President Signs Voting Rights Bill

Goldberg Makes Bid To Face Rockefeller

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, in his first bid for elective office, was the slight favorite today in the Democratic primary for the right to face three-term Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in November.

Goldberg, a former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, squared off against millionaire industrialist Howard J. Samuels after a lackluster campaign that was expected to attract fewer than one million of the state's 3.6 million Democratic voters.

Four candidates battled for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat held by Charles R. Goodell, a Republican Rockefeller appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the assassination in June 1968 of Robert F. Kennedy.

Theodore C. Sorensen, a speech writer for the late President Kennedy, was rated the slight favorite. He had the party's endorsement in the race against Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, Rep. Richard D. McCarthy and Paul O'Dwyer, the peace candidate and the party's 1968 nominee.

Ottinger has cut heavily into Sorensen's edge with a free spending, million-dollar campaign to advertise his record as the suburban Westchester County congressman.

O'Dwyer was banking on a large turnout of New York City voters who helped him to victory in the three-way 1968 primary. McCarthy, of Buffalo, was counting on "upstate power" to carry him into the winner's circle.

New York City polls will be open from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. and elsewhere in the state from noon to 9 p.m.

In the lieutenant governor's contest, state Sen. Basil A. Paterson was favored over Jerome Ambro, a town supervisor from Long Island. A victory for Paterson will give New York state its first black contestant for such a high office.

In the most closely watched congressional race, Adam Clayton Powell was the favorite to win renomination for a 14th term since his four challengers were expected to divide the opposition vote.

Local ballots will feature 21 contests in 16 of the state's 41 congressional districts, 16 state Senate races out of 57 Senate districts and 78 primaries in 65 of the 150 Assembly districts.

Firemen began a six-week refresher course in fire-fighting and prevention techniques Monday. Nixon May Face Another Battle With Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon may be facing another determined confrontation with Congress over his veto of a hospital construction bill that unanimously passed the House and the Senate.

At issue is a bill authorizing $1.2 billion in grants over a three-year period beginning in 1971 to continue construction of hospitals and other medical facilities as part of the Hill-Burton hospital construction program. The Medical Construction and Modernization Act — passed 70-0 in the Senate and 377-0 in the House — also authorizes $1.5 billion in guaranteed loans.

Nixon vetoed the measure Monday, called it "a long step down the road of fiscal irresponsibility." It was his first veto in the current session of Congress.

Congressional sources said Key House and Senate Democrats, sensing a possible campaign issue in the November congressional elections, were already weighing plans to override the veto by mustering a two-thirds vote in both houses on the bill.

Asks Court Review Of Constitutionality

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon reluctantly has signed the Voting Rights Act and ordered an early court ruling whether it is constitutional for Congress to lower the voting age to 18.

Nixon Monday signed the measure which would enfranchise between 10 and 11 million persons between 18 and 21, and extend the 1965 Voting Rights Act under which more than one million Negroes won the vote in the South.

The President, as he has before, said it was unconstitutional to lower the voting age by constitutional amendment. He ordered Attorney General John N. Mitchell to seek an early court ruling on that issue.

Nixon also, expressing concern that the young might raise their hopes only to have them dashed, asked Congress to press ahead on a constitutional amendment in case the new enfranchisement law is overturned.

However, it seems certain the House, at least, merely will sit by and learn the fate of the new law before making any move toward an amendment. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the key House Judiciary Committee, already is on record to that effect.

Celler also has doubts about the new law's constitutionality, but feels there is an outside chance it will prevail, giving the vote to those 18 or older in all national, state and local elections.

The voting rights provision extends key sections of the 1965 act which permitted federal registrars and poll watchers to be sent to jurisdictions where less than half the voting age population registered or voted in 1964. It also would extend a requirement that these jurisdictions clear voting law changes in advance with the federal government.

Besides the voting age and minority voting rights provisions, the bill would ban literacy tests or other discriminatory voter qualification devices in all elections, and provide residency rules for presidential elections that would insure recently resettled eligibles a chance to vote.

Altrusans Challenged To Continue Service Areas

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

Miss Vermell Meador, director of nurses at Highland General Hospital, was installed as president of the Altrusa Club of Pampa in ceremonies held Monday night following a dinner meeting in The Coronado Inn.

The executive and professional women's service club also installed Mrs. Marian Jameson, vice president; Mrs. Neva Weeks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, recording secretary; Mrs. Van Vanderberg, treasurer.

New directors are Mrs. Frances Cree, and Mrs. Georgia Johnson, who will serve with holdover director, Mrs. Mildred Prince.

Mrs. Marie Fitzgerald, as immediate past president, steps into an advisory position on the executive board.

Mrs. Marian Heare, Altrusa Information chairman, was installing officer.

In a brief acceptance speech, Miss Meador pointed out the areas of service in which Altrusans serve.

She asked, "The thought comes to my mind, 'How many lives do we, as Pampa Altrusans touch each day? each week? each year?"

Referring to the Pampa High School Career Clinic, which annually provides professional resumes of possible careers after high school, Miss Meador asked "How many would say because of Altrusa, I decided what my career in life would be?"

Speaking of the annual dinner for foreign-born women, a project of the International Committee, the new Altrusa president said: "Are there those who would say 'I was made to feel welcome in Pampa and in America because of the Pampa Altrusa Club?'"

Referring to the Senior Center which meets each Thursday in Lovett Memorial Library, Miss Meador stated, "If you listen closely you can hear these words, 'Thursday afternoons are the brightest spots of my weeks.'"

"Someone else might say 'It was made possible for me to train in a vocation to support my family because of the efforts of Altrusans,'" referred to the Founders Fund project that makes it possible for a woman to take up a discarded career, or start a new one.

In other areas of service, Miss Meador detailed the Grants-In-Aid fund, which provides an educational scholarship for foreign-born women to receive additional education — invited to pass along to women in her own country; and to the Pampa Altrusa and Inez Carter Scholarships, which is given annually to a qualifying Pampa High School senior girl.

Miss Meador, who had given each member a simulated gold key at the beginning of the evening, challenged members by referring to it again. "The end results of this year are in your hands. You hold the key. You are the key."

Man, Wife Injured In Two-Car Accident

A Pampa couple was injured and a Skellytown man arrested for driving while intoxicated following a two-car accident at Wilkes and Hobart Streets about 12:45 a.m. today.

According to police reports, a car driven by Larry Ernest Walleite, 26, Skellytown, was traveling south on Hobart when he apparently ran a red light and collided with a car traveling east on Wilkes, driven by James Earl Ledford, 21, 1132 S. Sumner.

Ledford and his wife, Carlette, 19, received minor injuries in the accident and were taken to Highland General Hospital by private vehicle.

Mrs. Ledford was treated and released, but a hospital spokesman said Ledford was admitted for observation and released this morning.

Walleite was lodged in city jail on DWI charges.

Damages were estimated at $1,800 to the Ledford vehicle and $500 to Walleite's car.

A two-car accident at the intersection of Tyng and Starkweather Streets about 2:30 p.m. Monday resulted in an estimated $300 in damages to the vehicles involved.

According to reports, a car driven by Charles E. Jefferies, 66, Star Rt. 2, Pampa, had stopped for a stop sign at the intersection. When Jefferies drove away from the stop sign, he apparently drove to the opposite side of the street to avoid a line of traffic waiting on a passing train.

The report said Jefferies' car collided with a car making a left turn onto Tyng. The second car was driven by William Thomas Broxson, 69, 832 E. Craven.

Israeli Commandos Attack Post

By United Press International

Israeli commandos crossed the Gulf of Suez by helicopter before dawn today and attacked an Egyptian army post 47 miles inside Egypt, the third such strike in 12 days.

An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the commandos shelled the post at Bir Arayida, which he described as the military administrative headquarters for the area, then destroyed two armored personnel carriers and killed all the Egyptian troops in them. The Israeli force returned safely without casualties, he said.

In Cairo, an Egyptian military spokesman said troops and planes drove off the Israeli commandos before they caused either damage or casualties.

On the diplomatic front, the leaders of five militant Arab nations concluded a summit conference in Tripoli, Libya, with a joint pledge to continue fighting against Israel.

