

Speaker Man Of Hour Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—This was John W. McCormack Day at the Capitol. President Nixon and former President Lyndon B. Johnson were to join in paying tribute to the man who now has served as House speaker longer than any man except Sam Rayburn.

Both Nixon and Johnson were expected to speak briefly at 4:30 p.m. EDT reception for McCormack in the Longworth House Office Building.

McCormack, 78, has announced that after 42 years in the House he will not seek reelection from Massachusetts in November. He has been speaker of the House since Jan. 10, 1952, and has held the gavel 3,658 days—passing Henry Clay's record of 3,656½ days on Monday.

Rayburn, of Texas, succeeded William B. Bankhead, of Alabama, as speaker on Sept. 16, 1900, and served until his death 21 years later on Nov. 15, 1961—except for four years when the Republicans controlled the House and Joe Martin of Massachusetts was speaker.

Hijacked Planes Pass Arriving, Departing

MIAMI (UPI)—Two hijacked American airliners passed each other at the Havana Airport Monday. One was departing the other arriving.

"I almost died. I couldn't believe it," said Janet Cook, 25, of Atlanta, a passenger on a Delta Convair 830 that was commandeered to Cuba by a woman.

The incoming jetliner was an American Airlines Boeing 727 hijacked on a Chicago-to-New York flight. The airliner was to return to the United States today.

The Delta plane arrived in Miami Monday night. A third airliner hijacked to Cuba within a 24-hour period, returned to Mexico City Monday night. That plane, a Mexicana de Aviacion Boeing 727 carrying 79 persons, was taken over by three U.S. "hippies" and a misinformed girl Sunday night during a flight within Mexico.

The hijackings brought to 18 the number of such incidents in the Western Hemisphere this year.

The hijacker of the American airliner was a Latin, who held his hand in his pocket as if he had a gun and ordered stewardess Janet Struchen to contact the pilot over the intercom system. He demanded to go to Cuba, but Capt. Arnold A. Spasola, the pilot, said the plane would have to return at Kennedy Airport in New York.

When the plane landed in New York, the hijacker permitted the passengers to leave.

Tornado Alerts Cause Concern

Pampans woke up to hazy skies this morning after a night of barely missing the chance of possible tornado alerts.

The U.S. Weather Bureau placed Swisher and Collinsworth counties under a thunderstorm warning early in the evening Monday, while the area from Lubbock to Amarillo was under tornado warnings much of the night.

An unconfirmed report of a tornado touching the ground near Canyon was aured shortly after 9 p.m. United Press International reported a dust storm in Canyon, followed by rain and, eventually, falling mud.

White Deer Man Dies In Vietnam Service

WHITE DEER (Sp) — A 22-year-old White Deer man, Sgt. Larry May, stationed in Vietnam with the 101st Airborne Division, United States Army, was reported killed May 23 by a booby-trap while on patrol.

Born in White Deer, April 17, 1948, he attended schools in White Deer and was graduated from high school there in 1965. He entered the service April 17, 1969 and had been in Vietnam only six weeks at the time of death.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L.D. May; two brothers, Bobby and Tommy; two sisters, Patricia and Peggy; all of the home; two grandmothers, Mrs. Helen Warminski of White Deer and Mrs. Lena May of Amarillo.

Services are pending with Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Today's reception for McCormack by senators and representatives wasn't by any means all. He also will be honored at White House stag luncheon on Wednesday and at the annual Democratic congressional $500 per plate fund-raising dinner Wednesday night.

Nixon will be host at the luncheon, which was arranged before McCormack disclosed last week he will not seek reelection.

Nixon's original aim was to celebrate the record McCormack ran up by passing Clay. McCormack also had been among a number of top Democrats to be honored at the fund dinner. With the disclosure of his plan to retire, emphasis at the dinner has been shifted to make McCormack the main honoree.

Johnson, a former House member and senator, as is Nixon, will be among speakers at the dinner, which currently is estimated to raise $1 million for the campaigns of Democratic House and Senate candidates.

Excellence Award Presented To Pampa Manufacturing Firm

An award for quality in excellence was presented to more than 20,000 companies that supply Sears.

In a speech following the presentation, Cal Fraser, owner of the plant from Gardena, told the employees only teamwork on the part of all concerned was responsible for winning the award.

The company also received the award in 1966 and 1969.

Marie Foundations, a division of Cal-Mar, Inc., has plants in Pampa, McLean and Gardena.

The Pampa plant employees produces more than 1200 dozen more than 500 persons and lady's undergarments a day.

City Representatives To Check On Bond Sales For Auditorium

By TEX DEWESE
News Staff Writer

Another step aimed at speeding up the city's preliminary plans for construction of a municipal auditorium in Pampa will be taken tomorrow.

City Manager Charles Hill told city commission members this morning that he and City Atty. Bob Gordon will meet in Dallas Wednesday with bond attorneys to determine just what the city's requirements will be in order to legally sell bonds for building and furnishing the auditorium.

Hill said information eventually will include a fiscal analysis of the M.K. Brown Foundation offer to provide funds to pay off the bonds. That is currently in the process of being done, he stated.

The city has accepted the Foundation trustees' offer of $400,000 in cash plus income from Foundation holdings for constructing and equipping the auditorium.

A Tomorrow's meeting of the Pampa city officials in Dallas will be with representatives of the law firm of Dumas, Huguenin and Boothman.

Mayor Milo Carlson stated the city would proceed as rapidly as feasible with progress on all preliminary angles to get the project underway.

The meeting in Dallas tomorrow," Carlson said, "will be a big step forward in that direction."

As soon as the fiscal analysis is completed, the mayor stated the city will be in a position to know how much can be spent on the project.

"We are going to get the preliminary plans out of the way as fast as possible," the mayor added.

Foundation trustees have asked that plans for building the auditorium be moved ahead with a minimum of delay.

In other business today, city commissioners:

Approved a motion to advertise for bids from private contractors for the demolition of three buildings at 418-420 N. West St. The buildings recently had been declared hazardous to the public welfare.

Authorization was given to advertise for bids on the removal of scrap metal from the city dump, and for operation of an auto demolition process at the old Reeves Air Strip east of the city.

A resolution was adopted requesting the federal government to provide assistance to victims of the tornado which hit Pampa last month.

Approval was given for proposed changes in the city's personnel policies relating to workmen's compensation. The changes would retain all previous benefits for injury leave, set up a 24-hour notification deadline following an injury and include part-time employees in coverage.

Two bids were received for leasing of a half-section of city-owned grass land northeast of town. Mrs. Clyde Organ bid $576.70, payable every six months for three years and D.G. Cook and J.L. Green bid $273.73 for the same period. Action on the award was set for June 9.

Nenstiel & Doggett of Pampa were awarded a contract for $2,000 to audit city books for the fiscal year ending next Sept. 30. The price was an increase of $250 over the firm's charge for fiscal 1968-69.

Suharto Says Efforts Needed or Peace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Suharto of Indonesia said today on arrival at the White House that efforts are needed for "restoration of peace and stability" in Southeast Asia.

In prepared remarks at a ceremony where he was welcomed by President Nixon, Suharto told the President:

"It is my sincere hope that this visit will continue to strengthen the friendship between our two countries and peoples, which I am sure will be useful in solving the problems we are both facing as well as the world in general."

Suharto said his visit for talks with Nixon came at a time when the need for sincere and realistic efforts in U.S. chief of protocol.

South Viets End Drives

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnam announced today the end of two of its spearhead drives into Cambodia where regrouping guerrilla troops killed six Americans and wounded 25 in a pre-dawn attack.

Most of the 16,000 government soldiers involved in the two just-completed cross-border thrusts—one along Cambodia's coast and the other into its northeastern sector—were expected to go back in new drives or as reinforcements within a week.

"These troops were withdrawn to give them time to relax, recover and re-equip for a couple of days," a military source said. "They don't need much time."

Military sources said elements of the 5th Viet Cong Division and the 7th North Vietnamese Division are returning to the border area from interior Cambodia, having regrouped after fleeing the Allied push.

Some of these guerrilla troops were believed involved in this morning's attack against a U.S. 25th Infantry Division base inside Cambodia 85 miles north-northwest of Saigon.

