Voting Age In Deep Trouble

Senate Will Attempt To Keep Issue Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In spite of an overwhelming vote of approval in the Senate, a move to lower the voting age to 18 by law is in deep trouble on Capitol Hill. Recognizing this, Senate Leader Mike Mansfield urged continued work on the alternative route.

"By all means," Mansfield replied when asked by reporters if he favored continued work by Senate subcommittee on drafting of a constitutional amendment to allow 18-year-olds to vote.

This was recognition of trouble ahead by Mansfield, who sponsored the proposal in the Senate as an amendment to extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act rather than a constitutional amendment. The odds in the House are that the Mansfield plan, approved 64-17 Thursday by the Senate, will not see the light of day.

As chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler, 81, is in a powerful position to knock the Senate's action out of the voting rights bill when the measure returns to the House. "My position will be very, very severe," says the congressman.

"I'm not going to swallow it," he said. "Come hell or high water, I'm not going to accede to it and I'm quite sure that my fellow conferees from the House are not going to accede to it likewise."

But the outlook pointed to a quiet burial of the 18-year-old vote in the conference committee.

Israeli Planes Attack Arab Missile Base

By United Press International
Israeli planes attacked an Egyptian SAM 2 missile base in the Nile delta 65 miles north of Cairo today then silenced Egyptian artillery that had opened a barrage against Israeli positions in the southern sector of the Suez Canal, a military spokesman announced in Tel Aviv.

Another Israeli attack pounded Egyptian artillery and antiaircraft defenses in the northern canal sector for an hour and 40 minutes later today.

Egypt said a large number of its troops crossed the canal last Sunday, established a bridgehead 13 miles deep in the Israeli-occupied Sinai Desert and used it to launch attacks for three days, killing between 14 and 20 troops in rocket attacks and knocking out 25 armored cars.

Cairo's report of the bridgehead in the Sinai Desert said Egyptian troops had bombarded a five square mile area.

Man Shoots Self Aboard Jetliner

DENVER (UPI)—A passenger aboard a jetliner carrying 31 persons on a nonstop flight from California to Chicago shot himself through the head Thursday. The bullet passed through the neck of another passenger.

The plane, a United Air Lines 727 jet, was flying over Nebraska, but turned around and made an emergency landing in Denver.

The man who killed himself was identified only as J. Thomas of San Jose, Calif. The other passenger, John Marvin Sager, was in serious condition with a bullet wound in the neck.

Veteran Police Lt. Relieved Of Duties

LT. JESSE B. GOAD

By TEX DEWEESE
News Staff Writer

Lt. Jesse B. Goad, a member of the Pampa police department for nearly 18 years, was summarily dismissed late yesterday afternoon by City Manager Charles Hill.

The city manager said this forenoon Goad's separation, effective immediately, came when the police lieutenant refused to resign.

Goad was charged with violation of sections 2, 3 and 4 of the City of Pampa Personnel Policies.

The sections in violation, Hill stated, were:

"2. Insubordination, defined as refusal to perform work assigned.

"3. Inability to perform duties satisfactorily, and

"4. Use of profane or abusive language toward fellow employees, or more especially toward any citizen, while in the line of duty."

City Manager Hill said the violation of Section 3 pertained to "parts of one or all" of the stipulations.

Hill added that the action came as the culmination of a year-long investigation he, personally, had conducted with special emphasis on the last three months. The city manager said Goad's dismissal had no connection with a recent incident at the Pampa Youth Center.

Goad, when reached at his home today, attributed his dismissal to departmental "personality conflicts" and, in particular, a case which a police sergeant had referred to him asking whether or not an arrest should be made. Goad said he believed the evidence was not enough to convict and said the sergeant agreed, then later reversed himself and reported the lieutenant for letting the man go.

Goad said he also was accused of being too stern in the handling of rookie patrolmen on his shift.

"This is not all over with," Goad said. He indicated the possibility of further action on his part.

City Manager Hill said no successor for Goad had yet been named. He stated the appointment would probably come from the three sergeants on the force if they are found to be eligible in all categories required for a lieutenancy.

Goad first joined the police department in 1953, left in April of 1963, was re-employed in December of that year, and was promoted to lieutenant June 1, 1968.

Livestock Show Prices Show Trend Upward

The 35th Top O' Texas Junior and Hereford Breeders' Association Livestock Shows and Sales are now history.

Sales results show the trend was up in prices and weights with one exception. This year's average calf weight of 800 pounds was down 18 pounds compared to last year.

Further junior statistics showed pigs went for an average of $106.11, up from $92.46 last year, and weighed an average of 204-1-3 pounds, up 3-1-3. Average pig price per pound was 32 cents. Last year that figure was 45 1/2 cents per pound.

Total pig sales were $11,779.01.

Total calf sales reached $25,584.83 and averaged $382.86 at 47 1/2 cents per pound over last year's $343.15 and 41 1/2 cents.

In the Hereford breeder's sale, 37 bulls sold for $19,010.00 averaging $513.78.

Last year's average was about $465.00.

There was a better offering of cattle this year, but they were fewer in number. Only one female was sold. She went for $350.00.

Swallows Are Back

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI)—The swallows are on their way back to Capistrano. The first "scouts" swooped down Thursday at the historic mission here.

If the rest of the flock follows tradition, it will arrive on St. Joseph's Day, March 19.

Franciscan fathers who have chronicled the comings and goings of the feathered creatures say the arrival have come on the feast day for the last 192 years. They depart on San Juan's Day, Oct. 23.

Scientists say it has no religious significance—swallows aren't the only birds who migrate back to this coastal area in the spring and the mission isn't the only place the swallows can be found.

JAPANESE CONSUL TAKEN

Another Government Employee Kidnaped

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—The government yielded today to another demand of the kidnapers of Japanese Consul General Nobuo Okuchi that it guarantee the "integrity" of all political prisoners in Brazil as the price for his release.

The government previously had agreed to exchange five political prisoners for Okuchi's freedom and prepared a special flight today to Mexico for the five men. The kidnapers also had demanded the government halt the search for the kidnapers.

Transit Employees Go On Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—City employees went on strike today, shutting down the San Francisco transit system.

Police and fire services were not affected and schools were open despite efforts by teachers' unions to halt classes.

The strike began one minute after midnight when unions representing 7,500 city workers set up picket lines at municipal railway car barns. The move brought a halt to movement of buses, trolleys and cable cars, a transportation system which daily moves 400,000 persons. A total of 14,000 city employees were affected by the walkout.

Pickets were posted at San Francisco International Airport but operations were normal except for janitor services.

The tieup was the first in the city since 1934.

Striking workers set up picket lines at 7 a.m. at City Hall, the Hall of Justice and city and county administrative offices.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto and city supervisors continued negotiations with 10 union leaders in an effort to settle the dispute.

Bill Declares Undeclared Wars UnConstitutional

BOSTON (UPI)—The Massachusetts House has given preliminary approval to a bill which would prevent the state's citizens from fighting in undeclared wars such as Vietnam.

The measure was approved on a tight 116-110 vote Thursday at the end of more than three hours of dramatic debate. It was expected to come before the chamber for final passage Monday.

Under the legislation, the state attorney general would be required to represent Massachusetts citizens in court if they refuse to serve in combat zones during undeclared wars. Supporters of the measure say the Supreme Court would be forced to decide if the President can commit troops without a formal declaration of war.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent, a Republican who participated in the Vietnam Moratorium in war, demanded and got proof that Okuchi was still alive. A letter from Okuchi in his handwriting said he was "well and being well-treated by my kidnapers."

The third letter he has written since he was seized on a Sao Paulo street Wednesday night. Apparently the kidnapers were not prepared to give the government the names of the five prisoners they want sent to asylum in Mexico until the government meets all conditions. The original ransom note threatened death if the demands were not met.

Today the kidnapers left a letter in a mail slot along with another letter from the diplomat. It said they expressed "worry about the fate of our companions still in jail."

Shortly afterwards the justice minister and foreign minister issued a statement saying: "The government communicates that it has taken all the measures for the release, transportation and exile in Mexico (of the five prisoners) and reiterates its duty of fulfilling the constitution and the laws of the country so as to preserve the integrity of prisoners under custody."

October, is withholding a decision on signing the bill until preliminary approval to a bill which would prevent the state's citizens from fighting in undeclared wars such as Vietnam.

GAMBLING MECCAS CLOSE

Nevada Strike Rips Holes In Money Bags

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The worst strike in Nevada history closed this gambling mecca today and ripped holes in government and private money bags.

State and county officials reported mounting losses in gambling revenues and businesses which supply goods to the strip establishments reported layoffs. They said more would follow within a week if the strike by the 14,000 Culinary and Bartenders Union members continued.

The 16 struck casinos, which phased out multimillion dollar operations since the massive walkout Wednesday, closed all doors to the public late Thursday.

Hundreds of cars jammed onto the strip at sundown as curious residents poured into the strike area to view the phenomenon of darkened neon signs and deserted casinos for the first time in the history of the resort area.

Clark County sheriff's deputies stopped southbound traffic at one point along the strip for an hour to unsnarl cars which were backed up for two miles in parking lot fashion.

First hit by the walkout was the Nevada Power Co., which estimated it was losing about $1,600 a day in revenue from the clicking off of the world's largest neon lights lining the strip.

Edwards Bowers, executive secretary of the Nevada Gaming Commission, said the state was losing $31,000 a day in revenue and county officials estimated their losses at $2,300 a day.

Numerous conventions were cancelled or moved to other cities at an estimated loss of $1.9 million.

Not Everything Is Rosy In Communist "Red" Country

MOSCOW (UPI)—An official Soviet spokesman today described reports from abroad of Soviet Politburo split as a "fabrication from beginning to end."

The reports said three members of the Soviet Politburo had written a letter criticizing Communist Party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev.

"All reports of such a letter," said Zamyatin, chief of the Foreign Ministry press department, "are crude, malicious provocations emanating from those news services which in the past specialized in the dissemination of falsehood and are continuing to do the same."

Zamyatin commented on news reports originating in Geneva and London to the effect that Alexander Shelepin, Mikhail Suslov, and Kiril Maslurov had written a statement criticizing Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin for shortcomings in setbacks in the Soviet economy.

The reports said the three members of the politburo were alleged to have demanded a change of the Communist Party leadership to discuss the Soviet economic situation.

