Pampa Salutes Chamber Manager On Silver Date

By TEX DEWESE
News Staff Writer

In what was described as Pampa's "best kept secret," Panhandle and East and West Texas tribute was paid to E. O. (Red) Wedgeworth, in the Coronado Inn last night on his 25th anniversary as executive vice president and general manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The Starlight Room was filled to capacity with friends, chamber of commerce managers, former school administrators and business associates.

Special guests were Wedgeworth's three sisters, two brothers and his daughter, along with their wives and husbands, all of whom came from distant points in Texas to attend the testimonial dinner and add to the silver anniversary surprise.

The programs at the banquet places titled the evening's ceremonies as "Reds Roasting" (Rated "M" for Merriment). And roasting and merriment it was.

From opening remarks by emcee Floyd Watson down through a half dozen or more speakers it was a kaleidoscope of "This Is Your Life" and gridiron banquet banter that kept laughter rolling over the audience of some 300 persons.

All of this, of course, was interspersed with serious notes in which the highest tribute was paid to the man at the helm of Pampa's Chamber of Commerce for the past quarter century.

Probably the most intimate insight into Wedgeworth's life as a youngster at home was given by his brother, Curtis Wedgeworth of Dallas who also thanked Pampa and those present last night on behalf of the Wedgeworth family for the honor bestowed upon his brother.

Gilbert Mize, now superintendent of schools at Perryton, paid tribute to Wedgeworth. Mize was a member of the high school at Phyllis, Texas, when Wedgeworth was school superintendent there.

He explained that Wedgeworth's philosophy on life included the advice "not to worry." He said the greatest lesson he learned from "Red" was "to lock problems of the day in the office before going home at night and be ready to tackle them the next morning."

Charles Young of Plainview praised Wedgeworth as having contributed more to chamber of commerce work in the past 20 years than any other person in Texas.

Ralph Duncan, membership director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said Wedgeworth "has been dean for two decades of the chamber of commerce in Texas, serving in every elective and appointive office."

Chicago Seven Jury Appears Deadlocked

Houses By Side Of Road Slated For Protection

By United Press International

A new government order guaranteeing replacement housing for persons whose homes are in the path of federal building projects may slow down some highway and airport construction across the country.

The order, issued Monday by Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, says no construction will be authorized for transportation projects until the government verifies replacement housing is in place and has been offered to the residents about to be displaced.

Such transportation-related projects displace 70,000 persons each year in all sections of the country. Of that number, Volpe said, 50,000 are forced to move by federal highway building. Previous to the new order, the government only required that replacement housing be provided to the extent such a possible.

Volpe acknowledged that "any project that is within the city limits of any metropolitan area will experience some slowdown," while replacement housing is rounded up. He declined to estimate how much the plan would cost, or to detail how it would affect specific local projects.

Haig Ayanian, a district engineer for the California division of highways, said "if it means that we have to get a replacement for every family in the path of a freeway, then we're in trouble."

It is in the metropolitan areas where constant battles have been fought, in the courts

Defense Refuses To Accept Compromise

CHICAGO (UPI) — The defense in the "Chicago Seven" trial may ask the jury be discharged as deadlocked.

The 10 women and two men who pondered the fate of seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots at the 1968 Democratic national convention ended their third day of deliberation Monday 4½ hours earlier than expected.

They were to resume somewhat earlier today, 8:30 a.m. CST. No reason was given why they halted at 3:30 p.m. Monday, instead of 10 p.m. as had been expected.

The early recess came after defense attorneys rejected any idea of a "compromise verdict" and said they might be discharged as deadlocked. A Chicago attorney also filed a notice of appeal with the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, asking that jail sentences for contempt against the defendants and their two attorneys be reversed.

U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman sentenced the defendants to jail terms ranging from two months to 2½ years. He also imposed jail sentences against defense attorneys William M. Kunstler and Leonard I. Weinglass. The four-year, 13-day sentence given Kunstler was apparently the longest contempt sentence ever in American courts.

The defendants were jailed after the jury was taken out to consider the case. Hoffman stayed the sentences against the attorneys until May 4 so they could handle appeals. The judge did not allow bond.

Kunstler and Weinglass conferred with the defendants in the Cook County jail Monday. Kunstler said the defendants "wish us to make a motion to discharge the jury." He said they felt that if the jury is hung "we might as well end it right now rather than going on."

Jury Verdict Uncertain

Kunstler said the defense would not accept the idea of a "compromise verdict" and hoped the jury would not "bargain away the rights of some defendants by freeing others."

