Franco Asked To Commute Sentences

Senate Assures Social Security Bill Passage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a sudden burst of speed, the Senate has scuttled welfare and trade legislation, sought a new compromise on the defense appropriations bill, granted aid to Cambodia and Israel, and all but assured 26 million Americans a Social Security increase.

In a session that lasted past midnight, the Senate Monday appeared to be in a serious rush to break its legislative logjam and adjourn before the constitution dictates the 91st Congress must expire—noon Sunday.

A major hurdle remained, however—a filibuster over whether to appropriate $210 million to continue the super-

CG Continues Hunt For Missing Crews

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (UPI)—Coast Guard aircraft continued a search of the Atlantic today for 21 crewmen from the Panamanian tanker Chryssi who abandoned their sinking ship Saturday and were last seen in a lifeboat in storm-tossed waters.

The Coast Guard halted its search of the ship's last location 450 miles from here late Monday because of darkness.

A Norwegian vessel, the Ross Mount, picked up 17 survivors, including the captain, Monday morning about 82 miles from the sinking vessel. One of the two coast guard search planes spotted an overturned lifeboat and two life jackets, but no signs of life near the Chryssi.

Kidnap Crisis Ends In Canada

MONTREAL (UPI)—Its 85-day kidnap crisis finally ended, the Canadian government gave no immediate indication today which it would restore the civil liberties suspended more than two months ago.

And it was not immediately clear how seriously the government's unprecedented crackdown against the Quebec Liberation Front had damaged the terrorist-separatist group. The confrontation between the federal government and the Quebec separatists—both peaceful and violent—appeared certain to continue.

Police Monday raided a snowbound isolated farmhouse in St. Luc, 25 miles south of Montreal, and captured brothers Jacques and Paul Rose and Francis Simard, charged with abducting and murdering Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

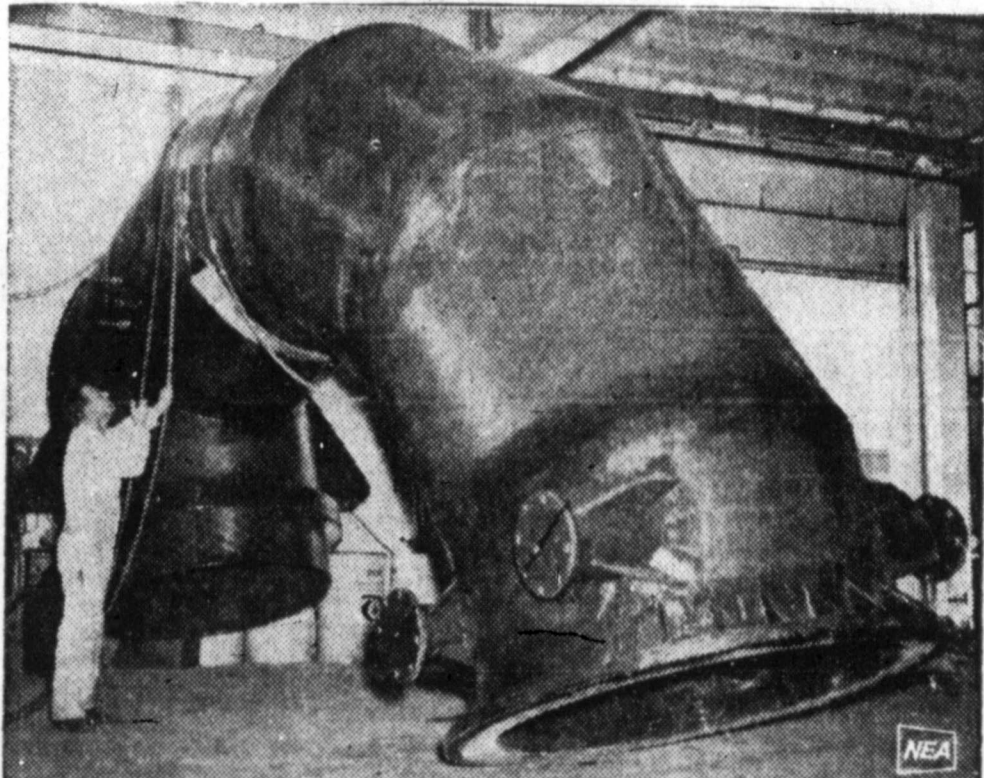

The arrests climaxed the most intense manhunt in Canada's history, launched with the promise by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of "unceasing pursuit" of Laporte's killers. A fourth man, Michael Viger, 30, also was arrested but he was not sought in Laporte's abduction.

The arrests of the Rose brothers and Simard appeared to account for the last of the chief suspects in the kidnappings of Laporte and British diplomat James R. Cross, who was released unharmed earlier this month.

In Ottawa, federal officials said the government had no immediate intention of lifting the emergency anti-terrorist legislation, at least until investigation of the latest arrests is complete.

The legislation outlawed the FLQ and permitted arrests without warrants, detention for up to seven days without laying specific charges and detention without bail for up to 90 days before setting a trial date.

Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said Monday he was looking forward to a "return to the normal course of justice."

Rep. Rivers To Be Buried In Hometown

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UPI)—Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, the chairman of the House Armed Forces Committee and champion of military might, will be laid to rest Wednesday in the swampy low country from whence he came.

