City officials get look at hotel project

By CATHY SPAULDING Staff Writer

Pampa city officials Wednesday got a look at what needs to be done convert the historic Pampa Hotel into apartments for elderly residents.

Once a Panhandle landmark, the 58-year-old hotel on S. Frost now stands vacant, cluttered with furniture, clothing racks, dental equipment and boxes of 1970 motorcycle magazines. The furniture and other items will be up for a public sale Friday and Saturday

Pampa mayor Sherman Cowan and city manager Bob Hart visited with Texas Panhandle Community Action representatives Margo Stanley of Pampa and Louise Young and Ron Baugh of Amarillo and with Fredricksburg architect Stanley Klein and Houston developer Robert Caplan, who are working on the hotel rehabilitation project.

The Pampa Hotel, formerly the Schneider Hotel and vacant since 1969, is being converted into a 52-unit apartment complex for low to moderate income elderly residents. Tentative plans call for 44 one-bedroom units and eight two-bedroom units. Under this rental assistance program, residents pay whatever they can afford - based on income and medical expenses - while the rest is subsidized by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The TPCA is administering the subsidies.

In June, HUD approved an allocation of $189,312 in funds for the administrative and rental assistance payments. The moderate rehabilitation program is designed to upgrade existing rental units that do not meet HUD housing quality standards and provide a 15-year contract for eligible HUD participants.

Caplan, who also owns the Pam senior citizen apartments on N. Wells, said that although completion of the hotel rehabilitation project is at least a year and a half away, people are already expressing an interest in

Property insurance rates in Texas Panhandle cut

AUSTIN (AP) - Property insurance for big-city homeowners will cost more next year, particularly along the Gulf Coast, but smaller cities inland will get a price break, according to the State Board of Insurance.

The board also approved Wednesday substantial cuts for renters of apartment and condominiums throughout the state.

The board approved 3-0 its staff recommendations for a statewide 6.7 percent increase of $58 million for homeowners and a statewide 25

If Olson's motion is approved, any insurance firm that wants to deviate from standard prices set by the board would have to get permission from the state insurance department.

The board also approved, 2-1, extending the cancellation notice time that a firm must give a policyholder from 10 to 14 days. Olson said he had firsthand knowledge of the problem because the insurance on his condominium was cancelled recently without adequate advance notice.

Member Carol Rylander wanted

Antonio up 1.2 percent, from $426 to $431

Premiums on $20,000 worth of furnishing in a brick veneer apartment or condomium in Austin went down 25.2 percent from $258 to $193. The same 25.2 decrease was posted for renters in Corpus Christi, from $310 to $232, and Dallas, from $258 from $193. The renters rate dropped 25.1 percent in Lubbock, from $279 to $209, and 24.9 percent in Houston, from $309 to $232.

Senate studies bigger deficit reduction plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate negotiators are considering a final bid to break the congressional budget deadlock with a sweeping $340 billion deficit-reduction package, according to congressional sources.

The plan, which would reduce next year's projected budget deficit by more than $60 billion, includes -Making inflation adjustments in income tax rates and Social Security and other benefit programs every two years, instead of annually. This would save about $19 billion over three years.

-Imposing a $5-a-barrel fee on imported oil. This would raise $20 billion to $30 billion over three years

-Reducing the domestic spending cuts in a Senate-passed budget and moving toward a House-passed budget as a conciliatory gesture.

Congressional sources, who spoke on condition they not be quoted by name, emphasized that senators still are trying to decide whether to formally propose the package to House negotiators as part of the effort to revive stalled congressional budget talks. Those talks could convene as early as today.

The scope of the new plan being passed among Senate budget negotiators goes well beyond the deficit-reduction packages passed earlier this year by either the House or Senate.

The original House-passed budget called for a three-year deficit-reduction package of $259.1 billion while the Senate-passed spending plan contemplated $295.2 billion in savings by 1988

Negotiators from each chamber have been unable so far to settle on a compromise version of those two plans.

President Reagan made a said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan. "It was a friendly discussion, but nothing was really laid on the table,'' said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass.

It was unclear whether the new Senate package, if formally offered, could do anything to get the budget talks moving again.

For example, Dole, who has previously mentioned the idea of inflation adjustments for taxes and Social Security every two years, has also conceded it has attracted virtually no support.

In the absence of a budget, the House approved a resolution Wednesday that Democratic sponsors said would bind the chamber to achieving $56 billion in spending cuts next year even if congressional budget negotiators are unable to agree on a new spending plan.

Splash Day swims free

A surprise awaits swimmers at the M. K. Brown Pool this Saturday - admission will be free!

The Splash Day activity will be sponsored by the city from 1 to 7 p.m. for "kids" of all ages, according to Jackie Harper, recreational coordinator for the Parks and Recreation Department.

The free admission is being provided to allow all citizens to have an opportunity to become more acquainted with the city pool, if they haven't done so already, Harper said.

The new pool, located at Kentucky and Sloan, is in its second year of operation, with wooden decks and sunning areas

'We've already started a waiting list for people interested in living in the new apartments, just like we have a waiting list for the Pam Apartments," he said.

And, although preliminary engineering reports found the structure is sound, the insides of the building need go be gutted. Caplan said the building's former owners are responsible for getting the hotel cleaned out before construction begins. Old, torn matresses, broken black-and-white television sets and other debris are heaped on the ground outside the hotel's back porch while box springs are piled on the porch.

The industry had asked a statewide average increase of 15.8 percent for those owning or buying a home

Board Chairman Lyndon Olson also served notice the board would make another decision soon on his motion to cancel on Nov. 15 all discounts now offered on property insurance the mid-term cancellation notice time lengthened to 30 days.

"Hopefully this would break the cycle of fierce price-cutting, often undisciplined, that exists in Texas," Olson said.

Under the board action, rates for owners of a $100,000 brick veneer home in Houston would increase 20.5 percent from $449 to $541 and in Corpus Christi 19.6 percent from $514 to $615.

However, in Abilene, Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland, San Angelo and Wichita Falls the homeowners rate was decreased 6.3 percent from $715 to $670.

Homeowner rate changes for other major cities included Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco rates up 1.1 percent, from $454 to $459; El Paso and San

Hemphill murder conviction reversed

From Staff and Wire Reports

AUSTIN - The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on Wednesday reversed the capital murder conviction of a man found guilty of slaying a Hemphill County sheriff's deputy.

The reversal is the second for Paul Barry Bush, 32, of Amarillo, who has been awaiting execution in the Texas Department of Corrections for the July 12, 1980, shooting death of Hemphill County Sheriff's Deputy Marion Lee "Corky" Guthrie, 52.

Bush was convicted of capital murder in two trials, once in October, 1980, by a Wichita Falls jury, and again in September, 1982, by a Lubbock jury

According to Assistant 31st District Attorney David Hamilton, the criminal appeals court yesterday reversed the Lubbock decision on the basis that the state did not prove Bush knowingly waived his right to counsel before making oral statements which led to the discovery of a shotgun.

The statements led authorities to a shotgun believed to have been used in the shooting and allegedly in Bush's possession district at the time of the Guthrie murder, said he had not yet received the written decision but had been informed of the reversal by telephone

District Attorney Guy Hardin prosecuted the last Bush trial in Lubbock

The Wichita Falls trial results had been reversed on the basis that Bush's prior drug convictions had been heard in testimony. The appeals court judges ruled the evidence had been extraneous and should not have been introduced.

Hamilton said a third trial for Bush is possible, but that decision will await receival of the court's opinion for reversal

The district may agree with the opinion and then hold a new trial. If it disagrees with the reversal cause, the district can file a motion within 30 days for a rehearing, Hamilton said.

In the Hemphill County case, Guthrie had responded to a silent alarm at Lad's Pharmacy in Canadian about 3:45 a.m. on the date of the murder

According to court records. Bush allegedly fired a shotgun blast into Guthrie's car from the pharmacy's window. The assailant then apparently crawled through the hole in the store window and fired a second blast through the windshield and followed with a third blast at point-blank range through an open car window while Guthrie was calling for help.

Guthrie was pronounced dead on arrival at Hemphill County Hospital shortly after the shooting. The assailant had already fled by the time other law enforcement agents arrived.