TRYING TO GAIN DELAY

Liberals Add Stumbling Block To Carswell's Confirmation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate liberals may use the Voting Rights Extension bill to gain another delay in the confirmation vote of G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

The Judiciary Committee voted 13 to 4 Monday to send the nomination of Carswell, 51, a Tallahassee, Fla., federal circuit judge, to the Senate floor. Allowing 10 days for minority reports, this means debate on the nomination could begin Feb. 27.

But the Senate already has agreed to take up the bill to extend the 1964 Voting Rights Law on March 2. And if the liberals force the voting rights issue to the floor before the Carswell nomination, it would be the second time they used his nomination to gain a victory. The liberals successfully tied up the appointment in committee until they got assurance of a definite date for voting on electoral reform.

Late Monday the committee majority circulated the draft of a 20-page report called Carswell "a man of superior intelligence, impeccable integrity and outstanding judicial temperament." The draft said the substance of minority criticism was that Carswell is "a Southerner and a constitutional conservative."

Said the draft of Carswell's civil rights beliefs: "It is one of balance and even-handedness. He has decided both for and against civil rights plaintiffs, in each case making a conscientious attempt to resolve the legal issues under controlling precedents."

Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the NAACP, called Carswell "an advocate of white supremacy and an enemy of civil rights" and said the committee approval was "a kick in the teeth for those of us who have sought to quell the fires of racism among Negroes in the United States."

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., formally announced his intention to vote against Carswell. Bayh, who led the opposition interrogation of Carswell in the two weeks of committee hearings, received the major credit for rallying enough Senate opposition to Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to deny him a Supreme Court seat in November.

Berkeley, New York Youths Protest Contempt Sentences

By United Press International

Police battled demonstrators in Berkeley, Calif., and New York City Monday as students and youths protested the contempt sentences given the "Chicago Seven" and their attorneys.

Smaller, peaceful demonstrations were scattered across the country.

In Berkeley, 1,500 youths erupted from a rally in support of the seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic national convention.

The crowd smashed the windows of at least 60 business establishments near the University of California campus. Ten persons were arrested, two policemen were hospitalized and some pedestrians and merchants were assaulted.

At Stanford University in Stanford, Calif., 300 persons marched in a torchlight parade which broke into rock-throwing. Twenty large windows were broken and one nonstudent was arrested.

Snowballs Hit Police

New York police were pelted with snowballs as a crowd of about 3,000 demonstrators poured through police lines into rush-hour traffic. The first target was a plainclothesman recording the march with television taping equipment.

Eleven persons were injured and 20 persons were arrested. The demonstration began peacefully at City Hall. Protesters then marched to the Criminal Courts building, some of them carrying signs reading "Julie Hoffman — Justice in a Pig's Eye."

U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman presided at the conspiracy trial.

Police Charge With Clubs

At the court building the demonstrators pushed, over barricades. Police armed with clubs charged and demonstrators began pelting them with snowballs and a few rocks and bottles.

In St. Louis, rush-hour traffic slowed to a crawl as 20 young persons unfurled a banner reading "Chicago Eight — the Spirit of '76" on an overpass of U.S. 40. Police chased the group away but the traffic ban persisted for hours.

School Trustees Expected To Set April Election Date

Pampa School Board will call the annual trustee election during the board's regular meeting Thursday and plan to tour two cafeterias for final approval.

The trustee election date expected is April 4, to fill the expiring terms of two board members, John Gikas, and John Spearman. Spearman, board president, is serving his first three-year term, and Gikas his third three-year term.

Bob Wilhelm, the first and only candidate to date, filed Feb. 11. Filing deadline with Homer Craig, director of school business services, or Warren Hasse, board secretary, is midnight March 5. Neither Gikas nor Spearman have indicated if they will file for reelection.

Trustees also will approve personnel resignations, reassignments and employment, consider an insurance survey and recommendations for school district property, and consider a request for payment on the building program.

In considering school board policy clarifications, trustees will review teacher use of buildings and facilities for private gain and method of presenting items for placement on the agenda.

Trustees will tour Horace Mann and Woodrow Wilson Elementary Schools' new cafeterias before granting final approval of construction.

Hershey Leaves SS Office With Little Fanfare, No Formalities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in nearly 30 years, Lewis B. Hershey is not the director of the Selective Service System.

As he left draft headquarters for the last time as its director, Hershey, 76, and a four-star general, said cheerfully, "I haven't taken a leave in 30 years."

His leave began today and probably will end later this week when he expects to begin his new job as presidential adviser. His four children—a son is an Army colonel and a son-in-law is stationed in Vietnam—planned to come to town to be with him today and Wednesday during his rare leisure.

Tonight President Nixon, the man who kicked Hershey upstairs, will feté the white-haired general at a black-tie dinner at the White House.

Nixon has not selected Hershey's successor. Army Col. Dee Ingold, Hershey's assistant, moves behind the general's desk today to fill the void.

