$375 MILLION DELAY???

Space Agency Testing Substitute Moon Man

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Backup astronaut John L. Swigert practiced with two thoroughly rehearsed prime crewmen today to see if he can step in at the last moment to fly the Apollo 13 command ship to the moon Saturday in place of Thomas K. Mattingly.

The U.S. Space Agency is considering substituting Swigert for Mattingly in order to avoid a one-month delay of the $375 million moon mission, now scheduled for a 2:13 p.m. EST blastoff. Mattingly is grounded because of his susceptibility to German measles.

A decision on the last-resort switch is expected Friday. Adding an additional threat to the launch schedule is the prediction of considerable cloudiness and a chance of rain at flight time.

Project officials said they would give much weight to Swigert's performance of the demanding command module pilot's tasks in rehearsals with James A. Lovell and Fred W. Haise that got underway only two days before launch time.

But the officials also must consider the psychological feasibility of substituting a backup astronaut for a fully trained prime crewman so close to blastoff in order to avoid a delay in the mission until May 9 at a cost of $800,000.

Swigert, a 38-year-old civilian who has never flown in space, was given a briefing by Mattingly on intricate phases of the 10-day mission in a small office of the crew training building at the spaceport. By mid-morning he was inside a spacecraft simulator starting the workout with Lovell and Haise.

At the launch pad, the countdown went ahead smoothly following the end of a 16-hour planned rest at 4 a.m. EST. The lunar module's helium tank was filled and liquid oxygen and hydrogen were being put aboard the command ship to fuel the craft's fuel cell generators.

"Among other things, a final decision on moving Swigert to the prime crew would rest upon the demonstration of Lovell, Swigert and Haise to precisely execute the few intricate, time-critical maneuvers which require rapid and close coordina-

Shells Clobber Green Beret Unit

By WALTER WHITEHEAD

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops besieging Dak Seang fired more than 100 shells into the Green Beret camp today and shot down a medical evacuation helicopter in the last show of strength in an offensive that pushed the U.S. death toll to a seven-month high.

Military spokesmen said 138 GIs were killed and 1,179 wounded last week as the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese mounted their strongest drive in eight months, shelling a total of 115 targets on the opening night last Tuesday.

The fighting cost the South Vietnamese 754 dead and 1,716 wounded, double the previous week's losses, and killed 3,336 Communist troops, an eight-month high.

The Dak Seang Special Forces camp is now in its ninth day under siege. Forty-six of its U.S. and government defenders have died and 170 have been wounded. Military spokesmen said there are an estimated 10,000 North Vietnamese troops around the camp.

Ground fire shot down the medical evacuation helicopter a half mile south of the camp Thursday as it attempted to pick up a wounded South Vietnamese soldier. Field reports said the crew of the helicopter, the sixth aircraft downed around Dak Seang, was rescued unharmed.

The U.S. Command said it called in four B-52 bombers during the night to drop up to 600 tons of bombs on the suspected Communist troop positions five miles southeast and southwest of the camp.

Columns of Australian-led government soldiers fighting their way toward the outpost reported closing within a half mile of it Thursday while fighting skirmishes that cost them four dead and 24 wounded. They reported finding the bodies of 100 guerrilla soldiers killed in the siege, bringing to 1,400 the number of North Vietnamese slain in the siege.

The commander, Lt. Col. John Hennigan of Saline, Iowa, said Thursday the Dak Seang defenders "are past the crucial period." But a fresh North Vietnamese regiment was reported closing on the camp from Laos, seven miles away.

Low-flying Air Force cargo planes came in during the night in eight flights and dropped 26,708 pounds of food, water and ammunition to the beleaguered defenders.

Fighting elsewhere was reported light with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops shelling 43 Allied targets overnight and military spokesmen reporting a terrorist bomb explosion Thursday near a U.S. billet in downtown Saigon. Two American servicemen were wounded, three cars in the parking lot were damaged and the terrorists escaped.

Military spokesmen also announced four more U.S. Army units will leave the war zone Friday as part of the Phase Three withdrawal of 30,000 men. They have a total membership of 3,280 men.

"OH, MY, aching feet," says Mrs. Ettavie Michael, 1936 N. Christy St., as she relaxes after walking the streets of Pampa collecting information for the 1970 Census. Mrs. Michael said she works long hours and walks miles a day gathering the data for Uncle Sam. (Staff Photo)

President Undaunted By Carswell's Defeat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will send the name of yet a third "strict constructionist" to the Senate for confirmation as a Supreme Court justice. And no senator will say he isn't anxious to vote for the President's choice.

But Nixon and Attorney General John N. Mitchell, their political prestige damaged by the Senate's 51 to 45 rejection of G. Harrold Carswell, are receiving conflicting advice from Capitol Hill.

—Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., urges Nixon to leave the seat vacant so he can "take the issue to the people," and use it to elect a Republican Senate in November that would approve a conservative Supreme Court candidate.

—Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania urges Nixon to abandon the idea that the choice is his alone to make and consult with "all segments, spectra and levels of public opinion" to come up with a candidate who would "generate unanimity of senate approval."

The White House, through Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, said Nixon would send another "strict constructionist" to the Senate "in due course."

"The majority of the Senate is anxious to back the President," Scott said after Wednesday's dramatic vote. He said the Senate's decision "should strive as a prelude to the nomination of a great Supreme Court justice and as a lesson learned for the future."

In the debate and afterwards, liberal senators, one after another, said they hoped Nixon would find a "strict constructionist" from the south they could support.

"I hope the President does not decide against appointing a Southern strict constructionist," said Sen. Gale W. McGhee, D-Wyo.

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., in response to a challenge from Vermont Republican George D. Aiken, reeled off a list of nine prominent Southerners whose elevation, he said, he would gladly support.

The frequency with which Carswell's decisions were reversed was often cited as a reason for voting against him. It was mentioned by Republican Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Charles McMathias of Maryland, and a former liberal senator, one after another, said they hoped Nixon

Suspected Scalpel Slayer Held For June 8 Trial

By MIKE WESTER
LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—District Attorney Blair Cherry Jr. said today the murder with malice trial of Benjamin Lach, accused of the scalpel slaying of a university cleaning woman, will begin June 8.

Cherry said he would seek the death penalty.

An all-male jury declared Wednesday Lach was sane and competent to stand trial for murder with malice. An earlier jury ruled Lach was insane at the time of the hearing and the defendant was sent to the State Mental Hospital at Rusk Dec. 18, 1968.

Lach's two court appointed attorneys indicated they would not seek a change of venue at the June 8 trial.

Lach's mother arrived from Boston last week and was present at the hearing. She indicated she might ask Boston attorney F. Lee Bailey to defend her son.

Bailey consulted with Cherry earlier, but said he felt the two court appointed lawyers could handle the first sanity hearing. Bailey also defended the late Dr. Sam Sheppard in his successful appeal, and he represented the Boston Strangler.

The prosecution and the defense called only one witness each in the day-long trial.

The defense contended doctors did nothing to help Lach's mental condition and he was no more capable of aiding in his own defense now than he was when he was originally declared insane.

Defense attorney A. W. Salyars said Lach should be sent to "another mental hospital."

"If you take an auto to one place and they don't repair it, you don't have to take it back to the same place," Salyars said.

However, the Rusk hospital is the only state supported institution of its kind with a maximum security section.

No Abnormal Behavior
Dr. James A. Hunter, a Rusk staff physician and the state's only witness said Lach "can now aid in his own defense."

Since being admitted to Rusk he has required no special medication nor shown any abnormal behavior.

"In my opinion he needs no further treatment at Rusk," Hunter said. "We found nothing to treat while he was there."

Under cross examination, however, Hunter said Lach would ever. (See SUSPECT, Page 2)

Cornell University Officials Impose Curfew Following Riots

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI)—The president of Cornell University early today ordered a campus curfew after 100 black students went on a rampage.

Dale R. Corson said "the curfew applies to all students, faculty and university employees not involved in security activities. Violators will be subject to immediate suspension or other disciplinary action, including possible criminal action."

Corson announced the 2 a.m. to 7 a.m. curfew after the students set a bonfire on top of the campus store building, broke about 65 windows and overturned a car.

The incident followed a week of demonstrations on the campus by both black and white students to protest the April 1 fire that destroyed the African Studies and Research Center. According to the Ithaca fire chief, a preliminary investigation of the $100,000 blaze "supports the theory that this fire was arson."

The trouble Wednesday night started when the students lighted a bonfire on top of the school store building, which is built underground and has a turfed roof at ground level. It did not cause any damage.

On a 45-minute walk back to their dormitories, the blacks threw rocks through about 65 windows, including nine large plate glass windows worth $2,700, overturned a small foreign car and broke windows on another auto.

On Monday, demonstrators took an estimated $3,000 worth of merchandise from the campus store. Apparently some of the merchandise was used to feed the bonfire Wednesday night.

North Viet Troops Shell Laotian Posts

VIENTIANE (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops used artillery for the first time in their 1970 Laotian offensive today, shelling one of the last government outposts still standing northeast of the Plain of Jars.

Military sources said North Vietnamese troops fired round after round of 105mm artillery into Bouam Long after failing in a pre-dawn attempt by 150 men to overrun the hilltop outpost.

ABOUT OTHER PEOPLE

Most People Ready To Talk

By BEN KECK
News Staff Writer

For a week now, census takers have been walking the streets of Pampa, knocking on doors and asking questions.

"People have been real nice," one enumerator said. "The only trouble I've had is not finding people at home."

But one of her co-workers said the people in her area aren't always so polite.

"They are reluctant to answer questions on the long form because someone has been circulating rumors we ask personal questions," she said. "The only personal question concerns income. It's a real headache when people won't cooperate."

For the most part, though, the headcounters had rather tell of amusing incidents concerning the job.

One enumerator told the story of a man who gave her not only the information she wanted from him, but clued her in on the rest of the neighborhood as well.

"He told me about everyone," she said. "He told me when they would be home, who the alcoholics were, who was divorced, who was re-married, and who not to call on unless I went home and got my husband."

Most of the census-takers agree — many of the people they interview are willing to speak for, or about, half the town.