Bush was apprehended that same night in Dumas after police found him on foot near some apartments. Bush's arrest was based on a tip from an Amarillo detective

His defense attorneys have tried to claim the deputy was shot by a partner, Larry King. Bush has claimed King accompanied him to the pharmacy, but King denies going, saying he had only loaned Bush his car

Bush's attorneys also have claimed Bush suffers from a degenerative spinal disease which would have limited his actions in crawling through the window and getting to the deputy's car so quickly.

His retrial ended in the conviction that was reversed yesterday because prosecutors failed to show Barry had waived his right to an attorney before talking to investigators

Hurricane Bob leaves 30,000 without lights

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) -Hurricane Bob whipped in off the Atlantic today with heavy rain and winds gusting to 80 mph that left more than 30,000 people in the dark and forced thousands inland and into emergency shelters.

The eye of the first hurricane of the Atlantic season swept ashore near the resort of Fripp Island late Wednesday and began to wane only hours after it was upgraded from tropical storm status along the Georgia coast

The storm died down as it moved inland, and the National Weather Service discontinued hurricane warnings at 6 a.m. and raised gale warnings from Savannah, Ga. to Cape Fear, N.C.

The meteorologists said the primary threat was inland flooding associated with heavy rains.

But most damage appeared to be confined to scattered broken windows and downed tree limbs and power lines, and no injuries were reported as the storm swept inland

"The biggest thing we've had has been power lines down," said Phil Gardner, the assistant director of the Charleston County Emergency

Preparedness Division, adding that about 250 people left their homes voluntarily

Farther inland the problem was not high wind but heavy rain and flooding, said James Gregory, the state Emergency Welfare Service Coordinator.

"It was a minimal hurricane," said weather service meteorologist Dick Shenot in Charleston.

Detentions reach 792; four blacks shot dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Police said today they shot dead four blacks in rioting near Johannesburg, and the number of detentions under the five-day state of emergency rose to 792.

Despite rising international pressure, the white-minority government Wednesday defiantly defended the emergency declaration, saying it will not yield to "perpetrators of violence who burn people alive.

President P.W. Botha said Wednesday he was left 'speechless'' by France's decision to recall its ambassador, suspend new investment in South Africa and ask the U.N. Security Council to condemn "increasing repression" of blacks in South Africa

The Security Council agreed to meet today on France's request. The French decision was the strongest Western reaction yet to the state of emergency in 36 cities and towns which allows police to arrest without warrants, impose curfews, seize property and seal off areas

A police spokesman in Pretoria said 792 activists were in detention by 8 a.m. today. The additional 127 from Wednesday was down from the average of more than 200 on each of the first three days of the emergency, imposed Sunday.

Nearly all those held are black community leaders and students who have been in the forefront of confrontations with government-backed black councils

A police report from headquarters in Pretoria said a mob in a township on the East Rand, the industrial area east of Johannesburg, stoned an army patrol late Wednesday. Police fired rifles and shotguns to disperse the crowd, killing two men and two women and wounding 16 others.

At least 14 blacks have been slain in rioting since the emergency took effect Sunday. Police have said the number of violent incidents and damage to property have declined noticeably from the level of violence before Sunday.

Some 500 blacks have been killed in nearly a year of unrest against apartheid, South Africa's system of racial segregation under which 5 million whites rule 22 million blacks.

The majority have been shot by police, but black mobs also have slain many blacks viewed as collaborators with the government. Many have been burned.

The police spokesman also reported rioting in the eastern and northern Cape Province and the northern and western Transvaal, including stone-throwing and gasoline bombings.

The report did not specify the townships where the violence occurred, under a new policy of trying to "tone down" news clash occurred in Daveyton, a township 25 miles east of Johannesburg

Foreign Minister R.F. Botha, no relation to the president, said the government must restore order before it can hold meaningful negotiations with moderate black leaders.

He said militants incite the international community against South Africa by presenting themselves as advocates of democracy who are deeply worried about black rights.

'There is too much at stake for all South Africans to allow our future to be determined by perpetrators of violence who burn people alive," he said. "In order to ensure freedom for all our people, extraordinary steps must be taken until peace and order are restored.

French Prime Minister Laurent Fabius said, "South Africa is increasing its repression" by imposing the state of emergency.

France was the first of the 10 Common Market nations to act agaist hhe state of emergency France's suspension of new investment is not expected to be critical to either country, and the measure does not affect trade worried about threats from small, heavily armed terrorist groups bent on overthrowing the government and creating an all-white U.S. society.

The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, the Jewish service organization, believes these radical white supremacists have no chance of gaining political power, but nevertheless are 'capable of serious violence.

The FBI's Terry O'Connor and Alan Schwartz of the Anti-Defamation League reported good news and bad news Wednesday at a National Urban League panel discussion of racism in America.

The good news, said O'Connor, is that the Ku Klux Klan "is very significantly diminished in numbers, influence and criminal capability.

past two years, from 203 cases in 1983 to 158 last year

"Hopefully it reflects not only that law enforcement efforts are having an impact, but more significantly that racial hatred is ebbing in this country," said O'Connor, civil rights section chief for the FBI's criminal investigations division.

The bad news, he said, is that "racial violence still haunts this country" with the recent rise of small, right-wing, paramilitary groups

Among them are the Arvan Nations, an offshoot of the Klan and neo-Nazi groups numbering 100 to 150 members and based at Hayden Lake, Idaho. Other such groups of racial extremists are the Posse Comitatus, the Order, and the Covenant, the Sword and the Arm of the Lord.

"There is no evidence of their having any prospect of gaining political influence or power, Schwartz said. "Theirs is a failed revolution. They remain ... a tiny minority, but one capable of serious violence.

O'Connor credits the FBI, the Justice Department's civil rights division and many other law enforcement agencies with preventing the spread of these terrorist groups

Drugs, Central America among topics for discussion by Shultz

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Drug traffic, Central America and other issues straining U.S.-Mexico relations were on the docket of U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz in his meetings with Mexican leaders here today after arriving to begin preparing for President Reagan's expected visit.

No formal agenda was released for the fifth annual bilateral meeting between top U.S. and Mexican officials, but a State Department spokesman in Washington said illegal immigration also would be an important topic.

Shultz, along with officials from the Treasury and Commerce departments as well as the U.S. trade representative, was scheduled to arrive this morning and travel directly to a private meeting with President Miguel de la Madrid. A series of conferences with the officials' Mexican counterparts was scheduled for the rest of the day, with Shultz due to leave Friday morning after a breakfast meeting

Relations beween the two nations were severely tested last February with the kidnap-murder of U.S. special narcotics agent Enrique Camarena Salazar in Guadalajara, Mexico. U.S. officials first said the Mexican government did not act quickly enough to apprehend the murderers.

Members of the Reagan administration, including FBI Director William Webster, since have applauded Mexico's efforts to combat cultivation of marijuana and poppy, while saying there remains room for improvement.

Raids by law officers in seven U.S. states, Puerto Rico and Mexico on Tuesday led to the arrests of 120 people in a crackdown on a Mexican drug connection that authorities said had pumped heroin into the United States for two decades The Reagan administration has also been critical of Mexico's refusal to condemn Nicaragua's Sandinista government. Mexico is a member of the Contadora Group - along with Venezuela, Colombia and Panama - which has been trying for more than two years to negotiate a peaceful settlement to problems in Central America.

During a visit to Mexico earlier this month Gen. Vernon Walters, the new U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said of the two nations' policies, "There are certain differences that are evident.

Renewed Middle East arms sales could wreck the peace process

WASHINGTON (AP) - A secret Reagan administration review of arms sales policies in the Middle East is circulating in Congress as some House members warn that any sales could wreck new hopes for progress in the Arab-Israeli peace process

Completion of the study could pave the way for resumption of arms sales to Jordan and Saudi Arabia, and White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Wednesday it will serve as a "solid basis to make appropriate judgments" on requests to buy advanced weaponry from the United States.

Bank president resigns over counterfeit loan collateral

DAINGERFIELD, Texas (AP) - Residents in this East Texas town are shocked over the resignation of a bank president, who bank officials said kept thousands of dollars in counterfeit money as collateral on loans.

John Scott Jr. 33, president of the Daingerfield National Bank, quit a week ago, said Buck Florence, majority stockholder and board chairman.