"I didn't expect to be here this long," Hershey remarked to reporters Monday. "I've had a marvelous experience with people all over this country."

Hershey was still critical Monday of the protesters he once referred to as "long-haired, runny-nosed, dirty-eared misfits."

"The kids are trying to advise everybody about things they don't know about," he said. "A person can protest until he's black in the face, but when he violates the law, he's a criminal." He said, however, "I feel sorry for them because they question themselves."

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It seems to me that television is entering what might be termed the era of the non-reviewable show.

Everyone knows that after the premieres of new series, most programs that appear weekly in prime time are certainly not worth writing, or saying, anything about. That's old hat.

But now, except for occasional weeks with a few notable attempts at one-shot offerings—drama, comedy or variety—many so-called "specials" are simply not worth calling attention to.

From a public relations viewpoint, this may be absolutely ideal for the networks. They can put on a surefire ratings-getter that is either so bland, or lacking in qualities that might engage in adult mind, that they avoid criticism by default.

I am thinking, of course, about the avalanche of nature documentaries, institutional cartoons and musicals (often repeated), traditional tales adapted for annual showings and standard variety hours and most movies made for television (which are usually just extended video programs).

But the truly unfortunate fact in all this is that while the networks are going well financially with these programs, they are using up the relatively few hours in which many adult viewers of all ages look for genuine alternatives to weekly bread-and-butter shows. There is absolutely no way that programming of this type will attract the bright young-viewer television says it wants.

This week is one of the rare ones in which, at least from advance publicity, there may be a group of specials in which viewers can invest some hope. Tonight the Smothers Brothers return in an NBC-TV hour. Tuesday ABC-TV has a 90-minute documentary titled "The Journey of Robert F. Kennedy." Wednesday CBS-TV offers Ane Bancroft in a musical-variety program, and that is rare.

Sunday, by the way, the season premiere of "NBC Experiment in Television" presented an interesting, if sometimes muddled, dramatic fantasy, "Dream on Monkey Mountain," a mixture of allegory, symbolism and modern statement about Trinidad charcoal burner who yearns for the more leonine pride of his African ancestors.

But consider the national ratings for the week ending Feb. 1. The top-13 shows included a Ringling Bros. Circus hour, a Lowell Thomas travelogue, a documentary called "The World of the Beaver" and a Danny Thomas variety entry. While all had interesting or amusing moments, I would rate them rather non-reviewable.

Hollywood In Review

UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—In its long history of movie-making, dating back to the silents, Universal Pictures probably has never made a better movie than "Airport."

Taken from Arthur Hailey's hugely successful novel, the suspense thriller could be the studio's most profitable film as well.

It stars Burt Lancaster, Dean Martin, Jean Seberg, Jacqueline Bisset and a handful of other name performers, not the least of whom is Helen Hayes, who almost slips the movie into her pocketbook and flees.

Existentialist critics will brand it "old-fashioned" or a "movie movie" because there is no nudity and it shuns inviolated psychological freak-outs, cops abusing pot smokers and dissidents hating the flat. "Airport," as did the novel, entertains.

Demonstrates Sensitivity

Dean Martin, in a dramatic role, demonstrates an appealing sensitivity altogether removed from the drunken leech of his television show.

Lancaster refrains from baring his teeth too often. The women are beautiful and stylish. The pace is brisk. The sunshine is the best since Alfred Hitchcock's salad days.

From a studio that once gave a defenseless public sex and san apics starring Tony Curtis in Arabian Nights pajamas and Piper Laurie munching orchid petals, comes a powerfully conceived movie.

Until now the highest grossing pictures in Universal's history have been "Spartacus," which earned $22 million, and "Thoroughly Modern Millie," in the $20 million bracket.

Universal has been plagued by an inability to produce socko boxoffice hits—the kind which harvest $30 or $40 million. "Airport" may cure all that.

Produced by Ross Hunter

It was produced by Ross Hunter, who has the best track record at the studio with so-called "Women's" pictures starring Doris Day and Lana Turner.

Much credit must be given director George Seaton, who also wrote the screenplay. Guys with beards and hand-held 16mm cameras shooting on New York streets call him old-fashioned.

Seaton is disciplined where the trend is to sloppy, figure-it-out-for-yourself direction.

Director, producer and studio have combined to create, that increasingly rare cinema product—an exciting, beautifully photographed movie which will engross audiences from beginning to end.

STERN JUSTICE

"It would give them a taste of the physical discomfort they inflict on others," he wrote.

DEAR ABBY: You are my last hope. I can't consult anyone else about my problem because it is so embarrassing.

I have been married for three years to a wonderful woman, but she is now threatening to divorce me for what I am about to relate to you. I swear that this will be the weirdest letter you have ever received.

