HUSBAND SHOT

Tunney's Daughter Charged In Murder

AMERSHAM, England (UPI) — The daughter of former world heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney has been charged with murdering her husband, who was found dead of head injuries Sunday in their century-old red brick cottage.

Joan Tunney Wilkinson, 30, was arrested and ordered to appear Tuesday morning in Chesham Magistrate's Court. Her husband, Lynn Carter Wilkinson, 31, was described by neighbors as having the appearance of a hippie.

Neighbors said his mother, Ruth B. Wilkinson of Milwaukee, was seen leaving the cottage in suburban Chenes near Amersham, 28 miles northwest of London, early Sunday and that the two Wilkinson children were with her.

They said she called from a telephone booth and within minutes, police arrived. The elder Mrs. Wilkinson had recently arrived on vacation.

The Wilkinsons had lived in Chenes about six months. They arrived a short time after Mrs. Wilkinson was released from Marshfield, France, hospital where she was treated for amnesia following a six-week disappearance last summer.

Neighbors said the couple lived a quiet, contemplative life and often stayed up late at night playing Indian-style music on a phonograph.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the 72-year-old former boxing champion said Tunney and his family were shocked and saddened at the death.

"We share the anguish and grief of the Wilkinson family and Carter's friends," the statement said. "Like all parents at a moment like this, we have deep feelings of compassion and sorrow for our daughter, Joan, and a great desire to help her."

Tunney, who defeated Jack Dempsey in 1926 for the world heavyweight title, was recovering from surgery at an undisclosed location in Arizona.

His oldest son, Gene, 37, flew to London "to be with Joan in her hour of need and assist in whatever way is possible," the statement said.

Wilkinson, a graduate of Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., met his wife while they were students in Milwaukee and Evanston, then moved to California where he worked in advertising and promotion. They own a home in Sausalito, Calif.

Awesome Tremors Level Turkish City

Death Toll Could Pass 1,000 Mark

GEDEZ, Turkey, (UPI) — Two more powerful earthquakes followed by rippling tremors hit western Turkey today, and streams of boiling water burst their banks in the center of a disaster area laid low by a quake on Saturday.

The body count was put officially at 637 today, but an official in Emmet Sub Province, a center of the new tremors, said, "We are afraid the death toll may rise to 2,000." Previously officials had predicted 1,000 bodies would be found.

The ground rose and fell today from the small tremors and an official said, "It's impossible to walk a straight line here." Underground lava heated the boiling streams to the boiling point.

The tremors in the city of Bursa today touched off panic and caused an explosion in an automobile plant under construction, according to reports from the scene. About 100 houses and buildings were reported damaged there.

In Istanbul, U.S. military aircraft were placed on alert to provide emergency relief to the stricken areas threatened by "bubonic plague—the 'black death' of the Middle Ages."

The U.S. Embassy in Ankara ordered the U.S. Air Force to fly trucks, a portable hospital, a water tanker, medicine and blankets into the region.

Two other military planes arrived from Iran with tents, blankets, medicine and food, and the West German government cut through red tape to start a small airlift of supplies to Turkey.

"It is estimated the death toll will rise probably above 1,000 as rescue operations proceed," said a spokesman for the provincial governor. Officials said most of the 10,000 people of Gediz were killed or injured.

Premier Sulleyman Demirel flew to Gediz to direct the aid and the search for victims. Red Crescent, the Turkish equivalent of the Red Cross, set up three medical tents that flapped in a howling wind and driving rain.

Troops Dig For Dead

Turkish army troops dug through mounds of rubble the size of small hills digging out the dead in a race with the spread of disease.

A night watchman who waited his turn for first aid told how it happened.

"I was walking in the middle of a street when suddenly I saw the houses on my right and left crumble," he said. "Then I found myself thrown onto the street. I closed my eyes in terror and when I opened them, there was no longer any town of Gediz."

U.S. Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden, Germany, said its base at Cigli near Izmir had sent two convoys of trucks (See TOLL, Page 2)

AT PEACE FESTIVAL

Melody Lingers On For Some Revelers

Rex Rose, 23, of 505 N. Gray, was free on $1,000 bond Sunday night from the Lubbock County jail after being arrested at the Southwest 70 Peace Festival in Lubbock Saturday on charges of possession of marijuana.

Rose, arrested along with seven Amarillo youths, joined the more than 150 festival goers arrested for drug and liquor violations at the four-day ill-fated festival.

The festival ended Sunday night, and today clean-up crews began tearing down the temporary fences, picking up the paper and bottles and cans and removing the remnants of the small army of youths who littered the flat, dusty plains of West Texas.

Historians who wish to chronicle rock music might be advised save Chapter 13 for the Southwest 70 Peace Festival.

It was plagued by men who did not want it by weather that did not care. Even Easter was postponed a couple of hours.

The first hint of things to come was when a court injunction pushed the festival 61 miles east, postponing it by 24 hours.

Then came the weather—freezing temperatures, swirling dust, a thunderstorm, snow, a tornado alert and fog.

The festival's promoters said they did not know exactly how much they lost. That figure must await the final audit.

Festival attorney Miner Pounds of Lubbock hoped it wouldn't run too much over $10,000 to $15,000. At no time during the four-day gathering did more than 3,000 gather at the site seven miles south of Lubbock.

The delayed Easter sunrise services were held around a campfire. It was almost noon. There were no spring dresses, no high heels, no fancy bonnets. They came wearing blankets with holes punched in the center to fashion a poncho. Army fatigues, work boots, windbreakers.

Jamie Sams, 18, of Waco, a former drug user, led the few youths who remained in folk songs. There was no organ, no piano. She played a guitar and a battered tambourine.

SOLICITING funds from Pampa businesses for the American Cancer Crusade got underway today with workers contacting businessmen in the city. C. E. IN SIXTH DAY

'Stay-Away' Air Workers Cause Woe To Travelers

By United Press International

The job stay-away being waged by some of the nation's air traffic controllers continued today to take its toll today in canceled flights and disrupted airline service, largely in the East. In some other sections of the country the slowdown was barely noticeable.

The airline industry said the job boycott now in its sixth day resulted in the cancellation of up to 700 flights Sunday, mostly in the Chicago-New York-Washington triangle. Snow, rain and low ceilings in the East also slowed operations.

The overall situation, however, appeared not much changed from when it started last week.

The professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) claimed more than 4,000 of its members were off the job, and the number was increasing. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the number was 1,405 and the boycott was stable.

The major weekend development was the FAA's order of a 50 per cent reduction in the quota of daily flights between CO and its members were off the job, and the number was increasing. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the number was 1,405 and the boycott was stable.

Ruling Pends In Death Of Area Farmer

(MIAMI Staff) — A ruling in the death of Benjamin Talley, 44, a Roberts County farmer still had not been made at noon today, according to Mrs. Mildred Cunningham, Miami.

Roberts County Sheriff Cy Carr said Talley's body was found by a neighbor seven miles northwest of Miami Sunday morning.

The sheriff's office said the body, when found, was hanging over a wire fence.

Reports indicated that Talley had been shot in the temple.

A .22 caliber revolver was found under the body.

Officers said that Talley had been dead 15 to 20 hours when the body was found. His pickup was found stuck in a snowbank almost a mile from where the body was found.

Investigation into the shooting was continuing today and Mrs. Cunningham said that it would probably be several days before a ruling would be made.

