Detroit erupts in violence after victory in World Series

DETROIT (AP) - Hundreds of fans roamed streets blockaded by buses early today as police tried to limit World Series victory parties that left dozens injured, at least 34 arrested and streets littered with burnt-out cars and debris.

Thousands of Detroit fans poured into downtown streets Sunday night when the Tigers beat the San Diego Padres 8-4 to win their first series appearance since 1968

One man among the throng was shot to death, but details of the incident were not available early today, police Lt. Fred Williams

A police car and a taxicab were torched in hours of violence that forced authorities to close a park. an office complex and freeways leading downtown.

The air along Michigan Avenue outside Tiger Stadium smelled of burning tires, marijuana, beer and horse manure soon after the victory. Broken glass crunched underfoot.

A man walked to an overturned taxicab outside the stadium, removed the gasoline tank cap, and tossed in a match. The cab burst into flames with a roar. Later, the crowd tossed a motorcyle into the fire.

"I know there were some rowdy fans tonight," said Pam Collins, 23, of suburban Royal Oak. "But this is the World Series, and you've got to expect some kind of rowdiness.

Scores of police, some clad in riot gear, some brandishing broken boards, struggled until 10

One police car was burned and two sustained major damage, and four officers were treated for minor injuries that did not require hospitalization, Williams said. He said 32 adults and two juveniles were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to robbery.

A man lay in the middle of Michigan Avenue, a piece of sod from the field was tucked knder his head for support. Maureen Nystrom, 20, of Dearborn Heights, said she saw police officers hit the man.

Rescue vehicles could not respond quickly because the crowds made streets surrounding the stadium nearly impassable.

Early today, several hundred people continued honking car horns, waving pennants and shouting, and private parties rocked on. Police used city buses to form blockades on several major streets leading downtown in an effort to keep the crowd from spreading. About three hours after the game, police closed the downtown Renaissance Center, an office, hotel and retail complex. Freeways leading into the downtown area were closed to all but emergency vehicles. Police also closed Hart Plaza, a downtown riverfront park, and dispersed another rowdy crowd

Despite the unrest, Williams said the crowd was more orderly than the one that poured into the streets after the Tigers won the 1968 series.

"They were orderly considering the people," he said. "If you could have seen the number of people down here. They were on the streets for

The 1984 Nobel Prize in medicine was awarded today to three researchers for pioneering work in immunology, including promising research into ways to manipulate the body's natural defenses to treat cancer

London-born Niels K. Jerne, who works in Switzerland, was cited along with West German Georges J.F. Koehler and Argentine Cesar Milstein for their theories on the development and control of the immune system, and the discovery of the principle for producing monoclonal antibodies.

Monoclonal antibodies, in addition to showing promise in halting some forms of cancer, have been used to treat severe combined immune deficiency syndrome, a rare condition in which a child attempt to treat David, a Texas boy who spent his 12 years of life in a sterile plastic bubble, with monoclonal antibodies failed, but other children like David have been saved using monoclonal antibodies

The Karolinska Institute medical faculty, which selects the winners for the Nobel Prize in medicine, described Jerne, 73, as "the leading theoretician in immunology during the last 30 vears." Jerne's theories have shed light on how the immune system develops and outlined the development of modern immunology, they said.

DA considers moving office out of Pampa

By CATHY SPAULDING Staff Writer

After battling with Gray County Commissioners about staff salaries and expenses, District Attorney Guy Hardin wants to move his office to Roberts County.

"I'd say it's quite a possibility," Hardin said. "We're looking at offices in Miami now.

Currently based in Pampa, the district attorney's office serves five counties: Gray, Roberts, Hemphill, Lipscomb and Wheeler. Excluding state funding, the DA's office receives 60 percent of its budget from Gray county and 10 percent from each of the other four counties. Funding is based on a county's population, not its caseload.

Hardin said he could save the counties $9,300 in rent if the office is moved from its current location in the Hughes Building to the Roberts County Courthouse. The DA's staff has operated out of the Hughes building, two blocks away from the Gray County Courthouse. since before Hardin took office in Miami is also more centrally located and would be more accessible to law enforcement officials in the other four counties, claimed Hardin who lives in Shamrock. The rest of his staff lives in Pampa, however, and Hardin said they can carpool 26 miles to Miami

The DA said his office is still under a lease with the Hughes building and that a decision will be made when the lease is up.

Hardin recently clashed with Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy and county commissioners over a cut in an anticipated pay raise for DA's secretary Debbie Ruttman. Commissioners had originally budgeted a 10 percent increase for the secretary, but bumped it back to five percent at a meeting earlier this month.

Commissioners also took no action on Hardin's requests for payment of office expenses. Hardin said he has paid his assistant's mileage and telephone bill with state funding and that the county should pay the expenses.

"It seems like it hurts Judge Kennedy to grant us anything,' Hardin said Monday

Asked if the salary dispute was the reason he wants to move to Miami, he said "it would be foolish to say it wasn't a part of it.

"I have discussed it with my people before this pay thing came up," he said. "We won't be getting any more money there. But we would save the rent.

"It's his decision," Kennedy said, adding that Gray County "does pay 60 percent of his budget. He added that the extra driving

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan could not be reached for comment. However, Pampa officials, who don't have to leave town to handle their affairs with the DA office, would be face with a drive to Miami.

