Pill Effects Cloaked In Mystery

Five Years Before Side Effects Known

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Medical authorities pro and con have agreed they will not know for at least five years whether birth control pills cause cancer.

"Nine million women is a very large scale experiment," said Dr. Hugh J. Davis of Johns Hopkins University. He said sequential oral contraceptives should be banned and most women should drop "the pill" altogether in favor of "the loop" or some other birth control method, at least until long range effects of the pill are determined.

The next five years should provide sufficient patients from which conclusive data may be derived," said Dr. Robert W. Kistner of Harvard Medical School. Meanwhile, there is no statistically valid basis for linking the pill to the various forms of cancer that occur in the female.

Their testimony before Sen. Jayford Nelson's select small business monopoly subcommittee this week demonstrated the split in medical opinion on oral contraceptives, which were approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) 10 years ago. Twenty million women use "the pill," authorities testified, including nine million in the United States.

The subcommittee hearings resume next Wednesday. Nelson also is investigating allegations women are not even told the pill might be dangerous.

AFTER 13 YEARS Howard Hughes, Wife To Divorce

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Former actress Jean Peters announced Thursday she will divorce billionaire reclusive Howard Hughes, ending their bizarre, 13-year marriage.

The outgoing former Ohio beauty queen suddenly became an introverted as Hughes after their wedding, living in one of several mansions in the Beverly Hills area during the week and flying here on weekends to join her husband, Miss Peters' friends indicated she finally despaired of Hughes' mysterious existence and she told them she wanted to resume her acting career.

The announcement came in a brief statement issued Thursday by the Hughes Nevada operations office, three days after the couple's 13th anniversary.

"This is not a decision reached in haste and it is done only with the greatest of regret. Our marriage has endured for 13 years, which is long by present standards. Any property settlement will be resolved privately between us," Miss Peters said.

Hughes, 64, whose wealth is estimated at $1.5 billion, made no comment on the statement which began: "Jean Peters Hughes, wife of industrialist Howard Hughes, stated today that she and her husband have discussed a possible divorce and that she will seek to obtain one."

Miss Peters, 43, never made another movie after "Three Coins in the Fountain" following the couple's marriage in 1957.

The former Ohio State University beauty queen met Hughes while making her first film, "Captain from Castille," and it was more than 10 years later she married the industrialist in Tonopah, Nev. At the time they met, Hughes was producing movies and was one of Hollywood's most eligible males.

GOP's Eyeing Political Bandwagon

By United Press International
Paul Eggers, the Wichita Falls lawyer who got more votes as the GOP gubernatorial nominee in 1968 than any other Republican in history, talks like he's going to run again.

But he isn't making any announcements yet.

"I got a call from high places in the administration saying, 'You have our blessings. We think you should take a go at it,'" Eggers said in Dallas. "I'm not going to mention any names but it was high in the White House."

Eggers said he will probably decide next week whether to make the race again.

He said he had trouble getting financial backing in 1968 because few people thought he could win, but prospects have changed. He got an offer of $10,000 for his campaign Wednesday from a man who gave him $250 in 1968.

Different Game
It's a different ball game now," Eggers said. "I'm getting letters and telegrams supporting me, some just say, 'Run.' I've got great support from the grass roots area."

"Do I sound like a candidate or not?" Eggers wasn't the only politician who had something to say Thursday.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher told a hometown crowd in Breckenham he would run for re-election. Also announcing for new bids were U. S. Rep. James M. Collins, R-Tex.; state Rep. Malouf Abraham, R-Canadian, and state Rep. Grant Jones, D-Abilene.

Yarborough Undecided
Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., who has not announced for re-election yet, began a day-long round of speeches and appearances in Dallas Thursday with an attack on what he called the Nixon's administration. (See POLITICAL, Page 2)

Falls In Love With Man, Divorces Legend

By Vernon Scott
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jean Peters fell in love with a man and is divorcing a legend.

The Howard Hughes she met and married was a romantic, dashing eccentric whose wealth and charm overwhelmed the Ohio State University beauty queen turned movie star.

During our interviews in her 20 Century-Fox days, I found Jean a straightforward, practical girl who derided glamor and Hollywood pretensions.

Jean was raised on a farm near Canton, Ohio and learned to help with the chores. She acquired the essential attributes of a housewife at home and at college.

She was careful with money and invested in real estate. She also was a great beauty.

Hughes, ever alert for stunning face, became enamored in the late 1940s. Unlike most of the girls he wooed, the rising young actress wanted a ring, not a fling.

During one misunderstanding, Jean married businessman Stuart Cramer III (who separated last month from his wife, Terry Moore, an ex-Hughes girlfriend).

They were married in May 1954, divorced December 1966. One friend said Jean was in love with Hughes throughout her marriage to Cramer. Even Cramer admitted later he never got to know the girl.

For whatever reason—Hughes' reluctance or Jean's career—the actress and the billionaire didn't marry until 1957, almost 10 years after they first met.

After the ceremony it was as if Miss Peters vanished from earth.

Retains Old Friends
But she retained her circle of old friends: Jeanne Crain, Vanessa Brown, a doctor and his wife and associates from the studio. She lunched with girlfriends, shopped incognito and attended the theater and sports events alone or in company with a female friend.

It was an unnatural life. She was married, but not fully a wife. She had millions to spend, but no one with whom to spend it.

In seeking freedom, many friends expect her to return to acting and other creative activities.

Certainly, she will return to the extrovert world she used to know, going her own way, doing as she pleases, free of Hughes' security guards.

Just as surely, she will retain an affectionate loyalty toward Howard Hughes, a man who treated—her kindly, showered her with riches and affection and gave her everything except a happy marriage.

New Vice President Named By Citizens Bank And Trust

Floyd Imel, president of Citizens Bank and Trust Company, announced the addition of Ira Loftin to its banking staff this week. Loftin assumed duties as vice president of the bank Thursday.

Loftin started his banking career in Fort Worth where he was employed with North Fort Worth State Bank for five years. After a tour of duty in the Army, he was employed by the department of banking as bank examiner. In this capacity, he examined banks in the Beaumont-Houston area and Fort Worth-Dallas area before being transferred to the Lubbock district.

Loftin became associated with the First National Bank of Lamesa in April, 1967 where he served as vice president and trust officer until his election as vice president of Citizens Bank and Trust Company.

In addition to his banking duties, he will graduate from the Boulder Colorado School of Banking in August.

Loftin is married to the former Rosalea West of Fort Worth. They are the parents of one son, Mike, three years old. They will reside at 1135 E. Harvester.

They are affiliated with the Assembly of God Church where they have worked with young people as teachers.

NIGERIA SOLVES PROBLEM Tons Of Supplies Move Into Defeated Biafra

By United Press International
By land and by sea, Nigeria moved tons of food and medicine into the former secessionist state of Biafra today, intent on proving it can solve its own problems. Foreign observers said things were going well.

An eight-man international military observer team said after a five-day visit to the area that it had found no evidence of genocide or mass starvation.

In Geneva, the League of Red Cross Societies said the situation was not nearly so grave as earlier had been thought and that the Nigerians had relief efforts well in hand.

The federal government, which has rejected aid from all foreign nations or agencies that supported Biafra during the 2½-year civil war, maintained its ban against newsmen visiting the former rebel region.

The international military observer team said roads throughout the former battlefield areas were in good condition and that trucks were getting through with relief supplies. Lagos officials said aid also went by ship from the capital.

The observer team—composed of representatives from Canada, Poland, Sweden, Britain and the United Nations—said most of the refugees they had seen looked to be in "good physical shape."

In a report released simultaneously in Lagos, Ottawa, Warsaw, Stockholm and London, the team reported signs of malnutrition among children walking the Aba-Owerri road but said the signs were not "extreme."

Henrik Beer, the secretary general of the League of Red Cross Societies, telephoned Geneva headquarters from Lagos Thursday with an optimistic report.

Community-Owned Coronado Inn Notes 10th Anniversary Sunday

Next Sunday will mark the tenth anniversary of the dedication and opening of Coronado Inn, one of Pampa's most successful community-financed projects.

On Jan. 18, 1960, the day of dedication, Pampa was in the grip of one of its worst cold snaps and an eight-inch snowfall.

While the winter storm curtailed some of the planned activities, the dedication in the afternoon, followed by a banquet and ball at night was attended by visiting dignitaries and 500 local guests.

Even Pampa residents were forced to become hotel guests and stay overnight in the new hotel because of the snowstorm.