Talley was born in Roberts County and had farmed there most of his life. He was a former operator at the Cabot Schaffer carbon black plant in Skellytown.

Heart Transplant Patient Dies

HOUSTON (UPI) — Memorial services are not usually conducted for patients in this chapel. The Rev. Armen Jorjorian said the chapel is for the living.

But Sunday was not an ordinary day at St. Luke's Hospital. And Leo Boyd was not an ordinary man.

Boyd was Dr. Denton A. Cooley's longest and last living heart transplant recipient. Boyd was also a friend to many nurses and doctors on the hospital staff who watched his futile struggle against heart rejection.

Boyd's second life began Nov. 16, 1968 when Cooley gave him the heart of a Mexican woman who had given birth to a child before she died. Boyd's life ended Saturday.

Jorjorian said spontaneous requests from the staff and friends resulted in Sunday's memorial service. Seventy-five persons, including Boyd's widow, two of her sisters and Cooley, attended.

It was a simple service—verses read from Romans 8, St. John's gospel, the Psalms and a prayer. There was no eulogy.

RC Was There For First Aid

The chairman of the board of directors of the Lubbock County Red Cross Chapter, Floyd Stumbo, issued a statement Saturday night regarding the role of the Lubbock County RC Chapter in the Peace Festival.

"We were there strictly on a first aid basis," he said. "We didn't furnish any food nor drinks. We were simply available for first aid relationships."

Stumbo's statement was given following a wire story that intimated the Red Cross Chapter was providing the revelers with food.

Nixon To Face Critical Postal Problem

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon talked with Postmaster General Winton M. Blount by telephone today before heading back to Washington to cope with the postal pay negotiations, now nearing a critical stage.

The Chief Executive, cutting short his Easter stay, was scheduled to depart with his family aboard Air Force One at 2 p.m. EST.

He planned to meet Blount at the White House following his return.

Associate Press Secretary

Gerald E. Warren told newsmen Nixon talked with Blount for about 25 minutes, about a half an hour before government and postal union negotiators went back into session following a weekend recess.

On another matter, Warren said Nixon remains optimistic that Judge G. Harold Carswell will be confirmed as associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Warren said he knew of no plans for the President to make a statement Tuesday reaffirming his support of Carswell. There were reports that Nixon is being urged to make another public stand for his nominee.

Nixon also was faced with a deteriorating military and political situation in Cambodia where the government is making an appeal for United States help.

The President was bronzed from his five days under the Florida and Bahamian sun. He still wore a scuff bandage on the left side of his forehead concealing a cut he suffered while climbing a ladder on a fishing yacht while island hopping in the Bahamas last Saturday.

Nixon was worried a large postal pay boost would dash his slim budget surplus and open the way for similar demands by other federal workers.

A White House source indicated the President would like to be tough on the ringleaders of the wildcat walkout. He still must deal with the question of amnesty for the strikers.

Nixon also wanted to stay on top of the situation in Southeast Asia where Cambodia is going through a political and military upheaval.

The White House disclosed for the first time Saturday that U.S. military commanders may order troops, under certain circumstances, to cross the Cambodian border to strike back at the enemy.

The President spent an old-fashioned Easter with his family. They attended worship services at the Key Biscayne Presbyterian Church with hundreds of their island neighbors. Afterwards Nixon lunched at a nearby hotel.

At sundown, the Nixon party went out on the presidential yacht, Julie, for a two-hour dinner cruise in Biscayne Bay.

The First Lady and her daughters paraded their new Easter finery, but Tricia, 24, all in white, stole the show with her best beau, Edward Finch Cor, 24, a New York socialite and Harvard law student in tow.

Mrs. Nixon wore a pink and white silk ensemble with her hemline down below the knee in the new style. Her younger daughter, Julie Eisenhower, 21, and Tricia were unmistakable.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Most people believe their problems are unique, and I am no exception. A little over a year ago, my wife of 20 years sued me for divorce. For some time prior to that, I had been suspicious of her extra-curricular activities and used private detectives to report on her behavior outside the home. A clean slate was the result. I failed to realize that the search for the "other man" could have begun and ended in my own living room!

Before the divorce was final, she left this state. I didn't sign any final divorce papers and neither did she. Three months later she married her step-brother! (That is where my living room enters the picture.)

The question is, am I still married to this weirdo? And if so, is she a bigamist? The financial beating I took as a result of the divorce action makes it impossible for me to secure legal advice. In short, where do I stand in the event I decide to remarry in the future?

Signed: "IN LIMBO"

DEAR ABBY: Your local Legal Aid society provides legal advice for those who need it and can't afford to pay. If you are still married to the "weirdo" who married her stepbrother, she is indeed a bigamist which is her problem, not yours. But don't you marry again until you are certain your present marriage is dissolved, or you will be a bigamist, too.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you saw a neighbor who lives in the same apartment building and uses the same laundry room wearing one of your new blouses? I must admit it looks much better on her than it looked on me, but I did like it a lot. If I see her wearing it again, would it be rude of me to say, "My, that looks just like a blouse I used to have about two weeks ago—until I hung it in the laundry room?"

J.W. IN PORTLAND

DEAR J.W.: You may not have to say anything after this hit print, but you are certainly within your rights to ask your neighbor to either produce proof that she purchased that blouse or to give it back — if you are absolutely sure it's yours, that is.

DEAR ABBY: The following letter appeared in your column recently:

"Dear Abby, is it possible for a man to be in love with two women at the same time?" (signed) JAKE

You replied: "Dear Jake, Yes, and it's also hazardous."

Well, tell Jake that it's possible for one of the women to love him enough to remove the hazard by walking out of his life. I did.

"ME" in Mount Rainer, Md. CONFIDENTIAL TO THOSE WHO HAVE WRITTEN TO ASK IF I EVER HEARD FROM PRESIDENT NIXON: Yes! I received a very warm and friendly letter from Herb Klein (Nixon's Number One man in Communications) explaining that the delay was due to the tremendous volume of mail delivered to the White House, but all letters, cards and telegrams sent to President Nixon are indeed acknowledged and very much appreciated.

Students 'Turn On' With Experiments By Researchers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Drive a nail with a banana? Silly, you say?

Drop a rubber ball and see it shatter? Silly, that, too.

Don't tell a lucky batch of students from the San Francisco Bay area it can't be done. They've seen such feats performed before their eyes.

It's happening during an experiment involving cooperation with a research center in Richmond, Calif., and youngsters from Portola Junior High School in nearby El Cerrito.

The students, all from disadvantaged backgrounds, go to the laboratory while working chemists try to turn them on about science, making it come alive for them.

The banana that drove the nail became hammer-strong during a bath in liquid nitrogen which froze it solid. A dip in the same stuff made the rubber ball shatter instead of bounce when it was dropped.

The students go in groups of 10 once a week. Each is assigned to a research center scientist-tutor for the day. It's more than a field trip. Students get school credit for participation.

Twentieth Century Forum Club Hears Book Review On Politics

Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met in the home of Mrs. McHenry Lane for Mrs. J.R. Holloway's review of the book "Sons of Adam, Daughters of Eve" by Isabella Ross. Miss Ross describes the role of women in American history showing how they have influenced men and events—in politics, in the professions, in business and in the home—from the early days of the republic to the present," Mrs. Holloway said.

