Documents Show Ike Let Russia Enter Berlin First

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Allied military documents made public last week show Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower alone made the decision that allowed Soviet armies to reach Berlin first during World War II. New light was thrown on the decision made in 1945 by the release of Anglo-American chiefs of staff documents, which had been classified top secret for 25 years.

Among the documents were cables from Eisenhower, the supreme Allied commander in Europe, to Washington and to Soviet Premier Josef Stalin which indicated Eisenhower felt Berlin was not an important military target.

Stalin, in one exchange of documents, said he agreed with Eisenhower that Berlin had lost strategic importance. He said his high command intended to allow only "secondary forces in the direction of Berlin."

Allied forces were halted at the Elbe River, and the Red army took Berlin May 2, 1945. The German High Command surrendered six days later.

A similar decision was made with respect to Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia.

Eisenhower in both instances was fully backed by the U.S. chiefs of staff and former President Harry S. Truman. British Prime Minister Winston S. Churchill and his chief military advisers objected.

Nikita Khrushchev, in purported memoirs published earlier this month in the United States, quoted Stalin as praising Eisenhower's "decency, generosity and chivalry" in the decision on Berlin.

"Stalin said that if it hadn't been for Eisenhower, we wouldn't have succeeded in capturing Berlin," the memoirs said.

The memoirs said that if Eisenhower had not held back as Germany's Western front crumbled, "the question of Germany might have been decided differently and our position might have turned out a bit worse."

Many observers have held since World War II that the decision on Berlin had been a political one, possibly made months before. The chiefs of staff documents appear to dispute this.

Nixon Urged To Use Moral Power To Solve Issues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—James Farmer, who resigned last month as one of the highest ranking Negroes in the Nixon administration, says President Nixon must use the moral powers of his office to solve racial problems.

"We cannot afford to drift any longer," said Farmer, who said he resigned as an assistant secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department because he felt he could do more outside government to avoid "a racial confrontation of a violent nature" in America.

He said blacks were returning from Vietnam trained in guerrilla warfare and they would not accept positions at the bottom of the social ladder.

Farmer said he was sorry Nixon had not spoken out more on racial problems and civil rights, but Farmer is "not entirely convinced" that Nixon has been persuaded by forces within the administration and the Republican party to write off the black vote.

He appealed to Nixon to "make up his mind soon so we'll know where he stands."

Farmer made his comments in an interview on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

Farmer praised some administration efforts, notably Nixon's proposed family assistance plan, which he called "the first constructive change since the 1930s" in the welfare program.

He also commended HEW's investment of $30 million in black-owned banks and the HEW fellowship program to train minority groups for high-level government positions.

Cairo Officials Discuss Strategy For Peace Talks

Truce On All Fronts Cited As Condition

By United Press International
Israel announced today it had decided to rejoin the Middle East peace talks, and leading Egyptian foreign ministry officials met in Cairo to plan strategy for the negotiations that are expected to be long and difficult with no assurance they will be successful.

A communique issued after a five-hour Israeli cabinet meeting in Jerusalem said, "The government decided that the present political and military conditions enable and justify the termination of the suspension of Israel's participation in talks under the auspices of Ambassador (Gunnar V.) Jarring."

Israel left the talks last September after only one meeting, charging that Egypt had violated the cease-fire by moving Russian-built missiles into the Suez Canal zone.

A Cairo dispatch said the strategy session was chaired by Mahmoud Riad, the deputy premier and foreign minister, and attended by Dr. Mohammed Hassan el-Zayat, the Egyptian ambassador to the United Nations.

Riad had just returned from Moscow where he won a promise of Soviet aid in Egypt's confrontation with Israel.

Both Egypt and Israel indicated they would maintain the cease-fire now in effect as long as the peace talks last. Egyptian sources said the Cairo position is that Israel's return to the peace table must be followed by "serious negotiations" if the cease-fire is to be extended.

Israeli official sources said Prime Minister Golda Meir would give details of the Israel cabinet decision to Parliament Tuesday but that it was similar to that taken last Aug. 4 when Israel decided to begin the talks.

That acceptance called for a cease-fire to be observed on all fronts while the talks went on, that the objective of the talks would be to write a peace treaty that would recognize Israel's sovereignty and that there must be no prior conditions by either side.

In Beirut, meanwhile, a government spokesman said Lebanon might call for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council to protest an Israeli strike into Lebanese territory early today.

Communist Forces Intensifying Offensive In Viet, Other Areas

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist forces stepped up their pressure in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia today and U.S. spokesmen said B52 bombers and hundreds of fighter-bombers lashed back at the Ho Chi Minh supply trail through Laos.

The air campaign, now nearing the end of its third month, is the longest and heaviest in the history of the Indochina War. Spokesmen have said the total tonnage dropped is greater than any other campaign of any war—more than 166,000 tons.

In Cambodia, Communist forces overran the government outpost of Rôkar Kong, 19 miles north of Phnom Penh, striking during a moonless night, but were driven out after five hours of house-to-house combat.

In Laos, a defense ministry spokesman in Vientiane said government forces captured five government positions in a weekend offensive but that Lootian units near Kuong Soui on the Plain of Jars drove off attacks there.

In South Vietnam, the Communists followed up the end of their three-day Christmas cease-fire with a flurry of actions that killed or wounded 50 soldiers and civilians in incidents ranging from shelling of base camps to mining passenger vehicles.

The high command said in a class Sunday at Chambak, 19 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, government troops killed 30 Communists and lost three killed and 14 wounded. It said the Communists carried away 100 wounded, leaving ammunition and weapons behind.

Soviets Have More Trial Of Russian Jews

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets have more trial of Jews on their court dockets. But the worldwide uproar over death sentences meted out last week could bring a policy review or postponement, dissident sources said today.

The sources, who have contacts among friends and families of the defendants, said there was a possibility of postponements while officials decide how best to handle the unexpectedly strong protests against the sentences.

The trials, due to begin in early January, involved more than a score of persons arrested in connection with a plot to hijack a plane. The hijacking plot, foiled by the authorities before it could be carried out, resulted in death sentences for Mark Dymshits and Eduard Kuznetsov and stiff prison sentences for the other persons in a Leningrad trial held last week.

