Ask Definition Of Laos Involvement

Government Will Attempt To Oust UMW Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's attempt to overturn the re-election of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle may be in the courts for months. But an interim move by the Labor Department could effectively strip Boyle and other top UMW officials of their power even before the larger issue is settled.

In asking the courts to throw out Boyle's election victory over the since-murdered Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, Labor

Secretary George P. Shultz also asked for a preliminary court order that would forbid Boyle and the officers elected with him from spending any union funds.

Shultz, in asking the courts to order a new election, accused the UMW of widespread irregularities and of failing "to provide adequate safeguards to insure a fair election." Yablonski had accused the UMW of similar irregularities during his campaign and after the election.

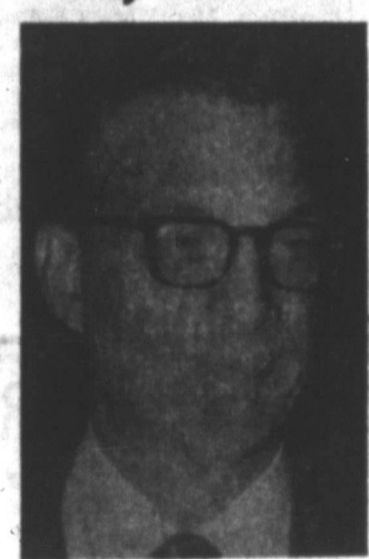

He was slain with his wife and their daughter on New Year's Eve at their Clarksville, Pa. home. A federal grand jury in Cleveland has since indicted five persons, including the president of a UMW local in La Follette, Tenn., on conspiracy charges in the slayings. Murder charges have also been filed against four of those persons in Pennsylvania, and the Cleveland jury indicted a sixth person Thursday for allegedly perjuring himself in an appearance before it.

Shultz said the Labor Department made "the most widespread and painstaking investigation in the history of the Landrum-Griffin Act" before going to court. The suit charged some mine workers were denied the right to vote for the man they wanted and that some are denied the right to vote at all or were threatened with reprisals if they did. It also said candidates were not allowed to have observers at the polls or at the ballot counting.

Boyle made no direct reply to the charges. A spokesman said they had "no substance at all" and "We will fight this to the fullest extent possible."

If the courts do order a new election the field would be open to any candidate, presumably including Boyle, for leadership of the 195,000-member union.

Candidate For School Trustee Barely Gets Under Filing Wire

BOB CARMICHAEL
... 5th candidate

Bob Carmichael, the last candidate in the April 5 school trustee election, filed at 10:30 p.m. Thursday, an hour and a half before the midnight deadline.

Carmichael will compete with four other candidates, including the two incumbents, John Spearman and John Gikas, and Bob Wilhelm and E. W. (Bud) Hogan.

Trustee candidates' names, drawn for the ballot today, will appear in this order, John Gikas, Bob Carmichael, John Spearman, Bob Wilhelm, and Bud Hogan.

Carmichael, a Pampa resident since 1930, is a Pampa High School graduate, 1950 graduate of Texas Tech, and 1951 graduate of Dallas Institute of Mortuary Science. Co-owner of Carmichael-Whately Funeral Home, he is regional leader of the Order of Golden Rule, an international order for selected funeral directors, past director of Panhandle Funeral Directors Association, and past director of Texas Funeral Directors Association.

A member of the First United Methodist Church and of the church finance committee, he is a member of the Scottish Rite Masons, of Top of Texas Lodge 1381, of Pampa, and of Khiva Shrine Temple of Amarillo.

He is a member of Pampa Kiwanis Club, a director and past president of Gray County Association for Retarded Children, and for the past two years was chairman of the advisory committee for the Day Care School for Retarded Children. A director of Community Concert Association, he is a member of the Advisory Committee on Vocational Education, and past president of Junior Chamber of Commerce. Carmichael has served as board chairman of Cancer Society and American Red Cross. A newly selected member of the Salvation Army board, he will be installed Tuesday.

A native of Hillsboro, he moved here from Jacksonville, Va. He and his wife, Virginia, have two children, Doug, 19, a Texas Christian University freshman, and Beth Ann, a 10-year-old student of Stephen F. Austin Elementary School.

Filing for the first time as a school trustee, Carmichael said, "I feel like I would like to be part of a progressive and growing school system. I think Pampa schools are progressing and that being a part of the system would be an education and an opportunity for me to learn how to work toward an even better school system."

WITH THREE OF FIVE TRUSTEE candidates watching, Janetta Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Webb, 418 Naida, drew places today on the April 5 school trustee election ballot. Candidates attending drawing in Homer Craig's school business office were Bob Carmichael, right, second on the ballot; Bob Wilhelm, fourth, and John Spearman, third on the ballot. Spearman is one of two incumbents and board president. Other candidates and their ballot positions are John Gikas, incumbent, first, and E. W. (Bud) Hogan, fifth. (Staff Photo)

GUARANTEES INCOME

New Welfare Bill Enroute To Floor Of Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A radically new $4.4 billion welfare reform bill that for the first time includes a guaranteed income for the nation's poorest families today was en route to the House floor, where passage is expected later this month.

The House Ways and Means Committee, on a 21-3 vote Thursday, approved the measure which would place a total of 22 to 23 million persons in 4.6 million families on a federal annual allowance of up to 1,000 for a family of four plus $800 in food stamps. Currently about 10 million persons receive federal relief payments, most of them mothers with children.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., announced he would manage the bill on the House floor, where a vote is expected later this month. A White House legislative aide predicted the measure would pass with 200 votes to spare.

President Nixon praised the committee action in a written statement and urged passage of the bill as a way to avoid the "misfortune" of steadily mounting welfare costs.

go on without it," the President said.

The present federal welfare bill is about $8 billion, including medical assistance. The new program would cost another $4.4 billion.

Labor Secretary George P. Shultz said the plan would encourage people to "help themselves out of poverty through work."

The measure would require the family head to register for work or training to receive his share of the allowance. Federal payments would be reduced as working income rose—up to $3,920, when it would stop.

either food stamp or commodity distribution program.

Welfare officials issued a status report Thursday on the progress of the program in the 89 counties. The officials said: —Forty-two of the counties are in the progress of setting up some kind of food distribution program; —Twenty-nine counties are undecided on what course of action they will take; —Eight say they will not participate.

Taylor said he did not grant the extension so federal and state officials could "persuade" county governments to accept either food stamp or commodity distribution program.

Administration May Report Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon was besieged today by Senate demands for a thorough public explanation of U.S. involvement in Laos. Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, the dean of Senate Republicans, said he expects an administration statement by early next week.

In speeches and statements warning the nation would not tolerate another Vietnam, critics of U.S. military support to the Vientiane government prodded the administration Thursday to tell the nation exactly how far the United States intends to go. Even Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., a steadfast supporter of the effort in Vietnam, said "under no foreseeable conditions must we become involved in another ground war in Asia."

From Key Biscayne, Fla., where Nixon was spending the weekend relaxing, Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler told newsmen today additional information would be disclosed this weekend about American involvement in Laos. Other aides said the disclosures would come today.

Nixon was expected to issue a statement giving assurances the United States would not become involved in a ground war in Laos. Amplification on the extent of U.S. involvement so far would come from briefings with White House foreign affairs advisers.

Aiken said he expected the administration's report to disavow any intention to introduce ground combat troops into Laos or to otherwise intensify the war.

"New Vietnam" Feared "I think this administration certainly knows enough about politics not to jeopardize the election of Republicans on Nov. 3," Aiken told UPI. Any massive U.S. involvement, he said, would produce a "tremendous upheaval that would make the November (antiwar) moratorium look like peanuts."

But other senators said the United States already had embarked on an escalation of the war that would be difficult to stop.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said "we are flirting dangerously with a new Vietnam." Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said the 1962 Geneva accord was being openly violated by both U.S. and North Vietnamese troops.

Raquel Welch Collects In Damage Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An out-of-court settlement totaling $1,500 has been awarded to actress Raquel Welch in a suit brought for injuries she suffered in a traffic accident six years ago. It was disclosed in Superior Court Thursday.

The compromise was revealed when Superior Court Judge Charles A. Loring called the case for trial. Mrs. Welch originally sought $35,000, contending she was left with a scar on her left temple after her car was struck by one driven by Honorio Santos, a Philippine island sugar grower. The accident occurred July 29, 1964 in Hollywood.

Rain Falls On Pampa

For the first time since about Feb. 22, raincoats and umbrellas were seen in Pampa. Foster Whaley, county agricultural agent, dropped by the News' office this morning and said, "Mighty fine. We need more of it."

A local farmer said he didn't mind the least coming to town and walking around getting splashed by automobiles. The rain, which began early this morning, may end tonight, however.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., urged Nixon to revise instructions to U.S. negotiators in Paris and seek a political settlement of both the Vietnam and Laos conflicts. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called for a full administration report, and said, "the sooner the cards are laid on the table the better for all concerned."

Aiken said he hoped Secretary of State William P. Rogers would make the statement. He said Rogers had made it clear to members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a secret meeting Tuesday, that U.S. ground combat troops would not be sent to Laos under any conditions.

Aiken said that assurance would hold even if the North Vietnamese threaten to overrun Laos. "I don't know what they would do with it if they took it," he said. "If they (the North Vietnamese) wanted to overrun Laos, they could have done it long before."

LBJ Not Getting Enough Rest

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Physicians attending Lyndon B. Johnson say their primary concern is the former President is not getting enough rest.

Johnson's wife Lady Bird, who left her husband's seventh-floor hospital suite Thursday for the first time since he was admitted Monday, said the former president was "doing what his doctors tell him." But the physicians said the chest pains, the reason Johnson entered the hospital, prevented him from resting.

Johnson suffered the pains again early Thursday. The doctors described them as "severe" and said he spent a "bad night."

But the doctors said the pains did not mean Johnson's condition was worse. They said it merely interfered with his rest. "There is no evidence of a worsening of the underlying heart disease," said Lt. Col. R. Bert L. North, the chief cardiologist at Brooke General Hospital.