There was no confirmation from any source abroad or here at such a statement or qualified diplomatic observation like it actually existed.

True To Form?

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI)—In an effort to solve its billing problems, the Clifton Springs Hospital has employed the services of the Rochester Health Computer Center.

The following note was sent an explanation of the service for out-patients and internal accounting:

"In an effort to provide you with faster, more accurate billing, we are using a computer for the first time.

"This statement was automatically produced by our new computer, untouched by human hands, human hands, human hands, human hands, human hands 33 & 77 & 100.

No One Rushing To Take Small Business Course

A lack of response to the Planning for Growth course scheduled for Pampa small business operators may be cancelled unless there is an immediate surge of interest in the project.

Chamber of Commerce officials said today there had been little response so far for the course to be conducted next Monday through Thursday in Lovett Memorial Library from 7:30 to 10 p.m. daily.

The course, if held, will be conducted by James B. Kelly, planning specialist with the Distributive Education Department of the University of Texas at Austin.

It is designed to enhance growth of Texas communities by encouraging the growth of small businesses in the state.

Information on the course and reservations may be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce office, 669-3241.

Liberals Feel They Can Win With Carswell

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate liberals, seeking to defeat the Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell, feel they can win—but not without the support of about a dozen Republicans.

"We have a chance of winning," Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said. "Don't write us off."

It is possible the Senate, which has been tied up on voting rights legislation for days, may turn to the Carswell nomination today.

If a recent head count among Republicans holds fast, the liberals appear to face an exceedingly difficult task.

The survey, taken by the GOP leadership, showed that 33 or 34 Republicans are committed to vote for Carswell. That would leave only nine or 10 for the opposition.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., has promised to begin debate on the Carswell nomination as soon as the Senate completes action on the voting rights bill.

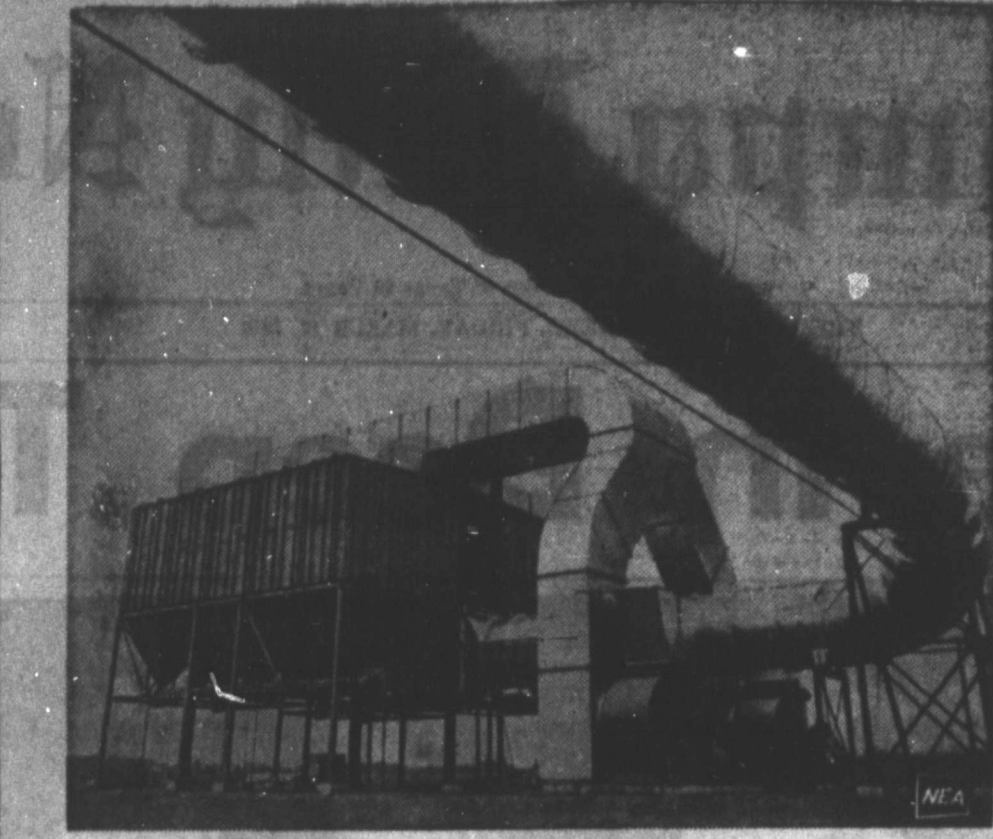

Despite some speculation to the contrary, the liberals apparently do not plan to filibuster the appointment of Carswell, 50, of Tallahassee, Fla., now a U.S. court of Appeals judge.

B&PW Admits Five Members

Five new members were admitted to membership in the Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club at a meeting Tuesday.

In a ceremony conducted by Miss Elsie Cunningham, membership chairman, Lorene Wilkerson, Veda Alverson, Geraldine Grogan, Ruth Mosely and Bea York were initiated into membership.

Each was presented with a Golden Membership certificate and a Yellow Rose of Texas in observance of the Golden Anniversary of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. One new member, Mrs. Stella Arlington, was unable to attend.

POLLUTION CONTROL is its bag. Eight hundred 12-foot-long Orion "vacuum cleaner" bags in this 47-foot-high structure are helping keep the air clean in Albion, Mich. Two 350-horsepower fans draw fumes from electric arc furnaces through duct to building outside Hayes-Albion's malleable casting plant, where bags filter matter before it can reach outside air. Electric motors shake bags periodically and deposits are dropped into hoppers for disposal.

Propose Federal Regulation Of Private Industry Pensions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon proposed today that pension funds in private industry be brought under federal regulation.

Nixon told Congress that the administration would submit legislation to allow the federal government to regulate the internal workings of such plans for the first time. Nixon said his plan would affect more than $120 billion in benefit plans for about 50 million workers.

In a special message to the House and Senate, the President said most pension plans are "carefully managed by responsible people," but he said legislation is necessary to "make certain that the employee's money is fully protected."

The legislation he outlined would set federal standards for controlling pension and welfare funds; require detailed accounting similar to that now required by mutual investment funds, banks and insurance companies, and give the labor secretary more investigative and enforcement powers.

Nixon observed that theft, embezzlement, bribery and kickbacks in connection with employee benefit plans for some time have been federal crimes but "conduct that reaches established principles of trusteeship has not been adequately dealt with."

The President gave no details of the standards the administration will propose.

Nixon said he has sent to Congress previously three other proposals dealing with the well-being of the working man which have not yet been acted on.

'Bye 'Bye Blackbirds

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (UPI)—Scotland Neck has a deodorant problem, and if neighboring towns could move further away, they would.

The problem is four to six million blackbirds, who roost like a black canopy over a 40-acre pine forest on the edge of town.

The birds have deposited up to six inches of droppings. "And every inch of it is smelling," said Mayor Ferd Harrison. "The stench is ferocious."

The birds—starlings, grackles and cowbirds—are polluting streams with their droppings and threatening the pine forest. They are also potential carriers of the disease histoplasmosis, which causes flu symptoms and sometimes leaves lung scars that resemble tuberculosis scars.

Harrison said state officials haven't been able to determine what attracts the birds to the area and efforts to get rid of them have failed. They've been coming in increasing numbers for three years.

"Unless something is done, six to 10 million birds might be here next year," Harrison warned.

Cashway Store Burglarized

It appeared as if a burglar had done more damage than he gained in money in a burglary on W. Francis Thursday night, according to Police Chief Jim Comer.

Apparently someone entered the Cashway store from a vent on the roof and then ransacked the office in the store, according to police reports.

Bill Lam, store manager, discovered the break-in this morning at 7:50 when he arrived to open the store. Lam reported to police no merchandise was missing, but $24.25 was taken from the office.

The burglar apparently left the building through the back door. Pampa City Police are still investigating the incident.

Texas Leads Nation In Industrial Development

DALLAS (UPI)—For the first time in history Texas leads the nation in industrial development, Gov. Preston Smith said Thursday.

Last year's growth in new plants was 6 per cent higher than the year before. Smith told the Salesmanship Club of Dallas.

Smith gave credit to the Texas Industrial Commission, along with "closely-knit alliances between local, regional and state development groups" for the rapid industrial growth.

The governor said the state's industrial growth was a good thing. He said it meant more jobs.

Broken Hip Suffered In Fall On Ice

Matt Swan, 62, Pampa Hotel, suffered a broken hip when he fell on the ice at Craven and Cuyler streets yesterday.

He was taken to Highland General Hospital in a Carmichael-Whitley ambulance, according to police.

Harold Johnson, owner of the Bearing Specialist Shop, 641 S. Cuyler, reported to police some one stole four feet of chain worth $4 sometime yesterday.

J.E. Furr, 332 N. Sumner, asked police to investigate a rock-throwing incident at his home. He said a boy hurled a rock through a bedroom window.

Humble Oil To Invest Millions In Uranium

HOUSTON (UPI)—Humble Oil & Refining Co. disclosed Thursday it is investing $20 million on a uranium project near Douglas, Wyo.

The Highland Project, to have a capacity of 2,000 tons a day, will require about $12 million for initial overburden stripping and other expenses in order to begin production uranium oxide.

Stripping is set to begin late this year and mill construction by the middle of next year. Mining operations were to start in 1972.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ordinarily, the people of a free nation have a right to be told the truth about what their government is doing to them, for them, and in their name.

But there are some situations in which "the government has not only the right but the obligation to lie." That is the argument of a provocative little book entitled "The Right to Know, to Withhold and to Lie," published by the Council on Religion and International Affairs.

The author is William J. Barnds, a former official of the Central Intelligence Agency who is now a senior research fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations.

Barnds says the people's right to know is a basic element of a free and self-governing society. "If a people are to rule themselves, they must be adequately informed to know what they're doing."

But he adds, "in a world such as this, complete openness and candor on the part of any government is impossible."

In the conduct of foreign relations, particularly, government officials must resort to secrecy if there is to be any degree of candor in communications between nations. A country which tried to conduct its diplomacy entirely in the open would find other governments extremely reluctant to engage in serious conversations.

Similarly, it is necessary and proper for government officials to maintain secrecy about such things as codes and ciphers, details of military weapons, and in some circumstances, troop movements.