"We just have to smile and take it in stride," one enumerator said. "These people have stories to tell us about their neighbors and their neighbors have a different story to tell about them. It's very funny sometimes."

Funny as it may be, taking the census can be hazardous.

Republicans Study Charges Against Justice Douglas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After four months of study, some House Republicans are near a decision whether to bring impeachment charges against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. The decision could come next Monday.

House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford launched a staff study on the possible impeachment in November, and he is reported very close to determining whether to proceed. Reps.

U.S. Photographers Missing In Viet War

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The government said today Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have forced its soldiers to pull back 25 miles from a stretch of the Vietnam border where eight foreigners, including two American photographers, are missing.

A military spokesman said all outposts in the so-called "Parrot's Beak" that jut to within 35 miles of Saigon have been abandoned and the troops have withdrawn 25 miles to Svay Rieng, capital of a province by the same name 70 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

Highway 1 from Phnom Penh to Saigon was reported closed and refugees were streaming out of the border region, where the government launched what had been hailed as a major counteroffensive earlier in the week.

The withdrawal announcement meant the eight missing foreigners—the Americans plus four Frenchmen and two Japanese newsmen—had little chance of being found or rescued if they have managed thus far to escape capture.

The Americans — freelance photographer Sean Flynn, son of the late Errol Flynn, and Dana Stone, on assignment for the Columbia Broadcasting System—disappeared after a government-supervised tour of the border area Sunday.

Villagers said they were captured.

Chamber Execs Evaluate Civic Needs

Committee chairmen met with Chamber of Commerce executive officers yesterday for a discussion of work projects for the remainder of 1970. Eleven heads of the chamber's 18 committees attended the session. Five others were unable to attend. The executive board consisted of Don Lane, president; Fancher, vice president; Earl Hagan, finance director; and E.O. Wedgworth, general manager. Heard progress reports on suggestions made at public meetings held in January. Probably the top major project was what members of the Civic Improvements Committee described as an "ever-growing need for a civic auditorium in Pampa." E.L. Green Jr. is the committee chairman. Don Cain's Education Committee will continue work on a program to inform high school graduates on job availabilities in Pampa with an aim to have those who do not plan to go on to college remain in Pampa. Another project of this committee is the annual reception and dinner for new teachers to be held in the Fall. The Highways and Transportation Committee, headed by Fred Thompson, is concerned with the Loop 171 and S. Cuyler highway projects. The committee is working on recommendations for improving traffic conditions at 23rd St. and Perryton Pkwy. and at the N. Hobart St. Y at 22nd St. Chairman Warren Fatheree of the Fire Prevention and Safety Committee reported the current planning being done for Pampa's annual Spring Cleanup to run through the month of May. Completion of the chamber's manpower survey to determine job availabilities in the city is nearing completion. Chairman Fred Neslage reported that more than 100 businesses have been contacted via the questionnaire route. The Oil and Gas Committee, headed by C.D. Zlomke, will be in charge of the April membership luncheon in Coronado Inn on April 27 at which time problems vital to oil and gas production in the area will be discussed. The committee also is collecting ancient oil field equipment to be placed in a proposed museum at Recreation Park. A new city map has just been completed and now is available by Jimmy McCune's Public Information Committee. The Retail Trade Committee, co-chaired by Dick Klein and John Gattis, is working on several sales promotions for the year. Another major project of this committee is the annual fall style show and beauty pageant which will be held again this year. The Sports and Recreation Committee is working on ways and means to provide additional recreational facilities for Pampa's young people. The committee, headed by George McCarroll, also assists in the promotion and handling of the annual Top O' Texas basketball tournament. The Pampa Chamber is participating in the Land of Coronado promotion program and efforts to direct inter-city traffic through Pampa. Harold Barrett, chairman of the Tourist Development Committee, reported that the city's welcome signs at the east and west entrances to Pampa are to be repainted. President Lane issued an appeal for all committee chairmen and members to urge inactive members to take a greater part in the chamber's affairs and especially urged a large attendance at monthly membership luncheons.

Oyster Crop Threatened By Louisiana Oilspill

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Louisiana Stream Control Commission executive secretary Robert Lafleur says the first of three mud samplings shows "no substantial" amount of oil in Louisiana coastal oyster beds. Lafleur, in Washington Wednesday and today to discuss the Chevron Oil Co. fire and oil spill off the Louisiana coast, made the statement to WDSU in New Orleans before he departed. Lafleur said the first of the three mud samplings he referred to was taken after the Chevron platform caught fire Feb. 10, but before the blaze was put out and oil began spilling March 10. Lafleur refused to speculate whether the second sampling, taken during the oil spill, or the third sampling, taken after the wells were capped, would prove the 20,000-barrel oil spill did not harm oysters. When asked about the possible detrimental effect of the oil spill on spawning shrimp, Lafleur said that the Federal Water Pollution Control Agency was checking into this matter and would make a determination. Lafleur said he intended discussing with Washington officials Chevron's use of chemicals in the water during the capping operation. Questions have been raised as to whether the chemicals used were safe for marine life. Meanwhile, Gov. John J. McKeithen was to appear before a federal grand jury investigating allegations that Chevron violated federal safety violations in 27 cases before the huge oil spill. McKeithen said he wants to tell the jury how discontinuance of federal lease sales in the gulf is hurting the state's economy. McKeithen met with Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, who asked for the grand jury investigation, in Washington this week. However, the governor said Hickel would not resume offshore sales until oil companies gave assurances safety regulations were being complied with. Search Goes On For Small Pup Who Bites Darla Jewett, the 14-year-old good Samaritan who rescued a small, eight-week-old puppy Monday, will still have to take a series of 21 rabies shots unless the puppy is found by Monday. "While riding her bike in the 100 block of S. Nelson, late Monday afternoon, Darla found the puppy whimpering in a hole and pulled him out. Before she could let him go, he bit her finger, just two small tooth punctures. That's all it takes for her to have to have those shots, if the puppy has not had his rabies shots," Darla's mother said. The puppy, described by Mrs. Jewett as a "small, about eight-weeks old, marked with several shades of dark brown hair, and black on his face, wore no collar or other identification. Anyone having a puppy of this description or anyone who has seen one like it, can contact Mrs. Jewett, at 9-3956, or her home address, 105 N. Dwight.

Congress Seeks To Bring Peace To Two Industries

By United Press International Labor action centered in the nation's capital today. Congress Wednesday enacted the first government-imposed contract settlement in the nation's history designed to bring peace to the railroad industry and seemed certain to pass a bill providing 6 per cent pay hikes for 5.6 million federal employees including postal workers and servicemen. Washington also was the scene of intense behind-the-scenes talks aimed at finding a suitable amnesty formula to end the 11-day air traffic controllers' "slowdown."

The House and Senate disregarded labor's opposition and passed legislation forcing acceptance by the sheet metal workers of a contract reached by four railroad shopcraft unions with the nation's railroads Dec. 4. President Nixon was expected to sign the measure quickly, possibly today. The $2.5 billion federal pay raise bill moved to the House from the Senate where it was approved by a lopsided 84 to 1 vote Wednesday. Congress plans to start work next week on other provisions, including an additional 3 per cent pay increase for postal workers only and a postal reform bill.

Large Drug Haul Taken In Dallas

DALLAS (UPI)—Narcotics detectives arrested a young man and woman late Wednesday and confiscated 107 pounds of marijuana, the largest stash ever impounded by Dallas police. Charles M. Yeager, a Democrat, said his dinner will be held the same night as the $50-a-plate hotel dinner of incumbent Rep. Charles Sandman, R-N.J. "The Republicans will meet in an ultra-expensive hotel dining room at a price far above what the average citizen could afford," Yeager said. "I think we'll have a lot more fun at our affair than the Republicans will have at theirs."

Churchgoer Turns Into "Swinger"

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 1964 cable car accident caused a former dance instructor and straitlaced churchgoer to become unduly amorous because she "reverted to the age of five when she craves to be close to another body." That was the testimony given by Dr. Andrew Watson, clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Michigan, Wednesday in the trial of Gloria Sykes. Miss Sykes, 29, is suing the city and county of San Francisco for $500,000, claiming the injuries she suffered in the cable car crash gave her an insatiable desire for sex. Watson, the first psychiatric expert witness for the defense, said the only way Miss Sykes could be close to another body was through sexual intercourse. He further testified that the accident made Miss Sykes frigid, "because she is getting no pleasure out of her numerous sexual relationships."

Three Small Girls Discovered In Abandoned Icebox

GARLAND, Tex. (UPI)—A woman discovered the bodies Wednesday of three small girls locked in an abandoned refrigerator behind a vacant house. They were Cheryl Lynn Cooper, 7, Wanda Fay Cooper, 5, and Audrey Eileen Cooper, 4. Their mother reported them missing Sunday. Mrs. Betty Jean Cooper told officers the children might have been taken to Oklahoma by their father. No major search was initiated because of this possibility, officers indicated. Police Sgt. W. A. Berry said there is a Garland city ordinance against junking a refrigerator unless the doors are removed or other precautions are taken to assure children cannot lock themselves inside.

Reception For Senate Candidate

31st Senatorial District candidate Max Sherman, (D) an Amarillo attorney, will be in Pampa tonight meeting his constituents at a reception planned for 7:30 p.m. in the Cibola Room of the Coronado Inn. He will be accompanied by his wife, Gene Alice.

Gas Explosion Wreaks Worst Havoc In Japan's Second City

OSAKA, Japan (UPI)—Police said 73 persons were killed and 282 injured in the rush-hour disaster Wednesday afternoon. The police had reported as many as 99 dead. Workers were repairing a 20-inch gas main when collected gas in a partially completed subway tunnel exploded, triggering a chain of blasts and ensuing fires. Police said the first eruption was touched off by the ignition system of a repair truck. The disaster occurred in a busy shopping area near Tenroku (Sixth Heaven) Railway Station, 9.3 miles from Japan's Expo '70 world's fair. Many of the victims had gathered as sidewalk superintendents watching workers of the Osaka Gas Co. repair a leak in a gas main in the subway tunnel. "Suddenly, many of the assembled people were thrown into the subway," said Tomi Matsumoto, 50, "chunks of concrete fell into the pit and automobiles parked nearby tilted toward the tunnel." The blasts catapulted the tunnel's 700-pound concrete cover slabs hundreds of yards. Fires burned four hours and destroyed 30 nearby buildings. Prime Minister Eisaku Sato sent two cabinet members to supervise relief operations. The National Police Agency ordered an investigation to determine whether negligence caused the tragedy. Police used patrol cars and hailed scores of taxicabs to take the injured to 26 hospitals, some so jammed with the burned and bleeding that the injured were laid out in corridors and in offices. At Toyonaki Higashi Grade School, Principal Toshitichi Kitatsuji assembled his 400 pupils in the play yard this morning and told them "Five of your classmates were killed and five were hurt. Please pray for their souls." At Taiyo-Ji, a Buddhist temple, 13 coffins draped in white were placed on straw mats with candles burning by each. Names of the dead were written on 11 of the coffins. The bodies in the other two were charred beyond recognition.

