Embraces, cheers greet hostages

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) — Thirty-nine weary Americans freed after a harrowing hijack and more than two weeks' captivity in Beirut were welcomed to freedom today with embraces and cheers from relatives and countrymen and a hearty American breakfast.

"Welcome back," a flag-waving crowd of about 100 people shouted as the freed hostages got off buses that transported them to the U.S. Air Force Hospital at Wiesbaden, where they were offered free medical and psychiatric check-ups.

Many of the hostages — who had been traveling all night — looked tired. But spokesman Navy Capt. Jay Coupe said after they ate breakfast: "They are all in good spirits."

Minutes before. Vice President George Bush and more than 200 people greeted the former hostages with a chorus of Bruce Springsteen's pop song "Born in the USA" after they disembarked from a U.S. Air Force C-141 transport plane at Rhein-Main Air Force Base, 24 miles to the east.

"You're back and America did not compromise her principles to get you back," Bush said. He and his wife, Barbara, warmly greeted the hostages in an impromptu reception line, and friends and relatives hugged them.

Bush reminded the group of the killing of one hostages, U.S. Navy Petty Officer Robert Dean Stethem, 23, of Waldorf, Md., and of seven other Americans kidnapped in Lebanon since March 1984 who remain missing despite President Reagan's effort to tie their release to that of the hijack hostages.

"Even in the joy of your safe return civilized people everywhere condemn the actions of those whose criminal behaviour causes their ordeal to continue," Bush said. Reagan, in a five-minute television address, welcomed the release of the hostages and added: "Terrorists be on notice: We will fight back against you in Lebanon and elsewhere."

The freed hostages had left Damascus, Syria, shortly after midnight, hours after a caravan transported them out of Beirut, Lebanon, to Syria

Signs hung from the Wiesbaden hospital said, "Welcome Back to Freedom," and "We Missed You."

The Americans were to stay in the facility's third floor, where the 52 Americans taken captive in Iran stayed after their 1981 release.

The officials said the freed hostages probably would stay for about a day before returning home.

Relatives who flew to West Germany were offered lodgings at a nearby hotel, and 10 telephones were provided so ex-hostages could call family members in the United States, officials said. Coupe said about 15 relatives and friends were in West Germany.

"No one has gone to bed yet. They are still meeting families and friends," Coupe said some 90 minutes after the former hostages' 6:30 a.m. arrival at the hospital. "Some of them are already undergoing medical evaluations."

Thirteen relatives flew to Frankfurt on Monday on a TWA flight. Airline employees said 34 more relatives were expected on two other flights later in the day.

Airport spokesman Wolfgang Schwalm said family members and some airline employees wore yellow ribbons.

U.S. State Department officials said a team from Washington would question any former hostages who were willing to talk about their experience.

The hostages were held in Beirut by Shiite militiamen since June 14.

Retaliation?

Despite pressure, Reagan can't react

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite public pressures for action, the Reagan administration has ruled out armed retaliation against the Beirut hijackers.

It wasn't an easy decision for an administration that came to office promising "swift and effective retribution" for terrorist acts against Americans.

The pressure for some action against the Beirut terrorists was brought home to President Reagan when he was greeted by cries of "Retaliate, retaliate" from a crowd of about 100 people who stood outside the Bethesda, Md., home of Secretary of State George P. Shultz Sunday night.

Reagan had gone there for dinner after 39 hostages were on their way to freedom Sunday night

Still a possibility, however, is an attack to put Beirut's airport out of commission, such as bombing or shelling the runways. Shultz told reporters that because it is a safe haven for hijackers, "that airport, I think is something that we have to look at very carefully."

But a number of factors weigh against an attack aimed at the hijackers of TWA Flight 847 who killed one American and were responsible for 39 others being held hostage for 17 days:

—Those responsible are protected from reprisal because they live in urban areas and an attack would kill innocent people, a senior White House offical said Sunday night. "They really are not very vulnerable, and they know darn well they are not vulnerable to reprisals," he said, insisting on

-Seven Americans, kidnapped before the hijacking, are still held hostage and their lives would be put in even greater danger by an American retaliation.

An AP news analysis

-Retaliation that risks killing innocent civilians is outlawed by the 1949 Geneva Conventions on the protection of civilians in wartime, and officials say the administration will respect this accord.

Shultz and other officials went to considerable lengths to explain why they couldn't respond to public pressures for retaliation.

"Vengeance is a kind of visceral feeling people get," Shultz said. "It's natural. We all do. But what we really need to think about is imposing costs and looking to the future and pre-empting."

looking to the future and pre-empting."

It was clear from the outset of the crisis that the hijackers would not give up the hostages without some understanding that they would not be assaulted as soon as they did.

Shultz said the United States will consult with other nations to bar air traffic to Beirut airport.

He also said the nation is making progress against

He also said the nation is making progress against terrorism and that as many as 60 potential incidents have been thwarted in the last nine months because they were discovered beforehand.

The president said in a speech in Chicago Heights. Ill., on Friday, "We cannot accept these repeated and vicious attacks against our nation and its citizens. Terrorists, and those who support them, must—and will—be held to account."

Area plans Fourth of July activities

A rodeo, parade, beauty contest and fireworks will be some of the ways Top o' Texas residents will commemorate the Fourth of July Thursday.

Heading area festivities is Candian's 97th annual Rodeo and Fourth of July Celebration, which residents claim was the first amateur rodeo held anywhere.

The three-day rodeo will feature half-dozen Paso Fino horses, the oldest breed of horses in America. The horses, known for their easy-gaited smooth riding style, will be featured in 30-minute shows at each rodeo performance: 2:30 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 p.m.

Friday and Saturday. They will also be featured in the Fourth, of July Parade through downtown Canadian 10 a.m. Thursday.

Entrants in the parade will assemble at the high school parking lot at 9 a.m. for judging. Awards will be given to the winners of nine categories: clubs. commercial floats, vehicles, novelties, bicycles, horseback riders, wagon trains, riding clibs and industrial floats.

The celebration continues at noon with a barbecue lunch on the courthouse lawn. Admission is free with an advance ticket for the afternoon rodeo.

Registration for the annual Old Timer's Reunion will be at 11 a.m. at the City Hall with prizes awarded to the oldest entrant and the one who traveled fartherst.

The Sagebrush Painters will sponsor an Art Show from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the WCTU library building.

The festivities conclude at dusk with a fireworks display at the city park sponsored by the Canadian Volunteer Fire Department.

Dances will be held in the City Hall auditorium following the Friday and Saturday rodeos Panhandle's Independence Day celebration will start earlier with a Fun Run at 8 a.m. It continues at 9:30 with a parade through downtown.

A Presentation of Colors ceremony will be at 10 a.m. at the Carson County Courthouse. Entertainment will be featured on the courthouse steps throughout the afternoon. Among the groups performing will be Pampa's Calico Capers at noon and the Groom High School cheerleaders at 2 p.m.

The Miss Carson County contest will be held at 3 p.m. At 9 p.m. the celebration moves to the Panhandle Country Club for a fireworks display

Former quarterback facing runoff in East Texas race

By SCOTT McCARTNEY
Associated Press Writer

Republican Edd Hargett, former National Football League quarterback with the New Orleans Saints and the Houston Oilers, fought his way into a runoff with Democrat Jim Chapman in a special election in Texas' 1st Congressional District.

Both parties claimed the results showed their strength in conservative Northeast Texas.

Hargett, 37, will face Chapman, former Hopkins County district attorney, in a mid-July or early August runoff to fill the seat vacated by Sam B. Hall Jr., who was appointed a federal judge.

Saturday's election drew national attention and financing as Republicans, who enlisted the support of Vice President George Bush, tried to take a seat the Democrats have held for more than a century.

In complete but unofficial returns, Hargett had 29,814 votes, or 42.2 percent, to Chapman's 21,370 votes, or 30.2 percent.

Five other Democrats and one independent finished far off the pace.

"We're very excited about the results. I had two goals, one was to win by 10 percent and the other was to get over 40 percent. And we accomplished both of them," Hargett said.

"I'm just tickled we've done as well as we've done. Everything was just about as we predicted," he said.

Chapman, 39, said he thought the vote was an indication that the Democratic base was not eroding.

