IN 1970 WORK PLANS

Chamber Gives Priority To Auditorium Planning

By TEX DEWEESE
News Staff Writer
Lending support to plans for a civic auditorium in Pampa has been given the No. 1 priority spot on the 1970 work program of the Chamber of Commerce.

The action was taken at a meeting of chamber directors yesterday with formal adoption of a resolution urging action on the auditorium and offering chamber support of the move in any possible way.

The resolution was sent to the

M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium executive committee, headed by E.L. Green Jr., the M.K. Brown Foundation and to city officials. The M.K. Brown Foundation has available approximately $400,000 in cash plus estate income for construction of an auditorium following the wishes of the late M. K. Brown.

Estimates for the building and furnishing of an auditorium to meet community needs have ranged from $1 million to $1.8 million. This would mean that an additional $200,000 to $800,000 would have to be raised for a completed project. However, it is understood slight changes have been lowered. There are suggestions that the executive committee go ahead and build an auditorium with available funds on the premise of additional construction in future years.

The Gray-Pampa Foundation Inc., created out of the estate of Fannie Lovett, deceased, already has arranged for an auditorium site in Coronado Center just south and west of the Coronado Inn.

The Foundation and executive committee for the auditorium are known to be working on possible plans to erect an auditorium that would cost around $800,000 to $900,000 with the possibility of Foundation funds being added to through the sale of approximately $500,000 in revenue bonds.

It was pointed out that all Pampa civic groups, along with the chamber of commerce, local banks and individual bond buyers would need to work together to make the auditorium a reality.

Sinatra Cooperates With SIC

TRENTON (UPI)—A "fully cooperative" Frank Sinatra appeared before the state investigation commission (SIC) Tuesday and apparently gave secret testimony about what he knows, if anything, about organized crime in New Jersey.

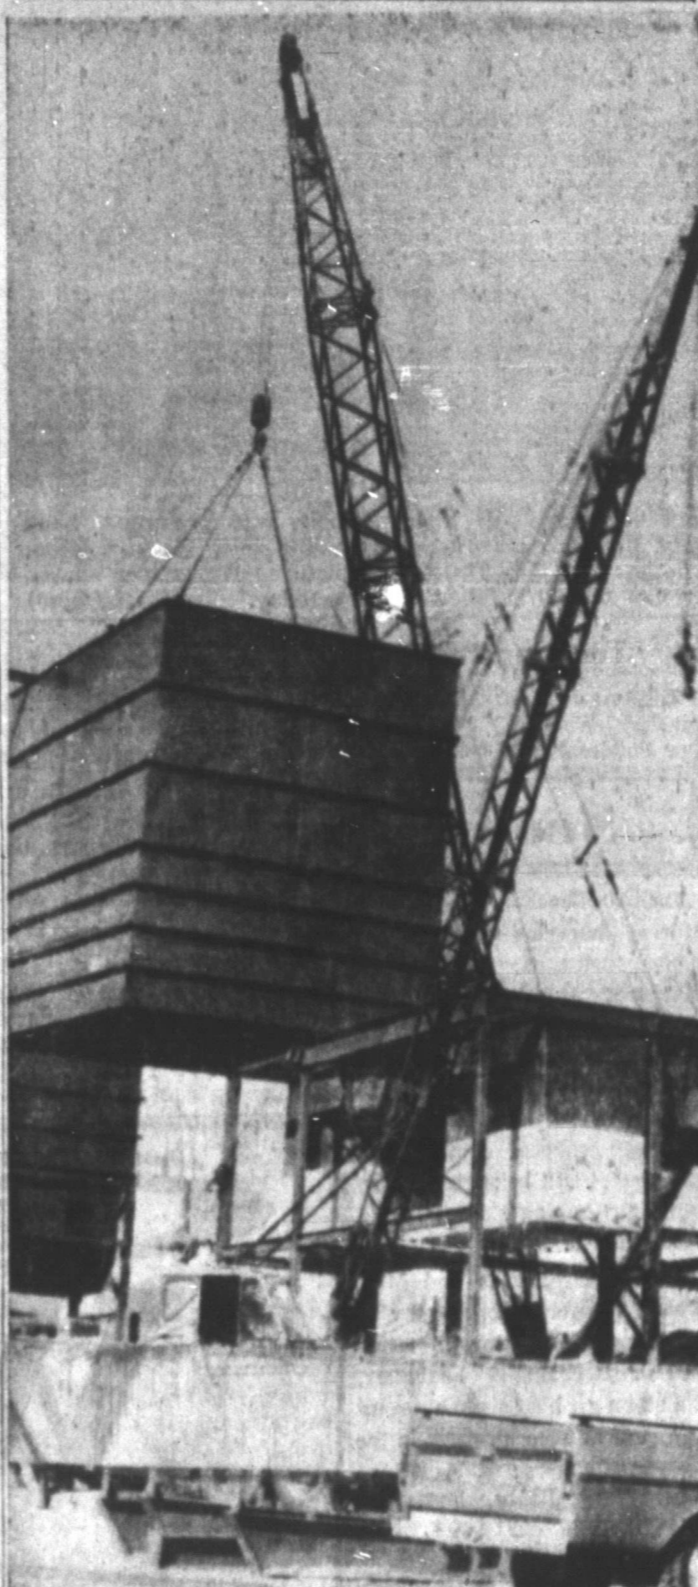

Sinatra's surprise appearance made it likely a petition for dismissal of a warrant for his arrest would be successful.

"It will be dismissed," said lawyer Bruce W. Kaufman, who has been representing Sinatra throughout his lengthy battle to avoid appearing before the SIC. "There will be no opposition," he said.

The warrant was issued last summer when Sinatra failed to appear before the crime-busting commission, in defiance of the subpoena.

SIC Chairman William F. Hyland described Sinatra as "fully cooperative," and said the singer had agreed to return for more questioning if the commission wants him.

GETTING READY for a chow-tine of 18,000 head of cattle, a giant crane was called in Tuesday to lift a 100-ton feed bin onto a foundation at the Beef Cattle Co. located three miles west of Wheeler. The new beef fattening company will be open for business by April 1st, according to Darrell Cameron, Pampa president. Other officers of the corporation are Joe Weatherly, Dick Waterfield, John Chambers, Bill Nix, all of Canadian and Charles Wright. (Staff Photo.)

Speaker Center Of Storm

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic House members braced for a family bloodletting today over two near-sacred institutions — seniority and Speaker John W. McCormack.

Both were expected to be standing firm at the end of the monthly caucus of 245 House Democrats. But their opponents expressed the hope of making a few dents in each.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., planned to ask his colleagues to vote "no confidence" in the leadership of McCormack and his two chief lieutenants, Democratic Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., and Democratic Whip Hale Boggs, D-La.

Waldie, who readily conceded the move would fail dimly, contends the leaders and the present leadership system are unresponsive to the needs and desires of most Americans.

He says his aim is not to topple McCormack now, but to draw national attention to the House and to stimulate his colleagues to change the system. Under the system, which is based on tradition and not the Constitution, seniority appointed chairmen, often with conservative views, can run the House.

Waldie said in an interview Tuesday he has received nearly 1,000 letters since he announced his intentions a few weeks ago and all but a handful were favorable.

His forecast of defeat, Waldie said stems from the reluctance of most congressmen to fight the establishment — particularly if they have to do it on the record. Thus Waldie is seeking a secret vote on his resolution, a test he also expects to lose.

Suspects Believed On Hallucinogenic Drug

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI)—Military authorities methodically searched the patient records of a narcotics therapist today for possible clues to the slayings of his pregnant wife and two daughters by three men and a blond woman.

Capt. Jeffery MacDonald, 26, a Special Forces Green Berets doctor, also was attacked by the group early Tuesday morning in his apartment on the huge Army Base. He was hospitalized in satisfactory condition with stab wounds in the upper arm, chest and stomach.

"The quartet being sought as murder suspects may have been on an LSD trip," the Army said. LSD is a hallucinogenic drug sometimes called "acid." MacDonald told officers the blonde screamed, "acid is great, kill the pigs, hit 'em again," during the attack.

MacDonald, under heavy sedation, was to be questioned again today.

Base Provost Marshal Col. Robert J. Kriwanek said, "We're going systematically through the list of patients. He is a doctor of preventive medicine. MacDonald deals with people who have drug problems and are sent to him for treatment. We're looking into every patient he had."

A dozen or so persons were questioned Tuesday, but the Army said there were "no significant breaks" in the case. A four-inch paring knife, an ice pick and an 18-inch wooden stick, all bloodied and said to be the murder weapons, were found at the scene.

The word "pig" was scrawled in eight-inch letters with blood on the headboard of the bed where attractive blonde, 26-year-old Colette MacDonald was slain. An official who asked that he not be identified said she was five to six months pregnant.

Their daughters, Kimberly, 8, and Kristen Jean, 2, were stabbed to death in their beds in separate rooms of the six-room apartment.

The Army said there was no indication of sexual molestation. It was not known when results of an autopsy on the bodies would be made public.

Similar To Tate Murders
Kriwanek said the similarity between the MacDonald slayings and the Sharon Tate murders in Los Angeles last year "struck us immediately." But he said there was "no indication of any ritual having taken place."

MacDonald said two of the men were white men and the other a Negro wearing an Army field jacket with sergeant stripes.

"We probably have 20,000 field jackets like that on the base," Kriwanek told reporters. MacDonald, of Patchogue, N.Y., told police he had fallen asleep on the couch in the living room while reading.

"He was awakened by somebody stabbing and beating him in the semidarkened room," Kriwanek said. "A second before that, he heard his wife scream in the master bedroom."

Gallup Mayor Seeks Aid In Solving Drunkenness

GALLUP, N. M. (UPI)—Gallup Mayor Ray Erwin goes to Washington today to seek federal assistance in an effort to solve the city's growing crisis of Indian drunkenness.

Erwin, stating he wants to "make the federal government aware of the problem we have here," said he would meet with officials of the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

"I will ask them to join us in trying to come up with a solution to this problem. We are looking for any help," Erwin said.

