Hecklers Harrass Nixon

LANCASTER, Pa. (UPI) — President Nixon responded to a minor rock-throwing episode and obscenity chanting by hecklers on a campaign trip Saturday by asking Americans to answer his antagonists with a Republican vote in November.

The stone throwing occurred at Burlington, Vt., airport—the first stop on Nixon's four-state, 3,000-mile political tour—as the presidential party walked from Air Force One to a hangar where Nixon spoke and declared "that the war in Vietnam is coming to an end."

Three of four small stones came out of the crowd and landed harmlessly on the runway. None was close to Nixon who seemingly did not notice what happened.

However, at subsequent stops in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, Nixon scornfully referred to "that small minority shouting their obscenities and throwing their rocks" as he attacked terrorists and disruptive extremists on the America scene.

The President emphasized this theme: "That group is a minority today and it is not going to be a majority in the future."

"Don't answer in kind. Do it with your vote on Election Day —you, the majority, for what you know is right."

At Teterboro, N. J., the President was harassed from the audience by a small but organized and persistent band of youthful protesters who chanted obscenities. They were drowned out, however, by shouts of "We Want Nixon" from the President's Republican supporters.

At Ocean Grove, N. J., Nixon received enthusiastic welcome from about 10,000 persons outside an auditorium and spoke to another 6,000 inside. However, four of a group of about 100 youths were arrested for creating a disturbance after shouting "Give Peace a Chance" and other anti-war slogans.

Master Model Of C5 Destroyed

World's Largest Plane Model Lost In Explosion

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI) — FBI agents and a hastily summoned Air Force board of inquiry labored Saturday to uncover the cause of a fire and explosion that killed one man and destroyed the $23-million master model of the C5, world's largest airplane.

Doug Wheeler, C5 program director for Lockheed-Georgia Co., which produces the C5, said the blast could have been touched off by a stray spark, or static electricity, but added specific cause had yet been determined.

An FBI spokesman said no sign of sabotage had been found.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chief critic of the C5 program immediately called for the grounding of all C5s until the cause of the explosion has been determined.

The huge plane, which is nearly as long as a football field and has a tail section six stories high, erupted in a mass of flame while parked on the flight line at the Lockheed-Georgia plant at 1:17 a.m.

The initial explosion was followed by two more quick blasts which rumbled over the countryside like a clap of thunder and brought residents pouring from their homes to find out what happened.

The plane, sentimental favorite of Lockheed crews since it was the first of the big ships to fly, made a test flight Friday and reportedly had developed a leak in a fuel line.

Company officials said only that the mishap occurred while the plane was undergoing "fuel cell burning."

About a dozen other C5s were parked in the immediate vicinity, but fast action by firefighters, stand by in accordance with standard safety procedures, prevented damage to the other planes.

The man who was killed was identified as Phillip Smith, 31, a flight line mechanic who had been with the firm since 1962. Another man who was working with him, not immediately identified, suffered shock.

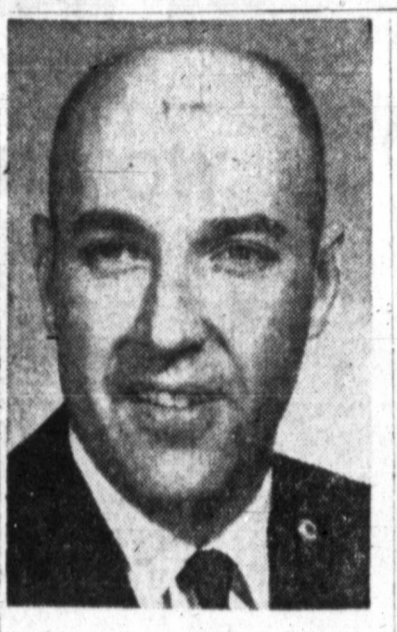

The C5 was plagued by mishaps and controversy even before its wheels first lifted off the Lockheed runway June 30, 1968.

It became the center of a congressional controversy when it was disclosed the C5 program would cost the nation more than $5 billion, rather than the $3.4 billion the Air Force first estimated.

Wing cracks were then discovered in some of the planes, and a wheel on the first plane that was turned over to the Air Force fell off at the dedication ceremony, giving critics more ammunition.

Lockheed said the plane burned Saturday was worth about $23 million, although it was brought during congressional hearings that each of the planes was costing about $50 million. A company spokesman said the $50 million figure including crew training, engineering development costs and other such items.

To date, Lockheed has completed 39 of the planes under a controversial contract that calls for a total of 81 planes.

Bus Spin-Out Kills Texas Tech Freshman

JACKSBORO, Tex. (UPI) — The driver of a bus that overturned on a wet highway with 45 students aboard, died Saturday, bringing the casualty toll of the accident to two dead and 25 injured.

The bus, en route to Dallas for the Baptist Student Union Convention, spun off the highway 20 miles northwest of Fort Worth Friday night and overturned.

Killed were the driver T.R. McCurdy, 51, of Lubbock, and a passenger, Lynn A. Pinson, 18, a Texas Tech freshman from Amarillo.

"All of a sudden the bus hit a slick spot," said Kathy Moxley, 20, of Andrews, Tex., who took refuge with other passengers in a nearby farmhouse after the accident.

"It whirled. I think it rolled twice. It seemed like an eternity. Just as the bus started to roll I said a little prayer and just relaxed. The Lord was right there with us. I know He was," she said.

Of the 25 injured, 12 were treated for cuts and bruises and released, and 13 remained hospitalized in Dallas, Bridge (See BUS, Page 2)

250 JAILED

Canada Cracks Down On Terrorist Leaders

MONTREAL (UPI) — With more than 250 terrorist leaders and sympathizers in jail, the government Saturday pressed its crackdown on the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ) which it said had plotted further kidnaps, bombings and assassinations of public officials to back demands for separation of Quebec from Canada.

The police crackdown on the Parliament met in extraordinary Saturday session in Ottawa to debate the controversial abridgement of many of the nation's civil liberties.

There still was no word on the fate of British diplomat James R. Cross or Quebec Labor Minister Pierre LaPorte, whose kidnapping by the FLQ plunged the nation into crisis.

The police crackdown on the outlawed FLQ appeared to slacken Saturday. No new arrests were reported for several hours and it appeared the government was waiting for word from the kidnapers of Cross and LaPorte of what their next move might be.

Invocation of the emergency War Measures Act Friday by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau suspended the Canadian Bill of Rights and outlawed the FLQ. It broadened police powers, permitting arrest without specific charges and prisoners to be held without bond.

Government officials in Quebec said the extreme measures were necessitated by information from Quebec provincial officials that the FLQ was ready to intensify its terrorism campaign.

The government said these measures included further kidnappings of public officials, assassinations and stepped-up bombings of public buildings.

The Toronto Telegram said Saturday the explosions would have been touched off, by long-range, remote control devices.

War Hero Freed In Shooting Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor-war hero Audie Murphy had claimed that he had fired a shot at a Burbank, Calif., dog trainer during an altercation last May 18, he wouldn't have missed.

A Superior Court jury believed him and acquitted the Medal of Honor winner Friday, after four hours of deliberation.

Murphy was charged with battery and assault with intent to commit murder following a brawl with dog trainer David Golstein over a fee charged Murphy's girlfriend.

Several jurors shook hands with Murphy and his two lawyers.

Later two of the women jurors cornered Murphy in the courtroom and threatened him with a gun. Murphy, 45, denied the charges, saying Golstein struck the first blow and the gun was fired by a friend who was trying to break up the fight.

Before the trial Murphy, now a movie producer, told newsmen, "I think it is injurious to my reputation to think that I could fire a shot at a target as large as Mr. Golstein and miss."

After the trial was over, several jurors shook hands with Murphy and his two lawyers.