"There's no greater indication (of Democratic strength), I think, than what's been demonstrated today," Chapman said.

"If a candidate can only get 41 percent of the vote and outspend the other candidates 2-to-1, that indicates that Texas is still Democratic country."

Democratic country."

Chapman's supporters said the runoff will be a different story, since instead of six Democrats dividing the Democratic votes, it will be one Democrat against one Republican.

"The Democratic National Party has stayed in the background throughout the primary. Now that there is only one Democratic candidate, I think the posture of the party will change," Chapman said.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and other Texas Democratic office-holders will hold a series of fund-raisers on July 8 for Chapman.

U.S. Rep. Tony Coelho of California, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, termed the election a "devastating loss" for the Republicans

"Despite $750,000 and a large Democratic field, Hargett could not run away from his Republican label," he said. "This is a tremendous victory for Texas Democrats and a devastating loss for national Republicans."

But U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, a former Democrat who switched parties and won a landslide victory in November, saw it differently.

Since its inception in February of 1983, Pampa Crime Stoppers has been instrumental in obtaining information regarding crimes committed in Pampa through citizen involvement and a cash reward incentive offered to those citizens who anonymously volunteer information.

Due to anonymous tips received through Crime Stoppers, the Pampa Police Department has been able to clear a significant number of offenses and recover and appreciable amount of stolen property and illicit drugs.

Cash rewards of up to $1,000 are available for information leading to the arrest and indictments of persons committing crimes in Pampa. The Board of Directors of Crime Stoppers urges citizen involvement in reporting crimes in our community. Call Crime Stoppers at 669-2222.

Seal coating moves to west of Barnes

Pampa's summer street seal coating project has moved west of Barnes Street today after the first week of work was completed Friday.

Forrest Cloyd, senior engineering technician with the city's Engineering Department, reported the seal coating operations have been completed east of Barnes and south of Tyng to McCullough.

The preventative maintenance operations continued today west of Barnes and south of Brown.

The seal coating project "has been going good," he said, with citizen cooperation helping the work move along.

The project will involve approximately 38.5 miles of city streets in the south sections of the city, with 745,000 square yards of pavement to be covered with asphalt and seal coat rock, Cloyd said.

Contractor for the project is G. W. James, Inc., of Pampa, with a cost of $366,435. Engineering Department personnel will be inspecting the work

Cloyd reminded residents not to park their vehicles on the streets receiving the seal coating between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The contractor will be putting door hangers on homes of residents a couple of days ahead of time to notify them when the work will reach their streets.

Residents also are asked not to water their lawns or wash cars during the same hours to avoid interference with the seal coating activities.

Cloyd also said residents should keep children and pets away from the streets since the hot asphalt which is being applied will have temperatures between 300 to 375 degrees Fahrenheit.

Vehicles also should not be driven on the asphalt until after the seal coat rock is laid, allowing at least 30 minutes for the asphalt to cool.

The seal coating is designed to seal cracks in the pavement and prevent water from seeping through and causing potholes and other deterioration.

DAILY RECORD City officials attend institute

Pampa City Manager

Mayor Cowan and Commissioners Reed, Curry and Carruth attended the Leadership Institute for Mayors, Council Members and Commissioners last week at the Moody Convention Center in Galveston

Commissioners participated in several work sessions and met with other communities to discuss issues relevant to cities in Texas

The commissioners attended such work sessions as the New Official Orientation, which covered the legal framework and structure of city government, helped focus on the context in which mayors and commissioners make decisions, and reviewed the powers and duties of both positions.

Other topics covered included the Open Meetings Act and the Open Records Act under which the city operates. In addition, a broad overview was provided on municipal finance and budgeting procedures.

The commissioners received a final report on the bills passed by the Texas Legislature during the recently concluded 1985 legislative session and covered other municipal issues with which cities are concerned.

Other workshops in which the commissioners participated included Economic Development Trends and Practices, a review of the Texas Economic Development Commission, legislative changes affecting the use of Industrial Revenue Bonds, and Economic Development Strategies for communities in the 20,000 to 25,000 population range

Other topics included conducting hearings, which concerned parliamentary procedures and rules of order, the role of the mayor, and practices involving citizen participation in commission meetings and public hearings. Also covered was Policy Making and Leadership, the City Commission at Work, which featured a discussion of team work and ways to make city government officials efficient and responsive Commissioners also participated in a workshop dealing with federal issues, federal legislation, the federal budget deficit and their impact upon Texas cities.

Sen. John Montford of Lubbock provided an in-depth look at the water issue within the state, the comprehensive water bill passed by the Legislature, and the amendments to be considered by the voters in November. Work has been underway for some time to develop and adopt a comprehensive statewide water plan, and this session provided a status report on the water plan and an update on activities to address Texas' long-term and short-term water needs

Technically oriented sessions involved innovative waste disposal methods, dealing with mobile homes and modular housing, and successful privatization contracts. the process whereby cities are turning to the private sector to provide traditional city services such as garbage collection, water and waste water treatment, or police services.

Commissioners also participated in a number of sessions dealing with the changing role of leadership in the 1980s. Speakers decisions are made and approaches for getting things done. focusing on leadership styles. citizen expectations of government and strategies to improve citizen participation within the governmental process And, finally, the commission attended work sessions dealing with liability issues - the impact of litigation or lawsuits upon the roles of elected officials and the governmental process. The commissioners were challenged through the keynote address by Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio, dealing with three broad areas:

the importance of economic diversity and the role of local government in developing a strong local economy;

the opportunities for cities within the Sunbelt as a result of the migration of the population from the Frostbelt to the Sunbelt (Texas will become the second most populous state in the nation by 1990) and the impact it will have on cities throughout the state;

- and the importance of local government leaders to reach out and include the local citizenry in the governmental process and ensure that their government is responsive to citizens' needs.

The entire Leadership Institute was extremely profitable to the mayor and commissioners and has instilled a desire on their part to set goals for the City of Pampa organization.

I encourage anyone to visit with the mayor and commissioners concerning their trip and discuss and share with them your goals for the direction in which you would like to see the City of Pampa move.

The questions that remain

WASHINGTON (AP) - Why was Robert Stethem shot in the head and killed? Why were some of the TWA passengers separated out by their hijackers? Because of their 'Jewish-sounding names'' or because they carried military ID cards, or for some other reason?

Did the United States put secret pressure on Israel to release its Shiite prisoners? How is Trans World Airlines going to get back its Boeing 727?

There are plenty of them, the questions that remain in the aftermath of the odyssey of TWA Answers may come tumbling out as the 39 freed passengers tell their stories in the next few days, but some questions probably will be left as historical puzzles.

Who were the hijackers? They haven't been identified with certainty yet, though President Reagan and Secretary of State George P. Shultz say they must be

Blast destroys cars outside U.S. hotel

ATHENS, Greece (AP) - A bomb blast early today destroyed five cars parked outside a seaside hotel used to house U.S. military men, but caused no injuries, police

A U.S. military spokesman said at least three of the burned-out cars belonged to American military personnel.

A police spokesman said at least one explosive device went off under a car owned by an American serviceman at around 3 a.m., triggering a fire that gutted four other vehicles parked nearby

The cars were parked outside the Apollon Palace Hotel in Kavouri, a seaside suburb of the Greek made to pay for their crime.

What finally persuaded Nabih Berri, the Shiite leader, to send the passengers to Syria and freedom on Sunday?

Was it, as the administration suggests, that he came to realize he had nothing more to gain in keeping the Americans? How much influence did he exercise on the hijackers? Was Berri an intermediary, or the hijackers' representative? The White House praised Syria for its help, but not

"He has portrayed himself in various roles," Shultz told reporters. "He's portrayed himself as a mediator; he's portrayed himself as a party and a member of the group. So I think we have to do some sorting out about Mr. Berri.'

What kind of reception will Berri get the next time he visits relatives in Dearborn, Mich.?

Another political question: Why, on Friday afternoon, in a speech in Chicago Heights, Ill., in a moment of the greatest of delicacy, when his administration had maintained utmost silence for two days, did President Reagan choose to talk

He called the hijackers "thugs and murderers and barbarians." Was it part of some overall strategy to signal American impatience? Or was it Reagan being Reagan, a president whose rhetoric is sometimes harsher than his actions?