Erwin agreed with the D.N.A., a Navajo legal aid society, a rehabilitation center is the ultimate solution to the problem of the city which lies just south of the vast Navajo Indian reservation, whose inhabitants provide much of the city's economy.

Model Program
"It is possible that due to the extreme need our city could provide a model rehabilitation program for the entire country," Erwin said.

"There is no other city with 20,000 people that has 11,000 drunks arrested in a year," Erwin said.

In Santa Fe, State liquor control director L. A. "Skeet" McCulloch said he was sending six control agents to Gallup and said he would ask bar owners to voluntarily close their establishments after dark until the crisis is ended.

McCulloch said he would send six of his 10 agents to Gallup and would meet today with members of the McKinley County liquor dealers association to ask them to cut back their operations to daylight hours.

More Than Allowed
"They also live in this community. They have to exercise their judgment and not be looking for the almighty dollar in this crisis," said McCulloch.

The liquor director said Gallup had 39 bars — five times more liquor establishments than allowed under the state liquor control act.

McCulloch said the situation "points up the great political abuse that went on in the area of liquor licenses in years past."

The problem Erwin will take to the nation's capital started last Friday when U. S. Dist. Judge Howard Bratton ordered officials of the Gallup detention center to lower the inmate population to 60 because of overcrowded and unsanitary conditions.

Prisoners Freed
As a result, 183 prisoners — many of them arrested on charges of public drunkenness — were released. Last Friday and Saturday night, many of the released men returned to their favorite bars and later rattled on the doors of various private institutions seeking shelter. Many passed out in the streets. With police unable to arrest them because their arrest quota set by Bratton had been filled hours earlier.

Cost Of Raising Children Rising

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you have a child one year old, you'll probably spend at least $19,360 to $25,000 to raise him (or her) to the age of 18 — if prices don't go up any more.

That estimate of child-raising costs based on 1969 prices and a "low-cost but adequate" living standard was presented today by an Agriculture Department economist at the agency's annual outlook conference.

Wealthier families probably spend more than the 1969-based estimates, poorer families less, economist Jean L. Pennock noted. Other experts said the families to which the estimates applied had after-tax incomes between $5,400 and $6,800 in 1961.

New Scout Executive Named To Head Adobe Walls' Activities

scout exec

William M. McElroy, formerly assistant scout executive in the Yuca Council, El Paso, has been named to the position of Adobe Walls Council scout executive, according to Milo Carlson, council president.

In making the announcement, Carlson said, "We are fortunate to get a man with such a fine background of scouting accomplishment and experience. We feel sure the council will progress under McElroy's leadership."

The new executive will succeed Steve Odom, who has resigned to accept a similar position in the Buffalo Trails Council in Midland.

McElroy is a graduate of Midwestern University, with a BS degree in Business Administration.

Prior to entering scouting professionally, McElroy was employed by Sears Roebuck Company for 2½ years as a management trainee.

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, and has been active in Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs.

His professional experience includes District Scout Executive in Wichita Falls and Lubbock. In September of 1964, he was promoted to assistant scout executive in the South Plains Council in Lubbock. For the past three years he has

RECOGNIZE PROBLEM

West Texans Ahead In Water Solution

West Texans were highly commended by Lt. Gen. Frederick J. Clarke, commanding general of the U.S. Corps of Engineers for progress made in seeking solutions to the area's water supply problem.

Gen. Clarke spoke at the luncheon meeting of the all-day Water Inc. meeting held Tuesday in Lubbock.

Speaking on "Competing Demands" and "Sharing" of water and other natural resources of the nation, he told the 500 in attendance, "You, West Texans, have already taken the first big step toward the solution of your water supply problem. You have recognized the problem exists."

"I know other areas in this country, in fact, right now I'm living in one, where the water supply problem is just about as imminent as yours, but where the people don't seem to want to believe the day can ever come when their faucets will run dry. You face greater natural difficulties than many other areas, but I suspect you are closer to a solution than they because of your foresight and initiative."

The keynote address of the annual meeting was given by James R. Smith, assistant secretary of the interior for Water and Power Development. Secretary Smith spoke on

"The Challenge of the New Decade."

"Like those in the last century who tilled a plot of land to exhaustion and then moved on to another, we in this century have too casually and too long abused our natural environment. The time has come when we can wait no longer to repair the damage already done and to establish new criteria to guide us in the future," he said.

John J. Fritsch Jr., plant manager of Celanese and Edward G. Weber, Amarillo, were elected for three-year terms on the Water Inc. board. Weber is public relations director for Southwestern Public Service.

James D. Skaggs, Pampa, president of the Gray County Unit of Water Inc. and Felix Ryals, White Deer, Water Inc. director attended the meeting from this area.

RAISE PRICES

ATHENS (UPI)—Greece's largest newspapers raised their prices a cent and a half Sunday because of a government decision imposing heavier import duties on newsprint.

Acropolis, Athens' largest newspaper, indicated it would appeal the decision to the Supreme Court. Most large Athens papers hiked their prices from 6 to 7½ cents.

Russia Asked To End War In New Era

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Here are highlights of President Nixon's report to Congress on U.S. foreign policy for the 1970s:

Vietnam - Vietnamization of the war has progressed to a point Hanoi should see its bargaining power diminishing. In this context, this country would continue to withdraw troops on "an orderly schedule," but not without remaining alert and ready to deal with any sudden increase in the level of enemy violence.

Middle East—Nixon is disappointed discussions with Moscow and the Four Power talks have not produced progress toward an Arab-Israeli settlement, but this country has "gone as far as we believe useful in making new proposals until there is response from other parties." He repeats his intention of providing U.S. arms to "friendly states as the need arises" to maintain a balance of power, but essentially, the path to a Middle East settlement is long and painful.

Arms control—He described as some length his administration's position on strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) with the Soviets, emphasizing the current absence of a dogmatic U.S. stance but flexibility which he hoped would produce positive Soviet reaction when the SALT meetings resume in Vienna in April.

Defense—Basically, this long section of the report dealt with his goal of "strategic sufficiency" in weapons, particularly missiles and antimissile systems, and manpower.

Nixon Endorses Proposal To Lower The Voting Age

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration Tuesday warmly endorsed a proposal to let Americans start voting in national elections at age 18 and termed today's youth "better equipped" for it than ever before.

But Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, speaking on behalf of President Nixon, said the voting age should be lowered only for the election of Presidents and members of Congress, leaving states with the discretion in local contests.

Kleindienst testified before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee considering proposed constitutional amendments to lower the voting age to 18. He told the panel the President after careful study and consideration "concluded the change was desirable."

"However," he added, "in recognition of the proper role in which the states are called upon to play in our federal system, and in order to make possible prompt ratification of the proposal, the President feels that an amendment permitting 18-year-olds to vote in national elections only is the best solution of alternative extreme positions — those which would leave the matter to each state on the one hand, and one which would provide the right to vote in state as well as national elections on the other."

Kleindienst said the experience of the four states which allow voting by those under 21 indicates this would be beneficial for the nation as a whole. The voting age is 16 in Kentucky and Georgia, 19 in Alaska and 20 in Hawaii.

He described the 10 million Americans aged 18 to 21 as "better equipped today to be entrusted with all of the responsibilities and privileges of citizenship."

"Our young people are involved in the political process as no other generation has ever been. We need look no further than the Peace Corps, Vista or the most recent national political campaigns to know this is true," he said.

Defense Lawyers Ask For Mis-Trial

CHICAGO (UPI)—Defense attorneys for the "Chicago Seven" have asked for a mistrial on grounds the jury — going into its fifth day of deliberation today — is hopelessly deadlocked.

The move Tuesday came amid indications the government feels its chances for conclusive convictions of seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots at the 1968 Democratic National Convention were slipping away.

"It's obvious the jury is not able to reach a decision," defense attorney Leonard I. Weinglass said Tuesday as he and defense attorney William M. Kunstler filed a motion for mistrial with the clerk of U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman.

The motion, which could be acted on today, came one half hour before the jury of 10 women and two men ended its fourth day of deliberations.

Dodson Wins Miami Referendum

MIAMI (SpI) — Glynn Dodson pulled in the most votes in the special referendum held Feb. 17 to name a successor to Newt Cox as Roberts County Commissioner of Precinct 1.

Dodson received 75 votes. Other candidates, Orval Christopher received 62; R.J. Bean, 55; Frank Russell, 53 and Kenneth Cors, 35.

County Judge Ed Hayner will appoint the man who polled the largest number of votes in the referendum.

Cox, whose term as commissioner would not have expired until Dec. 31, 1972, automatically resigned his office when he filed as a candidate for county judge.

Anyone may still file as a candidate in either the Democratic or Republican May 2 primaries to serve out the remaining two years of Cox's term, 1971-1972. The deadline for filing is April 7.

A total of 277 votes were cast in the referendum. Precinct 1 has 467 registered voters.

Davis Given Two-Year Jail Sentence

AMARILLO (UPI) — Mandred Edward Davis, 47, lost both his legs 10 years ago in a fire caused when he was smoking in bed.

Since August of 1963, he has been convicted 35 times for drunkenness. Three times his driver's license was suspended for a total of 30 months for driving while intoxicated.

Davis was found guilty Tuesday of murder without malice in last year's death of Sherri G. Dodson. The jury deliberated an hour after the conviction and then sentenced him to two years in prison. The maximum sentence was five years.

Mrs. Dodson's car was struck by another automobile last July. She died the next week after giving birth to stillborn twins. Testimony in the case revealed Davis, who uses special controls to drive his car, was intoxicated and driving in the wrong lane when Mrs. Dodson's car was hit.

His record in his hometown of Pampa, Tex., shows he was convicted 35 times for drunkenness with the first conviction coming in August, 1963. His driver's license was suspended in 1962, 1965, and 1966 for a total of 30 months for driving while intoxicated.

Pampa Police Chief Jim Conner said Davis lost his legs 10 years ago in a fire started by a cigarette Davis was smoking in bed.

