By TEX DEWESE

A bright spot in Pampa's fiscal situation is revealed in a study of records in the office of City Finance Director Stanley M. Chittenden.

In the five-year period of rising prices and relatively tight money since 1965, Chittenden has invested idle funds of the city which have earned interest totaling $579,130 as of July 2 this year.

That's more than a half-million dollars in "gray" picked up from funds invested in short-term securities until the money is needed for whatever the funds originally were designated. In other words, "idle funds" are those not immediately needed to meet city obligations. Pampa currently has 40 of these funds set up by law. Three years ago there were 50, but ten of them have since been placed in what is categorized as an inactive holding fund. These ten amount to only several hundred dollars, but they still draw interest.

The 40 active funds are those which are set up by action of the voters or city commission and have been designated for certain purposes such as capital improvements, street paving

The city finance director is directly responsible for them and, in Chittenden's case, apparently no time is lost in getting them invested and drawing interest until they are needed for their designated purposes.

Chittenden accounts for the $579,130 in interest earned from 1965 through the first half of 1970, this way:

In 1965 interest accumulated from idle funds was $38,734; in 1966 $49,293; in 1967, $83,243; in 1968, $141,431; in 1969, $177,907 and so far in 1970, $88,722.

The investments to earn this interest, according to Chittenden, are usually made in the form of U. S. Treasury Bills or U. S. Bonds and occasionally Government Agency Bills.

The finance director said at present the U. S. Treasury Bills are preferred because they lend themselves more readily to the city's cash flow.

Heaviest among the idle funds invested during the past five years are the $750,000 for a water treatment plant and the $369,000 for the city's share in widening and paving S. Cuyler and S. Barnes St., both approved by voters in 1966 bond elections.

These two funds have been drawing interest for approximately three years. The S. Cuyler and S. Barnes improvement is just now under way. The water treatment plant fund will be taken out of investment within the next year when work starts on that.

Because the money may be needed from these idle funds, Chittenden said, the maturity dates on city investments usually are not extended over a maximum interim of six months.

This, the finance director explained, allows analysis to be made more frequently of the cash flow and the projected requirements of money on hand to cover such items as current monthly operating expenses, is being used to pay the interest on the city's bonded indebtedness.

This, Chittenden said, helps to keep the city's tax levy at a constant or lower rate.

The five-year total of interest money collected from invested funds is only about $200,000 less than the city's total tax collection of $812,576 for the entire fiscal year of 1969-70.

The current tax rate is $1.72 per $100 of assessed property value. The money collected from fund investments, $579,130 over the five-year period would be the equivalent of one-year tax collections at a $1.40 tax rate.

There is another interesting note in the spread of interest rates the city has obtained on its idle funds investments since note in the spread of interest rates the city has obtained on 1965 to 6.049 per cent in 1969.

The interest has ranged all the way from 3.28 per cent in 1965 to 6.049 per cent in 1969 and 7.45 per cent in 1970, or nearly double what it was five years ago.

The records in the finance director's City Hall office reveal

Eggers Accuses Smith Of Hasty Judgement

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers Saturday accused Gov. Preston Smith of making "hasty, premature" judgments about charges of patient mistreatment at Austin State Hospital.

Eggers took Smith to task for a statement the governor made June 11, a few days after allegations of misconduct by hospital authorities were first raised by Rep. Don Cavness' D-Austin.

Smith said then that officials of the State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation were checking out the charges but had found "no evidence of wrongdoing."

"To the best of our knowledge at that time that was true," Smith said Saturday after the board released a 40-page report substantiating most of the charges.

"This report does prove there are some regrettable things wrong at the hospital," the governor said. Smith and board officials promised immediate action to correct the problems and prevent similar occurrences.

In a statement released by Eggers' Austin office, the GOP office seeker said "this once again points up the hasty methods used by Gov. Smith to solve problems of state and how he is sometimes forced to retreat from premature decisions.

"I wish the governor would refrain from making decisions that affect the lives and welfare of hundreds of mental patients before the acts are determined," Eggers said. "This kind of premature judgment, which is aimed at placating the public, unfortunately typifies the decision-making process of the Smith administration."

Cavness the legislator who brought the matter to public attention, commended the state MHMR board for the thoroughness of its investigation and plans for dealing with the problems they found.

"The recommendations in the report, are in my opinion, strongly needed," Cavness said.

State Rep. Edmund Jones, D-Houston, who appeared before the board to present additional charges Saturday, called the recommendations in the report

City and county officials urge citizens to use the city sanitary landfill, located northeast of Pampa, just beyond the Pampa Country Club. Direction to the city dump roads is well-marked.

Pet. 2 county Commissioner Vernon Watkins said Saturday county mowing machines are hampered by the excessive amount of debris left along county roads. Discarded gloves, hotwater heaters, iceboxes, chunks of concrete, and numerous other articles are dumped along side the road.

"We have picked up over 25 dumptruck loads of junk and carted it off to the dump before the mower could get in," Watkins said. "Sometimes the junk is hidden by high weeds and is not seen until the mower hits it and breaks off a blade. It seems the mowers are in a constant state of needed repair because of the debris."

Watkins added, "this results in quite an expense to the county... and to the taxpayer himself in the long run."

The city sanitary landfill is open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. It is closed on all holidays.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—A 28-year-old Dallas painter dangled screaming in pain for an hour and a half from a cable 225 feet up a television tower Saturday before a rescue squad could lower him to safety.

His partner H. L. Bingham of Cleburne, died when the cable to which they were attached suddenly spun out 25 feet of slack and the ensuing sudden jerk pulled him out of his safety harness. He fell 250 feet to the foot of the 1,030-foot tower.

The injured man, Harold Boley, fell 25 feet when the cable jerked but managed to hold onto his harness. He suffered a broken leg and was taken to Wichita General Hospital.

John Duncan of Fort Worth, foreman of the crew painting the KAUZ-TV tower, said

Boley and Bingham were attached to the cable, which in turn was wrapped around a winch on the ground.

While the men were being pulled up the tower, the cable became bunched on the winch. As the winch operator reversed the motor and started lowering them in order to untangle the cable, the 25 feet of bunched cable came loose at once and dropped the painters groundward to a jerking halt.

Duncan climbed the tower to help Boley immediately after the accident. A crew from the fire department helped him attach a second cable that lowered him to the ground 90 minutes later.

Bingham was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Jerry Hathorne Jr., Wichita County medical examiner.

Probe Reveals Vice At State Institution

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—State officials Saturday promised immediate action to improve conditions at Austin State Hospital following a documented report of sexual abuse and physical mistreatment of teenage patients and promiscuity, drinking and gambling among adult inmates.

"We must, and we will, act immediately not only to rectify the wrongs, but to set additional policies and reorganize where necessary to prevent such problems from ever arising again," said Gov. Preston Smith.

Smith praised the State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for revealing full details of their investigators findings and "not attempting to whitewash the charges" raised by legislators about the hospital.

The report substantiated accusations of alcohol use by some patients at the alcoholic rehabilitation center, numerous incidents of sexual relations between inmates and a number of specific cases of abuse of young patients.

— One 12-year-old deaf girl was handcuffed to a basketball goal post for more than 24 hours last December.

— A 16-year-old girl who became pregnant while at the adolescent center named a 19-year-old ward attendant as the father of her child. The girl said she had sexual relations with the attendant 50 or 60 times but that none of the incidents occurred at the hospital.

— Boys, aged-6 to 12, were sometimes tied outside for periods of 30 minutes to several hours during the winter and in rain without coats.

— Boys who ran away from one ward of the children's psychiatric unit were stripped when they returned and forced to "earn back" their clothes. The youths were visible to other patients and to female attendants.

— Youthful patients on the "token system" of rewards for good behavior are denied meals when they do not have enough tokens to "purchase" food. A doctor in charge said "no child lost more than 10 per cent of his body weight."

— Adolescent patients are sometimes stripped and placed in small "quiet rooms" for lengthy periods without furniture or bedding. One former employee told investigators some youths were left for periods as long as 30 days. Hospital officials said the patients involved were suicidal and would use clothing in attempts to kill themselves.

Names of patients and hospital workers were deleted from the report released to newsmen on the month-long investigation. The report said attendants involved in child fondling and cases of intercourse with patients have already resigned or been fired.

Board chairman Ward Burke of Diboll said most members of the hospital staff are dedicated and competent. But he warned that "those who do not serve right will be fired."

In his recommendations, acting Commissioner Earl Scott said room seclusion and removal of young patients' clothing should be permitted only on written orders of a physician. He said workers of the same sex should attend such patients.

"That's the only way to describe it. You're falling. You try to control the fall, but as a student it's hard to do."

Control does come later and sky divers begin to seek competition wherever it's possible. The Girlstown meet, an effort to raise money for the nearly three-year-old organization in Borger, is a big money meet for the sky divers, Alvin Feese, one of the co-ordinators for the meet said.

Prize money alone will total $1,000, and trophies will be awarded.

Feese said he already had 30 confirmations for the meet and that 137 had said they were coming.

"If we have half that many, it will be a big meet."

Two objectives will be served by the meet. Girlstown representatives said: to acquaint more people in the Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Kansas area with the work being accomplished at Girlstown in Borger, and, to offer any financial assistance to be gained from the meet to further the work at Girlstown.

Advance tickets have been distributed to civic organizations in the four-state area.

"Tell them to bring a blanket and binoculars," Flaharity said. "The skydivers are pretty small 7,500 feet off the ground."

Chase Nets $1,000 In Fines For Man

A 24-year-old Pampa man was released from county jail on bonds totaling $1,000 Saturday after being arrested about 1 a.m. on charges of driving while intoxicated and carrying a prohibited weapon.

According to police reports, Geary Ray Johnson, 213 Kentucky St., was arrested at North Hobart and 23rd Avenue after he led officers on a 90-mile-per-hour-plus chase down Hobart, from Francis Street to Crest addition.

Reports said the arresting officer had another car stopped at the corner of Francis and Hobart when Johnson's car passed at a high rate of speed. The officer gave pursuit, but lost Johnson in Crest addition.

Additional police units were sent to the area where Johnson was finally apprehended. Officers said he was placed under arrest on the intoxication charge. When he was searched, a 2 1/2 foot chain was found in his hip pocket.

Police said the chain had a handkerchief tied to one end to provide a padded handle for the weapon.

Johnson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace E.L. Anderson, who set bond at $500 on each charge.

County To Consider Hiring Auditor

Contracts for auditing, evaluation and engineering services head the agenda for a meeting of Gray County commissioners scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday in the county courtroom.

Commissioners are slated to discuss the hiring of Joel A. Plunk, certified public accountant, to perform outside auditing for the county. If Plunk is approved for the job, he will be hired at a fee of not less than $5,000 nor more than $6,000 per year.

Commissioners are also expected to approve an increased contract with Thomas Y. Pickett Co., tax evaluators from Dallas. The company evaluates property in the county for tax purposes. The previous contract called for a fee of $12,000 per year. The company is seeking an increase to $14,500.

Also on the agenda is the engineering contract to Merriman and Barber for engineering services on building the new county annex.

The contract calls for the engineering firm to receive nine per cent of the contract price of rebuilding the annex.

County Judge Sherman Lenning Jr. said although contract bids on the annex are not complete, the county would try to keep within the limits of insurance money received to rebuild the annex.

Also on the agenda is the setting of values for 15 parcels of land along Loop 171 east of the city. The state needs the land along a four and one-half mile stretch of the highway for right-of-way purposes.

Lenning said the county would set values and notify property owners as to how much they would be paid for the land.

City To Discuss Sale Of Water

Two contracts for the sale of Canadian River water will be considered by city commissioners at their regular meeting Tuesday morning in City Hall.

