TACTIVE Officials Here For Vocational Forum

Members of the Texas Advisory Council for Technical-Vocational Education began a 29-school tour through the state at Pampa today and found themselves in the position of the salesman who sold the farmer two milking machines—and held his only cow for security.

When all the words are distilled, the purpose of the visit, ultimately, is to sell the school system and the community on the value of a broadened, accelerated program of technical-vocational education. A public forum in the Robert E. Lee auditorium tonight is ostensibly for the purpose of eliciting the support of the various employers of industry, agri-business and others using skills to have a part in the program.

According to Dr. James Malone, superintendent of schools, the school system and generally, the community are already sold on the need and the program. The problem is getting the state powers-that-be to release matching funds so the area vocational school can be built.

Don Nelson, school vocational coordinator said the school and chamber of commerce officials and other Pampans hosting the visit are in the position of making a presentation to the council members rather than to the community.

At the council briefing session this morning in Lee auditorium, Alton Ice, executive secretary to the council, encouraged school officials to contact, once again, the agency involved in releasing the matching funds to build the vocational facility.

He was told that every avenue had been explored and no little political influence brought to bear to no avail. Pampa was told it would have to wait in line.

Briefly, Pampa was several places down on the waiting list because its minority group involved is less than the required percentage. If available funds are exhausted before Pampa is reached there is a new processing and Pampa may be higher or lower on the waiting list.

Danes Pay Final Homage To King

COPENHAGEN (AP)—To the slow beat of drums, King Frederik IX's bier moved through the streets of Copenhagen today in funeral procession.

Tens of thousands lined the streets as 48 sailors of the Royal Navy pulled the bier, wrapped in the monarch's flag and with his admiral's hat and sword on top, on a gun carriage in ceremonial slow march.

Dressed in black, with long veils, Queen Margrethe, the king's 31-year-old daughter, Queen Ingrid, the king's 61-year-old widow, and the king's two younger daughters, Princess Benedikte and Queen Anne-Marie of Greece, braved an icy wind to walk for more than a mile behind the bier.

Other mourners walking behind the bier included President Gustav Heinemann of West Germany, President Urho Kekkonen of Finland and John Eisenhower, son of the late president, who was designated by President Nixon to represent the United States because his father was a personal friend of King Frederik's.

U.S. Housing Industry Healthy, Strong: Veep

HOUSTON (AP)— Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today America's housing industry is healthy and strong and optimistic.

"Americans by the hundreds of thousands will be moving into new and improved housing in 1972," Agnew told delegates to the 28th annual convention of the National Association of Home Builders.

Agnew said the housing industry is not only an important part of the nation's economy "but it is essential to our economic health."

"It seeds prosperity," he said. "It is a catalyst to growth. When you have a good year, hundreds of thousands of others—businesses and individuals—have a good year. So there is reason for much encouragement in your industry and throughout the nation in 1972."

Agnew said last year saw dramatic improvements in both quality and quantity of housing units in this country.

"As you know, 2,080,500 new housing starts were made in 1971—more than in any previous year in American history," he said. "We anticipate a continuation of that record-high level of activity in 1972."

He said the Nixon Administration is proud of the role it has played in assisting a recovery from the housing slump of 1966-68, and "overcoming the inflation and credit crunch that faced us on taking office in 1969."

"Many of you will recall when President Nixon met with your association two years ago there were dire predictions by some that housing starts for 1970 would drop below 6 million. That figure was unacceptable to you and also to the President. After meeting with your representatives, the President set an objective with a total of 1,467,000—nearly one-third of them federally assisted."

"For 1971 at the time of your convention, the industry predicted 1.8 million to 1.9 million new housing units. The President authorized Secretary Romney to raise the government's prediction to 2 million starts for 1971. To our great joy that mark has been widely surpassed. And the most encouraging thing about it is the tremendous increase of 650,000 in conventional starts."

The vice president said in the three years since the Nixon Administration took over the number of units for low and moderate-income families has increased by 1,048,000 units.

President Sends To Congress Heavy Deficit Budget For '73

Fiscal Year Spending Set At $246.3 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Nixon handed Congress today a $246.3-billion budget for fiscal 1973 written in deep red ink. He announced two huge deficits—$38.8 billion this fiscal year and $25.5 billion next—and said they will help speed up the nation's economic recovery.

His budget message asked neither for further tax cuts to stimulate the slack economy nor for tax increases to meet the climbing costs of government, although his deficits are the two largest since World War II.

"Deficit spending at this time, like temporary wage and price controls, is strong but necessary medicine," Nixon said. Yet his message slumped repeatedly at the Democratic-controlled Congress for spending more than he had asked.

Revenues will rise "as the new prosperity takes hold," Nixon promised—this trend makes possible the smaller deficit for fiscal 1973, starting next July 1, he said, and "brings us strongly forward toward our goal of a balanced budget in a time of full employment."

In asking $76.5 billion for defense, Nixon scheduled the first sizable increase in new weapons-system spending in years, even while "we move to zero draft calls."

He asked $3.191 billion for space, a bit more than this year but aimed at less lofty exploration goals.

And the President unveiled, as a basic turn in national strategy, a government-sparked drive to speed technological progress, to cut costs, increase productivity and restore competitive leadership to American industry.

The budget accordingly calls for a many-sided program to stimulate research and development by private firms, universities and federal agencies with tax incentives, grants, subsidies and other incentives. Many of the incentive plans are experimental and none was specified in detail, but Nixon earmarked $16.48 billion as the government's total 1973 spending on research and development compared with this year's $15.779 billion.

"This year we shall have the agency which sent men to the moon and back begin to assist the Department of Transportation in finding better ways to send people downtown and back," Nixon said.

Another shift in national priorities was emphasized: For the first time, the Department of Defense will not have the biggest budget. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, with scheduled outlays of $78.95 billion, will top the Pentagon's spending by billions, mostly because of rising Social Security payments.