Rifle-Toting Youth Wanted Cats To Kill

A 16-year-old Pampa youth was released to custody of his father after a "stern lecture" by police last night.

Shortly before 10 p.m. police got a call from a Deane Drive resident that a youth with a rifle had jumped the backyard fence and fled in a pickup truck after being spotted by the homeowner.

The truck was found abandoned later on Duncan St. It was traced to the owner and the youth and his father went to the police station for questioning.

The boy admitted firing the rifle about 15 times earlier in the vicinity of First Christian Church and Fairview Cemetery. He told police he was in the yard of the Deane Drive home "looking for a cat to kill."

In other police news: Roger Dixon, 1103 Kiowa, reported his home was visited during his absence by "mystery guests."

Dixon said sometime between 4 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. yesterday someone entered the house, scattered books on the floor and moved the furniture around.

Joe Wheat, 402 Ballard, told police his automobile was vandalized while on the Senior High School parking lot between 8:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

According to a police report, the vandals cut a fuel line, removed a rotary cap and placed rocks under the valve covers.

MARKS ANNIVERSARY

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Marine Corps will mark the 25th anniversary of the Battle of Iwo Jima Thursday with a ceremony at the Marine Corps War Memorial in suburban Arlington, Va. The memorial is a statue of the servicemen's raising the flag on the tiny Pacific island.

THD Sets Public Hearing For Proposed Loop Construction

Texas Highway Department officials will hold a public hearing in Pampa Thursday night on the proposed location and construction of Loop 171 from U.S. 60 to SH 70.

Tom Kelley, resident engineer for the Highway Department, stated the hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the County Agricultural Bldg., east of the city.

Project plans for Loop 171 call for a two-lane highway with paved shoulders and a railroad grade separation across the north portion of Pampa.

Kelley said persons interested in submitting oral or written statements or exhibits on loop design may do so at the hearing. Written statements also may be entered by mailing them to the resident engineer's office, P.O. Box 1136, Pampa.

These must be received within ten days after the hearing. Copies of maps and drawings are available for inspection and copying at the Pampa highway office. They are also on file in the City of Pampa engineer's office in City Hall.

Matters concerning the proposed Loop will be discussed including schedules for right of way acquisition and construction, proposed design and benefits and services for persons displaced by the project.

The 171 Loop will extend from U.S. 60 east of Pampa North approximately five miles. It will include a Santa Fe Ry. overpass.

Cost of the project is estimated at $900,000 with contracts expected to be let by the State Highway Department in August of 1970.

16,000 Census Takers To Be Recruited

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you think it a bother to fill out a census questionnaire or to give a stranger a lot of personal facts about yourself, consider what the government must do to carry out the national headcount, set for April.

Recruit 150,000 census takers within one month.

Hire and train 12,000 "crew leaders" who will be responsible for giving enumerators the information and preparation needed to perform their tasks.

Take on 13,000 special clerical personnel to handle voluminous paperwork in the census bureau's regional offices.

Classroom instruction. Administer a test to each job applicant to make sure that every person employed is able to follow directions adequately and to do simple arithmetic.

Provide an average of two days of classroom instruction for each enumerator hired.

Once the groundwork is laid, the government must move quickly to organize this massive (mostly part-time) work force into a cohesive unit that is capable of gathering in about three weeks all the data needed in every 10-year census.

The job would be even greater if the Census Bureau had to send an enumerator to

About 80 per cent of American households—all in urban and suburban areas—will be sent a questionnaire this year. They are required to fill in the answers and mail it.

OCCULTISM

Psychic 'Solves' Murders, Advises

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — In the last few years, the interest in ESP and such psychic manifestations has zoomed. Practitioners have become heroes in their own time and at least one long dead psychic — Edgar Cayce — has been rediscovered and virtually sanctified.

Of all the occult "sciences," that of Extrasensory Perception is the most respected, even by nonbelievers. Perhaps that is because it has been seriously studied at several universities, most notably Duke (which has since disbanded its courses).

Where the majority still scoffs at astrology and laughs outright at witchcraft, it generally maintains a show-me attitude toward ESP. People have read too many odd books — books about Cayce, books by Jess Stearn and Jeanne Dixon, even books by distinguished people like the late Bishop James Pike — that puzzle them.

They have seen television shows, like the old One Step Beyond series, which purport to tell true stories of ESP at work. They have read too many newspaper articles in which psychic phenomena have been detailed. They may have even seen psychics perform in theaters and clubs.

And, above all, they have heard about Peter Hurkos.

He is the Dutch psychic who solves crimes — or claims to. Read "The Boston Strangler" and you'll learn about Hurkos, although the police eventually arrested somebody other than the man Hurkos said was the murderer. (Hurkos still thinks he is right and the police wrong.)

Murder after murder, Hurkos is called in by various police departments. Currently he talks about naming and describing the man who killed several girls in Ann Arbor, Mich.

He will not discuss his hand in the Sharon Tate case, other than muttering that he said the killer's name was "Charlie" two months before Charles Manson ever was arrested.

He claims that under the Johnson administration he was called to Washington several times to give the Pentagon the benefit of his foresight. Exactly

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
 UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Look to the nation's comedians, you politicians, if you seek the temper and mood of the people.

That's comedian Pat Buttram's solemn advice. Buttram has become one of the most sought after dinner speakers in the nation, as well as a writer of night club acts for top performers and playing a hayseed slicker in "Green Acres."

Buttram, however, is more than just another funny man. He is best compared with Will Rogers for down home, cracker barrel humor. Beneath guileless eyes and a voice that would etch glass, Buttram is a man of considerable wisdom, all the while hiding behind the facade of a bumpkin.

Reads Public Reaction
 "I average three benefits a week," said the comedian, the son of a circuit-riding Alabama minister. "And I make one or two personal appearances for pay during a week, too. Sir I've learned to read public reaction pretty well."

"Politicians should check with us because the public reacts immediately to topical humor."

"Three months ago I got television show," he said.

laughs with Spiro Agnew jokes. Now if a comedian tells an unflattering joke about the vice president he is greeted with silence or heckling from the audience.

"Governor Reagan jokes are still good for a laugh, mainly because he can take it and laugh at himself."

"Anti-hippie jokes have a peculiar reaction these days. The people don't laugh. They applaud. There is a strong anti-hippie feeling wherever I go."

Self-Directed Gags Best
 Buttram, as Bob Hope and Jack Benny discovered long ago, believes the most well-received gags are those directed against the comic himself.

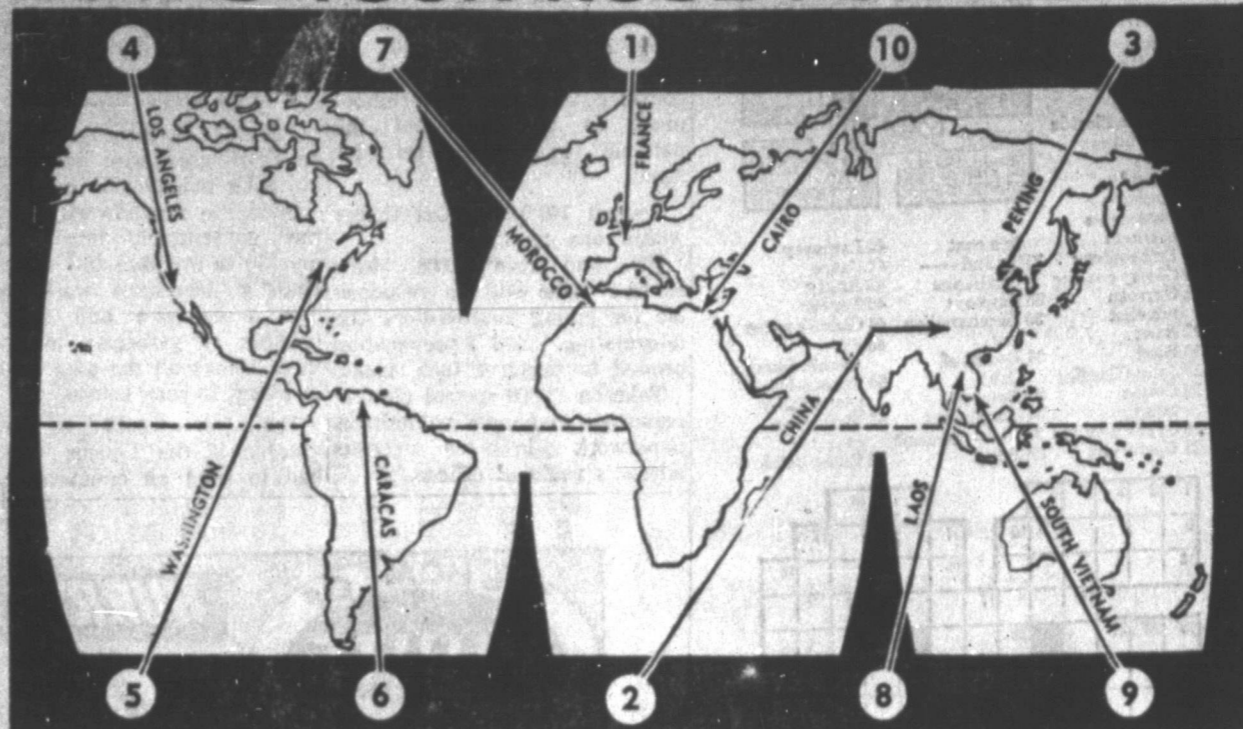

"I've never made it in movies because I'm the biggest loser of all time. I'm the only guy who was ever mugged in a Christian Science reading room."

Another of Buttram's favorites is, "with mini skirts and peekaboo blouses, there's no such thing as a blind date anymore."

Buttram is no little confused by the fact that he numbers teenagers among his biggest fans.

"I think it's because of the character I play in the television show," he said.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Smothers brothers, fired by CBS-TV last year in a well-publicized feud, turned up on NBC-TV Monday night in a one-hour musical-comedy special of their own.

It wasn't actually a return to television for the brothers, since they've been seen on various video shows after getting the big bounce. A comeback is a better description of Monday night's outing because the variety program marked the first time they had tried again, on their own show, what they did before getting fired.

