

Shortage Of Nurses May Close Hospital

By BEN KECK
News Staff Writer

Because there are not enough registered nurses willing to locate in a small town, the McLean Hospital is in danger of closing, leaving the town of 1,300 persons without vital hospital facilities.

Wes Langham, administrator for the hospital, said the Social Security Administration has warned that unless the 19-bed hospital can provide a staff of 42 registered nurses "immediately," Medicare payments would be withdrawn.

The McLean Hospital now has one full time nurse and two part time nurses. Langham stated Medicare inspectors said the nursing staff was not adequate to meet government requirements.

Langham said between 50 and 60 per cent of the hospital's patients are Medicare or Medicaid patients. Wednesday there were only six patients in the hospital, and all were admitted under the Medicare program. Langham said the hospital admits an average of 15 Medicare patients per month.

"If we can't get nurses," he said, "the hospital will be forced to close. We have no means of supporting the hospital without Medicare payments."

Langham said several alternatives have been proposed, but none has been officially adopted.

One alternative is to pay mileage to nurses to travel to and from McLean. A mileage rate of ten cents per mile has been suggested.

"Our main problem there," said Langham, "is that all the nurses we've talked to want to work the day shift. That just isn't possible."

Another alternative, proposed by County Judge Sherman Lenning Jr., is to call an election and ask the voters to create a Hospital District with taxing powers.

The hospitals in Pampa and McLean are under the direction of a Hospital Board appointed by county commissioners. Lenning said a Hospital District could set tax rates to support the hospital.

"The county cannot afford to subsidize the hospital," Lenning said. "They have to operate at a profit in order to remain open."

Langham, who is chief administrator for both McLean Hospital and Highland General Hospital in Pampa, said Highland General has been able to help McLean Hospital with finances in the past, but is no longer able to do so because of Highland General's own construction project.

Another possibility, an

School Bus Crash Kills Seven Children

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—"Slippery When Wet," said the diamond-shaped yellow road sign alongside Interstate 78 between the little Pennsylvania towns of New Smith and Grimville. It was raining shortly before 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Carolyn Stettler, who lives one mile past the sign along the highway on what she called a bad curve, said "We have one or two accidents a month... every time it rains a little bit."

When she heard a tremendous crash while I was ironing I knew it must be another accident. But when I ran outside I sure wasn't prepared to see what I did."

The blue and white bus chartered by the plush Hill School Day Camp for Jewish children at Larence, N.Y., a wealthy New York suburb, was filled with 61 persons—two drivers, 10 counselors and 49 boys and girls 11 and 12 years old on an overnight outing to the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Moving along Interstate 78, the bus failed to negotiate the curve by Mrs. Stettler's house, spun on the wet highway, ripped through eight guardrails, and plunged 50 feet down the shale embankment, turning over repeatedly and coming to rest on its side.

The impact split the bus, popping the windows. Children were hurled out the openings, screaming.

Pennsylvania state Trooper Robert Clarson, off-duty at a local gas station when he heard of the crash, was the first policeman on the scene.

"There were children on top of the bus, on the embankment, in the bus, lying about in the grass and in the creek. There was just no place to start."

Seven of the children died in the crash. Fifty-two others aboard the bus were injured, several critically.

Clarson said motorists stopped to help, but "there was a larger number of people who didn't help. They stood by and watched and took pictures.

"But until the other policemen got there the motorists and truckers were a great deal of help. They tried to comfort the children, to stop the bleeding with towels and blankets. Some were bleeding very badly."

He said the truckers brought hydraulic jacks to help lift the bus so rescue crews could reach the children trapped beneath the vehicle.

"The last girl that they got out that was alive was pinned under the bus," he said. "I understand she had lost a leg. Most of the kids who were pinned under the bus were dead."

"The kids were all screaming and crying. Most of them were in shock."

When word of the accident reached the school, parents rushed to the modern brick and glass building. Some were crying, some near hysteria. Others sat in stricken silence.

As the extent of the tragedy became known, a number left by auto for the four-hour drive to Allentown. Others chartered planes and others took regularly scheduled feeder airlines.

Leaders of the Allentown Jewish community set up an emergency center at the Temple Beth El to help them. Residents offered places to sleep, volunteers kept telephone lines open to the various hospitals to receive the latest information on the condition of the injured.

During the night hearses drove from New York to pick up the bodies of the seven dead children. For the parents there was a service this morning at the temple.

The parents, both in Larence and Allentown, didn't want to talk.

"I would not like to talk about the accident right now," said one father. Then almost as an afterthought, he said: "Thank God my son is in one piece."

'I LOVE THE CHINESE...'

Bishop Walsh Denies Charges Leading To China Imprisonment

HONG KONG (UPI)—Weak and faltering, Bishop James Edward Walsh said today he never thought he would live long enough to be released from a Communist Chinese prison. He denied the spy charges that led to his imprisonment.

"I love the Chinese people," the 79-year-old Roman Catholic clergyman from Cumberland, Md., said in denying any bitterness toward Peking after his 12-year confinement.

He spoke from a wheelchair in a voice that became progressively weaker and in words that faltered toward the end of his first news conference since China released him unexpectedly Friday. He has been hospitalized since.

Walsh was arrested Oct. 18, 1958 in Shanghai, where he was the Roman Catholic bishop. Seventeen months later Peking announced he had been sentenced to 20 years as a spy.

"I never thought I would ever see the day of my release," Walsh said. "I felt that I would not live long enough to complete my sentence of 20 years and that I would die in prison."

"I was not a spy for either the United States government or the Vatican," he added. He found it "hard to justify the severity of the sentenced meted out to me."

"I came to China in 1918 as priest and missionary for the purpose of preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ to the Chinese and tending to their spiritual and material needs."

"I can tell you in all honesty and sincerity that I have never spent a day during my 40 years in Chinese soil in doing anything but that."

Asked if he admitted to Chinese authorities in Shanghai that he was a spy, Walsh said, "I admitted that I may be a spy in their legal sense. I don't repudiate this statement if it is accepted in the right sense."

"I was treated very well except for the intense interrogations... It hasn't been all sweetness and light."

Walsh said he was "bewildered by all the fuss and attention that has followed my release. I am beginning to suspect that many changes have taken place in all walks of life since I last had contact with the outside world."

Walsh first learned Friday of the death of Pope John XXIII and man's landing on the moon.

"I feel a bit like Rip Van Winkle waking up after a long sleep," he said.

Tourists Enjoy Hospitality Of The 'New West'

A busload of 25 Easterners from Philadelphia residents were treated to western hospitality yesterday afternoon and last night in Pampa.

On a tour trip from Pennsylvania to the West Coast, the group stopped overnight in Pampa.

Yesterday afternoon they were taken on a tour of ranch country, feedlots, oilfields and visited the White Deer Land Museum. Tour guides were Sheriff Rufe Jordan and E.O. Wedgeworth, chamber of commerce manager.

Last night they were treated to a chuck wagon barbecue dinner served by the Pampa Shrine Club on the Coronado Inn's "South 40."

After spending the night at the Inn, the tourists boarded their bus about 9 o'clock this morning and left for the next all-night stop in Albuquerque, N.M.

Cambodia Thrust Robbed Reds Of Major Offensive

SAIGON (UPI)—The chief of staff of the U.S. Army, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, said today the Allied thrust into Cambodia has robbed the Communist command of any ability to mount a major offensive in the Southern half of the Vietnam War zone.

"The enemy does have the capability in the Northern areas," the former commander of American troops in Vietnam told a news conference upon concluding a five-day inspection visit. "Whether he will or not, I don't know."

Westmoreland said "the decision to move into the enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia... is one of the most significant benchmarks in the history of this conflict. It had and continues to have a profound effect on the security of the (Mekong) Delta and of the III Corps area (around Saigon)."

"I don't believe it is conceivable that the Communists have the strength to launch a major offensive in the Saigon area, the III Corps area or the delta," he said. "The areas he mentioned compose the Southern half of South Vietnam."

As for the northern half, Allied headquarters has said it expects a guerrilla offensive there since the area borders Laos and was not fully affected by the Cambodia incursion.

"The enemy has dissipated his forces" fighting in Cambodia and Laos," Westmoreland asserted. "It would be difficult to concentrate his forces, but he can do this."