Spokesmen for the American Command said he attackers, behind a barrage of rocket grenades, killed six GIs and wounded 25 but were beaten back. No Communist bodies were found at daybreak.

To counter the loss of supplies and the American bombing of supply lines in Laos, the North Vietnamese were reported to have captured two population centers—one in Southern Laos and the other in Northeast Cambodia—for use as supply havens from U.S. bombers.

The towns were identified as Attopeu in Southern Laos and Stung Treng in Northeast Cambodia both on the southern reaches of the Ho Chi Minh supply trail.

"They know they are safe there," one source said. "American planes cannot bomb towns full of Laotians and Cambodians."

The North Vietnamese stockpile supplies in these two towns, the sources said, and move them out only when it cannot take place overnight.

darkness or bad weather hampered the U.S. fighter-bombers.

U.S. helicopter gunship pilots reported catching one of the guerrilla truck convoys in Cambodia and destroying seven vehicles Monday. The trucks were loaded with 35-gallon drums in the Fishhook salient 83 miles north of Saigon.

Spokesmen for the U.S. Military Command said B52 bombers and smaller jet warplanes continued to bomb the Ho Chi Minh Trail overnight, with the Stratofortress also hitting the A Shau Valley in Vietnam and an area just below the border Demilitarized Zone.

American paratroopers patrolling Vietnam's central coast lost seven killed and seven wounded in a battle Monday. Official communiques said 13 Communist soldiers died in the

Canadian Leader Sees 'No Solution' To Cambodia Peace

TOKYO (UPI)—Canadian Prime Minister Pierre E. Trudeau said today he sees "no solution" to restore peace in Cambodia but emphasized the United States must pull out its troops from Indochina.

Trudeau made the remark at a news conference following his talks with Japanese Emperor Hirohito and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Trudeau said although he has been in Asia the last three weeks discussing the Cambodian problem he has "no solution and I see no easy way out."

But the Canadian statesman said "the United States must eventually withdraw its military presence in Indochina."

"I believe the government of the United States honestly desires this take place," Trudeau added. "But I realize it cannot take place overnight."

Trudeau did not speak on the North Vietnamese presence in Cambodia, but a spokesman said after the news conference that "he (Trudeau) has boldly condemned both North Vietnam and the United States."

The spokesman also said Trudeau does not think the Geneva conference on Indochina can be convened in the near future because "it must precede agreement by its co-chairmen (Russia and Britain)."

Trudeau did disclose Canada's dissatisfaction with the International Control Commission (ICC). Canada is a member of the ICC with Poland and India, and Trudeau has made comments about the ICC all during his Asian trip.

He said, "We believe ICC has function to preserve peace (in Indochina) as an observer body."

Lebanese Stage Strike For More Muscle Show

By United Press International

Lebanese killed 12 Israelis in a clash with an Israeli patrol that penetrated 600 yards into Lebanon. There was no confirmation from Israel.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv said the Israeli forces which crossed the border today were carrying out "observation missions" from hilltops in southern Lebanon overlooking the frontier to "interfere with the movement" of Arab guerrillas in the area.

A separate Israeli communique said Israeli jet fighters blasted Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal in a 35-minute attack that began at 12:30 p.m.

A Cairo report on the canal action said Egyptian anti-aircraft gunners drove off the Israeli planes as they attacked positions along the southern section of the waterway.

In Tel Aviv, a senior Israeli army officer said Egypt's spring offensive along the canal had slowed down in partial failure but massed artillery fire was still inflicting casualties on Israeli troops.

"There was a significant increase in the number of casualties last week from Egyptian shelling," the Israeli army officer said. He reported 10 Israeli soldiers killed last week—seven more than the previous week.

The strike in Lebanon underscored the pressure on the Beirut government to join other Arab nations in the war against Israel.

Radio Station Offers Prize, But Everyone Is A Loser

DALLAS (UPI)—Three weeks ago, radio station KLIF offered a $1,000 prize to any listener who could pick a combination of five stocks on the Dow Jones industrial list that showed the greatest paper profit in a 30-day period.

The station received more than 8,000 entries. But the entrants and the station failed to reckon with the steady fall of stocks on Wall Street.

Gordon McLendon, the owner of the station, said today that the prize may have to go to the entrant who loses the least money. Not one entrant had shown a paper profit and the "leader" today was a contestant who had lost only $125.

Demos Accuse Nixon Of 'Waffling' On Pledge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democrats accused the Nixon administration Monday of "waffling" on its pledge to get out of Cambodia and planning to use "cute" methods to maintain continued U.S. military force there after June 30.

The charges came from Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and assistant leader Edward M. Kennedy as debate resumes on legislation designed to hold Nixon to his promise of a quick end to American raids on Communist border sanctuaries inside Cambodia.

Kennedy told newsmen Nixon had promised without reservation to withdraw American troops from Cambodia by June 30, but that weekend statements of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and White House spokesmen "indicates some waffling on this issue."

He said there was now some doubt whether U.S. airmen flying support missions or American ground advisers would remain after July 1.

Mansfield said if South Vietnam forces stay in Cambodia indefinitely, as its leaders have indicated, "it means we will be involved in a 'cute' way" through indirect methods long after the June 30 deadline.

The President, at his May 8 news conference in which he set the withdrawal deadline, said the South Vietnamese were under no obligation to abide by it but added "I would expect that the South Vietnamese would come out approximately at the same time that we do because when we come out our logistical support and air support will also come out with them."

Since then, however, White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler has refused to say whether U.S. tactical air cover will continue to be provided the South Vietnamese. Laird has announced he will recommend continuing B52 air strikes in Cambodia, although he has promised that no American advisers will remain in Cambodia after June 30.

AFTER MORE THAN EIGHT years as Speaker of the House, Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., has announced his retirement effective the end of this year.

Court Unanimously Removes Curb On Wearing Uniforms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court unanimously struck down Monday a federal curb on the wearing of U.S. military uniforms by theater or movie actors as an unconstitutional ban on freedom of speech.

The law prohibited the use of an official uniform or identifiable parts of it if the character wearing it tended to discredit the armed forces. Violators could be punished for unauthorized wearing of a uniform by a maximum penalty of six months imprisonment and a $250 fine.

But Justice Hugo L. Black said for the court: "Congress has in effect made it a crime for an actor wearing a military uniform to say things during his performance critical of the conduct or policies of the armed forces. An actor, like everyone else in our country enjoys a constitutional right to freedom of speech, including the right openly to criticize the government during a dramatic performance."

The case arose from the arrest and conviction of Daniel Jay Schacht at a 1967 antiwar protest in Houston. Schacht wore a hodge-podge of military garb and participated in a street skit mocking the military.

The government disputed his claim that he was participating in a theatrical performance and held his conviction was justified solely for unauthorized wearing of a uniform.

Justice Black ruled against government, declaring: "Certainly theatrical productions need not always be performed in buildings or even on a defined area such as a conventional state... since time immemorial outdoor theatrical performances, often performed by amateurs, have played an important part in the entertainment and the education of the people of the world."

In striking down the limitation on use of official uniforms in stage and screen productions, Black said a law "which leaves Americans free to praise the war in Vietnam but can send persons like Schacht to prison for opposing it cannot survive in a country that has the First Amendment."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Byron R. White and Potter Stewart agreed the limitation was unconstitutional but said they decide whether Schacht's skit was, actually a theatrical performance.

St. Louis Mayor Cervantes Calls Article In Life A Lie

NEW YORK (UPI)—Life magazine Sunday accused St. Louis Mayor Alphonso J. Cervantes of "business and personal ties with gangsters." Cervantes called the article "a bare-faced lie."

The Life article is titled "The Mayor, the Mob and the Lawyer"—the lawyer being Morris Shenker, called by the magazine "the foremost lawyer for the mob in the U.S." and "the mouthpiece for scores of notorious mobsters, gangsters and union bosses."

The article also reported one of the closest men around the mayor as Tony Sansone, son-in-law of "notorious gunman and gang leader" Jimmy Michaels.

"Any real drive against organized crime in St. Louis could start with a number of the mayor's own associates," said the article, written by Denny Walsh.