One will be a renewal contract with the City of Lubbock and the other a proposal for water sales to Cities Service Oil Co.

Other matters for consideration on the Tuesday agenda include:

Recommendations of the City Planning and Zoning Commission and setting of date for a public hearing.

Approval of 1969-70 seal coating program and authorization of payment for work.

Request of Floyd Stone to utilize public right-of-way for building improvements.

Second and final reading of ordinance establishing traffic control devices at Terry Rd. and Crane Rd. intersections on Primrose Lane and Linda Dr. at Chestnut Dr.

Agreement with Ralph Palmer to eliminate public hazard at 418-20 N. West St.

Approval of salary changes and payment of monthly bills.

as agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation participated in the meeting.

"I can't substantiate that report one way or another at this moment," the spokesman said. He said some sort of announcement might be pending.

The girl was kidnapped Thursday by a Negro gunman who took her and $60 from Gallagher's Gift Shop after Miss Murningham refused to change a $20 bill for him.

Shop owner Mrs. Gallagher, who was pistol-whipped but not seriously hurt, gave police a description which was used to create a sketch of the suspect.

The sketch circulated by police depicted a round-faced Negro man, 20 to 25 years old, wearing a mustache and goatee. He was wearing dark trousers, a yellow shirt and a straw hat when the kidnapping occurred.

The FBI and Michigan State Police were aiding the Lansing police in the investigation and search.

Murningham, who served as mayor of the state capital city from 1965 to 1969, maintained a vigil on a cot outside the office of Police Chief Derold W. Husby while the search for his daughter continued.

Pampan Incurs Neck Injuries After Dive

George Duke, 27, 1026 S. Gray, was listed in serious condition Saturday in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo after being transferred from Highland General Hospital late Friday with neck injuries suffered when he dived from a life guard stand into five feet of water at Marcus Sanders Memorial Pool, 438 Crawford about 7 p.m.

Duke reportedly struck the bottom of the pool and suffered a cracked vertebrae in the neck. Witnesses said he managed to get out of the pool under his own power before he passed out. He was taken to Highland General by Duenkel ambulance, and was administered emergency treatment for about an hour before being transferred to Amarillo.

Officials at the pool said Duke was not a life guard.

Keeler's Hubby Wins Divorce

KINGSTON-ON-THAMES, England (UPI)—James Levermore, 29, won a divorce from Christine Keeler, key figure in the 1963 Perfume sex and espionage scandal on the ground of desertion, court sources said Saturday.

The court gave Miss Keeler, 28, custody of the couple's four year old son. Miss Keeler did not contest the suit.

Levermore, an engineer, married Miss Keeler, a childhood friend, in a secret ceremony at a Reading Register Office in October 1964. They separated three months later.

John Profumo, Britain's war minister, was forced to resign his cabinet post in June, 1963, over his alleged association with Miss Keeler, who admitted having a simultaneous affair with Capt. Eugene Ivanov, former assistant naval attaché at the Soviet embassy in London.

OVER COFFEE cups one morning this week, I asked a friend, whom I knew shared a fondness for books of all types. "do you have any books with well-known quotations? I need some familiar quotations for a 'Little Gems' segment I have in mind."

"I just might have," she answered and went to her apartment next door. Within a few minutes, she returned with a well-worn edition of "The Best Loved Poems of the American People." She explained she had recently acquired several discarded books and thought this one might have just what I needed.

And it will have a special significance for you," she said. "Look on the fly-leaf."

On the inside cover was a name, address, the school name, telephone number of a former owner of the book: "Kim Wilson, 2145 Chestnut, Mo-9-9882, Robert S. Lee Junior High School, Pampa, Texas."

The former owner is now Mrs. Cecil Briley of Fort Worth and my daughter. The book apparently had been one she used several years ago in English classes at Lee.

In addition to supplying quotations for 'Little Gems,' the book had another significance. It was a link of love from the not-too-distant past into the present.

MARY AND PAUL Keim returned last week from a European Tour with a lifetime of happy memories, colored slides and movies. On the tour also were six other couples with whom Mary and Paul formed a happy, congenial group that took side excursions off the beaten tourist route.

The tour group was formed in Copenhagen and from there they went to Weisbaden, where they had dinner in an old-fashioned Beer Garden and sang to the accompaniment of an old-fashioned German Brass Band. They went on to Munich, reputedly the oldest town in Germany. They lunched in Rothenburg, a town bombed out during World War II, now fully restored to its authentic medieval period... with only a few imperceptible scars.

They visited Salzburg, where "The Sound of Music" was filmed... a city situated high up on a mountain and surrounded by a fortress built in 1077... also the target for bombers.

MARY KEPT a day-by-day diary of their trip so they could remember vividly each of the floating day's events. "Vienna was my favorite beautiful city. It has lots of history and we went sightseeing into the castles. They were beautiful. Some had been destroyed during war, but now they are restored... I was amazed by the amount of gold leaf used in the restoration. But Americans paid for the restoration through the Marshall Plan."

"We saw the Lapizan horses go through their paces. And the Vienna Woods were so dense. We had lunch high on a hillside resort looking down on them across the way."

"In Grinzling we went to a wine house for dinner. The way they tell you the wine is ready, they hang a cluster of grapes outside the door."

IT WAS in Graz, Mary and Paul and their new-found friends mixed with the natives and got off the beaten tour-path. They took a cable car to the top of an Austrian mountain where they joined a group of Austrian engineers, who were having a dinner party in an Inn.

In Venice, they cruised on gondolas... saw St. Mark's Cathedral... glassblowing artists at work... the Bridge of Sighs.

In San Marino, the oldest republic in the world, they learned that city's 85,000 citizens are communist-ruled. "It, too, is a beautiful city," Mary said. "It sits at sea-level and extends 3,000 feet above sea level right up the side of a mountain."

IN ROME, the Keims saw the famous fountains, the Sistine Chapel with its Michael Angelo ceiling. In Pisa, they climbed to the top of the leaning Tower, which moves only 1 millimeter a year, but that is enough, Mary said, to give you an odd, insecure feeling while you are in it. After Gonoa, Lausanne Switzerland, Lake Geneva and Dijon, they arrived in Paris where they went to the top of the Eiffel Tower.

AS ALL wonderful things must at some time, the tour came to an end with a farewell dinner in a British pub as the group broke up and went in different directions... but each with a special link to the other because of 22 days spent sharing wonders of the world.

POT POURRI: Al Doucette with his son, John, are leaving soon for London, England, where they will join Mary, who has been there since June and will bring her home later this month... Today, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be the longest days for Cathy Cochran, who is leaving Thursday, for a three-week stay in Rogency Park, London, England as the houseguest of Joyce (Mrs. John) McGausland and Carol (Mrs. James) Owensby parents... Carol and her young son plan to join Cathy later this month for a visit, too, in her parents' home... There's a handsome young escort waiting Cathy's arrival, Alan Brooks, with whom Cathy has been corresponding since she met him on his visit here last summer... Van Vanderberg and Olive Hills are in Oklahoma City this weekend attending an International China Painting Convention... Don and Ruby Salisbury have been visiting friends here this week... they're former Pampans, who are now living Shreveport, La... They go a way back cause they can remember when there was a Davis Funeral Home in the general vicinity of the M.E. Moses Store... until next week? d.e.w.

DR. GORDON BAYLESS... more than 50 years in ministry

Began Ministry In The Ozarks

By DON TURNER, News Staff-Writer

Born at the turn of a century that was to see America turn from an agricultural to a technological society, Dr. C. Gordon Bayless has experienced a life of close perspective on changing values.

For the past 51 years Bayless has been a minister.

Some of that time has been spent in Pampa. He was pastor of First Baptist Church from 1937 to 1942 and for the past three and one-half years has resided here doing full-time and interim preaching in area churches.

His work in Pampa covers little than a fifth of a ministry he started as a 19-year-old college student in the Missouri Ozarks.

When our country was rounding the turn into the twentieth century there was little of the spare time and mass communication there is today, Bayless said.

One event that helped fill both gaps was the revival. It was a town-wide affair that usually came in August when the crops were in.

"In those days a revival served two purposes," Bayless said. "The first was religious. Second, it was an opportunity for people to get together socially."

Of course the churches of the day did not bother too much with the issues contemporary religion has involved itself in.

"Economy, government, social problems—we didn't notice them," Bayless said. "We didn't know they existed until recently. We didn't preach about race relations or ecology. We preached for converts."

Though he didn't describe the preaching as "hellfire and brimstone," Bayless did say he thought the preaching was better in the pre-World War II years.

"They preached the Bible more than they do now," he said. "There was very little diplomacy practiced by the ministry."

"The best preaching I heard as a young man was a man who farmed during the week and rode into town and preached Saturday evening and all day Sunday."

He explained that by "all day" he meant the sermons were longer then, too.

"He preached from 11 to 12:30 or one o'clock. The people expected that."

A lot has changed in 51 years.

ROCK FOR ROYALTY WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's two daughters, Tricia Nixon and Julie Eisenhower, have signed up two rock groups from Canada to perform at a supper dance next Friday during the visit of Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

There will be 700 guests at the outdoor gathering on the south lawn of the White House. The entertainment will be provided by The Guess Who and by Gary Puckett and The Union Gap.

"You know our conduct is not what it ought to be," he said. "People don't blush anymore—about anything. That's not altogether bad because prudism can be a form of hypocrisy."

"What we have now is permissiveness. It's violations of the law...the courts. It's in sex. Kids living together on campus. People saying my life is my own. My life has never been my own and it never will be. We're born free moral agents, and we're all responsible to God."

"Freedom does not mean license to do as our instincts would lead us, to do. Real freedom comes from discipline of mind, spirit and body."

Migration to the cities has added to the problem, he said.

"People have so much time on their hands. They have so much to do in the city. So many people are doing it (the things that used to be considered wrong) that people are saying they guess there is really nothing wrong with it."

In light of these new problems such as student unrest, it's not uncommon to hear someone say our country is raising the best leaders it's ever had. Bayless said he had always gotten along well with young people, but he wasn't convinced yet that they would be any better at leading than their forefathers.

"I'd say they'd have to change first. When several thousand students can stand and not stop a few radicals, they are not going to be leaders."

"Two thousand of our 40,000 students at the University of Texas can disrupt the campus. Don't tell me 38,000 students can't stop them. It's to be seen whether we are growing the best leaders we ever had."

The situation is not hopeless.

Americans Still Optimistic In Spite Of Market Losses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More than 30 million Americans own stocks and collectively they have shared in the stock markets' loss of $300 billion in the last 18 months.

Nonetheless, according to Donald T. Regan, president of the stock brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, they remain overwhelmingly optimistic—especially those in "middle America."

Regan told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee Thursday that from January to June, small investors were flocking into the market, buying more than they were selling, and displaying "a long, strong backbone of confidence in this country."

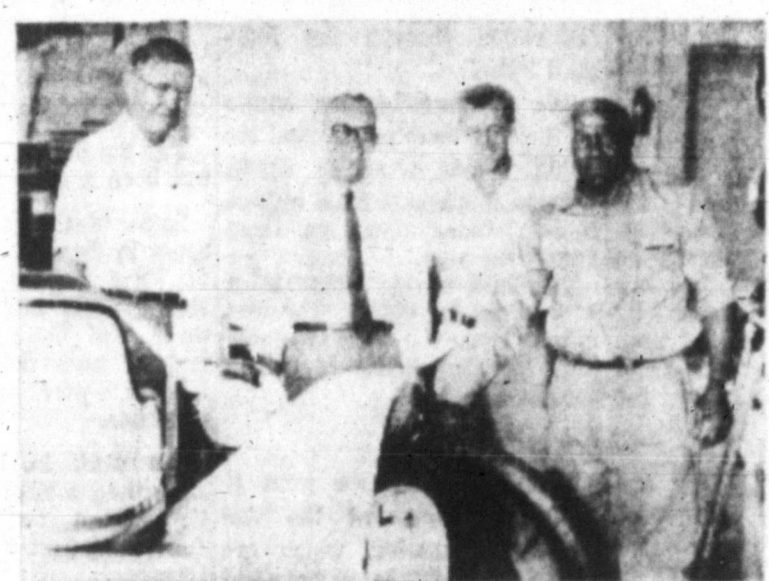

Excerpts from his testimony: "The confidence of which I am speaking, surprisingly enough, showed itself most strongly in the first few months of 1970. In the very period when the experts were most depressed, many investors in America were quite the opposite."

