AT PARIS TALKS

Hanoi Scales Down Its Peace Demands

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam scaled down its peace demands today. It apparently dropped its demand for the ouster of the present Saigon regime and it offered a ceasefire if the United States would halt reconnaissance flights over the north and withdraw its troops by mid-1971.

All previous Hanoi statements demanded a provisional coalition government that excluded the three top Saigon leaders as a necessary step toward the restoration of total peace in South Vietnam. There was no mention of that demand today.

The statement delivered by chief North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy said the question of South Vietnam's political future was open to discussion if the Nixon administration agreed to Hanoi's latest conditions.

U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce also toned down the American statements today. Instead of using words like "inhumane" to describe Hanoi's treatment of war prisoners he said it was "unsatisfactory" in the north and "disgraceful" in Viet Cong controlled areas of the south.

The new Hanoi conditions for peace were inserted into the North Vietnamese statement after it had been mimeographed for distribution to newsmen.

There was no immediate U.S. reaction to the modified Hanoi proposals, but Washington has steadfastly rejected all previous Communist proposals that involved a withdrawal deadline and gave nothing more in return than a promise to talk.

Thuy's modified proposals were presented to the conference after the U.S. delegate indirectly acknowledged receipt of a prisoner list from Hanoi by dropping its persistent demand for such a list in the U.S. statement.

The 96th session of the talks on the war was held on Wednesday this week instead of Thursday in order that the delegations and embassies involved and the French administrative staff at the conference hall could enjoy a day off on Christmas Eve.

Reds Denounce Rescue Efforts

By United Press International

North Vietnam said today it has handed over to "good-willed personalities" a complete list of all American pilots it has captured. It also said the Communist government regards the pilots as war criminals and the United States "must bear full responsibility" if it attempts to free them.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry, in a statement broadcast by the official Vietnamese news agency, said "the competent services of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam handed by request the list of all U.S. pilots captured in United States and other countries."

It apparently referred to a list given in Paris to representatives of Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and George McGovern, D-S.D.

Listed were 368 men, including 20 who have died and nine who have been released.

In apparent reference to an abortive U.S. attempt to free the prisoners made by U.S. forces last month, it said "The U.S. threat to attack detention camps and take away captured U.S. pilots has further revealed the frenzied and reckless features of the Nixon administration."

"The U.S. imperialists must bear full responsibility for any adventurous acts of theirs."

In Paris, Rennie Davis said the North Vietnamese government sent letters to the three senators along with the list. He said he had McGovern's letter, from North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, and was taking it with him to the United States today. Davis, a defendant in the Chicago Seven trial, said he did not know what was in the letter.

He said other letters were given separately to emissaries of Kennedy and Fulbright. Kennedy's letter, given to John E. Nolan, was signed by North Vietnamese President Ton Duc Thang while the one addressed to Fulbright came from Premier Pham Van Dong. James Gordon Lowenstein, a staff member of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, accepted Fulbright's letter.

In Washington, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said in a statement the list carried no names not already on the prisoner list compiled by the government. He added that the United States would continue to press for exchange of the prisoners.

Defense Attorney Blasts CIA In My Lai Massacre Hearings

By RABUN MATTHEWS

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI)—A defense attorney placed the full blame for the alleged My Lai massacre on the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) Tuesday while military hearings resulted in court martials for two more soldiers in the 1968 assault.

Former Georgia Congressman Charles Weltner, representing Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., won the right to subpoena three alleged CIA agents.

He also got one of the Mexican-American's four counts of premeditated murder reduced to assault, but Torres and Pvt. Gerald A. Smith, 22, of Chicago, were ordered to stand court martial for allegedly participating in the March 16, 1968 sweep that resulted in death for between 102 and 370 Vietnamese civilians.

Rail Mishap Injures Two

HOUSTON (UPI)—A freight train jumped its tracks as it crossed an old wooden trestle over Buffalo Bayou Tuesday night. The train plunged into a natural gas line which exploded engulfing a nearby warehouse in flames.

The train derailed only a few yards from an overpass which carried traffic across the city on a multilane freeway.

Two persons — both firemen — were injured.

Three hundred firemen put the fire out at the warehouse belonging to the McBride Southwest Moving and Storage Company in two hours. Arson investigator George Caldwell said two gas mains were turned off an hour and a half after the derailment. The mains controlled the flow of gas feeding the fire. Once the mains were closed, the fire was controlled.

The red brick warehouse was not located near any other building which could catch fire.

Several freight cars fell into Buffalo Bayou which eventually widens to become the Houston Ship Channel. The rest of the train plowed through switches and ripped the track next to the warehouse.

The firemen injured while fighting the fire were Bland Pruitt, 34, and Tommy G. Burns, 25. Pruitt was hospitalized with possible back and chest injuries and Burns with possible leg and back injuries.

Prime Minister Cyrankiewicz Of Poland Ousted In Shakeup

WARSAW (UPI)—Jozef Cyrankiewicz, the longtime prime minister of Poland, was ousted in a government shakeup today.

Piotr Jaroszewicz, an army general and economics expert, was nominated to succeed Cyrankiewicz. Election was considered automatic.

The government changes — like those in the top Communist Party leadership Sunday — were a direct outgrowth of the Baltic food riots last week.

Cyrankiewicz's "letter of resignation" was presented to a meeting of the Polish Parliament.

A letter of resignation also came from President Marian Spychalski, who had been removed from the party's ruling Politburo Sunday along with his close friend, former party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Party First Secretary Edward Gierek, the man who succeeded Gomulka, immediately took the floor and nominated Cyrankiewicz for the presidency — a largely ceremonial job. Nomination in this case was considered tantamount to election.

Cyrankiewicz, 59, had been premier since 1947, except for two years as deputy premier in 1952-54. A large, bald, jovial man, he is known as both a lover of good living and as a relatively liberal moderating influence on the Polish regime.

New details trickling out of Szczecin indicate the riots were more serious than official reports have shown, diplomatic sources said.

Well-informed sources said the death toll in the seaport near the East German border was more than 50. They said workers occupied the Warski Shipyard in Szczecin last Thursday and successfully held out for a 15 per cent pay rise in the face of army troops.

Diplomatic observers said the clashes were believed to have ceased since troops and police imposed control Thursday night and the situation appeared to be steadily returning to normal since the rise of Edward Gierek to leadership of the Polish Communist party.

NIXON ISSUES ORDER

Industries Should Get Federal Permit To Dump Their Wastes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, in a major crackdown on pollution, issued an order today requiring industries to obtain a federal permit to dump wastes and discharges into U.S. waters.

The chief executive, in an executive order, directed the establishment of a federal permit program under the Refuse Act of 1899 which would bar any firm from discharging pollutants — such as chemicals into rivers and streams.

Nixon said the new program "will enhance the ability of the federal government to enforce water quality standards and provide a major strengthening of our efforts to clean up our nation's water."

Under the rarely enforced 71-year-old law, persons and firms are required to submit to state authorities and the federal government data concerning wastes they plan to dump into navigable waters.

Industrial plants now operating must obtain government permits by July 1. New plants will have to get government consent immediately.

The applications for permits are to be submitted to the Army Corps of Engineers which will work closely with the newly created Environmental Protection Agency as well as other federal and state authorities in determining water quality.

Guidelines on the new program will be printed in the Federal Register in the next day or so and comment will be invited.

U.S.-Japan Textile Talks Suspended

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiations between the United States and Japan aimed at drafting voluntary restraints on Japanese textile shipments to this country have been suspended, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said today.

"American industry does not feel that the negotiations are pursuing the kind of formula that is workable," Stans explained to a group of newsmen.

Stans said he met with American textile makers Monday night and was told a draft agreement then under discussion was not acceptable.