Shenker, appointed by the mayor to head a commission on crime and law enforcement said Sunday in St. Louis he was never interviewed by Life. He said he intended to sue the magazine "to hold them accountable for this irresponsible, selfish journalism."

Shenker described his relationship with those he defended as "truly that of a lawyer and client and no more."

The article described Sansone a real estate and insurance dealer as "the mayor's liaison with the two mobs that run the St. Louis underworld"—Michaels' "Syrian mob" and the Sicilian Mafia family—headed by Louis

Giardino."

Sansone, who branded the article "absolute lies," said, "I knew 16 years ago who Jimmy (Michaels) was when I married his daughter but it didn't matter because I loved her."

Life accused Cervantes, 49, of having "sought and received the counsel" of Michaels through Sansone. The article named two instances in 1964 and 1965 when Cervantes was running for mayor that the three met together "to plan campaign strategy."

Cervantes described the article as "a sinister, calculated smear designed to boost circulation and advertising of a dying magazine at my expense, the expense of my family and at the expense of our city."

New York Times And Printers Agree On Tentative Contract

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Times and its printers agreed Sunday on a tentative contract with wage increases of 41.69 per cent over a three-year period, plus a cost-of-living clause, and a unique clause providing for termination of the agreement if federal wage-price controls are imposed.

Although the announcement was the first positive move since contracts at the four major city dailies expired

March 30, the printers said they expect negotiations with the other newspapers—the Daily News, the Post and the Long Island Press—would be more difficult. Nine other unions have been negotiating

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I was younger — I am now 70 — I wondered why elderly people left their estates to churches, institutions, charities, etc. Now I know.

My son lives across the U.S. from me, and I am lucky if I get a letter from him in a few weeks. I never hear from my daughter-in-law.

My daughter and her family live 30 miles from me. I get a phone call maybe once every two weeks or so to let me know they are in the land of the living. My grandchildren never come to see me.

I know we are supposed to encourage our children to live their own lives when they marry and leave home, but isn't this carrying it to extremes?

LONELY IN OREGON

DEAR LONELY: Yes. You successfully reared your children to be independent, for which you are to be congratulated. Unfortunately, you failed to develop sufficient interests of your own to insure yourself against loneliness. It may not be too late. (Other parents should take a page out of your book.)

DEAR ABBY: My brother-in-law said that when you were young, you were a "go go" dancer in Las Vegas. Correct or not?

BARBARA J.

DEAR BARBARA: When I was young they didn't have "go go" dancers. They had "fan dancers," but I never got that hot.

DEAR ABBY: After 20 years I am fed up giving my husband birthday parties. This is my reason: He told me and the children that his birthday was March 17, so for years we've been giving him parties and presents on that day. Well, his sister who lives out of town came by last March 17 and saw the birthday celebration for my husband, and she said, "What's the matter with you? His birthday is in November!" He still insists it's March. Now I don't know whom to believe. How do we find out when his birthday really is? (He wasn't born in this country.)

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: I suppose you'd like to see his birth certificate, which he probably does not have, and is undoubtedly the reason he selected his own "birthday." What's the difference which day he celebrates? (P.S. I'll bet your husband's Irish.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO: — All women who write directly to the national shoe retailers association (per my suggestion) to protest the ugly, masculine, clunky shoes they tried to force on us: — I don't know whether it was due to the letters and petitions which they received by the thousands, but I have good news for you. They have admitted they "erred" in not designing more feminine, graceful, flattering footwear for women of late because they "swung too far toward designing for the young — who readily accept the extremes of fashion." However, they have promised to give us more flattering footwear in the future. And from the looks of the newer designs, I believe they will.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

WEDNESDAY, MAY 27

YOUR BIRTHDAY WEDNESDAY: — Your prime challenge in the coming year is to hold your own initiative in building sound relationships, creating a better basis for your career. Nothing can be taken for granted. Romantic and sentimental interests are capricious, first dim, then bright again. So have patience. Many of Wednesday's natives have skill with words and are good raconteurs.

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19): — Your work is reviewed by all concerned, with a wide range of comment. Get an early start; make a good impression. Personal interests undergo a sparkle of change.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — Close ranks in your own set for a common cause, and find a smile for all. However, don't make money matters an item of general knowledge — handle them carefully, on your own.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Friends try to be helpful toward improvement of your earnings. Emotional ties come under some stress — avoid needless complications and unrealistic planning.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Personal situations take up much of your attention. Restless feelings must be settled before you can improve other matters. Efforts to gain public support encounter obstacles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Good luck comes your way, but not from your friends. Hold off any major changes for a few more days — just talking about them now is enough to upset the applecart.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — The closer the relationship, the more surely there is tension. Concentrate on your work; do it right the first time. The evening is time enough to patch matters up with your loved ones.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — Be prepared for a variable day in which nothing goes very well, but nothing really goes very wrong either. Patiently get through the day. It's a test of your diplomatic skills.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Distant people and your intimates are helpful, while nobody in between seems very cooperative. A philosophic approach helps you enjoy the paradox.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Keep your numerous differences superficial; do not let your share of any squabble get serious. Self-improvement and homebuilding efforts are favored. Your inconvenience in pursuing them is redeemed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): — If you will stick with your job and do the best you can, things will work out well later. Today there's no great encouragement. Go it on your own.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): — You can improve your earnings with strong, sustained effort. Nobody with influence is likely to reach down to help, but you can manage it yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): — Material reward is not readily available. However, don't shirk your work on the grounds of boredom. Great interest in emotional experience is promised in the later hours.

Mrs. Butts announced she had made the tray favors for the Memorial Day. Flags were to be put on the graves of the veterans Memorial Day by the American Legion Auxiliary. Each member was requested to meet at the Cemetery by sun-up on Memorial Day.

A report was given by Mrs. Turner of the Council of Clubs Tea held Sunday May 17. Mrs.

Al Bassett, treasurer, a jar of wave set. Mrs. Kenneth Gigg, secretary, received a bottle of shampoo with the admonition, "Your job is to keep the slate clean. Do this well so that doubt and uncertainty will not seep in." A hairroller was also given to point out she be a strong supporting base to the club. Vice-President, Mrs. Kay Fancher, was advised as she received a bottle of creme rinse, "Your job is to see that other officers can glide smoothly on with their jobs and not be met with tangles and snares." She also received a hair clip to illustrate her job of holding the club together.

Mrs. Gene E. Lunsford, president, was advised as she received a can of hair spray, "You are the key to success and beauty. Without your guiding spray, the whole club will become fly-away and unmanageable. Yours is to direct, guide and manage." Allegro members present at the luncheon and installation included Mmes. R.E. Reid, George McCarroll, T.H. Patton, Kay Fancher, Kenneth Gigg, Ron Lawrence, Robert Mack, Gene E. Lunsford, Don Boddy, Barrie Yates, Bill Rice, Huey Prater and Art Hall.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 50th anniversary of radio broadcasting is being celebrated this month with appropriate ceremonies, such as taking disc jockeys to lunch and sticking them with the check.

And if the 50th anniversary of radio is at hand, can the 50th anniversary of earplugs be far behind?

Radio has done many marvelous things. Among others, it made a prophet out of the late Edward R. Murrow. In 1940, when he was covering the battle of Britain, Murrow predicted that "broadcasting is to become an adult means of communication at last."

Just switch on a radio set at any hour of the day or night and you can hear Murrow's words come true.

I have read a couple of interesting accounts of the origin and early days of radio, but nowhere did I find any mention of this medium's most important milestone — the first radio commercial.

Mention of Firsts

There was mention of Dr. Lee de Forest's invention of the grid audio tube in 1906. There was mention of the world's first broadcasting station that Dr. Frank Conrad built in a Pittsburgh garage in May, 1920. These developments were vital, no doubt about that. But without the invention of the commercial, broadcasters probably still would be operating out of Conrad's garage.

If you close your eyes real tight, and turn up the volume real loud, you likely can visualize how the commercial was invented.

My vision runs something like this:

Young Clyde McJingle, a bright lad with a lot of get-up-and-go, has built a workshop in the attic of the home where he lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam McJingle.

