

Doctor Issues Second Report Of Inhuman Practices In South Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An American woman doctor has reported widespread instances of torture, unspeakable living conditions and other "inhuman practices" at a second South Vietnamese prison.

Dr. Marjorie Nelson, New Haven, Conn., made the report in letters to Reps. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., and Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif.—the two congressmen who reported the infamous "tiger cages" at Con Son Island after a recent trip to South Vietnam.

Dr. Nelson, who worked with the American Friends Service Committee, told in her letters of conditions at the Quang Ngai Province civilian prison between September, 1963 and October, 1969. Anderson placed her letter in the Congressional Record and Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., called her to testify today before his House foreign operations subcommittee.

Here are excerpts from her letter: "Torture—I saw dozens of patients with bruises of varying severity. I also examined patients who had coughed up, vomited or urinated blood after being beaten about the chest, back and stomach. On at least two occasions I was able to document, by X-rays, fractures of the bones following beatings. Prisoners also told me of being tortured by electricity, with wires attached to ears, nipples, and genitalia, by being forced to drink concoctions containing powdered lime and other noxious substances, by being tied up and suspended by ropes, often upside down, from the rafters for hours. I examined a woman seven months pregnant who had been badly beaten, the previous week. This was the worst example.

Conditions—"The nurse assigned to Quang Ngai Prison was an opium addict and I only met him in the dispensary once in my 13 months there. Prisoners themselves manned the dispensary in addition to the crowding there was neither running water nor latrines in any of the rooms where prisoners were confined from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. and food and water were both provided in unsanitary if not uncontaminated conditions.

Sentences—Officials said 80 per cent of the inmates were "political prisoners," wrote Dr. Nelson, but conversations with many of them indicated their political crime was improper or incomplete papers, presence in an "unauthorized place" or in the case of the women, inability to account for the whereabouts of their husbands, who were therefore assumed to be NLF (Viet Cong) guerrillas."

Dr. Nelson said she and a fellow worker unsuccessfully appealed for help to the American province senior adviser and the Vietnamese province chief.

"The State—that two-pronged organism comprising those who exercise political power plus those for whose economic advantage the power is wielded—which is everywhere and always the enemy of responsible individuals."—Robert M. Thornton in "The Freeman."

FOR GIRLSTOWN

Parachute Thrills To Fill Two-Day Program

Parachutists from as far away as Los Angeles and Denver are expected to converge on Perry Lefors Field Saturday and Sunday for the Girlstown, USA. Parachute meet.

Activities will get underway at 8:30 a.m. Saturday with an experimental aircraft "fly-in" breakfast sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary and the Pampa Citizen Band Radio Club.

Jumping will begin at 9 a.m. each day, with parachutists competing for $1,000 in cash prizes plus trophies.

Individual prizes of $100 will be awarded to parachutists scoring the greatest number of points in accuracy contests. The accuracy jumps will be in four categories, depending upon the number of jumps the parachutist has made. No one with less than 13 jumps will be allowed to participate.

Teams will compete for $100 and a trophy in an egg pass event. Parachutists will jump from a height of 7,500 feet, pass an egg to a teammate and land with accuracy on the ground.

The overall high scorer in the meet will be awarded a grand prize of $500 and a trophy.

Second place winners in each event will receive $25 and a trophy, and third place winners will be presented trophies.

Proceeds from the meet will go to "Girlstown, USA, at Whiteface. The girls will operate a booth during the meet to sell hand crafts they have made to raise funds.

Tickets may be purchased at First National Bank, Citizens Bank and Trust, Montgomery Ward, and Gibson's Discount Center.

Tickets will also be available at the gate both days.

Strike Sends British Women On Buying Panic

LONDON (UPI)—British housewives bustled through supermarkets in a panic buying spree today despite government assurances there was no immediate prospect of a food shortage as a result of the three-day-old nationwide dock strike.

The government alerted 25,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen to be ready to unload perishable foodstuffs from ships stranded in Britain's 40 seaports. They were not expected to be used before early next week for fear of angering the striking dockers and hampering chances of a settlement.

Prices rose at the prospects of a prolonged strike in an island nation that depends on ships for food. The prices of a rump roast went from 80 to 96 cents a pound.

Rising prices did not deter the housewives. They picked grocery shelves clean of meat, butter, fruit and other imported foods.

"The strike is terrible. Business is wonderful," said Malcolm Avery, a grocer in London's West End.

Review Of City Budget Request Completed Today

Review of Pampa's municipal budget for fiscal 1970-71 was completed today by City Manager Charles Hill and city staff members.

Budget request meetings with department heads have been in progress for the past week or ten days.

Today's individual meetings with department chiefs dealt principally with capital outlay proposals, Hill said.

Indications today were that the city will have a balanced budget, although in all probability it will be higher than the current year's budget due to increases in employees' salaries, workmen's compensation and higher insurance coverage for city workers.

Pampa's 1969-70 budget total estimate was $1,855,302.

The city manager said he expected to put in a great deal of time next week preparing his annual budget message to the mayor and city commissioners.

A date during the week of Aug. 3-7 is expected to be set by the commission for an informal discussion of budget matters with the city manager.

The final proposed budget is due to be filed with the city secretary Aug. 21 and then formally be submitted to the city governing body.

A public hearing on the finalized budget will be set for Sept. 8 along with first reading of budget and tax rate ordinances.

Second and final reading of the legislation is scheduled for Sept. 22 and on Thursday, Oct. 1, beginning of the new fiscal year, the budget will be filed with the Gray County clerk and the state comptroller's office in Austin.

Foreign Minister Gets Backing For Russian Pact

LONDON (UPI)—Foreign Minister Walter Scheel of West Germany won full British backing today for negotiating a nonaggression pact with Russia, government officials said.

He was to leave later in the day for Washington to seek U.S. approval from Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Scheel briefed the British foreign secretary, Sir Alex Douglas-Home, Thursday night and today on West Germany's negotiating plans for the talks that open July 27 in Moscow, and planned to make a similar presentation to Rogers.

West Germany announced Thursday it would hold the talks in an effort to achieve the first nonaggression pact between a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) member and the Soviet Union.

The United States, Britain and France already had expressed support for the principle of a nonaggression agreement between the two countries. They did not consider it a conflict with German commitments to NATO.

Report Indicates Worst Has Passed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prospects for an upturn in the economy this fall brightened today following a government report that indicated the worst is probably over in the most severe business slump in a decade.

The Commerce Department said Thursday the nation's total output of goods and services increased 0.3 per cent during the last three months, ending a slide that had pushed output down during the previous six months.

Harold C. Passer, assistant commerce secretary for economic policy, said the report showed "the economy has stabilized... this lays the foundation for an early resumption of growth."

The government said the Gross National Product (GNP), a measure of the total value of all goods and services, was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $970.1 billion in the second quarter of this year, up $10.6 billion from the first quarter.

The advance of 4.5 per cent was due to the 0.3 per cent increase in physical output plus 4.2 per cent price inflation. The rate of inflation, although still severe, was the lowest in almost two years.

Passer said the slowdown in the rate of inflation was "primarily due to technical factors." But he added, "there is some encouraging evidence on the price front."

In a related development, Walter Heller, chief economic adviser to former President John F. Kennedy, said inflation is "at last on the wane." He urged the Nixon administration to ease up on economic restraints that could produce a recession.

But Raymond J. Saulnier, top economic adviser to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, disagreed. He said: "There is as yet too little evidence that inflation is being overcome to justify a relaxation of restraint."

Heller said unemployment could go as high as 6 per cent next year unless the administration eases the economic brakes. He said the winter slump was the nation's "first consciously induced, managed and engineered economic downswing."

The GNP increase was due primarily to a spurt in spending by consumers. Both government spending and business investment were almost unchanged. Disposable personal income increased by a record $19 billion, pushed up by retroactive increases in Social Security and government employee salaries.

GUERRILLAS WITHDRAW

Cambodian Troops Recapture Kirirom

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian units have recaptured the mountaintop town of Kirirom from guerrilla soldiers, who were reported today to have withdrawn after setting fire to several buildings, including ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk's former vacation retreat.

A military spokesman said the five government battalions, three of them made up of Green Berets in Vietnam, had suffered "fairly heavy" losses in the six-day battle that ended Thursday afternoon. No Communist casualties were given.

Military spokesmen in the Cambodian capital said the Communists retreated from Kirirom after burning Chalet d'Etat, Sihanouk's former retreat, a military shop and several other buildings overlooking Highway 4.

The command in Phnom Penh, in addition, reported a second day of fighting at the government supply depot at Long Vek, 30 miles north of Phnom Penh on Highway 7. Spokesmen said an estimated 300 guerrillas first attacked the garrison Wednesday night. In an apparent attempt to prevent reinforcements from reaching Long Vek from RITUAL KILLING?

Girl Slain, Another Wounded By Stabber In Chicago Hotel

CHICAGO (UPI)—One young woman from California attending a Japanese-American convention at one of Chicago's best hotels was stabbed to death and another was critically wounded by a man who entered their room, police said early today.

The victims were found by a third young woman sharing the room at the Palmer House Hotel. Police said "some correspondence" was found in the room, but there was "nothing to indicate it was a ritual killing."

Both of the victims suffered slashed throats. The nude body of Evelyn Okubo, 18, Stockton, Calif., was found in the bathtub of the seventh-floor room by Patti Iwataki, 18, Los Angeles. Miss Okubo's hands were tied behind her back.

Miss Iwataki also found Ranko Carol Yamada, 18, Stockton, on a bed. Her throat also was slashed and her hands tied behind her back. Miss Iwataki ran screaming from the bloody room.

Miss Yamada was rushed to Hennrich Hospital where doctors performed emergency surgery. A hospital spokesman said she was in critical condition, but it appeared she would live.

