

"The most effective method for control of expenditures in government is the direct and immediate correlation of spending programs and tax levies. Such control is always lost when one government entity collects the money and another spends it."

122-YEAR DISPUTE

Nixon, Ordaz Talk Over Border Fuss

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (UPI)—President Nixon ends a colorful 28-hour visit to Mexico today by joining President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz in announcing their formula for settling boundary disputes that have plagued relations between the two countries for 122 years.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, Pat, arrived from Washington Thursday to a gala welcome replete with mariachi bands, Mexican cavalrymen and all the general gaiety of a local fiesta. They leave for their California White House at San Clemente today.

Diaz Ordaz and Nixon discussed the boundary treaty Thursday at a hastily called news conference in this Pacific Coast resort village of 25,000 persons made internationally famous by Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor. Details of the treaty will be made public in a communique today.

The two presidents said the treaty incorporating the agreement will go before their respective senates for approval. Nixon said "the secretary of state assures me that we can get a unanimous vote on this treaty" from the U.S. Senate. In announcing agreement on the boundary question, Diaz Ordaz said, "We must remember and it is necessary and convenient that we should have no problems arising from the delineation of our borders."

After a two-and-a-half hour meeting with Diaz Ordaz Thursday night, Nixon also reported progress in discussions on finding a solution to the problem of salinity in the Colorado River. The Mexicans want the United States to control the salt content and stop saline pollution caused by drainage from the American side.

Nixon, who chose Mexico for his first south-of-the-border trip as President since he honeymooned there 30 years ago, received an enthusiastic welcome. Virtually all the 25,000 residents of Puerto Vallarta, plus thousands of Americans and other tourists, turned out in the 95-degree heat.

Mexican girls in brightly colored dresses tossed flowers at Nixon and silver bouquets into the closed car carrying Mrs. Nixon and Diaz Ordaz's daughter, Guadalupe Nasta, who substituted as hostess for her ailing mother.

Cambodians Smash Commie Threat

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Outnumbered Cambodian defenders smashed the most determined Communist threat yet to Phnom Penh's defenses Thursday night to climax 24 hours of intense fighting that killed 500 North Vietnamese, military spokesmen said today.

As the Cambodian command claimed victory at nightfall, Communist units fired rockets and mortars into the fringe of downtown Phnom Penh for the first time.

The Mekong River stands between the Communist forces and Phnom Penh.

"It was vicious fighting—fierce fighting," a military spokesman said. He praised what he said was the heroism of the defenders, including a Cambodian commander who refused to be evacuated after he was wounded.

"He insisted on remaining with his troops to lead them to victory," he said.

Military spokesmen said Cambodian forces lost 19 men killed and 124 wounded and claimed 500 North Vietnamese killed and an unknown number wounded.

In a delayed report, the military spokesman said Cambodian troops have found 700 Communist bodies buried in mass graves in a forest near Skoun, 35 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

FBI Says Only Shot Fired By NG Troop

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A staff member of President's Commission on Campus Unrest said today an FBI report shows there was no evidence of sniper fire at Kent State University before four students were shot and killed by Ohio National Guard Troops.

George V. Warren told the commission that the FBI report into the May 4 shootings indicated the only shots fired were by National Guard troops called to the campus following a series of disturbances.

"The FBI conducted an intensive search for any evidence dealing with the possibility of the existence of a sniper," Warren said, "including an investigation around the firing line for non-military bullets."

The evidence indicate that there was no person other than a Guardsman who discharged a firearm on May 4, 1970.

The Ohio National Guard contended shortly after the shootings that guardsmen fired a volley after being fired upon by a sniper.

Brig. Gen. Robert Canterbury testified Thursday that the Ohio Guard, in its own investigation, had been unable to prove that a sniper had actually fired.

Warren said the bodies of the dead and wounded were found from 20 to 250 yards from the Guardsmen who fired the shots.

Warren also said the report showed 34 members of Troop G, 107th Armored Cavalry, of Ravenna, Ohio, the troops that confronted the demonstrators, were injured by rocks and other missiles.

Canterbury told the commission Thursday he had canvassed all the officers at the scene "to determine who, if anyone, gave an order to fire. The answer was negative."

Canterbury, the assistant Ohio adjutant general, gave his first public testimony on the Kent shootings Thursday at hearings by the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

He was asked if it ever was proven that a sniper fired the first shot.

"No," Canterbury replied.

"There was a shot fired but we have never been able to locate exactly where it came from or who fired it."

He said the guardsmen started firing when "a mob began closing in" and throwing rocks.

The first shot, Canterbury said, apparently came at "a great distance" from the main body of troops and from the rear. It was closely followed by a volley from the troops, he said.

Canterbury said he then took a count of the guardsmen's ammunition and obtained the names of those who had fired weapons. The troops were ordered not to fire again unless touched by an officer and directed to fire at a specific target.

S. T. Del Corso, the state adjutant general, said in his testimony Wednesday a National Guard investigation into the shootings came to no conclusion on the possibility of a sniper.

"DIDN'T GET A FAIR TRIAL"

Flanagan Innocent Of Beating Official

CHICAGO (UPI)—Brian Flanagan had just been found innocent of attacking a city official during last October's "days of wrath" by the SDS Weathermen, and he had a few words to say about his trial.

"There is no such thing as a fair trial," the 25-year-old Southampton, N.Y., radical told newsmen. "What's a fair trial in Chicago? Law and order is a farce."

"I sat in that courtroom for a month and I watched black men herded in and out... and I saw the court officials licking their chops."

