The Greenville firm had received a shipment of pianos and talk-ed the driver into leaving an extra instrument consigned to Washing ton. But the Washington firm said had to have it. So the plano was rushed to Asheville ,where police were asked to look for the driver who had had his truck repaired there. Asheville police understood the Greenville firm to say the piano was destined for the White House. A reporter picked up the story from

he police.
They couldn't find the truck driver. At last report, the plane had been taken back to Greenville. Yesterday the Asheville, Greenville and Chicago firms joined in saying they didn't know about any White House destination. And so did the White House itself.

Revised Census Leaves Texas With Net Gain Of 20 Per Cent A recheck in Washington of 1950 Texas attarct as many people from other states census figures produced a break for one

West Texas county. On the recheck, Runnels County picker up a net of 1,465, for a final total of 16,717. By the same token, Tarrant County lost 5.311 on the recount. leaving it with a hefty 353.846, while Dallas County lost 1.466 for a final figure

Overall, Texas lost 4.628 on the recount leaving the Lone Star State with a total 1950 population of 7,672,432. The gain between 1940 and 1950 was 19.6 percent Many counties either lost or gained by the recheck, but only by small numbers ande from those mentioned above. Taylor County, for instance, gained two for a total of 63,079 and Tom Green gained 12 for a total of $8,602.

The gain of nearly 20 percent for the decade should be a matter of pride for all Texans, though many of them were expecting a much higher total than the census actually produced.

The industrialization of the state accounted for a big shift in population from the farms to the cities, but it did not as might have been the case. The industrial development, however, is only in its beginning stages; once it hits its full stride, the state's population will really start expanding.

The Atomic Age had not yet influenced population shifts-a redistribution of industry-except to a minor degree. An abundance of natural resources plus a large reservoir of people capable of being trained for industrial jobs in a short period of time accounted for nearly all the industrial development of the past decade. .

But as decentralization really gets under. way, spurred by the threat of atomic war, Texas will gain more and more population, until in two or three decades it might well rank among the three most populous states. The atomic threat will affect New York, California, Illinois, Michigan, Pennslyvania and Ohio in particular - all rivals of Texas in the population buildup It will affect Texas none at all, due to its remoteness from warplane and guided missile launching points.

The Italian press Monday printed an unsubstantiated story to the effect that the Korean Reds were prepared to ask for terms, with China and India to serve

They may well furn out to be wellfounded; it would not be surprising if the Reds do ask for terms, to stave off utter and complete destruction; and it would be like them to ask that Red China and the Commonwealth of India, friendly to Russia, serve as umpires. However, the UN isn't likely to grant armistice on Red Korea's terms; it will consent to a cessation of

An armistice on UN terms, embodying all the major points demanded by UN would be desirable from the standpoint of saving the lives of UN soldiers; but unless it could be made certain that the terms would be fully observed by Russia and Red China, it might turn out to be a delusion and a snare, and more costly in UN lives, eventually than to smash the Red legion where they stand.

Some €ditors Feel Marshall Not The Only Man Available

Editors, in large majority, approve the selection of Geo. George C. Marshall to replace Louis Johnson as Secretary of Defense. But a considerable minority of editors dislike the idea for two principal reasons: (1) That Marshall is not so clear-'ly the only man fitted to be Secretary of Defense as to justify an exception to the law that no military official may hold this position until ten years after he has ceased to be in active military status, and (2) That the Asia policy of Marshall and Secretary of State Acheson, far more than the military economies of Johnson, invitad Red agression in Korea.

SALT LAKE CITY (Utah) Tribune (Ind.): "The shake-up in the Department of Defense was inevitable. Criticism, confusion and misgivings had pyramided until the house of cards was bound to fall . . In the past Americans have insisted upon a civilian as head of the department of defense. Nevertheless, the confidence which George Marshall commands should help to gather support in strengthening the strife-racked department. . If opposition to s professional soldier as secretary of deis the man to do it."

