Alinsky has been twisting the establishment's tail for 30 years and has an old pro's core of dilettante. When he says the new leftists are not serious revolutionaries, merely play-actors, that's the most withering judgment he could pass on them.

No one has ever accused Saul Alinsky of play-acting about social reform. In his long and turbulent career as an organizer of the poor and powerless, he has proved that he knows how to achieve results—and that he's willing to do it the hard way.

And those are precisely the grounds on which he faults the young red-hots who are going around striking revolutionary poses these days.

"They're harming the cause. In the first place, he says, they aren't doing any good for the cause of social justice. In fact, they're harming the cause."

"The Weathermen should be getting paid by the extreme right for the work they do," he says, with a sort of disgust. "Any real revolutionary part would execute them as dangerous counter-revolutionaries."

The bombings and other acts of terrorism in which the Weathermen take pride are merely stiffening the resistance of society to meaningful change, as Alinsky sees it. Instead of "radicalizing the masses," extremist acts are driving the great majority of middle-class Americans into the arms of conservative politicians who skillfully exploit the public's fears in order to stifle genuine reform.

If college students are seriously interested in changing society, Alinsky says, they will stop thumbing their noses at their own middle-class origins and begin to capitalize on the fact that they belong by birth to the class which yields real power in America.

Violence Sabotages Cause
Black militants as well as young middle-class whites sabotage their own cause when they try to use violence as a short-cut to "instant change," Alinsky says.

"It is sheer folly for the Black Panthers to rely on the power of guns when the other side has all the guns."

The greatest mistake which activists of either race can think that significant change cannot be achieved within the existing American system.

"Fifty years ago, you would have thought it would take a revolution to bring about such things as Social Security, Medicare, unemployment insurance, or many other things which we have in America today," he says. "These things were not accomplished by people mouthing about revolution, but by people who were willing to persevere in the hard work of achieving reforms, one at a time, the hard way, the only way."

Houston May Abandon Old Ambulance Service

HOUSTON (UPI)—When the city of Houston takes over operation of ambulance service next year it plans to abandon the traditional stationwagon-type ambulances in favor of camper-style vans that can be switched from chassis to chassis.

District Fire Chief L. O. Martin said the new vehicles will cost less and will provide more room for patient-care equipment prescribed by medical societies and hospital authorities.

Martin said the city has asked 10 manufacturers for bids on 22 of the van ambulances, which cost an estimated $12,500 to $15,000 each fully equipped. Stationwagon ambulances cost as much as $28,000 each and do not provide as much room for patient care.

When a van's chassis wears out the body can be switched to a new chassis, whereas with the old style units the entire vehicle had to be replaced.

"What we have here is a happy medium with maximum provisions for patient care from pickup to hospital," Martin said.

He said he discovered the vehicles during a visit to Baltimore, one of several metropolitan areas using the new vans.

"Men are free when they can choose, plan, and act effectively in pursuit of their goals, and enjoy economic freedom by retaining the fruits of their labor."

Largest Telescope To Soar Into Space

To Give Scientists Clearest View Yet Of Stars, Galaxies

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The U.S. space agency readied the world's largest space telescope for launch at sunset today to give astronomers their clearest view yet of distant stars and galaxies.

The $33 million Stargazer, third of four automated orbiting astronomical observatories (OAO), was to be propelled into a 466-mile high orbit by an Atlas-Centaur rocket. Everything was reported proceeding smoothly toward a 5:30 p.m. EST blastoff.

The shot was delayed from last Monday because of a troublesome gyroscope assembly in the autopilot of the Atlas first stage. A new unit was installed and tested Friday and resumed Sunday.

The 4,680-pound spacecraft is considered the most complex unmanned satellite built by the United States and its 36-inch diameter Cassegrain telescope is the most powerful to be placed in space.

Operating from above earth's hazy atmosphere, the satellite will be able to observe heretofore unseen detail of stars and galaxies deep in the universe. It is expected to be able to see stars eight times fainter than those seen by the 16-inch telescope in OAO 2, launched two years ago.

U.S. Jet Fighter-Bomber Strikes Foe's Gun Position

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Air Force jet fighter-bomber opened fire on a North Vietnamese gun position north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today in the first such incident since the intense American bombing strikes in the north Nov. 21-22.

The U.S. Command said the F105 Wild Weasel jet was fired on from a radar-controlled antiaircraft position 5 1/2 miles north of the DMZ and near the Laotian border.

"The pilot expended his ordnance (opened fire) with unknown results," the command said of the attack. "There was no damage to U.S. aircraft. As the command has stated, protective reaction is the inherent right of self-defense."

The U.S. Command also reported a surge in fighting involving American troops over the weekend in South Vietnam. At least three GIs were killed.

County Officials To Set Hearing Date For Budget

Gray County Commissioners will set a date for the annual public hearing on the county budget and discuss three-week vacations for employees with 10 or more years service. County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. will preside in the 10 a.m. meeting Tuesday in County Court Room.

Other agenda items are to pay monthly bills and approve an order of canceling delinquent tax properties. Commissioners hope to approve the budget by Dec. 14, and to have the hearing next week, Judge Lenning said.

"We probably will discuss three week vacations for employees with 10 or more years service, since the county can't financially afford pay raises this year," Judge Lenning said.

Traffic Death Toll Hits 609 Over Nation

A United Press International count, at 8 a.m. EST, showed at least 609 persons had died in highway accidents.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:
Traffic 609
Fires 48
Planes 61
Miscellaneous 69
Total 787

California reported a record 94 highway fatalities. Ohio had 34, New York 31, Illinois and Pennsylvania 26 each, Tennessee 25 and Indiana 23. Alaska, Hawaii and North Dakota reported no traffic deaths.

The worst traffic accident of the holiday period was a multi-vehicle crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in which 10 persons died and 11 were injured. Eight of the dead were from the same family.

The death toll from airplanes included victims of the Friday night crash of a jetliner carrying military personnel from Anchorage, Alaska, to South Vietnam.

Israel Accuses Egypt Of Renewed Truce Violations

By United Press International
Israel today accused Egypt of renewed violations of the cease-fire zone along the Suez Canal. It said Egypt was setting up new SAM-2 and SAM-3 missile bases.

A spokesman said the protest against the new "grave violations" was submitted to United Nations cease-fire supervisors in Jerusalem today.

"According to information which reached the Israel defense forces on Nov. 27, construction and other preparatory work was begun on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal on new sites for ground to air missiles," the spokesman said. "In so doing the Egyptians violated the cease-fire."

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet decided Defense Minister Moshe Dayan will carry Israel's terms for a return to the Middle East peace negotiations with him when he meets with American leaders in mid-December.

The Israeli cabinet, at its Sunday meeting, commissioned Dayan to discuss Israel's terms with U.S. officials. Previously, Dayan's tour of the United States had been confined to speaking engagements.

With the scope of his trip expanded, the defense minister almost certainly will see Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, White House security adviser Henry Kissinger and perhaps President Nixon himself.

In Tripoli, Libyan Premier Col. Moammar Khadafy said the proposed federation between Egypt, Libya, the Sudan and Syria is open only to "progressive Arab republics... which have faith in socialism and which is a true representative of the people."

The tone of Khadafy's remarks indicated Jordan would not be asked to join the federation. There were reports from Amman that King Hussein might raise the subject of possible entry into the federation when he visits Cairo this week. Jordan is not socialist.

Mercury Hits 80 Degrees Sunday

Pampans took advantage of the record 80 degree temperatures Sunday to spend one more day outside before Winter's chill sets in.

Thoughts of leisure time activities ran the gamut from touch football to golf to a drive in the country.

The weather forecast from the National Weather Service in Amarillo indicates temperatures will drop to the lower 40s tonight and hit the upper 60s tomorrow.

Southwesterly breezes are scheduled to shift to the north.

$800,000 Civic Auditorium Bond Sale Set For Tomorrow

Buyers will be on hand tomorrow when Pampa's $800,000 civic auditorium bonds go on sale to the lowest interest bidder.

The sale will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the City Commission Room at City Hall.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today a large number of bidders is expected at the commissions special meeting. Pampa's two local banks are expected to be among the bidders.

Locked Brakes May Have Caused Jet Crash That Killed 47 Persons

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—Brakes on a military charter jet may have locked on takeoff, exploding two tires and causing the flaming crash that killed 47 persons, federal investigators said Sunday.

Pieces of rubber tires littered the 10,900-foot runway where the Capitol International Airways DC8 stretch jet made its takeoff run Friday.

In several places, rubber appeared to be melted into the asphalt runway of Anchorage International Airport.

A special team of investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) inspected mile-long skid marks, debris and wreckage Sunday and interviewed survivors.

Investigator Frank Malone said it was possible the brake locked, causing tires to blow out as the Vietnam-bound jet with 219 passengers and a crew of 10 rolled down the runway at 170 miles per hour.

However, NTSB investigators said there were other possible causes and would not give a definite cause until flight and voice recordings flown to Washington, D.C., had been analyzed.

Malone said the plane's No. 1 engine had been checked for a "slight vibration" before the flight departed Friday from McChord AFB, Wash.

Some survivors, including a jet mechanic, said they saw fuel or oil leaking from one of the engines. NTSB investigators would not comment on that possibility.

