Nixon Cancels Show Of Fleet Power

Egyptians Pour Into Cairo To Pay Respects

By MAURICE GUINDI
CAIRO (UPI) — Egyptians poured into Cairo today by train, by bus, and on foot to mourn President Gamal Abdel Nasser, whose death from a heart attack Monday threatened new chaos for a Middle East uncertain of the present and fearful of the future.

Nasser, 52, lay in state in the imposing Republican Palace in the heart of Cairo while hundreds of thousands milled about outside, hopeful of a last look at the graying colonel who was the idol of the Arab masses and whose death could bring the Middle East once more to war.

The Soviet Union, with more at stake in Egypt than perhaps any other nation, announced it was sending Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to Cairo today for the Thursday funeral. An official statement called Nasser "an outstanding son of the Arab people" and a "great friend of the Soviet Union." It said Russian aid would continue.

The meeting Nixon cancelled a show-of-force exhibition by the U.S. 6 Fleet to avoid reigniting further anti-American feelings in this nation caught up in an emotional upheaval. Egyptians were so wary of Israel that a maximum alert was called by military leaders along the Suez Canal cease-fire line.

How Nasser's death would affect the rest of Nixon's European trip was uncertain.

but the Yugoslav government announced that President Tito would remain in Belgrade to receive Nixon Wednesday and that he would send his closest aide, Edvard Kardelj, to Cairo to attend the funeral.

The Egyptian foreign ministry announced that Nixon was not attending the funeral but was sending Secretary of State William P. Rogers, now with Nixon on a visit to the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Egypt, Syria and Jordan declared a 40-day official period of mourning, and the Arab world, which had met Nasser so many times in summit conferences to discuss operations against Israel, prepared to send its Kings and Presidents back to Cairo for a final farewell.

Vice President Anwar El Sadat temporarily succeeded Nasser as president, but a major power struggle appeared certain to develop over who will rule Egypt in the future. There was no clear-cut successor to the man who briefly unified a traditionally divided part of the world, using the common hatred of Israel as the focal point to weld the Arab nations together.

No One In Curtains For Nasser's Job

BEIRUT (UPI)—Within 60 days Egypt will have a new president, but at the moment not a single Arab politician can state with certainty who it will be.

There was a substantial list of hopefuls but such was the charisma and overpowering prestige of President Gamal Abdel Nasser that no potential successor ever has been able to stake a secure claim to the crown.

Only one thing appears certain: the Egyptian army will have a say in who replaces Nasser, who died of a heart attack Monday at 52. In fact, some observers believe it will be the deciding factor.

While there was no lack of claimants for the vacant crown, an examination of possible heirs might categorize them as executives rather than leaders. Neither pro-soviet e-premier Aly Sabry and his Arab Socialist Union (ASU) supporters on the "left, nor such moderate rightwingers as Al-Ahram editor Mohamed Hassanin Heikal or philosopher-politician Zakariah Mohieddin is thought to have the popular appeal to make an imprint such as Nasser.

The leftwingers probably could get mobs onto the streets of Cairo for a few days but are unlikely to have the physical means to impose their will. An army clampdown might wipe out their influence, followed by the man of consensus.

Meanwhile, observers believe, the rest of the Arab world will bide its time, ready to take its cue when the new man emerges.

Nasser's Death Said Major Blow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first concern of all Mideast experts here was over the possibility of increased turmoil within an Arab world already split by feuding factions and growing radical splinter groups.

The second greatest fear concerned the possibility that Egypt, under new leadership, might abandon the relatively cautious course Nasser had been pursuing, despite the sometimes inflammatory rhetoric he apparently found necessary to placate elements of the Arab community.

The third great question concerned the fate of the Israeli-Arab negotiations which had barely begun at the United Nations when they were interrupted by Israel's charges that Egypt, with the backing of Moscow repeatedly had violated the Aug. 7 cease-fire agreement by moving missiles closer to the Suez Canal.

There was considerable speculation here as to what effect Nasser's death would have on the Soviet program of Middle East penetration. Nasser, dependent on the Soviet Union for his military equipment, had permitted some 12,000 Russians to enter the country to man the advance SAM3 anti-aircraft missiles and to fly 100 of the MIG jet fighters in his air force.

The spokesman said the U.S. government notified the Egyptian government of the decision earlier today.

Bush Tells Why He Wants In Senate

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

At the Bush 'Burger Supper Monday Night in Hobart Street Park, Republican congressman George Bush of Houston explained to a crowd of several hundred persons why he wanted to exchange his seat in the House for one in the senate.

"My first vote," he said, "would be against returning Senator Fulbright to the Foreign Relations Committee and my second vote would be for Senator John Tower as chairman of the Banking Committee."

Bush, who represents Texas Seventh Congressional District (Houston), is serving his second term in Congress. He is a member of the influential House Ways and Means Committee and chairman of the Task Force on Earth Resources and Population.

He said he felt a senatorship would give him more opportunity to express his views "simply because people attach more importance to a senator."

Commending President Nixon for his views expressed on campus unrest in a recent talk at University of Kansas, Bush said he believed "a lot of the unrest could be alleviated if discipline started in the home and was carried on into college administration's offices around the country."

"Gun registration is not going to solve the crime problem. What we need is to see the crime bills, being blocked by the Democrats, passed."

"I strongly favor a reform in the welfare program and I am strongly against handing out a dole to able-bodied persons."

"If a person is unwilling to register for work; unwilling to take training offered, then I say take him off the welfare records... put some discipline in that program."

"Help people, who are willing to help themselves get off the welfare rolls."

Bond Election For Auditorium Contemplated

Tentative plans to call an $800,000 bond election on Oct. 24 for construction of a civic auditorium in Pampa were announced by city officials today.

City Manager B.M. Welford said a special meeting of the City Commission is expected to be called for Thursday, Oct. 8 to set the election date and employ a fiscal agent.

The tentative schedule also was revealed at yesterday's monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Mayor Milo Carlson, City Manager Welford and E.L. Green Jr., chairman of the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium Committee, told directors the election is to be set within a few days.

They also reiterated that the bond issue would be retired through income from the M.K. Brown Foundation which already has established an immediate $400,000 cash gift to the City. Total cost of the (See BOND, Page 2)

Soviet Nuclear Buildup Needs Stern Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. L. Mendel Rivers says he has no doubt the Soviets are building a nuclear submarine base in Cuba, and President Nixon should take prompt action—military if need be—to stop it.

Rivers' comment on the base, which the government only has said it believes the Soviets may be constructing, came as two congressional subcommittees announced plans to hold hearings on the matter.

The South Carolina Democrat, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, told the House Monday:

"The time is now to do something about this. I have no doubt that the Soviets are now building a missile-launching nuclear submarine base in Cuba. We as a nation and a free people can not ignore or accept this latest military action of the Soviet Union."

"We cannot live with this new Soviet threat at our very doorstep," he added. "We cannot permit the cities of the eastern seaboard to become hostages of the Soviet Union. We must take every diplomatic, and if necessary military, step to excise this cancer from the body of the Western Hemisphere."

GD Plant In Waco To Close

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — The Waco Chamber of Commerce disclosed Monday General Dynamics will close down its Waco plant by the end of 1970 and lay off 1,300 employees.

The Chamber of Commerce said it was notified of the plant's closing in a letter from M. C. Curtis, vice president of the Fort Worth based corporation.

The plant's operations, which included testing and modification of the F111 fighter bomber, represented an annual payroll in excess of $6 million to the Waco area.

Curtis said the plant was closing because "the company's long-range business forecasts no longer support continuation of this particular offsite activity."

The plant operated on what was the James Connally Air Force Base. It since has been converted into the Texas State Technical Institute. Curtis said General Dynamics is giving up its lease to buildings it occupied on the base.