Later two of the women jurors cornered Murphy in the courtroom and threatened him with a gun. Murphy, 45, denied the charges, saying Golstein struck the first blow and the gun was fired by a friend who was trying to break up the fight.

IN LOUISIANA

Government Plans Sale Of 127 Coastal Tracts

HOUSTON (UPI) — The federal government plans to sell 127 tracts off the Louisiana coast for oil and gas exploration by private companies, the first such lease sales in the Gulf of Mexico since a fire broke out Feb. 10 on a Chevron Oil Co. platform and burned for a month, causing the largest oil slick in the history in the Gulf.

Interior Secretary Walter Hickey said Friday the government will sell the tracts Dec. 15. He said the sales were necessary because of waning reserves of oil and natural gas.

Such a lease sale was originally set for March 31, but following the Chevron fire and oil spillage Hickey proposed a moratorium on such sales.

The tracts, encompassing 590,000 acres, are located off the Louisiana coast near the parishes of West Cameron and Vermilion.

"We have developed more stringent regulations," Hickey said. "We have listened carefully to the opinions of all concerned parties and we have considered all pertinent factors in seeking to balance the nation's need for oil and gas with our concern for the environment."

Hickey announced the lease sales at a $50-a-plate dinner in Houston for Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., the GOP candidate for the U. S. Senate.

"This sale and those to be proposed later are the results of long study and careful planning," Hickey said. "We urgently need to increase our energy reserves, particularly natural gas."

He said a shortage could develop during early 1971 or 1972.

No Progress In Two Month Old Auto Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — One week after the General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers optimistically resumed talks on national issues because of success in solving local contract disputes, the talks have again slowed. No progress has been reported since the strike entered its second month Thursday.

Four more local agreements were reached Friday, raising to 41 the number of local agreements. Still unsettled were 115 other bargaining unit agreements in the United States and seven in Canada. At the main table Friday, bargainers discussed skilled trades problems and subcontracting.

LT. GOV. BEN BARNES
... in Pampa

Barnes Here Monday

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will make a three-hour stopover in Pampa between 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. tomorrow as the windup of a daylong helicopter tour of the Panhandle.

The whirlybird carrying the Democratic candidate for reelection will set down on Coronado Inn grounds after a hop from Borger.

A public reception to give Pampans an opportunity to meet and talk with Barnes is scheduled between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. in the Coronado Starlight Room.

Later the lieutenant-governor will have a quick dinner with news representatives and then leave for Amarillo where he will attend the Industrial Relations Conference on Tuesday.

Barnes' Monday schedule calls for him to be in Dumas at 8 a.m., Dalhart at 10 a.m., Stratford at 10:45 a.m., Perryton at 1:30 p.m., and Borger at 2:45 p.m. before coming on to Pampa.

Pampa To Escape Gas Upping

An announcement released Saturday by Pioneer Natural Gas Co. of Amarillo that an agreement on a proposed gas rate increase for 34 West Texas cities had been reached will not affect Pampa gas consumers.

The agreement was made in Lubbock Friday by F. L. Poe, chairman of the West Texas Utilities Steering Committee, and K. B. Watson, Pioneer vice president.

It came in the form of a recommendation to the governing bodies of member cities for a 13 per cent increase in the cost of gas effective on billings dated on or after Nov. 15 this year.

The announcement was not clear as to just what cities in the utility's West Texas system would be affected by the increase.

However, James McCoy, local manager for Pioneer, said when contacted that Pampa was not included among cities where governing bodies will be asked to review the joint recommendation for granting an increase by local ordinance.

Pioneer was given nearly a 13 per cent increase in gas rates for Pampa domestic and commercial consumers in July of 1969.

At that time, while no definite commitment was made by Pioneer, company officials indicated they probably would not seek another rate hike for at least three or four years.

KILLED POLICEMAN

FBI 'Most Wanted' List Adds Coeds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI added to its growing most wanted list of fugitives Saturday two coed revolutionaries wanted in the fatal shooting of a policeman during a $26,585 heist of a Boston bank.

The FBI identified the women, both white and 21 years of age, as Susan Edith Saxe, a magna cum laude 1970 graduate of Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., and later a graduate student there, and Katherine Ann Power, a former Brandeis senior this year.

The coeds were said to belong to a small, revolutionary-type organization which, in addition to attacking military and police forces, reportedly advocated violent attacks against established society and rubberies to further aims and provide financial contributions to such organizations as the Black Panther party.

Miss Saxe is 5-feet-4 or 5-feet-5 and weighs 160 pounds, the FBI said. Miss Power, of Denver, Colo., who is 5 feet tall, weighs 145 to 150 pounds.

Susan Saxe's mother, Mrs. Eliot Saxe, said in Albany, N.Y., that "We're just torn to shreds here. We're positively ill."

Illiterates Voting Rights Clarified

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Election Code prohibitions against illiterate persons receiving assistance in the voting booth were ruled unconstitutional Friday by a three-judge federal panel.

The ruling affects more than 700,000 illiterate Texas residents of voting age.

The judges' ruling will not apply to next month's general election.

"It would be a practical impossibility to implement the necessary revisions before the November election," the ruling said.

The election code prohibited any voter from receiving assistance in the voting booth "unless that voter is blind or otherwise handicapped."

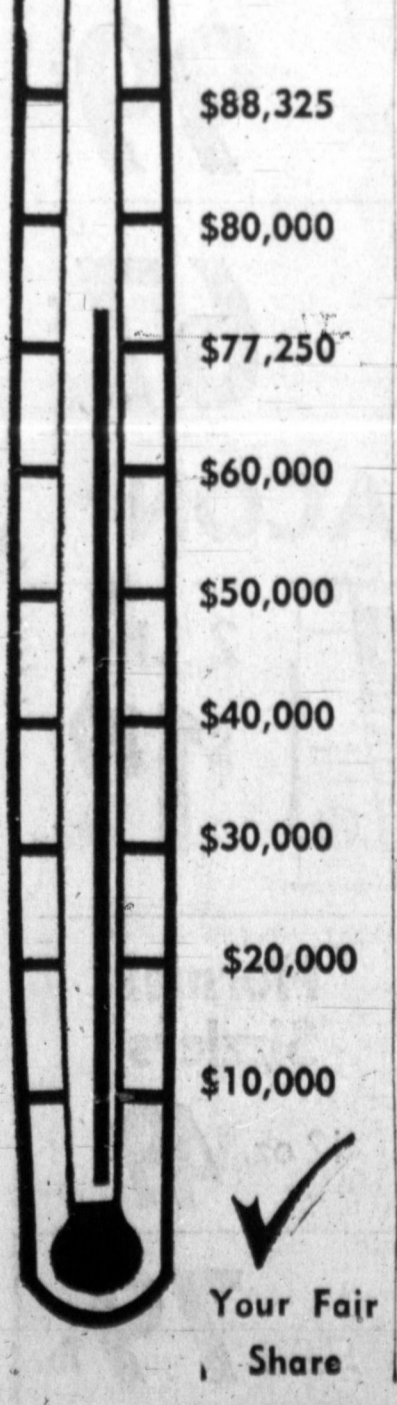

The Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund, which filed the suit in behalf of three illiterate San Antonio residents, said illiteracy should be considered a handicap.

BS Rally Set For Oct. 31

Plans for a huge Boy Scout Rally to be held in the Gray County Courthouse on Saturday, Oct. 31, are being formulated by Santa Fe District, Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts of America under the direction of Reggie Powell, district school executive and John Curry, volunteer coordinator for the roundup.

Plans will be finalized at a meeting Thursday in the Boy Scout Service Center. Scoutmasters and Senior Patrol Leaders of Pampa's 10 Boy Scout Troops will be present.

Curry said Sheriff Rufe Jordan, county attorney John Warner, as well as several Pampa High School football players are being asked to participate.

Powell and Curry expressed hopes for a large turnout of school-age youths and are making plans to create new Boy Scout troops where needed.