We're in a state of shock. He was a local sports figure in high school, he has always done real well, he's widely respected in this county," Daingerfield Mayor Jerry Grainger told The Dallas Morning News. "We have all watched him grow up."

Before working for the largest local bank, Scott had been president of the Daingerfield Chamber of Commerce

"I don't believe it still. I love Johnny Scott," Mariann Wood, office manager of the chamber of commerce, told the News. "I've worked with him for four years, and Johnny is super. I just don't believe

Scott had been bank president for the past 18 months, and he had worked at the bank for about eight years.

"I hand-picked him to be president." Florence said. "Johnny Scott was part of my most inner circle.

The bank executive committee, Florence said, discovered "considerable inconsistencies" with two loans involving a mother and son, whom he declined to identify

"Mr. Scott had made loans, taking bogus money as collateral." Florence said

Scott told Florence the loans were covered with cash, but the money turned out to be bogus, Florence said. He did not say how much counterfeit money was involved, but The News reported it was $600,000 worth

The loans were made over the past 11 months, the last on July 12. The situation came to light last week, Florence said

According to Florence, he confronted Scott when the bank president returned from a vacation, and Scott told him he had a large amount of cash he was holding as collateral.

Florence said he knew the money was counterfeit when he touched the bills.

"I reached down and touched it, and I instantly knew it was bogus. It felt sort of like a sheet of paper that you'd run through a copy machine," said Florence.

Using cash as collateral is "not a customary banking practice," he said.

The bank may recoup a $75,000 building, and he said he expects remaining losses to be covered by insurance.

Customers have been curious about Scott's resignation, but "we've had no significant withdrawals," Florence said.

He said that a check of the vault revealed no other counterfeit funds and there was "no indication whatever that anybody else in the bank is a party to this.

Scott could not be reached for comment by the Associated Press on Wednesday.

The Secret Service is investigating the counterfeit money case, The News said.

Local law enforcement officicals are mystified about where Scott got the bogus bills.

"There is a lot to this story that remains to be unraveled," said Morris County Sheriff Joe Skipper.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jay Angelo of Tyler said, his office was investigating the matter but he declined any further comment on the case.

Elderly man, mother found stabbed to death in grocery

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) - Police early today searched for a motive in the stabbing deaths of an elderly operator of a small grocery and his mother, whose bodies were found in the store Wednesday night.

George Grant, about 71, and his mother, Lillian, about 93, were found stabbed repeatedly in the back after police were notified of the slayings shortly after 8 p.m. at Grant's Grocery Store, police spokesman Gaylord Hayes said.

A teen-age girl discovered the mother's body in the living quarters of the store Wednesday night, and the man's body was found nearby

The Grant family had operated Freetown Road Church of Christ, the store for at least 30 years. Hayes said officers had not determined if the store was robbed late Wednesday night. A small amount of change was found in the store's cash register

"We don't know what the motive was, whether it was a robbery or it was just a murder," Hayes said. He said small amounts of money usually were kept at the store. Mrs. Grant was last seen after 5 p.m. Wednesday, and police believed that both she and her son had been dead about two hours before they were discovered, Haves said.

Roy Holland, pastor for the said the Grants normally would attend worship services on Wednesday night. But he said Mrs. Grant's health problems occasionally kept her from attending services.

Holland said Mrs. Grant had to use a walker as a result of a stroke she had suffered.

Neighbors said the Grants often extended credit to residents of the low income neighborhood where the store is located.

"They would have done anything for anyone," said Marie Mack, 23, a neighbor who grew up with the Grant family.

AUSTIN (AP) - Despite the economic recovery, substantial numbers of Americans are still out of work and many don't get unemployment benefits, a national labor leader says.

Thomas R. Donahue secretary-treasurer of the national AFL-CIO, told Texas union leaders action is needed to help the jobless. "The fact is that last month, unemployment benefits were paid to the lowest percentage of unemployed workers in the last 25 or 30 years.

"Last month, 26.9 percent of the unemployed in this country -

Get up and go outside, kid!

I've had an idea for a column for a couple of weeks, but I haven't had time to do the background research I had contemplated. Or, rather. I haven't made the time.

My conception was to find a hot summer afternoon - not a clear day, but one of those partly cloudy days when the skies are crowded with metamorphizing masses of clouds - and then go down to a park and lie in the shade of a tree while I gazed cogitatively at the clouds above

It was not just an ingenuous attempt to find a way to waste an afternoon away from the office in loafing. Instead, I was going to recall some of the wonder of youth in seeing ships and faces and animals in the clouds. I got the idea from reading a Bloom County comic strip

But despite my good intentions, I just haven't made it down to the park yet

That's the way it happens all too often with those of us who have entered well beyond the opening portals of adulthood: even with those of us like myself who still remain in a state of "eternal puberty," as a friend once referred to me.

We get too busy, too bogged down with responsibilities, too tied up with thoughts of bills and meetings and jobs to just let ourselves rejuvenate our minds with moments of childlike innocence and wonder

Notice I wrote "childlike." There's a great difference between being childlike and being childish; I dare say most of us still have moments of childishness and temper tantrums and just plain foolishness

But to be childlike is to retain a sense of newness and wonder and open-eyed enjoyment of otherwise common or even routine, daily occurrences

So I wanted to go down to the park and just meditate on the shifting clouds, then travel up through the blue skies and beyond to the stars. Instead, I spend lunch time running around taking care of bills or going home for a too-brief nap. And I find other things to occupy the afternoon after work, and chores to fill the weekend free hours, or books to read instead of walking about on a cooling summer evening. And I just think about lying in the park, or watching a ladybug nuzzle against a rose stem, or rolling around the ground in play with a dog. I just think about running through the lawn sprinkler on a hot, muggy day, or bicycling out to explore one of the ravines in the countryside, or stepping outside in the early morning to stroll barefoot through the dew-laden grass. I attended a picnic in Central Park on July 4, and stood back watching the children's games, rejecting offers for participation. Then I "reluctantly" accepted an offer to be a partner with one of the young girls in a three-legged race, not willing to reveal my enjgyment of the occasion.

Later, I enviously gazed at the kids swinging from the chains around a pole. When it was finally free of kids, I ran over and grabbed the handles for a swing-around myself, joined by a couple of older teens who had also been enviously waiting - but only once, then I went back to lying on the grass and resumed my adulthood reserve

But I've done enough of just thinking about doing such things. And writing about them. I think I'll go find some doodle bugs to gaze at in wonder Anyone want to come along?

ROCKPORT, Texas (AP) - One of two prisoners being transported to the state prison escaped early today after taking a gun from Sheriff Robert Hughes, a spokesman for the Aransas County sheriff's department confirmed.

A woman dispatcher said she could give no other information.

However, David Wells, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety in Wells said Hughes was driving Shultz and another prisoner from Rockport to the state prison last night, and were near Madisonville about 30 miles from Texas Department of Corrections headquarters at Huntsville - when Shultz managed to get the sheriff's gun.

TDC Board Chairman Robert Gunn of Wichita Falls said the board will not spend money on land for the unit. It is to be built on donated land or near existing facilities

Despite the push by city representatives for the prison, about 130 people attended Wednesday's meeting to voice concern about safety and inmate escapes should the prison be located in their back yards.

Two Tennessee Colony housewives said their small Anderson County community has been terrorized by the three TDC units in their area

"The prisons attract a different breed of people" who visit inmates, said Ann Costlow, who lives near the three units. "They throw trash, speed on our roads and come up to your house to borrow the clothes off your back.

Ms. Costlow and Earnestine Winkle said they collected 200 signatures in five hours on petitions asking the board to choose another location.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its bles-sings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Opinion

David Stockman will be better off

Poor David Stockman. The former budget director never could get the hang of his boss's logic. President Reagan kept asking him to take 4, subtract 6 and end up at least even.

Stockman, however, kept coming up with negative numbers-and then had the audacity to suggest that Reagan either subtract less, or have more to begin with. No wonder he's out of a job.

The record shows that Stockman left voluntarily, but make no mistake about it-he has been persona non grata around the White House almost from the start because he kept reminding everyone that the only solutions left were the politically difficult ones. Cut spending or raise taxes. You can't spend more than you have without making the deficit bigger.