Coronado Inn first was conceived in the Chamber of Commerce 1949 work program. Because of circumstances brought on by the Korean War the project was not developed until 1956.

In December of that year a financial campaign was brought to a successful conclusion with the raising of $830,000 in stocks and debentures sold during a three-week drive.

Another half-million dollars was borrowed to complete financing of the $1,300,000 structure. When it was all over the Coronado Inn had 1,400 stockholders among townspeople.

The mortgage on the structure, incidentally, will be completely paid off next year, hotel officers said today.

Four of the original persons on the job when the hotel opened still are among the institution's 60 employees today. They are Mrs. Ruth Rice, secretary; Mrs. Avis Price, banquet head waitress; Mrs. Mina Board, housekeeper, and Mack Harmon, building engineer.

The first manager of the Coronado Inn was Stuart Kines. Following him were Leo Nelson and Jim O'Connor, who held the post for eight years until his resignation in December of 1969. O'Connor was succeeded by Gerry Ohlidal, the current manager.

Coronado Inn was chosen as the name in a contest conducted before the opening. It was submitted by Mrs. Mabel Torvie, now a teacher at Pampa High School. The idea came to her because Coronado passed through the Pampa area on an expedition in search of the "seven cities of gold."

As a result of her selection of the name for the Inn, Mrs. Torvie and her husband were given the honor of being the first to stay in the Inn. (See ANNIVERSARY, Page 2)

Man Arrested For Threat On Agnew

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Police today arrested a man who authorities said threatened to kill Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. More than 300 persons demonstrated outside while Agnew conferred with Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake.

Agnew's spokesmen said later the demonstrations in New Zealand have been the most persistent of Agnew's 11-nation tour of Asia and the Pacific. New Zealand is the final stop of the trip.

Antiwar demonstrators battled police when Agnew arrived Thursday and kept shouting "Peace! Peace! Peace!" every 15 minutes Thursday night trying to keep him awake.

During Agnew's talks with Holyoake and government ministers another group of demonstrators kept up a continuous chant of "We want peace!" There were several minor clashes with police.

"I have never been intimidated by demonstrators," Agnew said later.

Police said Sydney James Clarke Arthur, 32, an unemployed laborer, was arrested on a charge of telephoning a threat to kill Agnew, to the hotel where the vice president was staying. He pleaded innocent in court and was ordered to undergo a two-week psychiatric examination.

Agnew said the United States had given neither New Zealand nor Australia any guarantee of defense after the British withdraw their military forces from the Southeast Asia in 1971.

Agnew said a comment he made in Singapore on the possible regional involvement of the United States in a group aimed at bolstering Southeast Asian defenses after the British leave had been misinterpreted.

"What I said previously was not to imply any direct aid by the United States in the proposed regional defense of the area," Agnew said.

Denies Nuclear Shield
Agnew denied the United States would provide a so-called nuclear shield for Australia and New Zealand.

"There is no suggestion of the United States seeking military bases for deployment of its nuclear capability from New Zealand," he said.

Holyoake said he assured Agnew that New Zealand's 500 troops would not be pulled out of Vietnam "at this time."

"We have always recognized that the United States is carrying a greatly disproportionate share of the load in Vietnam and other parts of the world," Holyoake said. "It is obvious that America should make its withdrawal plans before its other Allies in Vietnam."

Nation's Economy Threatened By Recession In '70 GOP Party To Confab Saturday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's economy stopped growing during the last three months of 1969, government figures showed today.

If the same slowdown continues through the first three months of 1970 the nation would be in a recession, defined by economists as two consecutive quarters of nongrowth.

The Commerce Department said Thursday the nation's Gross National Product (GNP) increased at an annual rate of 4.5 per cent during the fourth quarter of last year. The increase, however, was caused entirely by higher prices, not by the production of more goods and services produced in previous quarter, the department said.

The GNP is the total value of goods and services produced in the nation. It may total more than $1 trillion in 1970.

Republican Party officials and office holders from throughout the 18th Congressional District will meet in Amarillo Saturday.

The 9 a.m. meeting will be at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge West on Interstate 40.

District GOP executives have scheduled briefings and discussions on candidate recruitment, financing campaign strategy and voter registration drives.

Jim Campbell, of Pampa, District Committeeman, said the early portion of the meeting will be open, but that several executive sessions are also planned.

Members of the working press are invited to attend a reception at 8 p.m. Friday in the Howard Johnson west, Tri State Room.

Famous Radio Star To Be K&F Speaker

Chester H. Lauck, (and if the name doesn't strike a note of familiarity then recall the name "Lum") will be the guest speaker at the Guest Night meeting of the Knife & Fork club when it meets Tuesday, Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

"Lum" was the foremost part of "Lum and Abner" a team which captivated the fancy of radio listeners for approximately a quarter of a century with its philosophical commentary. Later it was engaged by the Hollywood people and "Lum and Abner" were starred in motion pictures for RKO studios.

Today "Lum" is living in Hot Springs, Ark., his home state and has done public relations work for one of America's largest oil companies. While he admits he enjoys a bit of "loafing" he is still in demand as a lecturer-entertainer by various convention groups.

Reservations and for members and their guests should be made by 1 p.m. Monday at Malone Pharmacy in Coronado Center.

Mother, Daughter Injured In Wreck
A 24-year-old Pampa woman and her eight-month-old daughter were treated and released from Highland General Hospital Thursday night following a one-car accident on Gwendolen near Faulkner.

Shearolyn Ruth Howard Smith, 330 N. Gray and her daughter, Cheryl Ann, were taken to the hospital by private car. Two other passengers in the car, Mrs. Smith's son, Wayne, and another daughter, Carol Ann, were not injured.

Mrs. Smith told investigating Pampa police officer Roy Denman that she was going east on Gwendolen when one of her children became choked on a piece of scotch tape.

She said while trying to help the child she lost control of the car and it swerved off the pavement and struck a utility pole.

Damage to the car was estimated at $700 and to the utility pole at $100.

Trustees To Examine Construction Expense

By WANDA MAE HUFF News Staff Writer
Pampa School trustees Thursday scheduled a called meeting for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 4 to examine expenses and progress in the school district's $900,000 construction and remodeling projects underway at Pampa High School and two elementary schools.

During the regular board meeting at Carver Educational Services Center, trustees learned "several projects are running over the estimates and may put us in a bind unless we review progress now and see exactly where we stand," Supt. Dr. James F. Malone said.

Building projects underway at PHS are the new library, gymnasium and science units, band and choral music hall, athletic building and track facilities.

New cafeterias are being constructed at Horace Mann and Woodrow Wilson Elementary Schools, but are not yet ready for trustees' final approval, Dr. Malone said.

Herbert Brasher, the school district's architect for its projects and representative of Lubbock firm of Brasher, Goyette and Rapier, was expected today to meet with Dr.

Refreshing Political Candor

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Secretary of State Kelly Bryant is arranging a $20-a-plate appreciation dinner for himself.
 He said Wednesday the proceeds would go "in my pocket."
 Reporters asked Bryant if he was sponsoring his own banquet.
 "Well, I wouldn't say that. I guess you'd say it's like throwing a birthday party for yourself."
 Where is the money going?
 "In my pocket," he snapped, but later tried to say he had said "in the pocket" or "in a pocket."
 Is it going into a campaign fund?
 "Well, it's going for the expense of different things," he said.
 Bryant finally became hostile when reporters pressed him for more information.
 "You write any damn thing you want," he said. "You can't shake me."
 The dinner will be in Little Rock Tuesday evening.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Poison ivy, the glossy-green menace of campers and country-dwellers, has a long history of persistent irritation. The World Almanac notes. Native only to North America, the plant made its presence felt as far back as 1607 in Jamestown and was mentioned by Capt. Smith: "The poison weed, being in shape but little different from our English ivy...causeth redness, itching and lastly blisters...they are somewhat painful."

DIES IN FLAMES
 NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—When his car became stuck in the ice, 58-year-old Anthony Attanasio started spinning the wheels in an effort to get out.
 Witnesses said he spun off about half an hour. Then an overheated tire exploded and set fire to the auto's gas tank.

Tribute Paid To King

By United Press International
 Persons across the nation honored Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Thursday—the 41st anniversary of his birth.
 Several governors, including Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Kenneth Curtis of Maine and Frank Lautner of Rhode Island, declared today "Martin Luther King Day" in honor of the assassinated civil rights leader.
 Schools were closed in several cities, including New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and Harrisburg, Pa.
 New York Mayor John V. Lindsay said city workers could take the day off.
 In 1892 students at the Springfield, Mass., YMCA played the first official basketball game. Dr. James Naismith invented the game to provide indoor exercise.