"He is feeling pretty comfortable," Mrs. Johnson said. "I came into his room several times (during the night) to tell him who sent greetings and flowers."

"There was some pain," she said. "It kept him from having a comfortable night. He's a pretty intelligent man and he's doing what his doctors tell him."

She said the "doctors very carefully don't say" when Johnson might leave the hospital "because they don't know for sure."

LOOK-HOMEWARD, ANGEL

High School Actors Bring Play To Life

By DORIS E. WILSON
—News Staff Writer
Nineteen Pampa High School actors and their director have a play you will want to see tonight or Saturday night, when "Look Homeward, Angel" is performed in the high school auditorium.

Sitting through a curtain-to-curtain, uninterrupted rehearsal Wednesday night, we were impressed by the lack of usual over-acting, the timing, the costuming, the staging, and the delicate touch each actor gave to this role of comedy or pathos.

The costuming is in the early 1900's era, designed by professional actor-director Ron Gabriel, who is no stranger to acting either before the footlights or directing behind them. He is a graduate of Pampa High School and the School of Drama and Music of the University of Utah. He has several seasons of professional acting and directing to his credit.

This year, he is teaching French at PHS and "taking a backward look, Angel" at his professional career before going forward.

As of 8 p.m. tonight, his directing job is finished as far as this play is concerned. And like the professional director he is, he will probably be sitting "out front," nervous and anxious for those on stage, repeating each line of dialogue to himself and re-acting to every on-stage cue.

accountments is the staging. Three of the acts take place at the Dixieland Boarding House. Left Center Stage is the front porch of the home, where boarders gather to gossip, make love, laugh and cry. Right Center Stage is the yard area. Center stage is elevated and revolves to reveal, when needed, an upstairs sitting room; a bedroom, where Ben Gant dies; and another bedroom, the trysting place for Laura James and Eugene Gant.

With good timing and their own innate talents, each actor and actress brings to their role a sympathetic touch, which makes it impossible to point the finger of "villain" at the domineering mother, who is loved and at the same time feared by her family; or the alcoholic father, who twice-married, is a frustrated gravestone cutter, who would rather be an artistic sculptor.

At one time or another, throughout the play, the father and his two sons, Ben and Eugene, try to make a "break for it" away from the mother, whom it may be aptly said "pads her part."

Several tender love scenes are enacted by the Gant's 17-year-old son Eugene, played by Tom Watson and an "older woman," 23-year-old, Laura James, portrayed by Carolyn Brown.

The plot essentially revolves around these key roles, but adding garnish are Anne Dingus as Madam Elizabeth; Debbie Boblander, the Gant's only daughter and her husband, Hugh Barton, played by Curt Morrison; Rick Powers as Will Rentland; Pat Corcoran as Doc Maguire; Mimi Miller as Miss Brown;

Cara Thomas as Mrs. Clatt; Jeff Dunn as Jake Clatt; Alan Duck as Luke Gant; Liz Silcott as Miss-Mangee-Warren-Wilson as Mr. Farrell; Reggie Thompson as Tarkington; Diane Nichol as Miss Snowden.

This is not "Be Kind To High School Actors' Week," but if it were, we certainly would be. Because they have provided a fine evening of theater entertainment for those who care to drop around the high school auditorium either tonight or Saturday at 8 p.m.

Something's Cooking At High School

Spaghetti Supper patrons, whose tickets were not honored for an earlier supper and those who are hungry for more of the same, will be served by choir members and parents at the Spaghetti Supper Saturday in the Pampa High School cafeteria.

Moon Rocks Show Ocean Younger Than Sea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists said today rocks brought home by the Apollo 11 astronauts show the ocean's Ocean of Storms is at least one billion years younger than the Sea of Tranquility.

This was the main finding of the first scientific report on the Apollo 11 lunar samples. Apollo 11 landed Nov. 19 on a great flat plain known as the Ocean of Storms. The Apollo 11 astronauts, the first men on the moon, visited another lunar plain, the Sea of Tranquility, in July.

Previous reports on the Apollo 11 rocks had put their age at 4.5 billion to 4.7 billion years old. This would make the Ocean of Storms rocks a mere 3.5 billion years old—as old as the oldest known rocks on Earth.

ECLIPSE OF THE CENTURY

ECLIPSE of the Century will occur Saturday starting at 12:16 p.m. (CST) and sweep northward in a 100-mile-wide path along the east coast. The last comparable total eclipse over the United States occurred in 1878; the next will be in 2024.

All The World Is Waiting For Solar Eclipse Saturday

By United Press International — When the moon blots out the sun Saturday, chickens will dutifully go to roost and scientists will go into a planned frenzy, shooting off rockets and chasing the "path of totality" in a jet plane.

The Weather Bureau's latest report on visibility for the long-awaited eclipse predicted widespread cloudiness along the narrow band of the East Coast where the eclipse will be total.

The best place to be, authorities said, would be on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in Mexico, where the luckier scientist were busy setting up their equipment and priests were busy assuring the populace the end of the world was not at hand.

Avoid Chicken Coops — The worst place to be, according to Dr. Kaj Strand of the U.S. Naval Observatory, would be in a chicken coop. He recalled during an eclipse seminar at Jacksonville, Fla., that in 1878, during the last eclipse comparable to Saturday's, Thomas A. Edison set up his instruments in a Wyoming chicken coop.

When the sun dimmed the chickens came in to roost, he said, and the great scientist spent so much time fighting the birds and spitting feathers that he only got 10 seconds to observe anything before the sun came out.

Early Saturday afternoon the moon will begin to eclipse the sun, sending a dark shadow about 90 miles wide 7,000 miles across the Earth. In the United States, it will begin at Perry, Fla., and reach Norfolk, Va., in 19 minutes. After that it passes over and sweeps over a part of Maryland, and the island of Nantucket, Mass. The vacation island's one motel and hotel are booked solid.

Totality Path Narrow — After darkening Nantucket for two minutes and six seconds, the path of totality proceeds to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, where the citizenry was reported unmoved by the prospect.

The rest of North America, except for Northwestern Alaska, will see a partial eclipse. In San Francisco, 27 per cent of the sun will be obscured at its peak; Denver will lose 47 per cent of the sun and Chicago 72 per cent. The darkness grows toward the east.

New Yorkers—should the weather clear—would see all but 4 per cent of the sun blacked out.

Scientific instruments have been set up at scores of sites. Photographs will be made in radio, infrared, optical, ultraviolet and X-ray wavelengths. Six

Eclipse To Be Covered By SEX

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—It's called a SEX flight. And what these men are doing is chasing a shadow 4,000 miles, hoping to catch it Saturday somewhere above the Pacific Ocean.

They rehearsed the SEX flight Wednesday. Their timing was off by only one second. These men thought that was pretty good.

"That's very good," said Dr. Arthur N. Cox, the commander of SEX flight. "One second is rare. We shoot for 10 seconds accuracy, and usually make it within two or three."

SEX in this case stands for Solar Eclipse Expedition. And what this team of scientists from the Los Alamos, N.M., Scientific Laboratory will do this weekend is rendezvous with a very rare total eclipse of the sun.

These men will have a longer and better look at the eclipse than anyone on Earth. They'll be above all the pollution.

Saturday's flight will last roughly four hours and cover 4,000 miles round trip. The rendezvous point is 30,000 feet in the air above the Pacific southwest of Acapulco.

When the plane, a military version of the commercial 707, intercepts the eclipse, it will turn east towards the Mexican shore and fly in the shadow for five minutes and 22 seconds.

The scientists on board will be able to study the eclipse almost twice as long as those on the ground.

The SEX-bound crew will also have some of the most sophisticated equipment imaginable with which to record the phenomenon.

Thieves With Musical Tastes Continue With Car Pilferage

Dr. Raymond W. Laycock, 2010 Christine, told police Thursday shortly before noon his daughter's car had been burglarized while it was in the high school parking lot next to Decatur St.

Missing from the car was a White's portable arm-rest console 8-track cartridge-type stereo player. It was marked as a Lear Jet Stereo 8, and could be plugged into a cigarette lighter, it bore serial No. 2000603, model no. A-260-B.

Laycock's daughter said the unit had black sides and bottom and a white top with wood-grained brown trim.

A tape, "Goodbye Cream?" was also taken.

Police said the auto bore evidence of forced entry.

Mike Jones, 1801 N. Banks, told police he had been victimized in the same manner. His car, according to police, was forced open in the same manner as the Laycock car, and thieves took 10 stereo tape cartridges.

The stolen tapes included "Moody Blues," "Lead Zeppin," "American Woman," "Young Rascals," "Three Dog Nights," "Super Hits," and "Iron Butterfly."

Joyce Davis, 1000 S. Christy, told police someone stole a small yellow clutch-type purse from a larger brown one which she left at a laundry in Prairie Village Thursday night.

She said she forgot her purse when she left the laundry where she had some clothes in a drying machine. She discovered the theft when she returned about 11 p.m.

Lost with the small bag were Texaco and Montgomery Ward's credit cards, $10 in cash and a driver's license which bore her old address of 2900 S. Browning, Amarillo.

Ten Say No — The 10 counties which refused to take part are Bowie, Edwards, Gillespie, Kerr, Randall, Roberts, Uvalde and Colorado. The State Welfare Department will move into these counties and operate the commodity programs at the expense of the federal government.

A federal court order in Dallas on Jan. 5 gave the USDA 60 days to set up food distribution programs in the 89 Texas counties which had no such programs. In the same court order, the State Welfare Department was directed to either participate in the programs in all the state's 254 counties or in none of them.

At the time the order was issued, welfare officials said it would be "physically impossible to set up some sort of food programs in all 89 counties by today."

POOR ON POLLUTION

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of every four new cars flunks the carbon monoxide abatement test, according to a federal pollution official, and one of seven fails the standards for raw particles of gasoline in the exhaust.

Dr. John T. Middleton, commissioner of the National Air Pollution Control Administration, testified Thursday on a House commerce subcommittee opened hearings on amendments to the Clean Air Act of 1967.