'It would help me tremendously," said Roberts County Sheriff Eddie Brines. "It would save me from having to go plum to Pampa for a case.' While Brines agreed that Miami

Brines said Hardin would also be handling Roberts County felonies and misdemeanors, since there is no county attorney

"But I will not be Miami city attorney," Hardin stressed. "The city's attorney, Kent Sims, has to handle the city problems.' Roberts County Commissioner William Clark said that commissioners had discussed having the DA's office move there, but he did not know if anyone talked with Hardin about it. He added that space in the Roberts County Courthouse can be made available.

In June, 1984, a number of business checks were stolen from various companies in Amarillo. The checks were from Amarillo Seed House, Mini Motors, McMurray Auto, Camper Round Up. Checks from Camper Rounder were passed at K-Mart, Safeway, Frank's Food No. 1 and No. 2 in Pampa. In Sept., 1984, checks were stolen in Amarillo from Automotive Automatic, Douglas & Johnson Motors. Checks from both companies were passed in Pampa at C.R. Anthony, Franks Food No. 23, Furr's Family Center, Ideal No. 2, and Safeway. There is evidence connecting the two incidents. The checks were made payable to persons using the names Mary Alaniz, Bonnie Deny and Delores James. The suspects are described as white females, small to medium build, early 20s. One has a scare under her left eye. It is believed that two adult black males are involved in altering the check by using a check protector stolen in Plainview or Gray County.

The females used stolen driver's license with their photographs inserted. The four have been operating in various cities in Texas, as far south as Waco, and in Kansas

Rebels prep for peace talks

LA PALMA, El Salvador (AP) -Leftist rebel leaders made final preparations at a mountain camp for today's peace talks with President Jose Napoleon Duarte the first such meeting since El Salvador's civil war began five

Two leaders of the guerrillas' political movement arrived from Panama and traveled without incident through government-controlled territory Sunday to reach the camp and link up with a pair of rebel military commanders. Duarte was to leave the capital, San Salvador, this morning in a caravan expected to contain at least 300 vehicles jammed with supporters he invited to join him. Thousands of people already had gathered in La Palma, a northern mountain town of about 2,000 residents, to observe the talks.

Ruben Zamora and Guillermo Ungo, the rebels' political leaders, said they expected no breakthrough today but hoped the talks would lead to continuing negotiations.

'Mostly, we just want to keep talking," said Zamora. "It is an important step, but only a first Zamora and Ungo arrived in San Salvador from Panama aboard a Colombian plane, their first public appearance in their homeland in four years. They were driven north about 50 miles to La Palma by a French diplomat, and spent the night at a guerrilla camp.

A handful of diplomats based in San Salvador greeted them at the airport. No crowds met them and there was no sign of armed security forces at the airport.

Both sides agreed to keep armed forces at least six miles away from La Palma, and to leave security to the Roman Catholic Church, the Red Cross and Salvadoran Boy

Ungo, recalling thousands of political murders during the civil war, criticized the lack of security. Despite all of that, we are here. he told reporters.

Julio Adolfo Rey Prendes. Duarte's chief of staff and a member of the government's negotiating team, said: "He's right, security measures do not exist. The only people to cover us are the press, the church and the people. "We are all taking the same risks," Rey Prendes said. "The president, like all of his delegation, will go without arms.

Rey Prendes, speaking at a news conference Sunday, said Duarte's proposal to the guerrillas would 'be within the constitution." He suggested that the rebels would be asked to participate in free elections

"This is a very divided country," Rey Prendes said. "The wounds will be difficult to heal. But we think there is a deep feeling among all of the people of the country to try to accept each other, even if there are deep wounds."

Banners calling for peace and democracy were strung along Duarte's route, and most of the hundreds of rebel slogans that used to adorn walls, sidewalks and cliffsides in and around La Palma had been painted over.

Sulfites hazardous to asthmatics

NEW YORK (AP) — Sulfites can cause "acute allergic-type reactions" in asthmatics, and restaurants and grocery stores should warn consumers when food products contain the preservative, says a study ordered by the federal government

The study, conducted by the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology on contract for the federal Food and Drug Administration, did not recommend a ban on sulfites but said further study was needed, today's New York Times reported.

The panel cited evidence of allergic reactions among asthmatics who came into contact with sulfites, including flushing, faintness, weakness, hives, headaches, gastrointestinal problems, swelling of the tongue, difficulty swallowing and shortness of breath.

The panel noted that separate studies have estimated that between 5 percent to 10 percent of the 10 million asthmatics in the United States "may be sensitive to orally ingested sufiting agents.'

Among the cases studied by the panel were the deaths of four asthmatics, which the panel said may be attributable to the consumption of sulfites.

But the panel stopped short of urging a ban on the product, which is commonly used in the processing of wine, beer, baked goods and in restaurants to aid in keeping salads looking fresh, saying further studies are needed restaurants post signs if their foods contain sulfites and that grocery stores put warning labels on products with sulfites

The National Restaurant Association has urged its members not to use sulfites, but many do. One major opponent to the use of sulfites, Michael F. Jacobson. executive director of the Center for Science In the Public Interest, said the panel did not go far enough in its recommendations.