Although he said the talks were suspended as a result of the industry position, Stans denied that American textile makers hold veto power in the talks. He predicted that the discussions would resume within a few weeks.

Stans said the plan to which the American industry objected called for "specific limits" on some categories of textile imports but included no limitations on others.

Congress Closes For Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wary senators and representatives, home for Christmas, hope the holiday spirit and a brief vacation might resolve all their problems. There was some indication the legislative logjam was breaking.

Congress shut down Tuesday night for the Christmas weekend, with the Senate returning next Monday. Before the lawmakers left they killed off any chance there would be a Social Security increase, trade legislation or action on welfare reform this year.

When Congress returns, it faces, in no particular order:

—A filibuster against funding of the supersonic transport plane (SST) a debate which a Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called a problem "almost impossible to solve." It is considered the major bottleneck to final adjournment.

—A $66.6 billion compromise defense appropriations bill already approved by the House, which contains language diluting a no-loophole ban against the introduction of U.S. troops into Cambodia. That ban was written into a bill already sent to the White House. The Senate will seek to reject the compromise, ask for new negotiations with the House, and try to strike the language. The House might be adamant.

—A $2.5 billion foreign aid appropriations bill compromise, rejected Tuesday by the Senate because it contains $200 million in military credit sales which have not been approved.

—A $1.8 billion supplemental appropriations bill, which includes actual funds to carry out President Nixon's aid to Cambodia, Israel, and several other nations.

—A compromise food stamp program. Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., has asked the Senate to reject the measure because it denies food stamps where the head of a family refused to take a job.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., issued a joint statement which killed all prospects for Social Security, welfare, trade, and catastrophic illness insurance legislation.

Mills and Byrnes advised senators that no matter what they do on the Welfare-Social Security package, it is too late to work out a compromise with House measures.

They did not mention the trade and catastrophic illness sections but it was clear that all the provisions in the Senate package were through.

Dope Users Escape Prison In Greenville

GREENVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—City police said today they had not caught three men who escaped from the city jail and had no idea where they were.

Carl Anderson, 32; Billy Joe Cassell, 25, and Michael Steve Payne, 20, escaped Tuesday. Anderson and Cassell were described as "known narcotics users and very dangerous."

Anderson and Cassell were recently indicted by a Greenville grand jury for burglary and possession of burglary tools. Anderson also is wanted in Arkansas for flight to avoid prosecution and Cassell is charged with violation of parole.

Payne was awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary for a burglary sentence.

Roadside Sniper Killed By Police

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—A sniper opened fire at motorists along an interstate highway early today south of town, killing one youth before he himself was gunned down by city police.

'United We Stand' Founder Unhappy With Prisoner List

DALLAS (UPI)—Millionaire H. Ross Perot says he can find a few good points about the latest list of American war prisoners being held in North Vietnam.

right at Christmas," he said. "Anyone who has not had the opportunity to be close to these families as I have cannot realize the hardship and suffering they have had to endure."

Austin National lowered its rate at 10 a.m. and was followed almost immediately by Frost National of San Antonio.

Before he was killed, the sniper had shot and killed a Louisiana boy, wounded his companion and wounded a third man.

"If there is a hopeful sign to come from all of this, it is that at least the North Vietnamese are talking about the prisoners and that they are for whatever reasons finally seeing fit to provide requested information to some elected officials in this country," Perot said Tuesday.

"We are deeply disturbed again by the confirmation that men have died in prison," he said. "The North Vietnamese released photographs of these men when they were captured and we know they were all right then. Now, just a few years later, they are dying."

Steve Williams, 19, of West Monroe, La., was struck in the neck by a single blast from a shotgun as he and his companion, Michael Johnston, drove down I-35 on a hunting trip.

Johnston, 19, also of West Monroe, was wounded in the chest and leg but the wounds were so minor he was treated and released.

Perot was the first person to start a nationwide campaign aimed at aiding and finally freeing American prisoners of war being held in Indochina.

"There is no economic reason why the banks cannot lower the prime rate to 6 per cent," Patman said. "The action by Chase Manhattan is just one more example of the timid and inadequate approach of the big banks to the economic situation facing the nation."

James E. Williams, 23, of Atascosa, Tex., was also wounded in the face and right arm, and was in fair condition.

Police said the sniper began firing at passersby after a minor traffic accident on the highway.

It was just one year ago Perot began his campaign by trying to fly Christmas packages to Americans being held in North Vietnamese prisons.

"This is the strongest possible evidence to me of the absence of medication and proper treatment," he said. "It is completely contrary to North Vietnamese claims of humanitarian treatment of prisoners."

When Bexar County Sheriff's deputies and city police answered the disturbance call, the man jumped in his car and sped northward toward San Antonio.

Smith said this action by Jersig and Gilvin bordered on mutiny and asked for their resignations. Jersig and Gilvin said they would not resign.

Thus the latest list of American prisoners comes almost on the first anniversary of Perot's effort. The computer magnate did not like the timing.

"It is very important for the American people to understand that the list contains only men that North Vietnam holds directly," he said. "In addition, there are hundreds of men held by the Pathet Lao."

He turned off the highway, however, and headed west on a small county road.

Well Jersig took Smith's statement about not vetoing as meaning the governor had finally

Governor Reaffirms Strong Stand Against Park Funds

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Just because he says he cannot veto "the dang thing" doesn't mean the governor has changed his mind and now favors a state park on Mustang Island.

There has never been any desire on the part of the majority of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission or of the department staff to extend this unfortunate misunderstanding.

But that's the way State Parks and Wildlife Commissioner Harry Jersig took it. Why Jersig even sent Gov. Preston Smith a telegram saying "We may again join hands and get on with the work ahead."

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The three women defendants were ordered barred from further sessions of the Tate murder trial today after a wild scene before the jury in which one struggled with the state prosecutor.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ruled that Leslie Van Houten, Susan Atkins and Patricia Krenwinkel be kept in an antechamber and listen to the proceedings by loudspeaker until the case goes to the jury—probably the first week in January.

The young woman tried to kick him and fell against a table. Moments after she had been taken out, Patricia Krenwinkel rose and turned to the newsmen in the back of the room, calling out: "You people make this trial into your profits." She was led out screaming and dragging her feet.

Bugliosi grabbed her by the arm and said, "Wait a minute, wait a minute." Older ordered the girl taken from the room by bailiffs but she had no sooner been escorted out than Susan Atkins began haranguing the jury.

Many children promise to improve their behavior—which was excellent to begin with.

Nixon Orders 100,000-Barrel Per Day Increase In Oil Import

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon Tuesday ordered a 100,000 barrel per day increase in oil import quotas to head off a possible petroleum shortage and attempt to roll back a recent price increase.

At least half of the additional oil—probably much more—will come from Canada.

The increased quota affects only the area east of the Rocky Mountains. Imports to the West Coast are handled by a different procedure, and Gen. George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, indicated there also would be some increases in Western quotas.

Lincoln said Western quota increases can be handled on an administrative basis without the need for a formal presidential proclamation.

Nixon's action was a followup on steps he announced Dec. 4 in a speech to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York.

In the speech—widely interpreted as an effort to force the oil industry to roll back a 25 cent a barrel increase in the price of crude oil—Nixon authorized increased production in wells on federally controlled areas offshore from Louisiana and Texas.