Says Nasser's Death Is A 'Tragic Loss'

ABOARD THE USS SARATOGA (UPI) — Much of the purpose and impact of President Nixon's Mediterranean tour was diminished by the death of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, whose death a "tragic loss" and canceled air and sea exercises that had been scheduled today to show the power and flexibility of the U.S. 6th Fleet. The President did not cancel his day-long visit with the fleet, however. It was scheduled to go to Naples later in the day.

Nixon's eight-day trip began with a warm and enthusiastic reception in Rome and a visit with 26 freed American airplane hostages, but Nasser's death abruptly imposed a more somber tone on the tour.

Of immediate concern to Nixon was who will represent the United States at Nasser's funeral. White House aides refused to speculate whether Nixon himself would go, but tended to discourage such talk by observing the United States and the United Arab Republic have not had diplomatic relations since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

There was speculation among Nixon's aides that Secretary of State William P. Rogers would be sent. Rogers is traveling with Nixon.

Most activities on Nixon's program remained unchanged, although he might be forced to reschedule his trip to Yugoslavia Wednesday. President Tito was expected to fly to Cairo for Nasser's funeral Thursday.

Nixon was notified of Nasser's death Monday night. In a one-paragraph statement, "The President said:

"The world has lost an outstanding leader who tirelessly and devotedly served the causes of his countrymen and the Arab world. This tragic loss requires that all nations, and particularly those in the Middle East, renew their efforts to calm passions, reach for mutual understanding and build lasting peace."

Nixon's day Monday included warm and prolonged talks with Italian leaders and Pope Paul VI and a surprise 30-minute greeting for 26 Americans passing through Rome en route home after three weeks captivity as prisoners of Arab guerrillas in Jordan.

Most pleasing to the President was a spontaneous pro-Nixon demonstration by thousands of Romans who chanted "Riccardo, Riccardo (Richard, Richard)" and tried to mob him as his motorcade left the Vatican.

2nd QUARTER PAYMENT City Coffers Grow Fatter And Fatter

Pampa's one-cent sales tax for the second quarter of 1970 has brought $76,332 revenue into city coffers, it was announced today by Stanley M. Chittenden, city finance director.

The amount is above what officials originally had expected and brings the six-month total of sales tax collections to $139,254.

When the sales tax idea first was presented it was anticipated Pampa would collect around $250,000 a year from that source.

With the heaviest two quarters of the year still to come, it now is estimated the year's total sales tax collection may reach near $300,000.

Chittenden said, after the first quarter collection of $62,922 for January, February and March went beyond expectations, an estimated collection of $280,000 a year "was written into the city budget for fiscal 1970-71."

The amount of sales tax received for the second quarter reflects gross sales in Pampa for April, May and June totaled around $7,850,000 or approximately $2,600,000 a month.

City officials were jubilant over the amount of the second quarter check received from the state comptroller's office in Austin.

The state fee for handling the sales tax collection and distribution amounted to $1,333 for the first quarter of 1970 and $1,570 for the second quarter.

The history of sales tax collections in Texas cities which have had the tax in force for more than a year is that the tax collections always are highest in the third and fourth quarters of the calendar year, especially the fourth quarter.

Robert Crippen, employe of the company, who resides at 2301 Comanche, said the van was taken from in front of his home sometime Monday night. Keys had been left in the vehicle, according to police reports on the matter.

Congressman's vibrant wife, Lewin from Dallas to join her husband here for the Pampa Burger Supper.

The rigorous schedule of campaigning of meeting few people... of being in a new town almost every day... of being flexible, charming and interested is no chore for Mrs. Bush. Why?

"I love the man. And we (four sons and one daughter) believe that he is the man America needs."

There was quite a bit of caucusing going on at GOP Headquarters, 125 W. Kingsmill, before the Bush entourage left for Hobart Street Park.

Due to a mixup in scheduling, Dallas Cowboys Bob Lilly and Roger Staubach were unable to make an appearance here with Bush as originally planned.

"Those kids are going to be awfully disappointed," said of his aides. "What shall we tell them?"

"Tell 'em the truth," tersely answered Bush.

And though several hundred youngsters did turn out dressed in football gear to see and maybe get an autograph from their grid idols, about 50 of them stayed around to listen to Bush's after-hamburger speech as the smell of onions hung heavy on the late autumn evening air.

"We still have room for six or seven students in the typing class. Those interested may register from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the high school office. The first class is from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday. Refunds on all other courses offered will be made this week," Marsh said.

County Agribusiness Spirals Into Multi-Million $$ Income

By TEX DEWESE, News Staff Writer
The growing economic impact of agribusiness in Pampa, Gray County and the 6-county surrounding area was described by Foster Whaley, county agent, at Monday's monthly membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce in Coronado Inn.
Whaley, chairman of the chamber's Agriculture and Livestock committee, reported an optimistic outlook of Gray County's agricultural income.
He said the county's agricultural cash return in 1964 was $3.9 million; spiraling to $7.9 million in 1964, and reaching $10.6 million in 1968.
In the next year alone it jumped $7.1 million in 1969 to $17.1 million.
The unusually optimistic outlook Whaley placed on the rapid growth of the county's agricultural income growth came with his estimate of $27.1 million in 1976.
On top of that, Whaley said the county's beef cattle industry

Bush-Bentsen Slug It Out Debating Ills Of America

By United Press International
Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., says the country's economic situation is the fault of the "big spenders in Congress." Lloyd M. Bentsen lays the fault right at the feet of the Nixon administration.
The economic situation and who's to blame for it was the topic for debate Monday between Republican Bush and Democrat Bentsen, the two candidates for the U. S. Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex.
Speaking at a hamburger supper in Pampa, Bush said: "Let's be fair about where we assign the blame" for inflation.
"In my view, President Johnson was right when he said President Nixon is not to blame for inflation," Bush said. "If we are indeed to assign the blame, let's assign it to big spenders in Congress. A solution to inflation, I think, lies in Congress disciplining itself. This is why we need new leadership in the Senate, new men who will pursue a policy of fiscal sanity."
Bentsen was in office "when Bentsen named Nixon for the economic situation in a McAllen address in which he said there are indeed a number of differences between him and Bush contrary to prevailing opinion.
Bentsen said Republicans are trying to "peddle the idea that there isn't much difference between the two candidates in this

Murder, Suicide In Lubbock

LUBBOCK (UPI)—Hanna Jordan ran to her next door neighbors home Monday night, a .22 bullet lodged in her skull, and told them her son-in-law tried to kill her.
When police entered the woman's home, they found the body of A. J. Harris, 26, in the bedroom. The son-in-law had a bullet wound in his temple.
A justice of the peace temporarily ruled the incident an attempted murder and suicide.
Mrs. Jordan told police she came home and found her son-in-law waiting for her. Police said Mrs. Jordan told them after she had been shot she ran for help next door.
"She told us infantly that Harris had threatened to kill her several times," one officer said.
Police investigators found a gun with three spent cartridges near the man's body. He also had a cut of undetermined origin on one of his hands.
The police report said the bullet which wounded Mrs. Jordan, entered her forehead just below the hairline before lodging in the back of her skull,

State Department Demands Hostages Be Freed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department has demanded the release of six Americans apparently still being held hostage by Arab guerrillas in Jordan.
A State Department spokesman, John F. King said Monday, "we pledge our continuing and unremitting efforts for the release of the remaining six Americans now being held against their will. We call upon those holding these passengers to release them immediately."
King said that it was unclear who was holding the six, but it appeared to be the Arab guerrillas.
The six hostages were identified by State Department officials as a college professor, two rabbis, a State Department staff officer and two scientists for the Defense Department;

ACB Adopts Tougher Air Control For Big Cities

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Air Control Board adopted tougher air pollution standards Monday for Texas metropolitan areas and called an end to reliance on voluntary compliance by industrial polluters.
Charles R. Barden, executive director of the agency, said the "harsh" regulations prompted by polluters who failed to comply with control regulations adopted nearly three years ago.
"The time for striving for voluntary compliance has expired," Barden said. "We're in a battle to protect our air resources from further deterioration. We shall resort to whatever means necessary to achieve that goal."
The board abolished land use classifications which permitted higher pollution levels in commercial and industrial areas.
The new standards apply to Houston-Galveston, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Antonio regions.
Levels Much Higher
Statistics prepared by the board staff showed pollution levels in some cases this year were four times as high as will be permitted under the new standards.
Officials predicted "substantial reductions" in the emissions regulations under which individual companies operate in order to achieve the newly required air quality levels.
"The people of Texas and the people in our executive and legislative branches are demanding that we develop a more vigorous program of enforcement," Barden said. "We shall use every means at our disposal to see that compliance is affected as soon as possible."

