Eastern Postal Workers Ignore President's Edict

Texas Postmen Will Wait

By United Press International

Postal workers in Houston and Dallas have given the federal government until the end of the week to come up with a settlement to the growing national strike. If nothing happens by midnight Friday the 1,800 employes in Houston promised to walk off their jobs one minute later.

Houston, the South's largest city, was expected to set the precedent for other Texas cities to follow.

The Houston postal workers voted for a five day cooling off period. But in Dallas, the grace period was decided by the 10 member executive board of Letter Carriers Local 132 of the AFL-CIO.

The five-day period was requested by national President James H. Rademacher.

Continue Work

"We will tell our people to continue working until they hear anything different," said Dallas local President William P. York.

The strike started in New York City Wednesday and has spread to other cities.

Letter carriers in Waco planned a meeting tonight and were expected to follow Houston's lead. Waco's local union President W. D. Mangrum said he did not think his members would conduct a wildcat strike, however.

"But if the majority decides to go ahead and call one locally, we have already had talks about where to set up picket lines," he said. "If a strike was called nationally, there would probably be 75 per cent abide by the order."

Waco's local has 168 members.

The Houston postal workers voted Sunday by a two-to-one majority to observe a five-day cooling off period. Local union President Sam Madonio said if no settlement was reached in Washington by next Saturday at 12:01 a.m., the Houston workers would walk off their jobs.

York said he had no plans to put a similar recommendation before Dallas 1,300 members.

"We are in support of our national president," York said. "The next action should be in Washington with the delegation of negotiators."

York predicted there would be no national strike.

Soldier Incapable

"Taking a soldier and asking him to deliver the mail is like taking an inexperienced draftee and sending him to Vietnam," Madonio said. "He is incapable. If they send troops to deliver the mail, all we could do is sit back and watch the fun. There would be mass chaos."

Madonio said a loud chorus of boos greeted the decision to remain on the job until midnight Friday. "But it came out in favor of the cooling off period by two-to-one."

The news media was barred from the union voting session.

"There has been bitter resentment in the past from editorials which have run in Houston papers," Madonio said. "The papers have run down the letter carriers, and have been against even a pay boost of 5.4 per cent. They call it inflationary, and yet they have raised the price of their newspapers 50 per cent.

"Gentlemen, we are sick and tired of it," he said. "We have had our bellyful of it. We are tired of being treated like the stepchildren of the federal government.

"We want to compete in the economic market like anyone else. It is a shame a man has to take home $100 to $115 a week after 20 years of service. That is unheard of in private industry."

Big Cities Adamant In Walkout Demands

By United Press International

Postal workers in a number of communities ended wildcat walkouts and returned to their jobs today, but New York and Chicago - the two largest and most important mail points - still were tied up as the strike that started six days ago reached an important crossroads.

The question to be answered today was whether enough letter carriers would go back to their jobs to keep president Nixon from calling out troops to move the mails.

An early morning report by the Post Office Department said seven out of its 15 regions had no walkouts and that 98 per cent of the carriers were back at work in Boston.

But letter carriers in Chicago ignored the appeals of their union leaders and voted to stay off the job. Chicago is a central distributing point for the national postal system. Letter carriers in 23 suburban stations in the Chicago area voted to return to work but three—Aurora, Franklin Park and La Grange—decided to remain off the job.

About 200 clerks showed up for the morning shift in Chicago despite the strike vote.

James Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, said he would ask President Nixon to call for a start to negotiations. Rademacher was asked what he thought of the possible use of troops to deliver the mail.

"I don't want the President to use anything but his imagination to get this thing settled," he replied.

At a news conference Saturday President Nixon said he "had the means to deliver the mail and we will use those means." He promised, "On Monday I will meet my constitutional obligation to see that the mails go through."

Nixon did not specify but it was assumed he would use the National Guard or Army troops to get the mail moving. Maj. Gen. W.P. Wilson, chief of the National Guard, was in his Pentagon office Sunday mapping plans for possible mobilization. He said he could have his men together within 24 hours after getting an order to start action.

In a message to the nation at 1:15 p.m. today, President Richard Nixon directed the U.S. Attorney General to call out various military organizations to move the mail in New York City.

He said the military would be used only as long as it took striking postal workers to return to work.

He said troops would be called into other postal installations as deemed necessary.

Congressmen May Lose Easter Holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The postal strike may cost congressmen their Easter vacation.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said if special legislation to deal with the strike becomes necessary "we'll forego our recess if we have to." The 10-day recess was set to begin Thursday afternoon, although many lawmakers were preparing to leave after most of the important business is finished Tuesday.

Laos Asks Help In Getting Rid Of Communists

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Like neighboring Laos, the new Cambodian leadership has asked Britain and the Soviet Union to help get Communist troops from Vietnam off its soil.

The appeal was announced Sunday by the man now in control of the government, Gen. Lon Nol. He has asked Britain and the Soviets, cochairmen of the 1954 Geenva convention that proclaimed Cambodia neutral, to reactivate the International Control Commission (ICC) to "help put a stop in peaceful fashion to the occupation."

An estimated 40,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops are believed camped in Cambodia, the main reason behind the parliament's decision to depose Sihanouk as chief of state last Wednesday.

Sihanouk canceled the mission of the ICC, made up of troops from India, Poland and Canada, in Cambodia last year, claiming his government could not afford its part of the support.

From London, Britain said it has not yet received Long Nol's request but stood ready to react if required.

GRAY COUNTY GETS $19-MILLION

U.S. Pours Half-Billion Into 18th District In '69

By TEX DeWEESE
News Staff Writer

The federal government paid nearly a half-billion dollars into the Texas Panhandle's 18th Congressional District last year and $18,969,402 of the amount was received in Gray County.

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa released figures today showing that federal expenditures in his district in 1969 added up to the near half-billion dollar mark received by individuals, companies and local governments from the U.S. Treasury.

Price said that in most of his speeches he has pointed out that "everyone is for lowering taxes, but are not willing to take the expenditure cuts from the Federal government which this would require."

The more than $18-million federal outlay in Gray County in 1969 shows that nearly $16-million of the total was spent in four categories.

The Department of Defense ranked first in the county with $6,665,000. Department of Health, Education & Welfare was second with $5,256,715 Department of Agriculture was third with $2,965,187. Veterans Administration, fourth, with $1,107,309.

Other federal expenditures in Gray County included:

Department of Housing & Urban Development, $944,000; Post Office Department, $593,030; Treasury Department, $777,666; Civil Service Commission, $307,103; Transportation Department, $82,709; Labor Department, $87,256; Agency for International Development, $30,105; Railroad Retirement Board, $86,991; General Services Administration, $7,671; Selective Service, $13,660; and Small Business Administration, $25,000.

Price explained that, for example, Department of Agriculture expenditures include farm price support payments, REA and Farmers Home Administration loans, food stamp and commodity donations, and all other Agriculture Department functions.

Department of Commerce includes census data and Weather Bureau. Department of Defense includes civilian pay, military active duty and retired pay, and defense contracts.

Department of Health Education & Welfare includes Social Security, Federal welfare share and health and education grants. Department of Housing & Urban Development includes FHA mortgage insurance for home purchase and improvement.

Department of Transportation includes highway and air-port planning and construction. Treasury Department includes Bureau of Customs, Internal Revenue and interest on public debt, and the Agency for Inter-

Laotian Prince Takes Dim View Of Things To Come

VIENTIANE (UPI)—Prince Souvanna Phouma marked the 20th anniversary of his embattled royal Lao army today with the prediction that its recent setbacks might be only an inkling of things to come.

"Perhaps what we have seen is only the first step in the North Vietnamese war of escalation," the Laotian chief of state told soldiers and diplomats at the rain-drenched army day ceremony.

The prince said he was studying the five-point Pathet Lao peace plan delivered to him Sunday but added he would not agree to any settlement that was not "permanent and honorable and respecting our integrity."

North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao representatives boycotted the ceremony, remaining in the embassies allowed them in the Laotian capital by the 1962 Geneva Convention on Laos.

Souvanna said the Soviet Union's refusal to consult with other signers of the accords on a settlement—the Soviets were cochairmen of the convention—"indicates the intention of prolonging the war in Laos."

Souvanna called the North Vietnamese "strong and shameless" and accused them of bringing 13,000 additional troops into Laos for the current offensive, the strongest guerrilla drive since 1962.

Fighting was reported light around the U.S. support base at Long Cheng, with T28 fighter-bombers having to suspend their air strikes against the North Vietnamese encirclement because of the heavy monsoon rain.

The commander of government soldiers at Long Cheng, Gen. Vang Pao, flew to Vientiane Sunday for a top-level meeting with Souvanna after the Pathet Lao courier, Lt. Col. Pradit Thiengtham, delivered the peace plan.

Pradit and Souvanna met for 15 minutes. The guerrilla officer arrived Friday from Hanoi with the plan, which calls for an immediate cease-fire and an end to the U.S. bombing and involvement in Laos.

Commenting on that involvement, Hanoi Radio accused the United States today of "grossly trampling" on the 1962 Geneva Accords and called on Washington to stop its "war of aggression."

UNTIL THINGS JELL

Pampa Postmen To Sit Tight

By TEX DeWEESE
News Staff Writer

Pampa postal workers continued working as usual today as they waited for discussions to get under way between the federal government and National Association of Letter Carriers on pay and postal reforms.

Post office workers were returning to work and mail embargos were lifted in some areas of the country where unauthorized workouts had been staged during the weekend.

The government has stated it will not enter the discussions until all postal workers are back on their jobs.

Marion Brown, president of the Pampa Unit of the National Letter Carriers Association, said today, local clerks and letter carriers "will keep in line" until the situation jells one way or another.

The Pampa unit of the association has 36 members consisting of 27 carriers and nine postal clerks.

There is no plan for a walkout locally. Postal Union Officials throughout the Panhandle and the rest of Texas seem to be inclined the same way.

"We would rather wait and give the Post Office Department and the federal government a chance to work things out during the five-day interim period," Brown said.

The head of the Pampa postal union said he and five or six members of the local unit plan to attend a meeting of Panhandle postal workers tonight in Amarillo.

The meeting, announced on television Sunday, has been called, Brown stated, for a general discussion of the nationwide situation.

Brown indicated, and this appears to be true generally in the Panhandle area, that postal workers will comply with the requests of Labor Secretary George P. Shultz and postal union leaders to honor the traditional and constitutional oath of postal employes to stay on the job.

James H. Rademacher, president of the national letter carriers' group, blamed the unprecedented strike on radicals within his own union and named specifically the Students for a Democratic Society.

SDS is the group named by David Harmon, of Pampa, a vice president of the National Association of Student Governments, as one of the leading movements in the nation attempting to disrupt government functions and destroy existing society.

Harmon lashed out at the SDS in a speech before the Pampa Chamber of Commerce last week in Coronado Inn.

Senators Lambast Carswell

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., said today the Supreme Court nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell should be sent back to the Senate Judiciary Committee to die.

Harris, former national chairman of the Democratic party, said Carswell is not worthy of the court because of his record, both as a citizen and a judge.

In a 17-page speech prepared for the Senate, Harris reviewed all of the arguments raised by opponents of the Florida Appeals Court judge, as debate on the nomination entered its second week. Harris particularly questioned whether Carswell had changed his outlook since 1948 when he gave a speech advocating white supremacy.

Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, in an interview Sunday, said Carswell was "not fit" to occupy the seat Goldberg formerly held. Goldberg said the seat had been occupied before him by Justices Storey, Holmes, Cardozo and Frankfurter, considered some of the best legal minds in American history.

Goldberg was interviewed on NBC-TV's 'Meet the Press."

Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott meanwhile estimated 39 of the Senate's 100 members would vote against Carswell if the matter were decided today. The estimate of opposition was higher than Scott's recent forecasts of no more than 30 "no" votes.

Scott was interviewed Sunday on ABC-TV's Issues and Answers.

U.S. Loses More Planes Over Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command today reported the loss of two more American warplanes over Laos and said two of the crewmen are missing—the first air war personnel casualties announced since the command took the wraps off the Laotian Bombing.

Guerrilla ground fire proved just as deadly in Vietnam Sunday, downing four U.S. helicopters. Three Americans were killed and two wounded, the announcement said.