President Richard Nixon will send a personal representative and the funeral services beginning at 1 p.m. EST at the Grace Episcopal Church here is expected to draw other national and state leaders and crowds of friends and relatives.

Rivers, 65, died early Monday in Birmingham, Ala., after undergoing open heart surgery 17 days earlier. His body was flown to Charleston Monday afternoon.

Following the ceremony, Rivers will be buried at St. Stephen, a small town some 40 miles north of Charleston. He will be laid to rest near the graves of his parents in the swampy low country.

Rivers' death brought a flood of messages from national and state leaders, expressing sorrow at the passing of one described by Nixon as "a friend upon whom I could rely in times of great difficulty."

"Throughout his career," said Nixon, "Congressman Rivers held unwaveringly to the belief that the freedom that exists in the modern world is inextricably tied to the military strength of the United States."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird is expected to represent Nixon at the funeral. Of Rivers, Laird said "men and women in uniform have never had a more dedicated champion."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said that as head of the Armed Services Committee, Rivers' leadership was "an inestimable source of strength to the cause of American national security."

Gov. Robert E. McNair Monday proclaimed a period of mourning across South Carolina until Rivers' funeral, and ordered flags lowered to half staff.

City Tax Collections Up Slightly Over '69

DEADLINE JAN. 31

City tax collections for the first quarter of fiscal 1970-71 were up slightly over the same period last year, according to a report released today by deputy tax assessor-collector Bill Wagener.

The total 1970 city tax roll for personal and real property was $862,328.91. Of that amount $313,510.94 or 45.63 per cent has been collected on real estate and $39,451.37 or 22.5 per cent has been paid on personal property taxes due.

The 1970 city tax roll is made up of $637,045.56 taxes on real estate and $175,283.35 on personal property.

A total of $352,962.31 in 1970 taxes have been collected so far and $509,366.60 remains uncollected.

City tax collections for the first quarter of 1969 amounted to 40.33 per cent of the total due. Collections for the same period in 1970 amount to 40.96 per cent, or an increase of .63 per cent.

Wagener pointed out that taxpayers have until Jan. 31 to pay 1970 taxes without penalty and interest.

Taxes become delinquent, he said on Feb. 1. The penalty, when taxes are not paid until February, is 2 per cent plus one-half per cent interest. The penalty increases 2 per cent each month until May when the maximum 8 per cent penalty is reached.

The report released today shows Pampa still has delinquent taxes on the books totaling $308,35.53. These taxes overdue and unpaid date back as far as 1927. The city collected $3,986.17 in delinquent taxes during fiscal 1969-70.

Permits and license fees collected during the year totaled $466.

Spanish Cabinet Pondering Pleas

BURGOS, Spain (UPI)—European governments and organizations joined with Spaniards of all political faiths today to plead with Generalissimo Francisco Franco to commute death sentences given six Basque nationalists.

The six, whose sentences for murder and banditry were pronounced by a court-martial Monday, smuggled a defiant message from their cells shortly after the sentences.

"These brutal verdicts fail to affect our revolutionary morale," they said, and promised to "continue fighting until the end."

In San Sebastian, heart of the northern Basque section of Spain, some protesters took to the streets, Basques overturned cars, smashed shop windows and chanted "assassins...assassins."

Sixteen Basques were involved in the trial, including two women and a priest. Six of the men were sentenced to die for the 1968 murder of Meliton Manzananas, San Sebastian chief of police. Nine others, including one of the women, received sentences from the five judges of from 15 to 72 years. One woman was acquitted, but she must remain in prison to serve a previous sentence.

Lawyers for the defendants immediately appealed the sentences, but only Franco, as chief of state, can commute them. Since 1963 Franco has commuted all death sentences to 30 years in prison.

The sentences brought a shock wave of reaction both inside and outside Spain. The governments of West Germany, Ireland, Sweden and Italy asked for clemency. Other protests came from political and social organizations throughout the continent.

Many observers had expected the government would not condemn any of the 16 Basque defendants to death because of the release Christmas Eve of West German Consul Eugen Beihl. The diplomat had been kidnapped from his home in San Sebastian Dec. 1, by Basque nationalists who had threatened reprisals against the government if any of the defendants were sentenced to death. Beihl Generalissimo Francisco Franco today called his cabinet into an extraordinary session political sources said was to consider demands the government commute death sentences ordered against six Basque nationalists.

The Vatican as well as the governments of West Germany, Italy, Ireland and Sweden, a host of other political and social organizations inside and outside Spain asked Franco to show leniency towards the Basques.

Sentences and appeals against them were delivered to Captain-General Tomas Garcia Rebull, commander of the Burgos military district. After Garcia Rebull signs them, only Franco can commute the death sentences.

The men facing death smuggled a defiant message out of their cells declaring "These brutal verdicts fail to affect our revolutionary morale" and promising "We will continue fighting until the end."

European governments joined Spaniards of all political faiths to plead for clemency for the condemned Basques. (See related story on Page 3)

Golda Appeals To Cairo Leaders To Make Genuine Bid For Peace

By United Press International

Israeli Premier Golda Meir appealed today to Egypt's new leadership to make a genuine bid for peace at renewed Middle East peace talks. But she said not a single Israeli soldier would be withdrawn from occupied Arab territory until a binding contractual peace agreement is signed.