Miss Ross discusses Anne Hutchinson, who split the churches in the days of the Puritans; Susan B. Anthony, who drove hard for the vote; Margaret Sanger who opened the way to birth control; Eleanor Roosevelt, who lit a candle that shone round the world; and such glamorous hostesses of our time as Alice Longworth and Marietta Tree," Mrs. Holloway said.

Flowering Tree Grows Instantly

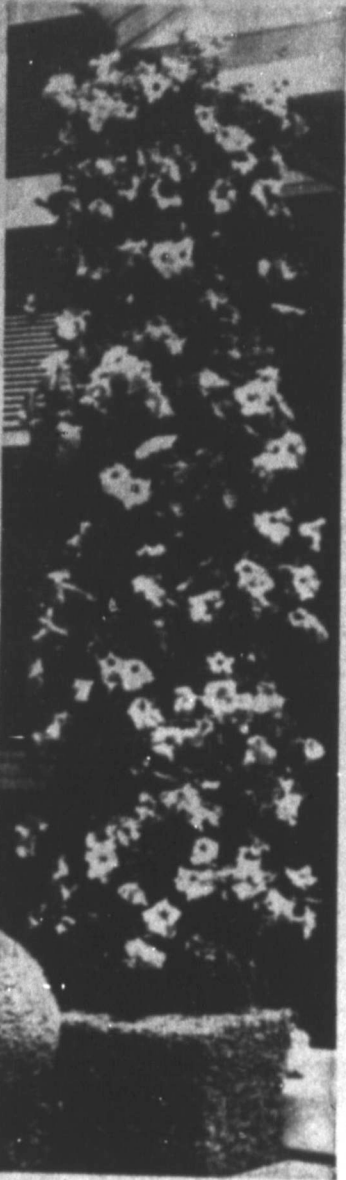

Variations on a new idea called "instant tree," say experts of chemical company in San Francisco, all started several years ago with the discovery of the petunia tree.

Since then, garden buffs have developed many innovations in shape and plant, but few changes in the basic principles.

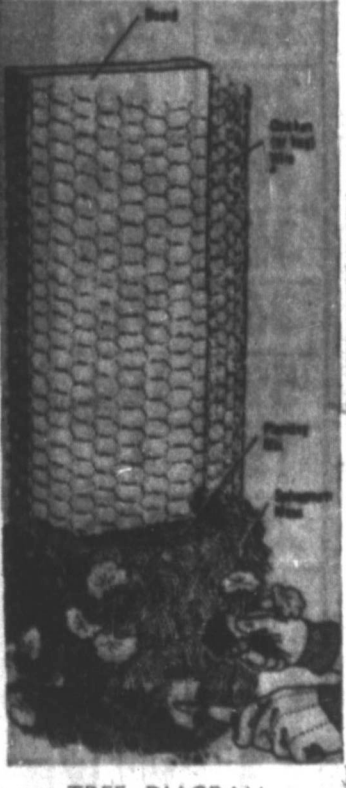

In most cases, Sphagnum moss (or burlap or fiberglass screen) is used to line a wire-screen mesh on some sort of cylinder or wire box arrangement. This is then filled with the mixture of peat moss and perlite or some other satisfactory, lightweight planter mix.

Before planting it is a good idea to soak the mix with a good starter solution or similar nutrient-provender.

Once the plants take hold regular watering, feeding and pest control methods should bring an unusual and attractive season-long plant display.

Seek Freshness In Home Flowers

When buying flowers for the house, look first for freshness.

The freshest tulips and daffodils, for instance, are those that show color but are still "tight" like buds. These will open in the home and give a longer blooming period.

If flowers are not to be arranged immediately, cut about an inch off each stem and wrap the tulips rather tightly in the waxed florist paper they come in and plunge them in a deep container so the water comes two-thirds up the stem. Keep them in a dark, cool place for several hours. The flowers will "harden" and have longer life.

Spring flowers give the house a welcome lift while winter is still raging outdoors. Tulips go well with daffodils. The combination of yellow daffodils and purple irises is perfect. And, cut hyacinths can also be included to give not only color but that delightful fragrance of Spring.

Home arrangements can be made in almost any container — why not try tulips in a teapot or even a mug? However, the container should be subordinate to the flowers. The color should not be too bright or clash with the flowers. White or a neutral color are best.

You don't need a massive display of flowers to brighten a room. Even a handful of tulips will add the needed spark in the waning days of winter.

Tulips, daffodils, irises and hyacinths are now readily available from florists and other stores. Housewives are urged to "go Dutch" and have a few spring flowers in the house to chase away winter's blues.

POLLY'S POINTERS Pointers For Removing Plastic Dolly From TV

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — We will soon be moving into a new home we built ourselves. We would like to know who should give the house warming. Should there be gifts and when should they be opened? Also, we would appreciate any pointers on what to serve and what to do.

—MRS. R.V.H.

DEAR POLLY — I think I have help for M.A.S., whose plastic dolly has stuck to the top of her television set because of the heat. The same thing happened to me and I used an oil stain the same color as the finish on the set. I put very little stain on a cloth and rubbed gently until the dolly came off.

—AL S.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. M.A.S. could saturate her stuck plastic dolly with mineral oil, put a cloth over it so it will not run off and let it set a day or so or until she can easily lift off the dolly. Rub on more mineral oil, or mayonnaise, and rub gently every few hours.

—MRS. J.C.

DEAR POLLY — Tell M.A.S. she might try a hot iron for removing the plastic dolly from her television set. To protect the iron from the soft plastic, she must use a double thickness of cloth. Since heat caused the trouble, she might test different heat dials until the plastic is stiff enough to peel off. The television set will be marred. (Polly's note—indeed it will) and then she could use one of those refinishing kits to give a new look to the top.

—DOROTHY C.

Scouting Scoops

By MRS. JACK MILLER

Junior Troop 136 had a Fun Day and Workshop on March 21 at the Girl Scout Little House to work on Backyard Fun Badge, knot tying and compass study.

Plans for the Junior Camporee are now complete. The deadline for registration is April 3.

Any troop having news which would be of interest to Scouting Scoops is asked to mail reports to Mrs. Jack Miller, 1615 Grape, or call 665-5148.

For their Service Project, they made Easter favors which were given to Pampa hospitals to be placed on patients' trays.

The girls also had a cook-out, assisted by Senior Scouts Jeanne Marris, Cathy Collinsworth, and Cindy McDonald. This troop is led by Mrs. Tom Collins and assisted by Mrs. Don Kite.

Brownie Troop 27 recently planted indoor gardens. Each girl planted the Brownie Scout Marigold which will be transplanted outside later. Colors of the Brownie uniform inspired the name of the flower. This past week the girls made an Easter Egg Tree for the Casa Del Nursing Home. Mrs. John Bird is the Troop Leader with Mrs. W. Hampton as Assistant Leader.

On April 27 and 28 there will be a leaders' Outdoor Training Session offered at the Girl Scout Little House, 718 E. Kingmill. The sessions will be from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and will be conducted by Celia Fowler.

The Girl Scout Cookie Sale has been extended to April 7. Leaders should turn their money in to the Neighborhood Cookie Chairmen by April 9. Neighborhood Cookie Chairmen are to turn the money to District II Cookie Chairmen, Mrs. Newt Secrest, by April 13.