To be sure. Stockman was no knight in shining armor; he had a penchant for the tax. He never did grasp the concept of supply-side economics, so well illustrated by both the Kennedy and Coolidge tax cuts that spurred an increase in government revenue

Instead, Stockman saw the Kemp-Roth tax-cut bill as a "Trojan horse" designed to lower the maximum tax rate and refused to support is successors. To the budget director, a tax increase always seemed to be the solution of choice

With his boss publicly proclaiming that there would be no tax increases. Stockman worked diligently to reduce government spending. Military spending and subsidy programs were his favorite targets. Sometimes his mouth got the better of him, as it did earlier this year when he attacked the military pension system and the farm subsidy program. The howls from these special interest groups overpowered his lone voice.

Nevertheless. Stockman often spoke the truth. He told Fortune magazine last year: "The problem is that this democracy is somewhat ambivalent about what it wants. It wants low taxes and substantial public spending. How true. The people do not want ever-increasing taxes and Congress does not want to stop spending. After years of running smack up against that dichotomy, David Stockman has had enough. The former budget director had an excellent grasp of the problems confronting goverment. His main problem was dealing with politics. Now he moves to the world of private finances where his instincts should serve him well and politics should not be such a problem

Abortion and the court

The Reagan Justice Department a few days ago asked the U.S. Supreme Court to reverse the Roe v. Wade decision, (which enshrined abortion, for the first time ever, as a constitutional right).

The justices are regarded as certain not to agree. Meanwhile pro-abortion activists are enraged. Was the administration right to ask anyway?

Profoundly right, I would judge. Except for the pro-slavery Dred Scott decision, 130 years ago, Roe v. Wade was the shabbiest, deadliest ruling in all the court's history. Every justice who put his name to it should be deeply ashamed.

What Roe v. Wade did was to create - from thin air, if you please - a whole new constitutional right, the right to end a pregnancy: for that matter, multiple pregnancies, as many as the mother might wish.

Never mind what society, speaking through duly enacted lawmakers, might say to the contrary. Indeed, HAD said. In 1973, abortion was illegal in nearly every state of the Union. Abortion advocates found this situation acutely distasteful. They wanted a national rule - one handed down from Washington. What local yokels thought about abortion was irrelevant.

Obligingly, the high court sat down and, under color of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution, wrote a law of its own - the Blackmun Abortion Rights Act, it might fittingly be called, after the opinion's author

In nearly 200 years, no previous court had discovered that the Founding Fathers saw abortion as one of the chartered rights of humanity

Of course, it could be objected that the Founding Fathers hadn't heard of indoor plumbing far less MS. magazine. It was equally true that the founders had provided a reliable means of updating the Constitution, namely the amending process. How come, if abortion was so important to the national weal, Congress didn't send a pro-abortion amendment to the states for ratification? Such was the question the Supreme Court should have faced but didn't.

Mr. Justice White did face it, with courage and candor. Dissenting, along with his brother Rehnquist, he protested: "I find nothing in the language or history of the Constitution to support the court's judgment. The court simply fashions a new constitutional right for pregnant mothers and, with scarcely any reason or authority for its action, invests that right with sufficient substance to override most existing state abortion statutes.

"The upshot is that the people and the legislatures of the fifty states are constitutionally disqualified ... " White rightly termed the ROE decision an exercise of "raw judicial power.

Abortion, it is said, is a moral question. Just so: It' is a constitutional question, too, because governments have the inherent right to arbitrate moral questions.

In a democracy like our own, that power is assumed to proceed from the people collectively. How startling, therefore, when an unelected judicial body wrests that power away from the people's representatives and parcels it out to discrete individuals!

It is the more startling because of the specific content of ROE v.WADE. The court looks at two lives - the mother's, her unborn baby's. The court assigns a prior right to the mother: because she arrived first, she gets to decide whether the life she carries goes on or ends here and now

The U.S. Constitution permits the ad hoc culling of life. That is what ROE v. WADE means in the end. That is why the decision cannot stand.

The administration several years ago, in a case from Akron, Ohio, argued for a local right to regulate abortion. The court said no. The identical court will is expected to do likewise in the cases now on review, which come from Pennsylvania and Illinois

The Justice Department's brief is proper anyway - the right stand at the right time. If providence affords Ronald Reagan his full eight years as president, there will be more Supreme Court justices who reason like White and Rehnquist and fewer who manipulate like Blackmun. What a blessed relief that will be!

'Just how many banks did 'Mr. Doomsday' say are expected to fail this year?"

Roberto Goisueta, chairman of Coca-Cola, phoned down to the head engineer in the Coke flavor department.

'Willingham?'

"Yeah, Boss?"

"Willingham, keep this under your shirt, but some of the guys up here on the top floor have been talking, and we think we may have really gummed up the works with this new Coke idea.

'Boss, I tried to tell you that six months ago." "I know, I know, but that's all Coke over the dam now. So some of the guys were talking, and we have decided to bring back the old Coke.

"Do what?"

"You heard me, Willingham. I want you to get into the vault and get the original formula back and start making old Coke again. I want it in the stores in time for the August dog days."

"Boss, I can't do that."

"What do you mean, you can't do that? You go over to the bank and get the original formula back, or you'll be tossing crates on a delivery van.

'That bank doesn't have the formula anymore.''

"Willingham, if this is some kind of a joke, I don't think it's very funny.

'Boss, when we went to the new Coke, I didn't think we needed the old Coke formula anymore, so I told the bank just to throw it in the trash.

"Caramba! I've got millions of customers screaming for the original Coke and you told the bank to trash the formula? How can you be so stupid?'

'I was just playing it safe, Boss. I mean, if banks can't keep up with those pens you fill out deposit slips with, how can they guard something as valuable as the old Coke formula? I was afraid somebody else would get their hands on it and bring back old Coke and we'd be sunk.

"Willingham, don't you remember the old formula? You've used it hundreds of times.

"I remember some of it, boss. There's the vanilla extract, but I don't remember if it's one tablespoon or two.

"Of course, there's the carbonation factor, but I'm not certain of the exact percentage. I do know you throw in some caramel and a little phosphoric acid and a dash of caffeine and a pinch of Adolph's meat tenderizer for good measure, and then bring it to a boil, but after that, I'm flying solo.

"Think, Willingham, think.

"Ginger! I forgot all about the ginger. And I seem to remember something about baking soda, and then you stir it all up in a big pot and let it sit covered for two days and then you add the juice from one Vidalia onion."

"By Golly, Willingham! I think you've got it! Get cracking right now. I simply can't stand it much longer.

"Can't stand what, Boss?"

"The dream, Willingham, the dream. It's been the same every night for weeks.

"A nightmare?"

"Worse. It's Mr. Woodruff, Willingham. Mr. Robert Woodruff, our late beloved chairman, Mr. Coke, himself. He is in my dream every night, and he says the same thing over and over. 'What's that, Boss?'

"He says, 'If I have to drink one more New Coke, I'm switching to Pepsi too. (c) 1985 Cowles Syndicate, Inc.

By Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Although President Reagan characterizes his proposed overhaul of the federal tax code as "the strongest pro-family initiative in post-war history," the family he wants to help has virtually disappeared.

The sweeping revision of the tax laws being promoted by the White House is long on nostalgia but short on reality. To a great extent, the family the president has in mind was last seen on Norman Rockwell's Saturday Evening Post cover portraits of the 1950s

Dad was that "traditional" family's sole wage-earner. Mom stayed home to iron his shirts, clean the house and take care of the children - often a brood of four or more.

"I honestly think, coming from a family where there were nine kids, that something like (Reagan's tax package) is extraordinary in terms of benefit to a working-class father and a mother who wants to stay home and take care of the kids," says presidential aide Patrick J. Buchanan.

"This clearly is directed to benefit, maintain and put a floor under the traditional family," Buchanan acknowledges. "There is a bias toward the traditional family built into this.

One manifestation of that bias is Reagan's plan to almost double (from $1,040 to $2,000) the personal tax deduction that can be claimed for every adult and child in a family.

That indeed would be a bonanza for large families like the one in which Buchanan was raised, but the nation's fertility rate (the number of babies the average woman is expected to have by the end of her childbearing years) has dropped markedly in recent decades.