Schools May Be Able To Get Refunds

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—State Sen. Csdar Mauzy, D-Dallas, Monday said 136 Texas cities, counties and school districts may be able to collect damages as well as refunds from insurance companies that forced them to buy unneeded coverage in order to get liability insurance.

Mauzy asked Texas Attorney General Crawford Martin to check on whether the insurance companies' practices amounted to "tie-in" sales which are prohibited by federal anti-trust laws.
The state insurance board week ordered the firms to refund premiums collected from governmental units for property damage liability. Under Texas law governmental units are not liable for property damage claims, but some companies required the property damage coverage as a prerequisite for purchasing bodily injury coverage.

Mauzy said the cost of the unnecessary insurance coverage amounted to $68,450. He said if the practices by the insurance companies are "tie-in" sales as suggested, the affected governmental units could collect treble damages plus attorneys' fees.
Mauzy said the senate interim committee he heads found that 18 cities paid $4,887,68; 68 counties spent $28,139; and 424 school districts put out $35,424 for the unneeded property damage liability coverage.
Mauzy was one of the sponsors of the Tort Claims Act adopted by the legislature a last year—which for the first time in Texas—authorized accident victims to sue governmental units to collect damages for bodily injury caused by the negligence of a governmental employee.
The governmental units are not liable for property damage claims, however.

Eggers Calls For Crime Control Centers

DALLAS (UPI)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers Monday called for development of a statewide network of crime control centers linked by computers.
Eggers said the system would supply law enforcement officers across the state with needed information promptly.
"Such an intra-state electronic communications network has helped other states coordinate the isolated efforts of their individual local law enforcement agencies," Eggers said.
The GOP candidate said regional crime laboratories also would help police officers from smaller communities that have no facilities for scientific analysis.
Eggers appeared before a state senate committee holding hearings on crime.

auditorium is estimated at $1,200,000.
Plans studied so far call for a theater-type auditorium seating around 1,600 persons and a banquet meeting hall to accommodate 700.
The tentative schedule, as currently planned and assuming the bond issue is approved, would clear the way for all preliminary steps to be completed by Jan. 1. This would include a special meeting to sell the bonds around Dec. 1.
The auditorium would be constructed on land donated by the Pampa-Gray Foundation just west of the Coronado Inn.
In other business at yesterday's chamber board meeting: Kay Fancher, reporting for the Tourist Development Committee, said highway signs were now being re-painted on approaches to the city, as well as civic club clusters on three highways coming into the city.
The board heard a report from City Manager Wofford relative to the proposed renaming of certain streets carrying several name designations. The matter was referred to the Highway Committee for study and recommendation.
Don Cain, chairman of the Education Committee, reported on the recent Teachers' Dinner honoring Pampa's new teachers in the public school system.
Announcements were made on details for two Chamber functions coming up next month, including the installation of officers and directors on Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn, and the Annual Membership Banquet on Oct. 20 at the Robert E. Lee Junior High School Cafeteria. Tickets will go on sale Oct. 1.

Political Candidate Shot

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — John Peters, Republican candidate for Congress in Missouri's 2nd District, was found shot to death Sunday night. The St. Louis County medical examiner's office ruled the death a suicide.

Authorities said a 16-gauge shotgun was found beside the body in Peters' campaign headquarters in suburban Brentwood. Peters had been shot in the chest and was pronounced dead at St. Louis County Hospital.

Mrs. Peters said that her husband had no financial or health problems.

Peters, 49, defeated two other candidates for the Republican congressional nomination and was opposing incumbent Rep. James Symington, D-Mo.

Peters was chairman of the district's Republican committee and was a senior sales engineer for the St. Louis district office of the York division of Berg-Warner, Inc.

Peters' family said he left home Sunday afternoon to go to the campaign headquarters and his son, John, 15, rode his bicycle to the headquarters late Sunday night after no one answered the office telephone.

Brentwood patrolman Harry Dunman entered the building with the youth and found Peters' body.

Television In Review

By RICK DE BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: CBS-TV Merv Griffin marks the 24th birthday of the "Peanuts" comic strip on his late-night show Oct. 9, with Charles Schulz, creator of the cartoon characters, as a guest.

In addition, there will be excerpts of "Peanuts" productions that have been done for the stage, movies and television.

A show business roasting of insult comedian Don Rickles is offered on NBC-TV's "Kraft Music Hall" Wednesday, with Johnny Carson as roaster and other contributors including Dick Cavett, George C. Scott, Chet Huntley, Milton Berle and Alan King.

Art Carney, Tom Ewell and Jack Albertson appear on the same network's "The Men from Shiloh" Oct. 7 in a comedy tale about a train-robbing gang that uses a riverboat for a getaway.

The Smothers Brothers' latest comeback attempt on video, their recently-concluded summer series for ABC-TV, started off poorly in the ratings, and ended the same way.

Universal Studios, which fired Tony Franciosa from NBC-TV's "The Name of the Game" series after a dispute, sued him for $750,000.

William F. Buckley Jr. is profiled on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" tonight.

"The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming" is NBC-TV's Saturday Movie Oct. 17, starring Carl Reiner, Alan Arkin, Eva Marie Saint, Jonathan Winters and Theodore Bikel.

John Wayne's previously-reported 90-minute special for NBC-TV, "Swing Out, Sweet Land," is set for Nov. 29, offering a lighthearted music and comedy look at American history, with such guests as Dean Martin, Bob Hope, Lucille Ball, Dan Rowan, Dick Martin, Red Skelton and Jack Benny.

Benny's wife, by the way—Mary Livingstone, a longtime regular on his shows—makes her first video appearance with her husband since 1956 on his Nov. 16 NBC-TV special marking his 20th year on television.

Laurence Hugo, who for nine years has played a lawyer on CBS-TV's "The Edge of Night," has taken a six-month leave from the soap opera to appear as Claudius the king in a nationwide tour of "Hamlet" in which Dame Judith Anderson portrays the male title role.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Investors should not take a "fully invested" position until there is "further confirmation" that the administration is curbing inflation, Mesrow & Co. says. ## Additives To Cigarettes Harmful

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Consumer advocate Ralph Nader says, "nontobacco additives in cigars and cigarettes may be toxic."

It is known that under certain conditions and inhalation, these additives are toxic, Nader said in asking the Federal Trade Commission for an investigation. The additives are put in cigars and cigarettes to reduce the health hazards of conventional tobacco.

Non tobacco additives include asbestos, glass fibers, rock wool and diatomite—a fine soil with glassy characteristics used as a filter—that save the tobacco industry an estimated $350 million a year, Nader said.

Explosive Subject

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—When the Propert Machinery Co. is closed, signs in the windows proclaim the shop is wired to explosives that will be touched off if doors or windows are disturbed.

The general manager of the firm, Louis Hamrock, says he is "doing this with the knowledge that I can get sued if somebody gets hurt, but it won't be by the guy that gets hurt, it'll be by his widow."

Linowitz Chosen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New York lawyer Sol M. Linowitz, former U.S. Ambassador to the Organization of American States, has been chosen chairman of the National Urban Coalition.

Linowitz replaces former Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner as head of the two-year-old private organization which seeks to enlist business, labor and charitable leaders, along with the government, to solve urban social and economic problems.