"I want to get back in the streets where I can fight. I want to live the way I did."

Flanagan had been charged with aggravated battery, battery, mob action and resisting arrest in connection with his collision last Oct. 11 with Richard Elrod, assistant corporation counsel and state representative, during violence in the Loop by the Weathermen, then said to be a faction of the Students For a Democratic Society. For a time, Elrod was paralyzed with a broken neck.

The jury of eight men and four women announced its verdict after five hours of deliberation and just before it was to be sequestered for the night by Criminal Court Judge Saul A. Epton. The verdict also found Flanagan innocent of allegedly kicking an off-duty Maywood policeman who was a film courier in the Loop as Weathermen rampaged through the Loop.

When the verdict was delivered, Flanagan raised his right fist in a "power to the people" salute. His girl friend, Sylvia Warren, 28, New York City, gasped. "He's not guilty of anything," Flanagan's friends, shouting "fight on," clustered around him.

Elrod, named the Democratic party's candidate for Cook County sheriff after his injury, had suffered a severe neck injury when he and Flanagan collided. He now walks with canes.

Israel To Name Representative To Middle East Peace Sessions

Israel is expected to name its representative to the Middle East peace talks by Monday, diplomatic sources in Tel Aviv said today.

While preparations for an early beginning to the talks were under way in Israel, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and King Hussein of Jordan were meeting in Alexandria to play Arab strategy for the discussions.

The question of where and at what level the talks would be held remained to be settled, but an Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman indicated Israel would be willing to drop its opposition to New York as a site.

Gunnar V. Jarving, the United Nations mediator in charge in the talks, has been quoted by a U.N. spokesman as agreeing with Israel that the talks should begin at the foreign minister level rather than the lower ambassadorial level favored by the Arabs.

The diplomatic sources in Tel Aviv said the Israeli representative probably will be appointed at the weekly cabinet meeting Sunday but the announcement will probably be withheld until Monday so it can be discussed in the Knesset (parliament).

Nasser and Hussein met in Cairo Thursday but left shortly afterward for the resort city of Alexandria to escape the 95 degree heat.

Officials in Cairo said the discussions, expected to last three days, would cover the Egyptian-Jordanian position toward Israel; the military situation along the Jordanian front and coordination with the Egyptian front; and the situation in Jordan, which is complicated by the Palestinian guerrillas' rejection of the American proposals.

Egyptian Information Minister Mohammed Hassamien Heikal said in Cairo today the presence of SAM3 anti-aircraft missiles in Egypt was a warning to the United States that Russia will not tolerate another Arab military defeat by Israel.

Communist diplomats in London said Thursday Russia has told the United States the peace negotiations must proceed on the basis that Israel return all occupied Arab territory, without exception.

Israeli jets bombed and strafed guerrilla positions in the North Jordan Valley Thursday in retaliation for rocket and mortar attacks along the Jordan River ceasefire line.

Police Report Two No-Injury Car Accidents

Pampa police investigated two automobile accidents and filed charges in both Thursday, but reported no casualties from either accident.

Jesse James Pyle, 77, of 701 Lefors, was charged by Pampa police with failure to grant right-of-way from a stop sign after the car he was driving was in collision with one driven by A.N. King, 67, of 2614 Navajo.

According to the police report, Pyles was driving east on Kentucky, stopped for a stop sign, but started across Duncan while King was driving south on Duncan. Damages to Pyles' car were reported by officers at $450 and to King's car, $250.

Jean Ann Speed Hawkins, 17, of 1100 N. Russell, was charged by officers with following too closely, after the car she was driving allegedly struck the rear of one driven by Jessie B. Clements, 54, of 1023 S. Dwight.

Officers reported damages to the Hawkins vehicle were $40 and to the Clements' vehicle about $100, about $100. No reported. In the report, officers stated both vehicles were traveling east on Kentucky Street when Clements slowed for a car approaching north from Christine street.

Other incidents reported were theft of seven cases of beer valued at $41.96 from 535 W. Brown; theft of an $18 hubcap reported by Mrs. A.C. Troop, and burglary of a guitar from a vacant house at 1144 Neel Road.

WITH FIGURES

Agnew Charges Democrats With 'Playing Tricks'

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew accused the Democrats Thursday of "playing tricks with figures" in their efforts to belittle the Nixon administration.

Addressing some 1,000 persons at a $500-a-plate dinner for Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., who is seeking re-election, Agnew concentrated mostly on rebutting charges by Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

Agnew devoted more than five pages of his eight-page text to attacks on the Democrats. He was frequently interrupted by applause from the partisan crowd at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

In the area of education, Agnew said the Nixon administration will spend "$2.4 billion less on the military than on education."

In 1968 "with a Democratic administration in Washington, the American people spend $23 billion more on the military than we spent on education at all levels, public and private."

He charged Democrats were "trying to spend their way out of America's imagined difficulties" and would drive the country into socialism were it not for Republican fiscal restraint.

"Some day the American people are going to reject that Democratic cotton candy and leave the fiscally responsible party in office long enough to restore true prosperity without inflation and war."

He also jabbed at the news media saying: "The real story in my speech tonight is the accomplishments of a great senator—George Murphy of California."

Old Liberty Ship Hits Ocean Floor With Deadly Cargo

CAPE MAY, N.J. (UPI)—An explosion occurred Thursday when an old liberty ship carrying 5,000 tons of obsolete ammunition hit the Atlantic Ocean floor. The Navy originally had planned to sink it near a mustard gas burial ground.