Hurricane moves slowly from land

NEW YORK (AP) - Hurricane Josephine was hundreds of miles offshore and moving slowly away from land today after it stalled off the coast, causing minor flooding and causing one death.

A man who fell off a boat in rough waters of the North River in Scituate, Mass., died Sunday, officials said. No other injuries were reported.

The storm, packing winds of 85 mph and pushing gales outward in a 300-mile ring, pushed tides 2 to 4 feet above normal and flooded roads in eastern Long Island and New Jersey before turning to the southeast Sunday night. It had stalled about 225 miles southeast of Atlantic City, N.J., around noon.

At 6 a.m. today, the Atlantic season's third hurricane was centered near latitude 36.5 north, longitude 66.5 west, or about 525 miles east of Norfolk, Va., the National Weather Service said.

The storm was moving to the east-northeast at about 15 mph and was expected to accelerate that movement during the day, the weather service said.

Gale warnings remained in effect today from Manasquan,

N.J., to Cape Cod, Mass. Josephine brought rain to Cape Cod and gusts of 40 mph to 45 mph on Sunday, said Tom Degregorio of the weather service in Boston. George Boone, 38, of Wrentham, Mass., died Sunday morning after falling into the North River, officials said. "He fell over because it was so rough," said Coast Guard Petty Officer Chris Van der Wolk. He said the winds were caused by the difference between a high pressure system northwest of the area and the low pressure of Josephine to the

In New York, the Coast Guard kept extra people on duty along the northeast coast, Lt. j.g. Lance Benton said.

Police in the eastern Long Island towns of Easthampton and Southampton reported winds of about 20 mph and minor flooding. In Southampton, police closed a 1½-mile stretch of Dune Road, covered in places by 31/2 feet of

"There are numerous houses that are surrounded by water," though all area residents save one had cleared out Saturday, said police Officer Andrew Balistreri. While there was no water damage to homes, "if it rises any measurable amount there probably will be," he said.

In Sea Bright, N.J., with winds gusting to 40 mph, a disabled cabin cruiser smashed into a rock jetty shortly after its passengers were rescued

The 26-foot vessel became disabled in high seas Saturday when its battery died and the four crew members spent the night bailing water.

A Coast Guard helicopter rescued them Sunday morning after the vessel had drifted to within 400 yards of the shore, said Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Kevin Cassidy.

Three crew members were taken to a hospital for observation and released, while the fourth refused treatment, Cassidy said.

Plans for an emergency were in place, but concern about Josephine was ''low key,'' said Harold Spedding of the New Jersey office of emergency management.

High water forced the closing of a section of Route 36 in Sea Bright for two hours Sunday.

Peres says Israel preparing plan

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - The Defense Ministry is drawing up plans to pull Israeli soldiers out of southern Lebanon regardless of what opposing Syrian forces do, Prime Minister Shimon Peres

Israel, which has occupied the southern third of Lebanon since invading in June 1982, must make its own decisions rather than seeking promises from Syria, Peres told reporters Sunday after returning from an eight-day trip to the United States

Israeli officials have sought a guarantee that Syrian forces remain behind their front line in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley if Israel withdraws. They are concerned the Syrians or Palestinian guerrillas will move back into southern Lebanon and threaten northern Israel, as they did prior to the invasion.

However, Peres said: "What we need is an Israeli decision and Israel has various options. We cannot hang everything on what the Syrians do.

Peres, who heads a tenuous multiparty coalition government, reportedly is facing opposition in his government to an move toward unilateral withdrawal. Some Israeli newspapers predicted a sharp clash over Lebanon during a Cabinet meeting today.

The leftist newspaper Al Hamishmar quoted a rightist Cabinet member, who was not identified, as saying Syria would have little interest in indirect negotiations if it believed that Israel would decide soon to withdraw Peres said he hoped the soldiers could be completedly out of Lebanon six to nine months after the Cabinet approves a plan.

Israel will continue to use the "good offices of the United States toward reaching a security arrangement that will insure peace the Galilee (northern Israel) and bring our sons home," he said.

In Cairo on Sunday, Egypt asked the United States to sell Jordan Stinger ground-to-air missiles, whose sale was canceled earlier this year because of opposition by Israel and members of the U.S. Congress, Egyptian sources said.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified. said the request was made during meetings between U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and President Hosni Mubarak and other senior Egyptian officials.

Sources said the Egyptians argued that sale of the missiles would be an incentive to bring Jordan's King Hussein into peace talks with Israel.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -The attorney for a 12-year-old girl who shot her best friend to death with a shotgun says he will appeal a jury's finding that the shooting involved delinquent conduct.

youth facility A juvenile court jury ruled Friday that shy, softspoken Patricia did not intentionally kill 11-year-old Kerry Thomas on Sept.

But jurors ruled that she did act "recklessly" and that her actions constituted "delinquent conduct," making her accountable under juvenile statutes.

What does that mean?" Patricia asked defense attorneys Harold Ray and B.J. Warren when the verdict was announced. "Can I go home?"

They told her she could not.

Patricia has been confined in a juvenile detention center since shortly after Kerry's body was found, pending the trial and today's decision by Juvenile Court Judge

Unofficial estimates now show 315 inmates have been stabbed in 1984 in the Texas prison system. the nation's second largest.