In a series of terrorist attacks that produced the worst civilian loss of life in more than six months, 18 South Vietnamese civilians were killed and 40 wounded, many of them in the bombing of a pagoda outside Saigon.

A separate communique said 6,300 U.S. troops left the war zone last week to cut the level of GIs in Vietnam to 454,500 men, fewest since Aug. 12, 1967.

The command said ground fire in the upper panhandle of Laos downed an F4 Phantom jet and a propeller-driven Skyraider, the F4 last Thursday and the Skyraider on Saturday.

Senate To Look At Nuclear Arms Deployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A sweeping resolution giving advance Senate support for an immediate U.S.-Soviet freeze on nuclear arms deployment will be rushed to the Senate floor within the next three weeks, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said today.

Mansfield said he wanted action before the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) begin in Vienna April 16.

The resolution, branded by President Nixon as "irrelevant," cleared the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday. It urges Nixon propose "an immediate suspension by the United States and the U.S.S.R. of the further deployment of all offensive and defensive nuclear strategic weapons subject to national verification or such other measures of observation and inspection as may be appropriate."

Gerard D. Smith, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, was expected to detail the administration's objections to the measure in a hearing before the Senate disarmament subcommittee today.

Large Oil Spill Drifts Sea-ward

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The Gulf of Mexico's largest oil spill, now a fraction of its original size, drifted toward open sea today as workmen labored to choke its source.

The U.S. Coast Guard said aerial reconnaissance Sunday showed the slick to be one square mile, extending to the south-southeast of Chevron Oil Company's "Charlie" platform, 11 miles east of the Louisiana Coast.

A spokesman for the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, which also sent a plane over the area, said there was a secondary slick, fanning out about 12 square miles beyond the heavy slick.

The spokesman said northerly and northeasterly winds pushed the slick seaward, carrying it away from coastal oyster and shrimp waters.

WEATHER

PAMPA AND VICINITY — Fair and warmer this afternoon and Tuesday. High today, mid-60's; Low tonight, mid-30's. High Sunday was 57; Low this morning, 30. Northwesterly winds 8-15 m.p.h. today, changing to southerly tonight. Temperatures are expected to reach near 70 by Friday.

S Turns Down Israeli's Bid or Additional Jet Warplanes

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter

ASHINGTON (UPI) —Th ted States—for the tim ng at least—has decide inst filling Israel's reques an additional 105 jet rplanes.

But the Nixon administration l emphasize the decision is a final turn-down, but ply a "deferral" of action the Israeli request to chase 25 to 30 additional antom supersonic jets and 80 sonic Skyhawks.

ecretary of State William P. jers called a news confer- e at noon, EST to announce on's decision and to stress President's open mind on matter.

rael made the request for nomic assistance last fall at same time its bid for more es.

The United States already is ulfilling, at the rate of four hantom jets per month, a 50-lane deal made with Israel in 968. The last of these planes vill be delivered in September.

Israel contended it needed assurances right now on additional jets because the need or them would arise by the ime delivery could begin 18 months from now.

Nixon, however, after a horough assessment of the situation by his advisers, concluded a deal for additional war planes to Israel at this time was not necessary because it would have Middle East air superiority for some time.

Nixon said the United States has four goals in the Middle East:

"First, to have a cease-fire; second to reduce the flow of arms into the area; third, to achieve a political settlement, and fourth, to accomplish to the greatest extent possible a balance between the forces in that area which will contribute to peace from a military standpoint, nad not to disturb that balance."

Nixon said that if Moscow, by arms aid to Arabs "does essentially change the balance, the United States would take action to deal with that situation."

Israelis Attack Radar Station

By United Press International

Israeli planes today attacked an Egyptian radar station at Baltim on the Mediterranean coast in the first air raid announced in five days and the first strike deep inside Egypt since March 6, a spokesman announced in Tel Aviv.

Baltim, midway between Port Said and Alexandria, is 80 miles west of Port Said and 100 miles north of Cairo. The spokesman said all planes returned safely.

The strike came as Israel prepared for the announcement in Washington that the United States has decided against delivery at this time of the 105 Skyhawk fighter-bombers and Phantom jets requested by Israel for its conflict with the Arab states.

The frequent attacks on radar stations and Egyptian missile sites have crippled Egypt's air defenses. On Friday Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan vowed that Israel would crack Egypt's new defense system being put together with new Soviet SAM3 missiles. The older SAM2 missiles were knocked out by earlier Israeli raids.

Soviet Novel Rapping Trotsky Becomes Overnight Sensation

MOSCOW (UPI)—A new Soviet novel that describes Palo Picasso as a pornographer and Leon Trotsky as a Zionist agent has become a best-selling sensation overnight in Moscow.

Ivan Shevtsov's "In the Name of Father and Son," a novel of life in a Moscow metallurgical plant, came out a few days ago and is already a near sellout. It is rife with anti-Zionism.

One of the characters in the plotless novel, a Jew named Aaron Herzovich, says of Trotsky, the first Soviet foreign minister:

"Like the Fascists, the Zionists fiercely hate Marxism-Leninism, especially internationalism. . .

"Sometimes the Zionist agents manage to infiltrate the leadership of the Communist party, as did Judas-Trotsky or Bronstein (Trotsky's original Jewish name), one of the typical agents of Zionism, international provocateur No. 1." A Moscow exhibition by Picasso, the French painter, was described as "pornographic."

Shevtsov, up to now an obscure writer, lashed out at poets Yevgeny Yevtushenko and his former wife, Bella Akhamadullina; at realist painter Ilya Glazunov, sculptor Ernest Niezvestny and several abstract painters.

The author reversed the official Soviet view that Zionists are "stooges of American imperialism" and said "On the contrary, American imperialism constitutes the military and economic base of Zionism and serves the goals of Zionism."

Indirectly praising the purges under the late dictator Josef V. Stalin, he said:

"Trotsky planted his men in the army. Had Stalin not unmasked him in time, what would have happened? A nightmare worse than Hitlerism.

Bentsen's Winning Called Miracle In Some Circles

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas AFL-CIO president Hank Brown said Sunday it would be a "miracle" if Houston insurance executive Lloyd Bentsen won the Democratic primary nomination for senator.

Brown also said if Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D - Tex., was defeated by Bentsen, it would hurt other Democrats running for election in Texas.

Brown appeared Sunday on the weekly television interview show "Capital Eye."

Brown noted Bentsen and GOP Senate hopeful Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., were trying to entice the Mexican-American vote to their sides even though Yarborough usually has the minorities solidly in his corner, Brown said these attempts by Bentsen and Bush would meet with little success.

Says Leadership Okeh

"The Mexican American leadership is not stupid," Brown said. "The fact they are hiring a few Mexican - American people as has been done in key jobs, is not going to enhance the poor man working out there in the ditch unless he's one of the few that got one of the jobs.

"People tend to look at the record and both Mr. Bush and Mr. Bentsen's records of the past have not been too good" towards minorities, Brown said.

Brown was asked what effect a Bentsen upset would have on the November election.

"I think it would spell ill for most Democrats on the ballot, because they have to look very much to the working people," Brown said. "Particularly, Sen. Yarborough runs very strong among the minorities because he has certainly been their friend.

Hot For Vote

"As a consequence, many people are hot to get out the vote to help him seal re-election.

They do not have this same feeling, let us say, for Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes or Gov. Preston Smith. As a consequence, there might be a real bad falling off of the vote in November if by some miracle Bentsen was to win."

Town Of Dickens Anticipating Festival With Mixed Feelings

By MIKE WESTER

DICKENS, Tex. (UPI) — The promoters of the Southwest '70 Peace Festival, one of those rock music bonanzas that bring earaches to the youngsters and headaches to law enforcement officials, are leaving nothing to chance.

Bill Casey, president of Southwest Festival, Inc., says if the festival backers lose today's court action, it will not stop the music.

The festival is scheduled to begin Thursday on a ranch owned by Lubbock attorney Winston Brummett. The ranch is 61 miles east of Lubbock.

But T.J. Conway also leases the land from Brummett. And Conway and his neighbors don't want 25,000 to 40,000 persons tromping around the 300 - acre tract over the Easter holidays.

Injunction Sought

So he and his neighbors filed a petition for a temporary injunction Saturday to stop the festival. A hearing on the petition was scheduled for today.

But Casey said if the festival loses its present site, it has another one waiting also in Dickens County.

Brummett claims he has a verbal agreement with Conway which says, in effect, Brummett can rent the ranch to anybody or any group he wants to.

On Their Way

"The people are on their way, and will be in Dickens County bands or not," said Brummett's son, Phil Brummett, originally the attorney for the festival promoters.

Among the groups appearing at the festival are Vanilla Fudge, Canned Heat, The Byrds, Delaine & Bonnie and Friends, Johnny Winter, Muddy Waters and Freddy King.

The festival is scheduled to begin Thursday and end Sunday with an Easter sunrise service.

Dickens, and the nearest city of any size — Spur — have only five law officers between them. Local residents feel a much larger contingent of enforcement officials would be needed to control the crowds.

Angry Woman Takes Vengeance

What a police report suggests was an irate housewife caused an estimated $700 in damages to two cars owned by her husband, and landed in city jail Saturday night.

Police report they were called to a residence in the 300 block of North Sumner late Saturday night. When they arrived police found the two cars in a condition that were indicative of a head-on collision. The woman was kicking and beating the door of the residence.

Police report an apparent domestic argument led the 36-year-old Pampa woman to drive the automobile she was using head-on into one parked on the street by her husband. According to the reports, the parked vehicle was battered several times.

The screen-storm door on the house, where the disturbance occurred, was torn and police said the glass on the door was broken. Reports indicated the Sumner street address was not the address of the irate woman. She was treated at Highland General Hospital for minor lacerations.

Although charges were not filed by the occupant of the house, police booked the woman into city jail on charges of disorderly conduct.

In other traffic investigations, police are looking for a vehicle of unknown description that was allegedly used in a hit-and-run causing damage to a car parked at 313 N. Faulkner St.

Police reports said that Robert H. Gilchrist, of the Faulkner street address, reported an estimated $125 in damages to the left fender of his car. He told police that he was not sure of the time of the accident, but said it occurred sometime between Friday night and Sunday morning.

Sunday night, police cited Robert Lester Danford, 24, 1100 Prairie Dr., for failure to yield the right of way to oncoming traffic in an accident that caused an estimated $400 in damages to the car of a Northport, N.Y. man.

According to police reports, Danford was traveling east on Craven Street. He stopped at a traffic sign and apparently did not see the New York car approaching from the north on Cuyler. The out-of-town car struck Danford's vehicle on the right side. Damages to Danford's car were estimated at $250.

Public Schools Seeking Info On Students' Voc-Tech Status

Pampa public schools will conduct follow-up study of its 1965 senior class by letters to parents requesting information for a vocational-educational survey.

"Part of our difficulty in this follow-up study is that our records show only the address provided at the time of graduation or withdrawal from school in 1965," Don Nelson, secondary coordinator for Pampa schools, said.

"If Pampa residents have knowledge of the current address of any former student of the 1965 senior class we request that he contact the Division of Educational Services, Carver Center by Wednesday. Phone 665-2376 for Ethelene Brunson or for me," Nelson said.

Purpose of the survey is to learn the employment status and education completed after high school, or vocational preparation received by these students, he said.

"To validate Pampa's need for vocational training we must know the needs of former students since they have become employed after graduation from Pampa High School, he said.

Follow-up studies of this type will be conducted annually beginning this year. Each year, surveys will be mailed to senior students of five years hence. In addition, current senior class members have been surveyed for studies of their plans after high school and for their secondary school curriculum, Nelson said.

Mother Gives Birth To Ninth Child

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —The mother of three Alamogordo, N.M., children critically ill after eating pork fed mercury-treated grain gave birth Sunday to her ninth child.

Officials at Albuquerque's Bernalillo County Medical Center said the woman, Lois Huckleby, 41, delivered the infant at 2:15 p.m.

Officials would not release information regarding the woman and her six-pound, 12-ounce baby boy. But one spokesman said the child "appeared to be in no distress and was normal in every respect."

Three of the family's children became critically ill last December and were still hospitalized Sunday after eating home-produced hogs fed the mercury contaminated grain.

Although Mrs. Huckleby did not become ill, she ate the same pork and doctors earlier feared the unborn child also might be affected by the chemical.