A joint Neighborhood meeting is scheduled April 13. All Leaders are requested to attend or send a representative. The next board meeting is scheduled for April 6.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Pay no attention to others who continue to be somewhat sulky. Quietly put into action sensible plans and let the chance for squabbles pass.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Several different courses of action are open to you Tuesday. Pursue the most simple one, and dispose of the day's business promptly.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Allowing for moods and impulsive remarks from all sides, this can still be a lively day of superior achievement.

Everything Goes Right For Trevino, On Course Or Track

MIAMI (UPI)—It was one of those weekends for Lee Trevino—everything he did went his way.

He won the $40,000 first prize in the National Airlines Open golf tournament when young Bob Menne finally folded under pressure and missed a four-foot putt in the second hole of a sudden-death playoff, but that wasn't all. He also picked up $100 at Miami's parimutuel windows.

A trip to the horse track Thursday netted him $50 and another trip to the Miami Jai Alai Fronton shot him another $50.

"And I only bet $6 a race," he grinned.

Bob Stanton came within a stroke of Trevino during the day and the Australian pro wound up within a shot of the leaders' 274 by shooting a blazing five-under-par 67.

Orville Moody, the 1969 U.S. Open champion, also charged to within a stroke but then fell to a par 72 and a 279 for the tournament with two bogeys and a double bogey.

Dick Lotz wound up three strokes back at 277. He opened Sunday's play two strokes of the lead and a shot ahead of Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Rodriguez also fell to a par 72 and wound up at 276 along with Marty Fleckman, Frank Beard and Ernie Devlin.

Gary Player shot a 70 Sunday and wound up at 281, seven strokes behind the then-deadlocked Trevino and Menne.

Menne's second-place check for $22,800 was $21,000 more than his biggest payday in 15 months on the tour—$1,100 for a tie for 20th in the San Antonio Open.

Although the tournament had been threatened since Jan. 31 by a strike by the American Airline Employees Association, which grounded all of National's planes, there were no incidents.

No more than a dozen strikers picketed outside the course each day and they caused no trouble. The final day they gave away Easter candy and dressed in bunny suits.

Hawk Now Has Few Days To Let Golden Locks Grow

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's a fellow who owns the Chicago Bears, has a lot of that same Ken Harrelson spirit although he has a few years on the Hawk. The 75-year-old Papa Bear has undergone two hip operations along with another on his gall bladder the past two years but that didn't stop him from accepting the presidency of the NFL's National Conference at the Honolulu meetings.

Some felt that maybe the job would be too much; not Halas, though.

Tim Flol, the rookie infielder with the Mets, originally was ticketed for Tidewater but he's having such a great spring Gil Hodges might take him north and give him a shot at the regular third base job. That would mean Joey Foy in right field and Ron Swoboda having a little more explaining to do to his wife.

For awhile, Dave DeBusschere, the Knicks' forward who once pitched for the White Sox, tried to do both. He gave up baseball four years ago though.

Ted Williams says the hardest worker with his Washington ball club is first baseman Mike Epstein.

"I'd say he practices most," Williams says, "but he still has something to learn about how to practice. You have to know how to practice."

John Mayberry of Houston, Elliott Maddox of Detroit, Bernie Carbo of Cincinnati and the Yankee's Thurman Munson all look like the goods among the current crop of rookies and the other one to keep an eye on is 18-year-old Leo Foster, a cinch to be the Atlanta shortstop some day soon.

Foster plays the position the same way Rubenstein plays the piano.

Remember the name: Leo Foster. As Al Weill, Rocky Marciano's old manager used to say, "...and he's only a baby, too."

Less than four weeks later, Alvin Dark all but broke Harrelson's heart the first day of spring at Tucson, Ariz., by ordering him to clip at least two inches from his golden locks.

Sports Parade

Kenny Harrelson goes out, slides into second and breaks his right ankle so cleanly that the doctors now tell him it'll be at least four months before he'll be able to play again.

"If I'd known that I'd never gotten my hair cut," mutters the P-wk rather sadly in Cambridge, Mass., where he recently underwent surgery at Santa Maria Hospital. "I know one thing though, I'm gonna be back playing ball a lot sooner than everybody thinks."

George Halas, the young

East Beats West

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—It was a good day with bright sunshine and the game was for a good cause.

Just about everyone went away happy Saturday after the East All-Stars defeated the West, 5-1, in the first major league baseball classic.

Attendance at Dodger Stadium was 31,694. Proceeds go to help programs of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the game was dedicated to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., assassinated civil rights leader.

FORM CHARTS

23—San Francisco, NL West

By MARTY RALBOVSKY
NEA Sports Writer

PROSPECTUS — This is the year the Giants won't have to worry about finishing second again. Too much reliance on old vets Juan Marichal, Willie McCovey and Willie Mays and even they can have off years. Giant form system produces a McCovey or a Bobby Bonds once a decade, but nothing in between. This is the year it catches up with them.

PITCHING — Marichal was 21-11 with 2.10 ERA in 300 innings last season. Sooner or later, those 300-inning seasons are going to wear him down. He showed signs of it last season. Gaylord Perry (19-14) is behind him. Rest of starters shaky. Mike McCormick still on up-and-downer. Rich Robertson, up from Phoenix, might be ready for No. 4 spot. Bullpen sound with Frank Lirio and Don McMahon. Rating — B.

CATCHING — Still between Dick Dietz and Jack Hiatt, neither of whom are spectacular hitters. Dietz has an edge because his 230 season did include 11 homers. Rating — C MINUS.

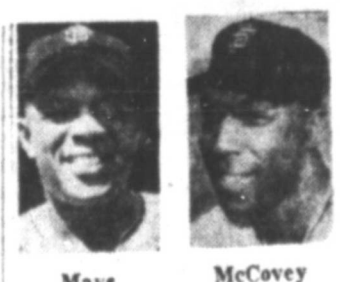

INFIELD — McCovey remains NL's most feared hitter. He hit 320 last season with 45 HRs and 126 RBIs. Ron Hunt remains at second after 262 year. Hal Lanier still has great glove at short, but 228 hit is drawback. Jim Davenport, 36 will open at third unless a rookie like Julio Linares can beat him out. Jim Hart a long shot possibility. Bob Burda and Tito Fuentes are back-up men. Rating — B.

OUTFIELD — Willie Mays, still somewhat irreplaceable at 38, even though he no longer plays second games of doubleheaders, hit 283 last season, good enough to keep him in No. 3 spot in batting order. Bonds hit 32 HRs last season but struck out a lot and averaged 259. Other outfield spot between Jim Ray Hart, who still hasn't lived up to expectations, and Steve Whitaker, who had similar problems with Yankees and Seattle. Ken Henderson and George Foster in reserve. Rating — B.

TOP ROOKIES — Bob Taylor, coming off a .331 year at Phoenix, could help in outfield.

Prediction: 5th in NL West

Giants Try Harder, Always Second Best

By United Press International
Could the San Francisco Giants finish second on the moon?

They've done just about everywhere. They were runnerup for four straight seasons in the National League, then when the circuit split into divisions last year, the Giants came in second in the West.

Sunday, the Giants wound up a nine-game goodwill series in Japan, where major league teams had never finished below .500 before and again they were No. 2.

It was the Giants' sixth loss in nine games against Japanese competition, and their third loss in five games against the Orions, who had extended the invitation for San Francisco to be the first team to tour Japan during the spring.