And the news is that they haven't changed much, which should please their fans and displease their detractors. Despite all the talk about aiming for a wider audience, the mild touches of irreverence—which Britons have found anemic and Americans consider hot stuff—were distinctly in evidence Monday, and the audience division can be expected to be precisely as before.

Bob Hope, whose hour special provided the Smothers with a very strong lead-in, turned up briefly at the start of their show to give the imprimatur of respectability. He needed President Nixon and Vice President Agnew, to show, I guess, that irreverence is really okay. Once Hope disappeared, all pretense of the Smothers going straight disappeared with him.

Actually, the brothers, too, had engaged in some mild comedy about Nixon early in the show—definitely gentle stuff about the President not wanting to play golf with brother Tom. Maybe that was a teaser for the audience regarded as anti-Smothers.

The show had a serio-comic art gallery sketch in which famous American historical figures spoke on matters such as revolution, injustice and petitioning—and some poignancy was achieved here, despite the obvious intent of the message. On the other hand, Pat Paulsen, billed to appear as Abe Lincoln, was snipped from the show. Was somebody worried? Well, the Smothers are back.

Newcomers Challenge Pros In Hollywood Oscar Race

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Newcomers Dustin Hoffman and Jon Voight challenge old pros Richard Burton, John Wayne and Peter O'Toole for best actor award in the 42nd annual Oscar race.

Hoffman and Voight were nominated for their performances in "Midnight Cowboy." During the 42-year history of the academy several actors and actresses have been nominated for their performances in the same film including Burton and O'Toole for "Becket" in 1964.

Best actress nominees all are making their first bids for academy awards: Genevieve Bujold: "Anne of the Thousand Days," Jane Fonda ("They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"), Liza Minnelli ("The Sterile Cuckoo"), Jean Simmons ("The Happy Ending") and Maggie Smith

(The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie).

Nominated for best picture of the year were "Anne of the Thousand Days," "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "Hello, Dolly!," "Midnight Cowboy" and "Z."

Sentiment lies heavily with Wayne, nominated only once previously in his 40 years as a movie star—in 1949 for "The Sands of Iwo Jima."

Burton gained his sixth nomination for "Anne of the Thousand Days." O'Toole, nominated for "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" is an also ran in three previous starts.

Hoffman was nominated for "The Graduate" in 1967. It is Voight's first nomination.

"Z" is the first motion picture ever nominated for an Oscar with English subtitles.

TRC Sets Allowable At Maximum Record High

AUSTIN (UPI) — For the third straight month the Texas Railroad Commission set the state's oil production allowable for March at a record high 68 per cent of maximum production.

Commission chairman Ben Ramsey said today the agency is leaving the allowable unchanged because of declining crude oil stocks.

Major crude purchasers indicated at a statewide hearing, however, they plan to purchase less crude in March than in February.

The March allowable will permit maximum production of 3,706,295 barrels of crude daily and an estimated actual production of 3,250,500 barrels per day.

Representatives of Mobil Oil Co. and American Petrofina Pipeline Co. asked the commission to cut the March allowable. D. R. Wall of Mobil said his company has reduced its nominations "in Texas and all other states due to the long position on crude inventories."

He said Mobil has built up a surplus of 1.5 million barrels of crude in January and February, partly because of a fire in the Chicago refinery and mechanical difficulties in another refinery.

B. G. Crocker of American Petrofina said a Feb. 6 fire in the Coston refinery in Big Spring, Tex., left his firm with a 500,000-barrel crude surplus.

"We are in a precarious position as far as crude stocks are concerned," he said. "Therefore we are asking that the allowable be reduced."

Ramsey said Texas crude stocks Feb. 6 stood at 108 million barrels, down 500,000 barrels from the same date last year.

District Judge Praised And Condemned For Sentencings

CHICAGO (UPI) — United States District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman has drawn both praise and criticism from the nation's attorneys for the stiff contempt sentences he handed the lawyers for the "Chicago Seven."

Critics and supporters alike suggested the riot conspiracy trial presented a threat to the American judicial system. They differed on the source and nature of the threat.

Hoffman sentenced William M. Kunstler, the chief defense attorney, to four years and 13 days in prison. Leonard Weinglass, his associate, was sentenced to one year, eight months and five days.

Hoffman told Kunstler, "I am one of those who believe that crime, if it is on the increase, is so in large part because waiting in the wings are lawyers willing to go beyond professional responsibility in the defense of their clients."

He also castigated Kunstler for failing to prevent outbursts by the defendants.

Foreman Backs Judge

Among Hoffman's supporters was Percy Foreman, the noted Texas criminal lawyer. Foreman said the judge "has been a lot more impartial than I would have been on the bench."

"I think the whole thing has hurt the legal profession," Foreman said. "The defendants had nothing to lose... they just wanted a forum, a soapbox. If I couldn't make my clients behave, I would have resigned the case."

At the other extreme, Percy Julian Jr., a specialist in civil rights cases in Madison, Wis., said the sentences could have "the long-range effect of destroying the adversary system of law."

Attorney Gerald Lefcourt, currently defending 13 Black Panthers during unruly proceedings in New York, said he hopes appeals courts see the judge's action "as what it is, and that is an attack on all lawyers."

Lefcourt said he and his associates in the Panther case feel a contempt record is being built against them but said he "will not be changed by it. I will do what is necessary to defend my clients."

Bernard J. Berman, a Cleveland trial lawyer who worked on the Sam Sheppard murder case, said he finds the sentences "frightening."

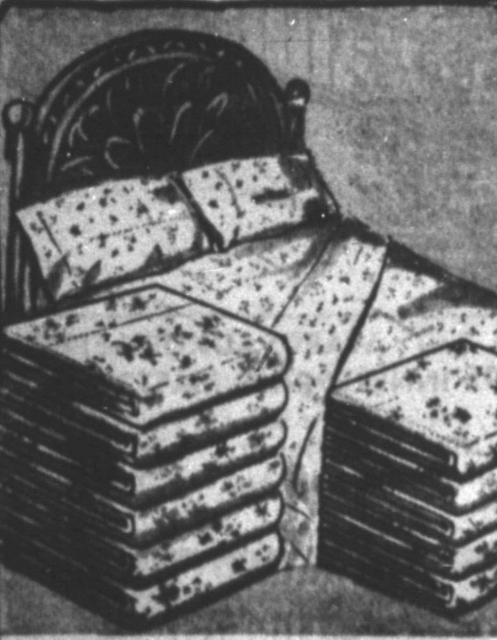

"It's most inappropriate to have the judge immune to any kind of discipline while the lawyer is subject to penalties from the judge," Berman said.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress, citizens. You're going to have to struggle along without a federal board of tea tasters.

You must also contemplate a national future without the strong security shield hitherto provided by 15,000 paid members of the Coast Guard Select Reserve.

If you have slept well at night knowing that your government has stockpiled 5,000 tons of talc against any extreme national emergency, you will now have to give up that emotional crutch.

You may even have to do without a government-owned railroad in Alaska.

Cutting Outmoded Programs
These diminutions of the government's far-ranging provision for your welfare have been ordered by President Nixon as part of its campaign to cut federal spending on "outmoded or uneconomic programs."

So far, the President has fingered 57 such programs. By eliminating or drastically reducing them, he says, the government can save $2.2 billion a year.

The tea tasters board, which has been in existence for more years than anyone here can recall, will surrender its functions to U.S. Food & Drug Administration operatives who inspect the rest of the nation's food supply. The taxpayers thereby will save $127,000 a year.

NO MORE D.M.I. Pay
The Coast Guard Select Reserve will not necessarily be disbanded. Its members may, if they wish, continue patrolling rivers and harbors on weekends. But they will have to do it for love, because the government will no longer pay them $25 million a year in drill pay.

The office of Emergency Preparedness has been taking a second look at some of the $7 billion worth of commodities that have been hoarded in its national stockpile of strategic materials.

It finds that the inventory includes about 20 times as much talc as this country conceivably would need for industrial purposes in case of a major war.

Also on hand are 5 million pounds of quartz crystals, or roughly 15 times as much as can be justified by the most liberal estimate of strategic requirements.

Altogether, the Office of Emergency Preparedness feels, it can dispose of $750 million worth of stockpile materials this year, and perhaps another $2 billion worth in future years, without the slightest impairment of national security.

The Alaska Railroad, which runs from Seward to Fairbanks, is acknowledged to be a needed and valuable facility. But Nixon sees no reason why it should continue to be owned and operated by the federal government. So he wants to offer it for sale at $100 million.

Some of these plans may be vetoed by Congress, which has an articulate passion for government economy as a concept but very little stomach for any specific application of it.

More Witnesses Called In Candidate Filing Allegation

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—U. S. District Judge Adrian Spears Monday ordered witnesses in the grand jury of alleged election law violations not to make any public statements about their testimony before the grand jury next week.

The hearings, ordered by U.S. Attorney Segal Wheatley, are looking into complaints from legislative candidates Leon Williams of Quannah and Zack Fischer of Memphis that they were pressured not to run against state Rep. W. S. "Bill" Healy of Paducah.

Williams, a Democrat, and Fischer, a Republican, appeared before the grand jury last week along with six other witnesses.

Wheatley announced at the end of the two-day session last week that the hearings would resume Feb. 24, and that 10 more witnesses would be called. Spears prohibited the upcoming witnesses "from making any public statements concerning or relating to the testimony they proposed to give the grand jury."

He also prohibited them from making statements after they leave the jury room.

Spears said he had authorized Wheatley to announce the names of those testifying before the grand jury only minutes before the grand jury session starts next Monday.

WAYFARING REPTILE

HILO, Hawaii (UPI)—Police Monday reported the capture of a 5-foot baby python, the first snake ever caught on the island of Hawaii.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market is discounting the less favorable corporate earnings showing for the first half of the new year, but it seems probable that the recent severe decline will result in the usual spring rally being moved forward, Spear & Staff says. Investors are justified in adopting a reasonably aggressive buying policy in carefully selected stocks, the firm says.