Forces Run Out Of Ammunition

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian troops ran out of ammunition and retreated from Kirirom today after six days of costly counterattacks against guerrilla soldiers who seized the mountaintop resort village Saturday.

A military spokesman who announced the retreat disclosed too that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units attacked a government ammunition depot at Long Vek, 30 miles north of Phnom Penh, this morning and fighting was continuing at last report.

The level of Cambodian combat appeared to be increasing as South Vietnamese headquarters in Saigon announced its 18,000-man task force in Cambodia killed 33 guerrillas Wednesday in two sharp clashes near the Vietnam border.

Cambodian troops at Kirirom, 56 miles west-southwest of Phnom Penh, suffered "fairly heavy" losses in counterattacking the village before they were forced to withdraw to its periphery for want of ammunition, the Phnom Penh government spokesman said.

"We are short of ammunition," he explained. "Our soldiers resisted to the last bullet. Because Kirirom is a hill, it is very difficult to climb, and each of our soldiers can only bring a limited quantity of ammunition."

American sources have said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese drive at Kirirom is aimed at cutting Highway 4, the only thoroughfare between Phnom Penh and the port of Kompong Som, site of Cambodia's oil refinery.

Fighting elsewhere in Cambodia in the past 24 hours was characterized by what the spokesman termed "isolated and feeble enemy attacks," including harassment against the province capital at Siem Reap near the Communist-Thai border.

Small skirmishes were reported 50 miles northwest and 37 miles east-southeast of the capital. A belated field spokesman said Cambodian troops killed 32 guerrillas while losing four dead in a series of encounters earlier this week 32 miles south of Phnom Penh.

AT CHRYSLER PLANT Three Killed By Suspended Employee

DETROIT (UPI)—An Army veteran, angry at being suspended from a Chrysler Corp. axle plant only a month after leaving the unemployment rolls, returned to the factory two hours later and killed three workers with an M1.

One of the victims was the foreman he felt was responsible for the disciplinary action, witnesses said.

James Johnson Jr., 35, carrying an M1 he had smuggled into the plant Wednesday and yelling "get the hell out of my way," fired between 8 and 12 shots while running down the narrow corridors between conveyor belts, parts bins and machinery, police said.

He found his first victim, Hugh Jones, 44, the foreman who had sent Johnson home for refusing to obey an order, in the brake shoe department. Johnson fired several shots from the semiautomatic weapon, police said, and Jones, a Chrysler employe for 22 years, fell dead in front of a time clock.

"I was standing right there watching him when he shot this guy (Jones) five times," said Edward Lacey, 34. "I was standing about 40 feet away. He was standing right over him, pumping bullets into him."

Johnson, witnesses said, then ran down an aisle, turned to the left and shot his second victim, Gary Hinz, 32, another foreman, who died in the midst of bins of brake shoes.

The next fatal shooting, that of Joseph Kowalski, 45, who was standing next to a welding machine, followed a struggle for the weapon between Johnson and an unidentified worker who was yelling "get the gun."

Three other workers in that section of the Eldon Avenue plant suffered minor injuries in a mad scramble to stay out of the range of fire, plant officials said. M. J. Ellis, a job setter, said he heard noise, turned around and "saw this guy with a gun and I ducked. That's what most of the other fellows did."

A United Auto Workers shop steward, Johnny Moffet, 73, said he captured Johnson after the weapon ran out of ammunition and Johnson tried to leave the plant. Plant security men turned Johnson over to police, who held him for investigation of murder.

Johnson's sister, Marva, 21, said her brother, an Army veteran and former employe of the city of Detroit, purchased the M1 in 1964 "for self-protection" because burglars had broken into his home several times.

Johnston's sister, Marva, 21, said her brother, an Army veteran and former employe of the city of Detroit, purchased the M1 in 1964 "for self-protection" because burglars had broken into his home several times.

The proclamation was signed by Queen Elizabeth II at a special session of the Privy Council a few minutes after she returned from a visit to Canada.

The state of emergency was announced in a message from the queen to the House of Commons, read to it by the speaker, Dr. Horace King.

More than 200 ships already had been stranded by the strike in this nation which depends upon its exports to live and which imports most of its food. Under the emergency degree, troops can handle the long-shoremen's work.

The government's decision were reached at a two-hour cabinet meeting presided over by Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Summer Rains Dampen And Chill Spirits In Bonn

BONN (UPI)—"In Bonn," say the oldtimers, "either it's raining, or one is tired, or the railroad crossing barriers are closed."

In the little university town suddenly transformed into the capital of West Germany after World War II, this summer is a combination of all three.

Oldtimers also say that if the Rhine River floods the lower parts of the city in wintertime, rains will fall more often than on the average one day in three during summer.

Last winter, the Rhine flooded twice.

This summer, the weather bounces from shorts-and-singlet heat one day to topcoat chilliness the next.

Most everyone complains of weariness. Doctors say their offices are full of men and women with circulatory problems.

The city's main streets are torn up by construction men building the new subway.

Railway street crossings normally are closed for 20 minutes of each hour, to permit 320 trains a day to thunder through the city. But some had to be closed altogether for a couple of days this summer to permit repair of a stretch of the track and roadbed.

Big trouble came only on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 8. Lightning flashed, thunder rumbled, the wind rose and rain and grape-sized hail crashed down on the capital. In one hour and 52 minutes, two and three-quarters inches of rain fell.

A quarter of the city's civil defense equipment was immobilized because its new garage was in a dead end street behind an underpass that flooded. Oldtimers say that underpass always floods in a heavy rain, but the boys at city hall forgot to ask them.

A city council committee meeting suddenly found itself without a quorum after agitated wives called husbands home to help bail water out of flooded cellars.

The German federal government's wire communications and those of the fine new international press center were wiped out by the storm for two hours.

But nothing could blunt the summer social season.

Chancellor Willy Brandt and his wife invited 2,000 persons to a party in their garden. The rain held off until 3 a.m. by which time almost everyone had gone home.

Foreign Minister Walter Scheel and his wife gave a ball for 2,000 diplomats at the baroque castle in nearby Bruehl. Special heaters on the terraces kept diplomats and their women warm.

As insurance against rain at their Fourth of July Party, American Ambassador and Mrs. Kenneth Rush raised several tents in their riverside garden. Their problem turned out to be the cold.

Indians Say They Could Become Self-Sufficient

AUSTIN (UPI)— Two Texas Indian tribes told a legislative board hearing Tuesday all the Indians could become self-sufficient in no time at all if the state could provide them with funds to help Indians attract tourists.

The American Indian did not ask to be in their present predicament," a member of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian tribe said. "At one time they were self-sufficient. Before (white men came) they did not have to depend on others."

The Alabama-Coushatta tribe is the only one with a reservation in Texas. The tribe has turned its reservation near Livingston in East Texas into a tourist attraction.

The spokesman for the tribe told the budget council of a $470,000 plan to enlarge and "winterize" visitors facilities at the reservation.

The Tigua Indians proposed a $235,632 economic development program which would establish a pottery plant and tourist shops at the Ysleta Mission in El Paso.

"We needn't go back to argue about why it came to be but (the condition of Indians) needs to be changed," Roland Poncho, an Indian and assistant superintendent of the Alabama-Coushatta reservation, said. "This predicament should have been resolved years ago."

Walter Broemer, the superintendent of the reservation, said: "You can actually save money by investing this money now. This investment would be repaid to the taxpayers many fold in a period of years in new taxes instead of appropriations, in new economy for this entire area, in reduction of unemployment and in mental health for Texans of the metropolitan areas seeking wholesome recreation and outdoor activities."

Broemer said the Indians could become self-sufficient by 1974 under the program.

Spokesman for the Alabama-Coushatta tribe said the Livingston reservation would make a profit of $217,424 by 1975. Poncho said the economic development program already at the reservation has helped to restore many of the Indians' sense of independence and pride.

"At one time the Alabama-Coushatta Indian peoples had become accustomed to being dependent on the state for some of their rations," Poncho said. "But with the new enterprise attitude (of independence) is contagious."

