford the price of a new car. "Some money managers decide to avoid the cost of depreciation on the first year or two of a car's life. Other families look to the used car market for a second or third family car."

Betty Canary

BY BETTY CANARY
I was pleased when my husband telephoned and said, "I'll be home for lunch today."

This is what every man needs, I thought. A quiet time, a respite from the pressures of the office. A lull in the daily routine. A chance to recharge his energy, to be renewed, to put aside the cares of the workaday world in the middle of the workday.

"Terrific!" I said to him. "You can sit down and relax. And I heated up some chili."

The only thing I have to say about middle-of-the-day plans is, don't make them.

Middle-of-the-day plans slip out of control as quickly and as surely as an ice cube on a griddle.

Middle-of-the-day plans such as the ones I had for his lunch break show what a kind, considerate, thoughtful, loving, insane person I am.

What really happens when a father arrives home unexpectedly for lunch is:

The water main in the street next to the elementary school will burst so the little children can come home for a half-day vacation.

An older son will stop by just long enough to borrow father's car.

The poodle will be so happy to see him that he will lunge at his knees and send a bowl of chili flying into mother's typewriter.

Mother will go into hysterics and scream spitefully that she just had the typewriter

The bridegroom is a helicopter pilot for the U.S. Marine Corp. and is stationed at Quantico, Va.

Girl Scouts Make Plans For Annual Cookie Sale

Plans for the annual sale of Girl Scout cookies by the 10-county Quivira Council were made at a luncheon meeting Thursday in Furr's Cafeteria. Proceeds go for the camping program and to individual troops.

It was decided the cookies will sell for $1 per family-size box, with a goal set of 27,000 boxes. It was decided to sell five varieties, which are assorted sandwich vanilla butter, peanut butter, roundup, chocolate mint and pecanette. Record-keeping was discussed, also.

Leading the meeting were Larry Costa, cookie company representative; Miss Celia Fowler of Pampa, executive director; Mrs. T. M. Whiteley of Pampa and Mrs. Jack Duke of Borger, both field directors; and Mrs. Phil Londagin, office manager.

Named to various positions for the sale were Mrs. Raymond Laycock of Pampa, council cookie coordinator; Mrs. Harold Rogers of Borger, District I cookie chairman; Mrs. R. O. Linville, District II cookie chairman.

Arrangement Judging Explained To Women

"Flower arranging is an opportunity for us to artistically create what God gave us to enjoy," said Mrs. Louise Stephens at a recent meeting of the Pampa Garden Club.

A professional arranger, Mrs. Stephens is a past president of the Pampa Garden Club and a former accredited national judge. She evaluated and judged dried arrangements made by members for the Christmas show, which was cancelled because of the snow.

"We learn flower arranging by doing and by studying," said the speaker. "Learn to judge arrangements objectively by what you know is right and not by what you like," she said, urging the members to take the judges' criticisms and try to learn to improve.

To better define the areas judges consider, Mrs. Stephens established a scale of points as a guide for judging the arrangements. Points were allocated for design, relationship of materials to design, interpretation, adherence to the show schedule, distinction, originality and techniques.

Officers for the 1972-73 year, to be installed in May, were elected. They include Mrs. Wallace Birkes, president; Mrs. Joe Curtis, first vice president; Mrs. Holly Gray, second vice president; Mrs. Marion Brown, treasurer; Mrs. W.R. Campbell, recording secretary; Mrs. Joe Weaver, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lee Harrah, historian; and Mrs. Joseph Cole, parliamentarian.

Mrs. J.R. Spearman, anti-litter chairman, read an excerpt from The Lone Star Gardener encouraging people to be better neighbors by cleaning their homesites first.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Spearman and Mrs. Joe Weaver.

"Planting Tips" will be the topic of a panel presentation at the next meeting, February 7. Participating on the panel will be Mmes. Weaver, Milo Carlson and Lee Moore.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—I am ready to apply for a nice soft bed in a rest home. I have just finished sorting 64 socks for my husband and three sons who all wear dark colors, mostly navy but there are so many shades of navy. No wonder sorting socks heads my list of housekeeping dislikes. I have tried marking each person's with a different color of thread but this is time-consuming for so many and the thread comes out after a few washings. It is too cold here to go barefooted. I do hope some reader has a solution to my problem. Thanks and do sock it to me.—MARIAN

Books Delight Children

COLLEGE STATION—"Books bulging with vivid pictures and stories fascinate children of all ages," reminded Jane Fleischer, Extension family-life education specialist at Texas A&M University.

"When children grow up with books, the books become their friends," Miss Fleischer explained. "And it's almost impossible to start too soon. By his first birthday, a toddler takes delight in recognizing familiar scenes and objects in books."

Selecting books for preschool children requires careful consideration, according to the specialist.

"Illustrated books should be adorned with clear, intense and pleasing colors. Pictures should have simple lines for the very young child and progress to greater detail for older children.

"Size and shape of books should also be suitable to the age of the child," she added. "Choose well-constructed books with strong binding and good paper."

Story books should describe reasonable characters in situations familiar to the young child. Miss Fleischer said. "By the time the child is five, he will enjoy books of adventure, imagination and people in other lands."

PINE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (AP)—The deaths of 19 game animals in a hunting preserve near here must have been caused by intentional poisoning, says the preserve's owner.

John B. Amos, owner of the 600-acre Royal Hunting Preserve, said the deaths "can only be ascribed to malicious mischief on the part of a person or persons unknown."

He reported Monday that 17 buffalo, an antelope and an elk died during late November and early December. Amos said a toxicologist determined sodium nitrate poisoning as the cause of death.

Corduroy Accents New Designs

Trim Look Of Today

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK —(NEA)—Designers are shaping their late-hour fashions in corduroy—corduroy in fabulous color combinations and far-out patterns inspired by the splendor of the East. Jewel-like colors gleam on the evening scene in prints as varied as paisleys, free form florals and sharply defined geometrics.

In a fashion year when anything goes it's nice to report that corduroy date designs are feminine and shaped to show the figure. While hemlines are flattering in midi and ankle lengths. Once again it's fashionable to stress a shapely body and while the designs are youthful, it's a youthfulness that's easy to wear no matter what age bracket one happens to be in.

This youthful feeling is part and parcel for all late-date designs. It is the essence of the long skirt ensembles, of the Hot Pants plus dress twosomes. It is the very spirit of the pants put-togethers. And never fear, you pants fans, pants continue on their smart way, a way formalized for evening by fabric selection, by print and color definition. Their styles and lengths range from Hot Pants and shorts to long, stovepipe designs.