Nixon made a renewed request for $350 million in start-up funds for his planned welfare reforms and family-assistance payments, which he called "workfare" throughout the message. He put revenue sharing down for $2.25 billion in what remains of fiscal 1972 and $5.3 billion in fiscal 1973. Congress is most unlikely to give him any of these sums in this session.

Nixon assumed there will be a strong upward thrust of production, income and profits in 1972 to achieve his projected $23-billion increase in tax revenues from this fiscal year to the next.

Unlike his overoptimistic estimates of a year ago, however, the White House projections this time are generally in line with the expectations of a majority of professional economists.

The message had some political flavor. It scolded Congress for voting more money than Nixon asked. It advised taxpayers they are saving $22 billion in income taxes this year because of tax cuts since he took office. And it repeatedly rebuked Congress for inaction in dealing with Nixon programs.

The message was studded with demands for frugality in spending and for adherence to a "full-employment balance" in budget-making. The full-employment-budget concept, adopted by Nixon last year, holds that a budget deficit is not inflationary if total spending is held below the amount of tax revenues the economy would generate if it were running at "full employment"—that is, with only about 4 per cent unemployment.

Even with its real, dollars-and-cents deficit of $25.5 billion, Nixon's 1973 budget would be merely stimulative and not inflationary—under the "full-employment" concept—because its outlays would be roughly $700 million below the theoretical "full-employment revenues."

Nixon conceded that his fiscal 1972 budget, by contrast, showed an unintended $8.1-billion "full-employment deficit," but went on:

"While our economy can absorb such a deficit for a time, the experience of the late 1960s provides ample warning of the danger of continued, and rising, full-employment deficits."

The lesson of 1966-68, when such deficits led to an intolerable inflation, is too clear and too close to permit any relaxation of control of government spending."

Education

The budget gives no clue to the amount or source of federal funds for school support which Nixon promised, in his State of the Union message, as a substitute for property taxes.

He is expected to propose a plan financed by its own revenue-raising machinery, perhaps the value-added tax. The latter tax, a flat levy imposed like a sales tax at each stage in manufacture from raw material to finished product, is favored by the White House but unpopular in Congress.

Governor Smith Urged To Call Special Session On Redistrict

WASHINGTON (AP)— Some of the congressmen from Texas were throwing biting words around Saturday night at the reception given in their honor by the Texas State Society.

The redistricting plan put forth by Dallas mathematician Don Weiser and accepted by the judges puts Purcell against Democrat Omar Burleson of Anson and Kazen against Democrat O. C. Fisher of San Angelo.

Burleson and Fisher missed Sunday's reception. But Wright and Roberts faced each other bravely as potential competitors. Burleson criticized the new plan from Abilene.

"I'll play by the rules, whatever they may be, but I'd like to know what they are," Wright told Roberts.

Roberts told Wright good-naturedly, "I'm not going to run against you, Jim," but when he saw a reporter taking down the conversation he said:

"Now don't print that because I might end up running against him."

Wright said the judges might have been correct in assuming that the legislature passed a bill which guaranteed survival of most incumbent congressmen.

"Perhaps this was so to the extent it accommodated districts who'd expressed a desire to have certain individuals representing them," Wright said.

"But the alternate plan adopted by the court seemed calculated to deliberately embarrass the sitting congressmen."

"The court adopted a plan from some self-appointed guy who's not elected by anyone," Wright said in disgust.

Purcell blamed ambitious state legislators.

Other, that's not a Democratic plan," he said.

The liberal Houston Democrat would lose about 16,000 black constituents and will gain a fair slice of the conservative suburb of Pasadena.

But Rep. Jim Collins, a conservative Dallas Republican, said he didn't believe Eckhart's theory. In Dallas County, it thwarts the hopes of Republicans to gain a second congressional seat, he said.

"They must have taken every Republican in the area and put them together in my district," Collins said. "I like it but it's going to be hard for any other Republicans to be elected."

Neither Wright, Roberts, Purcell nor Kazen could say definitely in which districts they would run but all plan to seek re-election.

Rep. Bob Eckhart said he believed the court-ordered plan was Republican-inspired.

"When there are six Democrats running against each other, that's not a Democratic plan," he said.

Police Throughout Europe Hunt Woman Named Helga R. Hughes

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)— Police throughout Europe are looking for a dark-haired woman who cashed $50,000 worth of checks which the McGraw-Hill Book Co. paid for a purported autobiography of industrialist Howard Hughes.

The warrant was issued after McGraw-Hill filed a criminal complaint alleging fraud last Thursday with the Zurich district attorney.

The woman was described as dark-haired, with a lean face, about 5 feet 3 inches tall, wearing a mid-dress and speaking broken German.

identify the woman. But Time magazine said she gave her name to the bank as Helga R. Hughes. The McGraw-Hill checks were made out to H.R. Hughes.

The warrant was issued after McGraw-Hill filed a criminal complaint alleging fraud last Thursday with the Zurich district attorney.

The woman was described as dark-haired, with a lean face, about 5 feet 3 inches tall, wearing a mid-dress and speaking broken German.

Earlier reports of the mystery woman said she was a blonde.

She reportedly pocketed 2.6 million Swiss francs after endorsing the checks "H.R. Hughes," in a handwriting that closely resembled that of the industrialist, according to photostats.

The district attorney's office meanwhile called off a news conference this morning on the case. But it did confirm that the Zurich police had alerted Interpol, the international police organization.

"As far as our bank is concerned, everything was handled correctly," the Swiss Credit Bank official said. "It was a most refined case of fraud, so refined, in fact, that clerks could not detect it."

The search for the mystery woman was the latest development in the tangled Howard Hughes autobiography controversy, which involves McGraw-Hill, Life magazine and author

Clifford Irving. Irving claims to have compiled the autobiography from interviews with Hughes.

His book has been challenged in court as a hoax and its publication suspended by McGraw-Hill and Life pending clarification of the controversy over the Swiss bank account.