Middleton's figures were somewhat lower than those of Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., who said he heard the agency's tests showed 53 per cent of 1,200 new cars failed to meet the standards for exhaust emissions.

Rogers said Americans have paid an average of $5 per car extra for pollution control.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Made-line Hunter is the principal of one of the finest and most advanced elementary schools in the nation. A respected educator and brilliant speaker, she guides the University Elementary School, which is part of the UCLA complex.

The spot is, she has the presence and background to be a notable television reporter covering the increasing significant field of children's education. And, of course, she has views on the programming that television puts on for youngsters.

She thinks, for instance, that educational video by and large fares poorly in this field "because it has had to be created for such large audiences and has to settle for the mean." She wishes there were more flexible shows into which both sophisticated and less sophisticated children could plunge and learn something from.

She thinks "Sesame Street" is one of the better shows because "it is designed for learning more than persuasion to buy." But, pointing to today's increased precision and knowledge in learning techniques, she feels "it could attend more to the way information is presented to make the greatest impact."

What dissatisfies Mrs. Hunter most about commercial television is that "it is a passive thing for children—mental chewing gum. They do not actively participate much except in a negative way—when frightened, for instance. They are not thinking through a problem—in short, doing the things that make children grow."

On the positive side, Mrs. Hunter feels commercial video gives children "opportunities to see beyond 'me and mine.' But the thing is that they don't necessarily understand what they see. They may see Zulu warriors on screen, and then it may be at odds with what we try to teach them about black people."

In an interesting sidelight, Mrs. Hunter says "we have a hard time making children listen because kids are so used to tuning out while working with radios and television on. We have to work at making them listen."

If Mrs. Hunter were to create a children's television show, she would probably try to devise one that "moved away from the 'right answer syndrome.' Kids grow up with words like 'always,' but we know that under one circumstance one thing may be right while in another situation it might be wrong." The thought process, in short, is what interests the lady educator.

Cigarette Sales Up

AUSTIN (UPI) — The state treasurer's office reported state taxes on cigarette sales during February totaled $12.8 million, an increase of $3.4 million over income from the same source in February, 1969.

The increase was due to a hike in state cigarette taxes from 11 cents to 15.5 cents per package which went into effect Oct. 1, 1969.

Indian Woman Who Claimed To Be 120 Years Old Is Buried

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — As each birthday passed during the last decade, Tatzumbe Dupea would grant interviews and inevitably she would be asked the old bromide: "To what do you attribute your long life?"

Records of the Bureau of Indian Affairs substantiated her claim that she was born July 26, 1849, in Lone Pine, Calif., although at one time, like many a woman, she said she was 16 years younger.

She was believed to have been the oldest person in the United States at the time of her death last Thursday.

Her lifetime saw the nation engage in six wars, from the Civil War to Vietnam. Her mother was killed in an earthquake when she was three and Tatzumbe lived with her grandmother in Death Valley.

Beer Drinkers May Get Break

CORPUS CHRISTI (UPI) — Texas Gov. Preston Smith Thursday came up with an idea that might pick up some quick support among the state's beer drinkers.

Noting that the state spends $2 million annually to clean up trash along Texas highways, Smith said a study in another state showed that each empty beer can picked up by the Highway Department cost taxpayers 35 cents.

"At that rate, it would seem the state might save money by giving every citizen a full bottle in exchange for every empty he didn't throw on the road," Smith said.

He added that the suggestion "is ludicrous, but it is also ludicrous that a civilized state must spend $2 million a year to clean up the trash and bottles and cans from its highways."

Junk Mail Dumped

DALLAS (UPI) — Mailman Phillip C. Langford, 30, was arrested Wednesday for dumping all his junk mail down a sewer instead of delivering it on his route.

Postal inspectors said he threw 99 items, mostly third class mail, down a storm drain. He was charged with destroying U.S. mail and freed on $500 bond.

Psychiatrist's Wife Ruled Insane In Stabbing Death

By MIKE WESTER
LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Madeline Barnes, a 39-year-old wife of a psychiatrist indicted last year for the stabbing death of her husband, was ruled insane Wednesday and ordered to a state mental hospital for treatment.

The sanity hearing took only 5 minutes. Through it all, the 34-haired Mrs. Barnes, wearing a pink dress with matching shoes and low-heeled white socks, sat with her hands crossed in her lap and never changed her expression.

Lubbock psychiatrist Dr. Dan Jack Croy was the only person testifying at the hearing. Written statements were introduced by two other psychiatrists.

Croy said Mrs. Barnes underwent psychiatric treatment for the first time when she was 19. Since then, he said, she had a consistent record of mental problems and treatment.

Croy said she was committed twice to a mental clinic in Topeka, Kan., and once to a mental hospital in Dallas. He said her husband checked Mrs. Barnes out of hospitals twice against the advice of attending psychiatrists.

He also said one Lubbock psychiatrist treated the woman 42 times between Jan. 1, 1969, and the day her husband was murdered, Sept. 24, 1969.

Dr. Louis M. Barnes was found slumped face down in front of a bedroom rocking chair near a butcher knife with an eight inch blade. He was wearing gold pajamas.

His daughter Elizabeth, 16, summoned police to the home. The daughter said her mother told her she killed Barnes.

Police found Mrs. Barnes sitting calmly on the side of a bed wearing a blood stained yellow nightgown. She was taken to police headquarters and booked. She was then transferred to a hospital, where she has been confined since.

Demonstrators Don't Phase First Lady

DENVER (UPI) — The nation's First Lady, traveling under tight police security, said Thursday antiwar demonstrators are wasting their time on her.

"I really don't have any influence," Pat Nixon said of White House policy. "So they don't have to picket me."

She was met Wednesday by 60 chanting pickets at Boulder, Colo. It was her first face-to-face confrontation with demonstrators during her five-state tour of projects at college campuses.

"The few who are out there could hardly be representative," she told a news conference before departing for Missouri. Earlier, she toured a student facility in Denver.

"They have heart and I think they are all quite idealistic and putting their care and concern to work," she said of the students.

To many of the children she visited Wednesday, Mrs. Nixon was "a nice lady in a red coat."

A BILLION TO ONE
CANYON, Tex. (UPI) — Robert E. Vorheis, who said "my feelings about the draft lottery are purely mathematical," discovered by programming a computer the odds against 24 of the first 100 dates drawn falling in January were a billion to one.

Vorheis, a member of the computer staff at West Texas University, decided to work out changes of the recent draft lottery by "the hypergeometric distribution function for sampling without replacement." He found the probability of the 24 January days being drawn in 100 tries was 0.00000001425.

Twenty-four of January's 31 days were among the first 100 numbers drawn.

MARSHMALLOW FATIGUE?
HOUSTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., reset his arrival at the University of Houston three times Thursday, then finally canceled his scheduled address Thursday night at the school.

Thurmond shouted down and peppered with marshmallows by hecklers Wednesday night at New Mexico University, told Houston officials legislative matters in Washington forced him to cancel his speech.

First Texas Bank Interest Rate

CORPUS CHRISTI (UPI) — The Bank of Commerce in Corpus Christi Thursday became the first Texas bank to lower its prime interest rate from 8.5 per cent to 8 per cent.

The new rate, effective at the start of business today, followed action by small banks in Philadelphia and California.

"As a small bank, we may not make a big difference in the overall banking scheme," said George S. Cone Jr., president of the bank, "but we are doing our part by joining small banks in other sections of the country in making an effort to lower interest costs."

"We want to do our part in helping to combat inflationary trends and high interest rates," he said. "We also hope this will be a step toward stimulation of the economy of the Coastal Bend."

The Bank of Commerce was purchased recently by Great Western Corp., of Corpus Christi, a highly diversified marketer of recreation oriented property.

Hope Abandoned For Sub Survivors

TOULON, France (UPI) — French naval authorities held little hope Thursday of ever determining what caused the submarine Eurydice to sink with 57 men aboard Wednesday.

The disaster was a near still-unexplained loss carbon copy of the submarine's sister vessel, the Minerve, on Jan. 27, 1968, with 52 men aboard.

Rescue and search teams never recovered the Minerve's hull from the Mediterranean and they were unlikely to find anything more than debris from the Eurydice off the French Riviera.

French navy officials declared the Eurydice officially lost Wednesday night after seismologists detected an underwater explosion and oil and debris from the vessel surfaced.

Navy authorities ruled out sabotage. They said the Eurydice submerged on a deep water dive and apparently just kept going, finally exploding from the pressure of the sea, 3,200 to 5,000 feet deep at that Point.

It went down 36 miles from where the Minerve sank. Like the Minerve, the Eurydice sent no distress call. It had pulled out of St. Tropez Harbor at daybreak for a test dive and was scheduled to surface at 10 a.m. It never appeared.

The vessel's last radio contact was with a Breguet-Atlantic patrol plane whose pilots reported nothing to indicate a crisis. The seismographs picked up a strong explosion 13 minutes later, at 7:28 a.m.

Documents, mattresses, pillows, plastic fittings and other items floated to the surface.

US To Get July Visit

BERRY'S WORLD

Mr. Palmer, this is the White House calling. The President would like to know if you would like to swap 'comeback' stories?

Function Dictates Choice of Windows

A window style that suits all rooms is as rare as a man for all seasons.

The trick to effective house decor—inside and out—is to select those elements which best suit the room's style and function. Achieving this with windows is easy, because quality wood units, such as ponderosa pine, are now available in a variety of beautiful styles—all precision-manufactured for smooth operation, long life, and low maintenance.

Sliders offer a combination of easy operation, good ventilation and visibility. Used in a series, they are popular for patios and enclosed porches.

Blinds and bays are easily the most graceful window units available. The styles hark back to Colonial times, and are most often used in living rooms of Early American design. An added Colonial touch is the availability of removable grilles with ponderosa pine bows and bay units. The grilles give the glass a traditional divided-light appearance, and snap out for easy window washing.

The variety of quality wood window styles makes it easy to choose the right one for each room. Ponderosa pine slider units were used in this corner to allow wide visibility and easy operation.

