Disputes, New Violations Delay Cease-Fire Impact

By GEORGE ESPER
ASSOCIATED Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Procedural disputes today continued to delay the dispatch of cease-fire observers into the South Vietnamese provinces, and the South Vietnamese command reported more than 250 new violations of the truce by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong between noon Monday and dawn Tuesday. But this was a drop of 30 per cent from the previous reporting period.

In Honolulu, the U.S. Pacific Command said U.S. B-52 bombers and fighter-bombers continued operations against Communist forces in Laos and Cambodia Monday at the request of the Laotian and Cambodian governments. It gave no details.

Meanwhile, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived in Saigon for his first stop on a seven-nation tour of Southeast Asia and reaffirmed the Nixon administration's support for President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime as the only legitimate government of South Vietnam. He also said the U.S. government does not recognize the right of North Vietnamese troops to remain in South Vietnam. Agnew said he would hold "important consultations" with Thieu on postwar relations. The four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision failed to get its seven regional teams in place and operational this morning as called for in the cease-fire agreement because of procedural disputes within the four-party joint military commission made up of the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. A second plane load of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates to the joint military commission sat overnight in the plane that brought them to Saigon, refusing to give tacit recognition to the Thieu government by filling out the customs and immigration forms required of all arrivals at Tan Son Nhut airport. U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker called on Thieu a few hours before Agnew arrived, and the government waived the requirement, as it had for another plane load of balking Communists on Monday. The joint military commission held two meetings Monday, but both broke up in disputes over the failure or refusal of at least one of the two Communist delegations to present credentials. The commission met again for four hours Monday night and for nearly three hours this morning, but there was no word whether any issues had been resolved. Members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision, which is made up of Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland, have said their men cannot move out into the field until the joint military commission provides transportation, security, communications, accommodations and guidance where to go. The ICCS held its second meeting today, and the members from Canada and Poland spent the morning contacting members of the joint military commission in efforts to get observation teams into the field. A Canadian spokesman expressed hope they would be on their way by Wednesday morning. The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry issued a statement accusing the Saigon government of violating the cease-fire. It also charged South Vietnam and the United States with harassing the Communist delegations to the joint military commission.

Foreign Ministers Nguyen Dai Trinh of North Vietnam and Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong told a reception in Paris that their forces have observed the cease-fire strictly and will continue to do so. But the South Vietnamese command in a communique claimed that Communist forces violated the cease-fire 311 times during the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today.

House Approves Open Meetings Bill Proposal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas House members were expected to pass to the Senate today a bill applying the state open meetings law to the legislature for the first time and providing harsher penalties for public officials who take part in secret meetings.

The measure advanced Monday on a 137-6 vote after debate which lasted from 11:35 a.m. until after 5:30 p.m., with about an hour and 15 minutes off for lunch. Reps. Dean Cobb of Dumas, A. L. Dramberger of San Antonio, Bill Hollowell of Grand Prairie, Felix McDonald of Edinburg, Tom Uher of Bay City and Billy Williamson of Tyler voted against the measure Monday.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. praised the bill, which was part of his nine-bill "reform" package, despite amendments which the sponsor said "seriously cripple" the measure. Daniel said the measure would "guarantee the right of the public and the news media to attend and observe virtually all of the meetings of governmental bodies at both the state and local levels." Sponsoring Rep. Carl Parker of Port Arthur, the bill would make several major changes in the generally unenforced open meetings act passed in 1967. Penalties for holding closed meetings of government boards, commissions and agencies would be set at a maximum of six months in jail and a $500 fine, compared with a $100 fine now.

For the first time the legislature and its committees would be covered by the open meetings requirement. The most noticeable change would be in the House-Senate conference committees which are set up when

Tax Ruling On Agenda For County

A homestead exemption of $3,000 for Gray County property owners over 65 is one of the prime items on the agenda of the Feb. 1 meeting of the Gray County commissioners.

Fire protection contracts with Lefors and McLean are up for renewal. Workmen's compensation for county and hospital employes and public official liability are also items to be placed before the court.

The homestead exemption measure was authorized by constitutional amendment in the recent general elections. The measure, approved by Gray County voters, provides that the exempted amount may be levied on for outstanding bonded indebtedness until such is paid off.

Once such is paid off, it can never be made liable for any new bond issues voted. Other business will be of a routine nature such as paying salaries and outstanding bills as approved by the auditor.

BILL GOES TO HOUSE

Committee Okays 'Trimester' Delay

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Education Committee today approved a bill delaying for two years the start of a new quarter—or "trimester"—system in Texas public schools.

The 21-0 vote sent the bill, which Gov. Dolph Briscoe designated Monday as emergency legislation, to the House floor for debate. Present law calls for all schools to abandon the two-semester school year this fall and switch to a system of 3 three-month terms. A school district could operate for four quarters if it wished to.

The bill approved today would postpone the mandatory beginning of the quarter system to the 1975-76 school year. Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale, committee chairman and sponsor of the bill, said many school districts have been unable to complete the curriculum changes necessary to implement the trimester system. The Texas Association of School Boards and the Texas State Teachers Association have endorsed the bill.

Kubiak said he favors the trimester system, and districts which are ready can start it whenever they wish. Leon Graham, assistant state education commissioner, said 38 districts are now using the new system.

Baytown School Supt. Johnny Clark said two schools in his district now use the quarter system on a pilot basis and are wrestling with such problems as whether to have 55-minute or 90-minute class periods.

Several reports from other chamber committees also were made to the board of directors.

City May Get New Yule Look

Pampa will have new street decorations for Christmas holidays this year. It was decided at yesterday's monthly meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors possibly the five-year-old decorations need to be traded in and possibly a new approach be taken for the city's yule holiday image.

Discussion centered around a proposal to change from overhead strings of holly and bells to pole decorations at the sides of streets. A committee comprised of Carlton Freeman, W.C. Bass, Melvin Kunkel, B.M. Wofford and R.B. Cooke was named to study the situation, determine what is needed and arrange to receive bids.

Foster Whaley, chairman of the chamber's Livestock Committee, reported detailed plans are nearing completion for the Top O' Texas Livestock Show March 5, 6 and 7 in Pampa's Recreation Park.

Whaley said record numbers of steers and hogs are expected to be entered in this year's show and sale. Several reports from other chamber committees also were made to the board of directors.

Museum May Get JFK Car

WASHINGTON (AP) — The limousine in which President John F. Kennedy was assassinated will be retired from government service, probably to a museum, the Secret Service says.

The 1961 black Lincoln Continental will be returned soon to the Ford Motor Co., which leases the armor-plated presidential "security limousines," according to Jack Warner of the Secret Service.

At least one firm has expressed an interest in selling the historic vehicle, but a Ford spokesman said the auto "would not be promoted by anybody."

The Edison Institute, which operates the Henry Ford Museum in Greenfield Village, Mich., has the first option on the auto, the Ford spokesman said. If the museum turns down the vehicle, which is doubtful, the auto probably will be destroyed, he added.

Russell Kruse of Kruse Classic Auction Co. of Auburn, Ind., the firm that recently sold Adolf Hitler's staff car for $153,000, said the Kennedy auto could bring up to a quarter-million dollars on the auction block.

The Ford spokesman, however, emphasized that the car would be "retired gracefully" and would not be sold. The limousine was 90 per cent rebuilt in 1964 following the assassination in Dallas in 1963, a Secret Service spokesman said.

Ford in 1968 signed an eight-year contract to keep two high-powered, specially equipped presidential limousines available at the White House and to build a new one every four years. President Lyndon B. Johnson received a new car in 1968 and President Nixon received his new one last year. The one in which Kennedy was killed, however, has been used occasionally since its renovation.

Heath Brings New Proposal For Mid-East Peacemaking

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath leaves for Washington today with a proposal for President Nixon for a new peacemaking approach in the Middle East.

Qualified British sources said Heath wants Nixon to put pressure on Israel to come to terms swiftly while European governments do the same with the Arabs.

Heath and Nixon begin their two-day conference in the White House Thursday. It will be the President's first encounter with the head of a foreign government since his inauguration. It will be Heath's first meeting with the President since Britain joined the common market Jan. 1. On Friday, they continue their discussions at Camp David, Md.

While the leaders range over policy, the more detailed intricacies of foreign affairs will occupy Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The talks will include Soviet and Chinese intentions, international trade and reforms to the world money system. Among other topics due to come up in the British-American exchanges.

A redefinition of the shared interests and common aims of the Western powers despite their periodic clashes in economic and political sectors. — Analyses of the trends and motives in the policies of such countries as the Soviet Union, China and India. — Security situations in Europe, in the Middle East, the Indian Ocean and the Far East in the post-Vietnam era.