Davis, serving a 12-year Bexar County sentence for aggravated assault on a police officer, escape, robbery by threats and robbery by injury, died at the Anderson County Memorial Hospital in Palestine after the early Saturday morning attack, Brown said.

On Sunday, David Paul Alto, 26, died at the Darrington Unit in Rosharon after he was stabbed 24 times, said PHil Guthrie, another TDC spokesman.

Five other inmates found in another area of the Darrington Unit also had stab wounds, Guthrie

Davis and seven other Coffield prisoners, all black, were injured after six Mexican-American inmates attacked them in a dining room at the unit in what prison officials believe was a racially motivated incident, Brown said.

Other Coffield victims were identified as Leon Briscoe, 26, serving an eight-year Jefferson County sentence for burglary and aggravated assault; John Joseph Clark, 24, serving a five-year sentence for aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon out of Tarrant County; Eric Tituef, 22, serving a 15-year Lubbock County sentence for rape; and Roy Sanders, 24, serving a 15-year sentence out of Tarrant County for murder and two counts of attempted murder with a deadly weapon.

Brown said Briscoe and Clark were listed in critical condition Sunday at Anderson County Memorial Hospital, while Tituef was listed in fair condition.

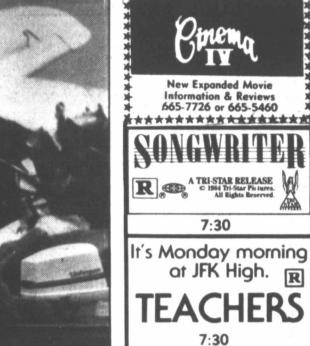

Michael Daly Mitchell, 30, serving a 20-year Tarrant County sentence for aggravated rape of a child and burglary of a habitations Milton John Vital Jr., 22, serving an eight-year sentence for robbery out of Galveston County; and Matthew Fillmore, 31, serving a 20-year Lubbock County sentence for rape were also injured in the attack, Brown said

Mitchell and Vital were listed in good condition Sunday at the nearby Beto II Unit hospital.

Jimmy's not my grandchild

Most people are shocked when they first learn that I am the father of a boy only slightly over a year old.

But for me, being the father of an active, 15 - month -old boy when other people my age have several grandchildren is a very interesting

In recent years not too many people who have grown children, my oldest is 30, also have a "toddler" who calls them Daddy running around the house

But, any student of history should know that in the past older people have had children when even older than I am. My grandfather was nearly 60 when his youngest son was born.

It has been quite an experience "starting life over" with a new family, but it has been rewarding.

While most people think I must be crazy, I have enjoyed the past months relearning skills, which I hadn't used in more than two decades, of coping with a baby. One thing about it, this is one worry about getting old or slowing down. Keeping up with Jimmy as he runs from one thing to another keeps me too busy — when I'm at home - to worry about growing old. (My wife says I'm 20 years younger than I was when we met.) I find myself making more time to be with this youngster than I did with my two children who are now grown. He is the same age that his sister was when I first started with The Pampa News 29 years ago. He also has a grown brother, 25, who was born after I transferred to a Freedom Newspaper in Ohio Could it be that when a person is older they enjoy children more or is it because that when my daughter was a baby I was too busy learning my profession and with other matters to take time to really enjoy her, and later her brother? I don't know the reason, all I know now is that I want to watch this young member of my family grow and develop. I can't seem to find as much time as I would like to be with him We also have two other boys at home, my wife's sons who are 12

The youngest member of our clan made the news when he arrived on the scene because of his size — 11 pounds and 3 ounces. (He was several weeks premature and I often wonder what his size would have been if he had been a full-term baby.) Needless to say that he continues to be a large, active young man who now thinks he is as grownup as his older brothers and wonders why Daddy won't let him do the things the big boys do When people have asked me about having another child at my age Jimmy's mother is younger than I am — I explain that since I don't have any grandchildren I decided to raise one of my own. I guess it is a blessing too. When grandparents have to send the grandchildren home to their parents, they usually miss the little rascals. I don't have to share my little one with anyone but his mother and brothers

And, what has been interesting during the past 15 months has been and continues to be, studying the reaction of people who ask me if Jimmy is my grandchild. When I explain that "yes, he is a grand child but he is my son," their reaction ranges from astonishment to

But, because of my age and health problems I also realize that as he becomes older I will be limited in the activities I can join him in. I know that I won't be able to play very much baseball or football with him or engage in very many other activities of that nature.

While such activities will be limited, I do plan to try and instill in him my love of the outdoors and also interest him in less physical activities such as model railroading and photography

One of these days I am going to find sufficient room to launch another model railroad layout and unpack model equipment that has been stored for several years. Right now, though, I guess I had better wait for a while since all the youngster wants to do with his toys is throw them around. I can visualize what would happen if he ever got his hands on a highly detailed, scale model steam locomotive.

To answer an often asked question, would I do it again, the answer is both yes and no. If I didn't have a small child around the house, yes I would want one. But to the question about my wife and I having another child, the answer is NO. One is enough! Parker is city editor of The Pampa News.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Cold war fears are overblown

So President Reagan and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko have gotten together and exchanged platitudes. Does this mean the beginning of a thaw in relations between the two superpowers? Is it simply posturing on the world stage during an election year? Does it mean anything at all.