Forty-five Army and Air Force men and one stewardess died in the wreckage. An Army private died Saturday of severe burns.

59 Are Hospitalized
Military spokesmen said 59 persons remained hospitalized in Anchorage and 11 badly burned passengers were flown Sunday to the burn center at Brooke Army Medical Hospital, San Antonio, Tex.

Deadline for submitting bids will be the 1:30 p.m. meeting time, according to R. A. Underwood of Rauscher Pierce Securities Corp., Dallas, fiscal agent for the bond sale.

Following the sale, City Manager Wofford said, delivery of the bonds is expected to be made to the American National Bank, Austin, by Dec. 21.

The primary objective of the new spacecraft is to study the ultraviolet light emitted by unusually hot stars. These stars have a relatively brief life span—measured in millions of years—and can be seen from space in all stages of development.

The view is blocked from ground observatories by earth's atmosphere. Those orbital observations are expected to tell astronomers more about the birth, life and death of stars. That, in turn, could give astronomers an idea about the future of the sun, a cooler star which should last billions of more years.

"We want to learn as much as we can about what makes stars tick, what makes them go," said Dr. Albert Boggess, scientist in charge of the observatory's telescope.

In addition to study stars, the spacecraft will examine the great clouds of dust and gas from which stars develop. It also will look at quasars, the most distant known celestial systems.

OAO 3 was built by the Grumman Aerospace Corp., Bethpage, N.Y., and its telescope was manufactured by the Kollsman Instrument Corp., Syosset, N.Y. General Dynamics Corp., San Diego, Calif., built the Atlas-Centaur rocket.

Record Dives May Be Achieved By Using Hydrogen-Oxygen Mix

PASADENA, Tex. (UPI)—A sea level—may be about the same or a little shorter than with helium-oxygen. But the new mixture has a decompression time about half that of nitrogen-oxygen.

Decompressing too quickly can cause bubbles to form in a diver's blood, a condition known as the "bends" which is sometimes fatal.

Edel said he had a touch of this condition in his personal experience with the new mixture.

"The second dive, I developed a pain in my left elbow while coming up. It started at about 40 feet," he said.

"If this had been any gas mixture other than hydrogen, we would have stopped decompression immediately and probably recompressed. However, I was able to continue decompression all the way to the surface. At each reduction of pressure the pain would increase and then it would diminish, going down to nothing."

There is one problem with both the hydrogen and helium mixtures that is not present with nitrogen: a person breathing such gases talks like a cartoon chipmunk. The lighter gases make it difficult to understand divers because of the high pitch it gives to their voices.

Edel said scientists have not agreed on whether narcotic effects of nitrogen under pressure are lessened using hydrogen or helium, but he thinks nitrogen is the worst gas in this respect.

Edel said decompression time—the time it takes for a diver's body to adjust to pressure changes from great depths to

OVER WEEKEND

Reports On Prowler, Smuty Calls Top News

Reports of a prowler, obscene phone calls and malicious mischief topped the weekend news appearing on the police blotter this forenoon.

An East Pampa woman notified police a prowler tried to enter her home around 3:15 a.m. by the front and back doors.

While police searched the area another call was received from the same address that the man was at a bedroom window. The woman said he was of slender build, wore khaki shirt and trousers and a red hat.

Another woman said she received an obscene telephone call at 2:30 a.m. Sunday. She notified police and the telephone company. She received another call at 3:40 p.m. Sunday and was threatened, she said, with bodily harm because she had notified authorities. Police today were continuing an investigation of the incidents.

Frank Trisler, 936 Campbell, rounded up three youngsters who threw eggs at his automobile. When police arrived, the boys were busy washing the car. They were taken home and released in custody of their parents.

Four-year-old Steve Wooten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Wooten Sr., 1114 S. Faulkner, was bitten on the face by a dog. The boy was taken to a doctor's office. Police said the dog was located and the owners said it had been given rabies shots.

A Pampa woman told police that while she was away from home her daughter and a gentleman friend were having parties at the house and considerable damage had been done. She asked police to contact the man and warn him to stay away.

Houston Woman Strangled To Death At Home

HOUSTON (UPI)—An apartment manager found the body Sunday of a 61-year-old woman beaten and strangled to death in the bathroom of her small apartment. Her hands were tied behind her back with stockings.

Police said Mrs. Hilda M. Jenkins had been dead since Thanksgiving Day. Manager Walter Shores, 70, and his wife began to worry about the woman when they did not see her for several days.

Homicide detectives Ed Horelica and Paul Nix said someone appeared to have beaten Mrs. Jenkins with fists, strangled her and possibly kicked her.

She was last seen Thursday by her daughter-in-law, who brought the woman home after dinner with her son, Richard Jenkins, and his family.

Jenkins told police his mother was wearing the same clothes she wore to the dinner. He said she usually carried between $15 and $25 in her purse, but police found no money there.

Police said there was no sign of anyone having forced entry into the apartment.

IN NEW ORLEANS

Police Confiscate Weapons Of Black Panthers In Raids

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Police returned to Black Panther headquarters in New Orleans in a pre-dawn raid Sunday and confiscated weapons, explosives, electronic gear and gas masks which they say will be used as evidence in trials of 31 persons arrested last week.

It was the second such raid in four days. Officers wearing civilian disguises busted into the headquarters Thanksgiving Day, wounded a woman in a brief gun fight, arrested six persons and confiscated a cache of weapons.

In all, 31 persons identifiably sympathizers were arrested last week. Police Chief Clarence Giarrusso said the local group, called the National Committee to Combat Fascism (NCCF), has been rendered completely inactive by the raids.

"Since the successful raid on NCCF headquarters on Thursday morning," Giarrusso said Sunday, "the building has been under close surveillance. Activity — lights were on — was detected in the building this morning."

Three men with shotguns ran from the front of the building as police entered through the rear," he said, adding that the three disappeared into the housing project where some 11,000 Negroes live.

The police chief said tape recorders, short-wave radios capable of picking up police broadcasts, gas masks and Panther information files were taken in Sunday's action in addition to weapons and explosives.

"This confiscated material will be helpful in the trials of those arrested earlier," Giarrusso said, adding that it would "further demonstrate to this community the revolutionary purpose of this group."

A legal battle, meanwhile, is brewing up over the charges filed against the 31 persons arrested. Six were charged with attempted murder of police officers. Most of the others were charged with criminal trespass, criminal mischief and criminal anarchy.

Pope Paul VI Arrives In Australia On 3rd Stage Of Pilgrimage To Asia

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Pope Paul VI arrived Monday in Protestant-dominated Australia on the third stage of his nine-day pilgrimage to Asia and the Pacific.

The head of the Roman Catholic Church flew here aboard his special DC8 jetliner from Samoa where he celebrated mass Sunday in the little village of Leulimoega and appealed to the world to send more missionaries to far-flung places.

Concerned over the assassination attempt on the 73-year-old pontiff's life while he was visiting Manila, Australian officials ordered the strongest security force ever seen at Sydney's Mascot Airport. Even robed priests were searched prior to his arrival.

The Pope's visit to Samoa, 15,801 miles from Rome, was the farthest he had been from the Vatican and, the nine pilgrimages since his coronation on June 21, 1963.

Aboriginal pilgrims, many of whom had traveled thousands of miles from the Australian hinterlands, New Zealand Maoris and groups of Catholics from Noumea and other French-speaking Pacific islands were sprinkled among the Australians who greeted the Pope.

Others were lined up along the 7.3-mile route from the airport to the Sydney Town Hall where the Pope was to be welcomed by Lord Mayor Emmott McDermott. Many of the welcomees waited for 12 hours in 80-degree weather to see the pontiff.

Dignitaries at the airport included Australia's Governor General Sir Paul Hasluck, Prime Minister John Gorton and his American-born wife, Bettina, and the archbishop of Sydney, Cardinal Sir Norman Gilroy.

While in Western Samoa, the Pope drove 18 miles in a pickup truck along a route dotted with flowers and signs saying "Welcome High Chief" to celebrate mass at the tiny Leulimoega village and to appeal to the world to send more missionaries to far-flung places.

20 Texans Killed In Traffic Since Thanksgiving

By United Press International. As holiday weekends go, the four-day Thanksgiving period ending Sunday was relatively free of violence on Texas highways, probably because of dry roads and clear weather.

Nevertheless, a United Press International count showed 20 traffic deaths in the state, seven homicides, two deaths by plane crash, four accidental shootings and one death by asphyxiation. The count began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Five of the dead were teenagers and five were 60 years old or older. Two were small children.

Sean Gross, 2, of Austin accidentally shot himself and Toni L. Matthews, 3, of Gainesville died in an auto accident 26 miles east of Van Horn.

A 16-year-old Cleburne girl, Connie Decker, was killed Sunday in a car that collided with a pickup truck. Six persons were injured in the two vehicles.

Two triple-fatality accidents Saturday pushed the death toll upward. Charles A. Johnson, 54; Nadine Johnson, 60, both of Kemp, and Marvin Doss, 45, of Dallas died Saturday night in a two-car head-on crash in Henderson County.

In Houston a car being chased by police veered out of control and into another car carrying two women. Three persons were killed: Otis Blackman, 35; Lucille Kansteiner, 52, and Myrtle Dickinson, 74.

