Kopechne Case Revived By Grand Jury

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Today, eight and one-half months after Mary Joe Kopechne's body was brought out of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's black sedan at the bottom of a tidal pond here, a grand jury sought to find if grounds exist for pointing an accusatory finger.

The newest chapter in the saga of triumph and tragedy revolving about the Kennedys of Massachusetts was set in the antique courthouse of this three-century-old former major whaling port.

The Dukes County grand jury, nearing the end of its one-year term had elected to sit in special session to investigate Miss Kopechne's death July 18 in a car Kennedy says he drove off a narrow, unrailed wooden bridge after taking a wrong route on the way to a ferry.

One school of geusswork among local court followers held the jury was meeting just to see whether there was anything worth investigating—a sort of exploratory operation. Another was that there would have been no call by the foreman for a special session if something were not in the wind.

The 21 grand jury members— it takes a vote of 12 to indict— have not seen the 746-page transcript of a closed door inquest held here in January into the death of Miss Kopechne.

Punishment For Piracy Up To Korea

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan left to North Korea today the prosecution of nine radical hijackers whose 83½-hour air piracy ended Friday in Pyongyang, the Communist capital.

Official broadcasts from the North called the Japanese youths "strangers who came uninvited" and said "our original concern was with take appropriate steps after necessary investigation."

The hijackers are members of the Red army faction of the Japanese Communist party, a group so radical it has called for the overthrow of the governments of Moscow, Peking and North Korea.

Japan thanked the North Koreans for returning Sunday the three crewmen of the hijacked airliner and the hijackers' hostage, Vice Transport Minister Shinjiro Yamamura.

Thwarted Kidnapers Murder Ambassador

Leave Body In Hills In Abandoned Shack

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI)—Their ransom demand unfilled, terrorist kidnapers murdered the West German ambassador to Guatemala and left his body in a deserted shack Sunday in the hills above Guatemala City.

"The men who kidnaped Count Karl von Spreti last Tuesday carried out this horrible crime," a government announcement said, expressing its "deepest condolences" to the Bonn government.

The assassination, the first in the recent wave of kidnappings between West Germany and Guatemala almost to relations between West Germany and Guatemala almost to the breaking point.

Over official protests from Bonn officials, Guatemala had refused to release 22 political prisoners and pay $700,000 ransom for Von Spreti.

"The government of Guatemala has shown itself unable to insure the necessary safety of the diplomats accredited to it," West German Chancellor Willy Brandt said in El Paso, Tex.

A peasant discovered the body 10 miles outside this capital in a deserted shack at the 6,000-foot level. Newsmen who arrived later said Von Spreti was shot several times in the head.

He was lying face down with his eyeglasses in hand. Officials said the 62-year-old diplomat had been murdered Sunday afternoon. Police set up roadblocks around the deserted shack.

"If we don't succeed in putting an end to this sort of terrorist activity, then the cooperation between states will be seriously threatened," Brandt said in a written statement to newsmen in Texas.

Brandt canceled a visit to Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, scheduled for today and ordered a West German air force plane to take Von Spreti's body home for a state funeral.

The body was found about the same time the slain diplomat's wife Countess Helene Sabine von Spreti, arrived in Guatemala from Lisbon. She had been on a sea cruise when he was kidnaped Tuesday.

Sheppard Dies At Age 46
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Sam Sheppard, who was freed from the Ohio Penitentiary after serving 10 years for conviction of the murder of his wife, died today. He was 46.

Mrs. Coleen Strickland Sheppard, bride of the former osteopath who was currently promoting a career in wrestling, said he had been ill for about three days with what was believed to be the flu.

The body was taken to University Hospital. The couple was married last Oct. 21 after Sheppard obtained a divorce from his second wife, the former Ariane Tebbenjohanns.

Sheppard was convicted in 1954 of killing his first wife, Marilyn, but the conviction was overturned in a retrial. Sheppard was freed in 1964 and married Ariane in July of that year after a pen-pal relationship that started while he was in prison.

The Sheppards were divorced last October a few days before his third marriage. The current Mrs. Sheppard is the daughter of George Strickland, Sheppard's wrestling manager.

Sheppard's wrestling career had been highly successful and he had donated large portions of his winnings to charity. Late last year he said he was happy with his participation in the sport.

"Wrestling is my sport, medicine is my career," he said. "I've never felt better in all my life." "What we'd like to do, Strickland and I, is make wrestling a real sport again. We'd like to present an example of physical fitness after 40."

AUSTIN (UPI)—A 27-year-old Austin man was shot and killed by police early today as he ran from a building in far north Austin.

Police identified the man as James Arthur Hutchins, 27, who also had identified himself at times as James Arthur Hutchins.

Police records showed that Hutchins had been arrested several times dating back to the time when he was a juvenile.

Carswell Survives Kill Move

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Judge G. Harrold Carswell survived a move to kill his Supreme Court nomination today and both Republican and Democratic leaders predicted the Senate would confirm him Wednesday.

Senators refused to send the nomination back to the Judiciary Committee—a device employed by opponents of the 50-year-old Florida federal judge in an indirect attempt to kill the appointment.

By previous agreement, the Senate will vote Wednesday on confirmation.

In advance of the vote on the recomittal move, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and his Republican counterpart, Hugh Scott, predicted Carswell would win both today's and Wednesday's votes.

Today's vote was a victory for both Carswell and President Nixon, whose first choice for the vacant court seat, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., was rejected by the Senate.

Congress Tackles Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress tackled the negotiated postal pay package today with leaders predicting quick passage of a pay raise, but certain defeat for President Nixon's proposal to raise the six cent stamp to a dime.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., called his Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee into session today to hear Postmaster General Winton M. Blount outline the "full dimensions" of the agreement negotiated with postal unions last week.

"Congress will begin work within this agreement," McGee said. He predicted quick approval of a 6 per cent pay raise, retroactive to Dec. 27 for 5.9 million federal workers. The increase, part of the negotiated package, covers most federal employees from mailmen to the military, and is estimated to cost $2.4 billion a year. It was negotiated after the nation's first postal strike.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would try to push the pay raise through the Senate this week and send it to the House.

Youth Has Its Fling In Baseball

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Youth had its fling today at the traditional opener of the 1970 major league baseball season: David Eisenhower, 22, substituted for the President to throw out the first ceremonial pitch for the Washington-Detroit game.

David was a stand-in for both his father-in-law, President Nixon, and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Eisenhower, an avid baseball fan, is the youngest person ever invited to preside at the Washington opener since President William Howard Taft inaugurated the symbolic first pitch tradition in 1910.

Through Tragedy Pampa Youth Evolves Philosophy For Life

By BEN KECK News Staff Writer

Two kids on a fishing trip. A misty Oklahoma night. A car out of control. A 16-year-old Pampa youth pinned in the wreckage for three hours.

Then there were sirens. Tommy McDonald was in critical condition. But he lived.

"For three months, I didn't realize what was wrong," said McDonald. There was nothing but despair. "I didn't know where to turn."

Now, five years later Tommy McDonald has turned. He thinks in terms of goals, education and a career.

"I've been attending college through correspondence courses," he said. "Next September, I begin in-residence studies at the University of Illinois."

McDonald said he is taking basic courses through correspondence and is majoring in psychology.

"I want to work for prison reform," he said. "The prison's in this country aren't rehabilitating convicts. Criminals are only being caged. It's really a matter of public vengeance, not rehabilitation. I want to help change that."

McDonald said there are a lot of changes that need to be made in America.

"Things can't be changed by violence, though," he said. McDonald said that violence is the most destructive way of defeating any cause.

"Civil disobedience is a different thing," he said. "Protesting is the best way to bring about change—but only if it's peaceful and within the law."