Sam, You Made The Pants Too Broad

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—One hundred state policemen sent their uniform trousers back to the manufacturer because they were baggy in the seat.

Embarrassed officials at the Howard Uniform Co. in Baltimore said state troopers in other states had requested extra room in their trousers to accommodate bulky books of tickets.

But West Virginia state police prefer the slim-fitting mod look, spokesmen here said.

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—So-action in the Middle East, ther with indications the Sians might be up to some itary monkey business in Cuba, have caused the Nixon administration to take a hard look at other issues coming under the head of East-West relations.

The State Department denies that any formal across-the-board review is under way. And officials contend that President Nixon's so-called "era of negotiations" is not yet in jeopardy.

These same officials acknowledge, however, that the Kremlin's attitude is beginning to puzzle and irritate them. And they are speaking in much less optimistic terms when they consider the possibilities of specific agreements to ease East-West tensions.

A major opportunity to test the willingness of Russia to lessen the explosive potential of an old problem is at hand. On Thursday, the U.S., British and French ambassadors to West Germany will meet in Berlin with the Russian representative to East Germany to begin negotiations on a new Berlin agreement.

The agreement that the Western allies, as well as West Germany, specific written guarantees of the Allied rights of access to red-encircled West Berlin, which lies 100 miles

within Communist East Germany.

The Soviet actions have cast some doubt on a pact over the Soviet-American negotiations on limitation of strategic nuclear missiles. Presidential advisers who once were optimistic about getting such an agreement soon after the talks resume in November now caution that this may not be possible.

The change in the American Washington proved to its own satisfaction that the Russians had openly connived in Egypt's violations of the Aug. 7 cease-fire by moving anti-aircraft missiles closer to the Suez Canal in the forbidden zone.

The haste with which the Russians and the Egyptians took the actions caused the Nixon administration to revise its previous assumptions that Moscow was interested in trying to avert the peril of a wider war.

The discovery about two weeks ago that the Soviet Union could be building a submarine base in Cuba added to the concern of Nixon and his advisers over the Kremlin's real objectives. The Pentagon and White House still do not know what it is that Russia appears to be helping Cuba build at Cienfuegos, a deep-water port on Cuba's south coast. However, they have to suspect the worst until the work progresses far enough for them to determine what is being done at the port.

a Young Texan Award sponsored by the Optimist Clubs of Texas.

A senior student, the 17-year old has performed outstandingly in the fields of community service, scholastic achievement, sports participation and church activities.

He is the current president of student body of Pampa High School, culminating a three year agenda of outstanding study body participation. A member of the Key Club, he has served as home room president each year of his high school career and was on the Student Council as a sophomore and junior.

Sims was a delegate to the District Convention of Texas Association of Student Councils held in Austin during his junior year, and attended the National Student Council Leadership Conference held in Estes Park, Colo., last month. He obtained his invitation to the meeting attended by only 200 students, from Earl Reume, administrator of the Denver Public Schools, and Student Council convention speaker.

He is a member of the Harvester Street Church of Christ where he takes an active part in church affiliated activities. As a ninth grade student, Sims presented a full sermon to the church congregation.

Working summers in the field of pole-line construction, Sims began his first job as a fourth grade carrier for the Pampa News. He attributes a great deal of insight into human nature to this first job.

Indications of scholarship offers from several leading colleges and universities have resulted from Sims' football career with the Pampa Harvesters. He is currently a starting guard with the team and was picked by West Texas football magazine as a prospective all-district player on the basis of his performance as a junior.

Search Ends For Balloonists

NEW YORK (UPI)—The formal search for three balloonists who ditched in the North Atlantic last week has ended. It will not be resumed unless some trace of the two men and a woman or of their 80-foot-tall balloon is sighted.

The Coast Guard suspended the search "indefinitely Saturday. It had begun last Monday when the balloon reported it was falling into the water southeast of Newfoundland. The balloonists—Rodney Anderson, 32, a New York commodities broker; his wife Pamela, 28, a television actress; and Malcolm Brighton, 32, an aeronautical engineer from Farnham, England—had hoped to make the first free balloon trip to Europe.

The search covered 50,000 square miles of ocean, but nothing significant was found.
There was no radio contact after the balloon reported it was falling.

Golden Girls Ease Airport Problems

By JOYCE GABRIEL
NEW YORK (NEA)—A new York's Kennedy Airport is, in a sense, a microcosm of the city itself. People on tight schedules walk hurriedly, purposefully, through a maze of buildings to board planes or hail taxis or to leap onto buses. Faces frown in irritation or frustration, eyes glaze in bewilderment, tempers flare and tears spurt.

Flying itself is gracious and comfortable. Getting to and from planes at an airport as large as Kennedy can be a nightmare—especially at the International Arrivals Building, where many of the passengers speak little or no English.

Three years ago, the New York Port Authority instituted a program called Golden Girls to help make disembarking as comfortable and carefree as the flight which preceded it.

With a crew of nine college coeds, the program began a kind of foreign aid administered to foreign visitors instead of nations.

The girls, all of whom spoke at least one foreign language, stationed themselves in the International Arrivals Building, sought out troubled faces and asked if they could help.

In many cases, they could and did. The program proved so successful, in fact, that the U.S. Department of Education, in conjunction with the U.S. Travel Service, funded a work-study program for college coeds interested in working at Kennedy during the Summer.

In September, 1969, 31 college girls were recruited to start work the following June. The girls completed a 10-day training program, followed by two days of on-the-job training. They were then ready to don bright yellow dresses with blue caps and assume the role of space-age Florence Nightingales. What they nursed, however, was the spirit, not the flesh.

The long, hot Summer didn't seem quite as long or as hot at Kennedy this year, as tempers cooled and travelers relaxed. The Golden Girls have succeeded in making traveling more fun.

Plans are being made now to expand the program at Kennedy not only to take on more girls but to have the program run year-round, with Golden Girls working at the airport part time while attending college.

One Golden Girl, Camille DiBernardo, is a junior at Potsdam State University in New York. A Spanish major in school, she has had many opportunities to use the language over the Summer at Kennedy. And Spanish wasn't all she became skilled at.

"What I do basically is give out information," said Miss DiBernardo. "Of course, knowing a foreign language helps a great deal, but I found after a couple of weeks on the job, I could just look at a person's face and know whether he needed help or not. And the job is gratifying because we get to help people."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife's brother started painting as a hobby a couple of years ago. I'll admit I don't claim to know anything about art, but I know what I like, and his stuff looks like an explosion in a paint factory. Now he is about half finished with a portrait of my wife which he's doing as a Christmas present. He's working from a snapshot. My wife and I have seen it and we can hardly keep our faces straight, but we don't want to hurt his feelings.

When it is finished, do we have to hang it up in the living room? Or should I take it right up to the attic where it belongs.

NAMELESS
DEAR NAMELESS: Prop it up downstairs for a respectable length of time. Then "store" it in the attic with the Christmas decorations, and if your brother in law notices it's gone, tell him you just couldn't bear to hang his sister in the living room.

DEAR ABBY: Nobody believes me, but when I went to see "Midnight Cowboy" I honestly thought it was a Western. It won the Academy Award so I thought it was worth seeing. Well, after a while, I realized it wasn't the kind of movie I thought it was, so I went to the box office and asked for my money back. The girl selling tickets said she was sorry but I had seen nearly the whole movie and she couldn't give me my money back. How about that?

GYPPED
DEAR GYPPED: I don't know how many minutes make a legal movie, but four and a half innings make a legal ball game. Next time, ask to see the manager.

DEAR ABBY: This is written with a prayer that it will save just one marriage. It's a long story, but I'll make it short:

Many years ago, after 16 years of marriage, I became attracted to a married man. He was a wonderful listener and I was lonely. My husband was a good man, but he was gone a lot. This other man and I started an innocent flirtation. He asked if he could call me. I said yes. Then we started talking on the telephone, morning, noon and night when we knew the other's spouse was gone.