The victims were attending the 21st biennial convention of the Japanese-American Citizens League, which began Tuesday and was to end Saturday. Today's program was canceled, but a convention spokesman said there had been no decision made on whether to cancel a speech Saturday night by S. I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College.

Newsman asked Chief of Homicide John Cartin about rumors that "ritual" notes had been left in the room, saying "Death is Beautiful."

Cartin said, "There was nothing to indicate it's a ritual killing, but there was some correspondence in the room." Deputy Chief of Detectives William Murphy refused to say what had been written, but said the "correspondence" had been made with a black felt pen on white paper.

Police first said there was a description of the killer, but later said they had none.

While police swarmed all over the seventh floor, other young people attending the convention went to the Monroe Room, the convention's sixth-floor headquarters. Many girls said they would stay there during the night and police sealed off the sixth and seventh floors.

The body had two bullets in the heart. Aramburu was 67 when he was kidnaped from his Buenos Aires apartment by two men posing as army officers.

Police said troops found the body at the La Celma Ranch, owned by the family of Carlos Ramus, 22, one of five persons sought in the kidnaping. It was in the basement of the house, near the town of Carlos Tejedor, 230 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

The lime-covered, badly decomposed body bore two bullets in the heart and was clad in a checked sports jacket with the label of Aramburu's tailor, police said. The left hand bore a wedding ring, with the initials of Aramburu and his wife, Sara, and their wedding date, 1932.

News In Brief

Bus Crash Hearing Ordered

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—A federal hearing was ordered today to determine what caused a chartered bus to skid off rain-slicked Interstate 78 Wednesday, killing seven school children.

John H. Reed, chairman of the National Transportation and Safety Board, who is investigating the accident, said he will schedule a hearing within 4 to 6 weeks to obtain "eyewitness" testimony.

Reed said the S-shaped portion of the highway where the bus skidded was "an accident-prone stretch of highway" and scene of three accidents within a week.

The 21-year-old heir to the British throne and his sister Princess Anne received a royal White House welcome Thursday after arriving for a three-day visit, then skipped off with young Eisenhower and the

Postal Rate Increase Ok'd

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has given the post office permission to raise Parcel Post rates an average 15.4 per cent and to increase catalogue postage by 6 per cent.

The higher rates will go into effect after a reasonable time for public notice and consultation with major Parcel Post users.

Nixon daughters for a round of swimming, skeet shooting and sightseeing.

More of the same was on tap for today with a tour of the Capitol and a meeting with congressional leaders; a visit to the Smithsonian Institution; a cruise down the Potomac to Mount Vernon; a tea party at the British Embassy and a formal supper dance on the White House lawn.

The minimum postage for parcels mailed for local delivery will be increased from the present 50 cents to 60 cents. For nonlocal deliveries, the minimum rate per parcel would go from 60 cents to 65 cents.

Federal Judge Rules Against Veteran Texas Congressman

BALTIMORE (UPI)—A federal judge has ruled against Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., moving the veteran congressman closer to a trial on charges of bribery, conspiracy and perjury.

U.S. District Judge Roszel T. Thomsen ruled Thursday he could not dismiss the charges against Dowdy and said two actions by the lawmaker were not exempted from prosecution due to congressional immunity.

The denial of the dismissal motion clears a major hurdle toward the trial which is still scheduled to begin in Baltimore Sept. 14.

Dowdy has pleaded innocent to the charges connected with alleged efforts to squelch a federal investigation of a now-defunct Washington home improvement firm controlled by Nathan Cohen of Baltimore.

Defense lawyers asked Thomsen to dismiss the charges on grounds the alleged actions by Dowdy were "legislative" in nature and thus protected by congressional immunity.

Thomsen ruled however "the acts charged to Dowdy cannot reasonably be considered legislative acts."

In an 11-page opinion, Thomsen said Dowdy could be prosecuted for allegedly seeking to have Cohen testify before a congressional committee in order to gain immunity, and for accepting money to influence a matter in which the government had an interest. The government claims Dowdy tried to obtain documents connected with the Justice Department investigation and give them to Cohen.

Dowdy was indicted in March and Thomsen ruled the alleged actions cited in the indictments come under "narrowly drawn statutes by Congress which delegate certain powers to the courts to discipline congressmen."

One count of the March 31 indictment alleges Dowdy and Myrvin C. Clark crossed state lines with $25,000 in bribe money for the Texas congressman. The indictment said a briefcase containing the money was taken by Clark from Maryland to the Atlanta airport "with the intent to facilitate the bribery of Dowdy."

Another count of the indictment alleges Dowdy committed perjury when he was asked about his relationship with Clark during a grand jury appearance on March 4.

Dowdy, 68 and an 18-year veteran of the House from Athens, Tex., is accused of agreeing with Clark and Cohen he would talk to the Justice Department about the investigation of the Monarch Construction Co., the defunct home improvement firm. Cohen, the president of the firm, was named in the indictment. But he is not a defendant.

The indictment also claims Dowdy agreed to call Cohen before his House district subcommittee and give him immunity from prosecution if he testified about his financial trouble.

Clark, a codefendant, pleaded guilty April 9 and turned states evidence. The government agreed to consolidate the indictments against Clark and sentence him to no more than five years in prison.

Dowdy is the first congressman since 1962 to be indicted. In 1962, Rep. Thomas F. Johnson, D-Md., and Rep. Frank W. Boykin, D-Ala., were accused of trying to influence the Justice Department to drop an indictment against a Maryland savings and loan association figure.

Dowdy was first elected to Congress in 1952 on a campaign theme of "honesty, economy and sound government." The National Economic Council Inc. of New York said Thursday Dowdy was one of 19 House members who voted 100 per cent pro-American during the current session.

Dowdy is not opposed on the November ballot although former District Judge Eugene R. Hoyt is running a write-in campaign to unseat the veteran representative.

Dowdy was born Feb. 11, 1912, in Waco.

DRESSING FOR RULINGS

Texas Labor Laws May Be Challenged

By JACK GRAEME
McALLEN (UPI)—The United Farm Workers Organizing Committee is likely to press soon for court rulings to determine if Texas' labor laws are constitutional.

The committee filed a suit in 1968 to determine the legality of several of the labor laws. The case was heard by three federal judges but no decision was ever rendered.

The committee decided not to press the issue at first but is changing their minds now in the wake of recent contract agreements signed by California grape growers led by Cesar Chavez.

David Hall, an attorney for the committee, said Thursday the committee may request Judge Reynaldo Garza for a decision on their suit. The committee was told in a court order to stop picketing and stop organizing because of violence that occurred in Starr County during an unsuccessful organization campaign.

Hall said Chris Dixie, who served as the committee's attorney in the suit, "hopes to ask Judge Garza for some decision soon but first we want to get it cleared from Chavez."

Antonio Oredain, the committee's chief organizer in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, said he talked with Chavez earlier this week.

"The first thing we must do is find out the status of the legal cases," Oredain said.

"Our hands would really be tied if we got into a strike, situation without some laws clarified," Hall said.

The committee's suit claims Texas' laws on secondary boycotts and secondary picketing are unconstitutional. The suit also claims even if the laws were legal, the manner in which they are enforced by Texas Rangers amounts to strike breaking.

While the committee has waited for a decision on its suit, committee members have continued recruiting efforts. It is planning to open a recruiting office in Brownsville shortly.

Oredain said the union also has been meeting informally with small farmers.

"We are meeting with some growers so that ultimately we will be able to negotiate contracts without having to strike," he said.

"There is a unity of interest between the small farmers and the farm workers," Hall said.

Hall also said the union has made no overtures to large farmers in Starr County.

Colima Street--Even Kids Sell Narcotics

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Roy Valdez knows about one of the leading "carrier of drugs" in a 12-block area of San Antonio. The carrier was a small girl sent by her parents to get drugs.

Valdez also knows the routes taken by the area's heroin addicts—most of them still in junior high school.

Valdez, the director of the Guadalupe Community Center, released his personal report Thursday on his observations in West San Antonio. In the report he documents the flow of narcotics among the youths and the effect of narcotics on the neighborhood.

Valdez studied the narcotics situation for a year before writing his report. He began his study following his return from Kansas.

"After a year of absence from the community I quickly became aware of a large number of young users here in our own area of service," he said.

"From a short visit in a corner barber shop and a local service station nearby, I soon learned the names, ages and number of young men involved in the use of heroin.

"Most began smoking marijuana at 14 and by the time they were 15 or 16 they were well on their way to becoming (heroin) addicts," Valdez said.

"They mentioned a strong craving for the stuff and constantly being around others who used it became more and more a part of their everyday life."

Valdez said the increase in drug usage was reflected in reduction of gang violence in the area.

House Committee Votes To Boost Health Research

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Appropriations Committee voted recently to boost administration spending plans for hospitals and health research by nearly $207 million this fiscal year.

The money was included in an $18.8 billion appropriations measure approved by the committee for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare for the current 1971 fiscal year. After various cuts and additions, the final bill represented a net increase of $92.9 million over administration requests.

The big boosts were $92.7 million for grants and loans to communities to help build hospitals, and a total of $114.2 million for numerous research projects conducted by the national institutes of health.

Nixon earlier vetoed a bill authorizing the hospital and research programs on ground that the bill would force him to spend the money. Congress overrode the veto, paving the way for actual appropriation of the money as recommended today by the Appropriations Committee.

Ellsworth Bunker To Return To US To Discuss Talks

SAIGON (UPI) —U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker will return to Washington Saturday for a National Security Council meeting to discuss further strategy at the Paris talks.

U.S. officials said Bunker would be joined at the meeting by David K. Bruce, recently named by President Nixon to head the U.S. delegation at the talks, and Philip Habib, Bruce's predecessor.