For instance: Casements are ideal for hard-to-reach areas, such as above kitchen sinks or counter-tops. The units swing outward at a 90-degree angle for maximum ventilation and their uninterrupted glass area allows fine visibility. Most important, they operate with the turn of an easy-to-reach handle. Wood casements blend well with either contemporary or traditional decor.

Awning and hopper windows can be used in combination with fixed-glass units to create a picture window that provides ventilation. Awnings (which open outward) or hoppers (which open inward) are often stacked atop one another to form large glass expanses. This makes an unusually attractive window treatment for dining and family rooms, and the wood can be painted or stained to match the decor of these rooms.

Panel Doors Set Fashion Note

Wood panel doors, always popular with Colonial and traditional house designs, are now available in a variety of new styles suitable for contemporary decor.

For example, panel doors of ponderosa pine now come in fashionable Spanish and Mediterranean motifs—some with as many as 30 panels and with ornate grilles and decorative inserts.

They can be obtained at local lumber dealers in stock sizes. It is possible to get the door as a single unit, or as part of a complete entryway with features such as sidelights, fanlights and overhead canopies.

According to leading designers in apparel, the 1970's will be an era of plastics and chemicals in fashion.

Man-made materials, formerly considered too "far-out" and useful only on a test-basis, are finding increasing acceptance among those who are most influential in setting apparel trends.

What's more, wrinkle-free clothing, such as those made from polyesters, will be the "most futuristic" clothing fashion seen in the Seventies.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 36 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, slimmer figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slims are all-new kind of slim. They are constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the shock-nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A leather-stitched panel down each side of this giraffe will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The giraffe itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim" in both giraffe and gypsy versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, MARCH 7
Your birthday Saturday: The coming year will generate both the need and the opportunity to serve beyond consideration of your own personal welfare. In positive expression, this brings you to deeds which benefit all men.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Companions take the initiative away from you temporarily. If you pry into other peoples' affairs, your own interests suffer most.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are ready to be helpful, but nobody particularly wants your help, especially where it has not been asked for.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Business associates are on the move. Sign contracts where you have checked details and found them in order. The temptation is to neglect family, younger people. Suggested invitations may not come to pass.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): People and things from faraway or peculiar places take your interest. Nervous energy tends to make you restless for more stimulus, new experience. Keep social engagements flexible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Partnerships with strangers are proposed but should be declined. With everybody wanting you to do something special or extreme, it is vital to know what you really want yourself and go directly after it, tactfully but persistently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Pets, friends, neighbors, tradesmen, everybody gets into the act so that by the time the day is over, it is a circus.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your struggle to keep everything in balance is tested. Everybody else seems intent on forcing some issue or other. Don't keep overlong hours trying to bring discussions to peaceful closings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Give your main attention to matters where you work with little or no direct collaboration with others. Emotional ties are strained a little, and there's nothing to do but be patient for your part.

Twentieth Century Cotillion Club Members Study America's Silversmithing History

Tickets for the 1970 Antique Show and Sale were distributed to Twentieth Century Cotillion Club members this week at the March meeting in Mrs. Ralph McKinny's home, 1141 E. Harvester. Dates for this year's show are April 3, 4, and 5.

Antique Show Chairman Mrs. Ben Sturgeon reported names of dealers from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas. Mrs. Don Morrison said the annual show and sale had been announced in several Pampa business firms. Proceeds from the program are used for Opportunity Plan Inc. of West Texas State University.

Presenting a program on American Silver, Mrs. W. D. Price said to the 14 members attending. "Americans are infrequently made aware of their early silverware and silver object craftsmen. The government itself is increasingly aware of the nation's shortage of raw silver. Today we are seeing the vanishing silver coinage which has been so important to our prestige."

"The first American silverware is not of the country's bar silver, for silver refining in the New World did not take place until several years later. Most of our finest objects were made from coins or ware from our pioneers' homelands—England, Germany and other European countries," she said.

Dutch settlers' principal currency, and early silver ware and silver plate were made from Spanish silver coins. Early American silversmiths created beautiful handiwork from melted silver objects from the English and Dutch. As the country developed and business prospered, the colonies' received more silver coins, which were used by the first silversmiths to fashion the first colonial silverware and vessels, she said.

Colonial silver was rare and usually only a possession of the wealthy. To guarantee silver content, silversmiths usually marked their work with a distinctive insignia and later stamped their names. American silversmiths were to see that their ware contained no less than the sterling standard of .925 fine silver, Mrs. Price said.

"Silversmithing which began in New England gradually moved to New York. By the end of the 18th century Philadelphia had become another silversmithing center before the trade moved west.

"Spoons were probably the first silver spoon appeared in the 18th Century to fit small tea cups and has become known as our teaspoon. Porringers, then smaller pringers, bowls and tankards were made," she said.

Spring Decorating Syndrome Makes House Painting Temperature Rise

NEW YORK (UPI)—All the symptoms are there. With Spring just a few days away, we women fall victims of the decorating syndrome. Somehow the upholstery and slipcovers look drab when the outside starts to green. The carpet has lived a long life. Painting is a must, delayed much too long. And wouldn't a whole change of color scheme be refreshing! So, the housewife starts looking at the fabric and rug swatches, starts browsing the newspaper and magazine decorating sections for ideas. I'm a victim of the redecorating syndrome; one of my associates says I'm a syndromaniac. Start by redoing one master bedroom and suddenly all the other rooms need it too. After weeks of "suffering" through decorating disease, I've come to several conclusions. Perhaps they'll help you through the "trying" days. First rule. Don't consult anyone but the immediate family on color schemes. Don't (repeat don't) consult other relatives or neighbors and don't let what a neighbor did so divinely change your direction. She probably lives a whole different life style. In our case, though, the confusion caused the patient decorator to walk miles through fabric showrooms pulling out samples. They will be returned eventually, but right now our house could open a fabric wallpaper, and rug showroom. Which brings up another question that haunts many a woman redoing. Should you consult a decorator? My personal experience is that you've nothing to lose, everything to gain in time and in avoiding costly mistakes. That is, unless you are a "natural" and confident of your ability to combine colors and textures. Where to find professional help? Most department stores these days have "home planning centers" where a decorator helps at "no charge" service from the store. If I were asked, I'd say that beyond taste there are two requisites for redecorating. One is infinite patience. The other—

IRRESISTIBLE... the soft "hand" of this nylon knit pullover will be a smart entry in the Spring-Summer stakes for 1970. A full-fashioned mock turtle pullover, it features contrasting horizontal stripes and comfortable raglan sleeves.

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 48 years old and I look like 18 — from the neck down. I started to show my age about 10 years ago, and now I get so discouraged every time I look in a mirror. My skin looks so old!

I am happily married to a very handsome man of 50, but he looks much younger; and I am afraid one of these days someone is going to take me for his mother!

I've been thinking about plastic surgery. Is it dangerous? Is it painful? How long will a lifting last? (I've heard that the operation has to be repeated every 6 or 7 years.) How expensive is it? I really wouldn't mind the pain or the expense if the results satisfied me.

Don't tell me to grow old gracefully. No woman wants to look old when she can look younger. Please tell me the truth about face-lifting.

"PRUNE FACE"
DEAR "PRUNE FACE": The most obvious "truth" about facelifting is that no reputable plastic surgeon can guarantee a patient that she will be satisfied with the results which can range all the way from "Why didn't I leave well enough alone?" to "Why didn't I do this sooner?"

Your best source of information is a plastic surgeon. If you don't know a good one, ask your family physician to refer you. But a word of warning, don't do it without your husband's knowledge and consent. He just may like "prunes."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have lived in this apartment building for 30 years, and all of a sudden my husband decides to buy the building. Now I'm "the landlady" to all my old friends, so every time something goes wrong with something in their apartment, they call me and nag me about it.

When my husband comes home, I pass on all the complaints to him and he gets mad at me. He tells me I should tell the tenants to come to him with their complaints.

I tried that but it doesn't work. The complainers still call me, and give me their beefs. If I say, "Call my husband and tell him about it," they say, "Why should I? I just told you, you tell him."

So, Dear Abby, I can't win. What should I do?

"THE LANDLADY"
DEAR LANDLADY: If a tenant calls you with a "beef" — don't listen. Say, "Hold it — just give me your name and telephone number, and I'll have the boss call you when he comes home."

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who would move out of his home and into a motel for a whole week while his sisters are visiting him, to prevent them from knowing that he is married and has a two-year-old son?

That is what my husband did. We have been married for three years, and he never told his family that he was married — just that he was moving to another state. You see, he is Catholic and divorced, and he feels that his family wouldn't understand.

Don't you think it's time his family knew about us? His parents do not even know they have a grandchild! Print this with your answer as he reads your column faithfully.

HEARTSICK
DEAR HEARTSICK: Yes, I think it's time. Tell him to grow up, or his son will become a man before he does.

Wilson PTA Selects Officers

Woodrow Wilson Parent Teacher Association met recently in the school auditorium with President, Mrs. Don Stafford presiding as members observed Fathers Night and Texas Public School Week.

Delegates planning to attend the Spring Conference in Perryton, April 21 are Misses Don Stafford, J.L. Dykes, Jr., Tommy Hill and Melvin Davis. New officers elected to serve for 1970-1971 are Mrs. Morris Belote, president; Mrs. Billy Rape, vice president; Mrs. J.L. Dykes Jr., secretary; Mrs. Don Stafford, parliamentarian; Mrs. Laveille Best, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Harris, historian and Mrs. Jim Seedig and Mrs. Melvin Davis, City Council representatives.

Dr. James Malone, superintendent of schools, presented the program. He discussed changes that could be expected in the school system in the next few years. Installation of officers will be held May 14 with a program by Jerry Cronister, elementary coordinator, and the Woodrow Wilson School Band.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

He'd License Reporters

It was bound to happen. With so much bowing to the Allah of professional certification, someone was sure to come up with a cry to license journalists.

Dr. W. Walter Menninger, a psychiatrist associated with the famed Menninger Foundation of Topeka, Kan., told the National Press Club in Washington, D.C., that newsmen ought to be licensed as a public safeguard.