In view of the brevity of the base-forming process that has been traced thus far in the market, a sustained rally is unlikely. Standard & Poor's feels. The firm does not regard possible short-term rewards "as sufficiently attractive to warrant aggressive buying." Some bargain-hunting may be undertaken, but not at the expense of depleting reserve buying power, the firm says.

Each slide in stock prices adds to the fears of people who hold shares, the Neill Letter of Contrary Opinion observes. Perhaps, people just haven't been scared enough yet to mark the end of a major bear market, the firm says, adding that when this happens the market will either undergo a spasm of selling or will level out until reaccumulation takes hold.

Now is the time to move, Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis says. Institutional investors should commence a planned program of committing a substantial part of the funds which they've been accumulating, it adds. The Administration has no alternative to easing monetary restraint soon, and when this happens, a dramatic upturn will occur in the market, the firm says.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

THURSDAY, FEB. 19
Your birthday Thursday: With determination and planning plus a little luck, your career this year can reach goals you now think improbable. Intuition receives erratic but frequent and generally positive stimulation, so that bright ideas become natural.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Excitement and needless talk flow about; be wise enough not to get involved. List essentials so that nothing gets left out. Make sure papers are in order. Younger people have a knack of setting you against mate or colleague.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If you have property to dispose of, put it on the market Thursday. Business travel is rewarding, particularly if you take along associates to help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Buying something in a hurry causes regret for quite a while later. Be thankful for the insight which brings you prudence while dealing with matrimonial brocans, neighbors.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take a very conservative point of view; do nothing but the essential. Important decisions deserve another night for your unconscious mind to digest the issues.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Seek your most fortunate friends and acquaintances; present your finest appearance. Originality and energy find good application Thursday, and earnings promise to improve in response.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There is concern over matters that never quite come to be real issues. Personality conflicts only hold up career progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A journey of inquiring reaps very helpful information, fresh contacts for later development. Get rid of delayed correspondence, unfinished business.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Family plans tend to fall apart with changing situations. Sudden offers require prompt responses. Evening plans are diverted until you receive your choices.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It's mostly a buyer's market in supplies. Save your energy by avoiding crowds and rush-hour conditions. In-laws and distant relatives are quite touchy Thursday.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Other people's career problems come to your attention. Advice should not include mixing into their affairs. Experts look over your accomplishments with favor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Thursday's events set up the context for a serious offer of advancement. You may carry responsibility considerably greater than your proper share, for rewards which do not materialize until later on.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): For a happy outcome, discipline yourself to avoid showing competitive or jealous tendencies. Home life requires personal serenity—give your inner nature a chance to come through.

The fabrics headlines: Wool mixtures of wool plus a lightweight like flax, cotton or rayon. The lighter, the better.

Pioneer Americans used various tonics to purify the blood in the Spring. Sassafras brew was a favorite; others were compounded of burdock, red beets, and spirits. Such tonics were not recommended for use in the Fall or Winter; they might thin the blood to the point that the user might freeze to death.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Generation Gap"—the mother who couldn't understand how her kids could study with all kinds of racket going on around them!

We have become so accustomed to noise that it does not distract us. We can "turn it off" in our own minds. I know that I can't study unless I am tuning out some kind of noise. By the way, I am 16, and a straight A student.

NEEDS NOISE TO STUDY BY

DEAR ABBY: Re the lady who wrote and asked you if you thought her kids could really study with the noise of a television or radio going on. You said, "Send me their grades, and I'll send you my answer."

Well, it's not necessary to send their grades. I am 17 and I do all my homework while I'm watching television or listening to the radio, and I have a 3.4 grade average.

If I tried to study in a quiet place, I would never get my work done because I'd be spending all my time trying to hear what everyone else was doing.

A radio or TV tunes out all that other noise. It works.

I say, let kids study in whatever atmosphere they want to study in. They are old enough to know how they study best.

LIKES NOISE IN MANHATTAN

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column recently from a mother who asked you

Mrs. Ruth Sewell

If you thought a child could really "study" properly with the television going full blast, and the racket of a stereo and radio going on. Your comment interested me. ("Send me his grades and I'll send you an answer.")

I am a high school teacher, and I asked for a show of hands of all the students who made it a practice to try to find a "quiet" place in which to study. Not one of my honor students raised his hand! So maybe the kids of today are able to tune out distractions.

TELLING IT LIKE IT IS

DEAR ABBY: It makes me so mad! Why can't parents

B&PW Members Attend Program On World Tour

Mrs. Ruth Sewell was guest speaker for Business and Professional Women's Club's recent meeting in the City Club Room. Mrs. Sewell showed slides of her recent world tour. She departed from Amarillo, flying to Mexico City, Guatemala, Panama City, Lima Peru, Buenos Aires, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Rio de Janeiro, Port of Spain, Brazil, and Caracas, Venezuela.

The club will assist with an open house at Girl's Town in Borger Feb. 22, from 2 to 4 p.m. The Council of Clubs report was given by Mrs. C.C. Rhoades. Mrs. Lora Dunn introduced the "Girl of the Month" for February, Cathy Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Bird, 1900 N. Christy.

A nominating committee was elected and included Lora Dunn, Elsie Cunningham, Maxine Ethridge, and May Etta Powers. Mrs. Charles Ford, chairman of the World Affairs Committee, announced members are planning the World Affairs Banquet to be held in the First Methodist Church dining room at 7 p.m. Feb. 24.

One new member was approved for club membership. New members of 1969-70 will present the March 10 program. Mrs. Bessie Boswell was a guest.

understand my children? I saw the letter in your column signed "Generation Gap," and all I can say is there sure is a generation gap when it comes to "noise" and how it affects the younger generation as compared to how it affected their parents.

If I do not have some kind of "noise" around me, I can not concentrate on what I'm reading. This is the truth because I have tried to study in silence and I can not do it. I am a high school freshman and make straight A's.

Hawkeyes Increase Big 10 Lead

By United Press International
Sometimes a four-letter word isn't all that bad.

Take Iowa for example, or Rice, and you can even throw in NCAA although it isn't really a word.

The Hawkeyes of Iowa stretched their Big 10 lead to two games Tuesday night by edging Illinois, 83-81, at Champaign, and Rice took a two-game advantage in the Southwest Conference with an 85-78 triumph over Arkansas at Houston.

The champions of both conferences gain automatic entry into the NCAA competition and Iowa and Rice seem sure bets with only five and four league games remaining respectively.

Brown Tops List

Five of the six players who saw action for ninth-ranked Iowa scored in double figures with Fred Brown topping the list with 22 points. Game honors went to Rick Howat of Illinois with 32 points.

The Hawkeyes fell behind 21-12 but moved ahead for good at 65-63 with 7:25 remaining. Iowa is unbeaten in Big 10 play with a 9-0 record, two games better than defending champion Purdue, which is second.

Tom Myer scored 36 points and Gary Reist added 22 for Rice, which now stands 8-2 in the Southwest Conference. A three-way tie for second place exists among Texas Tech and Texas Christian, both of whom lost, and Texas A&M.

Texas A&M converted 20 consecutive free throw opportunities to beat Texas Tech, 82-74, and end the Red Raiders' five-game winning streak. Mike Heitmann of the Aggies led all scorers with 24 points, one more than Greg Lowery had for Tech.

Hopes All But Blighted
Texas Christian had its playoff hopes all but blighted as it dropped its third game in a row, this one by a 93-84 count to Texas. The Longhorns hit on 55.8 per cent of their field goal attempts as they raced away to a 19-point lead in the first half. Wayne Doyal scored 26 points for Texas.

Sam Williams, who entered the game in the final minute of regulation time and promptly threw the ball away, scored nine points in overtime to help St. Louis University gain an 84-78 victory over Southern Illinois. Joe Wiley, whose 10-foot jump shot gave the Billikens a 68-all tie in regulation, led all scorers with 35 points, his career high.

Dave Robisch, the leading scorer in the Big Eight Conference, had 32 points to pace Kansas to a 100-87 triumph over Nebraska; Cincinnati beat cross-town rival Xavier, 85-72, behind the 24 points of Don Oletree; Boston College upset Georgetown, 79-69; Michigan defeated Toledo, 78-60, with Rudy Tomjanovich scoring 17 points; and the University of Miami outscored visiting, La Salle, 103-86.

Dallas And Washington Tighten Race

By United Press International
The race for first place in the Western Division of the American Basketball Association is a little tighter today thanks to the Dallas Chaparrals and Washington Caps.

Glen Combs provided three clutch free throws in the final 20 seconds and Cincy Powell scored 33 points Tuesday night to give Dallas a 122-119 victory over the division-leading New Orleans Buccaneers.

The Caps placed six men in double figures — including George Carter with 26 points and Rick Barry with 24 for a 134-116 triumph over the Miami Floridians.

That left only 1½ games separating the top four teams in the Western Division. The Bucs now lead Denver by only two percentage points. Dallas is third, a half game behind, followed by Washington, which is 1½ back.

In the only other ABA game Tuesday night, the New York Nets moved into third place in the East with a 108-103 victory over the Carolina Cougars. Bill Melchioni's free throw with 24 seconds remaining put the Nets ahead, 104-103, and New York then took advantage of desperation Carolina fouls for the victory.

Lakers Lose To Nick's In NBA Action

By United Press International
Cazzie Russell may be just a little tired of his title as the best sixth man in basketball.

Russell, taking advantage of an injury to Bill Bradley, put in another strong recommendation for a promotion to the starting five when he scored 18 points Tuesday night as the New York Knickerbockers beat the Los Angeles Lakers, 114-93.

The Knicks, who reduced their magic number to 11 for the Eastern Division title of the National Basketball Association, put the game away with a 23-9 surge in the third period and Russell hit on all five of his field goal attempts during the quarter.

In the only other game played, Gail Goodrich scored 44 points and Connie Hawkins added 32 as the Phoenix Suns defeated the Seattle Sonics, 129-118.

For the first time in five meetings this season, New York held Jerry West to under 30 points. West had only 17, one less than teammate Elgin Baylor.