It was not disclosed how long Bunker would remain in the United States. Officials said he probably would return to South Vietnam with Bruce. It was understood Bruce wants to visit Vietnam before assuming his post in Paris Aug. 1.

"The ambassador is going to Washington at President Nixon's request to help brief Mr. Bruce on Vietnam as he sees it and to discuss future strategy at the talks," an official said.

Comedian Lloyd Condition Good

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Movie comedian Harold Lloyd was reported in good condition at St. John's Hospital today following a kidney operation.

Lloyd, 76, entered the hospital late last week.

The comedian, who appeared in 300 films from the silent era of the 1920s through the beginning of talking pictures in the 1930s, made lenseless horn-rimmed spectacles a film comedy staple. He has been in semiretirement for several years.

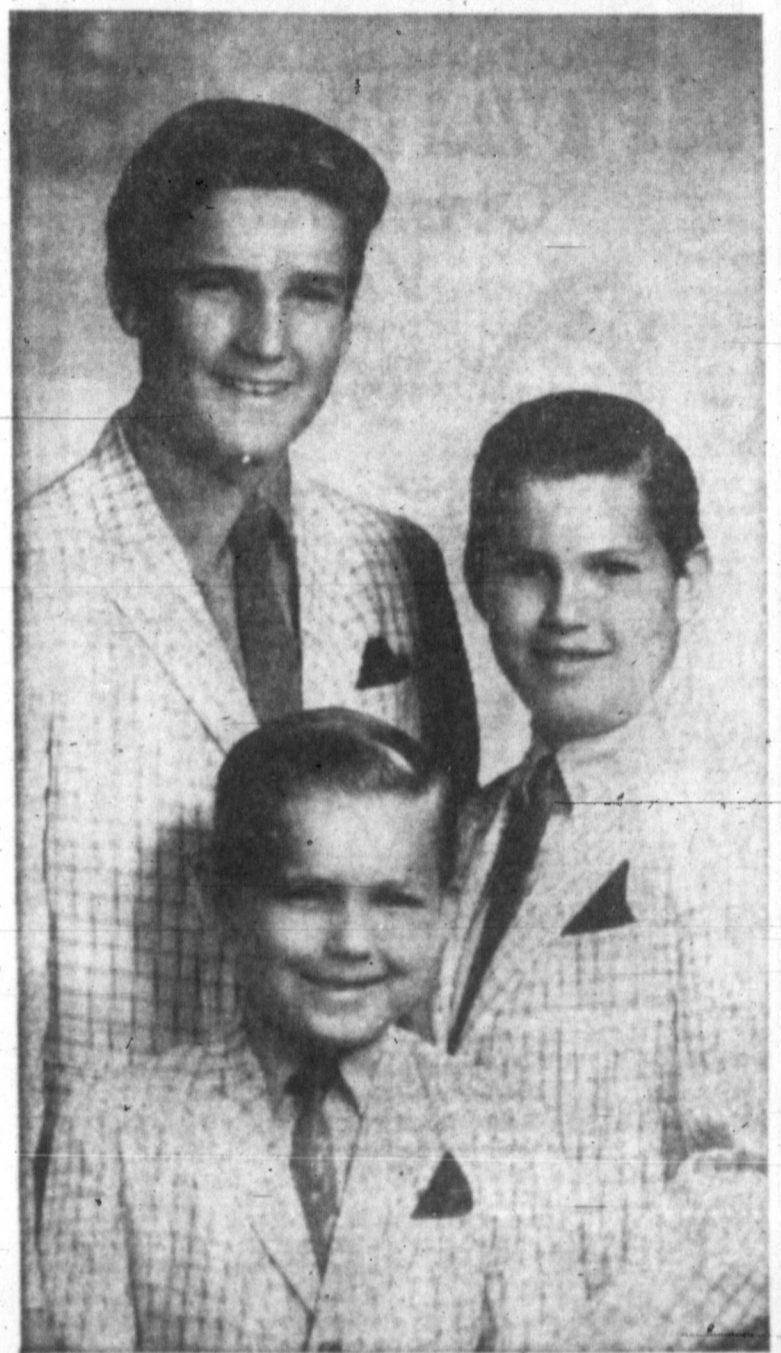

"If I were working for the Department of Justice I would wonder why the membership is so lopsided," Dixie said.

The government has not yet finished presenting its case, Houston attorney Warner F. Brock, representing the union, estimated it could take three or four days for the defense to present its case.

CHANGE OF MIND Longshoremen To Seek Merger

HOUSTON (UPI) — An all-Negro International Longshoremen Association local has changed its mind and decided to seek a merger with an all-white local in Brownsville.

When the Justice Department first filed suit against 37 Texas locals for alleged racial discrimination, Local 1368 said it would rather remain segregated.

But D. J. Lerma, attorney for the Negro local, filed a petition in U. S. district court Wednesday saying the local now feels its only chance of getting a fair share of the work load at Port Brownsville lies in merging with all-white Local 1367.

Lerma also filed an amended answer to the Department of Justice suit reversing the local's pretrial opposition to the merger.

The Negro local has been fighting for a fatter share of the work since 1950, when the national IILA forced the white longshoremen to assign 25 per cent of the dock work to Negroes.

The federal discrimination trial of the 37 locals enters its fourth day today. The suit is being tried in Houston before Judge Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville.

Herman Wright, a Houston attorney representing the white local, filed a motion to exclude both Brownsville locals from the discrimination suit. He said the National Labor Relations Board has jurisdiction over the Brownsville locals because of a case pending before it since 1963. Garza did not rule on Wright's motion.

The Brownsville local is now the second Negro local to support the government's suit, the other being Local 329 of Galveston.

Chris Dixie, attorney for all-white Local 1273 of Houston introduced figures which he said proved his union and the all-black Local 72 practice meticulous honesty in splitting longshore work in Houston.

Justice Department attorney Andrew J. Ruzicho, of Washington told the court "segregated locals are a per se violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

"When there are such locals there are inherent vices of discrimination built into that system," Ruzicho said.

Dixie asked why the Justice Department was not investigating Local 1351 of the IILA clerks and checkers, which he said has only four or five Negroes and 215 white members.

"If I were working for the Department of Justice I would wonder why the membership is so lopsided," Dixie said.

The government has not yet finished presenting its case, Houston attorney Warner F. Brock, representing the union, estimated it could take three or four days for the defense to present its case.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I would like to pass along a little advice to the young mother who was so upset over having to tell her mother they were expecting their third child in five years.

When I told my little 96-year-old mother that my daughter was expecting her fourth child, she looked at me and smiled, and said, "It's always nicer to put an extra chair up to the table than to take one away."

MACON, MISSOURI
DEAR MISSOURI: Your "little 96-year-old mother" was probably thinking about the days of her youth when another child meant another much-needed farm hand. Today, if somebody doesn't blow the whistle on the birth rate, we won't need any chairs.

DEAR ABBY: All four of your corners are showing again. I refer to your backward attitude with regard to "swinging."

Any swinger can tell you that there are personality clashes between "hip" people the same as between the squares. Incompatibility is not just a word used by lawyers to obtain favorable court action for the clients.

You could have told your correspondent to increase the number of couples she and her husband go around with. Perhaps one of the new wives will dig her husband, and one of the new husbands will dig her. There's nothing in the rules that limits the number of participating couples.

NEVADA READER
DEAR READER: Let's call a spade a spade. The kind of "digging" you seem to dig is the best way I know to bury a marriage.

DEAR ABBY: You hear doctors complain that they are cornered at cocktail parties and asked for free professional advice. Well, how about lawyers?

I am married to a lawyer.

and a doctor friend of ours corners him every time we see them socially, and this doctor has gotten plenty of free legal advice from my husband. At the last social gathering, my husband gave him at least $300 worth of legal advice regarding his ex-wife's right to claim more support money for their child.

When I commented later to my husband that he and our doctor friend were in a huddle for a very long time, my husband said, "He always wants some free legal advice. When you or the children go to his office, he sends me a bill!"

But then he calmed down and said, "But as long as I'm with people and have to talk about something, I'd prefer to be talking law."

ATTORNEY'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Your husband has a point. But not all lawyers like to talk "law" when they're out socially.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to CARL, and all his statistics about women being upgraded to the same status as men: I weigh 100 pounds. Obviously I'm not about to demand a job with the Green Bay Packers in the name of "women's rights." (A 100 pound man couldn't make the team either.) I might qualify as a jockey, however, and shouldn't be kept from this occupation because I am a woman.

I wouldn't make a very good ditch-digger, either. I don't have the strength. Few 100 pound men are ditch-diggers. On the other hand, some 175 pound woman might do well in this job.

If I were to demand equal rights and opportunities in this society, I would be more than willing to share the responsibilities, to be subject to the draft and combat duty (as all women in Israel are), to pay my own way on dates, etc. As for ulcers, I already have one.

Yours Sincerely,
ANN T.: S.F., CAL.

Teenagers Offer Tips For Neatness

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob and Betsy, Joan and Bill aren't featured stars in a bedroom film.

The teen-agers from Wyoming, Maryland, Washington and Alaska are winners of a nationwide contest on good grooming. They were in New York the other day to have their picture taken for a poster that plugs neatness and will be put up in 50,000 classrooms when school reopens.

Featured on the new grooming poster, distributed as part of the educational services of a cosmetic firm, are Betsy Morris, 16, a senior at Cheyenne Central High School, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Joan Pratt, 18, a June graduate of Northwestern Senior High School in Baltimore; Robert Denham, 18, a senior at Lewis and Clark Senior High in Spokane; and William James, 18, who graduated last month from Juneau-Douglas High School in Juneau, Alaska.

Their definitions of good grooming included:

—Bob: "Neat and clean and always fit."