— Tactics to be adopted by the North Atlantic allies, in coming negotiations on European security and force cuts in Europe. — The implications for the lessor nuclear powers — Britain and France — in the strategic arms limitation talks between the United States and Russia. This could vitally affect Heath's pet project — a pooling of British and French nuclear arms sources.

Finally, Heath plans to give Nixon a rundown of the situation in Northern Ireland where, British officials claim, British policy has the President's full understanding.

LADY-BIRD SAYS
Johnson Informed About Cease-Fire

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson died knowing that a cease-fire agreement had been reached for South Vietnam, his widow says.

Johnson was told personally by President Nixon, Mrs. Johnson said in a statement Monday. Furthermore, Mrs. Johnson said, the former president was in the process of preparing a statement to be released when the cease-fire was formally announced.

Johnson died of a heart attack Monday afternoon, Jan. 22. President Nixon announced the cease-fire Tuesday night, Jan. 23. "So many have expressed sorrow that my husband had no knowledge of the cease-fire agreement in Southeast Asia," said Mrs. Johnson's statement. "I think his friends should be told that fate was kind."

Johnson said he never saw the statement, which was never completed. "I give thanks that the great heart which sustained him through his many ordeals sustained Lyndon until he knew the ordeal of war was over," Mrs. Johnson said.

"I shall always be grateful to President Nixon for his consideration on this and in so many other ways."

Cash Doesn't Help Teaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cash rewards for teachers won't improve Johnny's reading and arithmetic, according to the evaluation of a $770,000 federal experiment.

In each district, each with 500 to 700 predominantly poor and black pupils with very low grades. Teachers were offered bonuses of up to $1,200 if their classes improved significantly in reading and math.

In addition, parents of pupils in the San Antonio and Oakland test schools could earn up to $100 if the classes as a whole improved. In reading, there was an "educationally significant increase" in achievement only in Oakland, an apparent decrease in Cincinnati and negligible changes in the other two schools, the evaluation said. In mathematics, learning increased at Oakland and San Antonio, it said.

Planar Corp., which analyzed the results, recommended to the U.S. Office of Education that teacher-only incentives "not be further researched or advocated." But the parent-teacher idea should be explored further over

Chamber Plans New City Map

A new city map for Pampa was planned at a meeting of the Publications Committee of the Chamber of Commerce this forenoon.

Chairman Gary Stevens said the committee decided to update the map to show additional streets and current statistics about Pampa. The map will be produced with cooperation of the city engineering department.

Arrangements also were made to compile a new directory of Pampa civic clubs and organizations.

Plans also were discussed to publish a new color photo brochure of Pampa in cooperation with the Pampa Industrial Foundation.

Chamber Urges Citizens To Consider Legislation

By TEX DEWEES
An appeal was sounded at Monday's January membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce for Pampans to express their opinions on legislative proposals expected to be voted on during the current session of the U.S. Congress.

It came during the program presented to the luncheon audience by John Warner, chairman of the chamber's Legislative and National Affairs Committee.

A questionnaire listing nearly 40 of the major proposals to be introduced in Congress will be mailed to all chamber members. Non-members may obtain questionnaires by applying at the chamber office in the Hughes Bldg.

Chamber members and citizens are being urged to register their concern on the proposals and mark their choice in a "for" and "against" column. When the questionnaire is filled out it is to be returned to the local Chamber office, P.O. Box 1942, Pampa, 79055.

The composite results of the survey will then be mailed to area representatives and senators in the U.S. House and Senate.

Several of the issues were discussed by Warner at yesterday's luncheon. They included minimum wage, lobbying controls, Federal Trade Commission powers to issue trade regulations, welfare reform, land use and a proposed changeover to the metric system of measurements.

The questionnaire survey, being made all across the nation, includes such topics as labor relations, government operations, taxation, consumer affairs, economic security, environmental and natural resources, international affairs, community affairs, commerce and industry.

Need for citizens to make their opinions known to both state and national legislators was pointed up by Warner when he stated the current Congress is expected to act on 20,000 pieces of legislation and there will be 5,000 new bills introduced in the present session of the state legislature in Austin.

"Study the issues and voice your opinions to your senators and representatives," Warner urged.

Ray Wilson, Gray County's retiring county auditor, was honored for his 44 years in that post at yesterday's luncheon. He was presented an honorary Top O' Texan Award and Mrs. Wilson was presented with a bouquet of roses. The presentations were made by Jerry Sims, chamber president.

Communal Violence Rages On In Ulster

BELFAST (AP) — Two Roman Catholics and a Protestant were killed, three persons were wounded and the head office of a major shipyard was bombed Monday night as Ulster's communal violence raged on.

The Protestant was shot in the head and dumped in a shop doorway. Police said he had been visiting relatives in a Catholic area of Belfast. They said he was in his mid-20s and married to a Catholic.

A 22-year-old father of two was shot four times at a Belfast service station by gunmen in a car that he was filling with gas. The other Catholic killed was a 15-year-old boy who was shot from a passing car as he stood in the doorway of his widowed mother's Belfast shop. Another 15-year-old with him was hit and reported in serious condition.

The killings brought to 694 the number of persons known to have died in 3 1/2 years of religious strife.

A 24-year-old Catholic was shot and then dumped from a car in Dungannon, County Tyrone, but his wound was not serious. A Protestant was wounded outside his home in Carrickfergus, north of Belfast, by a gunman who escaped.

Fifty pounds of explosives badly damaged the main office building of Belfast's Harland and Wolff shipyard, one of the biggest in the United Kingdom. No injuries were reported.

In the Irish Republic to the south, two more leaders of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army were jailed for six months for belonging to the outlawed organization. They were Martin McGuinness, 22, who headed the Provos in Londonderry, and Joseph McCaillon, 27, one of the McGuinness' lieutenants.

They were arrested Jan. 13 near the border with Northern Ireland.

A SHORT SNORTER auctioned for $1,700 is held in New York by Charles Hamilton, owner of Hamilton Galleries. The bill is an obsolete Russian one-chervonetz, worth about $1 in its day, and was in the estate of the late Merriman Smith, longtime White House reporter for UPI. But the signatures! Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Winston Churchill, Nikita S. Khrushchev, USAF Gen. Carl Spaatz, newsmen William H. Lawrence. That's Lenin on the bill.

Kidnapers Questioned

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The three kidnapers of U.S. Ambassador to Haiti Clinton E. Knox and 12 prisoners released from Haitian jails as part of the diplomat's ransom were to be questioned today.

The 15 arrived here last Wednesday aboard a Haitian cargo plane and asked that they be allowed to rest, an Interior Ministry spokesman explained. He said one of the group, a woman, had been ill.

It was indicated earlier that some asked to be sent to other countries while a few might ask for political asylum.

Temporary asylum was granted by the Mexican government in order to gain the safe release of Knox and U.S. Consul General Ward Christianson, who were kidnaped in Port au Prince Jan. 23.

The ransoms included the release of 12 jailed persons and $70,000. The money has since been returned to Haiti by the Mexican government.

US Continues Research On 'Laser Bomb'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is speeding up work on a proposed "laser bomb" that will be as powerful as the hydrogen bomb.

The Nixon administration's proposed budget for fiscal 1974 provides $34 million for laser bomb research by the Atomic Energy Commission. The amount includes $20 million for a high-energy laser facility at the AEC laboratory at Livermore, Calif.

Research into a laser bomb has been under way at least five years, but the expenditures proposed for 1974 are the greatest yet. The appropriation for the current fiscal year was $22 million.

The bomb would use the intense heat of a laser beam to ignite hydrogen explosives. Existing hydrogen bombs employ an atomic bomb as the trigger mechanism.

The advantage of a laser beam as a trigger is that it is presumably simpler, smaller and would release less radioactivity if used. A laser-triggered hydrogen device could be used as a bomb or in the warhead of an intercontinental ballistic missile.

PENTAGON PAPERS DISCLOSE Britain's Attempts To Stop War Embarrassed Johnson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A newly released section of the Pentagon papers describes Britain's attempts to mediate a Vietnam war settlement as "sometimes embarrassing" to the United States by spotlighting apparent contradictions in President Lyndon B. Johnson's peace-seeking efforts.

The study says the United States brought Britain into the negotiating process in 1966-1967 only to help British Prime Minister Harold Wilson politically and because of the importance of British support for U.S. Vietnam policies.

Johnson's secret diplomatic efforts from 1965 to 1968 are described in four previously unreleased volumes of the Pentagon war study introduced as evidence in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the leak of the study to news media.

The Pentagon documents were released to the press Monday.