Besides the contemporary look of so much of the new evening attire, there is the other side of the coin which shows the inspiration of the medieval and the Victorian. They mystery of other years and a nostalgia for the past are themes that run through designers' collections for fall and winter. Brought up to date for moderns, these themes have great charm and subtle flattery of their own.

They show up in dramatic capes, shoulder-puff sleeves, formal knickers, lacings and lace trims. The figure is once again all-important with emphasis on accented waistlines, on a sensuous treatment of bodices, on an over-all delicacy of design.

It's trim, it's neat; it's tailored. All this is very easily done by topping a gored skirt, straight pants or warm pants with a blazer! All these items can be made from this one pattern...and you can mix and match them to suit your mood.

Consult the Fashion Coordinator included in each Young Original for color, fabric and accessory suggestions.

B-168 with Photo-Guide is in Sizes 7 to 15 (bust 31-37). Size 9, 32 bust. Blazer, 2 1/2 yards of 60-inch. Pants, 1 1/4 yards. Skirt, 1 1/4 yards.

Send $1.25 for this smart Young Originals pattern designed for women who sew. Write (name of your newspaper), Box 438, Midtown Station, New York, N.Y. 10018. Print full name, address with zip code, pattern number and size.

Jeans, which are becoming accepted dress for almost anywhere, now come in pretty shades of pink and blue with matching jackets.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, JAN. 23
Your birthday today: In spirit you must in essence go it alone during the year ahead, as so much of what you attempt is personal and beyond reach of even marital collaboration. Today's natives are strongly individualistic and like to relocate frequently.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Starting late is now a good course to follow. Accept criticism in the same spirit that it is offered in—likely it's well justified.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Finances are looking up. There is enough variety in this Sunday's experience to keep you cheerful and busy.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: You may have to draw some lines today. Saying "no" is sometimes the only good answer to what you may encounter.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Conservative approaches help as you do your share in your community's customs this Sunday. Prepare for a possible surprise or two.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Your pride and success shouldn't be permitted to lead you into rash and unwise positions. Promise nothing beyond the shortest-range amenities.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: What starts out as ordinary routine almost certainly provides an excellent chance for a sparkle of interesting adventure.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: It's up to you—the openings are here for a rather lively Sunday of good feelings, improving family conditions.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: A minimum of tact and courtesy go a very long way under today's conditions.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Youthful ideas come forth in a warm-hearted rush. Relax, go along with the best of what's happening.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Stay clear of excitable people. The pause you take to think is the key to success—plan a quiet day.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: What seems an opportunity to impose your scheme isn't really that. However, you can get some good accomplished with forbearance and temporizing.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Start out with just a touch of definite firmness on what you really would like to have happen.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Conservative approaches help as you do your share in your community's customs this Sunday. Prepare for a possible surprise or two.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Your pride and success shouldn't be permitted to lead you into rash and unwise positions. Promise nothing beyond the shortest-range amenities.

SEPARATES, the big look in sportswear, makes it for evening. A smashing design is the combination of ankle-length skirt, eye-catching in a bold, exotic printed ribless corduroy paired with coordinated body-clinging top (left). This is from Agile Sportswear. Midi coat (right) with above-the-knee pants, both in no-rib corduroy printed in a design of Far-Eastern inspiration is by De Champs for Sidney Bitterman. This layered look takes on a new significance in its late-hour interpretation.

Calculating Woman Can Forge Ahead

By CARLTON SMITH
Planning on being a career woman, and competing with men for the top jobs? Learn math, says a noted authority on womanpower. Specifically, master the mysteries of calculus.

Prof. Eli Ginzberg of the Columbia University School of Business intends that many young women limit their job possibilities by taking "soft" courses in college, reports the Information Center on the Mature Woman.

A liberal-arts curriculum "equips the woman graduate primarily for teaching," he says. The woman who wants to compete for top jobs in our increasingly technological society would do better to "acquire control of" mathematics, economics or statistics, the ICMW quotes him as saying—and "any girl who masters calculus is a step ahead."

But a head for math isn't enough by itself, Prof. Ginzberg's studies indicate. He finds that women who get to the top vocationally share certain characteristics:

Psychological support from their parents, particularly a "positive and supportive father," whose influence seems to be more telling than the mother's in spurring them on to higher vocational goals.

Cooperation and approval of the husband. Coordinating home and professional lives—especially when there are children in the family—has its problems for the woman in a high-level managerial job, with the demands that makes on her. Those who solve these problems best are those whose husbands approve and support their career aspirations.

A hard-driving competitiveness, Prof.

Ginzberg describes it as "emotional drive—the ability to fight and maneuver for oneself." Many able men, as well as women, never get to the top for the same reason, he notes: "They aren't fighting hard enough." And to get to the top, he adds, "a woman must fight twice or three times as hard."

Just now, for either men or women executives at middle-management levels or above, job prospects are the worst in five years. Those are the conclusions—at odds with all the optimistic talk about the sparkling business outlook for '72—that emerge from figures assembled by one of the country's leading "head hunter" firms, Handy Associates.

The firm's vice-president for executive search, James R. Clovis, says there is "cause for concern" in the direction taken by the national mobility index the firm compiles quarterly, indicating the number of executives who are "mobile"—or, to put it more bluntly, looking for a job.

Among those facing the gloomiest situation, says Clovis, are executives in the support echelons of marketing—advertising, sales promotion, public relations. They account for 32 per cent of all the executives who are "available." Next come those in the financial area, 23 per cent of all executives looking for jobs, followed by manufacturing executives, 17 per cent of the total.

Most sought after in '72 will be sales executives, says Handy's president James A. Skidmore Jr. He anticipates a marked surge in the demand for "true managers, capable of sound sales planning and the training and motivation of an effective sales force."

This student has a roommate problem

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old conservative, responsible, open-minded guy. I am living away from home at college.

My roommate [I'll call him Dave] and I have a problem. Recently, two very close friends of his [both girls] offered to share an apartment with us next year. Dave has known these girls since he was a little kid. They are like sisters to him. I believe his intentions are 100 per cent honorable.

A setup like this would give us great benefits. Dave and I wouldn't have to hassle with mending clothes, cooking, or housekeeping. Chris and Kathy [not their real names] would end up with a few extra bucks a month, plus they wouldn't have to worry about living alone, defenseless, like many girls do these days. At any rate, it would cost us all less than what it's costing us now. The only problem is that it is a bit extreme.