Alton L. Griffin, superintendent of the Tigua Indian community, said the economic development program for the Tigua was also designed to "make the community self-sufficient within the shortest possible length of time and at the least possible cost of the taxpayers of Texas."

The Tigua proposal includes plans to purchase additional property across from the Ysleta Mission which was built by Tigua and Spanish missionaries in 1682. Arts and crafts shops employing Indians would be located there. Also planned is the restoration of ancient pueblo homes at the Sabinas archeological site and exhibits to show Indian culture as it existed there in 1200. The site is near the new Hueco Tanks State Park in El Paso.

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—After two years and eight months as a talk show host on the air from 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m., comedian Joey Bishop says he finds himself doing a show at home for himself.

Resting since the show left the air last November, Joey says, "I spend my time making picket signs for Jane Fonda. I don't miss the show but every night from 11:30 to 1 in the morning I automatically start talking or interviewing my dog. "If I tell a funny joke or say something clever during the day I say to myself it must be 11:30 at night somewhere in the world."

Growing serious, Bishop said he wouldn't consider doing another talk show because there is nothing new he would have to contribute to the format.

"Those shows should be like the old town hall meetings. But that sort of thing wouldn't sustain because the number of people you can offend is overwhelming.

"To be successful," Joey added, "you have to do more than put celebrities on the air to get a rating."

Bishop will abstain video for the next few months.

Beginning July 23 Joey hits the road, returning to club dates, which made him famous in the first place.

The tour will occupy five months of three and four-week stands.

"These are very short hops," Joey said. "I'll fly directly from one to the other in some cases. In other instances I will spend a few days at home between engagements."

A LOTTA SPIT ASHTON-UNDER-EYNE, England (UPI)—It took him 11 years but Jim Dobbs says he has saved 1,216,000 trading stamps—enough to get a new car.

The 44-year-old salesman who expects to take delivery of his prize soon, said, "I never want to lick a stamp again."

Quotes In The News

By United Press International
WASHINGTON—Paul B. Park, former South Korean deputy defense minister, disclosing a secret agreement between the United States and South Korea in which American troops would not be withdrawn from South Korea if Korean soldiers fought in South Vietnam.

asserting the Soviet Union believes there is no current international issue worth a war with the West. "Basically, the Soviet Union however, has always left herself a tactical loophole through which to escape from the commitments whose risks become too high. So far no issue has appeared which is worth a war with the West."

Nixon Tries Creole Gumbo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., cooked up some of his special Cajun fare for President Nixon.

Ellender prepared a menu of Creole gumbo, a savory combination of seafood and vegetables; Louisiana rice; a salad of all-Louisiana produce, and pralines and sherbert for dessert.

The 79-year-old Ellender actually began the cooking last weekend. The process of making the roux or gravylike base for the gumbo, is lengthy. The seafood—crab, shrimp, oysters, crawfish—is mixed in with the roux and served.

The lunch was held in Ellender's unmarked Senate office, hidden away in a back corridor, with about two dozen guests including Nixon.

A single long table, with Nixon's place in the middle of one side, was set with three flower arrangements of summer blooms.

Thousands Demonstrate In Italy

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (UPI) — Thousands of demonstrators lit bonfires, set up roadblocks, stoned a bank and attacked a Communist party office in the second day of protests against selection of a rival city as regional capital.

Officials said 30 policemen and at least 10 demonstrators were injured in similar fighting Tuesday, the first day of a 48-hour general strike supporting Reggio's claim to the rank of regional capital of Calabria in the toe of the Italian boot.

Citizens of this deep south city (pop. 153,000) were protesting the fact rival Catanzaro (pop. 74,000) was chosen as capital of the newly established region, one of 15 set up recently in Italy.

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—I was watching the All-Star baseball game on NBC-TV Tuesday evening, and on came the cigarette commercial that makes me cringe in embarrassment for the mentality behind it.

You know the one I mean—the one that tells you that this particular butt tastes good "like a cigarette should."

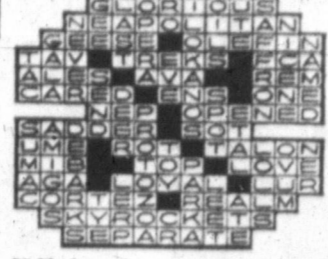

In its latest heavyhanded mocking of the English language, the commercials have some healthy physical specimens jokingly intimidate the apparent educated types while morosically asking them whether they would rather have good grammar or good taste.

The good taste being referred to, of course, has nothing to do with the tone and atmosphere of the commercials, which are common and gross in their celebration of coarse values.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Among the consumer protection measures pending in Congress is a bill to require food processors to stamp freshness dates on their packages where everyone can read them.

At present, the date when a product becomes too old to be sold is printed in code. Supermarket clerks decipher the code and supposedly remove the product from the shelf when it passes the freshness date.

But if a stale product remained on the counter, the customers would never know it. At least not until they got home and tasted the stuff. For the only way consumers can determine the relative freshness of food products is by breaking the code.

Examine it closely and you will find that this situation has all the elements—mystery, intrigue, etc.—of high melodrama. The first publisher who brings out a book titled "I Was a Cryptographer for the A&P" probably will make a fortune.

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suddenly the secret panel flies open and into the room bursts Jonathan Flanksteak, head butcher, who closely resembles the late Humphrey Bogart.

"Flunker!" he gasps. "Someone has broken our brisket code!"

"Gad, man!" Flunker exclaims, blanching. "You must be mistaken. What aroused your suspicions?"

"I put a batch of August briskets in the meat counter, carefully covered by July briskets, whose freshness date expires in two weeks. They look identical in the clear plastic packages. But the customers pushed aside the July briskets to get at the August briskets. That wouldn't have happened if they didn't know the code."

LAW CALLED 'RIGHT TO WASTE'

Texas Railroad Commission Hikes Oil Production Allowable

AUSTIN (UPI) — Citing increasing demand for domestic crude, the Texas Railroad Commission Wednesday hiked the state's oil production allowable for August by 335,263 barrels daily.

The commission set the market demand factor for August at 82.9 per cent of maximum production after representatives of various major oil companies testified that their firms had been unable to buy sufficient crude to meet demands.

Commission chairman Ben Ramsey, obviously irked by a Wall Street Journal report predicting the commission would raise the allowable to avoid higher gasoline prices, said "this is right, we will increase production to meet the demand, which is our duty under the Texas law."

Ramsey added, "we can do this because we can disregard the economists who recommend that we shut down stripper wells and use only high production wells. This once again proves the wisdom of the market demand system."

an estimated actual production of 3,221,250 barrels a day.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines had forecast the August demand at 3.4 million barrels daily, up 50,000 barrels a day from July.

Written nominations by major purchasers showed an increase of 107,179 barrels daily from the July nominations.

Eight of the 14 major purchasers asked that the allowable for August be increased, and five asked that the July allowable be unchanged.

Nominations by major purchasers included Atlantic Richfield 200,000, Chevron 61,800, Cities Service 91,000, Continental 37,000, Diamond Shamrock 34,000, Gulf 235,000, Humble 480,000, Mobil 290,000, Pan American 370,000, Phillips 127,000, Shell 155,000, Sun 160,000, Texaco 200,000, and Union of California 69,300.

BLOUNT AT FUNERAL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount will represent President Nixon at funeral services today for the late prime minister of Iceland, Bjarni Benediktsson.

Bankers Say Women Have Money Sense

By DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Another male myth about woman has been disproved through talks with bankers.

According to song, legend, night club comics and male locker room gossip, a woman is a lovable but birdbrained household liability when it comes to handling money or a checkbook. To hear most men tell it she balances the checkbook by standing it on end or rounding off to the nearest dollar.

Not so, say bankers across the country.

A sampling of bank officers indicates that today's woman has more money sense than her chief critics, men. The average female is more reliable when it comes to paying bank loans, writing checks that don't bounce and meeting bank charge card obligations.

"No matter what some people think about the female's sense of money, or lack of it, our women customers are generally quite responsible," said Henry Fletcher, president of the Merchants National Bank of Aurora, Ill. "When we have trouble with a loan we often go directly to the wife, who straightens it out."

J. Grant Bickmore, president of the Idaho Bank and Trust Co. in Pocatello, recently said that housewives normally are more apt to keep their checkbooks balanced and write fewer bad checks. The same thing applies to meeting charge card payments, he said.