According to the co-chairmen, there's an updated look to the Boy Scouts of America, which retains all of the tried-and-true educational values for the younger generation.

This fall, the nation's largest youth organization, with over 60 years experience in providing an active, virile, he-man program is conducting its annual fall roundup.

"This is part of Boy Power '70, the dynamic, long-range plan of Boy Scouts of America. This program works to make scouting relevant to the needs and concerns of youth and the nation," rally chairmen said.

Judge Williams is donating the potatoes and the onions. Dr. Richard Hall and the women of the Groom community, as in the past, will have ample sour dough bread for all present at the barbecue in the Carson County Agricultural Building.

The White Deer ladies as in other years will be present with their home-made preserves, jellies. The Ralph Randels will finish the beans and their well-known home-made pickles. The barbecue will be served from five until seven thirty o'clock in the evening. The Agricultural Building is on the east edge of Panhandle just north across the Santa Fe tracks.

Paul Eggers Optimistic About Financing For Campaigning

AUSTIN (UPI) — Republican Paul Eggers believes he has enough money for his campaign this year to pull him through to victory over Gov. Preston Smith in the Nov. 3 general election.

There were reports of some bitterness between Eggers and the state Republican hierarchy in the 1968 campaign, when Eggers lost out to Smith by 400,000 votes, because the GOP candidate never got the money promised him.

But this time, Eggers says things are much brighter.

"I was able to get adequate financing early enough to do some good this time," he said. "We certainly do not have all the money we would like to have, but I believe it will be adequate."

Eggers reported less than a million dollars in campaign expenses for both the primary and general elections in 1968. He never publicly acknowledged any bitterness over the lack of financing, but there were numerous reports of it.

Eggers said he is especially encouraged this year because he has enough financing to carry his message to rural areas of Texas—the area where he was clobbered by Smith in 1968.

"We had to scrub any campaigning in rural areas last time because of the lack of money," he said. "But this time we are getting into rural areas with our message. I am very confident that it will pay off."

Eggers predicts a total vote of between 1.7 million and 1.8 million, and believes this will give him the margin over Smith. "But we believe we will win with a turnout of 2 million," the Wichita Falls tax lawyer said.

Texans traditionally turn out in small numbers during elections when there is no presidential race. Four years ago the general election total was only 1.4 million. In 1962, the turnout was nearly 1.6 million, but that was the first race of John Connally for governor, and he only beat his Republican opponent, Jack Cox, by a margin of 132,000 votes.

Going back to 1958 to that non-presidential election year, the total vote for governor was only 789,865.

Eggers believes Texas Republicans now have a base vote of between 800,000 and 900,000 in a governor's race. This margin, he insists, is enough for him to defeat Smith.

"The fact that liberal Democrats lost Sen. Ralph Yarborough in their primary makes them feel like they are on the outside," Eggers said.

"Just a lot of them feel that they must drive conservatives out of their party and can do it by electing me and George Bush (the GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate)."

Eggers said he did not know how much money he has raised for his campaign so far this year, but one source said it was around $750,000.

Smith undoubtedly has not yet spent nearly as much on his campaign as has Eggers, but the Democratic governor is already accelerating his efforts.

Smith hit the big city television markets of Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston last week with saturation radio and TV ads. His billboards have gone up across the state, and his commercials are now going on radio and TV in other parts of the state.

DOLMATHES, a grapevine leaf hors d'oeuvres and a confection, Baklava, certainly made a hit with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew at the $1,000-A-Nibble Cocktail Party thrown for him Monday twilight in the Candlelight Room of Holiday Inn West, according to unimpeachable sources close to the visiting vice president, namely Jim Campbell.

AND those two delicacies were concocted by Ted Gikas with the help of a little lady in Borger, his mother, Mrs. Ann Gikas from a recipe belonging to this well-known and respected Greek family.

AND thereby hangs an interesting tale of search, questioning, long-distance telephone calls to and from the White House, across the nation, and double security checks before it was determined two of the vice president's favorite Greek dishes could be found right here in Amarillo's front yard.

IT began when an Amarillo florist-caterer, Don George was assigned the task of preparing for the exclusive party, which was to include about 30 with The Agnews as guests of honor.

THOUGHTFULLY, he decided, it would be nice if the hors d'oeuvres could include Mrs. Agnew's favorite flowers (which by the way, are Black-Eye Susans) and the vice president's favorite food.

GEORGE called a friend Rusty Young, who is on the White House chef staff and was told Agnew was fond of Dolmathes and Baklava.

"FINE, but do you have the recipe?" the chef was asked. "No, but I'll make a couple of telephone calls and see if I can round them up, the White House chef replied.

BUT to no avail, George mentioned his plight to an Amarillo friend, who is also a friend of the Gikas family.

IN ESSENCE, she said, "Worry no more, your problems are solved. I know exactly where you can get those recipes." And she did.

AS WITH every person connected in any way with the Agnew visit, from newsmen and women to guests, tight security checks were made on the Gikas family before they were cleared to be asked if they would so kindly be obliged with the delicacies.

TED AND his mother not only graciously agreed to give the recipes, they make the Baklava and presented them with their compliments along with tiny, tender grape leaves for the Dolmathes, which Ted had picked and canned 'way last Spring.

WHILE WE cannot go into all the intricacies of preparation, we did learn, chatting with Ted later, that Dolmathes is a bite-size grape leaf stuffed with meat and rice stuffing...something like cabbage rolls...seasoned with oregano, salt and pepper and cinnamon.

IT MAY be dipped into a broth, which has been thickened with eggs and a dash of lemon.

BAKLAVA is a labor of love and artistry. The dough is rolled until it is so thin it almost breaks. The Greeks have a name for it called "opening the dough".

IT IS rolled out into bedsheet size so thin you can read a newspaper through it," Gikas said. "Sugar, cinnamon, pecans are sprinkled between the two layers of dough that have been built into 15 tiers of tissue-thin dough. Both sides are buttered, then cut into diamond-shaped pieces and popped into the oven to bake for an hour and a half.

THEN a gooey glaze of sugar, honey and water, again a bit of lemon, is poured over each Baklava.

AND it becomes a feast for Kings...and even a vice president.

Justice Dept. Spruced Up For Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Government painters worked through the night on overtime pay to get the Justice Department spruced up for a visit by President Nixon on Thursday, the General Services Administration (GSA) said today.

The 22 painters earned $1,300 for 154 hours of overtime, a GSA spokesman said in response to an inquiry.

The GSA, the government's housekeeping agency, said that when one of its officials walked through the building Wednesday he became concerned at "the mess" of hanging lights and scaffolding as part of the building's first redecoration in 35 years.

With Nixon planning to visit the building Thursday to sign a new anticrime bill, the GSA ordered a speedup to get the project finished by the time the President arrived.

The last of the painters finished work at 7 a.m. Thursday—three hours before Nixon arrived.

Nixon spent about 20 minutes in the building.

Guards Ordered To Inspect All Luggage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration today ordered that guards make inspections of all persons carrying bags and packages into federal buildings throughout the nation.

As a result of a recent rash of bombings, the General Services Administration (GSA) previously had extended security hours to a 24-hour basis at federal buildings and ordered closure of unnecessary entrances. It also gave guards discretion to inspect any suspicious-looking objects carried into the buildings.

Ike Left $2 Million Plus Estate

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The late President Dwight D. Eisenhower left a gross estate valued at $2,870,004, it was disclosed Friday in an accounting of his Pennsylvania inheritance tax returns by his executors.

The former President, who died on March 28, 1969, at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, owned a farm home on the outskirts of this historic borough, and maintained an office on the campus of Gettysburg College.