While nearly everyone acknowledges the necessity of withholding certain information from the public, many would question whether the government ever is justified in telling a deliberate lie.

Barnds agrees that "the government must as a general practice conduct an honest dialogue with its citizens." But he contends "there are situations when it seems to even the most intelligent and conscientious statesmen that the price of telling the truth, or not lying, is greater than can be borne."

He lists four kinds of situations in which he feels government officials may have "not only the right but the obligation" to put out untrue statements. They are:

- 1) To mislead an enemy about wartime military operations.
- 2) To protect covert intelligence activities in peacetime.
- 3) To avoid a financial panic when currency devaluation is pending.

Book Depository To Be Auctioned

DALLAS (UPI)—The Texas School Book Depository, from which Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President John F. Kennedy with a high-powered rifle, will be sold at auction April 16.

The building is owned by Dallas Trust Corp., of which Col. D. Harold Byrd, an oilman, is principal owner. Extensive development in the western part of downtown Dallas, where the depository is located, was understood to be the main reason for selling.

The Warren Commission concluded that Oswald, shooting from a sixth floor window, killed Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963, as Kennedy rode in a motorcade on the street wounded former Tex. Gov. John Connally.

LBJ Making Comeback

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson felt happy, well rested and free of pain Wednesday. Doctors advised him to take more short walks around his hospital suite to regain his strength.

"President Johnson continues to be in excellent spirits," a medical bulletin said. "There have been no chest pains for several days, and the President's physical activity has been gradually increased."

Johnson, 61, entered Brooke General Hospital 10 days ago suffering chest pains caused by hardening of the coronary arteries. He was hospitalized as a "preventative measure." He suffered a heart attack 15 years ago while serving in the Senate.

"President Johnson continues to make satisfactory progress," the bulletin said. "His doctors have advised that all vital signs are normal and that President Johnson rested well Tuesday night."

Doctors gave no hint of when he might be sent home. His wife, Lady Bird, has been staying with him in the hospital's seventh floor presidential suite.

Cash Wins 1st Grammy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blood, Sweat & Tears carried home the gold-plated gramophone Wednesday night, besting the Beatles and Johnny Cash to win the Grammy award for the best album of 1969.

More than 3,000 members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences participating in the vote chose the album "Blood, Sweat & Tears" over "Johnny Cash at San Quentin" and the Beatles' "Abbey Road" for the recording industry's "Oscar."

A new group, Crosby, Stills & Nash were acclaimed as the best new artists and Joe South's song "Games People Play" was voted the year's best. With the addition of another musician, the group has become Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young since the release of their record that figured in the judging.

The Grammy for record of the year will not be awarded until the academy presents its annual television show May 7.

Earth-Bound Germs Found To Be Allergic To Moon Soil

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Moon soil collected from below the surface at Tranquility Base apparently kills three different kinds of bacteria found on Earth, according to the chief of medicine at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Dr. W. W. Kemmerer, in announcing the results Wednesday of recent tests, did not draw any conclusions from the findings.

The phenomenon only occurred when bacteria was tested with core samples taken during the flight of Apollo 11, man's first landing on the moon. Kemmerer, chief of medicine at the center's Lunar Receiving Laboratory, said the tests were performed by a member of his staff Dr. Gerald W. Taylor.

Taylor exposed three forms of bacteria to lunar material from the surface and from core tube samples extracted from below the surface. The samples were gathered during both the Apollo 11 and 12 moonwalks.

The bacteria and the lunar samples were exposed in a nutrient medium which is designed to aid in the growth of the bacteria. The bacteria was exposed to the lunar samples for 60 days. Only the bacteria exposed to the Apollo 11 core tube samples died.

But Kemmerer said this meant nothing by itself. "We're still in midstream" with the experiment, he said.

"Certainly what we've seen is bacterial effect on three terrestrial microorganisms under a certain, specific set of conditions," Kemmerer said. "We're really not at the point in the study to say this is our final conclusion or why it happened."

Kemmerer said he did not believe germs that might be found beneath the surface and not on the surface killed the bacteria. He also said there is still

DEAR ABBY: This is not so much a problem, as a letter to illustrate a point, because it should become a problem I will have to work out the solution myself.

In a nutshell, I am a married man who has never condoned "fooling around." I've always considered such activities wrong and potentially dangerous, but now I find myself in the midst of an affair with a single woman. It developed gradually (at work) with a few light-hearted exchanges and some laughs. I never realized how far it could go, until it got there.

I don't want to end it, not yet, at least. With a few lies and half-truths at home, the situation manages with ease.

Just a word of warning to other "straight-laced" husbands like myself. There is no such thing as a harmless flirtation.

THE (POST) GRADUATE DEAR GRADUATE: Since you are not willing to heed your own warning, you may expect the same kind of trouble you're warning other men to avoid. Doesn't make much sense. Your advice is so good. Why give it away? Use it yourself!

DEAR ABBY: About your hairdresser, Mr. Phyllis. You said what he did at home was his business. Well, the state law on beauty culture is not in agreement with you. It is illegal for a hairdresser to do hair outside the shop, unless it is marked as an appointment with a registered beauty shop.

FELLOW HAIRDRESSER IN MO.

DEAR FELLOW: Live and learn! And from the mail received from other states, I think it's the same all over. (Better give that wet noodle a permanent.)

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend does not get along well with his folks. Very often when he comes over in the evening he is in a very unpleasant, irritable mood, and he tells me he just had a "blow up" with his father, or an argument with his mother. As far as I know, his folks have been very good to him, sending him to college and doing lots of nice things for him at home which I know my folks don't do for us kids at home, yet we love them. My Mom is concerned and because of the frequency of these fights, I am also beginning to wonder whether he would make a good marriage risk. My Mom says that sooner or later he will vent his temper on me instead of on his folks.

I love him and he has always been kind and gentle to me, but I can't help wondering. What do you think?

WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: I think you are wise to wonder. Either your boyfriend is very hard to get along with, or he needs to grow up. Don't make any "grown-up" decisions about him until you're sure.

DEAR ABBY: I wish I had the nerve to tell my husband myself, but since I haven't, I hope you will put this in your column. It seems the nearer to 40 he gets, the less he cares about his appearance and manners. He comes to the table (any meal) with no shirt, or even a T shirt, just bare-chested. On top of that, he is getting fatter and fatter. Abby, have you ever sat down to eat at a table with a man who is bare-chested and who has his stomach sticking out to here? It's sort of repulsive.

Otherwise he is such a dear. Do not use my name or town as I harp on this in a round about way, but I don't want him to know that I wrote it.

BOTHERED DEAR BOTHERED: Don't blame him if you are bothered by something which could so easily be remedied, but you lack the nerve to tell him. Speak up. (Suggested sentence: "Look, Tarzan, I love you, but please put on a shirt when you come to the table.") If that doesn't do it — well, at least you tried.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Readers Offers Methods To Bind Frayed Rugs

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I know of two ways that Shirley could bind her frayed rugs. First, before it frays, I put that all-purpose milky white glue all around the carpet edges. Be sure to rub it in with your fingers, through the pile and backing all around. Lay carpet flat, let dry and it should be perfect. I use this method on carpet scraps and they last as long a time as rugs.

Or she could use the carpet tape that irons on. I have cut such binding in half, folded it and then ironed the binding placed over the carpet. However, the best way is to put the full width on the back of the carpet, being sure the edge of the binding is straight before applying heat. Place a piece of cloth over the binding to protect your iron and have pins ready in case you need them for keeping the tape in place. This carpet tape comes in several colors.

—NELLIE

DEAR POLLY — Shirley can bind her carpet edges by using four-ply yarn in a matching color. With a crewel needle, make buttonhole stitches about one-third-inch deep and close together all around the rug or just around the frayed portion.

—MRS. C.L.B.

DEAR POLLY and Shirley — I have done a lot of rug binding. I saw a strip of carpet binding along the edge of the carpet on the top side by hand using heavy carpet thread. Turn the binding over to the back and sew again. I whip over and over on the wrong side. This is tedious but worthwhile and no stitches should show on the right side.

AT COLLEGE LEVEL

Students Produce Guides To Courses, Teachers

NEW YORK (UP)—The best read tome on the college campus: a student-produced guide to courses and teachers. In some, students grade teachers and all descriptions are frank. Some teachers find them demoralizing. Take the instructor described in the guide from an East Coast university: his speaking style was called "sleep inducing." He was criticized for remaining seated during long lectures. He was said to mumble and address comments to his desk.

Some have the cooperation of the administration. At Brandeis University department chairmen are required to cooperate in the production of a guide, in its fourth year.

They obtain student evaluation of teachers up for reappointment, promotion or tenure.

"Colleges using this method have been accused of letting students share the dirty work by handing them the knife," "College Management" reported.

Most guides attempt to be fair to teachers. They don't always come out that way. At Dartmouth, the administration complains that zeal for criticism outruns information. The guide is "embarrassing to people at both ends."

At Berkeley, the "state" received administration money. But later lost it on a charge of political cant.

Though some guides are running into trouble because of high production costs, the national student association says they're necessary. It intends to provide a model guide kit.

The reason they're necessary, according to the association: students receive such skimpy course briefing that course-switching rooms and students become discouraged and bewildered.

The oldest guide, the Harvard "Conf," has been coming out since 1924. "It is based on student discussion and is considerate of those disliked," "College Management" said.

A relatively young guide at Columbia University apparently is having some success. According to the student newspaper, an instructor who was criticized last year for mulling into his desk and sitting too much now "speaks clearly, walks around the classroom, and even comes to class organized."

The most colorful writing is found in Harvard's "Conf."

Among things students learn about teachers: "He cannot help stepping into a wastebasket when he comes to class," or "His most brilliant play... came as he finished a lecture by shooting across the room and out the door on a rocket sled."

The rocket sled ride demonstrated momentum!

PTA Has Special Day For Teachers

Lamar Elementary School Parent Teacher Association met in the school auditorium for the annual Teachers Appreciation Day recently. Cub Scout Den I Pack III, directed by Mrs. Benny Stout, conducted the flag ceremony.

Mrs. Dale Butler introduced Rev. Wayne Lemmons pastor of Oklahoma Street Church of Christ who gave the inspirational talk.

Mrs. Frank Holman announced the District Conference will be held in Perryton April 20-21.