A bank officer at Boatmen's National Bank in St. Louis said men are more likely to be late in paying off personal installment loans than women. "And the ladies respond faster to a second notice," he noted.

A loan officer at the Chemical Bank New York Trust Co. in New York said women are more compulsive about paying off debts and often settle a two or three-year loan in one year. A young Manhattan career girl recently paid off a two-year loan in exactly eleven weeks, he said.

One large California bank which did not want to be named went so far as to say that men—not women—exceed the limits of their charge cards by eight to one.

Fifty years ago few women touched the family money, aside from some "pin money." Men handled financial matters.

A recent banking survey shows that 40 per cent of the wives today decide where money is to be saved and 33 per cent where the checking account will be located. Since most banks are not open at night, and the husband works during the day, it has fallen to the women to handle banking matters. This survey also showed that 24 per cent of the wives handled auto loans, an area you'd think was strictly male territory.

Court Decides In Favor Of Amarillo Doctor

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Supreme Court today overturned an appellate court decision and said an Amarillo trial court had acted properly in clearing an Amarillo doctor of malpractice charges.

The suit was brought by Jackie Prestigord and her husband against Dr. James C. Glenn. In the first trial, the court granted a summary judgment in Glenn's favor, but that decision was ultimately upset by the Supreme Court and a subsequent trial was ordered.

Faculty Member Says Students Thought Guns Were Empty

By LEE LEONARD
KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A Kent State University faculty member said today most of the students involved in the ill-fated May 4 campus demonstration in which four students were shot to death, did not know National Guard troops were carrying loaded weapons.

Jerry M. Lewis, assistant professor of sociology, told a special state legislative subcommittee that four fatal shootings might have been averted if the students had been aware guardsmen were prepared to shoot with live ammunition.

Lewis said the students had a false sense of security because four or five earlier rallies on the campus commons had ended peacefully.

"The students felt they were safe," Lewis said. "They viewed the commons as sort of a Hyde Park safety zone."

Lewis said he heard one student shout, "Don't worry, they are blanks" when the guard began firing their weapons.

Lewis, a faculty peace marshal during the demonstration, also said the students were unaware of the exact nature of the court injunction against the right of assembly on campus that day.

Lewis said he felt the National Guard should be called in to put down future campus disturbances but the State Highway Patrol should be relied upon more heavily.

"God forbid another disturbance on this campus, but if there is one, I wouldn't call in the National Guard under any circumstances," he said.

Lewis said National Guard officers were unfamiliar with campus problems.

"What the National Guard needs is a good course in the social and cultural structure of the academic world," Lewis said. "The enlisted men are all right, but the officers were simply unwilling to work with university personnel."

The legislative subcommittee is investigating campus disorders in Ohio. About 100 persons attended the hearing in the campus auditorium.

MONEY AND ALL
BOLTON, England (UPI)—When a woman neighbor spotted 2-year-old Ian Greenfield Tuesday at a bus stop and asked where he was going with a satchel over his shoulder, the youngster replied, "I'm going to the bank with daddy's money."

Inside the satchel the woman found $480 in cash. She took Ian and the money back to his father.

NO SYMPATHY
CLEVELAND (UPI)—A 22-year-old striking bus driver got little sympathy from his bank when he asked for an extension of time to pay off the principal on his car loan.

"Don't call me for sympathy," a bank spokesman told Harold Augustine. "I have to walk to work. If we have to repossess your car, then you can walk."

The strike of transit workers in Cleveland is in its second week.

Texas Supreme Court Asked To Reverse Water Permit Ruling

AUSTIN (UPI)—Government lawyers today told the Texas Supreme Court that allowing landowners to keep unused water permits for years insures them a "right to waste."

Attorneys for the Texas attorney general and several South Texas water districts asked the high court to reverse a lower court ruling that held the state's permit cancellation law is unconstitutional.

"My clients are chronically short of water," Neal King of Mission, a lawyer for several Cameron and Hidalgo County water authorities, told the court.

"This court can no more be generous with the waters of Texas than a banker can be generous with bank accounts," King said.

King and assistant Attorney General Roger Tyler asked the court to uphold a 1957 statute providing for automatic cancellation of a water use permit that is not used for 10 consecutive years.

The Austin Court of Civil Appeals declared the law unconstitutional when owners of Webb County permits issued in 1918 and 1928 for use of Rio Grande water contested the cancellation of their permits. The civil appeals court held that the law amounted to a retroactive taking of property.

The permits were held by Dr. L. A. Wright, George T. McNary and Myrlie Wright Mc-

Nary. Court records show pumps that were washed out a 1954 storm and were replaced.

Wright's attorney, Robert Hearon of Austin, argued the landowner intended to use the water but was denied a permit to use a pump on an adjoining farm by the Texas Water Rights Commission. He said authorities should consider justification for non-use a permit holder's intent in cancelling permits.

"This man wanted to use water," Hearon said. "But pumps were washed out by storm. It would have cost other $125,000 to replace pumps."

By August Van Guren

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why people go to a movie and then afterwards tell everybody how filthy and disgusting it was!

Movies are rated, so they surely must know what kind of movie they are buying a ticket to see. They know in advance whether there will be nude scenes or rough language, so if that sort of thing offends them, why don't they stay home? Right or wrong?

SICK of HYPOCRITES
DEAR SICK: You're right of course. (Such movies are rarely as "good" as expected — and by that I mean as "bad" as the viewer hoped they'd be.)

DEAR ABBY: We have a long-haired son. He is of age and was married in college. He wrote and asked if he could bring his bride to our home until he finds suitable work. We feel that his hair style is hurting his chances of getting a job. One prospective employer said he'd hire him if he cut his hair and shaved off his beard. Our son refused on the grounds that he didn't want to compromise his principles.

Abby, should we welcome him home with his bride when he has that attitude? We are undecided. We want to help him, but we don't want to go along with something we feel is hindering him. We don't support this long hair look and feel it may be a long stay at home if the hair stays. Please advise?

MONTANA PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: If you really want to help your son, don't offer him bread with a hook in it. Let him bring his bride home to you, and don't tell him how to comb his hair. Also, a man who's old enough to shave is old enough to decide whether he wants to or not. If your son is actually unemployable because of his hair, he'll find out — which is the best way to learn.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Dry Cleaning Is Safest Method For Wool Afghan

DEAR POLLY — I went to a do-it-yourself dry-cleaning place and have seen dozens of people successfully clean their afghans. Be sure there are no pins, hooks or other sharp objects included in the cleaning load. Some places furnish a mesh bag, at no extra charge, just for loosely knit articles.

—MRS. A. T.

DEAR POLLY — Betty can wash her wool afghan in cold water and a detergent in her automatic washer. Put on wash cycle for 3-5 minutes depending on how dirty it is, then the rinse cycle. To dry, lay on a flat surface on a layer of towels. Fold in half if you are short on space and turn every few hours until dry. My afghan comes out beautifully every time.

—ANTOINETTE

DEAR GIRLS — I feel dry-cleaning is the safest method. If washed this should be done as for any other hand-knit or crocheted garment and carefully blocked back to shape. Do not hang to dry. Perhaps I lean more strongly toward the safety of dry-cleaning because of an unfortunate experience some years ago. I carefully washed a beautiful afghan — the result of months of work — and the colors ran enough to destroy the fresh new look. Most wools are now colorfast, but do check and even more so if the article was made some years ago.

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — For a handy Area WMU Meets GROOM (Spl) — The Baptist WMU met in the home of Mrs. Bill Burgin as Mrs. Melvin Ashberry conducted the business meeting and Mrs. Jack Bivens directed the program.

Others attending were Meses, Eulice Monroe, Bertha Knight, Jeff Gray, Frank Burgin, D.A. Watson and daughter, Shelly, Alvin Hillbrunner and daughter, Lanna.

Girls Add Sparking Sunglasses To List Of Summer Accessories

NEW YORK (NEA) — This year has been the scene of many changes in fashion. Minis and micros fight the midi for top billing. Frightful hairdos battle for supremacy over soft waves and romantic falls. And sunglasses and fun glasses have become important year-round accessories.