"No ceasefire," said President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, vowing his nation would continue to fight despite daily attacks by Israeli warplanes.

The other leaders joining him in the pledge were Presidents Ahmed Hassan Al-Bakr of Iraq and Nureddin Al-Atassi of Syria, King Hussein of Jordan and Premier Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya.

Presidents Charles Helou of Lebanon and Abdel-Rahman Al-Iryani of Yemen also were in Tripoli as were delegates from Tunisia, the Sudan and the Palestinian command group, Al Fatah, but they did not take part in the summit talks. The talks were held in connection with national celebrations of the withdrawal of American military forces from Libya.

TO RENEW PASS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Monday to renew the Golden Eagle Pass with which Americans can use national outdoor recreations for a flat fee.

The House went along with the Senate in voting to increase the annual fee from $7 to $10.

Demolishing Job Gets No Bidders

By TEX DEWESE
City Hall Reporter

A dearth of bids on two jobs — demolition of buildings at 418 and 420 N. West St. and removal of scrap metal and old automobiles — today placed the city in position of having to do the work itself.

The city had advertised for bids and was scheduled to open them at this morning's city commission meeting.

Not a single bid was offered on either item.

The old apartment buildings on N. West, owned by Ralph Palmer, had been condemned and ordered removed by city commission action. Apparently nobody wanted the job.

Palmer appeared at the meeting and asked if a method could be worked out where he could save one of the buildings and repair it.

He was advised the commission's action was final, but City Manager Charles Hill told Palmer he would confer with the city attorney later and see if there was any legal alternative to grant the request.

At the conclusion of the meeting, one man showed up and asked if he was too late to bid on removal of the buildings. He was advised to discuss his proposal with Public Works Director R.B. Cooke.

City Commissioners Hugh Burdette, George B. Cree, Jr. and City Secretary Bob Gordon were absent from today's meeting.

Burdette, chairman of the city's architectural committee for the M.K. Brown Memorial auditorium, had been scheduled to report to the commission today. His absence from the city caused cancellation of that item on today's agenda.

The commission authorized payment of a $650.95 claim to Mrs. Mary Applegate, 1104 Crane Rd., for injuries sustained when she stepped on a loose water meter lid and injured her leg.

Mrs. Thelma Bray, Aubrey Nooncaster and Floyd Sackett were re-appointed to three-year terms on the City Traffic Commission.

An ordinance was passed on first reading to establish traffic control signs at the Terry Rd.

and Crane Rd. intersections with Primrose Lane and at the intersection of Linda Drive and Chestnut Drive.

Authorization was given to advertise for proposals for city employe group hospitalization and life insurance. City Manager Charles Hill said the city was seeking to improve coverage for employes.

Approval was given to an engineer's certificate from Merriman & Barber, consulting engineers, for construction of a water pipeline from the site of the city's new water treatment plant along Kentucky Ave. to Hobart St. and from Hobart to Lefors St. to connect with the Pampa water distribution system.

A motion was approved to receive bids on July 28 for a bridge and dredging of the drainage canal from a point near the Western Beef Packers plant to the lake in Recreation Park. Money for the work was provided in a 1966 bond issue.

City Manager Charles Hill reported efforts to get the Santa Fe Railroad to improve approaches at the Starkweather grade crossing so far had proved futile. The commission authorized the city to do the work and send the railroad the bill.

Desegregation Move Voted

AUSTIN (UPI) — A subcommittee of the State Human Relations Committee has accepted a proposal that would cut off all state funds to small Texas school districts which maintain all Negro or all Mexican-American schools.

The subcommittee accepted the proposal Monday and passed it on to the full committee which was to consider it today. If the committee approves the measure it will go to the Texas Legislature in the form of a recommendation.

The proposal was brought before the subcommittee by Leon Cashaw, the assistant director of a program aimed at implementing school desegregation.

Eight Jurors Approved For Manson Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eight jurors tentatively were approved Monday in the murder trial of four "Manson Family" members. A defense attorney tried to force a meeting with the young woman expected to be granted immunity from prosecution as the state's key witness.

During the third day of jury selection for the Tate-LaBianca slayings, Dave Shinn, attorney for Susan Atkins, complained that defense lawyers had been unable to speak with Linda Kasabian, 20, another cult member.

Although Mrs. Kasabian also has been charged in the killings, her trial has been delayed until August and she is expected to be granted immunity for her testimony against hippie chief Charles Manson and the others.

SUPER CITIZEN

ADA, Mich. (UPI) — James Oestdyke, manager of the Union Bank branch here, was on his way to work Monday when he saw two fishermen clinging to their overturned boat in the Thornapple River.

Oestdyke dove into the river, rescued the fishermen — Eugene Cox, 62, and Sam Bontius, 68, both of Grand Rapids — and went on to work.

His clothes wringing wet, he opened the bank punctually at 9:30 a.m., made sure things were normal, and then went home to change his clothes.

"He's fantastic example of what a good citizen ought to be," a sheriff's deputy said.

SALT Chief Leaves For Washington

VIENNA (UPI)—The departure for Washington of Gerard C. Smith, chief U.S. negotiator at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), raised speculation today the talks are nearing a point where political decisions must be made. Smith departed unannounced with his two chief advisers, Gen. Royall B. Allison and Ray Gerthof, to brief top officials in Washington on progress of the talks. Official sources said Smith probably would talk with President Nixon and would participate in an interdepartmental panel review of SALT. They said his departure, announced 10 hours after he left Monday, will not deter the U.S. search for an arms pact with the Soviet Union.

Kunstler Beaten By Rightwingers

TORONTO (UPI)—William Kunstler, the trial lawyer for the Chicago Seven, was beaten and knocked down by a group of rightwingers Monday night when he tried to deliver a speech. He apparently was not seriously hurt.
Kunstler, 51, his lip bleeding and his eyes watering, continued with his address, calling for "all leftist organizations to unite. If we stick together we can have a movement, and we can have a world."
Kunstler arrived in Toronto late Monday afternoon from New York, and left after his speech. He was permitted out of the U.S. for one day after posting $15,000 bond. He is appealing his four-year, 13-day prison term on contempt of court charges arising from the trial of seven persons in Chicago accused of conspiring to riot at the 1968 Democratic National Convention. Kunstler was their attorney.
As he began his speech to a crowd of 1,000 in Convocation Hall, Kunstler was drowned out by the shouts of about 30 members of the rightist Edmund Burke Society.

Threats And Thefts Top Police Activity

A missing pistol, a woman who threatened her ex-husband with a shotgun, and a lost purse containing a diamond ring, topped police reports for the past 24 hours.

Charges had not been formally filed this morning by a man who told police he went to the home of his ex-wife to pick up some personal property and was threatened with a 410-gauge shotgun.
The man said he and his wife were divorced last week and he had a court order permitting him to pick up the property. Upon arriving at the North Zimmerman Street address, however, he was met by his former wife and the shotgun.
When officers arrived about 5 p.m. Monday, the man was standing in the street and the woman was inside the house, armed.
Police persuaded her to allow the man to take his property. The man reportedly told officers he would file charges with the county attorney this morning, however, a check with that office and the offices of both justices-of-the-peace failed to reveal any charges being filed.
A lost purse reported to police was said by the owner to have contained a man's, white gold ring with five small diamonds valued at $300.
According to reports, Mrs.

Evelyn Smotherman, 844 E. Campbell, told police she inadvertently left her purse at a service station in Coronado Center Monday.
She returned for the purse about 20 minutes later, but could not find it. Mrs. Smotherman said the purse also contained a lady's, yellow gold ring valued at $20 and $15 in cash.
Eugene Gray, 705 E. 14th St., told officers Monday someone had taken a .22 caliber Luger pistol from his home sometime over the weekend.
Gray said the pistol was in a table drawer Saturday and wasn't noticed to be missing until Monday.
The weapon is valued at $80.

LUCKY WOMEN

LONDON (UPI)—Shopkeeper Harvey Freedman put 103 fur coats on sale Monday for a half-penny each.
The catch was that ha'pennies, as most Britons call them, went out of circulation 10 months ago as part of the changeover to decimal coinage, but 103 lucky women still had the coins in the purses and came away with furs.
"I've had a very good year," Freedman said to explain the sale.