The new trials involved persons accused of belonging to "zionist organizations" which disseminated anti-Soviet propaganda. They included 12 persons from Leningrad, six from Riga, and others from Odessa and Kishinev.

All were part of a predominantly Jewish circle which carried out protest activities against Soviet policy in the Middle East. Many also protested Soviet refusal to allow Jews to emigrate to Israel, and the hijacking plan was conceived by some of them as a means of getting there.

The sources said six of the 12 Leningraders awaiting trial were witnesses last week in the hijacking trial.

THREE SHOT DOWN

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist forces in Laos shot down three U.S. aircraft earlier this month according to the official news agency of the Pathet Lao.

The news agency, in a broadcast monitored here, identified the aircraft as a B47, and F4H and an F4. They were shot down Dec. 13, 17 and 21.

A total of 1,569 American aircraft have now been shot down over Laos since 1964, the news agency said.

Russian Police Said To Have Used Actress To Seduce French Envoy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Russian defector has testified Soviet secret police used a beautiful movie actress to lure a French ambassador into bed and attempt to blackmail him.

The ambassador, who was identified as Maurice Dejean, was beaten by an agent who posed as the woman's "husband" during the incident in Moscow in 1958, the defector said in testimony to the Senate internal security subcommittee issued Sunday.

Yuri V. Krotkov told the committee he did not know for sure if the ambassador was forced through the incident to pass secret information to the KGB, the Soviet secret police organization. Krotkov, a former Soviet playwright, screen writer and Radio Moscow correspondent, defected in London in 1963.

Krotkov said he worked for the KGB for 17 years and that

Congressman Is Opposed To UN Building Plans

Pampa congressman Bob Price today released a statement of strong opposition to House action for providing the United Nations with a special $20-million grant for a new building program.

Congressman Price's statement follows:

"I strongly oppose liberal efforts to give the United Nations a special $20 million grant just so it can expand its bureaucratic base of operations in New York City.

"In my view, we already pay far too much money to support this organization which has proven itself unable to either promote or maintain world peace. This nation simply cannot afford to sponsor such an expensive international debating society. What few good things the U.N. accomplishes such as international health and education programs can surely be separated out, re-organized and funded at more modest levels.

"Supporters of this $20 million give away argue that the U.N. will be forced to move its New York headquarters and relocate in a foreign country if we do not subsidize its new building program.

"My answer to this argument is, if this is what it takes to get the U.N. out of the U.S., I'm for it."

Censored TV Film From Hanoi Indicates POWs Well Treated

NEW YORK (UPI)—Walter E. Wilber of Columbia-Cross Roads, Pa., and Robert J. Schweitzer of Lemoore, Calif., say they believe the Vietnamese can solve their problems best if the war ends—by a pullout of U.S. troops.

Both men are Navy commanders held prisoners of war near Hanoi in a North Vietnamese camp, reportedly the site known to American military men as the "Hanoi Hilton."

Their remarks urging a quick end to the war through American withdrawal were part of an interview Christmas Day by a Canadian Broadcasting Co. (CBC) correspondent.

The activities of five other prisoners and scenes inside the prison camp were filmed during the interview, and a portion of the film was televised Sunday night on the NBC and CBS networks in the United States.

Treatment Appears Good
For the Pentagon, Brig Gen Daniel James Jr., a deputy assistant defense secretary, acknowledged that the POWs' remarks and appearance indicated they have been treated better than other Americans released in the past by Hanoi. James attributed this to the U.S. campaign to publicize the plight of American POWs.

Another Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, a principal deputy assistant defense secretary, said the film was "a censored, edited enemy propaganda film showing only a handful of known prisoners."

Wilber's wife, watching the telecast at her home in Pennsylvania with her four children, said he "looked rested and well," better than she expected.

The two men said they get letters from the United States once a month, packages every two months. They exchange regular monthly letters on a form supplied by the prison and exchanged spoken greetings with relatives through tape recordings.

In Washington, a government source said both the physical setting depicted and the format of the interview showed the prison camp was "the 'Hanoi Hilton,' a better-than-average facility used to impress visiting journalists on previous occasions.

Peace Group Arrives
Sunday night three members of a peace group arrived here with reports of a visit to five American POWs, apparently at the same prison camp. They said all the captives looked healthy, with "very ruddy skin, just like college boys ready to go out on the football field."

The three Vietnam visitors, members of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam, said they spoke with Schweitzer and four other POWs, all of whom were photographed by the CBC. The Americans who returned here said they brought back 319 letters and 330 postcards from POWs to their families.

Wilber and Schweitzer said their typical days were taken up with rest and relaxation. "We have a great deal of literature available, including a great many books by American authors," Schweitzer said. "All the works mentioned by the two Navy officers, however, were recent works generally critical of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia."

The interview was censored by the North Vietnamese, but according to the CBC correspondent, Michael McClear, the deletions made "seemed... to be of no particular significance, but rather arbitrary." He was writing about the interview in today's edition of The New York Times.

Both Egypt and Israel indicated they would maintain the cease-fire now in effect as long as the peace talks last. Egyptian sources said the Cairo position is that Israel's return to the peace table must be followed by "serious negotiations" if the cease-fire is to be extended.

Israeli official sources said Prime Minister Golda Meir would give details of the Israel cabinet decision to Parliament Tuesday but that it was similar to that taken last Aug. 4 when Israel decided to begin the talks.

Commissioners Amend 1971 Budget In Final Meeting

Gray County Commissioners Court was in the final session for 1970 today. The court made amendments to the budget and set new rental rates for agencies housed in the Court House Annex during the short meeting.

New rental rates for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Soil Conservation Service offices located in the Court House Annex, were set at $1.85 per square foot, or $260 per month for the ASCS, and $100 per month for the soil Conservation office.

Approved amendments to the budget included $49,502 to the

The next regular meeting of the court will be Jan. 11. A short session will convene after a swearing in ceremony for newly elected county officials on Jan. 1. Agenda for this meeting will be announced this week by outgoing county judge S.R. Lanning Jr.