The three ill children, Dorothy, 20, Amos, 13, and Ernestine, 10, were hospitalized for brain damage caused by the mercury poisoning.

Eggers To Put Campaign In Gear

AUSTIN (UPI) — Republican Paul Eggers, up to now a silent candidate in the race for governor of Texas, will begin stepping up the pace of his campaign in about another week.

Eggers, who got more votes in 1968 than any previous GOP gubernatorial candidate in Texas this century, will begin getting his statewide staff reorganized, meeting with local campaign workers and making a few speeches about April 1.

But his bandwagon isn't due to start really rolling until midsummer—in time to reach its peak at the November general election when Eggers is expected to be challenging incumbent Gov. Preston Smith for the second time.

Due Back Shortly

The Wichita Falls attorney, who got 44 per cent of the vote in his first political outing against Smith two years ago, is due back in Texas this week after closing out his federal employment as general counsel for the Treasury Department under the Nixon administration.

He faces opposition in the Republican primary from retired naval Commander Roger Martin of Gainesville, but is expected to win the nomination hands down.

Eggers' staff is confident enough of his nomination that they are making only minimal advertising plans for the primary campaign.

What they are concentrating on are battle plans for his general election campaign against Smith, which is almost certain to be vastly different from 1968 when Eggers had to concentrate on getting his name before the voters.

When he announced in 1968 GOP sources said Eggers was known to "no more than 15 to 20 per cent of the members of the party itself."

This year, he is known to all the party members, and apparently to a good number of voters across Texas. This "broad base of support" GOP leaders claim, will enable him to concentrate his campaign on issues rather than on a name identification problem. The party itself has already launched a massive drive to build support among Mexican - American voters, one area where Eggers fell short in 1968.

Crusade Against Cigarette Smoking To Be Stepped Up

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—There may be "intermediate measures" in the crusade against the cigarette but its aim is to eliminate cigarette smoking completely, the president of the American Cancer Society said Friday.

Dr. Jonathan E. Rhoads expected the gathering campaign against atmospheric pollution to identify other causes of "environmental cancer" and to lead to their elimination. But the cigarette cause is now identified beyond question, he added, and its complete removal would save more than 50,000 lives annually from lung cancer alone.

One "intermediate measure" he had in mind was a more positive identification of cancer-causing combustion products in cigarette smoke and development of a filter capable of removing them. Measures already taken are the coming elimination of cigarette advertising from television and stronger health warnings on cigarette packages.

Rhoads is professor and chairman of the department of surgery at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. He was opening the society's annual seminar for science writers which precedes its spring campaign for contributions.

HOPE SOUNDED

His tone was optimistic, based on progress in cancer control as measured by reduced death rates from several forms of cancer, particularly cancers of the breast and the neck of the womb. This progress will be greatly accelerated in the decade of the 1970's, he predicted.

Cancer science's position is comparable to that of medical science at the beginning of the 1880's and the 1890's when it began the putting together of "bits and pieces" which ultimately led to an all but complete control of the infectious diseases.

But at the beginning of the 70's cancer science has the advantage of such marvelous tools as the computer and the supervoltage X-ray for rapid putting-together, he said. He anticipated the 70's would produce better cancer detection, greatly improved anti-cancer drugs and perhaps vaccines to prevent human cancers suspected but not yet proved to caused by viruses.

He said the one contradiction in his optimistic expectations was the cut-back in the federal government of financial support of cancer research. As "a sampling" he named six research institutions which have dismissed scientists and-or abandoned promising research projects because of the cut-back.

Nixon Proposes Youth Loans For College To Low Income Families

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Nixon proposed to Congress today a plan to guarantee needy youths loans of up to $2,500 a year to finance their college education.

They would be given as long as 20 years to repay the loans, at low interest rates.

In a special message to the House and Senate outlining a Higher Education Opportunity Act, Nixon said, "no qualified student who wants to go to college should be barred by lack of money. That has long been a great American goal. I propose that we achieve it now."

Nixon's proposals included expansion and changes in federal programs for loans and grants to students concentrating on those from low income families.

"Every low income student entering an accredited college would be eligible for a combination of federal grants and subsidized loans sufficient to give him the same ability to pay as a student from a family earning $10,000," Nixon said.

He said the new student financial aid would come through changes in four major existing student aid programs now administered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare—guaranteed student loans, educational opportunity grants and college work study grants.

As part of the plan, Nixon asked for establishment of a National Student Loan Association which would play substantially the same role in student loans that the Federal National Mortgage Association plays in home loans.

The association would raise initial capital through sale of stock and make low interest loans to students.

A guarantee of the loans by the federal government would assure that the interest rate would be 1 or 2 per cent less than the normal market rate, Nixon said, and payment could be made over periods of up to 20 years.

Interest payments would be deferred while students were attending college.

Nixon estimated the association would be able to furnish up to $2 billion in student loans by the 1971-72 school year if th plan is adopted.

The maximum annual student loan is now $1,500. It would be increased by $1,000.

Television In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It takes more than a crystal ball to determine the winners of the Academy Awards in advance of the presentations.

Logical deduction is the favored method of scientists and cinema fanatics who worship at Oscar's shrine.

Plebians use a simpler means, the process of elimination.

Therefore, with the application of that formula, gossip and guess, the winners will be:

Best Picture: "Anne of the Thousand Days"

Best Actor: John Wayne for "True Grit"

Best Actress: Genevieve Bujold for "Anne of the Thousand Days"

Best Supporting Actor? Gig Young for "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

Best Supporting Actress? Sylvia Miles for "Midnight Cowboy"

Best Song? "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head."

Now for the explanations?

"Hello, Dolly" won't win. It is a big, splashy out-of-date film in the eyes of voters. "Z" won't win because it will get the Oscar for best foreign film.

"Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid" won't win. It is a comedy in an age of grim reality. "Midnight Cowboy" has the best chance of upsetting "Anne of the Thousand Days" because it is simply excellent.

Wayne will win because he's an institution and gave a brilliant performance in "True Grit." Dustin Hoffman and Jon Voight will cancel one another out because both are in "Midnight Cowboy." Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole are on losing streaks, Burton's is the longest in Oscar history.

Miss Bujold is the favorite because of the difficulty of her role. Jane Fonda was miscast as a loser in "They Shoot Horses, Don't They," because she is a winner and a strong girl off-screen.

Liza Minnelli will come close but the Academy isn't sure her great performance wasn't a fluke. Jean Simmons and Maggie Smith fill out the category but were seen in so-so movies.

"Raindrops" will win best song honors because it seems to be the only tune being played regularly on the radio. Moreover, how many persons do you hear whistling the competition? "True Grit," "Jean," "Come Saturday Morning" and "What Are You Doing the Rest of Your Life"?

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) On or about the mid-point in a man's schuss down the ski trail of life he begins to have trouble remembering things.

When that happens, most people assume that their brains are wearing out. But that is seldom the case.

The human brain is like a giant prune. Each bit of information you retain forms a wrinkle on the brain. But the area of the brain is finite. Eventually there is no space left for any more wrinkles.

Then the only way to form a new wrinkle is to erase one of the old wrinkles. In other words, each time you remember a new bit of information you forget something previously committed to memory.

No Control Over Wrinkles

Most brain wrinkles are occupied by useless data that could be well forgotten. Regrettably, however, you have no control over which wrinkles you expunge.

When you add something new to your memory, the thing you forget may be something extraneous, such as the name of a girl you dated one time in 1939 and never saw again. Or it may be something vital, such as your wedding anniversary, which is coming up next week.

Since you are denied the power of selectivity over what the brain expels, you should be extremely careful about remembering new things. Never wrinkle your brain with anything except essential information, otherwise, you may be replacing valuable facts with trivia.

At the moment, for example, I am engaged in a desperate struggle with the advertising agency that represents a worldwide hotel chain.

The chain has a single telephone number that you can dial free anywhere in the United States to reserve a room at any of its hotels. And the ad agency is waging an intensive campaign to force me to remember it.

Number Comes Up Constantly

The number has been made into a jingle that is constantly being hammered at me over the airwaves. And it looms up at me nearly every time I pick up a newspaper.

I am determined not to let the number become embedded in my memory, lest it displace something important. I try to blot it out of my mind as soon as I see or hear it, but I have not been altogether successful.

The area code (800) already has burrowed a niche in my cerebral cortex.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market is currently suffering "a psychological depression," Argus Research observes. Even the significant news out of Washington that monetary policy is beginning to ease has failed to reverse this long-standing pessimism.

The postal strike has contributed to a cut back in trading on the stock market, E. F. Hutton & Co. notes. A lot of people are not getting stock bulletins from their brokers and advisers with the result that uncertainty and general depression are slowing the pace of trade considerably, it adds.

Ag Department Releases Pork

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)—The U.S. Department of Agriculture said Wednesday it had released 258 carcasses of pork 10 days after they were quarantined in the mercury-poisoning case at Alamogordo but did not make a public announcement of the lifted quarantine.

The department said it decided against making such an announcement because of "bad publicity" which had surrounded the poisoning of three children of the Ernest Huckleby family of Alamogordo.

Chain Letters In Serious Trouble If Started Now

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Better not pass on that chain letter promising you'll get rich in 20 days by investing only $1. Not only will you be cheated, but you'll run a serious risk of violating federal laws as well.

The chain letter —one of the simpler something-for-nothing appeals to man's gambling instinct —is enjoying a nationwide revival. U.S. postal officials believe people tend to forget every few years that the letters are illegal, violations of both mail fraud and mail lottery laws.

But almost any one will take the chain letter bait, officials say, from the big corporation executive in New York City to the grandmother in Chevy Chase, Md.

The popularity of chain letters has clearly run in cycles since the Post Office began keeping track about 30 years ago. There have been peaks in 1941 during World War II, in 1947 after the war, in 1953-55, 1957-58, in 1961 and then a lull until 1967.

Complaints Increase

Inspector William J. Cotter's fraud section began keeping track of an almost 500 per cent increase in complaints. By the end of January, 1970, 559 cases were under investigation — representing only about 10 per cent of actual schemes.

Cotter said in an interview the Post Office does not know how many chain letter schemes are now in circulation or how much their authors reap from the public.

But officials guess there may be more than 5,000 individual schemes —with many thousands times that many letters.

Chain letters violate both mail fraud and mail lottery laws. The penalty for fraud — which involves initiating such letters with fraudulent promises of quick cash rewards —is five years in prison and a fine of $1,000, or both.

Violates Lottery Law

Violation of the lottery law occurs because in initiating or participating in a chain letter, you are asking someone to take a chance on a big prize that is virtually impossible to realize. The penalty is two years in prison or a $1,000 fine and up to five years for repeaters.

But it is extremely difficult to prosecute such violators. Only three persons have been convicted for the illegal chain letter schemes since 1963 when records were kept at the Post Office. It is not known if there were any convictions prior to 1963 for only an informal "tally" was kept up until then.

All three convictions have resulted rom the latest crackdown: two were "garden variety" schemes and resulted in suspended sentences but the perpetrator of the third —an attempt to bilk the families of Vietnam War dead —got three years in prison for mail fraud.

Howard C. Reynolds of Texarkana, Ark., posing as a grieving father, sent letters to 100 bereaved families promising they would get back $1,024 in 30 days if thay would send $1 to five names on the chain letter. All five were aliases of his at different addresses.

He barely got started when postal inspectors entered the case and it is not believed there was any measurable loss by victims.

$800 For $1 Promised

Richard R. Sherman of Umatilla, Ore., was arrested for engineering the most common type of scheme —a letter asking $1 in return for $8,000 in 20 to 30 days. Again, all four names were aliases and Sherman was sentenced to three years probation for both fraud and lottery violations Dec. 10, 1969.

On Jan. 5, 1970, Marvin L. Shepard of South Gate, Calif., drew a suspended sentence and was placed on two years probation for a "work-at-home" get rich quick scheme, again promising $8,000 for $1. The Post Office noted "much public loss."

Besides the $1 for $8,000 scheme, the second two most common type of chain letters now in circulation are those asking $10 in cash or a money order and those which deal in $18.75 or $25 U.S. savings bonds.

Even if the originator does not use phony names on his letter, the Post Office says anyone who believes in an unbroken chain is bound to lose.