Tryouts Continue For Roles In 'The Crucible'

There was a good turnout Monday night in Pampa High School auditorium for roles in the late-summer production of "The Crucible," written by Playwright Arthur Miller.

The 4-act drama will be presented under the auspices of the Pampa High School Thespian Society, Troupe 1010, in late July or early August.
Mrs. Rochelle Wilkins, director, said she was pleased with the number trying out for the 10 feminine roles, but there is still an urgent need for actors to fill the 11 male roles.

There are also available roles for mature persons, who can be "made up" to appear 35 to 80 years of age.
Final tryouts are scheduled for 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. today in the high school auditorium.

The cast will be announced as soon as roles are assigned, according to Mrs. Wilkins.

Texan Receives Nomination

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Criss Cole was blinded while serving with the U. S. Marines in World War II. Through vocational rehabilitation programs he obtained a bachelor of science and law degree and established a successful law practice.

Cole ran for the Texas Legislature in 1954 and won a House seat from Houston. In 1967 he was elected to the state Senate. Last year his colleague elected him president pro tempore of the Senate.

Cole retired from the legislature to become a district judge in Houston. He was honored Monday as the Texas nominee for the "outstanding rehabilitant in the nation."

"There is no reason in the world for a handicapped person to be unemployed if can put out as much work as the person next to him," Cole told a luncheon in his honor.

Your Horoscope

By JEAN DIXON

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24

Your birthday Wednesday:

Harmony is your aim in the year ahead. You must come to terms with your growing inner potential and changes around you. There may be things to do which have never, until now, touched your life. Material success is reasonably assured, but is not the main issue. Today's natives are inclined to live in the past, sometimes show self-denial in small things. Their general philosophy is optimistic.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Turn detective and dig out those obscure facts you will need before the week is out. Take your time in travel. Let your family do the talking for the moment—you'll learn something.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Anything today precipitates a discussion that goes on long past your endurance. Use the long talkfest to express your thoughts on many more subjects. Don't neglect your work.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Look carefully where you are going, keep moving straight along. Consult medical specialists on any symptoms, or have a general check-up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): This promises to be a full-speed-ahead day of effective work. Get an early start and enjoy your achievements. People beyond your usual reach are quite helpful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): It is time to be silent and listen despite your strong urge to let the world know of your progress. Attend your regular work with zest and good humor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You can prudently call in friends, share your concerns and work out more effective programs. Avoid any public disagreements or confrontations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Do not slight the details. At least have somebody else take a look as you go, so you miss nothing significant. Cooperation is available for the asking—and giving.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You can ease any tensions by consulting your inner self, your intuition. Current information is incomplete or outdated; proceed on the basis of your feelings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your earnings are open to improvement soon, so put in full time. You have something to be thankful for and to pray about tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Vigilance in travel and use of tools and machinery is critically important today. Your physical participation in programs is strongly indicated. Others react favorably to your refusal to be critical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18):

Follow an established pattern of action rather than fresh information, which is probably faulty. Your personal efforts are the most important factor at the moment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep your remarks simple and to the point so that everybody can come to his own conclusions. Your program picks up some momentum as more details are filled in.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Re the mother of "the world's worst housekeeper": I am married to a doctor and we have several rather untidy children. I have help in twice a week which keeps me two steps ahead of the health department, but we are a happy family.

This wasn't always the case. At one time I was in a constant state of turmoil worrying about my poor housekeeping. I finally consulted a psychiatrist friend and it took me a year to untangle some of the "knots" I had been tying.

I know it's popular to blame one's mother for everything, but in this case it was my mother's fault. My messy home was a form of rebellion to the way I was brought up. Mother had a fetish about housekeeping, and when I was young she would never let me do anything to help her. Then, no matter what I did, I couldn't please her, so I grew up with a feeling of great inadequacy in the housekeeping department.

Your suggestion of the "mother-daughter talk" won't help much. I think the answer is to substitute praise for criticism, which, in my case, even at this late date, works like a charm. If the world's worst housekeeper does just one thing right, praise her to the skies.

Don't mention my address because my mother would know instantly who I am and I wouldn't want to hurt her. In spite of her failure in this department she more than makes up for it in others. Sign me...

UNTIDY BUT UNTIED

DEAR ABBY: Here is an open letter to the mother who described her daughter as the "World's Worst Housekeeper". You are not alone there are many of us. And believe me, talk will do no good.

Your daughter (as well as ours) sees what is before her eyes. After many years I have learned that most case housekeepers have sweet and loving dispositions, and for this their husbands and children love them.

I've always said, "Show me a meticulous housekeeper, and I'll show you a nervous wreck." ANOTHER MOTHER RENO, NEVADA

New Brides Need Routine Beauty Habits

If you're about to embark on marital "journey," you're bound to wonder just what the infamous "first year" means when it gets down to the everyday reality of actually living with "him." Perhaps more than once the necessity of fitting your once "out-in-the-open" beauty habits into your new "co-existence" has crossed your mind.

Sure it's easy to say, "Well,

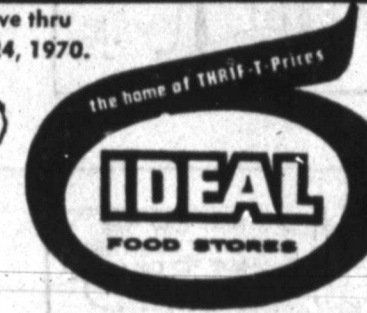

I'll do it before he gets home" but with all your new responsibilities and homemaking chores, a haphazard "non-schedule" like that can leave you looking just as "hit and miss" as your beauty plan.

Houston Sails Past Padres

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Bob Watson, the 25-year-old utilityman of the Houston Astros became a father a few hours before the Astros' game with San Diego Monday night, when his wife gave birth to a seven-pound son, Keith. He promptly went out and collected three hits against the Padres to back Don Wilson's three-hit pitching and gave Houston a 4-1 victory.

The 6-foot-2, 205-pound Watson was thrilled at the birth of his son. "My wife has been expecting a baby since June 10th but she waited until we got back from the road trip," he said. "Sure enough, I got in late last night and had to take her to the hospital at 3 a.m."

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia swept a doubleheader from Montreal, 6-0 and 3-2. New York beat Chicago, 9-5. Los Angeles topped Atlanta, 4-2. San Francisco routed Cincinnati, 13-6, and St. Louis beat Pittsburgh 6-1, but lost the second game, 1-0, in 10 innings.

In the only three games scheduled in the American League, Minnesota edged Milwaukee, 4-3. Baltimore beat Boston, 9-8, and Oakland nipped Kansas City 2-1.

Byron Browne doubled in two runs in the sixth inning to lead the Phils to the second game victory over Montreal and the doubleheader sweep. Browne who hit a two-run homer in the first game, wiped out a 2-1 Montreal lead with his double and gave the victory to Rick Wise. In the first game, Woody Fryman pitched a four-hitter to beat Bill Stoneman.

Willie Mays, socked his 16th and 17th homers of the year to pace the Giants, who had 17 hits, past the Reds, Dick Dietz and pitcher Rich Robertson added one homer each for the Giants. Tony Perez hit No. 25 for the Reds.

Jim Nelson pitched a six-hitter and Matty Alou singled in Gene Alley from second base the 10th inning to give Pittsburgh the second game victory over St. Louis. But the Cards won the first game when rookie Jerry Reuss pitched a nine-hitter. The Cards rocked Dock Ellis, who pitched a no-hitter on June 12th, for five runs in the second inning.

Wes Parker, Bill Sudakis and Bill Grabarkewitz tagged Phil Niekro for homers as Los Angeles beat Atlanta. Alan Foster and Jim Brewer, who retired only the final batter, combined for a nine-hitter.

Don Clendenon, who had failed 10 straight times as a pinch-hitter, hit a three-run homer in the eighth to snap a 5-5 tie and lead New York past Chicago. The victory moved the Mets to within 2½ games of Cubs in the East Division.

BEAT RED SOX IN 9TH, 9-8

Orioles Pad Lead In East

By STU CAMEN
UPI Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox, playing the Baltimore Orioles in the hitters' paradise otherwise known as Fenway Park, blew an early 6-0 lead but managed to take an 8-6 advantage into the ninth inning against the defending American League champions.