"From January through June of this year, Merrill Lynch opened a surprising total of 215,000 new accounts. We are opening them at an annual rate of 434,000—the same rate at which we opened them during the bull market of 1968, and about the same as last year as well."

"They simply called us up, or walked in. They know a little about stocks and bonds, but not very much. About 35 per cent of them were making the first investment of their lives in the securities market."

SQUARE DANCING: An activity going on each week which is reserved only for adults is square dancing. The Calico Capers Square Dance Club meets at the Center on each Saturday night except 5th St. nights from 8-11 p.m. They always have a guest caller and their hospitality to visitors is outstanding.

They give lessons twice a year at the Center and are open to all adults interested in this type of dancing. The club is a member of the Panhandle Square Dance Association. In addition to the Sat. night dances, they sponsor several big jamborees each year and host the district meetings occasionally. Why not come visit and learn more about square dancing some Sat. night.

SWIM LESSONS: For the benefit of those parents who have children enrolled in our swim program and do not know the dates, we have listed them below. Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL, Executive Secretary ARC

The Red Cross Board will meet in the Red Cross office Tuesday morning July 14th from 7 a.m. to 8 a.m. All members are urged to be present. Mrs. Jackie Marlar, Water Safety Instructor Trainer will discuss the swim program.

If you are a water safety instructor and are not working next week, come out to the city pool and help us. We are having such fun with our young children and Jen Snell, WSI for Beginners is going on her vacation. We really need some help if you can give one week of your time. Call 669-3814 or just come to the city pool Monday morning.

We have two more licensed vocational nurses at Highland General Hospital, who have completed their 10 hours work for Red Cross and are now wearing their LVN pins. They are Mrs. Juanita Brewer, 1232 Farley and Jo Hoggatt, 712 Doucette. These ladies made 50 ditty bags for the Red Cross. We are proud of them!

July is the beginning of a new year for Red Cross and it is the month for reports to our National Red Cross. By count our chapter has served 520 servicemen and their families during the year. We also have served 88 veterans and their families and several civilians who had no one else to turn to, making a total of 613 cases served this year. We sent 70 wires verifying the need of emergency leaves or extension of leaves. We also sent 296 reports to the military with baby births, death messages, and many other reports to the military. We loaned $1927.33 to servicemen and their families and the servicemen repaid $1638.00. Wasn't that fine? Most of our work with veterans was with the Veterans Administration in Waco. We made some loans to veteran families which were made as grants. Our Service to the Military is one of great importance and worth while. One is never turned away without trying to help in every way possible.

Let us again remind you of the Standard First Aid class that begins July 21st and will continue each Tuesday evening for 5 Tuesdays at 7 p.m. in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Make your plans to attend this important meeting. If our ambulance drivers need up dating, this will be a good time to take your class work.

The following passed their beginner class last week taught by Mrs. Frank Kelley and Mrs. Jack Hilton. They were Paula Hutchinson, Philip Henthorne, Martha Hilton, Kelly Staus, Timothy Ward, Sharon Ward, Paulette Albus, Tammy Lowe, Teresa Martinez, and Damirga Martinez and Sue Cook. Those who passed their Advanced Beginner under Jen Snell were Steve Nichols, Rhonda Tinney, Ruth Wood, Jeanna Dial, Jeff Gale.

Those who passed their Advanced Beginner under Dana Martin were: Steve Ayres, Kerry Blakeney, Sherry Blakeney Marvin Daugherty, Cheryl Lewis, Eddie Lowe, Troi Staus, Alisa and Kelly Thompson and Pam Homer.

Those who passed the Intermediate class taught by Betty Bailey were DeWayne and Dwight Dalrumple, Gayle McDonald, Carol Vaughn and Wayne Williams.

Beman, Massengale Tie In Milwaukee Tourney

MILWAUKEE Wis. (UPI)—Dean Beman of Bethesda, Md., charged into a tie for the lead in the $110,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament Saturday, firing a four under par 68 to go into the final round tied with scrambling second round leader Don Massengale. Massengale, Jacksboro, Tex., had more than his share of problems during the Saturday round—falling as far as three strokes behind at times and registering a two-over par 38 on the first nine. But he rallied on the final holes to finish with a 70 and a 54-hole total of 207.

One stroke behind Massengale and Beman was Jerry Heard, a second year pro from Visalia, Calif., and in fourth at 209—seven strokes under par—was Terry Dill of Austin, Tex. Bunched at 210 just three strokes off the lead, were Herb Hooper, Richland, Va.; Dick Crawford, Bella Vista, Ark., and Jack Lewis of Florence S.C. Beman was happy with his round that saw only one bogey mixed with five birdies. "I haven't played well all year, but I'm playing well now," he said. "Not as good as I can play, but I'm hitting some shots more and more each day, and I'm putting better than I have in three or four years."

Ideal weather conditions—sunny skies, temperatures in the 80s and only a light breeze—helped nearly two-thirds of the surviving field of 79 fire at par or better.

Massengale who had scores of 69 and 68 the first two days bogeyed two of his first three holes and then ran up a string of five birdies against a single bogey on the back nine to stay on top. "I putted poorly on the first nine—I wasn't too proud of my putting at that point," he said. "But then they just started falling in and things were a lot better."

Despite the fact that most of the top touring pros are in Scotland for the British open, the GMO field is finding par easy over the 7,135 yard North Shore Country Club course.

After three rounds forty-two of the 79 golfers were under par and 12 more were at even par.

Amarillo Girl Among Favorites In Tournament

DALLAS (UPI)—Defending champion Francis Collins of Amarillo will be among the favorites when the sixth annual Tournament opens Monday at Glen Lakes Country Club.

The tournament, for girls 17 years of age and under, is sponsored by the Dallas Times Herald.

Other contenders include Nancy Hager of Dallas, the champion in 1967 and 1968 who only last week was named to the U. S. Curtis Cup team; Karen Cox of Corpus Christi; Debbie Norton of Eufess and LuAnn Thames of San Antonio.

Qualifying medal play will be staged Monday with match play in four age divisions starting Tuesday.

Sanders Forces Playoff

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Flamboyant Doug Sanders blew a chance to win the British Open golf championship in regulation play Saturday by missing a two-foot putt on the last hole which left him tied at 283 with former winner Jack Nicklaus, forcing a Sunday playoff between the two Americans.

Sanders, a 36-year-old tour veteran from Houston, Tex., and Nicklaus, winner of the British Open in 1966, will wage an 18-hole playoff to decide the 1970 titleholder.

Nicklaus and Sanders both posted final round one-over-par 73s over the windy 6,951 yard, par-72 Old Course at St. Andrews to overtake Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., leader after the second and third rounds, who soared to a 77 in the final round.

Trevino wound up with a 285, tied or the runnerup spot with Harold Henning of South Africa who had a 76.

Defending champion Tony Jacklin of England, this year's U.S. Open champ, finished with a 76, his worst round of the tournament and wound up at 286.

Next best finish by an American was the 290 by Arnold Palmer, who finished with a final round of 74.

Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif., had a final round 75 and wound up at 293, same as Argentine Roberto DeVicenzo, 1967 British Open winner.

Sanders, who has never captured one of the four major titles in 14 years on the pro circuit, needed only a par four on the 18th to wrap up the title. But he missed the pressure putt from two feet out setting up the playoff. The playoff assures an American winner for the first time since Nicklaus' 1966 crown.

Following Jacklin's 286 were Brits—Neil Coles and Peter Oosterhuis at 287, Hugh Jackson of England at 288 and Australian Peter Thomson, a five-time winner of the tournament, in a group of 289.

Nicklaus was already in the clubhouse with his five-under total of 283 when Sanders strode up the 18th fairway. Obviously playing safe, Sanders was well short of the green with his drive but his pitch ran through to the back of the putting surface and left him a difficult downhill putt for a birdie.

As the huge crowd surrounding the green waited in anticipation to hail a new champion the Georgian left his approach putt woefully short.

Then a great sigh of disappointment rose when Sanders cracked under the strain and jerked his second putt to the right of the hole.

Nicklaus was the only man today to beat par over the front nine in a difficult wind, but the shot two bogies on the back nine for a 35-38-73.

Sanders, who had to pre-qualify for this year's championship, finished one stroke behind Nicklaus at Muirfield, Scotland, when the Columbus Ohio golfer won the 1966 Open. In 1961 one stroke separated him from U.S. Open winner Gene Littler at the Oakland Hills Club and in 1959 he finished runnerup to Bob Rosburg in the U.S. PGA.

Trevino, eight under par after three rounds and with a two-shot lead over Nicklaus, Sanders and Jacklin, cracked to lose six strokes to par over the first 17 holes. He then rapped in a 10 footer on the 18th green to tie Henning.

Hogan To Play In Westchester Golf Classic

HARRISON, N. Y. (UPI)—Ben Hogan forced to curtail tournament participation because of a knee injury, notified sponsors of the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic Saturday he will compete in the event July 30-Aug. 2.

The golfing great from Texas notified Fred Corcoran of the Westchester Classic Committee he would compete in the tournament to be played over the Westchester Country Club's West Course.

Hogan, whose last tournament appearance was in the Colonial Invitational at Ft. Worth, Tex., last May, will be making his first appearance in a tourney in the metropolitan New York area in five years.

"Reserve a room. I'll be there," Hogan told Corcoran, a personal friend and advisor.

Hogan's entry assures a top field which already includes defending champion Fran Beard, Arnold Palmer, Roberto deVicenzo of Argentina, Jack Nicklaus and Julius Boros.

Crowley Homer Lifts Baltimore To Victory

By United Press International

Terry Crowley, subbing for the injured Frank Robinson, snapped a 4-4 tie with a two-run homer in the eighth inning Saturday and lifted the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Crowley's homer, his second of the year, was the third two-run shot of the game for the Orioles and helped Mike Cuellar to his 11th victory. Cuellar, who was relieved in the eighth, belted one of the Orioles' two-run homers and Elrod Hendricks hit the other. All-Star catcher Bill Freehan tied the score 4-4 for Detroit in the sixth with his 12th home run.

Buddy Bradford's two-run homer and a solo shot by Graig Nettles helped Sam McDowell to his 13th victory of the season as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3-1. McDowell yielded 10 hits and struck out eight batters to give him the major league lead in strikeouts with 183.

John Donaldson tripled home three runs during a five-run first inning and Diego Segui scattered seven hits as the Oakland Athletics snapped a five-game losing streak by walloping the Milwaukee Brewers, 11-1. Felipe Alou and Frank Fernandez drove in two runs apiece for the Athletics.

In American League night action, New York was at Washington, Chicago at Kansas City and Minnesota at California.

WHEREVER BOBBY ORR goes, the crowds are sure to follow—even in the rough on the golf course (right). The Boston Bruins' star is the No. 1 hero of Canada's young sporting set.

Maravich, 21, told officers he was in Knoxville to attend the University of Tennessee sports clinic.