Senate Okays Richardson In Defense Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Elliot L. Richardson as secretary of defense, reducing to three the number of President Nixon's new Cabinet appointees still to be confirmed.

Two nominees are to be taken up Wednesday, with a mid-afternoon vote scheduled on the nomination of Peter J. Brennan, New York labor leader, as secretary of labor.

A vote is expected Wednesday or Thursday on the nomination of James T. Lynn to be secretary of housing and urban development.

Although approved by the Senate Finance Committee, the nomination of Caspar W. Weinberger is being held up by Senate-Labor Committee Democrats who want to question him about budget cuts in programs he would administer as secretary of health, education and welfare.

Richardson, the outgoing HEW secretary, was confirmed Monday by an 81-1 vote. Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said his lone vote against Richardson was part of a continuing protest against what he called erosion of congressional power to the executive branch.

Nixon Appointments Secretary Resigns

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — With firm denials he was being forced out, the Florida White House said Monday that Dwight Chapin is resigning as President Nixon's appointments secretary.

Chapin's name crop cropped up in last fall's controversy over alleged political espionage by Republicans, and newspaper accounts named him as White House contact for California lawyer Donald Segretti, identified as a coordinator of the disruptive efforts.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler confirmed in responding to newsmen's questions that Chapin has decided to leave the White House staff in the spring to accept one of "a number of very fine offers in the business world from a number of very fine companies." He wouldn't identify the companies.

IN ABORTION CASE Ruling Absolves No One Of Moral Responsibility

DALLAS (AP) — The woman attorney who started rolling the machinery that overturned abortion statutes in some 30 states says the landmark Supreme Court ruling absolves no one "of individual moral or religious responsibility."

Linda N. Coffee, a 30-year-old Baptist who handled the case of a pregnant and unmarried woman seeking an abortion, was instrumental in placing the case before the high court. The mother, Norma McCorvey, 25, had said she was greatly depressed and "unemployable" because of Texas laws denying her an abortion.

Miss McCorvey's case led to last week's historic ruling in Washington by the Supreme Court.

But, in an interview with Robert O'Brien of the Dallas bureau of Baptist Press, Miss Coffee says she worked for more constitutional freedom than she would exercise on a personal level.

She said she fears "emotional reaction to the ruling will result in failure to distinguish between the legal principle of the decision and the moral implications now left to the doctor-patient relationship."

"The abortion decision," said Miss Coffee, "could be as widely misinterpreted as the Supreme Court's prayer decision, but I hope not."

"From my personal perspective as a Christian," she said, "it would tear me up to have to make a decision on abortion, except in the very early stages."

"And I would have to have a compelling reason, even then," she said.

But, as a lawyer, Miss Coffee, with another young attorney, Sarah Wedding of Austin, Tex., authored a series of legal proceedings which led to the 7-2 Supreme Court decision.

The decision declared, she explained, the state has no right to interfere with a doctor-patient decision to terminate a pregnancy until the fetus becomes "viable" — sometime between the beginning of the sixth and seventh months of pregnancy.

The decision also established, said Miss Coffee, "that a fetus does not have status as a legal person within the due process clause of the 14th Amendment which says no person shall be denied life, liberty or property without due process of law."

"To have 'due process of law,'" she continued, "the fetus would be entitled to a hearing and legal counsel. The Supreme Court rejected that."

"But the ruling does not relieve each individual of standing firmly behind his or her moral or religious viewpoint about what a person is or when human life begins."

"I tend to feel the state should be neutral on abortion because it should never appear either to sanction an abortion or improperly interfere with a doctor-patient decision."

Price Placed On Operations Subcommittee

Native son Bob Price, Republican representative from this congressional district, has been named to the strategic operations subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee.

The operations subcommittee is charged with seeing that programs and rulings enacted by the panel are carried out.

In addition to this assignment, Price was named to two other subcommittees of the agriculture panel: livestock and grains and cotton, both deeply involved with the agricultural economy of this congressional district.

Rules Tightened Tor TB Steers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will put into effect March 1 tighter import requirements aimed at preventing the entry of tuberculosis-diseased steers from Mexico.

The tighter rule will require that all steers from Mexico be tested and certified as free of tuberculosis within 60 days of being offered for U.S. entry or else tested and found free of the disease at time of entry.

Currently, steers can enter if certified as originating from Mexican herds which have been found free of the disease.

Syria Turns Back Attack

BEIRUT (AP) — Israeli warplanes attempted to penetrate Syrian air space today but Syrian jets drove them off, an army spokesman reported in Damascus.

A statement broadcast by the Syrian radio said:

"Several Israeli formations, flying in from the sea, attempted to penetrate Syrian airspace from the Lebanese border at 0630GMT. Our fighters immediately intercepted the enemy planes and forced them to turn back across Lebanese skies."

The communique did not say whether there was any firing.

It was the first air encounter reported between Syria and Israel since Israeli planes attacked Syrian army positions in several parts of the country on Jan. 8.

Dear Abby

The rules change after the game ends

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My father in law is basically a pretty nice guy, but he is a real football freak.

My wife likes to spend Sunday with her parents, so we go, and of course the TV is always going full blast with some football game because her father is crazy about football.

My father in law [I call him "Coach"] begs me to bet, and just to please him, I do. I always end up with the winning team, but I lose money because he comes up with all kinds of funny "house rules" such as press bets, side bets, etc. Meanwhile, he sits there with a Cleveland Browns coaching hat on his fat head and laughs his head off. What should I do?

KEN IN WOOSTER

DEAR KEN: Keep the bets small and let the old gaffer have fun. Meanwhile, when you've learned his game, raise the ante and then YOU have fun, too!

DEAR ABBY: Paul and I have been married for 27 years. We have three children. Two are in college. Paul has worked hard all his life and we have done well financially because I worked, too, and we saved our money.

Paul came from a large family (10 children) of which he was the oldest. His father died shortly after we were married, so Paul helped support his mother and the younger children. I never objected, it was quite a strain on us for many years.

When Paul's mother remarried two years ago, I breathed a sigh of relief. Well, the other day when I went thru Paul's pockets before sending his suit to the cleaners, I came across two letters from his mother, addressed to him at the office!

Since no one was around, I decided to see what was up. I found out she had asked him for some money and he had sent it. I don't know how much or how often. Well, I am boiling, and I can't say a thing.

I am fed up with this whole mess, especially this business of writing to Paul at work to ask him for money.

How do I handle this situation? I am not a snoop, but—

SEALED LIPS

DEAR SEALED: You say you are not a "snoop," yet you read letters that were not intended for your eyes. You can either keep your lips sealed and pretend to know nothing, or confess that you read the letters and ask Paul for an accounting. I think you'd feel better if you confessed and cleared the air.

DEAR ABBY: My son is getting married soon. The bride's mother does not like my son because he has long hair and a beard and he refuses to cut it for the wedding. In order to punish my son, she has planned the following type of wedding: Just the parents of the bride and groom and the brothers and sisters on both sides. No other relatives and absolutely no outside friends.

After the wedding there is going to be a sit-down dinner. No music or dancing. Not even a small reception. She has informed me that SHE is going to wear a long dress.

What I want to know is this: Do I have to wear a long dress? And does my husband have to rent a tux? I hate to put out all that money just to sit down and eat a meal.

WEST TEXAS

DEAR WEST: Wear whatever you want, and tell your husband to do the same. [P.S. Perhaps SHE'S wearing a long dress to conceal the broom she uses for transportation.]

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 31

Your birthday today: In retrospect, this year will look like one smooth glide while you occupy yourself with spiritual growth. Today's natives are idealistic, headstrong, sometimes out of step with their own times.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: You have a clear field for any reasonable project, new or old. Just get right to business and do the necessary without fuss.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Original thought, examination of current practice for flaws and errors are first considerations today.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be alert for a commitment, even do a little urging to get the promise you want. Business rearrangements tend to be expedients.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Nothing is wrong with today with the possible exception of your judgment of time and space—see that you take no chances.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: A fairly pleasant but slow-paced day is promised. Gather loose ends, go beyond your usual perseverance to get the last details set.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: It's a great day for beginning new studies, languages, and the like. You can be of tremendous help to younger people.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Other people's resources open for expansion, broader use, and you can help guide the process for the general good.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Formal declarations, official messages are apt to come to you, or some of your interests are directly concerned.

TUESDAY 7:00 p.m.—Skellytown, TOPS Slimmers Club at Library.