Tell me, Abby, what would your advice be to your kid if he hit you with a proposition like this?

UNDECIDED AT UCSB

DEAR UNDECIDED: It's highly unlikely that my "kid" will ever hit me with a proposition like that, but if he does I will let you know. Meanwhile, if at this stage of your life, you need help in recognizing the social boobytraps in premarital cohabitation, I doubt if you would take my advice seriously. So I'll withhold it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who has gone in for "meditating." She meditates twice a day for 20 minutes, and when she does, she takes the telephone off the hook and forgets to put it back on.

I get so angry when I call her and find her line "busy" for hours on end. I have even phoned her neighbor and asked her to please ring my friend's doorbell and tell her that her phone is off the hook.

I will donate $25 to your favorite charity if you publish this letter!

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Give the $25 to your local Mental Health Association. And try to control your irritation. It's bad for your blood pressure.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and my fiancé [call him Bob] is 20. We have gone together off and on for four years and have been engaged for over a year. Bob is in the Navy and makes $400 a month.

We want to get married, but my problem is my folks. They don't think we can make it on $400 a month. Bob is making more than my father. My Mom doesn't work, and we have four kids in our family, so I don't know how my folks figure, do you? Please help.

GENERATION GAP

DEAR GAP: If your father is making it on less than $400 a month with six months to feed, it is obvious your folks have other reasons for objecting to your marrying Bob. Find out what they are.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SECOND TIME AROUND" IN PALM BEACH, FLA.: Brush the stardust out of your eyes, Lady, and don't worry about "insulting" him. No matter how "honorable" a man you think he is, it's better to have a pre-nuptial agreement and not need one, than to have needed one, and not have it. This agreement should spell out who gets what in case the marriage doesn't work out. And who's entitled to how much should you precede him in death, or vice versa.

Kadingo Lingo

By Jane Kadingo

There must be some great dramatic or unforgettable way to start a column—this is what I have been saying to myself for quite a few months. Not being able to think of quite how to get started, I didn't. I finally decided the best way to begin, is just to begin.

Anyone's guess is as good as mine as to what this column should be like—what it will contain. Possibly tidbits of information I pick up, or "feature-type articles on unusual people...commentaries on fashions or some topic that appeals to me...and very probably a little personal philosophy. Maybe it will be an updated version of my column of the '50s, "Jane Talk." I've become a little "updated" since then, myself.

I'M ALL FOR IT. WHAT I call imaginative teaching. For example, Kay Crouch and Darlene Sokolosky have been teaching their fifth-grade students about the American Revolution...making it come alive, they divided their classes into the "colonists" and the "Redcoats". They made replicas of English shillings, and of "stamps" (remember the Stamp Act?); the colonists had to buy their property (desks, books, etc.) from the Redcoats with the stamps they purchased with their shillings. Any colonist who "broke the law" (getting up from their desks without permission, etc.) was arrested, fined and/or sent to jail by the Redcoats.

At the end of the first day, the colonists were not too happy with their lot, but the Redcoats thought it was fine. The rub was, the next day they changed roles.

Whether or not you use Jerry Cronister's favorite word, "total involvement" what greater way to get across some facts of history, but better yet, the feelings of the early colonists against the restrictions place upon them by their English overlords! Hence, The Revolution! This they will not forget. It was fun, yet they learned. In my opinion...a great deal more than when they fill in the "boxes" in the textbook!

Sideline: I didn't really get an answer when I asked Kay if she were the King of England.

WHO SAYS we can't learn from the young people of today? I think we have a great deal to learn from them and I must confess I agree with a lot of what they have to say...and they sometimes say it so beautifully...Here is what Vickie Lee Woody has to say about love. Vickie, 16, is a PHS junior, with aspirations of being a disc jockey. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ronae Woody, 308 N. Somerville.

MAN'S KINGDOM

By Vickie Lee

Once again I dwell in my never-ending kingdom, hoping that the vivid darkness will turn to everlasting light, and spreading joy, happiness and eternal love.

To wish for love is true wisdom. To receive love is true life. Being without love is a dark cold voyage through hell. Life without love is a hell for which no mortal can find a definition.

Love like the eternal light will burn forever. The light is capable of becoming dim. But complete darkness can never gain control. For the Eternal Light knows no flaw.

Man has not the intelligence to give love a true definition; all he can do is realize he has the feeling for another, and do as best he can with the feeling. Man has become careless with the word "love." It no longer holds the splendor and beauty it once did. One day, be God willing, man will find the so-long-ago lost meaning of love. For love is needed to dwell in the house of today. Even more so, it is needed to dwell in the house of tomorrow.

Not only has man forgotten how to love one another, but man no longer has love for himself. The meaning of love of one's self is pride and morals. Man has just become a part of God's creation. Never caring, only being alive.

Everyone has to find love for himself. Some succeed early in life, others later. But, still yet, some never find love. To love is to be content, happy, and even more important, to have peace within yourself. Along with nature, God himself made this thing called love, and he intended it to be good. I believe with all my heart that God intended love to have beautiful and everlasting meaning. But man's physical cravings have destroyed all love ever was.

Man has heard about this ancient thing called love and have even read about it. Therefore, he gives life a false beauty by proposing love where there is really nothing. Man is a strange creature. Some day, he'll learn a about love and its beauty.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

MONDAY, JAN. 24

Your birthday today: The year ahead involves continued definite effort on your part to accommodate or correct limitations imposed by modern technical conditions, the need for quick results. Today's natives are usually idealistic as well as obstinate.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Sudden demands may hit your pocket money and there is no quick way to recoup. Mark time on career changes.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Stay clear of people seeking something to quibble over. Incidents range from silly-funny to disconcerting.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Take nothing for granted. People near you may be under critical attention for deviating from expected behavior. Pay no attention to rumors.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Endless discussions include several comments critical of you and your recent doings. You can make things worse by a thoughtless answer.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: It's all too easy to boast, let out too much of a commitment early. Take on a moderate task, get it done promptly and well.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: An awfully complex tangle of personal curiosity must be worked thru on matters you can't directly ask about. Patience plus time brings all the answers.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Differences of opinion, fresh information may lead you to sudden change of plan, improvised arrangements. Omit neither formality nor amenity as you go.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Cope with trivial irritations as tho you expected them. Otherwise you may say something beyond what is appropriate.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: It's easy to get into situations where you have too much of the responsibility and not enough authority to pull matters together—think first.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Changes are virtually certain to be a bit more than you're ready for if you force issues now—let them evolve gradually.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: A small detail makes for a whole fresh approach very shortly—hide your time and prepare.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Your friends are volatile enough today with no incitement from you—play it calm and collected.