The return and accounting, with the Adams County Register of wills, showed tangible personal property consisting largely of cattle, farm machinery and equipment, household and office furniture and historical memorabilia valued at $211,793. Royalties earned on books and publications under an agreement with Doubleday & Co., were valued at $519,434. And $1,547,809 worth of assets held in trust by the Mercantile Safe Deposit and Trust Co., of Baltimore, Md., and the former President's son, John Eisenhower, Ambassador to Belgium, also were listed.

The accounting listed the interest in the Gettysburg farm property which the former President and Mrs. Eisenhower gave to the federal government in 1967 to be used as a national historic site. His share of the gift was valued at $329,074 at the time of his death. Mrs.

Eisenhower still lives at the farmhouse.

Under the terms of his will, executed May 25, 1965, and a codicil, Eisenhower made certain monetary bequests to persons who served with him for years. He bequeathed his papers and documentary material to the federal government for deposit in the Eisenhower Presidential Library at Abilene, Kan., his boyhood town.

Aerospace 'Darlings' Jobless

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI)—There are 10,000 engineers and technicians, once darlings of the aerospace industry, who are unemployed in the San Francisco peninsula. Many can't find jobs, even lowly ones.

Most of these are men over 40. They served in World War II, got themselves educated, played the upward-mobility game, earned $15,000 to $30,000 of work before.

telling you that anyone really willing to work could find a job in this country. Unemployment in the U.S.A. was a problem that beset only the indolent or unambitious.

They see it differently now. Being Surplused

Take Don —, who asked that his name be withheld. In eight years at Philco-Ford he wrote proposals that got the company $70-million in space contracts.

Last year they would be ada's border. Results of first drilling activities disappointed the industry. Some oil was found but tests indicated the major portion of it had migrated elsewhere.

By 1967 the industry decided it was time to take its financial losses and leave. Only Atlantic-Richfield's Prudhoe Bay State No. 1 remained.

It was that well that located the Prudhoe Bay Field in 1968. The industry began returning to the area. By 1969, 37 wells were drilled.

There are 15 known sedimentary basins in Alaska, and commercial production has been established in only two. Eight of the remaining areas have never been drilled and only a few wildcat ventures have been made in the others.

Alaska Competes With Texas Oil

NORTH SLOPE, Alaska (UPI)—Alaska may one day replace Texas as the No. 1 oil producing state. It already has taken from Texas its reputation as the largest state.

Although recent major oil discoveries in what is known as the North Slope area of Alaska put the state on the oil map, they are not the first for that state.

Oil seeps were noted by the Russians in 1853, and several shallow wells were drilled on Cook Inlet after the U. S. bought Alaska in 1867. They were unsuccessful.

A discovery at Katalla in southeast Alaska in 1902 paid off and until 1933, 154,000 barrels of oil were produced from 18 wells on a 60-acre tract. Operators abandoned the field in 193 after a fire destroyed the small refinery.

The U. S. Geological Survey (USGS) began tests in northern Alaska in 1901 and by 1914 oil potential of the North Slope was being discussed.

In 1923 the federal government designated 37,000 square miles around Point Barrow a naval petroleum reserve. The Navy and USGS conducted extensive exploration between 1944 and 1963, drilling 45 core holes and 37 wildcat wells costing $60 million.

The discoveries were not commercial but the estimated 100 million barrel reserve figures were a major factor attracting the oil industry to the North Slope.

Atlantic-Richfield brought in the first commercial field, in 1957 on the Kenai Peninsula. Other discoveries were made in Cook Inlet in 1959. Reserves are estimated at 1.5 billion barrels in those areas but production has averaged only 200,000 barrels daily.

In 1958, one year before Alaska's statehood, the U. S. opened for leasing an area of the North Slope between the naval reserve and a wildlife refuge established at the northeast corner of the territory, on Can-

North Texas Ropes W. Texas Buffaloes In Thrilling Squeaker By 11-10 Score

By MIKE WESTER
CANYON, Tex. (UPI)—Mike Briscoe kicked a fourth-quarter 23-yard field goal to give the North Texas State Eagles a 11-10 come-from-behind victory over West Texas State Saturday night.

Briscoe's three-pointer with 9:25 left in the game gave the Eagles their second victory of the year against four defeats. It was a disappointing homecoming climax for the Buffaloes, now 3-2 for the year.

North Texas picked up a safety in the first quarter when Buff back Raymond Brown picked up a short Briscoe field goal in the end zone, brought it out and was then tackled back in the end zone by Willie Parker. Quarterback Joe Milton hit end Dralves Edwards for 21 yards and a North Texas third-quarter touchdown. All of West Texas' scoring came in the second period when halfback Ralph Thompson ran 15 yards and Matias Garza added an extra point and a 48-yard three-pointer.

North Texas increased its lead in the series to 10-3 after the Buffs won the last meeting 21-13 in 1964.

West Texas is the newest member of the Missouri Valley Conference, but it not competing for the conference championship this year.

The Buffs, fighting to get back in the game in the fading minutes, held North Texas four plays inside the one yard line with less than four minutes left. However, West Texas' final two offensive drives were halted when North Texas picked off aerials from Buff quarterback Ed Holwig.

West Texas' final drive was a 26-yard scoring toss to the game out of the Aggies' reach.

A&M took a brief lead at the end of the first period when Leonard Forey fell on a fumbled punt on the TCU five-yardline and Bard Dusek scoring from the one two plays later.

Late in the game Aggie Grady Hoermann grabbed a blocked TCU punt and raced 51 yards to score with Steve Burks running the conversion across.

Reed tossed 49 yards to Smith, the Southeastern Conference's leading receiver, for the first touchdown then hit him for seven yards in the fourth period to give the Bulldogs their victory.

Zealous Fan Tries To Tackle Cross

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—An over-zealous Washington State fan attempted a one-man goal line stand Saturday against Stanford's Eric Cross who had 77st sprinted 25 yards untouched and was about to score.

The fan, unable to contain himself, jumped down from the stands and nailed Cross with a pretty good tackle at the five yard line.

Cross was momentarily stunned by the blind-side hit, but regained his balance and fell forward over the goal.

The unidentified fan ran back into the stands and was last seen being escorted away by phalanx of police officers.

Namath Noted For Revolution In Modern Football Trends

By BOB DI PIETRO
UPI Sports Writer

On Jan. 11, 1969, a long-haired young man with a penchant for mod attire, llama rugs and the kind of swinging singles life style for which Beaver Falls, Pa., is not noted, helped to revolutionize professional football.

That day Joe Namath and the upstart New York Jets knocked off the establishment by stunning the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League 16-7 in the Super Bowl. And suddenly the 10-year-old American Football League was big league. So big-league, in fact, that its teams have now incorporated into the NFL as the American Football Conference.

In other AFC contests Sunday, Houston is rated a 4½ point choice over Pittsburgh. Miami is a seven-point pick over Buffalo and Kansas City is heavily-favored over Cincinnati.

National Conference action finds St. Louis favored by eight over Philadelphia, San Francisco by 10 over New Orleans, Los Angeles is the choice over Green Bay and Minnesota is an eight-point choice over Dallas.

In a heavy inter-conference schedule, San Diego is rated over Chicago, the New York Giants are 2½ point picks over Boston, Detroit is a three-point choice over Cleveland, Denver and Atlanta are rated even and Oakland is tabbed by six over Washington in Monday night's nationally-televised (ABC 9 p.m. EDT) contest.

Bowl win when he rushed for 121 yards and one touchdown and enabled Namath to establish a passing game.

Veteran defensive end Gerry Philbin, receivers Don Maynard and George Sauer and guard Randy Rasmussen, although expected to play, are not expected to be at full strength following various injuries.

"We've just got to get some people well," lamented Ewbank.

Since that Super Bowl triumph nearly two years ago, a triumph that Namath brashly "guaranteed" three days before the game, Broadway Joe has gone on to better things, including making movies. But his football fortunes have fallen lower.