It has become a commonplace to say that relations between the United States and the Soviet Union have been at their lowest ebb since World War II (or some bench mark). If you judge by the heat of rhetoric or the number of backslapping sessions, it would be easy to agree. However, two analysts at Stanford University's Hoover Institution argue that relations are not bad at all.

"The real relations," write Mikhail Berstam and Constantin Galskoy, "judged by both the political stability and by the extent of economic cooperation, have improved dramatically.

No new crises have arisen between the superpowers since the 1979 Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and the downing of the Korean airliner. The leaders of the two nations haven't gotten together, in part because the Soviet leaders may not have been up to it, and the air is filled with background noise about Evil Empires and Imperialist Warmongers. But Berstam and Galskoy urge us to look beneath the surface.

Trade between the two countries during 1982 and 1983 increased 13 percent over the 1980-81 time period. The 1983 grain agreement increased minimum grain quotas from six million metric tons to nine million-or 50 percent. Soviet food imports from the United States in the last quarter of 1983 reached $1.65 billion, one of the highest levels on record.

The Soviets boycotted the Los Angeles Olympics, but they sent a high-ranking trade delegation to New York at the end of May for a meeting of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council. The Soviets there said they wanted to see U.S.-Soviet trade reach $22 billion soon—almost 10 times the current level.

Frederic Bastiat's dictum that if goods do not cross borders, armies will, may not be invariably accurate. but it's a fairly reliable guide for those who would peer beneath the surface of political posturing. Important difference and conflicting interests divide the United States and the Soviet Union, and the leaders for the two countries are predictably childish and superficial. Perhaps, however, talk of a new Cold War is overblown.

"It's OKTOBERFEST, dummy!"

Berry's World

William Murchison

If he'd told the truth

The presidential debate in Louisville, whatever else it showed (which wasn't much), demonstrated a vexing truth about the Social Security system.

The truth is that Social Security has two apparent purposes - to relieve human distress and to give Democratic political candidates the chance to keen like banshees about "the Republican threat to Social Security." It was meet and right that, when asked to identify Walter Mondale's greatest distortion of the evening, President Reagan picked Social Security. Mondale, during the course of the evening. charged repeatedly that Reagan was out to savage the program.

It was awful to hear the gentleman go on Already Reagan had done dire things to Social Security. If re - elected, he would probably do yet more dire things. No hint that anything might be amiss with Social Security - like a smaller share of the population supporting a larger share through ever - larger taxes. No mention - Reagan valiantly corrected the omission - of Jimmy Carter's $227 billion incease in Social Security taxes: which "saved" the system so well it had to be saved all over again in 1983 with more tax increases

I mean, it's vexing, don't you think? Here's a major problem - a benefit system so expensive that neither my own generation nor the one coming along will receive anything commensurate with the benefits our parents have enjoyed. And one can't talk about it. Because so soon as one tries, up pops a Democratic candidate to shriek about Republicans - who - would - snatch -bread - from - windows - and - orphans.

Social Security was far from the only issue Sunday night that Mondale chose to distort. The federal deficit was another. How horrified was Mondale that the federal deficit is "$260 - billion." Well, actually it's nothing of the sort. The current deficit is likely to come in at $170 billion or less. The "$260 billion deficit" is a projection from the Congressional Budget Office, but it sounds good, meaning bad, so why not use it?

Why not indeed, except that the CBO's record for accuracy approximates that of the Texas Rangers' pitching staff. In 1981 CBO misguessed the deficit by 176 percent, in 1982 by 269 percent. From 1979 to 1983, CBO's deficit projections have erred on average by 104 percent

What the CBO - and Mondale - refuse to believe is that lower taxes and economic opportunity make people work harder for themselves, hence create more wealth for the government to tax

Perhaps it's no wonder that such a candidate should believe that a tax hike is just what the country needs. Mondale's tax position is, well, "creative" must be the word. He's all for raising the middle class' taxes, yet he chivies Reagan for his "secret plan" to do the same thing he himself proposes! Reagan was refreshingly outspoken in declaring his opposition to new taxes. It's hard to see how Mondale can trot this old plug much longer around the track

Nor is that all. The president put the blame for the deficit squarely where it belongs - on spending. Various pinch - pennies, were they so minded, could lash Reagan for trying insufficiently hard to reduce spending. Mondale was indignant chiefly over "$1,700 coffeepots" for the military: of which one presumes the military must own a lot if there exists a $170 - billion deficit.

The debate showed off Mondale the man to good advantage. He was both combative and seemingly more at ease than Reagan; which stands to reason, since the debate format is geared to help the challenger, the man with no record of his own to defend. The strategy is to look good by planting a few sharp kicks on the incumbent's shins. Mondale valiantly tried. If he'd been telling the truth, it might even have hurt.

Today in History

Today is Monday, Oct. 15, the 289th day of 1984. There are 77 days left in the year

Today's highlight in history: Twenty years ago, on Oct. 15, 1964, it was announced that Soviet leader Nikita S. Khrushchev had been removed from office. Khrushchev was succeeded as premier by Aleksei N. Kosygin and as Communist Party secretary by Leonid I. Brezhnev.