Navy officials said escort vessels five miles away felt the blast from the explosives aboard the liberty ship David Hughes, but none of the vessels was damaged. The site was 118 miles due east of Cape May.

The Navy, under pressure from New Jersey residents and congressmen, agreed to change the dumping site from a location 88 miles to the north and only a mile from an area where the mustard gas had been deposited in 1967. There were fears an explosion would release the mustard gas.

At first, Navy officials said there was little chance of an explosion. But when protests were registered, both Navy and Coast Guard officials admitted an explosion was possible.

"Three minutes after the ship sank in 7,200 feet of water, a detonation was felt on board escort vessels which were five miles away," Navy Cmdr. Ralph Slawson said in Washington, D.C. The explosion occurred at 12:34 p.m. EDT, about four hours after the scuttling operations were begun.

The Hughes, with a cargo of old rocket shells and small arms ammunition, was towed to sea Wednesday from the Earle Naval Ammunition Depot. It was the 10th ship carrying obsolete ammunition to be towed from the depot and sunk in the Atlantic since 1961.

Donohue To Head United Fund Drive

H.P. Donohue Jr., Cabot vice president and general manager of the Machinery Division, was named United Fund campaign chairman for this year's drive, according to an announcement today by Frank Culberson, UP board president.

In accepting the chairmanship to raise a total of $88,325 for the 10 participating agencies, Donohue emphasized the importance of supporting local problem-solving agencies through the unified support of the United Fund.

Donohue said the basis theme for this year's campaign is "If YOU don't do it, it won't get done."

He is asking the full support of the entire community in achieving this year's goal of $88,325.

In coming week, the campaign chairman will announce the various division chairmen for this year.

He has released the following budget for this year's UP effort: Boy Scouts, $24,125; Girl Scouts, $16,450; Salvation Army, $20,800; Red Cross, $16,500; Pampa Milk Fund, $1,500; Welfare Index, $550; Gozaales Warm Springs Foundation, $500; Texas Medical Research Foundation, $150; United Service Organization, $500; United Fund Operations, $7,250.

Golden Spread Amusements Co. is bringing 17 rides to the Jaycee Fair next week, Jack Hoggard, manager, announced this morning. The fair will open Monday night at the Coronado Center and will run through Saturday.

"We have a ride called the swinging gym which appeals to teenagers," Hoggard said. Other rides will include the tilt-a-whirl, scrambler, octopus, roller coaster, roll-o-plane, paratrooper, helicopter, umbrella ride, cars, airplanes and a little ferris wheel. Another very popular ride is the Cadillac car ride," Hoggard said. The rides will be 35 cents each or three for $1.

"We have had a tremendous response to our fair this year," (See JAYSEES, Page 2)

Senior Golfers Invited Back Again In '71

"An invitation has been extended to the Tri-State Seniors Golf Tournament for the year 1971," announced Elmer Wilson, president of the Pampa Country Club.

Wilson's announcement followed last night's board of directors meeting. The board voted unanimously to host the golfing event next year.

"The dates will be set later," said Wilson.

The board has left open dates from the middle of July through the first week of August. Senior golf players were heard during the final day of play stating "I don't care when it is, I just would like to come back to Pampa."

Pomography's In Eyes Of Loxer Or Reader's Fantasy

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nub of Dr. Robert J. Stoller's coldly scientific attribution to the raging pornography debate is that no nude nor novel nor photo nor anything else is pornography in itself.

They are converted into pornography only when the looker's or reader's fantasies have been fed. No private fantasies, no pornography.

"As with all perversions, pornography is a matter of aesthetics. One man's delight is another man's boredom," he wrote recently in a technical journal of the American Medical Association.

He called attention to "the puzzling fact that selling pornography to women would lead one to starvation." But asking why that is so may be the wrong question.

"Men tend to equate pornography in general with what is pornographic for them in particular," he said. "You cannot sell pictures of nude men to women for erotic purposes. But that does not mean women do not have their own pornography."

"They do, but most men have not recognized it as pornographic because it would not excite a man. For instance, stories of romance, where what is emphasized is affection, closeness, courtliness, a little lovely masochism that disguises gentle triumph over a manly man, but not seating anatomy.

"Thus it can appear ad libitum, not recognized, much less legislated against."

What's more, women are never peeping Toms. "This may be a reflection," he said, "of our society's inhibition of a little boy's right to sexual looking and a little girl's training that she is not to permit that looking which implies to her that it makes no big difference to anyone if she looks or not."

On the other hand, "it may also develop that as the routine heterosexual pornography becomes available to them in a more lenient society, more women will discover a taste for such products."

All this is "obvious" to him, he said. And "it is also obvious that today with politicians legislating about pornography, they will tend to define as pornographic only those things which excite themselves."

Stoller is a psychiatric scientist at the University of California in Los Angeles.

Examiners Delay Decision In Doctor's Trial

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Board of Medical Examiners has decided to wait until a week from Friday before making a decision in the case of a Fort Worth doctor who allegedly prescribed a heroin substitute for 172 patients.

Dr. Peter Joseph Carter, 46, is accused of "unprofessional conduct" in connection with writing hundreds of prescriptions for the controversial drug methadone.

"This may be the most important case this board has ever heard," board president Dr. J. C. Rodarte said Wednesday. "It has national implications."

Rodarte recessed the board's hearing until Friday, Aug. 28. He said the recess was to give board members time to review the evidence presented during five days of testimony.

The board has the authority to revoke Carter's license.