Weeb Ewbank, the Jets' coach, is hoping that Namath can return to that early 1969 form Sunday when the Jets meet the Colts for the first time since their historic confrontation. Baltimore is favored by one point.

Kick-off time for the game is 3:00 p.m. today in Metropolitan Stadium. Expected attendance is 47,900.

Ohio State Still No. 1
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—John Brockington and Rex Kern scored four touchdowns in the first 21 minutes of the game and top ranked Ohio State held on for a 28-8 win over outmanned Minnesota before a record crowd of 86,667 here Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Darrall Imhoff, an unsigned 10-year veteran center, was placed on the National Basketball Association's suspended list Wednesday by the Philadelphia 76ers.

3-1 Dallas Meets 3-1 Minnesota

The Dallas Cowboys (3-1) vs. the Minnesota Vikings (3-1) will be a key game for the two teams who share their respective NFC Division titles. Dallas is tied with St. Louis for the East and Minnesota shares the Central with Detroit and Green Bay.

The Vikings are 2-0 outside the West, having beaten Kansas City and New Orleans. Dallas is 1-0 outside the East with a win over Atlanta.

In previous seasons Dallas has downed the Vikings in four regular season games and also defeated the Vikings in the Playoff Bowl after the 1968 season, 17-13. The last regular season game was in Minnesota that same year when the Cowboys won, 20-7.

PJHS Loses, Razorbacks Win In Thursday Action

The Pampa Junior High eighth grade lost to the Dumas eighth grade, 12-2, last Thursday afternoon in Dumas.

SCORE BY QUARTERS
Pampa 2 0 0 0 2
Dumas 6 6 0 0 12

Pampa Junior High's lone score, a safety, came as a result of a 35 yard kick by Mike Taylor that went out of bounds on the Dumas two yard line.

Lee scored in the second quarter on a run by Coy Free. The point after attempt failed.

Dumas tried to run the ball out of the hole but Bill Stanford and Joel Holt tackled the Dumas running back in the end zone for the safety.

Thornburg broke loose on a run in the third quarter for the Razorbacks' other score. David Smith ran the two-point conversion to make the score 14-0, Lee.

Pampa was hurt by penalties. Mike Taylor threw a pass to Mike Hood. Hood ran for 35 yards down to the Dumas three. A Penalty spoiled the Pampa drive. A clipping penalty caused a 70 yard run by Greg Beck to be brought back. A motion penalty nullified a 50 yard jaunt by Taylor.

Borger scored their eight points with 1:23 left in the game.

Dumas scored late in the first quarter on a 50 yard run. The two-point conversion attempt was no good, Dumas' second score came just before the first half on a 40 yard pass-run play. The two-point play failed.

The Changing Face Of Rural America

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The rural America most people over 35 knew is no longer in existence. And further changes are coming so fast, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin said in a new book published Sunday, that it's imperative to begin making plans now for guiding future change into orderly, healthy routes.

Hardin's comment came in a foreword to "Contours of Change," the 1970 edition in the annual series of Yearbooks of Agriculture published by the Agriculture Department.

The 48-page volume, examining the technological revolution in agriculture and the changing face of the rural regions which are home to about one-third of all Americans, includes a prediction that the number of farms in the country could decline from about three million in 1969 to conceivably as few as 200,000 giant operations in 1980.

On the basis of recent trends, one chapter said, it appears the number of farms would be cut to about two million by 1980. These units would include about 500,000 big farms producing 85 to 90 per cent of all crops and livestock.

It is equally reasonable to assume, however, added economist Rex F. Daly, that there might be an even faster consolidation of farms into units with annual sales averaging $100,000 and more. Fewer than 200,000 such farms could produce the volume of food and fiber expected to be needed in 1980, Daly said.

Hardin, in his foreword, pointed out that the nation's population is expected to increase by up to 100 million people in 30 years, with great economic expansion coming in the 1970s.

"Much of this increase in both numbers of peoples and economic development needs to take place outside the great metropolitan areas. Expansion of present towns and small cities will be required, with new centers of growth in America's heartland," Hardin said.

"City dwellers have an equal interest (in orderly rural growth) since a sound pattern of national growth can alleviate many of today's urban problems," Hardin added.

Fall programs planned are a covered dish luncheon and Quilting Bee at 10 a.m. Oct. 19 to make quilts for the Tulip House and other mission projects; Baptist Women's Day of Prayer 10 a.m. Nov. 2, and study of the mission book "Taiwan: Unfinished Revolution," at 10 a.m. Nov. 19.

Hostesses for the luncheon meeting were Mmes. George Smith, Don Huffaker, A. D. Ackerman, L. V. Hopp, E. E. Shelhamer, Ross Buzzard, Paul Turner and Mrs. Bill Greer, who presented a program on missionaries in Nigeria.

Dear Abby

By Abby Van Duren

DEAR ABBY: I was married two years ago last June. My parents gave me such a beautiful wedding. People are still talking about it. I had several bridal showers and received many shower gifts as well as wedding gifts.

Well, you know how busy a bride is just before her wedding. I didn't get around to sending thank you notes for the bridal shower gifts, and then as wedding gifts started pouring in even before the wedding and lots came afterwards.

When I got back from my honeymoon I had the big job of getting settled in our apartment and right after that I got pregnant. I'm ashamed to admit that I was even given baby showers, so there were more gifts to send "thank you's" for.

Well, I just never got around to sending any thank you's and my mother is furious with me. So is my mother-in-law.

Whenever I see someone who gave me a gift I thank them sincerely for what they gave me—if I can remember what it was.

Will you be a pal and put a "confidential" in your column to let people know I really appreciated their gifts? Use my initials and sign it Ashamed in St. Louis.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: (And you ought to be.) I am not running a message center, but I appreciate your letter because it affords me an opportunity to tell you (and others like you) something you should know.

There is no excuse for neglecting to send a written thanks to those who have spent their time and money on a gift for you. Perhaps "better late than never" is the appropriate

El Progresso Study Club Has Beauty Program

El Progresso Study Club met recently with Mrs. Darrell Cameron at 2135 Charles.

Mrs. J.F. Curtis, president, presided over a short business meeting as Mrs. J.F. Malone reminded members of the tour of West Texas State University Activity Center at Canyon and the luncheon to follow on Oct. 27.

Mrs. Malone introduced Mrs. Charles Lanehart who presented the program, "The New Vistas to Personal Beauty."

Mrs. Lanehart gave a humorous account of womanhood and said, "Inner charm is to be able to laugh at yourself. All women like to be called girls. What kind of girl are you? One man's Elizabeth Taylor is another man's fifth wife."

She sketched different types of girls from the career types, the intellectuals, the gardeners, the dieters to the mothers and grandmothers.

Mrs. Lanehart concluded with, "It is easy to tell a grandmother — she is better dressed than a mother, looks happier, walks a little slower, and is usually more blonde. Grandmothers like to be called anything but "Grandma."

Fashionable Knees Lose Out To Midi

PARIS (UPI)—Knees are becoming extinct throughout Europe and soon a woman's leg may be as dead as the dodo, fashion-wise.

With the midi-maxi look already in the stores for two months, women throughout the continent dutifully are hiding their knees under long skirts and pants, and covering any remaining trace of leg with boots.

In Paris, which remains the fashion capital of the world, despite periodic uprisings in London, New York and Rome, the fall uniform is a midi skirt split to above the knee, wide leather belt at the waist, high necked pullover, high boots, fringed handbag and sleeveless maxi coat.

"Women like to look alike," says designer Hubert de Givenchy, and Parisiennes proved it the other night at a plush discotheque where long skirts and boots were unanimous despite steam-bath temperatures.

Munich: Spring ready-to-wear showings feature the long look. Designers predict total indoctrination of women. Newspapers have dropped their anti-midi cry and about-faced to sing praises of new "feminine styles."