Borger Man Placed Under $1,000 Bond

Austin Embers Jr., Borger, was placed under $1,000 bond following arraignment Saturday in Justice Ed Anderson's court on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Embers was arrested by police in the 700-block of S. Gray Christmas night. Police said they found a 22-caliber pistol and bullets in the glove compartment of his car.

E.J. O'Neal of Dallas reported to Pampa police that while his car was parked at the Peppermint Lounge, 715 S. Gray, someone had broken out a window and stolen a tape deck and five or six tapes. The deck was valued at $129 and the tapes at $42.

Rivers, Colorful And Controversial Congressman, Dies Of Heart Illness

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, the colorful and controversial chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, died today 17 days after he had undergone open heart surgery. He was 65.

The white-haired South Carolina Democrat died at the University of Alabama Medical Center, where a leaky mitral valve in his heart was replaced with one made of plastic Dec. 11. Doctors said he would have become an invalid had he not undergone the surgery.

The hospital in a one-sentence statement said, "Congressman Mendel Rivers died at 1:40 a.m. CST, Monday, Dec. 28, of continuing heart failure." Doctors had said Sunday he was making "slow progress." He had suffered heart stoppages Dec. 20 and Sunday. His ailment apparently stemmed from a bout with rheumatic fever during his childhood.

Rivers as the hawkish chairman of the powerful congressional committee was a hero to servicemen everywhere and a recurring thorn in the flesh of their civilian bosses. He took the serviceman's side in most Pentagon battles and aggravated presidents and defense secretaries alike with his

INCOME TAX

Act Limits Federal Deduction For Long-Term Capital Losses

DALLAS (UPI)—The tax reform act of 1969 limits the federal income tax deduction for long-term capital losses. Ellis Campbell Jr., district director for the Internal Revenue Service said today.

The act allows but 50 per cent of an individual's long-term capital losses to be used to offset ordinary income. Thus it takes $2,000 in losses to get the maximum offset of $1,000 against ordinary income.

Although the $1,000 limitation is unchanged in the case of joint returns, the new law limits the deduction to $500 on each return of a married couple filing separately.

Campbell said new long-term capital losses carried over from pre-1970 tax years can be fully deducted under the old tax rule. The 50 per cent rule does not apply.

The maximum capital gain tax rate is 25 per cent on the first $50,000 of gains and 29.5 per cent on any excess over that amount.

LAST KOREAN SHOW

SEOUL (UPI)—Bob Hope and his troupe today gave their second and last show for American servicemen in Korea at Osan Air Base, 30 miles south of Seoul.

The group, comprising over 70 entertainers and officials arrived in Korea Sunday and gave its first performance later in the day at a recreation center in the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division area about 30 miles north of Seoul.

Following today's show at Osan Air Base, the group will leave for Alaska on its trip back home.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Twenty young women from cotton-producing states gathered today to compete for the title of 1971 Maid of Cotton.

The winner, to be chosen Wednesday night at the Memphis Mid-South Coliseum, will succeed Gayle Thornton of Meidan, Miss. Her first official appearance will be at the Cotton Bowl Game New Year's Day in Dallas.

Following today's registration, the contestants, all college students, were to get acquainted with one another, judges and officials of the cotton industry prior to actual judging which begins Tuesday.

Judges for the selection will be looking for the girl with the best combination of beauty, personality, background and training.

In February she will begin a tour of 25 cities in the United States and Canada and ten European and Eastern countries to tell the story of cotton.

The finalists are: Dyan Box, 20, Bartlesville, Okla.; Peggy Lee Bradford, 20, Iita Bena, Miss.; Cathie Christie, El Paso, Tex.; Roye Annette Deerman, 21, Birmingham, Ala.; Margaret Fleming, 21, Coral Gables, Fla.; Judith Ann

Many Texas Auto Insurance Firms Say Their Assets Have Diminished

AUSTIN (UPI)—Many auto insurance companies cannot accept new policyholders because "conglomerates" have taken over the firms and siphoned their funds into more profitable investments, an insurance industry spokesman said Sunday.

"Many companies cannot write any more (insurance), because their assets have diminished," said William J. Harding, executive secretary of the Association of Texas Fire and Casualty Companies.

"In many cases conglomerates have bought them, not to write automobile insurance but to take the funds and milk them from the insurance business and put them into areas where they can write more business at a greater profit, Harding told newsmen on the weekly radio-television panel show 'Capital Eye.'

Harding said that in a recent accident in Corpus Christi the insurance company of one driver was owned by a credit card company while the other driver's insurance was with a firm owned by a telephone company.

Harding said a motion picture theater chain recently bought an auto insurance company and promptly declared "a $170 million dividend to the stockholders."

He said the new owners produced a movie about a bawdy house inherited by a cowboy. "Nobody told them how much money they could make to produce that movie, but it obviously was more profitable than writing automobile insurance," Harding said.

Driver Cited In Two-Car Accident

John Clyde Gray, 1831 N. Sumne., was cited by Pampa police for disobeying a stop sign this forenoon in a traffic mishap at Decatur and Russell.

Gray was going east on Decatur in a 1964 Oldsmobile. Lester Dale Featherston, 2136 N. Russell, was going north on Russell in a 1956 Chevrolet station wagon.

The Gray vehicle struck the Chevrolet on the passenger side. Police said the Chevrolet spun and rolled over.

Damage to the Oldsmobile was estimated at $200. The Chevrolet was totaled. There were no injuries.

Two Local Fires Cause Damages

Two fires Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goddard destroyed a horse barn and caused about $7,000 in fire and smoke damage to a garage and house.

Firemen stated the explosion burned a garage and one room of the wood-frame house and caused heavy smoke damage to other rooms at the home, which is located two miles west of Pampa on the Borger Highway.

Members of the family were washing and drying clothes in the garage but were in the den near there Thursday afternoon when they heard an explosion in the garage.

"That night firemen had to come back to put out another fire that burned up that horse barn," Mrs. Goddard said. "Sparks flying from the house could have landed on hay near the barn and smoldered until it caught fire. The barn is about 200 yards from the house."

Firemen worked about an hour and a half to extinguish the garage and house fire and an hour that night to extinguish the barn fire. No injuries resulted from either fire.