WEDNESDAY 1:00-4:00 p.m.—Free Immunization Clinic, Carver Center

THURSDAY 1:30 p.m.—Senior Citizen's Center, Lovett Library. 7:00 p.m.—Weight Watchers of West Texas, St. Matthew's Parish Hall.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: A broad streak of favorable retribution runs thru the incidents and circumstances of today. Ask favors.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your get-up-and-go capabilities impress the right people. Gather good friends about you, have a social go-around.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: A bit of introspection will show you something very useful the next time you find it necessary to offer suggestions to others.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: End-of-the-month gives you an excuse to do something you've needed to do: Call in your own resources for redeployment.

WIN AT BRIDGE Submarine Play Is Squeeze

West and that the way to develop the squeeze was to use a submarine play.

He won the club lead in his own hand and put his deuce of spades on the table. East won and it did not matter what he returned. Actually he led back a spade. South won and cashed the other high spade. West had thrown two clubs and had to chuck another. The two top clubs were taken next and West had to unguard one of his red jacks. It made no difference which one. South was sure of four tricks in that red suit.

YEARS OF EXPERIENCE—Fugate Printing Company specializes in letterheads, business forms and other stationery. They now offer laminating service in their shop at 210 N. Ward.

Fugate Printing Company Now Provides Laminating Service

Fugate Printing Company offers another new service to the business firms and individuals of the Pampa area with the installation of their new GBC Laminator.

This ingenious little machine will seal, in clear plastic film by a special heat process, almost anything from tissue paper to card stock up to nine inches wide and 500 feet long.

Fugate's can laminate with two weights of tough, durable plastic—0015 and .003—to suit your particular requirements. This very light weight .0015 is usually preferred for catalog pages, price sheets and sales literature where the thinness of many pages is an important factor.

The heavier .003 weight would be more desirable for id card, valuable documents, instruction materials or any other items subjected to hard usage, weather and extreme heat or cold (225 degrees F to -60 degrees F).

The films Fugate's use to seal your papers resist the roughest kind of handling, are impervious to water, oil, grease, dirt and most acids, as well as making items tamper-proof.

This two-sided lamination is also excellent for protecting old and valuable letters, documents and papers against further deterioration.

Other applications this marvelous little machine is perfectly adapted for include sealing diplomas, birth certificates, marriage licenses, wedding announcements and invitations, newspaper clippings about you, your family, form or organization, servicemen's discharge certificates of award or achievement.

Call or come by Fugate Printing Company at 210 N. Ward and Fugate's will be happy to show you samples of their work and quote prices to you, whether it's a single treasured newspaper clipping or a stack of catalog pages.

Of course, Fugate Printing Company continues as the leading printers in the Pampa area with the same high quality and reasonably priced commercial printing that has been their trademark for the past 21 years. Fugate's regularly produce multi-part invoices, order books and forms of every size and description for nearly every leading Pampa firm as well as businesses in all of Pampa's neighboring towns.

Brochures, advertising and sales pieces, letterheads, envelopes, cards, tags, booklets, labels and many specialty items are printed day after day in Fugate's modern plant located at 210 N. Ward.

Bob Fugate pioneered "Quick-Copy" work in the Panhandle with the installation of special Xerox equipment in 1959, and his plant now continues to be the top shop in this field in the Pampa area. "Camera-ready" copy brought in one day is out the next at unbelievably low prices. You may even get copies almost "while you wait" at special prices.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP)—Obscured at first by the exhilaration of a cease-fire, the realization is widespread now that the Vietnam war has bequeathed to the American people a financial and social burden that will remain very heavy.

The cease-fire agreement is signed, but the country is left with severe budgetary problems and social unrest. There is no "peace dividend"; it vanished by bit long before the cease-fire.

The disappearance of the dividend is no mystery; it was based on a sudden ending of the war, and, as everyone knows, the war "wound down" over a period of many months. And so, what dividend there was is already spent.

The rest of the legacy stands out in bold relief in the current budgetary plans of the federal government.

Budget deficits, in part related to big military expenditures, appear to be unavoidable, even though both the President and Congress are aware that massive government overspending can be explosively inflationary.

Domestic social needs, some of which can be traced to neglect resulting from the exigencies of Vietnam, may remain unattended because the consequences of war continue to force funds into other channels.

One simple illustration of this is to compare the strict budgeting for education, health and housing, and the relatively liberal military expenditures, resulting in part from the need to pay higher salaries to a volunteer army.

But, while the current stress in many social areas can be traced to the war-to some extent, the precise degree of blame will always be debated. That is not so when budget deficits are discussed.

Since 1965, there has been only one year in which federal income exceeded outgo. That was in fiscal 1969, and it amounted to only $3.24 billion.

These deficits can more readily be traced directly to war, defense and other military needs. As the war built up so did the budget deficits and so did the rate of inflation. They were like interacting gears.

Now both Congress and the President would like to see some of these excesses corrected, but they find that their choices are limited. Because the war forced us into inflation, our options are reduced.

WITH SERVICE IN MIND—The people at both locations for Dixie Parts and Supply are always ready to aid Pampa area customers to find the parts and accessories needed for repair and customizing of vehicles. Larry McWilliams, left, and Ed Henley are among those ready to serve the customers at the store at 417 S. Cuyler. The other location is 1421 N. Hobart.

Dixie Carries Complete Line Of Auto Parts, Accessories

Dixie Parts and Supply, with two convenient locations, provides Pampa and the surrounding area with an automobile supply center that is unequaled in the trade zone. Complete lines of brand names and factory guaranteed parts are kept in complete stock at both store locations, 417 S. Cuyler and 1421 N. Hobart.

Many years of experience in the supply field by the Dixie personnel insure sound purchases for the customer. Parts for all trucks and cars are in supply or can be obtained by fast individual order.

Auto air conditioning is another feature of the stores. Operating with the slogan, "complete stock auto parts," Dixie has in the stores such items as mufflers and tailpipes, starters, generators, shock absorbers, fuel pumps and brake shoes.

All automobile accessories are available. Professional and backyard mechanics are reminded that for the best replacement parts on any model of any make of automobile, they can give Dixie a call.

If they don't have the part or accessory in stock, they will be happy to make quick and special orders.

Years of successful business and many satisfied customers in the Pampa area testify to the quality of merchandise and service offered by the stores.

Restructuring Market Is Long Undertaking

NEW YORK (AP)—The restructuring of the securities markets, known in advance to be a difficult assignment, is taking longer than was anticipated. Big knots still exist, and a lot of parties are pulling hard on the rope.

Agreement on one of the most important steps, the creation of a composite tape that would report transactions in listed securities wherever they occurred, rather than on just a single exchange, has been delayed at least a month.

The original deadline for agreement was Dec. 28, with implementation to follow sometime late in 1973. When that deadline was missed, the Securities and Exchange Commission extended the time limit to Jan. 26.

One of the more obvious disagreements, whether or not to admit institutional members, appears to be a step nearer resolution following an SEC order this week. But that order conceivably could be challenged in the courts.

And while such differences and difficulties exist, the exact nature of the future marketplace—that is, how the various exchanges will relate to each other—remains a nebulous concept.

The exchanges know that they will be required to work more closely in order to serve the public better. But neither they nor the SEC nor anyone else can say just how tight the relationship will be.

And so, while seeking ways in which they can cooperate, each exchange also feels compelled to remain wary of the other in order to retain whatever separate identity is permitted in the new order.

An indication of the problems is provided by the issue of institutions.

An institution is an organization controlling immense amounts of stock. Among them are mutual funds, pension funds and insurance companies, which collectively own hundreds of billions of dollars in shares.

Understandably, they are acutely conscious of the big commissions they pay on their transactions, and some of them therefore have attempted to join exchanges, handle their own transactions, and thus avert commissions.

In making this attempt, though, they have set off a brouhaha that involves so many points of view that a Solomon wouldn't have been able to satisfy everyone. Not when big money is involved.

To admit institutions, say the brokers, will be to deny us commissions. To admit them, says the New York Stock Exchange, will be to destroy liquidity. To admit them, says the little guy, will be to crush me.

But there are opposing points of view. To deny us admittance, say the institutions, is to penalize our members and owners. To deny admittance, says the Justice Department, might be to violate the laws of the land.

Now the SEC has ruled that institutions can be exchange members, but only if at least 80 per cent of their securities business is transacted with the public, rather than for their own accounts.

And so, in simpler times, this might have ended the matter. But not today, when the industry is supposed to be struggling toward that foggy vision off on the horizon, the one, great central marketplace.

Until the vision is close to reality, you may continue to expect a lot of maneuvering, as each element of the future marketplace seeks to better its position. The Justice Department might challenge the decision in the name of the public and free trade. And some institutions might sue also.

The word playmate derives from the tiny former U.S. coin worth half a dime, and therefore has come to mean petty.