—Joan: "Clean and neat and dressed to fit the place and occasion."

The teen-agers had these specific good-grooming tips for their peers:

—For girls: Clothes, old or new, must be neat and clean; wash hair as often as needed, even three times a week if necessary; use deodorant, cologne or perfume; don't wear too much makeup to school; stay healthy and get enough sleep. Before leaving the house, check yourself, fore and aft, in a mirror. Stitch a hem that's falling out and remove hanging strings or threads.

—For boys: Shave every day; wash hair every other day or daily in the shower; do exercises to keep your body in good condition; clothes should be cleaned and pressed; nails, spotless. Brush shoes every day and polish at least once a week.

Italian Fashions Adopt America's Drip-Dry Styles

ROME (UPI)—The elegant world of Italian high fashion has gone drip-dry—American style.

American designers Michael La Mendola and Jack Savage showed the international fashion press and buyers in a midnight show Sunday that wash-and-wear synthetics can be used in style year-round.

Their colorful "Four Seasons" collection, in blue for autumn, red for winter, green for spring—and yellow for summer came in chiffon, crepe, satin, pongee, heavy twill and gabardine—all of them made of synthetics or of dacron-cotton blends.

The collection was commissioned by Klopman International, a division of Burlington Industries, to illustrate the uses of their new Italian-made synthetic fabrics made from Du Pont fibers. La Mendola usually works in costlier silks and wool knits.

There was a harem look to abstract print dresses over long harem pants in blue, which teamed with solid blue twill coats.

Even more harem was a beach outfit of beaded bikini and dacron chiffon print coverup in pale yellow. The coverup outfit was a butterfly-sleeved garment with harem pants, the bodice slit to the bottom of the hip and tied at the neck. It would not prevent sunburn.

Daytime dresses came with full sleeves, often swirling out from smocked shoulders. An evening pantsuit in solid chartreuse had a hip-length bodice, solidly smocked, and sleeves and huge pantlegs of knife-pleated chiffon.

Silk twills in red floral prints were made into gowns with double circle skirts, so full and heavy they knocked over floorstanding ashtrays as the models swirled by.

One nonsynthetic sneaked into the show—a floor-length green print evening gown with flared skirt came with a matching tight-sleeved coat which reversed to black ostrich.

SATURDAY, JULY 18 YOUR BIRTHDAY SATURDAY: Your work—and your errors—of the past two or three years produce results this year. It's the harvest phase of your basic cycle. Increased authority brings heavier responsibility. You are unlikely to be left undisturbed in comfortable routines. Freer and more exciting emotional expression comes to you in unplanned episodes. Saturday's natives tend toward patient study, mystical interests, abrupt status changes.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): Unsettled conditions make the early hours interesting, perhaps inconvenient. The later hours are much happier, with brief, interesting moments of sentiment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Think over your plans Saturday in the light of late events, and make some little changes where appropriate. It is a generally quiet day. Get extra rest.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Early in the day some question without a ready answer will occur and will color the whole day, getting in the way of routine. Study and prayer will bring guidance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Now the crisis arises over whose plans are to be followed. Go along with those of your loved ones and good friends. Your turn comes another day.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Expect sudden resistance, contrary views. See the situation as an opportunity to sell your view; expect no agreement for the moment; force no issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Concentrate on work that can be done single-handed or alone. Your partial privacy helps, you realize where you are in your world.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Once again your home life runs into conflict with your vocation; something has to be put off for a time. It will be easier if you see the trend early.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep in mind future cooperation rather than Saturday's passing disagreements. Dig into the background of current issues. You may find something that changes your views.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Give thought to your health and personal habits. Bear with people who have different opinions—they may come around later if you remain calm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There is no merit in pushing plans after they've misfired. Start fresh when you find out what you have on hand to work with.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your most creative hobby shows promise. Experimental procedures turn out surprising results. Research, the seeking of odd facts are indicated.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have the chance to make new friends Saturday. Discussions with old friends run into complexities. Emotional urges come on rather strongly.

LOVE-TULIP
From a Seventeenth Century traveler in Persia we learn that the tulip is considered the emblem of perfect love. He wrote: "When a young man presents one to his mistress he gives her to understand, by the general color of the flower, that he is on fire with her beauty, and by the black base of it, that his heart is burnt to a coal."

Christian Science

Questions about the origin and preservation of life are answered from a metaphysical viewpoint in the Lesson Sermon on "Life," to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, July 19.

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science states:

"We apprehend Life in divine science only as we live above corporeal sense and correct it. Our proportionate admission of the claims of good or of evil determines the harmony of our existence — our health, our longevity, and our Christianity."

Central Baptist Church

Bryan G. Halliburton, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, will preach for the 11 a.m. worship using the subject "Sounding Forth Our Faith." The sermon will be taken from 1 Thessalonians 1:8.

Halliburton will speak using the subject "The Bible Speaks Concerning Responsibility." The message is based on Jonah 1:1-3. The church choir, under the direction of Marlin Hawkins, will present "There's No Friend Like Jesus" for the special music.

evangelist for the revival and Gene Kitterman of the Paramount Baptist Church in Amarillo, will lead the evangelistic music. The revival services are scheduled for 1 a.m. Monday through Friday and 7:30 each evening.

Marlin Hawkins will direct the music and the choir will present "He's a Wonderful Saviour to Me" and "The Shepherd of Love" for the special music.

Both the sermons and the special music are to be in preparation for their revival which begins August 2 and continues through the 9. The pastor will serve as the

The mid-week activities will begin with the choir programs at 7:00 p.m. and prayer meeting at 8:00 p.m. The pastor will continue his study of Revival in the Bible.

First Presbyterian Church

The First Presbyterian Church will welcome to the pulpit this Sunday, Mr. James Mossbacher, Clinical Pastoral Education Intern for the Plains Presbytery at High Plains

Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. Mr. Mossbacher is a student at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, Calif. His sermon topic will be "The Power to Bless." The scripture reading will be 1 Corinthians 13: Ruling Elder Don Loshier will assist with both worship services.

First Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church, will hear the pastor, Dan B. Cameron, preach for both services of worship Sunday for the 11 a.m. worship, he has chosen "The Zest for Living" for his sermon topic.

Jehovah's Witnesses Slate Amarillo District Assembly

G. D. GRIZZLE, circuit minister for Jehovah's Witnesses, who is a tri-annual visitor to Pampa, is one of the officials for the Watchtower Convention.

Highlights of the coming "Men of Goodwill" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses were discussed this week in the meeting of the Pampa congregation. More than 6,500 persons are expected to attend a 4-day convention, July 23-26, in the Amarillo Civic Center.

"Saving the Human Race—in the Kingdom Way" will be presented on the final day of the convention.

Commenting on the role members of the Pampa congregation will have in the forthcoming Christian gathering, Mr. Lyman Pinard, presiding minister, pointed to the spirit of unity enjoyed by Jehovah's Witnesses world wide and likened it to a huge family with all its members happy in their association together.

Delegates from 21 states have already indicated their plans to attend the Amarillo assembly. Local arrangements include preparations to transport new ones to the convention, a system which is practiced by all the congregations. Arrangements are made to help interested persons from the entire district to be able to attend the 4 days of Bible instruction.

Rev. Richard Saxer New Curate Assumes Duties At St. Matthew

Pinard reminded the congregation that the feature public talk, by Mr. L.M. Dugan, principal speaker from New York, would answer questions raised by many people today.

Rev. Richard H. Saxer has been appointed curate of Pampa's St. Matthew's Episcopal Church and Vicar of St. John the Baptist Episcopal Church in Clarendon.

Russians Oppose Religious Efforts

GLENDALE, Calif. — Communist opposition to underground churches in Russia is one of harassment and arrests. A newsletter issued by Jesus to the Communist World, Inc., tells of the protests of Christians in the town of Funze.

Rev. Saxer, who will also work with the St. Matthew's Day School, is a native Texan, but was reared in Springfield, Ill.

Some 20 prisoners struck to back up their demands which included a request for individual cereal packages rather than a large family-style box.

One hundred sixty Christians appeared at the office of the general attorney to protest mass arrests of other Christians. The protests came in the form of hymn singing. The Communists, outraged, began their own protests by photographing all the participants and countered the hymn singing by playing jazz music at a higher volume than the singing.

He is a 1967 graduate of the University of Illinois at Champaign and he graduated from Seabury-Western Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill., in May.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Inmates at the Mercer County Workhouse staged a brief work strike Monday.

When Culpepper left his second wife, Susan, she also moved to Carson City and decided to look up the first wife.

Rev. Saxer and his wife Diane reside at 1517 Dogwood. He began duties at the church Wednesday.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — What is labeled as the nation's first foolproof system to prevent airplane hijacks will be installed this week at New Orleans International Airport.

They compared notes and Culpepper, 23, Hillburg, Calif., was hauled in on bigamy charges.

Shot Kills Baby; Neighbor Charged

ANNOUNCING THE DEVICE, the Federal Aviation Administration said the system involves use of a meter to detect hidden metal on passengers or in baggage and a "behavioral profile chart" for identifying persons with "characteristic hijacker personality traits."

NEW YORK (UPI) — A shot fired through the first-floor window of a Bronx apartment early today killed Oswald Vargas, 3, asleep in his crib. Police later arrested a neighbor, Ruben Rodriguez, 30. Detectives said Rodriguez fired his 30-30 rifle from his third-floor apartment across the street when he thought he heard an intruder. They said he dropped the rifle out the window after firing. Rodriguez was charged with homicide.

The child was shot in the back while he slept. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

The Weekly Message of Inspiration

Revival Center Church

RUBY M. BURROW
Revival Center Church

Sin is to blame for all sorrow. The Devil is the originator of sin. His remaining time to tempt and destroy humanity is short. He knows it and works hard.