Roberto C. Gonzales of Houston lost control of his car Sunday morning while trying to drive up an access road onto a freeway. The car hit a concrete railing, killing Gonzales.

Henry Alexander, 19, of Houston died from breathing the fumes of a chemical spray he was using at the Comet Race Mills.

In a Thanksgiving Day plane crash near Teague, Gerald Mackey, 34, and John Cradeur, 35, of Houston died.

In another multiple-fatality, James Moody Graham, 25, and Tom H. Green, 22, were killed near Vega. Their pickup truck flipped over while traveling at a high rate of speed.

T. Sgt. Wilson Goes On Trial On Charges Of Mistreating Trainees

LACKLAND AFB, Tex. (UPI)—T. Sgt. Jack Wilson goes on trial today in military court on charges of mistreating 11 Air Force basic trainees.

Wilson's assistant, S. Sgt. Rolando Sade, 27, was acquitted two weeks ago on similar charges.

Wilson, 43, is undergoing a general court martial instead of the special court martial that heard Sade's case. General courts martial are called for more serious offenses and can levy heavier penalties on convicts.

Wilson is accused of physically harassing 11 recruits within a few weeks of their arrival Lackland. One of the 11 said the instructor choked him and 10 others said they suffered blows to the face and other mistreatment.

Last year at Lackland three other drill sergeants were tried on brutality charges. Two of them—S. Sgt. Raymond T. Lucy and Sgt. Ronald E. Wood—were found guilty. S. Sgt. Daniel W. S. Clark was found innocent.

Alinsky has been twisting the establishment's tail for 30 years and has an old pro's scorn for dilettantes. When he says the new leftists are not serious revolutionaries, merely play-actors, that's the most withering judgment he could pass on them.

No one has ever accused Saul Alinsky of playing acting about social reform. In his long and turbulent career as an organizer of the poor and powerless, he has proved that he knows how to achieve results—and that he's willing to do it the hard way.

And those are precisely the grounds on which he faults the young red-hot who are going around striking revolutionary poses these days.

They're Harming the Cause
In the first place, he says, they aren't doing any good for the cause of social justice. In fact, they're harming that cause.

"The Weathermen should be getting paid by the extreme right for the work they do," he says, with a snort of disgust. "Any real revolutionary party would execute them as dangerous counter-revolutionaries."

The bombings and other acts of terrorism in which the Weathermen take pride are merely stiffening the resistance of society to meaningful change, as Alinsky sees it. Instead of "radicalizing the masses," extremist acts are driving the great majority of middle-class Americans into the arms of conservative politicians who skillfully exploit the public's fears in order to stifle genuine reform.

If college students are seriously interested in changing society, Alinsky says, they will stop thumbing their noses at their own middle-class origins and begin to capitalize on the fact that they belong by birth to the class which wields real power in America.

Violence Sabotages Cause
Black militants as well as young middle-class whites sabotage their own cause when they try to use violence as a short-

"It is sheer folly for the Black Panthers to rely on the power of guns when the other side has all the guns." The greatest mistake which activists of either race can make, in Alinsky's view, is to think that significant change cannot be achieved within the existing American system.

"Fifty years ago, you would have thought it would take a revolution to bring about such things as Social Security, Medicare, unemployment insurance, or many other things which we have in America today," he says. "These things were not accomplished by people mouthing about revolution, but by people who were willing to persevere in the hard work of achieving reforms, one at a time, the hard way, the only way."

The former Interior Secretary won a landslide election victory last July 5 to succeed Gustavo Diaz Ordaz for a six year term as Mexico's new chief executive.

Echeverria soon let it be known that he intends to make some impact on the national and international scene. For the first time the inauguration will be held at the National Auditorium instead of the downtown Palace of Fine Arts. The Fine Arts Palace holds only 10,000 while the auditorium, after special modifications, will have a capacity of 25,000.

The Echeverria camp expects about 70 foreign missions including a 10-man delegation from the United States led by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, and 300 foreign newsmen at the inauguration ceremony which will put Mexico City in a fiesta atmosphere for almost a week. In addition about 350 industrialists, labor leaders, news media executives and other distinguished persons have been invited as guests of the Mexican government, Jimenez said.

An entire floor in Mexico City's newest luxury hotel has been rented as press headquarters, where telephones telex and telegraph services as well as food and liquor will be at the disposal of the press.

Mexico will transmit the inauguration ceremony via InterSat IV satellite so that any nation interested in picking up the telecast of the event can do so.

The spectacle promises to be impressive. Echeverria, whose Party of Revolution has ruled Mexico for the past 41 years, has called up half a million of its rank-and-file members to form a human wall along the new President's motorcade route.

Union members, civil servants, and farmers, all organized within the PRI, will get paid for the day only upon presentation of their attendance and which Mexicans won't soon forget."

But Mauro Jimenez Lazcano, Echeverria's deputy press chief, says he considers the cost cheap. "We'd rather get a few insertions in the world press this way than buy full-page advertisements."

Echeverria, 48, a baldish and bespectacled but athletic figure, will receive the presidential band at 11 a.m. Dec. 1 at the National Auditorium in Mexico City's Chapultepec Park.

Foreign News Commentary

Window on the World:

Revival of the 70-year-old entente cordiale—the unwritten partnership between Britain and France, seems to be gradually replacing the carefully drafted, detailed and institutionalized friendship pact between France and West Germany which the late Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and the late President Charles de Gaulle concluded in 1963. More British ministers now are coming to Paris for bilateral talks than their German counterparts, and vice versa. The British and French have agreed to produce jointly a number of weapons and French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing and British Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber are to work together on plans to create a European monetary union.

Bridge to the East:
Look for the Bonn government to propose an early beginning of negotiations with Hungary on a goodwill and nonaggression treaty similar to those signed with the Soviet Union Aug. 12 and initiated in Warsaw Nov. 18. Economics Minister Karl Schiller's recent visit to Budapest, where he signed a five-year trade and economic and technological cooperation agreement with Hungary was seen by diplomatic observers as a pacemaker for the proposed treaty.

Red Chinese Rockets:
Red China currently is concentrating on long-range rockets which could hit Russia in the event of conflict, according to latest intelligence reports. Peking has drawn a veil of complete secrecy over its nuclear program, but all indications suggest that it is going all out in the missile field, with priority going to medium range rockets. Intercontinental rockets are not expected to be available before three to five years. Meantime Red China is marking time and is playing down its conflict with Russia with an eye to the latter's enormous nuclear superiority.

Still Not Friends:

Indian diplomats report that Communist Chinese ambassadors are telephoning them for appointments for the first time since the 1962 border war. "In several capitals around the world where we both have embassies, the Chinese for the first time are seeking out our ambassadors for friendly talks," an authoritative Indian diplomatic source told UPI in Tokyo upon his return from New Delhi. "This has been happening just in the past few weeks. China's policies toward India have not changed, and Peking still is giving assistance to Pakistan in what we consider a hostile manner. But the Chinese are smiling on us Indians for the first time in years."

Silent Epidemic Kills, Cripples More People Than Poliomyelitis

AUSTIN—A "silent epidemic" kills and cripples more people than poliomyelitis did during its worst year. In Texas, burn injuries killed 540 last year and 180 of them were children. No one knows how many suffered from burns, but 3,000 of the survivors were left crippled.

Six physicians and others who care for burned children believe the public should know that burns take a shocking toll; that the very young and the elderly are particularly vulnerable; and that legislation could do much to minimize these injuries by setting safety standards for some of the responsible agents.

In an editorial in the November issue of Texas Medicine, published by the Texas Medical Association, the writers emphasize, "The people of Texas have not recognized that they are in the midst of an epidemic of burn injuries." Its magnitude is greater than that of poliomyelitis which, during its peak year 1954, took 134 lives.

During the past three years, 90 percent of the children admitted to the Shriners Burns Institute in Galveston were severely burned in home accidents. "The principal agents were flammable clothing; gasoline and other flammable liquids; and natural gas-operated appliances such as open space heaters, stoves, and water heaters," according to the authors. They are Armond S. Goldman, M.D.; Robert L. Innes; Duane L. Larson, M.D.; Richard C. Schmidt; Sally Abston, M.D.; and Mario Dobrkovsky, M.D., who are associated with the Institute and the Departments of Pediatrics and Surgery of The University of Texas Medical Branch.

As a first step toward lessening the tragic burns in children, they recommend that (1) adequate standards be set for flame-proofing children's clothing, (2) use of open gas space heaters be outlawed, and (3) adequate safety standards be devised for gas water heaters.

Development of such legislation will require close cooperation between physicians, legislators, industry leaders, and others. Several Texas legislators already have met with staff members of the Shriners Burns Institute and the Medical Branch to discuss the problem in relation to possible legislative measures.

Many Heart Patients Become 'Sexual Cripples'

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A University of Washington psychology professor says many heart patients become "sexual cripples" largely because "up-tight" doctors and nurses seldom discuss the situation.

Dr. Nathaniel Wagner said recently some patients think they are impotent after a heart attack. And he said some wives fear sexual activity will kill their husbands while many male patients bear enormous fears of falling as lovers.

"The return to sex activity appears to produce very little stress," Wagner said. "We might equate it with a brisk walk downtown or climbing two flights of stairs." The psychologist said the patient's anxieties about sexual activity are heightened by physicians and nurses being uncomfortable about discussing the subject.