Protestors Try To Bully Agnew

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Anti-Vietnam War demonstrators' battled police outside Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's hotel Thursday when he arrived for a three-day visit. The demonstrators returned and shouted "Peace! Peace! Peace!" every 15 minutes to try to keep him awake.
 Ten demonstrators were arrested in the first fracas but none outside the hotel when 80 police dispersed the crowd of 150 who left with taunts at the police.

Fulbright Takes Dim View Of Agnew's Overseas Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's first venture overseas stirred up a dispute between top members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Agnew was "a smart aleck" who had made promises overseas he could not fulfill. Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., the ranking Republican, defended the vice president and said Fulbright's remarks were politically motivated.

The disagreement between the two veteran legislators, who have often seen eye-to-eye on past issues, came as Agnew arrived in Australia on the last leg of his swing through Asia.

Fulbright, returning to work after the congressional recess, attacked Agnew in a free-wheeling interview with United Press International.

"He's kind of a smart aleck, isn't he?" Fulbright said.

"He's feeling his oats and he's getting himself and others in trouble in the process. He's making promises he can't fulfill. I think he has a bad case of the big head."

Fulbright did not mention any particular country but said Agnew, in general during his meetings with foreign leaders, had tried to reinforce and extend U.S. commitments to Asia, contrary to the national commitments resolution passed by the Senate last year. That resolution demanded Congress be consulted before any offers were made overseas.

Specifically, Fulbright took issue with Agnew's reported promise to Thai leaders that there would be no lessening of U.S. commitments to the Bangkok government despite criticism from "people back home who may be playing internal politics."

He said Agnew had committed "a disservice to the country."

The entire tenor of the trip, he said, indicated "he's let the notoriety inflate his ego. Who is he to go off and make promises that he's going to do this and that?"

Later, Aiken—reached by telephone at his mountaintop home in Vermont—attributed Fulbright's harsh words to the fact "that November, 1970, is coming up."

He said Democrats will be attacking Agnew from now on, more so than President Nixon, because "they apparently think he's more vulnerable, particularly in the northernmost states."

"I haven't read the vice president's speeches word for word," said Aiken. "But I haven't noticed that he's been out of line. I thought he'd been rather cautious about it."

Boys Questioned In Stereo Thefts

Three Pampa boys were released to their parents after two of them gave written statements to police telling of their part in stealing a car stereo and stereo tapes.

The boys, one 15 and the other two, both 16, told police they had taken the stereo and tapes from the car of Ronnie Branscum, parked at his residence, 443 Hill, early Wednesday morning.

Branscum caught two of the youths, but lost them in a chase down the street. He told police he recognized one of them, which led to the apprehension.

Washington Window

By LOUIS CASSELS
 UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"A crisis of confidence exists today between the American people and their news media."

That statement, from a task force report of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, accurately describes a situation that is causing great concern among newsmen.

It's painfully evident that a lot of people don't trust us any more. Relatively few accuse us of fabricating facts. The suspicion is that we leave out some of the relevant facts or slant the presentation of the story.

It's not altogether a bum rap. To the shame of our whole profession, some reporters sometimes do slant stories—either deliberately or (more frequently) because they're too lazy to dig up all the facts.

Charge Not Always True

But, as the violence commission task force points out, the charge of bias does not always stem from any deviation from the truth on the part of the press. "Frequently," the report says, "it will be the result of the news media's failure to tell its audience what it would like to hear."

In times of stress like the present, the report says, there is a strong tendency for people to "listen to those voices that agree with their own special point of view."

If the regular news media—newspapers, news magazines, radio and television stations—do not tell it the way a person wants to hear it, he may conclude that they are biased against his viewpoint, and are therefore not to be trusted in any way.

The report says "strongly committed persons" are particularly apt to find the regular news media unacceptable. And the harder a newspaper tries to be fair and objective, the more likely it is to be accused of bias by extremists.

Distrust From Opposites

That's why distrust of the news media is greatest at the opposite ends of the political spectrum—in the new left and the radical right.

Both of these groups have developed their own channels of "news" and opinion. The new left has its so-called "underground press" and the radical right has numerous publications as well as radio and television programs which reflect its point of view.

The long-run danger to society lies in the fact that this process tends to feed upon itself. They are thereby reinforced in their opinions and prejudices, and are driven further and further into extremism.

The result is that society becomes increasingly polarized, and genuine communication between different groups becomes virtually impossible.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When I got home from work the other evening, my wife, who usually has dinner on the table at that hour, had just turned on the oven.

"Sorry to be late," she said, "but I've been sitting by the telephone all day to make sure I didn't miss the call."

There appeared over my head a little balloon with question marks inside, the symbol of perplexity.

"What call?"

"The call from President Nixon."

"You got a call from President Nixon?" (rising incredulity in voice.)

"No. The phone didn't ring all day. I can't understand it."

"May I inquire as to what made you think that President Nixon might be calling here?"

Team Wins

"Well, our son's team won the third-grade stick ball championship, didn't it?"

At this point there appeared above my head a little balloon with a light bulb, the symbol of intellectual awakening.

"Look," I said, "I don't wish to sound deflating but there's a lot of difference between a third-grade stick ball game and the Super Bowl or Cotton Bowl or World Series or one of those other big games that the President has taken an interest in."

"The fact that he has made calls to some of the winning players and coaches doesn't mean he telephones congratulations to everybody who wins an athletic contest in this country."

There appeared over my wife's head a little balloon with a black cloud inside, signifying pique and umbrage.

Proud Of Son And Team

"I'll have you know that I'm just as proud of our son and his team as the folks in Kansas City are of Len Dawson and the Chiefs."

"Maybe Nixon isn't a stick ball fan," I said.

"We didn't know he was a football fan either until he got into the White House," my wife pointed out.

"But he made those other calls after watching the games on television. He probably didn't even know about the third-grade stick ball tournament."

"Well, with the entire secret service, FBI and CIA at his disposal he could have found out easily enough."

There appeared over my head a little balloon with exclamation points inside, signifying agreement. I don't want to be unreasonable, but one little telephone call doesn't seem too much to ask of a President.

CAPE KENNEDY—Launch Director Robert H. Gray, commenting on the launching of Comsat, America's first satellite of the new decade:

"It looks like we had a perfect flight on all vehicle systems. It was a very smooth flight."

Quotes In The News

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Manhattan Supreme Court judge ruled Tuesday that no matter what the lease says a tenant can keep a watchdog to protect his apartment from burglars.

Justice Myles J. Lane in his ruling noted the present circumstances of rampant crime and "the inability of the landowners sufficiently to police their properties."

The case involved Mrs. Genevieve M. Tonis and her small schnauzer, named Snafu. The lease to the one-room apartment specifies no animals, but after her apartment had been burglarized several times, she bought the dog.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The U.S. space agency tries for the sixth time tonight to launch the first satellite insured against rocket failure.

The last attempt to get the $6.5 million Comsat Corp. communications satellite into space was thwarted Tuesday night by a leaky nitrogen gas system in the second stage of the $5 million Delta rocket.

The new launch attempt was set for 6:10 p.m. EST.

The satellite is owned by Comsat and 70 partner nations in the International Telecommunications Consortium (Intelsat). Three similar spacecraft are in orbit and two were lost by Delta failures.

After the first failure, Comsat took out the unique insurance policy with Lloyds of London and Associated Aviation Underwriters. It covers the current mission and will return 75 per cent of Comsat's $6.1 million investment in the mission—or $4.5 million—in the event of failure. The premium is $872,000.

HELENA, Mont. (UPI)—It wasn't meant as an elephant joke, but it nearly turned out to be one for a group of Oregon Republicans.

A representative of the Republican National Committee recently called Gov. Forrest Anderson's office and asked if "the governor" would accept an invitation to speak at a GOP luncheon in Oregon.

The office secretary said Anderson would be delighted to address the Republican group—although he's a Democrat.

The call was meant for former Republican Gov. Tim Babcock. Word of his defeat in the last election apparently was slow getting to national headquarters.

A thought for the day: Ogden Nash said, "Women would rather be right than reasonable."

Drug Produces Improved Memory And Increased Sexual Potency

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Doctors studying a drug that helps victims of Parkinson's disease report the substance produces strange side effects, including improved memory and increased sexual potency.