TV In Review

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
NEW YORK (UPI) —When video cassettes and cartridges come onto the market — possibly in 1971, the Grove Press publishing firm noted for its erotic editorial viewpoint will be ready with a monthly "video magazine."

Barney Rosset, Grove Press president who broke the censorship barrier by bringing out D.H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover" more than a decade ago, said the firm has completed a prototype issue of the magazine in preparation for the age of the home television library.

"It can be shown now on film, and we've tried it out on university audiences," Rosset reported. "The response has been very favorable."

Here's how it will work. The viewer will subscribe to "Evergreen" magazine for something like $100 a year (Rosset says it will be less if inexpensive transmission systems can be developed) and receive his taped magazine once a month.

Advertising, Too
He can play the 90 minute tape all at once, like reading a magazine from cover to cover, or in segments in any order he chooses, like reading an article at a time. And yes, Virginia, there will be advertising.

The table of contents includes a one-minute frontpiece that is equivalent to a magazine cover. This one mimics the J. Arthur Rank opener — a strong man hitting a gong. Evergreen shows a man being hit in the face with a pie.

Next is a 10-minute segment of the funeral of Czech student Jan Palach, who immolated himself as a protest against the Soviet occupation of his country in 1968. It was smuggled out of Czechoslovakia and the Czech government has tried unsuccessfully to get Grove Press to return it.

A nine minute color animation bringing Lenny Bruce satirical routine to life is followed by the main course, Paul Bartel's psychosexual film comedy, "Naughty Nurse." The finale is the Women's Liberation section from Jean-Luc Godard's film, "See You at Mao."

Rosset said much of the material will be drawn from Grove Press' library of over 350 short and feature length titles, most of which have never been seen on television. In addition, Grove is stocking new materials for the video magazine and producing some of its own.

A Place for Everything
"In the publishing world there has been a place for the short story and essay along with the novel," Rosset said. "Until now this has not been true in film."

"No more on a problem that when parents bring books in the same vein into the house. If parents give their children the film or the cassette, how can there be censorship?"

21 Climbers Attempt To Scale Grand Teton

LANDER, Wyo. (UPI) — Twenty-one climbers led by mountaineer Paul Petzoldt launch the annual New Year's Day assault on 13,776-foot Grand Teton Peak in northwestern Wyoming today.

The mountain party, including three young women, spent most of the weekend checking equipment by the sixth annual attempt to scale Wyoming's most famous peak.

Petzoldt, who heads the National Outdoor Leadership School in Lander, succeeded in the first mid-winter assault of the peak last year. The climbers will face temperatures of 20 - below - zero or colder and winds of 60 miles an hour. Leading the climb with the 62-year-old Petzoldt will be two instructors from his outdoor school—Steve Gipe, 35, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Tom Warren, 24, of Riverton, Wyo.

Others making the ascent include Greg Butler, 16, Newcastle, Wyo.; Miles Jacoby, 15, Casper, Wyo.; John Jolley, 18, and Patty Nicholas, 15, both Lander, Wyo.; George Hunker, 22, Roswell, N. M.; Mike Jennings, 16, Longmont, Colo.; Bill Scott, 25, Englewood, Colo.; Alfred MacLay, 20, Leadwood, Kan., and Jim Schwartz, 19, El Paso, Tex.

Máigical George Blanda Is Named Player Of The Year In The AFC

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Blanda of the Oakland Raiders, whose last-minute heroics were instrumental in producing a division title for his team, today was named Player of the Year in the American Football Conference by the United Press International.

The 43-year-old Blanda, a veteran of 22 years in professional football, personally brought the Raiders from behind to either a victory or a tie in the final minutes on five separate occasions this season and was an easy winner in a balloting of 52 sportswriters.

It is the second time in his illustrious career that Blanda has been named Player of the Year. He captured the award in 1961 as a member of the Houston Oilers.

At least two writers from each AFC city participated in the balloting and Blanda collected 23 votes. Quarterback John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts and Blanda's teammate, Daryle Lamonica, each received two votes while Marlin Briscoe of Buffalo, Jan Stenrud of Kansas City, John Elliott of the New York Jets and Jess Phillips of Cincinnati each got one.

Blanda's list of achievements revealed those of the famed fictional character Frank Merriwell, who always produced a last second victory in dramatic fashion for Yale.

Blanda's string of fantastic achievements came on five successive weekends from Oct. 25 through Nov. 22 and produced four victories and a tie for the Raiders.

Blanda credited his coolness under pressure to his 22 years of experience a career that began in 1949 with the Chicago Bears.

"I don't get nervous about anything in football anymore," says Blanda. "I've done everything. I've kicked field goals, I've missed field goals, I've thrown touchdown passes that won games, I've had passes intercepted that lost games. What is there left that I can get excited over? That's why I'm so nonchalant."

Four Survivors In Super Bowl Contest

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The four survivors of pro football's first eight-team playoff fight head toward the grand climax of the Super Bowl today looking for the man who will take the hour—the man who will take his team all the way.

Four weekend games determined the match-ups for the National and American Conference titles—the San Francisco 49ers vs. the Dallas Cowboys for the National Conference title in San Francisco and the Oakland Raiders vs. the Baltimore Colts for the American Conference title in Baltimore—but they have yet to produce "the man."

Now it's the 1971 Super Bowl, Jan. 17, in Miami, Fla., that's over the horizon with its $25,000 jackpot for each member of the winning team. It's a time for greatness, but the big heroes of the weekend games were 250-pound tackles and 240-pound linebackers, sloshing around in rain and mud and making yesterday's All-Americans eat their headlines.

Johnny Unitas came closest to taking the role of the "big man" when he threw two touchdown passes that led the Colts to a 17-0 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals Saturday and into the American Conference title game.

The Oakland Raiders emerged as their opponent by beating the Miami Dolphins, 21-14, Sunday with the help of two touchdown passes by Daryle Lamonica.

The Cowboys, perhaps the most gifted offensive team in pro football, reached the title game of the National Conference Saturday with a 5-0 triumph over the Detroit Lions. They'll play the 49ers, who beat the Minnesota Vikings, 17-14, Sunday, in the National Conference title game.