"If nurses feel that sex is dirty they are going to neglect an important area of coronary care because most patients are going to be involved in sexual activity," he said.

Wagner said hesitancy of medical personnel to talk about sex relates to the type of people attracted to the field. He told UPI that collegiate medical training should include more sex education. He also recommended a pamphlet be designed on the subject similar to the many others available to the patient.

"We have a pamphlet on just about every other subject, why not on this one?" he asked.

But he said much of the basic data on heart patients and sex activity had not been collected primarily because of the pre-conditioning of medical personnel.

The psychologist said it also would be wise to remember that patients who had little sex before heart attacks are not likely to alter their habits after recovering.

WONDERFUL WORLD OF CHRISTMAS

WHY

do stores start Christmas before Thanksgiving?

That's a question that's often asked, and it deserves a sincere answer!

* Your newspaper appreciates the spirit that prompts many of the objections to early Christmas shopping promotions

* However, when the reasons for the urge to "Shop Early" are examined, the most critical agree it's MORE than a problem for stores alone.

* So we're happy to take this opportunity of presenting some of the problems that confront all stores at holiday time.

* Every successful store directs its best effort toward perfecting a helpful service to ALL its customers. An since many customers ask stores to make it easier for them to complete their gift shopping before the crowded post-Thanksgiving period, Christmas merchandise and displays are brought forward early to accommodate them.

* And scarcely a major store in the nation could cope with the store traffic that would be generated if any part of early Christmas shopping was postponed until after Thanksgiving. Even under present circumstances, most stores are strained to capacity during the peak of the season, to maintain the kind of store service all shoppers have learned to expect.

* When you recall the extremely crowded conditions of stores the final two or three weeks before Christmas the problem becomes evident.

* If no early Christmas shopping were done, this condition would be multiplied many fold. (Actually there would not be enough room behind store counters for enough sales people to serve shoppers during this period between Thanksgiving and Christmas.)

* The same condition exists in regard to the children's visits to Santa Claus. Thousands of children and their parents look forward to their annual visit with him, and unless he makes an early appearance, many hundreds would be doomed to disappointment simply because it's physically impossible to reach him in a shorter time.

* Those in the store business know that an extremely large percentage of the Christmas gifts that are selected are items that are in plentiful supply the entire year.

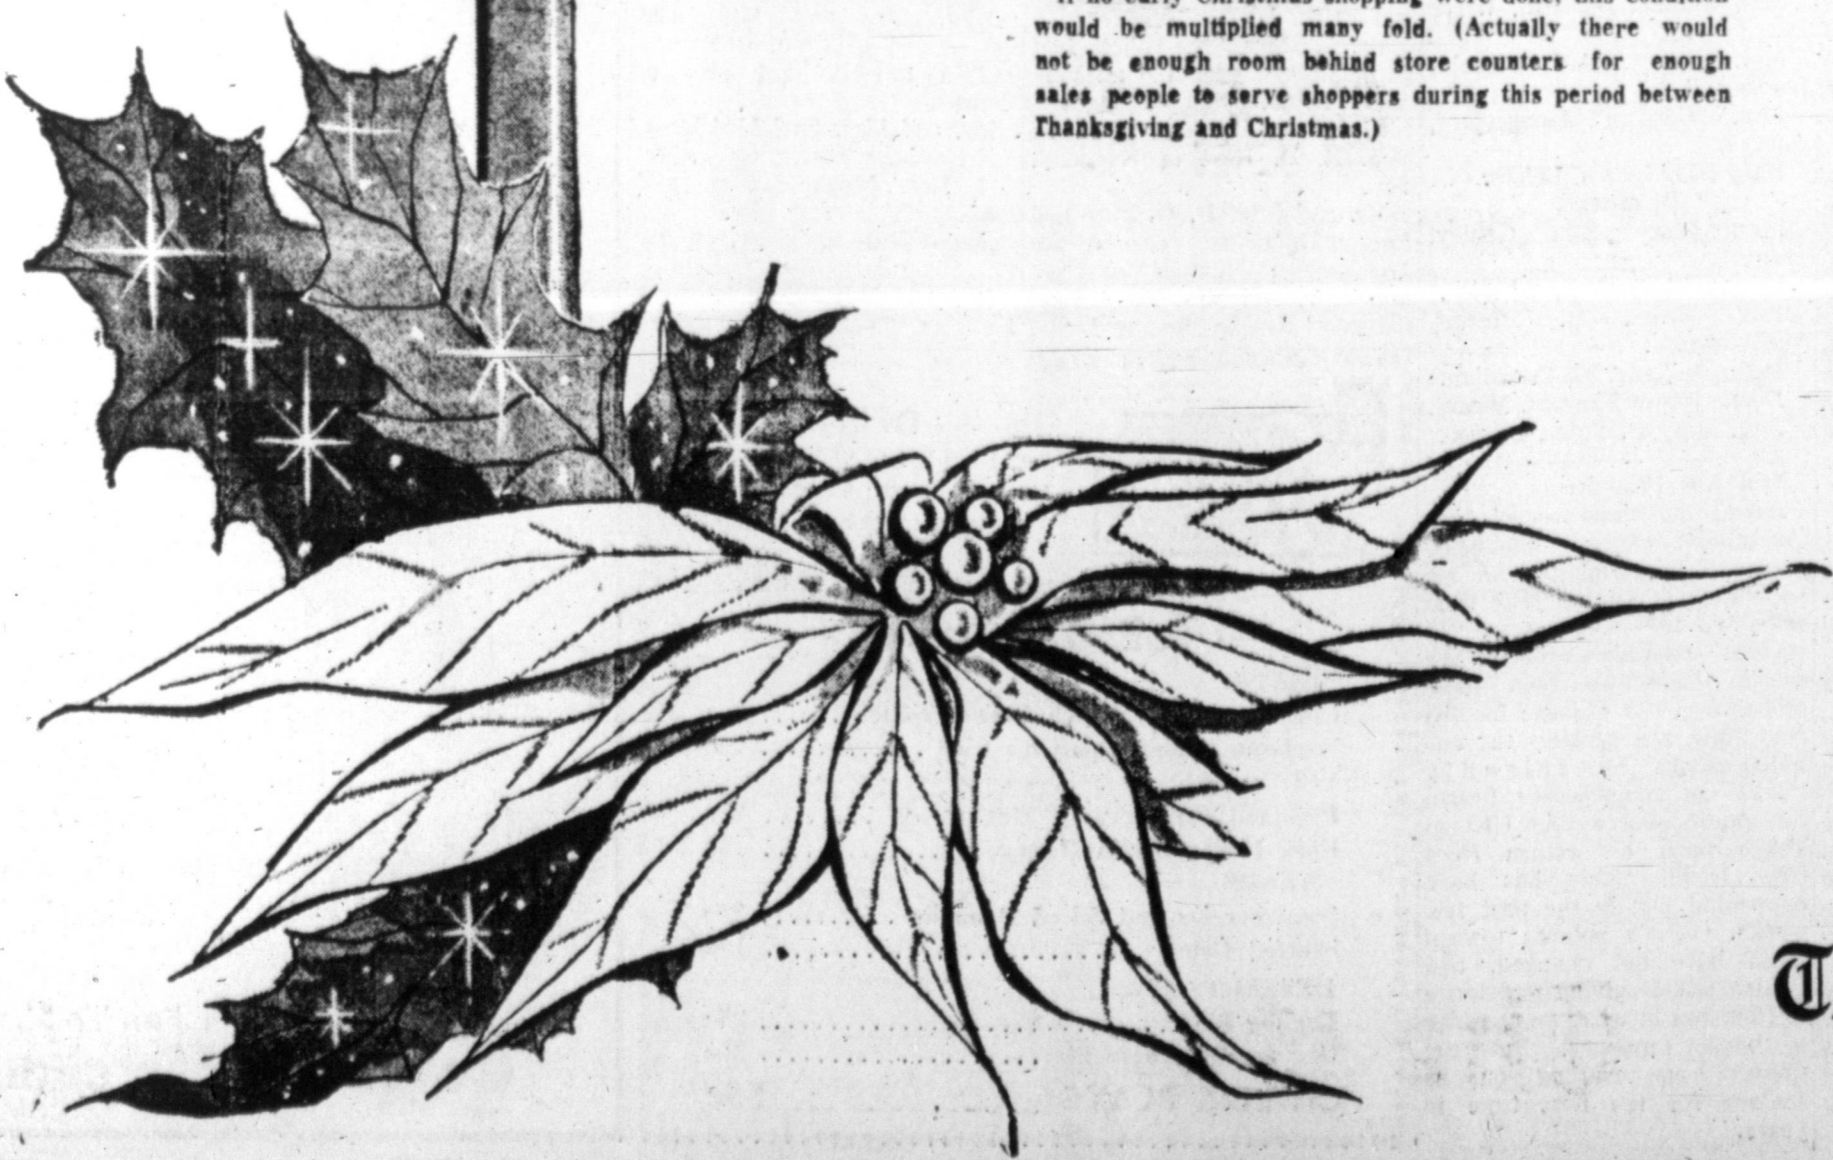

* If you were to ask the thousands of retail employees—and as a group they represent one of the largest employee groups in Pampa — they would tell you that much of the stress and strain of their Christmas would be relieved if the shopping public would anticipate Christmas shopping throughout the year. Then you'd seldom hear your friends in retailing remark, "I'm simply worn down to my knees by Christmas Eve."