Eggers Denies Receiving Money From Oil Tanker Lease Deal

AUSTIN (UPI)—Paul Eggers, the Republican candidate for governor of Texas, defended Sunday his dealings with an oil tanker that has come under fire by a U.S. senator.

The senator claimed Eggers, as a member of the U.S. Treasury Department, granted the tanker special privileges. Eggers called the charges "ridiculous" when he appeared on the television interview program "Capitol Eye."

Treasury Secretary David Kennedy suspended a waiver signed by Eggers after the waiver was attacked by Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md.

The waiver permitted the tanker, Samsienena, leased by the Union Oil Company from Barracuda Tanker Corp. of Bermuda, to operate between Alaska and California. The tanker flies a Liberian flag and without the waiver Eggers signed the ship could not steam between domestic ports.

Eggers also said he never received any campaign contributions from any of the officials of Union Oil and he did not discuss the tanker's waiver with presidential assistant, Peter Flanigan, a former associate of the corporation which owns the ship.

Eggers said the waiver specifically prohibited Flanigan from holding any stock in an American corporation which was to be established to operate the tanker.

Eggers said he signed the waiver as a member of the Treasury team.

He also said Treasury Department officials "are not worried and we're ready to put our cards on the table."

W. Germany Severs Ties

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI)—West Germany all but severed diplomatic relations with Guatemala today following the murder Sunday of the West German ambassador who was shot in the head by terrorists and left in a deserted shack in the hills above Guatemala City.

West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel announced in Bonn he was withdrawing all West German diplomats from Guatemala and said he assumed Guatemala would want to withdraw its ambassador from Bonn.

Scheel said the Bonn government "regrets the attitude of the Guatemalan authorities who could have been expected to do all in their power to arrange the release of Ambassador Count Karl von Spreti before he was murdered."

In El Paso, Texas, West German Chancellor Willy Brandt issued a statement Sunday condemning the government of Guatemala for being unable to control the rebels who killed Von Spreti.)

Former King Doesn't Rue 36 Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI)—On Oct. 11, 1936, the former King Edward VIII of England dedicated to the woman he loved. Over the weekend at a formal White House dinner he said he had no regrets. His life, he said, has been happy with a former Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore.

In a poignant toast to resident Nixon, the 75-year-old duke of Windsor said: "I have had the good fortune to have a wonderful American girl to consent to marry me. We had 30 years of loving care, and devotion and companionship—something I have cherished above all else."

The duke and duchess were invited to the White House on Oct. 1, 1942, during the Roosevelt administration. The duke also recalled a previous visit 30 years ago when he came to see the ailing Woodrow Wilson and paid a call on Wilson in his bedroom.

Girl Not Sexually Molested

DENISON, Tex. (UPI)—An autopsy revealed Sunday Laurie Stevens, 11, was killed when someone fired six bullets into her head, torso, arms and legs. The examination also showed the girl was not sexually molested.

The girl disappeared Wednesday on her way home from school. Her body was found Saturday four miles northwest of Denison. The autopsy showed the girl was killed sometime Wednesday.

The girl's death was similar to that of 10 of Donna Marie Golph of Sherman, Tex. The Golph girl, 7, was murdered 10 miles from Laurie's home.

Laurie's body was found by a search party led by M. Sgt. David Grayson of Perrin Air Force Base. Grayson's often babysat for Laurie's mother.

Footprints were found near the girl's body.

"I assure you this case takes precedence over all others," Grayson County Sheriff Woody Branton said. "We think there is a possibility that this one and the Golph killing are connected."

The Golph girl's body was dropped near a seldom used road after it was run over by an automobile several times.

"We are receiving a lot of calls about cars in the area and are checking cars where we not able to identify the owners," the sheriff said. "We are checking past records and making a routine investigation."

Glenn Stevens, father of an 11-year-old girl murdered near Denison last week, told police Sunday he received an obscene telephone call Saturday night shortly after he returned from Denison.

Stevens said the caller asked to speak to his 2-year-old daughter and when Stevens would not let the girl come to the phone the caller began using obscene language.

Stevens said his telephone number is unlisted.

Police said they could not directly connect the call with the murder of Laurie Stevens, 11, who was apparently kidnapped on her way home from school Wednesday and shot to death. Her nude, bullet-pierced body was found Saturday near a little used road.

Stevens and Laurie's mother, who lives in Denison, are divorced.

Wilson, a former football star at Southern Methodist University, has been charged with five criminal violations stemming from the alleged kidnaping Aug. 20.

Wilson, of Borger, Tex., was freed recently on $5,000 bond after pleading innocent to the charges of aggravated assault, kidnaping, false imprisonment and unlawful taking of a vehicle.

Mrs. Wilson filed annulment proceedings Jan. 16 against her former and present husband. The woman claimed Wilson, 25, abducted her just as she was to marry Dallas attorney John Curtis.

Lunsford set bond at $500 on the shoplifting charge and $500 on the gun charge. Templeton was in county jail shortly before noon today in lieu of bond.

Apollo 13 Spacemen To Have Comfortable Ride To Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Thanks to some new equipment and a new computer program, the Apollo 13 astronauts will have a more comfortable time on the moon and some extra help landing there.

The Apollo 13 command ship Odyssey and moon landing craft Aquarius are almost identical spacecraft to the ones used for Apollo 11 and Apollo 12 the first two lunar landings. A new computer routine in Aquarius is the only major spacecraft change.

The new program allows Apollo 13 commander James A. Lovell to switch from fully manual control to semi-automatic control during the final moments of his landing descent, letter the computer hold his craft steady while he manually adjusts the descent rate.

Lovell said the change was made because dust kicked up by the landing engines obscured the surface during the landings.

"We still don't know exactly how much dust is there and where the dust varies in varying parts of the moon," Lovell said. "This way we could probably descend right through a dust layer without having any visual cues."

The other changes are new equipment added for moonwalking comfort, convenience and reliability.

Lovell and Fred W. Haise each have an eight-ounce, refillable water bag attached inside their space helmets with drinking spouts extending close to their mouths. Haise said it is enough to "wet down a little bit" during a long moonwalk.

The astronauts also have a black-and-white television camera to back up their primary color TV camera in case something happens to the color camera as was the case on Apollo 12. And because the astronauts look so much alike in their moonwalking suits, Lovell will wear red bands around his knees and elbows for identification.

To ease the job of carrying lunar samples, both moonwalkers also will wear packs on their backs. These replace cumbersome saddlebag pockets worn on the right thigh by the Apollo 12 moonwalker.

Helium Tank Causes Problem

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—There is a constant effort under way at the Kennedy Space Center to cut costs by trimming the moonport payroll.

"We would anticipate that there could be further (job) reductions based on the economies which every good businessman tries to put into effect," Deputy Center Director Miles Ross told community leaders recently.

"We're being pressured very hard to keep our budget level down, to keep our expenditures down," Ross said. "We'll continue to look for new ways of doing business so that we can accomplish our job for less money."

"Of course, here, because our major expenditure is people, doing it for less money means doing it with fewer people."

Nixon Cutting Down On Press Contacts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is cutting down his social contacts with the press.

Almost simultaneously with the opening of the new press center for reporters at the White House, newsmen got the word they were not to approach the President or Mrs. Nixon on social occasions, state dinners and church services—unless the Nixons decided first to talk to them.

Saturday night Connie Stewart, staff director to the First Lady told the press not to approach the Nixons or their guests of honor, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

"I'll have to ask you not as individuals or a group to go up to the Duke or Duchess of Windsor or the Nixons tonight," she told reporters prior to the white tie dinner. "Between dinner and entertainment, President Nixon would like to introduce some of his guests to the Windsors. For our sake, there's a crowd, so don't become obvious."

She also said reporters could speak to Nixon if the President comes up to you.

Man Arraigned On Shoplifting

James Templeton, 55, 820 S. Somerville, was arraigned today before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford on charges of shoplifting and unlawfully carrying arms.