And what about Reagan's statement in the same speech that "terrorists, and those who support them, must — and will — be held to account"? What motivated the president's words? One Shiite leader said they jinxed the arrangement that would have led to the hostages' release 24 hours before it occurred.

What provoked the slaying of one passenger, hapless Navy diver Stethem, 12 hours after the hijacking started June 14? A White House fact sheet, put out Sunday, says Stethem was shot when an Amal intermediary requested by the hijackers did not arrive. But that only begged the question. Why Robert Stethem? It is a question his parents, too, must be asking.

How did the hijackers get on the plane with their weapons on the

The passengers that were "separated out" - on what basis was that done? Throughout the ordeal two theories - that they might have been Jews, or might have been military — were offered.

School board meets Tuesday

Trustees of the Pampa Independent School District will meet at 5 p.m. Tuesday to consider bids, contract agreements and other routine matters.

Board members will consider awarding bids for basketball equipment, the depository bank for the coming school year and the sale of used vehicles.

In other matters, the trustees will select an independent auditor for the 1984-1985 school year and consider a transfer agreement with Grandview - Hopkins Independent School District.

The board also will designate the official radio station for school athletic events for the coming school year and consider a policy update on second reading. In addition, the trustees will act on personnel matters involving reduction in force, resignation and employment, with a possible executive session scheduled.

Texans mark hostage freedom with tears and prayers

By The Associated Press
Champagne, tears and prayers greeted the news that 39 American hostages — three of them from Texas — had been set free from 17 days of captivity in Lebanon.

In Corpus Christi, about 20 homeowners began untying yellow ribbons about noon Sunday, when the release appeared certain. The ribbons had fluttered for much of the hostage ordeal.

"We took them down as soon as we had heard the hostages crossed the border into Syria," resident Lydia Alvarado said.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, issued a statement saying he was pleased with the hostage release. But he also added a sober note to the day.

"We must not forget, though, that one of the hostages did not make it home alive and that seven Americans kidnapped in Lebanon, are still being

In Dallas, an interdenominational service was scheduled for noon today in Thanks-Giving Square. In addition to the bells in Thanks-Giving Square ringing for three minutes, a moment of silence was planned for Robert Stethem, the Navy frogman killed on the first day of the crisis, and for the seven Americans kidnapped in Lebanon earlier.

Among Texans, there were calls for military retaliation against the Lebanese group that held the hostages from a hijacked TWA flight, but also pleas for patience in U.S. dealings with the Middle East.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said, "It is imperative that those who are guilty of hijacking and murder be turned over to American or international authorities to stand trial and face punishment. I think it is important that we hold the Shiite militia Truck driver Daniel Goldwin of Houston said in an interview at a Mesquite truck stop Sunday that he feels the United States should strike at the organization behind the hijacking.

'I'm tired of getting pushed around," Goldwig told The Dallas Morning News.

Another truck driver, Henry Keiner of Ontario. Calif), said he couldn't understand why the United States held off from an assault at the airport where the hostages were being held captive.

"We know the guy in charge, yet we don't get him. I don't understand. We put him on TV, but we don't put them in jail," Keiner said.

The Rev. Jerold Shetler of Preston Hollow Presbyterian Church in Dallas said he cautioned his parishioners "against any impulsive or vengeful act" and "prayed for patience and a spirit of reconciliation and peace.

Max Zucker, rabbi at the Congregation Tiferet

Israel in north Dallas, returned from Israel on Wednesday. He said Israel probably will release its Lebanese prisoners in the next few days.

"My first reaction is, 'Let's retaliate.' But that's going to bring about counter-retaliation, so I'd have to rely on the wisdom of the men and women in Washington and in Israel," Zucker said.

Stanley Toland of Highland Park, who said he had flown a flag since the day the hostages were taken. said Israel should refuse the hijackers' demand to free several hundred Lebanese prisoners until the seven are freed.

Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas, of Hunt said the United States should insist that the seven be

'While their plight has not been as well publicized the holding of these hostages is in total violation of international law," Loeffler said.

But the 39 hijacked passengers of TWA flight 847 were foremost on most minds Sunday

In Laredo and Houston, the families of the Texas hostages saw their loved ones free, alive and well at a news conference televised from Damascus, Syria, the first stop for the hostages on the long journey

In Laredo, the families of freed hostages Vicente Garza, 53, and his son-in-law Robert Trautmann Jr., 37, sipped champagne and watched the Damascus news conference Earlier the family had attended a special Mass.

'God has heard our prayers. We've understood what you were going through and we know how you? felt," Monsignor William T. Thompson told them. In Houston, the hometown of hostage spokesman Allyn Conwell, 39, the scene was similar. Conwell's brothers and sister gathered at their mother's apartment complex to watch the news conference as Conwell's mother and wife headed for a rendezvous with Conwell in Europe.

His sister, Carma Little, wept when she saw her brother on television, but she also said she was proud of the way he handled himself.

"We're just busting. We're so proud of him," she For Robert Trautmann's family, Sunday's events were particularly sweet. Trautmann was one of four men held apart from the other hostages in Beirut by members of the militant Shiite group Hezbollah. The group did not want to release the men Saturday, a development

"We were treated well," his relieved family heard Trautmann say in Damascus that delayed the release for a day.

The Texas Judicial Council reported recently that district courts - Texas' primary trial courts for civil litigation and felony increasingly clogged by a backlog of unresolved cases, mostly civil The sluggishness of the Texas courts has pushed the backlog of civil cases up from 580,000 on Aug. 31, 1983 up to 620,000 cases on Aug. 31, 1984, according to the council's

But Tom Green County courts dispose of two-thirds of all civil cases within six months of filing, records show. Statewide, only 47 percent of civil cases are disposed of in six months.

And Tom Green County disposes of 85 percent of all criminal cases within four months while the state average is only 54 percent.

As of last Aug. 31, Tom Green County had 794 civil cases and 222 criminal cases pending.

The credit, or blame, for the speedy concept of justice goes to 119th District Judge Curt F. Steib.

Steib teamed in the 1970s with former 51st District Court Judge Earl Smith, now an appeals court justice, to devise a system of tracking cases and of pressuring lawyers into speedy action.

That system, Steib said, remains in place today, with a few modifications added by district judges Royal Hart and Marilyn

The system mimics, in some ways, the federal court system, with extensive use of pre-trial hearings to resolve as many legal and factual issues as possible in advance of trial.

Some attorneys accustomed to the system say it's a blessing.

Once in a while it becomes necessary to "get something off of our chests," so today's column will be a collection of thoughts on a variety of subjects.

Problems at post office

First, let us consider the sorting of the mail at the local establishment of the United States Postal Service. More specifically, the sorting of mail and its placement in the boxes at the post office.

For several weeks I have been receiving mail in my personal box at the post office intended for numerous other boxes, some not even close to mine. And of course there is not a day which The Pampa News does not receive mail addressed to the City of Pampa, other businesses or even some individuals.

It was my understanding that post office employees, before being given employment, had to take and pass a fairly stiff examination. Presumably this included the ability to read.

But, apparently the persons placing the mail in my box and the drawer assigned to The Pampa News cannot read the box numbers. I really haven't minded taking the time to write on the envelope that it was "Not for Box . " when there was only one or two articles of mail. But, when it starts taking five or more minutes to sort out the mail which does not belong to my family and write the notation that it wasn't in the right box, I feel it is time something is done to correct But, what really brought on this discussion was the failure of the U.S. Postal Service to deliver a check from a federal agency, addressed to my wife, to our box at the local post office. Upon contacting the federal agency, Sharon was informed by mail that her missing check had been cashed at an Amarillo bank. On the back it bore the notation "for deposit only" but there was no signature of an individual or notation of a business, the letter noted

What bothers me is how the check came to be cashed in Amarillo. Did someone here find it in their post office box and decide to convert it into cash or did someone at the district post office in Amarillo prevent its delivery to the Pampa post office.

When a government business — and the  $U.S.\ Postal\ Service$  is certainly a government business despite the attempts to convince the public it is a separate, private operation — cannot do the function it was set up to do, in this case deliver the mail to the proper place, it is time something is done to correct the situation.

Could it be is time for the delivery of mail to be turned over to

Why is it that whenever the city street department repaves or otherwise improves a city street, it is less than three weeks before the city's utility department digs a hole in the pavement to patch a leaking water line.