Baltimore cut its deficit to one run and had runners on second and third with one out when Boston Manager Eddie Kasko decided to "play it by the book" by walking Brooks Robinson to load the bases and set up a possible double play or at least a force at any base. The only trouble with Kasko's gamble was that by intentionally walking Brooks Robinson, who had gone hitless in his five previous trips to the plate and was batting .277, he had to face Frank Robinson, who had a double and single earlier in the game and was batting .340.

Frank, one of the game's best clutch hitters, promptly jumped on reliever Cal Koonce's first delivery and ripped a two-run double down the left field line to give Baltimore a 9-3 victory and extend the Orioles' winning streak to five games. The triumph also enabled Baltimore to up its East Division lead in the American League to 3½ games over the idle New York Yankees.

In the only other AL contests,

West Division leader Minnesota downed Milwaukee, 4-3, and Oakland shaded Kansas City, 2-1.

In the National League, New York beat Chicago, 9-5. Philadelphia swept a doubleheader from Montreal, 6-0 and 3-2. Los Angeles topped Atlanta, 4-2. Houston beat San Diego, 4-1. San Francisco outslugged Cincinnati, 13-6, and St. Louis split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh as the Cardinals took the opener, 6-1, and the Pirates won the nightcap, 1-0, in 10 innings.

Dick Hall, the fifth of seven Baltimore pitchers, got credit for his sixth win in nine decisions while reliever Sparky Lyle took the loss.

Harmon Killebrew's 18th homer, a three-run drive in the fifth inning and the clutch relief pitching of Ron Perranoski helped Minnesota down Milwaukee and move 4½ games ahead of second place California. Perranoski recorded his 17th save when he replaced Jim Kaat in the ninth inning and helped Kaat raise his record to 6-5.

Pinch-hitter Frank Fernandez led off the bottom of the ninth inning for Oakland with his ninth homer off reliever Tom Burgemeier as the A's shaded Kansas City. Oakland's first run came on Sal Bando's 14th homer in the fifth but the Royals tied the score in the seventh when Paul Schaal doubled and then tallied as Pat Kelly's grounder went through the legs of second baseman John Donaldson. Bob Locker (1) got the victory with two innings of hitless relief.

San Antonio Beats Giants

By United Press International

Dallas - Fort Worth pitcher Marc Garland hit a homerun in the first inning Monday night and then scattered eight hits on the mound to win his second game of the season and give the Spurs a 4-2 win over the Arkansas Travelers.

The loss cut the Travelers lead to four and a half games over Memphis and San Antonio in the Eastern Division of the Texas League.

Garland's blast, his first of the year, gave the Spurs a shortlived 1-0 lead. The Travelers tied the score in their half of the same frame. Dallas took a 2-1 lead in its next time at bat and the Travelers tied it again in the fifth. But in the top of the sixth, third baseman Steve Green belted a two-run homer to send Traveler starter Steve Evans to his fourth defeat of the season against seven wins.

In other Texas League action, the Memphis Blues blanked the El Paso Sun Kings 4-0, the Albuquerque Dodgers routed the Shreveport Braves 14-3 and the San Antonio Missions defeated the Amarillo Giants 8-4.

Bob McLeod pitched the four hit shutout for the Blues. The win put McLeod over the 500 mark in decisions with a 3-2 record.

Established Names Getting Votes In Latest NL All-Star Tabulation

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's obvious the fans are voting for the established names in the All-Star balloting this season.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office released the latest results of the National League voting Monday and the No. 3, 4 and 6 hitters in the league — Clarence Gaston of San Diego, Billy Grabarkewitz of Los Angeles and Jim Hickman of the Chicago Cubs — are almost ignored.

A total of 12 outfielders have 25,000 votes or more but Gaston, hitting .337, and Hickman, hitting .332, weren't among them.

Grabarkewitz is hitting .333 for the Dodgers but he's sixth in the voting at third base with 12,949. Mike Shannon of St. Louis who's been ill most of the year, is fourth.

The one write-in candidate who seems sure to make the team is Rico Carly, who surged into second place among outfielders with 177,746 votes. He surpassed Willie Mays, who hasn't been a starter in the All-Star game in recent years but is a sentimental choice of the fans. Mays dropped back to third with 173,012. Hank Aaron still has a big lead with 390,357 votes. Carly is hitting .339 while Aaron is hitting .319 but Aaron's name is on the ballot and he also got all the publicity for his 3,000th hit which helps to account for his huge lead over Carly.

Pete Ross of Cincinnati is fourth among the outfielders with 165,746.

There was only one change in the rest of the balloting. Richie Allen of St. Louis passed Willie McCovey of San Francisco for the first base spot. Allen has 136,429 to 131,616 for McCovey. The other leaders are catcher Johnny Bench (who is second to Aaron in total voting with 348,111), second baseman Glenn Beckert of Chicago, third baseman Tony Perez of Cincinnati and shortstop Don Kessinger of Chicago.

The deadline for the balloting is Sunday and the starting National League team will be announced July 6 with the American League team scheduled to be released the next day.

The fans will vote for the eight starters but the managers, Gil Hodges of the Mets, and Earl Weaver of the Orioles, will choose the pitchers.

Rankin Takes Washington Golf

HORSHAM, Pa. (UPI) — Judy Torluemke Rankin birdied six holes in the final round Monday as she struggled out of eighth place to win the $25,000 George Washington ladies golf classic.

Mrs. Rankin, 25, of Midland, Tex., toured the course with a 68 as she edged out fellow Texan Sandra Haynie by one stroke for the $3,750 top money in the 54-hole affair.

Miss Haynie, of Fort Worth, held the lead after 36 holes on the 6,150-yard Hidden Springs CC course.

The tournament final had been delayed Sunday by rain. Miss Haynie, who put together rounds of 68 and 69 previously, faltered the last day and left the court with a 76. Her 213 total was worth $2,830.

Third prize went to Carol Mann, the year's top money winner with $15,590. Miss Mann equalled the winner's five-under-par to score a 68 in the last round and win $2,185.

Shirley Englehorn had her streak of four straight tournament victories snapped when she finished in a tie for sixth place. Miss Englehorn, recent winner of the Ladies Professional Golf Association championship, shot a 73 the final day.

Favorites King, Court To Begin Wimbledon Play

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — America's Billie Jean King and Australia's Margaret Court took to the courts today rated even favorites to win the ladies singles title in the 84th Wimbledon tennis tournament.

Mrs. King, of Berkeley, Calif., the No. 2 seed, opens against Miss F. Bonicelli of Peru, and Mrs. Court meets countrymate Suzanne Alexander.

The other American seeds opening today are Rosemary Casals, San Francisco, Calif., against Kathy Harter of Seal Beach, Calif., and Judy Heldman, New York, against Australia's Fay Moore.

In the opening round of men's singles Monday, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia was the only seed in trouble, fighting back from 2-6, 5-7 down to 6-3, 6-2 before his match against Russia's Alexander Metreveli was called because of darkness.

Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia, defending his Wimbledon singles crown, overwhelmed American National Amateur champion, George Seewagen Jr., of New York, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2, with a center court display of all-court power.

Third-seeded Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring Va., the man many experts figure Laver will have to beat for his third consecutive title, trounced British professional Graham Stilwell, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1, outclassing the Briton with the best backhand in the business.

America's top-ranked Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., the seventh seed, overcame trouble with his service which cost him the first set against Jaime Filol of Chile to advance to the next round, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. Clark Graebner of New York, the ninth seed, brought his big service under control to dispose of Herald Eischenbroich of West Germany 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., the 15th seed, advanced when veteran Italian Nicola Pietrangeli returned too late from the World Cup soccer in Mexico to make the Wimbledon deadline.

Fourth-seeded Tony Roche of Australia, the 1968 finalist, overwhelmed Bob Maud of South Africa, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 and his fifth-seed countryman Ken Rosewall trounced another Australian, C. S. Dibley, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Australia's No. 2 seed John Newcombe — last year's runner-up — had an easy win over America's eighth-ranked Roy Barth of San Diego, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., ranked third in the United States but unseeded at Wimbledon, defeated Istvan Gulyas of Hungary, 6-2, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4.