This soon led to secret meetings. Within two years, we had become so deeply involved, we decided we couldn't live without each other, so we broke up two fine families and were married. My children hated me for what I had done, and his children hated him, so you can imagine what kind of marriage we had.

The unhappiness we caused our respective families cannot be described here.

To all married people who think it might be exciting to have a little innocent side affair, I have one word of advice. Don't! And if you are ever attracted to someone who asks, "May I call you?" say, "no"—and run like the devil is after you. Because he is.

BEEN THERE

DEAR ABBY: I want to tell "FED UP" that I also had a well-to-do friend who borrowed money in small amounts and had a convenient forgetter. I used to get a big safety pin and wear it in plain view the next time we met, and when this party would say, "What is that pin doing there," I would reply, "Oh, it's just to remind me that you owe me $5!" It worked every time. Please omit my name as I wouldn't want to embarrass my friend. I am 82 years old but I'm young at heart.

Cupid's Arrow Hits President's Daughter

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Tricia Nixon is expected to be enlisted by the Republican National Committee to do some campaigning this Fall, but a schedule has not yet been worked out.

Tricia, 24, is a firm exponent and defender of President Nixon's programs and views.

But, blonde, blue-eyed Tricia has been concentrating on the romantic department lately, spending just about every weekend with Edward Finch Cox, who will be 24 next month.

Whether they have serious plans is a deep, dark secret at the moment.

Tall, blond Cox, a New York socialite, is going back to Harvard Law School where he has a couple more years before he gets his degree. He often stresses that his brother, Howard Ellis Cox Jr. 26, is also single, indicating that his elder should march down the aisle first. And he will.

Howard Cox and Julie Bolton Dempsey of Cleveland, who graduated from Wellesley College, will be married in the Fall.

Tricia and 'Eddie' flew to Cleveland Sept. 5 to attend his brother's fashionable engagement party.

Last month, Cox, his brother and Howard's fiancée were Tricia's guests at San Clemente, Calif.

First Lady Pat Nixon says above all, she wants to see the White House "spic and span." Lately, the White House formal rooms, viewed by hundreds of thousands of tourists, have been looking a bit dowdy.

The wall coverings in the Red, Green and Blue rooms are beginning to fade. The upholstery fabric in the parlors looks worn and threadbare.

With the expected approval of her Committee for the Preservation of the White House, Mrs. Nixon is expected to forge ahead with the long-needed refurbishing of the mansion.

Snowmobile Is Coming To Front As Business Asset

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Sheep rancher Bruce West of Rocky Point, Wyo., saved 70 per cent of his flocks in late April of 1969 by using snowmobiles to rescue them after a three day blizzard.

His neighbor lost all but 21 of more than 1,000 recently sheared ewes.

Rancher West's experience points up the fact that the snowmobile is becoming a workhorse as well as a fun vehicle.

When snow gets deep, the cowpunchers leave the ponies in the barn and the four-wheel drive utility cars in the garage. The snowmobile will do the job then faster and better than horse or jeep or scout.

The Royal-Canadian Mounted Police are starting to replace their husky sled dog teams with snowmobiles.

They also are being used by lumbermen, telephone and power companies, farmers, public health officials and in some cases even rural mail carriers. Oil and gas well operators use them, too.

In fact, rancher West bought his first snowmobile mainly for winter month checking on 18 oil wells on his spread. He wanted to get some hunting and other sport out of it too.

But when a big blizzard started that April night and so much snow had fallen by morning that his four-wheel drive pickup truck couldn't move, West and his son went looking for their sheep in snowmobiles. "Some of the drifts were 30 feet deep," he said. "We would find one to 12 sheep buried under a drift huddled together, wet but still alive. It took us 10 days to find all the surviving critters."

Cattle ranchers use snowmobiles not only to keep track of their herds but to haul feed and grain to them, according to H. L. Pomeroy, a vice-president of Massey-Ferguson, the tractor maker which went into making snowmobiles three years ago.

More snowmobiles still are sold for sport than for workaday use, and many are sold to firms that rent them at $7 an hour.

But Pomeroy said agricultural and industrial use of snowmobiles is growing so fast that bigger, more rugged vehicles are being turned out for this market.

"First, tell me—how did we make out in the America's"

MRS. HELEN HOOVER
... this week's football contest winner!

Pampa Lady Wins Grid Contest

"I didn't think I had a chance," beamed Mrs. C.C. (Helen) Hoover, 2323 Duncan, as she picked up her $15 first prize in the second Pampa Daily News Football Contest. She's a Dallas Cowboy fan, but we have wall-to-wall ballgames in our home every weekend and I watch whatever is on. It's Mrs. Hoover's first time to enter a football-guessing contest and she had no premonition she would win. "I just made it out the same day the newspaper came and mailed it in. I didn't dream I would win." Will she enter again this week? "Oh, I probably shall," she said.

Longhorns Nosed Out By Ohio State, Penn State Slips

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Ohio State and Texas are right back at it again. The two schools battled all through last year, running 1-2 for most of the season until Ohio State was upset in its final game against Michigan and Texas moved on to the national championship. Texas moved into an early lead last week in the first weekly balloting of the 35-member United Press International board of coaches as Ohio State was idle. But the Buckeyes opened their 1970 campaign with a 56-13 rout of Texas A&M to wrest the No. 1 ranking from Texas. Ohio State received 17 first place ballots and 317 points to nose out Texas, a 35-13 victory over Texas Tech Saturday. Texas had 16 first place votes and 301 points. Notre Dame moved up to third in the balloting, followed by Southern California and Stanford. A pair of big eight schools took the next two spots with Nebraska sixth and Colorado seventh and Mississippi, Michigan and Air Force completing the top 10. Auburn was 11th and Arkansas 12th, while UCLA and Oklahoma tied for 13th. Arizona State was ranked 15th. Georgia Tech was listed 16th, Penn State and West Virginia tied for 17th, Alabama was 19th and San Diego State 20th. Notre Dame routed Purdue 48-0 to move into third place and Stanford remained unbeaten in three games with a 33-10 victory over Oregon. Southern California boosted its record to 2-1 with a 48-0 romp past Iowa and Nebraska ripped Army 28-0. Colorado, 16th last week, advanced by snapping Penn State's 31-game unbeaten string 41-13 and Mississippi dropped a notch after edging Kentucky 20-17. Michigan had little trouble with Washington, winning 17-3 to move up into ninth and Air Force, one of the surprise teams of 1970, lifted its record to 3-0 with a stunning 37-14 upset of Missouri, the sixth-ranked team last week. In the second 10, four teams—UCLA, Georgia Tech, West Virginia and San Diego State—hold 3-0 marks while Auburn and Arizona State are undefeated in two games. Arkansas, Oklahoma, Penn State and Alabama have each suffered a loss.

American's Keep Cup As Australians Fall 4-1

NEWPORT, N.I. (UPI)—The America's Cup rests in the New York Yacht Club today in a little niche that it has occupied for 119 years. But during the last two weeks, the bottomless mug was shaken on its pedestal by mishaps, protests and a band of persistent Australians in a 12-meter yacht called Gretel II. Skipper Bill Ficker finally stopped the shaking on Monday by trapping a dying breeze in Intrepid's sails and holding off a dramatic challenge by Gretel for one minute, 44 second victory that kept the 100 guineas cup in the United States by a 4-1 margin in the best-of-seven series. Before the series was over, however, the Australians proved that the next U.S. defender can hardly be smug about retaining possession of the cup in the 22nd defense three years from now. Gretel finished first twice, but was disqualified in the second race of the series for a bumping incident at the starting line after beating Intrepid by 50 seconds. Gretel got and kept the first victory over an American defender since the competition went to 12-meter yachts in 1956 by coming from behind last Thursday for a 1-0½ victory in the fourth race. And for awhile on the fifth leg Monday, it looked like Gretel was going to ride the breeze to victory once again. Skipper Jim Hardy, who took the helm for the entire race so he alone could take the responsibility in case of a loss, trailed by 51 seconds at the start of the fifth leg, but cut the deficit to 20 for the run home to windward. An extra tack near the finish line, however, ended Gretel's bid and left her 1:44 behind at the end. Not until the boats were being towed back to the docks did Sir Frank Packer, Gretel's owner, admit defeat and agree to drop a protest over the disqualification in the second race and thus lift any cloud from Intrepid's triumph. "I'd say the protests are all forgotten," Packer said. "I'm just waiting till next time." Despite the disqualification Hardy said, "Intrepid was a deserving winner. They beat us fair and square, and gave us every opportunity to win, but we couldn't. It pointed out the ambiguity in the rules. That might lead to a change." The overall differences between Gretel and Intrepid at the end of five races was six minutes, 45 seconds.