Nixon also at that time authorized oil importers to divert quota "tickets" from overseas oil to Canadian production. Many overseas tickets are now unused because of a tanker shortage that has increased the cost of shipping oil from the Middle East.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Notes to watch television by:
The Headliners: John Wayne, his family and ranch are the subjects of a 90-minute special edition of CBS-TV's Merv Griffin show Feb. 11 ... Same network's Lucille Ball series is renewed for next season ... Henry Fonda's new series for ABC-TV, "The Smith Family," bows in Jan. 20 —a weekly half-hour about the home life of a police officer ... Andy Williams has signed the Lennon Sisters, formerly of the Lawrence Welk show, for eight appearances on his NEV-TV program, starting Jan. 23.
Bill Cosby and Dick Van Dyke, who recently teamed up for a special that got smash ratings, get together again on television Jan. 17 ... Van Dyke will guest-star on Cosby's NBC-TV series on that date, playing a fading magician ... Among other things, he persuades Cosby to join his act ... Buckminster Fuller —philosopher, architect, scientist, teacher, inventor, author and engineer —is profiled for an hour on "NBC Experiment in Television" Feb. 7.
Jack Paar is working on a show about "The British Eccentrics"—Robert Morley, Malcolm Muggeridge, Victor Spinetti and some colonial types in Africa ... For another video presentation, he has also just taken "a modern rock and roll group into Africa to see what the reaction would be to that music" ... Rod Serling has a tale on his Jan. 6 NBC-TV "Night Gallery" series about an inept comedian (Godfrey Cambridge) who encounters a genie (Jackie Vernon) anxious to prove himself.

Mel Torme's new, syndicated talk show, "The Price of Fame," which is making its debut around the nation this month, emphasizes the personal lives and careers of show business personalities, past and present, as related to the attitudes of the world around them ... On the first show, which also includes Sammy Davis and Dick Martin as guests, Carol Burnett indicated to Torme she is keenly aware of the suffering of loved ones of addicts, revealing that both her parents died of alcoholism.
The Programs: The National Basketball Association's All-Star game will be televised by ABC-TV the night of Jan. 12, from San Diego ... A 50-minute edited version of this season's Super Bowl football game has been sold to British television by NBC, and, for the first time, the contest will be shown throughout the United Kingdom Jan. 23 ... "The Reel Game," time quiz series in which contestants check their answers against newsreels and other films of famous people and noteworthy events, bows in on ABC-TV Jan. 18.
CBS-TV's long-awaited half-hour comedy series, "All in the Family," about a middle-class husband-father who is full of prejudices and other opinions, arrives Jan. 12 ... ABC-TV promises that when its hunting-and-fishing series, "The American Sportsman," returns Jan. 10, it will put greater emphasis on conservation, ecology and "The outdoor experience" ... The 10-day Apollo 14 manned moon mission, scheduled to include two lengthy lunar walks Feb. 5 and 6, will be covered by video starting with the planned liftoff Jan. 31.

Hope Troupe Is Entertaining American GIs In S. Vietnam

By ALAN DAWSON
CAMP EAGLE, Vietnam (UPI)—As Bob Hope stepped from his " Huey" helicopter onto this rain-soaked American base Tuesday, the sun came out for the first time in days.
From there, the rapid-tongued comedian's fortunes rose.
Except for a short moment when he discussed his personal feelings on the war—and received virtually no reaction from the estimated 18,000-GIs on hand for his first Vietnam show of the 1970 Christmas season. He was greeted by cheers and applause as he led the cast through a two-hour show.
Marijuana Jokes
The biggest laughs, and the greatest reaction, came as he ran through a string of one-line jokes on marijuana. Hope said it was the first time he had used any lines about marijuana in his routine.
"There must be a lot of grass over here for human consumption," Hope told a news conference after his show at the base camp of the 101st Airborne Division, 385 miles north of Saigon. "We're getting big laughs on that."
He declined to discuss his own views on marijuana, but during the show, indicating his stomach, he said, "I don't smoke myself. I have enough trouble with this pot."
The only low spot in

Tuesday's show came when Hope introduced Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, clad in an olive drab jacket with a purple scarf and seated in the front row—at the audience.
"I was very impressed with Marshall Ky's visit (to the United States) and I want to thank him personally for it," Hope told the GI audience. The American servicemen had no reaction.
Hope also praised the GIs, and mildly criticized news media for printing "so much about the My Lai massacre," but not telling about orphanages supported by Americans "and the people you help over here."
Again, there was no reaction from the GIs, drawn up in Eagle Bowl, an amphitheater built especially for last year's Hope show.
Instant Laughs
But with the marijuana jokes, other typical Hope humor on life as a serviceman and his presentation of a string of beautiful girls, the comedian who has entertained GIs for 29 years found nothing but instant laughs and much applause.
Many of the GIs saluted Hope with peace signs.
Hope began his marijuana jokes with a two-liner. "I hear you guys are interested in gardening here. Our security officer said a lot of you are growing your own grass."

Terrorist Makes Own Law

It is only a coincidence that at a time when world outrage is running high over the airliner hijackings by Arab terrorists, an Israeli journalist is recalling an earlier agony of terrorism in the same seething Middle East.
But it is an appropriate coincidence, unhappily instructive on the subject of terrorism in general and on the difficulty, if not impossibility, of dealing with it effectively.
The journalist, Baruch Nadel, has written a book on the death of Swedish County Police Bernadotte in that chaotic time, nearly a quarter of a century ago, when the state of Israel was struggling to be born. Britain was abandoning its mandate over Palestine and for the cause of a reborn Hebrew nation, the Jews of Palestine were prepared for no-quarter battle against Arab neighbors. British authorities and sometimes each other.
Of the several militant Jewish forces engaged, Haganah was the largest and most responsible, willing at times to cooperate with the British. More extreme was Irgun Zvai Leumi, which defied British blockade and United Nations truce, illegally imported men and munitions and engaged in widespread sabotage. Farther out of all was the Stern Gang, which openly acknowledged terror as its business.
And terror there was, murderous terror. A train explosion killed 30 British soldiers. Five policemen died in the bombing of a Haifa police station and 142 persons were wounded. Kidnapings of British officials and soldiers were frequent, with many of the victims returned as corpses. Haganah, concerned over the effect on world opinion toward the Jewish cause, sought to moderate the violence but was warned off by the extremists.
Mounting world outrage reached a high on Sept. 17, 1948, when Count Folke Bernadotte, the Swedish diplomat sent to Palestine as United Nations mediator by the Security Council, was ambushed and murdered.
It is that murder that Baruch Nadel, leader of the Stern Gang unit that committed it, seeks in his book to explain and justify in the context of the

H. L. Hunt Writes

A SMALL DENT IN CRIME

The struggle to halt crime has proved a longer and tougher fight than many had hoped, but constructive citizens can see a glimmer of gain in a most critical location, our national capital. For the first time in 12 years Washington, D.C., has had a major drop in its skyrocketing crime rate.
During the first quarter of this year crime was up 22 per cent, continuing a 400 per cent increase over the past 10-year period. But in April, when good weather was expected to send the crime figures soaring again, there was a drop from the previous April. After a slight upward move in May, June, then July, then August all showed drops, the first time the city has experienced a successive three-month decline in the crime rate, according to D. C. Police Chief Jerry Wilson.
The left-leaningers in Congress had managed to stall off tougher anti-crime legislation most of 1969 but finally were out-manuevered enough in November last year to increase the size of the police force. Another strength increase this past April brought the force to 5,100 policemen. Other reforms strengthened the court system and the hands of the police.
The administration stopped the old practice of appointing too-liberal judges who were more concerned with legal nit-picking than with the victims of criminals. The U.S. attorney doubled the number of prosecuting attorneys, which helped increase the rate of convictions from 43 per cent to 70 per cent. The police chief knows that the battle is only begun. Criminals will not quit of their own accord and the efforts of all citizens will be required to halt crime.