Nixon Ignores Anonymous Bomb Threat At Mexican Airport

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (UPI)—Shrugging off a bomb threat, thousands of American tourists and their Mexican hosts streamed to this resort city's airport to welcome President Nixon, arriving for a "second honeymoon" and a meeting with President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz.

The threat was telephoned to city hall Wednesday, when an anonymous caller warned a bomb had been planted at the airport. U.S. and Mexican security scoured the area but found nothing.

Fernando Garza, Diaz Ordaz press secretary, called the threat a sour prank.

"This is a small town," he said. "In small towns, there is always someone who wants to show off when there is an event of this nature."

Mayor Jose Vazquez Galvan described the call from a Spanish-speaking person as "a joke in very bad taste."

The road into town from the airport was lined with Americans and Mexicans, who held tiny paper flags of both nations. Big pictures of the chief executives and their wives hung from windows along the route.

An honor guard of 1,200 troops was assembled at the airport. As an extra security measure, many spent the night on the runway. Two Mexican gunboats were anchored offshore.

Diaz Ordaz flew here earlier in the day from the capital, 400 miles southeast, with a plane-load of Mexican officials, headed by Foreign Secretary Antonio Arrillo Flores.

Diaz Ordaz leaves the presidency Dec. 1 and will probably be meeting Nixon for the last time while in office. The two leaders conferred previously last September at the dedication of the Amistad Dam on the U.S.-Mexican border.

Although this is traditionally "off-season" in Puerto Vallarta, hotels have been swamped with reservations since early August, when Nixon's 28-hour visit was announced.

Death Penalty Set For Bombers Inflicting Harm

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill setting the death penalty as possible punishment for conviction for a bombing which a person suffers "bodily harm."

The bill by Assemblyman Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, the penalty of death or imprisonment without parole at the discretion of the jur when a person is convicted wilfully and maliciously exploding a "destructive device causing great harm or injury another."

Flag Flies From Morn 'Til Night

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American flag now flies over the White House day and night instead of from sunrise to sunset.

Sources said that President Nixon ordered the precedent-setting practice when Mrs. Nixon discovered that it was proper etiquette to fly the Stars and Stripes at night if it was illuminated.

A floodlight has been installed to light up the flag which is displayed on a pole on the south portico of the Executive Mansion.

Disease Finally Overtakes Man Plagued By Lifetime Ugliness

VANCOUVER (UPI)—"Lumpy Willie" was considered so ugly he couldn't get a job and never had a date. He shaved in the dark because he hated to look at himself in the mirror.

His real name was Alex Samuel Chapelski but he had been called "the ugliest man in Canada." He goes to his grave today in Mountain View Cemetery after a life warped by his knobbed, lumpy body and face.

Chapelski died Aug. 11, two days short of his 39th birthday. The hospital would not release the cause of death, but it was believed to be from the same disease that scarred his appearance.

He was cursed from birth with Von Recklinghausen's neurofibromatosis, a disease which causes tumors to develop at nerve ends and their connective tissue.

While the disease itself is not uncommon, Chapelski was affected to such a rare extent his entire body was covered with hundreds of lumps and bumps. People stopped and stared as he walked city streets. He was refused service in restaurants because waitresses would not approach him. Employers would not look at him for job interviews. They would not hire him. Bartenders would not serve him. Girls would not speak to him. He said he never had a date.

Chapelski dreaded looking at his face.

"I was afraid to look," he once told an interviewer. "because my face looked so funny."

Government To Get Youth's View Next February

"If this is not the best possible world, then let's change it." By SUSAN McCABE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House Conference on Youth which will meet here next February may be the Nixon administration's "last chance" to establish some kind of rapport with young people who are disenchanted with their government and its policies, a White House intern said today.

John Runyan, 21, of Akron, Ohio, a Harvard senior who spent the summer working in Washington, said in an interview that he foresees "great trouble ahead" unless some bridges of mutual understanding are quickly constructed between government and youth.

Helping to prepare for the forthcoming youth conference was Runyan's primary assignment as a White House intern. He was part of a team collecting information on the ideas and opinions of young people, interviewing college students, soldiers, job holders and others in an attempt to get an overall picture of the views of the 14 to 24 age group.

He said the February conference will deal with 10 topics chosen by young people as issues of prime concern to them.

They are: Selective Service; drugs; education; environmental pollution; minority relations; poverty; legal rights and justice; foreign relations; economy and employment; and values, ethics and culture.

Each subject will be examined by a 12-member team including four adults and eight young people of varying background and education. The task forces will suggest possible courses of action in each area.

Runyan said he's encouraged by the fact that "the administration has promised to respond to the recommendations of the conference."

"If the conference can demonstrate it will be different, the kids might buy it," he said, adding that by "different" he meant the government would really "listen and respond to the conference's recommendations." Runyan said the present attitude of the college students towards the administration tends to be suspicious, and this distrust can be overcome only by action, not promises.

"They're not going to believe it until it happens," he said.

Ad Man Specializes In Getting Corporate Divorces For Firms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Like the rest of American society, business has its divorce specialists.

One is former advertising man Peter Hilton, who runs a company called Corporate Diversification, Ltd. Hilton specializes in hunting for businesses and products that companies want to get rid of. Corporate divorces, in other words.

But he doesn't collect his fees from the firms that do the divorcing. On the contrary, his firm is hired on a regular basis by several firms listed on the New York Stock Exchange to hunt for grass widow businesses and products in the hopes of finding a real sleeper.

"All big companies sooner or later have businesses or product lines they want to spin off because they don't fit into other operations", Hilton explained. "They may be fairly profitable yet hard to take care of."