One evening after supper while the elder McJingle is reading the paper in the parlor, he keeps hearing strange noises in the attic.

"What is that crazy kid doing up there now?" he grumbles.

Invents Commercial

"He says he's trying to invent a radio commercial," Mrs. McJingle replies.

"What kind of blame-fool thing is that for a half-grown kid to be wasting his time on?" "Oh, leave the boy alone, Sam. He'll straighten out one of these days and make us all proud of him. Just you wait and see."

At that moment Clyde comes clattering down the stairs.

"By George, I think I've got it," he shouts. "Listen to this, folks."

Clyde whips out a ukelele and to the tune of the "Anvil Chorus" he sings: "Hi, di, adore — when you wax the floor try Bismarck Wax — it will fill the cracks."

Mr. and Mrs. McJingle embrace their son with tears of pride and jubilation. And the money from Clyde's invention is still rolling in.

N.Y. Daily News Employees Run Their Ad In The Times

NEW YORK (UPI) Sixty-seven employees of the New York Daily News, charging their own newspaper refused to print it, ran an advertisement in the New York Times Sunday condemning U.S. actions in Indochina.

"The following editorial employees of the New York Daily News," the $1,100 ad said, "condemn our government's actions in Indochina as abhorrent, as a source of daily atrocities, and in contradiction to the historical principles of this nation.

The employees said the Daily News Advertising Department rejected the ad without explanation Friday night. A spokesman for the paper later said the ad was turned down "by management."

SUHARTO TO VISIT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Indonesian President Suharto and his wife will visit the United States from May 6 until June 1, in a trip that includes two private meetings with President Nixon and a speech to Asian and African ambassadors at the United Nations.

Suharto also will fly to Knoxville, Tenn., to visit Tennessee Valley Authority projects and the Tennessee Farmers' Cooperative Federation. After that he will visit Disneyland and make a trip to San Francisco.

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., is broadcasting some ideas proposing far-reaching changes in the Democratic party — his aim being to convert it into "a genuinely national political party."
As chairman of the Democratic Study Group, a band of about 150 Democratic liberals in the House, he is in a position to get a hearing for his thoughts. He also is chairman of a subcommittee on party structure for one of the two commissions set up to head off more brawls such as the Democrats had at their 1968 national convention.
In a speech to the recent national convention of Americans for Democratic Action, Fraser said a weak national party composed of 50 state political organizations should be replaced by a national organization "strong at the top."
Eliminate Imbalance
"Why not, for example, create a national center committee with membership weighted according to population?" he suggested. "One possibility would be to have one committee member from each of the 435 congressional districts. This central committee could take charge of the affairs of the party between conventions."
The Democratic National Committee now is composed of 108 members. On its rare roll calls, the two votes from the Canal Zone are equal to those from California or New York.
Fraser also suggested that his party needed a constitution to govern itself during the four years between conventions, a massive education program to get Democrats talking about party and public issues, and a research arm free from day to day control by the national committee.
The GOP Reformers
A more orthodox view of party reform comes from the Ripon Society, the liberal Republican organization. Writing in the Ripon Forum, Charles K. McWhorter, the New York attorney who served as President Nixon's eyes and ears at GOP conferences for years, said:
"The viability of a competitive political system requires that both parties avoid slipping into a doctrinaire position which would preclude broad-based support. A flexible centrist approach provides the best assurance that a party can maintain broad support."
"More important than any particular type of party machinery is an attitude on the part of the leadership of the party which genuinely welcomes broad participation and diversity of viewpoints."
The democrats now are talking more than the Republicans about encouraging broader participation in politics.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A welcome network attempt to make contact with film-oriented youth resulted during the weekend in a provocative NBC-TV special, "The New Communicators," narrated and hosted by Peter Fonda.
The Saturday night hour, first half of a two-part project by the network, was developed from a concept proposed by NBC President Julian Goodman, and offered a selection of about 20 films by students and other fledgling moviemakers. The second hour will be broadcast June 12.
Goodman presented his concept last year in an address before the Confederation of British Industry, in London, saying that from seeking out future filmmakers, "We hope will come some of the forms, themes and techniques for the television of the 70s."
In an intelligent bit of scheduling, "The New Communicators" pre-empted the Andy Williams series Saturday. The time slot was logical because the singer's show, which knocked off CBS-TV's Jackie Gleason this season, has had a relatively contemporary tone and a definite attempt to attract mod-oriented youth — precisely the audience needed for "The New Communicators."
Another noteworthy fact was that NBC-TV did not hesitate to use numerous black-and-white films among the many offered in the special. NBC, being a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, a leading pusher of color television sets, very rarely shows anything in black-and-white anymore.
The longest, most intriguing film, "At Home," which ran about 13 minutes, was a sort of modern horror parable about a happy young couple who move into a house which the husband suddenly fills up with junky old items he collects. He then starts collecting people — as objects — placing them around the home like furnishings, certain that his wife, who is increasingly miserable, really loves the life he has imposed her. The sound track for this film — the period radio excerpts, the old and new music — was superb.
Other notable films included: A vigorous, concerned look at Mexican-Americans lost in Anglo society; a splendid impression of rural life using beautiful time-lapse photography; and a potent one-minute movie, completed the week Robert Kennedy was assassinated, about composition, leading and firing of a gun.

ATHENS (UPI) — Aristotle Onassis and his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, kept out of sight in Athens today amid reports of matrimonial trouble.
The couple arrived by plane from New York to Paris. Onassis made a surprise flight from New York to Paris.
London newspapers said she was furious over printed reports that her husband had been seeing his former companion, opera star Maria Callas, in the French capital.
Other reports said Onassis had agreed it would be best for all concerned if he no longer met with Miss Callas, whom he has described as "a very good friend."

Broyles' Interest Reason Jenkins Chose Hogs

By DAN PACKARD
Sports Editor

John Jenkins may have played his last football game in a Harvester uniform Saturday in the varsity-alumni battle, but if the Pampa senior has anything to do with it, his grid career will continue for a long time.

Jenkins, who led the 1969 Harvesters in total offense as quarterback and running back, rejected Oklahoma and Texas to sign an athletic scholarship agreement with the University of Arkansas in February.

During his high school career Jenkins lettered at tight end as a sophomore and was the district's third leading pass receiver as a junior while playing flanker and running back. He was named second-team All-District as a senior.

The future Razorback's talents were not limited to the gridiron. He led the baseball team in hitting during both his sophomore and junior seasons and played basketball in his last two years at Pampa High.

Oklahoma was the first school to recognize Jenkins as college material and contacted him shortly after his junior season. Other feelers followed during the summer and after his senior campaign, Jenkins began the task of sorting through the stack of college offers.

After visiting the campuses of Texas, Baylor, Texas Tech, Arkansas and Oklahoma (twice), he narrowed the field down to OU, Texas and Arkansas.

Jenkins toured the Fayetteville school during the Christmas holidays while the Razorbacks prepared to meet Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl and although he was impressed with the athletic facilities there, that in itself is not why he made Arkansas his top choice. A fellow named Frank Broyles had a lot to do with it.

"Although the athletic system and facilities at Arkansas greatly impressed me, the thing that was most important was the interest Coach Broyles showed in me. He came to Pampa on two different occasions to see me and called me several times," Jenkins recalled.

Continuing, he said, "I had my mind made up to play with a big winner and I felt I was real fortunate to get all the other offers because not everyone is fortunate enough to get a scholarship offer from a big one."

Arkansas is definitely a "big winner."

Under the direction of Broyles, the Razorbacks have won six Southeast Conference titles and have appeared in eight bowl games.

Last season the Hogs lost only to National Champion Texas in regular season play and fell to Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl.

Another factor, however, played an important role in Jenkins' decision.

As he explained it, "I play the type of game that fits with a passing team and that's what Arkansas is, whereas Texas plays a running game. Jack Mildren has two more seasons to quarterback at Oklahoma and I want to play as soon as possible so I think I have the best chance at Arkansas."

After the graduation of starting quarterback Bill Montgomery in 1971, Jenkins will have completed his freshman season and will begin the battle for the post vacated by Montgomery.

To earn that position he must outperform Joe Ferguson, who piloted the 1969 Shoats, the Arkansas freshmen team.