For Your Christmas List—

Bluff Against Integration Seems To Be Sputtering Out

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—In Mississippi, white private academies are at their peak in numbers. But appearances are deceptive, since attendance is dropping at some and there are predictions of a marked decline by the end of this school year.
When the U. S. Supreme Court ordered an abrupt elimination of the state's dual public school system by last February, there was a heavy outflow of white pupils in some places. Roughly 100 new private schools sprang up. More than a few were born in rural areas of limited means. From 40,000 to 50,000 whites are in all these schools.
Yet the money strain on many parents is severe, even where tuition terms are easy. Hence the forecasts, from within the state, that by June, 1971, perhaps a third of the new academies will close. A developing trend could ultimately cut the number in half.
Already the pinch on family economics is evident to those watching the situation. At Indianola last winter somewhere around 750 white students fled the public school system as black youngsters poured in. It is reported that more than 200 now are back. In strongly segregationist Canton, a bit more than 30 whites stayed when the court decree took effect. Today a small reverse flow is faintly discernible.
Because tuition, coming on top of taxes, bites hard into many white family budgets, Mississippi retail merchants in some communities are hurting. There aren't enough dollars for everything.
Here and there these merchants are quietly but not very subtly asking their white customers whether they can really afford to send their children to private schools. They are posing the obvious. Another problem exists. The private academies born in some panic are very uneven in quality. Generally, for weakest seem to be among those at the junior and regular high school level. They lack library, laboratory and other vital school facilities. Teaching is erratic.
Potential graduates of these doubtful academies may not have trouble getting into Mississippi's colleges, since accreditation of schools for that purpose is separate from that of general evaluation.
Gaining entry to out-of-state colleges is something else, for the South-wide association which awards accreditation on that broader scale applies much tougher standards.
The great flurry of attention given the new private schools earlier in 1970 tended then and still tends to obscure the fact that the precipitate ending of the dual white-and-black school system was brought off with comparatively little fuss. The present school year is described as "quiet" so far.
Integration is quite thoroughgoing, and evidently is recognized by most Mississippians as irreversible.
Soon after the crushing change occurred in February, there were said to be about 15 school districts where the white exodus from the public system was so sweeping as to block altogether the court's announced objective. According to fresh report, some return flow is occurring in certain of these areas. No more than six districts, less than 5 per cent of the state's total, appear to be left today with a virtually all-black public school setup.
Across the South, numerous complaints are heard that integration of the schools is merely a surface phenomenon, that ingenious school boards, administrators and teachers are by various devices separating the races inside the buildings. My reports are that this approach has not really gone far in Mississippi. And some sources feel that where it has developed, it will not last.
The signs of quiet, on the Mississippi school front should not be taken as proof that all is smooth. This is a wrenching period for whites and blacks alike. Add school funds are short. A conservative Mississippi legislature, meeting in January, could withhold money for needed teacher salary increases and other purposes. Still, the whole thing is going much better than anyone would have dreamed.

Enemy Sat Mute; No Pact Ever Made To Halt Bombs

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Despite President Nixon's contrary assertions, no "understanding"—in the sense of a two-party agreement—was reached between Washington and Hanoi over conditions attached to the bombing halt we initiated in North Vietnam on Oct. 31, 1968.
The President has just reiterated that such an understanding was arrived at, and that Lyndon Johnson and two former top associates have said so. The arrangement is said to call for North Vietnam to refrain from shelling South Vietnamese cities, to end the transit of troops across the border demilitarized zone and to tolerate reconnaissance flights by our planes over parts of North Vietnam.
Highly placed sources with the Paris talks between the parties say that not even in the most private circumstances did Hanoi agree to any of this.
Our negotiators instead heard Hanoi flatly declare it would never accept any conditions as the price of a continuing bombing halt.
Facing this impasse, U.S. officials finally met privately with Hanoi's representatives, away from the conference table, and took a new tack. One source says that, in simplified outline, this is what we told our adversaries:
"We are making a unilateral decision to stop the bombing. How long the halt goes on will depend on two things—your not shelling South Vietnam's cities, and not crossing the DMZ in force."
There was no visible or audible assent to this by Hanoi's people. Whereupon a U.S. official asked: "Do you hear us?"
At this turn, a North Vietnamese spokesman replied: "We hear you."
Next an American negotiator asked: "Do you understand what we are saying?"
Again, a North Vietnamese official spoke: "We understand."
Discussion of those two conditions fixed by us never went beyond that point. It was an "understanding" only in the sense that Hanoi, by its own word, clearly grasped our intent. It agreed to nothing.
As for our plan to mount reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam, there was even less interchange.
We simply notified Hanoi of our intent to overtly check on possible Communist build-ups near the DMZ. This word has received an understanding. Blame for the distortion of these conversations may not basically be Nixon's, since he unquestionably is acting upon reports gleaned from others. But my sources are beyond impeachment.
It is something else for the President to announce as his "understanding" the explicitly defined U.S. intent to return the fire of Hanoi's antiaircraft weapons and to destroy them and their supporting complexes. Even if there had been a prior understanding with Hanoi over

6 Small Meals a Day In Hiatal Hernia Cases

Dear Dr. Lamb—For a hiatal hernia, what foods should I avoid? Would four small meals a day instead of three be advisable?
Dear Reader—Anyone who is having symptoms from a hiatal hernia should make changes in his living habits to prevent problems. The less the lower end of the esophagus is irritated the less likely the problem will become more severe.
It is best to eat six small meals a day. This prevents overloading the stomach, causing regurgitation of its contents into the esophagus. You should not eat anything for at least two hours before going to bed or lying down. This provides time for the stomach to empty. It helps if you can learn to sleep in a bed with the head elevated about 10 inches by using blocks or chairs. Otherwise, the normal stomach secretions can leak backward into the lower esophagus.
You should avoid all spicy and highly seasoned food. Eliminate coffee, alcohol, tea, cola drinks and cigarettes.
Of course, anyone with symptoms from hiatal hernia should NOT wear anything constricting around the abdomen. This includes girdles, belts and exceptionally tight trousers. Avoid all tasks that require bending. You can use this to avoid garden work.
Since the vast majority of people with hiatal hernia are fat at the beginning of their trouble (that is part of the problem), any one who is overweight and has symptoms must reduce. The pounds of fat inside the abdominal cavity merely help push the stomach through the hole in the diaphragm.
Between meals take an antacid, liquid or tablet. The pills often used for ulcers to relax the stomach are NOT good for hiatal hernia because they delay emptying of the stomach.
Would an operation to correct this condition be dangerous? Any operation is dangerous. However, most patients with hiatal hernia can be treated successfully without surgery if they follow the measures I have listed.
If the problem is neglected and the lower esophagus becomes scarred and obstructed, then an operation may be required. This question has to be resolved by your doctor, preferably your family doctor or specialist in internal medicine. Surgery is usually required only when good medical management has not been followed.
Dear Dr. Lamb—I get cramps in my feet at night. They're driving me mad. What can I do about them?
Dear Reader—I received a letter the other day from a reader who said she had found an unusual cure for that problem—she leaves her shoes on when she goes to bed! And she just may be right.

Clearing House

Get something you would like to "get off your chest" that's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their minds. So, in the public interest, let it off your chest.

Editor:

Back during the depression of the 1930s, when times were as hard as a "nickle's worth of neck bones" many of us can say it was really a depression in the truest sense.

In this time, recently I heard a youngster remark, that the "old man" had tightened down on his allowance, and his mama who works was insisting that "borrowed" money be earned and paid back.

To youngsters of this type, who drive around the "drag" in $4,000 cars and have time to stop at gathering places and engage in a few fistfights, it is a strange time.

Back during the "thirties" I listened to a violent argument between two men. One was from Tennessee, the other from Georgia. Both were stone workers.

After the oussin' cooled off, I asked the man from Georgia why he took such a lashing from the other guy, he simply replied—"had to, you see, I borrowed a nickel from him the other day and still owed it to him."

Here was some kind of a code of honor. Maybe nations that own the U.S. should have a little of this thinking.