Police said he was released Saturday afternoon after posting $600 bond. A city court hearing was set for 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Taylor Triple Sparks Phillies To 10-4 Rout

By United Press International

Tony Taylor's two-run triple snapped a 3-3 tie and ignited a seven-run ninth inning Saturday that sparked the Philadelphia Phillies to a 10-4 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

In National League night games, Montreal was at New York, Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Cincinnati at Atlanta, San Francisco at Houston and Los Angeles at San Diego.

A single by Larry Bowa, an error and a fielder's choice preceded Taylor's triple, and the Phillies then collected two more hits and three walks off relievers Bob Rodriguez, Juan Pizarro and Milt Pappas to complete the rally.

The Phillies, who trailed 3-1 after six innings, scored once in the seventh on run-scoring triple by Bowa and tied the score in the eighth on a single by Taylor, an infield out and a double by Oscar Gamble.

American League Hopes To Better Record

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (UPI)—The beleaguered American League, winner of only one of the 13 All-Star games played in the '60s, will be bidding to snap the National League streak of seven straight victories Tuesday night in the 41st classic at Cincinnati's new Riverfront Stadium.

This game, featuring starting lineups picked by over two million fans in computerized balloting, will give the national television audience a good chance to see Cincinnati's new all-Astroturf field with the surface even in the infield. The Reds have been playing in the stadium only two weeks and workmen are still putting the finishing touches on it.

The fans picked their old favorites ignoring the current averages and only two of the National League's top ten hitters and three in the American League were named to the starting lineup.

The two managers—Gil Hodges of the New York Mets and Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles—will be getting their first chance to manage in an All-Star game and they named the pitchers and the rest of the squads. All-Star games are nothing new to Hodges, who batted .333 in six of them as a player—but Weaver never even played in the majors, much less an All-Star game. He was a coach last year.

Weaver is expected to start his ace—righthander Jim Palmer—against the National League starting lineup of seven righthanders and switch-hitter Don Kessinger. It'll be Palmer's first All-Star appearance and he'll have three days rest since he last worked on Friday night.

The American League, which held a 12-4 margin after winning the 1949 A.M.E., now trails 2-17-1 in the series. The A.L. lost 11 of the 13 games played in the '60s and battled a tie game in the second contest in 1961.

The series, originated as a brainchild of Chicago sportswriter Arch Ward in 1933, reverted to a one-game-a-year format in 1963 after the American League won its last game, 9-4 in the second contest in 1962 at Wrigley Field. Two games a year were played from 1959 to 1962 but the two games seemed to dilute interest.

Willie McCovey hit two homers last year at Washington to pace the N.L. to a 9-3 triumph.

Weaver, attempting to break the A.L. losing streak, said he'd only use three pitchers for three innings if they're effective. Besides Palmer, he's leaning towards Sam McDowell of Cincinnati, his own ace Tom Seaver and veteran Bob Gibson of St. Louis—for his starter.

pitchers to his staff. He left off relief specialists because he claimed there are too many good ones and it'd be unfair to pick and choose among them.

The Baltimore manager named his three leading starters—Palmer, Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally—along with Stottlemyre and Fritz Peterson of New York, Jim Perry of Minnesota, Clyde Wright of California, Jim Hunter of Oakland and McDowell.

Hodges is expected to pick from a trio of righthanders—rookie Wayne Simpson of Cincinnati, his own ace Tom Seaver and veteran Bob Gibson of St. Louis—for his starter.

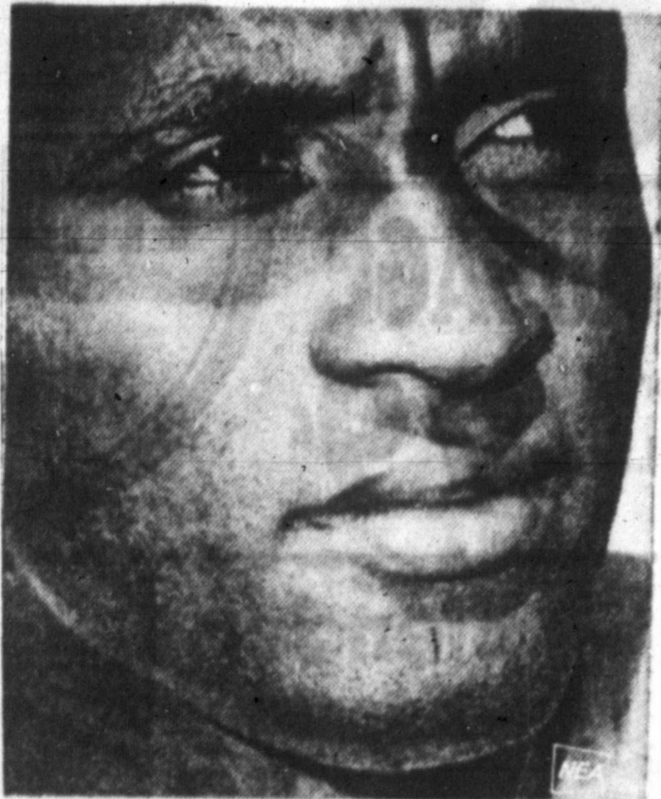

Murtaugh's Pirates Going Like '60

By MARTY RALBOVSKY
NEW YORK (NEA) — As far as commandering national attention goes, the Pittsburgh Pirates are no match for the New York Mets, but they are doing better than, say, Halley's comet, which comes around once every 76 years. The Pirates come around once every 10.

It was in 1960 that sporting America last focused its attention on the sleeveless men who played their baseball on the banks of the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio Rivers in a venerable ball yard called Forbes Field. The Pirates won the world Series that year, beating the New York Yankees in seven games, and then floated out for nine years of celestial slumber.

Three presidents and three baseball commissioners later, in midseason of 1970, the Pirates reappeared in the high heavens of the National League standings but, like Halley's comet itself will discover in 1986, a lot of things have changed since the last visit. The Pirates are chasing the Mets now and back in 1960, you might recall, the only Met fans in New York were applauding Lacia de Lamermoor, not Hobie Landrih.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE

anybody noticed them. Danny Murtaugh, 52, his left cheek bulging with tobacco, his face smudged with the charcoal of Forbes Field itself has inhaled its last paying customer, are the only remaining relics of that October day nearly 10 years ago when the steel mills stopped spewing smoke and men came up from the coal mines to celebrate in the streets the world championship.

(294 with the Pirates) and in 1960, of course, his best year on the front steps of dugouts.

Considering this, one might conclude that the 1970 Pirates already have their natsals and their aspects in proper working order, not to mention their moods and postures. But Murtaugh, speaking through teeth blackened by chew, claims no astrological advantages and does not, like this Pirate team, horoscopically or otherwise, to his team (1960).

"The two teams," Murtaugh said, "are not really alike. We did have some good, young players back in 1960 and we do have some more this season. But our pitching may have been a little stronger back then, especially from the bullpen. Myself? I'm happy to be back but I really can't predict anything. No, this isn't like 1960 at all. Some of the kids on this team were just babies then."

Clemente, 36, somehow survived the previous decade despite, not necessarily in order, stomach aches, broken fingers, back aches, excess nervousness and insomnia. He has been called the game's leading hypochondriac and in this, his 16th season with the Pirates, he is leading the team in hitting — and hurting — again.

traction before games to ease the pain. My back is all right and I've been sleeping all right, but the neck? It's still there, but that's about all I can say for it."

Mazeroski, 33, is perhaps the Pirate most remembered from 1960. It was his home run in the bottom of the ninth inning of the seventh game that won the World Series. Last June, he pulled a thigh muscle in his left leg—his first serious injury in 14 Pirate seasons—and did more sitting than playing the rest of the season.

Now he even has a caddy, a young man named Dave Cash, who takes his place at second base sometimes in the late innings and sometimes when his legs ache for a rest.

"It's not like I'm 23 any more," Mazeroski said. "The older you get the more you feel it. Someday it'll all end and, when that day comes, I'll accept it. Meanwhile, I'll just keep doing the best I can. One thing nobody will ever take away from me is that home run in the '60 Series. That's still the big moment for me. You know, a most every day, somewhere, somebody reminds me of it? Even today..."

After the All-Star break, the Pirates will be playing in new Stadium. After the final game at 66-year-old Forbes Field, Clemente asked if he could have the word "Pittsburgh" and the No. "21" (his own) from the scoreboard there. The club obliged.

Dream World Is Enshrined

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (NEA)—The town itself is a harmless little hoax. Streets are broad and lined with shading elms and horse chestnut trees and the homes are tidy and there is a most pure, placid lake. There are no Vietnams here. No race wars. Hardly even inflation. It is still the 19th century here and one fully expects that, to get out of town, you still go eight miles by steamboat across Lake Otsego and then seven miles to Richfield Springs by trolley.

To sports fans, this upstate town is best known for the Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum and, until recently, was generally accepted as the "Birthplace of Baseball," as it says in local revealing talk with. But the claim has been dispelled, even by Hall director Ken Smith, who said that "They made a mountain out of a molehill."

So one approaches the Hall of Fame as one might approach North Pole, N.Y., with "Santa's Workshop" after a long, revealing talk with one's dad, or as one approaches the local home of James Fenimore Cooper after reading Mark Twain's essay, "Fenimore Cooper's Literary Offenses." ("There have been daring people in the world who claimed that Cooper could write English... was one of Twain's milder remarks.)

Baseball itself is a dream world, which would be a delightful recreation if it had not been corrupted by big business and bigotry. Corruption has not sunk in in Cooperstown, however.

Outside there is a statue of a boy in large straw hat and bib overalls and bare feet with incongruously what looks like a snazzy Louisville Slugger. The statue is entitled, "Sandlot Kid." This sets the tone for the museum, which is dedicated a period long gone. When baseball was supposed to have been invented, in 1839 by Ab. Doubleday only a few years from the statue, almost 95 percent of the country's population was rural. Now, almost 90 percent of the population is urban and for them, there precious few sandlots left.

Actually, no one knows baseball's origin. Some historians have marked the beginnings in Pharaoh's Egypt.

But even in the museum here there is a painting of youngsters playing "rounders" in 1802. "Some rules changes were made here," said Smith, "like bringing second base in from center field to its present position. And so they attributed the invention to having happened here, and, well, Doubleday became a famous Civil War general, so they said he was the inventor." And Doubleday's Army footlocker is not far from Lou Gehrig's baseball locker.

The displays are a joy to the baseball lover and he can swim in his own nostalgia. Koufax's no-hit balls, Ty Cobb's withered glove, a photograph of Honus Wagner and his look of "impeccable optimism," as Poet Marianne Moore described it.

Also in the museum is the uniform of the outdated 1869 Cincinnati Red Stockings and, shamefully for greedy baseball, the already outdated 1969 uniform of the Seattle Pilots.

The Hall of Fame with its revered plaques is set in an impressively austere, columned corridor. And how the great men of the game have changed for the man who was last here as a boy. You know now that Grover Cleveland Alexander was an alcoholic, that Cap Anson was a racist, that Babe Ruth's famous "bellyache" was actually a case of venereal disease. Yet you are touched by old favorites, by the memories of the effortless DiMaggio, the electric Williams, the daring Jackie Robinson.

And seeing Robinson and Roy Campanella, the lone blacks enshrined, one is reminded of Ted Williams' acceptance speech into the Hall in 1966: "... Baseball gives every American boy a chance to excel. Not just to be as good as someone else, but to be better. This is the nature of man and the name of the game. I hope that some day Satchel Paige and Josh Gibson will be voted into the Hall of Fame as symbols of the great players who are not here only because they weren't given the chance."

Last year more people than ever, over 190,000, visited this out-of-the-way Hall in 19th-century Cooperstown. "They come in a pilgrimage, so to speak," said Smith. "Some people have said, 'Why not move it to Fifth Avenue in New York, or Michigan Boulevard—or even O'Hare Airport—in Chicago, where millions can come and see it?'"