The games in Oakland and Bloomington, Minn., were played under adverse conditions. The Raiders and Dolphins slithered around on a muddy field created by rain that ended just before game-time, while the 49ers and Vikings slugged it out in eight-degree weather on an icy field which helped to create eight fumbles.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl Teams Getting Offensive Show Ready

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Two collegiate all-star teams, each with outstanding passers and bruising runners, are expected to stage an offensive show here tonight in the 33rd annual Blue-Gray football classic.

Gray Head Coach Paul Dietzel of South Carolina is expected to start Tommy Suggs, one of his own players, at quarterback but planned to alternate Suggs with Bill Montgomery of Arkansas.

Blue Head Coach Bob Bowden of West Virginia was not expected to name his starter until shortly before the 7 p.m. CST kickoff. Bowden indicated during practice last week, however, he will alternate Sherwood of West Virginia and Frank Harris of Boston College. A crowd in excess of 20,000 is expected in Cramton Bowl for the game which will be televised over about 85 per cent of the country.

In addition to Suggs, the Gray backfield will have Ray Yauger of Clemson and David Abercrombie of Tulane at running backs. Wide receivers will be Sammy Milner of Mississippi State, Jack Anderson of Clemson and Don Peterson of Florida State.

Bowden is expected to go with Fred Willis of Boston College and James Harrison of Missouri as running backs in the Blue backfield. Harris and Sherwood will throw to Greg Edmonds of Penn State, Paul Staroba of Michigan or Gordon Bowdell of Michigan State.

Players on the Blue Defense include tackle David Capra of Colorado, end Mike Kuhn of Kansas State, defensive back Jim Betts of Michigan and linebacker Calvin Fox of Michigan State.

Two Arkansas players, Bruce James and Dick Bumpass, will anchor the Grays' defensive line. Another defensive standout for the South is linebacker Rick Kingree of Tulane.

Staroba is expected to handle the punting for the North with Robert Jacobs of Wyoming set for place-kicking chores.

Jack Sincak of Virginia Tech will handle the kicking for the South.

In the game. The 1969 contest ended in a 6-6 tie, the first in the game's history.

The North last won in 1967 with a score of 22-16.

'Bear' Bryant Has Alabama In Pads Practicing For Bowl Game

HOUSTON (UPI) — Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant has his Alabama team practicing differently for this week's Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Bryant said Sunday the Crimson Tide is practicing more and spending more time in pads than in any other bowl game preparation since he's been at Alabama.

The Tide, 6-5, plays Oklahoma, 7-4, Thursday night in the Astro-dome.

Bryant held two practice sessions for the Tide Saturday, practiced for another two hours

Sunday but expected to let up a little today.

"I haven't worked out twice in one day for a bowl game since 1949 when we got our tails beat," Bryant said. In 1949 his Kentucky team lost 21-13 to Santa Clara in the Orange Bowl.

"I've gone to quite a few bowl games when we didn't have to put pads on," Bryant said. "This was the fourth day we've used pads for this one."

Bryant, who will be coaching in a record 17th bowl game, said the Tide would also practice in pads today.

"We've had some great wins without pads, but Oklahoma runs the type of offense that you don't get much out of looking at in sweat clothes," Bryant said. "They have so many people who can throw the pass and they run the play pass real well."

Bryant gave the following assessment of the team he is bringing into the Bluebonnet game this year:

"This team doesn't have the confidence our great teams have had. Confidence is all we need to be a football team. But I think our whole football team is superior to the one we had last year."

Cowboys Travel To San Francisco For Playoff

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Brodie has been around a while.

Long enough so that he's likely to hit you with a towel if you begin talking about his "golden arm," or start selling him some of those cereal flakes about how he's pro football's newest "Golden Boy."

At 35, you're not a boy anymore, Brodie will tell you that himself. Ken Willard, one of his San Francisco teammates, will let you in on something else.

"What's all this I'm hearing about John's 'great year,'" Willard wants to know. "He's had six great years, not just one."

John Brodie is coming off an extraordinary year. He has other things going for him besides football. He's set financially, he has a picture golf swing, and he's good looking enough so he'll do OK with those TV commercials, in case the 49ers go all the way.

Brodie is bright. John Brodie also is bright. To get an idea how bright, you only have to listen to him after the 49ers nailed down one of the NFC's final playoff berths with a 17-14 upset victory over Minnesota Sunday. Brodie was explaining precisely what he thought beat the Vikings. He's so bright it took him only a half dozen words or so to wrap up virtually all the week end's football activity.

Better yet, John Brodie, in those few words may have foreshadowed the key to next Sunday's final playoff contests, along with the big one to be played in the Super Bowl at Miami, Jan. 17.

"Defense," John Brodie said. "The defense won the ball game."

Minnesota's front four went in with the big reputation and the catchy nicknames, and did a fine job. San Francisco's anonymous front four outdid them, Bill good.

It was the same story in Dallas Saturday. Dallas quarterback Craig Morton didn't have much of a day, but the Cowboys still grabbed the NFC's other final playoff spot by blanking Detroit, 5-0. You almost expect the hits and errors with that one.

Final Berth Decided

The Baltimore-Cincinnati battle for one of the AFC's final berths Saturday also was decided in "the pit," as that churned-up plot of ground where the two lines grind away at one another is called.

Johnny Unitas and Dick Eulaich accounted for the necessary yardage in the Colts' 17-0 triumph over the Bengals. The Colts' defensive unit got something that takes precedence even over yardage. It got the ball. Without that you don't get any points.

Defense figured prominently in the AFC's other playoff at Oakland Sunday, despite the fact there were more touchdowns in the Raiders' 21-14 win over Miami than in the other three contests.

The Raiders and Dolphins played in mud—thick, sticky goo—and you know what stop and go traffic can be like on that kind of track. It got so bad that guys were shaking each other's hand merely for making a tackle or knocking down an enemy pass.

When it was all over, operatives like Willie Brown, George Atkinson, Dan Connors, Kent McCloughan, Tom Keating and Dave Grayson received most of the congratulations. If you look at Oakland's roster you'll notice all six are members of the defensive unit.