In every color and shape they sparkle like jewels on store counters. Women have shades to complement every costume and Dorothy Parker's famous "Men don't make passes at girls who wear glasses" just isn't true any more.

The growing popularity of glasses as a fashion accessory has also brought about confusion about the type and quality best suited to a woman's needs. And the first distinction that should be made is between sunglasses and fun glasses.

Fun glasses are designed to display the latest style trends, and quality and good vision are often sacrificed. Frames are often weak and lenses made of plastic in fancy colors and prismatic shapes. They can distort vision.

If made of a better quality that eliminates eye stress and discomfort fun glasses do have their place. A good light-tinted glass is fine for dark or windy days to keep dust out of your eyelashes on. But it won't protect your eyes from sun and glare. Real sunglasses will.

It's easy to choose the right shades once you know what function you want them to perform.

Choose the correct lens color for your outdoor needs. Sage green or neutral gray lenses give best protection and color perception.

Glass lenses are best for maximum filtration of ultraviolet and infrared rays.

Good sunglasses start at around $10. Their lenses are precision ground and polished and the frames are sturdy.

Don't wear sunglasses at night, they cut down vision. Good sunglasses are available in styles that are great fashion looks. So with Summer upon us, get into the eyeglass swing, but temper your desire for the kooky in design with a little common sense that will protect your eyes.

A girl can keep her cool even in the heat and glare of a summer day. The simplest hairdo and cotton mini set the mood for jewelry dazzle (left) and the grooviest of sunglasses in metal frame to match. She'll have that with-it look but keep the sun well out of sight. The bright girl wears dark lenses for double protection at the beach (right). They will keep out the sun's glare and a guy's stare, no matter how intense they get.

FRIDAY, JULY 17

Your birthday Friday: — Overplanning comes out poorly in the year ahead. Your interests are better served by remaining free to move with opportunity into fresh directions. Impulsive moves characterize your life for a year or two — providing exciting improvements. Friday's natives tend to be independent and determined to bring their own ideas into reality.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Keep on an even keel through routine. Use your intuition to find angles for self-improvement. Give other people a chance to tell you things.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Friday your energy is sufficient. Find time to speculate and if you hit on something, check to see whether you might really get to it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): In relative quiet, smooth out your group differences. Go over your records, insurance coverage. Some matter requires prompt correction or something essential has been skipped.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You must offer reasonable cooperation Friday if you want anything. Temperament will produce nothing. Seek light entertainment, but do not overdo food or drink.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): In striving for speed you may miss details that later take all the zip out of the project, so just settle down. There are fewer interruptions and distractions at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Whatever is to be done should be performed simply but completely. Children and their turmoil create interesting distractions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A normal but slightly variable day in which casual changes create inconvenience. Confidential projects are more readily attended.

It was voted to make the outing an annual affair.

Wheeler had two separate accidents last week on the same day.

Darrell Hanks received a brain concussion and pavement burns on his arm when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car on 7th Street in Wheeler.

The accident occurred as the car in front of Hanks slowed to make a turn. Hanks ran into the rear of the auto. The mishap occurred at the corner of Red River and Seventh Street in Wheeler.

In the other accident, Max Matter, county agent, was the driver of one of the cars that collided in front of Pete Burton Ford on Highway 152 Thursday morning. No one was seriously injured.

ILLEGAL PARKING

BRISTOL, England (UPI)—When painters Ivor Harding and Anthony Hallowicki went to collect their six-foot ladder they had left next to a parking meter, they found a parking ticket on it.

"I thought it was a joke at first," said Harding. "But I suppose we'll have to pay the fine."

A Bristol police spokesman said the owner of the ladder could be prosecuted for obstructing a highway and the meter maid was fully within her rights in issuing the ticket.

A Letter To An Unborn Baby Coming Into A Hostile World

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—David is 27. Cyndy is 22. As is often the case in today's young marriages, both David and Cyndy work. But Cyndy will be retiring from business in a few months to take up another career. Her baby is due in January.

Because David and Cyndy are thoughtful and sensitive people, and David is a writer, it was natural for them to try to articulate the feelings they experienced when the doctor told Cyndy the big news.

So David composed "a letter to my unborn child." He did not think of it as something to be published, but simply as a private communication which might or might not be shown some day to the addressee.

Here is David's letter to his future son or daughter:

"Now, you are hardly discernible as a form of life as we on the outside know it. The doctor says you have formed some kind of a shape about two inches long. I'm six-foot-one now.

"According to the doctor you should struggle from the womb next year during January. Your mother and I have reserved a place for you.

"I have spent and shall spend many more moments planning for you, at least until you are able to plan for yourself. Your mother and I are looking forward to seeing you with a love that we have never had the opportunity to feel before.

"But every once in a while, when I look out the window or walk down the street, I sense an apology in the recesses of my mind when I think of you. When I stand at a bus stop in a cloud of exhaust that lingers around me so I smell the city when I go home or try to shield my eyes against the flying debris that litters the streets I wonder how your eyes and lungs will react to it. When I think of showing you this land of ours I think of trash-lined highways, littered beaches and no-fishing signs warning of polluted waters. When I think of your mother taking you for a stroll in the fresh air I wonder how far she will have to go to find that fresh air. How long will you be able to sleep with the jets over head and the trucks below?

"And if you should survive the earth, sea and sky, will you survive your fellow man? I must apologize for what the past generation has left and what some of the present generation is creating.

"It is a selfish love that welcomes a new born child into the world. We hope you don't suffer because of it."

Lumbermen Take Babe Ruth Prize

Pampa Lumber won its third straight Babe Ruth Baseball League Championship with a 3-0 victory over the Jaycees in a playoff game Wednesday evening at Optimist Park.

Both teams finished the regular season with equal 12-2 marks to force a playoff battle for the crown.

Roy Hendricks struck out 11 Jaycee batters, gave up no walks and served only four safeties in pitching the victory. Joe Johnson took the loss for the Jaycees. Johnson whiffed four, walked five and allowed five hits.

The Lumbermen wasted little time in getting down to business, scoring two runs in the last of the first. Damon Dewitt walked and Hendricks advanced him to third with a double to right field to set the stage for Jack Edward's single which plated both runners.

The losers couldn't take advantage of a chance to narrow the margin in the top of the fourth. Johnson opened the inning with a double to left-center and advanced to third on Tony Ferrell's sacrifice grounder to short. Hendricks whiffed the next two hitters to save the shutout.

Lumber tallied its last marker in the bottom of the fourth. Jim Hood walked and scampered to third when an attempted pickoff strayed into foul territory. Jim Davis followed with a single to plate Hood.

The Jaycees could not put a runner on base after the fourth inning.

Lumber coach Melvin Davis will take charge of Pampa's entry in the Regional Babe Ruth Tournament Aug. 9. The team, to be composed of all-stars, will be announced soon.

Philly Golf Underway

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Doug Sanders has to be a glutton for punishment.

On Sunday, he suffered a heartbreaking loss when Jack Nicklaus edged him by one stroke in a playoff for the British Open championship.

Today, he and 146 other players tee off in the opening of the $150,000 Philadelphia golf Classic at the suburban White-marsh Valley Country Club.

Among those in the field for the 72-hole tourney? Jack Nicklaus.

And to compound the felony, next Monday Sanders goes to Washington to play golf with, that's right, Vice President Spiro Agnew, who conked him on the head with a ball with an erratic drive during the Bob Hope Classic earlier this year.

Nicklaus, fresh from his British Open win and his first major championship in three years, was among those topping the field seeking the $30,000 first prize in the four-day tourney over the par 72, 6,706-yard course.

Others included a reluctant defending champion Dave Hill, Lee Trevino, leading money winner on the tour so far this year, Masters champion Billy Casper, two-time U.S. Open champion Julius Boros and 1969 PGA winner Ray Floyd.

Also on hand were former champions of this eighth annual classic, Don January, Dan Sikes and Bob Murphy.

January tuned up for the event by carding a seven-under par 65 to capture the $500 first prize in Wednesday's pro-am. His round included nine birdies, marred only by bogeys on the fourth and 18th holes.