Templeton allegedly took meat and juice from Mitchell's Grocery, 638 S. Cuyler, Saturday afternoon.

According to police reports, Templeton allegedly was carrying a .38 caliber pistol, fully-loaded.

After being confronted by the manager of the store for allegedly taking the items, reports said that Templeton gave the manager the pistol and asked him to keep it until he returned to claim it.

Lunsford set bond at $500 on the shoplifting charge and $500 on the gun charge. Templeton was in county jail shortly before noon today in lieu of bond.

Wineinger was the second patrolman to resign over the incident. His resignation left five officers on the force, including the police chief.

Membership renewal week for the Pampa Community Concert Association's 1970-71 season was launched Sunday afternoon at a workers' tea in the home of Mrs. E.L. Green Jr., 1101 Mary Ellen.

Volunteer campaign workers will spend this week giving 1969 members an opportunity to renew.

Starting next week the membership roll will be thrown open to the public with an opportunity to pick up cards which were not renewed.

The annual dinner for officers, board members and workers is scheduled for 7 p.m. next Monday in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

Headquarters for the open drive will be in the lobby of the Coronado this year.

Mrs. Lillian Kilgarriff, New York representative of Columbia Artists, will arrive in Pampa and be the main speaker at the banquet next Monday night.

Adult memberships are $10 and student memberships $5. The membership card entitles members to attend all four season concerts.

Three attractions already have been booked including Bayanihan, a company of 27 Philippine dancers and 12 musicians; Dorothy Kirsten, Metropolitan Opera star; and "Three on Broadway," starring Jan-McArt and Ronald Rogers. A fourth number is to be selected next week.

Mrs. Raymond Harrah and Mrs. Green are chairmen for this year's membership campaign.

Division chairmen for the drive are Mrs. Kermit P. Lawson, Mrs. Louis S. Richardson, Mrs. McHenry Lane and Mrs. E.L. Shelhamer.

They will be in charge of 20 team captains and some 150 volunteer workers. Mrs. M. McDaniel is area chairman and will direct activities for 13 workers in surrounding towns.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: May God love you for the answer you gave that person who objected to sending contributions to a "cause" in memory of a loved one.

I am a retiree, after 38 years with "AT&T" and I'm one of those nuts who loved every minute of it. On retirement, to keep out of mischief, I took a volunteer job with the American Cancer society. My job is filling in those "printed cards" advising the recipient that a donation to the "Rinky-dink charitable organization" has been made in memory of a deceased loved one. And may I say, in all those years I worked for "Ma Bell" (as we called "AT&T") and she paid me well, never did I get the satisfaction I get out of writing memorials for the American Cancer society, who I feel certain will one day wipe out that dread disease through research — made possible by donations.

My prayers are with that woman who can't see the value in making such a donation. May she never die of cancer.

DEAR ABBY: I want to reply to "Lonely" who voiced here displeasure with those who made charitable (tax-deductible) contributions in the name of her deceased loved one.

My beloved father recently died at a very early age of a coronary attack. While many lovely floral tributes were sent from friends, we were extremely grateful for the many contributions made to the Heart Association in memory of Dad.

It made us feel that perhaps these contributions to research of the cardio-vascular system may well someday allow another heart as fine as his to go on beating to a ripe old age.

I can't help feel that somewhere my wonderful father smiles his benediction on these thoughtful people who honored him so that others may live.

GRATEFUL DAUGHTER

easy way to express sympathy: My mother, age 47, died of cancer last month. My family asked that all remembrances be made to the American Cancer society. My mother lived three years with cancer only because previous donations made research possible. Flowers die. Research does not. Knowing that contributions made in my mother's name will help someone else to live in the future makes the heartache easier to bear.

"CONFIDENTIAL TO 'Your Friend at Demmler's in Eau Claire': — Of course, I remember you. And no, I didn't suggest that my readers send contributions "in lieu of" flowers. Flowers say something that money can't say, but how I wish more people would remember their loved ones with flowers while they are living and able to enjoy them.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Lonely" who resented having to write "thank you" notes to friends who made tax-deductible donations to a charity in memory of her deceased loved one!

Recently our son was killed in Vietnam. My husband and I and his young widow agreed that a donation to a Vietnamese orphanage in our son's memory would be appreciated. The response from friends, relatives (and even strangers!) was heartwarming.

I've some advice for you who are experiencing the pain of bereavement: Do not sit around, waiting for someone to come to you and console you in your grief. Get out. Take a walk. Go to church. Talk to strangers. See a movie. Drive to the country. Read. No one

DEAR ABBY: To the person who felt that contributions to a "Rinky-A-Dink" charity organization was a cheap and

FOR SENIOR GIRLS Pampa Panhellenic Plans Annual Tea

The Informational Tea for graduating senior girls and their mothers given annually by Pampa Panhellenic will be held Sunday, April 19, at 3 p.m. in the Hospitality Room of Citizens' Bank and Trust Company.

"Every girl who is planning to go to college should avail herself of this opportunity to learn about the various aspects of sorority membership," Mrs. George McCarroll, Panhellenic president, said. "The advantages, the costs, the rules pertaining to rush and the methods used by chapters to become acquainted with prospective members will be discussed."

As every active chapter requests that a picture accompany a recommendation, it will be helpful if each girl will bring eight billfold size pictures with her to be placed in the master files for use of those recommending her, Mrs. McCarroll said.

"To insure that information is available to all the sororities, Panhellenic requires a card be filled out for the Master File before a girl will be recommended from Pampa. Each girl will need to know her SAT and ACT scores, her four-year grade point average, her rank in class, her honors and activities.

"Panhellenic members are attempting to call Pampa graduating senior girls and their mothers to invite them. Area senior girls are also invited to attend particularly those residing in the eastern part of the Panhandle. Other girls may prefer to attend the forums in Borger or Amarillo which are usually held in June. A girl should register with only one Panhellenic," Mrs. McCarroll said.

If visitors need some time to work up their nerve to gnaw on fried rattlesnake meat, they can take it home with them frozen.

HITS MAIL CENSORSHIP

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights, has asked the Post Office Department to revoke a policy of censoring overseas mail.

"I am aware of that fact that this regulation was adopted at the insistence of the Bureau of Customs," said Ervin, whose subcommittee has conducted extensive hearings on the right of privacy. "In my opinion there is no justification in a free society for a regulation of this nature."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Law and order was supposed to be a big issue this year, and maybe it is.

But if public concern is all that great, then why has there been no outcry against a recent move by the U.S. Senate to scuttle one of the bulwarks of law-and-order in the nation's capital?

The answer may be that the public doesn't understand the situation. So I shall endeavor to explain it.

The bulwark of law-and-order to which I refer is an 1892 federal criminal statute that bans the flying of kites in the District of Columbia.

Should the House accept the rider, and should the President sign the measure, the nation's capital will be well on its way to becoming a hotbed of unrestricted kiting.

The rider was said to have been tacked onto the crime bill in order to legalize the Smithsonian Institution's annual kite-flying festival. But it has much wider ramifications.

Already we Americans are living in a permissive society that supposedly is undermining our young people's respect for law and order. And now the Senate has acted to remove yet another restraint.

What Will Happen?

What will happen if the rider is enacted? One can only guess. One can only guess because the Senate negligently failed to hold any sort of hearings on the question.

Some sociologists contend that flying kites is no worse than drinking cocktails. Which may be true. What we need, to know, however, is whether kite flying leads to other things.

A kid flies a few kites for a thrill, and soon finds that it is losing its kick. What then? Is not this kid likely to turn to something more potent, such as blowing a bugle? Or playing an amplified guitar?