More Changes In Catholic Mass Due

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

American Catholics, who have had to adjust to many changes in the mass during the past five years, encountered further innovations when they attended Palm Sunday services.

Earlier innovations, beginning in 1965, included substitution of English for Latin, and stationing the priest behind the altar facing the people instead of with his back to them.

Fr. Frederick McManus, director of the bishop's committee on the liturgy, said the changes which went into effect on Palm Sunday involve "the structuring of the mass, particularly its scripture texts and prayers."

The new mass opened with a greeting from St. Paul's Second Epistle to the Corinthians, which has long been used as a blessing in Protestant churches. The greeting is:

"The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with you all."

The penitential prayer has been changed to make clear that the worshippers are confessing their sins not only to God but also to each other.

Most noticeable to worshippers, perhaps, was a streamlining of the service by elimination of redundant prayers and repetitious genuflections. Provision also is made for pauses of silence for meditation and reflection.

"Strongly recommended" but not absolutely required is the revival of the ancient custo mof exchanging the sign of peace — which goes back to the earliest days of the church.

Attorney General's Wife Has Definite Opinions On Fashion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Beale Mitchell leaned against a grand piano in her wedgwood blue and gold living room and announced that she is fed up —no, not with those "very liberal communist" demonstrators, but with American fashion designers.

"The style industry has killed itself, it has really missed the bet," she said. "If they want to promote styles and fashion, they should see to it that a woman—no matter what her age or figure—looks well.

"I'm not going to buy clothes just because someone dictates to me that I should have a mini or maxi or a midi.

"Why is it that American women do not sit and analyze themselves and try to dress according to their needs? You can take a heavy-set woman and dress her fashionably.

A Person Needs Style

"A person with style can look better in a $15 dress than a $1,000 one."

The wife of Attorney General John N. Mitchell was at her quotable best, even when the interview was granted only for a discussion of fashions, my favorite subject."

Under the ground rules, there was no mention of her headline-making views on antiwar protesters, Supreme Court nominees and other politically sensitive issues.

The blonde beauty from Pine Bluff, Ark., looked as appealing as an ice cream soda in the pale pink taffeta and white lace dress she had dug out of a closet for the occasion. It was a midi, but Martha Mitchell made clear in her inimitably independent way that no one had dictated her choice.

"I bought it three years ago when they tried to lower hems and have never worn it," she said. "When they tried to bring back longer dresses, I went out and bought a whole lot of clothes and they're all in boxes."

In the past few years, she has usually kept her dresses just above the knee when, in her words, skirts "went up and up and up until there was no end to the up business."

Now, with couturiers declaring that hemlines must plunge to mid-calif or longer and some women wondering whether they should junk their entire wardrobes, Mrs. Mitchell is defiant.

"I think this is a very poor time as far as the economy is concerned to try to push a new style on the country."

Besides, she said, "Most of the men in the country despise styles . . . Men are very hard to become adjusted to changes."

What about her husband?

"He likes anything I wear," she said.

Crazy World Of Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In his professorial way, Dr. Daniel P. Moynihan seems to be saying much the same thing as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew about the way sensible people ought to deal with extremists.

Moynihan, in his now-famous "benign neglect" memo to President Nixon, advises giving "hysterics, paranoids and boodlers on all sides" less opportunity to make themselves into heroes or martyrs.

Agnew, speaking at the National Governors' Conference, proposed that people, especially television people, stop giving so much attention to "kooks" of the kind that once were "chased with butterfly nets."

Difference In Emphasis

There certainly was a big difference between the two proposals. Moynihan was advising Nixon how he could move the spotlight from his critics to his accomplishments. Agnew was advising the news media simply to turn off the spotlight.

The question of whether Agnew is trying to intimidate the news media has been and probably will continue to be discussed in print and on the air until long after it has become clear that if they so intended, they didn't succeed.

But what about the question of whether it is a good idea to ignore extremists? If we do, will they go away or at least shut up? Is publicity all they want and peace and quiet all we want? Isn't there some possibility that people mwho sound crazy today might be the prophets of social or political change that will seem perfectly reasonable—even desirable—tomorrow?

Kooks Turned Prophets

For example, Margaret Sanger was regarded by many as a dangerous person when she said people ought to practice birth control. Now, sex without the risk of pregnancy is called family planning and the main question about it is how to make it effective and safe.

In the 1930s there were those who thought Dr. Francis Townsend was a candidate for the butterfly net when he suggested that the government give money to old people. Today, the administration Mr. Agnew serves in is proposing a type of guaranteed annual income for nearly all poor people.

The list of kooks who were vindicated by history is long; the point need not be pressed.

The fact is that no society, especially one that encourages dissent by giving it the highest kind of legal protection, can afford to ignore completely people it regards as misfits. Some of these people have ideas that have merit; some offer nothing but bad news. Either way, it is important for a free people to know what is happening out on the fringes of respectability.

Allen May Have Come Away Too Soon

By United Press International

Richie Allen may have reported to spring training too soon.

The controversial slugger was 16 days late to the St. Louis Cardinals' camp and when he finally reported said he thought spring training was too long and a waste of time.

Then he went out and proved it. He worked out just four times before playing in his first game on Wednesday. He homered. He played in his second game on Thursday. He homered. He played in his third game Friday. He homered again.

His latest blast was a two-run homer off former Cardinal Dave Giusti that powered the Cards to an 8-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Richie's Ready To Play

Allen, who also singled and scored a run, seems to be ready for the regular season even though it doesn't begin for two more weeks.

Allen's frequent absences from the lineup of the Philadelphia Phillies were one of the reasons why he was finally traded. He claims he's ready for a fresh start in St. Louis. He certainly can hit when he's ready to play.

In other exhibition games Friday, Cincinnati routed Philadelphia 10-5, Houston nipped Atlanta 3-1, the Yankees edged Montreal 4-3, the Mets tripped Kansas City 4-3, Boston blanked the White Sox 5-0, Detroit edged Minnesota 8-6, Cleveland downed the Cubs 6-1, California topped San Diego, 2-1, Baltimore beat Los Angeles 7-5 and Oakland beat Seattle 11-5.

SEATTLE — Hotel manager Thomas Butler, who works across the street from the Ozark Hotel which was ignited by a suspected arsonist killing 20 persons:

"I saw one man jump from the second floor out on the pavement. He crawled up the sidewalk trying to get away. There was nobody there yet—no fire trucks, no ambulances."

In 1962 Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev pledged that Russia would cooperate with the United States in the peaceful exploration of space.

Sharp Pitching

The best pitching Friday was turned in by Boston's Gary Peters and Lee Stange. Peters, acquired from the White Sox, pitched six innings and allowed three hits and Stange allowed two hits in three innings as they blanked the White Sox.

John Briggs had three homers for the Phillies but they still lost to the Reds in what had to be the day's most frustrating performance.

Tony Perez and Johnny Bench both homered for Cincinnati to offset Briggs' homers.

By United Press International

CHICAGO—Postmaster Henry McGee giving his view of the letter carriers' walkout in Chicago:

"I can sympathize with people who are underpaid, but I can't sympathize with these strikers who have refused to go back to work on recommendations from their leadership and promises of negotiations backed up by President Nixon."

In 1945 seven thousand allied planes dropped more than 12,000 tons of bombs on Germany during a daytime raid.

TUESDAY, MARCH 24
YOUR BIRTHDAY
TUESDAY: — There seems no serious hindrance to your prosperity this year. All you have to do is follow your own practical plans and put in full-time effort doing things which have checked out as profitable operations.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): — Tuesday brings no strikingly new issue or crisis. Let people come to you, rather than running after them. Continue to cooperate; patience is still the best answer.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — Now is the time to get after whatever routine has been neglected. There is more than enough to keep you busy, as others are not likely to volunteer help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Where any differences have arisen, get busy and restore harmony. Creative projects thrive; you have larger perspectives and more fluid imagination.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — It is comparatively much easier now to dig out and complete unfinished tasks left over from some time past. Work requiring mental concentration is favored.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Offer pleasant amenities to all for the sake of keeping your environment normal and cheerful while you concentrate on quiet, but intense work.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Do whatever paper work or accounting is on hand first. Big decisions or changes are not apt to work out if made Tuesday.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — Friends and associates are somewhat easier to please. New problems or crises are not likely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Make full use of a relatively dull day. Get odds and ends of materials cleared out of your home and work areas; finish incomplete work and deliver what you have done.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Use this unusually quiet day to its fullest potential to get past tight phases of your creative projects.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — No particularly strong pressure is either within you to achieve, or from the world demanding results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): — Self-improvement is the most important goal to seek to fulfill now. Much routine can be accomplished with relatively slight effort.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — This is the time to correct errors in accounts or group financial matters if you are ever going to do so.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The women in our small club were having a frank discussion about husbands stepping out, and I made the statement that I could forgive my husband if I caught him stepping out on me (I mean a one-night stand, not a serious affair of any duration), but I wouldn't put up with his spending money on another woman when there were things his family needed.

They all thought I was some kind of nut. Please don't misunderstand, Abby, I wouldn't encourage my husband to step out on me, I don't see why I should throw him out if he has a little extra fun at no expense to his family. But with money, it's a different story. Just let him deprive me or the children of anything money can buy because he spent it on another woman, and I'd lock him out. How do you feel about this, Abby?

MARGE

DEAR MARGE: For the first 50 years I'd demand 100 per cent fidelity. After that, I'd be a little more generous.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have some close friends. We have agreed to be the guardians for their children in case something happens to them, and they shall do the same for ours.

These people are dedicated to a religious movement in which teams of lay people spend the week-end in a church, leading prayer groups and church services.

We have a lot of respect and admiration for their devotion to their religion, but do not wish to participate.

So far, we have always been able to come up with a valid excuse for not accepting their invitations to go to these church meetings, but we fear the day when we've run out of excuses, and there'll be a showdown.

How can we get out of going and still maintain our friendship with these people?

KENTUCKIANS

DEAR KENTUCKIANS: — Do not wait for a showdown. Tell your friends that you don't care to participate in their religious activities. If you are sufficiently "close" for a reciprocal guardianship agreement, it seems to me you should be able to speak candidly without fear of damaging your friendship.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, two other girls and I were caught taking a few cheap items from the cosmetic counter of a department store. They took us to the manager's office and we had to give them our names and addresses. We were told that they were going to call our parents, but fortunately, they never did.

Of course we gave back everything we had taken, and we promised that we would never set foot in that store again, and I know, I never did. We also promised we'd never steal another thing. I kept that promise.

Now I am 22 years old and in filling out a job application, I understand the question "Have you ever been arrested" is asked. If I come across it, how should I answer?

SANTA ANA

DEAR SANTA ANA: Say no. You were only caught and warned. That is not the same as being "arrested."

As a service project, Troop 61 collected magazines and children's books and distributed them to Pampa hospitals. The troop is currently completing work on the Hospitality and Cyclist Badges. Several members of the Troop have completed the requirements on the Sign of the Arrow.

This month Troop 61 celebrates its troop birthday. The girls are planning a birthday party later in the month when they will receive membership stars.

Girls qualifying for the "Act '70" patches are Carol Craig, Connie Jones, Cheryl Lewis, Penny Miser, Bonita Miller, Rita Parsley, Nita Parsley, Kris Richardson, Tressa Shaw, Lori Taylor, and Joyce Williams. Troop 61 Leader is Mrs. Wayne Jones. Assistants are Mrs. Jack Hilton and Mrs. Vinson Shaw.

An outdoor Skills Day was held in Memphis March 14 with six members of Senior Troop Two of Pampa conducting the training session. They were Paula Homer, Cathy Collingworth, Kathleen Frisby, Mary Beth Karr, Cindy McDonald, and Eva Whiteley. Field Director, Mrs. T.M. Whiteley, accompanied the girls. They stopped by the new campsite north of Clarendon enroute home.

A Leader's Overnight is planned for April 10 and 11 at the new campsite. Leaders attending will completely set up a primitive camp and cook two meals during their stay. Outdoor training is being offered throughout Quivira Council this month and the first week of April. This Leaders' Overnight, the culmination of outdoor training, is available to all leaders.

Plans are being finalized for the Cadette Convention scheduled for April 3, 4, and 5 at Frank Phillips College in Borger.

Girls should begin to plan now for a week of Day Camp activities. Two sessions are scheduled in June. The first session will be June 1 through 5, and the second session June 8 through 12.