In 1977, it sunk to 1.77, the lowest level in the country's history. It now has increased slightly to 1.79, but that figure is less than half the 3.69 recorded in the late 1950s, the highest level in this century.

Female participation in the labor force has reached the point where more than 55 percent of all women with pre-school or school-age children hold a job. Indeed, almost half of all jet.

married women in families with both husbands and pre-school children now work

The president's tax package, however, includes three provision that provide financial rewards for the dwindling number of women who resist that trend while imposing monetary penalties upon those who do work.

Under current law, workers can shield up to $2,000 of their annual income from taxation by investing the funds in an Individual Retirement Account - but the IRA contribution for a non-working spouse is limited to $250 yearly. The president's plan would increase that latter figure to $2,000

Current law allow families with two wage-earners to claim a tax deduction of as much as $3,000 annually to compensate for the fact that their two incomes invariably push them into a higher tax bracket. The president proposes to abolish that benefit.

Finally, he wants to change from a tax credit to a tax deduction a portion of the money (up to $2,400 yearly for one child and as much as $4,800 annually for two or more children) spent by families for child care when both parents are working.

That change would reduce the tax burden for wealthy households but increase it for families with annual incomes of less than $40,000.

"We're not promoting one familiy over another," the president insists. "We just want all families treated the same.

But when the administration last month submitted to Congress charts illustrating how "typical" families in each state would fare under its plan, none of the examples included fami-lies in which both husband and wife worked.

The White House now is reluctantly considering modifying its original proposal, but the president clearly is unwilling to acknowledge that his definition of a family now applies to only about 8 percent of all households.

OPEC cuts crude oil price

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) -OPEC oil ministers adopted a majority decision today to slightly reduce some oil prices, ministers said

The decision, ending four days of stormy deliberations, was not expected to have an immediate effect on consumer prices for oil products. The price cuts affect a relatively small proportion of world oil supplies.

Mana Saeed Oteiba, the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates, disclosed the agreement as the 13 ministers ended their summer conference. Algerian Oil Minister Belkacem Nabi confirmed it.

Oteiba said the agreement called for a reduction of 50 cents per barrel in the price of heavy, low-grade crude oils, to $26 a barrel. Medium-grade oils were lowered by 20 cents, to $27.20, Oteiba said.

The base price for OPEC's top-quality crudes was left at $28 per barrel.

"We're all happy," Oil Minister Tam David-West of Nigeria said as he left the hotel ballroom where the meeting was held.

Asked whether he was pleased with the meeting's outcome, Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, told reporters: "Yes, I am.

Yamani engineered the deal to reduce heavy-crude prices. Although the deal does not fundamentally alter OPEC's pricing structure, it was intended to satisfy Saudi needs to increase its oil sales, which have dropped to a 20-year low.

The ministers from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries took a 10-3 vote Wednesday night in favor of cutting prices, but decided to resume talks today in hopes of reaching a unanimous decision.

Iran, Algeria and Libya on Wednesday rejected the plan to cut the prices of cheaper heavy and medium-weight oils, conference sources said.

Ecuador's oil minister, Fernando Santos Alvite, said OPEC President Subroto, the Indonesian oil minister, had wanted to reach a unanimous decision, smoothing over internal divisions and boosting OPEC's credibility as an organization that could still act in unison.

price of oil, if entirely passed on to consumers, is the equivalent of a reduction of about 21/2 cents a gallon in the retail price of gasoline.

Saudi Arabia has been pushing for a price cut in low-grade heavy crude in hopes of reviving its falling production, which has reached a nearly 20-year-low of 2.2 million barrels a day.

Much of Saudi Arabia's production for export is low-grade oil. The Saudis are unhappy with the price spread between the lower- and higher-grade OPEC crudes, which they say give the African countries an advantage.

African countries produce primarily higher-quality oil. Some of them oppose price cuts for the lower-grade crude because their oil would become less competitive on the world market. Low-grade oils are less expensive because they yield a relatively smaller proportion of high-value products such as gasoline and jet fuel.

Iran traditionally has opposed any cuts in OPEC prices, although it reportedly has been one of the most frequent violators of OPEC Each $1 reduction in the world rules against discounts.

Study says utility customers overpaid $7.4 billion in year

WASHINGTON (AP) -Customers of 125 major electric companies across the country overpaid $7.4 billion last year in 'phantom'' taxes that were never forwarded to the federal government, an environmental lobbying group contends.

In a study released Tuesday, the Environmental Action Foundation said the utilities charged their customers $10.6 billion for federal income taxes but reported paying only $3.2 billion to the Internal Revenue Service.

The so-called phantom taxes cost the typical residential customer more than $100 in 1984, the group said. It calculated that the utilities are now holding at least $41.5 billion in unpaid federal income taxes collected from customers over the last 30 years - the equivalent of $486 for every household in the nation.

Nine companies in Texas and New Mexico charged customers for taxes not paid, according to the group: Central Power & Light, $34.7 million; El Paso Electric Co., $29.9 million: Gulf States Utilities Co.; $60.5 million; Houston Lighting & Power Co., $176.7 million; Southwestern Electric Power Co., $48.4 million; Southwestern Public Service Co., $22.9 million; Texas Utilities Electric Co., $138.7 million: Texas-New Mexico Power Co., $8 million; and West Texas Utilities Co., $15.5 million.

Richard Morgan, an economist who wrote the study, said phantom taxes arise from accounting procedures which reduce or postpone a company's tax liability when it makes a new investment. Such procedures include the 10 percent investment tax credit and accelerated depreciation.

Morgan said a special federal tax code provision allows utilities to charge customers as if they did not receive the tax breaks and bars state utility regulators from preventing the overcharges.

He said some of the tax savings eventually are passed on to customers but the process can take DAYSA WEEK

PAMPA NEWS Thursday, July 25, 1985 5

Mary Kenkel, a spokeswoman for the Edison Electric Institute, said the only way a regulated industry can reap the benefits of depreciation is to collect taxes over the life of the property - in the case of a power plant, about 30 vears.

She said passing tax breaks on to customers as they occur would be unfair to both utilities and those buying power at the end of the plant's life.

PUBLIC NOTICE

General Telephone Company of the Southwest, in accordance with the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice that a Private Coin Service Tariff has been filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

Under the proposed tariff, Private Coin Service would be offered for use with a customer-provided, instrument-implemented coin telephone at the request of the customer. The new service is scheduled to become effective on November 16, 1985, or upon approval by the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

The matter has been assigned to Docket No. 6309.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information, should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757.

Minorities challenge new teacher testing

TYLER, Texas (AP) - The state NAACP and two other groups, along with 14 college students, have filed suit in U.S. District Court, asking that a skills test for potential teachers be abolished because it allegedly robs minorities of the right to teach. The suit contends that the Pre-Professional Skills Test, which is given to college sophomores who plan to be teachers, is an effort to keep blacks and Hispanics out of the teaching profession. The skills exam tests the potential teachers in math, reading and writing. Those who do not pass are not allowed to take upper level education courses, but they are allowed to keep taking the test until they pass

'75 reunion set for Saturday

Ten years afther their graduation, members of the Pampa High School Class of 1975 will get a chance to see the changes in each other over the past decade during the class's 10th year reunion this weekend.

Activities for the reunion will begin Saturday with registration from 9 to 11 a.m. in the PHS Band Room. Dan Morrison, one of the reunion planners, said all teachers past and present acquainted with the former classmates are invited to attend to visit with their former students

From noon to 3 p.m. the 1975 graduates will have a catered family picnic at Pamcel Park at the Celanese plant west of the city. Festivities will conclude Saturday night with a dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Heritage Room at M. K. Brown Auditorium. A class picture will be taken during the dance.

Morrison said friends of the Class of '75 are also invited to come visit with the reunion attenders

Those who have not yet paid their reunion fees may do so at the door. Further information may be obtained by contacting Morrison at 665-3228 or Beverly Bradford Alexander at 665-6130.

Eager organ donor doesn't want to wait until later By Abigail Van Buren 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

With so many people desperate for a kidney, why can't a living person donate one to a stranger? I would be happy to give one of my kidneys to help a person lead a normal life.

Do you know of anyone who would consider a gift of life from the living?