India Charges Prejudice

According to a piece in India News, which is published in Washington, D.C., India is seriously considering dropping out of the British Commonwealth which is composed of Great Britain's former colonies and dominions. India became a "free" nation shortly after World War II when the Labor Party came to power the first time and started splitting up the old British Empire, but she remained in the Commonwealth of British Nations, which includes Canada, Australia, New Zealand and other former British colonies, and which was recently joined by the Fiji Islands.
India objects to Britain's discrimination against Indians holding British passports. Mr. Surendra Singh, India's Deputy Minister for External Affairs, has expressed serious concern at the harassing and humiliating treatment being meted out to the people of Asian origin holding British passports by the United Kingdom.
The article also accuses the British government of showing even more discrimination against Indians of African origin than to those who live in India. The item states that, essentially, the British Government is shirking its responsibility of providing protection and allowing their citizens to return to the United Kingdom.
"Since the passage of the Commonwealth Immigrations act in 1962, the British government has taken progressive steps to restrict the flow of the Commonwealth citizens, including the Indians, into the U.K."
"As against this, the government of India has not imposed

THWARTING THE THREE-WAY TREAT

What will come of today's topsy-turvy economy? Are we to endure an "inflationary recession" forever? Or will the bubble burst? Some people predict a depression, others believe that more and more inflation is in store. And not a few individuals are betting on the devaluation of the U.S. dollar.
One observer we know is betting on all three of these possibilities. Mr. Harry Browne, an investment counselor and the author of "How You Can Profit From The Coming Devaluation," predicts that we'll have all these problems in the near future.
Speaking over the Manion Forum radio program, Mr. Browne opined that "the depression is 100 per cent inevitable. There is absolutely no way it can be avoided."
Devaluation, said Browne, is "90 percent inevitable, and I should say probably 99. I predict that the devaluation will take place some time between this Saturday morning and the end of 1971, since devaluations almost always happen on a Saturday morning as a way of the government preventing anyone else from profiting from its misdeeds. But, of course, there are ways of profiting from the devaluation as long as you don't wait till Saturday morning to do it."
Runaway inflation is the third thing in store for us, says Mr. Browne. It is "at least 50 percent possible," in his informed opinion.
Now what does this all mean—politics aside—to the ordinary American? What should you be doing to prepare for these possibilities? Here is what Browne says:
"There are certain problems in hedging against these things. If it were 1928 and you saw what was coming, you'd simply hedge against an orthodox depression. That would mean getting your money out of stocks and real estate, putting it into bonds or treasury bills or cash or the orthodox depression hedges. Well, if we

Wrap Her
In Terry

A sure-to-please gift for any woman on your shopping list—whether she's liberated or still enchained—is a robe. This year wrap her to the ankles in a luxurious cotton terry robe elegant enough to double as a hostess gown.

Once limited to bath or beachwear, terry robes have now entered the realm of high fashion to play dual roles as hostess gowns, loungewear, and dramatic patio outfits.

One reason for terry's ascension up the fashion ladder, reports the National Cotton Council, is that improved dyeing and printing methods have been developed to suit the fabric's loopy pile.

As a result, terry is turning up in brilliant colorings and exotic prints that make it a natural for its more luxurious role.

In addition, terry can be sculptured into rich jacquard designs or knitted into plush velours that are smooth and velvety to the touch.

Aside from its new-found elegance and high styling, terry has its practical side, too. It's washable, requires no ironing, and gets softer and more luxurious feeling the longer it's worn.

SOFT TOUCH—Cotton terry with loops sheared for a velvety touch shapes an elegant wrap in a vivid butterfly print. The reverse side of the Robes of California design is in uncut terry.

REGAL—Plush cotton terry in a sculptured jacquard weave creates a dramatic Empire-style robe. Elegant enough to double as a hostess gown.

LUXURIOUS—Patchwork and border prints are combined for a colorful effect in this cotton terry hostess dress. Styled with a zipper-front and wide collar.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I took out a marriage license over two years ago, but he keeps changing his mind about getting married. I am getting pretty fed up with him. How long is a marriage license good for?

FLORENCE

DEAR FLORENCE: In your case, it's good for nothing.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with Ray, a very nice gentleman who is not yet officially divorced. There is no problem there because Ray and his wife are very friendly. In fact, she is all set to marry another man as soon as the divorce is final.

The problem is that Ray's son is being married soon in another state and Ray wants me to go to the wedding with him. I don't think I have any business going. Ray's wife's boyfriend is going with her, and Ray says it would be less awkward if he brought me along.

There will be many of Ray's relatives present and I'm a little old-fashioned about meeting them under these circumstances.

If I could sit inconspicuously in back of the church it wouldn't be so bad, but Ray is his son's best man, which would put me in the wedding party.

I know Ray wants me to go but he isn't insisting. What would you do?

RAY'S LADYFRIEND: I'd pass.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married only four months and I love my husband dearly. I have done everything I can to make him happy, and I thought I succeeded, but I am miserable because since our wedding day not once has he said, "I love you," or, "You look nice," or, "I enjoyed the dinner."

He seems satisfied with my housekeeping and cooking and I know he is proud to be seen with me, but when I brought up my need to be told, he seemed surprised that I would expect any compliments or verbal signs of affection or appreciation.

He had the nerve to say I should be thankful that he isn't an alcoholic or a run-around.

I have tried discussing this with him, but he gets furious and says I expect too much, that he loves me and that is that.

I need more than bread and board, I feel like a housekeeper and a mistress. It would take so little for me to feel just great. He reads your column. Maybe you can get to him.

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: If you've discussed with him and can't make any headway, quit talking about it. (From now on, it's not "discussion," it's nagging.) You may have to accept this non-verbal man the way he is. It's not what a man says, it's what he does that conveys the real message.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning

that woman who saw a man sneak into her neighbor's house through the garage door in the wee hours of the morning noticed he stayed an hour and 50 minutes and then departed. I'm sure I am the man.

But that's not half of it, Abby. I was on my way to her house, but spotted her husband's car at home (he was supposed to be in Seattle) so, as I am not one to waste an opportunity, I visited her neighbor, who had previously caught me sneaking into her neighbor's house, but had the presence of mind to write to me instead of to Dear Abby.

This will not seem too confusing if you will remember that moral indignation is nothing but jealousy with a halo.

Yule Legends Differ
As Countries Change

The legends and truths about Christmas—that happiest of all holidays—differ greatly from country to country and are often quite contradictory. Here, to set Santa's record straight, are some of the most interesting facts and beliefs that surround the celebration.

One little known fact is that Christmas was once abolished in England and the United States!

In 1643, the Puritan "Roundheads"—so called because of the round hats they wore—passed a law in Parliament against the Christmas holiday, which they considered pagan. Gradually, the people who resented this edict rebelled against Oliver Cromwell's

"Roundhead" dictatorship and in 1654, the law against Christmas was repealed.

On the other hand, Christmas did not become a legal holiday in this country until Alabama declared it so in 1836 Louisiana and Arkansas followed suit in 1838 and, during the Civil War, thirteen additional states did the same. The District of Columbia, lagging far behind, finally recognized Christmas in 1870.

It may come as a surprise to you, but turkey—America's traditional Christmas dish—is rarely "gobbled" at England's holiday tables. There, roast beef has been the favorite meal since pagan times—when the ancient Druids sacrificed two white bulls as a winter rite.

What about Santa Claus? When did he first arrive in this country?

Though the Dutch brought him to New York in the form of St. Nicholas, Santa Claus—as we know him today—didn't come into being until Dr. Clement C. Moore wrote his famous poem that began, "Twas the night before Christmas." Dr. Moore, an Episcopal minister, created the jolly fellow and companion reindeer in 1822—to entertain his own children.

Of all the customs, none evokes more excitement for young and old alike than the giving of gifts. No present, however, can top the one that General Sherman gave to President Lincoln. That magnanimous soldier wired his Commander-in-Chief the following message on December 25, 1864: "I beg to present to you as a Christmas present the city of Savannah."