ROOM FOR LONBORG
BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox made room Wednesday for the return of pitcher Jim Lonborg by optioning pitcher Jose Santiago to Louisville of the International League. Lonborg, the 1967 American League Cy Young Award winner, was placed on the disabled list last month after injuring his shoulder.

South, West Claim Wins In Tourney

Southern and Western All-Stars captured first-round triumphs in the Youth League All-Star Tournament Wednesday evening at Optimist Park.

The South downed the Eastern Stars, 4-1, and the Western team drilled the North, 7-1.

Each of the four teams in the double-elimination tourney is composed of all-stars from its respective geographical zone.

Tonight's action will pit South against West in the winners' bracket and East will battle North in the other contest. The South-West contest will begin at 8 o'clock on the National League diamond. The East-North game on the American League field will start at the same time.

Clyde Patrick led the victory for West with three two-run homers. Patrick also sparkled on the mound, whiffing 11 and walking only one.

College All-Stars Return To Work

CHICAGO (UPI)—College All-Star football players were back on the field today following a one day strike in support of the National Football League Player Association in its dispute with club owners.

"We have decided that we have accomplished what we decided to accomplish by striking one day in backing up the player's association," All-Star spokesman Steve Tannen said Wednesday night following a team meeting.

Players, Owners $2 Million Apart

NEW YORK (UPI)—A difference of $2 million a year in pension and insurance benefit contributions is the primary cause of the current dispute between the National Football League Players Association and the 26 NFL club owners.

The players association has proposed that benefit contributions on the part of the owners be increased by $3.6 million a year while the owners have offered an increase of $1.6 million, it was revealed by Tom Vance, the public relations director for the association.

In addition to their lower figure, the owners' offer, according to Vance, "was conditioned on the players agreeing to reduce their post season game pay and permanently waiving all financial rights to their licensing revenues."

The post season games in question include the Pro Bowl and championship games but not the Super Bowl.

"If the players made these personal concessions," Vance added, "it would cost them at least $600,000 a year."

The association contends that a projected $10 to $13 million increase in television revenues alone for the NFL make the player proposal reasonable.

While the dispute rages, College All-Star football players were back on the field today in Evanston, Ill., following a one-day strike in support of the players association.

METS, PIRATES IN HOT BATTLE National East Is Only Tight Race As Second-Half Warfare Starts

By FRANK DEGEORGES

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball fans looking ahead to the second half of the season may find it hard to suppress a yawn. After all, what's to get excited about?

Who's going to knock off Cincinnati, for example? The Reds are 10 games in front in the National League West and scarcely breathing hard.

With 21-year-old Wayne Simpson at 13-1 and Jim Merritt at 14-7 backed by a lineup that haunts the dreams of opposing pitchers, it isn't likely the Reds will be headed off.

In the American League

East, Baltimore seems to have exposed the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers as pretenders by capturing series from both clubs just before the All-Star break. The Orioles are impressive with Frank Robinson, the league leader with 330 and Boog Powell, who is hitting .320 with 23 homers and 73 runs-batted-in. Add to their assets a Brooks Robinson—ever the wizard with the glove—who is enjoying one of his finest seasons at the plate with a .288 average and 54 RBIs, and three first-rate pitchers in Jim Palmer (12-6), Dave McNally (12-6) and Mike Cuellar (11-5). It's easy to see why the birds hold a six-game lead.

The only division with exciting prospects for the coming weeks is the National League East. A hot pennant fight is shaping up there between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Mets, with a possible contender in the revived Chicago Cubs.

The Pirates, now leading the Mets by 1 1/2 games, vaulted into first place before the All-Star game with four-game sweep of the St. Louis Cardinals. At the same time, the Mets were dropping three of four games to their persistent bagaboos, the last-place Montreal Expos. The pesky Expos have won eight of 12 games from the Mets this year.

Chicago, which went into a tailspin earlier in the season when it lost 12 straight games, one short of the club record, surges into the second half of the season with six victories in its last eight starts. The Cubs are now five games back.

Although the outlook for the second half of the season may appear peaceful, even dull, baseball has a funny way of turning around, and one or two of today's fat cats may find themselves clinging precariously to a fast-dwindling leads as the season draws to a close. If you don't believe it can happen, just ask Leo Durocher.

Amarillo Beaten In 10 Innings By San Antonio

By United Press International

It looked like the two-platoon system the way San Antonio and Amarillo used up pitchers Wednesday night.

The teams went through five hurlers each but the "promiscuous" batters got hits off everybody.

San Antonio third baseman Jim Brunette had two home runs. For Amarillo catcher Dave Rader hit his third homer in the last four games. His teammate Caris Speier also homered.

The Giants tied the score in the bottom of the seventh with a six-run rally that used up three San Antonio pitchers. But the Missions came back in the tenth with a five-run celebration and took it 12-7.

Amarillo had 15 hits to only 14 for economical San Antonio.

In other Texas League doings Dyar Miller of Dallas-Fort Worth tossed a nifty three-hitter in the Spurs' 4-1 win over Arkansas. The Travelers' only run was unearned.

Miller got better as the night wore on, retiring the last 17 Arkansas batters in a row.

El Paso righthander Joe Henderson limited Memphis to four hits in pitching a 7-0 shutout. The seven-inning game was to have been part of a doubleheader, but the second game was cancelled by rain.

Shreveport and Albuquerque also postponed because of moisture.

The Right To Wail

The right to wail, moan and gnash their teeth is about the only right left to the taxpayers, besides the ever ready "right" to pay their taxes. As the Raven said (almost), "Only this and nothing more."

The campaigns of the various organizations of taxpayers in their pitiful efforts to obtain even a token tax reduction in any area always have negative results. The only way they can ever hope to win is to stop paying taxes altogether, and it is our belief that this will happen eventually.

If there is no money in the government coffers with which the politicians can pay their own salaries (and give themselves almost annual raises) there will soon be none of them left in the taxpayers' hair. We hear a great deal nowadays about a tax revolt and in a few isolated instances, there have been a few who have refused to cough up their "fair share" to the federal government. And strange as it may seem, we have read of one or two who have dared the feds to come and get them and they are still out of jail.

We are not advising anybody to break the law—it's illegal. And most Americans are really and truly law-abiding citizens. But the enormous burden of taxes and the continuous increase of them are making some honest citizens to take another look and wonder why taxes have to keep on raising.

Many write letters to their congressmen, and they generally receive some very nice letters in return—but no promise to work for a tax cut in the halls of government. We hear such promises only during election years, and we know them for what they are—"campaign oratory."

Former Governor of Michigan and now Nixon's man in charge of urban renewal, George Romney, recently volunteered to take a 25 percent reduction in his government salary and asked others with both feet in the feed trough to do likewise—but no line formed on the right, nor even on the left. Romney stands alone and sticks out among his fellows like the proverbial sore thumb. His generous gesture cost him several thousand per annum. But, being a politician he probably had an ulterior motive, anyhow. He no doubt expects to receive a reward for his gesture, not in Heaven, but in the political arena. He probably hopes to be picked as "a better man" for whom to vote one of these days.

"Remember honest George Romney," voters will remind each other, "he was the only one that volunteered to take a cut in salary to help balance the national budget."

We have at hand a copy of a letter mailed to President Nixon by the Taxpayers Union of the U.S. We lack the space to run the entire letter, but will take the liberty of quoting one paragraph.

It says: "What you have done and what you promised to do for this nation has been a factor in creating the current tax rebellion. Unlimited national debt (now, if it were really unlimited, why should congress keep being asked to raise the limit? It's limited all right, but 'the sky's the limit' and when that is reached, the limit will extend into outer space), uncontrolled inflation, a United Nations war (death and destruction) bankruptcies galore, weakened currency, racial violence, rampant crime, demoralized populace, Communist activities unrestricted, full control in the hands of the CFR (Council on Foreign Relations), and the bottom out of the security markets, with no obvious relief in sight. What do you expect us to conclude?"

The Taxpayers Union has brought up some good points in this letter to President Nixon, the question is, will he ever see it, will it be read by a secretary's assistant, or simply consigned to the wastebasket? We hear a lot about "tax reform" but the only tax reform that would mean anything to the taxpayers would be a substantial cut in all taxes.

