Communists Launch Fresh Assault

Prek Tameak Village Under Heavy Attack

SAIGON (UPI) — Field reports today said more than 1,000 Cambodian troops were digging in at a village nine miles north of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh for a new wave of Communist attacks.

In South Vietnam, communiques reported five Americans killed in widely separated action, two of them when U. S. artillerymen accidentally shelled their own lines.

UPI correspondent Frank Prosch, in a dispatch from Phnom Penh, said three battalions of Cambodian infantry were reinforcing positions in the village of Prek Tameak for assaults by North Vietnamese units expected tonight.

Prek Tameak, described as a vital link in Phnom Penh's defenses, has been the scene of heavy combat for more than a week.

Fifteen Cambodian defenders were reported killed and at least 33 wounded in a battle at Prek Tameak which ended early today.

"We killed a lot of the enemy," a Cambodian battalion commander told correspondent Prosch. But he gave no figures and newsmen saw no Communist bodies. A Cambodian spokesman said 2,000 Communist soldiers are in the Prek Tameak area.

although American policy permits such operations.

The U.S. command in Saigon said U.S. artillery accidentally fired two 105mm rounds into a position of a 1st Air Cavalry Division unit which had come under fire from a squad-sized Communist force and had called for artillery support.

Fighting was light and scattered across South Vietnam but government spokesmen said Viet Cong units slipped into the village of Binh Phung, 70 miles southwest of Saigon Tuesday and threw grenades into a temple where a variety show was in progress. The blasts killed five civilians and three government militiamen.

In the Cambodian campaign, government spokesmen claimed a major victory and said Cambodian troops had killed at 37 killed and 177 wounded. Cambodian air force fighter-bombers are supporting the infantrymen at Prek Tameak. There have been no reports of U.S. air strikes in the area.

In three battles in the Prek Tameak area in a week, Cambodian troops report killing at least 900 Viet Cong. Cambodian losses were placed at 37 killed and 177 wounded. Cambodian air force fighter-bombers are supporting the infantrymen at Prek Tameak. There have been no reports of U.S. air strikes in the area.

Crucial Vote To Come On SE Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has scheduled a crucial vote next Tuesday on legislation designed to force U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia in 16 months.

Sponsors of the measure, led by Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., agreed to an austere, six-hour debate limitation on the amendment as the Senate struggled to finish work on the $19.2 billion military procurement bill.

Debate on the procurement bill, which in former years took only a day or two to whip through the Senate, is now in its second month.

Strict time limitations were imposed on other amendments, including an anti-herbicide proposal by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., scheduled for today. The Nelson amendment would bar defoliants and antierop weapons now being used in Vietnam to destroy enemy food supplies and jungle hideouts.

"If our role is to defend Vietnam, how can we risk destroying the environment in which they must survive when we leave?" Nelson asked.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., opposed the amendment contending herbicides were of "critical importance in saving American lives in Vietnam."

Tuesday, the Senate considered—and quickly rejected 52 to 35—an amendment to lay the groundwork for an all-volunteer Army and an end to the draft.

The proposal, made by Hatfield and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., was designed to attract thousands of new recruits with a $3.2 billion across-the-board military pay hike.

Although opponents attacked the voluntary Army as too expensive, unworkable and unfair to poor blacks who would be lured to fight wars for rich whites, antidraft sentiment was still alive. Several members predicted Nixon would run into trouble if he asks Congress next year to extend the draft beyond its June 30 expiration date unless Vietnam withdrawals are speeded up.

ON SCHOOL BUDGET

Trustees Hold Special Meeting

School trustees called a special session at 7 a.m. today to preview the proposed 1970-71 budget and discuss clerical salaries, but no news media were informed of the meeting.

It was learned trustees gave tentative approval to guidelines for clerical salaries in the breakfast meeting and discussed "extra expenditures." When board president Jimmy Thompson was called to confirm what happened, he said he thought "News media were notified, but principal discussion was on teacher-aides, clerical salaries and the proposed budget."

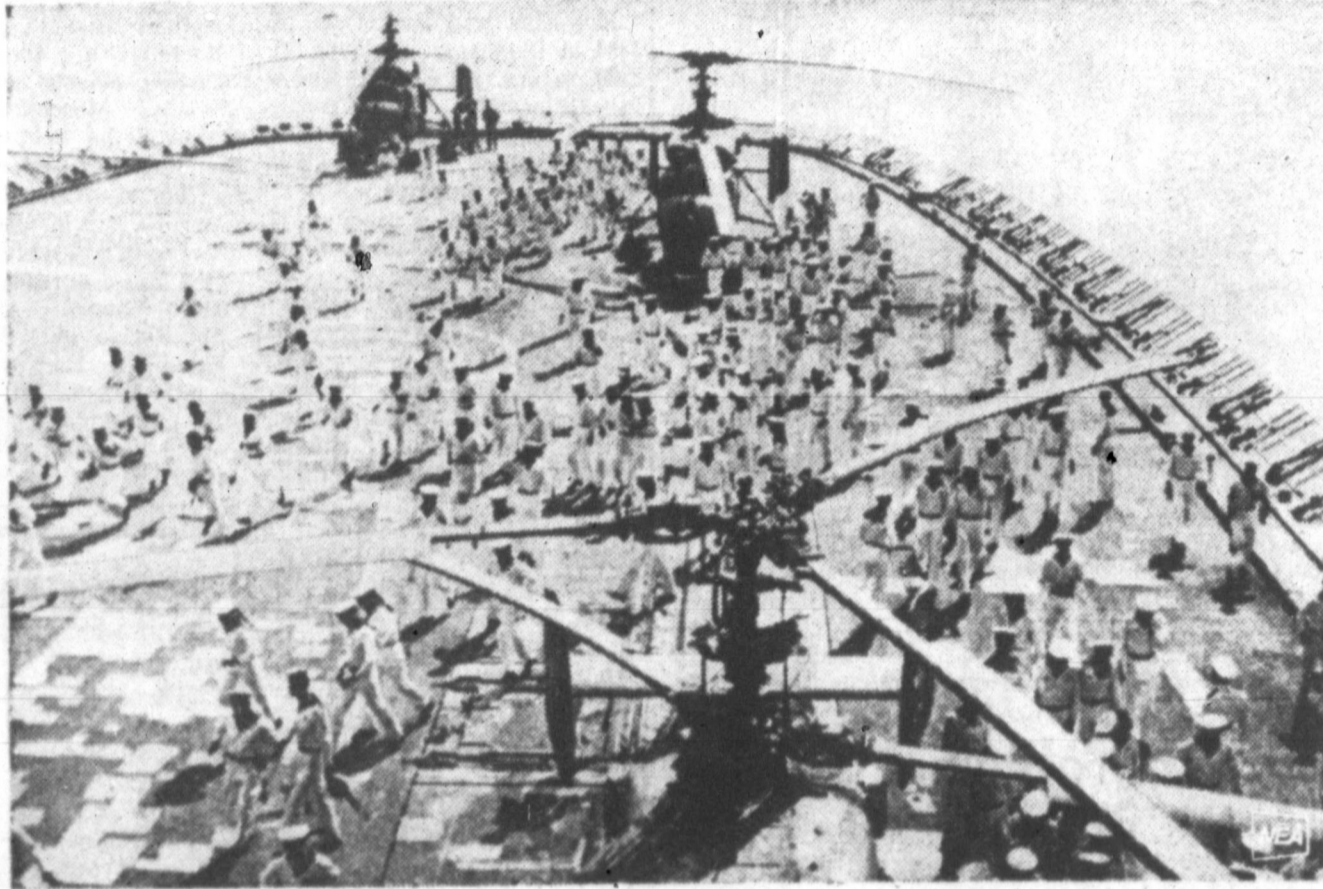

Supt. Dr. James F. Malone

was out of the office, at one of the schools, "and was not expected back until this afternoon." He could not be contacted for confirmation, because Malone's secretary did not know which school.

When school trustees review the proposed 1970-71 budget Friday night, they will face a $3,949, 210 budget with $3,936, 822 expected revenue. Unless some changes are made Friday, the school district would start the year with $12, 388 expenses over the estimated revenue.

A breakdown of expenditures by categories include administration, $120,600; in structure, $2,887,400; attendance

Auditorium Inches Through Legalities

A contract covering plans for construction and operation of Pampa's proposed municipal auditorium has been submitted by the city to M.K. Brown Foundation trustees, according to William Jarrel Smith, secretary-treasurer of the foundation.