Amsterdam: The mini is out. Some shops report they are unable to keep up with the midi-maxi demand. Trousers still are in favor as a compromise.

East Europe: No maxis or midis are seen on the streets of Moscow but most trends are decade late in the Russian capital and clothes are too expensive to be abandoned overnight. Homemade long styles already have appeared in Warsaw and other East European capitals.

Madrid: The young set and fashion-conscious women have fallen into the midi-maxi army. Minis are scarcely seen in shop windows and a sudden cold spell brought crowds into shops to buy the leg-wrapping styles.

Stockholm: One newspaper launched an anti-midi campaign with free protest buttons demanding "No to midi-maxi." Another newspaper reported women were against the maxi 15-1 in a poll.

However, despite the sniping criticism maxis and midis are gaining some ground in Stockholm "in" places. Popular uniform this fall is mini skirt, as mini as before, masked by a maxi or midi length coat.

The feeling in Europe is that this is a transition period and any length goes from old minis to maxis plus pants, short or long. It is even possible that fashion will permit knee-baring skirts a while longer on vacations and hot days. But in general, the lights are going out on legs all over Europe.

SGT. AND MRS. CHARLES WAYNE GRIMSLEY
...nee Margaret Ann Martin

Miss Martin Weds Sgt. C.W. Grimsley

Wedding vows for Margaret Ann Martin and Sgt. Charles Wayne Grimsley were exchanged in the Chapel of the First United Methodist Church here, Monday evening Oct. 12.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Martin of Pampa. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Grimsley of East Browning, Pampa.

The wedding party stood before a decorative background of baskets of golden mums, tied with blue ribbons.

Officiant for the single-ring ceremony was the Rev. H. DeWitt Seago, Methodist pastor. Mrs. Betty Dotts played the traditional wedding marches. Morris B. Kille sang "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was attired in a white knit suit—and wore a string of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. The sapphire she wore in her shoe was brought from Scotland by the bridegroom's brother and given to the bride for the traditional good luck piece.

The bride's bouquet was yellow rose buds and majestic daisies tied with long ribbon streamers.

The bridegroom wore his military uniform.

Judith Ann Grimsley of Pampa was matron of honor and best man was John Grimsley of Leedy, Okla., sister and brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by J. M. Thompson, friend of the couple.

Friends and relatives were received in the bridegroom's home for the reception.

The table was covered with cutwork cloth made by the bridegroom's grandmother. The white three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with blue roses, and gold leaves, topped with a bride and bridegroom. Flower arrangement was of blue and gold carnations in a tall chalice container. Punch was served from a white milk glass punch bowl.

Council Advises Parents On Ways To Store Poisons

BOSTON (UPI)—Proper poison prevention, according to the Massachusetts chapter of the National Safety Council, includes keeping poisons in their own containers — not putting them in soda bottles.

"Using pop bottles and other common food containers to store potential poisons is gambling with your family's safety," said Kenneth Brown, executive vice president of the Massachusetts chapter.

"People tend to forget that one particular bottle contains poison and not the cool drink they normally expect, for this reason, all harmful liquids — especially household cleaners — should be stored in their original containers," he said.

To Please Brides, Select Kitchen Trousseau Variety

CHICAGO, ILL. (SpI) — Selecting a handsome bridal gift that is sure to be used is easy. Just look to the kitchen for a wealth of new and noteworthy ideas. A complete kitchen "trousseau" includes a vast selection of items suitable for the shower or wedding package. Gifts to fill the kitchen drawers and cupboards are sure to be appreciated. To shop for them is fun as even the kitchen pro may make interesting discoveries.

A kitchen gift may even contribute to the happiness of the future home. For example, a roast meat thermometer will insure that his roast beef, pork, lamb or veal will come to the table just as he likes it. A shallow roasting pan with a rack will fill another meat preparation need as will a wood cutting board and a selection of sharp knives for carving. Carving sets are available with matching fork and steel and an electric sharpener is useful. An electric knife will help the host to perfect carving. For their elegant dining a silver or stainless steel meat platter may be fitted with a carving board.

For other ideas, consider broiler cookery. Disposable aluminum pans for oven broiling steaks, beefburgers and bacon will always be welcome. An indoor or portable electric broiler unit or porch hibachi is destined to cook many suppers.

An outdoor grill is bound to be a cherished gift because of the hours of fun the couple can spend together enjoying broiled steaks, burgers and kabobs. Tongs for turning beef steaks or pork, or lamb chops without piercing the meat will preserve the natural meat juices while hot pads will spare the new bride's fair hands. Skewers for kabobs can be a fun gift item. And, to keep the couple cooking together, give the cook and chef matching aprons and bright asbestos mits.

A frying-pan with a tight fitting lid is a must for range-top braising of beef round steak or pork chops. A two-quart casserole for pork chop and other casserole dishes is especially handy for the new bride who may be entertaining guests after a day at work.

The bride can use a pie pan for more than fruit desserts. A meat pie of round steak and kidneys or ground beef is a delicious main course. A loaf pan for meat loaf is another handy item for the kitchen. For stews, pot-roasts, chili or spaghetti, a Dutch oven keeps pot-watching at a minimum.

Some bridal gift surprises may inspire the couple to entertain which will keep them popular in the social swing. An electric frying-pan enables hostess to cook sukiyaki or paella at the table with her guests. A fondue pot for beef bourguignon or a wok for sweet and sour pork along with chop sticks is bound to stimulate future fun. A chafing dish for beef stragano or a warming tray for platters of meat slices will keep buffet items hot for guests.

There are still other gift possibilities for the kitchen "trousseau"! Small appliances such as an electric can opener, a blender or a toaster are just three appliances suitable for a bridal present.

A cookbook is another valuable remembrance. There is such a variety to choose from — ground beef, barbecue foreign casseroles, chafing dish, night before, cooking for two and low calorie. A fire box with favorite recipes typed on index cards for barbecue glazes, lasagna, Swiss steak or ham loaf is a personalized present. A selection of herbs with recipes using them or a complete set with a rack will get any bride off to a good start cooking for two.

Mystery Of Feminine Logic Confuses Centuries Of Men

NEW YORK (NAPS)—"When women get to thinking they're people, that's when everybody has trouble."

These words were first scratched on the walls of a cave in lower Afghanistan by a Neanderthal hero — or so tradition hath it. After a fierce struggle which had nearly cost him his life, he had finally dragged home the bear's head only to be bawled out by his Missus for (1) being so slow about it; (2) picking up such a tough cut; (3) getting his new tiger skin all torn up and (4) completely forgetting that it was their anniversary.

Since then, it is reported, the same comment has been whispered, shrieked, bellowed, banded about, moaned, groaned, mumbled and grumbled by some 27,492,859,213 males — more or less — to 27,492,859,213 other males — or to nobody in particular.

In order to understand women, however, the first point to keep in mind is that they do, indeed, tend to harbor the illusion that they are people. Once a man has faced up to the fact that he must humor the female in this respect, he is ready to proceed to the first lesson.

1. How to deal with the Feminine Mystique. Since women usually do tend to think they are people, it is wise to treat them as you would almost anybody else — with a few exceptions. When a woman insists that she is a person, for instance, don't argue with her as you will never win. Instead, pretend to agree, then change the subject to something quite impersonal such as how much you love her new hairdo.

2. How to know when a woman is telling the truth. According to the legend, Hsi Lu Ying, a Chinese sage of the T'ang dynasty actually discovered a foolproof method for this. Rumor hath it that he said his secret to the emperor for a couple of walnut-sized rubies. Unfortunately, when they departed this life it was lost to posterity forever. Since then, each man has had to play it by ear.

Naturally, you can't always believe a woman when she murmurs "I love you". In fact, several primitive tribes in Africa and South America insist on a traditional rite which puts every woman's devotion to the test. After a young couple becomes engaged, they are forced to spend a night strapped together in a hammock shared with a large number of hungry ants. In the morning, if they're still speaking, the marriage takes place.