ANONYMOUS IN WISCONSIN DEAR ANONYMOUS: I contacted the National Kidney Foundation and was advised that the success rate of kidney transplants from unrelated donors is no higher than the transplants donated at death.

On the other hand, living donors put themselves at a small ring.) but potential risk should they lose the function of their remaining kidney through accident or illness. For this reason they do not encourage unrelated, living kidney donations.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for seven years. We dated for three years prior to getting married. During that 10-year period, I had never seen her in a bathing suit, earrings or nail polish. She wears a skirt once a year-usually at Christmas. The rest of the time she wears blue jeans or slacks. She owns no feminine clothing. I've never seen her in high heels. Her girlfriend cuts her hair, and it looks it. The only makeup she wears is a pale pink lipstick, and then only on special occasions. The only jewelry she wears is a wedding band. (She didn't even want an engagement

I've tried to get her to change, but she's satisfied just the way she is. How can I get her to smarten up her appearance?

AMARILLO - Newspaperman and novelist Tony Hillerman of Albuquerque, N.M.; is to be keynote speaker at the "Frontiers in Writing" workshop Aug. 10 at Amarillo College. Panhandle Pen Women is sponsoring the workshop for aspiring writers.

The workshop is set for Saturday, Aug. 10, on the fourth floor of the Technology Building at Amarillo College, 24th and Washington streets. Registration fees include lunch at the College Union Building, coffee, doughnuts and other refreshments during breaks. Registration opens at 8 a.m.

At 8:30 a.m., Hillerman will speak on "Building a Book Without an Outline." A former A former newspaperman turned novelist, Hillerman has worked at several papers in this area including Borger, Lawton, Okla., and Oklahoma City. He combines Indian lore and the background of the desert mountains, and canyons of the Four Corners Country for his plots and characterizations. His latest novel, "The Ghostway' takes his famous Navajo tribal policeman Jim Chee through another murder with a clash of Anglo and Navajo cultures. His novels have been published in France, Italy, Germany, Sweden, the Netherlands, Norway and Japan.

Four study groups are to meet after Hillerman's talk. Writers may choose between "Literary Agent and Author - A Shotgun Marriage'' by Evelyn Oppenheimer, a Dallas agent; 'Living Letters: Using Manuscript Collections in Historical Writing" by Dr. David Murrah, historian and associate director of libraries for special collections and director of the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech University; "Making A Scene - The Right Way" by Karmyn Lott of New York, playwright and founder and director of AMTEX Drama School; and "From Poetic Idea to Appropriate Form," conducted by Nova Bair, Panhandle poet.

After a lunch break, Hillerman will talk more on building a book without an outline followed by four additional study groups.

Study group topics for the second session include "From Toddler to Teens - A Growing Market" by Dian Curtis Regan, writer, teacher, critic and regional advisor for Society of Children's Book Writer's in West Texas; "Take Your Article to the Finish Line" by Wanda Evans, editor of the Business and Industrial Review for the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, teacher and freelance writer; Doris Meredith, mystery writer and owner of Brand Books in Dumas and Stratford, is to speak on "Elements of the Mystery Genre." Doug Manning is to present "A Guide to Inspirational Writing." Formerly a Baptist minister, he is the author of several inspirational volumes. He writes a weekly newspaper column and has been published in several national magazines.

He rarely takes me anyplace where we will bump into people he knows, and if he does meet someone he knows when I'm with him, he is very slow to introduce me. He just leaves me standing there. Once he tried to pass me off as a "cousin."

I like him more than I should, but I don't like the way he treats me. I am a neat, clean person and I have good manners, but he acts like he's ashamed to be seen with me.

I would like a future with this man, but he won't commit himself. His idea of a nice evening is for him to bring the fixings to my place and have me make supper for him. JACK WILLIAMS: Leads by one

Oiler receivers run in fast lane

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) -Competition to become a Houston Oiler wide receiver this season has shifted into the fast lane.

Tim Smith, the old model, whose sure hands and computer perfect moves have made him the team's leading receiver the past two seasons, will continue to be a fixture.

But revving up in the other starting position could be a shorter and much faster roadrunner capable of burning any defense foolish enough to concentrate only on Smith.

The Oilers started practice today with 10 wide receiver candidates and six are compact-sized greyhounds capable of running down quarterback Warren Moon's longest bombs.

The Oilers traded for Los ngeles receiver Drew Hill

'We've got receivers in the other category that we can count on, Campbell said. "We'd like to get to where they have to be concerned about all of our receivers.'

The Oilers had a chance in the first round to get a speed receiver with Miami's Eddie Brown still on the board but they used the 11th pick in the first round to choose Richard Johnson, a cornerback from Wisconsin.

The Oilers elected instead to pursue the free agent and trade markets and they came up with Hill

'Coming here, I don't see myself playing right off," the modest Hill said. "I'm the kind of guy who likes to give the other receivers the respect they deserve. They've been here longer than me.

Hill got little opportunity as a receiver with the run-oriented Rams last season "When a ball came to me I'd

Williams hangs to lead

Closing eagle key in Seniors tourney

Tri-State Seniors medalist Jack Williams got caught in the second round of the annual tournament at Pampa Country Club Wednesday. But he didn't stay caught.

Williams curled in a dramatic 30-foot eagle putt on the 18th hole for a two-shot swing on his closest challengers and retained a one-stroke lead going into today's third round of action.

The closing eagle enabled Williams to post a one-under 70 Wednesday, giving him a 36-hole total of 141, one stroke better than big Roy Peden of Kermit, who matched Williams' 70 in a round completed under stormy skies Wednesday afternoon.

Four strokes back were Andy Manning of Richardson, Bob Giese of Amarillo and Jake Broyles of Lamesa as the championship flight teed it off this morning.

The rains that hit late Wednesday forced tournament officials to start over in four flights that had not completed play. The first, second, fourth and fifth flights were still on on the course when play was suspended. Those flights will switch to a medal play format, while the flights that had completed match-play competition Wednesday will continue as scheduled.

The championship flight will teek off for the final round at 10:22 a.m. Friday

Peden, who won the Tri-State championship in 1978, had taken a one-stroke lead over Williams after 16 holes Wednesday and a trio of other golfers were breating down his next. But the smooth-swinging Plainview golfer turned that around with a couple of dramatic shots on the final hole.

Williams left his tee shot tight against the trees on the right side of the dogleg right par five. But he bent a three-wood around the trees and his shot finished hole-high on the right side of the sloping green. From about 30 feet away and playing at least three feet of break, he curled the putt into the hole the salvage the lead. Manning, playing in the same foursome had matched Williams' score through the first 17, also had a fine second shot on the 18th, stopping on the fringe in front of the hole. But it took him three strokes to get down from there and he finished with a 72.

Peden, playing the the next foursome, could have tied for the tournament lead but couldn't get a birdie putt to drop on the 18th. Peden, starting the day one stroke behind Willaims, fired a two-under 33 on the front nine to lead by one at that point. He wedged to within two feet for a birdie on the sixth hole and canned a 30-footer on the ninth.

Manning, the personable Richardson golfer, had climbed into contention for the lead with bitdies on the 13th and 14th holes that put him even for the day. But he had a bogey on the par three 16th and finished with a one-over

Although he improved on his opening round of 71, Williams didn't think he played any better.

"I hit some crooked tee shots and got behind some trees today," he said. "I got as a good a score as I deserved.

Manning said he is hitting the ball as solid as he can, but has hit a few bad chips that proved costly.

Best round of the day was turned in by Bill trickland of Dallas, who fired a two-under 69. Unfortunately for him, though, he had an opening 83 and that left him at the lower end of the championship flight with a drafted Hawaii's Mike Akiu and signed free agent Stanley Floyd, a world class sprinter and former NCAA 100-meter champion.

Already in camp was Herkie Walls, a former football-track star at the University of Texas.

'Our off-season request was that any receivers that we sign let's look at the speed factor," Campbell said. "If they (opposing defenses) can't look at a Tim Smith and be concerned only with double teaming him, we're that much better off.

'We'd like to put as many weapons on the field as possible.'

Smith has been the primary receiving weapon defenses have had to contend with in recent vears.

But Smith, the Oilers leading receiver with 69 receptions last season, gets his catches on moves and not speed, often leaving Moon coiled to throw a 50-yard bomb and no place to throw it.