Smith was in Dallas today to go over the proposed contract with Internal Revenue Service officials and other advisors experienced in such matters.

"I imagine it will take some little time for a contract to jell completely," Smith said before leaving for Dallas yesterday afternoon, "but in any event we are trying to get this matter out of the way as soon as we possibly can."

Smith added that "as usual in such matters, we run into roadblocks."

The auditorium, to be financed by income from the Brown Foundation, will be a memorial structure to the late M.K. Brown, Pampa pioneer and philanthropist.

Under its original proposal to the city, the foundation would make immediately available around $400,000 and the city would issue possibly an additional $400,000 or $500,000 in revenue bonds on warrants, all of which would be retired from M. K. Brown Foundation property, eventual sale of ranch lands and other real estate owned by the foundation.

The original proposition made by the foundation trustees for building and equipping the auditorium would not involve tax obligation bonds and would not mean increase in the city tax rate.

The city commission began consideration of the proposal last April 26 and named a committee to select an architect.

Since that time city officials have gone into a thorough study of the proposal and necessary planning which has resulted in submission of the proposed contract with the foundation by City Atty. Bob Gordon.

Oklahoma, Arkansas Primaries Settle Several Candidates' Fates

By United Press International House Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas easily won renomination to their offices in primary elections Tuesday.

But former six-term Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus faced a runoff in the Democratic primary for governor after mustering about 36 per cent of the vote against seven opponents.

Primary elections were held in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Alaska Tuesday. Interest centered on races for governor. There was only one contest for senator—in Alaska where GOP Sen. Ted Stevens was a runaway winner.

Albert's victory in the Democratic primary in Oklahoma was tantamount to election because he has no opposition in November. It also means he likely will be speaker of the House next year, assuming the Democrats retain a majority in Congress.

In Arkansas, Rockefeller easily rolled over three opponents in the GOP primary, but his real test will come in November when he probably will face Faubus, governor from 1955 to 1967, whose name became a national household word during the 1957 crisis over the integration of Little Rock schools.

Faubus defeated Rockefeller in 1964, but retired in 1967.

Faubus in the Sept. 8 runoff primary will face either attorney Dale Bumpers or Attorney General Joe Purcell. Bumpers was slightly ahead of Purcell as the count neared completion.

DESPITE DIFFERENCES

Agnew Reassures South Koreans United States Still "A Friend"

TAICHUNG, Taiwan (UPI)—Vice President Spiro Agnew arrived on Taiwan today to reassure Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek that American overtures toward Communist China will not jeopardize U.S. defense commitments to Nationalist China.

While flying to Taiwan from Seoul, Korea, Agnew's first stop on his Asian tour—the vice president told newsmen he and South Korean President Park Chung-hee reached basic agreement in two days of intensive talks. But he said the United States does not go along with Park's position that withdrawal of 20,000 troops from some only after the United States modernizes South Korea's armed forces.

"President Park understands that and he accepts it," Agnew said.

Agnew's jet landed at Ching Chuan Kang Air Base near Taichung, 110 miles south of Taipei.

Agnew shook hands with some of the 200 American military personnel at the base and greeted Nationalist Chinese Vice President C. K. Yen and Vice Premier Chiang Ching-kuo, eldest son of Chiang Kai-Shek. Agnew then drove to Sun Moon Lake, a resort where Chiang Kai-Shek has a retreat.

He was meeting the 82-year-old Nationalist Chinese president for brief discussions later to be followed by a dinner given by Chiang in Agnew's honor.

Agnew said in the news conference aboard his jet plane that he expected to discuss what he called obligations and limitations of the defense treaty between the United States and Nationalist China when he met with Chiang.

Nationalist China has been disturbed about the Nixon administration's attempts to improve relations with Communist China and recent decisions by the White House to ease trade restrictions against Peking.

Agnew was expected to tell Chiang that these policies will be continued, although the United States will firmly uphold its obligations under the 1954 defense treaty with the Taipei government.

The visit to Nationalist China is the shortest segment of Agnew's Asian tour. Agnew was to have breakfast with Chiang Ching-kuo Thursday, pay a final courtesy call on Chiang Kai-Shek then leave for Saigon a few hours later.

IT'S CONSTITUTIONALITY

SC Agrees To Rule On Voting Rights Of 18-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court has agreed to hear arguments in October on the constitutionality of the Voting Rights Act, and has indicated it would try to rule on its most controversial section—the vote for 18-year-olds—before the provision takes effect Jan. 1.

In signing the law, President Nixon ordered Attorney General John N. Mitchell to seek a quick court ruling.

The prohibition on literacy tests—affecting 14 states—went into effect June 22, and for voting be lowered to 18 in all federal, state and local elections. The Nixon administration opposed it, saying it has been viewed by some as the most pressing issue because it affects November elections.

Oregon and Texas filed challenges to the 18-year-old vote statute, charging Congress alone cannot amend the Constitution. The Justice Department filed suit against Arizona and Idaho covering the 18-year-old vote statute. The Arizona case also covers suspension of the state's literacy tests, and the Idaho case covers the state's residency requirement.

Two other districts in the epidemic area, Edgewood and Harlandale, will open Monday. The Edgewood and Harlandale districts are expected to set up immunization programs when their schools open.

Opening Of School Could Intensify Epidemic In SA

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—More San Antonio children started to school today, creating a situation that could intensify a diphtheria epidemic that has stricken 37 victims this month and 67 since the first of the year.

The 37th case of the month was reported Tuesday.

Forty-five thousand children returned to school in five districts Monday, leaving 150,000 who returned today or will return next Monday. Health authorities feared that jamming the children together in classrooms would worsen the diphtheria epidemic.

More than 158,000 persons have been vaccinated against diphtheria in a mass immunization program.

Male Camp Under Siege

By United Press International The male chauvinist camp was under siege today.

The Women's Liberation movement hoped its one-day strike nationwide demonstrations by its devotees on the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage would win a fairer shake for the fair sex.

Parades, speeches and stronger action were planned for most of the nation's larger cities as the movement known as "Women's Lib" pressed demands for equality in education and employment, free child-care centers and unrestricted free abortions.

In Houston, a ladies group called the "Bow-Wows," gagged and bound male broadcasters Tuesday and "threatened to tear up their music sheets." They won time on KPRC Radio from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. today.

Milder tactics were planned in New York City, where women said they received assurance from police they could march down Fifth Avenue at 5:30 p.m. with only one lane left open for traffic.

The Secret Service announced Tuesday it had selected the first seven women to serve on the White House police force, explaining, "There are places where only women can go."

President Nixon paid tribute to the 50th anniversary of suffrage, praising "the brave and courageous women, knowing their cause was just, drawing strength and inspiration from one another through generations, (WHO) fought long and hard for woman suffrage."

Among the officials less enthusiastic about the day was San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, who said, "I don't understand this struggle, I'm trying to get a handle on it. What is it they want done differently?"

In Indianapolis, Ind., women planned a "theater in the street" production which might give the mayor an answer. It was titled, "Male Ego."

Though strike coordinator Betty Friedman said the strike should include any woman "who has ever felt she is not quite a first-class citizen because she is female," there were some lady naysayers.

A Montana secretary described the activists as "ding-a-lings," and a girl from Helena, Mont., asked, "Who wants equality? I don't want to be drafted."

Highlights And Sidelights From The State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — A legislative committee is sampling recommendations for sweeping court reforms, including creation of judicial system administrators with authority to send judges wherever they are needed.

Judicial section of the State Bar will detail its proposals at a 10 October meeting in Galveston.

Judges and practicing attorneys gave the House judiciary subcommittee, at a hearing in the capitol, their ideas for improving and speeding up court machinery.

Sample recommendations include:

- Strong court administration, including authority to ignore present district lines in assigning judges to duty where the action is.

- Giving 14 Courts of Civil Appeals power to handle intermediate appeals of criminal, as well as civil cases to ease load on overworked Court of Criminal Appeals (which now receives appeals direct from district courts all over the state).

- Creation of a "unified" court system (a variety of plans have been suggested) to insure an even work load on courts, again by shifting judges to areas where dockets are overloaded.

- Automatic judicial redistricting by a five-member board if the Legislature refuses to do the job.

- Removing judges from politics.

- Stiffer fines and jail sentences for contempt of court to help prevent court disruptions like those which have shocked the nation in recent months.