Newsman Mike Wallace said Sunday on the CBS television program "60 Minutes" that Swiss police were looking for a blonde German-speaking woman "who, according to the bank's records, opened an account there last May—using a Swiss passport made out in the name of Helga R. Hughes."

Time magazine said Sunday that an attractive blonde who identified herself as Helga Hughes cashed the three checks through an account in the Swiss Credit bank in Zurich and carried out the money in an airline bag.

She endorsed two of the checks "H. R. Hughes" in the presence of a bank officer and mailed in the third with the same endorsement, said Time, whose parent company, Time, Inc., also owns Life.

McGraw-Hill, in the court action, has produced certificates from handwriting experts asserting that two of the check endorsements were genuine signatures of the billionaire industrialist.

The Time story said the Swiss account was opened by the woman who carried a Swiss passport, identifying her as Helga R. Hughes and who signed a bank signature card, "H. R. Hughes."

After comparing the signature with that on the passport, the bank officer allowed the woman to open the account by depositing 1,000 French francs, or about $180.

About three weeks later, Time continued, the woman appeared with a $50,000 check from McGraw-Hill made out to H. R. Hughes and endorsed it in front of a bank official.

Granddad scores, gets scored on

By Abigail Van Buren
 [© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: Your recent article on the subject of spoiling grandchildren hit home with me. Several years ago I had a discussion with my father in law on the subject. His point of view was brief and to the point. He said, "There are three points which you should understand: First, it's my money; second, it's my grandchild; and third, it's none of your business in the first place."

Having said his piece, the subject was closed. Looking back, I find myself in complete agreement. Care to comment?
 R. B. G., FORT MEYERS, FLA.

DEAR R. B. G.: Yes, I would have responded with "three points" of my own: "First, it's my child; second, my child is more important to me than your money; third, the welfare of my child is my FIRST concern, and as long as I'm alive and mentally competent, that's the way it will be."

Then I would add, "C'mon, Dad, let's compromise, and give the kid more love than anything else—at least until he can handle it, O. K.?"

DEAR ABBY: I feel a problem coming soon. Our daughter [brave, taught math at college last year] and her husband [ditto, teaches computer science] are coming to spend two weeks with us.

My husband is not anticipating their visit with the same joy as I. The three of them get into these hot political debates in which everyone loses his cool and nobody wins. After their last visit everyone was worn out.

My husband is hawkish and they are dovish. I keep out of it, because if I took sides, I'd have to oppose my husband which wouldn't help our marital relations.

I know my daughter would like to avoid these arguments, but my husband honestly believes he can enlighten those "poor misguided boobs." And they feel the same about him.

What to do? Or how to keep the peace?

PEACE LOVER
 DEAR PEACE LOVER: When people with conflicting political views get together, if they speak their minds [and why shouldn't they?] a "hot" debate inevitably ensues. The loss of "cool" seems to be the problem here. Perhaps last year's experience can be avoided by cautioning your husband to control his temper, and giving your daughter and her husband the same advice.

DEAR ABBY: Wait until you hear this one. I am 41, have a nice husband and two teen-aged children. I also have a problem, which hasn't caused me any trouble so maybe it's not a problem after all.

I am having an affair—strictly mental, with a man who is extremely attractive. I am sure he hasn't given me a second thought, but that doesn't interfere with my imaginary romance with him!

I really enjoy my daydreams about this man, and I can't see that it is doing me (or anyone else) any harm. I don't let my fantasies interfere with my routine. I just indulge in them when I have the spare time. Does this happen to other women my age? Or do you think I am going off my rocker?
 DREAMER

DEAR DREAMER: You are not alone. And it's harmless as long as you don't try to make your dreams come true.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

TUESDAY, JAN. 25
 Your birthday today: Begins what seems like a perfectly normal year. Nothing unusual or unexpected happens until midyear when your whole viewpoint alters. Today's natives like to guess long term results, are fond of experimenting.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Encourage imagination in associates, loved ones. A passing remark brings you sure knowledge of what's needed in future social enterprises.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Window-shopping gives you a depth understanding of general situation and the trends, should leave you quite satisfied with what you've already got.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): While your persuasive talents are at their finest, assume at least one person will see thru any scheme you offer.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Expansion is feasible in your work habits, career efforts—particularly if you get hold of some inside information.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): A good public image is just as essential as ever. Keep at it with dignity and courtesy. It is better to spend in moderation early.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):

Do something about your ideas—join or subscribe to give substance to your intentions and declarations.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Set out both sides of any question, seek technical and legal advice on what to do and how to go about it. Meditate for guidance.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Bargains, rebates, short cuts seem available. Make prompt use of any sudden inspiration. Home life stands to improve greatly this evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Whatever you do or skip doing, have a visible reason for the performance or the abstinence since you may need to explain to get cooperation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Organizing at times overreaches itself; today there seems to be conflict, over-scheduling, too much to do too soon.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Aside from a little patching up, let well enough alone for the moment. Give your schemes time to unfold.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Pass along ideas for others to adopt as theirs; expect neither thanks nor gratitude. Proceed promptly to put together your own ventures.

 Everyone prefers a pleasant tasting and pleasant smelling medication. For, when we are ill, we are usually more aware of these two sensations. Somehow if the prescription does taste, smell and look good it not only helps the body to get well, but it can help to ease the mind, give a lift to the spirit and calm the emotions.
 Whenever a liquid medicine is released for public use and the manufacturer has sent us our first supply, we make it a point to see what it's physical properties are like before we put it on the "new drug" shelf in our prescription department. A good air is settling over Pampa as the football team brought a rush of spring with the 1971 3-AAA football championship and the basketball team is following in its footsteps.

The Harvesters defeated Caprock 80 to 50 Friday night in Harvester Fieldhouse before nearly a capacity crowd of eager fans. The Pampa cagers were playing without the aid of long tall Mike Edgar due to an outbreak of flu. Freddy Wilbon was sidelined with an ankle injury but the team didn't seem to be hindered in their romp and stomp version of victory.