Highly-touted Ferguson hails from Shreveport, La.

Even though Ferguson will have an experience edge over Jenkins, the Pampa standout figures he has the advantage in size.

Ferguson stands 6-1 and weighs 150 pounds while Jenkins is 6-3 and tips the scales at 205.

Jenkins seems determined to make good.

"I've accepted the challenge to beat out Joe Ferguson," he said simply and plainly.

However, should Jenkins not start at quarterback, he strongly believes that he will play somewhere.

"I have the right size, right speed and I have experience playing halfback and split receiver as well as quarterback so wherever I can play, early is probably where I'll end up."

"When I say early I'm speaking in terms of a sophomore," he added.

Jenkins will graduate from Pampa High in commencement exercises Thursday night and report for football drills near the first of September.

He plans to major in physical education and enter professional football or land a coaching job after graduation from the university.

Jenkins is the son of Mrs. Iva Jenkins, 1341 N. Stark weather of Pampa.

Morehead Throws 7-1 Triumph For Royals

By GREG GALLO
UPI Sports Writer

Dave Morehead, who achieved instant success as a 22-year-old back in 1965 when he pitched a no-hitter for Boston, and then almost ended his career seven months later on the same Fenway Park diamond when he fell off the mound and injured his shoulder, pitched his first complete game in almost two years Monday night as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Chicago White Sox, 7-1.

"My arm, this season, has felt better than anytime since the accident," said Morehead, who allowed only five hits in going the distance for the first time since Aug. 19, 1968.

In other action, Baltimore edged Cleveland, 6-2, Detroit edged New York 4-3, Minnesota defeated Milwaukee, 6-3, Boston beat Washington, 5-3, and in the top half of the inning on Horace Clarke's sacrifice, Willie Horton homered for Detroit while Bobby Murcer connected for the Yanks.

The Royals, who have now won four straight, blew the game open with a five-run eighth inning. Bob Oliver drove in two with a single. Luis Alvarez and Jackie Hernandez walked to force in two more and Floyd Weaver wild pitched the final run home.

The Orioles erupted for three runs in each of the first two innings as they breezed past the Indians behind the pitching and hitting of Dave McNally. McNally hurled a six-hitter and singled to start the second-inning rally while Paul Blair's two-run triple was the big hit in the first. Roy Foster homered for Cleveland.

Bill Freehan led off the ninth inning with his eighth homer of the year as the Tigers fought back to tie the Yankees. New York had tied the game in the top half of the inning on Horace Clarke's sacrifice. Willie Horton homered for Detroit while Bobby Murcer connected for the Yanks.

Monday included brothers John and Bobby Walzel, John Mahaffey, Bruce Ashworth and Tom Jenkins. The Walzel brothers both fired one-over-par 145s at Braeburn to tie for second place at that qualifying site behind John Mills. Mills fired a 140.

In Dallas two amateurs—Tom Kite and Ben Crenshaw—were tied for second behind Schlee. They both shot five-under 139s. Kite is a member of the Texas golf team and Crenshaw, 18, a senior at Austin High School in Austin, has signed to attend Texas.

Arnold Salinas, an amateur who is a protégé of Lee Trevino, also made the qualifying field.

Reeves and Adams won their berths after a playoff with Amarillo's Marvin Dick. Both Golfers finished at 146.

Tour regular John Schlee turned in the day's best score in Texas, firing a seven-under-par 135 in Dallas. The only other tour regular trying to qualify in Texas — Rives McBee—also made the grade in Dallas with a 143.

But the big surprise was the play of the amateurs.

In Houston five members of the Cougars' golf team qualified for next month's sectional round in Dallas. Those who win spots in that qualifying round will be among the field of 150 which tees off in the 70th U.S. Open at Minneapolis, Minn. in late June.

Shavina Strokes

by Frank Beard

13—The Putts To Practice

I doubt if any of us practice putting as much as we should, when you stop to consider that about half the strokes you take during a round are on the greens. When the pros sit around in bull sessions about the game, they talk about who's putting well and why, not about who's driving the ball 290 yards. I think that's a pretty good testimonial to the importance of putting. If Jack Nicklaus changes putters, we know about it within the hour.

I think we believe, subconsciously anyway, that putting has more to do with our confidence—or lack of it—than anything else. If you're putting well, you're going to be feeling pretty good about life. If, on the other hand, you're putting poorly, the biggest, juiciest steak and the best bottle of wine in the world won't do much to improve your sour disposition.

Much of putting is mental. But you have to practice, unless, maybe, you're George Archer or Billy Casper or Bob Charles or Dave Stockton. I'll admit that sometimes I can putt as well as anyone on the tour, but I like to keep working on my stroke. I'm afraid I'll lose it otherwise.

I spend more time practicing putts in the 5-10 foot category than I do real short ones or real long ones. The reason is simple. I'm going to have more of those than the other kinds. Study your game. Perhaps you miss a lot of greens and then chip the ball 12 feet from the cup. If so you should spend more time on 12-foot putts. Or whatever. Practice may not make perfect, but intelligent practice can save you two and three putts a round.

The Customer Is King

It is interesting to note that the nationwide concern for the problem of pollution — and particularly gratifying to observe the active interest of young people. Best of all, most youths recognize that the pollution problem begins at home — right in their own streets, neighborhoods, and towns. Only a small minority, judging from the national news stories, are ready to assign all responsibility (and authority) in the ecology to "The government." We hope that this energetic "cleanup, fix-up" interest will continue.

Some youths, however, will have a lot to learn. For example, in Dallas one college group protested throw away containers. After meeting with the management of a soft-drink company, one student — a young lady from Southern Methodist University — indignantly declared: "They just gave the capitalist view. They said they have cans because people want them, but the people want them just because of the massive advertising campaigns."

How little she knows! If there is any one big lesson learned early in the game by successful businessmen, it is that all the money in the world spent for advertising a product that people don't want is money down the drain. The young lady, apparently, never heard about the Edsel — which, for her information, was an automobile made by an experienced manufacturer. It has everything — or so the producer thought. There was only one problem; the public didn't like it, and millions of dollars in advertising and promotion couldn't change the public taste. Many others have learned the same lesson.

It's a shame that Southern Methodist University hasn't taught the young student that you make a product people like, and if you make it in the size, shape, and color which people want, and if it is priced competitively and if somebody else doesn't come up with a better idea at a better price, then and only then can advertising pay off — sometimes handsomely. Advertising plays a big role in calling attention to things that people need, or want, and can use. In the free enterprise system, the customer is king — and that's why it works so well for the benefit of all.

Weird Computer Solutions

Computers are very useful gadgets to help solve many complicated problems, but we wish that some of the computer experts would stop trying to calculate — by means of computerized data — why people behave like human beings. Every time it happens, the "solutions" are nothing less than weird.

One computer expert is reported to have fed into his electronic monster all sorts of information relative to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The feedback from the machine "proved" that:

— At least four gunmen — none of them Lee Harvey Oswald — were involved in the killing;

— Six shots, and not three as reported by the Dallas Police and the FBI, were fired at Kennedy as his limousine passed by the Texas School Book Depository Building in Dallas on November 22, 1963;

— At least 50 persons were conspirators in the killing; etc. This, claimed the computer technician, "proves" that the Warren Commission was wrong in its findings that Oswald was the sole assassin.

However, the computer expert is wrong in his contention that it was the "Warren Commission" finding that Oswald was the lone killer, or that three shots were fired. These conclusions were made by the FBI after devoting thousands of man-hours in time to an exhaustive, painstaking, and thoroughly scientific crime investigation. The Warren Commission — almost reluctantly, it would sometimes appear — could find no other evidence to disprove the FBI report.

We are not told whether the computer was "fed" information outside of the Warren Report. For example, found in Lee Harvey Oswald's room right after the killing was hate-Kennedy propaganda material published by the millionaire leftist, Corlis Lamont. Lamont's name does not appear in the one-volume "findings" of the Warren Commission. To what degree did this hate material instigate Oswald to kill? The Warren Commission didn't say — and neither, we assume, did the computer.