But one doctor said the memory improvement effects are far more promising than the sexual side effects.

"We have seen 70-year-old men with a frequency of intercourse at least twice daily," Dr. William E. O'Malley told a symposium on the drug L-dopa Wednesday. The men had been given the drug to combat Parkinson's disease, he said, and their sexual activity was far beyond that of the average 20-year-old newly married male who averages intercourse five times a week.

"In all of history we have never known a true aphrodisiac, so this was quite a surprise," said O'Malley, a neurologist at Georgetown University here. This is the first time probably in the

Some Teachers Carry Guns

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate subcommittee study says violence has increased so much in big city schools learning has taken a backseat to the problem of maintaining order. Teachers in one city, it says, carry guns for protection.

A staff member disputed as a myth the idea that school violence frequently has racial overtones. In most instances, he said, blacks attack blacks and whites attack whites. The staff pointed to the breakdown of home and church influence as a factor for the upsurge in school violence.

The report, prepared for use by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., at hearings in April into the problem by his Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, also accuses principals of trying to cover up violence in their schools. Hiding the facts only encourages the troublemakers, it says.

"The dropout who returns to his old school to destroy it" because he "harbours a deep fury against the school which, through lack of discipline or lack of interest, has rejected him" has become a chief source of violence, the report said.

It said a survey showed a 25-fold increase in reports of violence caused by dropouts, with the number of instances growing from 142 to 3,894 in four years in 110 surveyed school districts.

While warning the statistics were too sketchy to show more than a trend, the report said the 110 big city districts responding to the survey led to the conclusion that "violence in our public school systems has increased dramatically over the past few years."

Moreover, Dodd said, "In many cases, school systems have entirely given up on the enforcement of discipline. If there are no rules, then no rules need to be enforced. . . . "There is indeed some evidence that schools and society, without actually being aware of it, are giving up on a very large number of young people for whom apparently very little is done."

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, JAN. 17
YOUR BIRTHDAY SATURDAY: The coming year will see you concerned with material improvement, earnings, and enjoying a better return for your efforts. You're almost certain to find means of adding another line of activity to your established program, perhaps to farm out some of your work if you're free-lancing. Partnerships should be somewhat easier to form and manage.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): — Almost anything you say will be taken seriously, even if you smile while saying it. Outdoor activities attract you. Home and family affairs get complicated, perhaps a bit noisy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — Enjoy the optimistic view of seeing life through rose-colored glasses. Medical checkups, accessories for physical culture regimens, fresh cosmetics, etc., are all suitable for attention. Plan for up-to-date clothing which shows off your better qualities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — With a great deal to do this weekend, follow your checklist consistently. Relatives or friends of the family upset your schedules a bit. Be more tactful than usual and try to make up the lost time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Saturday seems fairly easy, and peaceful. Given half a chance, the people you know and like will do nicely by you. Plan a light sociable evening; keep everything modest.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — See to important matters early and in person for direct results. Experiments turn out fairly well. Buy some new clothing, try a new style or a different set of colors for a change. In the evening enjoy your own or somebody else's party.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Someone you know hits a good streak of luck and money. You have something to do as a result of the event; acquire fresh insights gained in the doing. News from distant places gives you much to think about.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — You gain by taking a light, almost frivolous course Saturday. Entertain, encourage others to reach out for better understanding. You'll hear plenty about career problems of friends, and may be asked to do something for them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Your new plans move into preliminary action and should score good progress. Study efforts now will bring you the key to real achievements later. Shift to a more festive mood in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — There seems so much to do that you have no chance for pleasure. Go with the tides of the day; do what clearly make up for the sacrifice later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — Fragile things are left alone or for others to handle. Stick to essentials and carry your share of the chores, but expect little cooperation. Where group effort is concerned, make sure nothing important is forgotten.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Review your affairs with a view to discarding left-over materials, valueless activities. Lasting improvements, simplifications can be made. New contexts are potentially very profitable.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — Be firm with any relative who complains, so as not to spoil this generally happy day. Your appetite may be a bit fussy — do not force matters.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: About six months ago I met a very kind and compassionate widower who seemed very compatible as far as mutual interests are concerned. He's getting very serious, and has talked of changing my life very soon.

I want to know how much a woman should tell about her past to a very special person. I am afraid if I don't tell him everything, he might find out some day and he will be more than hurt and disappointed.

My past involves a very intimate relationship with a man who was supposed to be getting divorced, but he never was.

It so happens that this former lover works for the same company as the new man in my life, but they don't know each other. Should I tell "all" and let the new man decide if he still wants me or not?

SOMETHING TO HIDE
DEAR ABBY: If the "new" man in your life asks you pointedly if there were any other men in your life, do not lie. Say, "Yes, but that is behind me now, just as the other women in your life are behind you." Then add, "Don't ask me any questions, and I'll not ask you any."

many serious problems later on for both the girl and her child.

As a social worker, I have seen many a girl in such a situation deliberately get pregnant again in order to punish her parents and in order to have a child she can call her own.

I have also known youngsters who have been brought up as a "younger sister" to their own mother; only to suffer far more than the usual serious identity problems during adolescence.

My suggestion is that the girl and her parent seek professional counseling at once in order to work out, as soon as possible, an arrangement which is both honest and psychologically sound for all concerned.

J.T.C.
DEAR J.T.C.: Thank you for your fine letter. But not everyone will seek "professional" counseling. I still think a good beginning is the minister, doctor, or lawyer (there are legal aspects to consider here), and if professional counseling beyond that is indicated, you can depend on the minister, doctor or lawyer to recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that service man's wife who had to put up with a demanding neighbor just to get a ride to the Community PX to get in touch with the Family Services at the base where she does her shopping. They will provide her with transportation. Family Services is a group of volunteers at each base, offering help to service families on the move, or to wives whose husbands are overseas. At some bases there are even day-care centers for children of working mothers. These volunteers rarely get the praise they richly deserve, but every service family that has received their help says a big "Thanks."

POLLY'S POINTERS
Crocheted Rug Is Made From Nylon Hose Strips
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY (and Viola) — Of course, the first step in crocheting a rug out of nylon hose is to dye the hose. The colors will be more uniform if commercial color remover is first used, but I think the different shadings of one color are also quite attractive. Cut each stocking into one long, bias strip, starting at the top. If stockings are different weights, make allowance for this when cutting. Cut the thin strips about three inches wide and the heavier ones narrower. Sew strips together and wind into a ball.

To make a single-crochet rug, start with three chain stitches and join with a slip-stitch to form a ring. I crochet six rows of the first color, one of the second, three more of the first, three of the second, then five of the first and five of the second color. To join colors when ending one and starting another, simply sew them together. Be sure to add enough stitches on each row to enlarge the rug enough so it lays flat.

and made two holes in the bottom for drainage. I turned the lid upside down under the pail to serve as a saucer to catch any water drips from the plant or so I can water it from the bottom.

—GERRY

DEAR POLLY — After wondering how on earth to get rid of the mildew on the hem of my plastic shower curtains, I finally hit on the idea of cutting off the hems with my pinking shears. No more hems and no more places for water to accumulate to give mildew a place to form. The pointed edges left by the pinking shears look like it was intended to be that way.

—MRS. J.L.G.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — My candles have not been in the direct sunlight but heat has caused them to bend out of shape. Is there any way I can restore them to an upright position? Also, how can I prevent this from happening again?

—FRAN

DEAR POLLY — I was desperately in need of a big pot for a large plant but found them all so expensive. I saw an ad in the paper for green, plastic, garbage pails so I bought one, took an ice pick

SOAP SUBSTITUTES
Ladies, easy on the soap, please, especially during the winter months. In fact, it's best to avoid soap altogether, if possible, to cleanse the face. The reason: Soap dries the skin — and not only that, it does not deep-clean, so it frequently leaves your pores clogged. The best face cleansers are creams and lotions, applied with cotton.

Area WMU Has Service Luncheon
SKELLYTOWN (Sp.) — Women's Missionary Union of Skellytown First Baptist Church met at the church for Royal Service and a covered dish luncheon recently.

The call to prayer and special prayer was given by the president, Mrs. Wanda Rogers. Invocation was given by Rev. Murlie Rogers, pastor of the church.

Attending were Mmes. M.L. Mills, Bill Thompson, Freda Sturgell, Roy Paul Thurmond, Ethel Mae Thurmond, Bill Campbell, J.C. Jarvis, Harry Carter, Wanda Rogers. Guests were the Rev. Murlie Rogers and his son's wife, Mrs. Butch Rogers, Woodward, Okla.