Question Is What To Do?

BOMBAY, India (AP)—What do you do with a $15 million plane that lands on an airfield too small to handle it? If you are Japan Air Lines you turn it over to Indian customs to sell as "imported scrap."

The DC8 landed at the Juhu training airfield last Sept. 24, skidded across a stream and stopped abruptly against an earthen bank near a major highway.

One entrepreneur wanted to buy it for conversion into a children's playground. Another sought to make it into a restaurant.

The Japanese wanted none of that.

The plane has been dissected into 22 pieces. Tarpaulin covers most of the pieces, their JAL insignia and markings painted over, awaiting the auctioneer's gavel.

CHIMP PULLS SWITCH

A FINE STOCK—Leymond Hall recently increased his stock of both home and auto stereo components and accessories at Hall Tire Co. Featuring Channel Master and Audiovox equipment, the firm specializes in custom installation.

(Staff Photo)

New Sound Scene Stereo Present At Hall Tire Co.

The new sound scene abounds at Hall Tire Co. featuring stereo components and accessories by Channel Master and Audiovox.

Leymond Hall recently increased his stock of both home and auto stereo components and accessories, offering one of the largest and most complete stocks in the area.

Normally maintaining one of the more complete stocks of stereo tapes Hall Tire Co. has a complete price range of eight-track tape players for both home and automobile, including the latest issues.

The firm specializes in custom installation of the stereo equipment, with an efficient service department available.

If you have any problems to discuss about a stereo unit, Hall invites you to come by and talk about them.

In addition to stereo service, Hall Tire Co. offers other services for your automobile.

If your auto is in need of rubber, the firm offers a full line of automobile tires as well as light truck tires. They also have a full line of glass belted tires at the most popular prices.

Through our direct volume buying," Hall said, "we are able to offer tires at very reasonable and competitive prices."

The company services everything it sells.

A main specialty of Hall Tire Co. is that it balances wheels electronically. This type of balancing is an expensive and complicated process. Only three or four shops in town have it, Hall said. The procedure requires a well-trained man who must have had several months of training to use the machine correctly.

Hall assures his customers that "we still know who you are if you have a tire adjustment problem."

The business also offers other services, including re-upholstering and custom-made seat covers made to the customer's liking.

Hall, although he was not born in Pampa, has lived here most of his life and has been in business for better than 25 years. Another reason to assure you that you are getting the best possible deal.

Visit Hall Tire Company at 700 W. Foster and see for yourself what real service is like.

Lt. Gov. Having A Hard Time With Children Over Ladybugs

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Lt. Gov. Arthur Neu, looking a bit out of place seated on a chair designed for 7-year-olds, had a difficult time trying to tell a group of second and third graders why the ladybug shouldn't be named the official state bug.

"We know you have lots of things you have to do that are important, but we think it (naming the ladybug) is important," quipped one youngster at Samuelson Elementary School on Thursday.

Neu, who firmly maintained that the idea was a waste of time, continued to put up an argument even as several pupils covered his suit and shoes with "Ladybug for State Bug" stickers.

Neu was informed that Iowa could be the second state in the nation to have a state bug. Florida has the praying mantis as its bug.

The students had done their homework. They said California is also considering designating the ladybug as a state bug and, "We think we should have it before California."

The youngsters presented Neu their case: "It eats harmful insects." "We won't have to spray anymore." "Its ambitious," and one little girl added, "They're clean and I don't mind having them crawl on me."

Neu once again explained that he is opposed to the legislature spending time on the bill.

"If we bring it out and debate it, I'm afraid the legislature will be ridiculed and wasting time," said Neu.

Neu also reflected on history. The legislature once designated the geode as the state rock "and later found out it isn't even a rock." A geode is a nodule within a rock lined with crystal or mineral matter.

In the meantime, Neu wasn't the only elected official having a rough time over a similar problem.

The Arkansas House approved 89 to 0 Thursday and sent to the Senate a bill designating the honey bee as the state insect.

Role To Continue

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Department's top Southeast Asia specialist, William H. Sullivan, says the United States will continue to have a role in air action over Laos until a cease-fire agreement is reached there.

He said Sunday he has received reports of a new Communist offensive in Laos, but he added that a cease-fire could come there "in the not too distant future."

Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs, spoke on a live telecast of NBC-TV's "Meet The Press," relayed to New York from Paris. Sullivan served in the Johnson administration as ambassador to Laos.

He said the United States will continue "to provide air support in Laos" in the absence of a cease-fire.

Reds Don't List 55 Servicemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Monday 56 American servicemen previously carried by the United States as prisoners of war remain unaccounted for by North Vietnam.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said their names are not on the two lists we have received so far.

These lists, handed to U.S. officials in Paris Saturday by the North Vietnamese, identified 55 U.S. fighting men held in Communist prison camps in North and South Vietnam as well as the names of 55 POWs the Communists said died in captivity.

Pampa, Sandstorm Will Meet Tonight

When the Amarillo Sandies take the court tonight against Pampa in Harvester Fieldhouse it will be a match between two traditional rivals and the Sandies' 0-3 loop mark cannot be taken lightly.

"They're going to beat someone in district," Harvester coach Robert McPherson said. "I hope it's not us."

Amarillo has a dismal 4-18 season record. Despite that the Sandies have played almost all of their opponents real close until the third or fourth quarter. They have not won a game since before Christmas so they are just about due.

The Harvesters put a 2-1 league record and a 14-8 season mark on the line. They have to have the win tonight to have any chance at even a tie for the district's first half crown.

Should they beat Amarillo tonight they will take a 3-1 record to Borger Friday night to close out first half play.

The Bulldogs are the front runners in District 3-AAAA with a 3-0 mark going into their game tonight against Tascosa in Amarillo.

The Rebels are tough in their gym as the Harvesters found out a week ago. Tascosa dropped Pampa, 44-41, over there to hand the Harvesters their only loop loss.

In the other 3-AAAA game slated tonight Caprock and Palo Duro go at it in the Don gym. The Longhorns nearly beat Borger Friday before being nipped, 74-73, a long jump shot by Bulldog Russell Dickson with three seconds left in the game.

Pampa's starters tonight will be 6'2" Freddy Wilbon at high post, 6'6" Randy Warner at low post and 6'2" Steve Richardson and 6'2" Billy Wilbon at the forward posts.

If 5'9" A. J. Brewer, the Harvesters point guard, is not able to start because of a bad blister received in the Palo Duro game, senior Ricky Van Smith (5'11") will be the other Pampa starter.

Starting for the Sandies will be 5'10" David Cook at the point, 6'4" Nelson Naylor and 6'2" Darby Laird at the posts and 6'1" Larry Hamner and 6'1" Danny McClintock at the forwards.

Hamner is Amarillo's top scoring threat, averaging nearly 16 points a game, while McClintock is the Sandies best inside man.

The varsity contest tips-off at 8 p.m. It will be preceded by a JV game at 6 o'clock.

A. J. BREWER, Harvester senior guard, went for this shot in Friday's game with the Palo Duro Dons which Pampa won 55-46. Brewer, who has a bad foot blister, is still expected to see action in tonight's game with the Amarillo Sandies. (Photo by John Ebling)

Matuszak Goes 1st

NEW YORK (AP) — Huge defensive tackle John Matuszak of the University of Tampa was picked No. 1 by the Houston Oilers today as the National Football League opened its annual draft of college players.

The 6-foot-7, 275-pounder was an overpowering pass-rusher for the Spartans and his selection opened 17 rounds of drafting that was to provide 442 rookie prospects for 26 NFL clubs.

The Baltimore Colts, drafting second after a trade Monday with the New Orleans Saints, then picked Bert Jones, strong-armed Louisiana State quarterback.

The Philadelphia Eagles selected offensive tackle Jerry Sisemore, a 260-pound two-time All-American from the University of Texas as a trend developed toward the picking of giant linemen.

Mike Epstein Signs With Texas Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Mike Epstein, slugging first baseman of the Oakland A's who was obtained in an off-season trade, was reunited with Texas Ranger owner Bob Short Monday but an old feud with Ted Williams was still heavy on Epstein's mind.

Epstein signed a one-year contract for undisclosed terms, calling it "the best contract I've ever had offered."

He had been traded to the A's in 1971 because Williams, then the Washington manager, believed Epstein could hit only right-handed pitching and platooned him.

"I'm a competitive person and I believe I proved I can hit left handed pitching," said Epstein. "I hit .305 against left handers last year and it meant a lot to me."

"Just because Williams said I was a one-way ballplayer doesn't mean it's a voice from the heavens."

Williams was replaced at the end of last season by Whitey Herzog as the new Ranger manager.