Advance Tip

Next Sunday San Francisco goes against Dallas at Kezar Stadium for the NFC title. And Dick Nolan, the 49er coach, gives you an advance tip of what to look for.

"You're going to see two defenses that are very similar," he said.

INFELDERS SIGN
CHICAGO (UPI) — Infielders Don Kessinger and Paul Popovich signed their 1971 contracts Monday with the Chicago Cubs. The signing of Kessinger, the National League's All-Star shortstop for the past three years, and Popovich, the Cubs' leading utility player, brought the number of players signed to five.

Church Giving Declines

In a weekly roundup of the business news, UPI Business Writer Leroy Pope reported: "Another grim sign of the times was the announcement by the Episcopal Church that, because of a decline in giving by members, it will have to fire half of its 200-person headquarters staff in New York in the next seven months."

We would like to suggest that the cut-off of funds from churchmen is not due solely to a liquidity crisis. Rather it is a matter of the "birds coming home to roost," so to speak, because of social actionists who control the hierarchy of the church.

If one were to question the average layman, he would find a continuing concern over the stance that the Episcopal church, and many other denominations for that matter, have taken.

Too many laymen are aware of the church's underwriting of various radical groups and similar activities such as the St. Louis Church which recently held an Angela Davis day.

Too many laymen are aware that their church has given thousands of dollars to revolutionaries such as Saul Alinsky, Cesar Chavez and various black and student militants.

Laymen have been upset by "men of the cloth" who sanction and in some cases, advocate, marriage of homosexuals, the ravaging of private property in the name of the "common good" and the general materialistic rather than spiritual approach to life.

Nor have laymen forgotten the church advocates of situational ethics who say the Ten Commandments are old hat and that it's all right to steal if one's need is great, that it's fine to commit adultery or to dishonor one's parents if your spouse or parents are in your mind not worthy of honor. In other words, "the ends justify the means."

Nor have churchmen forgotten the late notorious bishop who likened the Apostles Creed to a "war chant" and who proceeded to attack the validity of various parts of that creed.

Too many remember how church conventions and synods have been disrupted with sacrilegious shouts and the seizure of the podium by various "rights" groups who screamed their accusations of corporate guilt on the part of all Christendom.

They have had enough of priests and bishops who call themselves "Christian existentialists," who challenge the credibility of the Bible and Christ's divinity.

Yes, a grim sign of the times is that many denominations have had to take another long hard look at their projected budgets. Perhaps they also need to look at the reasons so many persons have become disenchanted with their religious organizations' departure from their own basic premises.

Individuals are disillusioned when they attend church to find ministering to personal faith and hear instead calls to support structures and follow dictated "social action."

Debt Tab—Thorn In Side

Last year the federal government — which means every taxpayer in America — spent $19,256,821,000 to service the national debt.

This $19.2 billion was more than $19 billion in interest, one of the biggest single items in the federal budget.

This $19.2 billion was more than this cost to run the government for the first 117 years of our history. Just the $3.5 billion increase in interest on the debt last year was more than the total federal budget for any single year up to 1918.

This $19.2 billion was the equivalent of the combined incomes of 2,231,000 average American families, points out the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

If the government had not been obligated to pay this cost, it could have reduced the average family income tax by $294.

With this vast sum, says the C of C, the government could have:

Bought $20,000 homes for 963,000 families, enough to house the combined populations of Detroit and Houston.

Paid weekly wages of more than $122 to over three million unemployed workers for an entire year.

More than doubled the funds spent for the War on Poverty, Office of Education, Narcotics Bureau, environmental control, public assistance and housing and urban renewal.

Kind of shakes you, doesn't it? But wait a minute. Before we march on Washington, let's bring this matter of debt a little closer to home.

Consider a man who is buying a $3,000 car over a three year period and is paying perhaps $600 in interest charges. Think of all the things he could buy for that $600.

Or more dramatically, consider the man who is buying a $20,000 home and who, over a period of 20 or 25 years, will possibly pay twice what the home is worth in interest on his mortgage loan. Think of what he could do with that "extra" $20,000.

It's a lucky individual who can pay cash for a car. It's an even luckier, and much rarer, individual who can pay cash for a home. But does this mean that the millions of people who cannot afford to pay cash for these major purchases should do without them?

The point is that debt is neither good nor bad in itself. It is how it is used.

It is by no means certain that there were no national debt, the government today would have a $19.2-billion windfall to spend on the worthy things listed by the C of C.

Money generates money, and this nation's growth has been built on debt. We would be a ver poor country today, indeed, if we all emulated our eoman forefathers, who hid their money under the floor and who never purchased anything they could not pay spot cash for.

But just as it is all too easy for an individual to go to deeply into debt, making him a slave to his own affluence, it is also possible for a nation to do so.

There will always be a national debt, and we really do owe it to ourselves — not just to the Wall Street bankers but to the millions who hold U.S. Savings Bonds. It is an investment in America's future.

The real question, of course, is whether the debt has not now grown beyond reasonable proportions. Even for this country, $19.2 billion in carrying charges is a staggering load.

The Chamber of Commerce is right on the button when it notes that the continuing runaway growth of the debt feeds the flames of inflation, which is just an added tax that hits the little person the hardest.

The trouble is that in the long period of prosperity through the decade of the '60s, we did not have the national self-discipline to tax ourselves enough to keep the debt in better balance with real economic growth and to pay-as-we-went for all the things we wanted as a people.

It is when economic growth slows, as it has now, that we really feel the burden of the debt — and it is, lamentably, the worst possible time to try to do anything about reducing it.

H. L. Hunt Writes

U.S.A. CANNOT SETTLE FOR SECOND PLACE

So-called "pacifists" all over the world repute themselves to be unafraid of growing Russian naval strength in all the world's oceans, especially the Indian Ocean. Only a few years ago the ships, sailors and passengers of all the world could feel safe on the seas because U.S. and British Navy units dominated completely the open oceans of the world.

A few years ago the Socialist rulers of Britain began pulling back on the Royal Navy strength which had effectively patrolled the oceans for 300 years. The excuse was that welfare measures in the home islands deserved expenditures of money but defense did not. The welfare socialist government of Britain forgot that trade and shipping provided the foundation for British prosperity and wealth. Probably the socialists hoped that the U.S. Navy would protect British ocean interests.