This is exactly the sort of thing the Senate was inviting with its precipitant approval of the kite-flying rider. Those lawmakers who passed that statute in 1892 knew what they were doing.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—It has become "unmistakably clear" that sometime around the second half of 1970 or first quarter of 1971 the American economy will resume its upward march, free of excessive regulatory restraint and stimulated by public expenditure.

Wright Investors' Service says. The firm observes that "blue chip" money is moving back into the "blue chip" stocks and urges investors not to be left out "of what may well become the greatest stock market advance since the early '60s."

Hayden, Stone says the market now looks strong enough technically to support further recovery, perhaps to test the January highs. Although such a rise would be construed very bullishly the firm says there is still an "impressive reservoir of surplus buying power" waiting for the market to go further down.

Therefore, "although the technical picture has improved considerably, it seems quite unreasonable to assume that a new bull market has already started," the firm says.

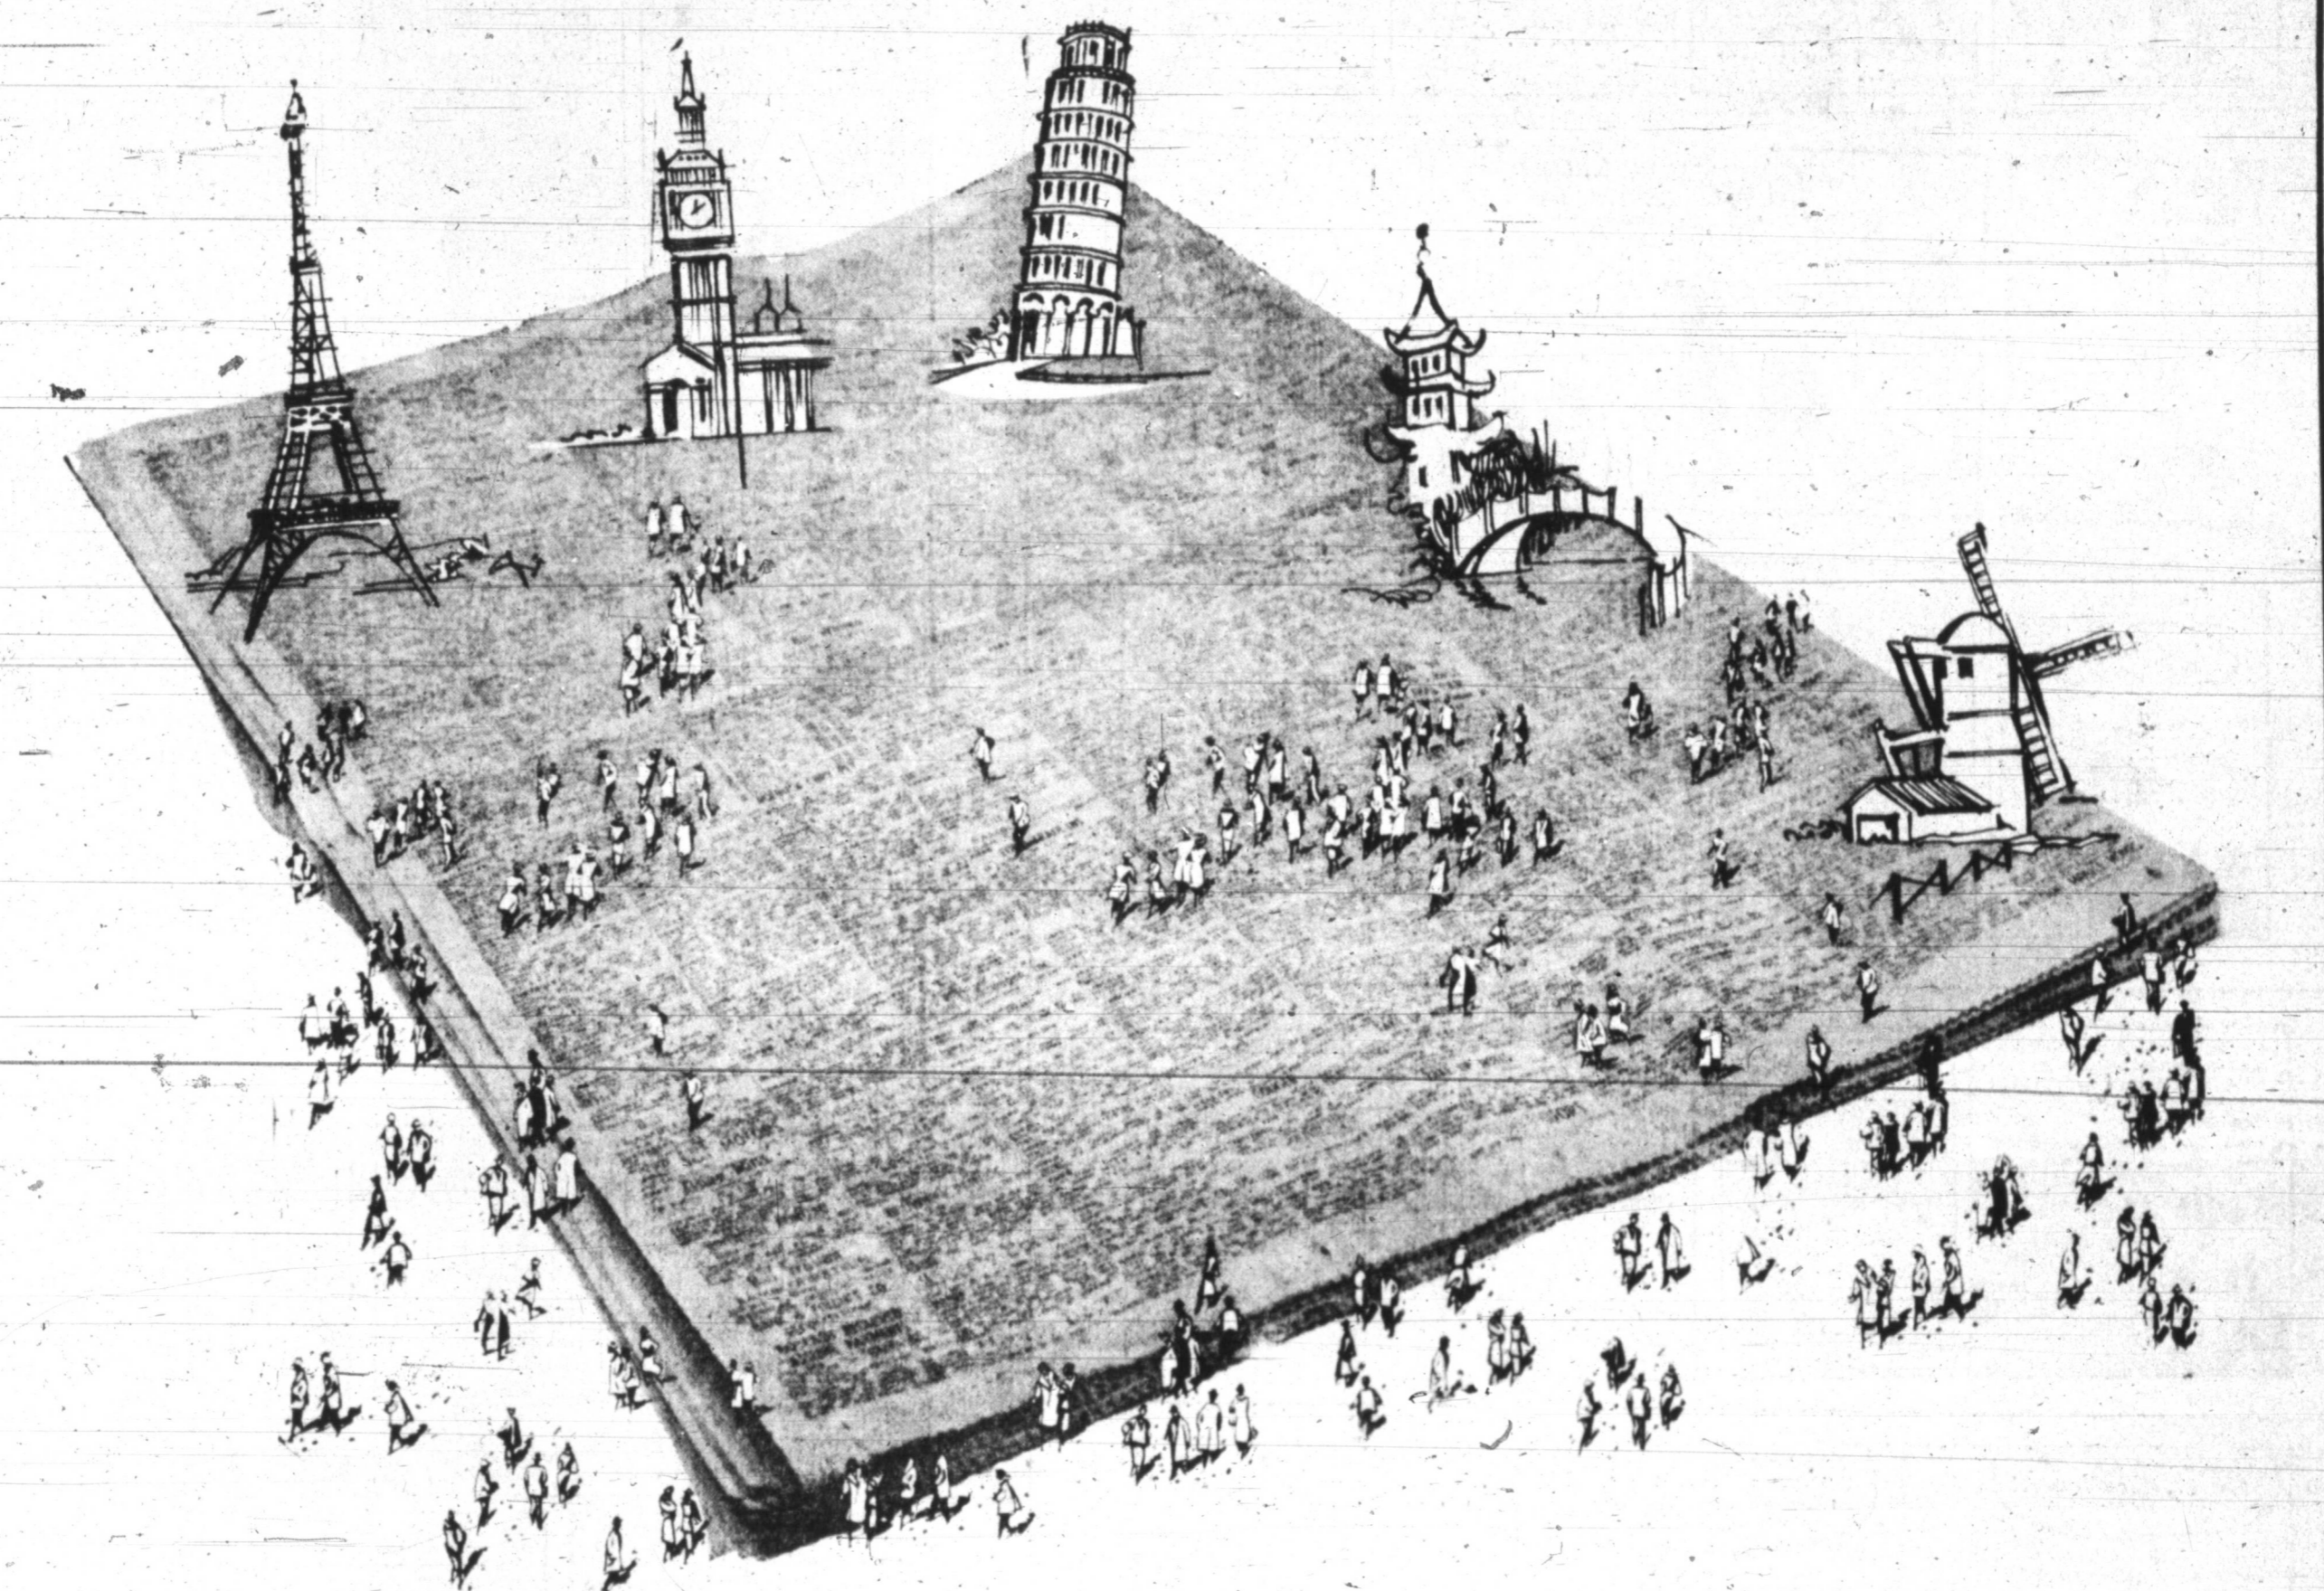

There are no indications that the market has fully discounted the extent and duration of the profit squeeze, Moody's Investors Service says. More time may be needed for it to form a durable base before a meaningful recovery can take place.

The course of credit policy will be especially important to the market in the immediate future, since substantial monetary expansion could push stock prices higher even without the prospect of meaningful profit.

Baseball Season Begins

Players Bursts Through To Nab Greensboro Win

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Baseball's second century opens today for the second time with Richard Nixon in the White House, Denny McLain in Florida, Curt Flood in court and the Seattle Pilots in Milwaukee.

And the New York Mets are really the defending world champions.

Things may sound a bit confused but the season will still get off on schedule when the Washington Senators host the Detroit Tigers in the "presidential opener" (even though the President won't be there) and the Cincinnati Reds entertain the Montreal Expos.

This is supposed to be the start of baseball's second 100 years, but the centuries go rather fast in baseball. The game had a centennial in 1839 (for Abner Doubleday's mythical founding in 1839) and liked it so much that another centennial was held last year for the founding of the Cincinnati-Redstockings in 1869.