Jesus has more power. Matt. 28:18 And Jesus came and spake unto them saying all power is given unto Me in heaven and in earth.

This earth is under the curse that was put upon it when Adam and Eve sinned. One day that will be removed by Jesus.

No lion shall be there or ravenous beast shall go up thereon, it shall not be found there; but the redeemed shall walk there.

Just a little while and greater changes will come in this world. God has not forgotten. Sin will be punished. The redeemed will be rewarded.

The future is bright for the Christian. Rev. 22:17 And the Spirit and the bride say, Come and let him that heareth say, Come and let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will let him take the water of life freely.

ring Age

It is a right to expect to be served his beer over a public bar. None of us has the "right" to vote. Voting is a privilege granted by government, and it is not a right which we may exercise at will. It has the authority to set the voting age at any level it chooses. It could lower the voting age to 16, and it could deny the ballot to those over 65. In the latter case it is probable that the Constitution would have to be amended, just as it is possible that it will have to be amended to enfranchise 18-year-olds. Still, it would amount to either an extension or a denial of privilege — not an unalienable right which comes from the Creator, not from government.

Those who consider, free of any ulterior motive, the wisdom of lowering the voting age generally resolve their considerations to the single question: Is an 18-year-old mature enough to make a responsible decision? Some are and some aren't. Some people never reach the age at which they are able to make responsible decisions. The current crop of young people, we are informed — especially by college administrators — is especially idealistic and tries more than those who have gone before it, to face problems honestly.

We hope that is true. We hope that when the youthful voters consider their ballots they will do so as free men eager to promote freedom and to deny special privilege. If they do, they will be doing something to change the meaning of politics, as stated by Prof. Harold Lasswell. The study of politics, Lasswell said, is the study of "who gets what, when and how."

We should "get" only what's ours, but modern American democracy has permitted taking what rightfully belongs to one and giving it to another — by majority vote.

Import Quotas A Stoppag

The sigh of relief which the textile industry breathed over the President's reluctant support of an importation quota was a sort of excuse-me thing. Nobody, but nobody, really wants to defend the proposition of quotas. It is a bad business — no matter how necessary it may appear to be.

Everyone who owns a transistorized radio or TV set in the country is benefiting from Japanese importation of a product with which we can't compete. The main reason for this, of course, is the difference between the U.S. and Japanese wage scales.

It's obvious, however, that the consumer couldn't care less about the next person's wage scale. He wants the cheapest possible radios, TVs, and sweaters. He doesn't care if the sweater-buyer in Oregon that he should have to pay more for a sweater because the North Carolina wage scale is higher than the one in Japan. And most people would show little interest in paying 25 per cent more for their TV set because electronics workers in New Jersey get higher wages than their counterparts in Texas.

Still, there is some merit to the "excuse-me" quota system. Our entire economy is false, manipulated, maneuvered and ersatz. Here is no freedom of the market. Every segment of the economy is somehow penalized and must therefore be given a counterbalancing subsidy. There's no free lunch, only the illusion of one.

CURRENT FOREIGN AID APPROPRIATIONS

The foreign aid appropriation for the fiscal year 1970-71 may well be the lowest in the history of the program. This would be a step in the right direction in view of the failure of foreign aid to accomplish any worthwhile objectives. However, it is also important to realize that our government gives away billions of dollars each year to other countries in programs which are not labeled "foreign aid."

Recently Congressman Otto Passman of Louisiana made a careful and detailed study of the budget to determine exactly how much money we were giving to other countries. Although the labeled foreign aid appropriation last year was only $1.815 billion, Congressman Passman found a total of $12.133 billion in actual foreign assistance.

Among the items he uncovered were $2.2 billion appropriated by the Foreign Assistance Act, over $4 billion for the Export-Import Bank, $900 million in agricultural commodities, and over $200 million for the Inter-American Development Bank. Even if the identified foreign aid appropriation were cut to zero, our government would still be giving away billions of dollars to other governments each year.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

ERIE, Pennsylvania — This is an Erie Place. They have hundreds of cafes but no waitresses. The owners of the restaurants plead, wheedle, and cajole. They get nowhere. The waitresses they do get must be the culls of the crop.

We went into a restaurant and I order a chicken liver omelet. I figure they can't do much harm to eggs fixed like that. The waitress brought me some hunk of liver on toast. The Blouse & Skirt ordered a cheese omelet. Do you know what they brought her? A hot roast beef sandwich. The waitress said, "Somebody got the orders mixed up." As time went on, we knew who was mixed up alright.

The waitress took the wrong orders back and brought me a little dish of home-fried potatoes. The Blouse & Skirt got a baked potato wrapped in tinfoil. "Why does one omelet get has-been browns and another one baked?" I ask. "That's the way it is," she says.

When the potatoes had got cold she brought the omelets. They were so stiff on both sides they could have been served without a plate. When I remarked on this, the waitress said—

"The cook is on his break. I fried them omelets. While you was arguing about the potatoes I let them burn. So what do you expect?"

It was easy to see how mistakes were made in my own attempt to decipher the check. I didn't dare ask what the scribbling represented, but did venture to find out what was jotted on the back. It looked like this: Tanymu - Nny. "What is this on the back?" I ask. "Why, that says, 'Thank You - Mary'"

Wit And Whimsy

A small boy entering the foyer of a church sanctuary with his dad asked the meaning of the bronze plaque on the men who died in service. "Dad men who died in service," Dad answered. "Which one," asked the youngster, "morning or evening?"

CLEARING HOUSE

'Concerned GI' Takes Issue On Letter Praising Depugh

Editor: Recently, I read an article in the "Clearing House" column of your paper, which is sent to me while I am overseas. This letter praised Robert DePugh, the founder and head of the ultra-right wing Minutemen. I could not help but feel disgust, and perhaps, a little awe, at this gentleman's defense of Mr. DePugh. Robert DePugh is, in my opinion — which is the only one I am qualified to give — as great a danger to our nation as all the Jerry Rubins, and Penny Davis's of the "New Left."

Although, seemingly quite complacent on the issue of race, Mr. DePugh has made statements that brand him as an out and out racist. The book "Blue Print for Victory," which I have read, is a damning attack on our federal government, which he claims he so wholeheartedly wishes to save. Don't get me wrong, I do not claim to be a "mealy-mouthed" liberal, but quite the contrary, consider myself to be a conservative. But, a conservative more in the image of Richard M. Nixon, than of an out and out fanatic like Robert DePugh.

The Minutemen have expressed a philosophy which seems to go contrary to the views of our founding fathers, which they profess so much to admire. When Thomas Jefferson penned his great words "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," he didn't qualify it to strictly WASP's, negroes, Jews, or Gentiles, or any other group. He included everyone: both the Robert DePughs AND the Eugene McCarthys.

Once, the world had men like Mr. DePugh in positions of great authority. They were determined to make their country free of any and all dissent, whether legitimate or not. They were determined to purge their country of these "impure" elements, who disagreed with their own personal philosophies. Six million Jews died under the "Final Solution" of Adolf Hitler and Heinrich Himmler, but the NAZI government had no worries about internal disorders and a "loyal opposition."

Men like Robert DePugh, quite frankly, scare me. These misguided patriots claim to be saving our country from decadence and a corruption of morals, but feel it is quite alright to stockpile arms and train para-military groups. The stockpiling of automatic and stolen weapons, which the FBI claims a great percentage of the Minutemen's arms are, is contrary to federal law and therefore illegal. So by all means, let's stop this corruption by using illegal methods. Yes, sir! This sounds just a little bit like a double standard. What's bad for Paul should be bad for Peter, and vice-versa.

It's a shame these modern day self-styled Robin Hoods can't channel their energies and ideas into some constructive work.

I'm certain Mr. DePugh believes completely in his Minutemen, and that's what bothers me. He's a misguided fool who can't see any hope for his country, which is indeed unfortunate.

Whether Mr. DePugh is more dangerous in his beliefs than the S.D.S., is not really the question. It is unfortunate that our country must have elements of both these groups in it. But to deny either of them their right to speak is criminal. I only trust that the nation as a whole will not listen to them or believe wholeheartedly what they say.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and social issues which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: — Since, a Freedom Newspaper claims, tax-supported schools cannot teach morality, and since most of our population has attended state schools how does Freedom Newspapers explain the fact that most people are moral and good? If the state schools are such a bad influence, as Freedom Newspapers says they are, wouldn't most people influenced by them be immoral?

ANSWER: The reason that people are as moral and good as they are is not because of the influence of state schools, but in spite of it. The training in the family begins several years before the individual is exposed to the example and influence of the schools, and most families do try to train their children in a tradition of respect for the rights of others and of self-responsibility. For many, the influence and moral teachings of a church tend to support the early family training.

Apparently, since most people are moral, the early training in home and church, must be strong enough to withstand the bad example and influence of the tax supported schools.

There are many, however, who are influenced by the schools' example and by the teachings of some texts and professors. They come to accept a double standard of right and wrong, which is really no standard at all. They come to believe that the group or the state can have a moral and just right to do things no individual has a moral and just right to do. When people come to believe this, then they cannot really teach a good moral understanding to their children, and then those children will be easily influenced by the example of the schools. When this happens, and to the degree that it does happen, the moral fabric of society is gradually weakened.

Of course, there are also many who continue to study and learn even after they leave school, and they may discover that some of the things they learned in school were wrong. The publisher of Freedom Newspapers has remarked that he went through college, but he had to spend the next 60 years unlearning most of what he had been taught there.

Proxmire 'Discovers' New Weapons System

WASHINGTON—Eureka! Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has discovered the complex of computers and sensing devices which the Pentagon is calling the "electronic battlefield." The wretched event happened last week Proxmire, who issues a lot of press releases, cranked out a dandy to memorialize his great discovery. Then Proxmire, who makes a lot of speeches, made a speech about it on the Senate floor.