He asked, "How does the public have any guarantee of the quality of these guardians?" Many citizens, long conditioned to the sanctity of a government board's say-so over qualifications, will likely nod in agreement. Yet even Vice President Agnew, who reminded those of the news media to look to their responsibilities did not go this far. He made no mention that newsmen should be licensed.

We offer that not only is a newsmen a particular kind of bloke who happens to believe in freedom, but also that being passed by a state board would certainly be no guarantee of a newsmen's qualifications and possibly not even an indication of what his abilities are. We've known successful newspaper people who have never spent an hour in a journalism training class and other glib wordsters, some with long lines of degrees, who did not recognize a story when he was sitting beside it.

Some reporters who probably would never have passed a qualification test, with proper coaching from able editors, turned out to be excellent newsmen.

Perhaps there might be room within the industry for journalists to tighten their standards and for publishers to demand more responsible and constructive reporting. But though insistence upon writing within the guidelines of government edict might do away with some accounts, it would certainly dry the well of individual freedom in reporting by newsmen bent upon revealing the truth, especially if that truth should happen to be adverse to the political powers that hold their license in hand.

When Dr. Menninger suggested that news people be licensed the same as doctors, lawyers and other professional persons, he did not consider what harm sometimes happens in the licensing of those persons. In another story of the same date as the account urging such certification, we read of a successful one-man war on blindness in Africa. A young woman on the Tanzania-Kenya Border who was blind was enabled to see through the surgical skills of Richard Amiani. He could not have performed his services here, for Amiani is a surgeon "who holds no medical degree."

There are crimes of commission and of omission. What a loss it would be, especially to Mugamati Baskari who now sees, if Amiani's skill had been withheld because he did not have a license.

Responsibility of the press should lie within the industry, with publishers employing reporters and editors who behave responsibly, and with individuals having a strong respect for the far-reaching effects of their writing and a realization that they are not only recording events for today's journals but are recording history.

Bread-And-Butter Issues

College training does not necessarily make a person more liberal in racial matters, but not going to college may make him less liberal.

This is the conclusion of a study by Japanese-born Miwako Torita, a graduate student at Kent State University in Kent, Ohio.

"Before I came here, I believed that the United States practiced the principles of democracy, humanity and the Christian ethic," she says. "Then I found out I was wrong — that prejudice, particularly prejudice against Negroes, was strong in this country. I wanted to find out why."

For her master's degree in sociology, she compared two groups of students at Kent State with two groups of non-students of comparable age in Findlay, Ohio.

She found little difference of opinion about Negroes between 18-year-old whites who intended to go to college and those who did not. But the opinions of the older groups indicated that by the age of 21, people who do not go to college have become significantly more prejudiced against Negroes than college seniors.

The surprising thing is that a college education does not seem to make the difference. Rather, not going to college appears to be the deciding factor.

"College education does not make students more tolerant toward Negroes," she says. "As much as noncollege life makes nonstudents less tolerant."

One of the reasons, she thinks is the competition for jobs that noncollege whites may face with Negroes. College graduates, with a vastly greater employment horizon before them, do not have this concern.

The recent trouble in Pittsburgh, which saw white workers staging a parade of solidarity in protest against Negroes who had blocked work at construction sites in an attempt to wedge open that job market, strongly suggests that she is right.

Americans don't practice what they preach, says Miss Torita. But neither does anybody else when it comes down to bread-and-butter issues.

The same prejudice was shown against Chinese laborers in the last century and against the Irish and other immigrant minorities who threatened to take jobs away from those who were here before them. Comparable examples can be found in other countries. Always, the more foreign or different the minority, the greater the prejudice.

Throughout our history, with almost every racial or ethnic group, we have had to learn that open access to all privileges of citizenship, far from threatening anyone's security, in the long run makes for a stronger, more prosperous nation. The most fundamental of these rights, even more fundamental than the privilege to vote, is the right to work.

We have yet to learn this regarding all Americans. Until we do, there will be more clashes like the one in Pittsburgh.

H. L. Hunt Writes

NEW TVA PROJECT

When the Tennessee Valley Authority was established in the 1930's, its stated purpose was to prevent floods, improve navigation, and provide inexpensive hydroelectric power. Since its establishment the TVA, like most bureaucratic empires, has gone far beyond its original purpose. It has spent millions of dollars of taxpayers' money, yet the power it provides is more costly than that provided by private utilities.

Now the TVA plans to build a dam on the Little T River in Tennessee. This dam would flood 16,500 acres of land, doing extensive damage.

Much of this land is fine farmland, where 300 families live. These families would lose their homes and their farms if the TVA project is carried through.

Each year this land produces $14 million in beef, $11 million in dairy products and thousands of bushels of vegetables. The work expended by generations of Tennessee farmers to develop this land and bring it to a high level of production would all be washed away if the dam is built.

Also doomed is the capital of the Cherokee nation, sacred to this Indian tribe, and Fort Loudoun, a recently restored historical site.

The TVA has been unable to demonstrate any genuine need for this new project. It would appear that its only purpose is to expand a bureaucratic empire at the expense of individual citizens. Neither flood control, navigation, nor electric power will be served by the new dam. For the sake of the many persons who would be harmed and of the historic and productive land that would be lost, this project should be cancelled.

I don't know if those Legal Aid attorneys are communists. But they do more damage to this country than any commie ever could. Here is what one Joseph N. Renner has said on retiring as executive director of a Neighborhood Legal Aid Office, in San Gabriel, Calif.:

"My efforts to correct the ills of the nation will be through established forms, not by encouraging the poor to seize the property of others . . ."

"I am tired of associating with male attorneys with shoulder-length hair, so dirty you can see the nits, wearing sandals and beads . . ."

"I am tired of welfare recipients telling me they have a 'right' to their payments, that their husbands would not have 'left' if it had not been for the sick society . . ."

"Encouraging people to break the law is not my idea of an attorney's role in life. I do not know where it is all going to end . . ."

Renner stated he quit because the philosophy of the program is to seek out class action cases and to make new law. He was told that his attorney's salaries were cut because "we had not filed a single 'police brutality' suit or school segregation suit. No client had approached his office with a case of this type."

"I was told to go out and find clients with complaints against the police. I can't do this."

So now you know, and your congressmen know, the purpose of the OEO funded "Legal Aid" program is to encourage and destroy the establishment. How long are these legal beagles going to be allowed to operate, using your tax dollars, in an effort to destroy us all?

Wit And Whimsy

By Roger Bollen

A salesman called the head of a company on the phone and said to him:

Mr. Smith (the salesman) — I've been trying all week to see you. May I have an appointment?

Mr. Stone (the businessman) — Make a date with my secretary.

Mr. Smith — I did, and she's a cute girl, but I still want to see you.

"He Wants to Know Who's Paying for It!"

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION — Is it rational to assume that our government seems more interested in helping the least fit than in protecting those who are making it easier for all of us to grow, intellectually, spiritually and materially?

ANSWER — Yes, it seems our political government is more interested in the least fit than it is in the producers — those men who are adding to the understanding, the knowledge, culture, and wealth of the country.

The politicians claim to want to help those who are not well able to provide for themselves. They seem to be motivated by charity and compassion, but because they lack understanding of anything but politics, the means they use fail to achieve their goals. The laws the politicians make simply interfere with the activities of those people who do make life easier for all of us, including the least fit.

The politicians make laws preventing people from buying from the cheapest seller and selling to the highest bidder. They do this by having tariffs or immigration quotas, or some other scheme to keep things from becoming more abundant and less costly. They make laws to penalize and obstruct those who have foresight and initiative and who can add to the well being of all people.

The result is that gradually the producers stop producing, and then there is less abundance for all. At first this is not noticeable, but the longer the politicians interfere with the producers, the less they will be willing or able to produce, and this will show up, first in shoddy workmanship and poor quality, then in scarcity of goods, and eventually in complete economic collapse, as happened to Rome.

The politicians seem to have completely disregarded the statement in Galatians: "Whatever a man sows, so shall he also reap." They have stepped in and tried to reverse that, but they cannot succeed for long. It goes against human nature not to want the fruits of one's labor; and it goes against the natural law that for every action there is a corresponding and equal reaction. The longer the delay in allowing natural law to take effect — that is, the more action is allowed to accumulate, the greater will be the reaction.

Yes, our government does seem more interested in helping the least fit, but through lack of understanding of moral and natural law, it has taken the wrong way to go about helping those it believes need help.

The Manion Forum

By MARILYN MANION

Those Raging Youths
A few weeks ago, we examined the proposition that the "Generation Gap" may not be such a huge and bridgeless chasm as has been generally imagined.

We concluded, with the aid of a New York Times Magazine article by Joseph Adelson, that the vast majority of American young people are not engaged in open rebellion against their parents and — or society.

Now this is not to say that everything is therefore rosy. It is quite evident that a portion of young America is engaged in a very real revolution. That portion is small. It is not occupied in a "natural" rebellion against parents and authority. The actions of the minority cannot be explained with such sociological terminology as "generation gap," "counter-culture," or what have you. It is a revolution, and the participants are well aware that revolutions do not require the support of the masses.

Leaders of the revolution are currently involved in a drive to recruit 12-to-17-year-olds into its ranks. The Marxist youth group known as the Young Socialist Alliance convened a few months ago in Minneapolis to make plans for invading the nation's high schools. During the first 13 weeks of this academic year, 250 episodes of violence were reported in high schools across the country.

On another front, the Weatherman faction of the Students for a Democratic Society continue to do their thing. Their thing last fall as you might remember, involved "Four Days of Rage" in Chicago. The youths went on a wild window-smashing rampage through the streets, attacking passer-by at random. The incident was widely described as "senseless violence." However, the rampage was totally deliberate.

The Weathermen believe, among other things, that they must prove their physical toughness in order to recruit working-class high school students and dropouts. (If you happen to be in the way when the proof is happening, that is just too bad.) "These high school kids eat it up when they learn that we're beating up Harvard professors," commented one Weatherman. Typical tactics were those used by Weathermen invading a Brooklyn high school: They seized two teachers, bound and gagged them, and then distributed leaflets to the students. The handouts declared that the invaders were "part of a big gang" across the nation — a group determined to establish international Communism.