PRO: Frank Beard On The Golf Tour Characters

(Seventh of 12 Pieces)
By FRANK BEARD

I figured I'd be all alone at the range, but when I walked around a little hedge to start hitting, there was Lee Trevino, the United States Open champion in 1968, flanked by a few of his fans. Lee's Fleas, Lee's a Mexican-American, a real extrovert with a wild sense of humor. He's one of the characters of the tour, always playing to the galleries, not just for show but because he likes to, but he's dedicated to the game. If he weren't, he wouldn't be out at a driving range the night before a little tournament.

"Hey, Beard," Lee said. "You trying to steal my thunder? I thought I had this place cornered."

We're not particularly close — Lee's not much for hanging around the motels, and I've never seen him in one of our bridge games — but I honestly like him. I enjoy watching him bubble over. It's really fun playing with Lee, and I envy him his easygoing attitude, but sometimes I think if he'd be just a little more serious and spend a little less time gabbing with the gallery and concentrate on his shots instead, he might be one of the best players to come along in a long time. But you never can tell. Every man's different, and I guess if Walter Hagen had been a clean liver, no drinking and no partying, he might never have broken 80.

Lee was telling me about the luckiest shot he ever hit in his life — a shank, an absolutely atrocious shank on the last hole of the last round of the Houston Champions International last year.

"How the hell can a shank be a lucky shot?" I said.

"Well," Lee said, "De Veenzo and I were tied for the lead going to the last hole, and Roberto was on in two when I shanked my second shot. He got a par and I got a bogey. I saved myself about a million dollars."

I figured Lee was setting up some kind of joke.

"You see," he said, "dead serious — there was a guy waiting to sign me up for a bunch of endorsements if I won the tournament. He would've tied me up for years at pretty low rates. But when I lost, he didn't sign me. The next week, I won the U.S. Open, and that's been worth a million dollars to me."

Charlie Coody is a superstitious old boy. He plays a Titleist ball, and on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, he'll play any number Titleist. But on Sundays, Charlie'll only play a No. 1 or a No. 4. Don't ask me why. We've got a bunch of superstitions out here on the tour. Some guys will wear the same shirt the same day of each week as long as they're going good. We've got one guy who, if he goes into the john one morning and uses a particular urinal and has a good round, he'll use the same urinal the next morning even if there's a line a mile long. Even if he doesn't have to go.

I saw Roberto de Veenzo, and the Gay Gaucho's still smiling. He's got no bitterness toward Bob Gostly, who beat him in the Masters scorecard incident, or toward Tommy Aaron, who marked down his score wrong, or toward the Masters committee. "The rules are good," Roberto told me. "I make a mistake."

Then Roberto walked over to the pairing sheets and he noticed that the sheet was marked Thursday, April 9.

"What is today?" Roberto asked Charlie Coody.

"I don't know," Coody said, and he turned around and asked someone else, who told him today is Wednesday, April 9.

"But look," said Roberto. "The pairing say tomorrow is April 9."

"It's just some kind of mistake," said Coody.

Roberto looked at Charlie very gravely and said, "The man who did that ought to be disqualified."

Japan-US Renew Security Treaty

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's conservative government renewed its military security treaty with the United States today, disregarding weeklong demonstrations against it and Communist, Socialist and Buddhist political opposition.

The 10-year-old treaty, which expired at midnight, will continue on a year-by-year basis with either country able to cancel on one year's notice under terms of the renewal.

The treaty was negotiated in 1950 during the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. It provides for maintenance of U.S. air and naval strike forces in Japan for the defense of Asia. It was binding on both nations for the first 10 years, the one-year cancellation notice to be effective in the event of renewal.

A series of demonstrations organized by leftist political groups, students, Buddhists and others a week ago began protesting the anticipated renewal of the pact. National police headquarters said there were 236 such demonstrations involving 145,600 persons on Sunday. More demonstrations were scheduled for Tuesday.

Most of the demonstrations have been peaceful, but occasional incidents of violence have been reported. Police said 154 persons were arrested in demonstrations Sunday, 51 of them in Tokyo.

A statement announcing renewal of the pact was issued by Prime Minister Eisaku Sato after meeting with his cabinet.

"The government confirms its intention to firmly maintain the treaty in the interest of the maintenance of the security of Japan," it said.

The statement noted Japan has spent less than 1 per cent of its Gross National Product on defense during the years it has achieved economic prosperity.

"The government is convinced that unswerving pursuit of this policy in the 1970s is supported extensively by the people," the statement said.

"The will and spirit of the people to defend their homeland is the basic foundation of national security. However, no nation in today's world can expect to maintain its security by itself."

Japan's armed forces currently number about 250,000 men, smaller than many other Asian nations maintain, but its economy is the world's third largest behind only the United States and the Soviet Union.

Heavy Rains Delay Soaring Competition

MARFA, Tex. (UPI)—Heavy rains have pounded the three West Texas courses over which glider pilots from 28 nations were to begin competing Monday in the 12th World Soaring Championships.

A delay in the opening of the competition was not out of the question.

The rain, coupled with cool air which hit earlier Sunday, made practice runs almost impossible.

"There just isn't enough heat to create the thermals the pilots need to fly their gliders right now," one competitor said. "There's a few up in the air practicing but it's too darn cold. We're hoping it will warm up."

But the cool air did not pose as much of a problem as the rains.

"We are just going out from under an alert," said Bruce Bissonette, a spokesman for the championships. "But the thunderstorms are continuing. If they continue, we'll have to delay the opening day until Tuesday."

A. J. Smith, the defending world champion in the standard class and a member of the United States team, said he flew some practice runs Saturday but quit when he saw the dark clouds approaching.

Rudy Allemen, 38, ranked second in the standard competition and also a member of the U.S. squad, thinks the United States has an advantage because of the team's familiarity with the three triangular courses.

"We think we have a pretty good chance," he said. "But in a contest like this it only takes one mistake and you're out of it."

Former Indonesian President Dies: Thousands Gather To Pay Respects

JAKARTA (UPI)—Thousands of Indonesians stood shoulder to shoulder today for a last glimpse of the coffin of former President Sukarno as it was borne in a so-called army van from the home of his third wife to Halim Airport five miles away.

The body of Sukarno, who died Sunday at 89, was sealed in the teak coffin at midnight Sunday and flown Monday to the family cemetery at Blitar in East Java.

The burial site was decided by President Suharto and his cabinet, which rejected a tearful appeal from two of Sukarno's wives, Japanese-born Madame Ratna Sari Dewi and Madame Hartini. They had asked Sukarno be buried beneath a shade tree of his home in Batu Tulis, 40 miles south of Jakarta.

Madame Dewi flew here from Paris Saturday with her daughter ter by Sukarno, Kartika Sari, 3. Madame Dewi said Sukarno, the architect of Indonesia's independence, had expressed the wish to be buried at Batu Tulis.

All eight of Sukarno's children sat beside the coffin while thousands filed by the body lying in state in Madame Dewi's suburban home.

Officials estimated 70,000 viewed the body of the man who ruled Indonesia from 1945 to 1967 when he was ousted by a military coup. A week of official mourning for Sukarno was proclaimed by Suharto.

Jakarta bid farewell to Sukarno on a clear, hot morning, the 43rd anniversary of the founding of this capital-city of 4.5 million. The city had been decked with flags for the anniversary celebration, but the flags were lowered to half staff when Sukarno died.

Two Counties Added To NM Disaster Area

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—Gov. David F. Cargo said he would declare two more northeastern counties as disaster areas Monday, thus releasing $400,000 to aid New Mexico ranchers fight range caterpillars.

Cargo said the new disaster zone would include Union and Colfax counties. The two will be classified as separate from Harding, Mora and San Miguel counties the governor designated as disaster areas Friday.

By naming two separate disaster areas, Cargo can release $400,000 to aid caterpillar spraying programs instead of only $200,000 for a single disaster zone. However, possible spraying programs may be delayed pending a court hearing in Albuquerque Thursday on a temporary restraining order prohibiting ranchers from using toxaphene to spray the caterpillars.