Ruling Awaited On Church Taxes

There are about 310,000 houses of worship in the United States. Their value as real estate has been estimated at $110 billion. All of them are presently exempt from state and local property taxes.

Supreme Court that a tax on a house of worship is, in effect, a tax on religion clearly forbidden by the first amendment.

Whether they can or should be taxed is a question the U.S. Supreme Court will decide sometime between now and next June.

Pending before the high court is one of the most important church-state cases in many years. It was brought by a New York lawyer named Frederick Walz, who owns a vacant lot in State Island valued at $100 and taxed at $5.24 a year.

Beyond the constitutional issue is a moral question: Since churches and synagogues benefit from municipal services such as police and fire protection, should they not voluntarily help to pay for them? A number of religious leaders think they should, and a few churches actually have begun to make contributions in lieu of taxes to their city governments.

Walz contends that if religious organizations paid property taxes, his own taxes would be less, and the difference represents a contribution which he is compelled to make to churches in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, hopes that all churches eventually will adopt this course. Voluntary contributions, he says, are a constitutional way for religious institutions to carry their fair share of the cost of government services, and avoid the resentment which the taxpaying public is likely to feel toward anyone who is getting a free ride.

St. Paul United Methodist Church MAX BROWNING THE VOICE OF GOD

Sometime ago in our Sunday night service during the evening altar time, I heard a baby cry. Now there is not anything unusual about babies crying, but that night as I knelt at the altar, God seemed to speak through that cry.

As I heard the baby's cry, I thought of the kind of world in which he would grow to manhood and of the part my sins and failures have played in making this world what it is. I experienced afresh, the deep compelling need for forgiveness. I found myself praying about things I've done and about the things I've tried to do but failed. But most of all I found myself asking forgiveness for those innumerable times that I've failed even to try.

I heard a baby cry at the altar, and I paused to thank God for the blessing this child has of being born into a Christian home. I thought of the strength that would be available to him in years ahead because his family believes in faithful church attendance, in personal prayer and in diligent Bible study. He has an advantage that is denied to many.

I heard a baby cry, and I thought how much like that child we all are. We too were crying out to Another who heard us, and I prayed for faith to walk into the arms of my Heavenly Father with the joy and confidence of a child reaching out to the open arms of his mother or father.

I heard a baby cry at the altar, and I prayed that God would bless His Church with a great increase of His Spirit. Oh how we need to hear the cry of the new born child of God who has wept his way to Calvary. Oh that God would grant us the joy of hearing the cry of the "twice-born" as they enter the new life in Christ.

Others were at the altar that Sunday night and heard the same cry. Possibly their mind didn't "wander" like mine. But I'm glad a baby was brought to the altar. I'm glad he cried! For in that CRY, I HEARD THE VOICE OF GOD!

Pampa Hosts Lubbock

Pampa and Lubbock, both struggling in the first half of District 4-AAAA basketball play, will try to get on their feet at the same time tonight when they meet in a league game.

Tipoff time is 8 p.m. in Harvester Fieldhouse and junior varsity teams from the two schools will get action underway at 6 p.m.

Lubbock is 5-14 for the season and 0-6 in district competition. Pampa is 2-4 in league play and 9-7 for the season and just last Friday had a three-game winning streak broken, their second of the season.

The Westerners returned four lettermen from a 2-25 season and two of the four started last season. Pampa triumphed in both games, cutting off the Lubbock offense completely.

Sammy Romero, 57 senior guard and Danny Haynie, 61 senior forward earned starting spots a season ago. Mike Taggart, 62 senior and the tallest player on the Lubbock squad, lettered last season and started parttime.

He is the Westerners leading scorer so far this season, averaging 13.6 points per district game. William Stewart, a 510 senior on the junior

The Pampa Daily News

While the Pampa offense hasn't been outstanding the defense has and at present shows to be the third best in the district. Pampa has limited six league foes to just 32.0 points per game but the Harvesters are scoring at a 51.8 per game clip.

Gallman's 20.5 district average is tops of course and leading rebounder Bunton is next with a 9.6 per game district average. Edgar is at 7.5 and Marsh, 6.8. Bunton has grabbed off an average of 8.3 rebounds per district game and Gallman 6.8 per league meeting.

Tonight's top district game finds the two top defensive teams in the league, Tascosa and Plainview in a showdown battle in Plainview. Both the Rebels and Bulldogs are 5-1, along with Monterey who hosts Caprock. Plainview has allowed only 47.1 points per game and Tascosa 49.5.

In the other district contests Palo Duro is at Amarillo and Coronado at Borger.

STRAM'S STRATEGY

Overcame Minnesota Muscle

NEW ORLEANS, LA (NEA)—"The 1970s," said Hank Stram with his best professional mien, "will be a decade of variety." In pro football, that is.

And Hank was qualified to talk because his Kansas City team had romped through, around and over the Minnesota Vikings in what really amounted to the last Super Bowl.

The victory was a vindication of Hank's philosophy that in football it isn't enough to stomp on the other guy—you have to exercise your wiles on him, too.

The Chiefs have developed quite a reputation in this area through their multiple formations on offense, operating out of the shifting I, the double wing, the camouflage slot—on quick counts and on long counts—anything designed to give their attack a different look on every play.

But what people failed to realize until this last confrontation of the American and National football leagues is that Hank applies the multiple concept to his defense, too.

The parity, and maybe even superiority, achieved by the AFL in its last gasp as an entity (more than one NFL player

HANK STRAM

... he let the Chiefs do the selling concedes the teams in the AFL, muscular specimens. The older are better at the top), wasn't only a matter of collecting

But the fact is that the AFL reached and passed the NFL on a strategic level long before it caught up in playing talent.

That's because pro football coaches tend to be conservative and stodgy—when Vince Lombardi won at Green Bay with power football, everybody else went to power, disregarding the fact they didn't have the Green Bay bodies to apply it.

In the AFL, starting from scratch, they could afford to experiment. The young league was the first to go wild on blitzes, applying pressure on the quarterbacks. And by the time blitzing became an NFL fad, the AFL signal callers had learned the antidote and forced its sparing use. In the Kansas City-Minnesota game, the Chiefs used only one blitz the entire afternoon while containing the Vikings' attack.

Instead, the Chiefs used multiple and sophisticated defensive sets to confuse the Viking blockers. The "odd man" spacing of a defensive line—with one of the tackles playing directly over the nose of the offensive center—is a common enough device in professional football. The Chiefs have generally used it on first downs, because it's effective against the run, but they con-founded the Vikings by using it on second and third down, too—in fact, on virtually every play throughout the game. And they deployed their three linebackers in what they call a triple attack, all of them playing off the line of scrimmage and flowing with the action. The Vikings failed to recognize that the linebackers were shifting to meet their strong side running game.

Result: The Chiefs thoroughly bottled up the Minnesota running game, which no other team had been able to do this year, and neutralized their greatest weapon.

"Their backs," explained linebacker Jim Lynch, "line up in what we call either a red or a brown formation, and they don't come out of it. So we were able to anticipate almost everything they did. They came straight at us."

All of this emphasizes the game of human chess that pro football has become.

"I'm not," said Stram magnanimously in victory, "trying to sell what we do."

The Chiefs did the selling job for him.

Dawson Good Ad For Professional Football

NEW YORK (UPI)—He's a good advertisement for football. For the kind of upbringing he got from his father and mother, too.

Its' rather nice, particularly in these times of generally puffed-up notions and a ballooning economy, to find at least one fellow who doesn't have a swollen head. Lennie Dawson, I mean.

The calm, cool Kansas City quarterback has this crazy idea he ought to work for the money he gets. Not only on the football field, either Dawson also works for KMBZ-TV and radio stations in Kansas City and when I say he works, I mean he works. He does four radio and two TV shows every day and instead of cutting down that schedule during Super Bowl week, he beefed it up. Dawson is almost unreal in his devotion to the station. The morning after the night the story broke linking his name to the gambling investigation, for example, he knocked on the hotel door of Don Fortune, a KMBZ staff man he was working with in New Orleans, at 7:45 a.m. and said:

"I'm sorry I missed you last night. We've got work to do. Let's get busy."

Gene Freese, the hard-nosed, line-drive hitter who put in time with the Pirates, Phillies, White Sox, Cardinals, Reds and Astros, celebrated his 36th birthday getting together with friends who were in New Orleans for the Super Bowl game. Freese played for Hawaii of the PCL last season.