Summer's Upholstery Shop, 2236 N. Dwight, has announced the addition of two new fabrics to their stock.

Mrs. Carl Summers, owner and manager of the store said that the new material is olefin fabric and polyester.

The new fabrics, as well as the old stock, are treated with "Scotchguard" to prevent soiling. "Scotchguard" helps the fabric resist oil and water spotting and makes it easier to clean.

In highlighting one of the many fabrics carried by the shop Mrs. Summers noted that the fabric had been tested by the manufacturer by dropping a 250 pound mechanical man on the fabric 5000 times. After this strenuous test, Mrs. Summers said, the fabric showed no signs of stretch or wear.

In addition to the new fabrics, the shop also carries a complete line of nylon, tapestry, cotton, vinyl, velvets, frizaees, and many others may be obtained by special order.

In addition to re-upholstery, the shop also makes custom drapes from a wide selection of materils.

Mrs. Summers also said that free pick-up and delivery and free estimates are just two of the many services offered her customers.

"Any kind of upholstery job will be undertaken and we guarantee customer satisfaction," Mrs. Summers said.

February Prices Jump

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Labor Department announced statistics Friday for February showing that prices continued to rise at the fastest level since the Korean War.

The figures came just three days after an assertion by House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford after a White House conference with President Nixon that inflation had been "defeated."

The consumer price index rose in February to 132.5 per cent of the 1957-59 base period—up 6.3 per cent above the level of a year ago.

The index meant that in February it cost $13.25 to purchase the same goods and services that could have been obtained for $13.18 in January, $12.46 in February, 1969, and $10 a little over a decade ago.

In the midst of shopping season for Easter finery, the Labor Department said the cost of clothing increased 0.5 per cent last month—"much more than seasonally."

State Farm Insured Protection Decreased

Harry Gordon, who represents State Farm Insurance in the Pampa area, last week received an advance copy of the firm's year-end report.

In the report from State Farm President Edward B. Rust, Gordon was told that the world's largest auto insurer lost $81.8 million on its auto insurance business in 1969. Investment earnings of $63.5 million failed to cover that loss and it was necessary to decrease the policyholder protection surplus by $26.7 million. That reduced that fund to $444.1 million.

Gordon said it was the first time since 1956 that the company has had to dip into the policyholder protection surplus and only the fourth time in the 47-year history. In 1968, the company had a $19.7 million underwriting loss with investment earnings of $56.7 million and was hale to increase surplus by $38.3 million.

In commenting to Gordon on the year's results, President Rust called the loss "a severe blow to our plans for future growth."

He laid particular blame on the "delicacy" of the cars on the roads today and the severe cost pressures inflation has exerted on the price of repairing them.

CAPE KENNEDY—NATO Secretary General Manlio Brasio after watching the launching of a NATO communications satellite:

"In the world of today, where nuclear warfare is still a dreadful possibility, how much more important is the ability to communicate?"

Nixon: "Ease Squeeze"

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Citing his father's experience as the owner of a small grocery store in California, President Nixon urged Congress Friday to ease the financial squeeze on small business enterprises through special tax breaks and changes in lending regulations.

Nixon said in a message to Congress that the risk of failure in small business enterprises is higher than ever.

His proposals are needed, he said, to help small businessmen achieve "a quiet kind of success that doesn't make the big news on the financial page, but makes life more rewarding for millions of Americans."

Nixon said his father faced challenges in operating a small grocery store in Whittier, Calif.

"To him—and to our family—that store meant more than a source of income," Nixon said. "It meant a daily challenge, a place where we could work out the destiny of the family in our own way, taking the risks and enjoying the satisfactions of ownership."

Nixon's message included proposals to allow money lenders to deduct 20 per cent of the interest earned on loans to small businesses from income for tax purposes and to extend and simplify the program through which the Small Business Administration guarantees loans to small businesses.

He also proposed changes in the tax laws to make it easier for a small business to be treated like a partnership and to extend from five to 10 years the period during which small businesses may carry forward losses as deductions against income in subsequent years.

State Government News Briefs

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A brief look at a recent state government events.

FRANCHISE — Texas' Consumer Credit Commissioner Frank Miskell called for legislation to give consumers a "cooling off period" in which to cancel deals made with door to door salesmen. Miskell testified at the opening session of a legislative committee investigating franchise operations, which ring up sales of $1.5 billion annually in Texas.

OPEN DOOR — Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Houston, said he will attend a meeting of the state Mental Health and Retardation Board Saturday to make sure that the open meetings act is not violated. Board chairman Ward Burke called a special meeting last Sunday to be closed to the public. But he did not post a notice beforehand as required by the state law adopted in 1957 and amended last year.

CRIME — The Texas Public Safety Commission voted to create a "specialized criminal task force" to assist in an "all-out crime-fighting effort in Texas." Col. Wilson E. Sepri, director of the Department of Public Safety, said the new unit will be composed of members of the present DPS criminal law enforcement division which includes Texas Rangers.

JEANE DIXON

TUESDAY, MARCH 24
YOUR BIRTHDAY
TUESDAY: — There seems no serious hindrance to your prosperity this year. All you have to do is follow your own practical plans and put in full-time effort doing things which have checked out as profitable operations.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): — Tuesday brings no strikingly new issue or crisis. Let people come to you, rather than running after them. Continue to cooperate; patience is still the best answer.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — Now is the time to get after whatever routine has been neglected. There is more than enough to keep you busy, as others are not likely to volunteer help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Whore any differences have arisen, get busy and restore harmony. Creative projects thrive; you have larger perspectives and more fluid imagination.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — It is comparatively much easier now to dig out and complete unfinished tasks left over from some time past. Work requiring mental concentration is favored.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Offer pleasant amenities to all for the sake of keeping your environment normal and cheerful while you concentrate on quiet, but intense work.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Do whatever paper work or accounting is on hand first. Big decisions or changes are not apt to work out if made Tuesday.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — Friends and associates are somewhat easier to please. New problems or crises are not likely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Make full use of a relatively dull day. Get odds and ends of materials cleared out of your home and work areas; finish incomplete work and deliver what you have done.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Use this unusually quiet day to its fullest potential to get past tight phases of your creative projects.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — No particularly strong pressure is either within you to achieve, or from the world demanding results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): — Self-improvement is the most important goal to seek to fulfill now. Much routine can be accomplished with relatively slight effort.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — This is the time to correct errors in accounts or group financial matters if you are ever going to do so.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The women in our small club were having a frank discussion about husbands stepping out, and I made the statement that I could forgive my husband if I caught him stepping out on me (I mean a one-night stand, not a serious affair of any duration), but I wouldn't put up with his spending money on another woman when there were things his family needed.

They all thought I was some kind of nut. Please don't misunderstand, Abby. I wouldn't encourage my husband to step out on me, I don't see why I should throw him out if he has a little extra fun at no expense to his family. But with money, it's a different story. Just let him deprive me or the children of anything money can buy because he spent it on another woman, and I'd lock him out. How do you feel about this, Abby?

MARGE

DEAR MARGE: For the first 50 years I'd demand 100 per cent fidelity. After that, I'd be a little more generous.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have some close friends. We have agreed to be the guardians for their children in case something happens to them, and they shall do the same for ours.

These people are dedicated to a religious movement in which teams of lay people spend the week-end in a church, leading prayer groups and church services.

We have a lot of respect and admiration for their devotion to their religion, but do not wish to participate.

So far, we have always been able to come up with a valid excuse for not accepting their invitations to go to these church meetings, but we fear the day when we've run out of excuses, and there'll be a showdown.

How can we get out of going and still maintain our friendship with these people?

KENTUCKIANS

DEAR KENTUCKIANS: — Do not wait for a showdown. Tell your friends that you don't care to participate in their religious activities. If you are sufficiently "close" for a reciprocal guardianship agreement, it seems to me you should be able to speak candidly without fear of damaging your friendship.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, two other girls and I were caught taking a few cheap items from the cosmetic counter of a department store. They took us to the manager's office and we had to give them our names and addresses. We were told that they were going to call our parents, but fortunately, they never did.

Of course we gave back everything we had taken, and we promised that we would never set foot in that store again, and I know, I never did. We also promised we'd never steal another thing. I kept that promise.

Now I am 22 years old and in filling out a job application, I understand the question "Have you ever been arrested" is asked. If I come across it, how should I answer?

SANTA ANA

DEAR SANTA ANA: Say, no. You were only caught and warned. That is not the same as being "arrested."

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE FOURTH ESTATERS IN JOHNSTOWN, PA.: Okay, you win. B.Y.O.B. (bring your own bottle) parties are in the same catgegory as box socials, covered-dish suppers and the like to a bunch of hard-drinking folks. Get the noodle out, soak it in Scotch and sock it to me!

They stopped by the new campsite north of Clarendon enroute home.

A Leader's Overnight is planned for April 10 and 11 at the new campsite. Leaders attending will completely set up a primitive camp and cook two meals during their stay. Outdoor training is being offered throughout Quivira Council this month and the first week of April. This Leaders' Overnight, the culmination of outdoor training, is available to all leaders.

Plans are being finalized for the Cadette Convention scheduled for April 3, 4, and 5 at Frank Phillips College in Borger.

Girls should begin to plan now for a week of Day Camp activities. Two sessions are scheduled in June. The first session will be June 1 through 5, and the second session June 8 through 12.

BEST SERVICE in town is getting even better with the addition of two new fabrics at Summers' Upholstery Shop, 2236 N. Dwight. She said these beautiful new fabrics are treated with "Scotchguard" as is all the Summers stock.

Summers Has New Fabrics

Summer's Upholstery Shop, 2236 N. Dwight, has announced the addition of two new fabrics to their stock.

Mrs. Carl Summers, owner and manager of the store said that the new material is olefin fabric and polyester.

The new fabrics, as well as the old stock, are treated with "Scotchguard" to prevent soiling. "Scotchguard" helps the fabric resist oil and water spotting and makes it easier to clean.

In highlighting one of the many fabrics carried by the shop Mrs. Summers noted that the fabric had been tested by the manufacturer by dropping a 250 pound mechanical man on the fabric 5000 times. After this strenuous test, Mrs. Summers said, the fabric showed no signs of stretch or wear.

In addition to the new fabrics, the shop also carries a complete line of nylon, tapestry, cotton, vinyl, velvets, frizaees, and many others may be obtained by special order.

In addition to re-upholstery, the shop also makes custom drapes from a wide selection of materils.

"Any kind of upholstery job will be undertaken and we guarantee customer satisfaction," Mrs. Summers said.

State Farm Insured Protection Decreased

Harry Gordon, who represents State Farm Insurance in the Pampa area, last week received an advance copy of the firm's year-end report.

In the report from State Farm President Edward B. Rust, Gordon was told that the world's largest auto insurer lost $81.8 million on its auto insurance business in 1969. Investment earnings of $63.5 million failed to cover that loss and it was necessary to decrease the policyholder protection surplus by $26.7 million. That reduced that fund to $444.1 million.

Gordon said it was the first time since 1956 that the company has had to dip into the policyholder protection surplus and only the fourth time in the 47-year history. In 1968, the company had a $19.7 million underwriting loss with investment earnings of $56.7 million and was hale to increase surplus by $38.3 million.

In commenting to Gordon on the year's results, President Rust called the loss "a severe blow to our plans for future growth."

He laid particular blame on the "delicacy" of the cars on the roads today and the severe cost pressures inflation has exerted on the price of repairing them.

Nixon: "Ease Squeeze"

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Citing his father's experience as the owner of a small grocery store in California, President Nixon urged Congress Friday t ease the financial squeeze on small business enterprises through special tax breaks and changes in lending regulations.

Nixon said in a message to Congress that the risk of failure in small business enterprises is higher than ever.

His proposals are needed, he said, to help small businessmen achieve "a quiet kind of success that doesn't make the big news on the financial page, but makes life more rewarding for millions of Americans."

Nixon said his father faced challenges in operating a small grocery store in Whittier, Calif.

"To him—and to our family—that store meant more than a source of income," Nixon said. "It meant a daily challenge, a place where we could work out the destiny of the family in our own way, taking the risks and enjoying the satisfactions of ownership."