"Or they may be unprofitable to the companies that have them, but potential money makers for someone else."

Operations Hilton trades in may be small as $100,000 a year in volume, but he arranged one spinoff of a business with $35 million in annual sales. In one deal he arranged the sale of a farm machinery division an air conditioning manufacturer somehow had acquired. "It was a good business but way out in left field from the air conditioning men's standpoint," he said.

Hilton got into the spinoff

Space Budget Causes 400 Demotions

INS P5 1-18 SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Because of federal economizing on the space budget almost 400 employees were told Wednesday they will lose their jobs or be demoted. Among them are 79 engineers and scientists and 53 technicians who worked to land American astronauts on the moon.

"Every effort will be made to assist employees who are being separated or reassigned to less attractive jobs through no fault of their own," said Dr. Robert R. Gilrath, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center.

"We feel these people, many of whom worked directly on the moon landing program, have management and technical experience and abilities which will make them valuable to other businesses and organizations."

Bush Says Congress Needs Reformation

DALLAS (UPI) — Republican senatorial candidate George Bush said Wednesday there needs to be strong legislation to reform the present congressional system.

"Retirement ages for congressmen and federal judges should be set at 70," said the 45-year-old U.S. representative from Houston.

He also said elected officials must disclose completely their financial status to the public.

Ohio Firm Makes Money From Big Smoke Stacks Fly Ash

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the first companies to discover paydirt in pollutants is a Dayton, Ohio, firm that collects fly ash from big smoke stacks and converts it into a building material.

Dayton Fly Ash Co. started business back in 1960, when environment was a household word only to sociologists and ecology was known only to ecologists. The firm was founded by a father-son team, John and Bart Thomas, who had hired out the year before to remove fly ash, a troublesome byproduct of finely pulverized coal burned by power companies from the tall stacks of Dayton Power & Light Co.'s Tait Station.

The Edison Electric Institute estimates that only about 5.2 million tons out of the 30 million tons of fly ash produced in utilities' stacks each year is recovered for byproduct use.

Dayton Fly Ash isn't the only company in the business now. There's enough competition to surprise a Fly Ash Council. With so much raw material still available and the utilities willing suppliers, the drive is on to develop further uses.

Dayton Fly Ash, which became a subsidiary of American Metal Climax Inc. last year, thinks fly ash can be used to reduce land sinking in areas where underground mining has been conducted. Pumped into a mine shaft through bore holes, the fly ash takes up water by hygroscopic action, expands and exerts a strong upward force.

Dayton also has patented a system that uses fly ash for

The Thomases had some experience in the sand and gravel business and decided to see if the fly ash they were removing and dumping had any value. After some research and much leg work, they determined that the fly ash was money going up in smoke because it made a good cement extender in ready-mix concrete and concrete blocks.

where underground mining has been conducted. Pumped into a mine shaft through bore holes, the fly ash takes up water by hygroscopic action, expands and exerts a strong upward force.

The fly ash, which the power companies were paying $2 per ton to get rid of, reacts with lime in the concrete mix and forms calcium silicate to improve the final qualities of the mix. Thus fly ash delivered to concrete mix makers at $6 to $7 per ton can displace a significant portion of the cement, which costs $22 to $23 per ton.

Power companies have been paying as much as $17.5 million a year just to trap the fly ash before it gets out into the atmosphere and to get rid of it

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why do men and women at so many parties insist on segregating themselves?

My husband and I recently left such a party rather early because of sheer boredom. The women sat on one side of the room and talked about their children, clothes and other women. While the men sat on the other side refashioning every baseball, basketball and football game played during the last five years. They also complained about their jobs. These couples are college graduates in their mid thirties.

The men seem to resent any attempt to change the subject of their conversation, and the women couldn't care less about anything other than their homes and families.

The purpose of a party is to meet new people, discuss different ideas and viewpoints and to get away from the household routine and daily grind of the office.

There must be something a guest can do to break up the hen sessions and the locker room boys.

DEAR BORED IN ATLANTA: You and your husband should find other friends. There are plenty of young people in Atlanta who can offer more stimulating conversation than you describe. If you aren't involved in civic and political things you ought to be. That is where the action is. Dullards deserve each other.

DEAR ABBY: Last night my husband and I were dining out and we received the shock of our lives. The husband of one of my best friends was also dining out with another woman. I am sure it wasn't innocent. You can tell the way people act around each other.

Should I tell my friend about her husband's rendezvous? Or should I keep my mouth shut? I am hesitant because there are children involved, and I wouldn't want to be responsible for breaking up a home.

UNDECIDED DEAR UNDECIDED: In that case, the answer is obvious. Keep your mouth shut.

DEAR ABBY: I am 57 years old and a grandmother, and I've always acted my age and dressed my age. My daughter, who is 23 is after me to wear shorts, especially to picnics and outings where there are folks of all ages present. Abby, I am quite slim and I don't suppose I would look too bad in shorts, but I just don't think it's becoming for a woman my age to wear them. I feel much more comfortable in a dress or slacks.

Do you think I'm an old stick-in-the-mud, Abby? I want to please my daughter but I must please myself, too. What do you think?

"GRANNY GOOSE" DEAR GRANNY: If you feel uncomfortable in shorts, don't wear them. I'm sure your daughter means well, but don't let her talk you into anything. Especially shorts.