There has been a sort of tax rebellion surfacing in many places across the nation for several years now, and that is the refusal of many voters in many places to vote for bond issues and that has been hurting the politicians' feelings considerably. We expect this trend to continue, the American taxpayers have been looted by the politicians for questionable and even silly purposes—long enough—far too long.

Operation Freezeout

In its mad drive to cure pollution overnight, Congress is about to pass a batch of laws that could put small businesses out of business. Some of the hare-brained schemes of the politicians, who don't understand the problem of its causes, are going to force businesses and industries to buy equipment so expensive that it will be beyond their reach. We quote from a pamphlet put out by the National Federation of Business, Inc.:

"The strong public outcry against pollution may bring new federal laws which will, in time, sweep away air and water pollution... and many small businesses as well."

But Congress has a cure for this problem also (doesn't it always have the cure, but has any of its cures ever worked?) The cure is, of course, to lend the small business large sums at low interest.

Meanwhile, the tax payers themselves will be stuck with putting expensive gadgets on their old cars, to reduce emissions or buy new cars at increased prices with built in gadgets. This means we will be "helping" the small businessmen by the government's lending them money at interest below the market level, paying more for trash hauling (we're not allowed to burn it), paying the total of all plant, factory and business anti-pollution retooling (the ultimate consumer must consume the costs of business, otherwise there would be no business).

But, says the pamphlet, many small businesses will still be forced to close shop. And here we have been led to believe that the government loves the small businessmen, it has been lending them our money for years at very low interest rates and often to those who are poor credit risks.

The government has also, for many years, been fighting big business tooth and nail in a concerted attempt to break it up into many smaller businesses, and this fight against big business has also been costing the tax payers huge sums, not only directly through taxes, but also indirectly through higher prices because we must also pay the costs to big business in its fight against government to stay big. And those corporation lawyers get some mighty handsome salaries. Court costs in suits that are drawn out for years aren't exactly peanuts, either.

Operation pollution is going to cost us many billions, and much of it will be spent by the politicians on half-baked schemes that are more apt to cause more pollution than less of it.

When they make a political issue of any cause, we might just as well be prepared to pay big and expect small results, for that is what we will get. Private industry started fighting the pollution problem years ago and they were beginning to get some good results in several fields. Now they will be hampered, harassed, and slowed by the politicians. Pollution has become a political football that is starting to smelt worse than any sewage disposal plant in the country. And we'd be hard put to choose between the cost of eliminating the smell, or living with it.

Nuclear War Gets New Look

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Most studies of nuclear war center on the number of people killed, the industry and agriculture destroyed and the disease and hunger that would engulf the survivors.

An unpublished study which has come into this reporter's hands looks at nuclear war from a different angle.

It asks what kind of people would be killed and what kind survive—in terms of skills, administrative abilities and political attitudes.

The conclusion of the authors (both sociology research men) is that in some "typical" attacks they have calculated the death rate of the technically skilled would be so much greater than the over-all death rate that the re-organization of this country after an all-out nuclear attack would be exceedingly difficult.

The authors assume a 2,000 megaton attack on 70 major U.S. cities. They assume (for purpose of their study) that the shelter systems in these cities would be ineffective.

The commonly accepted over-all death toll for such an attack is 46 per cent of the total population. That's only a part of the story.

The men who made these studies calculated that such an attack would kill two-thirds of the nation's doctors, physical scientists, chemists, dentists, lawyers, clerks, manufacturing managers, printers, machinists, foremen and editors.

And three-fourths of the nation's accountants, authors, architects, draftsmen, electrical, industrial and mechanical engineers, social scientists and tool-and-die makers.

They estimate 93 per cent of those of Jewish faith would die along with two-thirds of the Roman Catholics and one-third of the Protestants.

More Democrats would die than Republicans—and of the Democrats, more northern Democrats would perish than southern Democrats.

The result, these men believe, would be a major change in the political balance of the American system.

The reason for these unexpected results is simple. Men and women with particular skills and backgrounds have tended to concentrate in the large cities. Other skills and backgrounds tend toward the smaller towns and rural living.

The striking imbalance in the skills and backgrounds of those killed in such an attack (if these calculations even approximate the results) would lead, these authors believe, to strains that might be impossible to overcome.

From the standpoint of recovery, they claim, it is a much greater problem than would be presented if say half the U.S. population were destroyed—but the half that died roughly the same in skills, background and abilities.

These conclusions, if valid, underscore the importance of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks now going on in Vienna between the United States and the Soviet Union. They are also strong arguments for some sort of a limited city defense against the intercontinental nuclear missiles Communist China is expected to have sometime in this decade.

Some Facts, Myths About Aged Minority In The U.S.

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One deprived "minority" group is seldom mentioned—the aged.

There are today 20 million men and women aged 65 and over. Half are more than 72. One out of five is over 80.

In 30 years there will be 30 million aged.

Thirty per cent of the elderly are poor. In 1967, half of the aged families had income under $3,928. Half of the elderly living alone had incomes under $1,480.

Almost a third of the elderly probably have assets of less than $1,000 each, for emergencies.

An unpublished recent study paid for by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare says that "very often" the elderly are in substandard housing, largely in depressed urban areas.

The male suicide rate is alarming. For men it increases steadily to 60 per 100,000 at age 85. The suicide rate for females reaches a peak of 12 per 100,000 in the 45-to-54 period.

The problem is not only income but jobs.

The four million elderly who work are fairly well-off, even though many of them work at poorly paid part-time jobs.

But many of the 30 per cent without jobs, especially the men, begin to see themselves as "out-of-date and socially irrelevant"—in a society that increasingly emphasizes youth.

It is a common practice these days to say that many young people are alienated because they feel that society has no place for them. But what about the vigorous elderly man or woman out of work and denied a job, not for lack of ability but because of age?

Yet studies sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare find:

Industrial injuries are lowest for workers over 65. Older workers, being more skilled and interested in holding their jobs, tend to avoid the impulsive acts characteristic of younger workers.

Women office workers show little change in output after age 25, even when they pass 65.

The aging worker may be more desirable because he is less likely than the younger worker to change jobs (though he may have low interest in retraining for a new job in the same company).

Verbal ability improves with age.

Under most circumstances, age-related changes in the primary ability to learn appear to be small. (Surveys of learning under industrial conditions suggest that in abstract learning there are small, if any, differences between old and young workers. But it may take the older man or woman longer to learn new motor tasks.) While older workers as a group have poorer health than younger workers, many older workers do retain good health. It is unreasonable, one report says, to reject all older workers because statistics show greater ## prevalence of chronic conditions in the older population.

The Department of Labor has studied reasons employers give for age limits on hiring. Physical incapability is most often given. Yet 70 per cent of those giving this reason had no studies to back their claims. So jumbled are such practices, says one Labor Department study, that some employers willingly hire older workers for jobs that other employers insist are beyond their capability. Ironically, many employers rate their own older workers as highly productive and dependable, but refuse to hire new employees in the same age range because of age prejudice.

Many older people do have an education handicap. But if special schooling can be given young dropouts and youngsters from deprived homes, the same can be done for the elderly—many of whom are also deprived.

The male suicide rate is alarming. For men it increases steadily to 60 per 100,000 at age 85. The suicide rate for females reaches a peak of 12 per 100,000 in the 45-to-54 period.

The problem is not only income but jobs.

The four million elderly who work are fairly well-off, even though many of them work at poorly paid part-time jobs.

But many of the 30 per cent without jobs, especially the men, begin to see themselves as "out-of-date and socially irrelevant"—in a society that increasingly emphasizes youth.

It is a common practice these days to say that many young people are alienated because they feel that society has no place for them. But what about the vigorous elderly man or woman out of work and denied a job, not for lack of ability but because of age?

Yet studies sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare find:

Industrial injuries are lowest for workers over 65. Older workers, being more skilled and interested in holding their jobs, tend to avoid the impulsive acts characteristic of younger workers.

Women office workers show little change in output after age 25, even when they pass 65.

The aging worker may be more desirable because he is less likely than the younger worker to change jobs (though he may have low interest in retraining for a new job in the same company).

Verbal ability improves with age.