Ever since I was a baby, I liked to chew on rubber things. Toy boats, rubber ducks, etc. It seemed to calm my nerves. All through school I chewed on pencil erasers to relieve tension, and it always worked.

I am now 35 years old, and I always carry an art gum eraser with me in case things get tense. After chewing on it for five minutes, I am relaxed and calm again.

Well, the other night my wife and I were at my boss' home for a dinner party. I felt myself getting a little tense so I reached for my rubber eraser and discovered that for the first time in my life I had forgotten it!

I became panicky, so I went into the bathroom in search of a rubber object to chew on. Fortunately, I found a rubber duck belonging to their baby. Not wanting to remain in the bathroom, I took it to the hall closet and started chewing on it frantically.

Suddenly the door opened and I saw my boss standing there! He demanded that I return the rubber duck. I refused. Harsh words followed. Naturally, I lost my job, and now my wife wants to divorce me.

Don't tell me to see a psychiatrist. I can't afford it. I am depending on you, Abby. If you don't help me I will commit suicide. Help!

RUBBER CHEWER DEAR CHEWER: Yours may not be the "weirdest" letter I've ever received, but it could be one of the phoniest. Realizing how costly psychiatric treatment is, I am sending you a check for $10,000. It's rubber. Chew on that for a while.

DEAR ABBY: Before I met my husband I had an affair with a married man. I foolishly "confessed" this to my husband before I married him and was told "it didn't matter now."

I have been married to this "elephant" for four years, and now every time we have an argument he brings up "the other man."

Lately, it has become unbearable because he now tells me that I have been talking

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. L. WILKERSON

The Senior Citizens met in Columbus Hall Thursday afternoon, Feb. 12 for their weekly party. We are most grateful to the men in the Columbus Club who have provided "A Home" for us.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Fern Hogsett and L.E. Henderson. Mrs. C. G. Miller continues to be ill at her home and Mrs. Wilkerson is serving as reporter during the absence of Mrs. C. G. Miller.

A letter from Mrs. C.L. Adams states she is living in a retirement home in Abilene. Mrs. Adams misses all her friends at the Center but is happy with her living arrangements and especially happy to be near her daughter, Mrs. Braymer. Mrs. Adams' address is 3202 S. Willis, Abilene, Texas 79608.

The Center was most happy to welcome back Mrs. Libba Lewis, who has been with her brother in Oklahoma City for the past four weeks.

Gertie Shaw visited with Mrs. Ruth Bull and Sallie Crow in Abilene over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. O.L. Ray, together with Mr. and Mrs. James Ray and their daughter, Sherry, spent Saturday in Amarillo shopping and visiting with the M.E. Ray Family.

Mrs. Fern Hogsett reports having received a letter from Mrs. Amelia Schwoppe recently. Mrs. Schwoppe is visiting relatives in Oklahoma City, but states she will be returning to Pampa soon and will see all her friends at the Center at that time.

A new member Mrs. Martha H. White of Tusa, Okla., was enrolled. Mrs. White moved to Pampa about a year ago to be near her daughter, Mrs. Norman Massey. Mrs. White has found the people of Pampa very friendly and states she is enjoying her home at 1517 Dogwood St. The Center is most happy to have her as a member.

Mrs. Cora Long is able to resume the games at Senior Center again after an absence of several weeks, due to illness.

Red Cross Volunteers were Miss Lelia Clifford, Mrs. Gail Hamantree, and Mrs. Olive Hills.

Altruism members assisting with the entertainment were Geneva Tidwell, J. Planagan, Ruth Sewell, Lillian Snow and Louise Sewell.

Twentieth Century Study Club bringing and serving the refreshments were Mmes. H. Raeburn Thompson, Joe Gordon, Robert Sanford, W.R. Campbell, David McGahay, Fred Neslage and Elsie Cunningham.

The meeting Feb. 18 will be in the Columbus Club at Ward and Buckler Sts. We will continue to meet at that address until repairs are completed at the Lovett Library.

FORMER SABRE PILOT

Puts End To Using War Dead For Propaganda Purposes

By ROBERT ALLEN and JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — A decorated former jet fighter pilot is taking forceful steps to bar "peacenik" and leftist elements from using the names of war dead for propaganda purposes.

Rep. Robert D. Price, R-Tex., who as a Sabre jet pilot flew 27 combat missions in Korea, has introduced a bill expressly aimed at putting an end to this practice of anti-Vietnam forces. The measure calls for penalties of a $500 fine, one-year jail sentence or both.

"I am greatly disturbed by the use of the names of our war dead by extremists, communists, anarchists and militant leftists," said Price in offering his legislation. "Not only does it tarnish the names of our fallen soldiers, but it is an insult to the valiant Americans who are daily risking their lives to bring peace and freedom to the struggling people of South Vietnam."