Spring training, usually a serene time, this year was rocked by the court wrangling in the Seattle Milwaukee case. Bowie Kuhn's decision to suspend McLain until July 1st, Curt Flood's court fight against the reserve clause (set to begin May 18) and the players negotiations with the owners for more benefits.

The absence of the President and the vice president will take some of the luster away from the Washington opener.

Subbing at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium will be President Nixon's son-in-law, David Eisenhower. He's a veteran of these affairs since he used to come with his glove in hopes of catching a foul pop at Griffith Stadium when his grandfather, President Eisenhower, used to do these honors. And doesn't that make us all feel a bit older?

Subbing for the suspended McLain on the mound will be Mickey Lolich while Dick Bosman will go for the Senators.

A former Tiger, Joe Sparna will start for Montreal in Cincinnati against Jim Merritt.

On Tuesday there'll be a full slate of openers with Chicago at Philadelphia, New York at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati at Los Angeles, Atlanta at San Diego and Houston at San Francisco in the National League and California at Milwaukee, Oakland at Kansas City, Minnesota at Chicago, Baltimore at Cleveland and Boston at New York in the American League.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Muscular Gary Player, the South African physical fitness exponent, planned a day of practice for this week's Masters today, his first tour victory of the year and $36,000 in prize money neatly tucked away.

Player stormed out of a flock of contenders Sunday to capture the $180,000 Greater Greensboro Open by two strokes over Miller Barber. An eagle on the sixth hole, pitched out of a sand trap, spurred him on his way. He turned in a six-under-par 65 for a 72-hole total of 13-under-par 271.

WINS GREENSBORO — Gary Player readies for Masters after winning the Greater Greensboro Open.

Arnold Palmer, leader or co-leader in each of the first three rounds, had a 74 in the morning round, then came back with an even-par 71 for a 72-hole total of 276, five strokes off the pace and tied for fifth.

Barber shot a 68 in his final round for a 273. R. H. Sikes came in with a 69 and a 274, one stroke in front of young Steve Spray with a 67. Tommy Aaron and Lee Trevino with 71 and 68, respectively, tied Palmer for fifth with 276.