Mrs. Alvin Dauer, City Council representative, reported March is Youth Art Appreciation month and encouraged parents to visit the White Deer Land Museum to view the children's art.

Mrs. Ray Jackson gave a legislative report.

Mrs. Bob Walker introduced guest speaker Don Nelson, a secondary coordinator of Pampa schools, who spoke on "Appreciation of Teachers," and said "Teachers require more of themselves and are becoming more professional each year. Teachers enjoy their work and are moving ahead." He ended his talk with the reading of a poem by a Pampa student "The Alumnus."

After Joe Page, principal, introduced each teacher at Lamar, Mrs. Vinson Shaw presented each with a cake.

Room count was won by Mrs. Linda Crossland's third grade, with the most parents present, and will be given ice cream.

Door prize, a cake baked by Mrs. Ray Jackson was won by Curtis Cadenhead.

Wood Windows Reach New High in Low-Care

Wood window upkeep has been so dramatically reduced, that about the only bothersome chore left is window washing—and even that has been cut in half.

Equally important as the development of low-maintenance window features is their availability to the average homeowner. Until recently, for instance, insulating glass (a top time-and-work-saving feature) was available only in custom windows. Now it is obtainable in all styles and stock sizes of ponderosa pine units.

What has led to high-quality, low-care windows at economical prices is a combination of scientific and technological advances with effective manufacturing techniques. While the most obvious improvements are in the area of reduced maintenance, modern wood windows offer other significant advantages. They are more durable, more efficient, and easier to operate. They can be expected to last, with minimal care, for the life of the house.

Here are some of the assets being offered in windows of ponderosa pine:

- Insulating glass. Two sheets of glass sealed together at the edges to form a dry, insulating layer of air between. Eliminates the need for hanging, maintaining and storing storm sash. Cuts window washing chores by half, because there are two glass surfaces instead of four. Combined with wood sash (a natural insulator) and factory-applied weatherstripping, insulating glass is considered the most effective protection against heat loss, high fuel bills, and condensation. In areas with extremely cold weather, storm sash over insulating glass is recommended.
- Preservative treatment. Wood sash and frame are factory-treated with a chemical preservative that protects against wear and weather damage, and prolongs the life of the window.
- Weatherstripping. Tight weatherstripping is factory-applied to guard against air seepage that can result in drafts and heat loss. Hand weatherstripping—a troublesome job—is much less effective.
- Removable grilles. The number of panes determines the time and trouble involved in window washing. Removable grilles snap into place over the inside glass surface to give the appearance of small panes. But, at window washing time, they snap out, revealing one easy-to-clean sheet of glass.
- Pivot and lift-out sash. A safety and convenience feature, available in most window styles. Sash tilts or removes from frame, so both sides of the glass can be cleaned from inside the house.
- Easy operation. A combination of metal and plastic hardware allows smooth, non-stick operation.

Wood Panel Door Fits Any Decor

If you think Colonial decor is the only place for panel doors, you're shutting out some exciting decorative possibilities.

While wood panel doors are a natural for Early American settings, they are equally at home in contemporary houses. In fact, the emphasis today is on "mix and match" home decorating, a formula that combines the best styles from various periods.

It is the distinctive lines and rich wood grains of panel doors that make them suitable for the most sophisticated decorating schemes—as well as the most traditional. The panels add visual interest and perspective; the grains give a beautiful "textured" look. Mixing or matching is easy, because of the variety of styles available in panel doors of ponderosa pine.

These include: six-panel Cross-and-Bible, eight-panel Florentine, 15-panel Tudor, and the newer multi-paneled Spanish and Mediterranean styles—many with ornate embossing and exotic open grillwork. These and other designs are available at local lumber dealers, in stock sizes of ponderosa pine, both as interior and exterior entries. The doors are precision-manufactured for good fit and easy installation, and can be painted any color or simply stained to enhance the grain.

No Need to 'Rough It' In New Vacation Homes

Today's vacation home is a long way from yesterday's summer bungalow, a recent study shows.

A survey of families who had recently built a vacation home, or were planning to do so soon, indicated, for example, that more than a third planned two or more baths and an automatic dishwasher.

Other popular planned features are: a deck (76 percent), dock facilities (51 percent) and a garage or carport (48 percent).

In many vacation homes, prefinished hardboard paneling is used for eye-appealing, minimal-care interior walls, and prefinished or pre-primed hardboard siding for exterior surfaces. Textured hardboard siding is a popular choice for modern vacation home designs, while perforated hardboard panels are often used to provide wall storage in garages and carports.

The survey reported that 85 percent of the vacation homes were in the $75-$100,000 category, and nearly one-fifth were priced over $20,000. Almost all are built on lots of an acre or more, and 43 percent of the lots are valued at a minimum of $2000.

In addition to the leisure benefits accruing from such homes, half of the owners said they considered these homes "a good investment."

SATURDAY, MARCH 14 YOUR BIRTHDAY SATURDAY: — The next several months are spent finding a way to balance many conflicting demands on your time and attention and still keep on building your career. Some projects turn into mental exercises with little physical expression. Study of occult and complex technical matters is encouraged for those eligible.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): — An overexpansive day leads to a tense evening if you let it. Some error or unthinking act may spoil matters if you are out among crowds in public places.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — Avoid being a grievance collector — there are already too many on the scene. Find something that keeps you quite busy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): —

Bypass subjects that are delicate for others; ordinary discretion eliminates a needless problem. Short cuts in travel or relationships are not really time-savers and could be sources of future difficulties.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — In your sensitive mood stay away from people and places you don't like. Confidential dealings are disclosed by odd flips of circumstance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Skip all the chores and routines that can be postponed and go after the pleasure of social and home life.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Your own uncertainty about complicated issues created a difficult mood, in which arguments are not at all helpful. Relatives are not ready at the moment to go on with further changes of plans. Patience!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — An overlooked, trifling detail may put you in the wrong. There's urgency and distraction in home life — watch what you are about, do one thing at a time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Your tact in dealing with loved ones is appreciated. Keep financial arrangements out of sight, away from the interference of friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Feigning a good mood deceives nobody; say simply and honestly what is bothering you. Avoid nuisance conditions, unpleasant people, even at the cost of some embarrassment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — Arrangements made first thing in the day are best. It avails you little to wait for home deliveries; either they are coming early or not at all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — Any question over group finances, loans, outstanding accounts becomes needlessly complex. Other matters work out well all day, but retire early to avoid the fatigue of late evening tension.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): — If you feel left out, forget it. Later you will be able to come in free from the dissensions inevitable in groups forming Saturday.

The blue Polynesian floral mollot by Cole of California (left) buttons on a long, slitted sarong skirt. The mini floral printed dressmaker suit (center) by Peter Pan is pored down and narrowed through the elastic puckered midriff and the minimum of skirt. Escape To Sea In Resort Prints To Decorate Sunny Beach Scenes

NEW YORK — Planning a resort vacation in Jamaica or looking forward to a summer of sunny weekends at the beach house? This year you'll go down to the sea in prints. After a number of years when the bikini was practically de rigueur at resorts, Summer '70 will see beaches burst alive with new fashion shapes in fantastic prints. Maillots, one-piece body-clinging suits, are back, looking newest when covered modestly in front and almost nonexistent in back. Forget the rubber elastic look these suits used to have. Today new silky printed knits are natural for following the Maillot's body lines. Tiny are deco prints and mini floral dressmaker suits are making the beach scene. They are new and young when the shape is pared down to skin-tight via ribbed knit, elastic puckering and minimum of skirt. All suits look great in printed knits because they take color well, are color-fast and dry almost before you can get back to your beach towel. If you're a bikini believer and have been working all winter to keep in shape, don't despair. The classic, sleek bikinis are back in an exciting new way — taking the cue from sports-designers have designed for a swim wardrobe.

Betty Canary FRIDAY 13TH RECIPE

I thought I should warn you that Friday the 13th is here. It doesn't bother me because I'm not superstitious. Honestly, I cannot understand how some people can believe those old wives' tales! The 13th was also on a Friday in February and ... thinking back on it, that was the day I sprained my ankle.

Wait a minute. That was also the day before Valentine's Day. And all those room mothers had the flu and couldn't come to help with the party at school, so I got to be room mother for two rooms instead of one. Generally speaking, that wasn't bad luck. For me, it was. But for the ones who got to stay home it was silver-lining time.

Now that I think of it, that was the day my husband couldn't get the car started because the gasoline tank was empty. He drove our second car halfway to the station before it ran out of gas, too. Then he walked to the station to get gas in order to drive to the station and get gas. But it must have been pure coincidence — my son forgetting to fill the tank of the second car the same day I forgot to fill the tank of the first car. Pure coincidence wasn't what my husband called it. He didn't exactly call it bad luck either.

Funny, the way you start remembering isn't it? Well, not really so funny. What I'm remembering is that on last Friday the 13th a friend called and said her little girl fell in dancing class and loosened two permanent teeth.

On Friday, March 13, I won't have a worry in the world. For one thing — not that I'm superstitious or anything — plan to spend the day in bed. That way I can hardly walk under any silly old ladders, can I? And I can't step on a crack and break my mother's back, either. If I planned on eating, I might spill a little salt. I'm not at all hungry. And, the way I feel I doubt I'll be looking in any mirrors that day, so I can't possibly break one.

That's the way to handle things, even if you don't believe in them. Just avoid them. If anybody calls and asks why I'm staying in bed, I'll just explain that I'm not so old-fashioned as to believe in bad luck. I'll just laugh and laugh if they suggest I'm superstitious.

After all, I'll say, I have a perfectly good reason for being here. An excellent reason, as a matter of fact. And I'll think of a reason, too. Right after I take this blanket off the bed. Yes, the one I spilled the coffee on. And I won't even mention that it happened right after my black cat, Licorice, walked in front of me.

Must for Legs Moisturizing cream is a must for legs in cold weather — especially when mini-skirts give less than maximum leg protection against winter weather. Apply cream at night and in the morning, before stepping out into the icy air.

Speakers Stress Texas' Importance To Varietas Study Club Members

Mrs. N.B. Ellis and Mrs. J.E. Kirchman presented the program for Varietas Study Club recently in the home of Mrs. Clyde Ellis. Mrs. Luther Pierson, vice-president of the club, presided at the business meeting and introduced the speakers.