He called it "outrageous" that the Pentagon has spent nearly $2 billion on what he called a new weapons system. He said the money was spent without public hearings and without Congressional authorization, and he predicted that costs could swell to $20 billion.

Proxmire complained that defense contractors got a classified briefing on the electronic battlefield concept earlier this year. That means, he said, that "the military contractors know more about the program than most congressmen and senators."

Nowhere in Proxmire's press release does it note that the senator is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Nowhere in his speech did Proxmire say that the Appropriations Committee has approved every penny spent on the "battle field" development. Nowhere does he list the previous opportunities which he has passed up (or inadvertently passed over) to air his new complaint.

MCNAMARA'S WALL — The electronic battlefield is, as Proxmire's discovery statement notes, an outgrowth of "McNamara's Wall" — the obstacle and electronic barrier which former defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara tried to build below the demilitarized zone in Vietnam. McNamara developed the idea in 1966, and it has been discussed in Appropriations Committee hearings ever since.

Proxmire is not a member of the Appropriations Committee's defense sub-committee, and much of the data on the new sensing devices is secret. As a member of the parent committee, however, Proxmire could have obtained all the classified information on "Project Muscle Shoals" and the other code name, "Dye Marker," if he had requested it.

Now is all the information on the "new" project classified. In April 1967, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who had long favored an anti-infiltration barrier in Vietnam, praised the concept in a Senate speech. McNamara himself discussed the project in a September 1967 press conference.

In January 1968, the Vietnam barrier and its electronic extension which was to cross Laos received a burst of newspaper publicity. In May of 1968, Defense Secretary Clark Clifford told the Senate Appropriations Committee that the "wall" was in partial operation. In the same published hearing transcript Gen. Earle G. Wheeler is quoted as saying that costs were then estimated at about $1.5 billion.

On June 13, 1969, the Pentagon research chief, Dr. John S. Foster Jr., told the Appropriations Committee of the "extraordinary" impact, in Vietnam, of "the instrumented battlefield." He described at least two ground radars and three night vision devices in testimony which was partially censored. The published testimony — and the censored deletions — were available, of course, to committee member Proxmire.

So was an uncensored discussion of the project's financing offered by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird in March of that year. So was testimony on the project, presented in this year's hearings and not yet published, available to committee member Proxmire. So was unclassified testimony given, over the years, before the Senate Armed Services Committee and similar committees in the House.

Proxmire, in short, would have known all about the "electronic battlefield" and could have complained about it much earlier if he had been doing his homework as a committee member. Keeping up is a tough job, but the taxpayers supply a 20-member staff including two $20,000-a-year aides to help Proxmire. "BILLION DOLLAR BILL" — When he came to the Senate in 1967, Proxmire set out to make his mark by sponsoring, or co-sponsoring, a wide range of social legislation. After his first term in office, a Wisconsin newspaper listed all the Proxmire programs and concluded that they would increase government spending by $23 billion. That gave Proxmire the nickname, "Billion Dollar Bill."

All Gung Ho Against The Other Fellow's Pollution

By PAUL HARVEY
The upcoming campus rallies against pollution make sense. Conceivably could avert disaster.

But let's not go roaring around in high-powered hot rods while blaming the "establishment" or "industry" or some vaguely identified "they" or "them" for responsibility for pollution. Too many Americans are all gung ho against the other guy's pollution. And enough such, now knowing what they're shouting about, can hurt a lot of innocent people.

May I introduce a few:

Your service station man with gas, oil and maybe tires for your car, measures his profits in pennies.

Last year, panicked by sudden public wrath over pollution, Detroit bigwigs prematurely announced themselves in favor of tribine engines, electric cars, predicted "new power sources."

California's Senate last September voted to outlaw gas-powered cars within six years. Nationwide, service station owners and managers trembled; which way should they jump? But within less than six months, any industry plans for electric or turbine cars and such had been shelved in definitely. Now all the talk is about lead-free gasoline. The separate pump and tank for lead-free gasoline means an investment of $5,000 to $10,000 for the average service station man, but he wants to be patriotic, he wants to serve his customers with whatever fuel they require. Now, no sooner does he — likely with borrowed money — start smashing his driveway concrete and digging a hole for that additional tank than two respected petroleum scientists holler "Hold everything!" "It's correct," they concede, "that cars cause 80 percent of our air pollution; but," they say, "switching to lead-free gasoline will eliminate only 1 per cent of that 80 percent!"

The independent service station man wants to co-operate with the experts in cleaning up our environment, but which experts? He is left to flip a coin over a decision which could bankrupt him.

There are parallel experiences in other industries.

Food and Drug Administration officials examined and approved the plastic, "polyvinyl chloride," for food containers. That industry bought the equipment necessary to increase production from 55 million units to 4 billion units.

Then a New York City official hollers "Hold everything!" He says that container, when burned, throws off hydrochloric acid!

Those industries thus disrupted represent a lot of working people's jobs and a lot of small investors' money; what should their boards of directors direct? The phosphates scare threw the detergent industry into a panic. Then two respected research chemists offer convincing evidence that it's "not phosphates which pollute our lakes and rivers; it's organic substances causing the algae." And that rhubarb begins all over again. All this says is that government and industry must be diligent but deliberate in this gigantic housecleaning. The rest of us must be persistent, but not overly impatient.

Nationalist Chinese Combat Hippie Look

TAIPEI (UPI) — Nationalist Chinese police, successfully combating hippie influence among Chinese youngsters, are now turning their attention to long-haired men tourists and short-skirted women visitors.

More than 500 Chinese with long hair or short skirts have been arrested on "disorderly conduct" charges. All were released after a haircut or a severe talking-to.

Men tourists with long hair or beards are given a "welcome" card, advising them to use scissors while in Taiwan. Police at air and sea entry ports also try to "dissuade" women visitors from wearing "scanty apparel."

The "shaggy dog" welcome card for hairy tourists says, in Chinese and English, "Welcome to the Republic of China."

The other side adds a rider, however:

"No long hair or long beard please!"

"You are welcome to the Republic of China."

"Here you will find the people most friendly and honest."

"While you are here, we would like to offer you our warm friendship and make your visit a happy one. But we also hope that you will not wear your hair or beard unusually long when you enter our country, as we are anxious to maintain our good custom."

Though police won't say if they'll forcibly shave and cut the hair of uncooperative visitors, a half-dozen sailors aboard foreign ships calling at the southern port of Kaohsiung in the past two weeks were refused admittance to the country until they were tidied up.

Authorities started the campaign against hippie hair-dos and dresses on grounds that such frivolity is unsuitable for Taiwan, which still is on a war footing.

Women visitors will be advised that clothes which "may set people on all eyes" should not be worn. A police spokesman said skirts should not be too short, and "the common rule to follow is that no apparel that bares too much of one's body should be worn."

Senate Passes Aid Measure Alaskan Indian

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate by a 76-3 vote has approved and sent to House a bill to give $1 billion cash to Alaska's Indians, Eskimo Aleuts, as a final settlement of land claims upon the United States.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel hailed the bill as "a great victory" for progress and fairness in the treatment of the nation's earliest native citizens. He said he hoped a similar bill in the house, now waiting action by the Interior Committee, would be moved ahead quickly.

In the House, the controversial anticrime bill for the nation's capital was approved in a 332 to 64 vote without change as it came from a House-Senate conference committee. The bill retained "no-knock" and preventive detention sections that have been bitterly opposed by civil libertarians in Congress and black civil rights groups in Washington as being repressive and unconstitutional.

The Senate-approved land settlement bill would give Alaska's natives $500 million in cash over 12 years and $500 million from oil and mineral resources collected from their lands, as well as 10 million acres of land.

The Senate also adopted an amendment, bitterly opposed by Western Republicans, that would require competitive bidding for leasing of land in Alaska for mineral rights.

In other congressional action Wednesday: —The House voted 311 to 76 to authorize $537,730,000 for the National Science Foundation (NSF) in the current fiscal year compared with $500 million asked by the administration.

—The Senate employment, manpower and poverty subcommittee approved far-reaching plan to reform the country's manpower training programs and create 150,000 new local public service jobs.

—Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., proposed an experimental housing subsidy that would limit housing rent costs for poor families to more than one-quarter of their income.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — I'm beginning to think that ABC TV's "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" is one of television's most underrated series. In fact, I'm sure of it.

I've been watching some reruns of the show this summer, and I suggest you do also to see how a so-called "situation comedy" can be quietly civilized and gentle, particularly in its contemporary attitude toward the relationship of a father and his young son.

The fact is that, although "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" is technically classified as a situation comedy, it is a bit more than that—not heavy stuff certainly, but an entertainingly cool and intelligent piece of light, human fare.

The series is based originally on a movie of the same name, concerning a small boy who tries to find a wife for his father (Glenn Ford). In the television adaptation, the Glenn Ford part is taken over by Bill Bixby.

And although the boy in the series (Brandon Cruz) is also dedicated to seeking out a wife for his widowed father, this is merely the running thread—a sort of light underpinning—for a program that is essentially about a man and a boy. And this relationship is what makes it unique and often nicely touching.

The way Bixby and young Mr. Cruz get along on an acting basis is altogether charming. They are so real in their attitudes and affection toward each other that they frequently seem to be an actual father and son.

And, as their housekeeper, Miyoshi Umeki is a fine part of the regular cast—never too obvious, yet a mature, occasional mother substitute for Master Cruz. The notion that Miss Umeki could well be the wife that the young man is seeking for his father is always softly present, but is never pushed hard. It is just that Miss Umeki's understated presence is, as always, gently potent.