Fashion Goes Oriental

First came the Ping-Pong tour, then President Nixon's announced trip to China. Now the Bamboo Curtain parts to reveal the Chinese influence in fashion and in precious jewelry. Tiffany designed the diamond-paved dragon and diamond drop earrings to complement this high-collared slink of black crepe by Anne Klein. THE COMBO CUT—The Combo Cut combines several lengths into a tapered top layer with a soft length of curl in the back. The look of the Combo is born free to go with any of fashion's silhouettes for Spring. The Combo accents feminine fashions with a bounce of gentle curl, sometimes pulled back at the nape. For a tailored sophistication, the shorter layer is brushed behind the ear or pulled back in a sculptured curl. Hair pulled to the crown or accented with a hair piece creates evening elegance for after five.

The Combo Cut is an American Hair Fashion for Spring and Summer 1972, introduced by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

THE SOLO CUT—For ready-to-wear hair, drip dry and summer free, the only answer is a professionally engineered permanent wave, and today's professional perm gives any woman the freedom to select the amount of curl she wants to wear. The Solo Cut, an all-in-one-length fashion, comes in "casual" or "curly," with plenty of looks for today's casual fashions. All are finger-lifting free with a super fashion look for summer. The Solo Cut is an American Hair Fashion for Spring-Summer 1972, introduced by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

THE DUET CUT—A summery smoothie to tame the savagery of seasons past with a cooler look that is still long, the Duet Cut is aptly named for the two very different looks it can achieve. The sleek Duet is reminiscent of the medieval page, but has plenty of freedom to swing. Relax the page, tousle in some gentle curl, and the Duet dresses up for any elegant evening.

THE YOUNG AMERICAN—Fashion comes in small sizes, too. The versatile cuts in the American Hair Fashions for Spring and Summer adapt well to the junior miss. The short-in-front, long-in-back look of the Duo Cut teamed with the smooth page of the Duet creates The Young American, a no-care fashion, great for any youthful lass.

Group Plans Social Meet

Phi Epsilon Beta sorority had Miss Susan Glaze of Amarillo as its guest speaker on interior decorating at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Randy Haralson.

Mrs. Wilbur Walls, president, led the business session, during which it was announced the January social will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Furr's Cafeteria.

Mrs. Tommy Lochetz, city council representative, reported a bazaar and tasting bee is being planned to raise money for the scholarship fund.

Members present were Mmes. Richard Dorman, Steven Dewey, Lloyd Larkin, John Hoke, Charles Cooley, Tommy Jochez, Danny Daugherty, Randy Haralson, Jim Brashears, Gene Drake, Wilbur Walls, and Miss Diane Brice.

THE DUO CUT—Combining the look of length with a swing of curl, the Duo Cut is hair fashion in two lengths—long in the back, short around the face. For the girl who isn't quite ready to part with that lovely long hair, the Duo offers a look that is new.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Frank Brumage, 15, traded his shoulder-length hair for $5 from barber Harold Schweikert.

"I did it on impulse," said Schweikert, 43. "I didn't know the kid, but I like short hair."

"He walked by the shop and asked, 'How would you like to get ahold of me?'" Schweikert said. "I offered him $5 to cut his hair and he said, 'Are you kidding?'"

"I pulled five ones out of the cash register and he walked in."

"Yeah, man, I took him up on it," Brumage said. "I was sort of tired of long hair anyway."

Brumage said he gave the money to his mother.

Latest Hair Styles Go American

In a salute to American fashion, the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association recently presented its collection of American Hair Fashions for Spring and Summer 1972. The presentation was part of a four-day educational program and fashion preview conducted by the Association in Atlanta, Ga.

NHCA's American Hair Fashions for Spring and Summer 1972 are a composite of lengths, layers and looks adaptable to any woman and every life style in America today. The basic element common to these versatile fashions is a good professional hair cut.

SNOW AND MUSIC
—ASPEN, Colo. (AP)—Founded in 1879 by prospectors hunting for silver in the Roaring Fork Valley, this city of 3,000 today is a combination winter playground and summer cultural center. From October to May, thousands of skiers ply the slopes at four major ski areas that ring the town, and during the spring, summer and autumn attention turns to the musicians and scholars at the Aspen Music Festival and the Institute for Humanistic Studies.

Makeup News Notes
Bright, but transparent color is the continuing story for the "fashion face." Eye shadows, cheek and lip rouge and those marvelous little colorpots of bright, transparent gel will continue to be basics for the cosmetic wardrobe.

The biggest news is the "watercolor eye," featuring the return of eyeliner, carefully blended and faded a la watercolor. Lips and nails will still reflect the darker shades, with reds and vibrants in transparent shiny looks among the most popular.

GALA FOR PONSSELLE
—BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Opera Company will present a gala concert on Jan. 23 to honor Rosa Ponselle's 75th birthday. Harry B. Cummings, president of the company, said, "Mrs. Ponselle has for a lifetime given unselfishly of her time and talents in behalf of the development of opera. Additionally, she has worked diligently in the cause of the American operatic artist.

Stars who will sing are Marilyn Horne, Lili Chookasian, Sherrill Milnes, Robert Merrill, Ezio Flagello and Jerome Hines.

The concert will be a benefit, with $25,000 hoped to be raised for the opera's endowment. It will be followed by a champagne reception.

Almondine Sauce
Add a little lemon or arrange juice to sauteed sliced or slivered almonds while the butter or margarine is bubbling; pour over green beans, Brussels sprouts or cauliflower.

Fraud Reported On Welfare Rolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee heard Friday there is widespread fraud on the welfare rolls and that the Health, Education and Welfare Department refuses to do anything about it.

Samuel Weems, prosecuting attorney in the 17th Arkansas Judicial District, testified that many of his efforts to remove ineligible persons from the welfare rolls have been stymied by HEW regulations.

He said his investigation had convinced him that, if HEW would cooperate, 30 per cent of the welfare cases in his district could be closed because there is an able-bodied, employed father who should be required to support his family.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., committee chairman, called this an "utter outrage."

Long pledged he would try to amend the House-passed welfare reform bill to see that HEW is required to support all efforts to end welfare cheating.