Four Horsemen Now All In Hall Of Fame

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI)—Don Miller, the fourth member of Notre Dame's fabled Four Horsemen, and Dick Howell, Don Hutson's dazzling passing partner at Alabama, were among eight players named today to the National Football Foundation's Hall of Fame for athletic and professional achievement.

Miller joins the other three members of the Notre Dame backfield—sleepy Jim Crowley, Elmer Layden and the late Harry Stuhldreher—in the Hall of Fame.

MIKE EDGAR, 50, gave Pampa a one-two scoring punch last night as he scored 19 points and Jim Gallman pushed through 25. Pampa recorded a 70-62 win over the Lubbock Westerners in the away game. The Harvesters will meet Coronado this Friday and now own a three game winning streak and a 3-4 second half district record. Edgar is shown in a recent game. (Staff Photo)

Lumberjacks Maintain First In Small Schools

NEW YORK (UPI)—S.F. Austin College continues to demonstrate its superiority.

The Lumberjacks took on Howard Payne, ranked No. 4 last week, for the second time this season and the results proved to be the same. S.F. Austin came away with a 104-100 victory to boost its record to 22-0 and help the Lumberjacks retain their No. 1 ranking among small college basketball teams.

S.F. Austin was named first on 32 of the 33 ballots cast by the 35-member United Press International Board of Coaches. Two coaches did not participate in the balloting, which involved games played through Feb. 14. Howard Payne, now 22-3, retained its No. 4 ranking with its strong showing against the Lumberjacks as the top five teams held their placings from last week. Ashland, which received the lone first-place vote not cast for S.F. Austin, was second and Cheyney State (20-1) held third. Puget Sound retained its No. 5 ranking and Youngstown held on to sixth. Central Washington, St. Mary's (Tex.), Eastern New Mexico and fast-rising Maryland State completed the top 10. Maryland State is unbeaten in 20 games this season.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation each week select the top 10 teams in the nation with 43-2-1 basis on votes from first through 10th.

Briscoe Girl Cagers Go To Regional

Briscoe Girls' Basketball team trounced Lakeview Girls 65 to 45 in a bi-district championship game played here Tuesday night in the Harvester Gym.

The Briscoe team will now advance to the girls' basketball regional tournament to be held in Lubbock Thursday.

BOX SCORE

	1st	2nd	half	4th
Briscoe	16	35	52	65
Lakeview	12	19	33	45

Scoring for Briscoe were Lucy Meadows with 30 points; Debbie Douthett, 19; Phyllis Aderholt, 14.

Scoring for Lakeview were Brenda Smith, 37 and Brenda Durrett, 8.

Pampa Pounds Out 70-62 Road Victory Over Lubbock Cagers

By JIM BURNHAM

The Harvesters scored another win last night over the Lubbock Westerners 70-62, making their winning streak three in a row.

"I think we beat a good ball club tonight," Coach Sterling Gibson remarked after the game. "I'm real happy to get out of here with a victory."

The score was 17-17 at the end of the first quarter. Pampa went in to a five point lead at half, 32-27.

The Harvesters shot 46 per cent of their field goals and 67 per cent of attempted foul shots that half. Lubbock hit 31 per cent and 86 per cent of its free shots.

Pampa raised the lead to nine in the third period but the Westerners rallied and Pampa only led by one, 49-48, at the close of the quarter.

When the score became 54-52, the Harvesters began their stall. Relying on free shots to get them by, the Harvesters made the right move. Doug Thompson made six straight foul shots and two from Jim Gallman and one from Randy Marsh added nine points to the scoreboard.

Gallman led all scorers with a total of 25. Mike Edgar put 19-points through the hoop and Thompson came up with 10. Marsh made two field goals and four charity shots for 7, and Richard Bunton came through with six for the Harvesters. Mike Jordan added three.

William Stewart for the Westerners totaled 17, leading Lubbock and Mark Davis came in second with 13.

Three Harvesters scored in double figures compared to four from Lubbock. Last time the Westerners played the Harvesters, there were four Lubbock players in double figure scoring.

Pampa hit 52 per cent of attempted field shots in the second half and 80 per cent of the free shots attempted by Gibson's cage crew were good.

For the game, the Harvesters made an even 50 per cent from the field and an important 78 per cent from the charity stripe.

"Everything went like we thought it would go," Gibson said of the way Gallman, second in district scoring with a 19.3 points per outing average, and Edgar, who raked in 19 points from past the free throw line mostly, had handled the game. When Gallman was covered, Edgar would try to score. "We'd like to win the next two."

Friday the Harvesters, with a 12-14 season and a 3-4 district standing, play host to another squad from Lubbock, Coronado.

Commissioner Put On Spot By Detroit's Denny McLain

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bowie Kuhn is on as big a spot as Denny McLain.

This is the time people find out in a hurry what kind of a baseball commissioner he is. This is the time he earns some of that better than $100,000 a year he is paid.

McLain is due to report to spring training with the Detroit Tigers in Lakeland, Fla., at 10 a.m. Friday and Kuhn's course is patently clear. If he has any evidence McLain was a partner in a bookmaking operation in 1967 as Sports Illustrated magazine says in a copyrighted story, then he has to come out and say so and undoubtedly suspend the Tigers' organ-playing 25-year-old ace. If, on the other hand, Kuhn has convinced himself there is no basis for the charge, then he has to come out and say that also so that McLain can proceed to spring training without being under a cloud.

Bowie Kuhn has reached the point where he has to throw the ball. He can't faint. Nor is he likely to. Bowie Kuhn is an attorney and attorneys don't faint no matter how rough the going gets. Their clients do sometimes, but not them.

Although he has been commissioner only a year, a pattern has begun to emerge about the way Bowie Kuhn operates. He takes his time reaching a decision, studying all the evidence as all good attorneys do, but when he makes his decision he occasionally surprises people.

Kuhn and McLain in his office here nearly two hours last Friday and since that time the usually talkative and outgoing Detroit pitcher hasn't been so talkative or so outgoing. Denny's lawyers have no comment, the commissioner's office has no comment and Jim Campbell, the Tigers' executive vice president and general manager, has no comment.

No matter how this all comes out, and even if Denny McLain proves guilty of nothing more than foolish business investments, he hasn't exactly qualified as a summa cum laude graduate. He hasn't set any records for using his head.

Attorney Says Absurd To McLain Bookmaking Link

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Sports Illustrated magazine article claiming that Denny McLain was a partner in a bookmaking operation in a Flint, Mich., restaurant was called "both utterly false and completely irresponsible" today by an attorney representing the steakhouse.

"I believe that Sports Illustrated has made these absurd and outrageous allegations in reckless disregard of the facts," said attorney Paul Godola. "We will request the magazine to publish an immediate retraction of these remarks."

Sports Illustrated said in an issue due on the stands Thursday that the Detroit Tigers' 31-game winner of 1968 contributed money to support a bookmaking operation in 1967 that accepted bets in several sports. The magazine said "members of a Syrian mob with Cosa Nostra connections sponsored the operation." McLain could not be reached for comment and baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Tigers' General Manager James Campbell declined comment.

An employee of the Cleveland firm of Sports Management, Inc., whose president, William Carpenter, is McLain's agent, told UPI "We just can't say anything at this time. We just have to sit tight."

The magazine story said McLain went in with a soft drink executive who had taken an interest in his career in putting up the money. The article said the two were persuaded to back another man who was the alleged operator of the book.

According to the magazine, McLain and the executive were considered "fish" and were not told when the book won but were billed when it lost. Heavy pressure was put on the two to make good a $46,600 loss suffered when a Battle Creek, Mich., man scored heavily on a horse race, the magazine said.

Kuhn said Friday that "when all the pertinent facts and circumstances have been determined and evaluated, I will have a further statement to make" and added that they had received no indication McLain's activities involved in any way the playing or outcome of baseball games.

NEW YORK (NEA)—The story is told that Abe Lemons and some other college basketball coaches were seated in a posh night club near a young lady.

The woman's garish dress drooped off one shoulder, a cigarette dangled loosely from a red mouth and her bloodshot eyes wantonly surveyed the group.

Abe Lemons squinted at her for a moment and in that dry, Walters, Okla., drawl of his asked: "What's a nice girl like you doing in a place like this?"

A few years ago, Sports Illustrated called the Oklahoma City University coach the funniest man in basketball. To date he has done nothing to disprove it.

Oklahoma Coach Lemons Gives Basketball Tips

Lemons doesn't try to be funny. Well, maybe a little. "I just talk about what I know about," he says. "Basketball. I don't mess around with the atomic situation or anything like that."

Talking about basketball has made Lemons sort of famous. He dresses slick, his dark hair is combed back and he wears a diamond ring—but his delivery is pure cracker barrel.

After the season ends in March, he probably is the busiest after-dinner speaker in the world. "It's hard to say how many speeches I make a year," he says, "but sometimes I make four or five banquets a week."

Here, then, is Abe Lemons on practically everything, except the atomic situation:

Offense: "We run what we call our 'Daylight Offense.' The first guy who sees daylight after he crosses midcourt shoots."

Defense: "Our zone is unlike any other in basketball. We wind up leaving all five opposing players wide open and they get so excited they can't shoot straight."

Recruiting: "I tell people we don't give our kids cars. We give 'em Boeing 707 jets. You know, the NCAA hears about that and they'll just laugh and say nobody gives kids Boeing 707 jets. We'll never be on probation."

Recruiting Indians: "We've had a lot of good Indian players. Everybody knows I'm the world's greatest coach of Indians, so if an Indian wants to be a star he'll come here."

Gems: "I told my wife how we used to have big ol' parades with a trough of lemonade. Everybody'd drink outa that trough, even the horses. Not now. They'd talk about gems and what have you. But you know, a kid never did in Walters. We never thought about gems."

Morality: "It's like these old western movies we used to go to on Saturdays. The hero didn't run around with women and he always won in the end. That's a pretty good lesson for kids."

I could have put a 'e' in and been 'Ace'.

UCLA's John Wooden: "Wooden got himself to the point where if he don't win the National every year, everybody's going to be mad at him. I don't have that problem."