"I quit but I didn't tell anybody," he said. "You think I'm stupid? Who's gonna pay any attention to my announcement the same year Mantle and Maris make theirs?"

Young Pro In Phoenix Lead

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Bert Greene is an affluent young golfer but he's so little known that even his own commercial sponsor spelled his name wrong—without the "E".

Greene, despite a two-shot penalty, burned up the Phoenix Country Club course Thursday with a seven-under-par 64 in the first round of the $100,000 Phoenix Open.

The 25-year-old Georgia-born pro latched onto a one-stroke lead over veteran Paul Harney who shot 33-32-65 and was followed by an even older oltimer—Dick Mayer, 45, at 34-32-66.

Greene, who is trying to develop the competitive spirit of an Arnold Palmer, had a card of 33-31-64.

Clear weather brought out the best in many of the golfers. Fifty-five out of the field of 144 were under par—36-35-71. Another 18 equalled regulation figures.

In back of Mayer who won the U.S. Open title in 1957 when Greene was still learning to play under the tutelage of his dad, Herb, at a course near Macon, Ga., were nine pros at 67.

Bailey Quits Buffs Squad

George Bailey, who led Pampa to two good seasons withdrew from the West Texas State basketball team Thursday because of scholastic reasons.

Bailey, who carries nearly an A average, told coach Dennis Walling by letter that he didn't feel he could keep up his studies and give the all-out effort basketball needs.

George was Pampa's leading scorer for two years and led District AAAA in scoring his senior. He was honored his senior year as basketball player of the year at the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame in Amarillo.

Ron Swoboda, the Mets' rightfielder, is getting a lot of laughs telling about that fantastic fourth game dive and throw to the plate he made on Brooks Robinson's screamer in the World Series. It was a tremendous throw but Swoboda, whom his teammates call "Rocky," downplays it.

"I just threw the ball on instinct alone," he says. "When I got up, I wasn't really sure where I was gonna throw and if I wasn't facing in the right direction, I'd probably have thrown the ball over the scoreboard."

Selection To Hall Of Fame Deserving

Putt Powell has suddenly gone modest on me, which isn't like him at all.

I asked him for personal information on himself for column material about him being selected to the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame. His personal information is as personal as the number of Elizabeth Taylor's marriages.

Everybody knows Putt. He writes that golf column, "Putting Around With Putt Powell" for the Amarillo-Globe Times. His name has become a household word in the Texas Panhandle in the past 29 years.

Putt isn't old, he just turned gray early. I think he started writing sports when he was 10-years-old. The information sheet didn't say so but he is probably the youngest man ever to be voted into the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

One thing is for sure, he is the first sports writer to ever be so honored and this should quieten some of Putt's critics, who over the years have criticized him for being prejudiced to Amarillo High School and Oklahoma University, plus a few other things.

Putt has been cussed and discussed more than anybody in the state, mostly by Tascosa Rebel fans, who insist he's never said anything good about the Rebels.

He's made more people mad than the draft board for some of the pointed things he's had to say about people, places and events, but he's never backed up one inch.

I don't know of anyone who's ever proved him

You Don't Say ...
By

wrong.

Sunday Putt becomes the 21st member of the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame, which he helped organize, so Panhandle area athletes could receive just recognition for their feats.

Putt is no athlete and probably never will be unless he loses some weight, but he justly deserves a place in the hall of fame.

No one has done more for the Panhandle area athlete than Putt. He has gotten them more publicity than anyone else. If there is anything he is prejudiced about it is the Panhandle area athlete, and not just the big city one either.

Maybe he is prejudiced about Amarillo High and Oklahoma University. But, so what. He graduated a Sandie and it's hard not to have feelings about your Alma Mater.

I'm prejudiced about Pampa, Sayre, Okla. and the Sooners and don't care who knows it.

Putt began his writing career Sept. 1, 1930. "Doing just about anything they'd let me do," he says.

The sports writer and organizer of the Texas Sportswriters Association has seen Pampa teams beat Amarillo more than anyone else.

"That," he says, "should qualify me for the hall of fame for being able to live through it."

Putt is on the selection committee of the hall of fame and always three names are selected to be inducted. This year the committee told him that Odu Mitchell and O. T. Nicholson were going to be the only two selected.

He was fit to be tied. But he was voted down. He argued and argued that three persons should be selected, not knowing the committee was keeping his own name a secret.

The story was to break on Sunday, Saturday night Putt was prowling the Amarillo Daily News looking for the story to see how it had been written. He couldn't find the story, which had been hidden successfully by the other sports writers.

It was a very frustrating week for Putt but Sunday morning there wasn't a happier guy in Amarillo.

He writes like he is. His column is him. When he goes to Las Vegas every year he always gives the motel where he stays a lot of publicity. He's never said if he gets his room rent free.

Putt and I have had our moments with each other. We've argued and printed several things about each other in our columns but he is a most deserving member of the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

Infielders Overlooked By Selection Committee

NEW YORK (UPI)—It'll be a tight squeeze if anyone makes it through the door of Baseball's Hall of Fame in this month's election.

Twelve of the top 20 also-rans who failed to make it last year when Stan Musial and Roy Campanella were voted in happen to be infielders—and infielders don't have much luck at the ballot box.

"What have they got against us?" means ex-Yankee Phil Rizzuto, No. 13 among the top 20 also-rans in the 1969 election, by veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. "I don't mean just me but infielders in general."

In balloting that closes Jan. 17, there are 48 eligibles among stars who played in the last 20 years.

The list is led by one-time shortstop Lou Boudreau, first among the also-rans a year ago with 218 votes when 255 were required for election.

Outfielders Ralph Kiner (137) and Enos Slaughter (128) were next on the list of losers and then came a mixture of infielders and pitchers—Johnny Mize (116), Marty Marion (112), Allie Reynolds (98), Joe Gordon (97), Johnny Vandermeer (95), Early Wynn (95), Pee Wee Reese (89), Gil Hodgers (82), Hal Newhouser (82), Rizzuto (78), Red Schoendienst (65), Bobby Doerr (62), George Kelly (60), Bob Lemon (56), Tommy Henrich (50).

Sports Patrol

Alvin Dark (48) and Phil Cavarretta (37).

Eligible writers are permitted—but not required—to vote for 10 players. Any players whose name appears on 75 per cent of the ballots is elected to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Who'll make it? Maybe none.

One vote for sure will go to pitcher Johnny Vandermeer, the old Cincy lefty who pitched the only back-to-back no-hitters in history back in 1938. He no-hit Boston on June 1 and came back on June 15, in the first night game at Ebbets Field, to repeat the feat against the Dodgers.

Technically, old John isn't supposed to collect any votes for such an achievement. Election rules say it's the career that counts, not a particular feat no matter how Olympian.

But as long as Vandy's name is on the ballot, he gets our vote. Why not? No one else ever turned in a double no-hitter and baseball has been played, with records kept, for at least a century.

Boudreau would seem to have the best chance as the leading runnerup a year ago. Lou led the American League with a .327 batting average in 1944, was the AL's most valuable player as playing-manager of the 1946 Cleveland Indians who won a pennant with Boudreau batting .355.

For an infielder, he has pretty fair backing.

Flap Over Food Additives

This is supposed to be the Age of Aquarius but it is cancer that is in the ascendant. Lowercase cancer, that is.

Ever since the U.S. surgeon general's report in 1964 detailing an apparent statistical link between smoking and lung cancer, Americans have been increasingly cancer-conscious. Hardly a day passes, it seems without a new report that this or that substance is suspected of causing this or that kind of cancer in this or that animal—usually rats or mice which have been given massive dosages of the substance in question.

Sometimes the reports surface in the most unlikely connections. For example, the opinion of a doctor in Berea, Ohio, was recently drawn into the controversy over permitting oil drilling in Lake Erie.

Traces of oil in drinking water might be responsible for an increase in cancer in the Great Lakes region, thinks the doctor. Anyway, rats and mice pumped full of oil have been known to get cancer.

No wonder all those people who used petroleum in medicinal preparations in the 1800s are not around any more. In all seriousness, however, not since the great cranberry scare of 1959 or the charcoal steak flap of 1966 have so many millions of housewives been alarmed over what they should or should not feed their families.

And they have every reason to be, for never have the foods we eat contained so many different chemical additives—artificial colorings and flavorings, preservatives, flavor enhancers, not to mention a whole catalogue of synthesized vitamins and amino acids.