The senator said the Louisiana state welfare director had told him that, if a case of welfare fraud is suspected, HEW will not permit state investigators to interview neighbors unless the person believed to be cheating gives his consent.

The panel also received testimony from the welfare supervisor in nearby Prince Georges County, Maryland, about an organized fraud ring that had taken at least $40,000 in illegal welfare payments.

Richard Smith, the official, said some women in the ring had explained they split the proceeds with a man who told them how to get on the rolls.

Some women wore different wigs to fool welfare officials as they made successive applications, Smith testified.

Weems told the senators nearly all welfare fraud in his area was in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

The number of AFDC cases in his district increased by 100 or about 20 per cent, in nine months of 1971, he testified.

He said there were cases where the husband actually was living with the family although the wife certified he was not, where welfare recipients held jobs although they said they had no income, where a mother received support payments from a father but certified she was not getting any money, and where a father was under a court order to support his family but did not do so and the state welfare department lawyers failed to pursue the case.

Weems, who said he spoke for all Arkansas prosecuting attorneys, told the senators that the principal obstacle to his efforts to purge the rolls was an HEW rule of confidentiality on all welfare case files.

He urged that the pending bill be revised to eliminate this. As it now stands, the Housepassed measure will do nothing to end welfare cheating, he insisted.

Smith, however, testified that in his view the provisions of the House bill "would make it nearly impossible to commit the type of organized fraud we experienced."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Even the judge's pronouncement of a five year sentence didn't budge Theodore Cobb as he sat in the docks reading Eldridge Cleaver's "Soul on Ice."

"He seemed more interested in his book than in his trial," said Criminal Court Judge Jack M. Turner after sentencing Cobb on a robbery charge.

The 18-year-old Cobb, who had no previous felony arrests, flipped pages as a jury found him guilty Wednesday of robbing insurance collector Arthur Sloan of $60 at gunpoint.

As he was being led from court, Cobb yelled, "Thank Judge Turner for his Ku Klux Klan justice."

Texas Parks Commission Urged To Save State Historical Sites

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas history lovers urged the Parks and Wildlife Commission Friday to save the state's historical sites before they are destroyed.

"Just as some farseeing individuals in the past preserved places such as the Alamo and Mission San Jose for us, you are in the enviable position of being able to preserve other, equally valuable, sites for generations yet unborn," said Mrs. Will Wilson of Beaumont.

Mrs. Wilson, speaking in behalf of the Texas Historical Survey Committee, said a bond program to acquire state parks and historical sites was not working because a "bad bond market" had held the sale of bonds to only $5.75 million.

She said the commission should turn to a tax set up by the 1971 legislature. It specifies that a one cent per pack cigarette tax shall go to a parks fund which may be used to acquire, plan and develop state parks and historic sites.

She said the state comptroller has estimated the fund will have $25 million by

August 1973, and by spending about $7 million "an impressive number of sites reflecting all phases of Texas history could be held in trust for future generations."

Mrs. Wilson said the survey committee favored acquiring and preserving a large number of historic and archeological sites at once rather than fully developing only a few of them.

Development, she said, does not include the "Disneyland treatment" when an historical site is "prettified and 'interpreted' past the point of recognition."

Mrs. Wilson said the survey committee objects to "acres of asphalt adjoining a tiny cluster of log cabins, or a multi-media 'side show' plugged into a simple adobe house."

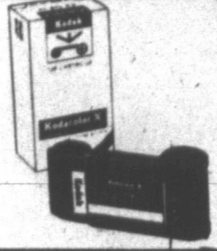

She said the survey committee's final version of a state preservation plan will be ready in December.

Historic parks and historic sites comprise only 2,700 out of 77,000 acres in the state park system, she said, asking "Is it possible that our patrimony is worth no more than that?"

Texas Seen To Adopt Alcoholism Program

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A new alcoholism program for state employees is patterned after a federal program that allows sick leave for alcoholics to receive treatment or rehabilitation. Gov. Preston Smith said recently.

Smith said the Texas Public Employees Association backs the program.

Smith said alcoholism was "the number one drug abuse problem in our state." Half of all arrests, divorce cases and highway fatalities "are related in some way to the excessive use of alcohol," he said.

State House Special Unit Holds Organizational Meet

The Interim Study Committee of the State Legislature on the Licensing of Nurses Aides and the Nursing Profession recently met in Austin for an organizational meeting.

The committee chairman, Jim Clark of Houston, Vice-Chairman, Grant Jones of Abilene, along with committee members, Phillip Cates of Pampa, Dean Cobb of Dumas, Cordell Hull of Ft. Worth, Johnny Nelms of Pasadena, and Paul Silber of San Antonio set goals of improving the nursing profession, raising the standards of patient care and ultimately upgrading health care in Texas.

The goals parallel those set up in H.S.R. No. 451 calling for an extensive study of (1) all aspects of the profession of nursing to determine the need and desirability of licensing or otherwise regulating nursing aides, (2) the feasibility of consolidating all licensing agencies for nurses into a single Nursing Examiners Board which could regulate and supervise all segments of the nursing profession, and (3) any other related matter which the committee deem significant in making a comprehensive report to the Legislature upon the problems and needs brought forth from their study.

Hearings will be held on Feb. 18, at San Jacinto College in Pasadena, March 10, in Ft. Worth, April 20, in San Antonio, May 19, in Lubbock

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

How Freedom Fades

If the major difference between the United States of America and the communist nations could be distilled to a single phrase it would be "individual freedom."

Pursuing the thought further, we are aware of the repression behind the Iron Curtains and sympathize with the people here, we assume, constantly striving to attain greater latitude of personal activity and thought.

The corollary should be that the people of the United States guard against encroachments on their own precious freedoms by their own government.

Are we really? Even today, Congress is discussing seriously a minimum income for all senior citizens, indeed for all Americans even if they now are providing for themselves.

With the aid would come federal intervention into the lives of millions of Americans.

Throughout America candidates for some of the highest offices in the land are espousing cradle-to-grave medical care for Americans as an idea that has arrived—with commensurate government controls of both the care and the purse strings.

In the wings are complementary proposals to socialize medicine and regulate dental care, legal care, pensions, personal savings and automobile insurance.

The Federal Drug Administration is at this hour dictating the nutritional content of frozen meals. The Federal Communications Commission is monitoring the validity of electronic advertising and the Federal Trade Commission is harassing toothpaste manufacturers about claims for their products.

Government in the United States now is running the railroads, compelling the attendance of children in certain schools, establishing the nature of the toys that parents can buy for their children, dictating through subsidies many of the crops that farmers can plant, and in thousands of new ways intruding into areas that we once defended as individual prerogatives.