BOSTON (Mass.) HERALD (Ind): "The provision in the National Security Act limiting the secretaryship to a civilian who has not served in the armed forces for ten years is a recognition of the American tradition of keeping the top control of the military in civilian hands. If Marshall were the only man available for the post this tradition could well be suspended, but there are competent civilians who could be picked. The list include such men as Adlai E. in the South the situation rare-far as Congressional voting in concerned, no matter what changes there may be in the political climate elsewhere. From election to election the Democrats usually win somewhere between 114 and 118 seats in the South regardless of whether the party shows great strength outside the South, as in 1943 or 1936, or great weakness, as in 1946.

This one-sided Southern situation is what makes it so difficult for the Republican party to capture control of the House Starting with an assured back log of, say, 118 scats in the South the Democrats need pick up only 100 more seats from the rest of the nation to attain the 218 necessary for control of the House Since there are 313 seats outside the South, the Democrats have to win only a little less than one-third of the contest to get the necessary 100 seats to retain

If they were to match the performance of 1946 they would have to have 57 per cent outside the South, which in that year resulted in 239 Republican seats.

Railroading Is A Fine Display Of Teamwork And An Adventure

All my life I have been just a bit awed. by that business car which tags along occasionally on the end of regular passenger trains. Not so long ago, I stumbled into ar tunity to ride one of them-and I learned (or rather heard) more about railroading than I ever dreamed existed.

With ticket in hand, I prepared to board the Eagle. "Going our way?" asked W. T. Alexander, the T&P division superintendent, "How

It doesn't take a country boy long to accept an invitation like that. And so it was that I pulled up a comfortable chair, propped my feet on a handy rail and began really enjoying myself.

All the way to Fort Worth Bill Alexander gave that track and right-of-way the onceover twice. He seemed to know it better than I know my back yard. Nor did the general movement of the trains escape his attention. At each station, copies of the orders were delivered to him, and for the first time in my life I knew when train was going to slow and stop and why. I even knew when trains would meet us from the opposite direction. I knew why that long freight got to pull out ahead of us at Baird only to let us zip by further down the line. We made up the time and the freight, bucking a bad grade with a heavy load, couldn't have.

By watching the mile markers-those figures on poles and sticking out of bridges at fixed intervals mark the distance from Texarkana-I knew where our speed would be reduced while easing through construction workers.

J B. Shultz, supervisor of engineers came back frequently, and we kept tab on the "hogs heads," who didn't leave much room for quarterbacking from the rear that day,

Blocks-I heard about blocks until I was dizzier than usual. Always I had assumed that a block signal on a railroad was excily like a traffic signal on the street, I learned there are two kinds on the TaP, permissive and absolute. Under the permissive and under certain circumstance, the engineer may proceed cautiously. The absolute block means that he sits her down there and stays until the situation changes. These signals work off regular current but if power fails, instantly they switch to battery operation. Thus, the worst of weather doesn't wipe out the signal sys-

I found out also that railroad tracks are not just railroad tracks. The difference in weight of rail makes a difference in the ride. So does the rock ballast. And rock ballast wears out_under pounding of the iron house, leaving the road bumpy. Crossties wear and rot out, being renlaced periodically. Rails may become flattened at the joints from pounding of wheels. They have to be built back and machined to a perfect level. This is why the T&P is experimenting with welded rails that largely eliminate the joints.

During the day, as we watched the track pinch down to tiny thread and melt over the horizon, I saw and heard so may things that I was almost overwhelmed. Railroading is a tremendouly complex and fascinating operation. It is bulwarked by hundreds of rules for safety of patrons and employes and for promotion of safe, fast handling of traffic. Railroading is big, yet close attention must be paid to the smallest things less one upset the applecart, or an accumulation of little things eat into profits like a cancer. Yet, listening to Bill Alexander talk about his men-and the men talk about Bill Alexander-you realize that railroading on the T&P at least is a fige exhibition of teamwork between men with mutual respect and I suspect, a mutual sense of adventure.