While this method is not recommended for most civilized couples, you might try a milder test on your lady. For instance, take her for a weekend visit to your most repulsive relatives where she'll have to help with the housework, be uncomfortable and bored silly. If she still loves you on Monday, chances are its the real thing.

3. Do's and don't's of flattering the female. According to experts every woman loves to think of herself as unique (like every man) and the most flattering thing you can tell her,

"Darling, you're different from all the rest. Wonderful, special and different."

But when saying this you have to be cautious not to blunder into the one thing you should never tell her, according to Abu Ibn Tarif, noble chieftain of a roving band of 9th century Bedouins. Beware, he says, of saying "how much sweeter is her kiss than that of any other. For the wrath of a woman thus compared to another is as the wind in the desert."

4. How to win a woman. Women know instinctively that all the senses play an important role in courtship and marriage — hence their generous use of perfumes, scented lotions, make-up, soft lights, sweet music, tinkling jewelry, delicately-flavored lipsticks, softeners to snare and hold the male in that tender trap.

But, don't forget that their sorceries work both ways and what is enticing to the gander is equally alluring to the goose, though many men are careless about appealing to a woman's senses. Count Baldassare Castiglione's 11 Cortegiano ("The Courtier"), a 16th century handbook on the art of being a gentleman, advises all men to wash and perfume their beards regularly. And, today, whether bearded or smooth-shaven, many men add "scents-appeal" to their courtship with a hearty dash of after-shave or cologne.

5. How to give a gift she'll appreciate. Selecting gifts that will please a woman depends somewhat on the time and place. Among the ancient Goths, a barrel of wine was the standard gift of a man to his fiancée, while a walrus tusk is as close to Tiffany's as any Eskimo girl ever gets, but she's grateful anyway.

6. How to know when she wants to be kissed. If a chick invites you up to her pad to hear her latest tape recordings... you can be pretty sure she'll grab you if you don't get there first.

When dealing with an old-fashioned type who is less aggressive, take a tip from a New York City taxi driver who's probably witnessed more smooching through his rearview mirror than a Hollywood censor sees in a lifetime of wide-screen exposure.

"Most kisses," he reports, "begin when the meter reaches the 50-cent mark. That's after the girl has a chance to get settled and the guy works up the necessary nerve. For those who aren't sure when to kiss a girl, watch how she acts when she drops her arms to her sides. I've never seen it fail."

But probably the wisest advice on the subject is contained in a Lerner-Lowe song from the musical "Camelot". Few females failed to agree when Richard Burton, who played King Arthur in the Broadway production, sang:

"The way to manage a woman is to love her. Simply to love her..."

Slick Pavements Handicap Drivers

MADISON, WIS. (SpI) — "If all drivers could see what I've seen, there would be few careless drivers on the road today," says Prof. Archie H. Easton, nationally known accident investigator and Director of the Motor Vehicle Research Laboratory of the University of Wisconsin.

Referring to the grisly scene he often encounters when summoned to an accident site, Prof. Easton said: "I certainly wouldn't want to force people to see these sights, but I often think that it would do some drivers a world of good to see first-hand the tragic consequences of drinking and driving, a moment of carelessness or inattention, or a simple case of poor judgment."

As chairman of the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards, Prof. Easton is particularly concerned about the added hazards at this time of year caused by ice and snow-covered pavements and the resulting consequences. "Judging from some of the accidents I've seen, many drivers obviously have no concept of the extremely limited traction on these surfaces."

Tests have shown, for example, that the braking distance on glare ice may easily be as much as nine or ten times the normal dry pavement distance, meaning a stopping distance of 150 to 200 ft. at a speed of only 20 mph compared with about 17 ft. on dry pavement," he explained.

"Whenever the pavement is snowy or icy, the best advice is to first get the feel of the road. This can be done by trying the brakes gently or by accelerating carefully to see whether the wheels skid or spin. If the car has any tendency to skid or "fish-tail," then it's time to slow way down and do all maneuvering — braking, steering or accelerating — with a very gentle touch," advised Easton.

When asked whether special traction devices, such as snow tires and tire chains were helpful under these conditions, he replied that the National Safety Council's tests showed conventional snow tires were of little or no benefit on glare ice but that they provided about half again as much traction in loosely packed snow as regular tires.

Studded snow tires, on the other hand, materially improve traction on ice, providing about three times the pulling ability of regular tires and reducing braking distances by 19 per cent, according to the test findings.

For severe conditions on both snow and ice, Prof. Easton recommended reinforced tire chains. He said that tests showed chains provided from four to seven times the pulling power of regular tires on snow and ice and reduced braking distance on glare ice by 50 per cent.

"But regardless of the help provided by these traction aids," concluded Easton, "drivers should realize that performance on snow and ice is nowhere near that on dry pavement, and that speeds must be sharply reduced."

Masculinity Traits Change With Time

NEW YORK (NAPS) — Two hundred years ago, snuff-sniffing and lace-ruffled shirts were marks of the dominant male. But they wouldn't impress contemporary lasses of Africa's Tchambuli tribe, whose heroic he-men are expected to play with dolls!

Today's more cosmopolitan miss would probably go for a debonair James Bond type or a shaggy-haired hippie. Time and place obviously have a great deal to do with the definition of masculinity.

According to a recent psychologists' report, American women rate a man's M.Q. (Masculinity Quotient) according to the following traits:

Decisiveness. Dominant males make decisions speedily — and stick to them. To gals this means a he-man with everything under control — including them!

Perseverance. Whether it's climbing Mount Blanc in a blizzard, setting off on safari, or working his way to the top of the executive ladder, the real man of action will "never say die." Whoever heard of a big game hunter skulking out of the steaming jungle without at least one tiger in tow?

Self-Confidence. An aura of assurance marks the man who's a leader — or the one who's learned to act the part. Another way to establish an aura of self-assurance is to become the strong, silent type — everlastingly appealing to women. They love a mystery! Adventurousness. Explorers,

Broad shoulders and bulging biceps aside, the measure of a man is not always what he does, but what he believes in — his philosophy of life. The masculine mystique was set up for all men for all time by that famous philosopher Aristotle, who once announced, "The male is by nature superior to the female!"

Originality. An inventive man, whether atomic scientist or raga-rock composer, is infinitely attractive to the female of the species.

Make-Up Expert Offers Methods For Nail Beauty

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (SpI) — Ten beauty tips for your 10 fingertips from a make-up authority assure you of beautiful as well as fashionable nails when you wear fall nail colors.

Be sure your nails are clean and dry — free of any moisture or oil — before you begin applying polish.

Check the consistency of your nail polish before applying it, as too-thick polish may peel when dry.

To make nails look longer, leave a narrow length of nail on each side unpolished — about the width of a toothpick.

When brushing on polish from base to tip, use three strokes — up the center first, then each side.

Always leave a thin line near the cuticle free from polish as this allows the nail to "breathe."

For expert application, the brush should be saturated, but not so full that it blobs when rested on the nail.

For color-perfect nails, apply a base coat, two coats of color and a top coat, allowing each to dry before the next is applied.

Never use base coat in place of top coat. The base is made thick to protect the nails; the thinner top coat is glossier and fast drying.

Extra protection can be given the fragile nail tip by extending application of the top coat to the undersurface of the tip.

Nail polish allowed to dry naturally lasts longer than that hardened with forced drying methods, such as heat or cold running water.

Cosmetic Tips Help Create Flattering Eyes

HOLLYWOOD (Calif) (SpI) — Just as varying figure types are flattered by different kinds of fashions, so varying eye types are flattered by different methods of eye make-up application, according to a beauty authority.