Killings, Talks Incompatible

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Habib warned the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese today their "attacks push GI losses to a seven-month high are 'not compatible' with peace talks." The chief American negotiator took a tough statement into the 62nd session of the negotiations after Saigon announced 138 GIs were killed in the Communist offensive last week—the highest death toll in seven months. Habib accused the guerrillas of having openly violated the neutrality, sovereignty and integrity of Laos and Cambodia by sending troops into those two nations despite professing to honor their neutrality. "There has been recently a marked increase in the level of military action by your forces in South Vietnam," Habib told the Communists. "These attacks are not compatible with serious negotiations." Nguyen Van Thien and Nguyen Minh Vy, the Viet Cong and Hanoi deputy negotiators, said the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam was the step needed to unlock the door to peace in Southeast Asia. "We demand a rapid, total and unconditional withdrawal of all American forces from South Vietnam as the key to peace in South Vietnam and as a contribution to the solution of the problems of Laos and Cambodia," Thien said. Habib's statement said it was time for the Communist side to stop talking in terms of "unreasonable demands for action on our part without any indication of what Hanoi is prepared to do." The allusion was to the presence of an estimated 63,000 North Vietnamese troops in Laos and another 20,000 to 30,000 in Cambodia, along with those already fighting in South Vietnam. For the 17th successive week, North Vietnam's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, boycotted the talks in his protest against President Nixon's decision not to replace the former U.S. chief delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, with a high-ranking diplomat.

It was placed in a stainless steel box, where two 12-volt batteries are pumping fluid through the organ at just above freezing temperatures. Impurities will be screened out and protein fed in.

Bike Taken From Home

Police this morning were continuing to investigate the theft of a bicycle Wednesday from the 1200 block of Christine street. According to reports, Jerry Callahan, 1321 Terrace St., told police he left a red Stingray bicycle at the address on Christine Wednesday afternoon. Callahan said the bicycle was borrowed from a friend. Police estimated the theft occurred around 5:00 p.m. The bicycle is valued at $15. A baseball glove was also taken with the bike. Value of the glove is $6. Police also are continuing the investigation of vandalism of an automobile Wednesday morning at Pampa High School.

Police Seek Hit-And-Run

Police this morning were continuing the search for a vehicle that allegedly left the scene of an accident Wednesday afternoon. According to reports, an automobile owned by Lee Riggins of White Deer was parked on the lot of a supermarket in the 400 block of North Ballard street when the vehicle being sought backed into it. Damages to Riggins car were estimated at $150.

(Continued from Page 1) tell different stories at different times about the same event. He also said Lach's stories drifted and he was very evasive. "At one time he would mention a murder and the next time he wouldn't know anything about it," Hunter said. Results The Same Lubbock clinical psychologist Dr. Murray R. Kovnar, the only defense witness, said "I gave him the same tests after returning from Rusk that I gave him before he went and basically they were the same results." Kovnar said Lach was "out of touch with reality." Sarah Alice Morgan, 54, was found slain in a laboratory in the science building at Texas Tech University. Her throat was slit with the scalpel and the slayer attempted to decapitate the woman with a bone saw. Both weapons were recovered in the lab. Lach was apprehended following a chase through Lubbock which ended at a cemetery. Lach confessed to the slaying shortly after he was arrested. Police speculated Lach went to the lab to steal test papers and was surprised by the woman.

DISTRIBUTES POSTERS

MADRID (UPI)—The U.S. Embassy has distributed posters in a campaign to make the increasing American hippie colony in Spain aware of the nation's strict laws against use of drugs. "Spain is a colorful nation for tourists but you can't see its many attractions from behind prison walls," the poster warned. It said 12 Americans are serving long prison terms in Spain for drug conviction.

Plum-glazed drumettes—glamorized chicken wings.

Plum-Glazed Chicken Makes Different Entree

Inexpensive chicken wings always have been ideal for making chicken soup. Many supermarket chains offer separate packs of chicken wings and an ingenious cook turns them into miniature drumsticks for an entree that is different. The "drumettes" also make good nibbling at a party and may be prepared in advance and frozen.

For the miniature drumsticks, remove the wing tip and cut the wing in two at the joint. Kitchen shears are good for this. Marinate at least an hour in a fruit sauce of purple plums, soy, vinegar, brown sugar with touches of garlic and ginger. Bake in a portion of the sauce and save the remaining marinade to dip the tiny "legs." The plum marinade also is good to baste a cut-up fryer chicken for a main dish and goes well with spare ribs.

PLUM-GLAZED DRUMETTES

1 (1-lb.) can or jar purple plums

3 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 clove garlic, minced, or garlic salt
2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon ginger
3 to 4 lbs. chicken wings

Use halved pitted plums or pit whole plums. Place in blender container with plum syrup, soy, vinegar, brown sugar, garlic, Worcestershire and ginger. Blend until smooth. Or puree fruit in food mill and mix with seasonings. Remove tips from chicken wings and cut in half at joints. Reserve ½ cup plum mixture for a dip. Pour remaining plum mixture over chicken wings and let marinate at least 1 hour. Remove chicken wings from marinade and place in oiled baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes, basting frequently with remaining plum marinade.

Cranberries Offer Bright Salad Idea

Cranberries do more than brighten a meal. The legend is that early American sailors made use of the tart fruit's high Vitamin C content to ward off scurvy.

Most cooks turn to the cranberry for aesthetic reasons but, with growing emphasis on the nutritional value of foods and our health, consider the jolly cranberry chock full of minerals and vitamins. Use in salads and serve with meat or fish (protein) dishes for a completely balanced meal.

CRANBERRY-YOGURT FROZEN SALAD

1 package (3 oz.) pineapple gelatin
½ cup boiling water
3 cups (1½ pints) yogurt
1 can (12 oz.) mandarin oranges, sliced
1 can (8 oz.) whole berry cranberry sauce

Bite-sized greens
¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup cranberry juice cocktail

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Cool. Stir gelatin into yogurt. Fold in orange sections and cranberry sauce. Pour mixture into a foil-lined 8-inch square pan. Cover with foil and freeze until hard. Remove from pan by pulling out foil. Cut into oblongs, using a sharp knife. Place servings on a bed of bite-sized greens. Mix mayonnaise and cranberry juice. Spoon dressing over each serving. Makes 8 servings.

CRANBERRY-AMBROSIA SALAD

4 large navel oranges, peeled and sliced
Rite-sized salad greens
1 can (1 lb.) jelled cranberry sauce, cubed
1 can (3½ oz.) flaked coconut
"Dressing"
½ cup cranberry-apple drink
1 tablespoon lime juice
2 tablespoons salad oil
Dash of salt

Arrange orange slices on a bed of greens. Pile cranberry cubes in the center of the platter. Sprinkle with coconut.

Sparkling cranberry salads brighten meals.

Fry Meat Loaf In Special Sauce

A well-seasoned meat loaf served with a lively sauce makes welcome eating at any meal.

MEAT LOAF with VEGETABLE SAUCE
2 pounds ground chuck
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup finely chopped onion
2 eggs, beaten
1-3 cup water or canned chicken broth
1 envelope Swiss garden vegetable soup mix
1 (plus one-third) cups water
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup water

Lightly mix together ground beef, bread crumbs, onion, eggs, and one-third cup water or stock. Reserve 2 tablespoons soup mix, then lightly mix remainder into meat mixture. Shape into loaf in metal baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven.

Versatile Pot Roast Economical

A good pot roast recipe makes even an indifferent cook a star in the kitchen. Such a meat dish years ago grew out of the need to use economical cuts of beef and yet come up with a piece of meat tender and tasty. Pot roast continues to fill the bill for still another generation.

The key is the marinade which acts to break down sinewy fibers in less expensive cuts of beef and yet let the eater get the full nutritional value of the meat.

A pot roast is a dream of a leftover dish since it makes good hot or cold sandwiches and may be cut up for a meat salad.

POT ROAST
¼ cup Chianti wine (or ¼ cup lemon juice and ½ cup water)
2 tablespoons dark corn syrup
4 slices uncooked bacon, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 medium onion, sliced
2 cloves garlic, sliced
2 bay leaves
4 cloves
½ teaspoon ground ginger or 1 slice cooked ginger

root (optional)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3- to 4-lb. boned rump pot roast
¼ cup corn oil
1½ cups water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 lemon, thinly sliced
Mix together wine, corn

Help protect yourself against cancer: have an annual health checkup including cancer tests, says the American Cancer Society.

There's only one thing worse than finding out about cancer — not finding out. Success of treatment depends on early diagnosis. Have an annual health checkup, urges the American Cancer Society.

By United Press International
HOLLYWOOD—Bob Hope, as master of ceremonies at the Academy Awards presentations, kidding the nude scenes in today's movies:
"They are putting things on the screen that the French wouldn't allow on postcards."

syrup, bacon, onion, garlic, bay leaves, cloves, ginger, salt and pepper in large bowl. Pierce pot roast all over with fork. Place in marinade and refrigerate at least 4 hours or overnight, turning at least once.
Remove meat; reserving marinade. Heat corn oil in Dutch oven or large, heavy pot over medium heat. Add meat and brown on all sides 15 to 20 minutes. Stir 1 cup water into reserved marinade. Pour over meat. Cover and simmer 2 to 2½ hours or until meat is tender. Remove meat.
Pour or skim off excess fat from surface of gravy. Blend cornstarch and remaining ½-cup water. Stir into gravy. Stirring constantly, bring to boil and boil 2 minutes. Place pot roast back in gravy and keep hot until served. Garnish with lemon slices. Makes 6 to 8 servings; (3 cups gravy).