Almost overnight the new British Conservative government finds itself facing strong Russian naval incursions into what once was a British lake, the Indian Ocean. Saddled with welfare debts and commitments imposed by the previous socialist government, the British can only slow the deterioration of their naval strength; they can't reverse the course now and rebuild their navy because of the expense.

The Russians, with their vast land masses and borders on dozens of nations, do not have to control the oceans, much less the Indian Ocean, to survive. But the United States, along with Australia, Britain and Canada, are dependent on freedom of the seas for any kind of livable existence. Australia and Canada together do not have 10 per cent of the population of Red Russia, while Britain is tired and even more welfare-ridden than we are. The United States cannot settle for second place in the struggle for control of the world's oceans and we better wake up to what is happening.

Question Box

QUESTION: In school we are studying the political process of gerrymandering. Is this really an equalizing device, and do you think it is a good thing?

ANSWER: Reapportionment of districts is required after each census to attempt approximately equal population in congressional districts. Courts have expanded this to include other districts in local and state governments.

Gerrymandering is a device used by members of all political parties to gain advantage in future elections in the redistricting. District boundaries are drawn to assure the party in power gains the maximum advantage, even though the boundaries may appear quite ludicrous to an impartial observer.

The resulting shapes of electoral subdivisions are often fantastic and not even always contiguous," notes Encyclopedia Britannica. It adds: "Because a salamanderlike sprawling district was first constructed under a governor of Massachusetts, Elbridge Gerry, in 1812, this practice is known as gerrymandering. It is easy to construct cases which illustrate how the same electorate may give a majority to opposing parties as a result of adroit electoral geometry."

It is not an equalizing device, it is a typical adroit political device to gain advantage for one party or another, or to retain a certain set of politicians in office. When California congressional and legislative district were ordered changed a few years back, every effort was made to retain in office the same politicians.

After the 1960 census, Republicans were in control of the California Legislature. Districts were realigned to benefit the Republicans. After the 1960 census, Democrats had control, and the changes were made to benefit Democrats. The interim realignment saw the control divided, so the efforts were to retain as many incumbents as possible.

We do not consider it a "good thing," but we have seen few activities in political life a good thing for the people, other than the politicians.

Eye On Texas Vote; Nixon Gambles Big On Connally

By BRUCE BLOSSAT Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Whatever the wisdom of the guessing as to John Connally's direct usefulness to President Nixon as a probably commanding cabinet figure, the prestigious Texan's appointment also represents a big political bet. But it could be a very risky one.

That bet, of course, is that Connally can be immensely helpful to the President in a 1972 bid to win what then will be Texas' 26 electoral votes. In 1968, Hubert Humphrey took the state's 25 votes by a percentage margin of 41 to 40 over Nixon, with George Wallace getting 19.

Connally's move into the Nixon fold does not quite lock him in. One astute Nixon-watcher believes the former governor could escape and return to his old Democratic religion if the going for him here were bad. Yet the prospects are that he will, in fact, try to aid the President in seizing Texas for the Republicans.

Up to a late turning point, he was doing that in 1968. Reporter Jules Witcover, in his book, "The Resurrection of Richard Nixon," soundly documents that effort and says the pay-off was to be Connally's appointment as secretary of Defense. Though the undertaking really was superfluous, I made my own check with a key source and got the same answer.

In 1968 Connally whose role was largely that of a money-tapper, switched late when he decided Humphrey was going to take Texas. His commitment this time looks firmer.

The real questions are what Nixon has in mind and how good are Connally's chances of making the President's strategy work.

We can begin by noting again Nixon's awareness that he might lose one or two of the four big northern states—California, Illinois, Ohio and New Jersey—which he gained narrowly in 1968. He also is concerned that a new Wallace bid might slice away the 21 electoral votes Nixon won in the two Carolinas last time. They equal a big state total.

So Texas and its 26 votes attract him as a plausible hedge against trouble elsewhere. Victory there would offset loss of either Ohio, Illinois or the Carolinas, and help him in a possible tight ball game.

Nixon is said to have a thing about Texas. He remembers that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower won it twice. He believes the Democrats stole it for the late John F. Kennedy by 46,000 votes in 1960. And he can't forget that Humphrey picked it off by a mere 39,000 in 1968.

It is easy to believe the potent Connally could make a difference. His clout with the moneyed folk in Texas banking, insurance, oil and gas is real. He might quietly lure some top conservative Democrats, though his jump to Nixon may be unsettling to Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, his attractive young

Prudery Can Jeopardize Health and Happiness

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Many readers have asked about problems related to sex. The letters cover all age groups, including young teenagers who are frightened by normal events to very senior citizens concerned with either their own or their spouses' reactions. Knowing what a fundamental aspect of life these matters are, I'm always startled when someone is upset when plain facts are given. I'm also astonished when someone risks his health or happiness because of misplaced modesty.

Sex is part of life and all the parts of the body are subject to disease and disfunction. An infection is an infection whether it involves the sinuses or reproductive organs. It is always depressing to see a person let a cancer grow because of its location.

This problem isn't new in medicine. There was a time when the doctor couldn't even do a satisfactory examination or view the body of his patient. One famous physician who went ahead and did complete examinations defended himself against criticism with the sage observation that the disease was under the sheet, not on top of it.

A friend of mine recently reminded me of one of Billy Graham's comments on sex that puts the matter into proper perspective. Graham was asked about his attitude on sex. In his usual direct, wholesome approach he replied, "Why, I'm in favor of it, after all, lady, if it weren't for sex I wouldn't be here and neither would you."

Dear Dr. Lamb — My son, 16, passed a great quantity of blood in his urine over a 12-hour period. He was hospitalized and a series of tests run, including a search of his bladder, but nothing was found. What would cause this?

Dear Reader—Bleeding can occur from any point within the kidneys or the urinary tract. A complete examination, including a look into the bladder, is essential. The sudden occurrence of blood in the urine may be caused by a tumor and early diagnosis is imperative.