"Part of a big gang" — a gang which is not limited to members of the younger generation. The inspiration and ultimate leadership for the current revolution has come from several generations back. Outraged "oldsters" must remember this.

Philippine Outbreaks Ire Congress, Leaders Blamed

JOHN GOLDSMITH

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — It's just beginning to surface, but there is widespread bitter resentment in Congress at those violent anti-U.S. demonstrations in the Philippines.

The feeling is pronounced that the Marcos regime is far from innocent in the recurring disorders.

Members of Congress are strongly suspicious that the sudden and inexplicable rash of anti-U.S. outbreaks was deliberately instigated by Philippine authorities in an effort to defuse a threatening wave of rage and disaffection among the masses against soaring inflation, deeply festering corruption, gross economic and social inequalities and glaring political inequities.

Cited as significant evidence for this belief are the following: —The blatant failure — or refusal — of Philippine officials to provide adequate protection for the U.S. embassy and its personnel, although notified well in advance by the latter of the strong likelihood of an attack.

—The unmistakably belated and apologetic — that was more critical than remorseful.

—The lack of any move so far by the Marcos regime to pay for the damage caused by the unrestrained rioters.

Also importantly influencing this backstage congressional view is a longstanding distrust and dislike of President Marcos and particularly Carlos Romulo, former president and now foreign minister.

It was Romulo who put out the pointedly late and sharply critical apology.

PULLING NO PUNCHES — Portentously indicative of the surfacing congressional resentment at what is transpiring in the Philippines is a characteristically outspoken blast by Rep. H.R. Gross, Iowa, a ranking Republican member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

With typical bluntness, he dished out the list of congressional grievances against both foreign aid and the Marcos regime.

While Gross' indictment may be harsh and undiplomatic, there is no question he is expressing the viewpoint of a large and steadily growing body of bipartisan opinion in Congress.

That bodies ill for the multi-billion dollar foreign aid budget when Congress considers it later this session.

It was drastically pruned last year, and is likely to be even more so this time.

Gross' candid exhortation epitomizes the basic case against foreign aid:

"That what is happening in the Philippines, where the U.S. has added out some $2 billion in economic aid, is a 'classic example of the unmitigated folly of the foreign aid program' and yet, despite everything that has occurred, 'Our State Department hand-out artists' are preparing to dish out more millions to the corrupt Marcos clique."

There has never been a more classic example of the unmitigated folly of this government's foreign aid program," says Gross, "than what was provided in Manila when an uncontrolled mob of hundreds of Filipino students and workers repeatedly attacked and tried to sack and burn the U.S. Marine guard and the liberal use of gas grenades and other weapons prevented destruction of the embassy, although it sustained severe damage."

Officials of the Philippine government, who could have broken up the mob and kept it away from the embassy, didn't raise a finger until the rioters had been beaten back."

Then zeroing in directly on Romulo, Gross declares:

"To add insufferable insult to the mob's injury, Foreign Minister Carlos Romulo arrogantly maintained, 'there must be cause for the public indignation thus expressed. It may be well for the American embassy to ponder such legitimate grievances.'"

Only an adding machine could provide the additional millions in military aid since American GIs bailed out his homeland in World War II.

"And now, after living off our largesse for the last quarter of a century, this pipsqueak Romulo has the gall to support criticism of Americans as 'fascist and imperialist.'"

Gross irately notes that Romulo did this kind of talking despite the fact that last year the U.S. gave Marcos, Romulo and their benches $67 million in more economic aid.

"This year," the outspoken Iowa continues, "having fully demonstrated their ingratitude, they will undoubtedly try to blackmail us for far more and demand that our Subic Bay naval base be turned over, lock, stock and barrel, for good measure. The time has come for Uncle Sucker to cut them off without another dime."

Gross has served notice on the administration that he is against its bill, pending in the Foreign Affairs Committee, empowering the President to waive the existing law banning sales to foreign countries that seize U.S. fishing ships and other property.

At a committee hearing, the plain-talking Iowa told Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson and other high State Department and Pentagon officials, "I don't know of a President that has used the law effectively when he has been given permission to duck and dodge on this issue. I will not support a measure of this kind. You might just as well wipe out this optional authority, because it will not be used. In the light of the past record and experience, I am surprised that you come here with a bill of this kind."

DIVERSIONARY TACTICS — Speaker John McCormack is trying a new approach to placate his increasingly disaffected Democratic colleagues.

In an effort to divert attention from his faltering and floundering leadership, the 76-year-old Bostonian is taking a leaf from Vice President Spiro Agnew and criticizing the press.

Reason for McCormack's stern indignation is press references to the House as the "lower" chamber of Congress.

Solemnly and weightily McCormack holds, this is a dire reflection on the House. Stenographically he proclaims that the two branches of Congress are equal; that neither is upper nor lower.

"We know," he told his colleagues, "that if anybody is 'upper' so far as collective ability is concerned, it is the House. Actually, of course, there is no upper or lower body in the Congress of the U.S. Both are co-equal."

To clinch his rebuke to the press, the frail and aged legislator related the following history — according to his account:

"It is my understanding that when the government met in Philadelphia in the early days of our country, the House and the Senate met in a building in Philadelphia where the Senate met on the floor above the House, and in debate reference was made to the upper body, meaning the Senate sitting above, and the Senate would refer to the lower body, meaning the House which was sitting on the floor below."

"But I call to the attention of those newspapermen — those who do make the error intentionally, including those over television — the fact that they show their own unintentional ignorance, and in the future they ought to correct it."

ON TARGET — President Pompidou got one letter while in Washington that is certain to go unanswered.

It was from Rep. Bill Nichols, D-Ala., member of the House Armed Services Committee, bluntly asking the French ruler to explain, in his address to the joint session of Congress, why your country has not repaid its World War I debt to the U.S.

This long-defaulted debt now amounts to some $7 billion. Nichols wrote Pompidou "You owe such an explanation to the millions of Americans who fought for the liberation of France in two world wars."

Pentecostal Holiness Church

The Musical Missionaires, an outstanding Gospel quartette from El Paso, will be singing and preaching in five nights of revival services at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church, 700 Alcock in Pampa. The services begin at 7:30 nightly, and will be held each night from Tuesday, March 10 through Sunday March 15. Composed of two talented young married couples, the Musical Missionaires are a full time traveling evangelistic team. Their work has taken them across several states and into Mexico. Their singing and instrumental numbers have been recorded on several record albums.

Rev. Albert Maggard, pastor of the local church, extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend these special services.

First Baptist Church

The pastor, Dan B. Cameron, will be in the pulpit for both services of worship in the First Baptist Church, Pampa, Sunday. His sermon topic for the eleven o'clock morning worship is "God's King."

Mr. David Campbell, minister of music, will direct the sanctuary choir in singing the anthem, "Jesus, Thou Joy of Loving Hearts," by Bass and sing a solo, "He Is So Great," by Mickelson. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "Jesus, Guide Me" by J.S. Bach for the offertory.

"The Uncommitted" is the subject of the pastor's seven o'clock, evening worship sermon. The youth choir will occupy the choir loft and will sing "Just As I Am" by Landgrave for the Choral Worship. To complete the special music Mrs. Walter Flynt and Mrs. George Mitten will sing a duet, "I Believe in Miracles" by Peterson. "Beside Still Waters" by Richolson is the selection Miss Lane has chosen for the organ offertory.

The Pastor will continue teaching the Book of Daniel Tuesday at noon following church-wide visitation which begins at 9:30. Anyone interested in Bible study is invited to attend.

The Wednesday evening activities begin at 8:30 with a fellowship supper which is followed by prayer meeting at 8:15. The pastor will continue teaching the life of Jesus from the book of Matthew.

Christian Science Church

"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth." This passage from Genesis is part of a Lesson-Sermon on "Man" to be read in Christian Science churches this Sunday.

From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy comes the affirmation, "Man, made in His likeness, possesses and reflects God's dominion over all the earth" (p. 516).

First United Methodist

The First United Methodist Church will observe the Program "One Great Hour of Sharing" Sunday, March 8 with other Methodists throughout the country.

The fund provides a food-work program which turns rocky hillides into terraced agricultural plots. Thousands of trees will be planted to replace those cut for fuel, and women learn family planning, nutrition and hygiene.

The pastor, H. Dewitt Seago, will emphasize the program in his sermon "I Wish I had Time To Tell You," using as text, John 9:1-12.

Special music for the morning services will include the anthem "Holy Lord of All" by Frances Williams.

The Sanctuary Choir will be directed by Morris Kille, Minister of Music. Mr. Tracy Cary, organist, will provide a Prelude, Offertory and Postlude for the services.

Vesper services will be held at 6 p.m. with the Youth Fellowship groups following.

Jehovah's Witnesses

All meetings of Jehovah's witnesses have been cancelled at the local Kingdom Hall, 1701 Coffee, this weekend according to Richard Fetter, presiding minister of the Pampa congregation of Jehovah's witnesses. This will enable all Jehovah's witnesses and interested persons in the area to attend the three-day semi-annual "Sacrifices That Please God" circuit assembly to be held in the Altus City Auditorium, 201 East Commerce in Altus, Okla.

The sessions, which are open to the public, will begin at 6:45 p.m. Friday and run through Sunday until 6 p.m. It is expected that more than 50 delegates will attend from this area.

"There is a tremendous demand upon the faith of a Christian today," said Fetter. "This is especially true as we see many professed 'Christians' make claims that 'God is Dead' or encourage a 'new morality'.

Surely the God of the Bible is the true God and it is up to us to worship Him the way He wants — not the way we think is best. These assemblies are a tremendous help in this regard. —Sacrifices That Please God— emphasizes this point of our worship as being acceptable to God and is based on Hebrews 13:15."

Fetter said all local meetings would resume Tuesday, March 10.