Washington Report

Bob Price
 BOB PRICE NEWSPAPER, TEXAS

The 18-year-old vote has been the subject of much debate. The Pro and Con arguments can be summarized as follows:
Pro:
 Due to rising levels of education, youths of today are better qualified to vote than past generations. Those old enough to fight for our country are old enough to vote.
 Since in many respects, persons of 18 are legally responsible for their actions, consistency demands that they also be allowed to vote.
 Participation in politics through exercising the right to vote is an important aspect of training youth for good citizenship.

These figures speak for themselves. A substantial majority of today's youth are gainfully employed and are bona fide taxpayers.
 Perhaps the chief criticism about lowering the voting age centers on the supposed "immaturity" of young people. I have always been troubled by this argument because although age is certainly a recognized index of immaturity, it may not be the best index. For example: What can be said for the maturity of the individuals, who recently tipped over the school buses in Lamar, South Carolina? How politically and socially mature are college professors and others who advocate violence as the best solution to social problems? Are the Chicago 7 mature individuals? They are all over 21.
 In deciding whether or not to lower the voting age to 18, I firmly believe that Congress should confine itself to considering the question in the form of a constitutional amendment. The U.S. Constitution provides that states not the federal government have the primary authority to establish voting age limitations. Accordingly, to take any other approach would infringe upon states rights.
 Regrettably, Congress is presently considering this issue in the form of a bill rather than a constitutional amendment. The Senate has voted to lower the voting age to 18, and as attached its proposal to the House passed National Voting Rights Act. This Act, which is supported, is designed to replace the ill-conceived Voting Rights Act of 1965, which has created substantial abuses of federal power in our sister southern states. The Nixon sponsored National Voting Rights Act, in contrast, ends his regional discrimination and treats all states as equal under the law.
 As a result of the Senate action, however, the House will be forced to vote on a package proposal. The National Voting Rights Act and the proposal to lower the voting age will be considered together, not separately as I would prefer.
 For the reasons stated, my decision on how to cast your vote will not be an easy one. As your elected representative,

TO CONDUCT SERVICES
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Rev. John Huffman, 29, President Nixon's pastor in Key Biscayne, Fla., will conduct religious services at the White House April 19.
 Huffman, a Presbyterian from Boston and a graduate of Wheaton (Ill.) College, preaches sermons geared to young people and in their "hip" language, the White House said Monday in making the announcement.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 Every developing country has its special problems, but the Sudan, seemingly about to emerge from another crisis, has more than most.
 Since emerging via a bloodless coup d'etat on May 25, 1969, the current government has survived five attempts to overthrow it. The violence which broke out in late March with the attempted assassination of Chief of State Maj. Gen. Jaafar Muhammad Al-Nimeiry, is the sixth.
 Beginning with the proclamation of independence from combined British and Egyptian rule on Jan. 1, 1956, the country has had five changes of leadership, most of them violent.
 Current leadership has proclaimed Sudan a single party Socialist republic, and moved it from a position of "positive neutrality" to alignment with Arab nationalism, hatred for Israel and a military alliance with the United Arab Republic and Libya. It is under a strong Marxist influence. About a third of its cabinet members are avowed Communists.
Cotton Staple
 Lying between the white and blue Nile Rivers and deriving a large income from long staple cotton the country should be reasonably prosperous.
 But its foreign exchange reserves stand at less than zero as result of expensive tastes in foreign imports, political corruption and the long civil war. The Sudan's present difficulties spring both from the leftist nature of the Al-Nimeiry government and the fact that it has banned traditional parties.

First Bachelor In Outer Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Thomas Kenneth Mattingly II, America's first bachelor spaceman, had a passion for flying and a keen desire to stand on the moon and gaze up at the earth in his childhood.
 Mattingly, now 34 and an astronaut, still has both. And with Apollo 13 he gets a chance almost, but not quite, to achieve that boyhood dream.
 Making his first flight in space as the command module pilot for America's third lunar landing mission, Mattingly will remain in moon orbit while his two crewmates explore the surface.
 It took four years for Mattingly to get his first flight, and he found the long wait "a little discouraging." But he is happy with the assignment, he said, and plans to stick around after Apollo 13 for another flight all the way to the lunar surface.
 "Space is the thing I'm more interested in than any other subject," he said. "This is what I'd do if I had all the money in the world."
 "If I were anywhere else and someone gave me a week off and said you can do anything you like, I'd probably come down to Houston and wander around the manned spacecraft center."
 Mattingly grew up in a small gray house on To-To-Lo-Chee Drive in Hialeah, Fla., not far from where his father worked as an Eastern Airlines maintenance supervisor.

Make Spring Gardening A Happy Family Affair

Spring gardening can become more fun and less of a chore when it is a family affair with everyone pitching in. What's more, almost every member of the family can find unexpected pleasure in the gardening project if the planning includes incentives and rewards as well as work assignments.

Perhaps Dad would like a scheduled spot in the backyard where he can get away from it all to relax... a kind of outdoor den. Mom might want to start an old-fashioned rock garden like her mother used to have. The teenaged athlete might yearn for a badminton or volleyball court.

The young deb might like her own flower garden to provide colorful cut flowers for her room all Summer long. The little members of the family may get a kick out of quick-growing vegetable gardens; and they are sure to enjoy helping to create their own place to play.

It is important to have such tangible rewards held out as incentives. While a great number of people find pleasure in the various chores which go to make up the gardening hobby, some members of the family may consider such mundane activities as raking, weeding, pruning, and sowing grass seed as simply something to get out of the way first before the fun part begins. And when these chores are divided among everyone in the family they can be finished and forgotten in practically no time at all.

The American Association of Nurserymen has suggested some steps which should be observed by the family that decides to garden together. The first step is to develop the overall plan for the Spring gardening project. This step, like all the rest, will be accomplished more successfully and with more fun if the family approaches it together as a team.

Dad may want his outdoor den surrounded by tall, dense shrubbery, but the girls in the family might have some ideas for brightening it up with colorful flowers. Sis may have some very firm ideas of what kind of flowers she wants in her garden, but Dad may have some valuable tips to offer on such things as draining and the right location for morning sunlight. The showplace garden that mother has in mind might need to be moved to another corner of the yard in order to make room for a badminton court. All of these factors and more can be easily worked out on paper.

It's a good idea to draw a rough but fairly accurate diagram of your yard to assist in the planning. In fact, this part of the project can be taken over with great gusto by the youngsters. Where there are trees and plants which will not be moved, have the young draftsmen pace off the distances so the diagram will show them in the right place. If the ground slopes substantially, this should be indicated on the drawing.

Now you're ready to spend an evening drawing in the changes and additions you'll want to make this Spring. You may discover a number of questions which have to be answered before you can make your plans final. The right kind of plants for the various soil conditions in your yard; the right way to achieve some special effects you wish for; the proper method of planting certain items you have in mind; questions like these may send you to your nearby nurseryman for the right answers. The point is to make the plans and solve the problems on paper before your outside activity begins.

The next step is to check your supply of primary equipment. Every member of the family gardening group is going to enjoy his participation a great deal more if you have a few really good tools.

Some of the tools you'll need as a minimum are a spade or long-handled shovel, a spading fork for turning over and for loosening soil, a trowel, a rake, a hoe, hand pruners, and a watering can or garden hose.

You'll find it very inexpensive to pamper yourself and the family with the right tools for each job. Many of them come in sizes to accommodate the different members of the family. Spades, for instance, come in "ladies' sizes" to make work easier for the distaff side.

When you have decided to make Spring gardening a family affair, developed your plan, found answers to whatever questions you may have, and made sure you have the proper tools and equipment to make things easy for yourselves, you're ready to go to work.

This final word, though, don't make work of it. Avoid attempting to accomplish too much at any one time so that everyone in the family ends up tired and discouraged. Spread the project out over two or three weekends and leave plenty of time left over for relaxation and play.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

ORIENTAL WOMAN
DEAR WIFE: You have said it well enough.

DEAR ABBY: There is a situation that "bugs" me no end. I am an avid TV fan and watch it from 7 a.m. until midnight almost every day, and an increasing number of actors appearing on some of my favorite programs are letting their hair grow longer and longer. I have watched some formerly good-looking actors transformed into something rather sickening. I am more than tempted to cease support of these programs and the products that sponsor them.

I wonder how many other viewers feel as I do about it? Some of them look like aging Buster Browns or women who need shaves!

I have accepted the style changes in clothes, but this long hair trend makes me ill. What can be done?

MARY IN VICTORIA
DEAR MARY: Nothing. I know what you mean because I, too, have had trouble recognizing some of my old heroes. But don't let it bug you, Mary. Hair today. Gone tomorrow!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAROL": No matter how "fast" a guy is, he can't be faster than sound. And the "sound" should be no!

Phi Epsilon Beta members and guests participated recently in an Around the World Dinner with members attending dressed as residents of other countries.

Foods from other countries were prepared and served for the dinner at the Southwestern Public Service Rody Room.

Guests were Mmes. Randy Slavick, Tim Lease, John Hoke, Robert Thacker, Larry Gox, Wilbur Walls and Len Mixon. Fifteen members attended.

Twelve members, their children and guests also met recently for an Easter Egg hunt. Guests were Mona Parsley, Howard Schaub, Nacie Rodgers, Mrs. R.E. Horton and Cindy, and Wilma Harris and Patricia Dordy.

Music Teachers Organize Formal 12-Piano Recital

More than 200 area piano students will perform 17 musical selections in the first formal Mass Piano Recital organized by the Pampa Music Teachers Association. Performances will start at 8 p.m. Saturday in Robert E. Lee Junior High School auditorium.

Students ranging in age from first grade to seniors in high school will perform folk tunes, novelty numbers, classical, traditional, patriotic songs and modern music, according to Mrs. Harris Brinson, association president.