"But the Hall should stay here. I think this is a typical location of the grass roots of baseball. It's more charming."

Couple Exchanges Candlelight Vows

Vicki Elaine Keen was united in marriage with Ronald Dean Calloway in an 8 p.m. ceremony in the First Baptist Church Saturday. The Rev. M.B. Smith officiated as the couple exchanged rings and repeated their vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Keen, 1008 Terry. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Calloway, 1823 N. Nelson.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a formal floor-length gown of peau de soie designed with a scoop neckline, empire waistline, A-line silhouette and long tapered sleeves. Inserts of Alencon lace enhanced with sequins complimented the bodice and skirt of her gown. An attached chapel train was adorned with inserts of Alencon lace.

The bride's three-tiered veil of imported illusion fell from a lace embroidered coil with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white Phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis with ivy and satin streamers.

ATTENDANTS

Dana Followell, the maid of honor, and Sonya Keen, the bride's sister, as bridesmaid, were both dressed in floor-length empire A-line dresses of mint green dotted swiss accented with short belled sleeves. They carried colonial bouquets of white feathered mums on a lace background with white satin streamers.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Calvin Calloway of Canyon, with Rodney DeMoss of Canyon, the bridegroom's cousin, as groomsmen. Mike Keen, the bride's brother, and Jim Royse of Canyon seated wedding guests.

Organist, Miss Eloise Lane, played a medley of romantic songs for wedding selections and accompanied vocalist Terry Scoggins as he sang "Til I Walk Beside You," "Til," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a two-piece suit of green knit with white accessories. The bride's mother wore a two-piece pink knit suit with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

For the ceremony, the church was decorated with an arrangement of white mums accented on either side with candelabra entwined with salal foliage. The chancel rail was decorated with salal foliage and lighted tapers. The pews of honor were marked with white satin bows.

RECEPTION

The church parlor was decorated with a table covered with a white satin floor-length cloth and centered with an arrangement of white mums in a silver epergne with white tapers.

Children Mail Anti-Litter Letters To Help Clean 'America's Floor'

NEW YORK (NEA)—The nation's young children recently entered a national contest to combat litter via letters. A free trip to Disneyland was thrown in to spark enthusiasm.

One letter began, "We are supposed to be the ones with the brains but we sure aren't using them. They're complaining about higher taxes to have all this cleaned up. There should be higher fines and longer sentences in jail for these people."

That letter was from 11-year-old Rick Fidelityment of Gurnee, Ill., addressed to television comedian Henry Gibson on the subject of littering.

Thousands of school children wrote to Gibson in a national "antilitter" letter contest. "People who would dirty up their country this way have no sense of civic pride," was the view of Bernadine Bauer, a sixth grader in Marienville, Pa.

"If a policeman stopped all the cars at every mile and made people turn around and pick up all the trash, they would be surprised how much had been scattered," said fifth-grader Cheryl Vocu of Joliet, Ill.

Gibson, a star of "Laugh-In" and a dedicated little fighter in his own right, judged the letters and played host to the national winner. His final selection was 8-year-old Tina Marie Saxton of Streator, Ill. "I think everybody should clean up America," Tina wrote, "just like my mother cleans house."

"We don't throw litter on our floors at home," she concluded, "so we shouldn't throw it on the ground. That is America's floor."

That statement of antilitter sentiment whisked Tina, her mother, her sister and her 9-year-old brother off on a trip to so-called Beautiful Downtown Burbank, Calif., to visit Gibson and to spend a day at Disneyland.

More than 60,000 school children from first grade through high school entered the contest. The youngsters agreed that they themselves can contribute a lot to the antilitter effort.

Fifth-grader, Scott Dawkins, Memphis, Tenn., had a specific if somewhat longwinded example. "How can children help?" he asked rhetorically. "Every time they go to a store to buy something, so as candy, and they eat it, they throw it on the ground, they should wait till they get home to throw it away."

A Tampa, Fla., sixth-grader, Lucinda Miller, put the situation on a higher plane.

"God has to look at it all she observed, "and we on have to look at parts. Just this of what he has to look at. Would you like to stand over all it?"

Gibson, who has written antilitter poems that are used by Keep America Beautiful, described the contest, sponsored by glass container manufacturers, as an effort to tune kids in to themselves, to their pride, to get them involved before they're beyond involvement, to let them know they are our hope.

Sandbox Climber Keeps Tot Busy

Frazzled moms, here's a way to keep the tots on the lot happy and busy on long Summer days.

Persuade the handyman to build a simple sandbox with a "jungle gym" for clambering on and hanging from.

The sandbox is made from four pieces of 2x10-inch western lumber, preferably heart cedar. Corners may be mitered or simply butted. Put a bottom on the box and keep it filled with sand, or stake the corners firmly into the ground to prevent any danger of collapsing.

Three-by-three or 4x4-inch fir or pine frames the jungle gym. Be sure they are firmly bolted or nailed to the box. The frames should be braced with a gusset 18 inches apart to give the dowel rungs stability. Each upper corner of the frames should be braced with a gusset or L-bracket.

Set 1 1/2-inch dowels into the framework and then nail or screw each rung to prevent slipping.

A tarpaulin or heavy plastic cover will keep moisture and animals out of the sandbox when it's not in use.

Your Horoscope JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, JULY 12 YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY:

Your intuitive talents come into play this coming year. At times your path is quite clear and needs only diligent effort, at other times rash impulses take over. In the first half of the year it is difficult to get any new projects going. Today's natives make their own rules as they go. They are industrious and often interested in occult subjects.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This is a time for simple good manners, deeds rather than talk. Differences of opinion can become serious—abandon such discussions. Keep the evening for reflection.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do your share in your community's expression of faith. There may be considerable excitement over a misunderstanding early in the day. Wait for the whole story.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You will share in a general discussion covering all sorts of questions. Sentiments may be expressed too strongly; make allowances while not replying in kind.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Mind your own affairs this Sunday, refusing to be drawn into schemes organized by people you don't know very well. The evening is better spent in earnest study.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Transactions made today have little guarantee. Anything secret is almost certain to come into later dispute. Your tactful approach will be remembered.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): This Sunday involves much doing and going. Friends feel that you are being overly sensitive, but the final results are hopeful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It may seem to you that some imbalance, some injustice has to be corrected. Right now is not quite the time to do it. You will need all evening to prepare for tomorrow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Any emotional anxieties expressed today draw over-reactions. Care and courtesy are essential now. Start later and use slower methods wherever you can.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make no promises this Sunday—just cope with every minute as you get by. Excesses are to be avoided. You have more friends than you realize.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Close associations require caution and consideration. Your naturally thrifty tendencies are not always helpful. Be amenable to suggestions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Think about your own welfare now, instead of getting involved with other people's obligations. Letting well enough alone improves your répute and situation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): This Sunday brings results different from expectations; quite a lot of it rather favorable. The atmosphere surrounding chronic issues clears.

MONDAY, JULY 13 YOUR BIRTHDAY MONDAY:

Quiet new beginnings characterize the coming year. Your enterprises all build steadily, through trial and error. Everything depends on your inner spiritual growth and your store of energy. Long-range goals which are incompletely formulated are all right if you are in line with your own inner guidance. Monday's natives need family stability as they are usually in disagreement with some authority.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Much co-operation is available if you will calm down and ask for it reasonably. Get your workweek off to a good beginning with normal, businesslike habits.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): An early start and steady pace produce surprisingly good results. Take an occasional break to check for any new error. There is something to celebrate in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Rearrange your financial affairs, our own creative drive is your main resource Monday. Older people can be very helpful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Family life Monday tends to encounter added costs. Concerns of older people are susceptible to novel solutions. Your creative projects come in for unplanned use.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Proceed evenly despite some tension over work and travel arrangements. Good humor is essential now. The evening provides opportunity for learning new skills.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Now every friend has his own exacting ideas. Let no difference grow into squabbling. Give neglected billing, appointments high priority.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Caution is advised on large purchases and major financial arrangements. Much progress can be made in creative endeavors. Social activity increases.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The temptation Monday is to take too much for granted. Don't miss any regular contact. A great deal is gained in pursuing routines dependably.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Observation brings you helpful information. Working conditions are subject to change. Anything you do is apt to bring dissent; take a constructive—moderate course.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can make real headway Monday despite much discussion and potential disagreement. Just work and keep calm. The evening may bring minor celebration.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Several new career opportunities present themselves. Family arrangements are open to revision. Correspondence should be attended promptly.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Intelligent counsel, better long-range planning are important Monday. The evening brings a different pace and a new development among your friends.

NOT ELIGIBLE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)— James Pane, 22, stripped down to his shorts and undershirt, stood in line with some 50 other men at the YMCA Tuesday waiting to take a physical examination for appointment to the Police Department.

At that point, four police detectives walked in and arrested Pane. He was charged with armed robbery of a dairy store.

OBSERVATORY CLOSING

HOUSTON (UPI)— The observatory atop the 44-story Humble Building will close Sept. 1 because the number of persons who visit the observatory has declined. In 1965, its busiest year, 182,000 persons visited the observatory.

Bank Balance Casts Final Vote To Determine Wedding Expenses

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn. One of the few major expenses in life that probably nobody ever budgeted adequately for is a wedding. On the scale of inevitability, marriage must rank right after death and taxes, but, as a financial morass, its extent is rarely recognized.

This is probably because an ordinary marriage could easily cost less than a parking ticket in some cities. A few bucks for a license, and a few more for blood tests will pave the way to the preacher whose heart is likely to be gladdened by almost anything more than $25.

But what a barebones ceremony costs is hardly the point. Conspicuous consumption is never more conspicuous than in the marrying process. There is simply no limit to what a wedding can cost if the determination is there.

Practicality usually takes hold somewhere in the process, however. Economic, ethnic and geographic differences color the decision but the bank balance usually casts the deciding vote.

By most estimates, the typical wedding day will cost close to $2,000. It may range from $500 in a rural town, to $4,000 in a socially oriented suburb, but the tab is apt to be still considering that it covers only a single performance of an ill-rehearsed production.

Most of this expense is footed by the father of the bride. He can expect to pay for the engagement party (if any), invitations, floral decorations, bridesmaids' bouquets, fees for everyone from minister to sexton, and perhaps rent for the church.

He will also be expected to pay for the bridal consultant, the wedding gown, the bride's trousseau, gifts for the attendants, photographs and the reception.

The bridegroom's expenses include the engagement and wedding rings, the license, gifts for the best man and ushers, flowers for his mother and mother-in-law, boutonnières for the males in the party, and the bride's bouquet.

He will also pay for his bachelor dinner, ushers' gifts, a clergyman's fee and for the honeymoon.

A wedding is a unique financial problem for most households. In theory, its cost can be totally controlled. In practice, some families have found their bank accounts stripped and themselves in hock for several thousands of dollars.

The only practical approach is for the bride's family to set a maximum expenditure and plan in reverse. A simple budget will highlight all the basic expenses and indicate the amount remaining for other outlays.

If a bridal "consultant" is retained be sure she is given a clear indication of the maximum amount to be spent. The very fact that bridal consultants exist is testimony to the institutionalized nature of the spending involved. Many are employees of stores with a vested interest in seeing that economy isn't carried too far.

Nuptial Ceremony Unites Miss Jennings, Joe Hale

Brenda Jo Jennings pledged single-ring marriage vows with Joe Vernon Hale in a June ceremony in Highland Baptist Church. The Rev. M.B. Smith officiated for the evening service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Jennings, 716 Doucette. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold V. Hale, 932 S. Banks.

The bride given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal, wore a white dotted swiss dress with empire waistline. The floor-length formal gown was designed with fitted cuffs and wrist-length puffed sleeves.