Chiefs Clobber Colts 44-24, Unitas Benched For Morrall

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Johnny Unitas' knee doomed the Baltimore Colts to an embarrassing 44-24 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs Monday night, and coach Don McCafferty said he is not sure of his star's status for next week. Unitas was relegated to the bench in the second quarter with the Colts behind 24-0 after completing only five of 15 passes and skidding around the ferocious rush of defensive linemen Aaron Brown and Buck Buchanan. McCafferty blamed Unitas' "gimpy" knee that "bothered him all week" since he was injured in the San Diego game last week. "When things got going so bad, I took him out because I didn't want to take any chances," McCafferty said. An arm injury kept Unitas out of the 1969 season when backup signal caller Earl Morrall led the team to the Super Bowl. Against the Chiefs, Morrall again proved his worth, hitting 17 of 36 passes for 243 yards although he was dumped for losses four times and had three passes intercepted. In the second half, Morrall hit Eddie Hinton and Tom Mitchell for touchdown passes and Jim O'Brien kicked a 26-yard field goal. Kansas City coach Hank Stram called the victory, "a game we had to win," after an initial loss to innesota. He said a muscle pull that forced running back Mike Garrett out of the game was not serious. The Chiefs' Johnny Robinson intercepted two Unitas passes early in the game, setting up Kansas City scores. The Chiefs piled up 31 points before Morrall finally hit on a wide receiver Hinton for 11 touchdown pass to Roy Jefferson on the last second of the first half. Len Dawson used a balanced attack that ground out 152 yards rushing and 142 passing, while tossing four TD passes. Morrall came back, picking on eight different receivers in the final half, finally settling on a wide receiver Hinton for 11 receptions and one touchdown.

PJH Beats Shocker B-Team

PJH's ninth grade Reapers marched forty-five yards in twelve plays on the first series of downs to set the pace for a 20-12 win over the Shocker B-team last Saturday in Harvester Stadium. The Reapers and Shocker B-team had battled to a 14-14 tie the Saturday before. A six-yard pass from Toddy Black to split end Ricky Smith put PJH on the scoreboard in the first series of downs. Another Black-Smith pass, this time for fourteen yards, capped an eighty-two yard-fourteen play PJH scoring drive. The score at halftime was 12-0. PJH. The E-team Shockers scored in the third and fourth stanzas, but were unable to stop Steve Mathis sixty-three yard run that set up the winning PJH touchdown. Mathis scored three plays after the run and Black ran the two point conversion. PJH coach Harold Moore said, "The defense had a good day and the offensive line blocked well." PJH plays River Road Jr. High of Amarillo at 4:00 p.m. Thursday afternoon here in Harvester Stadium. In eighth grade action, Pampa Junior High eighth grade lost to Dumas eighth grade, 12-6, in a game played in Dumas. SCORE BY QUARTERS:

Former Falcon Files Suit

ATLANTA (UPI)—A former Atlanta Falcon football player has filed a $3,015,000 lawsuit against the Falcons and the National Football League, charging the Atlanta club aggravated his injuries and failed to pay his salary on a one-year contract. The suit, filed in Fulton Superior court on behalf of Gregory Soulds, demanded $3 million in damages and $15,000 in back salaries. Soulds, who signed as a free agent with the Falcons in 1969, said in the suit he suffered a knee injury in June, 1969, and three months after surgery by the team's physician, he was "suddenly and without explanation" transferred to the Huntsville Hawks, Inc., the Falcons' Alabama farm team. Soulds said three days later his Falcon contract was terminated and he signed another player contract with Huntsville "under the direction" of the defendants. The new contract was allegedly identical to the original one except "in the amount of compensation," according to the suit. Soulds charged the Falcons "failed and neglected to communicate... his serious physical condition" to the Hawks, who allegedly forced him to play too soon after his injury. He suffered a reinjury afterwards, he alleged. DARK KILLED RUSTON, La. (UPI)—Ronnie Dark, 18, a Louisiana Tech football player, was killed by a freight train while he and two friends were jogging. Authorities said Dark apparently did not see or hear the oncoming train.

Slogans Often Deceiving

"Liberty, equality, fraternity" was the slogan of the French Revolution of 1789 and continues to have a powerful effect today, not only in France, but also in this country.

How noble the words seem! You would not find many persons today who would take exception with the sentiment seemingly expressed by them. Even, in conservative business circles, you would not find many who would lift an eyebrow. That is because businessmen, by and large, accept words on the basis of what they want them to mean, rather than on the basis of what they mean historically.

"Liberty" is a good word. Frenchmen of the 1789 revolution adopted it from the American Revolutionists of 1776, but they applied it differently. The American idea of liberty was that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." The word "all" means in the American sense that one man's liberty can in no wise infringe upon another. But the same word in the French revolutionists' sense applied to a condition when the mobs of city and countryside were under no restraint from killing and looting. Thus a good word, "liberty," can be used today to refer to two sets of conditions, one good and the other bad, and each diametrically opposed to the other.

The word "equality" also was borrowed by the French from the American Revolution. As used in the Declaration of Independence, the term "equal" referred to the standing of all men in the sight of the Creator. As so used, it was an indication of how men should stand in the sight of the universal law that governs them. For the basic American view was that God is the author of such law. Rules, regulations, ordinances out of conformity therewith were regarded as false laws. With the French, however, the word "equal" carried also the thought of sameness — women were the same as men, black was the same as white, good and evil sprang from the same unknowable god.

Of all the words developed, or distorted, by the French, none has been so deadly as the word "fraternity." This means brotherhood. In the Biblical usage the word has a dual meaning. First, there is the brotherhood of blood. Second, there is the brotherhood of spiritual belief. In the older Testament, a Jew regarded as a brother any other Jew who traced his blood ancestry to Jacob, through Isaac, to Abraham. The Jew also accepted a spiritual brotherhood with those who became converts to Jewish beliefs. Christian Scripture accepted the Jewish idea with respect to the brotherhood of Jew to Jew. But with respect to the relationship of Christian to Christian, blood was immaterial. Rather the kinship was a matter of spiritual commitment. "As many as received him (Christ), to THEM gave He the power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name, which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of man, but of God" — so wrote the Apostle John (John 1:12,13).

Most of the American colonies were formed out of religious motivation so it was easy for them to adopt the Scriptural teaching on this point. To the French, however, "fraternity" meant not just the kinship of Jew to Jew, or the spiritual relation of Christian to Christian, but asserted a universal brotherhood. Such pertained to all mankind, irrespective of religion or blood. To the French revolutionists, every man was a brother to every other man, even if you had to kill him to get him to admit it.

The trend is dismal. The first step toward a reversal is for individuals to understand that high-sounding slogans mean nothing without understanding. It is not too much to ask that community leaders of today come up to the intellectual level of the tradesmen and farmers of 1776. Or have our colleges and high schools "educated us" past the point of no return?

'Spectator' On Inflation

The Conservatives of England, who voted for the government of Mr. Heath in the belief that they would institute sound fiscal policies and lead the country out of socialism, find themselves in much the same position as conservatives in this country, who voted for Mr. Nixon's government in the same belief.