Teachers will begin the program with "Star Spangled Banner," and will play two other selections, main theme from "Exodus," and "Prelude in C sharp minor by Rachmaninoff." A group of 14 boys will perform the "Parade of Toy Soldiers," "America" is the selection chosen for the high school girls group.

Other numbers in the 12-piano recital are "Grandfather's Clock," "Alphabet Song," "This Old Man," "We'll Go Fishing In A Crawdad Hole," "Chiapanecas," "Concerts In Chords," "Changing Places," "Clap It Boogie," "Shortenin' Bread," "The Camel Train," "Strauss For Two," "Deep River Fantasy," "Hungarian Dance No. 5," "Jazz Pizzicato," and Mozart "Minuet."

Teachers are Mmes. Brinson, Lois Fagan, W.H. Fuller, Eddie Milligan, Charles Parr, Carl Snafer, Jerry Stewart, Donald Walberg, Calvin Whatley and Fidella Yoder.

The best way to avoid skin cancer is using caution in the sun. Cover up; wear a hat; use protective lotions. The American Cancer Society says it's just common sense to prevent a common form of cancer.

FRIDAY, APRIL 10.
Your birthday Friday: Your desire to consolidate and reorganize your life and your holdings leads to achievement this year. Everything you do takes more energy than you habitually put forth, thus creating new challenges for you. The wisdom most needed now is the judgment of what is essential and what is merely expansion for its own sake.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Use your head rather than your muscles now. Conferences, travel, visits are more likely to be successful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Changes you have been planning for a long while can go into effect now with the least amount of fuss.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Sociable activity brings vibrant interest into all departments of your life Friday. Look around for connections and ideas — keep rather complete notes of details.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Take yourself out of the center of the scene. Let others show off, while you quietly make arrangements which are needed to keep everything running.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Formal occasions come off well Friday. People arriving from far places bring news, interesting opportunities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Everything you do Friday is quite readily visible to all who care, so make the best of it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Press any legal matters you may have in mind. Allow for time to think where you are going, what sort of world you want to make for yourself in both near future and long range.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Financing and refinancing are favored. Rearrange your assets, take inventory. Your work now should attract attention and perhaps added rewards.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Close collaboration is easier Friday, make a joint appeal for better working conditions. Charter a group for an independent venture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Use your best salesmanship.

PRACTICING TOGETHER and reviewing music they will play in the first Mass Piano Recital Saturday are six of the 12 high school girls who will perform "America" for their part of the 12-piano recital. Seated at pianos are Cindy Presnell, Debbie Wood, Roberta Brown, and Carol Rose, with Kenda Hester and Brenda Vick checking the music. Other high school girls who will perform in the "America" numbers are Janice Wing, Tressa Willis, Bredo Wilson, Gail Duncan, Charlotte Hopkins, and Vicky Hopkins. The Pampa Music Teachers Association will direct and perform in the program at 8 p.m. Saturday in Robert E. Lee Junior High School Auditorium.

YOUNG BOYS REHEARSING for their piano recital don't always sit as prim and proper as they do when they know their parents and friends are watching them perform. Eleven boy pianists, snipped while waiting for rehearsal to start, are Zack Brinson, Roy Dean Caldwell, Gary Jackson, Stan Williams, Scott Alexander, Michael Lancaster, Craig Allen, Mark Lehnick, Keith Coffee and Floyd Baxter. Three other boys who will perform in the 8 p.m. recital Saturday are Gary Higgins, Gary Sanders and Bradley Cox. (Staff Photos)

Create Own Outdoor Livability

By SHEILA and ALLAN SWENSON
NEA Garden Specialists

Whether you have only small garden space or the sweeping expanse of a suburban home, you can create real livability with good landscaping.

Plan early! Consider activities most rewarding to you and your family. If the area is large, section it off into a play or recreation area for children or adults. Plan a relaxing or entertaining area, too. In a small yard, use every inch of available space to create single activity area that can double as space for garden cookouts or cocktail parties and the scene of evening relaxation.

First consideration in landscaping is privacy. In a large yard, trees and high shrubs or hedges are most desirable. You may want an attractive fence as backdrop. Climbing roses,

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market has been backing and filling ever since the brief rally inspired by the prime rate cut. However, Alexander Hamilton Institute observes, the underlying trend seems to be upward. It recommends that investors use near-term rallies to dispose of questionable speculative stocks selling at high price-earnings ratios and anticipate a pickup in the economy during the second and third quarters.

Forget fundamentals and news for a while, says Hoppin Bros. & Co. Purely technical and psychological forces are motivating the market at present. "Some of the most astute professionals, along with the most naive amateurs," equate the performance of the Dow-Jones industrial average with that of the whole stock market and are waiting for the average to push above 800 before they will believe the bear market has ended, the firm notes. "Once this mechanistic bugaboo is removed from the minds of the people who have money to invest, the restoration of confidence can follow easily," it says.

A sustained advance seems unlikely at this time, says TPO Inc. Most stocks, it notes, still must undergo a lengthy period of adjustment before turning decisively upward. Some of the leading glamor stocks, however, have performed well recently and could provide some buoyancy in an erratic market. The firm recommends purchases in selectively strong equities which have maintained major uptrends.

Walston & Co. detects "a change of atmosphere for the better" in the stock market. Dozens of issues are starting to reach new highs for the year 1970, the firm says. The market is beginning to get accustomed to an abundance of disappointing first-quarter earnings reports and is "looking beyond the valley to a possible upturn in the business cycle as summer and autumn come along."

Flight Plan For Lunar Walk Told

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—A day-by-day list of highlights from the flight plan of Apollo 13, America's third lunar landing, set for launch April 11 at 2:13 p.m. EST with astronauts James A. Lovell, Thomas K. Mattingly and Fred W. Haise.

Saturday, April 11—Launch, television from earth orbit, blast out toward the moon.

Sunday, April 12—Course correction opportunity, television, mandatory course change to take dead aim on the moon.

Monday, April 13—Course correction opportunity.

Tuesday, April 14—Television, final outward-bound course adjustment chance, blast into lunar orbit.

Wednesday, April 15—Television of landing site from altitude of nine miles, Lovell and Haise make moon landing at 9:55 p.m.

Thursday, April 16—Two televised moonwalks by Lovell and Haise to other rocks; Mattingly conducts scientific experiments in lunar orbit.

Friday, April 17—Blast off from lunar surface, television, jettison empty landing craft and crash it into moon.

Saturday, April 18—Start back toward earth, two television shows.

Sunday, April 19—First homeward-bound chance to adjust course.

Monday, April 20—Course correction opportunity, final telecast.

Tuesday, April 21—Last chance to correct aim, splash down.

Space Industry Men Lose Jobs

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (UPI)—Throughout the vast American aerospace industry men are losing their jobs.

Sometimes the decision about who goes is made impersonally by computer. "If we don't get one of the contracts we're trying for," a Houston employee of a California firm said recently, "the computers already are programmed to spit out 2,500 names for a layoff."

But when General Electric, which operates the soon-to-close Mississippi rocket test range for the space agency, had to drop 120 of its Mississippi employees—about one tenth its staff—the decision was painstakingly handled on a man-by-man basis.

"There could be nothing harder for me to do," General

Ice Cream Store Operator Helped Train Astronauts

BREA, Calif. (UPI)—S. I. Jimenez helped train American astronauts to handle the controls of the Apollo space vehicle and prides himself on his efficiency and his orderly mind.

As operator of a Tastee Freez stand here, he's been plagued by the snail's pace of a crew doing street work on Imperial Highway and blocking the entrance to his place.

"They're widening the street to make a right hand turn lane," groaned Jimenez. "Man, are they incompetent. For three and a half months they had me closed off."

At 44, Jimenez, a Navy flyer and former lieutenant commander, had to start a new career after he was let out by North American Rockwell's Space Division because of cutbacks in the Apollo program.

"I never thought I'd end up here," he laughed mischievously. "The only way you can get here is by accident."

NOT FAST ENOUGH
SOUTH CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Three fugitives from the West Virginia Penitentiary found out the long arm of the law is fast too. State police spotted the trio staggering down a rural road near here Monday. Officers ordered the fugitives to halt but they took off running with the policemen in hot pursuit. The policemen won the foot race. Police said the prisoners apparently got drunk and then wrecked their stolen car. They were jailed to await transfer back to prison.

BEGINS CONVERSION
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Three-fourths of all letters now bear a zip code. Therefore, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said Monday, the post office will begin a nationwide conversion to a computerized sorting system.

The conversion will begin in Detroit, Houston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Calif., Chicago, Dayton, and Oakland, and spread nationwide by August.

Laurie's Death Investigated

DENISON, Tex. (UPI)—Grayson County Sheriff Woody Blanton said today three Texas Rangers had been called in to assist in the investigation in the murder of Laurie Stevens.

Funeral services for the 11-year-old girl were held today. The Rangers entered the case Monday, and all three immediately began searching the field in which the young girl's body was found. She had been shot six times, apparently after she was thrown from a car into a ditch in the field.

"We are working around the clock on this thing," Grayson County Sheriff Woody Blanton said Monday. "We're checking out every possibility but we haven't come up with anything yet."

Laurie was apparently kidnapped and killed as she walked from her fifth grade classes last Wednesday. Her bullet-riddled body was found Friday in a ditch four miles northwest of Denison.

Police speculate Laurie's could be connected with last September's killing of Donna Marie Gollist, 7, of nearby Sherman. Donna Marie, who also disappeared on her way home from school, was run over several times with a car.

Masters Crowd, FBI Watch Player

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The eyes of the crowd, including some very sharp ones belonging to the FBI, were on Gary Player and other members of golf's "big three" in the opening round of the 34th Masters tournament today, but the winner could be somebody nobody's watching.

"I've been told some FBI agents are present," revealed tournament Chairman Clifford Roberts, referring to the special protection being given Player here because of threats of harassment made against the South African star by black militants who don't like his nation's apartheid racial policies.

It's a first in the colorful history of the Masters for a player to be given special security, but the Masters promoters are determined there'll be no repetition of the incident last August in Dayton, Ohio, when demonstrators jostled Player and threw ice at him during the PGA championship. The Masters always has tight security, and prospects for demonstrations here appeared slim.