Price was prompted to draft and introduce his bill by a poignant letter from the father of a young soldier killed in Vietnam. The father was greatly distressed by the use of his son's name in the widely fanfared November anti-war demonstrations.

"When they read my son's name to advocate peace at any price — the price being defeat — let them remember that he whose name they read did not surrender," wrote the father. "They had no right to use his name. His family didn't authorize that, and neither did anyone else."

"These transparent propagandists were not there to see my son buried, nor do they accompany me on my trips to lay flowers on his grave. It was we, the parents who said goodbye to him when he went away to fight — not the peace agitators. It was we the parents who wrote long, anxious letters to him during his three months of almost continuous combat — not the agitators."

This father and other bereaved parents wrote Price vehemently objecting to the unauthorized use of their sons' names "by those who would dishonor our national commitment in Vietnam."

In an effort to stop this calloused propaganda practice, Price introduced his bill and is pressing for prompt action on it.

"Under my measure," he said, "before any individual or organization, with the exception of the news media, could use a dead soldier's name, it would be necessary to have written permission from his next of kin. Violators would be subject to $500 fine, jail sentence of one year, or both.

"I have used Aug. 5, 1964, as a cut-off date because it was at that time that the war in Vietnam started to really escalate and our casualty rate began to rise significantly. I've excluded the news media so that reporting of the names of war casualties would not be impeded. And I have made the penalty for violation clear and substantial in order to deter would-be wrongdoers."

Other members of Congress have voiced warm approval of Price's proposal and assured him of support. He's seeking committee hearings on it in the near future.

"I regret that circumstances have dictated that I take such drastic action," declared the Texas rancher. "But I regret more deeply that certain elements have so alienated themselves from the American mainstream that they oppose, in such a despicable way, the policies of our President and the wishes of the great majority of the American people."

Backstairs At The Whitehouse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: Former President Lyndon B. Johnson may be attracting massive television audiences with his interviews for CBS News, but the man getting the day-to-day newspaper mileage continues to be his brother, Sam Houston Johnson.

Papers across the country are running brother Sam's book, "My Brother Lyndon," in serialized form. Some of the not-so-brotherly shafts cannot help but sting the former chief executive as he puts together his version of history in book and video form.

A recent sequence from Sam Johnson's book spoke of his brother's credibility gap and how it was widened at times deliberately and obstinately. Sam tells how his brother in 1966 "obviously planned" to make campaign appearances for Democratic state and congressional candidates at a number of locations—a campaign swing to be undertaken shortly after LBJ returned to the United States from a long Asian tour.

Sam Johnson tells how the press was well aware that Secret Service men had been sent out to make arrangements for the campaign trip and local Democratic officials advised of the president's probable arrival time. Upon returning from the Asian trip, however, the president, according to his brother,

"decided not to go through with the campaign schedule."

"Then, rather than simply saying he was too tired or was getting a cold or (sic) Asiatic flu (any such excuse would have been acceptable)," Sam writes, "he told the White House press corps that he had never made any definite plans to campaign . . ."

Brother Sam told only part of that story.

The press traveling with LBJ through Asia knew by the time they reached Korea, last major foreign stop—or at least many of them had been told—that the president after pausing in Washington for two or at the most, three days, would embark on a rugged political speaking schedule. In some cases, it would involve two or three speeches in a day.

Secret Service agents had been detached from the Johnson detail in Asia and sent ahead to make security arrangements in the United States for his purely political appearances.

More than one reporter traveling in the presidential party had a date-and-place itinerary for the political trip, but the press was asked to be somewhat general in reporting the schedule since there were incomplete details. This information came directly from one of Johnson's top staff members, not a lower echelon underling. A few days later in Washington, the White House and then the president, himself, said no such trip was ever planned; that it all, unfortunately, was the imagination or invention of the press.

TRICIA ON THE MEND

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tricia Nixon, still showing some traces of a severe case of measles, was expected to end a recuperative stay in Key Biscayne, Fla., today and rejoin her family at the White House.

The President's 23-year-old daughter, who flew to Florida Jan. 30 to recover from the flu, broke out with the measles a few days later.

Dr. Walter Tkacz, the White House physician, went to Key Biscayne to treat Tricia. "She had a severe case," he said Monday.

Saturday Tricia will celebrate her 24th birthday but White House aides said she has no special party plans and probably will spend the day with her family and close friends.

WELL-LINED HAT

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — The police came to the bar because its owner was suspicious of the man in the cowboy hat who had moments before handed the owner a $50 bill.

Police searched the suspect but found no phony money. They decided to take him to the city hall for further questioning, however.