The program, based on "Texas", was highlighted by the salute to the Texas flag. Mrs. N.B. Ellis, the first speaker, used the topic, "Think Texas" and combined her talk with pictures of Texas industry, agriculture, and scenery.

She sketched the state's early history, with emphasis on the building of the Capitol building. She mentioned kinds of land and its uses, the varied weather,

New Look for the Prom A new look in prom dresses is very much in for this Spring's gala. Teens go lean and lanky with long, white crocheted skirts and long, white cotton lace tubes and the kinds of people who live in Texas. She also presented poems and sayings about the state.

Mrs. J.E. Kirchman, the second speaker, used the topic, "The Big Thicket — Nature's Gift to Texas", and said "this part of east Texas is the largest tract of land still in a primitive state in Texas."

It was once 2,000,000 acres, but is now only 450,000 acres and is being depleted at the rate of 50 acres per day, she said and discussed the soil, wild life, trees and flowers, and the people who live in the Big Thicket.

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs is working toward making the Big Thicket a national park. We want to preserve and develop it so that future generations may also enjoy it, she said.

N.B. Ellis, S.C. Evans, Lee Harrah, J.E. Kirchman, R.W. Lane, Otis Nace, Luther Pierson, Dewitt Seago, J.R. Spearman, Ralph Thomas, W.A. Wagoner, and Sherman White.

After a prayer by Mrs. Mammie Varmon, the song "Pure in Heart" was led by Mrs. Melvin Beigle.

The lesson "Think on these Things" taken from Phil. 4:8, was taught by Mrs. Grace Smith. Mrs. Melvin Beigle gave the benediction.

Attending were Meses, Mammie Varmon, Bart Lane, F. C. Horner, Melvin Beigle, Roy McKissick, Flora Harbin and Grace Smith.

Christian Science Church

The lesson-sermon read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday is on "Substance," which Mary Baker Eddy defines in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" as follows: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay" (p. 466). One of the Bible verses in the lesson-sermon is from Matthew: "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Readings from "Science and Health" include the following from the Christian Science textbook: "Absorbed in material selfhood we discern and reflect but faintly the substance of Life or Mind. The denial of material selfhood aids spiritual and eternal individuality, and destroys the erroneous knowledge gained from matter or through what are termed the material senses" (p. 91).

Many Mis-Interpret Supreme Court's Religious Decisions

The court went out of its way to emphasize that there is no Constitutional objection to any of the following activities in public schools: —Use of the Bible as a reference work for teaching secular subjects. —Study of the Bible for its literary and historic qualities. —Objective instruction in comparative religion. —Study of the history of religion and its role in the advancement of civilization. —Reciting historical documents, such as the Declaration of Independence, which contain reference to God. —Singing the National Anthem or patriotic hymns, which include the composers' profession in faith in God. —References to God in patriotic or ceremonial occasions. Few legal opinions have ever been more widely misinterpreted than those handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court concerning prayer and Bible reading in public schools. Even among school authorities and journalists, who should know better, the idea persists that the court "banned" prayer and Bible reading from public school classrooms. It did not. All that it held unconstitutional was the formerly widespread practice of beginning each school day with a miniature worship service, which typically included, a devotional reading

THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS

Bishop R. A. Wood
The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints

The world owes me a living....?

There is this — so often said — or supposed: "The world owes me a living." But when God gave man the earth He said, "... subdue it." (Gen. 1:28) And subduing a world takes work. It was not intended that we should have all the earth has to offer, without effort. Work is a blessing, an absolute essential.

But who or what is this world that is suppose to owe all of us everything? Surely parents owe children love and care and encouragement — providing for and teaching and training. Surely children owe parents respect and love and kindly attention, and care, as may be needed, especially later in life. No parent should be left in loneliness. And surely men owe other men compassionate service and assistance. But if we are speaking of this wonderful planet, it is very impersonal. It will not produce everything for all of us — or for any of us — without work. But if, when we say the world owes us a living, we are talking about people, this is all of us together. All of us owe it to ourselves to make the most of ourselves. Since there are always those who, in one way or another, are unable fully to care for themselves, we need to produce more than we consume, and everyone who can, should do all he possibly can. But it isn't reasonable for anyone simply to sit down and say, "The world owes me a living."

There is no magic about it. Someone has to think; someone has to plan; someone has to manage. Someone has to do everything. Everything has to be done. Nothing does itself. Someone has to produce or pay for everything in one way or another. There is an exchange of values in all relationships of life, and instead of saying the world owes me a living, this could be a very good time to say thank God for being alive, for opportunity, and for willingness to make the most of it.

To cite part of an old poem: "... For great and low there's but one test 'Tis that each one shall do his best; Who works with all the strength he can, Shall never die in debt to man." (Author Unknown)

TT Signs Two Top Texas Players

LUBBOCK (UPI)—Texas Tech, for the first time since it began competitive football in the Southwest Conference, has signed the No. 1 high school football prospect in Texas.

Brownwood quarterback Jimmy Carmichael called Texas Tech head football coach Jim Carlen Wednesday and said: "Coach, I'm ready to sign."

Tech also signed the No. 2 "blue chipper" in the state this year in Carlen's first go-round as a recruiter in Texas. Carlen was named Tech's coach Jan. 2. He replaced J. T. King who became the school's athletic director.

Carlen previously coached at West Virginia and was an assistant at Georgia Tech.

Outstanding Player
"It goes without saying that we are elated to get Jimmy," Carlen said. "He is an outstanding football player as well as an outstanding individual."

Carlen and King met with Carmichael and his parents for the signing.

"He can throw any kind of pass," Tech assistant Jim Ragland said. "He can throw the long ball, zip the strike or throw the soft one. It's the kind of talent you can't teach—it has to come naturally."

The signing of Carmichael came as somewhat of a surprise. It was thought he was leaning towards Oklahoma, the Big Eight Conference school which has picked off the No. 1 high school prospect the last two years.

Has Great Record
In his high school career, Carmichael completed 212 of 410 passes for 3,565 yards and 49 touchdowns. He also carried the ball himself 137 times for 705 yards—a 4.5 per carry average—and 16 touchdowns.

In his senior year alone, he completed 132 of 235 passes for 2,207 yards and 28 touchdowns. He rushed 84 times for 418 yards and six touchdowns.

Carlen ran a carbon copy of the Texas Longhorns' triple option offense—complete with the Wishbone T alignment—last year at West Virginia. Carmichael would be just the type of quarterback Carlen needs to run the same type of offense at Tech.

FORM CHARTS

II—Chicago, AL West

PROSPECTUS—White Sox started the long road back by force-feeding several rookies last year. Two of them, Bill Melton and Carlos May, came through Don Gutteridge well by using more rookies this season, but it'll take a few more years before building program starts paying off. The Toddlin' Town, meanwhile, still belongs to Leo.

PITCHING—Tommy John and Joel Horlen both had disappointing seasons in '69. Both were under 500—John with 9-11, Horlen 13-16. Still, they are best of staff. Gerry Arrigo, over from Cincy, might help and so might Paul Edmonson and Billy Wynne. Sleeper is Bart Johnson, 20-year-old righthander who led Midwest League in strikeouts last year. He's 6-5, 195 and fast. Wilber Wood, Danny Murphy and Jerry Neiman head up a so-so bullpen. Rating—C.

CATCHING—Ed Harmon caught 100 games last year, but only because Jay Josephson was out with injuries for three months. It's between them for starting job. Art Kusnyer, up from Lynchburg of the Carolina League, will start being groomed. Rating—C minus.

INFIELD—Tom McGraw and Gail Hopkins shared first last season, with no dramatic results. Rookie Bob Spencer, 6-4 and a good hitter, may get the nod over both Bobby Knapp is back at second, Luis Aparicio at short. Aparicio is coming off a 280 year. Melton has third locked up after leading Club in home runs (23) and RBIs (87) last year. Syd O'Brien, from Red Sox, and vet Ron Hansen are spot men. Rating—C.

OUTFIELD—Walt Williams, off a 304 year, stays in right. Ken Berry and Buddy Bradford will alternate in center until one of them wins the job. Left still belongs to Carlos May, who had 18 home runs when he nearly lost his thumb in a Marine summer camp. The White Sox say he's a little rusty, but the hand is O.K. Rating—C.

TOP ROOKIES—Besides Johnson, Kusnyer and Spencer, Chuck McKinney, who missed last year because of a service stint, will start being groomed as Aparicio's successor at short. Another possibility is Ron Lolich, cousin of Detroit's Mickey. He hit .309 as an infielder at Lynchburg last year. Prediction: 3th in AL West.

ALTHOUGH THEY WON'T HAVE DENNY MCLAIN for awhile, the Detroit Tigers still figure to be contenders for the title in Eastern Division of the American League. Two of the reasons are Willie Horton, left, (notice the mustache?) who led the team in homers and RBI's last season, and Mickey Lolich, right, a 19-game winner in 1969 and now No. 1 on the staff.

Allen Ends Holdout, But Carlton Still Won't Sign

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

The generation gap is still plaguing the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bearbaron August A. Busch, the team's owner, says, "I can't understand what's happening here or on the campuses or in our great country."

What seems to be happening in the Cardinal camp at St. Petersburg is that Richie Allen, who usually misses more than his share of regular season games, wanted to miss part of spring training and Steve Carlton wants more money.

Allen, traded to the Carls in the Curt Flood deal, casually arrived in camp Thursday and ended his "holdout" by signing an $80,000 contract. "Spring training is too long and I haven't been on time since 1964," he said, "I didn't figure on getting here until March 15 anyway."

Carlton Still Idle
Even though Allen signed, Busch's ire was still aroused because Carlton, who wants $40,000, still won't accept Busch's offer of $30,000. Carlton, who was 17-11 last year, couldn't help notice that Jerry Kossman got $50,000 from the Mets for going 17-9. But Busch notes the Mets won it all last season while the Cards slumped to fourth.

Busch claims, "I'm pretty fed up and I think the fans are, too. The players have a great pension plan and we've been pretty fair with salaries."

The Cards expect Carlton to pitch without signing his contract because the team has invoked the reserve clause on him. But there was no indication from Carlton whether he would play.