Invasion Of North Korea May Produce An Asiatic Upheaval

CONTINUED SUCCESS OF THE POWerful United Nations offensive in South Korea will mean that ultimately the peace organization will have to face the dangerous question of whether its forces shall cross the 38th Parallel and occupy northern Korea.

One uses the expresion "dangerous question" advisedly. Invasion of northers, Korea could produce an Asiatic upheaval. And with the major powers preoccupied in the Far East, there might easily be an explosion in Europe, The UN goal, of course, is not only to smash the Red invasion of South Korea but to unite North and South Korea under one government, chosen by the people. So far as one can see now, that must call for temporary military occupation of GENERAL MacARTHUR'S CHIEF OF clear of entanglement? Well, for the very good reason that the European theatre is of much greater importance now than is East. Moscow certainly hesitate to commit vast strength to an Asiatic campaign at this juncture, Moreover, that's an argument that cuts two ways. The western allies certainly have no desire to get heavily involved in Asia at this junction. They are in process building their defenses in Europe against any upheaval there, and can't afford to weaken that effort.

The North Atlantic council at this moment has before it the American proposal for the defense of western Europe. Therefore one would expect the UN to hold the Korean program in leash, pending completion of the defense plans for maintaining peace in Europe.

Maintenance of a fairly equal balance of power in both East and West would seem to be essential if world war is to be the world today. Roy Norr, the publicist who made the American Tobacco Co. cry "uncle" in the famous "reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet" campaign, has been doing im-portant research on this point and reminds me that, when the British imported Hessian troops do their fighting, George Washington decided to undermine them with propaganda. Only Washington used more high-brow words than "propaganda," namely "exciting a spirit of disaffection and descriton." Anyway, Washington appointed a committee of propaganda ex-perts, including the three top men in the would-be nation -Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, and Benjamin Franklin, And they devised a plan whereby Congress offered every Hessian who would desert the British 50 acres of free land.

In short, the Hessians were invited to quit fighting and make their home in the United States. In addition, Benjamin Franklin wrote a propaganda letter, which was pure fiction and which he signed "Count Von Schaumburg," regretting that so few Hessians had been lost in the battle of Trenton, Naturally, the letter didn't make the Hessians feel too kindly toward their BritishGerman mastera.

On top of this, Franklin wrote a series of propaganda leaflets which were wrapped around quids of tobacco and smuggled into Hessian bands Net result of this propaganda

The farm system, perhaps not as widely flung as some others, is a good one and the best managing personnel available now proffered good Baytown and Brackenridge (San advise to fledgling Yankees.

So, with these reasons and others too numberable to mention, it would appear that New York's American league entry stands a mighty good chance of copping.

Leaving history out of it, the present Yankee team has compiled a Lopez lofted one of Al Sokolowski's good home-and-away record . . . good enough to win and their ability those except possibly Paschal. to rise to the occasion in necessary and crucial games has been proven

And although it's history — it is recent at that — last year's Yank club rose up to smack down the Red Sox in the final two games of the season to cop the pennant. This year may find the same thing happen-Maybe I'm prejudiced, but I am inclined to go along with the idea that better rounded personnel such as the Yankees possess, has the edge over individual stars like the Boston team. It truly is amazing how a collection of so many "stars" still can't find a winning combination.

Auto Workers Facing Layoff As Steel Short

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20, UR Walter Reuther, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union, says a number of automobile workers face layoffs because of an impending steel shortage.

A scarcity of steel is being eaused, Reuther said last night, by the Korean war and "the monopoly control of steel."

"The steel manufacturers say there is too much steel capacity but that they would build more plants, if they could amortize the cost over a five-year period," the UAW head said.

"I wish you could buy a house in five years," Reuther said as he attacked what he termed the "negative approach of Republican national leaders and industrialists." He added:

"If we could fight a peace like we Yight a war, we'd win for democracy all over the world. But when you ask for money for education and housing, the negative approach Republicans say 'we can't