"I think all these little receivers coming in is an advantage for me," Walls said. "I think they are going to put more emphasis on speed so that's good for me.'

Walls could be in a numbers game for making the team that will carry four or five wide receivers. In addition to Smith, other veterans returning are Steve Bryant, Mike Holston and Eric Mullins.

Diego Padres like a doormat. Winning a third straight game for the first time in nearly a month, the Cubs swept a series from the Padres with a 4-3, 10-inning victory Wednesday night.

Richie Hebner won the game with a soft line drive that became an infield single. San Diego shortstop Garry Templeton tried to short-hop it, but failed, and Ryne Sandberg scampered home from third.

It was Hebner's 11th pinch hit this year, tops in the National League, and his 11th RBI in that role

"I didn't hit it hard, but it worked out well," admitted Hebner. "Pinch hitting is not the easiest job in the world, but when you do pinch hit and there's men in scoring position with the game on the line, you do get pumped up.

San Diego dropped 21/2 games behind the Dodgers in the NL West. Their current string of losses is as long a skid as they've suffered this year

"I think everbody's trying to win it all by themselves," San Diego Manager Dick Williams said. "Everybody's trying to hit the home run to win the ballgame."

In other National League games, it was Los Angeles 9, Pittsburgh 1; Philadelphia 3, Houston 1; Montreal 3, Atlanta 1; Cincinnati 3, New York 2; and St. Louis 4, San Francisco 0.

Dodgers 9, Pirates 1 Greg Brock hit a grand-slam home run and a run-scoring single for five RBIs, supporting a five-hitter by Bob Welch, 5-1, who won his fourth straight decision with his third complete game this year five runs in the eighth, their biggest inning of the year.

"I always hate to see Holland come in," admitted Brock, who has raised his average more than 50 points in the last six weeks to .275. "I really haven't hit left-handers well, and he's pitched he tough.

"I've felt good most of the year, it's just that balls are starting to fall and the average is rising. I feel confident and relaxed.

The Dodgers' 21/2-game lead over San Diego is their biggest advantage of the season. Los Angeles has won five of its last seven games, 11 of 14, and 17 of 22. Phillies 3, Astros 1

Von Hayes broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning with a two-run, inside-the-park homer. His fly ball hit the 408 mark on the center-field wall and became his ninth home run of the season. Hayes' head-first off Nolan Ryan, wh pitched 5 1-3 hitless innings. Ryan struck out seven Phillies to boost his all-time-record strikeout total to 4,013, even though his won-los' record for the season fell to 8-8.

Expos 3, Braves 1 Bryn Smith fired a three-hitter, did not walk a batter and struck out seven in his fourth complete game of the season. Smith, 12-3, has four victories over Atlanta this year.

The biggest change this year is control," said Smith, who faced only two batters over the minimum and matched his previous career-high total for wins.

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)-The Tony Dorsett watch is underway

The financially troubled running back of the Dallas Cowboys has until 7:30 p.m today to report to training camp or face $1,000 in fines daily.

The betting line among some of Dorsett's teammates is that he won't come in until his financial problems are solved.

That would include a possible renegotiation of his $400,000 a year seven-year contract or a loan from the Cowboys to help settle his financial problems which were caused in part by bad investments. Dorsett is on the fourth year of the contract.

Fullback Ron Springs believes good friend Dorsett won't make the deadline "because he wants a security contract."

Dorsett at one time had a 15-year deferred contract at $100,000 but decided he wanted the money up front.

Gil Brandt, club vice president, caid "It wouldn't surprise me if Tony wasn't here Thursday.

"Tony is upset with his contract," said Springs. "Last week he saw what Danny White and Randy White are making and he figures he deserves more. He's been dissatisfied.

"I don't think he will be here. I've talked to him a lot in two weeks.'

Tight end Doug Cosbie said. 'Tony should get his personal affairs settled before he comes to camp. That would only be smart."

Dorsett, who missed practice for a fourth straight day Wednesday, will make $400,000 this season.

Dorsett was hit in Dallas with a $400,000 back tax notice by the Internal Revenue Service which seized two of his houses

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Dorsett has until Thursday to report to camp without being fined $1,000 per day.

Greater Hartford draws top names

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) -No longer is the Canon-Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open an event left to the struggling lesser names on the professional golf tour.

Fourteen of the Professional Golf Association's top 20 money-winners were scheduled to tee off today for the first round at the par-71, 6,800-yard Tournament Players Club of Connecticut, the second GHO to be held at the radically redesigned course.

Curtis Strange and Lanny Wadkins, the top two money-winners, are absent. But Ray Floyd, Corey Pavin, Calvin Peete, Mark O'Meara and Craig Stadler, the next five on the list, are competing.

A major reason is the increased purse - $600,000. including $108,000 for the winner - which is eighth-highest on the tour.

The GHO switched sites last year from Wethersfield Country Club, a short, low-scoring course.

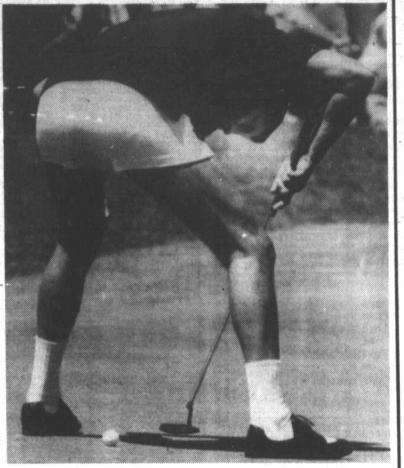

The PCA purchased the current course and brought in noted golf architect Pete Dye to turn it into one of the Tournament Players Clubs and a challenge for the pros

The 16th hole is Hartford's version of the famous 17th at the TPC course in Jacksonville, Fla. bordered by water and bunkers that leave room for only a perfect shot to the green. There is no margin for error.

A monstrous pond hugging the right fairway makes the drive difficult, and only a pinpoint approach shot over the big pond will find the tiny green.

Fuzzy Zoeller discounted the money angle and the low turnout at last week's British Open as reasons for the increased participation.

"It's the course. A lot of guys couldn't play Wethersfield so they wouldn't come," said Zoeller, the 1984 U.S. Open champion. "The TPC is different. You don't have to shoot 28-under to win.

Frank White, the man with the golden glove, also is earning plaudits as an emerging power hitter for the Kansas City Royals.

"There are not too many second basemen who get 100 home runs," White said Wednesday night after reaching the seats twice and driving in four runs to lead the Royals to a 5-3 victory and a three-game sweep of the New York Yankees. "Probably the only active ones are Bobby Grich and Davey Lopes."

The homers, White's 13th and 14th of the season, gave him 101 for his 13-year career. Despite a career-high 17 last season, pitchers and managers remain somewhat unaware of his longball potential.

Count Yankee field boss Billy Martin among them. "I pitched a couple of guys the wrong way. He was one of them," Martin said in taking the blame for the pitch selection of loser Joe Cowley

"Everybody knows I'm a first-ball, fastball hitter," said White who has won six Gold Gloves. "The first home run was on a curveball. When I go up with men in scoring position I just put the fastball out of my mind. The second home run was off a fastball, though.'

Nearly-perfect bowlers downed in Austin Open

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - After edging Dave Ferraro in a sensational semifinal match, Mark Baker just had nothing left for his championship match against top-seeded Guppy Troup in the $115,000 Austin Open.

Baker and Ferraro tossed near-perfect games at each other, but after outlasting Ferraro 279-278, Baker fell meekly in the title match to Troup, 184-156.

"It's really depressing to bowl as good as anybody out here (on the Pro Bowlers Association Tour) and not win," said Baker, who finished second for the third time in the last seven weeks.

Ferraro, out of Kingston, N.Y., opened the semifinal contest with eight straight strikes before leaving the 4-7 in the ninth frame. He spared and struck out for the 278

Baker, out of Garden Grove Calif., spared in the first frame and then matched Ferraro strike for strike. But he needed the first strike in the 10th for the victory, and got it.

Ferraro set a PBA record with the highest losing game ever in the televised finals.