As he left the bar, the man stopped at a booth and placed his hat on the head of a 19-year-old girl, saying "this is a token of my esteem."

The police did not buy it. They took the hat and found two fake $50 bills in the sweatband.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass.

(UPI) — Parishioners attending masses Sunday at the Church of the Immaculate Conception had to strain their ears to hear the sermons.

Two microphones were stolen from the pulpit Friday night.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats in the Capitol are telling themselves that they can win more congressional seats than they deserve in the Nov. 3 elections.

They are not yet ready to concede heavy losses that might be expected if the outcome of the congressional elections depended on the existence of strong national and state party organizations.

As an organization, the Democratic Party is suffering from widespread disorder.

Party Bickering

That condition was emphasized by the announcement that Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma is resigning March 5, eight months before the 1970 elections. He was tired of the bickering within a party crushed by debts when it is having trouble raising money to meet the operating expenses of its national headquarters.

When a party chairman is installed, he is expected to carry on through the next election. For Harris, this would have meant the 1970 state and congressional elections.

Democrats who talk about the state elections speak with hope but not with rash forecasts about displacing a batch of Republican governors, who now outnumber them in the states 22 to 18.

Although the outlook can change in eight months, Democratic assessments now visualize few changes in the lineup of the House. The Republicans emerged from the 1968 elections with 192 seats, 26 short of a majority. They have lost three seats in special elections to fill vacancies and now need a net gain of 29 to organize the House in 1971.

The Democrats are more vulnerable in the Senate, where 35 of the 100 seats are at stake — 25 now held by Democrats and 10 by Republicans. The GOP needs a net gain of seven to control the Senate next year.

Democratic Party managers are not ready to rate the GOP as an even bet to gain those seats. But seven states electing senators this year to seats now held by Democrats are classed as trouble spots.

Disorder in the Democratic organization is only one problem for the party. Another is a product of the divisions between Democrats in Congress.

There are deep splits within the party on some issues. Young liberals in the House are unhappy with the leadership of 78-year-old Speaker John W. McCormack. And they are murmuring threats about unseating some Southern conservative committee chairmen who acquired power through seniority rather than party loyalty.

Any effort to punish committee chairmen would risk driving them across the aisle to the Republican side.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. space program appears to have arrived at a turning point, or at a crossroads or at some other crucial cliche.

A decision must be made soon on whether to continue to pour vast sums into the exploration of the universe and points north, or whether to spend the money on bubble gum, or something.

To find out how the man in the street feels about the dove told me after I had put a coat beneath his head and otherwise made him as comfortable as possible.

"The primary reason is philosophical. Our venture into space has been an ennobling experience for the whole of mankind. Man needs to have goals that force him to extend himself. Man needs to raise his face out of the muck and reach for the stars."

"The second reason is intellectual attainment. With each push into space, man is crossing new frontiers of knowledge and broadening the horizons of human understanding. By probing the mysteries of the cosmos, man may eventually comprehend the mysteries that lie within himself."

I said, "You are very well spoken, sir, for a man who is obviously in pain. What do you feel should be our next step in the space program?"

"I think we should take the money and use it to expand the ABM system," he replied.

Conclusion: Part of man years to reach the stars, but the rest of him wants to get off at Passaic, N.J.

Vandover will be stationed at El Paso for the rest of his service time. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Boughan, daughter Connie Burrow and son David, White Deer, and Mrs. Tommy Brewer, Pampa, also attended. PAMPA, TEXAS (UPI)—There is no justification for limiting the use of DDT in areas of the world where malaria is still a major problem, according to a spokesman for the Pan American Health Organization.

The pesticide has been criticized for its lingering effects on plant and animal life, Wright said, but "limiting it now would result in a major disaster for malaria threatened countries."

CAR FOUND INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—When J. P. Ryans's new car was stolen in 1966, his insurance company paid his claim.

The car was found recently parked at Weir Cook Airport here. Inside were birds' nests and a parking lot ticket.

If the insurance company which legally owns the car, had been forced to pay the parking lot fee covering three years, the bill would have been more than $2,500.

San Francisco Giants Trying To Woo Marichal Into Ranks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Where is Juan Marichal? That's a question the San Francisco Giants ask every Spring. Things always have turned out all right in the past. The Giants are hoping they will again this Spring.

Marichal, the King of the San Francisco pitching staff almost from the day he joined the varsity back in 1960, and Rich Robertson, a youngster still trying to win his way onto the big club, are the only Giants without a 1970 contract today.

It's nothing new for Marichal. He's been the last or next to last to sign before. Sometimes he hasn't been in disagreement with the contract sent him. Sometimes he has.