Mrs. Meir, in a speech to the Israeli Knesset (Parliament) in Jerusalem made it clear Israel would take a tough stand at the forthcoming talks. Already the decision to resume the talks had aroused a tidal wave of suspicion in the Arab world and some talk from Egypt on whether the current cease-fire would be extended when it expires Feb. 5.

She told the Knesset that Israel is girded to meet the challenges and tests of the coming days because of supplies of U.S. military equipment and that Israel "is stronger now than it ever was before."

The Knesset met to give formal approval to the cabinet decision to resume the talks under auspices of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring. Mrs. Meir went before the body today to explain the cabinet decision.

"We will go to the talks determined to reach a peace agreement," she said. "But to achieve this aim these talks are bound to develop into direct talks between the sides."

"We take part soberly with no illusions and with a will to

Laird Voices Need For Volunteer Army Success

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says achievement of the Nixon administration's goal of an all-volunteer Army by 1973 will depend on giving servicemen better pay and other benefits.

In a year-end news conference Monday, Laird said he was confident increased recruiting would allow cuts in draft calls during 1971. He did not predict how big the reduction would be. The military conscripted 63,900 men this year.

"I am confident that our efforts in this regard will be that we will have a lower draft call next year than we had this year," he said.

The administration earlier this year, as a first step in making military service more attractive, asked for a 20 per cent pay increase for armed forces personnel in lower grades. Congress took no action.

Laird said between 33 and 54 per cent of the 1971-72 defense budget that President Nixon will submit to congress next year will be for salaries. He said 49 per cent of the current budget is for salaries.

Similar increases in manpower costs may be expected for several more years, Laird said.

The defense secretary said he expected an all-volunteer armed force to number from 2 million to 2.4 million men. There now are 2.9 million men under arms.

FBI Issues Alert For Bank Robber

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation issued a seven-state alert today for a middle-aged man who robbed the Southern State Bank (at 1111 Spencer Highway) Monday of about $7,000.

It was Houston's second bank robbery Monday, although the three men who robbed the People's National Bank of $8,000 were spotted by helicopter and captured.

The man who robbed the Southern State Bank used a note as his means of obtaining money. Handed to drive-in teller said: "A bomb is planted behind the teller's door." Although she said she did not see a weapon, she complied with the money demand.

"I've told them (the tellers) all to do so," said Clyde S. Kelly, bank vice president and cashier. "I would have done the same thing."

The robber, described as in his late forties, was driving a stolen car, later found parked across the street from the bank.

Pistol Fire Injures Turkish Police Guarding U.S. Embassy

ANKARA (UPI)—Two Turkish policemen guarding the U.S. Embassy were critically wounded by pistol fire today in another outbreak of anti-American feeling believed linked with widespread student disorders in Ankara and Istanbul.

Police said the shots came from a taxi which drove past the embassy entrance at 5 a.m. and that the two guards, Vahap Cinar, 26, and Nuri Selcuk, 30, were in critical condition from multiple bullet wounds.

Student feelings against the United States erupted in 1964 with demonstrations against alleged U.S. help to Greek Cypriots. They exploded into violence in February, 1969, during a visit of the U.S. 6th Fleet with students angered at the free spending ways of American sailors. And the anger was multiplied by U.S. policies in Vietnam.

A police spokesman said of today's shooting, "The incident may be related to the recent eruption of anti-Americanism within the leftist student community due to their killed friends."

He referred to a shooting incident Friday on the Ankara University campus in which right-wing student commandos opened fire on left-wing student rivals. One student was killed instantly and one died Monday night. A third was in critical condition.

Monday night's victim, 19-year-old Ilker Mansorglu, was the 13th student to die from fighting between Turkey's mili-

Meg, Snowden Agree To Divorce

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington Post said today it had learned Princess Margaret and Lord Snowden have agreed to separation and divorce. The newspaper attributed the report to "close friends and relatives" of the couple.

"The decision was reached recently and an announcement is expected soon," the Post said in its "VIP" column.

The newspaper quoted informed sources that Snowden was the one insisting on the step.

"There have been rumors of marital discord circulating about the Snowdens in London society since 1967," the report said.

It said that on recent trips to New York, Snowden had been taking out a staff member of Vogue magazine.

FTC Charges Reader's Digest Sweepstakes Misleading Public

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission today accused the Reader's Digest of misleading the public with 11 promotional sweepstakes which were less than half as rich as advertised.

The commission announced a proposed order which would require Reader's Digest, in all future sweepstakes, to award all prizes of the value and type advertised and to use names only with prior written consent. The order also would require the magazine to reveal the long odds against winning.

Reader's Digest may accept the order or demand a hearing on the charges.

The commission said in 11 sweepstakes conducted since January, 1966, the magazine claimed winners would receive 699,293 prizes worth $5,656,000 but that only 274,282 prizes were worth about 2,530,700 were awarded.

All 11 contests were of the "you may already have won" variety in which millions of tickets, each bearing a printed number, were mailed to prospective purchasers of Reader's Digest magazine and other of the firm's products. Winning numbers when drawn before the tickets were mailed.

The commission said if a winning ticket was returned, the prize was awarded but if the ticket was not returned, the prize was not awarded.

In addition, the commission said, winners of third or fourth prizes were required to submit an affidavit while winners of first and second prizes were required to submit to an interview with a private detective. These conditions were not disclosed prior to the contest.