In the wedding tradition she wore a blue garter for something blue, a pair of clear rhinestone earrings for something borrowed and for something new a necklace given to her for a wedding gift. In her shoes her something old was old pennies minted the years she and the bridegroom were born.

Her fingertip veil of illusion with three tiers down the back was attached to a circular center of white dotted swiss. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white feathered carnations.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. June Hardin was matron of honor with Miss Bonnie Jennings, the bride's sister, as maid of honor. Both were dressed in yellow and white dotted A-line sort dresses and carried yellow and white killian daisies for their bouquets.

Best man was Steve Bohlander of Arcadia, Kans., with David Hale the bridegroom's brother, as groomsmen. Ushers were Michael Jennings, the bridegroom's brother, and Chris Johnson, both of Pampa.

Mrs. Doris Goad, organist, played "The Wedding March" for the recessional and "Trumpet Air" for the processional and accompanied Mrs. Ann Winegart as she sang "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Two baskets of white gladiolas with yellow and white killian daisies accented both sides of the altar on which was placed the white kneeling bench.

RECEPTION
For the reception in the Pioneer Natural Gas Company Flame Room the table was accented with three candles in a silver candelabra, yellow and white daisies and yellow tapered candles.

The three tiered white cake with white sugar bells on top was served by Mrs. Linda Hale, with Mrs. Carolyn Simmons assisting at the punch service. Miss Tonya Hester registered guests.

For the honeymoon to Tulsa, Okla., the bride traveled in an aqua and white striped A-line sleeveless dress with yellow roses and white carnations from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1970 Pampa High School graduate. The bridegroom is employed at a Tulsa supply company.

Hostesses for a shower in the Flame Room were Mrs. Nell Vaughn, Mrs. Inez Powell, Mrs. Clara Cole, Mrs. Betty Hester, Mrs. June Hardin, Miss Becky Cole and Miss Tonya Hester.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. W.A. Logan, the bride's grandmother, and Mrs. L.J. Waldrup of Chickasha, Okla.; Mrs. George Newman, Joe Logan, Stephen and Dennis Logan of Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jennings, Ricky, Donald, Susan and Teresa, all of Moore, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jennings, and Darrell of San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams, Beth and Jim of Perryton; and Mrs. and Mrs. Morris Driver, Christy and LaBrenda of Lamar, Colo.

BOWEN-HILD

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband must entertain his business contacts very often. There is one couple with whom we go to dinner frequently. The wife chews ice like a teen-ager with bad manners. That is bad enough, but she'll "suck" the ice and spit it back into her empty glass, and the sound of that ice against her teeth and back into that empty glass simply drives me up a wall! Is there any way I can let this woman know that this irritates me? I don't want to hurt her feelings.

EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: Does your husband buy from her husband? Or does he sell to him?

DEAR ABBY: I need your help in handling a very touchy situation. I recently visited my cousin in another state. She proudly showed me a very lovely family album which she said took her "months" to put together.

through it, I was flabbergasted to see some pictures of our family I hadn't seen in over 40 years!

I remembered having seen them last in my mother's family album, and I recall that after a large family gathering my mother was heartsick to discover that many of her precious pictures were "missing."

Now I see the "missing" pictures in my cousin's album. My cousin's mother is now deceased and so is my mother.

I know that these are the priceless pictures that were taken from my mother's album. They rightfully are mine and I would like to have them. How can I mention this without casting ugly reflections?

NAMELESS NATURALLY
DEAR NAMELESS: You can't. Ask your cousin if you may "borrow" the pictures you want in order to have them reproduced. (Shop around for photographers who specialize in restoring and duplicating old photographs.) Then return the originals to your cousin.

DEAR ABBY: I know this doesn't rate as one of the biggest problems in the world, but if you would bring it to the attention of your readers, a lot of cab drivers would love you for it.

Many people will call a cab, and they'll leave before the cab arrives. This is discourteous and costly to the driver as it could tie him up anywhere from five to 20 minutes looking for the person who ordered a cab, but left before it got there.

I realize there are times when people have to leave before their cab arrives, but it takes only a minute to call back and cancel the cab.

CABBY: MADISON, WIS.
DEAR CABBY: I'll pass the word on. But how about the person who orders a cab, is told it will be there in "10 minutes"—and after waiting 45 minutes he's so irritated he doesn't feel like spending another dime to cancel it?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "D" IN KOKOMO: A woman who constantly checks up on her husband "doesn't make him more faithful"—just more careful.

Slow-Up in '60s
The 1960s produced six percent fewer housing starts than the '50s, figures from HUD indicate. The count for the '60s: 9.1 million single-family houses, 5.1 million apartments.

Adding a room is the biggest type of home improvement in America, in dollar volume, avers one research bureau: Upwards of 1,250,000 homeowners invest over $2000 each in add-on space in a year's time.

Donna Lynette Bowen

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lowe, 117 E. Francis, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Donna Lynette Bowen, to Fred S. Hild, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Willis, Mineral Wells. Wedding vows will be pledged Aug. 20 in Fellowship Baptist Church. Miss Lowe is a 1968 graduate of Pampa High School and attended one and a half years at Frank Phillips Junior College where she majored in secretarial science. She is employed as a secretary at Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. Her fiance is a 1965 graduate of Pampa High School and is a sophomore pre-med major at Southwestern State College at Weatherford, Okla. He served four years in the United States Marine Corps, including 13 months in Viet Nam. He is employed this Summer with a sheet metal and roofing company.

Americans spent $900 million more last year for upkeep and improvement on residences than in 1969, the U.S. Census Bureau estimates. This boosted the 1969 total to $13.5 billion.

Finland has five saunas per square mile, a statistic that will probably never be matched in America.

Most widely used species in structural lumber are Douglas fir and kiln-dried hemlock, states a family magazine.

Patricia Glover Exchanges Vows With Daniel McNeil

WHEELER (Sp)—Patricia Georgiana Glover became the bride of Daniel Morris McNeil in a double-ring ceremony in June. The Rev. J. Wade Griffin, former pastor of the United Methodist Church in Wheeler and now pastor at Muleshoe performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Ralph M. Glover of Muleshoe. Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNeil of Muleshoe are parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Nelda Finely of Muleshoe played the piano as Miss Brenda Jones of Needmore sang "A Time For Us" and "More".

Candies were lighted by Steve and Mike Glover.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of off white peau de soie with a white lace panel extending down the front of the gown. It featured lace bell sleeves and a stand up collar. She wore a shoulder length veil of white illusion and carried a bouquet of orchids and daisies.

Maid of honor was Miss Kay Wilhelm of Irving. Bridesmaids were Miss Debbie Glover, sister of the bride, and Miss Pam Morphis of Muleshoe. They wore street-length gowns of blue, hemmed stitched pique with bell sleeves of the same fabric. They each carried a nosegay of daisies.

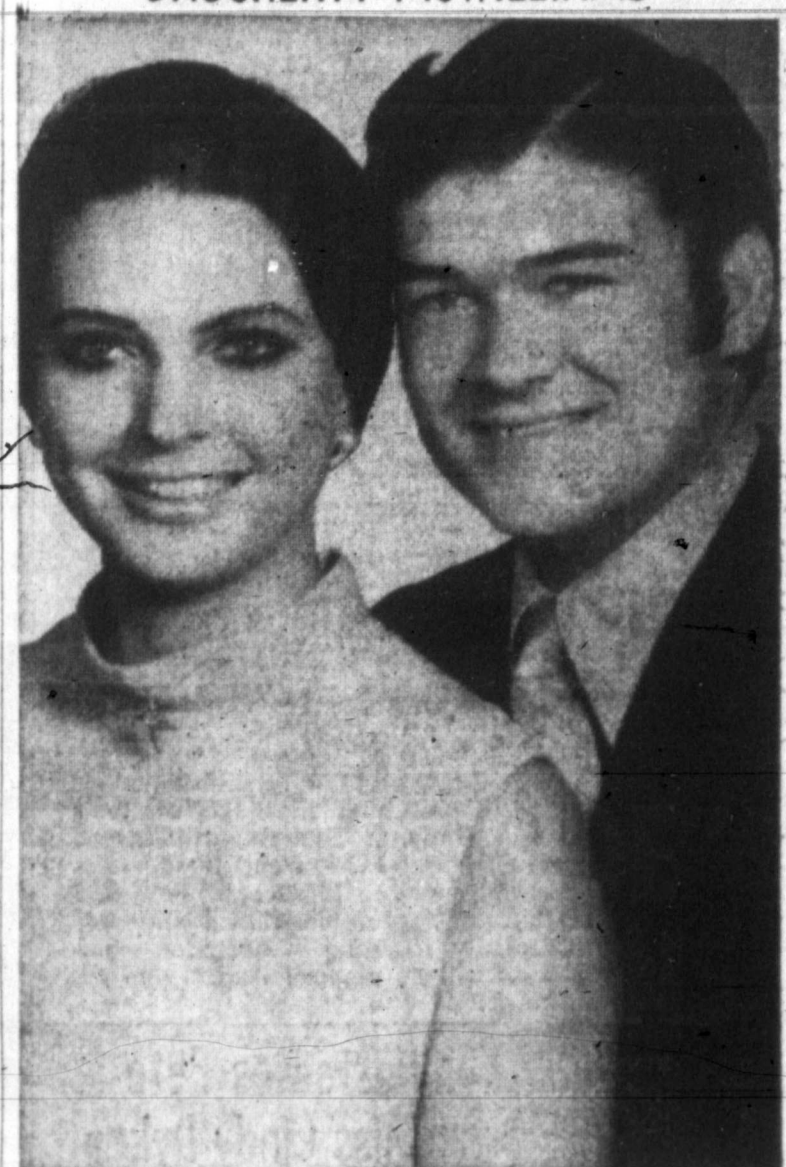

Warren A. Givens, of Muleshoe, served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsman were Bobby Ware of Wheeler, cousin of the bridegroom and Cecil Cunningham. Steve Glover and Mike Glover seated the guests.

A reception was held in the First United Methodist Church of Muleshoe. A table covered with white linen held a white memory candle surrounded by flowers and complimented by a pair of white doves. The reception table also featuring bridegroom graduated in 1969 and is employed by Fry and Cox Brother, Inc.

The bridegroom is the grandson of N. D. Ware Sr. and the late Mrs. Ware. Mr. McNeil lived in Wheeler for several years while his father was an employee of an automobile sales firm.

Garden Center Brings Cook, Hostess Outdoors With Guests

With an entertainment gazebo, the Summer hostess can enjoy the party as much as the guests. Instead of being isolated in the kitchen with last minute preparations, she can join the crowd and let the food practically take care of itself.

An outdoor entertainment center should be planned for performance as well as beauty. That means built-in conveniences, such as a barbecue, storage for fuel and utensils, and if possible, a refrigerator drawer to cut down on trips to the kitchen. The gazebo should have all-weather wood counters and benches to make eating and conversation areas within easy reach of the food center. The first step is to choose a good plan and the right materials. For lumber, you can't go wrong with a western wood such as Douglas fir or red cedar.

One plan shows a gazebo with a basic structure of 4x8-inch posts resting on concrete footings, and a red cedar shake roof. The area beneath the roof is laid with tile and covered with coarse gravel for drainage. The central barbecue fire, which is vented by a vertical flue extending through the roof, has a cap of matching red cedar boards. Built-in storage, refrigerator drawer and counters are clustered around the barbecue.

Next comes the floor of the gazebo. In this case, 2x3-inch fir decking, nailed on edge, extends out to the roofline, where peripheral benches of 4x12-inch planks are bolted to the deck supports.

This gazebo is square. The floor area measures 12 feet on a side and the roof's overhang extends its coverage to 18 feet on each side. These dimensions can be changed with few complications except possibly for altering the roof pitch.