Recently I observed a city crew placing a patch on a leak in one of the city's ancient water lines. There were already several patches large clamps curved to the diameter of the pipe with rubberized material which is compressed against the leak when bolts are tightened — on the particular pipe.

In fact, there were so many patches in the section of pipe from which the covering dirt had been removed, that the workmen found it difficult to install another one to stop the leak.

Since many of the city's water lines have been in use for about 60 years, it seems it would be cheaper in the long run to replace them. compared to the cost of the expensive sealing clamps and the salary of city employees who apparently do nothing but make the repairs on the leaking lines.

Also, by replacing the water lines before any street improvements are undertaken, there would be no cutting of holes in the streets with the resulting bumpy patches which follow

Several weeks ago I discussed the advantages and disadvantages of residing on a street in which there is no alley behind the residences

This necessitates the city placing the trash dumpsters along the curb line in front of the houses.

Since the trucks which unload these dumpsters must drive next to the curb, cars parked along the side of the street on which the dumpsters are located prevent city personnel from emptying some of the dumpsters.

Since the trucks normally empty the dumpsters on the same day each week, it has not been difficult for my family and our neighbors to keep cars off the street when the dumpsters are to be emptied But, according to city officials not everyone is as considerate and several vehicles consistently block the dumpsters each week

In an effort to overcome the problem of parked cars being in the way, a couple of weeks ago city personnel painted signs on the dumpsters along the several streets where they are necessary which proclaim 'no parking, 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

But, guess what happened the first week after city personnel painted the no parking signs on the dumpsters? The dumpster in front of our house was emptied at 6:20 a.m. before anyone on the street had time to move the cars parked in front

County doesn't take sober Statistics seriously

SARITA, Texas (AP) — Kenedy County has one town, one highway, one liquor store, no bars and about 600 residents - many of whom are laughing at reports from a national alcohoism institute

The institute recently said the county, best known as the home of the famous King Ranch, has one of the highest death rates from alcohol-related traffic accidents in the country

Turcotte told the Dallas Times

James Colliver, a Washington research psychologist in charge of the study for the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. said the rate of alcohol-related deaths can be "falsely inflated by deaths of non-residents.

When Colliver's study comes out this fall, it will state that between 1975 and 1980, the annual rate of deaths from alcohol-related motor vehicle accidents in Kenedy County was 288 per 100,000 population.

The same rate for Dallas County is a mere 3.9 deaths per 100,000 and for Texas as a whole, 9.2 deaths per 100,000. The U.S. average is 11.3.

Only 32 people have died in Kenedy County traffic accidents in the past 10 years.

Ronald Reagan, rhetoric to the contrary, how does vour government grow? With silver tongues and department rungs and petty bureaucra was elected five years ago on a promise of reducing the size of the federal government. We heard a lot about prospective mass layoffs, about cuts in government services, and voila!—the size of the federal government actually increased.

Last november, we heard more election-year rhetoric about cutting the scope and size of government. Analysts of the Reagan presidency argued that the president would no longer compromise on his agenda to reduce government. Because he would not stand for election again, he would not have to bow to the pressures of bureaucrats and lobbyists.

Indeed, shortly after his re-election, he brought into his inner circle a couple of people who supposedly had impressive conservative credentials-folks who have long argued against an ever-growing federal bureaucracy. Folks like Patrick Buchanan.

What happened? Government grew. And continues to grow. Recently, the same Patrick Buchanan who left the Nixon bureaucracy to write columns attacking the Carter bureaucracy, took advantage of his position in the Reagan bureaucracy to announce that he was creating yet another layer of government.

This one will be called the "response desk" and it will be buried in the president's communications department, which Buchanan heads. He says he will hire a few more writers for the White House staff for the specific purpose of criticizing the president's critics.

Perhaps Reagan himself believes he is losing the war to liberal think tanks and lobbvists who churn out propaganda that swings public sentiment-and Congress—away from any real efforts to bring government into line. But adding on yet another layer of bureaucrats to his own administration is hardly a good example. It is particularly ironic at a time when many commentators have noted that conservative or market-oriented think tanks-Heritage, Cato, Reason, Pacific Institute-have seized the initiative from the old-line liberals.

There will always be excuses to add to the size of government, but this president has always maintained in public that those excuses no longer hold sway. Apparently his communications director never got the message

Bumper-sticker economics

The other day, NBC business reporter Mike Hensen breathlessly reported that things looked 'very bad for the Reagan tax reform program' because some econometric forecasters said it would cause a recession in 1986, and increase 1990 deficits by $50 billion.

He did not point out that the three major "forecasters" he quoted have seldom come within 30 percent, up or down, of an accurate forecast of the next quarter - let alone, five years.

For example, one of the harshest critics of the president's tax plan, Allen Sinai of Shearson Lehman, said last year that T-Bills would be yielding 13.8 percent by the end of June 1985. That's more than double their latest (June 17) 6.7 percent auction level

As John Kenneth Galbraith once said. Economists make forecasts not because they know, but because they are asked.

One of those most often wrong, and most often asked, is the ubiquitous and perennially pessimistic David Jones, an economist for the investment firm of Aubrey G. Lanston. Jones is a regular guest on all four TV networks. In just the last sixty days he has appeared on ABC, PBS (McNeill-Lehrer), and CBS where he predicted a recession by the fourth quarter of this year.

On none of these forecasts did the interviewers even hint that, based on Jones' 1981-84 track record, there was at least a 90 percent likelihood that he would be wrong.

A year ago this month, for example, Jones predicted that at the end of 1984, short-term T-Bill rates would be 11.5 percent. They were 8.16 percent; he was 41 percent off. And he was 56 percent off on his forecast for T-Bill rates this

While he was making those awful forecasts (which would have cost bond investors a potential 30-50 percent gain) he also admitted to The Wall Street Journal, "This was a particularly rough period for forecasters and economists should learn to be humble, and don't bet too much on your forecasts.

Jones also admitted to the Journal, "Almost everyone underestimated the powerful momentum of the recovery." That admission grew out of his January 1983 prediction to ABC's David Hartman that the "recovery, when and if it comes, will be anemic and short-lived." He warned that unemployment would not go below 9 percent before 1984 or early 1985

This, incidentally, followed by about eight months his May 1982 prediction that interest rates were going to rise, sinking the economy further into the doldrums. Instead, interest rates plunged 40 percent, starting the great Bull Market of September-December 1982

This was almost as bad as his July 1981 forecast that Reagan's economic programs would produce only moderate 3-1/2 percent growth in 1982, accompanied by a "re-ignition of high inflation." Instead, the economy fell into a minus-2 percent recession, and inflation plunged to less than 4

We asked Jones about all this, and he said, "I can't quarrel with your evaluation of my long-term forecasts - but most of my work deals with short-term weekly and monthly outlooks."

The question is: Why do the networks ask Jones for long-term forecasts so regularly? One answer surely is: He can ALWAYS be counted on to bad-mouth President Reagan's economic policies.

But Jones is also symptomatic of another more serious fault in economic forecasting - "Bumper-Sticker" economics, the too-ready willingness to read whole future scenarios by filtering the most transitory current data through vour own biases

he co

For example, when Jones and other gloomsayers pounced all over the low 1985 first quarter GNP (under 1 percent), they were eliberately ignoring two well-known facts: First, there is at least a 60 percent chance that number will be REVISED greatly over the next 1-3 years and second, individual sluggish quarters are not uncommon in an otherwise very strong economy as we have just seen by the 1985 second quarter's 3 percent GNP surge.

More important, one of the best indicators of how the economy is REALLY doing is actual federal tax revenues - and in January, February, and March, they registered an average of 12 percent gains over the same months a year ago suggesting nearly 8 percent REAL growth in wages and personal income, and April revenues were up a huge 18 percent. All this was further reflected in the strongest four-month rise in consumer installment debt in history.

So, when David Jones tells you the economic sky is falling, you should put on your toreador suit and prepare for rampaging bulls!

The immigration problem

If a million anybodies were invading the United States, our National Guard would be marching, our Army. Navy and Air Force responding, our civilian population mobilizing to repel the invader. A million somebodies are invading the United States - illegally - and hardly anybody is doing Vietnamese are arriving in the United States as 'political refugees." Poles are arriving as 'parolees." Haitians are accepted as "entrants." Most Mexicans arrive as "wetbacks.