As surprising as the scope of the government activity is in our daily lives, its increasing rate and its calm acceptance by the American people are even more remarkable.

After all, as we seek additional federal intervention in our lives are we not in reality asking for what the people of the Soviet Union or China already have—complete consumer protection?

Is this what we really want? Would it not be better to live with our own bad judgment, freely exercised, and our own bad decisions, freely made?

FDA Flexes Muscle

Federal bureaucrats are launching a "long delayed" program to "protect" us from that mean old drug and patent medicine manufacturer.

Pointing to a claim that only 25 per cent of the patent medicine remedies are effective, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said it plans to set standards which each item must meet to remain on the market.

Among the various "drug" categories are toothpastes, mouthwashes, laxatives, antiperspirants and hemorrhoidal products.

Commissioner Charles C. Edwards, according to a report, said the FDA is "concerned that many present formulations do not have the claimed effect, have inadequate instructions for effective use by the consumer, or are promoted in deceptive and indefensible ways."

We believe Mr. Edwards has a low opinion of the consumer. For instance, what person would continue to buy and use a laxative which did not produce the desired effect? Even so, what right has the government to tell this consumer he cannot have such a product?

If indeed the product was ineffective, it probably would be pulled off the market for lack of sales. The market place, as always, is the surest test to effectiveness.

Mr. Edwards estimated it would take three years to test the myriad of products. He did not estimate how much it will cost the tax payers.

Perhaps we should stock up on our favorite remedies. We will be in suspense wondering which ones the FDA will rule below its standards.

BRUCE BIOSSAT Enemy Cooking Up TV Spectacular

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)

—U.S. defense officials are apprehensive that the North Vietnamese armies operating in South Vietnam are soon to record the best American television spectacular they've had since their winter offensive of 1969.

Most of the informed speculation thus far has centered on Hanoi's buildup of men and materiel in and near what is called Military Region Two—a very lightly populated central highlands area with such interior cities as Kontum and Pleiku.

Though judgments here are at the South Vietnamese ground and air forces, aided some by U. S. air, have the strength ultimately to turn back the assaults, there is concern that the Reds may slash into eastern coastal cities before being repulsed.

Possible targets on the South China seacoast are Nha Trang, Qui Nhon, and the Cam Ranh bay area, to name a few.

If the attackers get to Cam Ranh, they will of course encounter some of the U. S. units still stationed there in defense of a major U. S. logistical base. Some Korean forces also are employed in the central coastal zone.

The view at Defense is that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong need enter one or more coastal towns only briefly to score heavily on American television. Our officials think they will be thrown out and that the whole highland offensive will cost the enemy enormously in lives—but that Hanoi will measure the gain in prime time on the American tube and consequent impact on U. S. opinion.

That is not the only worry in military circles. They look for Hanoi to stir things up all over the place, in the populous, rich southern delta, in the vulnerable border territory around Tay Ninh, in and around Saigon itself, and in Military Region One up north close to the Demilitarized Zone.

The purpose, it is felt, will not necessarily be to win anything big this winter, but to suggest to war-weary Americans that South Vietnam is hopelessly vulnerable and we just ought to get everybody out quick and forget it.

There seems to be reasonable confidence here that Saigon and the delta region can be protected, even if some inroads are made.

The Tay Ninh sector near Cambodia is thought to be a sitting duck, thinly peopled and perhaps hard to defend.

The outlook at the critical DMZ is mixed. The feeling is that North Vietnamese attacks there would be, at first anyway, largely a diversion intended to pin down some veteran South Vietnamese divisions so they could not move to the defense of Region Two to the south.

Since the President himself obviously understands all these possible dangers, his announcement of another 70,000-man troop pullout is seen as one way of saying there isn't a awful lot the United States can do any more. South Vietnam's fate is in its own hands.

Those who want it to survive independent of Hanoi are hoping North Vietnam's expected offensives are crippling in human cost, and that Hanoi's winter TV special somehow does not force an abrupt and total withdrawal of all U. S. forces within the next few months.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Should food be left to cool at room temperature or should it be placed immediately in the refrigerator while still hot? We were taught that bacteria starts to form if not refrigerated immediately and this theory is scorned by a relative, who insists that food be cooled at room temperature and then refrigerated. I would really appreciate finding out who is right or wrong. She also says it is much harder on the refrigerator to put hot food in there, but I'd rather defrost often than throw away food at the prevailing prices.

Dear Reader—Adequate cooking destroys most bacteria. Pork, for example, should be cooked beyond the pink state or, if trichinosis is present, a person eating rare pork can become infected. Sufficient boiling to cook vegetables, baking or cooking meat to medium or well-done will eliminate the bacteria.

When food sits for some time, then the bacteria in the air and all around us can begin to grow and multiply at a rapid rate. In a warm room they multiply much more rapidly. In many instances, the bacteria elaborate a toxic substance which is a poison to the human system and causes illness. Reheating the food will kill the bacteria, but not eliminate the toxin that has formed in the food.

There will be no harm to the food by refrigerating it as soon as it is cooked. But, in most instances, it won't do any real harm to let the food stand long enough to lose its original peak heat before refrigerating. Milk and items made from milk should be refrigerated and not allowed to stand. It is particularly dangerous to let cream pies, custards, potato salad or similar items stand at room temperature. While it is all right to let a fresh-baked cream pie cool initially, it should be refrigerated without undue delay to prevent the growth of some types of bacteria that can cause food poisoning. If you must err, do so on the side of refrigerating too soon.

Dear Dr. Lamb—You state "uncreamed" cottage cheese is an excellent source of protein. I have looked all over for this product and have been unable to find it. Could you give me the names and addresses of stores where I may find it?

Dear Reader—The "uncreamed" term is used by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Any of the cottage cheese products that say low calorie are really uncreamed cottage cheese. If you can't find any of these, you can use ordinary cottage cheese. All you need to do is place the creamed cottage cheese in a collander and rinse it with cold water. This will rinse off the cream, leaving the relatively fat-free curds. This will be fine for your purposes.

THAT HASSLE between the tri-cities of Amarillo, Pampa and Borger versus the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority and the other member cities of CRMWA may drag out for months before it's settled.

The suit was filed last week in 84th District Court at Stinnett with the plaintiffs charging that CRMWA and the cities of Lubbock, Slaton, Tahoka, Levelland, Plainview, O'Donnell, Lamesa and Brownfield were violating the original contract provisions for operating and maintenance costs.