The government of England, like that of the U.S., continues deficit spending which it "finances" by debauching (inflating) the money supply; and, like that of the U.S., attempts to delude the people into believing that inflation is attributable to rising prices, rather than rising prices being attributable to the government's increase of the money supply.

Sadly, much of the press in both countries is going along with the deceptive charade. Happily, "The Spectator," one of England's leading weeklies which is usually sympathetic to the Conservative cause, does not go along with the indecent game, as evidenced by these excerpts from a recent issue: "Dedicated Conservative supporters have, in a sense, the most reason to be worried, both because they have the greatest amount of trust invested in Mr. Heath's government and because the only statement yet made on this central issue by any of the new ministers — Mr. Carr's warning that, if wage inflation continues, tax cuts would be impossible — fits badly with their hopes and with what they thought were the Conservative Party's declared and pledged policies.

"The conventional wisdom that tax reductions are inflationary and that putting up taxes causes inflation is simply untrue.... Tax cuts are only inflationary if the government does not stop spending an equivalent amount of money. Since Britain is suffering from a cost-inflation" (the increased costs being caused by greater amounts of government created money bidding up prices), "not a demand-inflation, a reduction in taxes, by increasing the real value of everybody's wage packet, should help to contain, rather than accelerate, the impetus to higher wages and on therefore to higher costs and higher prices."

Well said, Spectator. If more of the Fourth Estate were as honest and courageous, insisting on looking at reality rather than servilely accepting politically engendered economic myths, we could make a start on cleaning up the socialistic mess in which we find ourselves.

STRAIGHT TALK

New Look At Kent State Disgrace

By TOM ANDERSON

Kwinn Moran, Ever her of him? Probably not. When the students set fire to a Bank of America branch in California recently, the police shot and killed Kevin Moran, senior student. A revolutionary? No. A patriot. Kevin Moran was attempting to prevent the arson. Martyr? Hero? No. The press virtually ignored Kevin Moran. No high official attended his funeral. No flags lowered on any campus. No presidential proclamation. Police brutality? No. It was an accident.

Last May 4, 2,000 students congregated on the Kent campus in violation of an emergency decree by the Governor of Ohio. They were admonished by bullhorn to disperse. They were pled with. They were begged to disband and go their separate ways. Finally tear gas was used. The students still refused to disperse.

James Young, student, who viewed the scene from a nearby building, testified that the angry mob lobbed pieces of concrete, iron pipe and other lethal objects into the small band of Guardsmen as the mob closed in. Young said the mob would have torn the few Guardsmen limb from limb. Finally, in desperation and after repeated warnings, the Guardsmen fired into the advancing mob. Four students died. "Martyrs." Heroes. T.V. and newspapers told the world they were slain because they were "exercising their right of dissent." Kevin Moran was doing right — courageously trying to prevent a crime.

None in that mob was innocent. They were deliberately breaking the law. But it is too bad four students had to be killed. Better that four of their Marxist professors had been killed instead.

In today's America, anarchists, criminals, and nihilists who would burn down the Establishment are martyrs and heroes. Why? The root cause is not with the students. The chief criminals are the university administrators and teachers who produced the revolutionaries. And the "liberal" press which glorifies, applauds and encourages them.

You've seen Kent State on TV and you've read about it in the "news" magazines and papers. But you probably haven't heard the truth, because the pro-Marxist press is, as is customary, hiding the truth. KSU has been a chief Communist target for years. The SDS and the Weathermen have been busy on the campus for a long time. The administration on and faculty have been exceedingly permissive and sympathetic to the "honest and idealistic dissent of the students."

Three weeks before the shooting, Jerry Rubin, Communist and one of the convicted "Chicago Seven," told 1,500 KSU students: "Murder — your parents, act, act, act! Do you want a diploma or to take your own purposes? He asked. He also said in all frankness: "Give us an inch and we'll take a mile. Satisfy our demands and we get 12 more.... The war is not in the ghettos; it's on the campuses.... If we close the universities, we deliver a body blow to society...."

Shortly after that bit of treason, on April 30, four Kent State SDS members who had been serving jail terms for rioting in the spring of '69, were released on probation. On May 1 the United States Constitution was buried on the school commons. With our entry into Cambodia the students rampaged through the town creating great destruction. Martial law was declared.

Your favorite T.V. commentator is probably sympathetic with the students and their "right of dissent." But in the town of Kent, population 20,000, more than 10,000 people have signed petitions supporting the National Guard.

Now there is "peace" at Kent State. Just like on the Israeli-Jordan border. The same Marxist administrators and Marxist professors advising and agitating the same Marxist students. The same Communist speakers come to preach revolution. The Federal Government helps promote the revolution by using your tax money to provide food stamps for the Marxistist

Viet Foe Admits The Going Is Getting To Be Bit Rough

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is common and natural to talk of our difficulties in Vietnam. It is easy to forget the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have their own very serious internal problems.

This reported has just read the most pessimistic assessment of the Vietnam war he has ever seen.

It was contained in a directive on how the war is to be fought through 1970 and for the foreseeable future, written by the Central Office for South Vietnam (the Communist high command in the south) and directed to all provincial, municipal and military region party committees. Written in November, 1969, it was only recently captured.

This "Resolution" was not meant to be discouraging. On almost every page it boasts of the great defeats handed the Americans and South Vietnamese. The crumbling of the Saigon government is confidently predicted. Final victory is hailed.

But in directing party committees on their future tasks and away from their mistakes, it outlines what has gone wrong in the past and what is still out of kilter.

What has happened is that "we (Communists) placed too much reliance on winning the war through military victories, "we failed" to motivate the masses—to get close to the people and get them on "our" side.

The political struggle was neglected. Propagandization of the party line has not been carried on with diligence. Party leadership has deteriorated. The party committees have become "divorced" from the guerrillas and guerrillas "disassociated" from the masses.

"Such a situation has caused the guerrillas to be easily repulsed by the enemy." Regular army commanders have looked down on the guerrillas and refused to help them and to work with command "at each level only takes care of its subordinate force and ignores lower forces," especially the guerrilla forces with which it is supposed to be co-operating.

Things have gotten so bad among North Vietnamese mainline troops, says the document, that there is a tendency for them to disperse "when faced with difficulties...not for the purpose of joining...with the guerrillas in order to attack the enemy anew, but rather for the purpose of shunning contact with the enemy. Such a tendency causes the main forces engaged in countering enemy sweeps to be easily decimated (defeated) and exposed to enemy psywar (psychological warfare) activities."

The document implies the Viet Cong have become too dependent on modern weapons shipped in from Hanoi. They should instead "manage to obtain their ammunition and weapons by capturing from the enemy, or to produce on the spot for their own requirement."

This "separation from the people" in the communities in which the guerrillas and North Vietnamese operate has caused a loss of combat effectiveness. It has made it very difficult to recruit new men and has made "many difficulties" in "messing and billeting" troops.

"As a result of our (Communist) political weaknesses" the enemy "can move right back in and recapture areas whenever our forces withdraw."

None of this should be taken as evidence Hanoi is about to give up the struggle. On the contrary, the evidence is that a decision has been made to continue indefinitely, regardless of the Paris talks.

What is indicated, however, is that things have not been going at all well for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. There is internal dissension.

There is a shortage of weapons and equipment. The political struggle, on which all else rests, is not progressing at all. They have not gained that support of the people necessary for success.

Reading this document in perspective and comparing it with similar documents written by Asian Communist leaders in the past, one comes to the conclusion the Communist high command for South Vietnam is saying that the district and village underground organization (the heart of the insurgency) has deteriorated so badly that it must be rebuilt from the ground up—a process that normally takes years.

U.S. Military Action In Mid East Asinine — Russell

WASHINGTON — In the strongest terms, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., has let it be known that he would view a military intervention by the United States in the troubled Middle East as a tragic mistake.

The senator has told friends that he would regard such a course of action as asinine. Russell's views, while they were expressed privately, have been conveyed to President Nixon's top policy makers.