Texas officials Friday filed a district court suit claiming toxaphene, a residual type spray, could contaminate drinking water in 11 West Texas cities.

In the suit, Texas officials recommended the ranchers use a substitute spray, Dibrom, as a pesticide instead of the controversial toxaphene.

Reuben Pankey, head of the Association, said Saturday his group had hired attorneys to contest Texas' claim.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
 WASHINGTON (UP) — President Nixon's decision to use "inflation alerts" rather than wage-price controls to ease pressure on the economy seems theoretically sound.
 I practice, however, it may not work out too well. Much depends on whether the government can develop an effective system for alerting the public when prices and/or wages rise excessively.
 One economist with whom I discussed the matter said the alerts would have to pack a strong dramatic wallop to arouse public opinion.
 He recommended that Nixon send Vice President Agnew to the top of the Washington Monument to serve as an inflation watchman.
 If Agnew spotted an excessive wage increase, he would hang out a lantern. If he spotted an excessive price increase, he would hang out two lanterns.
 "One if by labor and two if by management" would be the signal.
 Meanwhile, Commerce Secretary Stans and Labor Secretary Hodgson would be standing by on the south lawn of the White House.
 Should they spot two lanterns hanging from the top of the monument, Hodgson would leap upon a horse and ride across the countryside shouting "The prices are rising!"
 But if only one lantern were seen, Stans would mount and alert the countryside about inflationary wages.
 I agree that this system of "inflation alerts" would be highly dramatic and would inspire downtrodden consumers to jump out of bed and defend themselves against the wage-price spiral.
 Just to be on the safe side, however, it might be well to have a back-up system available. And in that regard I've been thinking that maybe the inflation alerts could be tied in with the civil defense warning system.
 Civil defense, as you know, maintains an elaborate alarm network that it rarely uses except for test drills, mainly because there haven't been many air raids or missile attacks lately.
 A new set of signals would be easy to devise, perhaps along this line:
 —A short series of long blasts on the sirens signals an ICBM attack.
 —A long series of short blasts signals a 17 per cent increase in the price of steel tent poles.
 —An intermittent series of long and short blasts signals a 40 per cent pay boost for ski instructors.
 —A short series of short blasts followed by a long series of long blasts signals congressional passage of wage-price controls.

Our Capsule Policy

The Panama News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

It's That Time Again

It's that time again for county and city commissions, school boards and various other public governmental units, in Panama and around the Panhandle.

Budget-making time, that is. And such agencies face their usual problems — demands from various groups, offices and interests for substantial increases in appropriations for the coming year; these against demands more often unexpressed publicly, by tax payers to "hold the line" against tax increases.

With restricted sources of income and tax payers already overburdened by a conglomeration of taxes of every conceivable sort, there lies the problem. Obviously, not everyone is going to be pleased, whatever is done.

Many offices, departments and non-governmental groups submit budget requests larger than they expect to get, on the basis that "if they're granted an increase, all well and good; if not, they'll be able to operate. Quite frequently once a new unit or "cause" is given the governmental funds not even in a modest way, or even on a presumably temporary basis, it manages to entrench itself and grow bigger and bigger year by year, thus further complicating and increasing the cost of the already complicated and costly governmental structure. Actually, some of these activities may have no or little essential basis for tax payer support as such.

That is one aspect which government taxing bodies are obligated to consider in all their "extra-curricular" budgetary requests. Their statutory and primary duty and obligation is to take care of the essential functions of government and to protect the interests of the tax payer.

Taxing bodies have a great responsibility — much greater than most of us realize. They need both cooperation and sympathy. They have to be firm when they might like to yield. They have to say "No" when they might like to say "Yes." They have to weigh every individual request, every individual item, against the whole, against the people's interest. They have to be wary of claims as against facts. They have to be able to resist pressure, private or public, special interest-inspired or publicly generated. They have to do the best they can with what they expect to have.

We don't envy them their jobs. But we trust them to exercise sound judgment, to do the best they can for the people whom they serve.

A Better Shake For GIs

One of these years — international tensions permitting — Americans may move beyond the talking stage and actually abolish the draft in favor of an all-volunteer Army.

Up to now, however, most of the talk has centered on the question of how many extra billions of dollars would be required to raise pay levels high enough to entice young men to choose military careers.

But it would take more than money alone to make a truly professional army a practical reality, for monetary reward is only one of the traditional gripes of GIs or ex-GIs.

Beyond pay, beyond almost every other consideration, the one essential ingredient demanded by that part of the younger generation that has been "turned off" from everything military is the "humanization" of military service.

There are a few limited indications of how soon a "new Model" Army might operate.

By virtue of a recent Defense Department directive, it is now possible for a serviceman to wear a semblance of sideburns, or even to express his individuality to the extent of sporting a neat mustache.

Much more significant than this is an experiment being conducted at Ft. Ord. There, besides being offered the choice of seven haircut styles, incoming recruit draftees are issued plastic merit cards. Punched daily by drill sergeants, the cards can be cashed in for a number of special privileges ranging from a movie to a weekend pass.

Another innovation is the biweekly "trainee council" in which the company commander, first sergeant, senior drill sergeant and recruits meet informally over coffee and cake to discuss mutual concerns.

The program is the result of a study at Ft. Ord which revealed that the morale of civilians, generally quite good at the time of their induction into the Army, declined steadily during the eight weeks of basic training. The experiment has been so successful that the Continental Army Command has recommended its adoption at all Army basic training centers.

Inevitably, the changes have upset some old-timers who cling to the traditional threat-and-punishment system, based on the belief that fear is the most basic emotion and that from fear flows all good things like discipline and esprit de corps. One veteran drill sergeant at Ft. Ord reportedly expressed his feelings this way: "It's turning the Army into the (unprintable) Boy Scouts. Merits — (unprintable). The only way to handle recruits is with a club."

Yet a couple of centuries ago the "only way" to handle a sailor in the British Navy was with the lash, quite literally. Despite the fears of the old-timers of that time, the abolition of corporal punishment did not noticeably impair the performance of His or Her Majesty's Navy in subsequent wars.

This humanization business could go too far, of course. We could reach a point where privates began addressing their officers by their first names. Good heavens, what kind of Army would that be.

Interestingly enough, this is the practice in the Israeli army — and nobody challenges that army's fighting qualities lightly.

If Cops Go Wild... Why?

The police have done it again. This time, many reputable business and community leaders charge that "the cops went wild" in quelling recent disturbances in the college community of Isla Vista, Calif., near the Santa Barbara campus of the University of California.

Santa Barbara County Deputy District Attorney Patrick McKinley says he was standing quietly outside his apartment when police bounded from a truck and arrested him. Before he could tell them who he was, they pulled their guns and "told me to shut up in no uncertain terms," says McKinley, who was held 12 hours.

It is beginning to look as if the only way to insure against charges of police brutality or police overreaction is not to call the cops in at all when the kiddies start playing "participatory democracy."

Any community care to try that approach?

H. L. Hunt Writes

SOVIETS AIM FOR STRATEGIC SUPERIORITY

On land, on sea, and in the air, the Soviet Union is increasing its military forces as it aims for strategic superiority over the United States.

Army Chief of Staff William Westmoreland testified to a House appropriations subcommittee that Russia now has 140 combat-ready divisions. The United States Army has only 19.

In the past our country has relied on air and naval superiority to counter-balance the Soviet advantage in land forces. But we are in serious danger of losing our lead in these vital areas.

Shortly before he retired, Air Force Chief of Staff General John McConnell told the Senate Committee on Appropriations: "As I leave the Air Force it has less air power than when I became Chief of Staff four and one-half years ago."

The Soviet Union has made its most rapid gains in recent years on the sea. Admiral Thomas Moorer has testified that former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara decommissioned more than 100 warships, while the Soviet Union has built 25 heavy cruisers and more than 200 destroyers since World War II ended.

In recent years the Soviet navy has commissioned 1,575 new ships while the U.S. built only 894 in the same period. Many of the Russian ships are helicopter ships, each carrying 25 large helicopters and 500 combat troops. The Soviet fleet includes several intelligence ships with advanced equipment.