First Presbyterian Church

The Sacrament of Infant Baptism will be observed Sunday at the 11 a.m. Worship Service of the First Presbyterian Church. Rev. Martin Hager, pastor, will use as his sermon topic "The Good Earth," with the text being taken from John 1:1-5. Ruling Elder, Don J. Loshar will be assisting in the pulpit.

At the 11 a.m. worship service, the Chancel Choir will sing "Sun of My Soul" by Ritter, under the direction of Mrs. Bill Mackey, Church organist, Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, will present "Consolation" by Mendelssohn, as the Offertory.

The Senior High Fellowship will meet this Sunday evening at 6 p.m. in Calvin Hall at the Church. They will view Ski films in preparation for their upcoming Ski Trip next week to SiPaPu Ski Area in New Mexico. No supper will be served.

The Junior High Fellowship will not meet this Sunday.

(WHAT HAVE YOU DONE FOR ME LATELY?)

The late Senator from Kentucky and former Vice-President, Alben W. Barkley, was a great raconteur of stories. He told one story on himself which brings a smile.

It was about a Kentuckian whom Mr. Barkley had helped in many ways, but who had been supporting the opposing candidate in an election. Mr. Barkley went to see him and remonstrated strongly on his ingratitude. He said: "I came to see you in the hospital in France when you were wounded during the war. I got your veteran's claim all straightened out. I got you a job as post master, and a scholarship for your son at the university. And now you turn against me!" "Yes," said the man, "but what have you done for me lately?"

It might have happened, for gratitude is a notoriously short-lived emotion! But this story does picture a strange attitude which many people have toward God. No matter what gifts their whole life has been given, they whine: "But what have you done for me lately?" Their theme song is a "Dirge for Cracked Voices," and never a private oratorio of thanksgiving. Complaints drown out any song of thanks. Instead of noting any "Mercies new every morning," they bring a bill of complaints. Here is where the preacher can unfold a great and timely theme: just what God has done for us lately and what He does every day and every hour. Here is one thing, or many things:

New every morning is the love Our waking and uprising prove. New treasures still, of countless price, God will provide the sacrifice.

There is His sustaining grace through all difficulties: He who would vaunt be 'gainst all disaster Let him in constancy Follow the master.

There is the ever renewed joy of fellowship with God. God has done much lately! And all that is within me, praise His holy name!

Wake Forest Upsets Duke In ACC Tournament Action

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—Coach Frank McGuire thinks third-ranked South Carolina is in for another slowdown game tonight in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament.

But Jack McCloskey, whose Wake Forest team meets the towering Gamecocks, says he has no such intentions.

"We'll play," he said. "By that, I mean, we're not going to try to hold the ball for a 2-1 score."

A 2-1 score appeared to be Clemson's game plan Thursday as the Tigers thoroughly frightened South Carolina in a 3-3 contest. Wake Forest, on the other hand, played keep-away only for the last four minutes to protect an 81-73 upset of fourth-seeded Duke.

In another surprise of the opening round of the sudden-death battle for the ACC championship and a berth in the NCAA playoffs, Virginia shocked 19th-ranked North Carolina 95-93 to earn a semifinals spot opposite 16th-ranked North Carolina State, a 67-57 victory over Maryland.

Clemson, a 47-point victim to South Carolina during the regular season and playing without two starters, elected to try for the "certain" shot. The small's pace wore on the nerves of the Gamecocks and the 11,666 fans, but many cheered the gallant effort of the outmanned Tigers.

The game was a cliffhanger all the way and wasn't decided until John Roche sank two free throws with eight seconds left.

"I told my boys that we'd see this (slowdown) again tomorrow night," said McGuire. His team has twice beaten Wake Forest handily during the regular season.

Clemson coach Bobby Roberts, resigning under alumni pressure after a 7-19 season, praised the "patience" of his team—minus forwards Dickie Foster, out with an injury, and Greg Latin, under academic suspension.

In other games Thursday night, five tournament-bound teams completed regular season play on a winning note. St. Bonaventure, ranked fourth in the nation, trimmed Fairfield, 85-59; Drake squeezed by St. Louis, 85-80; Niagara edged Calisius, 60-57; Marquette beat Canisius, 60-57; Marquette beat Tulane, 79-57; and Manhattan topped Fordham, 73-54.

St. Bonaventure, which will meet Davidson Saturday in a first-round NCAA tournament game, finished its regular season with a 22-1 mark. The Bonnies were paced by sophomore forward Matt Gant in their finale with 22 points.

Drake, ranked ninth, overcame a four-point halftime deficit to close its campaign with a 21-6 record. The Bulldogs, the Missouri Valley Conference champs, will meet the winner of the Dayton-Houston game in the NCAA tournament March 12.

Niagara needed three points Thursday night to win the free agent draft by Washington last June and signed for an $85,000 bonus, belted his homer in the ninth inning off Larry Cowell after the Yankee hurler hit leadoff batter Del Unser.

The youngsters has such power that manager Ted Williams predicted recently that Burroughs "will be one of the big hitters in baseball within five years."

Lubbock Christian Tops Odessa 56-50 Cisco Next

The Lubbock Christian College Chapparrais opened the Amarillo National Junior College Athletic Association's Regional V Basketball Tournament in style Thursday night. The Chapparrais defeated Odessa 56-50.

In the other games South Plains dropped to second seeded Cisco 101-74 and Howard defeated McClennan 73-66.

Jim Hollis, one of three ex-Pampa Harvester players on the LCC team, led the Chapparrais scoring with 19 points. He had several hot streaks throughout the game with the first coming at the start of the game as he sank five of the Chapparrais' first nine points to give them an early lead.

Hollis scored 14 points in the half to help LCC to a 30-29 half-time lead.

Johnny Epperson and Edward Moultrie, the other ex-Pampa Harvesters, both scored during the game. Epperson is the Chapparrais play maker and he hit for seven points all on free throws and Moultrie sank one point on a free throw.

The Chapparrais will play Cisco tonight, in hopes of changing their season record with Cisco Junior College.

Cisco has defeated LCC three times this year but all by small margins. The Chapparrais lost three, five and six points in their earlier meetings.

If LCC can defeat Cisco tonight they will play in the Championship game Saturday night at the Amarillo Civic Center.

MIAMI (UPI)—Commissioner Jack Dolph says the American Basketball Association would rather "Merge than fight and has asked the National Basketball Association for more talks to discuss combining the leagues.

Dolph spoke at the end of a two-day meeting of ABA officials on merger possibilities. He said it was decided to ask for more meetings with the NBA, but refused to disclose any specific conditions the ABA would demand.

It was speculated that a merger would not include all 11 ABA clubs. Among the weaker franchises which would be in danger of being left out if a merger was made are Miami, Los Angeles, New Orleans and Pittsburgh.

The ABA commissioner stressed the common draft situation could be the turning point.

"Uncommon (separate) drafts are impossible but we've never been more prepared—if necessary—to fight that battle," he said.

Washington Senators Have Two That May Be Great Catchers

By GARY KALE

Rookie Jeff Burroughs and veteran John Roseboro are really "catching on" with the Washington Senators.

The two catchers, making their first appearances for Washington, each hammered two-run homers Thursday to edge the New York Yankees, 7-6, in the official Grapefruit League opener.

Burroughs, 19, picked in the free agent draft by Washington last June and signed for an $85,000 bonus, belted his homer in the ninth inning off Larry Cowell after the Yankee hurler hit leadoff batter Del Unser.

The youngsters has such power that manager Ted Williams predicted recently that Burroughs "will be one of the big hitters in baseball within five years."

Washed out a number of scheduled intrasquad games.

Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh said the inclement weather would not affect his selection of Steve Blass, Bob Veale and Dock Ellis as Pirates pitchers in today's exhibition opener against Detroit. John Hiller, Les Cain and Bill Glibbreath go for the Tigers in the game at Bradenton, Fla.

Baltimore signed its last two holdouts in time for today's game with Washington in Miami when 20-game winner Dave McNally and American League homer and RBI leader Bog Powell agreed to terms.

The Minnesota Twins expressed concern over the absence of outfielder Cesar Tovar, who signed his contract but hasn't arrived in camp after a season of winter ball in Venezuela. Relief ace Ron Parranowski remains unsigned.

Exhibition Lineups

Jerry Kosman gets the opening exhibition starting assignment for the world champion New York Mets against the St. Louis Cardinals. Nolan Ryan and Ron Taylor go on the firing line with the Mets' 17-game winner.

The Braves have George Stene, Jim Nash and Mill Pappas warmed up for the Expos, who will use pitchers Bill Stoneman, Jim Britton and Dan McGinnis.

Eddie Kasko, Boston's new manager, can't make up his mind about two infield posts. So far he has Luis Alvarado at third and Rico Petrocelli at short, but the two infielders may reverse these positions before the end of spring training.

Ken Harrelson moves from the outfield to first base for today's Cleveland exhibition inaugural against Seattle at Tempe, Ariz. Tim Horton, the Indians' regular first sacker, is a holdout.

The California Angels still await word from holdout catcher Joe Azcue.

Atlanta picked up a half game on the second-place Los Angeles Lakers in the tight Western Division race. The Hawks now lead the Lakers by 1 1/2 games and have seven games remaining to fight for Los Angeles.

GOING TO ARKANSAS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—The University of Arkansas said Thursday bus trip schoolboy football player Dickey Morton of Dallas Kimball signed a pre-enrollment application with the Razorbacks. Morton gained 1,327 yards and scored 29 touchdowns last season, winning all-state honors as a running back.

Flood was traded to the Philadelphia Phillies at the end of last season following a 12-year career as a Cardinal. He was involved in a legal battle challenging baseball's reserve clause that might take years to resolve.

His attorneys estimate the battle will take two years. "By that time, I'll be 34 and it would be very difficult to come back from that," Flood said.

"My playing again is up to the 24 people who own professional baseball teams," he said. "I don't think one of the 24 men in baseball will touch me with a 10-foot pole. The establishment in baseball is just as tough with me as possible."

Won't Be 'Bought'

Flood could play with the Phillies anytime after he agrees to terms, which he said were "very close to $100,000—one side or the other."