Exhibition Action
In Thursday's spring games, St. Louis was idle while Cleveland beat the Cubs, 4-3, in 11 innings. Oakland drubbed San Francisco, 13-1, California edged Seattle, 7-6, the Philadelphia "B" team stopped Philadelphia, 12-8, Boston shut out Detroit, 5-0, St. Louis blanked Kansas City, 3-0, Los Angeles drubbed Houston, 10-6, and Pittsburgh beat the Mexico City Reds 9-4. The Atlanta-Montreal, Baltimore-Washington and White Sox-Yankee games were rained out.

Jacobs Leads Monsanto Golf Open By One Stroke

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Tommy Jacobs can't explain it, but he always seems to play better in the even-numbered years. So, now that he's finally shaken the flu, the soft-spoken veteran of 14 years as a touring golf pro figures he's ready to make his move.

Jacobs appeared headed in that direction as he went into today's second round of the $150,000 Monsanto Open with a 1-stroke lead over youthful runner-up Grier Jones.

Jacobs, 35, from San Diego, Calif., battled a stiff breeze off Pensacola Bay Thursday while posting a 5-under-par 68 over the toughened Pensacola Country Club course.

Jones, 24, the Kansas who was the PGA rookie of the year in 1969, appeared to be heading for a share of the lead until a bogey left him with a 67.

Tight-Packed Field
It was still a wide-open tournament at the start of today's round, eight golfers were only two strokes off Jacob's pace with 68 and 11 more had first-round 69s.

The top two stars of this tournament, Gray Player and Arnold Palmer, did not fare so well Thursday, with cards of 71 and 74.

Jacobs failed to make the cut in the Doral Open and the Citrus Invitational the past two weeks after finishing 11th at Tucson. He blamed his troubles on the flu. But he was quite pleased with his opening round here.

Kentucky Comes Back To Top Irish-NCAA Action

By GREG GALLO
UPI Sports Writer

The big men dominated play Thursday night as eight teams moved on to the quarter-finals of the NCAA college basketball tournament.

Kentucky's 6-foot-8 center Dan Issel scored 44 points to spark the top ranked Wildcats to a come from behind 109-99 victory over Notre Dame at Columbus, Ohio, the site of the Midwest regional. In the second game of the doubleheader, 7-foot Pembroke Burrows tapped in a missed shot with two seconds remaining to give fifth-ranked Jacksonville a 194-103 victory over Big Ten champion Iowa.

In the East regional at Columbia, S.C., 6-foot-8 Howard Porter scored 29 points as No. 15 Villanova routed Niagara, 98-73. Six-foot-11 Bob Lanier netted 24 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to lead third-ranked St. Bonaventure to a 90-68 victory over North Carolina State in the second game.

No. 2 UCLA, the defending NCAA champion, routed Long Beach State, 88-66 while Utah State edged Santa Clara 69-68 in the West Regional at Seattle.

Drake, No. 9, outlasted Houston, 92-87 and fourth-ranked New Mexico State edged Kansas St., 70-66 in Midwest regional games at Lawrence, Kan.

Rupp Lectured Team
Kentucky trailed Notre Dame throughout the first half as the Wildcats were unable to get the ball inside to Issel. This prompted coach Adolph Rupp to tell his players: "I don't know whether you realize it or not, but he (Issel) has got on a Kentucky shirt. That's a fact, he's on the team."

When the ball began coming

Issel's way in the second half, the Irish, despite 32-points from Austin Carr, were no match for the classier 'Cats down the stretch.

After their 7-foot-2 center fouled out with 8:24 left, Jacksonville just got by the eighth-ranked Hawkeyes. Gilmore had scored 30 points and hauled down 17 rebounds before leaving the game.

Porter, hitting on jump shots, clearing the boards with authority and blocking numerous Villanova goal attempts, led Villanova to an early 20-4 lead and Niagara never could catch up. Calvin Murphy was held to 18 points.

St. Bonaventure will get first crack at Villanova and the Bonnies have been waiting for this chance since Jan. 28. It was on that night that Villanova handed the Bonnies (25-1) their only defeat of the year.

ENM, Guilford Upset Leaders, NIAI Results

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Friday the 13th came a day early for Stephen F. Austin.

The 33rd annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' (NAIA) basketball championships move into the semifinal round tonight without the heavily-favored Texans.

Upsets struck suddenly in Thursday night's quarterfinals, claiming the powerful Lumberjacks as well as No. 2-seeded Maryland State.

Austin puts its NAIA record 33-game winning streak on the line against Guilford, N.C., and lost it—100-94—after defending champion Eastern New Mexico dumped Maryland State, 76-74, in overtime.

Only third-seeded Central Washington State and No. 4-seeded Kentucky State won as expected. Central Washington barely survived Jackson (Miss.) State, 72-70, and Kentucky State got past two-time NAIA champ Central State of Ohio, 66-56.

Guilford's victory, its 29th straight after winning only three of its first six games this season, put the Quakers in tonight's semifinal wrap-up opposite Kentucky State after Central Washington tests Eastern New Mexico at 7 p.m. (CST).

Guilford's stunning upset came on a combined 88-point power show from three players—Dave Smith, M. L. Carr and Jerry Crocker.

Smith led the charge with 36 points, completely dominating the Lumberjacks' 7-foot center George Johnson who scored only seven points and grabbed a meager six rebounds. Carr added 27 and Crocker 25 for the Quakers.

Kentucky State took advantage of Central State of Ohio's cold-shooting Marauders, who hit only 28.3 points from the field. Pivot Elmore Smith had 20 rebounds, 15 points and 12 blocked shots for the Thoroughbreds, who also got a 27-point night from Travis Grant.

Central Washington took a 12-point lead, 62-50, into the final eight minutes before a belated Jackson rally barely fell short. Central Washington had to break off a 64-all deadlock in the final 2-12 minutes to win. Andy Harris' 17 points led the Washington team.

Eastern New Mexico needed John Robertson's tip-in with only five seconds remaining in regulation time to force a 65-65 tie that sent the game into the extra five-minute session.

Brothers Greg and Jerry Hyder totaled nine of the Greyhounds' 11 overtime points, with Greg's bucket from the corner with 1:18 remaining giving Eastern New Mexico a lead—73-72 — it never relinquished.

The Eastern New Mexico-Maryland State game ironically was a rematch of last year's NAIA championship game.

Schools Not For Teaching?

A professor who must like to startle people claims, "Schools must not have as their primary goal the teaching of children."

(They haven't had for a long time, professor. What they've had instead has been "life adjustment.")

The professor's credentials for making the statement apparently are quality. He is James S. Coleman, professor of social relations at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Teaching of math, reading or history, says Coleman, can be done much more efficiently by agencies other than the schools.

He proposes that the federal government issue "educational vouchers" so that each student can study these subjects at his own pace and in his own way.

A reading voucher, for instance, could be used by a pupil or his parents to buy reading instruction from an outside, approved educational agency. (Who's going to approve it? Not the non-educating educators in the schools as we know them - we hope.)

The student would, in effect, buy his education on the open market instead of being tied down to a school because of his place of residence.

A visionary, impractical idea? Something not too remote from Coleman's "educational voucher" proposal is already being tried out in Texarkana, Ark., where 15 per cent of the students above seventh grade drop out - chiefly because of frustration (they're not doing too good a job there on the "life adjustment" program, either), and a sense of failure in subjects like reading and math.

As reported recently, the private company, Dorset Educational Systems, Inc., of Norman, Okla., has taken over part of the job of teaching some 160 students at three junior high schools at Texarkana, Ark., and at a junior high and a senior high in one school district in Texarkana, Tex. The firm guarantees results and will be paid on the basis of performance.

Bringing private entrepreneurs into education does not mean that the big brick educational "plant" is going to go the way of the little red one-room schoolhouse. The school can continue to serve as "home base" in the educational system of tomorrow, Coleman claimed.

The school may no longer be necessary to provide more information, "but its importance in developing skills for the management of information may be more necessary than in the past", Coleman says.

You could have guessed - couldn't you? - that he wasn't going to acknowledge that the horse and buggy have proved to be obsolete.

Same Problems For Russia

The Soviet Union may be making some progress in its many-year plan to catch up with the U.S., but not always, it seems, in desired areas, says Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Moscow has recently reported two problems with a familiar ring to American ears.

Pollution, for one. In their obsessive drive toward industrialization of the past few decades, the Soviets have been not so flatteringly imitating not only the achievements but also some of the appalling consequences of the earlier American experience.

Industrial waste pouring into the Volga is decimating the rivers fish life - including the sturgeons that for centuries have yielded the prized Russian black caviar, now become a rare item in Soviet markets.

Other waterways are similarly threatened, so much so that the Kremlin is showing concern over the quality of Soviet life. Plans for new plants, including a huge new auto complex on the Volga, emphasize efficient waste disposal and water purification systems to head off the pollution problem before it develops.

Soviet law, in fact, now makes pollution a crime and, theoretically at least, authorities charged with land and water conservation can block a new industrial project if its pollution-control provisions are deemed inadequate.

In this case, the Soviets seem to be making a determined effort not to catch up with us but to profit from a bad American example. And we have no reason not to wish them well.

They are also looking to the U.S. for tips in handling another problem - slow mail. It appears that the Soviet post has been getting slower and slower. In recent test mailings carried out by the magazine Literaturnaya Gazeta, results showed mail reaches addresses only one-third - or less - as rapidly as was the case a century ago, as an example of post-revolutionary lag which Literaturnaya Gazeta says must not be tolerated.

It suggests, among other things, adopting such innovations as ZIP codes to get Soviet couriers back on the swift track.

If they do adopt the ZIP code, we hope they have better success with it than we've found in the United States.

Earth's Short-haul Troubles

The Smithsonian Institution's Center for Short-Lived Phenomena has published its annual report containing descriptions of 146 short-lived events around the world which the center participated in during 1969. Among them were:

H. L. Hunt Writes

CRITICS OF PATRIOTISM - Although a recent turn to the right in America has caused patriotism to become somewhat more fashionable than it was a while ago, the downgraders of this noble sentiment are still at work.

The critic of patriotism says our first loyalty must be to the world as a whole and not to our home country. He accuses citizens who give first devotion to their homeland of being bigoted and warmongers. He says patriotism is basically a wartime fever and fosters blind obedience to worn-out principles. He downgrades the flag, the patriot's salute to it, and its symbolism in our heritage of freedom. He wants God removed from song, building, classroom and public lands. He demands license for the atheist, the one-world advocate and the breaker of selected laws. He wants restraints placed on the believer in God and the lawabiding citizen.