The word comes that it probably will be mid-summer before the case is called in court. From there on out could be a long haul of legal tangles and delays before a final decision is reached.

At least, the case has been filed on home grounds thereby insuring a first round battle in friendly territory.

IT'S BEEN two or three weeks since he wrote us a letter, but we want Joe Reed, 1413 N. Russell, to know that it just showed up on our desk a couple of days ago.

Joe, and we assume he's a youngster, asked this question in his letter:

How long does it take electricity to go around the world?

So, we checked with several engineer friends and one of them finally directed the question to Curtis Griffin, 516 E. 17th St., an engineer with Southwestern Public Service Co.

Electrical energy, he explained, travels at approximately 186,000 miles a second. The circumference of the earth is 25,000 miles.

Simple division then gives the answer. It would take .1351 of a second for an electrical impulse to traverse the world.

THEN THERE'S the one about Foster Whaley, the county agricultural agent, and something in which he became innocently involved on a recent business trip to Follett.

It seems Whaley pulled into a parking lot behind the Follett bank around noontime to await a man with whom he had an appointment.

He decided to sit in his car while waiting. So, there he was, a stranger in town, sitting in the auto on the bank parking lot while most bank employees had gone to lunch.

In fact one of the women bank clerks, saw him as she left. She hurried to a telephone, called the bank and informed the man who answered that there was a bank robber on the parking lot and to get ready for a holdup.

Authorities were alerted but the whole thing was cleared up when the man with whom Whaley had the appointment showed up and cleared him as a suspect by identifying him as a law abiding citizen from Pampa who was just in town on business.

The bank clerk who had first suspected him finally returned to her duties at the bank after being assured there was no holdup in the making.

WE ACCEPT the radio reporter's half-hearted apology for the foul-up in reporting what a questioner said at last Monday night's meeting of the Gray County Taxpayers Association.

It was a pretty good example of what makes the difference between an experienced, thorough reporter and one who goes off half-cocked. When you're not thoroughly acquainted with the facts, it's always best to become familiar with them before you attempt to be an authority on something about which you are only half knowledgeable.

The fact that the radio reporter said on his newscast that a newspaper representative made no defense of the charge against his newspaper, was going just a bit too far.

In the first place—there was no charge made against the newspaper. And in the second place—nothing was said that needed defending.

With a bit of advice that the incident should serve as a lesson to embryo reporters—the final word is: case closed!

U.S. Oil Capital Investment Challenged By Foreign Firms

HOUSTON (AP) — American companies continue to supply a major portion of the Free World's petroleum industry capital funds but their once dominant position is being challenged by foreign firms.

The $11.7 billion spent by American-owned companies in 1970 accounted for 58 per cent of the industry-wide spending. Just a year earlier the U.S. share of the total new investment was 65 per cent and in 1968 it was 70 per cent.

The 1970 edition of the Chase Manhattan Bank's annual survey of capital investments by the world petroleum industry reflects sharp increases by foreign companies.

While overall investments by U.S. firms declined by $290 million, investments by foreign-owned companies jumped to $8.4 billion, an increase of $2 billion over 1969.

All of the U.S. decline was attributed to foreign spending. American companies spent $7.5 billion at home, the same as in 1969, but the $4.2 billion spent abroad was $290 million below the year earlier total.

Foreign companies, meanwhile, were spending a bit more on investments within the United States. Their U.S. expenditures totaling $730 million were $50 million above 1969.

Of the record $20.1 billion set in 1970 for world petroleum capital expenditures, $8.2 billion was spent in the United States, $11.9 billion in foreign areas.

The bulk of the total foreign investments were made in Western Europe, the Far East, and in Canada and for oil tankers. Capital expenditures declined in the Middle East, Africa, Venezuela, and in other Latin American areas.

The $3.3 billion invested in Western Europe was $780 million above 1969, while the $2.5 billion outlay for tankers represented a $525 million increase.

Far East spending totaled $2.1 billion, an increase of $550 million. New Canadian investments totaled $1.3 billion or $125 million above the year earlier level.

For both Western Europe and the Far East, more than one-half the new investments were made on processing facilities and about one-fourth was used for marketing purposes.

In addition to the $20.1 billion in capital investments, the world industry's 1970 exploration expenses totaled $1.3 billion, with expenditures in foreign areas exceeding the U.S. total for the first time. Exploration expenses in the United States amounted to $665 million, compared to a $675 million total for other areas. A year earlier, U.S. expenses of $725 million compared with a $655 million total for other areas.

The U.S. share of the gross investment is $98 billion. Canada has $11 billion, Venezuela $7 billion, other Western Hemisphere areas $12.4 billion, Western Europe $29 billion, the Far East $13 billion, the Middle East $7.4 billion and Africa $7.1 billion, with $21 billion in tankers unallocated as to area.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Kopycats," which ABC proposes to use in its new Wednesday night "Comedy Hour" almost every other week, has a very simple format. For 60 minutes, a sextet of skilled impressionists mimics famous people, past and present.

The idea was tried by the same producers for a couple of shows on NBC's "Music Hall" last season. Whether it is strong enough or can produce enough variety to survive through a half dozen shows is something else.

In the premiere this week, Rich Little, George Kirby, Marilyn Michaels, Frank Gorshin, Charlie Callas and Joe Baker impersonated just about all the standard characters—Jimmy Stewart, Bogart, Cagney, Boris Karloff, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, W. C. Fields. Actually, the only familiar impressions left are Edward G. Robinson and Ed Sullivan.

Some of the impressions were better than others. Rich Little turned in excellent caricatures of President Nixon, George Burns and Raymond Burr, but his Bogart and W. C. Fields needed work. Kirby was funny doing Mae West and even more amusing imitating Flip Wilson as Geraldine.

The only woman in the regulars is Marilyn Michaels who in one number ran through the styles of seven girl singers, from Rosemary Clooney to Diana Ross, and caught each of them. Her impressions of Barbra Streisand and Judy Garland were uncanny—she not only had their voices but their body movements and hands.

The series, taped in England, called in a couple of guest stars for obscure reasons. Robert Young didn't even try to imitate anybody and Steve Lawrence demonstrated that he sings much better than he impersonates John Garfield.

An hour of "The Kopycats" may be fun occasionally but a steady diet might be a bit of a bore.

The program was followed by "The Persuaders," now in a new time period.