Player said he would go directly to Augusta, Ga., today to prepare for the Masters, which he won in 1961. Special guards will be posted to ward off rumored racial demonstrations against South Africa's apartheid policy.

Bucks Rooting For New York

MILWAUKEE, WIS. — The ambitious Milwaukee Bucks, $1,000 richer per man, are rooting for the New York Knicks to win their National Basketball Association playoff series with the Baltimore Bullets.

The Bucks, who won their own Eastern Division semifinal series by beating the Philadelphia 76ers 115-106 in Madison Friday night, have been given the weekend off to await the outcome of the other semifinal between New York and Baltimore.

The other three were outlander Jim Qualls, who ruined Tom Seaver's bid for a perfect game last July with a one-out ninth inning single, pitcher Pat Janquez and catcher John Hairston.

The New York Mets have already made their cuts and the only rookie they've kept this year is first baseman-outfielder Mike Jorgensen. They have one of the most set teams in the majors this year.

The Milwaukee Brewers made a deal Sunday as they bought veteran Ted Savage from the Cincinnati Reds. Savage hit only .227 last year but, Manager Dave Bristol

'Pokes To Try Basketball Skills

The Dallas Cowboys basketball team will take on the First National Bank of Pampa in an 8-p.m. cage tilt tonight in Harvesters Field House.

Among the Cowboys stars appearing tonight will be quarter-back Roger Staubach, line-backer Chuck Howley and running back Walt Garrison.

Tickets for the contest are $2 and $3.50 at the door. Proceeds will go to help the Boy Scout Camp, Pee Wee basketball league and other projects sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

Former All-Stater George Bailey and Frank and Moody Schaffer will lead the First National attack.

The Cowboys will leave for Amarillo after the battle for an engagement in that city Tuesday night.

Teams Pare, Bolster Rosters For Season

By United Press International

Last year's promising rookie can often be this season's disappointment.

One of them Sunday was Don Young, who was the Chicago Cubs' starting centerfielder on opening day last season. Young was one of four players the Cubs sent to Tacoma while trimming their roster to the 25-player limit.

The other three were outfielder Jim Qualls, who ruined Tom Seaver's bid for a perfect game last July with a one-out ninth inning single, pitcher Pat Janquez and catcher John Hairston.

Shaving Strokes

2-Keep A Record

By Frank Beard

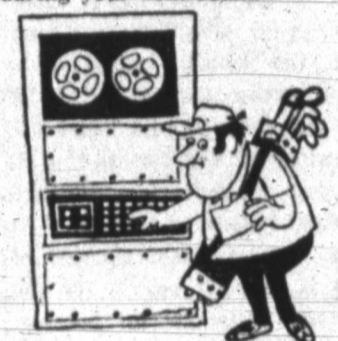

Ever since I began taking golf fairly seriously I have kept brief records on all the rounds I have played. I recommend the practice to you as a means to orderly improvement.

Once you are convinced that the only way you can lower your handicap is by practicing, you will want to practice on those areas of your game that consistently are letting you down. Do not practice what you're doing well. I'm always afraid that if I do that I'll work myself right out of a good groove.

It's hard to know what you need to work on without keeping at least a cursory chart on your play. I suggest that you enter in a little black book after each round the number of fairways you hit off the tee, the number of greens you hit in regulation (par minus two putts), the number of times you chipped to within six feet of the hole or one-putt distance, the number of times you hit green-side bunker shots to within one-putt distance, and the number of times you got down in two putts or farther than 15 feet away.

If, for example, your long putts are failing you, spend more practice time on long putts. Concentrate on them during your next round.

I believe you'll find that keeping this kind of a record leads to more consistent play.

(NEXT: Consider Lessons.) Play better golf with Frank Beard's book, "Shaving Strokes." To get your copy, send name, address and $1 to Shaving Strokes, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 488, Dept. 790, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

'Horns, Aggies Even In SWC Title Chase

By United Press International

The Southwest Conference baseball race is apparently narrowing down to a contest between the same two teams with the winner, predictably, not being known until the last weekend of the season.

Texas, the defending champions, and Texas A&M, the perennial bridesmaid, are in a dead heat today for the conference lead. But it is still early to eliminate such teams as Rice and TCU who are still strong challengers.

Even Baylor and Texas Tech are still in contention because each has played a series with one of the co-leaders and their schedules, therefore, will be lighter than the other teams.

And SMU, winners of only one game this season, could still finish strong if inexperienced players develop and could stage some upsets which could influence the race before the final matchups. And the Mustangs have already completed the hardest part of their schedule.

The Longhorns and the Aggies will meet in a doubleheader Thursday May 7 and a single game the following day. Both games, which appear to be the deciding matches, will be played on Texas' Clark Field.

Texas does not play a conference game this weekend so the Aggies could take over sole possession of first place if they win two of their three scheduled games this weekend against Rice.

In other conference confrontations this weekend, SMU will play at Baylor and TCU will host Texas Tech. All three series will feature doubleheaders on Friday and a single game on Saturday.

All seven conference teams have today off. Texas scheduled a doubleheader Tuesday in San Antonio against St. Mary's, while Texas Christian will visit Texas-Arlington the same afternoon for a single game.

One of them was former flanker Gary Hammond who has switched to tailback. Hammond did not do so badly his first time out getting 128 yards on 16 carries. On the first play from scrimmage Hammond ran 50 yards for a touchdown.

Head coach Hayden Fry said he was real pleased with the scrimmage and the first week of spring practice. He said he was trying a lot of players at new positions to see how they worked out.

NY-Baltimore NBA Series Ends In Showdown Match Tonight

By United Press International

Gus Johnson is hard man to please.

"My offense could have been better, so could my defense, but I'm not going to quibble about either," said the seven-year veteran of the Baltimore Bullets after scoring 31 points and holding New York's Dave DeBusschere to only four Sunday as Baltimore beat the Knicks, 96-87, and squared their National Basketball Association playoff at three games apiece.

The Knicks-Bullets best-of-seven quarter-final series which began March 26, ends one way or another tonight with the seventh and deciding game at New York's Madison Square Garden. The winner will face Milwaukee in the East Division finals as the Bucks advanced by eliminating Philadelphia in five games.

The Atlanta Hawks, the regular season West Division champions, qualified for the next playoff round by beating the Chicago Bulls, 113-107,

Sunday to take that series, 4-1, while the Los Angeles Lakers kept alive with a 138-121 triumph over Phoenix which reduced the Suns' lead to 3-2 in the fourth and final series.

The Bullets, on the verge of elimination for the second year in a row at the hands of the Knicks were trailing, 43-41, at halftime before Johnson and Earl Monroe brought them back to life.

Monroe, the mainstay of Baltimore's offense all season, tallied 29 points during a 45-minute stint while Walt Frazier's 18 points led the Knicks, who shot only 35 per cent while being held to their lowest point total of the season.

Atlanta had to break away from a 51-51 tie at half time before ending the Bulls' hopes for a comeback. The Hawks trailed 25-20 at the end of the first quarter before rookie Butch Beard sparked their offense, scoring 11 of his 18 points in the second session. The Hawks displayed a balanced offense, getting 24 points from Joe Caldwell and 23 apiece from Walt Hazzard and Lou Hudson. Clem Haskins led Chicago with 22.

The Lakers staved off elimination and forced the series back to Phoenix for game No. 6 Tuesday night thanks to Jerry West and Wilt Chamberlain who scored 36 points each.

Connie Hawkins paced Phoenix with 28 points and Gail Goodrich added 23.

Housing Industry On Ropes

Home-seekers are being hit with a 1-2-3 punch this year:

One—Housing is at its scarcest since 1950, despite the fact that the number of homes and apartments constructed in 1969 was the highest in 14 years.