"Bob Short has always been good to me and I'm impressed with Whitey," Epstein said. "I got along fine with Ted except for how I felt on the field. Whitey says that's not going to be the way he'll do it. If Ted had done such a good job of managing, he'd still be here."

The 29-year-old Epstein hit 270 last year with 26 homers, third best in the American League.

Bruins Unanimous

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UCLA's record-breaking Bruins are a unanimous choice again as No. 1 in The Associated Press' college basketball poll.

The California powerhouse set an all-time record winning streak with 61 last week with victories over Loyola of Chicago and Notre Dame.

As a result, the front-running

Bruins, 16-0, received all 33 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters for a total of 660 points. The Bruins had garnered all but one first-place in the two previous polls.

North Carolina State, 14-0, remained in second place, 68 points behind the high-flying Bruins. The undefeated Wolfpack, 73 last week for their 14th victory this year. North Carolina State had gotten one first-place vote in each of the two previous polls.

Maryland moved up a place to third with 471 points after defeating North Carolina, last week's No. 3 team. While the Terps, 14-1, moved from fourth to third, North Carolina, 15-3, dropped to No. 8.

The rest of this week's Top Ten includes: No. 4 Long Beach State, 16-1; No. 5 Indiana, 13-2; No. 6 Alabama, 13-1; No. 7 Missouri, 14-2; No. 9 Minnesota, 12-2; and No. 10 Marquette, 14-2.

college ball.) Billy Haig and Howie Carl (his guards at the turn of the '60s) were unhappy on the North Carolina and Illinois freshmen teams; they came back home to Chicago. Meyer discovered three fine players in his own kitchen—sons Tom, Joe and Bob.

Greatest of all was a fellow who did not even play high school ball, George Mikan wanted to go to Notre Dame, but coach George Keogan said he was too clumsy and his glasses too thick for him to be a basketball player.

Meyer says he has had several opportunities to coach elsewhere, in the pros and in college.

"I've stayed for two reasons," he said. "One is that I owed DePaul a little loyalty. They hired me when no one else would, when I was an assistant coach at Notre Dame."

"Second, I like the challenge here. You take the kids who may not be the best, and you mold them into a team. It tells you what you can do. You feel like you've done something. When you have all great players, you're just more of a manager, or an organizer. That's no fun. Winning isn't everything. And that comes from a guy who walks the floor all night when he loses a game."

OU Picks Switzer

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Barry Switzer, the architect of wishbone offense at the University of Oklahoma, is known as a take-charge guy in college football circles.

So it's natural that he seems to be taking his impending elevation to the head football coaching job at Oklahoma in stride.

"How's a head coach supposed to feel?" Switzer asked several times Monday after a special search committee had announced it would recommend him to replace Chuck Fairbanks. "I don't feel any differently. Am I supposed to?"

The selection of Switzer came as a surprise to no one. Ever since Fairbanks accepted the twin-position as general manager and coach of the New England Patriots last week, it was simply assumed that his top assistant would be moved up.

Switzer has been at Oklahoma seven seasons, serving six as offensive coordinator and the last three as assistant head coach. During that time, he has acknowledged turning down several head coaching jobs at other major colleges.

At only 35, he has 13 years of college coaching experience. He came to Oklahoma from Arkansas with the late Jim MacKenzie, Fairbanks' predecessor.

Switzer says he derives his coaching philosophy from three men—Frank Broyles, the man he played and coached for at Arkansas, MacKenzie and Fairbanks.

"It's the first time one of my players has become a head coach," Broyles said in a telephone interview from Fayetteville, Ark.

"As a center and linebacker, he was the leader of our 1959 team which was tri-conference champion and Gator Bowl Champion."

During his seven years with the Sooners, Switzer developed a Heisman Trophy winner, tailback Steve Owens in 1969, and two All-American backs, Owens and halfback Greg Pruitt in 1971 and 1972. Under his guidance, the 1972 Sooner wishbone cracked the NCAA records for rushing yardage and total offense.

In other college football coaching developments Monday, John Bateman resigned under fire as coach of Rutgers and new coaches were named at Dayton, Fresno State, and Nevada-Las Vegas.

No successor was named for Bateman, who had guided the Scarlet Knights for the past 13 seasons and had a 73-51 record. Rutgers recently announced that it planned to beef up its football program.

Ron Marciniak, an assistant under Alex Agase at Northwestern and Purdue, was named as Dayton's new coach, replacing John McVay, who was elevated to athletic director earlier this month.

Ron Meyer, a scout with the National Football League Dallas Cowboys, was named as head coach at Nevada-Las Vegas and J. R. Boone got the Fresno State post.

Despite Best Efforts Oilers To Choose First

NEW YORK (AP) — The trading block got warmed up as teams jugged choice players for player choices on the eve of the National Football League's annual crystal ball gazing, the collegiate draft.

But the Houston Oilers, whose horrendous 1-13 record in the 1972 season brought them today's top pick, were having the same luck as the rest of the 26 teams on the field as they'd had on it despite all efforts to trade away their No. 1 selection for some proven veterans; they couldn't find a taker for it.

They did give up a third-round choice and guard Tom Regner to Baltimore Monday in exchange for center Bill Curry.

The Colts were busier in the swap meet that always precedes the draft. They sent defensive lineman Billy Newsome and a fourth-round choice to New Orleans for the Saints' No. 1 pick—the one right behind the Oilers'. And the Colts also picked up "undisclosed draft choices" from Philadelphia in exchange for running back Norm Bulaich.

Then the Saints turned around and picked up second and third-round picks from the New York Jets in trade for defensive end Richard Neal and cornerback Delles Howell.

Saddled, as it were, with the decision on which player to go for among the 442 prospects, the question was whether the Oilers would go for quarterback Bert Jones or bypass the superb strong-arm from Louisiana State in favor of one of the behemoths known as defensive linemen.

"It's hard to just let a great quarterback lay out there and not take him," Houston Coach Bill Peterson said—but it's more likely the Oilers will stick with Dan Pastorini and Lynn Dickey and choose instead from either mammoth Dave Butz, Purdue's 6-foot-7, 290-pounder, or 275-pound John Matuszak of Tampa to anchor the defensive line.

There are also plenty of offensive brutes to pick from in this "Year of the Lineman."

among them Texas' Jerry Sisemore, Alabama's John Hannah and Michigan's Paul Seymour. But Jones is hardly the only standout quarterback Florida State's Gary Huff, Oregon's Dan Fouts and Virginia Tech's Don Struck are likely to be grabbed before the first of the two days' drafting is over.

Thanks to the wholesale trading that can send players and picks swirling around the league like confetti, seven teams will have two first-round picks and seven others have none.

NEW YORK (AP) — The first-round order for selections when drafting begins today by National Football League teams at 10 a.m. EST:

1. Houston 2. Baltimore (from New Orleans)
3. Philadelphia 4. New England 5. St. Louis 6. Philadelphia (from San Diego)
7. Buffalo 8. Chicago 9. Denver 10. Baltimore 11. New England (from Los Angeles)
12. Minnesota 13. New York Jets 14. Houston (from Atlanta)
15. Cincinnati 16. Cleveland (from New York Giants)
17. Chicago (from Kansas City)
18. San Francisco 19. Detroit 20. Dallas 21. Green Bay 22. Cleveland 23. Oakland 24. Pittsburgh 25. San Diego (from Washington)
26. Buffalo (from Miami)

Cowboys Are Looking For Unpolished Gem

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, who have been to the National Football League playoffs seven consecutive years on a foundation built in the college draft, hoped to pluck another unpolished gem today on the first round.

Cowboy No. 1 draft picks in the past include these players still with the club:

Bob Lilly, defensive tackle, 1961; linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, 1963; quarterback Craig Morton, 1965; offensive guard John Niland, 1966; running back Calvin Hill, 1969; defensive end Tody Smith, 1971; and running back Bill Thomas, 1972.

Gil Brandt, who is in charge of the Cowboy draft, has sprung many surprises in the past. For example, Hill was an obscure Ivy Leagueer at Yale who became Dallas' first runner to ever gain more than 1,000 yards last year.

Duane Thomas was the first pick in 1970 and helped Dallas win Super Bowl VI although he fell into disfavor and was transferred to San Diego because of his recalcitrant behavior.

Brandt said he has several players of the "Who's He? grade tucked away in the computer."

Ray Meyer: A Coach Can Do More Than Just Win Games

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

CHICAGO — (NEA) — Ray Meyer's secretary poked her head into the secondary office—the one Meyer uses to get away from the telephones, and said Al Burks and some of his family were in Meyer's other office.