Russell is one of a small number of people in government who can rightly claim that they opposed intervention in Vietnam at a time when a massive involvement could have been avoided. He is suggesting now that military involvement in the Middle East could have the same unhappy result.

In his private talks, Russell has said he would not oppose the use of U.S. military units in their traditional role of extracting U.S. citizens from danger in foreign lands. That is, he would not object to the use of U.S. helicopters for a rescue airlift of U.S. nationals, or even the use of U.S. planes to protect such an airlift.

Russell believes, however, that a military intervention, designed to influence the course of events in the Middle East, could lead to another situation — like those in Korea and Vietnam — where U.S. forces would have to be committed for an indefinite period.

SENIORITY PLUS — In the seniority-oriented U.S. Senate, Russell has the very top seniority. He's the chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, former chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and holds the mostly honorary job of president pro tempore.

All of that is to say that Russell's views have long been influential in the Senate, especially in military matters. As the unofficial head of the unofficial caucus of Southern senators, his views have carried special weight with Southerners. So his appraisal of the U.S. role in the Middle East is an important one.

The senator, who successfully fought a malignant lung growth is a victim of emphysema, and that ailment has had him out of action much of the time in recent months. Recently however, he has returned to a regular Senate regimen using an electric scooter to get around in the Capitol with a minimum amount of strain.

It is thus doubly important to find that Russell's views are being quoted once again in the Senate cloakrooms and passed along to administration leaders as before.

CHINESE IN ZANZIBAR — While Russia is making its presence felt daily in the Middle East crisis, China, the other Communist giant, is quietly expanding its activities on the African continent.

As we predicted in early spring, several thousand technicians from Red China are now at work in Tanzania. They are building a railroad line financed in part by Peking. The $376 million rail line is to connect Tanzania and neighboring Zambia.

Zambia has about a quarter of the world's known copper reserves. The new rail line will provide an outlet for Zambia's copper exports without the embarrassment of using ports in one of Black-Africa's white-ruled nations.

According to recent reports, the influx of technicians from Red China has also reached the island of Zanzibar, off Tanzania on Africa's east coast. That has prompted speculation that Chinese technicians there are preparing for the long-expected testing of a Chinese intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM).

As speculation, it makes a good deal of sense. The U.S. once had a space tracking station in Zanzibar, before the changing political environment forced its removal.

Experts here have long expected the test of a long-range missile to exploit Communist China's know-how in nuclear energy. The Indian Ocean would be a logical impact area for an intercontinental missile fired from test stations in mainland China, and Zanzibar would provide a good staging base for the activities which would be required to monitor such a test.

MANION FORUM

When The Reds Take Over

By MARILYN MANION

Despite the turmoil in the Middle East and the war in Indochina, it remains fashionable to assert that the Communists are not bent on world domination. The "black-and-white" definitions of yore are passe. We speak no longer of Red conquests; instead, the popular theme is "self-determination" — which in Communist jargon would be "liberation."

What is it like to be liberated and self-determined by the beneficent Communists? One way to find out is to ask someone who has lived through the experience. That is why Dean Clarence Manion invited Tsewang Jigme Tsarong to speak on the Manion forum radio program. Tsewang, a student at Indiana's Valparaiso University, is a refugee from Tibet. In 1949, you will recall, Tibet was invaded by the Chinese. Here is how Jigme Tsewang tells the story:

"We had no forewarning, and even if we had, we wouldn't have been able to stand up against the invading forces of China. They just walked in. We pleaded to India for help, but the Indians just ignored it. We even appealed to the United Nations and even there they didn't care about Tibet.

"Since we knew that we would be overrun, my family had no choice but to flee to India." Mr. Tsewang believes that the Chinese mean to use Tibet as a stepping-stone for future aggression. Here is what he says: "Tibet is a very strategic place. If you look at a map, you will see that Tibet is a plateau and it's a gateway to India, even to Burma and to little countries like Bhutan, Nepal and also out to the west where there is Pakistan, Kashmir and Ladakh."

"two years," recalled Jigme, "and went to a Chinese school. We weren't taught anything about our own history or culture—mostly it was about China. We were told that countries like the United States and Britain were all imperialists and that we should have nothing to do with them.

"In 1956 the people in Chamdo, Tibet, had brief skirmishes with the Chinese, and gradually the uprising started. The Chinese couldn't stop all the uprisings. They bombed villages and women and children were killed. Gradually the momentum started in Lhasa the capital of Tibet. In 1959, the people really revolted against the Chinese. That was the time that the Dalai Lama escaped to India and sought political asylum.

"Since then, everything that was Tibetan has been destroyed. All the monasteries, and all the monks were even forced to marry Chinese women. People were really used as slaves. The International Jurists firmly believed that there was act of genocide in Tibet. The people were used as a means of making air-drums, railways, etc."

Jigme's family escaped for the second time in 1956. How does he sum up the situation now? "As things stand now, there is no hope. But there might be a war in China or Russia. China may get involved in a big flare-up, and if that happens, then we might be able to return.

"I don't think there is any hope for the people in Asia if the United States pulls out of Viet Nam. If America leaves, the Chinese or the Russians are going to take advantage of the situation and try their best to spread Communism and it is possible because most of Asia is very underdeveloped. If the United States pulls out I think the whole of Asia is going to go into Communism."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "truth-in" has become one of the nation's most popular forms of demonstrations, particularly in Congress.

Our lawmakers already have enacted "truth in lending" and "truth in packaging" measures, and new ones are being proposed almost every day.

Nothing in this, however, quite prepared me for the recent confrontation with credence by the House of Representatives, which stunned us veteran Congress-watchers by passing a "truth in salary" bill for its own employees.

This outburst of candor junks the traditional system of payroll obscuration, under which a staff member's pay was ascertained by a formula only slightly less complex than the equation for time-space continuum. Or the recipe for apple brown betties.

Radical Concept

Calling a $21,000 congressional employee a $21,000 congressional employee, rather than arriving at that figure with a computer, was almost too radical a concept to grasp.

I wouldn't venture a prediction as to whether these startling lunges, into veracity will continue, but if they do we may one day see what would be the ultimate in "truth-in" legislation.

I am referring to a bill that would require book publishers to adopt a policy of "truth in blurbs."

Maybe I shall eventually be able to adjust to forthrightness in congressional payrolls, but the creation of an honest book blurb defies imagination. At this time I simply cannot picture such a thing.

Perhaps it would take the form once suggested by a critic named Robert Lasson. Noting that many modern novels are mere "products" devoid of any literary merit and published solely for the sake of sales, he proposed that they bear a warning label:

"Caution: This is not a real book. Reading it is an utter waste of time and money."

Blurbal probity, however, is a two-edged sword. It would apply to the classics as well as to those prurient potboilers that slither their way onto the best-sellers lists.

Under the "truth-in" requirement, a classic might have to bear a label such as this:

Crazy World Of Washington

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Have you ever seen something bad happening in your town and wished you could show it to the mayor and demand to know why something wasn't being done to fix it?

Joe Mack Jr., a veteran taxi driver and fledgling newsman recently did something very much like that. He took a group of high-ranking District of Columbia officials and some of his UPI colleagues on a tour of "the other Washington," the one most tourists never see. He showed them uncollected trash, abandoned and vandalized public housing units, pot-holed streets, air-polluting power plants—the whole picture of city blight.

The city officials did not seem to be men who didn't care. They spoke with bitterness about their inability to get money from Congress to make the national capital city into the "showcase" that presidents have been talking about for years.

And they gave explanations for each fouled up example of urban decay that came into view: this bridge was patched and bumpy because the river crossing that will permit traffic to be diverted so it can be fixed right isn't completed yet; that housing project is choked with trash because its owners have neglected their legal obligations to arrange its removal; this body of water (the Washington Tidal Basin) is disgustingly polluted because someone in Maryland or Virginia is dumping sewage into the Potomac River upstream. Plus, the explanation that this or that problem is "under study."