The commission said the Digest implied that all participants had a "reasonable" chance to win when the odds were 980,000 to 1 against winning a first prize and 480,000 to 1 against winning a second prize.

The commission also said the magazine implied tickets were mailed only to a few people when in reality they were sent to millions of persons.

Two Die, 53 Crawl To Safety As 727 Jet Crashes On Landing

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (UPI)—As the Trans-Caribbean Airways 727 jetliner touched down at Harry S. Truman International Airport, the 55 persons aboard heard a cracking noise and the plane broke up and burst into flames.

Fifty-three managed to crawl and scramble to safety. Two died in the wreckage.

The jet was arriving on a flight from New York after a stop at San Juan, P.R., when it crash-landed Monday afternoon. Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) investigators arrived from Miami Monday night and there was speculation the plane may have been trying to gain altitude for another approach after the pilot misjudged the first approach. FAA officials refused comment.

The two dead were identified as Victor Vanyo, 10, and his father, John Vanyo, of Berkeley Heights, N.J. Vanyo's wife, three daughters and an infant son were among the 20 persons hospitalized.

Aviation authorities said the runway at Truman Airport seemed certain to come under criticism from the FAA. The strip is 4,650 feet long, nearly 4,000 shorter than most airports capable of handling big jets.

The jet bounced as it touched down and one of the wheels flew off as the plane shot down the runway. The jet knocked down a cyclone fence, ripped up power lines and broke into three pieces as it plowed 200 feet up a hill.

Pearl Thomas, 41, of New York City, said there was a cracking sound as the plane touched down.

"The plane was shaking all over. The seats in front of me came unbolted. I looked to the left and saw fire with glass flying all over. People were tumbling up and down the aisles."

"I heard people screaming," she said. "I thought 'Oh, my God!'"

She said she escaped through a hole in the fuselage and crawled out amidst the flames. "I looked back at the wreckage and couldn't believe I was alive."

Aviation officials said it was amazing only two people died. They credited the crew and many passersby who rushed up the hill to help passengers out of the blazing plane.

Texas Abortion Law Reform Rapped By Coalition Member

HOUSTON (UPI)—Debbie Leonard told the commissioners court Monday thousands of women die each year because of illegal and unsanitary abortions and yet the commissioners did not have the "guts" to take a position on the issue.

"We believe every woman has the right to control her own body and to decide when to terminate a pregnancy," said Mrs. Leonard, a representative of the Texas Abortion Coalition and the mother of two.

Last week the court voted 4-1 condemning a resolution which endorsed reforming Texas' abortion laws, which Mrs. Leonard said discriminated against the poor.

"Women with $500 or $1,000 can get illegal but safe abortions or travel to another state where it's legal," she said.

Eight women and three children picketed the court before the commissioners met. Mrs. Leonard said the coalition plans a day of public hearings, marches and rallies Jan. 30 in Austin to promote abortion reform while the legislature is in session.

Commissioner W. Kyle Chapman said the court's vote last week should not be interpreted as its position on abortion reform because the court wanted to be on record as not taking sides in the matter.

"It's a matter of guts whether or not you're going to take a stand," Mrs. Leonard said. "This is a relevant issue that all public bodies should take a stand on."

Former Pampan Honored By Smith

Dr. Philip Gates, formerly of Pampa, was recently honored by Gov. Preston Smith for his service as a charter member of the newly formed Texas Board of Licensure for Nursing Home Administrators.

Dr. Gates, brother of Dr. Joe Gates of Pampa, was a practicing physician in Pampa about eight years and recognized as one of the outstanding orthopedic surgeons before he joined the state Welfare Department.

He began serving his tenure on the board in December, 1969. He is employed with the State Welfare Department as acting assistant commissioner for the Medical Administration Director of Medical Assistance and Coordinator of Nursing Home Services of the Department of Public Welfare.

A native of Throckmorton, he received his B.S. Degree from McMurry College of Abilene and his M.D. Degree from Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. A resident of Austin, he is a member of the American Association of Public Welfare Medical Directors, Travis County Medical Association, Texas Medical Association, American Medical Association and a former member of the Lions Club.

Three Holdup Men Arrested

HOUSTON (UPI)—Three holdup men who robbed the People's National Bank of $8,000 were spotted by a helicopter Monday, chased by ground police through the business district at speeds of 100 miles an hour and captured when their car crashed into a utility pole.

The bandits, armed with pistols but without masks, switched cars shortly after leaving the bank. But a bystander noticed the switch and gave police a description of the second car.

The police helicopter spotted the car and notified ground patrols which led to the arrests.

Two of the suspects surrendered immediately after their car crashed. The third tried to run for it but was tackled and arrested by Patrolman D. R. Spurlock.

Police found the money stuffed in two pillow cases in the car.

President Signs Into Law Occupational Health Act

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today signed the Occupational Health and Safety Act, the first national guidelines designed to stem the rising number of job-related deaths and injuries.

The new law, a major goal of organized labor in the 91st Congress, sets nationwide job health and safety standards for 55 million workers. It is aimed at combating an annual job death rate of 14,500, in addition to 2 million job-related injuries.

Nixon signed the bill during ceremonies at the Labor Department.

The law provides that the secretary of labor will draft, with advice from labor and business groups, a set of health and safety standards. He also will administer the standards through labor department inspectors.

An independent three-member board, appointed by the President and subject to Senate confirmation, will enforce the standards.