Meyer, a roundish man with an innocent gap-toothed smile, turned to the man he had been talking to. "Sorry," he said, "but I've got to leave to see them now. I don't want to duck them—I don't want them to think I'm ducking them."

Meyer is the long-time DePaul University basketball coach who had done what is virtually the unthinkable in contemporary win-at-all-cost circles. He had bounced his star scorer and rebounder off the team.

Burks, a 6-2 senior, had furious personality clashes with teammates. Meyer did not want to go into specifics, he said, for fear of hurting Burks even more than he has been hurt.

Meyer said he spent long hours talking with Burks ("The fella has so many personal problems," said Meyer) but made little dent, apparently. He took a vote of the team, finally, as to whether Burks should stay or go. The team turned thumbs down.

"We're getting all kinds of pressure," said Meyer. "People trying to make it a racial thing. I've been threatened that Jesse Jackson will step in. But Burks had been having most of his trouble with a black teammate! There's no way he can come back. It would ruin the other kids."

For all his basketball victories, nearly 500 in a coaching career that goes back to 1942 at DePaul, Meyer remains the idealistic coach, paying more than lip service to the hallowed but tarnished coaching tradition of "building character and building men."

He has worked under some of the severest handicaps for a so-called major college basketball coach, yet his teams have consistently been among the finest in the country.

RAY MEYER with his DePaul team in the early 1940s. No. 99 is big George Mikan, later the pro "Mr. Basketball."

looked like one of the better ones. The Blue Demons, in fact had lost to Marquette, then ranked second in the nation, by one point at Milwaukee. But injuries and the Burks situation began to eat away at the team.

"For awhile I was wondering if the game had passed me by," said the 56-year-old Meyer. "We were losing a lot—and that was making me sick. And I can't physically go out in practice and demonstrate the shots and moves the way I used to."

He also admits wondering if he was communicating with the newest generation. "The kids don't accept what you say as the gospel," he said. "They ask why. Not like it used to be. But maybe it's for the better."

"And in the last few years there have been tremendous changes in defenses. There are maybe six or seven different defenses that a team will switch to in a game. Once you just had to play man-to-man. Well, you change with the times. I did. So did Adolph Rupp. He said that zone was the lazy defense. But when he played Cazzie Russell he used the one-three-one."

"Even our limited recruiting got more difficult. Southern schools began to come up here and were taking all the black players they wouldn't touch a few years before. That hurt our teams. But we're coming back. Kids are finding out that when you're in the South, you're still a Northerner to them."

Until this year he had never had a penny budgeted for recruiting (he finally was given $2,500 for recruiting—a spit in the ocean compared to most teams," he said).

Until this year DePaul, an inner-city Catholic college, had no dormitories. So out-of-state athletes had to live in rooming houses. Understandably, most of DePaul's players come from within public transportation distance of the DePaul classrooms. The school is called "Transfer Tech"—referring to bus transfers needed to get to the school and the gym.

And until the last 10 years, DePaul had to play its big games in Chicago Stadium because the tumbledown barn of a gym was hopelessly inadequate.

So Meyer had to scrutinize every prospect who hadn't left the Chicago area for plush campus life in a little ivy-covered town. "We've always been blessed with good guards," said Meyer. Why? Because the moneyed schools recruit the big men first, leaving the little left-overs to people like Meyer.

Meyer found Don Swanson in 1964 playing in a local park district tournament. (Swanson had not played 10 Million Coyotes Can't Be...

By PAUL HARVEY
In recent months you and I have watched the emergence of a new literary art form—the bumper sticker.
Some theorize that the fad derives from the phase-out of roadside billboards; others call it a reflection of every man's desire to make his opinions heard.
Except for those slogans relating to recent political campaigns, the one bumper sticker seen on the most cars by the most people is this one: "Eat lamb: 10 million coyotes can't be wrong."
That one is not funny. For animal lovers—for anybody of compassion—the shooting, trapping or poisoning of coyotes is akin to cruelty to a pet dog.
So it was not difficult for persons concerned about this Western states' practice to get the President of the United States to out law it. He ordered a halt to the poisoning of predators on federal land and in many Western states more than 70 per cent of all grazing land is federal land.
Sheepmen, now, they see predator control from another point of view. To them it is a lesser evil and a lesser cruelty than to allow an overpopulation of coyotes to attack, disembowel and consume sheep and lambs.
Buck Howland, whose family has raised sheep for most of a hundred years in Idaho, says in 1971 he lost 40 per cent of his purebred flock to coyotes and dogs, putting him altogether out of business.
Simplot Livestock, Grandview, Idaho, reports it lost 4,000 ewes and lambs to coyotes during the past two years.
A Simplot manager says, "We can't operate any more," and Simplot has been one of that state's largest sheep operations.
The natural ecological cycle which tends to maintain wildlife population was interrupted when the jack rabbit population was depleted. With that link in the chain missing, coyotes turned their carnivorous appetites toward livestock.
Some environmentalists accuse sheepmen of exaggerating their losses to coyotes.
President Robert Thomas of the Idaho Wildlife Federation says there has not been a thorough study of animal losses. But the 2,000 member Idaho Wool Growers Assn. insists that the facts are in the figures: The number of sheep in Idaho next year, 600,000 will be the fewest in the history of that industry.
Life on earth, for man and beast, is perpetuated by four basic cycles—the nitrogen cycle, the carbon and oxygen cycle, the mineral cycle and the energy cycle.
The regeneration of each is a function we'd expect would continue forever. We imagined that, our feet rooted in the earth and our heads in the sun, we were indestructible.
Only recently has it become apparent that we are suspended in space by a fragile web of interdependent threads.
The broken ones are unmendable. The frayed ones may heal if we'll stop scratching off the scab.

BRUCE BLOSSAT Among War Hurts Our Culture, Sense Of Balance Numbs

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA)—An end to the Vietnam war, it is often said, will allow us to reweave the great torn places it has caused in the fabric of American life. We must all earnestly hope so, for they are more numerous and more dangerous to our future than imagined by many who make this point.
The normal count-up of damage to the United States is usually said by vocal critics of the war to include a pervading sense of national guilt over the bombing and other assaults against a small underdeveloped nation by a huge industrial power; the special alienation of millions of idealistic young people; a great wastage of human and material resources in a cause deemed both futile and unwise; and the consequent warping of priorities away from vital domestic concerns: the loss of America's world image as a compassionate helper to troubled peoples.
Much of long tote sheet is accepted as valid today by millions of Americans, including a large number who were longtime supporters of our purposes in Vietnam. But only the historians, with their perspective of distance, will be able to gauge this incredibly drawn-out event with any sense of balance.
In the meantime, the count of losses is being extended. Sizable elements of the American population, some of them strongly influential, have been almost totally obsessed with the war in the last seven years.
Some students, academicians, writers in journalism and elsewhere, people in the other arts, men in government and related civic pursuits have insisted upon viewing everything from the single reference point of the Vietnam war.
Gathered in their annual conclaves, historians, scientists and other scholars have found themselves divided not merely into temporary camps, but into enduringly separate schools of thought over the war.
There is more than mild insanity in this, and it has produced a dreadful vacuum in serious thinking on many subjects. Not only on the battlefields of Indochina has there been waste of human resources.
A handful of columnists have been able to write of little else. It is hard to imagine they will quickly recover their balance when the war is gone. The depth of their obsession is far more a measure of them than of this tragic conflict.
People in government and politics have been similarly consumed, to the point where they could do little useful work. It led them to argue, too, that the nation was doing nothing and could do nothing useful so long as the war continued.
We heard often that the brightest young men were the antiwar activists. But brightness is in part balance. And when some of them plunged into presidential politics, they threw that to the winds.
Those who opted and worked for Sen. George McGovern in 1972 seldom tried to measure him against the demands of the presidency. It was enough for them that he was "against war." So much for that brand of brightness.
Amid all this obsessive behavior, the American language has been a horrible casualty. We are in an age of distortion anyway, but some of the worst transgressions are on the backs of our "best and brightest." They have robbed so many words of meaning that the verbal coinage we need for reasonable debate in a free society has been badly debased.
Many activists' "discussions" are gross caricatures of the sensible discourse we should have.