* Granted that the problem is not a one-sided one, it should be recognized that stores are faced with the problems of convenient service to customers, of maintaining helpful employee relations, of providing a place where those of the public who cannot, or do not plan ahead may select the traditional gifts for their loved ones and friends.

* We are sure that if all of our storekeepers would chat with you personally and informally that you would be convinced of their sincerity and that in the true spirit of Christmas, they would not be criticized for their efforts to perform a helpful service to their shopping public.

* Finally, for all these reasons, and for others which will occur to you, don't you agree that beginning Christmas shopping early makes it easier, faster and a whole lot more pleasurable for you?

* So do yourself and your favorite stores a favor . . . start shopping now . . . while selections are at their best . . . while you have plenty of time to compare before choosing . . . while sales personnel can give you the kind of service you prefer.

Project Offers Fun For All

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Home Editor

Something missing from your life? It may be dotted dogs, calico cats and peppermint-striped zebras.

If this is true, be prepared for someone to fill the gap. With approximately 29 cents and genius you can make textured pictures for children if you are an adult or receive one made by a small admirer.

Textured pictures make a heart-warming project at Christmas time. All you need for a start are a coloring book, fabric and yarn scraps, some glue and a sewing kit. Those who hesitate to make anything because they feel less than artistic now merely cut pictures out of coloring books for patterns and cover them with the fabric for depth, color and texture. Frame the purple cow, polka-dotted elephant, orange clouds or corduroy print giraffe and you have piquant art for a nursery or even daddy's office, since many men like to display their children's art.

How the pattern outlines are used depends upon the age and skill of the craftsman. Smaller children usually need someone older to guide the project.

You may trace designs and then cover the area with fabric or work from the original. Almost any fabric fits, this creative, kooky gift art. You may want to use felt, silk, cotton or imitation leather for bodies or chassis of cars and trains and embroider faces. Buttons make animal eyes; a soda straw becomes a tree trunk and a flower cutout is a meadow.

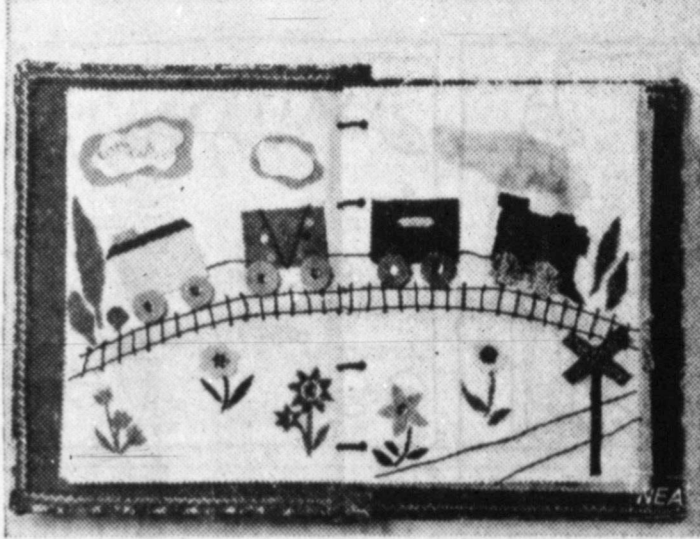

Usually, you will find cardboard suitable for mounting. Measure this to fit dime store wood frames if you intend to hang the creation. Cover the cardboard with burlap or other material or paint it before working your texture scene.

You will find it great fun to link several pictures to form a mural. And don't hesitate to be bold with color, texture and design. Your mural may consist of a train passing a group of girls jumping rope, then a barnyard and so on. You probably will find yourself making up a story as you get into the sewing of making the textured pictures. Because of this the children's activity experts with a publishing board and tying the pictures together with yarn.

A more complex book can be made to teach the little ones to do things. Add a zipper to an Indian tepee made of chamois, fabric flowers to count company suggest you plan to or fix buttons to umbutton. Such a project is great fun for anyone.

WHO FAULTS WHIMSY as a Christmas gift? Cutouts from a coloring book are backgrounds for fabric pictures. Children or adults glue on a variety of scraps to complete the scenes. Some ideas are (top) a clock, lion with yarn mane or a choo-choo scene. These are framed or made up as a book for a child.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Something happened in this town which I think should be advertised nationwide. An elderly gentleman who lived alone in a hotel room died, and in his will he left a lot of money to a waitress. He said she had waited on him with a smile even though he never left a big tip. In fact, he said there were times when he didn't leave a tip at all, but she still gave him wonderful service.

So, please tell waiters and waitresses that his should be a lesson to them. They should give good service, with a smile, whether the person is a good tipper or not, because some folks don't tip while they're living, but they leave a lot in their wills.

DALLAS: What you say may be true, but that's a long time to wait for a tip.

DEAR ABBY: Your cold comment, "Children owe thanks to no one — including Mother" prompts this letter to tell you how wrong you are. Don't you realize that the trouble with our young people today is that they think their lives are their "own" and they don't owe anybody — including their parents — anything.

Parents spend thousands of dollars and roughly 20 years of their lives on raising a child. Don't you think they are entitled to a little thanks?

I work with high school girls, and when one of them gripes to me about her mother, I tell her to take a large piece of paper and draw a line down the center, and on one side she should write "Things My Mother Does for Me" and on the other side, "Things I do for My Mother."

Needless to say, the result is rather lopsided. After that, I don't hear any more gripes from that girl about "Mother."

SOUTH GATE, CAL.
DEAR SOUTH: Rearing

children is a responsibility parents ask for when they become parents, and the time and money spent on rearing children are not in my view "gifts" for which parents should expect thanks. No parent expects his child to "do" as much for him as he has done for his child. But when children grow up and choose to become parents themselves, they will in turn do for their children what their parents did for them. And if parents expect "thanks" for rearing children who came into the world because they wanted a family — shame on them.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. I have a girlfriend I'll call Terry who broke up with her boyfriend I'll call Pete a few months ago. Pete has been calling me but I don't dare go out with him because I know Terry will feel hurt if she finds out about it because she still likes him. I would like to go out with Pete, but knowing how Terry feels about him I can't bring myself to do it.

Pete thinks I am being very foolish because he was completely finished with Terry before he even thought of calling me. Also, I never did one thing to attract his attention before or after they broke up. Can you advise me?

TEMPTED: I think you're foolish, too. If your conscience is clear, go out with him.

Informed sources in Taipei say the Nationalist Chinese government told its allies before the United Nations vote on Chinese representation that it would withdraw from the U.N. if Peking's Communists won the Chinese seat. Some sources say the Nationalists since have told their allies they are adamantly opposed to any two-China arrangement, that would give Peking a seat while retaining Taipei.

Unit Organizes Craft Meeting For Handicapped

Mrs. Ben Graham of Pampa Amarillo, the district representative for the State Commission for the Blind, will conduct an organizational meeting in Pampa Tuesday for visually handicapped adults of Pampa and area towns.

"We are hoping to organize social and craft activities for those adults in our area who are partially sighted, or blind, and hope they will attend the first meeting which is planned for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Pioneer Natural Gas Company Flame Room," Mrs. Graham said. Families of potential members are also welcome to attend.

Kordas will explain opportunities and services available from the State Commission for the Blind. He has a degree in psychology at the Armed Force Examining Station in Amarillo, and has had three months of specialized training at the Arkansas Enterprise for Blind in Little Rock, Ark.

"We may need sponsorship later on for transportation, or for someone to help direct craft activities. Anyone interested in attending or in volunteering to help may contact me at 665-4443," Mrs. Graham said.

Lefors Faculty Selects Winner Of DAR Award

LEFORS (Spl) — Lefors High School faculty members have selected Diane Hughes, daughter of Walter Hughes, as the Daughters of American Revolution (DAR) Good Citizen for 1970-71.

The senior was chosen on the basis of her dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Miss Hughes will be honored by the Las Pampas DAR Chapter with representatives from other area schools at a luncheon and a tea, and will be presented with a Good Citizen pin and certificate. A questionnaire was completed for her to compete for the state DAR award.

POLLY'S POINTERS Remove Adhesive Paper With Rubbing Alcohol

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY— Just yesterday, I received an answer to Linda's problem of removing adhesive-backed paper from her clock radio. I tried to remove such paper from a window shade but with no luck. I wrote to the company. They suggested using rubbing alcohol in a circular motion. I applied it with a soft sponge. The procedure may have to be repeated. They also said the adhesive used in their decorative paper does sometimes affect certain plastic or vinyl fabrics but on wood or metal there is no problem.

—WILMA

DEAR GIRLS and Linda — Test an unobtrusive spot first, as the clock radio in question is white plastic. I tried the rubbing alcohol on a couple of white plastic items I own and they remained looking the same but others might not, as Wilma's letter states.