Harvester Teams Set Full Weekend Of Action

There is a full slate of sporting activities for the Pampa Harvester teams this weekend, but none of the events will take place in Pampa.

The track, baseball, golf and tennis teams will all attend different meets over the weekend.

The track team will be in Sunray for a Saturday meet that will get underway at 9 a.m.

Milwaukee Bows To Atlanta Hawks

By United Press International

Some nights even Lew Alcindor isn't enough.

Big Lew was devastating Thursday night, pouring in 30 points while hitting on 13 of 27 field goal attempts, but his play wasn't enough to prevent the Milwaukee Bucks from bowing to the Atlanta Hawks, 126-117, in the lone National Basketball Association contest.

The loss virtually ended the Bucks' hopes of vaulting the New York Knicks back to the Eastern Division race. The Knicks, who have led the division all season, have a six-game edge on the Bucks and are eight games ahead in the loss column. Milwaukee has lost eight games remaining while the Knicks has 11. Any combination of five Knick victories and Milwaukee losses will give New York the division title.

Atlanta picked up a half game on the second-place Los Angeles Lakers in the tight Western Division race. The Hawks now lead the Lakers by 1 1/2 games and have seven games remaining to fight for Los Angeles.

Competing in the boys division at Phillips will be Mark Shackelford and Ray Kenney, playing doubles in the A class, and Jim Daniel in the singles B class.

The girls team will include; in the A division, Debbie Bray playing singles and Mary Carlson and Jo Forsha playing doubles; in the B division, Marsha Mulican and Sidney Mills playing singles and Debbie Fletcher and Susan Wilson playing doubles.

The first local game for any of the Harvester teams will be March 23 when the baseball team takes on Ansbard at the Optimist park.

PROSPECTUS — Indians' season ended in 1969 after first 15 games. They lost 14 of them. Alvin Dark suffered through it all, soothing the pain with daily doses of trade thoughts. He did much bartering during off-season, most of it beneficial, and improvement is imminent. This year, Tribe may stay in the race until Memorial Day or, perhaps, even the middle of June.

second last year, but was anemic hitter. Gary Sprague (.280 at Portland) and John Lowenstein (.284 at Reno) will get chances to replace him. Short will go to either Eddie Leon, .239 last year, or Jack Heidemann, returning from service. Third wide open: Could be Graig Nettles from Twins, Max Alvis, Larry Brown or Lou Klimchuck. All are journeymen. Rating: C-

PITCHING — Biggest trade landed Dean Chance from Twins. He'll team with Sam McDowell (18-14) to give Tribe a good 1-2 punch. McDowell, still a hard thrower, might even mature with less of a load. Rest of staff weak. Steve Harjan (4-15), battling back from surgery, and Larry Burchard, another hospital case last season, back them up. Dick Ellsworth could be spot starter or reliever. Bullpen is brand new: Dennis Higgins and Barry Moore from Washington, and Bob Miller from Minnesota. Rating: C.

OUTFIELD — Hawk Harrelson still can't decide whether he lives in Cleveland or Boston. The mod man is always in transit. He's got right sewed up if he doesn't get lost. Ted Uhlander, from Twins, will open in center and Vada Pinson, from Cards, in left. Russ Snyder, Chuck Hinton and Russ Nagelson back them up. Front line can hit. Rating: B.

CATCHING — Duke Sims didn't hit much for average, but did deliver in timely situations. He's No. 1. Ray Fosse once was destined to supplant him, but doesn't hit. Rating: C.

TOP ROOKIES — Farm system produced two pitchers: Mark Ballinger, who has good size (6-foot-6) and speed, and Phil Heralangan, whose credentials are a 10-10 year in Waterbury.

INFIELD — Only bright spot last year was Tony Horton at first. He hit .279 with 27 HRs and 93 RBIs. Among baseball's overlooked players. Rest of infield shaky. Vern Fuller played

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—New political labels are being fabricated with unprecedented frequency these days. Which is causing a lot of confusion among the electorate.

Many people are uncertain as to which label applies to them. They can't tell whether they are "effete snobs," or "pseudo-intellectuals" or "supercilious sophisticates."

Well, things are bad enough without having an identity problem. Therefore, as a public service, I have prepared a little scorecard that may help you identify yourself.

Listed below are a number of national issues. Check where you stand on each and then look at the bottom of the column to find the label that fits.

1. Next to Garrett A. Hobart, Levi P. Morton and James S. Sherman, Spiro Agnew is my all-time favorite vice president.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

2. Given a choice between liberty and death, I would not hesitate to choose the former.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

3. Never trust anyone over six months old.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

4. Busing children across town to achieve integration is wrong. The kids should have to walk to school the way I did.

() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

5. Best way to improve the quality of education in America is to burn down the schools.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

6. The best way to end the war in Vietnam would be to change the name of that country back to Indo-China.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

7. The best way to stop crime in the streets is to invite the criminals inside.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

8. The best way to stop drug abuse in public schools is to teach the students to be nice to drugs.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

9. The best way to solve the traffic problem is to block off all the streets.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

10. The best thing to do about water pollution is drink gin.
() Agree () Disagree () Undecided.

Scoring

Majority agreement means you are a pseudo intellectual. Majority disagreement stamps you as a supercilious sophisticate. Majority undecided brands you as an effete snob. In case of a tie, you are a Majority.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On the well-worn chess board of Europe, the king rook moves assigned to the two Germany, with West Berlin rated no lower than a castle. In this oldest established chess game in modern history, the players have been striving for 25 years without success for checkmate.

Two important moves this month could change the nature of the game.

In Communist East Berlin, representatives of the East and West German governments are beginning to explore the possibility of the first all-German summit conference since World War II.

And toward the end of March, ambassadors of the Soviet Union, the United States, France and Britain are expected to sit down in Berlin's old Allied Control Council Building, at Western allied suggestion, for talks on West Berlin and especially improved access to it.

West Berliners, accustomed to recurring crises in their relations with the East, accord little chance for success to the Berlin talks and suggest the four powers will be unable even to agree on an agenda.

Bonn government officials are said to fear the Russians may renew Nikita Khrushchev's attempt of 1958-61 to convert West Berlin into a "free city" in effect creating a third Germany.

Allied officials, for their part, are said to expect no immediate agreement on the Berlin problem but to regard it as one of a series of complex moves involving the whole diplomatic chess board.

They include the all-German meeting in East Berlin, the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) between the United States and the Soviet Union and talks also now under way between the West Germans and the Soviets in Moscow and the Poles in Warsaw.

West Berlin must have free access to live. Each year she must import 11 million tons of food, clothing and other essentials. Most of it comes in by truck, barge and railroad cars through East Germany.

Congressional Investigation Called For Meningitis Crisis

PT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (UPI)—Charges the military is lax in dealing with a "meningitis crisis" brought a congressional investigating team Thursday to this sprawling Army post in the Missouri Ozarks.

The team's leader, Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., said he was assured by Army officials "effective measures were underway to bring the crisis under control."

The 30th case of spinal meningitis since October was reported Wednesday by officials at the base hospital.

House Armed Services Committee chairman Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., ordered the investigating team to conduct an on-the-spot investigation at the base. The two other congressmen on the team are both Missouri members of Rivers' committee: Democrat Rep. William J. Randall and Republican Durward G. Hall.

"The purpose of the investigation will be to place the matter into proper perspective and to make certain all procedures are being followed to bring the outbreak of meningitis under control," Ichord said.

Twenty-five Ft. Leonard Wood soldiers were stricken since Jan. 1 by meningitis, an inflammation of the membranes enveloping the brain and spinal cord. Three trainees died of the disease last month and Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., demanded an immediate investigation earlier this week.

Eagleton said he received reports of exhausting duty, extensive harassment and inadequate medical assistance at the base.

"Reports from soldiers and their parents indicate that the Army has been lax in dealing with this meningitis crisis," he said.

The senator read from a letter written by Pvt. Steven G. Lagermann, 19, to his mother, asking if she could send him penicillin pills.

"To save our own lives we need the medicine," the Army recruit wrote. "You go to the hospital and they give you aspirins and send you back into the field."

Lagermann died Feb. 24 of meningitis.

Maj. Gen. William T. Bradley, post commander, and other base officials denied the charges at a news conference Tuesday and explained "every practical step" was being taken to stop the outbreak. Bradley said he did not think an investigation was necessary. But he said he had no objection to one.

Bradley would make no further comment Wednesday. But it was announced by the base hospital Pvt. William Carver of Alexandria, Ind., was the latest victim. He was described as "very seriously ill."

Col. Ellisworth H. Miller, post medical officer and commander of the hospital, said a quarantine of the base was considered "but it is not a practical way of controlling the disease. Surveillance is the only practical method."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market's increasing tendency to show indifference to bad news lends support to the theory that the bear market of the past 14 months is nearing an end. Shearson, Hammill & Co. says. The peak flow of earnings reports for 1969 has passed and it would seem that most disappointments of last year have been discounted. Although first-quarter earnings are also likely to be disappointing, "the effects should not be as great on a relative basis, particularly since the after-tax results will be cushioned by the lower surtax."

Reynolds & Co. is optimistic about the future course of stock prices and recommends being relatively fully invested at this time. "Even though the prime rate has not been lowered," the firm says, "money conditions are easing, and this is what the stock market has been yearning for." It is finally "showing tendency" to respond to good news, it adds.

It will only be a matter of time before monetary policy is made less restrictive. Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes believes. Since the market anticipates the economy will continue to reflect the outlook for monetary policy, the market should regain strength after the first quarter of 1970. The current environment represents the buying range in which investors should begin to build positions in selected equities, the firm says.

Polisher Remover Causes Explosion

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An explosion of nail polish remover fumes in a beauty salon Wednesday set off a fire that caused $300,000 damage to a shopping center.

Manicurist Darlynda Howard was pouring the nail polish remover in a storage room when the fumes were ignited by a hot plate. The fire gutted the adjoining Bette Ross dress shop, heavily damaged the beauty salon and a second floor office.

Miss Howard's hair was singed but she was not seriously injured.