Other areas are drawing national note in Pampa as the NRA gave the Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club an award for public service. This is in connection with their "Sighting-In" Day activities. The club sponsored another sight-in Sunday at their range six miles west of town.

The Pampa Boxing Club held fights Friday night in an inter-squad meet in preparation for the regional Golden Gloves tournament to be held in Guyton, Okla. A fine bunch of boys are out working to bring more honors to the city of Pampa. The female aspect of boxing has brought considerable interest in Pampa since Tammee Wilhelm entered the ring to face a male opponent.

This in itself is alarming but when you consider the 9-year old slugger has been runner-up in two beauty contests it makes a man wonder....

The Harvester Booster Club will be holding a meeting tonight to watch games films narrated by the 1971 coach of the year Robert McPherson. The films are of the 1971 3-AAA Basketball champions, the Pampa Harvesters. Somehow they keep swinging into the scene.

Donnie Cain, a Harvester, was selected Texan of the month by the Optimists. Just goes to show you can excel in more than one thing and still have fun. Huh, Donnie?

Several comments were overheard walking out of Harvester Fieldhouse Friday night about poor sportsmanship. AP wire service has notified us that at least 6 schools are presently serving probation for poor sportsmanship...by the fans and players. I hope some of our bleacher-refs will remember this when their mouth blocks out their brains.

PETER PAN SHOULD FLY AS WELL—Looking more like a modern dancer than a basketball player Pampa's Donnie Cain trills the fans as he slips by the Caprock defense in Friday's 80 to 50 defeat of the Longhorns. The Harvesters have an 18-4 season record and a one and zero district mark going into tomorrow's clash with the Tascosa Rebels.

Stenerud Voted Best Player In Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jan Stenerud, his first two field goal attempts failing, wondered whether he belonged in the Pro Bowl with the elite of the National Football League.

The nightmare of losing pro football's longest game also lingered.

Stenerud proved he belongs. Goat of the Kansas City-Miami double sudden-death overtime 27-24 Chiefs' defeat last month because he missed two field goals, Stenerud was voted offensive player of 22nd annual Pro Bowl Sunday. His four field goals helped the American Conference topple the National Conference 26-13. The 26-year-old Norwegian soccer-style place kicker said he wasn't alone in doubting his ability.

"I heard some people in the stands saying, 'What are you doing in this game?' Stenerud said, 'and I had some thoughts about that myself after I missed that second field goal.'"

His first field goal attempt, from 38 yards out, was partially blocked by Detroit middle linebacker Mike Lucci. His second attempt, also in the first quarter, sailed wide of the uprights from 28 yards away.

another chance," Stenerud said. "As it is I kind of redeemed myself. I'm looking forward to next season now."

His field goals, from 25, 23, 48 and 42 yards, along with Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson's five-yard touchdown pass to Cleveland's Milt Morin, gave the AFC a 19-6 lead with nine seconds gone in the fourth quarter.

The NFC, which defeated the AFC 27-6 last year in the first Pro Bowl since the merger, had scored first on a 50-yard pass from Detroit's Greg Landry to Minnesota's Bob Grim. It narrowed the gap to six points with almost eight minutes to play in the game when San Francisco's Vic Washington swept left end untouched for two yards.

But the AFC marched 73 yards in 12 plays, all on the ground and including 42 yards in seven carries by Eugene "Mercury" Morris of Miami. Victory was assured with 1:22 left when Denver's Floyd Little scored on a six-yard run.

AFC Coach Don McCafferty of Baltimore said he was tired of AFC vs. NFC discussion.

But Morris wasn't. "We're always at war with the NFC. We always have to prove ourselves."

"The players weren't really up for this game, not like a regular game," said Stenerud. "It was a very relaxed atmosphere. But I still think we wanted this one a lot more than they did."

Staubach, who had only four interceptions all season, "didn't have the time to throw but I thought he called some very good plays," said Coach Dick Nolan of San Francisco.

At Dallas, Coach Tom Landry called the plays and Staubach has said he won't be a complete quarterback until he takes control of the game through calling plays.

Each team had only one week to prepare so a rule was installed to prohibit blocking of punts. It appeared that several would otherwise have been blocked.

Winners took home $2,000 losers $1,500.

Stenerud in particular, took home more than money—because "I didn't know how long that bad luck could last."

Pampa Cagers Square Off Against Tascosa

By RICKEY WRIGHT Sports Staff Writer

The Pampa Harvesters are bowing into the district play of cager season. After skunking the Caprock Longhorns 80-50 Friday night, the Harvesters are to challenge the Rebs of Tascosa tomorrow.

Although Tascosa has met defeat in their first game of district play, they are not to be taken for granted.

Tascosa lost their first bout to powerful Palo Duro. The battle was carried to the last period of play, when the Dons skinned past the Rebs to win by a 10 point margin.

Both Tascosa and Palo Duro are the biggest contenders for Pampa's title of defending district champions.

The Rebs, as far as height, are almost identical to Pampa. Tascosa has a boy standing at 6' 6", 6' 4", a couple at 6' 0" and one at 5' 10".

Tascosa and Pampa share advantages in the Tuesday's bout. Tascosa will have the edge of playing on their home court. Pampa will go into the game with one victory already under their belt.

The Harvesters have been hitting 50 per cent of the field goals attempted though they upped their average somewhat Friday night. In the Caprock bout they hit for 58 per cent.

Tascosa hasn't quite that average. The Rebs of Amarillo prefer the hard press and profess to be tough on rebounds at the boards.

Pampa had Mike Edgar and Freddy Wilbon sitting out of play in Friday's game and are trying to heal them up for this bout.

Mike Edgar was allegedly held back with the flu and Freddy Wilbon with a sprained ankle.