Two—Monthly payments are taking a bigger chunk out of the average American's paycheck than at any time since the Depression. Housing costs, including financing, have risen twice as fast as the average price index in the last five years.

Three—New housing starts in the first half of this year will probably be the lowest since immediately after World War II. Total construction in 1970 is projected at about 1.1 million units, down from 1969's 1.5 million and about a half-million short of the number needed to keep up with demand.

The major reason for the drop is that both banks and builders have run out of mortgage money. The former have been hit hard by savings withdrawals as money has fled to investments paying higher returns. As a consequence, the latter are running out of financing commitments before the construction year has fairly begun.

In short, almost everything that could possibly go wrong with the housing situation is going wrong this year. That is the conclusion of the latest nationwide survey of the U.S. housing market by Advance Mortgage Corp. of Chicago.

The severe credit squeeze of 1966 is one big reason for the current inflation in housing, says the company's president, Irving Rose. It reduced the supply of skilled labor, subcontractors, builders and land so much that when housing picked up again they could command a premium for scarcity.

Now the same thing is happening again at a time when housing needs are greater than ever.

"At present, housing is the first victim in any brush with inflation," says Rose. "As a nation, we make economic policy as though housing were expendable. But there will be greater impatience this time with a failure to solve our housing problems."

We may yet be driven to the point of declaring housing a national priority, he thinks, starting with a goal of a well-balanced America and then tailoring our fiscal and monetary policies to serve that goal.

"Even then," he warns, "it may not be easy to break housing's stop-and-go cycle." In the meantime, the crunch worsens for more and more would-be homeowners.

Welcome Policy Switch

President Richard Nixon's "state of the world" message — described as "the most comprehensive statement ever made on American foreign policy" — contained some happy news for long-suffering tax payers: that the burden of bailing out the rest of the world would be shifted more and more from the shoulders of American tax payers to the foreign governments.

Only recently, Rep. Otto E. Passman (D. Louisiana) entered in the Congressional Record a staggering resume of what has happened to a great many of our hard-earned dollars.

"For the period encompassing the fiscal years 1946 through 1969, the total net foreign assistance to 121 nations and seven territories of the world has amounted to $122 billion. Total net interest paid on the money we had borrowed to give away exceeded $60 1/2 billion, for an overall total of $182 1/2 billion. Here are some other items which should interest tax payers:

From the end of 1960 to the end of 1969, U.S. gold holdings dwindled by more than $12 1/2 billion. In the same period, gold holdings of the other countries of the world increased by more than $17 billion. At the same time, short-term dollar claims of foreigners against the U.S. increased by more than $27 billion. Meanwhile, our balance of payments was in the red in every year but two, showing a total net deficit for the period of $36,896 billion.

The dozen nations that have received the greatest portions of our largesse, stated in billions were: Korea, $7.8; Great Britain, $7.7; India, $7.5; France, $7.0; Vietnam $5.9; Italy, $5.4; Turkey, $5.4; Republic of China, $5; Greece, $3.7; West Germany and Berlin, $3.7; Japan, $3.6; Pakistan, $3.5.

The American foreign policy shift will not be reflected this April 15, nor probably in 1971; but hopefully we will see some respite in some future year. Provided, that is, that the "welfare staters" fail to find some place else to spend our money.

B.O. Once An Asset

How did girl meet boy in the days — maybe a few hundred thousand years ago — when they had no perfumes or after shave lotions?

They may have used natural body odors, thinks one scientist. John H. Law, professor of biochemistry at the University of Chicago's Pritzker School of Medicine, bases this hypothesis on the fact that insects and animals often communicate sexual attraction, as well as alarm or the discovery of food, by means of body odors.

Law is conducting research on pheromones — organic compounds excreted by animals as a form of communication. "Olfactory communication," he says, "is probably one of the oldest and, in some cases, the most efficient means of communication employed by animals."

"Among humans, this form of communication may have existed but was dulled by the evolution of verbal language and civilization."

Today, of course, B.O. is the last thing anyone wants. What the human race may be missing is suggested by the fact that if a woman's perfume were as potent as the pheromone used by the female silk worm moth to attract the male of the species, and if a man's nose were as sensitive as a moth's antennae, one drop would stagger men blocks away.

We're not doing too badly, though. Judging by marriage and population statistics, the human sexes are reading each other's messages loud and clear.

DIRECTION COUNTS

The distance a man goes is not important—it is the direction in which he is moving that counts.

"Olfactory communication," he says, "is probably one of the oldest and, in some cases, the most efficient means of communication employed by animals."

Question Box

(We invite questions to economic and the proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: — Does the Supreme Court ruling of one-man, one-vote strengthen a constitutional republic or push us into a centralized democracy?

ANSWER: — The ruling (or rulings) do nothing to protect the constitutional republic which the Founding Fathers thought to form. It does push the U.S. toward democracy which becomes centralized.

The Constitution does not mention anything about democracy. From the writings in the Federalist papers, the Founding Fathers feared a democracy as much as they did a ruling monarchy. They attempted to set up a federal system which they hoped would prevent a pure democracy from developing.

It will be remembered that the national government was established with divided powers between the executive, judicial and legislative branches, each supposed to be independent of the others. Even the legislative branch was designed to be divided, with the House members chosen according to population of the states, and the Senate providing equal representation. In addition, the states supposedly were protected by the Ninth and Tenth Amendments to the Constitution, which say that items not specifically delegated to the national government would be reserved to the states and the people.

Since the Constitution is silent on how state and local governments are to be established, there is no authority for the Supreme Court — or any other portion of the national government — to dictate their legal makeup.

I guess you heard about the Prince and the Stopper. That Prince Sihanouk went to Moscow to parlay with the Ruskiies and Cheng Heng took over the whole Cambodian country.

The Prince didn't mind losing the country. The Revoltin development occurred when they took his photograph down. Why, those pictures had hung in the public squares since 1941 when he was placed on the Throne by the French.

For Sihanouk it was a Photo Finish.

He didn't mind losing the job. He was more interested in acting anyway. He and his wife the Princess Monique, was always making Bon Homme movies. One picture the Prince put out was directed, written and produced by Sihanouk. And guess who was the Star? The Prince of Cambodia.

Mebbe the movies didn't pay off — but the politics did. Reports indicate that the Prince and his wife have enough money in Swiss bank accounts to make him the 7th richest man in the world!

I wonder if there are any figures on how much of it he got from us?

So the job loss won't affect him, and he can go right on acting in Switzerland if he wants. But taking down those photos in the square — why, it's enough to give an inflated ego a heart attack — we hope.

Only two or three decades ago, 80 to 90 per cent of American voters were voting straight party lines.

In De Vries' view, the 54 per cent figure is the real benchmark on independent voters, not the 30 per cent "perception" figure. Plainly, many Americans who call themselves Democrats or Republicans really vote as independents.

Moreover, the view of present-day politics held by these ticket-splitters is markedly different from that of the strong "party identifiers" who tend to stick to party lines rigidly.

Among the independents, defined as the splitters, the first big thing weighed is the candidate's qualities and his perceived ability to "handle the job," whether at the time he is in office or out.

The ticket-splitters give second highest consideration to the issues that are troubling them, and plainly their view of the candidates is strongly affected by their judgment as to how fully and effectively they may be able to deal with those issues they rate as prime.

Undecided voters have always given the pollsters fits. It is

CAPITOL EYE

More And More American Voters Turn 'Independent'

By BRUCE BOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The important 1970 elections, with so much at stake for both major parties, will probably witness proportionately more voting than ever by Americans whose ties with those parties seem to be weakening.

There are different ways to define these so-called independent voters. Some political scholars and poll analysts judge them by how they see themselves. In other words, if voters tell professional questioners they are independents, they are so recorded in polls and other tabulations.