On this date:

Ten years ago: Former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman opened his defense at the Watergate cover-up trial by putting the blame for his own actions and the cover-up on former President Richard M. Nixon.

Five years ago: Rebel army units in El Salvador overthrew the military government of Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero.

One year ago: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko began two days of talks with his West German counterpart, Hans-Dietrich Genscher, aimed at breaking the deadlock over medium-range missile talks. However, no progress was o runs Soviet Union?

NEW YORK (NEA) communism's attractions (they are not numerous) has always been the contention that at least it does away with the phenomenon of classes those social layers, so evident in all other forms of society, which so often result in certain privileged groups exploiting their fellow men. As Marx analyzed capitalist societies, the bourgeois class, by virtue of its ownership of property, contrives to exploit the workers (or proletariat), who have only their labor to sell. If a capitalist society can be overthrown and replaced by a socialist one, ruled by a "dictatorship of the proletariat," the class struggle will by definition end (since there will no longer be two classes, but only one), and everyone will work constructively together. The Soviet Union makes a serious pretense of being an authentically socialist society, well along the road to this utopia. Practically nobody in the Soviet Union itself really believes this, and only the most invincibly naive elsewhere; but the question "Who really runs the Soviet Union?" is nevertheless a good one, and the true answer is remarkably elusive. In Stalin's day, of course, the top banana was Stalin — no doubt about it. But this was more a product of Stalin's personal ascendancy than of a systemic bias in favor of a single despot. Today the summit of the Soviet system seems to be occupied by an amorphous committee, consisting of the members of the Politburo (but perhaps not quite all members of the Politburo) and arguably certain others as well: a few high-ranking military men, for example. Below this top group, running a country the size of the Soviet Union manifestly must require the efforts of hundreds of thousands of other talented people as well. But who are they?

It is the very considerable achieve-ment of Michael Voslensky, an expatriate Russian professor (of history) now living in Munich, that he has gone to the trouble of identifying and describing these people for Western readers — the first time, as far as I know, that this has ever been done. For sound historical and other reasons, Voslensky calls this elite the "momenklatura." Its dirty little secret is that it is, in fact, a new and highly parasitical class, based on power rather than property but exploiting the class below it (the workers and peasants) in the good old-fashioned way. The Soviet Union isn't "classless" after all.

Voslensky may spend a little too much time early on in his book ("Nomenklatura," published by Doubleday) showing how soon and how widely communist practice diverged from Marx's theories, but his description of what happened is wholly convincing: Stalin, as general secretary of the party, controlled its apparatus. The apparatus produced the new administrators and developed rapidly into a new class. Successive purges then replaced the original revolutionaries (the "old Bolsheviks") with careerists, who settled down to enjoy running the country.

And do they enjoy it! The nomenk-laturists (whom Voslensky estimates, including their wives and children, at about 3 million people, or less than 1.5 percent of the whole population) shop at special stores for goods unob-tainable elsewhere, spend their holidays at special resorts, consult special doctors when they are ill, send their children to special schools, and are even buried in special cemeteries when they die. Do these busy hedonists want war?

"Not in the least," says Voslensky. "Nowhere have I met a ruling class so preoccupied with the safety of its own skin, so concerned for its own prosperity and careers, as the nomenklatura.... (It) attacks the weak and fears the strong; it kicks the timid and retreats from the resolute.... It is ready to conquer the world if it is allowed to do so, and to extricate itself if it meets resistance.' Sounds like a typical neighborhood bully, doesn't it?

Dear Abby

Positive attitude gives woman

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: "Mad in Dallas" complained because the court increased her husband's child support payments from $270 a month to $330. She says her husband's exwife lives in a $100,000 condo, drives a Mercedes and shops at Neiman's, while she, her husband and small baby are pinching pennies in a cramped trailer. "Mad" must have known her husband was obligated to pay child support before she married him, and she certainly knew about it before she decided to have a child. Many of my friends either pay child support or receive it, and not one thinks the amount decided by the court is fair! (Myself included.)

Let's look at the other side: I am a single working mother who receives $150 per month in child support. I pay for child care in order to go to work at a job where the government takes one-third of my salary. Sometimes I don't get child support-my ex," who lives out of state, owes me

$1,000 in back payments. Abby, I thank God every day that I am alive, have a healthy daughter, a roof over my head, a car to drive, a job to go to, and food to eat (even if it's only beans and wieners). On my bathroom mirror I have written

"COMPARED TO WHAT?" I am grateful for what I have, instead of angry about what I don't

I would suggest that "Mad in Dallas" change her attitude because that's the only thing in her life she can control. This may not help anyone else, but it makes it easier for me to sleep, and I'm the one I have to live with. ONE DAY AT A TIME

DEAR ONE: Your positive attitude and the absence of bitterness and anger are commendable. Your letter may help child support victims who have been dealt a raw deal. Sometimes we have to be reminded of what we already know. Thanks for writ-

DEAR BRUCE WILLIAMS: I know what you think about chain letters, but I received one today that sounds so good I'm tempted to participate. After my wife and I discussed it, we decided to let you make the decision.

I don't know why I received the chain letter or from whom, but I'm supposed to send $5 to the top four people on the list; they in turn will send me a report on how to buy real estate, recipes and other things.