The law represented only half-a-loaf for labor, which wanted standard-setting and enforcement left to the labor secretary while the administration and business groups wanted an independent board set standards and the second separate board to enforce them.

The new standards, when fully effective, will affect every industry not now covered by federal standards, such as railroads and mines, and will supersede state standards if they are not at least as tough as the new federal regulations.

The law provides that 120 days from today, an "interim" set of standards, consisting of the current regulations affecting railroads and mines as well as so-called "national consensus" health and safety standards enacted voluntarily by industry, will prevail nationwide until the permanent new regulations are drafted by the secretary.

Police Receive Vandalism Reports

Vandalism reports in Pampa yesterday included a complaint from Brian Reed, 1933 N. Christy, who advised police that his bicycle had been stripped of a signal light and mirror and hidden under a bridge in Central Park sometime yesterday morning.

Reed stated that the bicycle had been left in the park while he and a companion walked to downtown Pampa. The bike was gone when they returned near 11:30 a.m. A search revealed the hidden bike under a bridge.

Mrs. Larry Helton, 1000 W. Wilks, reported to police that someone had thrown rocks through her storm door. Investigating officers estimated the damage to the double window door at $30.

Professors To Testify On Auto Insurance Methods

DALLAS (UPI)—Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, a critic of the method in which auto insurance rates are set in Texas, has asked two Pennsylvania professors to testify today on their recommendations for alternative methods.

They are Alfredo Guzman Rivas, 28; Mario Heras Otero, 29; and Ricardo A. Ramirez, 35. U.S. customs agent B. J. Cochran said the men were caught in possession of a gram of heroin when they were detained by border patrolmen at a check point on Interstate 35 just north of Laredo.

Officers said they found the heroin taped to the rear view mirror of the men's car.

"We've asked them to analyze the material submitted to the state board in September and the material submitted to the state increase hearing," Mauzy said Monday. "We asked them to analyze the profit formula the board has adopted and analyze the recommendations of the board staff regarding rate increases."

Mauzy said the purpose of his committee was to find "whether the present approach to insurance rates is the best approach and, if not, what a better alternative would be."

Mauzy said his committee will file a report of its findings with the Senate.

BUDGET DEFICIT—The federal government has gone $16.5 billion in the red since July 1.

The Treasury Department said Monday there was a $2.5 billion budget deficit in November.

During the same five-month period in 1969, the budget deficit totaled $9.16 billion. The government ended fiscal 1970 with a $2.8 billion deficit as late revenues partially closed the gap.

Judge Rules Father Can't Cut Off Support Fund To Hippie Daughter

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Family Court judge has ruled a father cannot cut off support funds to his 20-year-old college student daughter because he disapproves of her "hippie" life-style.

Judge Millard L. Midonick in November, ordered the father to pay $5,750 to his daughter by noon Monday or go to jail for 30 days for contempt of court.

However, the sentence was stayed until the five-judge Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court reviews the unusual ruling. The unidentified father, described by the judge as "a prominent member of the litigating bar," had argued if he were ordered to pay his daughter "any minor would be able to set up housekeeping away from home and scornfully badger the father by court proceedings to underwrite any manner of living approved by mindless courts."

Midonick rejected this charge and said "some point minors must have some right to their own views and needs for their independent and painful transition from minority to adulthood short of matching every fancy of their parents."

The father called his daughter, identified only as a student at the University of Louisville, a "hippie" who "stinks." He cut off her financial support in April because he was unhappy with her grades and the fact she had moved out of a dormitory into an apartment with another girl.

Midonick said the girl had improved her grades, lived wholesomely, returned to good standing with the university, visited a psychiatrist and made efforts to visit her father and his fourth wife.

The judge said at the time of the dispute in April, the daughter was on probation at school and was suffering emotionally, apparently over being "afraid, indeed terrified, to return to live in her father's home because of his rigid standards."

Midonick said letters from the father were "overbearing" and criticized him professionally for at one point having proposed to resume payments only if the girl would drop her law suit.

New York State law states parents are legally responsible for their children until they are 21, but allows courts to make a girl up to age 18 and a boy up to 16 "obey the reasonable commands of their parents."

Family court proceedings are conducted in secret.

INMATES DIE—Three inmates at the Philippine National Penitentiary died Sunday after a holiday drinking session, prison officials reported today.

Their drink: Hair tonic spiked with barbiturates.

Ten of their companions were hospitalized and one of them became blind from effects of the liquid concoction, according to prison administrative officer Ezequiel Santos.

Spanish Court Sentences Six Basque Nationalists To Death

By ALDO TRIPPINI
BURGOS, Spain (UPI)—A Spanish court martial trying 16 Basque nationalists on charges of murder and terrorism Monday sentenced six of them to death. One woman defending was acquitted and the other defendants received prison terms ranging up to 72 years.

Severity of the sentences shocked and dismayed the defense attorneys who had expected leniency after the Basques freed unharmed kidnaped West German consul Eugen Beihl. Beihl said today he appealed for leniency and that he did not believe the death sentences would be carried out.

There was a growing belief Generalissimo Francisco Franco would commute the death sentences to prevent threatened outbreaks of violence in the Basque area of northern Spain and in other cities. He will have an opportunity to do so Wednesday night when he addresses the nation in a year end speech.