Nixon's message included proposals to allow money lenders to deduct 20 per cent of the interest earned on loans to small businesses from income for tax purposes and to extend and simplify the program through which the Small Business Administration guarantees loans to small businesses.

He also proposed changes in the tax laws to make it easier for a small business to be treated like a partnership and to extend from five to 10 years the period during which small businesses may carry forward losses as deductions against income in subsequent years.

OPEN DOOR — Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Houston, said he will attend a meeting of the state Mental Health and Retardation Board Saturday to make sure that the open meetings act is not violated. Board chairman Ward Burke called a special meeting last Sunday to be closed to the public. But he did not post a notice beforehand as required by the state law adopted in 1957 and amended last year.

CRIME — The Texas Public Safety Commission voted to create a "specialized criminal task force" to assist in an "all-out crime-fighting effort in Texas." Col. Wilson E. Sepri, director of the Department of Public Safety, said the new unit will be composed of members of the present DPS criminal law enforcement division which includes Texas Rangers.

February Prices Jump

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Labor Department announced statistics Friday for February showing that prices continued to rise at the fastest level since the Korean War.

The figures came just three days after an assertion by House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford after a White House conference with President Nixon that inflation had been "defeated."

The consumer price index rose in February to 132.5 per cent of the 1957-59 base period —up 6.3 per cent above the level of a year ago.

The index meant that in February it cost $13.25 to purchase the same goods and services that could have been obtained for $13.18 in January, $12.46 in February, 1969, and $10 a little over a decade ago.

In the midst of shopping season for Easter finery, the Labor Department said the cost of clothing increased 0.5 per cent last month—"much more than seasonally."

NBA Campaign Ends With 'Changing Of The Guard'

By United Press International

The 1969-70 National Basketball Association regular season ended Sunday, and the 82-game campaign marked a "changing of the guard" year.

For the first time in 20 years, the Boston Celtics, rulers of pro basketball, failed to make the league playoffs. Without Bill Russell, and with the toll of years finally making that extra step drag just a trifle too much, the Celtics finished a dismal sixth in the Eastern Division, at 34-48 for a .415 percentage, 26 games behind the division kingpin, New York.

But the emergence of the Knicks at the head of the division and indeed at the top of the league standings with a remarkable 60-22 for .732 may in itself be transitory. The blistering start which put them beyond the reach of all others faltered near the end, although their talented center Willis Reed was chosen as the Most Valuable Player and the smooth machine hand-tooled by former General Manager Eddie Donovan never really was in danger of falling all the way back to the pack.

Yet, the Milwaukee Bucks could not be ignored, and the shadow of Lew Alcindor is already falling over the dominance of the New Yorkers. Alcindor went through the usual rookie apprenticeship, but that apprenticeship was quickly served, and by season's end he had led Milaukee to a second-place finish in the East, and the second-best overall NBA record at 56-26 for .683, only four games behind the Knicks.

The Western Division produced a champion in the Atlanta Hawks, who with the indomitable Lou Hudson, held off the Los Angeles Lakers to win by two games. In the progress, the Atlanta team posted a winning season series over the Knicks.

For Los Angeles, it was a bitter year, but one that showed Jerry West at his undeniable best. With the veteran Wilt Chamberlain sidelined most of the campaign by injury, West's shooting, passing and leadership almost pulled the Lakers all the way to the title.

So completely did the top four teams dominate the league, that the drop off to Baltimore in the East was 10 games and nine games to third place co-holders Chicago and Phoenix in the West.

NBA Starts Round One Of Draft, ABA No. 5

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National and American Basketball Associations renew their war for players from the collegiate ranks today with the fledgling ABA carrying a head start into the separate drafts.

The two leagues, unable to get together in mergertalks,go their separate ways in the draft —the older league starting from scratch and the ABA resuming its draft with the fifth round. The ABA conducted four rounds of a secret draft last January prior to its All-Star Game in Indianapolis.

From that secret draft came announcements by ABA clubs, that Rick Mount of Purdue had signed with Indiana; Mike Maly of Davidson with Pittsburgh, Charley Scott of North Carolina with Washington and Dan Issel and Mike Pratt of the University of Kentucky with the Kentucky Colonels.

Two of the biggest names in college basketball this season, Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure and Pete Maravich of Louisiana State, are expected to be first round choices in both leagues.

While the New York Nets hold the ABA draft rights on the St. Bonaventure player, Lanier is believed to lean strongly toward the NBA.

The NBA has reportedly made a five-year $1.2 million offer to Lanier, with payment to be spread over 15 years.

The Detroit Pistons, by virtue of finishing last in the NBA's Eastern Division and winning a coin-flip with the West's worst club, the San Diego Rockets, have first choice in the NBA. The Rockets indicated last week they were interested in landing Lanier.

The Carolina Cougars hold ABA draft rights for Maravich, who scored 46 points a game during the regular season and wound up as the most prolific scorer in major college basketball history.

Maravich missed his team's final NIT game Saturday because of an ankle injury and a bruised hip incurred earlier in the NIT.

The NBA draft will be conducted in a 17-city telephone hookup with the league office in New York.

PROSPECTUS — Expos lost 110 games in maiden season but, when one considers Mets lost 120 in theirs, things don't look so bad. Team drew well in antiquated Jarry Park and, like original Mets, have no place to go but up. On paper, Expos have fairly respectable lineup but on the field, it's different story. In any language, it spells last place.

PITCHING — Bill Stoneman started season off with no-hitter, then tailed off to 11-19 with 4.35 ERA. Still, he was ace of staff. He'll be followed in rotationby Gary Waslewski (3-9), Steve Renko (6-7) and Mike Wegener (5-14). Joe Sparma, acquired from the Tigers' doghouse, will get a shot. Bullpen has Dan McGinn, who appeared in 74 games last year, and people named Carl Morton, Jim Britton and Carroll Semera. Rating — C MINUS.

CATCHING — John Boccabella, John Bateman and Ron Brand, all of whom played considerably last year, will split the job again. Baccabella most likely will start. Rating — C MINUS.

INFIELD — Couple of vets, Ron Fairly and Bob Bailey, will alternate at first. Fairly has edge, only because he hit 12 HRs last year. Gary Sutherland, whom Gene Mauch sees as budding Nellie Fox, stays at second and youngster Angel Hermoso will be tried at short. first true international heroes. Coco Laboy, one of baseball's first true international heroes, back at third. He hit 18 HRs last season, among other things. Rating — C.

OUTFIELD — Mack Jones, who hit 22 HRs last season, returns in left. Adolfo Phillips, who wound up in Montreal after Leo Durocher gave up on him in middle of '69, is centerfielder. Expos hope he will loosen up a little, now that he has steady job. In right is Rusty Staub, whose nickname in Montreal is Le Grand Orange. He hit .302 with 29 HRs last season. Rating — C.

TOP ROOKIES — Hermoso and Sembera are prime prospects. But, like the old Mets, Expos are sticking primarily with well-worn vets. The front office staff now includes Don Drysdale. Could use him better on field.

January, Douglass Face Golf Playoff

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Don January has the experience edge over Dale Douglass for their playoff battle this afternoon; but he isn't sure whether that will be a help or a hindrance.

"A lot of people recall that I won the 1967 PGA championship in a playoff, but they seem to forget that I came out on the short end in seven other playoffs," said the wiry, 40-year-old Texan after tying Douglass for the lead in the final regular round of the $100,000 Greater Jacksonville Open Sunday.

Douglass, seeking his fourth tournament victory in 11 months, said he "doesn't have any idea" how he'll play today's round.

"I never played in an 18-hole playoff before," 'the stringy 34-year-old Oklahoman said.

January, three strokes behind the then-leading Douglass at the start of Sunday's play over the 6,943-yard Hidden Hills Country Club course, tied the course record with a 6-under-par 66. Douglass matched January's 72-hole total of 9-under-par 279 with a closing 69.

Today's playoff begins at 1:45 p.m. EST with the final hour to be nationally televised (ABC). The winner gets $20,000 and the loser $11,400 plus each will receive $5,000 from the television proceeds and share equally in half of today's gate receipts.

England's Tony Jacklin, the 1968 champion here, shot a 67 Sunday to finish two strokes off the pace at 281, worth $7,100.

Dave Stockton was fourth with 69-282 and Jack Nicklaus and Dan Sikes were tied for fifth at 283.

Arnold Palmer, who didn't even earn gas money for his jet airplane with the $600 he got for his 291, said "there was some lousy golf played here this week. It was the greens. They were extremely hard to read and exceptionally hard. The ball really bounced in there."

Longhorns Out Front In SWC

By United Press International.

Two rain delayed doubleheaders unfold today as four teams try to play catchup with the front running Texas Longhorns who took advantage of a dry field to jump to an early lead in the Southwest Conference baseball scramble.

The 'Horns swept a three game series from winless Southern Methodist over the weekend and lead the four teams scheduled to open their campaigns today by 1 1-2 games.

The Rice Owls will be in Fort Worth to test Texas Christian while Baylor travels to College Station for a twinbill with Texas A&M. The same teams play single games Tuesday.

All four teams were scheduled to play Friday and Saturday but wet fields caused the postponements. Texas, which placed a tarp over Clark Field in Austin, managed to finish its three game series with the Mustangs.

The Frogs of TCU, without any benefit of a rest after their series with Rice, have scheduled three more games in two days (Wednesday and Thursday) with SMU. Rice and Texas Tech play three games over the span of Thursday and Friday. It will be the first conference games for the Red Raiders.

Texas will play its annual contest with Minnesota at Clark Field in a doubleheader Tuesday and then another twinbill Thursday against the Phillips Oilers.

In other nonconference action this week, the Aggies play Minnesota in single contests Wednesday and Thursday while Baylor will meet Pan American for three games and Lamar Tech for four this week.

Texas pulled out the stops in its finale with the Mustangs Saturday. With the Mustangs holding a 4-3 advatage going into the bottom of the sixth inning, the Longhorns sent its first nine men to bat around the basepaths and finally won the game 17-4.

David Hall, Pat Thompson and pitcher Larry Hardy collected three doubles in the contest. Thompson also got one homerun as did John Langerhans.

In the only other contest Saturday involving a conference team, New Mexico Highlands dumped Texas Tech 4-1.

Off They Go

KUALA LUMPUR, Malysia (UPI)—None of the 43 runners in a cross-country race had appeared at the finish line two hours after it had begun, so officials set out in automobiles to hunt them Sunday.

They found all of the runners six miles away, sprinting in the wrong direction.

Officials said the race, sponsored by the Malaysian Amateur Athletic Association, was to have been over a seven-mile course. Many of the runners had covered 10 miles before they were found.

A. J. Rogers, the association secretary, said the mixup apparently occurred when the lead runner took a wrong turn at the fifth check point and the rest followed him. Rogers declared the event "no race."

Try Outs Tested In Tuneup League

By United Press International

Slugging Joe Torre may have found a new home.

Torre, a catcher for most of his nine seasons in the major leagues, played first base for St. Louis last season when he batted .289 and led the Cardinals in homers (18) and RBIs (101). Now the 29-year-old native of Brooklyn, N.Y., is being tried out at third base where the Cards found themselves with a gaping hole last week when it was revealed that Mike Shannon is suffering from a kidney disorder and will be sidelined for at least three or four months.

Torre, making his first appearance at third since his high school days 12 years ago, handled three chances flawlessly Sunday and contributed two hits in the Cardinals' 8-4 victory over Philadelphia. Torre, who was replaced at first base by Richie Allen, originally was slated to handle the Cards' catching duties until Shannon was sidelined. Now, manager Red Schoendienst is hoping utilityman Carl Taylor will prove an adequate backstop, freeing Torre for third base.

Allen, who was acquired in a trade with Philadelphia, made his first appearance against his former teammates and was held to just a single in three at bats. He had homered in each of his four previous games with the Cardinals.

Home runs by Willie Crawford and Steve Garbey powered the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 11-7 triumph over Baltimore; Bobby Knoop drove in four runs with a homer, double and single as the Chicago White Sox trimmed Kansas City, 8-3; Nate Colbert's seventh inning double drove in the winning run for San Diego as the Padres edged the Chicago Cubs, 5-4, and Bert Campaneris and Joe Rudi both homered for Oakland which beat California, 7-1.