Player, the only foreigner ever to win the Masters, and his fellow members of the "big three"—Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer—are the slight favorites in the 72-hole competition over the rich, verdant, par-72 Augusta National Country Club course, but they're favorites more or less by default because there is no single stickout competitor.

Actually, none of the "big three" has won the Masters since Nicklaus' third triumph in 1966. But they are favored here because none of the last three winners of the title—George Archer (1969), Bob Goalby (1968), and Gay Brewer (1967)—has won anything much since those triumphs.

But there might have been a hint of surprises to come in the "Par Three" nine-hole competition Wednesday which always is staged as a "masters prelude." South Africa's Harold Henning took the silver-plate first prize by shooting a 21. Nicklaus was one of a bunch at 22—but in the same group were a number of guys whose names aren't exactly household words, fellows like Maurice Bembridge of England, Davey Marr, Dick Sikes, and Dick Siderow. So, in what could be the most wide-open Masters field in many a year, the man who dons the green coat Sunday evening as the new Masters champion could be somebody nobody's picking on Thursday.

Denver Nabs Tie In 152-113 Battle

By United Press International
The Denver Rockets have clinched at least a tie for the American Basketball Association's Western Division title, but it took two battles for them to do it.

The first battle was the season-long uphill struggle that carried them from last to first place, and the second battle occurred in a brawl-marred 152-113 victory over the Dallas Chaps Wednesday night.

Spencer Haywood, probably the rookie of the year and player of the year in the league, pulled down 26 rebounds and scored 40 points and Byron Beck and Larry Jones each added 19 points for the Rockets. The team set an ABA record with a staggering total of 93 rebounds compared to 55 for Dallas and also surpassed a club scoring record.

However, two fights broke out in the fourth quarter to mar the game, and Denver's Ben Warley was ejected. Warley had tossed the ball at Dallas' Reinhold Lochmann and then knocked him down. The other fight involved Denver's Walt Piatkowski and Dallas' Billy McMill, but neither player was removed.

The Washington Caps kept their slim hopes for the Western title alive with a 141-137 victory over the Miami Floridians. A Denver victory or a Washington defeat in either club's remaining four games would give the Rockets the title.

BIG THREE?

'Umpires Never Beat Anybody'

By DAN PACKARD
Sports Editor

Harvester Baseball Coach Buddy Williams disagrees with the talk going around District 4-AAA baseball circles that "the only way to beat Pampa at home is to have five runs before the game even starts," because of the so-called "hometown" umpiring.

"Umpires never beat anybody and they didn't beat Caprock," asserts Williams.

Pampa's 10-hit attack and southpaw hurler Sammy Heasley's four-hit, nine-strikeout performance in Tuesday's 11-2 victory over the Longhorns at Optimist Park adds plenty of strength to Williams' statement.

However, even the most fanatical Harvester fans had their doubts about a call at the plate in the second inning. Pampa third baseman Tommy Hawkins, caught in a rundown between third and home was ruled safe after he was apparently tagged out by Longhorn first sacker Jody

Crawford several feet from the plate.

As Williams explained the call, "There never should have been a rundown in the first place. The pitcher (Kenneth Cole) balked and Hawkins should have scored anyway. He was ruled safe because the first baseman caught the ball with both hands and slapped the runner across the shoulder with his glove while holding the ball a few inches away in his right hand."

Pampa's explosive hitting and strong pitching have posted some impressive statistics this season.

Lomny Ward placed a single in his first time at bat this season to start his batting average at 1.000. Dale Ammons went three for three to hike his percentage to .471. Following at .353 is Dan Hood. A total of six Harvesters boast averages of more than .300.

Pampa's talented mound staff has given up only eight earned runs in nine games and has totaled an earned run average of .91 with 88 strikeouts. Doug Thompson and Heasley have 3 victories apiece. Thompson, a junior, has twirled 21 innings and has whiffed 31 hitters; Heasley has set down 30 opponents in 19 frames.

Golf Match Slated

Pampa Country Club will host the fourth round of the five-match struggle for the District 4-AAA golf title Friday at 2 p.m.

The Harvester golfers, paced by seniors Jackie Glider, Sherwin Cox and Junior Gregg White, currently hold down the eighth spot in the 10-team standings. Monterey commands first place, followed by Plainview, Lubbock, Borger, Caprock, Coronado, Amarillo High, Pampa, Tascosa and Palo Duro.

The "B" linksters rank sixth in their division. Pampa will end its season April 17 in the district meet on the Amarillo Air Force Base course.

Borger Meet Poses Test

Pampa thinclads will join a talent-splendid field in the Bulldog Relays at Borger Saturday at 11:30 a.m. Finals fill start at 6:30 p.m.

The Harvesters, who finished second behind Palo Duro in the snow-shortened Amarillo Relays, will compete alongside Plainview, Coronado, Dumas, Perryton, Borger, Canyon, Hereford and Muleshoe.

"This will be a really tough meet," commented Coach Ed Lehnick. "Lewis Davis and Scotty King should score some points for us in the shot and discus events but basically we're just a young bunch working hard."

Davis won the discus event at the Amarillo Relays Friday with a toss of 149-4 and captured second place in the shot with a 53-3 effort.

Junior Kenneth Coyle, who qualified for the 120-yard hurdles-finals which were never held at Amarillo will face a supreme test when he lines up against Randy Lightfoot of Plainview. Lightfoot is recognized a son of the fastest hurdlers in the state.

Baltimore, California Whip AL Opponents

By United Press International
The Baltimore Orioles beat Cleveland by a 3-2 count Wednesday when Mike Cuellar, 23-11 last year, made three second-inning runs stand up.

Andy Etchebarren scored on a passed ball with the bases loaded, and Mark Belanger followed with a two-run single and that was enough to beat Barry Moore.

The Orioles got just five hits off three Indian pitchers but they didn't need any more than that. Cuellar was touched for a homer by Tony Horton in the fourth and gave up another run in the eighth on Larry Brown's triple and Eddie Leon's sacrifice fly. But Cuellar was in control all the way as he struck out four and walked three.

Elsewhere in the American League, California blanked Milwaukee, 6-1. Detroit dined Washington, 3-0, and Kansas City beat Oakland, 2-0.

In the National League, St. Louis beat Montreal, 7-2. Atlanta drubbed San Diego, 6-1.

The score was just 2-1 for seven innings as Brewer starter Marty Pattin gave up seven hits. But the Angels jumped on his relievers for two runs in each of the last two innings. Tom Murphy went 6 2/3 innings to get the win while Cecil Tatum picked up the save.

Dick Drago pitched a four-hitter shutout—only the third shutout in his major league career—as Kansas City downed the A's, who used to be from Kansas City before Charley Finley moved them to Oakland. Ed Kirkpatrick singled in one run and Luis Alcaraz drove in the other one with a suicide squeeze bunt. Jim Hunter took the loss.

Allen Sparks 7-2 Cardinal Victory

By United Press International
Richie Allen, who was an absentee from any of the Phillies' games last season, showed up at the park Wednesday in Montreal and drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and a homer to help the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-2 victory over the Expos.

"Look," he said in the dressing room after the game, "you're not going to get anything out of me. It was a team effort. There were other guys who played in the game besides me. As long as we win I'll be satisfied if I don't hit another home run this year. I enjoy playing third base and I hope I can stay there."

Allen doubled and scored the first Cardinal run in the fourth inning and then tied the score at 2-2 with his homer in the eighth. The Cardinals broke open the game with five runs in the ninth. Leron Lee singled, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored the deciding run on Julian Javier's single.

Allen's third hit of the day, a double to deep left center, accounted for the final two runs.

Gibson gave up two runs and three hits in the first inning but allowed only two more hits until relieved by Chuck Taylor at the start of the ninth.

In other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-2. The Atlanta Braves defeated the San Diego Padres, 6-1, and the San Francisco Giants edged the Houston Astros, 5-4.

In American League contests, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Cleveland Indians, 3-2. California downed Milwaukee, 6-1. Detroit blanked Washington, 3-0, and Kansas City shut out Oakland, 2-0.

Bobby Toian scored twice and rove in a pair of runs with a single and a triple to lead the Reds to their third straight victory. Jim McGlothlin, acquired from the California Angels, held the Dodgers to one hit through five innings for his first National League victory but then needed relief help in the eighth from Clay Carroll.

Rookie infielder Alan Gallagher got three hits, including a run-scoring double during a three-run eighth-inning rally, to give the Giants their victory. Gallagher's double broke a 4-4 tie and provided him with his fifth hit in nine at-bats. Don McMahon, who was credited with the victory after relieving Giants starter Mike McCormick, and Frank Linzy shut out Houston without a hit in the last two innings.

Rico Carly and Bob Tillman hit home runs to back up Pat Jarvis' five-hit pitching for San Diego. Jarvis got 11 strikeouts to match his career high, and the only run scored by Atlanta was unearned.

Nixon's Welfare Scheme

A program for a "guaranteed annual income" for welfare recipients is now before the Congress of the U.S. If passed, it will add 12 million people to the welfare rolls and cost taxpayers more than $10 billion the first year.

This program is destined to cost you, the average wage earner, an additional $275 in yearly taxes. So if you're concerned about the ever-increasing tax burden, here's one place you had better show an interest before it is too late.

President Nixon has tried to sell this as a "conservative" proposal on the basis that individuals enrolled would have to take "suitable" training and/or employment to qualify. But knowing the government's history of catering to the free-loaders, it's very likely all that would result would be another expensive, very expensive, dole.

The following set of questions and answers on this welfare program have been put together by the American Conservative Union to give the individual taxpayer some idea of the boom that is about to be dropped on his head:

Q—What is the Nixon welfare plan?
A—The program is a socio-economic plan designed to turn over to the federal government a piece of legislation, but the most controversial provision is the "family assistance plan," better known as guaranteed annual income.

Q—How will the guaranteed annual income work?
A—A potential recipient will simply sign up at the local welfare or social security office. There would be no check to determine the needs of the applicant.

Q—How much would each welfare family receive?
A—As presently designed, $1,600 from the federal government with the states expected to match this and more. Professional welfare organizations already are calling for a minimum of $5,500.