- Simplification of the judicial article of the state constitution so the Legislature can make necessary changes without having to submit constitutional amendments.

- "The climate for judicial reform was never so good," Supreme Court Associate Justice Jack Pope told the committee members. "But if reform is passed up this session of the Legislature, it may be too late."

OIL ALLOWABLE AT RECORD — Texas Railroad Commission boosted the oil allowable for Sept. to 79.9 percent of potential — highest level since Oct. 1951.

Order is seen as likely to boost production higher than during the Arab-Israeli war in 1967.

Chairman Ben Ramsey noted that the Commission's staff report warned the higher factor could cause pollution, wasting gas and pipeline bottlenecks in some areas.

A major oil company spokesman said Texas crude oil stocks are down 4.5 million barrels from 1969. A rapid decline in imported oil was noted.

September allowable would provide for a maximum daily production of 4,166,870 barrels, although actual production is estimated at 3,409,000 barrels a day. Latter is just under the written nominations of major purchasers for 3,428,395 barrels of crude daily. Production in August at 70 per cent factor was estimated at 3,310,000.

MERCURY RULES URGED — Texas Water Quality Board has been urged to adopt tougher mercury discharge limits or outlaw discharges outright.

A Federal Water Quality Administrator recommended even tighter controls on mercury and other heavy metals than proposed by the Board.

Spokesmen for Diamond-Shamrock Chemical Company and American Smelting and Refining Company, on the other hand, argued that the proposed five parts per billion mercury discharge level is beyond their capacity. They called for a delay in adoption of the standards.

Federal officials took exception to the state Board's order which said there is no evidence of public health hazard from heavy metals contamination in Texas. He pointed to mercury found in industrial discharges, coastal waters and in certain species of salt water fish and shell fish. He noted, in particular, industrial waste along the Houston ship channel and in Lavaca Bay.

CELIA JOBLESS-AID PAID — Texas Employment Commission will pay disaster unemployment assistance to persons unemployed as a result of Hurricane, Celia in a dozen South Texas counties.

These are Atascosa, Aransas, Live Oak, McMullen, Bee, Jim Wells, Nueces, San Patricio, Refugio, Goliad, Karnes and Wilson Counties.

Those eligible include persons who worked or were scheduled to work in the areas but who no longer have jobs or places to work or could not reach their place of work because of storm damage.

Also eligible are those who lived in areas and could not get out to work elsewhere, those who could not go to work because of injury or illness due to the disaster, those who became heads of households and needed to work due to the death of the family breadwinner during the emergency period, or those who had completed work training and could not find work because of hurricane damage.

WELFARE REGION ESTABLISHED — A new State Department of Public Welfare region serving six South Texas counties will go into operation on Sept. 1 with headquarters in Laredo.

M.J. Raymond Jr. will serve as regional administrator for all department programs in Webb, Duval, Jim Wells, Jim Hogg, Zapata and Starr Counties. Counties previously were part of a larger region. Department now has a 17-region setup.

APPOINTMENTS — Gov. Preston Smith reappointed Dave Smith of Austin to the board of trustees of the Employees Retirement System of Texas.

Governor also reappointed Paul G. Veale of McAllen and W.M. Eell of Dona to the Rio Grande Valley Municipal Water Authority board of directors and

Dr. Frank Lamont Jennings of Galveston and Thomas Frank Jenkins of Winnie to the Gulf Coast Waste Disposal Authority.

William Terry Bray of Austin is new assistant solicitor general of U.S. Department of Justice.

Dr. Robert D. Mettlen was designated assistant to the president of the University of Texas at Austin effective Sept. 1.

COURTS SPEAK — U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals denied Texas' appeal on who has jurisdiction in a Padre Island buried treasure case. U.S. District Judge Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville had held on June 12 that he could take jurisdiction in the dispute over ownership of the recovered artifacts. State wants the articles. So does Platono Ltd., the Gary, Ind., salvage firm which recovered them.

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin filed a triple damage, anti-trust suit against three big drug firms, accusing them of conspiracy in restraint of trade leading to a monopoly in Ampicillin and other synthetic penicilins.

State request for lifting an injunction against enforcing the private bottle club guest rule has been delayed until Sept. 30 by the Austin District Court.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wall markets do not start with a thunderclap; a number of preconditions begin developing over a period of months and, when the light flashes on, they are already in place, the Dines Letter says. The firm cautions, however, that "a bear market even in its final stages must be respected because final declines can be vicious."

There is no evidence yet that an economic or a stock market turnaround will soon get under way and caution is advised, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. The picture should become clearer in a few months and there should be a rush to acquire equities in the interim, the firm adds.

The near term outlook appears to favor the bulls for at least the next two weeks, TPO Inc. says. The analyst also says that while investors should remain cautious, traders may profit from some selective purchases in leading performers.

Standard & Poor's recommends a policy of "continuing commitment of reserves in a methodical fashion, concentrating on sound values and husbanding some funds for future buying opportunities."

RIGHT PATH, BUT...
WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—Student pilot David Cowdin, 16, making his first cross-country flight, radioed the control tower, Monday for instructions to the Kickapoo Airport. A female voice told him he was on the right flight path.

Cowdin approached his destination and landed without a hitch—right in the middle of 38th Street.

The airport sent a pilot to Cowdin's plane to fly it to the runway.

JUST CAN'T BE

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickett owns a Spiro Agnew wristwatch.

He told a GOP fund-raising dinner here Monday night he received it during a birthday celebration last week in Alaska. The Anchorage Chamber of Commerce said the watch was a gift from the White House, but Hickett said he doesn't believe it came from there.

Dallas Sheriff Ends Colorful Career

DALLAS (UPI) — In 1920, one James Eric "Bill" Decker operated an elevator in the old Dallas County Courthouse.

Two years later he became a clerk to a judge and the next year a deputy constable.

Smoot Schmid was elected Dallas County sheriff in 1933 and Schmid named the then 33-year-old Decker as his first deputy.

That began a career in law enforcement that ended Monday when Decker, 71, announced his resignation for health reasons after 21 years as the county's No. 1 law officer—21 years that saw him face everything from depression desperadoes to Presidential assassins.

Decker's most famous escape involved the ambush of Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow on an East Louisiana swamp road. Decker also single-handedly captured gunman and bank robber Raymond Hamilton, a member of Bonnie and Clyde's gang.

Walked to Hideout

Hamilton broke out of death row in 1935 and with two pistols hid out in the police-filled railroad yards of Fort Worth. Decker walked slowly to the boxcar where Hamilton was hiding.

"This is Bill Decker, Raymond," the then deputy sheriff said. "Come on out here!" Raymond walked out, turned his pistols over to Decker and quietly surrendered.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

ROTHERHAM, England (UPI)—Mrs. Pat Hainsworth was carrying a box of groceries down the street when someone snatched it from her and tossed it into the maw of a garbage truck.

"I was passing the van when one of the men grabbed the box," she said. "He must have thought it was rubbish. I was bringing out to get emptied."

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am just about ready to blow my brains out... What did I do wrong? I went with Al for four years. He was married, but he and his wife never got along. We spent every weekend together. Pretty soon Al had more clothes at my apartment than he had at home. I even paid for his psychotherapy for a year. I never looked at another man. I loaned him money, shared my car with him, cooked for him, did his laundry and waited patiently for the day his divorce became final. Well, it did, five weeks ago. Last night he told me that the only "real" love in a man's life is his first love, so he has decided to remarry his ex-wife!

Why are men such rats, and why are women such fools?

isn't the same sort of "animal lover" she is. (Sign me)

"OWNED BY A CAT"

DEAR OWNED: Thanks for your support. I needed it. Would you believe my mail ran two to one in favor of doing away with the cat?

PRIEST ARRESTED

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Customs Bureau has arrested a man they identified as the Rev. Joseph A. Amormino, a Roman Catholic priest from Burbank, Calif., for allegedly trying to smuggle $14,000 worth of hashish into the country.

The agency said the man was arrested at Dulles International Airport outside Washington after agents found he had taped 9.5 pounds of the narcotic to his body. They said he had arrived on a flight from France.

ADELE

DEAR ADELE: You have just qualified for the "Old-too-Soon, Smart-too-Late" Club (women's department). Listed below are most common traps which make membership automatic:

(a) An affair with a married man whose wife doesn't understand him. (She's usually "cold," extravagant or sick.) (b) The working woman who keeps working while her boy friend keeps telling her he can't marry her until his mother dies, his kids are grown, or he gets all his debts paid off. (This never happens.)