Back home, Bob Veale threw a five-hitter, lowered his ERA to 1.24 and boosted his spring record to 4-0 in pitching the Pittsburgh Pirates past Kansas City, 3-1 while Bob Christian's blood single following an error in the 10th inning scored the winning run in the Chicago White Sox' 2-1 decision over Philadelphia.

Southpaw Claude Osteen, due to be Los Angeles' starting pitcher on opening day, gave up only one earned run in eight innings, as the Dodgers dominated Houston, 6-4, and John Ellis collected a single, triple and homer to drive in two runs during the New York Yankees' 5-1 victory over Washington.

Lee May hit his fourth homer of the spring with a man on in the sixth inning to give the Cincinnati Reds a 4-3 triumph over the New York Mets while Atlanta edged Baltimore, 2-1, on utility man Bob Aspromonte's RBI single in the ninth.

Danny Walton, Jerry McNertney and Tommy Harper homered for Seattle, but the Pilots had to score twice in the ninth to whip Oakland, 7-6. Luis Alvarado's RBI single broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh inning and gave the Boston Red Sox an 8-5 victory over Minnesota.

Andy Messersmith became the second California pitcher to go the distance in hurling the Angels past Cleveland, 5-4, and the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego, 10-4, for their fifth straight win.

Pilots Steering To Milwaukee In Sea Of Red

SEATTLE (UPI)—If all goes as expected today, the Seattle Pilots will be transformed into the Milwaukee Brewers.

The only legal hangup slowing the transformation was today's bankruptcy hearing, where Pilot owners pleaded to have the financially barren team stripped from Seattle.

Principal owners of the expansion club claimed they were losing $12,500 a day and that they wanted to sell the club to Milwaukee interests for $10.8 million.

It was almost certain that Sidney C. Volinn, federal bankruptcy court referee, would oblige and relieve Seattle of what has become a city tumor, aggravated by seemingly countless deadlines and extensions.

Volinn cleared the way for the transfer of the Pilots last week when he set aside a temporary restraining order prohibiting sale of the club.

But the bankruptcy referee said the transfer would not affect an anti-trust suit brought against the American League by the city and state.

Lee Hopes Court Will Also Smile Down On Him

EL PASO (UPI)—Lee Trevino flew here today fresh from his National Airlines Open triumph in Florida for an attempt to settle out of court his dispute with Bucky Woit Enterprises, which has handled his business since he won the U.S. Open.

Trevino recently filed suit in a state district court here asking for damages and a voiding of his contract with Woit, pleading that he had not received the publicity or the business contracts he originally bargained for when he signed with Woit's firm.

Woit filed a counter suit against Lee Trevino Enterprises asking that the contract be upheld.

Attorneys for both sides were present for the settlement talks, but if today's parley fails then the suit is expected to be set for trial.

Trevino was joined in his suit by Jess Whitenton, the former pro football star who owns and operates the Horizon Country Club at Horizon City, Tex., a suburb 20 miles east of El Paso, and Donnie Whittington, an associate of the club.

Trevino lives at Horizon City PGA tour—an effort which was and others that he got his financial backing to go on the and it was through Whitenton capped by his spectacular triumph in the 1968 Open at Rochester, N.Y.

Hawks Whip Leafs

By United Press International
When Tony Esposito says thank you, he does it with feeling.

Esposito was drafted by the Chicago Black Hawks from the Montreal roster last summer, and his only goal at the start of the new season was to prove he belonged in the National Hockey League.

Tony expressed his gratitude once again Sunday night, registering a record 15th shutout as Chicago whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-0, to climb into a first-place tie with Boston in the East Division.

The Bruins had skated to a 2-2 tie against the Detroit Red Wings in a nationally televised game Sunday afternoon.

The New York Rangers climbed back into playoff contention, snapping the Montreal Canadiens' nine-game losing streak with a 4-1 victory, and the Minnesota North Stars also kept their playoff hopes alive in the West by crushing the Oakland Seals, 6-3.

New York, which won for only the second time in its last 15 appearances, trails fourth-place Detroit by one point and third-place Montreal by two points in the East. The North Stars, fifth in the West, are only a single point behind Oakland in their duel for a playoff berth.

In the only other game played, the St. Louis Blues and Pittsburgh Penguins, first and second in the West, battled to a 5-5 deadlock. Ron Schock scored the tying goal for Pittsburgh in the final seconds of play, but the game was then delayed for about 20 minutes because of a dispute when the clock failed to run.

Lakers Sign McMillian, First Pick

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers signed their No. 1 draft choice, forward Jim McMillian of Columbia University, to a three-year NBA contract Sunday night.

McMillian, a 6-foot 3/4, 225-pounder who was the all-time scoring leader in Columbia history, also had been sought by the New York Nets of the ABA.

Laker General Manager Fred Schaus declined to disclose the financial terms of the contract, but informed sources believed the Ivy Leaguer was signed for $300,000 for the three years.

McMillian said he didn't have his heart set at first on playing in the NBA until "I came out to Los Angeles and met the Laker officials."

He said that the offers from both leagues were "comparable" but that money was not the determining factor. It was "the people I would be working with which swayed me," he explained.

Ashe Defeats Fairlie
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Arthur Ashe, the U.S. Davis Cup star, flashed his customary booming service Sunday in defeating New Zealand's Brian Fairlie for the Greater Jacksonville Open tennis championship.

Ashe, of Richmond, Va., downed Fairlie, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, firing seven aces in the final set.

Rebounds Score Big In NBA Playoff Games

By United Press International
Winning the battle of the boards enabled the Baltimore Bullets and Phoenix Suns to score key triumphs Sunday in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bullets, down two games to none to the New York Knicks and riding a 12-game playoff losing streak dating back to 1965, came alive thanks to a superb effort on the part of Wes Unseld who out rebounded the entire New York team in sparking Baltimore to a 127-113 victory.

Phoenix, which had lost the opener of its West Division semifinal playoff to Los Angeles, square the best-of-seven series at 1-1 by beating the Lakers, 114-101, behind the scoring of Connie Hawkins and the scoring and rebounding of Paul Silas.

Philadelphia and Milwaukee, tied at one game apiece in their East Division encounter, meet at Philadelphia tonight for game three while the other West Division playoff between Atlanta and Chicago finds the Hawks holding a 2-0 lead following Saturday night's 124-104 victory with the third game set for Tuesday night in Chicago.

Unseld, the NBA's most valuable player during the 1968-69 campaign, completely outplayed this year's MVP Willis Reed of the Knicks, scoring 23 points, but more importantly hauling in 34 rebounds. New York managed only a meager 30 rebounds, including five by Reed who was also limited to only 12 points.

Unseld got ample offensive support as usual from high-scoring Earl Monroe and Jack Marin but also from two unexpected sources in rookie

Fred Carter and injured Kevin Loughery. Monroe led the Bullets with 25 points and Maria added 20. Carter, who had been playing only one or two minutes a game until an injury to Mike Davis, hit for 23 points while Loughery, still suffering the after effects of four broken ribs suffered last month, played without his protective brace for the first time and threw in 17. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with WR. The series resumes Tuesday night in Baltimore.

Phoenix scored the first playoff triumph in its short history as Hawkins tallied 34 points, including 15 in the final quarter. Silas added 25 and pulled down 19 rebounds as the Suns out rebounded the Lakers, 79-68, despite the presence of Los Angeles' Wilt Chamberlain who hauled in 25 rebounds in addition to scoring 19 points.