Illegal immigration now accounts for one-quarter of our nation's population growth. In Los Angeles County, 67 percent of all newborns in the county hospital system are born to illegal immigrant mothers.

Illegals are out of the closet now; demanding 'rights' traditionally reserved for citizens. They have forced Texas schools to educate their Illegal immigrant tenants marched on city hall in Santa Ana, Calif., protesting evictions - and with the full support of city officials. Because illegals now make up one-fourth of the total population of Santa Ana.

Los Angeles is now the second largest Mexican city in the world.

Southeast Asian refugees bring a specific problem to Santa Clara County in California, where they suffer serious mental problems two to six times more frequently than the non-immigrant Longtime immigration official Hal Boldin says, The United States can throw all the manpower and money it wants into the illegal alien problem and it will not be solved until Congress approves employer sanctions.

He means employers must be punished for employing illegals.

Yet 20 nations, including Canada, have found sanctions to be an ineffective deterrent. Convicted employers merely view fines as a routine cost of doing business. Each new reform proposal pits employers against the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Hispanic-rights groups against unionists, federal officials against local officials.

Lawmakers, frustrated and fatigued, look the There are four bills in the current Congress intended to curtail illegal immigration; none will; opponents call them "cruel.

Typical' family not what it used to be

By Don Graff

White House communications director Patrick J. Buchanan says the administration's tax reform proposal is designed to benefit the "traditional" American family, one where the husband goes off to work every day and the wife stays home to take care of the kids.

As a consequence, he is taking considerable flak, especially on Capitol Hill. And well he should, since he is hopelessly out of date on the current composition of the American family.

How far out happens to be the subject of a fortuitous study of changing family and employment patterns just released by the Conference Board, an industry-supported nonprofit research organization

What the study finds is that Buchanan's traditional family hasn't been typical since at least the end of World War II, which, with the population surge that followed, marked a major turning point in the characteristics of the country's working popu-

By about 1960, for example, working men whose wives worked outside the home began to outnumber men who were the sole support of households - i.e., men in the Buchanan family. The rate of change in this and other family characteristics has accelerated with every passing year. Today, married men providing the sole support of families are down to 10 percent of the total work force less then 12 million out of 112 million. They are far outnumbered by working couples - 47 million individuals constituting 40 percent of all jobhold-

What the study shows is that there is no longer any such thing as a typical working family. What is typical is that most adult Americans of whatever gender and marital status work.

Broadly classified, there are 40 million married men at work, 27 million married women, 16 million individuals who were formerly married (predominantly divorced and widowed women) and 29 million singles (mostly men).

The working population can also be broken down into several other categories, which, to some extent, over-

Working women, married and not, represent 40 percent of the total. They include a majority of women with children - 60 percent of all mothers. Working men still outnumber working women, but the Labor Department projects a workforce gender split of 50-50 in another

Another rapidly growing category are the singles, now a quarter of all jobholders. Although people who are formerly married but without dependent children are counted, most single workers have never married. And most are male. The category has doubled in size since the 1950s and '60s, in part, the study suggests, because of rapid population growth

 the baby boomers — and delayed marriages

The changing composition of the work force has been accompanied by not unrelated changes in household characteristics. Of the nation's 85 million households today, less than 60 percent involve married couples. At the end of World War II, it was 80 pecent. Other styles in housekeeping couples living together outside of conventional marriage, single-parent families, singles not living with family members - have been outpacing the formation of married-couple households by more than three to one one since 1970. The Conference Board study, formidably entitled "Corporations and Families: Changing Practices and Perspectives," is intended to guide corporations in the development of personnel policies and benefit programs for what is termed "a new employee constituency." The authors see significant changes underway, including variations in conventional work schedules and in benefits pack-

But the significance of the findings extends beyond the executive suite. The continually changing characteristics of the American working family should be of more than peripheral interest to the tax writers on Capitol Hill - and conceivably even to the communicators in the White House.

Language abuse brings defenders to the fore

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A million thanks movement, not speech. for pointing out the irritating speech habit that so many of our young people exhibit today. I refer to the use of "you know" three and four times in one sentence.

It is simply maddening to hear you know, you know, you know' from so many of our celebrities (especially athletes) while they're being interviewed on television and when I was in college. One of my professors helped me overcome it when every time I said "you know," he interrupted me with, "No, I don't know until you tell me.

Please print this, Abby. If everyone who is guilty of the "you know" habit would ask a friend to interrupt him with, "No, I don't know," what a blessing it would be.

NO MORE YOU KNOWS

DEAR NO MORE: I could fill a column with responses to the column on sloppy speech habits. And I think I will:

DEAR ABBY: I dearly love the English language, but it appears that either our English teachers aren't teaching or their students aren't learning. I am appalled at the number of teen-agers who use the verb "goes" instead of "says." Example in point:

'Butch and I were discussing this problem, and Butch goes, 'But you promised you'd do it.' Then I go, Well, I changed my mind.' So Butch goes, 'That's not fair; a promise is a promise.' Then my mom goes, 'Will you kids stop fighting!' and I go, 'We aren't fighting.

Two sisters achieve academic success despite being blind

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Two Minneapolis sisters who have been blind since birth are building distinguished academic records and say they just don't have time to pity themselves.

This spring, Lisa Larges graduated magna cum laude from St. Olaf College in Northfield, with majors in English, women's studies and religion. The 21-year-old has been admitted for graduate studies at San Francisco Theological Seminary, a Presbyterian school. Allison Larges, 23, a 1983 graduate of Augsburg College in Minneapolis, is pursuing graduate studies in data base management in biomedical statistics at the University of Minnesota. She says she averages about a "B" and expects to get her master's next year. She also works part time for the State Services for the Blind. These young women are the children of Eugene and Marilyn Larges, who have normal vision, although with corrective limited vision of large objects but are legally blind. Early in life, the girls saw medical experts who concluded they couldn't do anything about their sight. At St. Olaf, a liberal arts college with a large number of honors students, Lisa enjoyed academic combat. Her dorm room book shelves were loaded with Brailled volumes of the Bible and a 35-volume Brailled dictionary.

She took class notes on a portable Brailler, a compact recording machine that punches characters onto stiff paper, providing her notes for review. She also used a Braille typewriter and a regular typewriter outside the classroom.

To help her adjust to the campus as a freshman in 1981, her parents made a large, raised map of St. Olaf buildings.

Once she tumbled off a 3-foot-high walled terrace but landed in a snowpile. "I sat there and laughed for 10 minutes," she

While Lisa is comfortable with the orderly ways of the Greek classics, Allison finds fascination in the exacting sciences of mathematics and chemistry.

Their parents tell another side to their personalities. While Lisa has been spirited in sticking up for her rights and opinions, Allison "is more of a social butterfly," says her father, who is a sales account executive with General Mills.

'She's always been a whiz at math," Larges said during an interview, and Allison explained, "You just have a feel for distances, you just know.

That accounts for the relative ease with which she boards city buses and moves about the house and answers the phone with alacrity. At the "U," she relied more on tapes for studies than books.

"I hardly ever read," she said, but admits to having once plowed through the Brailled version of "Gone With The Wind" in 13 volumes

An avid sports fan, she attended 11 Minnesota Twins baseball games last year and takes in athletic games via television. At the movies, she finds, "I can see quite a bit if I sit close enough.

Until those hostages also are freed, "this is no moment for celebration," the president said

And he asked those who helped in the crisis of the TWA passengers "to show even greater energy and commitment to secure the release of all others held captive in

Secretary of State George Shultz said the United States has "solid information" that Syrian President Hafez Assad, who helped win the release of the hijack victims, has been "working assiduously on the problem of the other hostages."

Shultz, asked what would compel their kidnappers to release the Americans seized in the past 16 months, said, "I hope they will respond to the same considerations that must have led to the release of the 39 ... Certainly if there is any humaneness, that should be done and it should be done promptly."

The Syrian head of state "has put a considerable amount of will ower into it and we will be pushing nard," Shultz said.

Amid the massive effort to free the TWA captives, relatives of the earlier prisoners have complained their loved ones had become America's "forgotten hostages."