The Kennedy Assassination could stand further investigation. But let's have it done by a thoroughly human committee, not by electronic circuitry.

'A Pie In The Face' Reply

Like these presidential commission straight-aways were having a hearing in, uh, you know, Washington, on obscenity and pornography. No, man, I don't mean the Vietnam war and the military budget. I mean, bourgeois-type obscenity, like sex and porno pics and, you know, four-letter words.

Anyway, this hippie character from the Underground Press Syndicate was testifying, trying to get it through to the straight-aways that nobody had a right to stifle his, you know, creativity. Then all of a sudden he lets fly a cream pie right in the face of the straight who was questioning him, some University of Washington sociology professor.

Man, talk about a put-down. The straight-aways just sat there, uh, you know, gaping.

Funny thing, though. The one with the pie running down his face didn't DO anything. Just said, "Don't bug me. I'm asking you a question."

Now what kind of way to, you know, behave is that?

...Like Potato In The Sky

We now know for sure that the moon isn't made of green cheese, but would you believe a potato for one of the moons of Mars?

Phobos, the larger of the two Martian satellites (the other is Deimos), was profiled against the light surface of Mars in a photograph taken by the Mariner 7 fly-by spacecraft last summer. Photo enhancement techniques employed at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory and thorough study of blow-ups revealed two unique qualities possessed by the tiny moon:

It is lopsided — only 11 miles from pole to pole but 14 miles around its equator — with a potato-shape appearance, and it's the darkest body yet observed in the solar system, possibly because of constant bombardment by meteoritic particles.

What it seems to add up to (and this hurts us as much as it does you) is a baked spudnik.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: — How can Freedom Newspapers claim that open immigration is helpful to everyone when cheap foreign labor coming into our country would put our own people out of work?

ANSWER: — In the first place, it is a false assumption that so-called cheap foreign labor would put our own people out of work. If there were no state interference, such as licensing laws, work permits, welfare subsidies and minimum wage laws, immigrants to any area would contribute to production in that area to the extent of their ability. This would increase the level of goods and services available to all people. The immigrants also need goods and services, so they add to the demand for production, which creates employment. As an example, there has been a tremendous immigration in the past 20 years, and in spite of all kinds of interference from the federal and local states, the immigration has not created unemployment. Quite the opposite.

The only so-called cheap labor is unskilled labor. If there were no state interference and unskilled labor came into an area, these laborers would be able to find employment doing the kind of unskilled work no one else wants to do, and this would give them, then, the opportunity to improve their skills and then find other, more profitable kinds of employment. Without state and union interference, wages and prices would be constantly adjusting to these changes in supply and demand. And as each person adds to production, and as better skills and tools increase production, costs are lowered. When this happens, real wages, that is the amount the individual can obtain in exchanging what he produces for what someone else produces, go up.

It is only when some people seek to interfere with the ability of all people to make peaceful and voluntary contracts by restricting immigration and by trying to hold wages and/or prices at some fixed arbitrary and artificial level that unemployment is created. If our questioner would like to understand more about how money wages can go down and real wages go up, and about the real benefits of free trade, we recommend the books of Ludwig von Mises, including "Theory and History," "Why Freedom Works," by Ernest Benn and his other books; the early books of Dr. Murray Rothbard; "Social Fallacies," and "The Law" by Frederic Bastiat; "Free Markets or Famine" by V. Orval Watts; and "Why Wages Rise" by F.A. Harper.

Though they did concede that argument — and even disagreement — had surfaced in the meeting, their tone as they spoke to newsmen was respectful and deferential in the extreme.

An outsider unaccustomed to the ways of politics would have judged they considered themselves greatly fortunate to have been invited into the august White House setting to be told how things are in the nation and the world.

Now the cluster of newsmen who talked to some of these same governors at Santa Fe predicted it would be exactly this way when they came into the presidential presence and were surrounded by all the impressive trappings of White House power.

We also predicted, correctly, that the President would quickly seize control of his May 9 evening press conference and turn it largely to his own service amid the turmoil generated by Cambodia and Kent.

Newsmen who regularly attend or observe presidential press conferences have known for a long time how badly flawed this mechanism is as a means of extracting from the President information they think the public should have. We really do not need guidance on this score from dilettantish cult-writers who dip in and out for an occasional sneering look at the process.

The truth is, the conference format and setting give the President ample and immediate opportunity to set the tone of any such interrogation, to dominate it all the way, to ignore tough questions by giving "answers" that are not answers at all, to escape hard pursuit amid the predictable barrage of disjointed, unrelated questioning.

Here again, an overrating effect is created by the dazzling aura that engulfs the presidency. Questioners who want to be tough often find themselves serving up exceedingly deferential queries. Nixon, an old hand at this

Power Of President Can Be Likened To A Steamroller

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Since the onset of the events in Cambodia and at Kent State, the power of the presidency to overawe — if not to overwhelm — has been freshly and dramatically demonstrated to those of us who try to cover the main scene.

Talking recently at Santa Fe, N.M., with the bare handful of governors who arrived there only to learn that their semiannual Republican conference had been canceled, we found considerable disagreement with President Nixon's policies and attitudes as they affect the war, youthful unrest and related matters.

When we next saw these governors, their spokesmen (and their Democratic counterparts) had just emerged from an hours-long meeting at the White House with the President and several key aides. The transformation in the governors' behavior was notable.

Though they did concede that argument — and even disagreement — had surfaced in the meeting, their tone as they spoke to newsmen was respectful and deferential in the extreme.

Inside Washington

Nixon Skipped First Base On Cambodian Action

WASHINGTON — One of the early casualties, when U.S. troops moved into Cambodia, was the image of Richard M. Nixon as the consummate politician who carefully touches all the bases and figures all the angles.

There was much conversation about this attribute of the President-elect in the final weeks of 1968. Not a few Democrats consoled themselves with the thought that Nixon would plan more prudently and execute more carefully than the supposedly mercurial Hubert H. Humphrey.

When it came to Cambodia, however, bases were not touched, especially the important (and jealously self-important) bases in the Senate and House. As a consequence, the angles, if they were computed at all, were figured on the basis of deficient data.

Only after the course of action had been determined, the telecast arranged and the time announced, did the President notify congressional leaders of his controversial action. The resentment which he created in so doing has not been adequately reported in the aftermath, but the results are becoming quite clear.

There has been, for example, a change in the department of Sen. Mike Mansfield, Mont., the Senate Democratic leader. In the past Mansfield, a long-time "dove," has sought to separate his role as leader from his role as critic of administration policies. He has soft-pedaled his own criticism and let others take the lead. Now, however, Mansfield is quite openly calling signals for the Senate's anti-war block in its drive to restrict the President's powers with respect to Cambodia.

Senate-Republican Leader, Hugh Scott, Pa., is bravely carrying the administration's standard, but under severe handicaps. A week after the President's announcement — after the congressional resentment had begun to surface — Scott announced that the Administration would accept a somewhat amended version of one of the proposed Cambodia restrictions. He was quickly put down by an assistant press secretary at the White House.

OLD PROBLEM — Failure to consult with the congressional leadership has been a vexing problem of all recent administrations. From his own congressional experience, Nixon was well aware of that, but he walked right into the old controversy.

More than that, however, the President, in the eyes of the lawmakers, let his rank and file defenders down by failing to provide private advance advice of his intentions. The word "betrayed" has been privately used by at least one Republican senator who has consistently defended the President and his policies.

On the morning of the President's dramatic TV announcement, administration advocates in the Senate and House received a memorandum, "Points on the Cambodia Military Action," from the White House. It defended activities in the "Cambodia pocket," apparently the Parrot's Beak area where the incursion of South Vietnamese troops with U.S. advisers was already under heavy congressional fire.

The memo mentioned the President's forthcoming speech, but it gave no indication or hint that new initiatives were then to be unveiled. It was thus a tacit invitation, to defenders of the President, to say that the President would go no further, and some of them did that.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., the Southern Gentleman who heads the Armed Services Committee and is therefore seeking to head off restrictions on the wartime power of the Commander-in-Chief, was recently asked about Nixon's failure to consult with him and with other top congressional leaders. Stennis was asked whether that failure had contributed to the Senate's restive atmosphere.