I liked one program in which the young boy frankly decides he doesn't care much for his grandmother — his father's mother. She is, in fact, pretty definitely a pain. And Bixby is nicely understanding about it, for his chief loyalty is to his son.

The show's liting, delightful musical score, by the way, is sung and composed by the important young pop artist Harry Nilsson. Like most everything else on the program, it has tasteful values.

Quotes In The News

By United Press International
WASHINGTON — From a report by the special House armed services subcommittee saying U.S. soldiers "deliberately" shot down civilians in the South Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai:

"At this late date, who can judge the cumulative effects of the horrors, fears and frustrations which the men of 'C' Company had been forced to endure just prior to their action at My Lai."

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, claiming the U.S. incursion into Cambodia has allowed Mainland China to increase its influence on North Vietnam:

"We don't know much about Communist China. We do know they have increased their influence with Hanoi as a result of the Cambodian incursion."

LONDON — Cecil Gould, deputy director of the National Gallery, commenting on his discovery that Raphael's 16th century portrait of Pope Julius II is not a copy but the real thing:

"We have all been blind. We had always taken it for granted that ours was just a good, if filthy, copy."

MORRISBURG, Ont. — Ontario Provincial Police Constable A. Thornton, remarking on the fate of a freighter which sank in the St. Lawrence Seaway, killing nine persons:

"The survivors told me it went down like a rock."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Next to cleanliness and godliness, the most dynamic virtue in America has been civic pride.

So strong and prevailing is the booster spirit that even the most inconsequential hamlets and way-side usually can qualify for at least one superlative.

For example, Merkel, Tex., which is my old home town, used to boast that it has "more windmills for its size than any other town, west of Fort Worth."

In most cases, these exercises in self-glorification have been performed with the hope of attracting newcomers to the area, thus promoting growth and progress.

Significant Item
And because of this tradition I would unhesitatingly pick as the most significant news item of the week a report that a California community is now engaging in reverse chamber of commerce.

The Santa Clara Board of Supervisors is said to be trying to discourage further migration into that region on grounds that additional population would increase its tax and pollution problems.

Well, you don't need special trend-spotting glasses to see what this presages. It won't be long before communities all over the nation will be finding themselves at the saturation point and undertaking anti-chamber campaigns to repel the influx of newcomers.

The big question is: Can they overcome the momentum that civil pride has built up over the years?

The first step probably should be passage of a local ordinance making it a misdemeanor to say anything nice about the place.

Then there must be a halt in all promotional functions, such as the annual Merkel Windmill Festival, that might draw more settlers.

Could be Replaced
These could be replaced with repellent events, such as the annual East Mississippi Boll Weevil Festival or the South-west Missouri Bubonic Plague Pageant commemorating the introduction of contagious diseases into the area.

Some municipal name-changing will be in order. For instance, Garden City, N.Y., Glad Valley, S.D., Frostproof, Fla., and Sweetwater, Okla., might want to consider changing their names to Weed Patch Sad Dale, Everfreeze and Bitterdrink.

Pittsburgh Falls On New Diamond

By STU CAMEN
UPI Sports Writer

The Pirates unveiled their new $35 million Three Rivers Stadium Thursday night the same way they inaugurated old Forbes Field 61 years ago, by losing by a 3-2 score. While a victory certainly would have been more appreciated by Pirate fans, the fact remains that in 1969 when the club began play in Forbes Field by losing to Chicago, 3-2, it went on to capture the National League pennant.

By losing to Cincinnati 3-2 in the first game in its new park, the Pirates now hope history will repeat itself.

The park may have been different but the Reds and Pirates fashioned a couple of familiar scenes in their new surroundings. Cincinnati's Tony Perez, leading the majors in homers, belted his 30th round tripper of the season, while Willie Stargell connected for the Pirates as he had done many times before at Forbes Field. Stargell's blast had some monetary value as he was $1,000, donated by a local lumber company, for being the first Pirate to hit a homer in the new stadium.

Perez, in addition to his fifth-inning homer, also singled in the ninth, and after a walk to Johnny Bench, scored the winning run on a single by Lee Maye off loser Dock Ellis. Clay Carroll, with two innings of hitless relief, picked up his sixth win in seven decisions as the Reds maintained their 10-1/2 lead over second-place Los Angeles in the West Division.

The Dodgers kept pace by beating the New York Mets, 3-1, while elsewhere in the NL, Houston nipped Chicago, 2-1, Atlanta trimmed St. Louis, 7-3, and Philadelphia outslugged San Diego, 10-7. San Francisco and Montreal were idle.

Billy Grabarkewitz' 10th homer snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning and helped the Dodgers beat the Mets. Bill Singer allowed New York only six hits, including Cleon Jones' third homer, to gain his sixth win. The loss left the second-place Mets a game and a half behind Pittsburgh in the East.

Two unearned runs in the third inning enabled Houston to edge Chicago and provide Don Wilson with his third victory. A wild throw by Glenn Beckert put two Houston baserunners in scoring position and one tallied on Jesus Alou's sacrifice fly and the other on a single by Jim Wynn. John Callison singled home the Cubs' only run in the ninth.

Felix Millan and Orlando Cepeda drilled two-run singles in the seventh inning as the Braves sent St. Louis down to its eighth straight loss. Clete Boyer ripped his 10th homer for Atlanta off loser Steve Carlton, while Pat Jarvis went the distance for the Braves and raised his record to 10-7.

Byron Browne's ninth-inning grand slam homer enabled the Phils to get past San Diego. The Phils unleashed an 18-hit attack off two San Diego pitchers but still found themselves trailing 7-6 before Browne's decisive belt-off. Ron Willis, Ollie Brown and Dave Campbell homered for the Padres, while Don Money collected four hits for the Phils. Dick Selma got the win in relief, his fourth against five losses.

THINGS ARE looking up. Giants' Alan Gallagher (left) and Hal Lanier nearly collide as they chase a pop foul off Braves' Hank Aaron's bat. In the scramble, Gallagher finally grabbed the ball. Gallagher formerly played with the Giants' AA farm team in Amarillo.

BIG NAMES DROP OUT Harris, Massengale, Murphy Tie For Lead In Philadelphia Event

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Labron Harris, one of three tied for the lead going into today's second round of the Philadelphia Golf Classic, holds a masters degree in mathematics but tournament officials might not need him to count the gate for the remainder of the 72-hole event.

The tourney, already devoid of several "name" players, lost two other top drawing cards Thursday when British Open champion Jack Nicklaus and crowd-pleaser Lee Trevino suddenly withdrew.

Nicklaus, a two-time winner in the annual classic at the Whitmarsh Valley Club, asked to be excused because he was "just too tired" and emotional drained after last Monday's playoff victory in the British Open at St. Andrews, Scotland.

Tournament director Paul Warren said Trevino, the tour's 1970 leading money winner, "had some very personal problems at home that he wanted to settle. He asked to be excused and I excused him."

Harris, a former U.S. amateur champion, joined tour veteran Don Massengale and young star Bob Murphy, the 1968 winner here, in shooting five-under par 67's in the opening round of the four-day competition for the $30,000 first prize.

The three held a one-stroke lead over five players bunched at 68. They were Masters champion Billy Casper, Charles Coody, Dick Rhyan, 1959 Masters titlist Art Wall and defending Classic champion Dave Hill.

Hill, "dead tired" and troubled with aching legs because of a bladder condition, was a reluctant entry and admitted prior to the tournament that he would not be here except for the fact that he was defending champion.

Two strokes back of the leaders at 69 were PGA champion Ray Floyd, Australia's Bruce Devlin, Gibby Gilbert and Bunky Henry.

Florentino Molina of Argentina and Jean Garaialde of France tied for second at 269.

REPORTS LATE

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (UPI)—The New York Jets granted quarterback-movie star Joe Namath permission to report late to training camp so that he could complete production of a motion picture on the West Coast. Namath will miss five days of practice.

Five players, including Ohio State fullback Jim Otis, missed Thursday drills because of illness. Otis suffered a contusion of the lower left leg when he was tackled during practice, but was expected back in today's session.

Also out were rookie defensive end Perry Parks, who has not passed a pre-camp physical; linebacker Gary Branson with a knee injury; Deles Howell with a pulled hamstring muscle and defensive back Glen Cannon with a partial tear of his Achilles tendon.

TIGERS CLAW WHITE SOX Powell Leads Orioles To 5-1 Win Over Twins

By FRANK DE GEORGES
UPI Sports Writer

Boog Powell is proving his contention that he gets hot when the weather does.

The huge Baltimore first baseman, well on the way to his best season ever, kept pace with the sizzling summer days as he drove in two runs with his 24th homer and a sacrifice fly Thursday night to help the Orioles defeat Minnesota, 5-1.

"I'm just a hot weather player," Powell says of his surge. "July and August are usually pretty good to me."

In other AL games, Detroit clubbed Chicago, 11-6. Cleveland blanked Kansas City, 6-0. California edged Washington, 3-2. Boston trimmed Milwaukee, 6-5, in 10 innings and Oakland and New York split a pair, with the Athletics taking the opener, 8-2, and the Yankees winning the nightcap, 4-1.

In the National League, Cincinnati topped Pittsburgh, 3-2. Atlanta beat St. Louis, 7-3. Houston edged Chicago, 2-1. Los Angeles whipped New York, 3-1, and Philadelphia thrashed San Diego, 10-7. San Francisco and Montreal were idle.

Angeles whipped New York, 3-1, and Philadelphia thrashed San Diego, 10-7. San Francisco and Montreal were idle.

Andy Etchebarren also drove in two runs for the Orioles as Mike Cuellar won his 12th game and fourth in a row.