This year, the Giants feel is one of those years he isn't mad or upset at the contract mailed him. Basis for this feeling is that Marichal, who won 21 and lost 11 last year to run his major league won-lost record to 191-86, hasn't returned the contract unsigned.

Marichal was one of 10 players invited to a special camp at the Buckhorn Spa near Phoenix in Arizona. The camp opened Monday without Juan. A check of his homes in San Francisco and the Dominican Republic proved fruitless, indicating he might be on his way.

Marichal, who was 31 last October, led the majors in earned run average last year with a fine 2.10 mark. He had eight shutouts among his 21 victories.

He holds or is near a flock of pitching records.

His 2.57 career ERA is the best among all active starting pitchers today and is the third best in history, behind Walter Johnson (2.56) and Grover Alexander (2.56). His winning percentage, .517, is the best among pitchers still active and is the second best ever to Whitney Ford's .600.

All these statistics add fuel to Marichal's yearly argument for more money. Last year, the Giants paid him $110,000 in salary and $15,000 as a scout in his native Dominican Republic. The $125,000 made him second to club leader Willie Mays. Willie McCovey, the 1969 national league MVP, recently signed for just over $100,000.

Fish, Beasts Or Fowl In The Wilds Have Staunch Ally In Bing Crosby

NEW YORK (NEA) — Most of Bing Crosby's interests in sports are certainly no secret. Everybody has watched Crosby and Bob Hope slander each other's golf game on television. Everybody knows Bing has his own pro-am tournament at Pebble Beach. And nearly everybody is aware that Crosby is a part-owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club.

Until recently, however, few persons knew of his extreme interest — and activity — in conservation of wildlife. This surprises some people — a big-name movie star-singer like Bing Crosby being interested in birds and fish. It shouldn't. There was a time in his life when Crosby considered becoming a farmer.

"I always thought it would be glamorous," he says, seriously. "Handling cattle and hauling logs. Fresh milk and churned butter. It all seemed very attractive to me."

That time was long ago, of course, before he sang "Silent Night" or "White Christmas" or kissed Dorothy Lamour. Crosby was a college student at Gonzaga University in his hometown, Spokane, Wash., and spent his summer vacations picking cucumbers on a farm.

Those were the days when Crosby also went out to Liberty Lake near Spokane and fished for bluegills and large-mouth bass and trod up and down Snake River hunting for ducks and geese.

"I suppose that fostered my interest in conservation," he said. "When I look back on it all now, it all seems very beautiful and clean and happy. It was a good life and it still is."

Today, Crosby is a farmer of sorts in Hillsborough, Calif., on the San Francisco peninsula. His farm — actually a ranch — contains numerous animals, a fish-filled brook, lots of rods and reels and guns, many mounted trophies, including a world-record Rainbow Runner and several animals killed on safari in Africa.

Amid this testimony to an outdoorsman, only the Crosby's English maid and butler seem a little out of place.

It is said that Harry Lillis Crosby became "Bing" at age 7 because of his enthusiasm for a Sunday newspaper comic strip titled "Bingville Bugle." This same enthusiasm for wild-

Harvesters Challenge Westerners

The Harvesters will be trying for three in a row tonight in Lubbock when they battle the Westerners at eight.

Pampa is 2-4 and Lubbock is 3-3 in second half standing. Lubbock stands 9-20 seas-n-wise compared to Pampa's 11-14 mark.

January 16, the Lubbock Westerners outscored the Harvesters 70-61. Jim Gallman, Pampa's 6'6" center and second in district scoring with a 19.0 average, was held to just 14 points in the game. Richard Bunton, sophomore, led Pampa with 17 points.

Last week Lubbock was downed by the leading team of the second half, Borger, in a 96-72 contest. William Stewart for the Westerners totaled 23 and Bobby Hutchinson added 19. Four players for Lubbock scored in double figures.

Last week Pampa chalked up two wins, breaking an eight game losing streak. Defeating Caprock 48-42 Tuesday, Pampa beat another Amarillo team Friday, Tascosa, 50-54.

Pampa hit 55 per cent of attempted field goals against the Rebels and 48 per cent against the Longhorns.

Pampa at the beginning of the season played better second halves but since the beginning of second half district play, has been outting the most hustle in the first half as seen by the first quarter of the Caprock scrimmage. Pampa hit six of seven field goals for a commendable 86 per cent in the first period.

If Pampa wins the last three games ending against Borger next Tuesday, it will have an even 14-14 season outcome.

"Only Down Once" Says Ellis

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I only went down once," said Jimmy Ellis, and there was an embarrassed moment of silence among the men asking him about his losing effort against Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship of the world.

"Gentlemen, that's why I stopped the fight," Dundee said with all the gentleness his voice could command.

Two knockdowns in the fourth round Monday night had made Ellis groggy. Each time he had beaten the count of 10 by the narrowest of margins.