Reb Mark Ortbal will be the player to stop as he was the leading scorer and rebounder against Palo Duro. He takes access to the boards from the center position with his tall 6' 6" frame.

Pampa as the defending champions will be faced with difficulty and challenge throughout the season.

Everyone wants to take the title away from Pampa this year. Pampa has every chance to be title holders again.

Many of the area workmen of the news media choose other teams over the Harvesters to take home the district honors.

The sports staff of this paper doesn't feel that way. We have chosen the Harvesters to keep the title, not out of simple prejudice or high hopes, but how the statistics read, as far as percentage of attempts hit, rebounds made, and of course the team work of the squad. Here the Harvesters are preferred over any other 3-AAA squad.

Don't miss the game tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Tascosa High School gym when both teams will be engaged in bloody battle. The Harvesters are looking for their second district and the Rebs will be apemting their first.

'72 Winter Olympic Games Are In Trouble

TOKYO (AP)—With the head of the International Olympic Committee proclaiming that the Winter Olympics should be abolished rather than opened to "professionalism," the IOC begins a crucial week of meetings today that could decide the future of the Olympic Games.

The start of the 1972 Winter Games in Sapporo on Feb. 3 will be little more than a week away when the first important meeting takes place Wednesday, that of the eligibility commission. The IOC's Executive Committee meets Friday, then the scene shifts to Sapporo, 500 miles to the north, for the general meetings which last until the start of the Games.

There are three main topics to be resolved. 1. Avery Brundage, outgoing 84-year-old president of the IOC, has stated repeatedly that some 30-50 Alpine and Nordic skiers should be ruled out of the Games for alleged commercialism—i.e., displaying brand names of manufacturers on their equipment.

2. Marc Holder, president of the International Ski Federation (FIS), has said that "if the differences with the IOC remain unresolvable..."

MVC Roundup

ASSOCIATED PRESS Louisville hopes to parlay some of that home cookin' into an insurmountable lead in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race in the next two weeks. The Cardinals host North Texas tonight in the first game in a string of six consecutive home games. Owing a 2-0 MVC mark, the Cardinals follow the date with the Eagles with games Wednesday night against St. Louis and Saturday night with Bradley. Louisville, the No. 5 ranked club in the land, has an overall 13-1 record. The Cardinals can thank Jim Price for their lofty ranking. The pressure-proof Price scored six points in the last 50 seconds of overtime Saturday night to wipeout a four-point Drake lead. He sank a 25-foot shot at the gun to give the Cardinals a 79-73 victory. Memphis State is close on the heels of the Cardinals with a 31 record followed by St. Louis with a 2-1 mark. Besides Louisville's MVC games this week, the only other league contests find Wichita State at Memphis State and North Texas at Drake on Thursday night. Saturday night finds Tulsa at Wichita State.

Barber-Archer End Tucson Open Tied

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP)—"I've just got to go out and play the best I can and not worry about George Archer," Miller Barber said. "The only thing I can do to him is try to catch him in a dark alley and top him in the head." "And I'm bigger than you are." The 6-foot-6 Archer replied. The two veterans went into an 18-hole playoff today for the $30,000 first prize in the Dean Martin-Tucson Open Golf Tournament. The loser gets $17,100, with an additional $5,000 to each from television. They tied for the top after 72 holes at 273, 15 under par on the 7,305-yard Tucson National Golf Club course when Bobby Nichols—the leader through most of Sunday's final round—pumped his tee shot into the water on the final hole and took a double-bogey six. That left him with a 71-275 and a third place in the tournament he twice led by two strokes during the final round. "I sure spent some money out there," the former PGA champion said Sunday after collecting his $10,650 check for third place. Nichols, who dropped back into a share of the lead with a three-putt bogey on the 16th hole, missed a chance to retain it when he failed on an 11-foot birdie putt on the 17th then blew it all on the 18th. It set up the third playoff in as many weeks this season, and the second 18-hole affair for Archer. He beat Dave Hill and Tommy Aaron in an extra round at the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open just two weeks ago. Miller, winner of six tour titles, including last year's Phoenix Open, has a 2-1 playoff record, all in sudden death. Archer with $31,077 in winnings already this season, has nine titles and a 3-2 playoff record. It was a three-man race most of the warm, sunny day with Dale Douglass and Bob Murphy finishing in a tie for fourth at 276, three strokes back. Each had a final 70. Dave Hill, Don Bies and Marty Fleckman followed at 77. Lee Trevino, never really a factor in the tournament had a final 72 for 283, 10 strokes behind. Archer had a 68 and the 40-year-old Barber a stunning 65, seven under par.

Matson Finishes In Third

Randy Matson fell to powerful Al Feuerbach for the fourth consecutive time with a heave of 66 7/8 in the Starkist Games. Feuerbach finished first with a toss of 67 1/4 and Fred DeBernardi of Texas-El Paso finished second with a heave of 66 9/8. Matson is blaming his form for the slack appearances in the indoor track meets and had said earlier in the season that he was going to try and get away from tucking the shot putt under his chin that textbook athletes suggest. The Pampa hurler used a loose approach when he won the gold medal in Olympic competition. In the Examiner games Feuerbach had defeated Matson with a heave of 68 2 1/4. Matson's toss in the San Francisco games was 67 3/4 for a second place finish.

NBA Roundup

ASSOCIATED PRESS Boston's John Havlicek, playing his 10th season in the NBA, moved into 11th place on the all-time scoring list with a career total of 16,289 points by connecting for 24 against Portland. He moved ahead of Paul Arizin, who amassed 16,256. Dave Cowens paced the Celtics with 26 points and 15 rebounds, while Portland's Sidney Wicks tallied 25 points. Baltimore, led by Archie Clark's 26 points, broke loose for 43 points in the fourth quarter to rout the Royals. Cincinnati's Nate Archibald was the game's high scorer with 28 points. New York, which held a 15-point lead over Seattle with 4:15 remaining, thwarted a strong Super-Sonics rally with the help of Earl Monroe's season-high 27 points. Dick Snyder connected for 26 points for Seattle. Stu Lantz poured in 32 points and rookie Mike Newlin contributed 26, leading Houston's victory over Detroit. Dave Bing led the Pistons with 32. In the NBA Saturday, it was: Cincinnati 113, Cleveland 96; Chicago 115, Houston 108; Baltimore 116, Portland 99; Golden State 113, Philadelphia 106, and Phoenix 116, Los Angeles 102.