Vada Pinson's two-run homer in the seventh inning enabled Cleveland to top Seattle 4-3; the Boston Red Sox took advantage of 15 walks and three wild pitches to beat Minnesota, 10-7; and Orlando Cepeda's three-run homer carried the Atlanta Braves past Washington, 7-3.

Dock Ellis and Chuck Hartenstein teammed up to pitch a five hit shutout for Pittsburgh and Willie Stargell unloaded a homer as the Pirates downed Cincinnati, 4-0; home runs by Joe Pepitone, Bob Watson and Tommy Davis enabled the Houston Astros to defeat Montreal, 4-3; and Jerry Kenney's homer helped the New York Yankees beat Detroit, 5-3, for the Yanks eighth victory in the last nine games.

"Mercury" Morris Takes Home Three Honors

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rookies all but dominated the America Football League in kickoff returns last year.

Official league statistics released today show that Denver's Bill Thompson and Boston's Carl Garrett nailed down the first two places in the return department and another rookie, Eugene "Mercury" Morris of Miami, took three other honors.

Thompson, a first-year man from Maryland State, returned 18 kickoffs for 513 yards, an average of 28.5 yards per return, to lead the league. Garrett, from New Mexico Highlands, brought back 28 for 792 yards and a 28.3 average.

Morris, the speedster from West Texas State, recorded the most return yardage (1,136), the most returns (43) and the longest return (105 yards). Morris' 43 returns were just four short of the league record of 47 set by Odell Barry of Denver in 1964

UCLA Joins Ranks Of The Great Ones In History

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—The UCLA Bruins today stood colossally atop the college basketball world in the same unbeatable fashion as the Yankees once ruled baseball and the Green Bay Packers dominated pro football.

By defeating Jacksonville, 80-69, Saturday, the poised and polished Bruins won their fourth consecutive NCAA championship and their sixth in the last seven years. And the prospects are that the Californians under the tutelage of John Wooden will be back in championship contention next year.

In defeating Jacksonville, the Bruins outshot the highest scoring team in the country. They also out-rebounded the Dolphins, the tallest team in college competition, with two seven-footers in their line-up.

Sydney Wicks, named Most Valuable Player in the finals outdueled Jacksonville's 7-1 Artis Gilmor off the boards while giving away six inches in height to his opponent.

He also held Gilmore to 18 points as the Bruins held Jacksonville to their second lowest point total in 28 games this season.

The poise of the Bruins was impressive. Jacksonville rushed into an early nine-point lead but the defending champs were unflappable. They methodically whittled down the margin, pulled ahead with less than three minutes remaining in the half, and led at intermission, 41-36.

Both teams were cold in the first three minutes of the second half. But the Bruin sharpshooters began finding the range, both long and short, and the outcome was never in doubt.

New Mexico State held off St. Bonaventure, 79-73, to take third place in the NCAA finals.

NCAA Or NIT, "We Could Have Won Either"

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I felt we could have won either the NCAA or the NIT," outspoken Al McGuire declared. He was taking a trophy home from New York this weekend, but you'll never convince him that he shouldn't have been taking home a trophy from College Park, Md.

McGuire's smooth Marquette team destroyed St. John's, McGuire's alma-mater, 65-53, Saturday to win the 33rd National Invitation Tournament and wind up the season with a 26-3 mark. It was an impressive win that bolstered McGuire's contention that his team is much better than it is being given credit for.

Of course, no one will ever know how far Marquette could have gone in the NCAA, but the Warriors certainly proved in the NIT that a lack of height doesn't bother them. Marquette doesn't have a player over 6-6, but the club has almost perfect balance and plays the tenacious defense that always has been McGuire's trademark.

"It's the best defensive club I've ever played against," St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca said after coaching his final college game before joining the New York Mets next year. But Carnesecca was still proud of his club's performance in its farewell because, "the kids didn't die out there."

St. John's fell behind, 13-2 and 28-12, and trailed, 35-25, at halftime and, 53-39, with eight minutes left in the game but rallied to narrow the deficit to five points, 54-49, with four minutes left. A long jumper by Jeff Sewell, who was the higher scorer with 22 points, started Marquette rolling again.

Joe Depre was St. John's leading scorer, but he was held to five free throws in the game and fouled out early as Marquette held him in check.

In the consolation game, Army completed a 22-6 season with a 75-68 victory over LSU, which was playing without injured Pete Maravich. Jim Oxley paced the defense-minded Cadets with 28 points.

Maravich had a frustrating end to his college career in the NIT as he was held to 77 points in three games and limited to just 20 by both Georgetown and Marquette.

Maravich finished with 3,667 points in his career but McGuire, outspoken to the end, had the last word as usual. "I'll take my guy Dean (Meminger) over Maravich up in Harlem anytime."

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Illegal 14th Amendment

We've referred to the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution as illegally adopted on a number of occasions, but did not realize that even supposedly top legal minds do not even remember the history of that document, upon which the Supreme Court has based many of its recent decisions, on "equal privileges under the law." Those decisions have been primarily an usurpation of the authority of states in various matters, notably in school rulings and the so-called one-man, one vote decisions.

It was particularly surprising to us when one of the leading "conservative" candidates for California attorney general said he had never heard the background of the Fourteenth Amendment. A reader then called our attention to A U.S. News & World Report editorial by David Lawrence, "The Worst Scandal in Our History." This editorial originally was printed Sept. 27, 1957, by the magazine and was reprinted last Jan. 26.

The amendment was proclaimed by the secretary of state July 20, 1868, although only 21 states legally ratified it. At that time there were 37 states in the union and it was necessary for 28 to ratify in order to have three-fourths of the states in the union.

As Mr. Lawrence pointed out, there were six states outside the South which rejected the amendment. They were New Jersey, Ohio, Kentucky, California, Delaware and Maryland. Ten southern states — Texas, Arkansas, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana — also refused to ratify.

Then Congress passed a federal statute taking away the privilege of voting and to hold office of all citizens who had served in the Confederacy. Previously there had been a presidential amnesty for the southern soldiers. New legislatures were then chosen and were forced to "ratify" the amendment under threat of continued exile from the Union.

It should be noted that before the Fourteenth Amendment was sent to the states by Congress, the Thirteenth Amendment which ended slavery had been ratified by the states, including those same southern states. The national government thereby accepted the actions of the former rebel states as valid.

There was justifiable anger at the congressional action, even in the northern states. Ohio and New Jersey notified the secretary of state that they were rescinding their ratification before the secretary proclaimed it adopted. Oregon's legislature passed a rescinding resolution several months later. Contending that the ratifications by the southern states were "usurpations, unconstitutional, revolutionary and void," and that "until such ratification is completed, any state has a right to withdraw its assent to any proposed amendment."

But, despite the genuine reservations by many people that the amendment was not legal, the Congress of that day pushed it across.

And while the Supreme Court has never ruled on the illegal procedures of the ratification, the court and other national and state courts have used the Fourteenth Amendment as a basis for ruling that states cannot determine the makeup of heir own legislatures nor how, they will run their schools or other state governmental affairs under the guise of "equal privileges under the law."

As David Lawrence says, it is "the worst scandal in our history."

All Want Better Schools

From time to time, members of the Washington press corps have pointed out that some of the more "liberal" proponents of compulsory integration of schools have been sending their children to expensive private schools in order to avoid the chaos in the integrated Washington schools.

Now Education Summary, a report on "new developments, trends, ideas and research in education," published by Croft Educational Services, Inc., reports:

"Renouncing the public schools, Negro parents in Washington, D.C., are sending their children to expensive private schools in sharply increasing numbers. The exodus has included children of city council and school board members, as well as of public school teachers and middle-income government workers. Many of the parents take on heavy debts and extra jobs to pay the steep fees."

Which again demonstrates that parents — regardless of background — will make great sacrifices in effort to see that their children get the kind of schooling they believe they should have.

'Rock'--Noise Pollution?

If a law proposed in the Georgia Legislature were to be passed, tickets to musical events in that state would carry this warning:

"Caution: Excessive loud noise may damage future hearing."

According to Rep. McKee Hargett, an osteopath, the legislation is needed because some of today's rock music can cause very serious injury to the inner ear.

This item surely deserves a place in that very thick volume entitled "Nutty Laws I've Known" by John Q. Public. (What next — sound level governors on radios?) But it is not so funny when it is viewed as a typical example of our whole approach to the problems of modern living.

No one is forced to attend a rock concert any more than he is forced to smoke. Yet Congress spends months arguing about a warning label on cigarette packages while all kinds of health hazards to which we are all involuntarily subjected go on and on.

The Almanac

Today is Monday, March 23, the 82nd day of 1970 with 283 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1775 Patrick Henry told the Virginia Convention, "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death."

In 1933 the German Reichstag gave Adolph Hitler "blanket power" for the next four years.

In 1942 Japanese-Americans were moved from their Pacific Coast homes to relocation centers as a wartime precaution.

In 1966 a blizzard swept through the Midwest, killing 32 persons.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "A friend is a person with whom I may be sincere. Before him, I may think aloud."

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING

For Reason On Rhodesia

In voting the Nixon administration into office, the American people undoubtedly hoped that a new team would return common sense to the country's foreign relations. For almost a decade, emotionalism and liberal ideology had been substituted for considerations of national interest. Nowhere was this more evident than in State Department and White House policy towards the so-called "emerging" African countries.

The Nixon administration has sought to apply common sense to some foreign relations problems and areas, but in other areas its efforts have fallen short of the mark. The pernicious influence of the State Department, which has not received the housecleaning that is needed, is clearly visible. It was visible in recent days when Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced that the U.S. consulate in Salisbury, Rhodesia, would be closed. During his recent swing through black African countries, Mr. Rogers heard much criticism of Rhodesia — and the U.S. Consulate there — from several of the African dictators and strongmen.

Now, obviously, the closing of the consulate isn't the administration's biggest decision in the area of foreign policy, but it has a symbolic importance that will be noted throughout Africa and around the world. The action shows 1) that the Nixon administration is as susceptible as the Johnson administration to the influence of the British Labor government and 2) that the State Department is still eager to appease the black African regimes that were catered to by the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

In the process, the U.S. national interest has suffered. If the Nixon administration wanted to signal to the world that it sought a more reasonable and constructive policy towards Africa, it would have kept the Salisbury consulate open. Moreover, it would have gone ahead and recognized the new Republic of Rhodesia.

On the African scene, Rhodesia is one of the success stories. Self-governing and self-supporting since 1923, Rhodesia in 1965 declared its independence of Britain. The circumstances were very similar to the American colonies' declaration of independence in 1776. The Rhodesians chose the path of independence because they knew that was the only way to safeguard and maintain civilization in their country. They looked around them on the continent and saw the emergence of black dictatorships. They saw much of the continent sinking into its ancient savagery.

Instead of being helped by other civilized countries the Rhodesians were lambasted. Nevertheless, the Rhodesians showed what self-reliance can achieve. The U.N.-imposed sanctions honored by the Johnson administration, only served to help Rhodesia build up its home industries and commerce. Trading nations such as France, West Germany, Italy and Japan have continued to do business with Rhodesia and invest in its future.

Every consideration of practicality dictates U.S. recognition of a country that is working and prospering — and that is committed to the struggle against communism. It is impossible to give a logical argument for non-recognition, for support of sanctions, or for withdrawal of the U.S. Consulate.

The U.S. recognizes Nigeria, though its forces killed over one million Ibo tribesmen. It recognizes the revolutionary government of Libya, which is forcing the U.S. Air Force to evacuate the vital Wheelus Air Base. The U.S. recognizes Kenya, though the black Kenya regime imprisons its political foes and is busy squeezing out the Indian population. The U.S. recognizes Zambia which is nationalizing foreign-owned mines; and Tanzania, which is a one-party nation with close political ties to the Communist Chinese.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION — Why does a pure democracy always destroy itself?

ANSWER : When people try to solve their problems by political means, what they are really doing is giving power over their lives to certain other people. They give away the power to make decisions and to control their activities and their property.

If this power is given on the basis of one man, one vote, then those who seek power will have to try to get more and more votes. The only way they can do this is to promise benefits in exchange for the votes.

But since politicians do not have anything, the only way they can give benefits to anyone is to take away something from everyone. Therefore, if they promise a park to the people in one town, the only way they can give them a park is to take money away from everyone in order to build the park. That means the people from whom the money was taken have that much less to take care of their own needs and desires. They then don't have enough to build their own park. And the circle begins.