Yet here was Ellis, stubbornly insisting that he had gone down only once in his futile attempt to stop the buzzsaw puncher-Frazier.

Dundee Made Decision Dundee, who had brought Ellis to recognition as World Boxing Association champion, took over the post-fight post mortem.

"I asked Jimmy why he got hit with that left hook," Dundee said. "I was banging him on the knee. I was slapping him in the face with cold water. I didn't think his reflexes were as good as they should be, so I stopped it."

McLain Fails To Show In Circuit Court

DETROIT (UPI)—Denny McLain, who hasn't been seen since he left the office of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Friday, failed to show up for two court appearances in Michigan Monday.

The star pitcher for the Detroit Tigers and Edwin K. Schober, of Farmington, Mich., were to appear Genesee County Circuit Court in Flint for alleged nonpayment of a $7,000 bank loan.

The 31-year-old winner of two seasons ago also missed a court date at suburban Southfield concerning $2,450 in rent allegedly owed on his Beverly Hills, Mich., home.

Despite earnings of about $60,000 from the Tigers and an estimated $100,000 in outside income, McLain is between $25,000 and $50,000 in debt.

A subpoena was tacked onto McLain's home when no one answered, notifying him he Southfield court date was changed to Wednesday. If he misses the new date, the court could issue a default judgement and 21 days later remove his belongings from the house.

Gambling Charges Dropped Against Sports Figures

DETROIT (UPI)—Federal officials have quietly dropped charges against three of 15 persons arrested in a nationwide gambling crackdown said to involve prominent sports figures.

The officials had initially promised "several dozen" more arrests and the hauling of sports stars before a special grand jury here investigating organized crime.

But Friday, James H. Brickley, U.S. attorney at Detroit, confirmed that gambling-conspiracy warrants were dismissed against three men, one of them a side-kick of Hall of Fame pitcher Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, who was searched by authorities during the New Year's Day raids but not arrested.

Warrants were dismissed Thursday against David Miller, 62, New York, and Fritz Lindstrom, 62, Phoenix, Ariz. Charges against Burt Katz of New York were dropped Friday.

Girls' Teams Meet In Cage Play Tonight

Briscoe Girls Basketball team will meet the Lakeview Girls Basketball team in a bi-district ballgame at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Harvesters Gym.

The Briscoe girls are led by Lucy Meadows and coached by Carol Williby. Lakeview Girls are coached by J. Davis.

Tonight's game will determine who will go to regional tournament to be held in Lubbock later this month.

FAILS TO COME OUT IN FIFTH Frazier Kayos Ellis In Four

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Frazier holds the whole boxing world in the clenched fist that destroyed Jimmy Ellis.

But now what worlds can he conquer in search of another big payday?

Frazier's destructive left slammed Ellis to the canvas twice Monday night and left Jimmy so dazed and helpless he was unable to come out for the fifth round. For the first time since the title was stripped from Cassius Clay 32 months ago, boxing has an "undisputed" heavyweight champion.

"I gonna retire," joked the 26-year-old Philadelphia as he was surrounded by his court in the dressing room. "I'm gonna wait for that bigmouth Cassius Clay to come back, and then I'll whip him just like I whipped his sparring partner."

Who Will Test Frazier? In less than a minute, however, Frazier had reconsidered his "decision" to retire and was challenging all comers. But the problem now is to find someone who can be sold to that small, wary group of diehard boxing fans as a genuine threat to the champion.

"I'll fight anybody who thinks he can get in the ring with me," said the bull-necked 208-pounder. "I hear about some of these guys like (light heavyweight champion) Bob Foster or Mac Foster who want to fight me, but I tell 'em if they don't mess with me I won't mess with them. That's probably the luckiest thing that can happen to them."

Haywood Closes In On Host Of ABA Honors

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers led the National Basketball Association's scorers by a wide margin Monday while the New York Knicks continued to get along without a single player in the top 10.

Officials statistics released by the NBA, including games through Sunday, show that West has scored 1877 points in 59 games for a 31.8 per game average. That gives him a substantial lead over Lew Alcindor of the Milwaukee Bucks, who has scored 1740 points in 64 games for a 27.2 average and Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets, who has scored 1603 points in 59 games for the same average.

Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers ranks fourth with a 26.7 average and Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals is fifth with a 25.5 average.

Wilkie Reed of the Knicks is the 11th high scorer with a 22.4 average, even though the Knicks' 31-13 record for a .794 is by far the best won-lost percentage in the league.

Johnny Green of the Royals leads in field goal percentage with .538, Flynn Robinson of the Bucks is No. 1 in free throw percentage with .903 and Hayes leads in rebounds with an average of 16.3 per game.