Q—As a taxpayer what will the Nixon welfare program cost me?
A—As much as $275. Noted economist, Henry Hazlitt, says the welfare plan will cost $10 billion the first year. This money will have to come from the average tax payer through still more taxes ($275) or through still more inflation.

Q—How many people will be added to the welfare rolls?
A—The program will add 12 million to the already 10 million on the welfare rolls. In total, some 22 million people would be receiving welfare checks from the federal government, or 11 per cent of the U.S. population.

Q—Would a welfare recipient be expected to work to qualify for the guaranteed annual income?
A—Government officials say yes, but there has been a "must work" requirement in the aid to families of dependent children (AFDC) since 1967 and it has never been enforced.

Q—How much of the tax payers' money does the government now spend on welfare?
A—Approximately $72 billion. The Senate Republican Policy Committee estimated that government expenditures on all levels for welfare already exceed $72 billion a year.

Q—Would there be any check to determine if the recipient was spending the money wisely?
A—No. Each person would be completely free to spend the money at his own pleasure—for television, automobiles or whatever.

Q—Would the welfare recipient receive other services besides the direct cash gift?
A—Yes. Although President Nixon said other welfare programs would be eliminated, the facts are that there would be no cutback in programs such as food stamps. The food stamp program already has been doubled by the Nixon administration.

Q—Would welfare mothers be expected to work in order to qualify for the guaranteed annual income?
A—No. Government designers of this legislation say welfare mothers should be home with their children. ACU has pointed out that tax-paying families often need both parents working in order to meet the high costs of living caused in large part by excessive government spending.

Q—Should the government spend more on social programs and less on military and space programs?
A—In the last 10 years the government has spent 25 times more money on welfare than on our lunar landing program. We got to the moon but welfare rolls keep growing.

Q—Would the Nixon welfare plan eventually reduce the number on welfare?
A—No. In fact, the welfare rolls will continue to grow as long as it is profitable to stay on welfare.

Q—Is the Nixon program similar to the negative income tax advocated by conservative economist Milton Friedman?
A—Absolutely not. The Friedman plan calls for the elimination of all other forms of welfare services with incentives to get off the welfare rolls. The Nixon program is an "add on" measure.

Q—Didn't Nixon say in his presidential campaign of 1968 that he was opposed to the guaranteed annual income?
A—Yes. On many occasions President Nixon stressed his opposition to such a plan. Apparently he is failing to carry out his campaign promises.

Q—Who in the Nixon administration is mainly responsible for this welfare program?
A—Presidential aide Patrick Moynihan, an adviser to the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, was the principal architect. When presented to the President's Cabinet, this welfare plan was opposed by all but three Cabinet members.

Q—What political consequences are involved should the guaranteed annual income become law?
A—It would create a permanent class of people on the federal payroll who would undoubtedly offer their votes to the politicians promising the highest annual income.

CAPITOL EYE

Avoid War, U.S. Advice To Cambodia

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Nixon administration has quietly made it clear to Lt. Gen. Lon Nol's new Cambodian government not to expect U.S. ground combat forces. They won't be forthcoming.

This doesn't mean American troops won't pursue Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops withdrawing into Cambodia after operations in South Vietnam. It does mean we are determined not to get involved in Cambodia ground operations with American infantrymen.

The Nixon officials in fact have suggested the new Phnom Penh government move cautiously. They have informed the Cambodians that in the Washington view it would be advisable for them to do everything possible to avoid open war with the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong invaders. Lon Nol knows the realities. But they have been reviewed for him.

His small, lightly armed armies are no match for the well-equipped Communist forces.

A goodly area of Cambodia is occupied by immigrant North Vietnamese families, capable of supplying intelligence, organizing underground bases, offering recruits and providing rice and fish to the Red troops.

(Already numbers of these Vietnamese families living in Cambodia have been arrested for organizing and participating in antigovernment riots.)

These civilian Vietnamese, estimated at from 300,000 to 600,000 men, women and children, are concentrated in the rural rice- and fish-producing areas of Cambodia.

The Cambodian forces have little experience in guerrilla war. Lon Nol was educated in the French conventional war tradition. Men who have worked with him say he is psychologically committed to conventional fighting. Without guerrilla psychology and guerrilla experience, operations in areas where so many well-organized North Vietnamese immigrants live would seem next to hopeless.

The Nixon officials therefore have told the Cambodian strongman that in our opinion any military attempt to drive out the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese armies by force could well turn Cambodia into another Laos.

Bluntly, an all-out fight with no prospect of American infantrymen would almost certainly insure disaster for the new government.

Administration men aren't certain Lon Nol will heed their advice. Men who know him say he's a gun-ho trooper eager to fight the Communists.

In part, the Nixon administration advice to Cambodia is a result of protest pressures here at home. Getting involved in Cambodia at this time would stir domestic criticism, destroy the carefully built downside in the war protest movement.

But the administration decision goes deeper. The Nixon men believe Lon Nol has some very strong weapons.

The first weapon is political. Here is a case of naked North Vietnamese aggression. If kept clear-cut, it can hurt Hanoi deeply in free world and U.S. domestic opinion.

U.S. officials fear the entry of American troops would muddy the issue and thus be self-defeating.

The second weapon is economic. So long as the Communists are held half in and half out, it will be possible for the Cambodians to cut down sharply on deliveries of domestic rice and fish to the enemy troops and on the import of enemy military weapons and munitions through Sihanoukville.

THE LATE, LATE BUS

After waiting for over an hour for a late bus the lady boarded the first one to come, and handed the driver her transfer, then trudged to her seat, still very much perturbed over the long wait.

She had not more than taken her seat when the driver turned and yelled,

Mr. Thomas (the driver) — Hey lady, this transfer's dated yesterday. It's no good!

Mrs. Tate (sweetly) — My goodness, I had no idea you were that late!

Critics Of Nixon Commit Their Own Serious Errors

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Critics of government plainly have a vital role as our permanent skeptics in everything, keeping useful curb on the immense power of entrenched authority. But who watches the critics to keep them responsible?

We are suffering one of the worst periods of verbal overkill in our history (studded since Washington's day with political exaggeration). Beyond doubt a good share of the blame for today's excesses and misjudgment falls upon the critic themselves, not least the frenetic liberals who seem to think they deserve a charmed life.

Right now they are having their usual field day, assailing the "military-industrial complex," leaping with glee on every error, transgression or expression of over-optimism by the military relating to Vietnam, Laos and elsewhere.

In the domestic sphere, every social ill not cured by President Nixon, during his first 15 months in office — poverty, bad housing, bad schools, racial and social unrest, crime — is being tossed smack in his face.

Of course, this administration, like any other in power any time, is fair — game. The President and his men come on a promise to perform and must be measured accordingly.

Two golfers were on the green of a par-three hole when a ball rolled up to within two feet of the cup.

Harry — Put the ball in the hole, so this guy will think he's made a hole-in-one.

Moments later, a golfer walked up to the duo and asked,

Henry — Did you see a ball come up near here?

Harry — I think that it went into the cup.

The eager golfer peeked in, saw the ball and went wild. He threw his cap into the air, jumped up and down and yelled,

Henry — I made it! I made it! I made it in SEVEN!

Freeze, Not ABM Cutoff Strategy for SALT

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird believes a unilateral cut in the Safeguard anti-ballistic-missile program (ABM) would not be "the proper signal" for the U.S. to display as it heads for talks with Russia on strategic arms limitation.

That is the phrase the secretary has been using in his discussion of the SALT talks with congressional committees behind closed doors. A good deal of Laird's rationale is classified.

There is nothing secret, however, about the relationship between SALT and Safeguard as it is presently emerging. Laird and his aides have discussed it openly. The likelihood now is for a freeze, if anything, and not a cut-back.

Laird linked SALT and the administration's proposed expansion of the Safeguard system in his unclassified statement on the defense budget in late February.

"Among the factors that have led us to recommend this measured and modified continuation," said Laird of Safeguard, "are both the continued growth of the Soviet strategic threat to the U.S., and the fact that many potential agreements with the Soviet Union could include some form of missile defense — which would be consistent with our national security objectives and the legitimate security interests of the Soviet Union."

Very important now among the "legitimate security interests of the Soviet Union" is the threat from Communist China. Given the current hostility between Moscow and Peking, the Kremlin cannot afford to cut back its missile defenses.

AGREED INTELLIGENCE — Seeking to avoid the appearance of an intelligence gap, which crept into the ABM debates last year, Laird is using agreed intelligence estimates in briefing congressional committees this time. He has said there is some evidence that the Chinese are about ready to launch a ballistic missile.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering, has testified that as early as 1973, the Chinese could deploy at least one nuclear-armed missile within the intercontinental range. Laird thinks that deployment is more for defense R&D.

likely to come later — perhaps as much as two years later.

Whatever the deployment date for a Chinese ICBM, however, it is assumed that parts of Russia will be menaced earlier by an intermediate range missile. Laird estimates that Peking will have 80 to 100 of those ready for action in the mid-1970s.

So it is not considered likely that the defense-minded Russian high command would agree to abandon the ABM defenses already in place around Moscow. That is not the way the Kremlin operates.

Incidentally, Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard has testified that since the SALT talks began last November in Helsinki, the Russians have tested more than twice as many strategic missiles as the U.S. That puts the Kremlin's recent anti-U.S. bombast in an interesting perspective.

R&D RACE — Another relationship, between SALT and strategic weaponry is also beginning to emerge. It, too, is apparent in some of the recent statements by Pentagon officials.

It's becoming clear that if the SALT talks are successful, advances in technology assume a new importance. If military hardware is limited by international agreement, the arms race could become an international contest in research and development.

That is one of the reasons the Pentagon has reacted so strongly against congressional attempts to limit defense research. It accounts for some of the resistance to the curb on basic research by the military which was enacted last year at the urging of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

"Clearly," says Foster, "although we are moving into an era of negotiation, trying to bring up and broaden the emerging detente, we must remain prepared for possible confrontations."

"Certainly, let us try hard to cut the costs of overall defense," he adds, "and to negotiate acceptable treaties limiting weapons. But let us not cut the future by clear-armed missile within the intercontinental range. Laird thinks that deployment is more for defense R&D."