For detailed plans of the entertainment gazebo and four other garden structures, write to the Pampa Daily News.

Judy Kay Dunn Pledges Wedding Vows With William Greg Sims

Lyle O. Gage, lay minister for the Church of Christ at Mary Ellen and Harvester Sts., officiated for the June wedding ceremony of Judy Kay Dunn and William Greg Sims. The couple exchanged rings in the First United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lorene Dunn of Pampa, and the late Arlie A. Dunn. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sims, 1100 Mary Ellen.

During the reception in the church parlor, Mrs. Gary Epperson served the three-tiered cake as Mrs. Jim Gotcher assisted at the punch service. Lyla Beth Gage registered guests for the reception. The serving table was covered with a white lace tablecloth and decorated by a blue carnation floral arrangement. The cake was decorated with white bells and pink roses.

Hy Forsman has just completed picking up the debris from his place. The tornado damaged or completely destroyed about every building on his place. Hy has rebuilt a cattle shed, a garage, and a complete repair of the outside of his house. Hy says it's so dry out his way the water tests only five percent humidity.

Bill Stockstill says his Heaton Cattle Company feedlot is filling up fast. The drought is accelerating the movement into the feedlot. The drought is having no adverse effect on the stocker or feeder market.

Cotton seed cake has jumped six to eight dollars a ton according to Jay Holland, Miami. Jay hauls cake to ranchers as a part of a host of custom services he carries on, including hay baling and custom fencing. Jay has erected some real fine five-wire steel post fences over much of the Panhandle.

Bob Smith, Moody Farms, says they now have 14,897 on Feed at Moody Farms, Virginia Horton, secretary at Heaton Cattle, reports they have 12,000 at Heaton Cattle.

Ronnie Rice at Rice's Farm Store says less milo seed was sold this year in Gray County since the dry years of the fifties.

A very small acreage of dryland milo is up in the Grandview Community. Otherwise, there just hasn't been any planted. July 10 is considered the latest date you can plant even the fastest maturing milos. Some risk of frost catching it is still run at the July 10 date.

If the dry weather continues on up in the summer, you might try some three-minute oats.

John Bowers called to find out where you could purchase a self-feeder for cattle. Commercial Welding Shop is next door to John's place. They make an excellent feeder. We had a hand in designing a new-type door that Lloyd Wilson says he can build cheaper than the old type and it works a great deal better. The door where you put the feed in the top is hinged on a two-inch pipe. From the ground you can open and close the door with a handle made from two inch pipe. The door runs the entire length of the feeder.

Grape Growers Sign UFW Pact

DELANO, Calif. (UPI)—The United Farm Workers Organizing Committee has signed a contract with a large Fresno County grower in what it termed a "major breakthrough."

The Castiglione Brothers of Sanger signed a three-year pact covering 900 acres of table grapes Wednesday with the union headed by Cesar Chavez. It carries the usual $1.75 an hour minimum plus a quarter a box during harvest time.

The union now has contracts with growers representing more than 25 per cent of the grapes grown in the state.

4-H Horsemen To Compete For District Riding Honors

The top 4-H horsemen in Gray County will compete in the Extension District 1 4-H Horse Show at Amarillo July 24, with hopes of qualifying for state competition.

Registration will start at 8 a.m. and judging will get under way at 9 a.m. Official judge for the show will be Roland Moore of Plainview.

Halter classes will be judged first and will be followed by showmanship, western pleasure, reining, poie bending and barrel racing.

The top 20 contestants from the district - wide show will be eligible to compete in the State 4-H Horse Show which will be held at the same location August 6, 7 and 8.

Some two-thirds of the 755 million acres (almost 1.2 million square miles) in the United States owned by the federal government are administered by the Interior Department, mostly as forest and wildlife preserves. Grazing lands leased from the government by private ranchers are a major economic factor in some western areas.

Weather Research Aids In Production Of Crops

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (UPI)—Weather plays a significant role in the production of Texas High Plains crops annually and somewhere there should be a key that will permit men to analyze the weather pattern.

Research foundation located near Plainview as scientists compile yearly weather data to see if trends can be established. Based upon past records officials at the foundation are predicting a large cotton crop this year, much better than the 1969 crop which was among the best of the decade.

One item of interest in past weather records at the foundation projects is that good cotton years are preceded by relative warm months of February and colder months of March.

PANHANDLE WATER

A Thing Called 'Water' Defiant Of All Laws

By FELIX W. RYALS

The average person rushes through each day without ever stopping to take a second look at the water coming from the faucet. The average person normally drinks the water from the glass set before him without a second thought. Usually the water is drunk without a thought as to how it tastes if one is in the home area. He is accustomed to the taste. Then some one in a position of importance raises a howl for reasons known only to himself. When this happens mass psychology comes into play. Large numbers of people then check every glass of water before drinking to determine its taste.

freezes at 432 degrees absolute zero of space, and oxygen's freezing point is a fraction of a degree short of 361 degrees Fahrenheit. That's a several hundred degree difference. Consider other features of hydrogen and oxygen: both are either flammable in themselves, or promote the flammability of other materials. Hydrogen by itself is highly flammable; let oxygen get to it and you have an explosive - remember the air-ship, Hindenburg, disaster: As for oxygen, nothing will burn unless oxygen is present. It is hardly necessary to comment that water doesn't burn, but instead puts out fires.

Water does owe one other characteristic to its hydrogen ancestor - its high heat capacity. This ability to absorb great quantities of heat, and to release it slowly, accounts for the moderating effect of the oceans on earth's climate. But scientists are puzzled by this high heat capacity. According to the theories which hold for all other liquids, water's heat capacity is far higher than it has any right to be.

Probably because water is so much a part of our everyday lives, we tend to think of it as something simple and elemental. But water is far from simple - it is a quite complex substance - and it behaves in weird and wonderful ways.

Water is the only known substance which can be a solid, a liquid and a gas—all under normal conditions of temperature and pressure. (Scientists consider 32 degrees Fahrenheit as being in the 'normal' temperature range.)

As a matter of fact, water can exist simultaneously in all three forms, under identical conditions - a glass of ice-water is very refreshing on a hot summer's day when humidity (or water vapor in the air) is high.

Water is the only naturally occurring liquid known - yet according to physical laws, it shouldn't be a liquid at all! Water apparently refuses to recognize the laws which govern the behavior of all other liquids and successfully defies just about all of them, except that of running downhill.

Everyone knows that water is H2O - two atoms of hydrogen plus one of oxygen. This seems a simple compound but, as physicists and chemists know, it isn't simple at all. Both hydrogen and oxygen have three isotopes; each of the three hydrogen isotopes will combine with each of the three oxygen isotopes in a ratio of two to one; hence, any volume of water contains eighteen different compounds. In addition, the water will contain 15 different ions, or electrified particles. Egro, so-called 'pure' water (which is actually an impossibility), consists of thirty-three different substances - including a minute amount of 'heavy' water.

Like its parent gasses, water is normally odorless, tasteless, colorless and transparent. But from there on, it differs from its parents more than it follows them. Water freezes at 32 degrees Fahrenheit; hydrogen

A Radical Change

In many parts of our country, it would not have made much of a stir; but in our nation's capital, the "radical" proposal made the front pages of the newspapers.

The idea that the Bible shall be reintroduced into the Washington public schools as part of the English courses for the first time since 1963. Other "revolutionary" proposals to be brought before the Washington school board before school reopens this fall include teaching students "eight positive attitudes, such as magnanimity, forgiveness, love of right and truth, and faith in the friendliness of the universe."

It seems that the proposed new emphasis on teaching morality in the District of Columbia schools came about as a result of an anti-crime crusade conducted by the "Committee of 100 Ministers," a somewhat informal coalition of 115 churches. One of the conclusions of the Committee: that "emphasis on character building can help in the prevention of disorderly conduct." Thus, the Committee suggested the return of the Bible to the classrooms as part of a character-building program that will include religious music; memorizing wholesome poems and studying the lives of heroic individuals. Now, aren't those amazing things for a school to do?

One of the newspaper accounts reported, in a perfectly straight-faced account, that "the proposals were received with enthusiasm by the school administration teachers union and PTA groups."

There was a time when "character building" was considered a perfectly normal part of school activities in Washington, D.C., as in most parts of the nation. It is a pity that the interest now being displayed did not come about until after hundreds of children were lost to vice and crime. And, even if the task should be pursued vigorously, the proposed program may not prove easily implemented. We have been told that studies made by concerned parents in some of our large cities uncovered textbooks which contained not the slightest hint of right and wrong, good or evil, in any of the study material. Let us hope that the Washington proposals foreshadow further action towards much needed reforms in some of our public schools.

Bulwark Of Independence

Independence Day has come and gone, but all of the enormous challenges and opportunities peculiar to our time remain with us. We live in great days, though strangely contradictory. These are days wherein scientific and economic advances have placed us at the threshold of what could be the greatest forward advance for mankind in history. At the same time, they are days fraught with great peril, and there is little need to spell them all out here. The value of our Fourth of July celebration has been to hold aloft the great truths which have carried our nation through other dangerous days in history, and can serve now to lead us to greater days ahead. The inspiring messages which we heard on our national holiday will have served no purpose if they are quickly forgotten. There are times when Americans have need to refresh their very minds, hearts and souls every day with the doctrines of liberty which have made this nation the envied example to follow by every other country on earth.

There was a fellow running for the U. S. Senate back awhile who had a few things to say along these lines, and although he didn't win the election, his words might well be remembered. He said: "What constitutes the bulwark of our own liberty and independence? It is not our frowning battlements, our bristling sea coasts, our army and navy. These are not our reliance against tyranny. All of those may be turned against us without making us weaker for the struggle. "Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which prized liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands everywhere. "Destroy this spirit and you have planted the seeds of despotism at your own doors. Familiarize yourselves with the chains of bondage and you prepare your own limbs to wear them. Accustomed to trample on the rights of others, you have lost the genius of your own independence and become fit subjects of the first cunning tyrant who rises among you. "The speaker? Abraham Lincoln, in an address given at Edwardsville, Illinois, on September, 11, 1858.

The Conscience Of America

Every now and then someone comes up with a distinctly new idea, and one of the latest to achieve such status is Robert Pearson, a contractor in Honolulu. He proposes to set up a national cemetery for aborted children.

Well, why not? We have cemeteries for cats, and dogs, and paupers and prisoners—why should the unborn be neglected?

Mr. Pearson says of his proposed graveyard, "It will be similar to the cemetery for unknown soldiers; only it will be for unknown souls. I think it is about time we regard aborted children the same as of America.

any other human being who dies. They shouldn't end up in incinerators or disposals."

Pearson said that he is working with an attorney and others to set up the cemetery, but that it hasn't been decided whether it will be located in Hawaii or on mainland America.

What, with our busy lives in the most affluent nation in the world, we sometimes tend to get a little careless about such unknown soldiers; only it will be for unknown souls. I think it is about time we regard aborted children the same as of America.

Wit and Whimsy

John—Tom is quite a do-it-yourselfer. He offered to come over and help me fix my TV.

James—Better watch him. He helped me fix our clock and now the cuckoo backs out and asks, "What time is it?"

Fred—While I was in Europe I saw a bed twenty feet long and ten feet wide.

Frank—Scouras like a lot of bugs.

If you want to know what your friend is likely to be like twenty years hence—look her mother over carefully when she doesn't know you are around.

It's impossible for a woman to be married to the same man for fifty years, says Bernard Bailey.

After the first twenty-five—he's not the same man.

A young woman once married a man by the name of Dust against the wish of her parents. After a short time they began to quarrel, and she attempted to return to her father's house, but he refused to receive her, saying, "Dust thou art, and unto Dust thou shalt return."