Game three in the Suns-Lakers series will be played Thursday night in Phoenix.

Yarborough could never close. Daytona 500 winner Pete Hamilton, in a Plymouth, was third, while Lee Roy Yarborough, in a Ford, was fourth and Richard Petty, in another Plymouth, was fifth.

Charlie Glotzbach and Buddy Baker, who were 2-3 in qualifying in their shark-nosed Dodges, both failed to finish. Glotzbach went out on the 28th round with ignition troubles and Baker, who led through the early stages, pulled up on the 26th lap with a faulty distributor.

Victory was worth $22,800 to Allison.

Allison Wins 500 In Atlanta Race

ATLANTA (UPI)—Bobby Allison figured all he needed was a break.

The 31-year-old racer from Hueytown, Ala., had a history of things happening to him when he raced here. But, this time something went for him instead of against him. He got his break and because of it, Bobby Allison is the 1970 champion of the Atlanta 500 stock car classic.

Allison ruined Cal Yarborough's bid to win his fourth straight Atlanta 500 when he charged into the lead with six laps to go and held on to beat the defending champ by 20 yards and half a second.

"This has to be my greatest day in racing," Allison said after spurring his 1969 Dodge Charger to a track record of 139.554 miles an hour. "I knew I was beginning to close in on Cale. I just kept telling myself all I needed was a break."

The break came when both men pitted while a caution flag was out. On the restart, Allison was right behind Yarborough, the only man on the same lap with Cale. Allison caught him on the second turn, churned ahead on the short back straightaway and took a lead

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

For A Voluntary Military

It is a saddening experience to see a group of young men line up early in the morning to embark on a tour with the armed forces.

It was bad enough during World War II when there supposedly was a clear-cut reason for fighting. Now, however, the war in Vietnam has worn on until nobody seems to know where we are or why we are there.

The pain gets worse. It won't get better until, like an infected tooth, the trouble is yanked out by its roots. That day doesn't seem to be within the foreseeable future.

The President's Commission on an All-Volunteer Armed Force recently submitted its report to the President. What it said, in effect, was that the sooner this country gets back on an all-volunteer footing for its fighting men the better off we all will be.

Agreed. There is something basically wrong with a system that tends to make slaves out of human beings, and that's what the selective service does. No man is free who has to do what somebody else decrees.

A return to an all-volunteer force, however, would minimize government interference with the freedom of the individual to determine his own life in accord with his own values.

That's the way life was meant to be. Every man ought to be given that privilege. Man ceases to be free when he is bound up by governmental restriction or bureaucratic fiat.

The commission says that pay increases are a necessity if an all-volunteer armed force is to be made effective. Reasonable. Young men do not enlist in adequate numbers now because the pay is not good enough. Put a higher dollar mark out there for the beginners to smack their lips over, and the difference will be noted at the turnstiles.

The commission estimates that an all-volunteer force of 2 1/2 million men would require 325,000 enlistments a year.

The best available data indicates that currently about 250,000 men a year are "true" volunteers who would enlist even in the absence of the draft.

To maintain a 2 1/2 million-man force, there would be a need for about 75,000 additional volunteers annually from among the one and a half million men who turn 19 each year.

The commission is on the right track. We hope that the Congress sees fit to follow its recommendations.

What Price Vulgarity?

The gap existing between Students For a Democratic Society (SDS) and other students probably can't be bridged, even in a small way, by the insistence of SDS students to indulge — with evident glee — in profanities and obscenities while speaking publicly.

At Golden West College in Huntington Beach, Calif. last week a young man named Tom Blackburn, who was announced as a student from California St. College, Long Beach, spoke at length in the free speech area by a very efficient public address system.

Four-letter words roared through the campus frequently as the 23-year-old SDS speaker explained "why democracy can't succeed." Observers noted that the profanities and obscenities seemed to have no effect whatever on the small group of student listeners, male and female, lounging on the grass.

It was as though the obscenities and profanities weren't even being voiced.

California penal code sec. 415 has a section dealing with "vulgar, profane and indecent language" specifically when used "in the presence of women and or children."

Capt. A. Usher of the Huntington Beach police department said that an arrest could have been made if a complaint had been filed.

"It would have to be established, though," said Capt. Usher, "that the complaining party was actually offended by the language. Otherwise the complaint wouldn't have validity."

So, since apparently none of the listening Golden West students was offended in the least by Blackburn's choice of words, there was no basis for an arrest.

Shock value is what SDS speakers dot on.

It would seem they are inefficient and old-fashioned to depend on vulgar punctuation marks in their speeches. Nobody cares.

But they might care if SDS speakers were able to come forward with arguments on their own merits without daring little-boy expletives.

THE POSTAL STRIKE
Of all the public employe strikes called in recent years none was more threatening and outrageous than the strike started by the New York local of the National Association of Letter Carriers. Movement of the mails is an absolutely essential activity of any civilized society. Business cannot operate and government cannot function if the mails aren't delivered. For a group of unionists to stop mail service is equivalent to turning off the lights all over America.

The wages paid postmen may or may not be inadequate. But the setting of wage scales is the right of Congress, which is the voice of the American people. It is shameful that letter carriers in a number of cities should attempt to blackmail Congress into providing a pay boost.

Millions of people believe they should have a wage increase. Policemen may feel they are underpaid. Doctors may feel that their skill warrants higher fees. Firemen may cite the dangers of their job. But the desire for more money is no excuse for stopping an essential public service. One wonders how striking letter carriers would feel if they were ill and went to a hospital — only to discover that doctors and nurses were on strike.

There are certain activities in a modern nation that can't be halted, no matter what. It is imperative that medical services be provided at all times. Production and distribution of electricity is necessary for health and safety. Fire and police units must be deployed at all times to prevent disaster and anarchy. The delivery of mail falls in the same class.

In a complex, inter-connected society, postal communications are the lifeblood of enterprise. The banking community, insurance firms — yes, even the welfare agencies — must have the use of the mails.

In these circumstances, the government is duty bound to take whatever action is necessary to return mail service to the American people. The one beneficial side effect of the strike was Postmaster-General Winton Blount's announcement that private firms could provide postal services. In the past, the federal government has claimed exclusive rights in this area.

The U.S. postal service is archaic, to be sure, using vast amounts of hand labor when modern scanning and handling machines would speed up sorting and delivery of mail. The letter carriers' union, however, has opposed introduction of labor-saving machinery. If private concerns are allowed to provide competition, it is possible that reform of the government mail system may be hastened.

The strike by letter carriers in New York and other affected communities points up the danger of allowing the motion to flourish that strikes by public workers are permissible. Strikes against the public, whether the federal government or municipalities, are intolerable. They always constitute blackmail of the taxpayers who have to foot the bill for wage increases.

The strike by letter carriers may wake the citizenry to the threat posed by all public employe strikes and by the practice of union monopoly in all its forms. Both Memphis, Tennessee and Charleston, South Carolina suffered severely from strikes by sanitation workers in recent years. Atlanta, Georgia also has been subjected this spring to a strike by municipal workers.

These strikes, so perilous to the well-being and safety of the affected communities, didn't have a national impact. But a postal workers' strike is something that affects every American — from the serviceman in Vietnam expecting a letter from home to the businessman waiting for a sales order.