Overly prominent eyes that appear to "bulge" are more attractive if the lid area is minimized. Just above the lashes, outline the upper lid boldly with fluid eye-liner or with cake eye-liner, widening the line slightly at center lid.

Behind the liner, cover the rest of the curved portion of the lid as far back as the crease with a dark-tone shadow. To further de-emphasize the upper lid, wear curved rather than curled lashes as such lashes will "shade" the eyes and thereby minimize them.

To bring out deep set eyes, accent them but do not overpower them. Outline such eyes top and bottom with a very fine line. Then, highlight the entire lid and eye area from lashes to eyebrow with white shadow.

For a color accent shadow, choose a pale pastel or frosted shade and apply it only to the curved portion of the lid. Apply mascara to both upper and lower lashes.

To create the illusion of "separating" closely set eyes, outline both the upper and lower lid with fine lines, starting the liner where lash growth begins rather than right at the inner corner of the eye. Continue the lines so that they extend slightly beyond the outer corner of the eye and end parallel to each other rather than joined.

Modern Resuscitative Methods Save Lives

NEW YORK (UPI)—"If I were going to have a heart attack, I'd want to have it in Baltimore," says Ann Cutler.

The reason: That city's policemen and firemen have been schooled the best in modern resuscitative techniques—mouth-to-mouth breathing and external heart massage through rhythmic pressure on breastbone.

In a new book, Miss Cutler tells of an attorney who fell to the pavement one afternoon in Baltimore. A doctor in the crowd pronounced him dead. But the man had been dead less than three minutes when two firemen came on the scene. They told the doctor they would resuscitate.

After a while the "dead" man began to breathe and very faintly his stilled heart started beating.

Working urgently on such cases, the Baltimore rescue teams do their life-saving act quickly. Every second counts.

Medical authorities agree that there is a vital interval of approximately four minutes between the stoppage of the heart and the actual death of the brain. Four minutes in which fast resuscitation can mean the difference between restored life and irreversible death.

In her new book, "Four Minutes to Life" (Cowles Book Co.), Miss Cutler describes how ordinary people can save a life through resuscitation.

"In the United States, however, laymen, as well as many doctors, nurses and ambulance attendants are unfamiliar with these methods," she said in an interview.

"The result is the needless sacrificing of the lives of many victims of drowning, asphyxia, heart failure, strangulation, auto crashes and other accidents."

But ignorance of the technique isn't the only reason some aren't saved from sudden death.

"Too frequently," Miss Cutler said, "hospital emergency rooms have only modest first aid equipment and are staffed by nurses or inexperienced interns. The victim saved by resuscitation then dies in the emergency room through faulty diagnosis or poor supportive treatment."

Faulty ambulance service also contributes to the toll.

"Fifty per cent of the nation's ambulances are operated by undertakers and there are numerous recorded cases of ambulance-hearse drivers scrambling to pick up the dead at accident scenes while ignoring the injured," Miss Cutler said.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Cardboard Will Stop Rattling Of Window
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — A little folded cardboard should silence Grace's rattling windows very nicely. Many of our windows in an older house were not a snug fit. Mother took cardboard, white or ivory like the window frame, folded it into a couple of thicknesses and slipped it between the window and frame so it was a tight fit. Silence then reigned on the windiest of days. The cardboard is clean, easily replaced and very inconspicuous behind a blind or curtain.

—TESSIE

DEAR POLLY — I hope I have help for Grace whose windows rattle in an annoying way. A well-known mail-order novelty firm advertises window springs that attach to the sash and frame and exert enough tension to stop vibration. It is also possible to buy white or brown rubber wedges to place between frame and sash to avoid vibration. Most hardware or building supply stores have them and they do work.

—NANCY

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—Our home movie screen has lost its glitter and whiteness. Can this type of material be cleaned? If so, I would appreciate advice on how to do it.

—MRS. A.G.D.

DEAR POLLY—My mother and I both took art lessons but found it difficult to transport oil paintings to and from the lessons without getting fingerprints on them. Mom came up with a neat idea which practically the entire class adopted. She used a wire skirt hanger with clips to carry her wet oil painting around. Nothing touches the picture but the two metal clips on the ends of the hanger. Oil paint takes a long time to dry but now we never get any paint on our fingers when moving paintings around. Such a skirt hanger works great.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the first half of the 20th century, the first thing the U.S. government did in time of national emergency was seize the railroads.

The trains still didn't run on time, of course, but seizing the railroads had a very important psychological impact.

For one thing, it impressed upon the populace the gravity of the situation. People told one another the government wouldn't be resorting to such an extreme measure unless the situation were really serious.

Secondly, it created the illusion that the government was doing something about the crisis and soon would have the situation in hand.

Populace in High Spirits

This kept the populace in high spirits at a time when the realities of the situation called for complete demoralization.

Unfortunately, however, railroad passenger service finally deteriorated to the point where suture of the railroads no longer constituted a significant act in the mind of the average citizen.

Deprived of this recourse, the government was unable to devise another effective response to national emergencies. And the nation has been flirting with disaster ever since.

But now at last it appears that an adequate substitute is available.

Here in the capital, the government makes a practice of dismissing federal workers three hours early when local emergencies, such as half-inch snowfalls, arise.

This, of course, does not prevent horrendous traffic tieups. But it does create the illusion that the government is acting promptly to deal with the problem.

Early Dismissal Works Well

Early dismissal has, indeed, worked so well it now warrants a tryout during national and international emergencies.

If during the recent Mideast crisis, for example, President Nixon had ordered federal workers dismissed three hours early, the situation might have cooled off a lot quicker.

Such a drastic step would immediately have warned the Russians that Nixon was determined to protect U.S. interests in the area. Concomitantly, a lot of us Nervous Nellies here in America would have been reassured that somebody was in control.

Well, the Middle East is relatively calm at the moment, so there's no need for participant action just now. But if the Soviets continue to build submarine bases in Cuba, bureaucrats can look forward to an afternoon off soon.

The Red Cross Board met Tuesday morning, with 15 members present and two guests. The guests were Gilbert Gribble, safety services field representative on the national staff of Red Cross. The other guest was Steve Edwards, a young man inducted into the Navy the following day.

Reports were given by the standing committees. Mr. Gribble was introduced by Mrs. Gerald Marlar. He told the group the accident rate was on the increase that most accidents could have been prevented by a little know-how by caution. He urged First Aid classes and water safety should be continued to be taught in communities. Mr. Gribble praised the Gray Co. Chapter for its fine work in the field. He plans to be in Pampa during the week of Oct. 19th through 23rd.

URBAN ATHLETICS

CHICAGO (UPI) A former Notre Dame defensive back turned attorney put his football skills to work Friday to stop a robbery attempt at the Commonwealth Edison Co. building in the loop.

Anthony Carey, who played for the Fighting Irish in 1964-65, heard a teller's cry for help. Carey chased the would-be thief to a downtown corner and felled him with a flying tackle.

Tammy's Author Found Dead

DUBURY Mass. (UPI) — Bertha R. Sumner, 79, author of novels made into the "Tammy" series of movies, has been found beaten to death and strangled. Her 16-year-old grandson was arrested Thursday in connection with the death.

Mrs. Sumner wrote under the name Cid Ricketts.

Her body was found sprawled across the threshold of her bedroom of her home, a remodeled windmill, Wednesday night, police said. Cause of death was given as beating with a hammer.

Early Thursday morning, her grandson, John Ricketts Sumner, 16, appeared at the police station and police said he gave them information leading to the discovery of Mrs. Sumner's body.

He was arrested and arraigned on a charge of juvenile delinquency—murder.

Mrs. Sumner was born in Brookhaven, Miss., but spent much of her life in New York and Massachusetts. She used her Southern background for some of her books, including "Tammy Out of Time" and "Tammy Tell Me True."

Her book "Quality"—titled "Pinkie" in the movies—was produced in 1947.