ABA Roundup

ASSOCIATED PRESS Teams like Utah and Indiana have felt they could beat us on reputation alone," said Kentucky Colonel's Coach Joe Mullaney. They know better now. The Colonels, long an American Basketball Association patsy for those teams, exploded with a vengeance against the Stars and Pacers over the weekend. After ripping Indiana 108-88 Friday night, the Colonels clobbered Utah's defending ABA champions 130-94 Sunday. In the process, Kentucky tied a team record for assists with 36 and handed the Stars their worst defeat since they moved to Utah from Los Angeles two years ago. In Sunday's other ABA games, the Dallas Chaparrals whipped Indiana 113-110 in overtime, the New York Nets stopped the Floridians 156-105 and the Denver Rockets trimmed Virginia 130-123. Saturday's ABA results: Indiana 119, Utah 113; Virginia 121, Floridians 117 in overtime, and Dallas 94, Denver 93. Kentucky, connecting on 55 per cent from the floor, ran up a halftime margin of 55-39 and opened it to 96-65 at the end of three quarters. With reserves playing the last quarter, the Colonels once expanded their advantage to 38 points. Dan Issel had 29 points and Artis Gilmore, 23 for the winners. Steve Jones scored 11 for Dallas' 13 points in overtime as the Chaps stalled the Pacers. Jones finished with 31 points overall.

Solid Waste Pollution

Every man, woman and child in the United States will spend about $20 in 1972 to dispose of some four million tons of solid waste.

Of the waste that is collected, the U.S. Public Health Service estimates that about 13 per cent is made up of packaging materials.

Because they constitute one of the most visible kinds of waste, packaging materials have attracted much attention from conservationists and environmentalists.

Oregon has banned the throwaway can. At least one city in Ohio has not only outlawed the sale of disposable containers within its limits but also possession of them.

A recent survey showed that more than 1,000 bills related in some way to packaging and solid waste will be considered in 24-state legislatures in 1972, ranging from taxes on all nonreturnable containers to outright bans.

The growth of restrictive legislation is expected to result in a number of legal battles, such as one that was fought recently in the Supreme Court of New York State.

A 2-cent tax on the sale of all plastic nonfood containers passed by the New York City council was challenged by the Society of the Plastics Industry (SPI), representing more than 1,000 U.S. companies that manufacture and distribute plastic materials and products.

The stated objective of the law was to promote recycling and to cut waste collection costs.

The court ruled against the city, holding that unless all types of container materials were included there would be no incentive to recycle—only an incentive to switch away from plastics.

If legislation singling out one or two packaging materials is not the answer, what is? Some environmentalists have suggested that we must be prepared to give up many of the convenience items that have become so much a part of our modern way of life.

Others disagree, arguing that the technology that produced these conveniences can also solve the environmental problems caused by them.

The only way we can cope with solid waste pollution is to focus on the central problem—disposing of the total refuse load," he says.

This means enacting and enforcing strong antilitter laws, modernizing refuse collection systems, upgrading the quality of municipal incinerators and encouraging research in refuse separation, reuse and recycling.

Any way you look at it, the job will not be easy, or cheap, or convenient.

Japan Realistic On Nixon-China

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Though Japan is still deeply doubtful as to President Nixon's 'China intentions,' its official warnings of the danger to U.S.-Japanese ties could be read too darkly here.

The storm flags went up after the peril was candidly voiced Jan. 10 in San Francisco by Japan's U.S. ambassador, H. E. Nobuhiko Ushiba.

He said the President's February visit to China could either contribute to the peace and stability of Asia or be the start of a "process of unraveling our mutual security in the Far East."

Ushiba's alarms are, of course, meant seriously. Prime Minister Sato learned nothing of Nixon's purposes at Peking when he came to San Clemente. Japan's fresh taste of U.S. silence could only underscore resentment at being "left out" of consultations last summer, when the Peking visit was announced.

Yet realism runs strongly in Japan. At San Francisco, Ushiba stressed, amid the warnings, that "our two countries are highly interdependent for their security."

Moreover, I am advised by Japanese officials who were at San Clemente that their government did take genuine reassurance from Nixon respecting security

Clearing House

Editor: On behalf of the Pampa Seventh-day Adventist Church I would like to thank Pampa residents for their generous support of our church's 71st annual World Service Appeal.

Pampa residents contributed most generously to the campaign. All contributions will go into a central fund with allotments made to humanitarian projects according to need.

For example, our Disaster Relief Vans will be kept in readiness; and whenever or wherever a disaster strikes, we can be there within hours to give aid to those who need it and need it desperately.

Seventh-day Adventists, as you know, are among the "givingest" people in the world. Last year the 412,000 Adventists in the United States and Canada gave $160 million to their church to carry on its work in behalf of needy humanity around the world.

It is gratifying to realize Pampa residents are aware of the suffering and ignorance in many parts of the world and have given their financial support to aid these unfortunate persons of all races, creeds, and colors.

Question Box

QUESTION: President Nixon said, as I recall, that he would reduce the number of government employees (by 5 per cent) and government expenditures (by 10 per cent). These two items are direct and real causes of inflation, as contrasted with wages and prices which are merely symptoms. Has Nixon done anything to implement his promise?

ANSWER: He must have started doing something, since the spenders and boosters for big government already are accusing him of wrecking their pet programs. For instance, we read that Sen. Lee Metcalf and Rep. John Dingell, have been complaining that some environmental positions in the Agriculture and Interior Department have not been filled because of Nixon's promise to reduce government employment.