The start of the trial 25 days ago was marked by disturbances and strikes and the death sentences and long jail terms could be expected to bring more violence.

Two women defendants received sentences of 15 and 50 years. One Roman Catholic Priest was sentenced to 50 years and another to two years and a day. The Vatican had interceded with the Spanish Government for leniency for all 16 defendants.

Defense attorneys usually are given three hours to appeal but because of the complexity of the sentences the five military judges gave them until midnight tonight.

"We are extremely depressed," one lawyer said. "Even the most pessimistic of us had never expected such harsh verdicts, and certainly not expected the court to exceed the demands of the prosecution in some cases."

Three of the six men sentenced to death received two separate death sentences plus prison terms of 27 and 30 years for their part in the murder of San Sebastian Police chief Milton Manzanaga in 1968. They also were ordered to pay his family $4,185 indemnity.

Texas Oil Industry 1970 Dealt Hard Blows By Politicians

By PRESTON F. KIRK
HOUSTON (UPI)—The Texas oil industry in 1970 took hard body blows from conservationists and politicians.

It wrestled with the economics of increased import quotas, decreased depletion allowance and the no lead, low-lead controversy.

The survivors—and they were few—think it still was a good year, economically speaking, and that 1971 will be as good or better.

The winners and the losers, however, agree the nation is moving toward an acute shortage of energy. Independent and major companies alike say incentives must be provided for investment and exploration.

"The industry has told the government and the public that a shortage was coming," said Michel T. Halbouty, a leading geologist and Houston independent, "mainly due to governmental controls, restrictions and continuous harassment."

"In the past, when industry spokesmen tried to educate government officials on the importance of petroleum to the nation, these critics paid us little mind," Halbouty said. "In fact, they sneered and ridiculed many of our predictions which are fast coming true."

"We are surviving on 1950 reserves," Jim Clark, president of the Energy Research and Education Foundation (EREF), said. "Prices will go higher when we run out of cheap oil and gas that was found in the 1930s, '40s and '50s, with cheap dollars and cheap labor," Clark said.

"All the slow rabbits are done," a Gulf oil spokesman said in predicting deeper drilling. "There was to be more determination in exploration and production if we are to add to reserves."

Better Know Situation
"Although the oil industry takes hard looks, at every program, it will be examined more and more," he said. "You can't go out there (offshore) and use tight money for high-rolling. You'd better know what you're doing."

"The most economic oil can be found may lie onshore in the United States, but it is going to take a lot of drilling to produce it," said J. E. Finley, Conoco's vice president for exploration.

Robert G. Dunlop, president of Sun Oil Co., said U. S. demand for petroleum was expected to soar to 6 million barrels a day, which is more than the 9.85 million barrels domestic daily production forecast for 1971.

Dunlop said the deficit would be overcome by increased production of natural gas liquids and imported products. Imported crude and residual fuel oil will contribute 3.2 million barrels daily in 1971, a 25 per cent increase over 1970.

Sees No Reduction
Despite President Nixon's announced 100,000-barrel-a-day increase in the oil import control program to stop domestic price increases, Clark said the industry does not believe there will be any reduction of the recent 25-cent-a-barrel price increase. The tax increases had cost about 24 cents this year, he said.

Kenneth F. Montague, president of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, the largest representative of the nation's independent oilmen, said the industry was a victim of the cruel inflation which was plaguing all segments of the economy.

"If this (import quota hike) is done in an atmosphere free from political pressure, I believe the conclusion will be inescapable that the recent price increase is justified and reasonable and that the consumers of oil and gas and its products are being well and fairly served," said Montague, who also is president of the General Crude Oil Co.

Import Quota Downgraded
And oilmen don't think the import quota increase will go far toward solving the shortage. One Conoco official said, "150,000 barrels? We spill that much on the way to the post office."

Additionally, the Humble Oil & Refining Co. complained the depletion allowance cut from 27 1/2 per cent to 25 per cent and the repeal of the investment tax credit cost Humble alone $80 million in 1970.

If the majors were hurt last year while making a profit estimated at 9 or 10 per cent—below most other industries—then the independents suffered rigor mortis.

Halbouty, head of Halbouty Oil Co., said there are less than 4,000 independent oil and gas explorers in the nation, a 90 per cent drop from the 40,000 of 1958.

"The independents now in the business are surviving because there are so few of them," Clark said. "The small ones have really taken a beating."

The small and large companies no longer find marginal wells profitable.

Artificial Heart Will Reappear On Texas Medical Scene In 1971

By EDMUND GLEN JOHNSON
HOUSTON (UPI)—The artificial heart, shelved since its unsuccessful and controversial transplant in April, 1969, will make its reappearance on the Texas medical scene in 1971, Dr. Denton A. Cooley said.

Cooley, whose staff has been redesigning the heart the last 20 months, said it is not ready for use now, but probably will be by summer.

"I believe the next device will outperform the one we used in April, 1969," Cooley said. Haskell Karp of Skokie, Ill., lived about 65 hours with that device and another 33 hours with a human heart which replaced it.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, who frequently disagrees with Cooley, differs with him on usage of the artificial heart at this time although DeBakey is the pioneer in artificial heart research.

DeBakey, the president of the Baylor College of Medicine, said he thinks the artificial heart is too bulky and damaging to blood cells to make it practical.