Federal Judge Panel Declares Filing Fees 'Invalid And Void'

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — State and county party officials had to go back to the drawing board to find new ways of financing local primaries in the wake of a ruling by a three-judge federal panel that the law setting filing fees at up to four per cent of a candidate's salary is "invalid and void."

Rick Johnston, a candidate for justice of the peace in Pct. 7, who would have been required to pay out $3,456 on his $21,600 salary, brought the suit in federal court. He claimed his constitutional rights were violated by such a provision. Two voters from Tarrant County—Reuben Jenkins and Theodore H. Wischkaemper—also intervened as plaintiffs.

Earl Luna, Dallas County Democratic chairman, argued in favor of the filing fees.

The judges on the panel—U.S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry of Austin, and U.S. District Court Judges Sarah T. Hughes and William M. Taylor Jr.—were the same trio who turned down an earlier filing fee law because the fees were assessed mainly to raise funds for paying for primaries.

This time they took only 32 minutes to reach their decision.

Judge Thornberry, reading the ruling which will be followed by a formal judgement, said:

"House Bill No. 5, providing for filing fees for candidates for public office, and in the alternative for pauper's affidavits accompanied by the petition of a certain number of qualified voters, is declared invalid and void. Those officers charged with enforcement of House Bill No. 5 are enjoined from further implementation."

The judge directed state and county committees of the political parties to meet and make new rules for carrying out the court's decision.

However, within an hour of the court ruling, Secretary of State Bob Bullock said in Austin that he would ask Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin to request a stay of execution of the order until after this year's primaries, to be held in May and June.

"A failure of the court to grant a limited stay of their order may force the complete reorganization of our primary election system," he said. "I cannot see how we can make such a major change prior to the May 6 primaries."

The court ruling was hailed as "a victory for the people of Texas" by Johnston.

"I think, in this year of reform in Texas, it will have significant influence on the primary and general elections," he said.

Luna said he had no immediate intention of calling his committee together.

"The judges have told us what we can't do. Now, hopefully, in their final judgment they will tell us what we can do," he said.

In Arlington, where he was when told of the court's decision, Governor Preston Smith said the order might cause a complete reorganization of the primary election system.

He added he hoped the court would stay its order until the U.S. Supreme Court issues a ruling on the matter.

The elimination of the filing fees creates the problem of how to finance the elections.

In Dallas, State Sen. Mike McKool said that a special session of the legislature was needed to get a new constitutional filing law. But Gov. Smith reportedly would rather not have a special session since it would have to be presided by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes who is running against Smith.

McKool said that he and the secretary of state warned the state Senate for three months that the now invalidated law was unconstitutional.

"But the Senate was determined to pass the measure," McKool said. "And now those who supported this unconstitutional measure, which contained fees eight to ten times more than other states, have no one to blame but themselves."

"All tied up" usually suggests that one's movements are restricted.

But to us, "all tied up" means good things. For example, this year we'll complete building a transmission line that will enable us to move electric power to the Public Service Company of Oklahoma... maybe even as far away as the East Coast. Or, to bring electric power into our system from far-away places.

Either way, it's a good deal for you — our customer. It means efficiency in the distribution of electric power and it means firming-up dependability.

Yes, "all tied up" means we'll be — so you won't be!

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Peter O'Toole has won a $225,000 judgment against producer Joseph E. Levine and two motion picture companies in connection with his performance in the film "The Lion in Winter."

They said O'Toole was ordered out of two hotels when he became "excessively drunk" and that he often was late for filming.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE, PH. D., M. D.

Bravo to the superb educational TV program outlined by Ella Harilee! Its 13 sessions would delight Sir Walter Scott, greatest English novelist. As he lay dying, he requested "the Book." An attendant asked, "Which book?" Note Scott's stern reply!

CASE 5-578: Ella Harilee is the talented president of the Educational Communication Association (ECA).

"Dr. Crane," she began, "could you serve as Moderator for the 7th television program on 'The Bible as Literature?'"

"We are offering a 13-week series aimed at High School English Teachers.

"This series is to serve as background for an impartial discussion of the Bible and will probably tie-in with colleges for credit there.

"The television stations are furnishing us the time and we shall have several Bible experts on the panel that you are to moderate.

"Your Session No. 7 will cover 'The transmission of the Bible' and will be scrutinized by academicians across the country. "It should cover the linguistic and historical origins of the Bible and the various translations down through the centuries.

"Such discoveries as the Dead Sea Scrolls would also be relevant.

"So could you please be our Moderator for Session No. 7 on TV?"

A standard first aid class began this week with Terry Duenkel, first aid instructor, teaching the class. Fifteen members attended the first class and the second session will be held Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at 300 W. Browning. There will be a make-up session.

Mike McCulley, FAI for Donley Co., is teaching a class of ambulance drivers for their community. McCulley said that he has never seen the interest in first aid as is shown in their community. Would you know what to do in case of an accident? If you are not sure, why don't you enter a class and learn the best way to give first aid.

We continue to receive letters from our service men in Vietnam, thanks to chapter

Texas School Teacher Fired For Refusing To Trim Hair

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (AP) — A young high school teacher credited with doing an "excellent job" in the classroom has been fired because he refused to trim his hair to comply with the school dress code.

School officials also suspended 37 high school pupils Wednesday for three days because they refused to enter the school at the morning bell in protest of the rules on long hair.

Superintendent Jack Frost said another 20 pupils were sent home Monday "for having their hair too long."

David Denner, 23, a 1971 graduate of Ohio State University, refused three times at a Wednesday school board meeting to get his hair cut, and the board voted unanimously to fire him.

Denner had asked to wear a wig to cover his hair and comply with the dress code.

Austin American reporter Gary Schultz said Denner's brown hair brushes the top of his shirt collar.

"While I was student teaching for 10 weeks last year in Ohio I wore a wig and no one noticed it," Denner said. "My hair hung down to my shoulders then."

Principal Fred Weaver said Denner wore a wig Monday, "but it was not the same color as his real hair and it was not neat at all. I told him to cut his hair or resign."

Frost said the school dress code for boys and men teachers calls for hair to be no longer than the collar, not to touch the ears, and for sideburns not to extend below the bottom of the ear.

Frost and Weaver both said Denner was doing an "excellent job" of teaching distributive education—a program where pupils attend school half a day then work half a day.

Student council president Mark Phillips, 17, said he had changed his mind and would support an organized strike against the dress code. "It's the only way left," he said.

Phillips said pupils had asked the board three times this school year to change the dress code, but the board had refused.