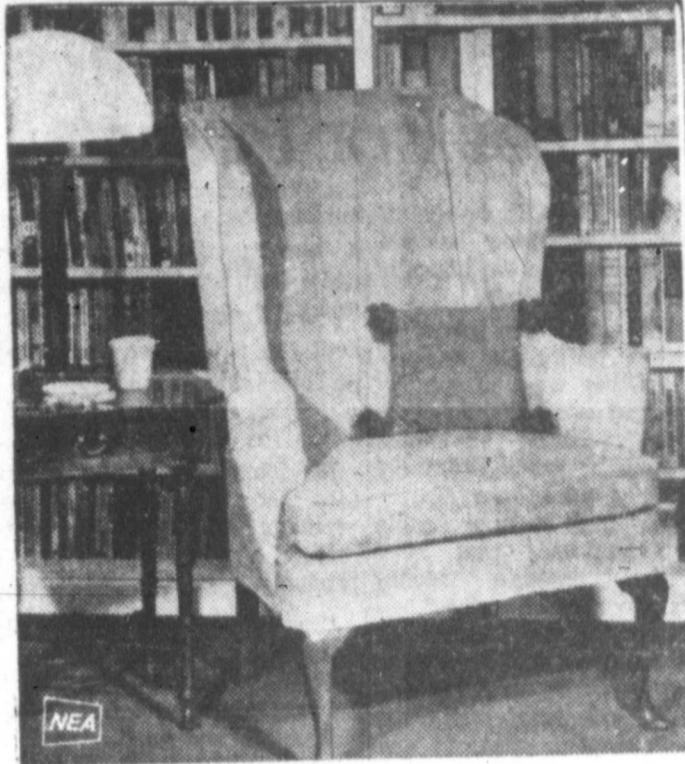

DEAR ABBY: Will you please print, for all to read, your thoughts regarding whether or not a widow must (should) be asked over for dinner two times for every single time that she entertains the couple at her home.

Many widows feel that they are entitled to two dinners for every dinner they give for couples.

We are a couple who always invite our widowed friends—but not two for one.

ONE FOR ONE, NOT TWO FOR ONE.

DEAR ONE: This "two for one" idea is news to me. So many widows are overlooked entirely, I can't imagine any (much less "many") widows expecting it.

Terry Makes Thrifty Slipcovers To Stretch Seamstress' Budget

By JOANNE SCHREIBER One of the great things about sewing is the way it eases an up-tight budget. And when you can pick up the essential ingredients on sale, you're practically making money.

This Summer's bright-budget idea concerns making slipcovers from the lovely sheared terry towels which are presented at considerable savings during the August white sales. These towels come in all kinds of wonderful colors, have an expensive velvety look and are endearingly practical.

The sewing experts have worked out that eight bath towels, plus snap tape, zipper for cushion, muslin and twill tape can be worked into a slipcover for the standard wing chair shown here or for any upholstered chair of similar size.

The pieces are cut and assembled in just the same way as a yard-goods slipcover. working on the right side of the fabric and cutting the pieces right on the chair. Selvages and hems must be removed from the towels before starting to work, because they shrink differently from the terry cloth. After each piece is cut it should be overged to prevent fraying.

The muslin called for in the instructions is used to make aprons at front and back lower edges of the cover. These aprons are tied together under the chair with the twill tapes to keep the cover smooth and taut.

A terry cloth slipcover is a natural for boats, Summer cottages, playrooms and children's rooms. A pair of big beach towels can make a gay and inexpensive bunk-sized bedspread; smaller towels require only cafe-curtain heading for use at windows; porch furniture can take wet bathing suits with ease if the cushions are covered with terry cloth and even the seats in the car can be covered with toweling.

Exact directions for the wing-chair slipcover are available exclusively to readers of this newspaper. Since a wingchair with a T-cushion is about the most complicated of the slipcover styles, you'll find it easy to convert the directions for simpler furniture, such as a club chair.

Church Of Christ, Scientist

One of the seven synonyms for God as used in Christian Science is "Mind," which is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, August 23. The nature of divine Mind will be explained in contrast to the belief that the human mind is a creative or governing power.

One of the Bible verses to be read is from Psalms: "Great is our Lord, and of great power; his understanding is infinite." Other readings from the Bible illustrate the power of Mind utilized by Christ Jesus in healing the sick.

A citation from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, reads: "The basis of all health, wholeness, and immortality is the great fact that God is the only Mind; and this Mind must be not merely believed, but it must be understood."

First Presbyterian Church

Rev. Martin Hager, First Presbyterian Church pastor, will use "Postponed Futures, Regrettable Past" as the topic for his sermon at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services this Sunday. His text will be taken from Revelation 21:1-14.

Ruling Elder Bill Ellison will serve as pulpit assistant at both services of worship. Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, church organist, will present "Melody in G" by Gullman as the Offertory, as well as prelude and postlude selections.

Immediately following the 11 a.m. worship services, there will be a Coffee-Hour Reception, in Calvin Hall, for the new members. This coming Wednesday evening the Diaconate will meet at 7 p.m. in Calvin Hall.

Dr. Wedel Blames Liberals For Split Over Social Action

By LOUIS CASSELS UPI Religion Writer
Dr. Cynthia Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches, suggested this week that "self-righteous" liberals may be even more to blame than foot-dragging conservatives for the split over social action that is sapping the strength of America's churches.

and they simply do not comprehend the view, now widely held by church leaders, that Christian obedience in our time must be primarily concerned with fighting for peace and social justice.

It should and could be today because it is constantly being opposed by the vast majority of church members," she said. Politicians do not take seriously the pronouncements of church leaders who have been repudiated by their own constituency.