(c) The woman who falls for the man-about-town who boasts publicly that he's not the marrying kind, but she hangs on thinking she's the one woman in the world who can get him to change his mind. In the meantime, nothing changes but the color of her hair.

DEAR ABBY: I think the daughter who sent you her mother's letter about having her favorite cat "put gently to sleep" and buried with her ought to see about having her mother "put gently to sleep." It sounds to me as though the old broad is a little dippy.

Ask her if there isn't perhaps a friend or two whom she'd like to "reward" for their devotion by having them "put gently to sleep" with her.

If she doesn't, I have a few I'd like to volunteer, among them, that fat-headed daughter who sent in her mother's letter. Sounds to me as if mental aberrations run in the family.

I agree completely with your reply. "Let nature decide." However, I'd like to suggest to the old bat that if she's really worried about the cat's welfare she should make provisions in her will for the cat's care.

Falling that, she should make sure somebody competent will care for her cat after she's gone. I only hope that somebody

THURSDAY, AUG. 27, 1970 Your birthday Thursday: The coming year holds assurance of success for those who will keep a balance between material and spiritual concerns. Study leading to new skills or better jobs is a must now. The comforts of life escalate in cost and importance — if you let yourself drift. Experiences in love and in the family include intensely emotional episodes, many of them very happy. Thursday's natives are willing to work and keep their word.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Much of what you do Thursday concerns long-range improvement of your home. You have responsibility now to help heal some discord among your close associates.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Besides a correct estimate of the situation, you must also have the willingness of others to follow you — and this is not likely Thursday. Concentrate on matters you can do alone.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take a conservative pattern of action. Get an early start, be alert, and keep moving. You can do things for older people that puts your mind at rest.

Militant Women Issue Strike Call

NEW YORK (UPI)—At the Women's Coalition strike headquarters in New York today something like D-Day. The Women's Liberation Movement either gets off the ground or it flops.

Mrs. Betty Friedan, strike coordinator, is elated. She says the response to her strike call is mushrooming. After the call, strike she plans a national conference on Women's Liberation this year. And next year, a world conference.

You don't have to be a militant feminist or woman's liberationist or a man-hater to join in.

The edict from strike headquarters puts it this way: "If you are a woman who has ever felt that she is not quite a first-class citizen because she is female, you must demonstrate that fact on strike day.

"If you do nothing, you are saying that you are totally satisfied with your own inferior status."

Fence-sitters who can't quite figure which way to jump are urged by Mrs. Friedan and her group to consider these questions:

—Have you ever been paid less at a job for which a man would be paid more?

—If you are married, did you have a twinge of regret at having to give up the name you had since birth?

—Have you ever been in a job, such as secretary or maid, that is held almost exclusively by women, because no man would do that job for that money?

—Have you ever felt the discomfort of high heels or girdles, and envied men who can wear comfortable clothes?

—Have you ever resented it, even a little, that almost all the important political decisions are made by men?

—Have you ever had to give up a cherished hope or ambition because it was unfeminine or would interfere with your duties as wife or mother?

—Have you ever wondered if there might be something wrong with you because you do not enjoy doing all the things that women are supposed to like to do—cooking, sewing, housework, serving others?

A "yes" answer to a very few of the questions means "you owe it to yourself... to participate in the day of protest to show that you feel that women do not yet have the full freedom and equal status that is their birthright as human beings," says the National Women's Strike Coalition.

"CAMP" LITTER BASKETS

Pampa Area Residents Plan To Assist In MD Telethon

A nationwide television network has been created specially for the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to benefit Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America. The show will be seen in Pampa through the facilities of channel 10.

Officers of the Greater Plains Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America will assist in the Jerry Lewis MD Telethon by operating a telephone center at Skellytown, with about 60 people working during the 20-hour telethon. Calls to this center will be toll free to Pampa and Borger residents. Mrs. Glenn McConnell said.

Those assisting who will be from Clarendon, Skellytown, Borger and Pampa will be directed by Bob Lusk in Borger.

Ardis Morris in Clarendon, Lee Thomas, Skellytown and Rand Southard of Pampa, the teenage recruiter. Southard worked this past June at the Muscular Dystrophy Summer Camp.

Officers of the Greater Plains Chapter are Mrs. Irvin Hungerford, president; Mrs. Bob Rose, vice president; Mrs. Bob Yost, secretary; Mrs. Horace Henley, treasurer, and Mrs. Glenn McConnell, publicity director, with Howard Wright of Lubbock as the district director.

The chapter serves 12 Texas counties. Armstrong, Carson, Collingsworth, Donley, Gray, Hansford, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts and Wheeler, and two counties in Oklahoma, Texas and Beaver.

The telethon will start locally

Sept. 6, at 5 p.m. and run continuously until 1 p.m. Sept. 7, Labor Day. Till this year, Jerry Lewis' benefit telethons, presenting the "Greats" of show business, have been limited to viewers in the eastern part of the country. This is the first time in history that any telethon has gone coast-to-coast.

The 20 hour spectacular has always originated in New York City, as it will this year, but origins from other cities throughout the country are expected to be added this year.

Stars who have already agreed to appear on the nationwide show are Danny Thomas, Joan Crawford, Ed McMahon; Sidney Blackmer, Danny Kaye, Hildegard, Steve Allen, Dorothy Collins, Patty Duke, Helen O'Connell, Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy.

Funds raised by Jerry Lewis on his Labor Day Telethons for muscular dystrophy are utilized in MDA's scientific research program as well as locally in the communities where the money is raised through the association's patient service program.

POLLY'S POINTERS Wash Big Cotton Rugs At Coin Laundromat

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY and Carolyn — I take my large cotton rugs to the coin laundry and wash them in one of their jumbo-sized tumbler machines. Use only warm water for the rubber backing and then dry them in the commercial dryer on a mild or low setting, or take them home and dry on the line.

—MRS. R.R.K. DEAR GIRLS — This is the way I do mine but if you are taking them home to dry on the line, do be sure to put folded cardboard or some such thing on the line first or the rug will dry with a bad crease. Also, shake the rug occasionally as it dries.

—POLLY DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Carolyn how I wash a large cotton rug with a foam-rubber backing. I use a bucket of sudsy water and a brush. Lay the rug on the basement floor, scrub it well with the brush. When clean, rinse thoroughly, still on the floor. Take an old blanket and roll the rug in it to absorb water. Then let it dry on a flat surface.

—MRS. P.S. Polly's Problem DEAR POLLY — I have a number of colored snapshots of my children that I would like to display in the den. For a number of reasons, picture frames are not the answer. I would like to decoupage a wall plaque, using these photographs, but I am such an amateur at this sort of thing and do not even know if it is possible to do this with snapshots. I hope someone who has had some experience could tell me IF and HOW this can be done.

—LINDA B.

DEAR POLLY — I received a wrought-iron candle holder as a gift. It requires a candle three inches in diameter, which goes over a sharp, naillike prong in the base. We bought a beautiful but expensive candle. In trying to put it on this holder, we broke it. Were we chagrined when our son-in-law carefully held the holder over the gas flame for a moment until it was hot and very easily slid the candle in place? As the prong cooled, the wax hardened again and the candle fit ever so snug. Hope our experience will benefit someone else.

Indian Government Denies Sale Of Girls To Catholic Convents

By United Press International
The Indian government promised a full parliamentary debate Tuesday into the alleged sale of Roman Catholic Indian girls to convents in Europe.

The promise by Majority Speaker G.S. Dhillon in the lower house in the parliament in New Delhi headed off a threatened opposition motion to censure the government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on grounds that the government could not "plead ignorance to the trafficking in girls which has been going on for years."

Dhillon said he would set the date for the debate after hearing the cabinet's position.

Vatican sources said today a special investigator has questioned 650 Indian girls in a probe into conditions surrounding novice nuns and trainee nurses brought to Europe from India's poverty-stricken state of Kerala.

Most of the girls had no complaints, the sources said. The investigation, begun in July, was expected to reach all 1,200 Kerala girls sent to Europe for church service.

In London, language teacher Sonia Dougal, whose investigations led to reports of Indian girls being sold to Roman Catholic convents, said some priests involved received as much as $360 per girl.

Miss Dougal said in a Monday night television interview that the priests were not using the money to help the girls' poverty-stricken families.