A senior administration official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said, "Our diplomacy in the private exchanges from the beginning had always included the seven .... We wanted all of them

At the Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany, where the newly released hostages were taken for military checkups on their way home from Damascus, Syria, seven U.S flags were added Sunday to the 39 flying in tribute to the men from the hijacked jetliner.

Amal Shiite leaders in Beirut, who arranged the release of the hostages from TWA Flight 847, said they had nothing to do with the earlier kidnappings and could not release the seven.

Samuel Lewis, former U.S. ambassador to Israel, said an Assad-sponsored effort on behalf of the seven would be hampered by his lack of direct control over the captors, believed to be a Shiite faction called Hezbollah, or "Party of God."

"But the area they're in is certainly under the control of Syrian forces," Lewis said.

Peggy Say, whose brother, Terry Anderson, was kidnapped by gunmen on a Beirut street on March 16, remained hopeful even after it was apparent the hostage deal failed to include her brother.

'They expected Terry to come out; somehow he was lost in the shuffle with the other six," she said. "But they know where he is. And they've been able to speak, apparently to his captors through

China helps bank in Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) - For the first time, the Bank of China has helped to shore up a local bank, saying Peking is determined to maintain Hong Kong's economic stability during the transition period before the Chinese take over this British colony in 1997.

In a move to defuse a banking crisis in the colony, the Bank of China joined Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corp. on June 17 in providing a substantial line of credit to Ka Wah Bank, which was hit, by rumors that it was in financial straits.

Rumors about Ka Wah, one of Hong Kong's medium-size banks, spread after the government took over Overseas Trust Bank on June 7 to prevent its collapse.

It was the second time in less . than two years that the government has acquired a bank to safeguard the interests of its depositors and creditors.

The takeover of Overseas Trust, the fourth largest in the colony, sparked fears of further bank collapses and sent share prices on the Hong Kong stock exchange plummeting

The joint action by the Bank of China and Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank quelled the fears and restored confidence in the financial markets.

So Yuen-Hing, deputy general manager of the Bank of China's office in the colony, told reporters that his bank's decision to aid Ka Wah "showed its determination to maintain the stability and understanding of Hong Kong's 'delicate economic situation.

The English-language daily, the Hong Kong Standard, editorialised that the Bank of China's action "will do much to stabilise the banking system and money and stock markets in general."

"It definitely shows how keen China is to maintain the stability and prosperity of Hong Kong," the

The decision by the Bank of China to bail out Ka Wah came less than a month after Britain and China ratified their agreement returning Hong Kong to Chinese sovereignty in 1997

Under the accord, Peking pleged to maitain Hong Kong's present legal and capitalistic systems for 50 years after the Chinese

The Hong Kong government has, however, said there was no political significance in the action by the Bank of China

Hong Kong's chief secretary, Sir David Akers-Jones, described the move as simply a case of "the larger banks coming to the aid of

Labor leaders don't like ruling

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - A recent Supreme Court ruling forbidding labor unions to punish workers who leave their labor groups and return to work during a strike will have little effect in Texas, union leaders say.

'This is a definite move against the unions and just reflects the nature of the Supreme Court towards unions." said John Rogers, spokesman for the Texas AFL-CIO.

But Rogers said the impact would be minimal because the number of people who cross picket lines is insignificant compared to the number of people who strike.

Texas is already a right-to-work state, so employees cannot be forced to join a union.

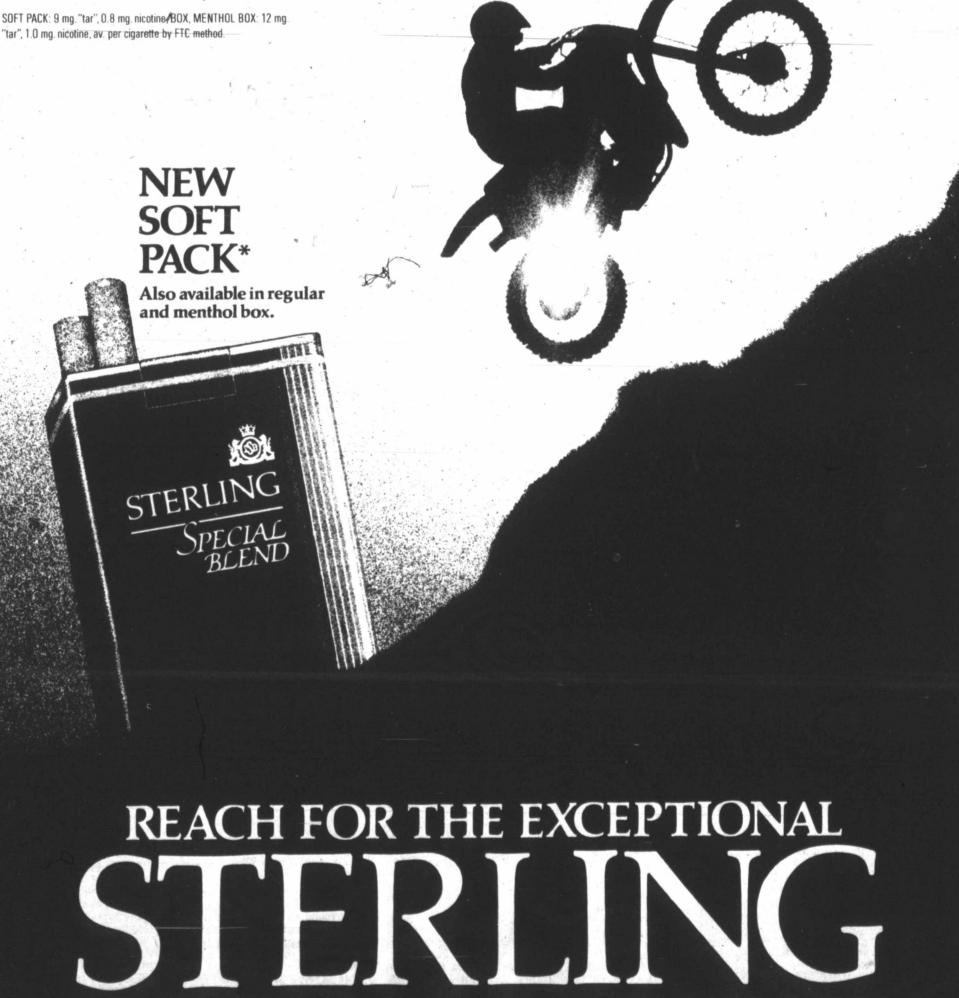

Before the Supreme Court's ruling last week, union locals had the right to impose fines on members who quit during a strike and crossed picket lines to go back to work. Members had to pay the fines to be allowed back in the

"The ruling will have a zero effect in Texas and other right-to-work states. A member who is fined and didn't want to pay it would just quit the union, Rogers said.

Guerrero sets homer record

By BEN WALKER

Moments after completing a home run spree that put him next to Babe Ruth in the record books, Pedro Guerrero did one final piece of damage. He made a shoestring catch and started a game-ending double play that finished off the Atlanta Braves.

"From now on, I'm going to pretend every month is June," Guerrero said Sunday after his two-run homer in the eighth inning led the Los Angeles Dodgers over the Braves 4-3.

Guerrero homered in his final at-bat of the month, and the shot against Bruce Sutter gave Guerrero 15 home runs in June. Those 15 homers are the most ever hit by a National League player in the month of June — breaking the record set by Ralph Kiner in 1947 and matched by Mike Schmidt in 1977 — and tied the major-league mark set by Ruth in 1930 and later tied by 'Indian Bob' Johnson in 1934 and Roger Maris in 1961.

The major league record for most homers in a month is held by Rudy York, who hit 18 for Detroit in August, 1937.

Los Angeles reliever Steve Howe failed to show up for the game. Howe, who was suspended by the Dodgers during the 1983 season after missing games, was suspended by then-Commissioner Bowie Kuhn during the 1984 season for cocaine use. A team statement said the Dodgers were trying to learn Howe's whereabouts and had placed him on the restricted list, which makes him ineligible to play until reactivated.