This is news of the man-bites-dog type, because Dr. Wedel is a leading liberal and the National Council of Churches has been a main spring of the social action movement.

Liberals Arrogant
When conservative laymen raise questions about the activities and pronouncements of national church bodies dominated by liberal clergymen, she said, they too often get "arrogant and self-righteous" answers.

"In order to promote social action, church leadership must undertake the hard, time-consuming task of communication—must find a way to reach out to, communicate with, educate the great body of church people even while continuing to press forward on the social justice front."

Writing in the Christian Century magazine—itsself a noted voice of liberalism—Dr. Wedel said leaders who favor active involvement of the church in social and political affairs have undermined their own cause by neglecting "the hard, time-consuming task of communication" necessary to acquaint rank and file church members with the Christian motivations for such involvement.

Some liberals, she noted, "take pride in being rejected by the multitude who choose not to follow us." But this attitude puts self-satisfaction above the accomplishment of genuine social progress.

"Leaders of denominations and of the National Council of Churches need to get out into the field, to meet with and listen to the people. Only then will we learn how to communicate to them the Biblical and theological bases of church involvement with the world today."

Man Sees Outward Form, But God Sees Heart

There is a verse of scripture which every parent should commit to memory.

statement which the congressman made to the press at the time that he posted $2,500 bond to secure his 19-year-old son's release from jail.

He must not "wear hippie clothes."

It's found in the Old Testament in the 16th Chapter of the First Book of Samuel: "The Lord sees not as man sees. Man looks on the outward appearance, but the Lord looks on the heart."

He said he had told his son, "I'll give you one chance, and give you written conditions. If you break them, I'll put you back in jail."

He must return to school (from which he dropped out two years ago).

What I cannot comprehend is why otherwise-intelligent adults should attach such overriding importance to what is, after all, a question of taste, not a basic moral issue.

And what were the written conditions? The lawmaker listed them as follows:

He must avoid use of drugs. No parent could quarrel with the last two admonitions—that the young man go back to school and lay off drugs. They are clearly aimed at protecting his welfare in essential respects.

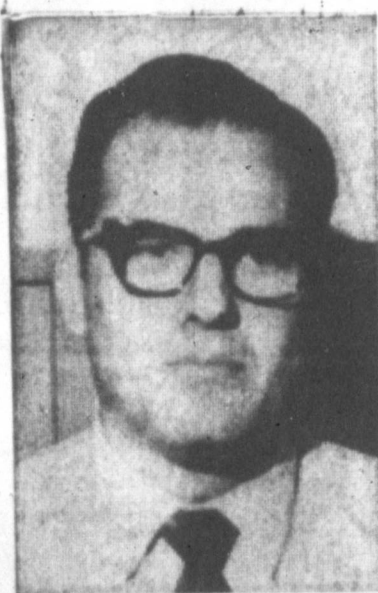

Never mind the congressman's name.

He must "keep himself shaved."

But note, please, that the first four of the six "written conditions" were entirely concerned with the youth's outward appearance.

Jude 1:3
"THE OLD TIME RELIGION"
There are three kinds of preachers in the world today. First, there is the modernist. He does not believe all of God's word. He has no use for the cardinal doctrines of our faith, and he despises the old-time religion.

Then there is the middle of the road preacher. He tries to please everybody. Everyone is good and no one is really lost.

Third, there is the preacher that is true to the word. He knows men are lost and that Christ is their only hope.

Listen to me, there is a spiritual death in the land today. Millions are lost in sin. They completely ignore the church. God has no place in their lives. Others have their names on church rolls yet their membership means nothing to them.

But I wonder how much of the blame for this condition can be laid at the doors of the preachers of our day? I speak of those who have failed to preach the OLD-TIME RELIGION. Those who have gotten away from the true gospel of Jesus Christ.

Jude admonishes us to contend earnestly for the faith which was once delivered to the saints. The message is not a new message, but it is our only message.

It is the same message which Peter preached on the day of Pentecost, a message which turned 3000 souls to Christ.

My friends, if you have not been filled with the Holy Spirit, transformed, and born again and baptised in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, then you are lost and condemned to Hell.

My prayer for you today is that you will call upon the Lord Jesus Christ and confess you are a sinner. Repent and let His resurrected life shine through you.

'Smashing' David Frost Is Interviewer's Interviewer

NEW YORK (NEA) — Once upon a time David Frost was a kid in England who wanted to grow up to be the best soccer player in the world. If you can believe his publicity people, he grew up to be the world's greatest interviewer instead.

Probably spend less time running off to England than you do commuting to your office. Where do you live?

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Near the end of a long bull market advance, speculative interest is the controlling element in stock price movements, but when the inevitable price reaction finally takes place, quality and value regain control of security prices, according to Wright Investors' Service.

The drying up of market volume in August, however, painful it may have been for the depressed brokerage community, is the sort of technical action that signals the advent of a lasting uptrend.

Though the upturn registered by sensitive indicators does not mean that the economy is already out of the woods, it does signal that the climb upward has begun, according to Argus Research Corp.

The scene of all this smashing dialogue (smashing is one of David's favorite words) was the back seat of his limousine, which was doing its best to get through a typical high noon traffic jam in midtown Manhattan.

The trouble with interviewing Frost, I soon found out, was that he's been a professional interviewer so long he can't be happy unless he's interviewing YOU.

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT UPI Hollywood Correspondent HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — No where is the chasm between the generations greater than in popular music.