However, from the accounts of the additional number of bureaucrats hired to police the wage-price-rent controls, it is doubtful that there will be any net reduction of personnel or expenditures. It is the nature of political government to grow, and it is the nature of politicians to promise relief, which they seldom are prepared to deliver.

We are afraid Mr. Nixon is no different from other politicians when it comes to making great promises which he either has no intention of keeping or which he finds it impossible to deliver on.

Mr. Nixon had a splendid opportunity when he took office to give an example to the American people of keeping expenses down. When asked about the $100,000 increase in salary to $200,000, he was quoted as saying he really did not need it. But he accepted it. Had he refused it, Congress would have been hard put to take its 42 per cent salary increase. Then there would not have been the great demand for large increases in pay for all other government offices. The example would have been there, and people would have demanded that all other government employees exercise restraint. And a major step toward reducing government spending and slowing the inflationary spiral would have been taken.

Apparently the current occupant of the White House is no different from any other power-seeking politician. He is unwilling to forego the personal emoluments that are available to one in his political position.

Ellsberg Co-Conspirator Hidden in UNDP Payroll

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The United Nations Development Program, into which the U.S. has poured hundreds of millions, is finding itself in a surprising new role.

Unwittingly or otherwise, UNDP is providing a snug and lucrative refuge for a man recently characterized by a Federal grand jury in Los Angeles as a "co-conspirator" in the pilfering and leaking of the classified Pentagon documents.

He is Vu Van Thai, South Vietnam Ambassador to the U.S. during the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

That is on the UNDP payroll at $32,040 in the guise of a rice expert in the African country of Senegal. His formal title is "consultant" on rice development — although how much he knows about rice is highly questionable.

That owes this juicy plum to his long-time good friend, former UN Secretary-General U Thant. He arranged it with Paul Hoffman, one-time auto executive, who last week, at 80, retired as head of UNDP for 13 years. At Thant's direct intercession and with Hoffman's approval, Thai was given a six-month UNDP contract at $32,040.

The U.S. this year is contributing $66.268 million to the UNDP budget.

That grant is approximately one-third of the $265.119 million pledged to UNDP by 136 countries.

The Federal grand jury branded Thai as a "co-conspirator" in an indictment of Daniel Ellsberg on a number of charges involving the pilfering and leaking of the secret Pentagon papers.

While flatly labeling Thai as a "co-conspirator," the Los Angeles panel did not charge him with a crime.

Who's Thai

Thai and Ellsberg are old friends and associates.

Both were on the staff of the Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, Calif., "think tank" which prepared the leaked Pentagon report on the Vietnam war. Rand officials acknowledge Ellsberg consulted Thai on a number of occasions about Vietnam.

Leslie Gelb, another long-time associate of Ellsberg and head of the "tank force" that compiled the study, also confirmed the close ties between Thai and Ellsberg. Said Gelb, "Dan took a lot of cues about South Vietnam politics and affairs from Thai. Dan was always quoting him admiringly."

A Harvard professor, another old friend of Ellsberg, said of him, "Dan thinks the world of Thai. When they were together at Rand, they had long and frequent discussions."

Although Thai was a high official under President Diem, he never returned to South Vietnam after the latter's assassination. Reputedly well-to-do, he has lived in the U.S. and other countries in various capacities for the United Nations.

In 1961-62, he was named a "financial adviser." Just what he did in that capacity is not known. It is an indisputable fact, however, that the UN is currently on the verge of insolvency. Last week, Kurt Waldheim, the new Secretary-General, announced a drastic "austerity drive" in a desperate effort to cope with the UN's dire financial crisis.

Waldheim's immediate economy objective is to cut staff and salary costs, save $6 million. The UN staff now totals 8,327.

Between 1962 and 1964, Thai functioned pleasantly and profitably in another UN sinecure as "economics adviser" to the African country of Togo. There is no indication he knew anything about Togo or economics — but his good friend U Thant gave him the assignment anyway.

Press efforts to obtain a comment from Thai in Senegal have been unavailing.

He admitted knowing about the grand jury characterization of him as a "co-conspirator" of Ellsberg, and being a friend of the latter. But Thai claimed it would be improper to say anything, declaring: "This case is a political affair and, as I am currently an international civil servant, I cannot comment on a matter involving Vietnam."

What's The UNDP

Interestingly, a number of smaller countries are the biggest contributors to the United Nations Development Program — after the U.S., which is putting up one-third of the fund.

Second to the U.S. is Sweden with $26 million, followed by Denmark with $20.604 million, Britain with $19.801 million, Canada $18 million, West Germany $14.457 million, Netherlands $13.046 million, Norway $9.970 million, Japan $5.670 million, France $5.652 million, Italy $3.5 million, Belgium $3.723 million, Switzerland $4.250 million, Australia $2 million, Austria $1.8 million, Brazil $1.3 million, Pakistan $0.967 million.

Rudolph Peterson, 67, former head of the Bank of America, is successor to Hoffman as UNDP director. His avowed aim is to obtain and spend $2 billion on projects in the next five years.

The former West Coast banker has his work cut out for him in persuading Congress to increase the U.S. contribution. UNDP partisans want that raised to $100 million. But there already is strong opposition in the House Appropriations Subcommittee that handles the UN budget.

KENDALLVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Jean Harrod, the Kendallville city judge, fined her husband $5 plus $23 court cost.

Nelson Harrod was brought before his wife this week on a charge of violating the city's vehicle inspection law.

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Dartmouth College has named Ruth M. Adams, the resigning president of Wellesley College, to assist the 202-year-old Ivy League school in its admission of women for the first time this fall.

Miss Adams, who announced last August she would resign the Wellesley, Mass., post on June 30, will become the first female vice president of the school at the same time about 350 women undergraduate students break the school's all-male tradition.

Dartmouth President John M. Kennedy said Miss Adams would advise the faculty and administration on coeducation and teach one of two English courses, as she does at Wellesley.