Sex: "It's all right."

His Name: "My real name is A.E. When I tried to get in the Air Force, this ol' boy said, 'You got to have a name.' And I said, 'My name is A.E.' He said, 'That ain't no name, that's just letters.' But it was good enough for my daddy, and when they give it to me they didn't count on any squirrely complications. I went back and wrote a 'b' between the 'a' and 'e.' I thought on it later."

Curtis Wants Pro Contract After Upsetting Emerson

SALISBURY (UPI)—Peter Curtis of England, fresh from what he termed the biggest victory of his career, said today he would like to sign a professional contract to provide security for his wife.

Curtis, who upset Roy Emerson of Australia, 6-3, 6-4, Tuesday in the National Indoor tennis open championships, is married to American tennis player Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis.

"For a married man, there certainly is a lot more security that way," said Curtis, whose victory was all the more surprising in light of the fact that he was dropped from fourth to 10th in the English national rankings.

Curtis shrugged off his demotion in the English rankings, saying he had been concentrating on his doubles game last year and as a result had several bad tournaments.

Among the 16 men left at the start of today's competition, 10 are listed in the "registered" category, including Curtis. Only six of the nine contract professionals who started play are left, but they include the top three seeds—Australians Rod Laver and Tony Roche and Dutchman Tom Okker.

Laver, who had a bye in the first round, also got past the second without lifting a racket as Canadian Mike Belkin had to default because of a bad back.

In other second-round play, Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., beat Szabolcs Baranyi of Hungary, 6-2, 6-4; Tom Gorman of Seattle beat Nicola Pietrangeli of Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-4; Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., beat Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., 6-1, 6-3; Jim Osborne of Honolulu beat Jan Kubal of Czechoslovakia, 6-3, 6-3; Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., beat Zielko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, 6-4, 6-3.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

No Escape From 'Junk Mail'

There is the story about the man who got fed up with "junk mail." So he saved a bundle of it, wrote "Deceased" across it and shot it back unopened to the Post Office.

Very shortly thereafter his wife began receiving mail order pitches from tombstone companies and others eager to help a wealthy widow spend her money.

The story may be apocryphal, but it is scarcely an exaggeration. For the fact is, if you've got a name and an address, you are on somebody's list.

The business of compiling and renting out mailing lists is estimated to have an annual dollar volume in the hundreds of millions, says News Front magazine. As much as one-third of all mail processed in the United States is unsolicited.

In 1967, mailers invested some $2.4 billion in production costs and postage to send out 15 billion pieces of bulk-rate, third-class mail. And every one of those 15 billion pieces owed its existence to a list.

The lists are as varied as they are numerous. One New Jersey firm, for example, sells names and addresses in 12,000 classifications from Abattoir Equipment Manufacturers to Zoological Gardens. Another has the names of "25,000 of St. Louis' most prominent Catholics." Still another will put you in touch with 10,000 buyers of African violets.

A company in Atlanta has a list of Georgia males who are more than six feet tall and weigh 215 pounds or more. This list was prepared for a store selling king-sized men's clothing and was compiled from the files of the state's motor vehicle division.

You're not only on a list but you carry a price tag. If you are a newlywed, your name and address are worth 1.5 cents. Likewise, if you ever bought a mail-order truss. Wealthy widows command 4 cents per name, breeders of pedigreed swine, 3.7 cents.

Where do the listmakers get their names? Public records, like the aforementioned list of Georgia drivers, are an important source. They provide the names of people licensed to practice a profession or trade, hunt, fish, drive a car, get married, own a dog, add a room to a house, etc.

Other basic sources are magazine subscription lists, telephone directories and directories published by trade associations, colleges, societies and other organizations. Newspapers and trade publications also alert the list-makers to promotions and personnel shifts within an industry.

How effective is this type of advertising? If advertisers get a 1 to 2 per cent return, they are satisfied. Some specialized mailings, however, can pull better than a 50 per cent return. One shrewd owner of a warehouse full of non-selling black raincoats unloaded his stock in a month by renting a mailing list of ministers and undertakers.

How do you get off a list? It's not difficult, but you'll probably just wind up on another. People who write in demanding their names be removed from a list are immediately placed on a list of people who have demanded their names be taken off lists.

This "soreheads" list is then rented to sellers of products for people who want to be left alone, like personal protection devices or electrified fences.

Even if you order something by mail and do not pay for it, your name goes on a "dead-beats" list — which is promptly rented out to companies selling merchandise on a cash-first basis.

For the ordinary American, there is no escape from mailing lists, says News Front. "Every time he betrays his identity in this highly mobile market society he becomes open game for somebody's list. The listing starts before he is born and proceeds to the tombstone. It is one of the most pervasive reminders of the superheated bazaar we live in."

So grin and bear it. And remember, one man's "junk mail" is another man's welcome news.

Space Pioneer To 'Retire'

A star is due to fall. Explorer I, America's first satellite and the oldest man-made satellite still in space, just passed its 12th anniversary. But it won't live to be 13.

Death of the 30-pound, 80-inch-long cylinder has been predicted before, but it is now expected to re-enter the earth's atmosphere sometime in May, reports Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama.

The engineering team that built the Jupiter-C main stage which launched Explorer I on Jan. 31, 1958 — just 84 days after the go-ahead from President Eisenhower — later became the nucleus of the NASA-Marshall installation, where the Saturn-Apollo moon lander was born.

The major scientific achievement of Explorer I was the discovery of the radiation belts that surround the earth.

Defense Department experts who keep track of all objects in space say Explorer I is a "decaying" orbit, bringing it ever closer to contact with the upper atmosphere where friction will transform it into a flaming meteorite.

A fitting end for a noble little space pioneer.

See How We Run

We have the word of a University of Pittsburgh researcher that life in the big city really does resemble a rat race — or vice versa.

For 11 years now, Dr. Joseph Buckley has been running laboratory rats — some 5,000 of them all told — through a "stress chamber" simulating a few of the characteristic environmental influences of the urban existence — flashing lights, blaring noise and constant movement, this last, at 140 joints to the minute, supposed to duplicate the effects of auto and commuter train travel.

After a week of this pace, Dr. Buckley's rats develop high blood pressure, become irritable and tend to snap.

In short, the urban syndrome. And in fact, a good description of some of the people we work with.

Wit and Whimsy

A university student, no idea where their parents were, preparing a paper on juvenile delinquency, telephoned a dozen homes one evening about 9 o'clock to find out whether parents knew where their children were.

In five of the homes, parents were out. Children who answered the phone said they had no idea where their parents were. The most considerate husband in town may well be the fellow who remembers to oil the lawnmower for his wife every Saturday morning before he goes out to play golf.

H. L. Hunt Writes

CONSTRUCTIVE AND DESTRUCTIVE

Recently two students writing in "The Arena," a student publication at Stanford University, pointed out the high cost of the damage done by the destructive minority at that University.

The article called attention to the fact that arsonists did $75,000 damage to an ROTC building. It cited "the deliberate burning of the president's office in 1968" which caused $230,000 damage. A "sit-in" by radicals cost the University $100,000.

"Other expenses incurred by Stanford because of student violence," according to the article, "have been for hiring more policemen, more security guards, and keeping lights on all night in certain key buildings."

One of the results of these added expenses has been that "the amount of loans and scholarships available to all" at Stanford have had to be decreased.

Obviously the activities of the militants destroy not only university property but also the rights and opportunities of the majority.

The majority of students want a good education so that they can lead productive lives. They do not believe in violence and destruction.

Many students in the constructive majority donate time and talent to help others. They are active in community projects, such as tutoring underprivileged children.

The contrast between the minority and the majority is striking. Our society has the responsibility to protect the majority against those who want to destroy civilized order in the universities and in society as a whole.

The mass media, college administrators, and all of us should encourage the constructive actions of the majority and protect their rights from those who would destroy them.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

There is a bunch of people who not only are hot as firecrackers over the coming Census, they are doing something about it.

In Philly, Pa., the committee for a Voluntary Census was formed and have groups in 18 cities across the country to fight for legislation on whether the non-head count questions should be answered.

They are asking that a flood of protest letters be sent to congress. They are also mapping a legal campaign to aid those who refuse to answer Census questions if the non-voluntary nature is not changed. The Census is taken every 10 years in order to "enumerate" the population so that seats in congress can be allocated in proportion to the number of residents in each state. (Period.)

But the Census now attempts to go far beyond this Constitutional provision for a simple head count and is snooping into the privacy and freedom with "big brother" interference.

Sen. Strom Thurmond has introduced a bill into the senate which would make the Census voluntary. There is no question that it should be when such questions as these are asked, under penalty of fine or imprisonment.

"Do you have a flush toilet?" "Has this person been married more than once?" What is the value of your property?" If this is a girl or a woman, how many babies has she ever had, not counting stillbirths!

The place to draw the line between information and the right to privacy is in the Census. The line is clear in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This line is between "freedom" and "compulsion."

It is not the citizen who refuses to answer that is the criminal... it is he who forces you to answer — individual questions of privacy who performs the illegal act.

HURRY, BOTH OF YOU!

It was a small town, and the local veterinarian decided to run for sheriff. Shortly after election, he received a frantic phone call late one night.

Doctor Briggs — Do you want me as sheriff or vet? Mr. Driggs — Both. We can't get our dog's mouth open, and there's a burglar in it!

"You're a Disgrace to the Family!"

Signs Indicate Laos Will Not Be Another Vietnam

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Last month, Senate Foreign Relations Chairman J. W. Fulbright decided to serve the nation by passing on, via the Congressional Record, a dovish critic's suggestion that the "little war" in Laos might balloon into a "huge, ugly war like Vietnam."

Let's try to get that one in sensible perspective. Laos does have the space for it. North and South Vietnam together outfit it, but its 91,000 square miles make it nearly 50 per cent larger than South Vietnam alone. (Laos is a bit smaller than Oregon.)