Will Continue Work
"We will continue to work on the artificial heart, but there are even greater problems here than with heart transplants," DeBakey said. "At the present time, the only useful energy source is the plug in the wall."

Both of the great surgeons agree, however, on the importance of a new technique put into wide use during 1970 to bypass blocked arteries in the heart with either an artery from the patient's thigh or an artificial artery.

Cooley, director of the Texas Heart Institute, calls it the most promising of all the new operations. Both say it has proved successful in instances where heart transplants were required a year ago.

Dr. Arnold Schwartz, head of myocardial biology at Baylor, is searching for a way to prevent and to stop heart failure all together.

Schwartz' studies of 30 failing hearts removed from transplant patients and the hearts of animals show that in a failing heart cell calcium combines with proteins to contract the cell, but does not release to allow the heart to relax.

He said the studies also offered the first clue to the nature of the reception of digitalis in the heart. Digitalis is a medicine used in the treatment of heart patients.

Dr. George Ungar, also of Baylor, for the first time copied a brain extract that can program a specific reaction.

Ungar's team used an electric shock to teach 4,000 rats to fear the dark, their natural habitat. The extracts from their brains were injected into untrained rats who instantly became afraid of the dark.

Spells' Reactions
Ungar discovered 20 amino acids are used by the brain much like letters of the alphabet are used to spell words. The brain arranges the amino acids to "spell" reactions.

The synthetic substance developed by Ungar is less potent than the organic extract, but he hopes to find the correct order for amino acid chain in the future to correctly "spell" the first brain "code word."

"I think that in the next 10 to 20 years we probably can at least begin to break the code," Ungar predicted. "Then we can reproduce these molecules and inject them, say into mentally retarded children—or into senile people who have lost their memory—and help them."

At the University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, researchers have used Californium, a rare substance obtained as a byproduct of plutonium production, to successfully treat small tumors. Californium is different because it bombards the tumor with neutrons and is injected directly into the tumors, such as on the tongue or cheek.

Work With A&M
Dr. R. Lee Clark, president of M. D. Anderson, said the school will participate in 1971 with Texas A&M University using the A&M cyclotron to study the applications of a neutron beam for cancer treatment.

Clark also said Anderson had contracted with the National Cancer Institute (NCA) to establish a national research center at Anderson to study cancer of the colon, the second largest killer next to lung cancer.

Using a $2 million NCI grant, Anderson established the most powerful and versatile linear accelerator for cancer research in the world. After preliminary studies, the unit, which has a peak radiation output of 32 million volts, will begin full operation in 1971.

The accelerator, named Segitarius for the southern constellation represented by a Centaur shooting an arrow, can deliver either an electron beam for limited penetration or a photon beam to reach deep cancers.

In line with Anderson's research to prevent and cure cancer is a concept of cell kinetics. The study approaches cancer as a population of cells—all sizes and ages—and uses a multiphased attack with drugs and other treatments to hit all stages of cancer cells.

Immunologists at the medical center have found ways to trigger natural protective mechanisms and to prevent the body from forming antibodies to foreign elements.

Drug techniques have enabled scientists to control the body's rejection mechanisms in some kidney, heart and even blood transplants.

M. D. Anderson uses blood transplants for leukemia victims where certain elements of blood such as platelets and not the whole blood are needed. Immunologists at Baylor type the platelets for successful matching of donor and patient.

The medical center already covers several square blocks and the first unit of the new $40 million UT medical school is planned for completion in the fall of 1971.

Also scheduled for completion in 1971 is the 27-story addition to St. Luke's and Texas Children's Hospital that will house the heart institute.

Texas Oil Industry Provides 212,000 Persons With Jobs

HOUSTON (UPI)—Texas and oil are as inseparable as fact and fiction, according to the Energy Research Foundation of Houston reports.

As the state's No. 1 business and industry, oil provides jobs for 212,000 persons with a $2 billion annual payroll.

In its short history, Texas has produced 33.1 billion barrels of oil—36 per cent of the United States total to date, and derived $76.6 billion from the sale of crude oil.

Texas refineries have a capacity of 3 million barrels daily, or 27 per cent of the national capability, according to Jim Clark, president of the nonprofit Houston foundation.

"One out of every four gallons of major oil products is made in Texas' refineries and 143 operations petrochemical plants," Clark said.

The Texas petroleum industry accounts for 18.6 per cent of all state taxes, or a total of $206.5 million in 1969. Petroleum also accounts for two-thirds of the tonnage handled in Texas ports.

"Oil and gas is produced in 209 of the 254 counties of Texas," Clark said. "It is probably in the others, but just hasn't been found."

"There are about 5,500 oil producing firms in Texas, about 8,500 oil and gas fields and about 200,000 producing oil and gas wells," he said.

They produced 100 million more barrels of oil in 1970 than in 1969. Production went from 1.1 billion to 1.2 billion with gas production rising from 6.8 trillion cubic feet in 1969 to 7.1 trillion in 1970.

Face Post-Holiday Bills At End-Blues Money Party

By AILEEN SNODDY

Misery loves company and there is no better way to chase the blues than with a good party. To celebrate the receipt of post-holiday bills and blithely face tax time, whip up some costumes, scatter a bunch of the green stuff (play money) around and have an evening of fun.

All decorations can be of crepe paper and inexpensive house hold items.

Setting the theme is a money copy tree. Once the technique of making the tree is mastered, its variations serve to key other holiday or club events.