Hardly had the wave of semihysteria over cyclamate subsided than a new "menace" was discovered in monosodium glutamate (MSG), a familiar flavor enhancer. The basis was a report in a medical journal that some persons experience an allergylike reaction to large amounts of MSG used in Chinese food, followed by experiments by one researcher in which subcutaneous injections of MSG caused brain lesions in baby mice.

Despite the facts, that human beings are not mice, that nobody "mainlines" MSG, that many other scientists hotly dispute the findings and that glutamate, unlike cyclamate, is not an artificial substance but is a natural ingredient of many foods, three baby food manufacturers immediately stopped using MSG—not because of government action or doubts about its safety but solely because of public reaction.

In the case of MSG, further testing by a number of recognized independent laboratories is in progress. Preliminary results are expected to be announced in the near future—but only when meaningful work has been accomplished.

This is as it should be. Nothing is absolutely safe and certain in this life.

Smallpox vaccinations are said to kill more children (about seven a year) in America today than the disease itself. And it's said that even aspirin, which modern man could hardly do without, but whose precise action and side effects science still does not understand, probably would be banned if its discovery had just been announced.

Talk About Inflation!

This'll titillate your risibilities, if you have any left, we bet.

That moon "dust" brought back by the astronauts, the silvery stuff on the moon song-writers and poets write about with such eloquence, know what it is?

Well, according to the Dec. 22 issue of "Meat Board Reports," published by the National Live Stock and Meat Board of 36 South Wabash Ave. Chicago, that moonbeam producing commodity brought back by the astronauts "... stimulated growth rate and size by three times on most test plants... moon soil has higher content of trace elements—titanium, cerium, and chromium—than soil on Earth."

In a word, "It's fertilizer... and good stuff, too" the Live Stock and Meat Board people say.

But rather expensive guano, don't you think?

Why, when you divide a few pounds (or, was it ounces) of Moon "dust," plus a few pounds of Moon "rocks," into the $30,000,000,000 cost of the program to the American tax payers, the price per pound of dust and rock is enough to shock even a bureaucrat.

Men Die: Ideas Endure

Many of the conclusions of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence might be considered startling.

They will be debated. It should be remembered that the many men on this commission were hand-picked by a politician in the federal government. With this in mind, it will be interesting to see from which quarters the criticism will come.

Some conclusions are indisputable, like the one that the U.S. has the highest rate of assassination of any "modern, stable" democracy.

In this country where we pay so much lip service to freedom of speech, it is a tragic commentary to note that it's dangerous to speak one's mind, regardless of the point of view. No one view is the "safe" one.

Assassins have cut down such divergent people as Malcolm X, Lincoln Rockwell, Robert Kennedy, and Martin Luther King.

Somewhat, some people must think that a man's ideas vanish when his words cease. Whether an idea is acceptable to us or not, it will not go away because the breath that espoused it exists no more.

While men are the makers of ideas and causes, death is not necessarily the destruction of them.

To this latter fact civilization owes a great deal.

Perhaps it was best said by Ralph Waldo Emerson, a man who, in his own time by the way, was hated by some people for some of his "ideas."

As we recall it, Emerson said: "All history could easily resolve itself into the biographies of a few stout and earnest persons."

If Takes More Than Wires

The new spirit of co-operation across the Iron Curtain has now been extended to the telephone.

The U.S. and the Soviet Union are trying out a new connection via London, Oslo and Helsinki by cable and overland lines. If it works out, this will replace the old high-frequency radio circuit for telephone communication from New York to Leningrad and Moscow, which was subject to periodic fading. Which, come to think of it, is a pretty good description of U.S.-Soviet communication in general these past 25 years, comments Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BILL KENNEDY:

About This Freedom For Women

It is now obvious that the women are going to join the Revolutionary Movement. They are joining in to get peace, equality and freedom for themselves. A spokesman (pardon me) spokeswoman for one of the female liberation organizations (there are now many) has said that "women may very well be the third force to link up with youth and black people in the revolutionary struggle."

This leads me to the conclusion that, come the revolution, young, blackfemales will be very much in demand. Think about it... They will be the only ones who can (1) free love with the Flower Children; (2) Bill Whitey with the Black Panthers; and (3) nag at us with all the rest of the women about equalization for females.

(Speaking of Flower Children, I listened in on two Yippies conversing on an alley corner the other day — they fascinate me — and they were remarking at length about what a coincidence it was that this fellow Christ happened to be born during the holidays. They seemed to feel undue attention to Him detracts from the merit of the season.)

One of the several female organizations springing up to become involved in the revolt is SCUM (Society for Cutting Up Men). The whole mess started when one bunch of broads rebelled against underwear in Atlantic City. They took off all their girdles and bras and burned them on the sidewalks during the Miss America Beauty Pageant — they were against that parade of beauties for some reason or other.

If the girls want freedom, I say we ought to give it to them. I always have felt that way about it. I don't know how the young ones are going to work out — a freedom-to-stay-young system that is any better than the one used by the ladies on our side of the generation gap (which is to lie about their age), but I think they should have the freedom to try.

They haven't demanded yet that menfolk must give birth to some or all of the babies; but some of them are demanding that the government take charge of the babies as soon as they are born, so the dams (sic) will not be tied down by household chores and family life. They are suggesting that child care nurseries be maintained so that the brood women can dump their young there for up to 12 hours a day.

They say that women should also be free to marry before they start having babies if they so choose. They're behind times on that, of course, the government has already taken care of that part — supporting through welfare all females who have babies but no sire "living in" on a steady basis.

And some of them have been asking for the right for two women to marry each other. I'm almost certain that this will be one way to avoid being hampered and bothered with babies.

They are also talking about and experimenting with communal quarters, where several women, and as many men as they want or need, all live together. You know, like a herd of cattle, or a pack of dogs.

Let us keep the record clear. Women do not get paid nearly enough for what they do, some of them don't. I wouldn't take the job the average housewife has for anything like the salary they make. Most of them could do better if they wanted to, and they know it. But they just don't want a better job, God bless 'em.

CAPITOL EYE

A Cautious Note: Is Hanoi Saving Its Sunday Punch?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) —

Some knowledgeable specialists on foreign affairs are privately expressing very marked caution with regard to improvements on both the military and civilian fronts in South Vietnam.

The widely reported improvements, including the opening up of the Vietnamese countryside and the evident decline of Viet Cong influence in many villages, are not doubted. What is put in question is the long-range significance of these changes.

One prestigious source, necessarily anonymous, believes that Hanoi may simply be lying low until the pullout of U.S. ground combat troops is so far advanced that Red attacks can be mounted with greater hope of success and much less cost in manpower than heretofore.

This man, like virtually all realistic appraisers of the war, is convinced that both the Viet Cong guerrillas and the North Vietnamese regulars have suffered unacceptable battle losses in the many months since the first Tet offensive in early 1968. A rather general judgment is that Hanoi does not wish to pay this price in blood any longer.

President Nixon's turn to staged unilateral ground troop withdrawal as an alternative to fruitless negotiations in Paris, has given Hanoi a chance to lie relatively quiet, replace losses through stepped-up infiltration, and await a perhaps more promising day.

In the view of this same anonymous source, Hanoi's pull-back accounts in substantial part for the sharp slippage in VC influence in the South Vietnamese villages. The VC's political arm, it is suggested, is dependent for its strength on the guerrilla menace lurking nearby in the jungles.

With that threat at least temporarily diminished, this expert argues, VC political officials either vanish or are thrust aside as villagers either take a more independent course or, in some instances, actually shift allegiance to Saigon.

But the source contends that Hanoi, while newly acknowledging that victory is not in sight and a long war may be in store, is still not beaten and not ready to yield the field to its American and South Vietnamese adversaries. The man adds:

"They have not lost the will to fight and try to win. I believe our own military is convinced of this."

He makes the persuasive point, underscored by a fair rash of recent enemy strikes, that Hanoi can hit and run almost any time it wishes — and he predicts that 1970 will see an increasing number of these limited but still potentially damaging assaults.

The objective? To maintain Hanoi's credibility as an effective fighting force, to keep Saigon off balance, to let us know they are not giving up.

The anonymous expert contends further that the whole fresh picture of an expansively pacified South Vietnamese countryside is enormously deceptive, that Hanoi is, in fact, capable of delivering severe blows either against still remaining U.S. forces or a South Vietnam army untested though now better trained and equipped.