In other NL games, Philadelphia nipped Montreal 3-2; Chicago beat Pittsburgh 9-2; St. Louis edged New York 2-1 in 11 innings; Cincinnati slipped past San Diego 3-2 and Houston and San Francisco split a doubleheader, with Houston winning the opener 6-2 and San Francisco taking the second

Astros 6-4, Giants 2-7
After losing the opener of a doubleheader,
San Francisco won the second game to break a 10-game losing streak.

Veteran Vida Blue pitched 7 1-3 innings and rookie Chris Brown scored three runs as the host Giants took the nightcap. Blue, 4-2, had a 7-1 lead after five innings.

The first-game loss gave San Francisco its longest losing streak since the team began playing on the West Coast in 1958. The Giants lost 13 straight in 1944 while in New York.

Reds 3, Padres 2

Player-manager Pete Rose, continuing to lead the suprising Cincinnati Reds from the field and the dugout, slapped an RBI single off Rich Gossage in the ninth inning for the go-ahead run in San Diego.

Rose's second hit of the day moved him within 39 of breaking Ty Cobb's all-time hit mark of 4.191.

Cardinals 2, Mets 1
Dwight Gooden of New York and Danny Cox

Dwight Gooden of New York and Danny Cox of St. Louis hooked up in a pitching duel, yet neither was around to get a decision when the Cardinals won the game in the 11th.

Ivan DeJesus led off the bottom of the 11th with a ground-rule double, and Vince Coleman followed with a game-winning single just inside the left-field line.

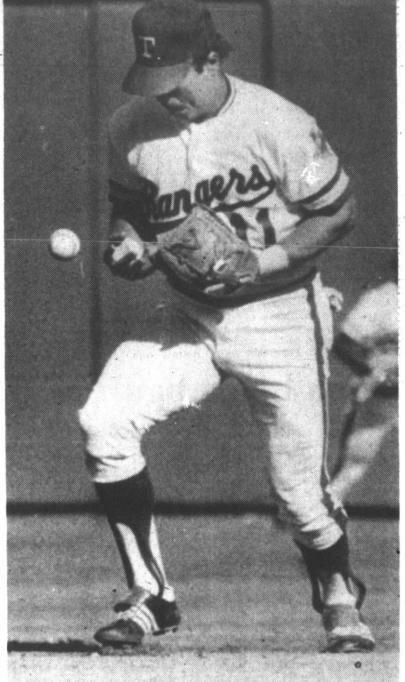

Both hits came off Jesse Orosco, 1-4, who took over for Gooden to start the ninth. Ken Dayley, 2-0, the last of four Cardinals pitchers, got the victory.

Phillies 3, Expos 2
Derrel Thomas, who played for Montreal last season before being sold in September, lined a pinch-RBI single in the ninth inning, capping a two-run rally that led Philadelphia over the Expos.

The loser was reliever Jeff Reardon, who leads the majors with 22 saves. He had a 2-1 lead going into the top of the ninth.

Cubs 9, Pirates 2
The hitting of Keith Moreland, Billy Hatcher and Dave Lopes helped Chicago win for the fourth time in five games since ending its 13-game losing streak.

Moreland drove in three runs, two with a double during a five-run uprising in the eighth inning that broke a 2-2 tie. Hatcher, a rookie, contributed four hits, including two doubles, and Lopes finished the offensive surge with a two-run homer in the ninth.

Blue Jays getting relief this season

By DICK BRINSTER AP Sports Writer

The opposition's book on the Toronto Blue Jays prior to this season was stay close, wait until the bullpen door swings open and get ready for the post-game celebration.

But the Blue Jays, tired of late-inning losses that spoiled the efforts of consistent starters, did something about that problem last winter. They added time-tested relievers Bill Caudill and Gary Lavelle, and apologies are no longer necessary.

Lavelle, who excelled for 10 years with the San Francisco Giants, choked off a fifth-inning threat Sunday by the Detroit Tigers, who lost to the Blue Jays 6-5 to fall 3½ games back of first-place Toronto in the American League East

Elsewhere in AL it was Milwaukee 7, New York 5; Baltimore 3, Boston 0; Kansas City 3, California 1; Minnesota 4, Chicago 3; Cleveland 7, Seattle 3, and Oakland 7, Texas 4.

Brewers 7, Yankees 5
"We don't have a guy who's going to be a big thumper, who can knock the ball out of the park, but we'll single you to death," said

Milwaukee's Paul Householder.

He wasn't kidding. The Brewers stroked 14 singles, failing to get an extra base hit for the first time in 38 games. Charlie Moore drove in three runs, two with a tie-breaking two-run single in the fifth.

Orioles 3, Red Sox 0
Keep the first batter off base and you've won half the battle, according to Baltimore's Mike Boddicker, 8-7, who scattered eight hits.

"It makes things a lot easier if you get that first hitter in an inning." said Boddicker, who did it seven of nine times in winning for only the second time since May 21.

Cal Ripken and Gary Roenicke drove in runs with first-inning singles, and Boddicker, the AL's only 20-game winner last season, struck out six and walked one for his first shutout of the season.

Royals 3, Angels 1
"My arm felt great and I felt that I could go out there and shut them out," Kansas City's Mark Gubicza said.

Gubicza, 6-4, did just that, blanking the Angels on three hits over eight innings before leaving the game with a slight muscle strain in his left thigh. Dan Quisenberry pitched the ninth, yielding a leadoff home run to Ruppert Jones — his 11th — before nailing down his 14th save.

Twins 4, White Sox 3
Roy Smalley's "lucky" two-run double keyed a three-run seventh inning as Tom Seaver, 7-6, failed to win his 296th game.

"It's a good thing everybody else played well," said Smalley, who struck out three times and fouled a 2-2 pitch that Chicago catcher Carlton Fisk was unable to hold. Samlley ran the count to 3-and-2 before doubling off the right-field wall.

John Butcher, 5-7, snapped a personal five-game losing streak as Minnesota won its fourth straight.

Indians 7, Mariners 3
Carmen Castillo, farmed out to get his stroke back, hit his first homer, drove in three runs and scored twice to lead Cleveland, which snapped an eight-game Seattle winning streak and a four-game losing streak of its own.

In a frightening incident, Cleveland starter Roy Smith was hit on the right side of the head by a hard line drive off the bat of Phil Bradley in the third inning.

"I'm OK, just a little dizzy," Smith said from his hospital bed in Seattle.

A's 7, Rangers 4
League-leader Dave Kingman hit his 19th home run, Dwayne Murphy added a two-run homer, his 12th, and Mike Heath drove in three runs to back the strong pitching of Steve McCatty.

Jay Howell got his 16th save for Oakland, which handed Charlie Hough of Texas, 5-10, his career-high sixth straight loss.

Novo's boot robs Bandits

By The Associated Press
Novo Bojovic remembered last year's USFL playoffs, when he missed three field goals in a losing effort for the Michigan Panthers.

"I wasn't about to let last year repeat itself," the Oakland Invaders placekicker said Sunday after booting a 23-yard field goal on the last play of the game to give his team a 30-27 victory over the Tampa Bay Bandits in the opening round of the United States Football League playoffs.

Bojovic also atoned for a 31-yard field goal attempt he missed with 5:14 left. He earlier kicked field goals of 37 and 52 yards.

"I wanted to be in a position to win it," he explained. "I knew God was looking over me last year and He put me in the same situation this year."

But this time, Bojovic came through, setting up a game next weekend at Memphis against the Showboats, who on Sunday battered the Denver Gold 48-7.

Also next weekend, Eastern Conference champion Birmingham, 14-5 after a 22-20 victory over Houston, hosts the winner of tonight's game at New Jersey between the Generals and the Baltimore Stars. The Generals will go without quarterback Doug Flutie, whom Coach Walt Michaels will keep on the bench with a mending collarbone. The defending champion Stars will try to slow down Herschel Walker, the league's top rusher, with the stingiest defense in the USFL.

At Oakland, Tampa Bay quarterback John Reaves passed for three touchdowns and ran for another. His 15-yard TD pass to Willie Gillespie with 9:41 left in the game tied it at 27, but kicker Zenon Andrusyshyn missed on a 35-yard extra-point attempt after penalties nullified two earlier successful conversions.

Then Oakland marched to the winning field goal, waiting until only two seconds were left on the clock to call a time out.