The Vatican Sunday denied printed reports of alleged "nunn-running." Sources said today the denial was based on the still incomplete investigation.

Beauty Supplier Sues Phone Company For $330 Million

NEW YORK (UPI)—A man who has three telephones has sued the New York Telephone Co. because one never works and the others seldom do. He wants $330 million.

Nathaniel Cooper, 50, who runs a beauty supply business in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, brought suit for $330 million Monday on behalf of himself and 475,000 other persons in the neighborhood.

Cooper said since he cannot make or receive phone calls, he has lost thousands of dollars since April 1, 1967, and his business has been "irreparably damaged."

Cooper's lawyer, S. Hal Mercer, said the telephone company would not send repairmen to the Bedford-Stuyvesant area because repairmen were afraid of assault.

Mercer said residents had offered to set up a committee of men to protect the telephone workers, but still the company did not repair the phones.

U.S. District Court Judge John F. Dooling Jr. signed a show cause order requiring the company to explain why it should not be restrained from collecting bills or issuing new bills until the case is decided.

Red Sox's Win 1-0 In Game Delayed By Bomb Threat

By United Press International
There was a strange scene at Metropolitan Stadium in Bloomington, Minn., at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday night.

About 15,000 people were milling around outside the stadium while another 2,000 were mingling with the Minnesota Twins and Boston Red Sox on the field.

The reason was a bomb scare that was phoned into the police, warning that a bomb was scheduled to go off at 9:30. The park was evacuated although some fans joined the player's on the field.

After police searched the stadium, the all-clear signal was given at 9:41 p.m. and the fans filed back to their seats and the game, which was tied with two out in the bottom of the fourth, resumed. It was delayed 43 minutes.

The game remained scoreless until the eighth when Tony Conigliaro slammed a homer to give the Red Sox a 1-0 victory.

Conigliaro Hits 25th
Conigliaro's homer, his 25th, came off Tom Hall who came on to pitch the eighth after Bill Zepp blanked the Red Sox for seven innings. Ken Brett, who entered the game in the fifth, got the win with relief help from Gary Wagner in the ninth.

But the bomb threat was the main topic of conversation despite the close game. Frank

Quilici of the Twins summed up the attitude of the players when he said, "It's kind of silly to think that any derelict with a dime in a telephone could cause this type of disturbance."

In the other American League games, California swept a doubleheader from Detroit, 6-4, in 12 innings and 10-6, New York edged Kansas City, 2-1, Chicago nipped Washington, 4-3, Milwaukee beat Cleveland, 4-2, in 10 innings and Baltimore topped Oakland, 5-1.

In the National League, Houston topped Montreal, 6-3, in 13 innings, Atlanta edged New York, 7-6, Philadelphia nipped Cincinnati, 3-2, in 12 innings, Los Angeles beat Chicago, 4-1, San Diego beat Pittsburgh 4-3, and San Francisco edged St. Louis, 4-2.

California Moves Up
California moved to within 3 1/2 games of the first-place Twins in the West Division by sweeping the doubleheader from Detroit. The Angels had to rally after trailing, 4-0, in the first game and, 3-1, and 6-4, in the second.

New York boosted its record this year to 10-1 against Kansas City as Jim Lytle singled in the tie-breaker run in the ninth. The Royals are 1-22 this year against New York and Baltimore.

Rookie Bernie Smith hit his first major league homer, a two-run shot in the 10th, to give Milwaukee the victory over Cleveland. Sam McDowell of the Indians was lifted for a pinch-hitter after eight innings and lost his bid for his 10th victory.

But Dave McNally of Baltimore became a 20-game winner for the third consecutive season though he was touched for 10 hits as the Orioles beat Oakland.

Rich Morales scored pinch-runner Tom McCraw with a ninth-inning sacrifice fly to give the White Sox their victory over the Senators. Wilbur Wood won his eighth game in relief.

Tis Rookie and Vet Cutting Season

By United Press International
Offensive tackle Steve Wright, who spent much of last season in the New York Giants' "Doghouse," was among seven players placed on waivers by the club Tuesday.

Four other veterans were cut as the Giants reduced their roster to 53 players. They were quarterback Bob Davis, obtained from the Houston Oilers in the off-season, running back Pate Larson a free agent formerly with the Washington Redskins, and tight end Butch Wilson, formerly with the Baltimore Colts.

Running back O.J. Simpson worked out at full speed as the Buffalo Bills continued pre-season training at Niagara University. Simpson, the 1968 Hiesman Trophy winner, and wide-receiver Bubba Thornton, both injured in last Friday's pre-season clash with the Philadelphia Eagles, are expected to play against the Washington Redskins in the nation's capital Friday night.

Seven thousand tickets go on sale today for a closed circuit color telecast of Saturday's Houston Oilers-Dallas Cowboys football game in the Astrodome. Astrodome seats have been sold out for a month and only a few of the 5,000 standing room tickets remain.

The Oakland Raiders acquired Gene Milton, formerly wide receiver and kick return specialist with the Miami Dolphins.

Matson To Speak At Booster Club Monday Meeting

Pampa residents interested in seeing how the 1970 football team looks, can find out next Monday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Randy Matson will be the guest speaker at the Harvester Booster Club meeting," said Booster Club President Bill Harris.

Harris stated it will be the first meeting of the season and will be held in the Harvester stadium. He is delighted to have Matson, executive secretary of the Buffalo Club for West Texas State University as the main speaker.

"We will have all of the football players there," said Swede Lee, athletic director and football coach for the Harvesters.

"We will give the public a preview of our offense and our defense," said Lee.

"The public is invited to attend this first meeting free of charge," said Harris. Memberships in the Booster Club are still available.

Shaving Strokes by Frank Beard

Putting is half the game, and I'd like to devote the last eight segments of this 15-part series to some tips that should help you on the greens. Let me start by passing on something that Ben Hogan has done to improve his putting.

You probably know that for some time Ben had an awful problem getting the putter back from the ball. He just couldn't start his stroke. He would all but freeze over the ball and then when he finally did take the putter back he did it in an erratic, jerking movement that destroyed what once had been a beautiful putting rhythm.

Ben says he has overcome what a lot of folks ruefully refer to as "The Yips" by moving the ball well forward in his stance. He used to play the ball several inches inside his left foot. Now he plays it off the outside of his left foot. He says he can bring the putter back smoothly with the ball farther forward, because that's the only way the putter can go. I hadn't thought of it in those terms, but it makes sense.

If you have difficulties unlocking your stroke, give Ben's method a try. I can't think of anyone whose golf knowledge I respect more.

PROSPECTUS — Get ready to scratch Chargers from perennial power list in the West. Too many changes, starting from top with retirement of Sid Gillman, to maintain lofty caliber of play. Oh, they'll still be tough, but spottily as Charley Waller's new regime tries to get organized.

DEFENSE
(LINE) — Spot made to order at tackle for highly rated rookie Tom Williams, who's already established himself as character. Would complement Ron Billingsley, 290-pounder who plays over center in "odd" defense. Steve DeLong at right end, and has developed into outstanding pass rusher. Other end, Bob Briggs, gives it lots of hustle. Rating — B.

RECEIVING — Until and when Lance Alworth decides he's ready for football again, quality of corps suffers. But Gary Garrison, opposite number wide receiver is virtually in Alworth class. And No. 1 rookie Walker Gillette will be there when he learns what it's all about. You can figure Alworth will be back, too. Willie Frazier has tight end all to himself. Rating — A.

RUNNING — If Brad Hubbard gets over effect of knee operation and if Dickie Post, who led AFL, stays in one piece, they've got ample threat. Behind them are pluggers Gene Foster, Russ Smith who won't burn up any turf. Hubbard's the guy who's got to come through. Post already has Rating — B.

Southwest Conf. Football Notes

By United Press International
Texas Christian's No. 1 tight end, John Bellue, undergoes knee surgery today, and may have to stay out of battle most of the season.

Several other ailments turned up Tuesday during two-day workouts at Southwest Conference schools.

Texas Tech running back Doug McCluchen pulled a muscle during Red Raiders contact drills. Tight end Johnny Oden, defensive end David Corley and defensive back Ken Perkins also reported pulled muscles, but the team trainer said the injuries were not severe.