This is the way politicians satisfy all their promises for benefits and special privileges, and it is the only way they can do so, for they have nothing except what they take from the people.

Human nature being what it is, this creates two reactions, which both have the same ultimate effect. One reaction is: "I want my share." the other reaction is: "I don't approve of this because it's wrong, but if they're going to steal from me, I may as well get as much back as I can." the single effect is that more and more people turn to the politicians for special privileges and benefits, and the power of the political body grows and grows until it is no longer possible for the people to support it and then it collapses.

The only reason a pure democracy collapses faster than any other kind of political organization is that the faucets for dispensing the plunder are open wider to more and more people, so the supply runs out more quickly. In a monarchy, the plunder is dispensed more frugally to fewer people and the process of collapse slows down somewhat since production has a chance to catch up with the plunder. A republic attempts to erect many barriers against the plunder process, but the barriers are soon beaten down and the republic will degenerate into a democracy or be taken over by a dictator or monarch, and the process will go on from there.

A civilization organized around political power eventually will collapse. In the over 6,000 years of civilization's history none have survived more than a few hundred years. Self destruction is inevitable from the nature of the organization. Many writers and thinkers have seen this and pointed it out, among them Herbert Spencer in "The Man Versus The State," Albert J. Nock in "Our Enemy, The State," Isabel Paterson in "The God of the Machine," Andrew J. Galambos in his courses on Volition, and Leonard E. Read of the Foundation for Economic Education in New York, and Robert LeFevre of Rampart College, Santa Ana, Calif.

H. L. Hunt Writes

THE POWER TO DESTROY

Lovers of Freedom have long known that the power to tax may be easily converted into the power to destroy. Excessive taxation of home owners can destroy the incentive to own a home. In the case of businesses, excessive taxes can destroy jobs, businesses and the taxes both pay.

Both home owning and business operation by free citizens of Republic USA have served our nation and people well during our history, making for stability and progress so that even our "poor" enjoy luxuries undreamed of by kings and tycoons of other lands and other years. Periodically, we see short-sighted policy makers and opinion-molders seek to solve social problems by spending more tax money. Taxes have now climbed so high that worse problems are being created than the original problem.

Taxes and inflation are driving the home buyer out of the market and threatening the very life of small and medium-size businesses by the tens of thousands. It may not be a coincidence that those threatened are the backbone of our society, the good, stable workers who own their own homes and the small businesses which employ them. Good examples are the hundreds of thousands of barber shops, beauty shops, service stations, small retail stores and the like, all operated by struggling, independent businessmen.

Recently, the Congress came very close to setting a precedent for taxing 10 percent of business expense, including intangibles, for one industry. This was not taxing profits, or even sales, but taxing legitimate, intangible business expenses. It would be difficult to imagine a better way to destroy tens of thousands of businesses if this tax mania at all levels is not reversed. When the businesses go down the drain, the taxes they pay, the jobs they provide and the taxes paid by the jobholders all go down the drain, too. Action, organized action by the harried taxpayers, is all that can reverse the tax mania.

Stomach X Rays Help Make Right Diagnosis

Q—What is the difference between an acid stomach and a peptic ulcer? One doctof says I have one and another says I have the other.

A — Since the stomach is normally acid, the term "acid stomach," as commonly used, refers to bringing up sour stomach contents after a meal. This may be caused by excessive smoking, eating too fast or dietary indiscretions. Although peptic ulcers cause an increase in the amount of acid in the stomach, the two conditions are not related — you can have either one without the other. Stomach X rays should help your doctor make the right diagnosis.

Q — How effective is vagotomy in the treatment of a peptic ulcer?

A — Vagotomy is a cutting of the vagus nerve to reduce the stimuli to the acid-secreting cells in the stomach, thereby reducing the irritating action of the acid on the ulcer. It is often done to prevent the recurrence of a duodenal but not a stomach ulcer. Because the operation does not always accomplish this purpose most surgeons advocate combining it with removal of part of the stomach to reduce the amount of acid-secreting tissue.

Although the combined operation has a much greater chance of success than vagotomy alone, full reliance cannot be placed on surgery to effect a permanent cure. The tensions that caused the ulcer in the first place must be controlled and other factors, such as excessive smoking, must be eliminated.

Q — Our son, 22, was told that he has a deformed duodenal bulb. What does that mean? Was it present since birth? Is it correctible by surgery?

A — The deformed bulb is characteristic of a duodenal ulcer. It was not present since birth. Surgery is reserved for those cases that can't be controlled by medical treatment.

Q — I am taking a high-potency vitamin and mineral preparation with lipotropic factor. What is lipotropic factor? Would the capsules have a bad effect on a stomach ulcer?

A — Lipotropic factor is a substance that has an affinity for fats and thus decreases deposits of fat in the liver if any are present. The preparation would not adversely affect your ulcer.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Pompidou Trip Earns Moderate Reviews

PARIS, March 23— President Georges Pompidou's recent trip to the United States is being assessed here as a modest success, but the visit has, in one respect, left a bit of an unpleasant aftertaste.

It arises from the French president's reported reference to Israel as a "racial and religious" state. Made in Chicago, the remark was all but buried at the time in accounts of the protest demonstrations which marred Pompidou's March 2 stopover there.

There has been rather widespread discussion of the comment, both public and private, recently, however. Shortly after Pompidou's return, the respected afternoon paper, Le Monde, took the President to task in an editorial titled, "Treading on Dangerous Ground,"

"The statement seems to go far beyond, and to overshadow, the comment by then President Charles de Gaulle on the Jews as 'an elite people sure of itself and domineering,' a phrase which caused a considerable stir at the time," the editorial said.

A similar concern is still being voiced privately in diplomatic circles here. No one really questions Pompidou's assertion, also made in Chicago, that, "I am not an anti-Semite."

That is precisely why, in the view of some diplomats here, there is cause for concern and diplomatic malaise in such utterances by high public officials which can be read as suggestiong that French policy has faint racial overtones.

It is true, of course, that race and religion are involved in the Arab-Israeli war. However, as noted by Le Monde, it is essentially a political and military struggle. As the editorial said: "Politicians have a definite interest in restricting the struggle to this level as far as possible.

L' HONNEUR DE LA FRANCE — Generally, public reaction to President Pompidou's trip has been favorable, and it is clear that French officialdom, starting at the Elysee Palace, has tried to put a good complexion on the visit ever since its conclusion.

For a couple of days last week Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann was even suggesting that the Pompidou-Nixon talks had moved the United States and Russia towards an understanding on the Middle East. Even if that proves to be an overstatement, it is symptomatic of the official view.

In iplomatic circles it is believed that the visit between the two Presidents was probably useful, even if it had no such world-shaking results.

Pompidou, himself, told a television interviewer that he was "full satisfied" with his talks with Mr. Nixon. He said Franco-American friendship was reinforced by President Nixon's decision to go to New York and meet with Pompidou after the demonstrations in Chicago.

As to the demonstrations in Chicago, Pompidou criticized the "complicity of the authorities" there and, wrapping himself in the tricolor, described his reaction in terms which must have gladdened stout French hearts in cafes all over town:

"From that point on it wasn't Georges Pompidou who was concerned, but it was France. It was France which could be offended, and that's why I reacted in the name of and for the honor of France," he said.

According to a published poll (le Figaro), 60 per cent of Frenchmen approved of Pompidou's protesting the Chicago incidents. Some 36 per cent of those polled thought the demonstrations against French Mid-east policies were a discourtesy to an official guest.

Surprisingly, however, 39 per cent viewed the demonstrations as a "warning which the French government should take into account" in its formulation of foreign policies.

NANTERRE CRISIS — In his television interview, Mr. Pompidou devoted only a small portion of his time to a discussion of his visit in the United States. He was not asked about the controversial comments on the nature of the state of Israel.

He discussed at length a domestic crisis which developed while he was out of the country — violent demonstrations at the suburban Nanterre campus of the Universiggy of Paris, which have been producing Black headlines here. Recent student-police clashes at Nanterre have been the bloodiest since the Latin Quarter uprisings of 1968.

Pompidou's reflections on the situation in the universities might have been made by a college president or a chairman of trustees or regents in the United States:

— It is important to distinguish between college unrest and violence by revolutionaries. . .

—University communities should have autonomy, but students and faculties should show the maturity needed to use it. . .

—If violence and destruction of property continues, then the authorities have a responsibility to see that order is restored for the common good. . .etc-etc.

STRAIGHT TALK

You Can Believe--Sometimes

By TOM ANDERSON

Many "newsmen" have never learned to be newsmen. They have spent so much time learning the tricks of the trade, they didn't learn the trade!

The only thing you can believe in many papers is the funny paper, and sometimes I have my doubts about Dick Tracy.

In Marks, Miss., recently, TV "newsmen" dressed some Negroes in old, torn rags borrowed for the occasion and captioned the resulting pictures as typical of the Negro's plight in Mississippi.

I attended the Ralph Abernathy news conference at the Republican Presidential Convention in Miami. Not one antagonistic question was asked Abernathy. At Wallace's press conference no friendly questions were asked.

John Kennedy used to plant more than half the questions asked at his press conferences. And the newsmen knew it. But they did not report it. They played the game. Many of the politicians' answers are lies, distortions, evasions and half-truths. The professional pollsters supposedly report what the people think, but much of what the people think they think is based on lies the people have been told by politicians and press.

For weeks the "liberal" press front-paged the horrible bludgeon-slaying of a theologian and civil rights leader. He was known and loved by many people, the press reported. He had spoken on many college campuses. He had "played a militant role in the struggle for racial justice and has been described as one of the white men most trusted by American Negroes," said one wire service. He had marched on Washington, on Selma and on Mississippi, and had long been active in the National Council of Churches, of which he was a one-time official.

What the press "forgot" to report was that chemical analysis proved that the deceased had engaged in a homosexual act shortly before his death and that among his personal effects were photographs depicting sexual perversions along with love letters from boy friends.

We editors are in a unique position: we are the watchmen. Ours is a holy trust. Ezekiel 33:6 says: "But if the watchman sees the evening come and blows not the trumpet and the people be not warned ..... his blood will I require at the watchman's hands."

ASSEMBLING THE BIGGEST, soldiers work on a portion of the largest rock crusher in Southeast Asia. The rock crusher and asphalt plant complex will produce paving material for a national highway linking northern and southern provinces of South Vietnam.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Some Americans have been laboring under the impression that the Vietnam War is ruining South Vietnam and has not been too healthy for the Vietnamese.

But for the past sevesal weeks, senior American advisers in Vietnam have come back to Washington with reports that the war, help that it is, is going to produce some nice benefits that one does not regularly hear about.

The latest witness before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was Donald G. MacDonald, the foreign aid manager in Vietnam.

MacDonald reports that the 1970s should be an "exciting decade' for South Vietnam. The government in Saigon, which some have labeled repressive, is achieving 'rapid social barge in the midst of war' and is building 'a better place in which to live, not at some distant time, but today and tomorrow.'

MacDonald, furthermore, says South Vietnam 'will inherit from the war years...a large reservoir of literate manpower, trained to comparatively high levels in diverse military-civilian technical and management skills," not to mention "first class seaports, warehousing facilities and excellent major road arteries."

The Southeast Asian nation, he says, has achieved 'a breakthrough in mass education that many countries at peace in the world are yet to begin," and "during a period when it was swamped by the problems of caring for refugees and the war injured it nonetheless embarked on programs to develop a capacity to deliver health services to all Vietnamese."

Ambassador William E. Colby, who runs the American political advisory program in Vietnam, says he sees "a new spirit in the countryside."

Backstairs At The Whitehouse

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Once barely visible in the South, the Republican party now appears as ready as it will ever be to try to take a Senate seat from a Byrd of Virginia.

A few years ago, that would have seemed as quixotic as a campaign to elect a labor leader to the presidency of the Chamber of Commerce.

But Virginia's newly installed Republican governor, A. Linwood Holton, wants the GOP to make a serious attempt this year to win the Senate seat held by Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr.

Byrd Shuns Organization

Byrd announced last week that he would bypass the Democratic primary and run as an independent for re-election to the seat held by him and his late father since 1933.

Holton will call the signals for the strategy to be followed by the GOP, although he presumably will get advice from the White House and national Republican leaders.