Women Outnumber Men Taking Care of Teeth

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: Do women take better care of their teeth than men? I'm a dental assistant and in our office we see many more women than men patients.

— JACKIE S.

ANSWER: — In quality there's little difference in teeth, men's and women's; but statistics show that women take better care of their teeth. In patient visits their outnumber men.

Why?

Women spend more time and effort on their "look," and they enjoy a special kind of excitement when they feel they "look good."

Stained teeth can ruin the "look." What good would it do to "put your face on" if it was spoiled by a stained-teeth smile? So women get their teeth cleaned often.

Then, too, women go to the dentist more because they have this thing about age. My mother-in-law, for instance, never admitted to more than 39 years even at her son's 50th birthday party! And white natural teeth add to the quality of one's youthfulness.

Men say women listen to radio and watch TV more and are influenced by tooth oriented commercials. Besides they have more time to go to the dentist. What do they do all day? Merely take care of the house, kids, shopping, laundry, mending, budget, cooking, and act as chauffeur, social secretary, companion and consort.

Women say they are better able to accept dental care because they are braver and can stand pain better. Who suffers the pain and danger of childbirth? Women. And when the family moves to a new town and finally finds a new dentist, who tries him first? Mother.

Do women's visits to the dentist have anything to do with their being alone a good part of the day? Of course they have the kids to frolic with all day, but they don't have grown-up human contacts that men in business have. So they need and seek company, male company, uncomplicated by sex, just someone who'll listen and talk to them. An hour with the dentist can be a pleasure — well, almost.

Men are vain for their accomplishments and women for their appearance. Give a woman a mirror to look at a tooth and the tooth gets no more than a fleeting glance. What does she do? Examines her eyeshadow, eyebrows, hair, wrinkles, etc. In fact, once a dentist gives a woman a mirror it's not so easy to get it back. One dentist says he lost three mirrors that way.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he can't answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

If Nixon's Wrong, What?

By PAUL HARVEY

Southeast Asia for the next 15 to 20 years.

McGovern says the United States has spent 40,000 American lives to support the cost of the war in dollars, unpopular puppet regime in Saigon. He says if we get out now, a strong government replaces the Thieu government — even if dominated by Communists — it would afford a better buffer between East and West, a more dependable barrier against Red Chinese imperialism.

Another Republican, New York's Sen. Jacob Javits wants all U.S. combat troops withdrawn — THIS YEAR — Rhode Island Democrat Sen. Claiborne Pell cosponsors that proposal, saying the present Saigon government is "corrupt, inept and unrepresentative" and thus unworthy of our continuing support.

There are no longer any vocal Hawks in Congress. Demands that we go all out to win have not been heard since the President's Vietnamization policy received such widespread public support.

That public support could quickly be reversed, however, if Vietnamization proves too painfully slow.

The President, who has indicated that our disengagement is irreversible, will retain popular support for his policy only if he can show proof — and enough proof — this year. He expects to.

If Nixon is wrong, what? The President's new budget is predicated on the "hope" that the cost of the war in dollars will be down to $1.5 billion a month by midyear and the cost of an American lives will be less and less as more and more American troops are brought home until all of our sons are out of Vietnam "soon."

But if he's wrong, then what? Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright agreed not to embarrass the Administration and possibly jeopardize peace prospects with a full-scale open bearing on Vietnam policy. However, the Committee has been hearing from a series of senators opposed to the Nixon Vietnamization policy.

Most of these witnesses think that a gradual takeover of the fighting by South Vietnamese will take too long and cost too much; that we should withdraw all American forces this year and let happen in Vietnam whatever will.

It cannot be argued that the President is opposed ONLY along party lines and JUST BECAUSE this is an election year. The first witness to challenge the White House was Sen. Charles Goodell, Republican.

It is Sen. Goodell's opinion that President Nixon's gradual phaseout will still leave 300,000 Americans over there by this time next year, and that the human and material costs of continuing that much involvement in Southeast Asia are unacceptable.

Goodell wants the Congress to force complete withdrawal of all our troops within this next year.

Democrat Sen. George McGovern is more blunt. He calls the President's plan a "political hoax," which he, McGovern, says will leave 300,000 American troops in Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and France have begun a confidential dialogue to explore possible new approaches to peace in Southeast Asia.

Talks in Washington and Paris have produced nothing so far except an agreement not to disclose any of the ideas under discussion. American officials are hopeful but not optimistic.

This process of exploration began when France last week unexpectedly proposed international negotiations to neutralize all of Indochina—Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

The official Paris announcement at first was taken in some quarters to indicate that France was proposing a formal conference.

It now appears that the French proposal was more a philosophical policy declaration than an indication that Paris had any specific maneuvers in mind.

Nevertheless, the United States was gratified to see France make even a general suggestion.

The desire in Washington for some progress on the negotiating front appears to have increased as the risks inherent in President Nixon's policy of "Vietnamization" of the war in that country become increasingly apparent.

The President won majority support during the past year in the United States for his Vietnam policy by beginning a process of gradual withdrawal of American forces. At the same time, he ordered a crash program of building up South Vietnamese forces capable of taking over the war with minimum U.S. support if the Communists failed to come to terms at Paris.

Many observers have felt that Nixon's program had a major flaw in that the pressure on the Communists to negotiate decreased as American troops were pulled out. This feeling was based on the assumption that the Saigon government was incapable of holding its own, with only U.S. air support and a small amount of ground support.

The past week disclosed that the euphoria which set in following Nixon's commencement of withdrawals last summer is starting to dissolve at some points.

The French are well aware of the realities of the situation in Southeast Asia. Recognizing the increasing difficulties Nixon will face under his present Vietnam program,

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here's another new game that will be on the market as soon as I can get copyright clearance. It is called "Post Office."

Playing Post Office isn't new, you say? Well, I don't mean that kind of game.

This is one of those realistic board games that provide fun-filled evening for millions of Americans who find competition more enjoyable than kissing.

The rules:

There are four markers labeled "first class," "air mail," "special delivery" and "junk mail." Each player selects a marker that designates the type of mail he is sending.

The players then spin the arrow to determine their destinations, which may be "local," "out of town," "rural route" or "limbo."

Markers are placed on the space labeled "mailbox" and the players take turns drawing cards that determine their progress around the board. The players whose "mail" reaches its destination first is the winner.

Any player whose mail reaches the wrong destination must return to "mailbox." If no mail is delivered within two weeks, it is stamped "return to sender" and the game ends in a tie.

"Progress" cards read as follows:

- Your mail has no zip code. Go back two spaces.
- Your mail has the wrong zip code. Go back three spaces.
- Your mail has the right zip code. Go back four spaces.
- Your mail is suspected of containing pornographic material. Lose turn during postal inspection.

To Hear Appeal

- Supreme Court agrees to hear your appeal of pornography conviction. Advance 10 spaces.
- Postal workers go on strike. Remain in place.
- President sends Army troops to move mail during strike. Go back three spaces.
- Postal strike is settled. Mailmen return to jobs. Remain in place.
- President proposes postal rate increase to help pay for postal pay increase.

Hollywood In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Veteran director George Seaton is amused by the antics of younger movie makers who think of themselves as breaking new barriers with hand-held cameras, trick shots and other devices.

"None of it is new," Seaton said at Universal Studios.

"I've been working on a project to restore 2 million feet of old film going back to 1892. The first moving camera technique was a shot which involved tying the camera to a horse-drawn street car in Boston in 1895.

Awareness Spoils

"If a camera movement or special shots have the effect of enhancing a scene, that's fine. But an entire motion picture can be ruined when the audience becomes aware of the tricks.

"They lose identification or involvement with the story and characters. John Ford (a famed pioneer director) advised directors never to move the camera without a reason."

Seaton's "Airport"—to be released this month and next—has enough action and drama going for it that the director found it unnecessary to employ photographic stunts.

"Every picture has its own style," he said. "If you're doing a Biblical picture, you don't use helicopter shots. And you try to avoid cliché camera angles as much as possible.

"The whole point is to tell a story on film, not to dazzle an audience with techniques.

More Content

"There'll always be a place for cinema variety in documentaries, but my guess is that people will want to see films with more content.

"I think commercial pictures can be artistically done. Certainly there is room for art films, but not to the exclusion of other kinds of motion pictures.

"It's akin to visiting an art gallery. I like to go there but not to see the same painting every time."

Seaton, whose first directorial job was "Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshow" in 1942, has written most of the 25 films he has directed.

Seaton believes in changing with the times, but he balks at becoming a fadist. And no wonder, "Airport" earned a million dollars in its first four weeks at New York's Radio City Music hall.

"A director must think of a total audience," he concluded. "If not, you're in for trouble at the boxoffice."

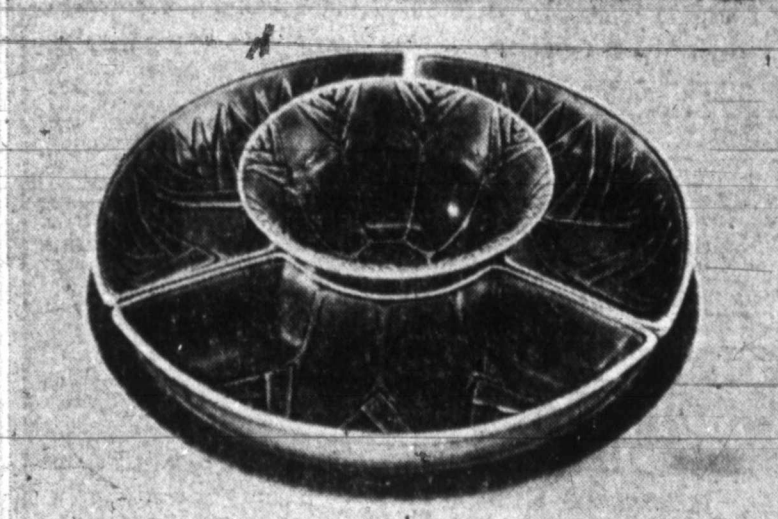

WOMAN MAYOR SWORN

ALPINE, Tex. (UPI) — Dorothy McBride, who captured 68 per cent of the vote in Saturday's elections, takes the oath of office today to become the city's first woman mayor. Mrs. McBride also was the city's first woman to serve on the city council.