Lineman Ron Waedemon, a 240-pound junior letterman from Port Arthur, was the only prospective Rice starter to miss Tuesday's workouts. He has Tuesday's workouts. He has missed all the fall workouts and was treated Tuesday for a minor knee ailment.

There's a New "Inn" Place For Living

The "Inn" Collegians meet on common ground at The College Inn, a new concept in residential facilities for students at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

The ultra-modern, multi-story structure directly across the street from the campus offers a half-dozens spacious rooms, arranged two rooms to a suite, carpeted and with connecting bath.

Two big, heated swimming pools grace semi-enclosed patios; and other areas shared by both men and women residents include those for dining, study and recreation.

Women occupy one of the spacious wings men the others, and the cost of the luxury-concept living is a modest $99.50 per month, which includes both room and board.

For more information on college living with a flair, write The College Inn (formerly at Bobby's), 1901 University Avenue, Lubbock, Texas 79402. (Adv.)

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE
Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Options To Rioting

We live in a country in which, despite, or perhaps because of, millions of laws, respect for persons and their property depends upon the voluntary acceptance by the overwhelming majority of people of certain standards of behavior and civility. When general respect for persons and their property breaks down, the law, being what it is, can only lash out, probably injuring the innocent more than the guilty.

When it comes to the question of riots, increasingly plaguing the nation, it appears on first analysis that Americans can only make one of two choices: They can remove all law enforcement personnel and all civil authority from the scene whenever a riot breaks out; thus insuring that no demonstrator ever again has his head split by a police billy club or no student ever again has his life snuffed out by a National Guard bullet. Or we can do as we have done in the past — attempt to restrain and isolate troublemakers with measured force, while encouraging the expression of dissent through peaceful and constructive channels.

Few would be inclined to accept the first alternative with its seemingly obvious consequences. Yet, when once we move to quell the users of coercion and force with superior force, we open the door to the always-present possibility of the kind of thing that happened at Kent State. This should not be construed as an apology for the students and non-students who provoked the confrontation, but merely as a statement of objective fact.

The guardsmen apparently over-reacted at Kent, but what good does it do to say that, as if it were the explanation for everything, or to take the opposite view — that the students brought it on themselves? Are we looking for excuses or seeking lasting solutions?

There is a third alternative, of course. We could take steps to guarantee that riots never break out at all.

There are few, if any, riots in totalitarian Russia (as there were few, if any, riots in totalitarian socialist Nazi Germany); except, that is, phony ones engineered by the government to further its own ends. We need not look too closely to understand how the Soviet Union manages to preserve its particular brand of domestic tranquility.

First and foremost, if we exercised this option, we would have to abolish all free speech and press and the right to assembly. No criticism of the government could be tolerated for an instant.

A network of spies and informers and the machinery of a secret police would have to be perfected and administered with an iron hand. Dossiers would have to be compiled and kept current on every suspected person — and that means, of course, every citizen.

Dissidents would have to be liquidated or silenced without open trials; certainly not given publicity and allowed to wander about on bail.

In short, to prevent ALL popular violence, official violence, both physical and psychological, would have to be elevated into a consummate art.

But, by now, we are talking about nightmares.

There is, however, a fourth alternative which offers greater promise. And, because it looks to the future instead of the immediate NOW, and requires individual thought and action, admittedly it probably will not carry popular appeal; until, at least people begin to realize that there just isn't any other really effective, or human approach to the problem.

And what is that fourth alternative? In a word, education, in the home! Beginning with the infant in the cradle and continuing through adolescence straight into adulthood. Education to the natural facts that the individual's person and property are inviolate, that coercion and force in human relations are self-defeating and destructive, that minding one's own business is a virtue rather than a fault, and that the peaceful methods of voluntary exchange are not merely the only moral ways of getting things done, but, also, the only practical means.

You see, options we do have.

Real Tragedy Of TV

From the mouths of politicians and bureaucrats, as from the mouths of children, there come, at times, disconcerting truths; the difference being that childish wisdom is usually voiced in innocence, while the remarks of politicians and bureaucrats are, more often than not, made by individuals with axes to grind.

We have no way of knowing just what kind of a political axe Dean Burch was honing recently but we do know that what he said (as reported in the July 20 issue of "Keep Posted," the weekly publication of the National Research Bureau, Inc.) is a devastating commentary on the meddling and freedom-infringing activities of the FCC which he heads.

"Dean Burch, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission," reported Keep Posted, "noted that the entire contents of a typical TV evening news show would take only three columns in a newspaper. He commented: 'It is tragedy to think that, for a large number of people that's the only source of their news.'"

We agree, of course, with that statement. It is a tragedy! Individuals, if they are going to be able to plan their lives intelligently, must know, with a great degree of certainty, what is going on in the world, country, and community in which they live.

And while, as we have pointed out on occasion, radio and television by their very nature are incapable of furnishing the degree of in-depth news reporting provided by newspapers, there is little doubt that the quality of news reporting dispensed by radio and TV could be much better than it is.

Nor is there any doubt that the sorry state of radio and TV can be traced, in large part, right back to Mr. Burch's own Federal Communications Commission.

The key, of course, is the licensing power over radio and television networks and stations held and exercised by the FCC.

Licensing, by its franchising and favoritism encouraging nature, is inhibitory of the healthy competition which the electronics communications media sorely need.

But licensing by the FCC, taken together with that agency's demonstrated obsession with regulating and controlling program and advertising content, is even more of a deadly threat to freedom of speech and press.

With the threat of license revocation or non-renewal hanging over their heads like a Sword of Damocles, network and station managements must live in constant fear of reporting something at which the political powers that be will take vindictive and punitive offense.

Freedom of speech and press, as well as objective, factual news reporting become virtually impossible in such a fear-laden atmosphere.

H. L. Hunt Writes

SOVIET BETRAYAL

While we strive to get the Russians to agree to reduce tensions in various areas of the world, our negotiators need to be reminded that wishful thinking neither protects our Republic nor impresses our communists. Soviet Russia, from its birth, when it pulled out of World War I and left its allies to fight the Kaiser alone, until its most recent invasion of Czechoslovakia, has been a betrayer, a captor and a cutthroat friend.

No changes in Russian policy or strategy have been put into effect to alter this fact. Communist tactics change to suit the needs of the moment, but the strategy of conquest of all people by communism remains.

After World War II ended in victory, the world dreamed that Allied demonstrations of productive genius, military excellence, and free world determination, especially by the U.S., would persuade Russia to join in a search for true peace and progress. But the brutal realities of communism crushed that dream as the Iron Curtain descended across Europe.

The nations of eastern and middle Europe were swallowed up. The western nations had fought that bloody war in vain and the captive peoples found that they had changed Hitler's National Socialist masters for Stalin's international socialist masters.

Time and again the captive peoples rise up in resistance. Our statesmen and negotiators should be reminded of their helplessness under Red tyranny. Our own new citizens who have fled those unhappy lands can best explain why we should not trust communists.

By INJUN WOODY

That HUD feller, Geo. Romney, has plowed into a stump.....

He figured that he would just trapeze up to Warren, Mich. with his wife Lenore, who is running for senator, and force that suburb of Detroit into a housing-mix.

He said, "there has been a lot of talk about a HUD policy of forced integration of the suburbs. There is no such policy." Of course, if they don't do it they don't get the money. So the citizens are telling him "Keep the money!"

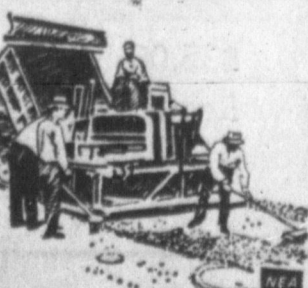

Romney is wielding his 'club' of about 3 billion dollars to force white sub-burbs to build low-income housing in their midst, caring not that this will deplete property values in normally good sections.

This is evident by the fact that in Manhasset, N.Y. Negro home-owners also blocked the move in a well-to-do black neighborhood. They expressed concern on the probable deterioration of the neighborhood. His 'big stick' ain't working.

But Georgie is known as a man who 'gets things done.' He is now asking congress to authorize him to override local zoning and building codes so that he and his over four thousand employes can wield an even bigger billy where objections are encountered.