These facts and figures show that the Soviet Union is still a critical threat to the security of the free world. Our government should take steps to insure that our country is adequately defended.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

Now about this here secret pact between Thailand and some mighty suspicious officials in the U.S. whereby they agreed to pay 200 Million Geets (count 'em) for sending 10,000 men to Vietnam.

What this money does, our money, is pay a Looie General $450 a month over his $370 monthly base pay and a Thai private $39 in taxpayer's notes over his $29 a month pay. Ain't that nice of us?

Also, the pact says, we agreed (not you and me, but somebody) to increase their military assistance program by $80 Million, to send Bangkok a battery of Hawk antiaircraft missiles, and to modernize Thailand's home armed forces.

There's more Hawks in Washington than there are in Bangkok, though. No wonder they have kept the pact secret, hidden from the "don't need to know anything American public" for so long, actually since 1967. Even so, some people still ask me why I don't trust politicians.

If its mercenaries they want I have got an idea. Why, I can recruit 10,000 American Indians who would be happy to go to Viet-Nom for 200 million! Not only are they better fighters, they would reap the U.S. dollars, most of them, right at home and prevent a lot of neglected "reservation Indians" from starving.

Injuns ain't much on fighting for politics — but give us a whack at some of that 'mercenary' money and we'll whoop it up.

Cabinet Shakeups Firming The Nixon 'Inner Circle'

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One thing is clear from President Nixon's recent cabinet reshuffling.

He is gradually putting top administrators in top cabinet posts and shifting poor administrators.

He is putting men whose thinking he finds stimulating in White House posts. The system which seems to be developing is rather like the Army's dual system—a general staff, composed of planners and thinkers, and field commands composed of men who administer and operate.

To some extent, of course, all presidents operate in this fashion.

The point is that Nixon, perhaps to a greater extent than most recent presidents, is in the process of upgrading the influence of the White House staff and more distinctly separating the planning functions from the field operations.

At the beginning, Nixon's own staff was rather a hodgepodge of attitudes and aims.

But the President is gradually bringing into the White House a group with whom he feels comfortable. These are men and women whose judgment he respects, whether he agrees with their ideas or not. They are, by and large, pragmatic types whose methods of arriving at decisions are methods Nixon understands.

Over the past year, Nixon has been eliminating from the staff a number of quite brilliant men with whom he does not feel comfortable. For good or bad, Nixon finds some of these men's thinking processes and general approach to problems somewhat abrasive or emotional.

This White House shifting, it can be said with authority, is not yet completed.

At the same time, it has been clear for some months that in his original choices, Nixon did not in every case pick the best administrators as department heads.

As a result, some major agencies have been operating rather poorly.

Other departments, such as State, have been saved only by the efficiency of the No. 2 and No. 3 men.

At the State Department, it has been Elliot L. Richardson and U. Alexis Johnson.

At the Defense Department, Deputy Secretary David Packard has taken over much of the administrative and operating load. In great measure, of course, this is expected of the No. 2 man. But Packard has unusually great responsibilities. (However, Defense Secretary Clark Clifford, who was a planner, not an administrator, and in the job for only a short period, did give very great authority to his deputy, Paul Nitze, who had years of experience in the Pentagon.)

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has not been running well. Secretary Robert Finch is out and Elliot Richardson from State is in. Finch is moving to a more compatible post in Nixon's inner circle. There is some evidence that the No. 2 man at the Department of Labor is a topflight administrator. But Secretary George Shultz has that type of nonconformist approach Nixon likes to have close at hand in the White House. So Shultz is shifted and Undersecretary James D. Hodgson will succeed him.

Both Shultz and Finch are moving to more powerful positions because they are men whose ideas, loyalty and tenacity the President respects. But above all they are pragmatists.

Price Of Dependency

(Industrial News Reviews)

Mr. Milton Friedman, in a column on the "Tax Follies of 1970," does much to explain why the Tax Reform Act of 1969 was dubbed the Accountants' and Lawyers' Relief Act of 1969. Apparently, after wrestling with his own return, he sat down in a fit of outraged frustration and did a little further calculating for the enlightenment of fellow taxpayers.

Assuming that each taxpayer, or his consultant, spent an average of 4 hours on his return, Mr. Friedman finds that a total of 300 million man-hours, or the equivalent of 150,000 men working 40 hours a week for 50 weeks a year, was spent on filing 1969 tax returns. And this does not include time spent keeping track of withholding and other tax matters by business employees, accountants and an army of internal revenue service personnel. The argument is frequently heard that tax returns are complex because the government wants to be fair. On this, Mr. Friedman says, "The claim that the incredible complexities of our income tax promote equity will bring horselaugh from knowledgeable students of taxes."

Before putting all the blame for our tax headaches on that nonentity called "they" back in Washington, it would be well to realize that taxes would neither be so high nor so complex if the good citizens of the U.S. would stop trying to solve every problem with a federal handout.

Q—My daughter, 6½, is growing hair under her arms. Her pediatrician is not concerned about this. What do you think?

A—Premature development of hair in the armpits is usually accompanied by some hair in the pubic region. This occurs chiefly in girls who are of above average height and is of no significance if there are no other signs of puberty and if an adrenal tumor can be ruled out.

Q—What causes a cradle cap on a baby's head? What is the best treatment for it?

A—A cradle cap consists of yellow scaly or encrusted patches of seborrhea on the scalp. It is common in infants and is treated by giving a shampoo daily, followed by the application of Fragmatar or a similar preparation.

Q—A baby had a small soft lump on the back of her head when she was two months old. By the time she was a year old it had enlarged and the doctor said it was a cyst and would have to be removed. What caused it? Could it be malignant?

A—This probably is an epidermoid cyst, a developmental abnormality. They are often hard to remove completely and tend to recur, but they are not cancerous.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Peace Paying Off For Dove Candidates

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The furious congressional drive against the Vietnam war is being bolstered by an unexpected bonanza.

So far more than $425,000 has been contributed in response to television appeals for funds by five leading Senate doves last month — and more is still coming in. The plea for money to finance their fight was made in one nationwide and several local telecasts.

They confidently expect to raise well over $500,000 before the rancorous battle is over.

Unlike the long-pending Cooper-Church amendment which deals primarily with the Cambodian issue, the crusade spearheaded by the five Senate doves has a much wider scope. Its intent is to end the war in Vietnam by requiring the withdrawal of all U.S. troops by June 30, 1971.

This aim is specified in a so-called Amendment To End the War that has been offered to the $20.2 billion military procurement authorization bill passed by the House in April. The measure, under consideration by the Senate Armed Services Committee, is expected to be reported to the full Senate by mid-July.

Leading sponsors of the amendment are the fund raisers and managers a Senators George McGovern, D-S.D., Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., and Alan Canston, D-Calif.

A number of other senators have signed up as co-sponsors, all of them Democrats. They are Sens. Birch Bayh, Ind., Frank Church, Idaho, Thomas Eagleton, Mo., Mike Gravel, Alaska, Fred Harris, Okla., Vance Hartke, Ind., Daniel Inouye, Hawaii, Edward Kennedy, Mass., Lee Metcalf, Mont., Walter Mondale, Minn., Gaylord Nelson, Wis., Edmund Muskie, Me., Mike Mansfield, Mont., Abraham Ribicoff, Conn., Joseph Tydings, Md., Ralph Yarborough, Tex., Stephen Young, Ohio.

In the House there is a supporting faction that calls itself the Congressional Committee for a Vote on the War. Its purpose is to help the Senate doves put over their amendment and then lead the fight to get it accepted in the House.

Privately, the doves admit they have a tough uphill fight ahead of them — especially in the Senate Armed Services Committee.

There is virtually no likelihood of this committee approving the amendment. Of the 10 Democratic Committee members only 4 are dovish, and one of the 8 Republicans — a total of 5 out of 18.

The doves, of course, are fully aware of this strongly adverse situation in the committee. So while they will press their amendment there, they are girding to wage their real battle on the Senate floor — as the sponsors of the Cooper-Church amendment are doing.

As in the case of the latter, the leaders of the Amendment even if they win in the Senate their labors are far from over.

As the House has already passed the $20.2 billion military procurement authorization bill, the amendment would have to go to conference — and that would just about be the end of it. Both the likely House and Senate conferees (senior members of the Armed Services Committees) are emphatically not dovish.