The reason for the reports and the recipes, according to the sender, is that it makes it legal: They're selling something, so it's not really a chain

I, in turn, will be provided with extra copies of the letter to send to people who will send me hundreds of envelopes containing $5 each. How can I go wrong? We're invest-cost and nothing that you've said persuades me to change my opinion. Let's face it, where do you think these things come from? Where do they have their genesis? Somebody had to start the letter off and here's the way it works: The people who start the letters never sent anybody any money. They create phony names at the bottom.

put their own names near the top, then send out the letters. From that point it really doesn't matter to them what happens, does it? And you, my friend, have just lost

Tigers win, wire-to-wire

Tigers and their fans no longer have to worry about folding in 1984.

"The Detroit Tigers have proved we are world champions from start to finish," Kirk Gibson, their slugging right fielder said. "After our 35-5 start, it seemed like everybody wanted us to blow the lead. But we never wilted under the pressure.

"Then everybody thought we would lose the playoffs, but we

On a moody, clammy Sunday afternoon in downtown Detroit, the Tigers' sluggers pounded the Padres, California's laid-back newcomers to the World Series, all around their 72-year-old ballpark.

And as night claimed Michigan Avenue, hard by the stadium, fans who would soon celebrate in zealous fashion, the San Diego firemen who had performed so heroically in one losing cause after another finally threw gasoline on the Tigers' firepower.

Gibson hit a two-run homer off Mark Thurmond, the first and last starter the Padres would employ in the five-game series.

By the fourth inning, San Diego had tied the score. A momentary lapse in the field gave the Tigers a run in the fifth. But two innings later, the Padres, miracle workers in the National League playoffs, were still very much alive, trailing only by that slender run.

Then their manager, Dick Williams, turned to a strategy almost as old as the sport itself. He pulled his left-handed pitcher and put in a right-hander to face Parrish, a right-handed hitter.

It was Rich Gossage, who had signed a million-dollar free-agent contract at the start of the year and had paid dividends with 25 saves and 10 wins - who had worked seven World Series games encompassing 12 innings (one of each on Saturday) and had not allowed a run.

His first pitch to Parrish was a strike. His second one landed in the left-field seats.

One inning later, after Kurt Bevacqua of the Padres had joined Reggie Jackson as a designated hitter with two home runs in one World Series, the Tiger lead was 5-4. Detroit had two runners on and

Showdown time for SWC leaders

AP Sports Writer

It's showdown time for Southwest Conference football leaders Southern Methodist and Houston in Texas Stadium Saturday while Arkansas travels to Austin hoping to survive by upsetting the Texas Longhorns. SMU and Houston, both 2-0, just did make it. SMU had to score two touchdowns in the final minutes to subdue Baylor 24-20 while Houston needed three field goals to survive Texas A&M 9-7.

Texas, of course, was involved in a 15-15 tie with the Oklahoma Sooners.

In other games, TCU advanced its SWC ledger to 2-1 by bombing Rice 45-24 and Arkansas blanked Texas Tech 24-0.

The SWC slate this week also includes Baylor at Texas A&M. Texas Tech at Rice, and North Texas at TCII

Texas Coach Fred Akers said his Longhorns still deserve to be the No. ranked 1 team in the nation after tying No. 3 Oklahoma 15-15 but the Sooners say no way.

"It's like being a boxing champion," said Akers. "You can't take the title away from the champion unless you beat him."

"Super Bowl victories are great. but I've never been associated with a greater victory than this one," Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll said after his team's 20-17 triumph Sunday over the previously undefeated 49ers.

That result left the NFL with only one unbeaten team, the Miami Dolphins, 7-0 after a 28-10 thumping of the hapless Oilers, who lost their seventh straight

"This was a tougher loss than the others because we played very, very hard," Houston Coach Hugh Campbell said."We tackled well, blocked well and executed well. We just played a team that was better than us ... and I think that's an understatement.'

In tonight's action, Green Bay visits Denver.

The key play for the Steelers was an interception and return of 43 yards by linebacker Bryan Hinkle in the final minutes. That set up a 21-yard field goal by Gary Anderson with 1:42 remaining. 🛰

San Francisco's Ray Wersching missed a 37-yard field goal attempt with seven seconds left, after the 49ers drove 54 yards on a series of passes by Joe Montana.

Dan Marino, the NFL's top passer, exploited Houston's porous secondary for 321 yards and three touchdowns to lead the Dolphins. Marino, boosting his season totals to 2,074 yards and 20 TDs, completed 25 of 32 passes. Redskins 34, Cowboys 14 Joe Theismann threw three touchdown passes and John Riggins rushed for a personal regular-season high of 165 yards and became only the fifth man in NFL history to rush over 10,000 yards as the Redskins crushed Dallas for their fifth straight

The Washington defense shut down the Cowboys' running game after Tony Dorsett, who was held under 100 yards for the 10th straight game, gained 41 yards on the first series. And they Rams 28, New Orleans 10 Eric Dickerson ran for 164 yards touchdown passes as Los Angeles dominated the disorganized Saints.

Saints Coach Bum Phillips alternated quarterbacks Richard Todd and Ken Stabler as well as running backs Earl Campbell and George Rogers, series by series through the first half, and the Saints could muster no offensive spark at all through those first 30 minutes. No. 1 spot up for grabs

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Sports Writer Will there even be a No. 1 college football team this week? Coach Fred Akers of top-rated Texas wants to maintain the status quo, Don James of runner-up Washington doesn't want the pressure of being No. 1 as yet and Barry Switzer of third-ranked Oklahoma says he'll "let y'all (the media) decide that.