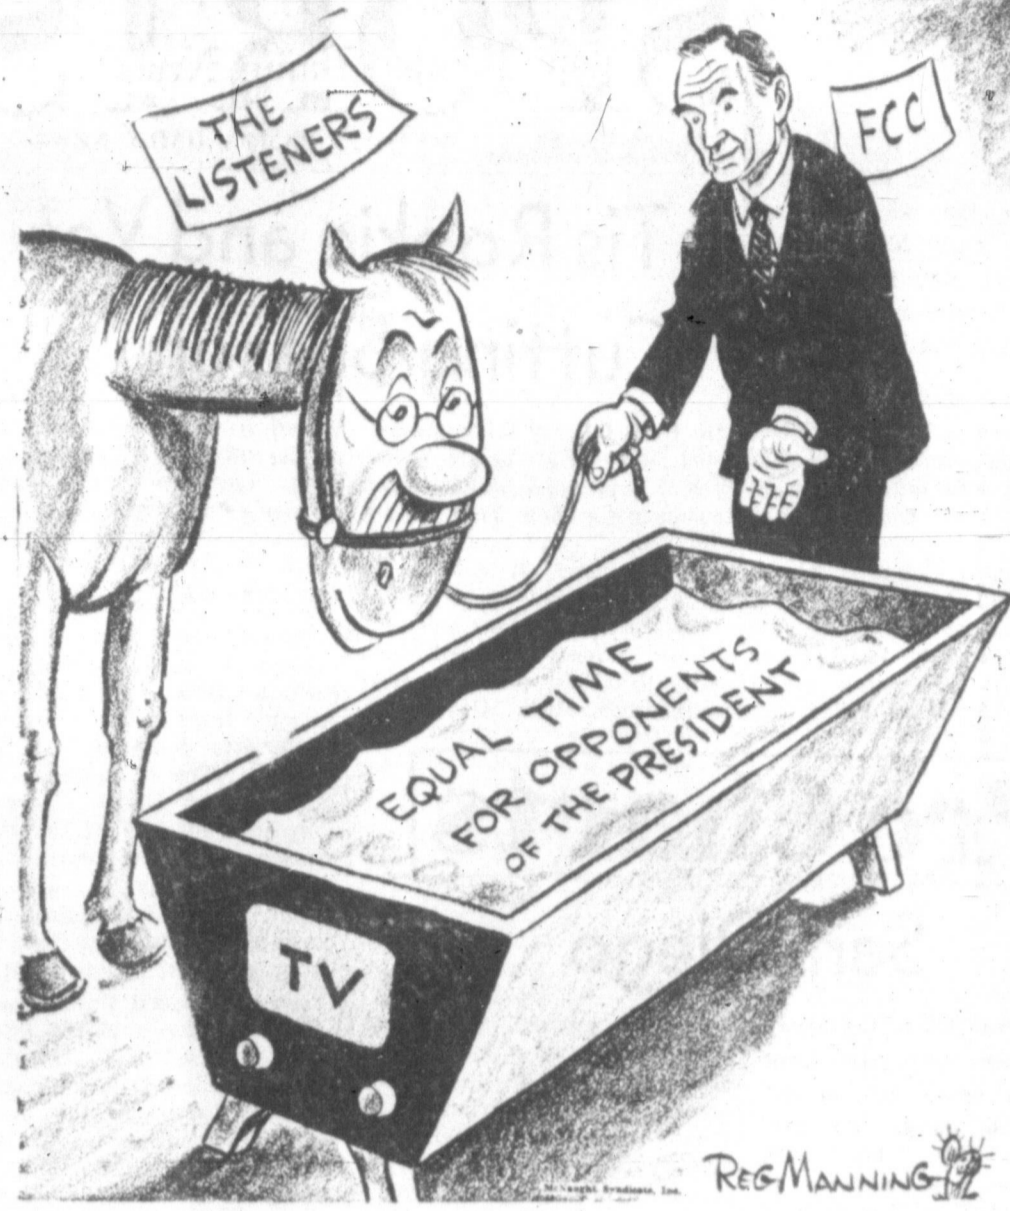

I don't think the American people are going to give up their basic freedom of property rights so easy as Georgie thinks. The little feller who struggles half his life to build a good home won't sit by and let "Big Brother" wipe out his dream in one swoop.....

You Can Lead A Horse To Water

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: — Would everybody be better off if we had free trade, locally, nationally, and internationally?

ANSWER: — Yes, even those who now gain some benefit from trade restrictions and subsidies would be better off in the long run if we had free trade.

Free trade means the ability of all people to exchange anything they own with anyone else so long as both sides agree. Both sides will benefit equally from the exchange else the exchange would not take place. When trade is thus free, it can be seen that everyone benefits.

But when free exchange is interfered with in any way, then the benefits also will be altered in some way. Exchanges will still take place because men must trade to survive more easily. But when free exchange is interfered with, if the benefit to one side is increased by such interference, then the benefit to the other side must be decreased.

When conspiracies of business men attempt to restrict production or maintain arbitrary price levels or inhibit competition by tariffs and import quotas, they are interfering with free trade. They may gain a temporary advantage for themselves, but at the expense of everyone they exchange with. In the long run that means that they will be able to make fewer exchanges, so their increased benefits are temporary at best and largely an illusion.

The same thing is true of labor unions when they get wage increases not earned by production. They gain in benefits, but everyone who buys their service or product loses to the extent that the wages do not represent production. When the unions restrict apprenticeships, they restrict production, and then there is less available for trade and thus less benefit for everyone, even for the union members. This is an interference with free trade locally and nationally, and even internationally if the products are exported.

The largest and most harmful interference with trade, however, comes from the political states. Taxes, licenses, regulations, zoning, tariffs and quotas and subsidies imposed by the political states, all have an effect on the exchanges people are able to make with each other. If the benefits of some people are increased by the acts of the politicians, then the benefits to others must be decreased by that amount. Taxes, of course, decrease the benefits to everyone.

Without the power of the political government, no individual, no business, and no union would be able to gain unearned benefits.

When the political state imposes regulations and restrictions on some and confers benefits on others, injustice is the result. When injustice reaches unbearable bounds, violence breaks out. The ultimate violence, of course, is war. When the political state interferes with trade between nations, at some point war will occur. As Frederic Bastiat said, "Where goods do not cross borders, soldiers will."

The world has never known complete freedom of trade, but whenever and wherever people have been relatively free to trade with little interference, they have prospered. When an individual knows he can freely exchange his production wherever he can get the best price for it, and if he is free to keep what he gains from production and exchange, then he is inspired to produce more. As more people produce more, there is more for everyone to have and then everybody is better off.

The Gift Game

(Wall Street Journal)
As who could not know by now, savings banks have been carrying on like demented souls with their offers of "free" gifts for new or increased deposits. Although understandable enough, the spectacle of all those consumer products — and clamoring consumers — is unedifying to say the least.

Not that we think bankers should stand on some cold 19th-century dignity, and indeed they have come a long way from that. The gifts themselves are paid for by the banks, whose ads clearly state the only proviso, namely that the deposits must be maintained for a certain period of time.

Still, it's all a bit of a sham, diverting banking time and energy from presumably more pressing pursuits. More important is the irony involved.

This new rash of giveaways was stimulated by an easing of federal regulations on the wholesale value of items that could be offered. Yet the reason the banks play the gift game is that their real product, the interest they pay on deposits, is fixed by law; the giveaways thus provide a means of competition not available for interest rates.

It's too much to ask, we suppose, but it might make more sense if the august authorities would unfix the interest-rate ceilings and let the banks compete in money instead of pots, pans and electric curlers.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Pamphlet Will Help You Correct Child's Speech

If your child's speech is distorted or slow to develop, the cause may be physical (deafness, a deformity of the lips or palate) or functional (poor health in the first two years of life, inadequate teaching or imitation of poor speech). Frustration resulting from unrealistic standards set by the parents often leads to stuttering. The child of an over-protective parent who anticipates his every need may find it unnecessary to talk.

"Helping Your Child Speak Correctly," by John Bryant, is an informative new pamphlet that explains how speech develops, offers some ideas and games for helping children learn good speech patterns and discusses the roots of speech disorders and how they can be corrected. It's available for 25 cents from the Public Affairs Committee, a nonprofit educational organization located at 381 Park Ave., South, New York, N.Y. 10016.

Q—My 8-month-old daughter sucks her thumb constantly. Will this cause her teeth to come in crooked? How can I stop this habit?

A—The gentle insertion of the thumb, part way into the mouth, with mild sucking, is normal in infants up to 2 or 2½ years of age and does no harm. But insertion of the thumb almost to the wrist and vigorous sucking for long periods usually means that the baby is overly tired or feels neglected, frightened or frustrated. This may push the upper front teeth outward and the lower front teeth inward.