The anti-patriot American says nobody should be allowed to interfere with his acts of violent demonstration, sniping, looting, marching, sitting and capturing. He holds there is nothing sacred about public buildings, private property, family life, and even the church.

The critics of patriotism are quite vocal in stating the principles to which they will not be loyal. They never seem to know to what they will be loyal. They are easy to spot by their words and actions, and they cannot stand against the truth the patriot knows.

What is not so well-known is that military strategy, spending and procurement will get an even rougher going over from nonmilitary men in the administration.

Key men on President Nixon's White House staff are convinced there is a great deal of waste in this nation's defense budgets. There is more than a suspicion that for all of the billions spent, the U.S. is not as well-prepared as it should be for the dangers of the 1970s.

It is known also that Defense Secretary Melvin Laird and Deputy Secretary David Packard agree.

The administration's critical analysis will come from a committee of men from the State Department, the Central Intelligence Agency, the Council of Economic Advisors, the Budget Bureau, the White House. It will have but two Department of Defense representatives.

So far as this reporter can recall in the last 25 years at least, this is the first time that men from such an array of other executive departments and agencies have been delegated such a large voice in defense budget planning.

Some criteria by which each new and old weapons system and military program and any expansion will be evaluated will likewise be quite "radical" compared with past practices:

-What domestic or foreign-aid program will the weapon or military program eliminate or adversely affect because of its cost?

-Will the weapon or program result in an unacceptable amount of domestic dissent? (Biological and chemical warfare were two systems recently eliminated in whole or part because President Nixon became convinced they could not meet this criteria.)

-Will the weapon or program win friends and co-operation internationally or will it lose us allies or support more valuable than the weapon to our security and diplomatic aims?

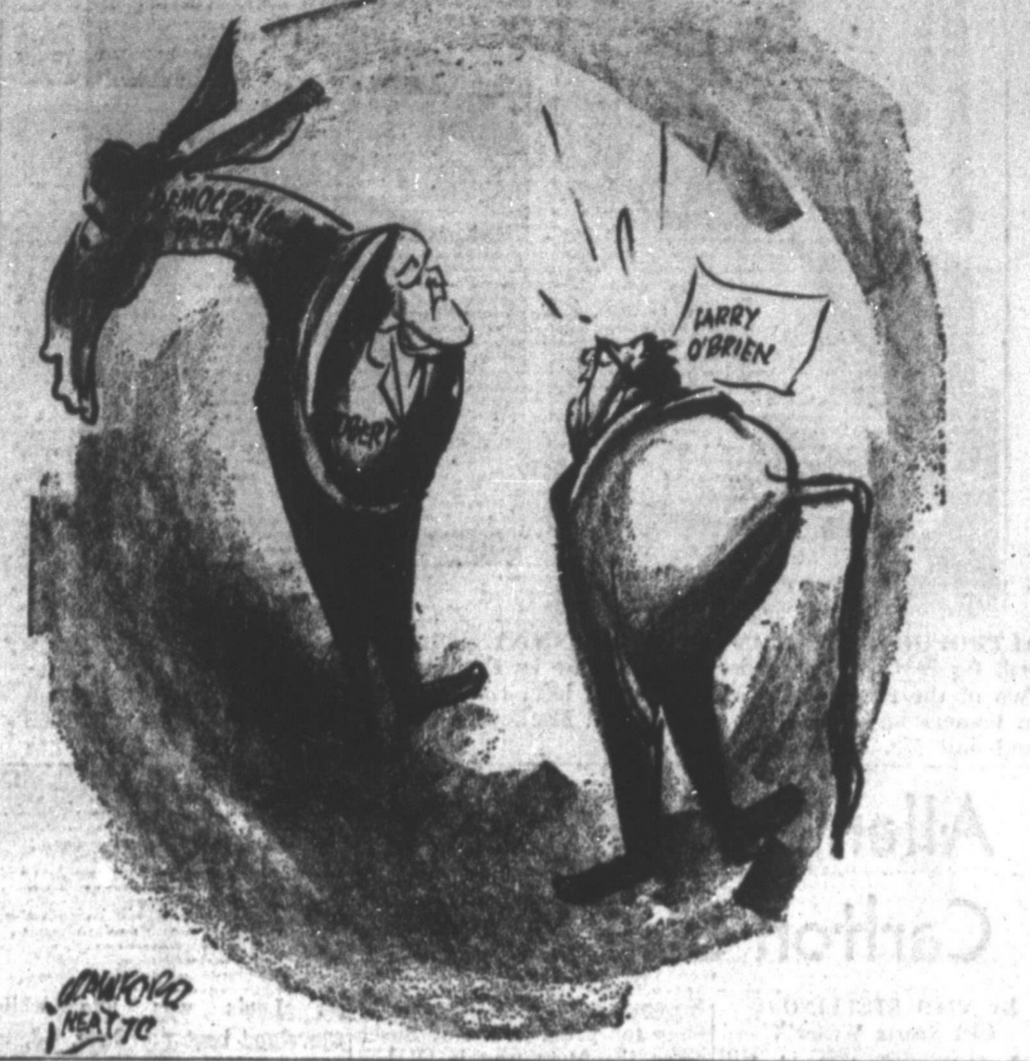

Other questions will be more conventional, though not always seriously asked in the past:

-What will the weapon or program do that other existing or possible less-expensive weapons or programs won't do better, as well or almost as well?

-Is the weapon based on sound doctrine or is it wanted for traditional reasons or because it has been invented?

-Will the weapon or program in fact deter enemy aggression? Some critical Pentagon waste has already been identified: Weapons, equipment and units are being maintained which it now appears are unsuited to probable future wars.

WASHINGTON Defense Budget Due For Rough Time In Congress

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) - It is common knowledge the Department of Defense budget will get a rough going over in the Congress this year and next and probably for some years to come.

What is not so well-known is that military strategy, spending and procurement will get an even rougher going over from nonmilitary men in the administration.

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested these should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their mind. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

Editor: I appreciated your editorial in the March 9th paper. I don't know how you arouse the people to what the problems are unless through the news media, but it seems in the city of Pampa, the School District and the County any advice from the news media or other interested people falls on deaf ears and the opposite of good business practice is pursued just for the sake of getting 'even'.

If the three tax agencies mentioned above would get their house in order and discontinue the tax inequities and would make an honest effort to be fair with their property valuation and overall management the many problems would be solved.

How do you go about accomplishing this unless you bring the true story to the people? I would appreciate comments on this subject. E. C. Sidwell P. O. Box 2475 Pampa, Texas

JOHN GOLDSMITH ROBERT ALLEN Panthers Drive Again For Capital Chapter

WASHINGTON - The violence-prone, revolution-preaching Black Panther Party is again trying to establish a chapter in the nation's capital - so far with few tangible results.

This is the second time the Panthers have sought to gain a foothold here. The previous unsuccessful attempt was in December 1967.

Directing the current organizational drive are Jim Williams, 29, New York, and Ibn Sudjata, 27, who claims to be from Biloxi, Miss. Both sport high-rise Afro haircuts, are attired in blue denim, and wear wire-rimmed glasses.

They operate from an office on upper 18th Street, N.W., in a black and Spanish-speaking neighborhood.

While admitting that so far they have made little progress, Williams and Sudjata profess not to be discouraged. They say their principal problem is to politically educate Washington's overwhelmingly predominant black population "to a clear awareness of the need to join the Black Panther Party."

Negro affluence is credited by Williams and Sudjata as the main obstacle in winning support for the BPP - despite the fact the capital's more than 800,000 population is 71 per cent black.

"Too many negroes here feel sufficiently well off," complained Williams, "to be interested in a movement to overthrow the system. It's impossible to start a program unless the people feel a need for it. The big job we've got to do is to raise the level of awareness among the black people."

Cited as illustrative of the affluence of Washington negroes is that some 60 per cent of the 34,000 employed by the District of Columbia government are black. In addition, more than 25 per cent of the 291,000 federal employees in the city are black.

Also, the average annual income of Washington families is $14,200 as compared to the national average of $10,377.

Laments Sudjata: "Due to employment opportunities, Washington blacks feel a false sense of security. That can be very dangerous, as it is common knowledge that this is a company town and everyone must sooner or later dance to the tune of the federal government."

Williams is equally critical, saying, "The government is able to control the black people of this city through jobs and poverty programs. And it has virtually silenced so-called black leaders by putting money into their pockets. It's a very unwholesome situation. But we are not giving up, because the people need the Black Panther Party."

FIRST FLOP - According to Panther officials a major reason for the failure to make headway here in the first organizing effort in December 1967 was the "refusal of the people to live by the rules of the party."

The head of that drive was arrested on a number of charges, among them robbery, conspiracy, hijacking, theft of government property, and receiving stolen property. Some of these charges are still pending.

Foremost among the 26 "Rules of the Black Panther Party" is the injunction that every party member "must learn to operate and service weapons correctly."

These controlling rules are published in every issue of the party's newspaper. Another rule proclaims that "everyone in a leadership position must read no less than two hours per day to keep abreast of the changing political situation."

Recently, the BPP published a widely-circulated document titled "Armament Information." Featured on the front page was a sketch of a negro pointing a pistol at a white policeman. Under the sketch was the following quotation from Huey P. Newton, minister of defense: "The racist dog policeman must withdraw immediately from our communities, cease their wanton murder and brutality and torture of black people, or face the wrath of the armed people."

The publication proclaims that every Black Panther must have a fire-arm and ammunition or be expelled. Following are significant pronouncements in this document:

"Every Black Panther Party member must have a functional piece and at least 1,000 rounds of ammunition. Every Panther in training must acquire a piece within their six weeks' training period. All party members who

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: - Is it proper to permit railroad mergers or other mergers?

ANSWER: If we believe in the free market where people have a right to manage their business the best way they know how, in the long run it is certainly beneficial to let any group of railroads or any other kind of business combine if the public can get better service.

And they are foolish to try to combine if they can't give better service. If they think they can get protection, they will find in the long run they will get regulations.

Government intervention in the free market only leads to more intervention and controls over the activities of individuals and destroys the incentive of individuals and companies to improve their service to the people.

Tailoring the news to suit the government or to suit the Chamber of Commerce or to suit the reader is a form of censorship. Having a little managed news is like having a little pregnancy.