THE SITUATION IN GREECE

U.S. citizens have heard many conflicting reports about conditions in Greece since its government was taken over by a group of army officers. Some Congressmen have urged that we suspend military aid to Greece since its government is "undemocratic."

The country of Greece has been a prime target of the Communists since World War II ended. Twice in the 1940's, Communists attempted to seize control of the country by force, but both times they were repelled, largely through aid supplied by our country.

The Communists again attempted to gain control of the government of Greece in 1967, this time through a coup by its political party, the United Democratic Left. Many observers agree that Greece would have gone to the Communists if the army officers had not intervened.

Though we are told that the present government of Greece is tyrannical and suppresses all freedom, reporters from the United States have been able to talk freely with people in Greece and have found them free to move about as they please, hold meetings, and openly criticize the government. Reports of torture by government officials have been proven false. In one case, opposition leaders threatened to kill a man named Pantelis Marketakis unless he falsely testified that he had been tortured.

Many of the Congressmen who have urged that we cut off military aid to Greece have at the same time been eager to support aid and trade with communist countries, where individual liberty is truly suppressed. The cause of freedom would better be served if we continued to give needed military aid to our ally, Greece.

With Some Reservation

BY INJUN WOODY

It has come to a pretty pass when the federal judges have to form an ethics code to tell them what is right and what is wrong.

All the codes in the world won't make any difference. They already know what is right and what isn't. If there's enough money in it, it's right, if not, it's wrong.

Way back there when the asps and the bulls started desegregating, in 1963, the U.S. Judicial Conference resolution came out that prohibited directorships for judges in profit corporations. It spared them on—

Another thing that has to be pointed out to the inper-scent judges is that when they come up against lawyers who are "old friends," the judge should excuse himself from the bar (and let the lawyer take care of the tip).

One thing that had to be pointed out by the office of U.S. Courts was that judges shouldn't go on junkets and accept travel and hotel expenses unless they make a speech, or perform "other services."

Now, we know that it ain't the "speeches that have been doing the harm. It's those "other services" that is the culprit in the wood-pile. If we are to have a "code of ethics" for judges, I think they had better explain what is meant by the "other services," such as dissenting on a ruling that might run big gamblers out of the bushes, or allow communists to take over the schools.

These "other services" can cover a lot of double-dealing, as we have seen.

If We Turn Them Away—

Clearing I...

Get something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their mind. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

Editor:

In our time we may find that the Communists will not be able to take over the United States.

We may find that a blood bath is in the offing, and when it comes to that, our Country can and will win it. The cowardice of police enforcement officers, judges on the bench, right up to Washington, will eventually realize, what Communists are and how they work.

The Hippies, the dope peddlers and users will be recognized as part of the Communists, or dupes of that pack of rats. A rat always looks for a hole to hide in, he doesn't like to come out in the open.

If one hole comes to an end, then he looks for another route of escape. He hollers civil rights, persecution, police brutality, downtrodden masses.

When we get the Communies out of the Supreme Court, when a man who works for a living, a woman who works in a home or in a store, can be aroused, then will we have a formidable army. Ever man who farms, raises cattle, grows any kind of crop, and wants to pay for a home, more members of a vast army will join the ranks to fight Communism.

Every home owner who cherishes his home, every man who owns his business, boys and girls who have been raised at least almost right, and who have not fallen victim to the Commie line, will rally to the defense.

There are not many uprisings that cannot be cured by the use of a good number of machine guns. Mow them down? Why not, before they mow us down? If these looters and burners finally get to be brought face to face with good old-fashioned American law enforcement, we will have begun to find ourselves.

The highest placed elected officials in Washington are cowardly at heart, and want to find which side will reap the most votes before being committed to anything.

The United States has been built on change. No one should object to change in procedures. Procedures should change, but principles, NEVER!

As a silent majority, we are mostly silent because we are scared. Afraid of losing a dollar in business, afraid of being on the unpopular side. We are afraid of the risk of standing alone, afraid of criticism, afraid of offending someone of opposing views.

That fear will quickly vanish when our streets are filled with our dead, and the gutters are red with blood—our blood, or that of our loved ones. When we watch our homes aflame, our children stabbed through by the bayonet, our cars turned over and burned, then our fear will vanish like mist before the sun.

On July 4, 1970, flags were waving, much lip service was given to the theme of how much we love our Country. This is good, but not good in the very shadow of anarchy, that grips our country.

When we come to the point

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Weight Is Main Factor In Child's Milk Needs

Q—My daughter gives her children 2 per cent milk. Wouldn't whole milk be better for them?

A—If the children are overweight, skimmed milk would be best for them. If their weight is normal, there would be no objection to 2 percent milk, but if they are underweight their fat intake should be increased. This can be accomplished with margarine as well as with whole milk.

Q—Is there any objection to giving a child who doesn't like puddings and pastries two or three servings of ice cream daily?

A—Ice cream is an excellent food and there is no reason why liberal amounts of it should not be included in a child's diet provided it is a balanced diet in other respects.

Q—My sister gives her baby milk right out of the refrigerator without warming it. Isn't this harmful?

A—Apparently this is harmful only if the baby, no longer on the bottle, gets the cold milk in large gulps. Small sips are warmed sufficiently on the way to the stomach.

Q—Can a baby's parents be identified by blood tests?

A—There is rarely any doubt about who a child's mother is. A comparison of the baby's blood type with that of a given man can show only that the man could or could not be the father but not that he is the father.

Q—Can a blue-eyed couple with fair complexion be the parents of a child with dark brown eyes, dark skin and black hair?

A—Yes. The inheritance of skin, hair and eye color, in which dark is dominant and light is recessive, is a complicated matter. In human beings the genes are so thoroughly mixed that almost any combination is possible in one child even though his brothers and sisters followed the parental pattern more closely.

Q—Our daughter, 6, can remember all the songs she has learned in school but all she does with a pencil and paper is scribble. She is ambidextrous. Where can I get information about special training for her?

A—Your daughter may have dyslexia—as have many children with no right- or left-sided dominance. For more information on this condition, write to the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, 2206 Brownsville Rd., Pittsburgh, Pa. 15201.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

The Rearview Mirror

By TEX DEWESE
Editor

THERE HAS been quite a bit of controversy over the symbol we are reproducing here today. Perhaps some reader has the real background on it and can bring some enlightenment. Here it is:

Currently it is known as the "Peace Symbol." But only a few days ago the editor received a mailed communique which served up a different version about its origin and real meaning.

Says the communique: "The 'Peace Symbol' is not something that is the product of today's restless youth. It was well-known back in the Middle Ages as the 'Crow's Foot' or the 'Witch's Foot.' Now are you ready for the real shock? This was the sign of those who were opposed to Christianity. It was (and is) the Anti-Christ symbol! Look closely. It is a Broken Cross turned upside down—the subtle sign of those who are opposed to Christianity.

It is used today as a central part of the national symbolism of Communist Russia. The Communists are making special efforts to capture the minds of today's youth in America. Many young people wear it as a 'fad' piece of chain jewelry and even paint it on their cars.

Be sure of this, every person who knowingly or thoughtlessly wears the emblem is bringing joy to the hearts of Communists dedicated to the destruction of everything we hold dear. The so-called Peace Symbol is the mark of atheism."

That's what the communique said. What's your version of its origin and meaning? Unless the court decision is reversed it begins to look like we may be drinking toxaphene-treated water from Lake Meredith when the Pampa treatment plant is completed and the water flows into the city's distribution system. An Albuquerque court turned down the injunction sought by the Water Authority to ban New Mexico ranchers from using the pesticide to kill range caterpillars.

The CRMWA maintained the poisonous toxaphene would run off the Canadian River watershed and find its way into the lake water.

The judge ruled that the chance was very remote that any of the poison would get into Lake Meredith, and if it did, it wouldn't be enough to endanger the public health.

Well, remote or not—the chance is still there for the serving up of toxaphene cocktails to CRMWA water customers.

The judge's ruling is a bit like the gal who was confessing her sins and said she once gave birth to a baby. "But," she said, "it was just a little bitty thing, scarcely worth mentioning."

RECENTLY a Pampa News photographer interviewed five young persons he met at random, asking them what they thought of the new school dress code set up by the school board.

Two of them were high school juniors, two were seniors and the fifth had just graduated. The four high schoolers turned thumbs down on the code and the young man who had just graduated indicated, as long as it wasn't going to affect him, he was for it.

The code, adopted by the school board, deals with the length of boys' hair and girls' dresses.

It brings to mind a point made by the editor of one of our sister papers, The Columbus, Neb., Telegram, who thinks the U. S. Supreme Court might be smarter than some people like to think.

The Supremes have ruled, you know, that public school students have a right to wear their hair any way or any length they want.

NOW, OFFHAND, some people might say that's terrible and it might well be.

On the other hand, in the opinion of the Nebraska editor, it might just be the kind of psychology that has wrought so much change in the world.

In this instance, if the Supreme Court is for it, who wants it?

Maybe the high court figured that if it ruled against long hair that would be tossing down the gauntlet and instead of long hair abating it would go down to the knees.

Anyhow, the court said that schools have no business telling students that hair has to be combed, washed and worn so it doesn't hang below the collar.

In other words (and the Pampa mother who called the other day probably will not agree) the court has said schools have no authority over a "proper educational environment" insofar as hair and dress is concerned.

If that's what the Supreme Court intended it is just keeping up with the times.

When Is Dirt Really Dirt?

By PAUL HARVEY

Two years ago a presidential commission was appointed to consider the probably related problems of "obscenity and violence."

The objectives of their investigation include one which has confounded jurists, clergymen and semanticists for generations: A definition for obscenity.

You and I know dirt when we see it, but what's urgently needed is a definition which will stand up in a court of law.

Maybe our ordinary folks can help these learned scholars.

The Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Violence has designated 40 institutions around the country to conduct separate surveys. Wayne State University, one of those institutions, got some dirty pictures together and turned them over to the ladies of the local Council on Better Literature for Youth.

When the president of that council, Mrs. R. G. Johnson, saw the first 60 slides, she was indignant. All were "unnecessarily filthy," she said. "We thought we were doing something constructive for our country. You don't need to provide 60 such slides to get a point across."

Her indignation gets us right down to the nitty-gritty of this unresolved dilemma: What's acceptable on a Broadway stage may not be in Gross Point, Mich., or Pampa, Texas.

The Rev. Winfrey Link, Methodist minister, is a member of the presidential commission. Recently he criticized the commissioners for "sitting around talking to ourselves, exchanging our own ignorance."

He said he was speaking out in advance of the committee's formal report in September because "The American people have a right to know on what we are spending their millions of dollars."

Dr. Link and another conservative on the 18-member commission conducted some separate public hearings at their own expense until the commission chairman was thus forced to summon public hearings outside New York—in Los Angeles and Washington.

Commission Chairman William Lockhart denies he was "pressured" into expanding the hearings—but he was.

Dr. Link says a federal government standard for what's obscene is impractical because what is accepted in New York may not be in rural America. However, the U.S. Constitution, Article II, empowers Congress to make "exceptions and regulations" to the Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction.

HENRY N. JONAS
A TRIBUTE TO OUR DAD
There was a little old man with a great big smile.

And a voice that was soft and strong. His years were many and his steps were slow, but he went about his day with a song.

He never found a burden to hard to bear, or a problem too hard to solve. He worked them all out with his daily watch word, which he taught to us all.

We want to thank our neighbors, friends and anyone who in any way acted in love and sympathy during the recent loss of our beloved husband, father and grandfather, Special thanks to Drs. Falkenstein and Elder, the wonderful staff of nurses, both at their offices and at Worley Hospital. Also to Mrs. Gilpatrick for his comforting message and to the Cincinnati Whitley Funeral Directors for their unusual thoughtfulness and consideration.