Population is something else. By present estimates, the combined total of the two Vietnams is 38 million people. Laos has just 2.8 million. More than half of these are hill peoples scattered all over the tangled Laotian hills. By contrast, South Vietnam's hill tribes, though they occupy 60 per cent of the nation's land, account for less than five per cent of the 18 million population total.

Certainly the total fighting force in Vietnam or adjacent backup areas like Cambodia must range between 1,750,000 and 2,000,000 men—including U.S. forces, South Vietnamese regulars and home units, the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

In Northern Laos where the fighting for that country is centered, it would be a surprise if total forces on both sides much exceed 200,000. North Vietnam's 50,000 is the biggest single unit. Some 10,000 Meo tribesmen on the government side have been holding the strategic Plain of Jars and may now have to yield it under new Red pressure.

Much of the Laotian government's "fighting force" is that in name only, though sources say some units are improved. The same goes for the Red Pathet Lao, who have been directed from the start by Hanoi and are today largely relegated to secondary, non-combat roles by the fighting North Vietnamese regulars.

Critics who like to talk of America's "secret war" in Laos make much of the presence of CIA agents, military advisers in civilian dress (most not now members of U.S. armed forces), helicopters and their pilots, planes and their pilots—with the aircraft used for everything from combat support of government armies to dropping relief supplies to refugees (some 600,000 are repeatedly on the move).

Well, the scale of this activity is up some it is known for sure. But as a phenomenon it goes back to 1954. Most of the time since then, the United States has been training, paying, advising and even directing in combat the non-Red Laotian forces.

The critics say we are "running the war." Most likely, yes. But one way or another we have been doing it for a long time. The only difference today is some advance in the number of U. S. personnel involved (guessed at 2,150), and some change in the scale and character of their activities.

Our government will not talk about these particular things, and the critics who have intended to be boldest in their charges reveal nothing that has not gone on in one degree or another for years.

By the time Lyndon Johnson opted for a big U.S. military role in Vietnam in 1965, we already had 23,300 advisers, helicopter units and others in that country. The first of some 50 U.S. Special Forces camps was set up in the highlands in 1961, with some Americans leading the fighting as well as training the famous "Montagnards."

There is no sign (indeed, much private official assurance to the contrary) that we are going to enlarge our advisory role on the scale reached in Vietnam by 1965. Nor is there any automatic compulsion to introduce big ground force elements even if we do still need them more than now.

From 1965 through 1968, we flew some 360,000 sorties (often in mission groups) over North Vietnam, using fighter-bombers and a surprisingly few B-52s. The yearly sortie average was 90,000. The bomb tonnage dropped was immense.

We note the conceded stepup in Laos in 1968-70. But given the limiting factors of weather, haze, sporadic seasonal combat, small population, the rugged terrain in Southeast Asia's least-developed nation, the focus on the Ho trail, our air combat in Laos is being badly misrepresented by critics as threatening a huge new war.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Virginia Dare was the first child born of English parents in the New World. The World Almanac recalls: Born Aug. 18, 1587, on Roanoke Island, N.C., she was named after the Virginia Colony. By 1590, all traces of the settlement had vanished except for the puzzling inscription "Croatan."

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Narcolepsy Victims Should Not Drive Cars

Q—Can a person who has narcolepsy live a normal life?

A—Victims of narcolepsy get an uncontrollable desire to sleep that may occur while they are talking, standing or otherwise occupied. They cannot live wholly normal lives in that they should not drive a car or engage in any hazardous occupation.

Q—I read about a man who falls asleep in the middle of a lively discussion. This sounds like me. Could this be Narcolepsy?

A—No—narcolepsy.

Q—When a parent is a narcotic addict, will his children inherit that trait? What is meant by the term "acid head"?

A—Narcotic addiction is acquired, not inherited. An acid head in popular parlance is a person who uses lysergic acid dimethylamide (LSD).

Q—I am a boy, 15 I have been taking LSD twice a week for a month. Could this damage my chromosomes? Is there a test that would show the extent of the damage? Is the damage permanent?

A—Studies of the effects of LSD on the chromosomes, especially those of the reproductive cells, reveal structural breaks that are likely to result in defective offspring. I don't believe that a test for this has become a standard clinical laboratory procedure as yet. Slight changes occurring as a result of limited use of the drug may be temporary, but don't count on it.

Q—Could an overdose of heroin cause brain damage?

A—Not in the sense of intellectual impairment. An overdose depresses the respiratory center in the brain and may cause death.

Q—I have deep, eery-colored, skin blotches about the size of a dime. My doctor calls it orphea. As these blotches slowly clear, they leave a slight depression. The doctor prescribed Synalar cream and Vistaril capsules. Grenz rays were used twice over a period of seven months. What causes this disease? Can it be cured?

A—This chronic disease (morphea, not orphea) is closely related to scleroderma. The cause is unknown. It cannot be cured but creams to lubricate the skin are often helpful. Penicillamine has helped some victims but the dosage must be carefully controlled to prevent undesirable side effects.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Why Limited ABMs May Aid SALT

JOHN GOLDSMITH

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — From the preliminary SALT talks in Helsinki, authorities here are convinced that Russia can't now be persuaded to abandon the anti-ballistic missile system (ABM) already installed around Moscow.

The basis for this Soviet stand is concern about the nuclear potential of Communist China. With tensions high on the Sino-Soviet border, and in the wake of armed hostilities there, the defense-minded Kremlin insists on maintaining a missile defense against the Chinese threat.

Physical evidence, available here, suggests that this concern about China's nuclear potential is not just a bargaining ploy for the arms limitation talks. Data from U.S. reconnaissance satellites indicates that the components of the Russian ABM system are increasingly oriented to the possibility of attack from China.

President Nixon's new rationale for a Phase II expansion of the Safeguard system should be read against these circumstances which have been confirmed for us by competent officials who are vitally interested in the SALT talks.

It must be understood that U.S. disarmament experts have NOT given up hope for an agreement with the Russians which would curb ABM development. Such an agreement might limit ABM systems to a level sufficient to cope with the rather unsophisticated Chinese threat.

In proposing an expanded program for the still-to-be-deployed Safeguard system, President Nixon is now stressing the need for an area defense against an attack from China in the years ahead. It is a U.S. position with which the Russians can scarcely take issue — a position designed to advance the SALT talks, when they resume in Vienna, and not to stalemate them as suggested by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. Mont.

FLIP-FLOP? — Just a year ago President Nixon, urging the Safeguard system for Congress could not "buy" the Chinese missile threat as its rationale. Now he has set out to "sell" the Safeguard expansion on much the same basis. It is not entirely a flip-flop, however.

When Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird outlined the Safeguard deployment, said he last summer he listed, as one of the developments which could provoke an expansion of the system, a circumstance under which the "Chinese ICBM threat continues to increase."

Two other threats were listed which, Laird said, could trigger a Phase II development of Safeguard. One was an increased Soviet ICBM threat to the force of U.S. Minuteman missiles. The other was a greater Soviet threat from Polaris-like missiles launched from Russian submarines. Laird said each of the three threats would prompt a somewhat different Safeguard expansion.

Beginning next week, Laird and his aides are expected to contend that all of the three possible threats have continued to develop since he testified last summer. The Russians have (as we have noted) continued to deploy their giant SS-9 missile, which menaces Minuteman silos. They have continued to build their missile-firing submarines.

For the purpose of the SALT talks, administration spokesmen will keep plugging the non-provocative Chinese rationale for the Safeguard expansion in their public statements. However, when the closed-door sessions begin in congressional hearings which start this week, Russia's own build-up of strategic weapons will be far from forgotten.

"NO OBJECTION" — In his congressional appearances last summer, Laird began suggesting that the Russians might be willing to limit — but unwilling to eliminate — their ABM system.

The Soviet leaders have traditionally laid great stress on defense, particularly the defense of Moscow, the secretary said in a closed-door session on June 10th, "and I doubt very much that they would be willing to dismantle the existing Galosh system around that city."

"Thus, it is entirely possible that a Soviet-United States agreement on strategic arms limitation might provide for a limited ABM defense on both sides. I myself can see no objection to such an arrangement, especially in the face of a situation where our cities could become hostage to the Chinese Communists."

Laird noted that former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara argued that an ABM defense against China would help convince the people of Asia that they would be supported against nuclear "blackmail" from Peking.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functioning of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Social Security is 35 years old. Isn't it forced insurance savings? Some look upon it as an inroad to socialism. How do you view Social Security?

ANSWER: It is difficult to discuss a subject so complex as Social Security in a short article such as this. We have published a number of articles and editorials about Social Security. Perhaps the most extensive was a series for North American Newspaper Alliance by Jameson G. Campaigne, editor of the Indianapolis Star. This series was published in 1968.

In answer to the first question, Social Security was set up originally as forced savings or insurance. It was based on the theory that individuals were not intelligent enough to use their own earnings wisely and to prepare for the future. The people were told that Social Security would eliminate old-age assistance programs, and that their own money would be saved for them so they could take care of themselves in their old age. It is socialistic in that it is an intervention by government in private matters of individuals in the claim that it is "insurance" operated by the government. It also is socialistic.

Originally, the Social Security system was proposed as insurance, with the benefits to be based on the "contributions" of the individuals. However, the program has been expanded by Congress so many times it has little resemblance to the original plan. If it was actually sound at the outset, it no longer is so. It has been estimated that if the taxes were ended today and all benefits were to be paid as specified, the program would be more than $400 billion in the hole.

A comparatively small amount of money has been received over and above the amounts paid out. These funds are spent and replaced by U.S. bonds that are retired. Thus future benefits can come only from taxation either as Social Security taxes or as other taxes.

Several studies have shown that while current recipients of Social Security checks are receiving as much or more than they would have had their money been invested in insurance or other voluntary retirement programs, the younger workers now entering the employment field will receive far less in benefits than they would if their tax money had been invested in private retirement funds. In addition those who die before becoming eligible for retirement pay, get back nothing except the nominal death payment, whereas under most private programs, there are substantial death benefits.

Also, most other retirement programs provide for substantial refunds if the worker withdraws from the program. There is no way to withdraw from Social Security except to discontinue one's earnings.