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor University's trustees have asked the school's president to take whatever steps are necessary to maintain "restriction of speakers on the campus who might advocate atheism, defiance of the law or violent rebellion."

President Abnor McCaill assured the trustees that the Baptist university would provide no platform for such speakers.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Senate approved a bill barring sex discrimination in assignment of public school teachers, but one senator had some second thoughts.

"I recall how much fun it was to get our swimming instruction in the nude," said Sen. James Swan, of Elkhorn. "Would that be possible?"

One of the bill's sponsors replied, "We've come a long way, but not that long."

The bill now goes to Gov. Patrick Lucey.

Worry Clinic

By - George W. Crane, Ph. D., M.D.

Dr. Mattie Coney could properly be termed the "20th Century Mark Hopkins." For one of our U.S. Presidents defined a college as "Mark Hopkins on one end of a log and the student on the other." Despite her Ph. D. and superior I.Q., she still uses "Horse Sense" and simple language.

CASE S-579: Mattie Coney should be cited as one of the greatest Negro educators in American history!

"Dr. Crane," she told me at dinner recently, "I was a school teacher of the 'inner city' at Indianapolis for 30

"Dr. Crane," she told me at dinner recently, "I was a school teacher of the 'inner city' at Indianapolis for 30

"But I taught 'children'; not arithmetic or English!"

"And I always stressed the everyday practical problems they should be able to solve readily."

"As an example, many of my 4th grade pupils didn't even know how to spell their own names!"

"For they always were called by nicknames, such as Butch or Skinny."

"So I started our spelling lessons by having them learn exactly how to write their own first names; then their surnames."

"Then I'd ask them if they could spell the names of their mothers."

"Many of them had no idea. But some of them either forgot or were timid about this assignment."

"When I urged them to bring a slip of paper next day containing their mothers' names, I felt that would help solve this problem."

"So I solved the difficulty by asking Jimmy to go over to Billy's house and get the name of Billy's mother on a slip of paper."

"Then I would ask Billy to reciprocate by visiting Jimmy's house and getting the name of Jimmy's mother."

"If a youngster was unruly, I'd say, 'Johnny, you must have got up this morning on the wrong side of the bed.'"

"But I didn't punish Johnny. Yet I'd head right to his home after school so he'd find me sitting his own living room when he arrived there."

"Meanwhile, I'd merely have a friendly chat with his mother, usually praising one of Johnny's good points."

"My pupils thus knew I had close contact with their parents so they seldom gave me any trouble thereafter."

"And I taught them cleanliness, telling them to wash their feet and put on clean socks before they went to a shoe store to buy new shoes."

"And I stressed the fact that 'Cleanliness is next to Godliness' so I warned them to clean up their own appearance; then their bedroom; and their own house, plus their yard and finally their city block."

"In our CITIZENS FORUM, I lecture widely around the country on the theme that you don't get culture on a moving van!"

"Unless a person is neat and clean in his own personality, moving him from an inner city ghetto to a new housing project will still leave him dirty, noisy and slothful."

"Dr. Crane, I also relish your stress on short words!"

"So I abhor polysyllables and one of my first bits of advice in my lectures to people of the inner city is this: 'Don't be a loudmouth!'"

"Obviously, I could urge them to use modulated tones and a mellifluous voice, but they'd not understand!"

Nation's Subway And Bus Firms Lose Money

WASHINGTON (AP) —

With the government's landmark $10-billion program of transit aid locked in low gear, the nation's bus and subway companies lost money and passengers in record amounts last year.

Bureaucratic red tape, federal budget cuts, and confusion in state and local governments have frustrated early hopes for a spending breakthrough to launch new transit systems.

But the most acute transit problem is the continuing cycle of red ink that leads to higher fares, reduced service, and fewer riders as frustrated commuters abandon buses for cars.

"We have not yet been able to correct declining ridership, aging transit fleets or increasing deficits," said Carlos C. Villarreal, administrator of the federal program.

Urban bus and subway patronage plummeted 415 million total rides last year, a decline three times steeper than the annual average over the last decade. The 1971 operating deficit for all public transit systems was $360 million, up 8 1/2 per cent from the previous year, according to the American Transit Association.

With deficits soaring, fares are going up another nickel to 35 cents a ride in New York City, are already 45 cents in Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, and may reach 50 cents this year in Washington.

Milton Pikarsky, Chicago's public works commissioner, argues that the program isn't arresting the decline in mass transit patronage because it "has been effectively emasculated."

Today In History

Today is Monday, Jan. 24, the 24th day of 1972. There are 342 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1965, Sir Winston Churchill, one of England's greatest statesmen, died at his home in London at the age of 90.

On this date: In 1848, James Marshall found a gold nugget in California's Sierra Nevada. The discovery touched off the California gold rush.

In 1898, the battleship Maine was ordered to Havana, Cuba.

In 1908, the first Boy Scout troops were organized by Sir Robert Baden-Powell in England.

In 1915, the British defeated the Germans in a World War I battle off Dogger Bank in the North Sea.

Ten years ago: It became apparent, at a meeting of the Organization of American States, in Uruguay, that it would not be possible to get a majority vote for collective sanctions against Cuba.

Five years ago: Premier Ky of South Vietnam ran into a wild antiwar demonstration on a visit to New Zealand.

One year ago: The city office of the Cambodian electric power utility in Phnom Penh was destroyed by an explosion. It was the fourth terrorist incident in the city in three days.

Bates Trial

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A Rosenberg jeweler is to be cross-examined Monday after having already testified that state Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg was said to be an associate of diamond and jewel thieves.

Bates is on trial here, charged with accepting a stolen diamond from a convicted killer. John Herford testified Friday that "I had been told that Bates associated with diamond and jewel thieves."

A great deal of superstition is attached to the praying mantis. In spite of the folklore, mantises are harmless to anything larger than their fellow insects.