Your Health

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you please tell me what a homosexual is. One person told me it is a man who dresses in women's clothes and another person told me it is a man who has affairs with other men instead of women.
Dear Reader—The term is unfortunate because it is an inaccurate label. It is scientifically inaccurate to use the term in reference to an individual. "Homo" really comes from the Greek word referring to "the same" as you see in the common word homogenous, like homogenized milk. It is the opposite of the Greek stem hetero meaning "unlike." Thus, heterosexual activity involves individuals of different sex and homosexual activity involves individuals of the same sex, whether it be two females or two males.
The term homosexual is often confused with the Latin term homo meaning man. This is incorrect as its real origin is from Greek and means "same." Men or women who engage in homosexual acts do so with an individual of the same sex. Such activity of one level or another at one or more times in a person's life is relatively common, particularly in the developmental stages. Just because an individual has engaged in sexual activity of some type with an individual of the same sex does not mean that is one's total sexual outlet, and it is a mistake to label such an individual as a homosexual. Such labeling can be extremely detrimental to the individual who, in fact, may not be greatly different from the individuals doing the labeling.
The reasons for an individual to engage in a homosexual act are highly varied, and if there is any question about such an act and its significance, professional consultation with a psychiatrist is the best approach. In some situations it is fairly common behavior. It frequently occurs when either sex is isolated from heterosexual contact as seen in prison situations.
Dear Dr. Lamb—As I remember, some time ago you wrote an article on the avocado, saying it had so much cholesterol in it and also that it was very fattening. I enjoy avocados, but have high cholesterol. Would I be able to eat them?
Dear Reader—Avocados do not contain cholesterol, but they are high in fat. The larger portion of the cholesterol in the blood is formed by our own bodies. It is believed that when a person is on a high-fat diet the body manufactures more cholesterol. This is why heart specialists often recommend limiting the fat intake which would include avocados. The American Heart Association's diet plan recommends avoiding them or using them sparingly. This same thing is true of all foods that contain a lot of fat.
He that can have patience can have will. — Benjamin Franklin.

About Simple Solutions

The so-called liberals in government are wont to remind us poor benighted souls that we are offering simple answers to the complicated problems of today. Sometimes it seems that the problems have been complicated intentionally by those same individuals.
But it seems from this corner that many times those in government go out of their way to provide complicated "solutions" to comparatively simple problems—sort of a resort to a form of new math.
Take the gold question. The politicians long since decided that ordinary citizens were not to be trusted to buy, sell, contract for, or possess gold. So they prohibited anyone except the government to own gold. Oh, they allow the use of gold in industry, the arts and science. But the government is the middleman, buying the precious metal at a fixed price, established by the government.
The reason has been discussed many times in these columns. People prefer gold or silver or some other precious commodity as money. But the politicians insist the people have no right to use gold as money.
At the government's fixed price, miners have practically quit all gold mining in the United States. It just isn't profitable. When President Nixon started the price controls a couple of years ago, he increased the price a smidgen, but it was just a token increase. The world price of gold is well above the new fixed price. And mines still are idle.
A California congressman in the gold country, is making an attempt to "help" the miners. He has introduced a package of four bills in the new Congress. Surprisingly, one of them is good. The other three follow the usual "liberal" line of offering complicated solutions to simple problems—attacking the results, rather than the cause of the problem.
His bills would:
—Authorize Americans to buy, hold, sell and otherwise deal in gold the same as with other metals.
—Require the Office of Emergency Preparedness to buy about 11 million ounces of domestically produced gold in the next two years to create a strategic stockpile.
—Require the General Services Administration to buy a stockpile of domestically produced gold at fixed prices set by government and ranging from $45 to $75 an ounce, with the small producers receiving the higher rates.
—Furnish a basic incentive payment—in addition to the world price of gold of about $60 an ounce—ranging from $4 an ounce to $15 an ounce to help offset the high cost of production.
Now, we long have advocated removal of the prohibition against Americans owning gold. So we cheer the first step proposed. But the rest of the steps appear to be designed a stockpile of domestically produced gold at fixed prices set by government and ranging from $45 to $75 an ounce, with the small producers receiving the higher rates.
All Congress needs to do in addition to freeing Americans from this silly prohibition against owning gold to be established on a free market, we do not know what the price should be. Some experts tell us the price on a free market would be two or three times the current government-fixed price. In view of inflation, we would expect it to be more like $75 to $100 an ounce—until mine production increased and supply started catching up with the demand.
If members of Congress want to see mining activity restored and want to see a mini-boom in some of the more depressed areas, they will push for the two steps to free Americans to own gold and to allow the price to be determined in a free and open market.
But, apparently most politicians think of that as a "simple solution to a complicated problem." And they seem to want to make the problems more complicated.

Vanishing Americans: Us

At the present rate of births, the nation will achieve ZPG—zero population growth—in about the year 2040, with a stabilized population of some 320 million Americans.
It could come sooner, for according to the latest federal statistics, the rate has dropped to 2.08 children per family (replacement level is 2.1) and there are indications it may drop further.
But the two-child family is too little and too late, warns a new group called Negative Population Growth, Inc. Only the one-child family, it declares, can save us from our environmental crisis.
To retain "a decent quality of national life" says NPG, the U.S. population must be stabilized not at 320 million but at no more than half its present level. That would be about 160 million.
Brotherhood is the very price and condition of man's survival.—Carlos P. Romulo, former president of the Philippines.

H. L. Hunt Writes

"VENEREMOS BRIGADE" IMPORTS SUBVERSION
Every year Fidel Castro's government recruits a group of people, predominantly college students, to go to Cuba ostensibly to cut sugar cane, but in reality to be trained in subversion and guerrilla warfare.
The so-called Veneremos Brigade was first formed in June 1969 by a group of farleft organizations such as the Students for a Democratic Society and the Young Socialist Alliance, which is affiliated with the Trotskyist Socialist Workers Party. When they arrive in Cuba, the members of the Veneremos Brigade are trained in guerrilla warfare, agitation and other revolutionary activities.
According to the Brigade's monthly newsletter "Turquino," the objectives of the Veneremos Brigade include "Solidarity with the Cuban revolution," supporting revolutionary forces in the United States, "educating the left-wing movement to concepts of anti-imperialism," supporting "national liberation struggles" throughout the world, and "fighting the enemy," that is, the United States.
In order to become part of the Veneremos Brigade, an enrollee must have had "prior experience in the movement" in the U.S., have a "full understanding and realization of the nature and scope of the 'struggle' in the U.S. and abroad" and be "willing to commit himself to political work for the VB."
It is tragic that some young people of this country have been taken in by communist propaganda to the extent that they are willing to work for a ruthless, tyrannical government. In the words of Congressman Claude Pepper of the House Internal Security Committee, "It's downright fantastic that American youths enjoying unlimited freedom and opportunities at home should subject themselves to a communist tyranny of this kind."

Behind McGovern Blast: War On Party Moderates
By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — There is much more than meets the eye behind that breast-beating gloom-and-doom harangue Sen. George McGovern unleashed at a highbrow leftist seance at Britain's Oxford College.
What the South Dakota radical, deeply afflicted with a wailing-wall martyr complex, really was doing was declaring war on the wide range of Democratic leaders actively bent on ridding the party of the extremist and kookie elements that seized control and disastrously dominated it last year.
This public declaration of war on Democratic moderates and centrists is squarely in keeping with his true attitude—which up to now he has carefully masked and obscured.
While McGovern has been quoted as saying he is for party "unity," at the same time his public and, particularly, private statements make it very clear that any "cooperation" forthcoming from him will be wholly on his own terms; in other words, he will play ball if he's calling the shots.
And when it comes to doing that, the self-sanctified South Dakotan is unregenerate and unrepentant.
If anything, he is even more radical and given to self-justifying sensational exaggerations than during his frenetic electioneering, and being completely convinced that "I didn't lose, the country lost."
Significantly, this ego-salving utterance constantly crops up in his comments.
This self-righteous refrain permeated his Oxford dirge.
Chief Grudge
McGovern's unnamed target in that venomous exhortation was the Coalition for a Democratic Majority—set in motion early last fall in the conviction that McGovern was headed for a catastrophic nationwide repudiation by the voters.
Organizers and leaders of the Coalition comprise a wide range of party regulars, members of Congress, businessmen, laborites, editors and commentators, educators from prominent schools throughout the country, former cabinet members, and onetime top White House and other officials.
None of them bolted the party's ticket last year, but none lifted a finger for McGovern.
That's what is ferociously burning him up. Unable to assail them as defectors, he malevolently berates them as "so-called liberals," "timid and depleted," "with no principles, no programs, living only from day to day, caring only for the perquisites of office, doing nothing and not caring that nothing is done."
It goes without saying McGovern never mentions the fact that in the 14 years he has been in Congress (4 in the House, 10 in the Senate), his record is totally devoid of any consequential legislation or any other accomplishment. Also that for two years (1971-72) while he chased around the country running for President, he virtually ignored his senatorial duties while drawing full pay ($42,500) plus another $400,000 in clerical hire, and numerous other perquisites and benefits.