"I think it has, frankly, but I think it is clearing up," was the candid reply from Stennis, who typically dispensed any personal fund of expertise which the President should have tapped.

OTHER BASES ALSO — It is hard to escape the conclusion that other bases were also left untouched and other angles wrongly computed. Not until students began closing campuses and converging on Washington did administration aides start trying to get their story across to youth.

Eventually the Vice President, Cabinet members, and the President's communications director — Henry Klein, began turning up on the night-time talk shows. By that time, however, it was apparent that top Cabinet members were not always up to date on the President's thinking or even aware of what was happening in the war zone, as the operations in Cambodia and the bombing of the North began to unfold.

The Manion Forum

By MARILYN MANION

President Nixon's message on school desegregation received mixed notices in the American press. From the Liberal camp came predictably strident cries: "The Administration was 'selling out' to the South, ignoring the plight of black, and supporting illegal segregation. The New York Times described the statement as 'President Nixon's antibusing message to segregationists.' Social planners wailed that the message would slow down the pace of race and class mingling. A Wall Street Journal article chronicled recent racial trends in Wichita, and concluded rather regretfully that the President's words would all but halt integration there.

Judging from these reactions, one might conclude that Mr. Nixon cancelled all plans for desegregating the Nation's schools. Rather the opposite is true. Quoting extensively from court decisions on the subject, the President upheld the principle of desegregation. Specifically, he said that de jure segregation in any school system, North or South, is illegal; de facto segregation is not. He noted that the Supreme Court has not yet decided that de facto segregation is unconstitutional. He went on record in opposition to required cross-busing of students in order to achieve racial balance. (The Civil Rights Act of 1964 had already made it illegal to require busing as a means to achieve such "balance.") Finally, Nixon promised to ask Congress for $500 million next year and $1 billion the next for improving education in racially impacted areas. North and South, and for assisting school districts in meeting special problems incident to court-ordered desegregation.

A few days after the message was made public, White House sources leaked some additional information to the press. A cabinet committee, these sources said, would study ways to spend the $500 million. Dr. James S. Coleman of Johns Hopkins had been invited to assist the committee. Coleman, of course, is nationally known as a proponent of integration. It turns out that he assisted the President in the writing of the message. And, while the words of that message may appeal to Conservatives, the actual effect may be something else. For example: Coleman said that federal funds could be used to stop the exodus of white people from newly integrated school districts. The money could be spent on the providing of such incentives as after-school care for the students so that mother's could work. Funds could also be used to insure the continued high quality of the schools after they were integrated. The point of expending federal money in this way would be to keep the whites in the city so that their children could be mixed with black children.

Which gets us to the crux of the matter: Is it proper for the government to foster, require, and pay for the calculated mixing of the races? What is the difference between desegregation and integration? — American Way Features

Joe (the Alaskan) retorted — If all the snow in Alaska were to melt, Texas would be a lake.

Horace Greeley, who always insisted that the word "news" was plural, once wired a reporter: "Are there any news?"

The reply came back by wire: "Not a new."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

On Dec. 16, 1944, the German army made a major counteroffensive against American forces in what is known as the Battle of the Bulge. An important point of U.S. resistance was at Bastogne, Belgium. The World Almanac says that when the besieged U.S. force at Bastogne was asked to surrender, their commander, Brig. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe, gave his famous reply, "Nuts!"

United Press International Close Vote

The feeling is growing in London that the British election on June 18 will be extremely close despite first predictions of a landslide for Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Labor party. It is now believed that neither the Labor party nor the opposition Conservatives will be able to roll up a big majority. Conservative strategists say Wilson may have left himself stamped into calling an election at a moment when the recent big swing to Labor was slowing down.

Russian Pressures

Yugoslavia and Romania fear the Soviet Union will intensify pressures this summer to tighten control in Eastern Europe. Yugoslavia left the Moscow-led Warsaw Pact alliance in 1948 and Romania is a lukewarm member. Romania is opposing all overtures to permit Warsaw Pact military maneuvers on its soil this summer for fear Russian troops may refuse to leave.

NATO Meeting

NATO leaders meeting in Rome this week want to open a channel with Communist chiefs for talks on easing European tensions. Some NATO members favor establishment of a permanent committee to consult with the Warsaw Pact. Others prefer a more informal approach to the communist alliance.

French Economy

French officials are satisfied with the economic recovery plan launched by Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing after the franc was devalued last August. The economy has steadied and exports are up. But officials are concerned about a lag in new investments and look for a drop in the growth rate because credit restrictions have held back several sectors, notably construction.

HEAT CONTINUES

NEW DELHI (UPI)—A heat wave with temperatures up to 120 degrees entered its third week today in North India where newspapers estimated more than 1,000 persons have died from its effects.

The heat also took a heavy toll of birds and animals. With game migrating from the drought areas, tigers and panthers were on the prowl around villages, threatening livestock.

Weather forecasters said no lasting relief can be expected until monsoon rains move into North India late next month.

ST. BERNARD LION?

NOVARA, Italy (UPI)—Police combed the countryside in force Sunday after villagers reported a lion roaming the Bellinzago area near the Swiss border.

It took hours to track down the animal, a friendly St. Bernard.

KILL FLOOR of Western Beef Packers, Inc., is a busy area of the company located in east Pampa. The packing plant is currently slaughtering around 50,000 head of cattle a year, with production expansion for in the future. (Staff Photo)

Western Beef Packers Inc. Ships Beef All Over USA

Western Beef Packers Inc. purchased Panhandle Co. Dec. 1, 1969, and effective Jan. 1, 1970, incorporated under the name of Western Beef Packers, Inc., a subsidiary of Western Beef.

Immediately prior to purchase of the facility, the company had been involved in a considerable amount of reconstruction and addition of a new on-rail gravity flow killing floor. The new addition includes a chill cooler with walking beam rails whereby cattle are slaughtered and moved from the kill floor into the holding cooler, never being touched by human hands. This automated operation is currently killing in the area of 50,000 head of cattle per year and will be increased to 100,000 per year as facilities are made available for processing of boneless beef. At a later date, facilities will be available for processing fabricated vacuum sealed beef.

Western Beef Packer, Inc., at the time of purchase of the plant had 54 employees. This has expanded to 79 employees, and at the completion of facilities for boneless and fabricating procedures, the payroll will list 100-125 employees. The company is now adding to the payroll and is looking for employees who are interested in a future with the young aggressive, rapidly growing company. Western Beef Packer, Inc., will continue to seek out employees until all openings have been filled.

In addition to the new portion freezer with a 30,000 pound capacity and an accompanying holding freezer of 80,000 pound capacity to handle the boneless beef soon to be produced by Western Beef Packer, Inc., Presently the company is shipping carcasses by truck and rail to all areas of the U.S. including North and South Carolina, Florida, Indiana, Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, and Atlanta.

The modern facilities at the company are, according to the head of the operation, John F. Welch, the most modern and efficient he has seen in his almost thirty years in the meat processing business.

Car Get Stolen Easy To Find-If

Car owners who become the victims of auto theft can assist in the recovery of their car by being able to provide investigators two small but vital pieces of information. These items can be the key factors in how soon a stolen automobile is recovered — and time is crucial if the car is to be returned to its owner in reasonably good shape, according to the National Automobile Theft Bureau (NATB).

C.C. Benson, manager of the southwestern division of the NATB, says that if every car owner would have available his auto license number and vehicle identification number, he would have a much better chance of getting his car back if it is stolen.

"Using modern law enforcement techniques now available, the police can feed this data into an auto theft computer within minutes after the theft is reported," said Benson, "and this computer will distribute the information on the stolen car to local, state and national authorities within five minutes."

"However, if the owner does not have this information readily available, the recovery operation becomes more difficult and chances of recovery lessen."

Benson also called attention to anti-theft devices that have been built into many 1969 model cars, most 1970's and that will be included on all future models.

"The locking steering column and other anti-theft devices have been built in by the manufacturers to reduce the number of thefts by making the thief's job more difficult — if not nearly impossible," Benson commented.

"It is amazing that people pay for these innovations and then render them ineffective by leaving their cars parked unlocked and with the keys in the ignition."