What should emerge as the aftermath of the postal service stoppage is a new recognition by the public — and by government at all levels — that public employe strikes should be outlawed coast to coast and in every type of public service. Hopefully, the public also will recognize the dangers of public employe unionism and the absurdity of allowing a small group of selfish people to monopolize one form of activity. If postal service employes don't want to work, let them stay idle — but cut them off the public payroll immediately.

THE MANION FORUM

Union Of Socialist Republics Actually Is A 'House Divided'

By MARILYN MANION
Have you ever wondered what the "Union of Soviet Socialist Republics" — or "USSR" — is supposed to stand for? Leave it to a lady to answer your question in full. Mrs. Bernadine Bailey has traveled to almost every country of the world ("All except Greenland, I believe," she says modestly). Along the way, she has managed to write 94 published books, the latest of which is entitled "The Captive Nations: Our First Line of Defense."

Mrs. Bailey spoke over the Manion Forum microphone not long ago, and told the radio audience a bit about the USSR — what it means, and what it means to us. Here are excerpts from her remarks:

"The people of these nations desperately want to be free. They haven't reached the state of apathy that we have here in this country, where we're interested mostly in entertainment and high living. No. They will go to any length to obtain freedom. For instance, they'll even sabotage their own production of agriculture to prove to the world that the collective system does not work."

"It is just wishful thinking to suggest that Russia is mellowing at all. Here is a statement made by Karl Marx. He said, 'Russian policy is unchangeable. Her methods can change her tactics, her maneuvers, but the pole star of her policy — the domination of the Free World — is a fixed star.'"

"Today, the concentration camps have even more people in them than they used to have. They have to work hard all the time and do not get enough food to eat. But you never see these camps as a visitor. Oh no."

"The Soviets allow one or two churches in a large city to operate, just to point those out to visitors. You see, they're show places. That's to give the impression that there is religious freedom, when there isn't at all. Religious persecution is going on stronger than ever. But the people keep on and they hold underground services. The government maintains schools of atheism, where children are deliberately taught atheistic principles. That's part of the whole plan."

"Most people think there are just two alternatives to the present situation. On the one hand is nuclear war. The second alternative is so-called coexistence. We think of coexistence as going peacefully in our own way — letting Russia go peacefully in her way. But that isn't possible, because Russia will never submit to that. Coexistence means giving in to Russia."

"There is a third alternative. That is the explosion of the whole system — the break-up of Communism completely through the revolutions of these captive people. In other words, they are so anxious to have their own national life again, that they will explode the whole system if we could just help them a little bit."

"How can we help? Mrs. Bailey's 94th book will tell you. Send one dollar to Chas. Hallberg and Co., 3433 Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill. 60654. That title, again: 'The Captive Nations: Our First Line of Defense.'"

"As is normal in treaties negotiated with Reds, the North Vietnamese and Laotian communists immediately violated their pledged word. The North Vietnamese, instead of withdrawing, not only held their conquered Laotian territory, but soon resumed their offensive."

"The Ho Chi Minh trail runs through its conquered territory and the Reds knew they would be using it to funnel troops and supplies for new aggressions against South Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand. When they signed the 'treaty' they had no intention of living up to it, and Russia has supported them with arms and with international diplomatic maneuvers. Some seasoned observers warned in 1962 that the Harriman 'treaty' insured not peace but renewed Red war in Laos and Southeast Asia."

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT
No Definite Cause Of Polycythemia Known
Q — The doctor says my daughter, 21, has too much blood. What causes this? What can she do to correct it?

A — Your daughter probably has polycythemia. It may be associated with emphysema, silicosis and various other diseases but in most cases no cause can be found. No drugs should be given for it, however, until an effort has been made to discover and remove the cause. There is no cure but with skillful management the disease can be controlled. The best treatment is radioactive phosphorus or pibroman (Ver-cyte).

Q — My doctor says I have polycythemia. My friend has all the same symptoms. His doctor says he has pernicious anemia. What is the difference between these two diseases.

A — Persons with polycythemia have too many red blood cells and those with anemia (any kind) have too few. Any similarity between your symptoms and those of your friend are purely coincidental.

Q — I have Peyronie's disease. What causes it? Vitamin E has relieved the pain but there has been no return of libido. Is there any other treatment?

A — In Peyronie's disease, small fibrous tumors form in the penis, usually in men who are over 45. A recent study indicates that the disease is caused by an as yet unidentified virus. Surgical treatment has proved unsatisfactory and is no longer recommended. The results with Vitamin E are often disappointing unless it is fed in conjunction with potassium para-aminobenzoate (Potaba). Some doctors have had good results with the injection of the tumors with triamcinolone diacetate.

Q — Is it harmful to take Preludin daily?

A — Although this appetite suppressant is not habit forming, persons who take it regularly may develop a dependence on it. It should not be taken by anyone who has coronary heart disease, an overactive thyroid or high blood pressure. Side effects include dry mouth, insomnia, itching, nausea, dizziness and headache. There are better ways to keep your weight down.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstad, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstad cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

WASHINGTON

Predict QIs In Vietnam To Be Cut To 300,000 By Jan. 1

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sources close to President Thieu in Saigon have informed this reporter they believe it will be feasible for the U.S. to withdraw 12,000 to 12,500 men a month from South Vietnam.

The 12,000 to 12,500-a-month rate would take out approximately 30,000 every four months.

This would bring out an additional 80,000 U.S. troops by election day this November.

These are understood to be conservative estimates. No one wants to draw down U.S. forces with optimistic rapidity, then be forced to throw men back in. That would have a deadly effect on U.S. opinion in the months leading up to the 1970 congressional elections.

(Saigon watches American public opinion and election effects in the U.S. as closely as President Nixon does.)

It is to be noted that what's written here is Saigon thinking — not Nixon's. But these are the men whose futures are on the line if they guess wrong.

At this time, these Saigon sources believe, this 12,000 to 12,500-a-month withdrawal pace could safely be kept up until American forces in Vietnam have been cut to roughly 300,000.

According to the above calculations this would take about 11 months. But there is some feeling the 300,000 figure could safely be accomplished in nine months or by mid-January next year.

Thus it would be possible between April 1 and sometime in early November to announce troop ceiling cuts (to be effected by mid-January 1971) totalling something over 134,000 men.

115,500 reductions announced between June, 1969, and March, 1970. That adds up to a grand total of 249,500 in withdrawals to be announced by election day.

(The ceiling on U.S. forces in Vietnam was 549,500 in June, 1969. The number of troops actually there was about 540,500. Nixon then ordered a series of reductions. These will bring the ceiling down to 434,000 by this April 15.)

When U.S. forces in Vietnam are down to around 300,000, — sometime early next year — these Vietnamese sources believe that it will be time for another review.

This review would look at the situation in early 1971. It will determine whether withdrawals should be speeded or slowed. There is no thought of halting the cutback, though that option is reserved if Hanoi mounts a series of all-out attacks.

The 12,000 to 12,500-a-month estimates assume that political, economic and military progress in South Vietnam will continue roughly at the rate of the past few months. These predictions take account of Hanoi's military advances in Laos. They assume infiltration from the north will continue at present levels. The calculations were made before Prince Sihanouk's overthrow was announced. Therefore possible effects of the Cambodian coup are not included.