Birth defects of the kidney, inflammations, nephritis, injury, kidney of bladder stones, infection of the prostate and cystitis are among the causes for blood in the urine. Even some drugs cause it. Aspirin in large doses is a frequent offender. The drugs used to prevent blood clotting sometimes cause bloody urine.

Rarely, certain foods cause formation of crystals that lead to bloody urine. These are spinach, strawberries, rhubarb and tomatoes.

There is simply no way to tell what the cause is unless a thorough examination is done and this should be accomplished swiftly.

The narrower the mind, the more space for prejudice.

THE GLOBAL VIEW

Kremlin Muzzles Soviet Free-Thinking Dissidents

By LEON DENNEN Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK (NEA) — The Kremlin's top man, Leonid Brezhnev, urgently needs to put his house in order to cope with the growing assertiveness of Russia's "dissidents" who are stepping up their quest for "socialism with a human face."

The Soviet leaders are now attempting to do by muzzling men like Aleksander Solzhenitsyn, who won the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature, and other dissident writers, scientists and Red army officers.

One of the more significant facts to emerge from a study of Russia's underground press is the support given by officers of the armed forces to Solzhenitsyn's campaign against re-Stalinization.

Two high-ranking officers — former Gen. Grigorenko and Col. Atlunian — now languish in mental institutions because they dared advocate civil rights in Russia. A third, Genadi Gavrilo of the Baltic fleet, recently was executed in the Soviet Republic of Estonia.

Gavrilo was charged with belonging to a group of officers who organized a secret movement known as "Democrats of Russia, the Ukraine and Baltic states."

A copy of the movement's program that reached the West calls for the restoration of democracy in Russia, self-determination for Ukrainians, Jews, Balts, Tartars and other nationalities that comprise the Soviet Union — and friendship with the United States.

Relatedly, Brezhnev even unveiled a marble bust of Stalin at his grave. It is the Kremlin's latest and most symbolic step to rehabilitate the terrorist rule.

How To Dodge Blue Law

Texas bureaucrats must be working overtime trying to figure a way to beat an ingenious Dallas Discount house.

We read that the discount house has found a way to dodge Dallas' blue laws. The store is allowed to stay open either Saturday or Sunday, but not both. So the chain set up a special corporation that buys of the dictator who died 17 years ago.

But can Brezhnev turn back the clock of history?

There is evidence that many Russians, including members of the Communist elite, question the value of Marxist-Leninist rigidity in modern technological society.

According to the "Chronicle of Current Events," Russia's newspaper, some 300 dissidents are imprisoned in forced labor camps, ruled by the KGB, the Kremlin's secret police. Scores are jailed in mental institutions.

In a letter of protest to the Kremlin, Solzhenitsyn had the courage to condemn the practice of "incarcerating freethinking and healthy people in madhouses." He called it "spiritual murder" and a "variant of Hitler's gas chambers."

In awarding him the Nobel Prize, the Swedish Academy praised Solzhenitsyn for "the ethical force with which he has pursued the indispensable tradition" of Tolstoy, Dostoyevsky, Boris Pasternak and other great Russian writers.

His literary masterpieces like "The First Circle" and "The Cancer Ward" which realistically depict life under Stalin's terror are banned in his homeland.

But the ailing 52-year-old Solzhenitsyn, though hounded by the Kremlin's literary bureaucrats, is not a prophet without honor in his country. Typewritten copies of his novels are read secretly by young Russians who venerate Solzhenitsyn as another Tolstoy — "the only living classic in Russia."

the store on Saturday night, opens for business on Sunday, and resells to the chain on Monday.

Isn't it a shame that it is necessary to resort to a subterfuge in order to serve the public just because of the politicians' meddling in private affairs that are none of their business?

A Bad Cop Casts A Shadow

By PAUL HARVEY

New York City's crooked cops make headlines and the ugly smudge tarnishes everybody's badge. It shouldn't but it does.

New York City has an "investigator-commissioner," Robert Ruskin, trying to run down and root out the city's crooked cops.

He says he has never encountered any cop who set out to become a crook. What happens is that an honest cop takes out his wallet to pay for the coffee or the hot dog and the restaurant man says no, "It's on me..."

What's the policeman supposed to do, throw the money down on the counter and run? He doesn't.

And after that it's easier to take $10 from a traffic violator, and that's the way it starts.

Next come the larger payoffs—from the businessman who wants to stay open on Sunday, the construction man who wants to block a sidewalk, the unrefrigerated truck delivering meat.

In some precincts in New York a cop has to bribe a cop to get a good seat in a radio car. Then come the gamblers and the sex peddlers and the dope pushers.

A policeman, tied off because he's expected at the risk of his life to enforce outdated, unrealistic laws, though he knows the case will abort in court, discovers the taking of bribes an attractive alternative.

As long as businessmen will buy the badge, they can. After a while the shakedown gets to be a part of the policeman's family budget: he counts on it.

A New York bookie has testified that he paid the police $2,400 a month.

Manhattan builders confide that they pay local patrolmen $40 to $400 a month at each building site.

In order to avoid summonses on minor charges, 10,000 small Puerto Rican grocers are estimated to give police $6.2 million a year in weekly payments and free food.

can't wait to grow up to spit on any uniform.

A corrupt cop is the ultimate hypocrite. And, as I say, he casts a long shadow. Across the Appalachians and across the country, the shadow and the smell engulf half a million decent cops in 40,000 districts, imparting unwarranted suspicion on them all.

What New York City's Commissioner Ruskin proposes as a sort of "first aid" in this worsening situation is an updating of those "unrealistic" laws. He thinks, for example, that prostitution and gambling, legalized, could be regulated — where presently they thrive in the dark, corrupting everyone.

That's his recommendation, not mine. I don't know. Admittedly, I'm prejudiced.

In the early dirt-street days of Oklahoma, my own daddy was a lawman. Until he was bushwhacked by a hijacker and came home dead on Christmas Eve and we hung his bright star on our Christmas tree when I was 3. So, you see, I am prejudiced.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The colloquial term "two-bits" was used to describe the U.S. quarter-dollar piece authorized in 1792. The World Almanac says the term was derived from the colonial six-penny "bit," which was equal to one Spanish real. A quarter was equal to two Spanish bits.