By this gauge, we come out in this country with something like 30 per cent of the U.S. electorate perceiving itself as "independent." By a couple of points, incidentally, that is more than rate themselves as Republicans. (The Democratic figure is 42 per cent.)

Obviously, the percentages vary greatly geographically and among differing groups in society. Some 44 per cent of college students, for instance, think of themselves as "independent" in political attitude, and that percentage rises to 50 on northern campuses.

But there is another key perspective on the "independent." It weighs not his self-perception, but what he actually does at the polls. In the simplest terms, the measure put on the voter is this tendency to split his voting between the two party tickets which confront him.

Walter de Vries of the University of Michigan finds this a strikingly increased factor in modern U.S. politics. The Gallup organization's queries disclosed that in 1968 some 54 per cent of voting Americans actually split their tickets as they chose candidates.

Yet — and this matter fittingly belongs in another report — this same widening information process, again especially aided by television, has contributed heavily to alienation from and distrust of politics, not just among the militant young but among middle-income adults and even the elderly. Far better informed, U.S. citizens are actually voting less.

The knowledge explosion, fueled mightily by television, lays bare to the American citizenry the nature of men and issues and the workings of government and politics as never before. Thus voters have become inevitably more selective.

Researches on 1968 disclosed for example, that in some 20 of the 50 states spitting was so widespread that the key state offices tended to be divided almost half and half between the parties.

The scholars are inclined to judge the spitting phenomenon as an unmistakable mark of enlarging political sophistication in the electorate.

The knowledge explosion, fueled mightily by television, lays bare to the American citizenry the nature of men and issues and the workings of government and politics as never before. Thus voters have become inevitably more selective.

New Border War In Middle East?

JOHN GOLDSMITH ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — New problems are definitely not needed in the much troubled Middle East, and authorities here are keeping an uneasy eye on the People's Republic of Southern Yemen.

The People's Republic of Southern Yemen is the former British protectorate of Aden. Soon after the British moved out in 1968 the People's Republic was formed, and the Russians and Communist Chinese began furnishing aid.

Now there are reports here that Russia is underwriting a military build-up for the country's small armed forces. According to these reports, the army of Southern Yemen numbered about 10,000, with an airforce of perhaps 20 planes — including some Mig-17s.

But that was before the Russians began the new arms build-up. Now there are reports that tanks and additional planes are being delivered by the Russians.

An intensive army and airforce training program is reported to be in progress. Russian military officers, with their families, are said to have arrived in the port city of Aden, to serve as instructors.

There are additional reports that Syrian pilots, mercenaries qualified to fly the Mig-17s, have also arrived to beef-up the tiny air force.

BORDER INCIDENT — Last fall forces from Southern Yemen launched an attack in the area of that nation's undefined border with Saudi Arabia in a desert region called "the empty corner." A motorized caravan was shot up by the Saudis and driven back.

Now there is evidence that the Russian-augmented forces of Southern Yemen are concentrating in the same area, from the training and adviser group have been seen with Southern Yemeni troops there.

The Saudi-Arabian government is said to be well aware of this renewed activity on its southern border. It is reported to have started making military preparations of its own in the vicinity of the "empty corner."

Some U.S. authorities see the increasing Russian presence in Southern Yemen as just another bit of support for what is called the "baloney" theory of Soviet penetration in the middle East and beyond.

Southern Yemen has the port of Aden, one oil refinery and an otherwise agricultural economy keyed to cotton as a cash crop. It is not the sort of nation which would normally be marked for deep infiltration, even by the proselytizing Communists.

But Southern Yemen does represent a slice, however thin, of the mostly Arab real estate which stretches from Gibraltar, across the southern shore of the Mediterranean Sea and into the Middle East.

Slice by slice, one way and another, Russia has come to be a dominant force in a large part of that sausage.

STRAIGHT TALK: Busing Not 'Law Of Land'

By TOM ANDERSON

The hottest thing in America today is not the back seats at drive-in movies, not Vietnam, but the school busing of children. It's peculiar how so many Whites who never opposed school integration are now so violently opposed to school busing. Know why? Most of those people were not opposed to your children being integrated. Now their children are being integrated, and that's a horse of a different skin. That is, their children are being integrated unless they are affluent people, like congressmen, 93 per cent of whom voted for integration and send their children to private, segregated schools.

In D.C. (District of Chaos) schools are becoming almost totally segregated. In 1968 Negroes made up more than 83 percent of the enrollment in the District's elementary, secondary and vocational schools, and the Whites continue to flee. Why? Because you can't legislate "equality."

Rampant violence in big-city schools is so bad that "teaching has been reduced to a level of keeping discipline." But they can't even do that. A Senate study of 110 school districts in large cities in 1968 revealed 26 murders, 81 rapes, 1,508 robberies, 680 aggravated assaults, 14,022 burglaries and larcenies, 1,089 weapon offenses, 1,801 assaults on teachers, 854 narcotic violations, 1,035 drunkenness cases and 3,894 crimes by non-students! Many teachers carry guns for self-protection, Robert Finch, Nixon's Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, says. "We must be prepared for much greater disorders in Junior and Senior High Schools than we have ever seen in the colleges." And the greatest disorder of all is Robert Finch, who makes me wish birth control could be made retroactive. Liberal Senator Ribicoff, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, told the Senate: "The North is guilty of Monumental hypocrisy in its treatment of the black man. . . Of course, informed Southerners have been pointing that out for years. And one of the hypocrites is Senator Ribicoff.

There is far less school integration in the deep south now than there was before the federal edict last February 1. In areas where blacks outnumber whites most of the public schools are now all black. But hundreds of thousands of children are forced to spend more than two hours a day on a bus and the government is using hundreds of millions of taxpayers' dollars to achieve "balanced" integration. Busing of children is not the law of the land. Forced integration is not the law of the land. It is unconstitutional tyranny unleashed unlawfully by a Supreme Court determined to remake America. The Court, not the South, is guilty of unlawful and unconstitutional judicial and prejudicial tyranny.

Busing to achieve "racial balance" is clearly in violation of the infamous Civil Rights Act of 1964 which says: "Desegregation means the assignment of students to public schools and within such schools without regard to their race, color, religion or national origin, but 'desegregation' shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance. . .

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The average parent believes his offspring is infinitely better off making $95 a week with a white shirt on than he would be making $135 a week with coveralls and dirty fingernails.

That observation comes from William Wimpfinger, vice president of the Machinists Union, as one explanation of the shortage of automobile mechanics—variously estimated at 100,000 to 200,000 in the United States.

It points up an attitude that may already have caused a national problem of major proportions. It is the feeling that it is demeaning for a man to spend his life working with his hands; that only "brain work" carries status and financial reward.

The problem is that despite the predictions of the automated society to come, the nation needs such workers—from bond carriers to telephone installers—and will be in trouble if no one will take such jobs.

Of course, the first part of the problem is to provide the wage incentives that will make it possible for a man or woman, however unskilled, to maintain a decent standard of living and be able at least to see the way to a better existence.

Some skilled hand work jobs now offer good pay, but frequently it is maintained at the cost of "protective" barriers that create artificial shortages of workers.

SCOURINT REPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With the two top pitchers definitely out of the game for the official opening of the baseball season Monday, a young-rookie named David Eisenhower looked like a possible starter.

President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew have said they will throw out the first pitch at the Washington Senators-Detroit Tigers game Monday, probably because of the Senate vote at that hour on the Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell.

Eisenhower will attend the game, the White House said late Friday, but added it had no word on who would throw out the first ball.

TEXAS TIME IS HARD

DALLAS (UPI)—Arthur James Bolden Jr., 23, convicted of robbery and attempted rape Friday, got only 500 years in jail.

In March Dallas juries imposed sentences as high as 1,001 and 1,000 years, and a Fort Worth jury recently handed out an 800-year sentence.