QUESTION — Freedom Newspapers claims that coercion, or initiated force against another, is always wrong. But the first law of nature, for living creatures, plants included, is to survive. If a man uses initiated force to take food necessary to his survival or the survival of his children, he is violating one law of nature in order to obey the other isn't he? Is he right or wrong? Are these laws in contradiction to each other?

ANSWER: — We believe there is a false assumption in this question which makes it appear that the man in the example must violate one law of nature in order to obey the other. Actually, there are many other ways for a man to obtain food, even if he is absolutely broke and near starvation. He could offer to work in exchange for food if there is no minimum wage laws. Or he could ask for charity, in which case the food would be freely given and there would be no coercion.

But even if he believes that stealing is the only way to get food for his survival, the man is wrong to steal. That the use of coercion is wrong is an absolute of nature in the realm of human behavior. We are using the word coercion as defined by Andrew J. Galambos to mean any attempted, intentional interference with the property (including the life) of another.

Just as in the field of physics every action has a corresponding and equal reaction, in the field of human behavior, all actions will produce reactions. And those actions which attempt to violate natural law will bring harmful consequences.

The man who steals food because he is starving may ease his hunger for the moment and so survive for a little while longer. But he has damaged his chances for long term survival in several ways.

First, the man from whom he steals has the right to defend himself and his property, and the thief may be killed in a struggle. Second, he has exposed himself to retaliation by the one from whom he stole, which is a direct and imminent threat to his survival. There are cases where feuds, arising out of some small act of coercion, have wiped out whole families or communities. The vendettas of Sicily and the feuds of the mountain people in America — such as the Hatfield-McCoy feud are classic examples.

Most importantly, the man who steals has made himself an untrustworthy person, and others who learn of his theft will be unwilling to have

BANGKOK (UPI)—Kachin rebels in North Burma killed more than 200 Burmese government soldiers in clashes last week, the Thai ambassador to Burma said Saturday. TAIPEI (UPI)—Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek said Saturday that Communist China is training children as young as 10 years old as "Red little soldiers." NEW YORK (UPI)—Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., said Saturday he will ask Congress to appropriate $10 million to send ex-addicts and other drug specialists into schools as part of a nationwide program to prevent drug abuse. Ottinger, a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the Senate, proposed a Narcotics Education Act of 1970 which would set up an Addict Prevention Corps "to provide an impetus for teen-agers to organize their own fight against narcotics."

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 1970 census will show that there are now more than 200 million U.S. citizens, according to estimates by statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television's most business-minded executives have really always believed in "the silent majority," even though they didn't describe it with such a catchy title.

For the television ratings system, by which shows live and die, is nothing if not the ultimate example of a silent, unknown majority influencing decisions of great corporations.

What we have in these households, it is clear, is an elite band of powerful persons who are not elected officials but control what goes out over television. Surely such people should be licensed. They command the public airwaves.

But this silent majority is, of course, not exactly the same silent majority that has television nervous at the moment. For the new onslaught of this type refers not to entertainment, but to matters of public affairs and public behavior.

This is the silent majority that spoke up—and therefore actually became a vocal body—and no longer a silent one—after the uproar at the 1968 Democratic Convention in Chicago, and television's coverage of it.

And this is, of course, the portion of America that, in general, rallied to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's side when he criticized parts of the communications media.

But even before Agnew's criticism, some bideo executives had undoubtedly become sensitive to the post-Chicago complaints from viewers that television never showed enough of the positive side of America and what was right with the country.

Foreign New Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Window on the World:
Hanoi Hardliners Gain:
London diplomats say the hardliners in Hanoi have moved to the forefront again as result of the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk in Cambodia and the increased pace of the fighting in Laos. Those who have been counseling compromise with the United States have been pushed into the background. The results are expected to show up in coming weeks at the Paris conference table.

Cambodian Doubts:
Indian diplomats stationed in the Far East doubt there will be a return of the International Peace Commission, of which India, Canada and Poland are the members, to Cambodia.

This despite requests both from the ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk and the new anti-Communist regime which replaced him. Sihanouk wanted the commission to oversee elections; the new regime to prove the presence of and help oust Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops from their Cambodian sanctuary. Poland is the key and the Poles, under instructions from the Russians, are expected to turn down both requests.

U.S.S.R. vs. Red China:
Diplomatic informants in Paris predict a resurgence of Soviet-Red Chinese rivalry in the sleepy, tropical Republic of the Congo after the unsuccessful coup against the Brazzaville regime of President Marien M'gouabi. M'gouabi gave his one million people a "Marxist-Leninist" style government at December. He is reported grateful for the 600 doctors and technicians sent to him by Peking, but to be confident he can prevent any attempts at a take-over by Maoist elements inside his government. French influence within the former French colony has waned sharply.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Providing no new adverse news develops, the end of the mail strike and a possible avoidance of a rail strike could help the stock market to surpass the 800 Dow Jones level, Oppenheimer, Newborg & Neu says. This would lead to an extension of the current rally in spite of the prospect of sharply lower first quarter corporate earnings. The firm sees a possible "argument for optimism" in the very low turnover in the recently declining market and the sharply increased volume on the upside.

The existence of a number of technical barriers, coupled with the speed of the recent market advance, suggests that some consolidation around current levels may be needed before the market can hope to move significantly higher, says E. F. Hutton. Nevertheless, there appears to be a basis in the market's recent behavior for a more positive investment approach.

The Contrary Investor observes that over the coming years mammoth offerings of stock and debt securities can pay off short term debt and restore corporate liquidity. This means, the firm says, that there is no reason, on the supply-demand side, for a steep stock market advance. A gentle upward market trend is needed, however, so a climate conducive to new financing continues.

Please Don't Eat Strange Leaves

Many plants and seeds can be very harmful if chewed or swallowed. Children especially are prone to this danger and should be cautioned to avoid them. Castor beans, poinsettia leaves, mistletoe, daffodils, hyacinth and narcissus are particularly dangerous. Some of them will cause vomiting and diarrhea and all them have been known to be fatal.

If you suspect that someone has chewed or has swallowed a potentially harmful leaf or seed, get them to a physician without delay. Time is of great importance to avoid a possible tragedy.

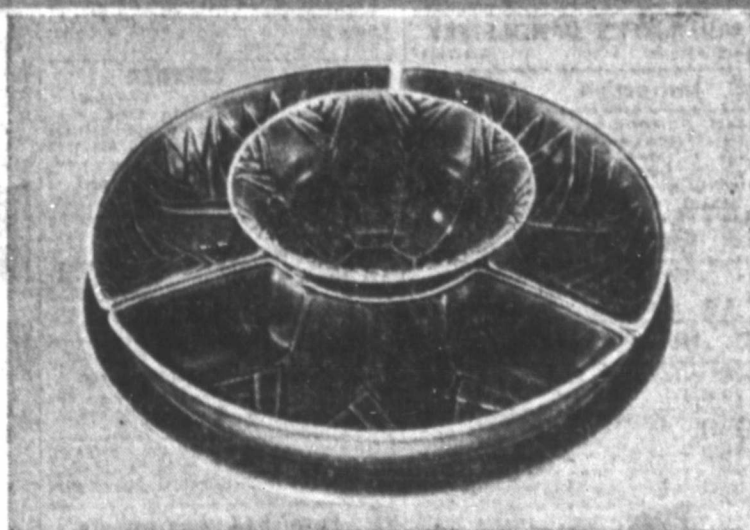

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for service and charge accounts.