"I feel a little dejected, because I bowled so well and didn't get anything for it," Ferraro said. "I'm in the record book, but

Pennzoil's offer for Getty assumed no risk: attorney

HOUSTON (AP) - A Texaco Inc. attorney charged that Pennzoil Oil's tender offer for Getty Oil was structured in a way so Pennzoil would assume no risk except for its expenses.

However, retired Pennzoil president Baine P. Kerr testified Wednesday that Pennzoil's tender offer of $100 a share for 20 percent of Getty stock was not an attempt to take advantage of management problems between Getty, the Sarah C. Getty Trust and the J. Paul Getty Museum.

'Where the stock market values the stock is whatever you can get for it," Kerr said in the trial of Pennzoil's $15 billion civil suit against Texaco. "No one was offering to buy their stock at $100 a share, $110 or $112.50 a share."

He said Pennzoil's offer was better than the stockholders could have received in the open market from December 1983 through January 1984.

In response to a question from Texaco attorney Richard Miller, Kerr said that Pennzoil believed the value of the Getty Oil assets was considerably higher than $100 a share. But the price it offered in the tender offer was based on the company's assessment of the lowest level that would be attractive to the stockholders, he said.

Kerr testified that in a responsible business transaction, the price is the lowest one agreeable to both sides, but one that is not more than the value of the assets being acquired.

"For a tender offer, you try to determine a price that would be a tried dealt with the value of assets that Pennzoil was trying to buy, not the stock in Getty Oil.

Pennzoil began its tender offer for 16 million shares of Getty Oil stock on Dec. 28, 1983. On Jan. 4, 1984, Getty Oil, the trust and the museum announced that they had agreed to a merger with a partnership of the trust and Pennzoil.

Two days later, Texaco and Getty Oil announced a merger agreement in which Texaco would pay $125 a share for all of the Getty Oil stock.

Pennzoil claims that when Texaco acquired Getty Oil, it forced Getty to breach the earlier agreement Getty had made to merge with Pennzoil. The company is not asking that the $10.1 billion Texaco-Getty merger be dissolved, but it wants Texaco to pay $7.5 billion in actual damages and $7.5 billion in punitive damages.

Pennzoil bases its $15 billion damage claim on the amount of Getty's oil and gas reserves it would have acquired in a merger with Getty and Pennzoil's average cost of finding oil and gas. Pennzoil said it would have to spend $7.5 billion to find the 1 billion equivalent barrels of oil and gas that it would have gained in the merger.

Texaco denies the charge, saying that Pennzoil and Getty never had a valid merger agreement.

crowding military air bases

By PAUL DAVENPORT Associated Press Writer LUKE AIR FORCE

BASE, Ariz. (AP) -Arizona's metropolitan areas are encroaching on several major military air bases, prompting speculation that the cities' growth could eventually force the installations to close

The cities of Glendale, Chandler. Tucson and Yuma now nestle up against the bases, mostly established in World War II to take advantage of Arizona's open desert and good flying weather to train pilots.

At Luke Air Force Base, west of the Phoenix suburb of Glendale, for example, pilots learning to fly first-line jet fighters have to turn sharply after takeoff to avoid flying over residential development near the base, said Capt. John Evans

"Taking off at Luke Air Force Base is an exercise in real flying," said U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz

"You have to go through so many maneuvers to get clear of all the buildings," said Goldwater, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a retired Air Force Reserve officer.

On the other side of the Phoenix metropolitan area, officials at Williams Air Force Base near Chandler went public with their opposition to plans by the nearby city of Apache Junction for an airport which military officials said would interfere with Williams' training of jet pilots.

Between 1950 and 1980, Chandler's population rose from 3,799 to 29,673. In the five-year period since the 1980 Census. Chandler's population more than doubled to an

The four bases are among the state's major employers, with combined annual payrolls of about $460 million for about 20,330 military personnel and 5,040 civilian employees. Military spokesmen said each installation has hundreds of takeoffs and landings daily.

Congress warned of Iranian leftists

WASHINGTON (AP) - An Iranian leftist group that assassinated Americans in the 1970s and was involved in the holding of U.S. hostages in Tehran has won support from members of Congress by "masquerading" as freedom fighters opposing Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, according to the State Department.

Richard W. Murphy, assistant secretary of state for Near East and South Asian affairs, said Wednesday the group was conducting "a fairly active public relations campaign" in the United States and apparently had won support because of confusion with Afghan rebels fighting Soviet forces in Afghanistan.

Both groups use the name Mujahedeen, but there the similarity ends, Murphy told a House subcommittee on Middle East affairs

"This group has no connection with the Afghan Mujahedeen

The group was founded by students in Iran during the 1960s to oppose Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi "and in particular to combat the shah's relationship with 'U.S. imperialism' and 'criminal Zionism,' which this movement views as the principal forces which have corrupted Iran and oppressed the world," said Murphy.

The group's goal is to establish a government in Iran based on Shiite Islam, re-interpreted according to Marxist principles.

During the 1970s the Mujahedeen were at the forefront of the opposition to the shah and were the Iranian group most engaged in anti-U.S. and anti-Western terrorism," Murphy said. "In this period they assassiated at least seven Americans in Iran.

Their acts of violence also included bombings, assassinations of Iranians, attacks on Israeli WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department's field offices are back in business making crop loans to farmers, but more money will be needed in another week or two - about $2.9 billion extra, more or less.

Officials ordered loan-making to resume Wednesday after President Reagan signed a bill providing $1 billion to operate the Commodity Credit Corp. for a few more weeks.

It was particularly good news to wheat farmers who had been seeking loans on newly harvested grain before being cut off. Tobacco markets in Georgia and Florida also were delayed.

"We're back on full-scale operation and our county people are working their tails off," said Frank Mosier, Kansas state director of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Some county offices in Kansas, where the wheat harvest just ended, had 600 to 700 loan application pending, Mosier said. The CCC halted price support

More tainted Austrian wine discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal agents are warning consumers to stop drinking Austrian wines while the government attempts to find out how much of the product has been contaminated by a poisonous chemical used in auto anti-freeze.

Wednesday after bureau chemists found traces of the chemical, diethylene glycol, in more brands of Austrian wine.

The agency originally reported last week that the chemical, used illegally to sweeten wine, had been in the scheduled opening Wednesday of tobacco markets in Georgia and Florida. Sales of flue-cured tobacco were postponed a day in 19 markets in the two states because Reagan had not signed the emergency spending legislation in time.

Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Tommy Irvin criticized Reagan's failure to sign the bill quickly.

"He has inconvenienced thousands of farmers and business people and cost us a lot of expense in not finding the time to sign the proposal," Irvin said. "I think it's another indication he doesn't understand what's going on on the farm.'

The CCC, which finances the government's crop support loan program, ran out of money primarily because of a heavy drain from the newly harvested wheat crop. However, department officials notified Congress last February that CCC would bump against its $25 billion loan limit and would need more funds.

Under the program, farmers can use their grain as collateral. At the end of the loan period, however, producers can give their crops to the government as repayment if market prices fall below the support level. If prices are higher. they sell their crops, repay the government and pocket the difference.

With no money to write checks to farmers for price supports, Block imposed a loan cutoff last week. However, local offices of the ASCS continued to process loan applications in anticipation of extra money from Congress.

The emergency money was moved through the House and Senate as separate legislation to ensure its speedy consideration. It cleared the House on Thursday and the Senate the following day.

Meanwhile, the supplemental appropriations now pending in Congress contains $163 million for the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., which did not benefit from the $1 billion emergency measure signed by Reagan.

Michael A. Forgash, director of congressional and public affais for the FCIC, said the agency will be forced to shut down next month unless Congress provides the extra money. At least $50 million is needed to cover salaries and operating expenses.

'We're in bad shape,'' Forgash said. "We're going out of business sometime in August unless we get more than $50 million."

freedom fighters and should not be confused with the latter," Murphy said. "The People's Mujahedeen Organization of Iran, in fact, has publicly supported the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan and opposed the Afghan Mujahedeen."

Murphy, testifying ton recent Middle East developments, said the Iranian group had been running its active public relations campaign in the United States for at least a year.

"This group has sort of been masquerading under a cover which attracted a surprising amount of support judging by some letters from Congress," he said.

He did not go into detail, but the group has named a number of members of Congress who wrote letters of support to its leader. Massoud Rajavi, who has lived in exile in Paris since fleeing Khomeini's regime