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When bed sheets wear down the middle, as they do long before the sides show wear, I rip them down the middle, remove the worn part and then sew the selvages together. Rehem the sides and thus prolong the life of sheets. This is only for flat sheets. For the fitted bottom sheets, I sew on a large outing flannel patch (two yards long and 27 inches wide is usually the right size for a twin-bed sheet) and use them in the winter when a warm sheet is so comfortable.

—ALICE

DEAR GIRLS— Often, when the worn strip is wide, the resulting remade sheet is too narrow for a double bed but works out great for a twin bed. It is best to be sure all the worn part is removed, even if a crib sheet is all that can be salvaged from the good part.

—POLLY

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — The previous owners of our house put decals on the BUMPY sides of the glass on the shower doors. A razor blade cannot be used to remove them. I would appreciate hearing of some way to do this.

It has a way with women

Today's fashion scene is different. Paris no longer dictates. American women demand a more personal, current, independent look.

These days, style changes overnight. Everywhere, fashion makes news. And since women want today's look today, eight out of 10 shop the pages of this paper for "fashion and style" information before they shop the stores. Because this newspaper is where today's news happens.

Boutiques and little shops are the thing today. In small towns and big cities. But boutique-style selling depends on newness; fast turnover, and fast communication. Newspapers give you fast communication. Your ad can usually appear in this paper 48 hours after you decide to run it.

Fashion today is dictated by the young. And today young people have money. In fact, more money is spent on clothing 18-to-24-year-old girls than any other group in the country. The young still read newspapers. During a five-day span, 74 percent of all 18-to-24 year olds read the paper. Eighty-three percent of those with family incomes over $10,000 do.

Your customers are out there waiting. They want to buy what's new and what's news. Make sure your store is where they do it. Keep telling your story. In the pages of this paper.

Newspapers have a way with women. We can help you have a way with them, too.

That's what we mean by Newspaperability.

JEANE DIXON Your Horoscope

TUESDAY, DEC. 1, 1978
Your birthday Tuesday... In the year ahead you must develop more practical uses of what you know. Your search for efficiency may bring few but quite significant openings for expansion. Take careful advantage of them. Emotional life this year tends to go along offstage, poignant but not getting attention. Tuesday natives are very anxious, work hard for their chosen causes.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): You have plenty of energy for the details. Let your good humor and enjoyment of life lead you to success. Cooperation is available for improving your home situation.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Present your achievements; seek recognition, new things to do. Tuesday is favorable for dealings in long-term assets assembling small ventures into larger projects.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Older, more skilled people help you. Be diplomatic about the differences in methods. This year is good for trading. Do what you need and get clear of it.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Cooperation is the key to success and happiness Tuesday. Your mate or partner has a rather good idea. There is a chance to earn something extra now.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): No matter how early the start, the high point of the day comes late. Career and romantic interests should proceed well. Join a group for the evening.
22: Tidy up, complete unfinished chores, dispose of unused possessions. You are more likely to meet influential people at afternoon and evening. Make the most of whatever contacts develop.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Both early and late hours are favorable for career and advancement. You are more likely to meet influential people at afternoon and evening. Make the most of whatever contacts develop.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): People are helpful; group and family problems begin moving toward solutions. You turn better with less noise, better lighting, give thought to your environment.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Everything you do Tuesday should aim toward evening success. You are more likely to meet influential people at afternoon and evening. Make the most of whatever contacts develop.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The incidents of early morning may have a lasting effect on your future. Make it a quiet day of steady effort, then organize evening social fun.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Early morning, late afternoon are best for arranging deals Tuesday. Very good advice is mixed in with your friends' promises.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friends help in many ways—in career matters, in social opportunities in the sharing of bargains. Do a little of all, but don't take for granted that all your friends like each other.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—It is nice at last to have all those preliminaries dusted under the astroturf, and, finally to get on with it.

There was really only one game on the Southwest Conference football schedule this season. Everybody knew it from the start.

It was Texas vs. Arkansas, and it is finally upon us—at 1:50 p.m. CST next Saturday in Texas Memorial Stadium.

Its the repeat performance of last year's 15-14 Texas win, something the folks in Arkansas have waited 365 days to get even for, something the television people conceived and something Darrell Royal and Frank Broyles would just as soon have gotten over with in October.

But things don't quite seem the same this year.

The Cotton Bowl host role against unfortunate Notre Dame is up for grabs of course—just like last year. And, the undisputed conference championship goes to the winner.

But this year's contest does not bring together two unbeaten teams. Texas has held up its share, having run its winning streak to 29 games. But Arkansas was a 34-28 loser to Stanford back on the opening day of the season.

The President of the United States is not likely to put in an appearance in Austin this year as he did in Fayetteville last season, although former President Lyndon B. Johnson could well be in attendance.

And maybe this year's end-of-the-season showdown lacks the least little sparkle because it's been done before. The second sip of a fine wine might be tasty, but it can't compare to the first.

But most of all the luster might not shine so bright on the 1970 version of the Southwest Conference Super-Bowl because of the guys who won't be there, and because of the fellows, who, even if they are playing, might not be 100 per cent.

This one could be remembered as the Injury Bowl.

The two major hurts belong to Cotton Speyrer, hero of the Texas Cotton bowl victory very Notre Dame, and Bill Burnett, the Arkansas tailback who has scored more points than any other player in league history.

Speyrer went out in the middle of his senior year with a broken arm against Oklahoma. Three weeks later Burnett suffered a shoulder separation, and the resulting operation will probably keep him on the sidelines next Saturday.

The latest word from Arkansas was that, while Burnett had tried to jog last week, the vibrations from rushing and cutting sharply hurt his shoulder.

"Right now his playing status is 'very, doubtful,'" one Arkansas spokesman said. "We may not know until the day of the game."

And Burnett's running mate in the Arkansas backfield—Russ Garber—is still uncertain, having broken a rib playing against SMU.

Garber's pass blocking was sorely missed against Texas Tech the next week, and the pass blocking against Texas will suffer even more with the absence of offensive guard Ronnie Hammers. Hammers—the keystone of the Razorback offensive line—broke his ankle against Tech.

The Longhorn bumps and bruises list reads like an all-conference team.

There is fullback Steve Worster (hip pointer), quarterback Eddie Phillips (bruised knee), defensive end Bill Atessis (pulled hamstring muscle), second-string quarterback and punter Gary Keithley (sprained ankle). There are others, but there is no use being gruesome.

"It's a week and a half until Arkansas," Royal said after Texas' 52-14 slaughter of Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day. "And that may not be enough time. We are in the worst shape we've been in. There is not a thing here two or three weeks wouldn't heal, but we've got 10 days."

But even if this year's Texas-Arkansas game does not have quite the sparkle of last years game, the contest itself could be just as thrilling.

And Phillips, remembering the bomb from James Street to Randy Peschel that saved last year's game for Texas, set the tone for this week's contest.

Alouettes Win After Two And Half Decades

MONTREAL (UPI)—The Montreal Alouettes, the undisputed champions of the Canadian Football League, returned home Sunday proudly bearing the Grey Cup of proof of their supremacy.

Led by Mayor Jean Drapeau, thousands of loudly cheering Montrealers turned out to give a heroes welcome to the team that returned the trophy to Montreal after a 21-year absence.

Hundreds of fans were unable to join in the welcoming celebration. The two-lane main artery leading to the airport terminal was jammed with cars lined bumper-to-bumper three across.

An Air Canada DC8 carried the Alouettes from Toronto, where they defeated the Calgary Stampeders, 23-0, Saturday in the Grey Cup Classic.

Pre-Season Picks Are Leading In High School Football Ratings

United Press International
When the Texas schoolboy football season started, Monahans, Brownwood, Ennis and Jasper were all rated in the Class AAA Top Ten and expected to clash sometime in the state playoffs.

The time has come. Monahans meets Brownwood this weekend and two undefeated, Ennis and Jasper, meet in the quarterfinals of the state playoffs.

Piano goes against Jacksonville and Cuero takes on Gregory-Portland at 8 p.m. Friday in Victoria to round out the Class AAA games.

In Class AAAA, Amarillo Palo Duro goes up against the team favored to take it all, Odessa Permian, at 2 p.m. Saturday in Odessa.

Other 4-A games have Corsicana meeting Dallas South Oak Cliff, Houston Sam Houston taking on undefeated Port Arthur Jefferson and two-time champ Austin Reagan meeting a surging San Antonio Roosevelt 7:30 p.m. Friday in San Antonio.

Willis Point has the monkey on its back this week in Class AA, having to take on defending champ, Iowa Park. Iowa Park is putting a 27-game winning streak on the line and must win three more to add another state AA crown.

Childrens will meet Haskell in other AA action with Georgetown and Friendswood and Boling and Refugio rounding out AA quarterfinals.

NFL Division Set-Up Is Working Beyond Plans

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

The six division setup which the National Football League put into effect in this first year of the merger is working out much better than originally anticipated.

With only three weeks remaining in the regular season, there is not one divisional race which has been decided and the possibility still remains that all six races could go down to the final week before the winners are determined.

In the American Football Conference, there is a three-way tie for first place between Cleveland, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh in the Central Division and tie for first between Kansas City and Oakland in the West Division. Baltimore holds a two-game edge over Miami in the East Division, but that could be reduced to a game and a half if the Dolphins can beat the Atlanta Falcons tonight.