Create Festive Holiday Spirit

NEW YORK— Spread your table with party cheer, advises the December teen magazine, which suggests a host of holiday whimsies to create a festive air.

Plant colorful cupcakes in a bright flowerpot. Fill the pot with stones for weight and styrofoam to be spared with cake-topped, dowel "stems." Gumdrops cover the "ground" for a tasteful extra.

Trim a tree as your place mat for a seasonal table setting. Use fir-green construction paper; the tree's trunk (of brown paper) is a place card lettered with each guest's name. Scissor out holes at scattered spots, then put your green tree on a bright red tablecloth; it will show through for cheery ornament. Top each peekaboo with a perky red bow of rickrack or yarn. Plunk each plate in a holly-red basket, and roll up red napkins ringed with metal cookie cutters.

Paint each guest's name on a holly-sprigged apple to create personalized place settings.

Make a gifted centerpiece from a plain French wire egg holder. Fill each cup to overflowing with Christmas greens, holy and carefully-wrapped remembrances.

Bald Headed Dolls Create Mom's Problem

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY— My children have cut the hair of some perfectly good dolls so I hope someone can tell me how to cover their heads or replace the hair with something other than a hat or cap.

—MRS. J. W.

DEAR POLLY— I cover my dust mop with wornout panty hose. After the stocking part wears or separates from the pants I use the tops to cover the mop. The dust sticks to the nylon material and the panties are easier to wash than the mop.

—MRS. M.Z.

DEAR POLLY— When my children were young, Christmas day started early and by night there was a general let-down feeling. For years we have had a mum-made gift at each place for our Christmas evening meal and it gives everyone something to look forward to. The children are now grown but still ask if there is going to be a Christmas night surprise. Even dad seems pleased.

—MRS. C. L. M.

DEAR POLLY— I put ice

cubes instead of water in the container for watering our Christmas tree and have no water spills to worry about.

—BEATRICE

DEAR POLLY— Since we have a 1½-year-old youngster in our home we tied the decorations on the Christmas tree with lengths of gay colored yarn. When baby touched or hit them the ornaments were not so likely to come off and break.

—ROBIN

DEAR READERS— My sincere thanks to all of you for your letters and Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year to each and every reader.

JEANE DIXON
Your Horoscope

FOR THURSDAY, DEC. 24, 1970
YOUR BIRTHDAY THURSDAY: Your path through the coming year is one you've never before known. You cannot past failures, recover the use of neglected resources, gain access to other skills. Whatever is rescued produces active results. You attract interesting people with your work, including some of great emotional appeal for you. Thursday's natives can concentrate on outdoor sports as a natural thing.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): You find the season has come to a near-end, make it as calm a day as possible. Your normal routine can't be maintained, so seek a sensible compromise.
TARUS (April 20-May 20): Travel gets complicated, particularly during business hours. Off hours, pleasure trips can be fun. The little tasks around the house should be divided among all the people around.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take social invitations, such as dance parties in air. Keep your wits and watch for a couple of long-range puzzles. Your friends need calming, see that you do it.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get up early to stay ahead of Thursday's complexities and the needs of people. Your special skills come to very good use. Ration your time according to the relative importance of the choices.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Now everybody turns to making the situation lively. Keep your own indulgences moderate. You'll enjoy everything all the more. Interesting people are in the air.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There's a good news Thursday. Take it in stride, plan to make the best use of it. Routines may have to be skipped for more pressing activities.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): So long as you are not alone, everything works out fine. Plan to have a long day of routines. Extra chores keep everybody distracted. Keep busy.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You have to make some decisions while you hear the proposals, with no time for consideration. Go by intuition. Your vitality intrigues people favorably.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Right in the middle of the festive outside rituals you find there's reason for serious thought. Disregard any competition based on personalities.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make sure of the precise terms of your company's plan before you get started on it. The March 22nd news makes the evening a gala occasion.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Simple programs are the most feasible. Settle differences of viewpoint, agree to disagree, without making. The first things first at home, don't fuss with details.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You find willing ears for your latest tales. Tell them all now, straight through. Traditional formalities have a peculiar charm between people who are close.

Over 200,000 To Be Affected By Fuel Strike In NY

NEW YORK (UPI)—More than 200,000 persons living in 50 city housing projects will be without heat and hot water before the day is over because of a six-day strike by fuel oil deliverers and repairmen, according to city spokesmen.
 Fuel supplies were exhausted at 13 projects Monday, leaving approximately 50,000 persons without heat or hot water. City officials said the situation may get worse today.
 The 2,800 striking deliverymen and repairmen, members of Teamsters Union Local 553, were to vote tonight on a new contract offered by the New York Oil Heat Association representing 300 companies. The new offer would give the union members a $40 wage increase and $20 in benefits in two steps in the two year contract. They now earn from $175 to $181 a week.

BALLET FORM is shown by Richard Bunton as he goes for two-points against the Perryton Rangers in Pampa's 66 to 51 win Tuesday night in Harvester Fieldhouse. Bunton had twelve points for the evening's total.

Harvesters Walk To Easy Victory

The hustling Harvesters walked away with a 66 to 51 victory over the Perryton Rangers Tuesday night in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The whole team played an outstanding second half and literally the whole team played. The Harvesters finished the game with five Shockers playing for the varsity squad.

Coming from a four point lead at halftime to a sixteen point margin at the end of the third quarter can only be attributed to a great effort by the team.

Mike Edgar led the wolf-pack against the Rangers with 23 points and sixteen rebounds. Richard Bunton, playing the best defensive game we've seen in a long time, tallied 17 rebounds and twelve points.

Marsh Gamblin, as usual hit consistently from the outside on his grandstand set shots. Gamblin is recovering from a seige with the flu and according to coach McPherson, "Marsh is just starting to get his strength back."

McPherson said, "Edgar, in my opinion played his best ballgame of the year last night. His defensive play stood out above his scoring and he has shown much improvement since the start of the season."