If the habit is stopped before the permanent teeth come in, the teeth will gradually return to normal position. In any case, it is important to find and treat the cause of the thumb-sucking. Meanwhile, try to get your daughter to use a pacifier instead of her thumb.

Q—Our son, 9, still sucks his thumb. What do you advise?

A—Any child who persists in this habit after he is three years old may not only distort his teeth but also get infections around his thumb nail. He needs the combined attention of an orthodontist and a child psychologist.

Q—I am giving my daughter, 6, Gantirsin for a kidney infection. Could this cause her to break out around the vulva?

A—Yes. Your doctor may want to switch to one of the other urinary antiseptics.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt can't answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Supreme Court's 3 Months Of Vacation Challenged

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Before he urged procedural court reforms in his State-of-the-Judiciary address, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger had, himself, received a tart prescription for speeding the operation of the Supreme Court.

The prescription: Fargo the three-month summer holiday traditionally enjoyed by Supreme Court justices (and by the judges in some other federal courts). It was prescribed by the two Senate party leaders — Mike Mansfield, D, and Hugh Scott, R.

There is, to be sure, a bit of irony in the two Senate leaders urging that the courts forego their three-month recess. A three-month recess is just what Mansfield and Scott were trying to engineer for the Senate when Congress began its work in January.

Labor day was set, then, as the official target-date for congressional adjournment, with a more realistic private goal of clearing the decks by Oct. 1. That would have been an ideal timetable for accommodating off-year election campaigns.

Then U.S. troops moved into Cambodia, and the Senate drifted into a protracted debate over presidential war powers. The summer vacation for Congress, standard operating procedure not too many years ago, went down the drain as it usually has in recent years.

The suggestion to the court by Mansfield and Scott was thus an earnest, if ironic, reflection of a quickened pace of activity in all branches of government.

"NO JUSTIFICATION" — The comments by Mansfield and Scott deserve much more attention than they have received. They were, in the first place, made with some pungency — and right out in the open, on the Senate floor.

"Why is it that the Supreme Court has to take three months off every year? It is a coequal branch of the government. Does the President of the United States take three months off? Does Congress take three months off?" asked Mansfield.

The Democratic leader was even so indelicate as to note that associate justices of the Supreme Court get $62,000 a year and the chief justice, $80,500. He commented pointedly that Supreme Court justices do not contribute financially at all to their right to retirement at full pay.

"There is no justification for a three-month recess," said Mansfield bluntly.

Scott was equally candid. He also brought up the matter of Supreme Court salaries, noting that $60,000 is "a lot of money."

"It is not really contemplated," said Scott, "that the public pay that salary for nine months out of the year, but for all of the year. The backlog of the Supreme Court is immense and is of concern to all our citizens."

In the comity that is supposed to exist between the branches of government — the courteous civility among equals — that is pretty tough talk from the Senate's collective leadership.

THE NEW CRITICISM — The criticism of the two Senate leaders is important for reasons other than its asperity, however, and this is what has gone largely unnoticed. It was a new sort of criticism for the Supreme Court, and from a new set of critics.

Scott and Mansfield made their comments after an old critic, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., attached the three-month recess and said the Supreme Court should return to Washington to hear school desegregation cases before the beginning of a new school year.

Stennis referred to a statement included by the chief justice in opinion handed down in March, to the effect that the Supreme Court must resolve "as soon as possible" such questions as whether racial balance must be achieved in all schools and whether busing may or must be used to achieve court-ordered desegregation.

When the Senate leaders moved into the debate, Scott stated that, while he has often disagreed with Stennis, he believes the "gray areas" of the school desegregation question should be clarified "as soon as possible." Mansfield aligned himself with Scott's comments.

In other words, Mansfield and Scott, who have supported the Supreme Court's desegregation decisions, were telling the court to get along with the tough judgments which are needed to clarify those earlier rulings and to resolve school controversy in the North as well as the South. That is what Virginia's Sen. William B. Spong Jr., D., a racial moderate, was saying in a speech to which we referred last month.

It is a point which will be made increasingly by lawmakers and other public figures who really want to quiet the turmoil in the nation's schools. Chief Justice Burger and his colleagues would be well advised to listen to these new critics.

Economics Could Bring Shift In Foreign Policy

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON Correspondent (NEA) — Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, is known to exert a very strong personal influence on President Nixon's economic thinking.

Therefore, some data on economic growth in Asia which the Federal Reserve Board has privately put together and Burns' conclusions from that data are worth recording. For they give an insight not only into the strength of Nixon's determination against federal price, wage and import controls but open the door to speculation on possible radical shifts in Nixon's foreign strategy.

The Burns conclusion can be stated in three sentences. The Asian countries that had the slowest growth rates from 1958 to 1968 were those that leaned most heavily on centralized economic controls. They either rejected the free market or severely limited it. (These countries were Ceylon, Burma, India and Indonesia.)

The countries of Asia that relied basically on free markets and avoided government centralization of economic decisions have been winning the economic contest. (These are South Korea, Japan, Nationalist China, Thailand, Hong Kong and Malaysia, which increased their real output by 6 to 10 per cent each year.)

Burma, says the Reserve Board study, has gone far toward economic authoritarianism. Its government has exercised far-reaching controls over production, trade and finance with the result that both production and distribution have been hampered. The output of Burma's main crop, rice, has been adversely affected by pricing policies that have denied producers adequate incentives. Over the past decade, neighboring Thailand has increased rice exports by 28 per cent while Burma's exports of rice have fallen nearly two-thirds.

If the Federal Reserve data is representative and the Burns' conclusions accurate, this would mean that over the long run, centralized economies — such as the Soviet Union, Communist China and other totalitarian regimes — will inevitably be unable, in the long run, to compete with those free countries of the West which resist the temptation to set up widespread centralized controls over their economies.

If the free world can, over the long pull, far outdistance the Communist world economically, what tremendous implications does this have for foreign policy? It raises the question of how far economic policy (as in Europe under the Marshall Plan) can substitute for military intervention to save a country from Communist or other totalitarian take over.

Lefties Demand Their....Er...Rights

By RALPH NOVAK
NEW YORK (NEA) — "Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth," said the Book of Matthew, bringing the conspiracy into the open.

It was and is a plot waged by the right-handed majority against those who start life off on the wrong foot — the left one.

Lefties try to cut with right-handed scissors, try to find a left-handed house ball at the bowling alley, try to zip trousers with right-handed zippers, even try to flush right-handed toilets.

There are the subtle, verbal slaps at left-handers. Has anybody who kicked his partner while tangoing ever been accused of having two right feet? If you say someone is the best Armenian croquet player on the block is that a right-handed compliment?

June Gittleston — perhaps this country's greatest revolutionary since Nathian Hale — or at least Curt Flood — is campaigning to raise left-handers to equality.

As a woman and left-handed person, Miss Gittleston decided to stand up for her rights and opened the Left Hand, a shop that sells products specially made for lefties.

The store is in the middle of a block on E. 47th St., but Miss Gittleston contends that customers have to turn left to enter.

"Some people laugh when they come in and look around, and that always means one thing," Miss Gittleston says. "They're right-handed. The lefties walk in and look everything over pretty seriously."

Miss Gittleston's shop also does a mail order business that has brought in hundreds of gushing letters. "God bless you... Hip, hooray... I had given up hope," they say. A man writes from India for a catalogue. Someone from Iowa writes to ask if the store has left-handed ice cream scoops.

To make left-handers proud of their cultural heritage, Miss Gittleston lists "legendary lefties of the past": Judy Garland, Marilyn Monroe, Greta Garbo, Leonardo da Vinci, Rock Hudson, Ben Franklin, Babe Ruth.

The Old Testament's David, the spunky rookie who was the first southpaw, to beat the Giants, and Napoleon (remember which hand he kept tucked inside his coat where it would be out of the way?) are already on Miss Gittleston's list of famous lefties.

Miss Gittleston has been made a life member of the National Association of Left-handed Golfers and appeared on both What's My Line and To Tell the Truth since her shop opened last fall. She admits the Left Rights Movement is just beginning.

But pending information of an all left-wing political party, Miss Gittleston and her fellow lefties will have to be content with the knowledge that Larouse's French dictionary defines "left" as "in man and animals, the side on which one feels the beating of the heart."