"Until I just got in the referee's face and yelled at him, they weren't going to call time out," said Oakland wide receiver Gordon Banks, who said he had asked for time out when six seconds showed on the clock.

"We played with all of our hearts, but we just came up a little short," said Reaves. "Oakland is a great football team. They did it when they had to." Showboats 48, Gold?

At Memphis, the Showboats used a pair of long-range runs and two short plunges to rout Denver. Derrick Crawford broke loose for a 63-yard punt return and running back Leonard Williams scored on a 35-yard run. Ricky Porter collected a pair of TDs on 1-yard plunges.

On Saturday, host Birmingham advanced as Danny Miller kicked five field goals, one from a record-setting 57 yards, and Houston kicker Toni Fritsch missed a 48-yard attempt in the closing seconds.

Miller, who is 11-for-11 on postseason field goal tries, split the uprights from 39, 26, 41, 57 and 35 yards to tie the USFL one-game record. The finals will be Friday, July 12, at 6 p.m. with a second game at 8 p.m. if necessary.

Champion scores decisive victory

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Jimmy Paul not only wanted to beat "Rockin" Robin Blake in his first title defense, but wanted to do it so convincingly he would stand out among the lightweight division's three champions.

Paul accomplished both goals Sunday with a masterful combination of defensive skills and punching power, knocking the challenger down in the ninth round before stopping him at 2:14 of the 14th to retain his International Boxing Federation crown.

"I wanted to show I had the heart and desire and I wanted to show I had the big punch," said Paul. "Robin Blake is a guy who has more heart than anyone I ever fought."

Paul, who won the title April 6 with a 15-round decision over Harry Arroyo, recorded his 19th knockout in running his record to 23-1. More importantly, perhaps, he won the respect of his trainer, Emanuel Steward.

"To beat Robin Blake is what really made him the champion," said Steward. "Beating Harry Arroyo gave him the championship, but Blake was the man he had to beat to really lay claim to it."

Paul dominated Blake from the first bell, piling up points in the early rounds by being patient and picking off Blake's jabs while scaring with occasional, but very effective, combinations to the head.

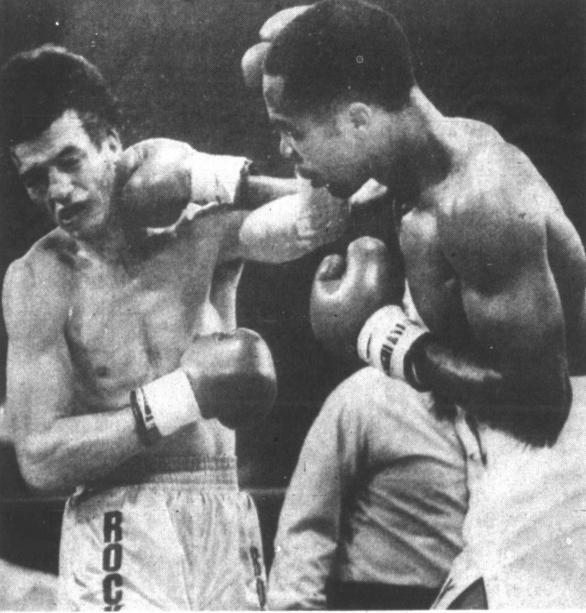

A left hook late in the ninth round wobbled Blake and the combination that followed put the challenger down for the first time in his pro career. Blake managed to finish the final 20 seconds of the round but from then Paul hit Blake almost at will.

The end came in the 14th round when Blake, pummeled by a combination on the ropes, turned his back and began walking away. Referee Joey Curtis then moved in to stop the fight.

"I knew where I was all the way up to that point," said Blake, who admitted that "maybe it was for the best" the bout was stopped.

"I tried, that's the bottom line," the challenger added. "I hurt inside but I have to accept it. I lost."

For Blake, the loss was another

Capable of the most delicate touch play and driving groundstrokes but also prone to sudden lapses of concentration, she had her service broken twice in the opening set, then failed to capitalize after gaining a break early in the second

Meanwhile, Jimmy Connors,

who was not playing Monday, admits he's a step slower and may be playing his last Wimbledon tournament as he seeks his third title at the All England Club.

Now 32, Connors hopes the advantage of having two days off will help bring back the skills that carried him to Wimbledon victories in 1974 and 1982

Because of the delays, Connors, seeded third this year, won't play his fourth-round match until at least Tuesday

Against India's Ramesh Krishnan in a third-round battle Saturday, Connors' age showed in a 7-5, 5-7, 7-5, 6-2 victory

"I was always fighting an uphill battle. I have played better. If Connors is to capture another Grand Slam title, Wimbledon would appear to be the perfect place for him to do it. "Playing two matches in a row is ot that much of a bother and have (Sunday) off to recuperate.

"The points go a lot quicker on grass and there is not as much tennis involved as on clay or hardcourt. I would not want to play more than two in a row."

Questions continue about Connors' future. He hasn't won a championship since last year and has lost to a horde or young, promising players.

"As far as retirement goes, just let me worry about it," he said. "I'm not out there for you. Now I am enjoying the tennis and that's enough. I still enjoy the competition and earning a living at the same time.

Keyes, Harris teams advance

Keyes Pharmacy and Harris Sporting Goods advanced in the City Little League Tournament with victories Saturday.

Keyes stayed alive by beating the Rotary Club 14-11, while Harris slugged One Bull Ranch, 15-5. Keyes and Harris will play each other at 7 o'clock in tonight's game. the winner will play Glo-Valve Tuesday night for the right to meet Dean's Pharmacy, the only undefeated team in the tournament. That contest will be Wednesday night. If an additional game is necessary to decide the championship, it will be played at 4:30 p.m. July 4.

Monty Waters was the winner for Keyes, with Ricky Gonzalez getting credit for the save. Loser

Jeff Cloud, Gonzalez and Bryan Ellis had two hits each for the winners. One of Ellis' hits was an inside the park homer.

Tony Bybee was the winning pitcher for Harris and helped his own cause by slamming out four hits and scoring three runs. Brandon Wells also scored three runs for the winners.

Losing pitcher was Paul Brown. Todd Black had three hits for One Bull, including a double

Sutton ends victory drought

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Hal Sutton figured it was about time he won a golf tournament.

"I hadn't won since the 1983 PGA," Sutton said Sunday. "I got into position to win several times and didn't.''

His position didn't appear promising on Sunday's first playoff hole of the $500,000 St. Jude Memphis Classic, when his third shot on the par-4 hole stuck on the fringe of the green. But he sank an improbable 30-foot putt to defeat David Ogrin for the $90,000 winner's check.

"I needed a win more than anyone on the tour," said Sutton, a 27-year-old Shreveport, La., resident who used a final-round 65 to finish 72 holes at 9-under-par 279 and gain a berth in the playoff.

Sutton, tied for the lead with Bill Sander after shooting a 65 on Thursday, sagged completely off the leader board with a 76 on Friday and a 73 Saturday.

'Whether it had been a 65 or a 75. I needed a win worse than anybody out here," Sutton said. "It's always real pleasing when you come from behind like that and shoot a low score on the last day. I feel real lucky to have beaten him, to tell you the truth.

Ogrin, who shot a final 71 over the 7,282-yard Colonial Country Club course, drove into the middle of the fairway on the playoff hole, and put his second shot in safe ground about 60 yards from the green. He looked about ready to win the tournament when his approach shot landed eight feet from the cup, while Sutton's landed in the fringe.

But after Sutton sank his putt, Ogrin's birdie putt slid by the hole. Still, the $54,000 paycheck was the biggest ever for Ogrin, whose best previous finish in a tournament had been a tie for 13th.

Sutton, who was six strokes off the pace when play began, had a round featuring eight birdies, a bogey and nine pars. He missed a six-foot birdie putt on 18 that would have given him the title outright.

Meanwhile, Ogrin could no better than a 71, although he also had a chance to win the tournament on the 18th. But his birdie putt from eight feet slid by. George Burns, the leader by two strokes after 54 holes, suffered a rash of birdies during a round of 76 and finish at 282, three strokes

Gil Morgan, a former Memphis Classic winner who had a 67, and Russ Cochran, who closed with a 71, finished in a tie for third at 280 to collect $29,000 apiece. Bob Tway and Tony Sills finished at 281 and each took home $19,000