"People say Vietnam is dropping out as an issue in this country," he observes. "I think it is going to come back."

Another highly qualified specialist, inside the government, largely endorses these judgments. In his mind, "Vietnamization" is working well but is at best a "short term" policy. Plainly, he doubts Saigon's ability to defend itself fully once U.S. ground troops are out — and believes therefore that this policy must be superseded by other approaches which will draw Hanoi into serious peace negotiations.

This second source suggests that, while Vietnamization still seems to be progressing, while Saigon looks strong, while the President's home-front backup is stable and Hanoi is still relatively weaker than earlier, some reasonably attractive and fresh-looking settlement package should be offered to the enemy.

Both sources seem convinced that the good news from South Vietnam, real enough now, can't last if hopes are pinned long on Vietnamization.

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their mind. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

Editor: In the Sunday January 11 paper, you had a letter in your column, "The Rearview Mirror," from Mrs. Frances Merydith Shore.

She said that the car manufacturer and maker of alcoholic drinks were also causes of the terrible slaughter on our highways.

She asked if the maker of the cars that go faster than the speed limit were not also guilty. I say if no one would buy the fast cars or alcohol, they wouldn't make them. For there can't be a product without a market. Thank you for taking our time to read this. Jim Daniel Pampa

PATRICIA YOUNG:

Discriminate Is Not A Dirty Word

By PATRICIA YOUNG
VANCOUVER, B.C.— About the funniest thing I've heard in a long while was the plump over-dressed matron announcing to her bride partners: "Personally, I never discriminate."

Amid smothered smiles and giggles, her partner looked over her quickly and replied with a straight face: "That's obvious!"

The fact is, a lot of words no longer mean what the dictionary says they mean. Liberation self-determination, discrimination and even democracy itself have been perverted out of all true meaning. For instance, Webster defines the word discrimination as meaning "the faculty to distinguish; of being able to understand the difference." Synonyms include discernment, perception, insight and acumen. Gautama Buddha is credited with having said: "Discrimination is the greatest essential-human virtue!" Yet today, we are accused of "practicing discrimination" and well-meaning parents warn their children: "You mustn't discriminate!"

What utter nonsense! We discriminate a thousand times a day — in our choice of food, clothing, books, the company we keep, the job we do and the partner we marry. Only a fool does not discriminate in his choice of business partner, doctor, lawyer, barber, dentist and automobile repair man!

Any parent knows full well that the first sign of an infant's healthy development is the child's ability to discriminate beyond mere instinct and reaction. The retarded infant has to have an adult discriminate for it. Only when a child is capable of reasoning and abstract thinking do we recognize in him the development of intellect and potential advancement. Basically, it is man's sense of discrimination — his capability to choose — which elevates man to the category of a "reasoning" animal.

Discrimination then, far from the one and only connotation of "racism" as applied today, is a cornerstone of civilization — a human right which stems from wisdom, knowledge and responsibility.

No Foreign Aid Bill? — Unspent Billions Cited

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — It is very possible that Congress, in the session that convenes January 19, will not vote a new foreign aid appropriation bill for the first time in the 24-year history of that stupendous program.

Instead, the "continuing resolution," under which foreign aid has been funded since last July 1, would be extended for the remaining 5½ months of this fiscal year.

Under this legislative expedient, foreign aid spending has been continuing on the basis of the drastically reduced 1968 appropriation of $1.755 billion — the smallest budget voted for the program since it was launched in 1946. It also was $1 billion less than recommended by President Johnson, and some $870 million under the total proposed by President Nixon last spring.

There is significant bipartisan sentiment in both the Senate and House for resorting to the "continuing resolution" strategy. In these influential quarters it is being contended:

(1) There is relatively little difference (27 million) between the present $1.755 billion foreign aid spending level and the approximately $2.02 billion appropriation bill on which the House and Senate lately deadlocked before adjourning late last month. That will be the pending measure when the new session convenes.

(2) Extending the prevailing "continuing resolution," which expires January 30, to cover the remainder of this current fiscal year would save Congress considerable time and avert further discordant confrontations between the two chambers. It is being pointed out this is a crucial election year, and the sooner the legislators can wind up, the more time they will have for campaigning.

Already, the backstage adjournment goal is Labor Day — September 7.

(3) There are huge amounts of unexpended balances from prior years in the foreign aid pipeline. Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., chairman of the Foreign Aid Appropriations Subcommittee, states flatly these unspent balances amount to the stupendous total of $18,708 billion.

The veteran legislator vigorously maintains that a new appropriation is not necessary; that there are ample unspent funds to continue foreign aid for the remainder of this fiscal year on the level it has been operating the last 18 months.

STARTLING FIGURES — In a statement to "American taxpayers," Rep. Passman presented a series of charts and computations that graphically detail the many billions in unexpended balances in the foreign aid pipeline and other revealing facts.

The Louisianaian contends that President Nixon's $2.83 billion foreign aid budget is the "administration's program in name only." As Passman sees it, it is actually the work of lower-level "bureaucrats who are involving us in these foreign entanglements."

"During fiscal 1970," he asserts, "the aid program will be operating in 99 nations and five territories of the world, with 51,000 individuals on the payroll."

This includes U.S. personnel, foreign personnel and participants. There are 4,408 projects and sub-projects scattered all over the world.

"While many similar projects in the U.S. were closed down for lack of funds, not a single foreign aid project suffered as much as a one-dollar reduction on account of the limitation imposed by the Revenue and Expenditure Control Act."

As detailed by Passman, the major items of "unexpended balances in the pipeline from prior years for foreign aid programs" are:

Foreign Assistance (Mutual Security) $5,265,936,000
Export-Import Bank, Uncommitted Borrowing Authority, 5,268,300,000
Export-Import Bank, Long-term Credits, 3,286,800,000
Inter-American Development Bank, 2,109,494,000
Military and Economic Assistance (in Defense Budget), 1,066,000,000
Public Law 480 (Agricultural Commodities) $67,748,000

Permanent Military Construction-Foreign Nations, 300,000,000
Foreign Military Credit Sales Fund, 222,000,000
Export-Import Bank, Regular Operations 193,400,000
Asian Development Bank, 130,000,000
International Development Association, 103,600,000
Educational (Foreign and Other Students) 29,263,000
Inter-American Highway, 14,146,000.

Other striking points made by Passman are:

"Net cost of the foreign assistance program since its inception (1946-69), including interest on what we have borrowed to give away, amounts to $182,583 billion. Our wealth has been distributed among the entire 3½ billion population of the world."

"During this worldwide spending spree, our gold holdings having been reduced from $22,879 billion to $10,367 billion. Further, our balance-of-payments situation has become serious. We have sent to foreign nations of the world $38,896 billion more than they have returned to us."

"The free-wheeling spending program covering the face of the earth has helped push the U.S. public debt to a figure $67.81 billion above the combined public debt of all the other nations of the world. As of December 31, 1968, the public debt of the United States was $361,242 billion, while the debt of all the other nations of the world was only $304.16 billion."

Passman warned that the U.S. "cannot survive as a strong nation if we continue dissipating our resources and giving away our wealth to nations all over the world. This practice is destroying our world markets."

"Already, many of our commodities are no longer competitive in the world markets," he asserted.

MORE JARRING FACTS—These striking views were vigorously seconded by Rep. Harold Collier, Ill., a ranking Republican member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee. He cited the fact that by the end of the current fiscal year, the national debt will reach the "astronomical figure of $371,482 billion."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: What do you think of all this clamor for trade with Communist China?

ANSWER: We believe if any individual wants to take the risk to trade with people in Communist China, he should not be prevented. Likewise, he should have no government loans or assistance in any such transaction.

We believe in free trade between free people. It is the one way to have peace in the world. As French Philosopher Frederic Bastiat pointed out, where goods and services are not permitted to cross national borders, soldiers will.

If a farmer or a manufacturer or a dealer wishes to sell his products to someone in China, Russia, South America, South Africa or Rhodesia, it should be none of the government's business. The government also should not be subsidizing or guaranteeing such transactions. The individual should be able to make his own arrangements for payment or credit or whatever.

We are convinced that if truly free individuals were able to trade with each other, the people of the world would be so interdependent that they could not afford to have their governments engage in wars; indeed they would not tolerate such interventions which would interrupt the peaceful activities of the people.

Most of the objections to U.S. trade with Communist countries is based on the fact that, in too many instances, the U.S. government is either financing or guaranteeing such shipments of products to lands that have declared they are the enemies of that U.S. government.