The Doctor Says

Obesity Is Serious Health Hazard

About 85 per cent of the population of this country is overweight. This is a serious health hazard, since for those who are 15 to 24 per cent overweight there is a 30 per cent increase in the death rate; for those 25 to 34 per cent overweight, a 45 per cent increase; and for those 35 per cent or more overweight, a 60 per cent increase.

Most obese persons have great difficulty maintaining a normal weight. Because the food they eat is burned with greater efficiency than normal, they need less food than the normal person. But because their feeling of hunger is greater, they eat more. In most cases the cause of this is unknown but, in any case, I strongly advise a thorough examination, including tests for glucose tolerance and blood cholesterol.

It is estimated that 50 per cent of all overweight persons are either diabetic or prediabetic. Both conditions will improve with a loss of weight. In general, all overweight persons must eat less and exercise more if they want to lose weight. They should, however, eat a balanced diet of the type they are accustomed to but cut the size of all portions in half, keeping a careful record of all the food they eat. In addition to this, they should take a four- or five-mile walk every day.

Appetite suppressants are of doubtful value and may lead to a psychological dependence. Thyroid pills should definitely not be taken. It is true that they speed up the metabolism but they also increase nervous tension. Crash diets are a waste of time because the weight lost is quickly regained. Low-calorie diet foods aren't of much use, either, because, if you are hungry, they will not satisfy your appetite.

A steady loss of about one pound a week is easier to maintain than a more rapid loss and is less likely to spoil your disposition. If at the end of a week of increased exercise and reduced food intake you have not lost weight, you should make a further cut in all food portions and increase your daily exercise. If this doesn't work, you are cheating. No farmer was ever mystified regarding why his prize hog gained weight.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It begins to look as though crime stories will outlast westerns as the great staple of television melodramas.

Maybe it's no surprise, but it is a pit. For while there was a certain nostalgia and national feeling in the video westerns that are diminishing in number, the crime series are basically an exploitation of a fascination with sleazebags.

Westerns inevitably get more and more dated, and of course the anti-violence feeling hurts their action plots. There is surely much in the way of violence in crime stories too—but these tales can be adjusted more easily to the desirable market of young adults in terms of modern settings.

Crime Pays

The years of portraying gangsters and other bums on film as glamorous, romantic anti-heroes rather than the despicable slime they are has undoubtedly had its effect on the American subconscious. Add to this the new, more sophisticated methods of today's crime, and the insidious entry into the corporate level that fascinates Americans in search of a fast dollar at any price, and you can see the marketability of crime series.

Americans don't like crime in the streets, but they obviously don't mind it on television. In short, the subject still has a perverse hold on the secret pleasures of the citizenry—as long, of course, as no social cause is involved with crime. That it gets messy, and all the fun is taken away. Who's sick?

At any rate, consider the crime series on the network schedules for next season, and you will see there are quite a few.

ABC-TV, for instance, has "The Silent Force," about a secret service group that tries to do in the Mafia. It has "Dan August," a cops and robbers program. It has "Zig Zag," about a trio that solves crimes. These are all new shows. Other crime series, such as "The Mod Squad," are also returning.

Fall Lineups

CBS-TV, of course, has such series as "Hawaii Five-O," "Mannix" and "Mission: Impossible" coming back. Of these, the most straightaway crime show, "Hawaii Five-O," has become more and more popular, and currently is one of the highest-rated series on television.

NBC-TV, meanwhile, has such returning crime programs as "Adam 12" and "Ironside," as well as "The Name of the Game," which may really be listed in this category despite its adornments, among them a publishing empire background.

All these shows are just the obvious surface proof of crime series. Crime tales also provide much of the content in series with related backgrounds—the law stories involving attorneys, the movies-made-for-video, the anthologies and alleged "social" dramas about people in trouble. In television, crime pays—and there is no compensation of a Bogart or a Cagney.

FLAG UNFURLED

ROME, N.Y. (UPI)—Kenneth W. West, 17, avoided a $25 fine Wednesday by promising to take an American Flag off the back of his jacket.

Judge Joseph Serino agreed not to impose the fine for allegedly defiling the flag as long as West keeps the 10-by-17-inch flag off his clothes.

Treasure-Hunting Dispute

AUSTIN (UPI)—Both the City of Galveston and the State of Texas say they will take a dispute over treasure-hunting rights on Pelican Island to the state Supreme Court.

Travis County District Judge Herman Jones took under advisement Wednesday a challenge of a section of the state's new antiquities code giving the state authority to issue or deny treasure hunting permits on government owned land.

A group headed by Walter Thibodeaux asked the City of Galveston for permission to hunt for artifacts and treasure on Pelican Island. He promised the city 35 per cent of any treasure unearthed.

The state attorney general's office sought an injunction to bar Galveston from issuing the permit. Jones said he will rule soon on the injunction request.

Winning Courtroom Author Loses Battle With Death

Perry Mason author dies

TEMECULA, Calif. (UPI)—Eric Stanley Gardner, creator of Perry Mason, the fictional lawyer who never lost a case, is dead at the age of 80.

Gardner was the author of more than 100 detective and western stories. He was released from Riverside Community Hospital last month where he was treated for an undisclosed illness, and died Wednesday at his home here.

Gardner drew on 25 years of courtroom experience to create many of his mysteries, including the Perry Mason series, and dictated his thrillers to seven secretaries. He never spent more than 30 minutes roughing out his plot.

Joined Bar At 21

His more than 100 books sold more than 100 million copies and the Perry Mason television shows starring Raymond Burr made his name almost synonymous with courtroom theatrics.

Born July 17, 1889, in Malden, Mass., the son of a mining engineer, Gardner decided to become a lawyer after a district attorney warned him he was breaking the law by taking part in a series of unlicensed amateur boxing exhibitions. He studied law in the offices of several trial lawyers and was admitted to the California State Bar when he was 21.

He wrote his first Perry Mason book in 1932 and eventually began writing full time, pouring out 20,000 words a day and six books a year. At one time he said his books were selling "at a rate of around two thousand an hour."

Other Pen Names

He described his books as "good, salable merchandise," but bemoaned the fact that writing his novels and answering his mail took so much time he had little leisure for the fishing and hunting he adored. As well as the Mason series, Gardner also wrote detective stories under the pen names of A. A. Fair, Charles J. Kenny and Carleton Kendrick.

Gardner married Natalie Talbert in 1912 and they had a daughter, Mrs. Alan R. McKiltrick. After the death of his wife, he was married Aug. 9, 1968 to Agnes Jean Bethell, his secretary for 40 years and his model for Mason's Girl Friday, Della Street.

In recent years he divided his time between Hollywood, where his television shows were produced, and homes in Paradise and Temecula, Calif.

Funeral services Friday will be private.

Goldwater Blames Demos For War

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., today blamed U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War on what he termed the stupid mistakes of Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The unsuccessful 1964 GOP presidential candidate also told a group of young Republicans that the Lactian situation results from the violation by the Communists of the neutrality of that Southeast Asian country.

Goldwater characterized the Vietnam War as stemming from "a series of stupid mistakes made by two Presidents," and commented: "I want to remind you this war started when Jack Kennedy sent 16,000 men over there to shoot.

"Oh, I'm sorry. I guess I forgot to tell you that we've had another staff expansion. All of the space downstairs already was taken, so we're using the bedroom for an office."

"Well, gosh, Dick, I don't like to complain, but having that mimeograph machine jammed in there makes it awfully difficult to make up the bed."

"I realize that, Pat, and I

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Wall Street Journal estimated this week that it now costs about $70 million a year to maintain President Nixon in the style to which Hubert Humphrey would have liked to have become accustomed.

A lot of that money, obviously, is used to pay the ever-growing White House staff. Finding work space for the presidential entourage is a major problem.

Just the other day, for instance, one of the last remaining open areas in the executive mansion, a large west wing lobby, was partitioned into office cubicles.

Well, a president naturally wants to have his aides nearby. But it could eventually create a situation something like this:

"Dick?"

"Yes, Pat."

"Who are those men in my bedroom?"

Sacrifice

"Oh, I'm sorry. I guess I forgot to tell you that we've had another staff expansion. All of the space downstairs already was taken, so we're using the bedroom for an office."

"Well, gosh, Dick, I don't like to complain, but having that mimeograph machine jammed in there makes it awfully difficult to make up the bed."

"I realize that, Pat, and I want you to know that I appreciate the sacrifice you are making."

"I'll bet Ladybird never had a telephone switchboard in her dress closet."

"That's true, Pat, and you certainly have been a brick about putting up with the inconvenience."

"Did Jackie ever have to convert one of her chest of drawers to a filing cabinet?"

"I don't think she did. But if she had, I'm sure she wouldn't have been half as sweet about it as you have been."

"I don't mind that so much. The thing I object to is having to share my sitting room with Spiro Agnew and the stenographic pool. Mamie and Bess never had to do anything like that."

"Of course not. Spiro wasn't around in those days."

"I can't get anything done because he's always rehearsing his speeches. The only private place left in this house is my bathtub."

"I've been trying to think of some easy way of saying this, but there isn't any. I'm afraid you are going to have to share your tub with an adding machine."

"Gee whiz! The next job you get I hope we don't have to live over the store?"

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock market bottoms are formed either with dull trading and an ability to ignore bad news or with an active selling climax. Harris, Upham & Co. observes. So far, the 1969-70 decline has been orderly without periods of emotional selling pressure. Quality stocks are near their lows, the firm says, but the more speculative sectors of the market still require caution on the part of investors.

The market requires consolidation now and further monetary developments be necessary if it is to strengthen, Shearson, Hammill & Co. says. The firm adds that the odds are in favor of further market improvement, despite the likelihood that the next quarterly earnings will be disappointing.

Bache & Co. sees the market periods of change and says that any swift technical rally should be considered a signal for caution rather than aggressiveness. Though the market atmosphere has become somewhat more positive, no clear cut upward trend has so far developed.

Many of the glamor issues are now being sold simply because they are glamor issues, differentials them on their individual merits, E. F. Hutton observes. This kind of indiscriminate selling often leads to explosive rallies which occur almost without warning.

In 1945 the First Army crossed the Rhine River at Remagen, Germany, as World War II drew toward an end in Europe. Germany surrendered in early May of that year.