In the National Conference, Los Angeles and San Francisco are deadlocked for first place in the West Division. St. Louis holds a game and a half edge over the New York Giants in the East Division and Minnesota leads Detroit by two games in the Central Division.

Three Ties
The three divisional ties came about Sunday as a result of Los Angeles avenging an earlier loss to San Francisco, 30-13; Kansas City defeating San Diego, 26-14; Pittsburgh beating Cleveland, 28-9; and Cincinnati trouncing New Orleans, 26-6.

In other games Minnesota missed a chance to clinch its division title by losing to the Jets, 20-10; the Giants edged Washington, 27-24; St. Louis topped Philadelphia, 23-14; Baltimore nipped Chicago, 21-20; Houston defeated Denver, 31-21; and Boston snapped a nine-game losing streak by topping Buffalo, 14-10.

Three touchdown runs by Willie Ellison and three field goals by David Ray sparked the Rams' victory and left Los Angeles and San Francisco with identical 7-3-1 records. If both teams should go on to win their remaining three games the Rams would be awarded the division title since they outscored the Forty Niner s by three points in the two games between the clubs.

Lenny Dawson connected on 17 of 24 passes for 208 yards, including a 50-yard scoring pass to Morris Stroud, and Jan Stenerud added four field goals as the Chiefs moved into a tie with Oakland with a 6-3-2 record. The Chiefs and Raiders played to a 17-17 tie earlier this year but will meet again on Dec. 12.

Terry Bradshaw threw scoring passes of 81 yards to Ron Shanklin and 57 yards to Johnny Fuqua in sparking the Steelers to a victory over the Browns, who had entered the game with a full game lead over both Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Winning Streak Snapped
George Nock gained 117 yards, including a 15-yard TD run, and the Jets intercepted four passes in snapping the Vikings' seven-game winning streak. The loss was only the Vikings' second in 11 games.

Pete Gogolak's 20-yard field goal with 1:52 remaining enabled the Giants to keep pace with the Cardinals in the NFC East.

Fran Tarkenton also paced Giants victory with a pair of touchdown passes, the 199th and 200th of his career.

Jim Hart threw two touchdown passes and Jim Bakken kicked three field goals as the Cardinals hung on to defeat the Eagles.

John Unitas' 54-yard TD pass to John Mackey with 3:47 remaining enabled the Colts to rally from a 17-0 deficit and edge the Bears. Unitas hit on 23 of 40 passes for 258 yards but had five passes intercepted and the Bears turned four of those into scores.

Charley Johnson's three TD passes sparked Houston's victory and the Patriots turned a fumble recovery and a pass interception into touchdowns to defeat the Bills.

Muhammad And The Mountain Doesn't Involve Cassius Clay

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—This one has to do with the latest version of Muhammad and the mountain and to avoid any confusion right off you should know it doesn't involve either Cassius Clay or these local San Bernardino slopes.

Muhammad in this case is Billy Martin, Detroit's new manager who is among those here for the baseball meetings. His Detroit ball players are the mountain.

Billy Martin got the idea of visiting each one of them individually this winter, or as many as he possibly could anyway, to become personally acquainted with them, listen to some of their ideas and maybe pass along a few of his own.

Some of the players Martin has visited already are Norm Cash, Bill Freehan and Al Kaline.

End Of College Football Can Bring Tears To A Fan's Eyes

By United Press International
The end of the college football season can be very upsetting.

It can bring tears to the eyes of the favorites' fans, second guesses from those too-hasty bowl selection committees and executives from the coaches. Notre Dame and Army found out just how upsetting it can be last Saturday against season-ending rivals.

Southern California, finishing the season with only a 6-4-1 record and a 12-point underdog, tripped the third-ranked Irish 38-28, and Navy salvaged a dismal season with an 117 finale over arch-rival Army.

This week more of the same can happen when first-ranked Texas faces sixth-ranked Arkansas in a Southwest Conference showdown that means the national title and Cotton Bowl berth.

That clash is only the featured attraction of a weekend that also has Louisiana State (No. 8) facing Mississippi (No. 10), Tennessee (No. 5) going against UCLA (No. 14) and spoiler Miami taking on Houston (No. 16). Ole Miss already got a dose of that late-season upset pill with a 19-14 loss to Mississippi State that probably will cost it a spot among the elite top ten.

In other games last weekend, Tennessee, bound for the Sugar Bowl, defeated Vanderbilt, 24-6; Georgia Tech, in the Sun Bowl, beat Georgia, 17-7, and spoiled

Rice Coach Hagan Probably Beat His Adversaries To The Punch By Resigning Before Being Fired

By United Press International
Rice Coach Bo Hagan, who probably beat his adversaries to the punch by resigning, and TCU Coach Fred Taylor, who wouldn't quit but got fired anyway, departed the Southwest Conference coaching scene in jovial moods.

Their teams gave them the finest going-away presents a coach could wish for—victories.

Rice closed out its 5-5 season with a rousing 28-23 verdict over Baylor at Waco and TCU capped a 4-6-1 campaign with an equally robust 28-17 decision over SMU as the two winners tied SMU for fourth place in the conference standings with identical 3-4 records.

Why Welfare Rolls Grow

Welfare stories as told by politicians — especially those campaigning for re-election — are suspect because 1, the tales are told for political effect, and 2, you can't check 'em out, because the welfare rolls are secret.

But when a county welfare director talks about welfare outrages because rules and regulations have to be obeyed, he rates a higher score for credibility.

Thus, when the welfare director of Burlington County in New Jersey asserts that he has a "client" earning $13,920 a year and at the same time getting a $75 check each month from welfare, it's believable.

"This man," Welfare Director Robert Gallagher said, "is now making more than I am." Gallagher makes $14,000 a year. The welfare recipient has a salary of $13,920 plus $900 from welfare, a total of $14,820.

"There's nothing we can do about it," Gallagher said, as reported by the National Enquirer in an article by Stan Hayes.

"We're not helping the poor," Gallagher said. "The poor people who were on the rolls two years ago are still living in the same square. We're now helping the middle class to maintain status quo."

Gallagher tells how the "absolutely fantastic" story developed: The gentleman in "Midincome" circumstances had lost his job. He applied for welfare. It was determined that he needed $500 a month to keep up his $185 monthly mortgage and to feed and clothe his wife and six children.

Later, the welfare recipient got a job at $1,160 a month. Gallagher thought the man would be taken off the welfare rolls, but he was wrong.

The National Enquirer's story technical assistance to its insureds in correcting their pollution problems.

Also, companies under consideration for insurance will be surveyed for possible contamination and pollution problems. If these conditions exist, the companies will be required to take corrective measures under a timetable agreeable to CNA.

"But when such companies persist in polluting," said McDonnell, "we will simply stop writing any liability, property or surety insurance for them — no matter how profitable that business might have been. Let me repeat that. We won't write ANY coverages for them, period."

Limited though the practical effect may be on the over-all pollution problem, this action by one company in putting convictions ahead of profits might just be some infectious.

In any event you're on record, Mr. McDonnell.

H. L. Hunt Writes

HOOVER VS. CLARK

J. Edgar Hoover, the astute and reserved director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, broke his dignified silence several years ago to brand Martin Luther King, Jr., "the most notorious liar in the country." The charge proved to be a real shocker but it didn't bring any firm denials.

Now, Mr. Hoover, who has kept the FBI out of politics, has called former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark a "jellyfish" and added that Clark was the worst attorney general he could remember. That included, the FBI chief said, the late Robert Kennedy.

Clark, in a counter-blast, said Mr. Hoover's pursuit of the Communist party is an example of a terribly wasteful use of resources, and that the director's assessment of the Black Panthers was Potentially absurd.

The only absurd thing about all this is Clark's persistent failure to recognize the backbone of the revolutionary movement in this country. It is true that the FBI is a fact-finding organization but it also is charged with the internal security of the Republic. It fulfilled this obligation magnificently during World War II and in other times of national stress.

Clark's assessment of our true enemies reflect that he didn't heed what our national intelligence sources must have told him while he was the nation's chief law enforcement officer. Mr. Hoover has branded the Panthers as dangerous and their actions are in pure defiance of the laws of the land.

The international communist conspiracy has left little doubt about its aims of subverting and smashing us. We are indebted to Mr. Hoover for his long service. We applaud him for speaking the truth.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

How would you good people like a real "bargain?" That's what the government is offering you — er, that's what they claim it is.

Now, step right up folks, and get your little card, billfold size, for only 10 simoleans. It's got a picture of an eagle on it. It even has a line underneath where you can sign your very own name.

This proves it is yours, all yours. It is called by the big hurrah name of "Golden Eagle Passport."

What does it do? Why, it lets you go into and out of national forest parks and recreation areas. Otherwise, you Americans better stay the heck out.

These areas, were set up originally by Teddy Roosevelt in order that the American populace may be able to view forever the beauties of this country — FREE . . .

We have been taxed accordingly ever since for their support. But the main trouble was, all the little fellers and their families were enjoying them so much it just couldn't go unnoticed.

Why should all you people be allowed so much pleasure for nothing? You shouldn't have that much fun at all. But as long as you were, you must pay.

What About Panama Canal As Target For Russians?

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — The Nixon administration must soon face up to the alarming fact that communism is making spectacular gains in the western hemisphere.