The NATB official urged that all car owners record, in a place that makes them easily and readily available, their auto license number and their vehicle identification number in order to aid authorities if their car is stolen.

"But," Benson concluded, "in order to prevent theft in the first place, car owners should always lock their autos and take the keys with them whenever they leave them unattended — even in their own driveways."

Ward's Appoints Man To New Position

CHICAGO — John D. Flakne has been appointed to head Montgomery Ward's corporate retail advertising media staff as retail promotion business manager, a newly created position, it was announced today by R.M. Harrell, vice president and national retail merchandise manager.

Reporting to F.W. Blesener, national retail sales promotion and advertising manager, Flakne heads a newly formed business management section of Ward's retail advertising organization.

His duties include advising and aiding the company's retail stores and metro districts in media selection and drawing up advertising contracts with various media. Flakne is also responsible for advertising budgeting, media selection through advertising agencies, and research studies to determine customer attitudes toward selected media.

He joined Ward's in 1961 as a media contracts specialist and became media research supervisor in 1965. Prior to his present assignment, he was retail promotion administration manager.

USE NOT DETERMINED

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets reported Monday they have developed a form of water as thick as vaseline that cannot be frozen.

The Soviet news agency Tass said research scientists produced the water by condensing ordinary water vapors in quartz capillary tubes and on the flat surface of quartz glass.

"It is too early to speak about practical uses of super dense water," Tass said.

Gang Convicted In Draft Office Burglary

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Eight defendants known as the "Beaver 55" were unanimously convicted Monday night by a federal court jury for the Halloween night ransacking of a local Selective Service office.

The verdict climaxed an eight-day trial that centered on the "moral right" of individuals to protest the Vietnam War through destruction of government property and hindering administration of draft laws.

Sentencing was deferred by Judge Cale J. Holder, pending investigation by court probation officers. Maximum penalties could be 23 years in prison and fines of $32,000 for each defendant.

The jury of 10 men and two women deliberated less than seven hours. They found the defendants guilty of breaking and entering into and ransacking the Marion County Selective Service headquarters last Oct. 31, interfering with administration of the U.S. Selective Service System and conspiring to destroy government records and property.

Convicted were Paul J. Mack, 19, Indianapolis, and Thomas Frost, 37, John M. Donner, 21, Robert McNamara, 21, his wife Connie, 19, and Jo Ann Mulert, 19, Jane Kennedy, 44, and James D. Williams, 20, all of Chicago.

The defendants became known as the "beaver 55" because a letter signed with that name was found at the site of the break-in.

Bail for each of the defendants was continued at $2,500 despite a prosecution motion that all be held without bail pending their appeal. Holder told the Chicago defendants they could not leave the Chicago area.

SURVEY SHOWS SUPPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee says a poll it commissioned shows that 53 per cent of the persons surveyed support President Nixon's military decision to go into Cambodia.

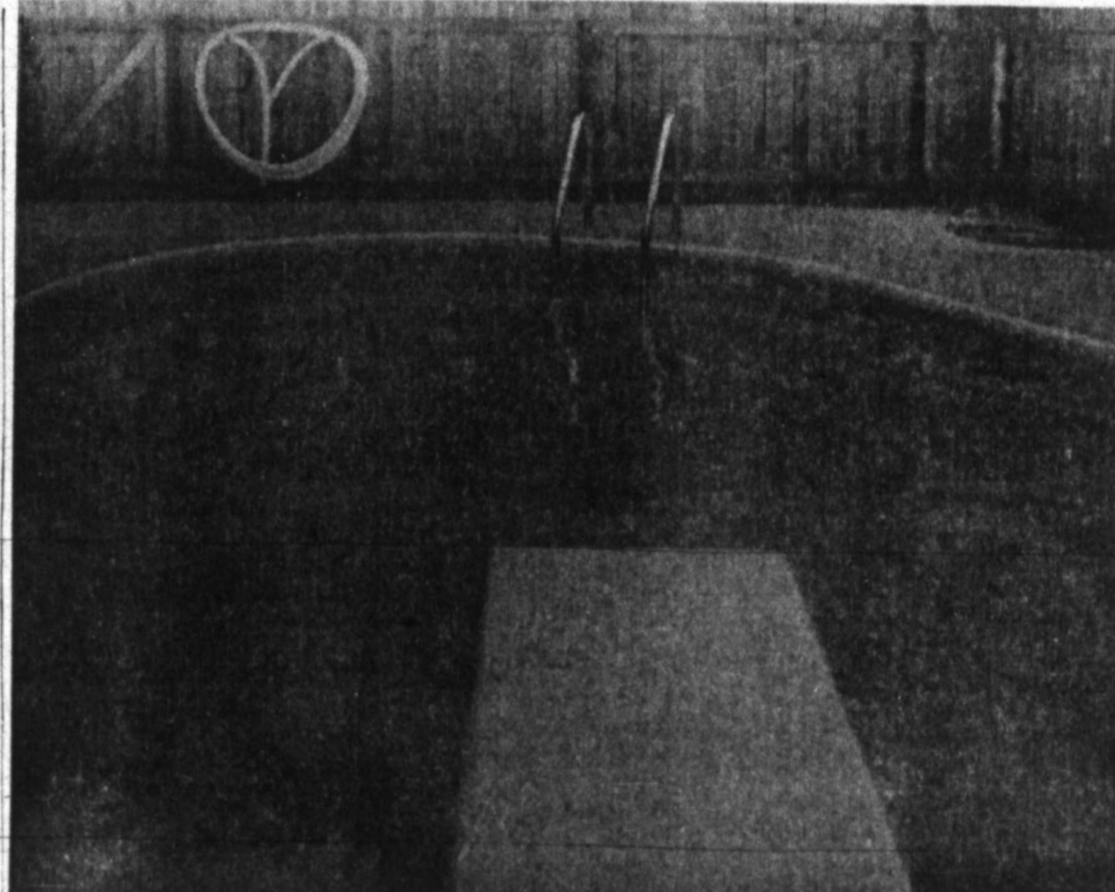

National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton said the poll, conducted by telephone by the New York Chilton Organization, showed that 32 per cent of the 1,053 persons surveyed disapproved of Nixon's decision and 15 per cent had no opinion.

FIBERGLAS POOLS by Hallmark are available for summertime at Towles Tile Co. in Pampa. Fiberglass is great when it comes to keeping maintenance low. The Hallmark collection at Towles comes in various sizes and budget terms can be arranged.

Hallmark Pools Make Summer Fun More Fun

Summer is here and it's swimming time again. And what better way to enjoy America's favorite summer sport than with a Hallmark swimming pool from Towles Tile Co. of Pampa?

Hallmark pools are constructed of high quality Fiberglass and are guaranteed in writing for 15 years.

Each pool is completely equipped to allow for complete summer fun. It takes only four days to install a Hallmark pool, and budget terms are available.

Each Hallmark is constructed with a built-in safety ledge to prevent oversplash, thus keeping the deck dry and aiding in the prevention of accidents.

The Fiberglass construction eliminates costly patching and painting. Fiberglass resists chipping, cracking, rotting, rusting, peeling and mildew. Harmful algae can't adhere to Fiberglass walls.

Jack Towles is available to give estimates and plan the shape and size of your pool. The Hallmark shape includes the popular rectangles, free flowing kidneys, ovals, palettes, and many more.

Each pool offers as standard equipment an automatic surface skimmer, automatic filter system, pump and motor, main drain, inlet fitting, and all the necessary pool accessories.

Towles can install pools for residential or commercial use. Free estimates are available by calling 665-5075.

And when summer is over, the winter months bring snow and ice to the Panhandle. Towles can tell you how your Hallmark pool can provide as much winter fun as it did summer fun.

You can have it all in just four short days.

NO PLANS FOR RECALL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite continuing personal attacks on him by antiwar demonstrators, the State Department says it has no plans to recall Ambassador Jerome H. Holland from Sweden.

The State Department said Monday that Swedish press reports that recall of Holland, a black educator, is imminent "are speculative. There is no basis for them." Sweden long has opposed U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

Eggs were thrown at Holland's limousine Sunday.