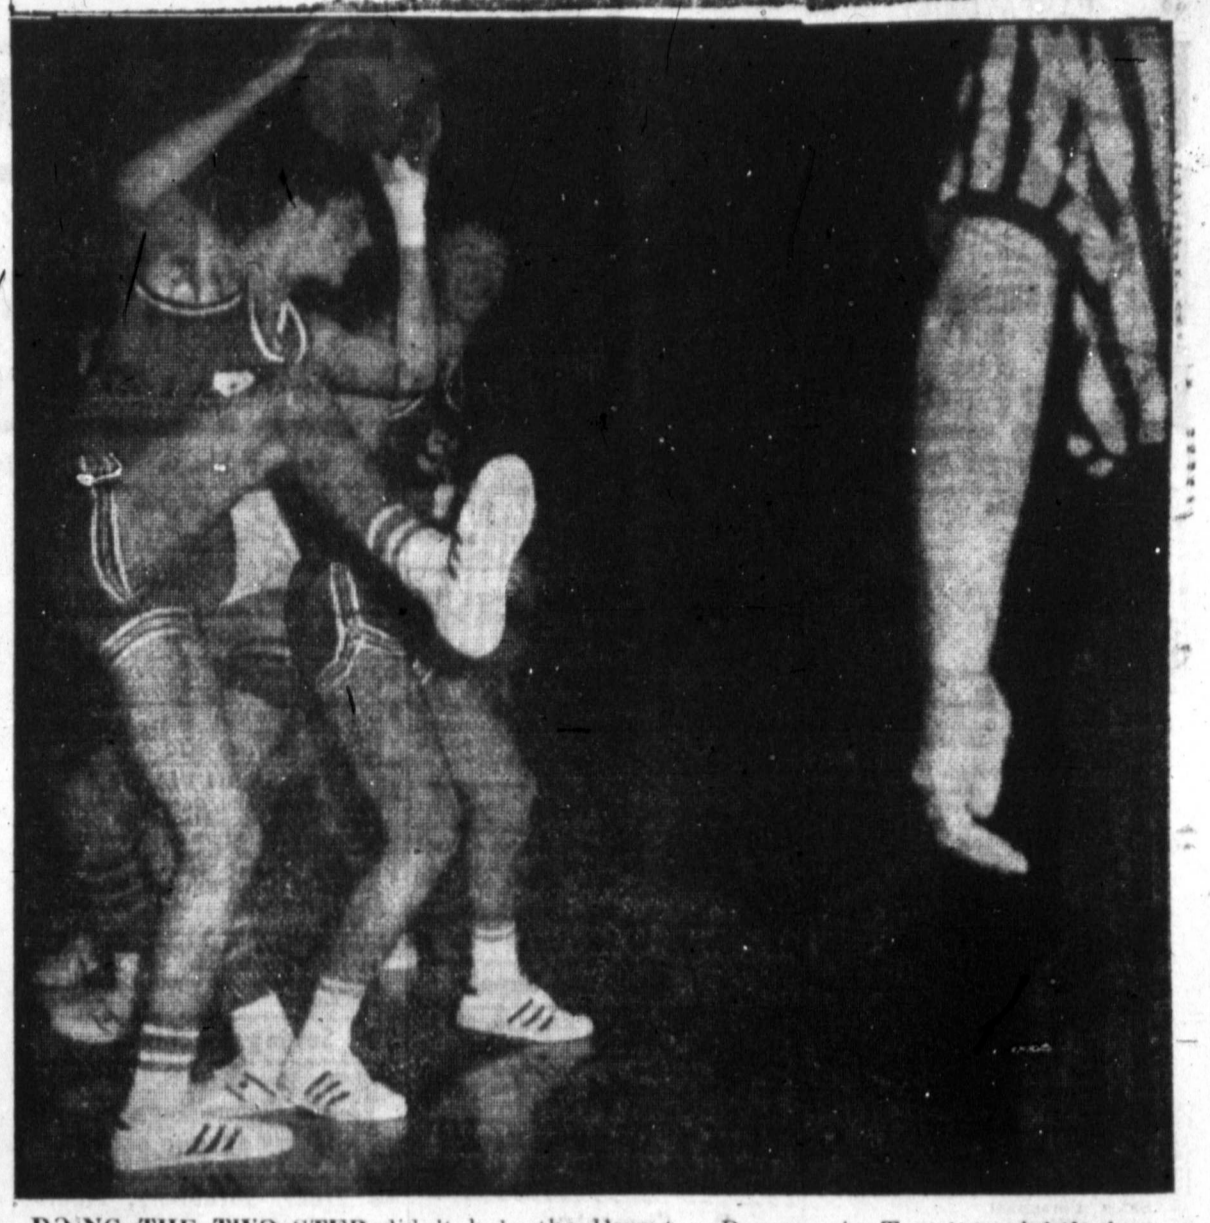

"As a whole I believe the Harvesters will be at full strength in about a month, which marks the start of district play."

Brown Not Going Any-Where, But Superbowl

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Phil Bengtson is gone and Bill Austin most likely is next.

A couple of others are sure to follow because even an old wide receiver like Percy Shelly could tell the score when he said "If winter comes can spring be far behind?"

One man is staying for sure. Paul Brown.

He's not going anywhere unless it's to the Super Bowl next month. Such a prospect was dimmer than a 100-1 shot before this season began, but after losing six of their first seven Paul Brown's Cincinnati Bengals came charging back like the cavalry. They've won seven in a row now and are looking to make it eight Saturday when they go against the Baltimore Colts in one of the AFC's semifinal playoffs.

The Bengals aren't nearly as impressive a club as, say, the Minnesota Vikings or the Baltimore Colts. They have no superstars and nobody outside their immediate families can tell you the names of the players who make up the front-four. But somehow the Bengals get the job done and when you talk with any of the Cincinnati players they tell you one man Paul Brown.

That's the name they all give you.

Gets Regular Job
Talk to Virgil Carter. For example. He's the Bengals' quarterback and he got the regular job in the fourth game of the season. This is Carter's first season with Cincinnati. Brown having picked him up from Buffalo after Greg Cook, Rookie of the Year last season, suffered a separated shoulder. Carter didn't know quite what to expect of Brown in the beginning.

"I heard a great many rumors about him," says the 23-year-old quarterback whom the Chicago Bears fined $1,000 last year, because he was critical of the way they handled him. "I was awe-stricken at first and a little hesitant. The rumors you hear about him are wrong. He's really an outstanding coach, a very honest guy, a very knowledgeable guy, one who knows how to use his personnel and how to surround himself with some outstanding assistant coaches."

Paul Brown has some faults. Fewer than most people, though, when you really get down to them. One of his faults isn't immodesty. He doesn't pump himself up at the expense of his ball club. Talk to him about the reason for the success of the Bengals and you'll never hear him mention Paul Brown, only his ballplayers.

"They're enthusiastic," he said. "They're just bubbly and everybody's having a great time. It was that way even when we lost. I used to say to the coaches sometimes that I didn't know whether these guys knew they got a shellacking last Sunday afternoon or not. They didn't act like it and now they seem to be the same way when they win."

"They're young, and life is just a big bowl of cherries. Everybody is having a nice time. I don't think it ever enters their minds that they can be run out of the lot. But could happen and then everybody would just go home Monday, that's all."

Outstanding Quality

Paul Brown has this one outstanding quality all successful people have. It's called sensitivity. That quality gives him a rare insight into people and enables him to sense beforehand how they'll react.

The key to Brown's success with the Bengals who, after all, are an expansion club only three years old, may lie in the following story of a chance meeting between two old friends. The two are Pete Perreault and Walt Michaels and the chance meeting occurred following the 1968 football season following Perreault's first year under Brown with the Bengals.

"How do you feel?" he was asked by Michaels, the New York Jets' defensive backfield coach who played for Brown 10 years with Cleveland.

"I'm tired," replied Perreault. "Dead tired."

Bengtson Resigns As Packers Head Coach

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—Phil Bengtson has resigned as head coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers. The job of finding a successor is the immediate task of the committee.

"The ideal thing would be to get a successor as soon as possible. But we won't panic and grab the first one that comes along," said Dominic Ojejski, Green Bay Packer president and head of the executive committee.

Although Ojejski did not elaborate on the kind of man the Packers are looking for, he did say "we feel we need a man who can do a total job."

The 37-year-old Bengtson, who succeeded the late Vince Lombardi as Packer coach three years ago after molding the team's great championship defense of the 1960's, said he was making his move because of a "disappointing season" and a hope that a change would improve the Green Bay record in 1971.

"I want to emphasize that my experience with the Packers has been very enjoyable and I wish them every success in the future in the National Football League," Bengtson said Tuesday.

Bengtson's 1970 team finished with a 6-8 record, its worst since 1958, and managed to score only 14 points a game—the poorest Packer performance in 21 years.

The executive committee is scheduled to meet next week to establish ground rules for selecting a successor to Bengtson, Ojejski said.

New Faces Are Seen In 1970 UPI All Star Team

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—"New faces" would be an appropriate title for the 1970 United Press International National Football Conference All-Star team which was announced Tuesday.

Although the shifting of three teams to the AFV made some changes automatic, the turnover was unusual on offense as only two of the 11 players-guard Tom Mack and tackle Bob Brown of Los Angeles—repeated this season.

Things were a little more normal on defense as seven of the 11 All-Stars repeated but the four new players made a total of 13 different selections out of the 22 All-Stars.

The team was selected by a nationwide panel of 36 sportswriters and broadcasters from the 13 NFC cities.