So maybe Jeff Ward, whose 32-yard field goal as time ran out gave Texas a 15-15 tie with Oklahoma, has the right idea.

"What they should do is not have any No. 1 team this week." Ward says. "We (Texas and Oklahoma) should both be ranked No. 2 and we should go from 2 through 20.

There seems to be as much difference of opinion about No. 1 as there was in the controversial Texas-Oklahoma shootout, which ended with Switzer claiming that the officials "actually took the game away from us."

Akers politicked that Texas "should stay just where we are. The last I heard, you stay No. 1 unless you lose. That's the way it is in championship fights."

But the very thought of being No.

1 had James squirming. "It's not a good place to be at this time," he said, remembering that Auburn, Miami, Nebraska and now possibly Texas already have reached the top this season, only to be found wanting.

The challengers will all learn their fate tonight when The AP releases this week's ratings.

Asbestos victims seek $15 million

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Asbestos workers in East Texas are struggling to collect $15 million in damages from South African and British mining firms that supplied raw asbestos to a Tyler factory between 1954 and 1972.

Asbestos is mineral used for making fireproof materials such as electrical insulation, roofing and

The $15 million judgment was awarded last year by U.S. District Judge William Steger. It provides payments of as much as $120,00 apiece to 160 ailing asbestos workers and others affected by it.

But the money may be impossible or difficult to collect.

Both the British and South African firms named in the $15 million default judgment claim the U.S. courts have no jurisdiction and refused to appear in 1983 when the case was scheduled for trial, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday.

The U.S. Justice Department and the FBI have tried to track down the asbestos suppliers and attach their assets in the United States. They have also hired British attorneys to pursue the case in foreign courts.

Many of the workers, however, believe they will die before the case is resolved.

"The money won't do no good when I'm dead and gone," Mary Johnson, 66, told the Times Herald. She has been diagnosed as suffering asbestos. "I seriously doubt we'll ever collect it," added

John Hall, another asbestos worker involved in the 10-year-old suit. Thirteen of the 160 workers have died since the lawsuit was filed in 1974. Dozens more are disabled by lung diseases they claim were caused by exposure to asbestos.

The lawsuit has been dragged through a maze of corporate subterfuge. In some cases, the Times Herald reported, the South African asbestos was routed through "dummy corporations" chartered in Portugal and Lichtenstein, according to Tyler attorney Blake Bailey, who represents many of the 160 plaintiffs.

'It was a well organized cloak-and-dagger scheme," Bailey said. "It's like a James Bond movie, but there's been more people killed in this case than any James Bond movie.'

Five Justice Department attorneys in Washington have spent months trying to untangle the case. The Justice Department also has hired British lawyers to pursue the $15 million claim in British and South African courts.

The $15 million default judgment was against EGNEP, Ltd., a South African mining firm, and Cape Asbestos, Ltd., a British firm that sold and marketed the asbestos.

Steger ruled the companies were negligent in not providing warnings that their products were

A British court will now decide if EGNEP and Cape Asbestos must pay the damages.

But the $15 million claims is but a small fraction of the asbestos litigation arising from the Pittsburgh Corning Plant. At least 2,400 personal injury suits have been filed in federal court by workers and non-workers since the plant closed in 1972. Hundreds of claims have already been settled.

The Pittsburgh Corning factory used South African asbestos to make insulation for pipes during its 18 years in operation. "I dug the stuff from sacks and fed it into machines," said Earnest L. Stanley, 67, of Mineola.

Few leads in student slaying

DALLAS (AP) - Police continued their search today for the killer of a Southern Methodist University junior who was found stabbed to death early Saturday in her condominium near the SMU

The nude body of Angela M. Samota, 20, was found on a bed in her apartment shortly before 2 a.m. Saturday, officials said. She had been stabbed in the chest five to 10 times, police said. There were few leads in the investigation and no suspects in the slaying, police said.

They said they would continue interviewing friends and former boyfriends of Miss Samota, who attended the Hockaday School and whose family lives in Amarillo.

A girlfriend of Miss Samota told police the young woman had been threatened before Saturday by a male friend, the Dallas Morning News reported.

Homicide investigator P.E. Jones said police were investigating the tip but that it was unconfirmed

Security increased amid bombing fear

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Police are tightening security around Britain's top politicians to guard against the threat of more IRA attacks like the bombing at Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's convention hotel.

Police warned top political, military and judicial figures Sunday to take precautions against possible future strikes on the British mainland by the Irish Republican Army. Mrs. Thatcher and Neil Kinnock, the leader of Britain's opposition Labor Party, were given beefed-up security guards.

"We do not discount the possibility that a unit could still be in this country with the intention of causing more incidents of this nature," said Commander William Hucklesby, chief of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist branch.

The IRA took responsibility for the pre-dawn bombing Friday at the Grand Hotel in Brighton, where Mrs. Thatcher and her Cabinet were attending a Conservative Party convention. The blast killed four people, wounded 32 and narrowly missed Mrs. Thatcher,