Detroit hit a season's high of 18 hits that included homers by Mickey Stanley, Dick McAuliffe, Norm Cash and Bill Freehan. Bill Melton hit a solo homer, and Gail Hopkins belted a two-run shot for the White Sox.

Buddy Bradford's lead-off triple triggered a five-run fifth-inning rally for the White Sox.

Aurelio Rodriguez and Lee Maye accounted for Washington's runs.

Writer Finds Sailing Frustrating In Spain

By ALDO TRIPPINI
AGUADULCE, Spain (UPI)—It happened in this lovely seaside village in Southern Spain just like in the poem by Federico Garcia Lorca, "a las cinco de la tarde" (at five p.m.)

I was ready to sail with my 10-foot fiberglass boat to do some skin diving along the cliffs between Aguadulce and Almeria when a "guardia civil" (national policeman) wearing his elegant green summer uniform, walked over to me and saluted smartly.

"If you are going to skin-dive with that spear gun," he pointed out politely, "you should have a permit from the Spanish navy." I admitted that, being a foreigner, I never knew I needed a permit from the Spanish navy.

The guardia civil was extremely sorry, but he said that, at least for that day, I could not skin-dive with my gun. The following day, the Spanish navy headquarters in Almeria would be delighted to issue me a permit valid for five years at the "extremely cheap" fee of $2.14, he said. "Well, in this case I will leave the gun ashore and fish from my boat," I said. "That will be fine, but in this case you will need a second permit. It will cost just as much," the guard replied regretfully.

"Well, I'll go to Almeria tomorrow and get those permits," I said. "Meanwhile, I will leave the boat ashore and fish from the beach." The guardia civil's face was a study in frustration. "I am sorry, sir," he said.

"But if you fish from the beach you will need a third permit." I thought it over for a few seconds, then I told him that I would leave the fish in peace for that day.

"I'll take my underwater camera and take some color pictures of a cave 20 feet deep down there," I said.

"Taking underwater pictures is forbidden unless you have a special permit from the navy," the guard said. "I do regret spoiling your afternoon, but you better have those permits first. Otherwise you're in trouble."

The following morning I went to Almeria and 24 hours later I had the three fishing permits.

BIRTH CONTROL POLICY
PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Pennsylvania SPCA will adopt a birth control policy July 20 for dogs and cats adopted from the agency.

Persons adopting female animals from the shelters will be required to have them spayed. An SPCA spokesman said the animal population explosion forced the birth control campaign.

including the skin-diving one. From the permits I learned that I cannot sell or barter any fish I catch. I also cannot draw maps of the sea bottom, and I must give the Spanish navy anything I find in the sea. The guardia civil is all smiles now. He regularly wishes me good luck everytime he sees me sailing "a las cinco de la tarde."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Argus Research Corp. believes that "pre-tax profits may rise about 15-20 per cent by the second quarter of 1971." Thus, the firm says, "the present situation offers a historic opportunity to buy." It adds that further financial failures may "pop up" but the "risk-reward ratio" is distinctly favorable, particularly now that long-term interest rates have turned downward.

"The internal condition of the market has shown great improvement over the past 12 months," Harris, Upham & Co. says. But, the company adds, just when the internal market conditions were generating confidence, "the advance was checked by evidence that the liquidity conditions are serious." The firm points out that many sound companies "are not burdened" with near term maturities and shifting into stocks of these companies "should prove rewarding."

"Unofficial revisions in the federal budget deficits for fiscal years 1971 and 1972 continue to have a highly disturbing upward trend," according to Townsend-Greenspan and Co., Inc. The company feels that the "uncontrollable" increases "are beginning to outstrip the ability of a normally growing economy to throw off sufficient revenues under the existing tax rate structure." The effects of further short-term, "politically expedient patchworks to the budget could be staggering and the possibility of a massive inflationary upsurge... cannot be easily dismissed," it adds.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Just as it was "unrealistic" to have expected the economy to continue to grow faster than it was able to do, it is equally "unrealistic" today to expect it to remain "stagnant" because it now has "room to grow." Lionel D. Edie & Co. says the company feels the "fuel for that growth has been pumped into the economy since early this year." It believes "a solid and sustainable upturn will follow in due course."

The anticipation of lower second quarter earnings, which has been depressing the market recently, "may not be nearly as bad as originally feared," according to E.P. Hutton & Co. The company says there have been "a few pleasant surprises" among the few reports released so far. It says "a few more like this could have a powerful effect on the near term trend since it is the unexpected that usually has the greatest market impact."

Spear and Staff Inc. predicts that "a general business boom should be well underway before the end of the year." It remains "cautiously optimistic" over the outlook for stocks. If there is no adverse news from the Far East or the Middle East, the company believes there will be "an irregular advance of investment grade issues in the weeks immediately ahead."

ally," the Dines Letter says. However, the letter warns that this has happened before in this bear market and "the market nevertheless plunged so that it became even more oversold and the subsequent rallies even more vibrant." If this happens now, it adds, "you will see a resumption of the killer wave and... chances are there will be a test of the 1962 lows."

"A good sized advance is indicated" for the market "with earnings prospects more favorable for later in the year," according to the International Statistical Bureau Inc. The firm predicts earnings will "show a further slight decline in the third quarter and a gain in the last quarter." It believes this "will be reflected in the stock market."

The bond market "continued strong" last week with bond prices rallying for the fourth consecutive week, the Alexander Hamilton Institute notes. The firm feels that "interest rates will maintain their downward as the slackening business pace eases demand for corporate financing." The company says bonds "are fine for those investors looking for current income" and recommends buying "quality issues of financially able corporations."

Nixon Optimistic Sagging Economy Will Pick Up

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is optimistic the nation's sagging economy will pick up later this year despite a continuing dip in the closely-watched index of industrial production. The President received guardedly optimistic reports from seven of his top economic strategists during a late afternoon meeting Wednesday. Afterwards White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon is "very optimistic about the economic advisers—plus Labor Secretary James D. Maurice, H. Stans and White House counselor Robert P. Mayo to discuss business conditions. The quadripart includes Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns, Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, Management and Budget Director George P. Schultz and Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Shortly before the meeting began, the Federal Reserve announced that industrial production fell 0.3 per cent last month to the lowest level since November 1968. It was the ninth drop in the past 11 months. The June industrial production index was 166.6 per cent of the 1957-59 average, down 3.4 per cent from the peak established in July, 1969.

Lubbock Mayor Tours Ravaged Peruvian Cities

LIMA (UPI)—Lubbock Mayor Jim Granberry toured the ravaged cities along the northern coast of Peru and the scenes of total destruction and devastation; of homeless and parentless children were all too familiar to him.

Twenty days before the earthquake mangled Peru, a tornado cut the heart out of Granberry's Texas City. The ram-paging funnel killed 26 persons and left thousands homeless only 15 days after he took office.

But the magnitude of destruction in Peru is much greater, a much larger area.

Granberry said Wednesday as he prepared to leave for home. "Many, many more people were killed and injured here."

The Peruvian Ministry of Health now estimated 70,000 persons dead or missing as a result of the May 31 earthquake. Granberry and other members of a Texas delegation touring Peru planned to leave today. The Texans sought ways in which the state could help Peru recover from its worst disaster in history.

Granberry said it was only natural for him to do whatever he could to help the Peruvian situation. After all, he said it was the Peruvian people who offered the first aid to Lubbock residents after the May 11 tornado.

A Lubbock department store donated 40 stoves, refrigerators and washing machines for a project in Peru. But because of shipping delays, the merchandise was still in Lubbock when the tornado struck. The Peruvian Partners in Alliance met and passed a resolution asking the goods remain in Lubbock for help in the tornado relief.

"There is some very heart warming reciprocity that demonstrates that partnership is not just one way; that it works both ways in time of need," Granberry said.

The president of the Texas Partners in Alliance, Dr. David Wade of Austin, said he was "amazed at the extent of the damage."

"We were heartened by what we saw of the willingness of the people and their initiative to do something for themselves," Wade said. "It's beyond comprehension unless you see it, you just plain can't believe it. It's fantastic."

Wade said Texas "decided it would be better if we picked specific projects related to the emergency rather than to scatter our efforts."

He said Texas would probably "adopt" one devastated Peruvian city, likely one of those on the coast, and do everything possible to help the Peruvians reconstruct it.

"We would not have total responsibility for the reconstruction," Wade said. "It would be a matter of collecting as much money, as much material, and as much equipment as we could and sending it to that specific city. We think it would be significant."

Granberry said he is sure the residents of Lubbock will take time out from cleaning their own debris from the tornado to help the Peruvians.

"I think that the people of Lubbock will respond with as much enthusiasm if not more than any other city in Texas," he said.

Granberry estimates his city is 70 per cent through with rubble cleanup. In Peru, the work has just begun.

"But I think a humanistic comparison can be drawn," he said. "It was the very heart of our city that was hit by the tornado as I have explained many times. That part of the heart that was destroyed was the one made with wood and steel and bricks and mortar. That part of the heart that remained and continued to beat was the part filled with compassion, dedication and togetherness."

"I see the same thing happening here but on a much larger scale. Many buildings have been destroyed, but there is a rallying of the people."

The Partners in Alliance program pairs states in the United States, with Latin American countries. Peru and Texas are partners and Granberry left his damaged city to come to Peru largely because he is a vice president of the group and also because of the experience he gained in the Lubbock disaster.

STEAL PENGUINS
OWELL, Mass. (UPI)—Somebody's stealing the penguins that eat the city's trash. Officials put out four-foot-high wastebaskets two weeks ago in the shape of penguin bearing signs. "Feed Me, I Eat Litter." Trash could be stuffed in the penguin's gaping jaws.

However, seven of the 85 penguins have been stolen and one person was charged with larceny. Officials are making plans to tie down the rest of the garbage gulping trashcans.