First in Cuba and now in Chile, Bolivia, Peru and Panama may be next. Despite some of the State Department's perennial optimism, the election of Marxist-Leninist Salvador Allende as president of Chile was a major political victory for Russia and a serious setback for U.S. policy in Latin America.

Allende is a veteran of the Communist Internation. He tops Cuba's Fidel Castro as Moscow's man in Latin America.

His victory marks the demise of the Alliance for Progress which President Kennedy inaugurated "to improve and strengthen democratic institutions" in the western hemisphere. It will encourage other Latin-American letists to seize power.

Specialists on communism expect Peru and Bolivia to follow Chile in forming "coalition" governments where Marxists-Leninists predominate.

But it is Panama and the Canal that are likely to be the Kremlin's next major target. This was revealed by Ruben Dario Souza, secretary of Panama's Communist party known as the "People's Party."

Souza was in Moscow in September and had several conferences with the Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev. He makes no secret of his ultimate goal — expansion of the United States from the Panama Canal and how he hopes to achieve it.

In a statement to the Kremlin's global propaganda journal "New Times," Souza disclosed that Gen. Om Torrijos, chief of Panamas' ruling military junta, has been collaborating with Russia's agents.

In December, 1969, four junta colonels tried to depose Torrijos. They accused him of allowing pro-Communists, including Foreign Minister Juan Antonio Tack, to penetrate Panama's government.

However, with the help of the Communists and their National Labor Center, Torrijos defeated the colonels who sought refuge in the Panama Canal Zone which has been under U.S. control since 1903.

There is no evidence that Torrijos is a hard-line Communist. He belongs, as Souza said, to the "nationalist wing of Panama's army which is influenced by the general shift to the left in Latin America."

But Moscow obviously regards him as "Kerensky" who will smooth the Communists' way to power.

It was by subverting the liberal policies of Alexander Kerensky, Russia's first and only democratic premier, that Lenin and his Bolsheviks were able to seize power in 1917.

Dark Circles Under Eyes?

Just Your Veins Showing

Dear Doctor—I have dark circles under my eyes. I notice a lot of women have them. What causes it and what can be done to cure it?

Dear Reader—If you will examine the skin under your eyes, you will find it is thin and delicate. The large number of veins under the skin cause the bluish color. You can usually observe the blue color of the veins on the back of the hand. This color is normal for veins. The veins under the eyes are more easily seen in persons with delicate skin, which is why this is more often seen in women.

Although the bluish color is often attributed to fatigue and a "sluggish circulation," it is doubtful that this has anything to do with it. It is more common with weight loss or illness that cause weight loss because of the decrease in the fat pads under the eyes and upper cheeks that help obscure the veins.

When you lie down more blood pools in the veins in the face. In babies with very thin skin this makes the blue circles under the eyes more prominent. In some people there is a tendency to accumulate a small amount of fluid around the eyes at night while lying down. The puffy eyelids obscure the veins. As the puffiness goes away during the day the dark circles caused by the veins become apparent.

Just remember, dark circles under the eyes usually have no important meaning relative to your health. There really isn't anything to cure. Cosmetics could help.

There may be more value in some spring water than skeptics thought. It really isn't all madn'ess. Alkaline spring waters were used in the fifth century to treat "mania," a form of uncontrolled high level of activity or "madness." The practice was continued for centuries, then fell into disrepute. Now Dr. Bertram Brown, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, announces that studies have shown that lithium (once used as a salt substitute) is useful in treating certain agitated states (manic phase of manic depression) and may even help with the depression. And what did the alkaline spring water have in it? That's right—lithium.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know if a girl can get pregnant and still be a virgin. Could she possibly get pregnant if a boy just tried but left her a virgin. Can this happen?

Dear Reader—It hasn't happened in 2,000 years.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Inside Washington

Hanoi Aims New Grief At POW Families

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The latest "humanitarian" gesture by Hanoi is causing new concern and grief for prisoner of war families and for the people in and out of government who are trying to help them.

Peacekeeper Cora Weiss, who characterizes the Hanoi policy as "humanitarian," has now advised the families of six Americans missing in Vietnam, that the men died in North Vietnamese prisons. They had been listed by the Pentagon as presumed captured.

Mrs. Weiss, co-chairman of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Prisoners detained in North Vietnam, unveiled Hanoi's pre-Christmas propaganda play as she announced, after a visit that Hanoi has added four new POW names to the supposedly "final" listing which it supplied to a peace group a couple of months ago.

More than 1,500 men have been listed by the Pentagon as missing in Southeast Asia. The four additional names raised to 339 the number, confirmed as prisoners by Hanoi. The Pentagon thinks the number in North Vietnam is at least 376.

Whatever the exact total, however, several of the known prisoners have been held for more than six years; quite a few of them have been held for more than five years. Most of them have been held for more than two years.

So the thoughtful notification by Mrs. Weiss amounts to a grisly greetings-of-the-season for many other POW families — a reminder that some, perhaps many, of those in enemy hands will not survive the notorious hospitality of their North Vietnamese captors.

CONFIRMATION LACKING — In a surge of ladylike delicacy, Mrs. Weiss refrained from publicly announcing the names of the six prisoners who are allegedly deceased. In standard disaster procedure, she privately notified the next of kin.

One of those notified was Mrs. Evelyn Grubb, wife of Air Force Maj. Wilmer N. Grubb, who was shot down over North Vietnam nearly five years ago. For a long time thereafter Mrs. Grubb did not know whether her husband was alive or dead.

Now there is a new time of uncertainty for Mrs. Grubb. In the absence of official confirmation, she has said she cannot accept the information relayed by Mrs. Weiss as final. Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., who recently told the Senate of Mrs. Grubb's dilemma, described Mrs. Weiss' liaison committee as "a black-mail outfit."

"It is tragic enough," said Hansen, "for the wife of a soldier to learn that her husband is dead."

"But to learn of it in this manner — with this degree of uncertainty — compounds the personal tragedy into a national sorrow."

100 TONS OF HEARTBREAK — Coincidentally, the new play in Communist propaganda comes as POW groups here are beginning new efforts to rally public support for better treatment of prisoners in Southeast Asia.

By the first of the year, 100 tons of mail, expressing concern about POWs, is to be assembled in New York for shipment to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations at the Paris peace talks. Volunteers from the Teamsters Union have offered to transport the letters to the assembly point, and Longshoremen's Union volunteers will load them for shipment.

The POW family organization, National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, is cooperating with the drive. League members were advised, in closed session here last month, to focus letter writing and public relations efforts on individuals missing from specific geographic areas.

H. Ross Perot, the data-processing millionaire who has been working with POW families, suggested that local newspapers, local businesses, local unions and other local groups unite to arouse community support in behalf of local prisoners or men listed as missing-in-action from their own communities.

Actor Jimmy Stewart, Air Force officer in World War II, is among the public figures who are helping to raise funds with spot announcements for television.

Note: The spectre of prisoners dying in North Vietnamese camps was raised again last week when Hanoi announced that U.S. air raids above the DMZ, in retaliation for the downing of an unarmed U. S. scout plane, had injured a certain number of U. S. prisoners in a POW camp.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Where The Minorities Get More Than A Fair Share

In the mass media of news and entertainment — radio, TV, publishing, so forth — what New York does affects the nation.

And New York City-centered radio and television networks are seeking to employ a percentage of blacks and Puerto Ricans proportionate to what's appropriate in and for New York City.

Yet when that image is reflected nationwide it is grotesquely unbalanced most everywhere else.

Under pressure from New York City's Commission on Human Rights, the three big networks have agreed to increase the number of black and Puerto Rican employees "sharply" within the next two years.

Already those networks employ 14.8 per cent black or Puerto Rican personnel, but they have agreed sharply to increase that percentage "in all craft and professional jobs."

The prescribed increase has been agreed upon but has not been made public.

Thus, this industry, in being "fair" to the population proportion in New York City, discriminates against the nationwide majority which is not getting an equitable share of representation on the air.

In other words, what's applicable in the building trades in Oakland is not necessarily applicable when applied to the mass media in New York City.

It was the intent and purpose of the Civil Rights Act to end discrimination in employment. It can be done locally, in some cases regionally.

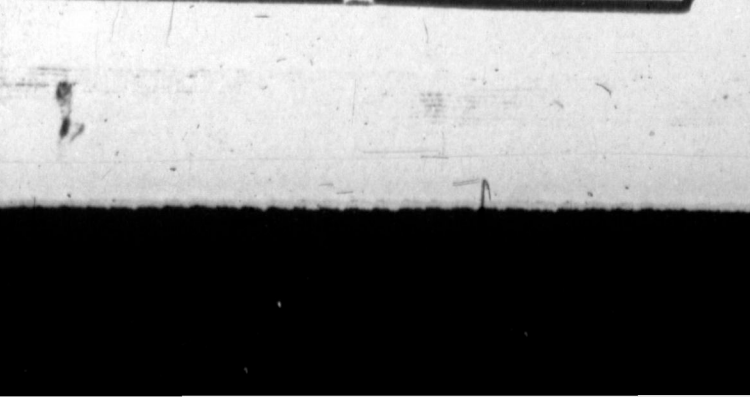

But when you seek to apply the same template to employees whose exposure and influence is nationwide, it is the nationwide percentage which should apply.