The amendment would get short shrift from them. It would be quickly and unceremoniously junked.

But these bleak prospects are not discouraging the Senate doves. They have other fish to fry — such as political ambitions.

McGovern, Muskie, Bayh, Church, Harris, Kennedy (despite his disclaimers) have burning presidential ambitions. All are zealously trying to further their 1972 prospects, and are using the Vietnam issue to that end for all it's worth.

The unexpected $425,000-plus bonanza is playing right into their hands.

It's providing the money to give them a lot of personal publicity, promotion and exposure as militant champions of peace and progress.

WHO'S HANDLING IT — Nominally in charge of administering the propaganda windfall are the five original sponsors of the amendment — Sens. McGovern, Hatfield, Cranston, Goodell and Hughes. With the exception of Cranston, they made the telecast that produced the fund.

Actually keeping the books and signing the checks are Gordon Wil, McGovern's press secretary, and Wes Michaelson, Hatfield's executive assistant.

Both are congressional employees on the public payroll. So are a half dozen or so clerks, typists and other employees in the office of the Committee for a Vote on the War. That office is in a private building directly opposite the Capitol. All of the workers, including a few volunteers, are young.

Additional telecasts are contemplated in the coming weeks. Also a flood of brochures, newspaper ads, TV ads and other propaganda devices — all soliciting more funds.

Inquiries by this column, explicit assurances were given that complete records are being kept of all receipts and expenditures, that these accounts are available for scrutiny at any time, and a detailed report will be made on everything received and spent.

Whether the Senate Rules Committee or Ethics Committee will concern themselves about the handling of this money is doubtful. Neither has evinced any interest so far. Committeemen questioned expressed doubt that they had "jurisdiction."

However, such official concern could quickly develop, if franking privilege (free mail) becomes involved. That's being closely watched.

ANOTHER EXIT — Inside signs point to Daniel Moynihan, highly literate and evocative urban affairs counselor to the President, as the next high administration official to depart.

It will be strictly of his own choosing.

The towering, side-burned Irishman is still in the good graces of President Nixon. He also gets along amicably with key presidential assistants John Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman.

But Moynihan is increasingly restless and feels he has done all he can as a member of the President's staff. Moynihan has had highly attractive offer to return to academia — where he would be free to write several books he is itching to publish.

So, unless dissuaded, he can be expected to return to private life after Congress enacts the family assistance program he had a big hand in formulating. When that will be is conjectural.

The administration wants it passed before the fall election campaign, but the Senate is giving no signs of being in a hurry to do that. The Senate Finance Committee hasn't even begun consideration of the controversial legislation.

It's possible Moynihan may not wait for Congress. He may call it quits in time to take a prestigious faculty job in the fall.

ON A BACK BURNER — The Justice Department is still deliberating what to do about retired Major General Carl Turner.

He is the Army officer whom the president appointed chief of U.S. arsenals and then had to fire when a Senate investigation disclosed he had done little to put an end to service club scandals while serving as provost marshal, and had obtained a large number of guns from police officials which he subsequently sold.

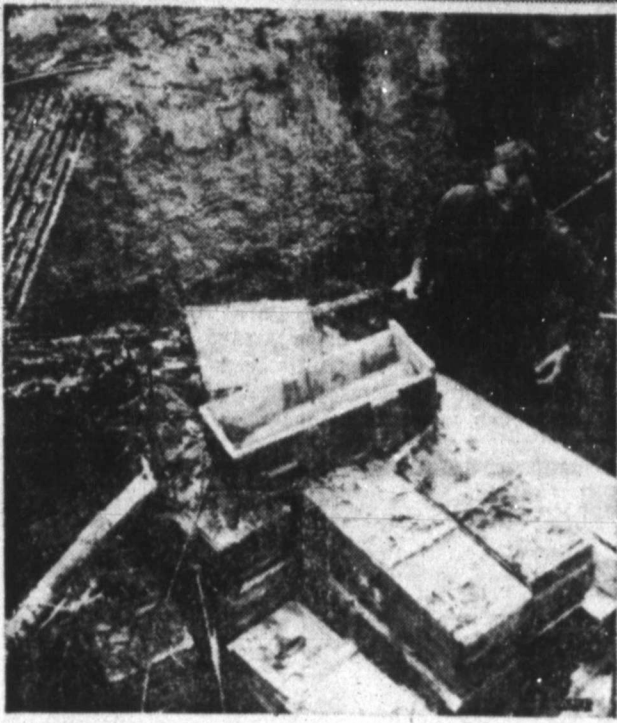

The record of the Senate disclosures was turned over to the Justice Department last year, but it's still pondering taking legal action against Turner.

The inside word is that the department's study of the case (by the Criminal Division) is incomplete. How long it will be before this protracted evaluation is finished is unknown.

No authority in the department would even hazard a guess.

Although the sensational Turner revelations made nationwide headlines, it will not be unusual if nothing more is heard of the affair. In the Justice Department, cases have a way of vanishing without trace.

Texas Senator Says Agnew Will Be Active In Fall Elections

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon might decide not to "intrude" directly in the congressional election campaigns this fall but Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will be very active, says Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.

Tower, chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, said, "I expect the vice president will be very active and the President probably less so."

"I don't think the President has made any final determination on what political activities he will engage in this fall. It's conceivable he might decide not to intrude himself directly into the campaign."

In a UPI Washington Window interview this weekend, Tower said 15 Senate seats now held by Democrats are considered vulnerable by Republican strategists.

Thirty-five Senate seats are at stake in the November elections. Of those, 25 are held by Democrats and 10 by Republicans.

To win control of the Senate, a major target for the GOP, Republicans must pick up a net gain of seven seats. That would produce a 50-50 standoff and with Agnew, the Republicans could organize the Senate.

Tower said he felt the Republicans could pick up the needed seats "in various parts of the country" but declined to say "what all my target seats are and what states they're in."

The Texas noted, however, that because more Democratic seats are up for re-election, "the sheer arithmetic of the thing favors us."

"We protect our incumbents on a smaller front than the Democrats have to protect theirs," he said. "And we do feel that a number of those seats are vulnerable."

Tower consented to comment specifically on one race—in his home state of Texas—and the nationwide significance of the Democratic primary there.

He said the Republicans, running Rep. George Bush, have an "excellent chance" in Texas.

"And I think the vulnerability of some of the democratic senators was demonstrated by the fact that Sen. (Ralph) Yarborough was defeated in the primary by a Democrat (Lloyd Bentsen) who had taken essentially a stand on the side of the President on such matters as the conduct of the war and the Supreme Court nominations, whereas, Senator Yarborough had taken an opposite tack."

Tower also said George C. Wallace, 1968 presidential candidate on the American Independent Party ticket and recently nominated for governor of Alabama, would have no impact on the Senate and House elections.

"He could conceivably have some impact on the '72 Presidential race," Tower said. "But I doubt, really, that he's going to have much impact there because I think his influence is on the wane rather than on the rise."

Indifference Virtually Assures Student Deferment Continuation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House indifference and congressional apathy have virtually assured college freshmen of student draft deferments this fall. But the Selective Service System says the delays could turn out to be shortlived.

With the start of the new academic year only three months away, Congress has not taken even the smallest step toward ending college deferments that President Nixon asked for April 23.

The Senate, where the proposal stands the best chance of passage, was thrown far behind in disposing of its regular work by protracted debates over Supreme Court nominations and the U.S. venture into Cambodia. Plenty of legislation with a higher priority than student deferments lies ahead.

The House has the time but apparently not the inclination. The key man is L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, who has been publicly wavering between positions for and against student deferments.

So far Rivers has not even promised he will hold full hearings on Nixon's bill to eliminate that provision of the draft law which guarantees a four-year deferment to any student satisfactorily pursuing a course of higher instruction.

(About 1.8 million young men currently hold such deferments.)

But it would be inaccurate to label Rivers as the obstacle. The President's principal lieutenant in the house, GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, let it be known recently he favors student deferments and until it is proved otherwise, opposes the administration bill that would do away with them.

Neither Republican nor Democratic reformers have demonstrated any inclination to pressure Rivers, even though the Armed Services Committee has been without any major legislation for more than a month.