Frank Sinatra or Dean Martin platter (even the term platter twirling is archaic to the kids) their offspring are in their bedrooms digging the Grand Funk Railroad's "Closer to Home."

The new generation digs Three Dog Night, Creedence Clearwater, Steppenwolf, Rare Earth, 10 Wheel Drive and The Grateful Dead.

Whereas the over 30-year-olds seek tranquility in their music, youth crashes in with the hard beat, high-volume electronic sounds of the 70s.

Youngsters who groove to the song have parents with no conception of the title, lyrics or the sound itself.

As the groups grow, extending their musicianship and refining techniques it is not impossible that the older generation may begin to listen in more frequently.

Mike and Joann Friedman, New York publicists, wanted a 1970 foreign car for weekend transportation to golf and ski resorts. They finally decided to fix up the 1963 sedan with a new exhaust system and shock absorbers and make do for another year or two.

Bribe Offered In Berg Death

ANGLETON, Tex. (UPI)—A private detective testified Tuesday at the murder-for-hire trial of Charles V. Harrelson the defendant was indirectly offered $10,000 to implicate others in the case.

The detective, Robert W. Leonard, said the offer came from Nathan Berg, the father of the Houston carpet executive Harrelson is charged with killing Leonard, who found the younger Berg's remains on a deserted beach, said the elder Berg offered to give the money to Harrelson's former wife if she could convince Harrelson to implicate others in the case.

Leonard said Nathan Berg offered the money when Harrelson was arrested Nov. 20, 1968, in an Atlanta, Ga., rooming house.

"Mr. Berg wanted a message to be sent to the defendant through her (Harrelson's former wife) that he would put $10,000 in a trust account for her children if she could persuade the defendant to name another person or persons involved in the killing," Leonard said.

He said it did not know if Harrelson's former wife accepted the offer. The woman received a divorce from Harrelson.

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., accusing the Nixon administration of trying to harass the nation's press:

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and the Democratic-controlled Congress are engaged in a primarily political effort to blame one another for the high cost of living that is almost certain to keep on going up between now and the November elections.

The President, in a series of actions including widely publicized vetoes of appropriation bills, is trying to convince voters that big spending by Democrats on Capitol Hill are responsible for the erosion of the value of the dollar.

On the other side, Congress has authorized Nixon to impose mandatory wage, price and credit controls. The President did not request the authority and made it plain in advance he would not use it.

But the new law, passed as a rider to a bill the President felt obliged to sign, gives Democrats a chance to argue that Nixon has the tools to hold down the cost of living if he would just use them.

The action on both sides has little real economic significance although it may have a symbolic importance. But the political stakes are high, especially with the economy sure to be a key election issue.

Earlier this month, Nixon vetoed appropriation bills for education, housing and space. The $4.4 billion education measure was $543 million over his original request while the $18.1 billion housing-space bill exceeded the presidential budget by $541 million.

"By the action I am taking today, I am saying 'No' to bigger spending and 'no' to higher prices in the interests of all the American people," the President said in his veto statement.

Veto is Overridden
The education veto was promptly overridden by Congress, as Nixon almost surely knew it would be. The veto was upheld on the housing-space bill and a new measure will have to be drafted.

Although every half billion counts, the impact of such a saving on a $1 trillion economy is small. The President clearly overstated his case when he said the veto would say "no" to higher prices.

Although the rate of inflation appears to be slowing a little, prices are still going up and, even by the administration's most optimistic estimates, will continue to do so for the rest of this year at least—and probably much longer.

LOWESTOFT, England (UPI)—Butch, a 4-year-old Boxer owned by fireman Robert Bishop, has been awarded a bravery plaque by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for saving a drowning cat at sea. Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Comedian Tim Conway sat in a box-like office at CBS Television City and attempted—totally without success—to explain his new fall show.

The pudgy, balding costar of "McHale's Navy," was unsure of what his new venture would be.

He was confident, however, what it wouldn't be. "It's not a variety or musical show," he said. "At this time we have Art Metrano who hums for us. We also have one dancer, Sally Struthers, who does all the June Taylor dance routines on the show."

No Jokes
"Another thing, we aren't going to have jokes on the series. They've hired three writers who have written for television before and seven writers who have never written for television."

"In the new show there will be no blackouts, no one-liners, no singers, no sketches and all our scripts are in code. From that you may gather we have no comedy."

"Au contraire," he said, tripping off the French phrase breezily. "We don't have a lot of things."

"What more could you ask for than an announcer, a hummer and a girl dancer? I'll be on screen too, listening to the hummer and watching the girl dancer."

show. And I may say to you it is an unusual show. Won't Make Fun of Spiro
"We are not going to make fun of Spiro. But we are making fun of the Japanese. I think it's about time we renew that. We go 15 minutes without a word of English—just Japanese. The bad feature is this that it limits our audience."

"You have to see the show to appreciate it. It's hard to explain when you have guys not writing it except in code so other shows won't steal the material."

Guilty Verdict

Returned For Slayer Of Coed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—A jury of six women and six men found John Norman Collins guilty of first-degree murder in the sex slaying of a coed. He was automatically sentenced to life imprisonment. The defense announced plans to appeal the decision, which was reached by the jury after about 271 hours of deliberation.

Collins, a 23-year-old former college senior, was charged with the July 23, 1969 torture-sex slaying of Karen Sue Beineman, 18, Grand Rapids. Her death was the last of seven sex slayings which terrorized two university communities two years. The killings stopped shortly before Collins' arrest July 31, 1969.

With that Conway grew secretive. He doesn't want anyone stealing Drenda.