The top vote getter on offense was Washington running back Larry Brown, who became the first Redskin to gain a thousand yards in a season. He was joined in the backfield by running back Mac Arthur Lane of St. Louis and quarterback John Brodie of St. Louis.

Wide Receivers

The wide receivers are Gene Washington of San Francisco and Dick Gordon of Chicago.

Joining Mack and Brown in the line are center Ed Flanagan of Detroit, tackle Ernie McMillan of St. Louis and guard Gale Gillingham of Green Bay. The tight end is Charlie Sanders of Detroit.

On defense, the front four was the same for the second straight year with Carl Eller of Minnesota and Deacon Jones of Los Angeles at ends and Alan Page of Minnesota and Merlin Olsen has made it every season since 1966.

Dick Butkus of Chicago is the middle linebacker for the fourth straight year and Chuck Howley of Dallas and Larry Stallings of St. Louis are the outside linebackers.

Butkus, Eller and Brown each received 34 votes from the 36-man panel to lead the balloting.

In the defensive secondary, there are three new faces with Larry Wilson of St. Louis the only repeater at safety. Paul Krause of Minnesota made it for the first time at the other safety and Jim Johnson of San Francisco and Roger Wehrli of St. Louis are the cornerbacks.

Second Team

On the second team, Fran Tarkenton of New York is the quarterback with Ron Johnson of Lem Barney of Detroit and Bruce Taylor of San Francisco are the cornerbacks.

The center is Mick Tinglehoff with John Friend of Dallas and Irv Goode of St. Louis at the guards and Rocky Freitas of Detroit and Cas Banaszek of San Francisco at the tackles. The tight end is Jackie Smith of St. Louis.

On defense, Claude Humphrey of Atlanta and Larry Hand of Detroit are the ends with Bob Lilly of Dallas and Charlie Krueger of San Francisco at the tackles. Mike Lucio of Detroit is the middle linebacker with Dave Wilcox of San Francisco and Fred Carr of Green Bay at the linebackers.

Texas Tech Is Finding Bright Spots In Defeat To Colorado

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Finding the bright spots in defeat, Texas Tech coach Bob Bass says half a good game is better than none.

"I thought our rebounding and defense picked up in the second half," Bass said today analyzing the Raiders' fourth loss of the season.

Tech, which fouled away an opportunity to win the game in the last five seconds, lost 67-66 to Colorado Tuesday night.

Cliff Meely hit 20 points to lead the Buffs attack. But most of Meely's damage came in the first half. Colorado led at the intermission 43-38.

Although the Raiders tied the Buffs twice in the second half, they could never go out in front. With 14 seconds left Gregg Lowery, who led the Tech offense with 18 points, got the last two on a jumper to make the score 67-66. Tech got the ball back but was charged with an offensive foul with five seconds left to play.

"I'm really pleased with the way the defense came back" in the second half, Bass said. "Their big boy (Meely) hit 12 points in the first half and finished with 20 but only got one from the field in the second half.

"Their running game hurt us

Hazzard Feels At Home In Los Angeles With Atlanta

By United Press International

Walt Hazzard made himself right at home in Los Angeles although he was wearing an Atlanta Hawks uniform.

Hazzard, traded away by Los Angeles, scored the winning basket, a 15-foot shot with 36 seconds left, to give the Hawks a 119-115 victory over his old teammates Tuesday night.

The Hawks trailed by 19 points in the second quarter, but Hazzard almost singlehandedly brought them back in the third quarter as he scored 19 of his game-high 32 points. The Hawks outscored Los Angeles, 41-21, in that third period with most of Hazzard's baskets coming on his Alley Oop shot.

In other National Basketball Association games, Seattle beat New York, 119-106, Chicago defeated Cleveland, 121-80, Boston turned back San Francisco, 138-106, and Philadelphia overcame a 25-point deficit to beat Phoenix, 133-129, in overtime.

New York's flu-stricken center Willis Reed and Bill Bradley, out with a turned ankle, will be back after this week, but the Knicks could have used them against Seattle. Tom Meschery and Lenny Wilkens led Seattle with 20 points each.

Philadelphia rookie Dennis Awtry and veterans Archie Clark, Billy Cunningham and Hal Greer led the comeback against Phoenix, which had led by 72-47 at one point. Awtry finished with 23 points, includ-

Blackman Is Favored Today When Illinois Announces New Coach

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)—The Illinois athletic board will announce the Illini's new head football coach today, with most observers certain it will be Dartmouth's Bob Blackman.

The coming of Blackman was almost as widely reported before official confirmation as the fact that the man he is replacing, Jim Valek, would be fired after four unsuccessful seasons.

Blackman, 52, is one of the winningest coaches in the nation. He has a career record of 150 wins, 49 losses and eight ties in 22 years of coaching. His Dartmouth team was champion

Children Perform Nativity Program

St. Matthews Episcopal Day School presented the annual Christmas program recently with the theme "Living Pictures."

The program began with three and four year olds, kindergarten, and first grade classes walking in a professional holding flashlights for special affect.

The song for the processional was "Here We Come A-Caroling," a traditional English hymn. The welcoming address was given by the Rev. Richard Saxer, curate at St. Matthews Episcopal Church.

The first of three scenes was The Wise Men played by Mike

Colville, Reid Steger, and Jeff Rallsback. The song for this particular scene was "We Three Kings of Orient Are."

The second scene was the Nativity with Mike Coon as Joseph, and Penny Miller as Mary. Shepherds were played by Ian Yater, Ricky Warden, and Michael Belanger. Wise Men were played by Stacy Pierce, Rex McKay, and Chris Crawshaw.

During this second scene the pre-school group sang "Christmas Bells are Ringing" and the Kindergarten sang "Sweetly Sleeping in the Manger."

For the third scene, Madonna and Child, the hymn was "Goodnight, Sweet Jesus" with the combined chorus participating. Tricia Hawkins played the part of the Madonna.

The finale and recessional followed the third scene as the children left the church singing "We Wish You A Merry Christmas."

Mrs. Bill Wimmingham was the program director, with Mrs. Ted J. Dotz as accompanist.

"After everything that has happened, we are entitled and obliged to fight, after three wars for a genuine peace, a peace treaty delineating secure, agreed and recognized borders and relations with our neighbors as is accepted everywhere else in the world."

Names List Of 368 America POWs Turned Over To Two U.S. Representatives In Paris

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon officially lists 378 Americans as prisoners of war in North Vietnam — 10 more than on the Kennedy-Fulbright list — and an additional 412 as missing in action. The Pentagon says a further 17 Americans have died in Communist captivity, all in South Vietnam, and that nine have been released.

The Weiss list contained 339 names. The 20 dead and nine freed captives on the Kennedy-Fulbright list would make the total of 368 names released in Paris Tuesday.

Kennedy said he had received a telegram from Mai Van Bo, dated Sunday, which said: "I wish invite you or your authorized representative, in case difficulties, come and meet me before Dec. 23, 1970, at delegation generale DRVN (Democratic Republic of Vietnam) No. 2 Rue le Verrier, Paris. I will hand over letter and documents included from Ton Duc Thang, President DRVN. In reply your letter regarding question American captured pilots. I wait for your answer. Mai Van Bo. In case of absence please follow up."

Kennedy said he immediately sent Nolan, who was active in negotiations for release of Bay of Pigs prisoners from Cuba in 1962, to Paris, where he met with North Vietnamese officials for an hour and 15 minutes. Nolan then telephoned Kennedy with the results.

A copy of the list was given to Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris peace talks, for relay to the State Department. Kennedy said he tried unsuccessfully to tell President Nixon about the list.

"I do not suggest that this list is any more than a compilation of names" and the date of capture, Kennedy told newsmen. As for the significance of the North Vietnamese move, the senator said, "I would put absolutely no interpretation on it."