Under most circumstances, age-related changes in the primary ability to learn appear to be small. (Surveys of learning under industrial conditions suggest that in abstract learning there are small, if any, differences between old and young workers. But it may take the older man or woman longer to learn new motor tasks.) While older workers as a group have poorer health than younger workers, many older workers do retain good health. It is unreasonable, one report says, to reject all older workers because statistics show greater

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Bed Rest Is Important In Infection Control

Q—My mother has varicose ulcers on her legs. What is the best treatment for them?

A—The first step is bed rest until any infection that may be present can be controlled. Covering the ulcers with gold leaf or using an ointment containing neomycin and enzyme (Biozyme, a prescription item) are effective forms of treatment. If the ulcers involve the deeper skin layers a skin graft is usually necessary.

Q—I have open sores on my legs. The only ointment that has helped me is one used in the hospital to heal bedsores. Do you know what it is?

A—The two kinds of ulcer usually respond to the same treatment. You may have been treated with the Biozyme mentioned above or Gelfoam which is also a prescription item.

Q—What causes old people to have blue veins on their hands? What can be done for them?

A—All veins near the skin surface look blue. No treatment is necessary.

Q—When I get up from lying down I am momentarily dizzy. Is this caused by too low a blood pressure? Is it possible to have a low blood pressure without being anemic?

A—The dizziness is caused by a sudden drop in the blood pressure in your brain rather than a sustained low pressure. Getting up more slowly should eliminate the problem. Although the loss of a large amount of blood (secondary anemia) will cause a drop in blood pressure, low blood pressure is not a prominent feature of other forms of anemia.

Q—In a recent column you said niacin will lower the blood cholesterol level. I am taking one 100-milligram niacin tablet per day. Is that enough?

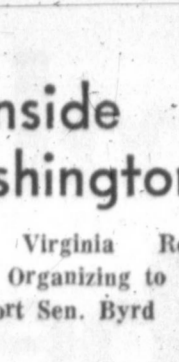

A—If your blood cholesterol level is within normal limits, you do not need to take niacin unless your diet is deficient in vitamin B. For a high cholesterol level, 30 to 60 times your present dosage for several months would be needed to bring it down.

Q—In a recent column you said too much iron could cause a disease. My husband and I are taking multivitamin pills with added iron. Is this harmful?

A—The daily requirement for iron for a man is 20 milligrams and for a woman 15 milligrams. Most multivitamin tablets contain approximately this amount. They would be harmful only if there is already too much iron in your blood.

Inside Washington

Prominent Virginia Republicans Organizing to Support Sen. Byrd

WASHINGTON—Virginia Republicans, who only a few weeks ago at a state convention nominated a young candidate to oppose Senator Harry Byrd Jr., Democrat-turned-Independent, are now in a deep schism over him.

Prominent Republicans are openly organizing a statewide "Republicans for Byrd Committee"—with the claimed backstage blessing of Nixon Administration officials.

Among the latter named are Harry Dent, White House political aide, Senator John Tower, Tex., chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, and Representative Joel Broyhill, veteran northern Virginia GOP leader.

All were in the forefront in vigorously urging party endorsement of Byrd by the state convention. That was blocked by Governor Linwood Holton, first Republican to hold that office since the reconstruction era. Placing his prestige on the line, he forced the nomination of Ray Garland, 36-year-old former teacher.

But while Holton was successful in his whip-cracking at the party convention, subsequent developments indicate he will have a lot of trouble holding the GOP rank and file in line behind Garland.

Already Byrd's Republican supporters are confidently asserting Garland will wind up third as against Byrd and a Democrat to be chosen in the July 14 primary. Three are running for the Democratic senatorial nomination—State Delegate Clive DuVal, former Delegate George Rawlings and Milton Colvin, professor of political science at Washington and Lee University.

Active in the drive to organize a statewide "Republicans for Byrd Committee" are:

Donald Baldwin, Alexandria, former White House assistant.

Marshall Beverley, former Mayor of Alexandria and senior vice president of one of the largest banks in the state who supported Holton for governor last year.

Lawrence Lewis, Richmond, active in the campaigns for both Nixon and Holton.

Stetson Coleman, The Plains, who played a similar role.

Robert Peck, Arlington, prominent businessman and close Broyhill adherent.

UNANNOUNCED PLANS—Chairman and other officers of the "Republicans for Byrd Committee" are in process of being agreed on and will be announced shortly.

Also being set up is a large finance committee, of 25 or more members. Finance and campaign committees are contemplated in every county. State headquarters will be in Richmond.

In publicly avowing himself a Republican for Byrd, former Alexandria Mayor Beverley sounded the keynote for the significant schism movement.

"Senator Byrd has been a more consistent and effective supporter of the Nixon Administration than many Republican senators," pointed out Beverley.

"Harry voted for the Haynsworth and Carswell nominations to the Supreme Court and he has steadfastly backed the President on Vietnam and other foreign and military policies. Virginia Republicans could make no better use of their ballot than to cast it for Byrd in November."

"And from what I hear from other Republicans throughout the state, I am convinced Harry will get 50 per cent of the party vote. The Republican candidate will run third."

Delegate DuVal says he will spend around $150,000 in his campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination. That is three times the amount, his two rivals expect to put out. Former Delegate Rawlings estimates his expenditures at $40,000; Professor Coffin, $50,000.

POLITICALS—Senate Democratic doves are weighing a plea for funds for Earl Craig, 31-year-old Negro who wants to challenge former Vice President Humphrey for the Democratic Farmer-Labor senatorial nomination. Craig, former Afro-American lecturer at Minnesota University, says if he can raise $200,000.

Senate peaceniks have a campaign chest of more than $450,000 as a result of contributions in response to newspaper ads and radio appeals. Craig is backed by New Left elements, supporters of Senator Eugene McCarthy and black activists. At the recent DFL convention, Humphrey won the party's endorsement with 76 per cent of the vote, as against 21 per cent for Craig, and 3 per cent abstaining.

If Craig should run as an independent in the fall election, he could take a lot of votes from Humphrey in his race with Representative Clark MacGregor, young and vigorous Republican.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield is getting no free ride for re-election for a fourth term in Montana. Statewide organizations to oppose him already have been set up by opponents of the federal law requiring gun registration—which Mansfield supported. In 1964, Mansfield won a third term with 64 per cent of the vote.

But this year he is being vigorously fought by two statewide bipartisan organizations—the Association to Preserve our Right to Keep and Bear Arms, headed by A.J. Hollowell, publisher of the Armed Bagle, and the Committee Against Mansfield, directed by Daniel Masse, who operates Poor Henry's Bar, in Clinton. Both organizations have a number of chapters in the state.

Exercise in futility: Introduction of a bill by Senator Stephen Young, D-O., to "control underground fires in coal formations." At 81, Young is not running for re-election and his bill, introduced at this late stage in the congressional session, has no more chance of getting anywhere than he has of being in the next Congress. Offering this measure was sheer grandstanding on the octogenarian's part.

Senator Albert Gore, D-Tenn., running for a fourth term, is publishing a book, "Eye of the Storm," in September. Gore is engaged in the toughest political battle of his 32 years in Congress—14 in the House, 18 in the Senate. He is a leading dove and caustic critic of President Nixon's domestic policies. In 1968, the President carried Tennessee with 38 per cent of the vote, Wallace got 34 per cent, Humphrey 28 per cent.

According to Bill Allen, administrative assistant of Gore, his strategy is based on winning a majority of the Wallace supporters on economic issues. Gore has voted for civil rights measures.

MORE RUSSIAN INTRUSION—U.S. intelligence has definitely established that Russia is building a satellite communications station in Cuba.

Main purpose of this provocative installation is to monitor and track U.S. missiles launched from Cape Kennedy and from Polar submarines operating in the Atlantic.

The station, one of the largest and most advanced of its kind, also will enable Moscow to beam television and other propaganda programs direct to Cuba.

The agreement to construct the communications installation is part of a so-called scientific exchange pact between the two countries. The station will be manned by Soviet technicians and entirely under their control. The Castro regime will have no voice in the operation of the installation.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

English is the richest language in the world, with some 800,000 words. Despite this fact, The World Almanac notes that the speaking vocabulary of well-educated Americans is only about 5,000 words. Experts doubt if any one person has an active vocabulary of 60,000 words—a mere 7.5 per cent of the entire English language.