Start the tree by covering a one-half-inch round, 14-inch long dowel or stick with a strip of brown crepe paper. Fill a small lower pot sprayed gold with clay or styrofoam and insert dowel into this. Top the dowel with a 6-inch styrofoam ball.

Now cut a package of holiday green crepe paper in half across the fold and cut off 20-inch long strips and gather each of these in the middle. Tie them tightly with an 8-inch piece of wire. Poke each into the styrofoam ball, inserting the wire ends completely. Continue doing this until you have a full, solid tree.

Bows of play money are pasted to the tree and you may add gold coins to the branches and around the trunk.

Easy-to-make costumes for the host and hostess continue the money mood. How about a wrap-around apron and a money vest for an inventive couple?

Make the apron by unfolding two packages of holiday green crepe paper and stitch the paper together the long way. This comes to a 10-foot length. Make a one-inch casing at the top for a green rope or extra heavy green yarn to run through. Gather this to form the top which should be your waist measurement plus 10 inches. This allows for the overlap. Cut a sarong shape in front of the overlap and staple pleated play money to the front along the edge. You can paste on green coins to cover the staples. Gold coins at the ends of the waist rope complete the costume.

The lucky chap talked into dressing up has a nonnegotiable money vest to wear. To make this cut a 24-inch piece of holiday green crepe paper off the package. Fold this piece in half to get a 12 x 20-inch shape. Cut a half vestshape from this using a real vest for a pattern if necessary. Attach green yarn to the shoulders and at the waist by stitching on a sewing machine or stapling. Allow enough yarn to tie vest in back of the neck and around the waist. Trim the vest with gold candy coins pasted on for buttons. You may stitch or paste on pockets.

A money or acquisition game or two may help enter the winners' egos and add to the frivolity.

PARTY STYLE — A Paris designer does a long sweep of a dress to wear evenings for the holidays on. Grecian and flowing, it's the palest pink polyester crepe, and is pulled together with silver and gold trim at the neckline and the cuffs... reflecting the mood of subtle fit flare in very soft fabrics.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a young son with a slight speech problem about which the other kids tease him - unmercifully. These are the same kids who tease other kids who happen to have a funny nose or something else that God put there and is beyond their control.

Now I ask you, who is the one with the problem? Kids can be the cruelest lot in the world. Abby, please print this letter and if just one person will quit teasing handicapped children, it will be worth it.

INDIANA MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I'll print your letter, and with it some advice for mothers of children with "slight speech problems, funny noses and something else that God put there and is beyond their control."

A child may be born with (or develop) a handicap, which may not be "beyond control." There are speech therapists who can help children (and adults) to overcome speech problems. And people with "funny noses" or birth blemishes need not go through life hating their handicaps and suffering ridicule because of them. Don't assume that all handicaps must be accepted and lived with. We are living in an age of medical miracles! Your family doctor can make helpful recommendations.

DEAR ABBY: I am in a dilemma and need an outside opinion. My husband and I received an invitation to a high society wedding. We have two married daughters, Judy and Rosalie. Judy, who made a much better marriage than her sister, received an invitation to this wedding, but Rosalie did not.

My husband and I would really like to go, but I don't think we should when one of our daughters was slighted in this manner. Judy says that accepting or declining an invitation should have nothing to do with who else was invited and who wasn't, but as a mother, I see it differently.

My husband agrees with Judy. I think we should all stay home. What do you think?

A MOTHER'S HEART
DEAR HEART: I agree with Judy, too. In any case, you and your husband may accept or decline only for yourselves. And your married daughter has the same privilege.

DEAR ABBY: The company my husband works for put on a big sales contest, and my husband was one of those who won a 10-day trip to Europe. I could have gone along but he didn't tell me wives could go. When I heard that some of the men were taking their wives, I asked him about it and he said, "Well, what would you have done with the kids?" I told him if he had told me in time I would have been able to make some arrangements.

Abby, if I were a person to be ashamed of, I could see why he wouldn't want to take me, but I am neat and dress nice and some people even think I'm pretty.

When I saw him off on the special plane they had for the trip, there were nearly as many wives as husbands. I was so hurt I wanted to die.

I hope this letter helps other husbands to remember the girl who loves him and takes care of him seven days a week.

Ordinary Girls Can Thank Lucky Stars Beauty Is Rare

By BETTY CANARY

A recent magazine article hinted that beautiful women are miserable and lonely. Actually, it didn't hint—it came right out and said it.

It seems that Elizabeth Taylor isn't as miserable as most great beauties, a fact we should have suspected all along. She even says she doesn't think of herself as being beautiful and most people would probably agree with her on that. Most people use the word "gorgeous."

Anyway, I'm glad I read the article. I'll be more sympathetic after this. Also, it makes standing in front of the mirror saying, "Large pores don't mean a Thing" more believable.

Besides, it's nice to know that all women are sisters under the skin, even if there's a difference in the skin. And, frankly, it is a pleasant surprise discovering that the not-so-beautiful really have fewer worries than the beautiful. Well, maybe not fewer, but different. Especially when it comes to the man-woman relationship.

After all, now I can tell any ordinary-looking girl that the reason she hasn't had a date for three Saturdays in a row is because nobody wants to ask her. A beautiful girl never knows the REAL reason! She has to sit around filing her nails and wondering if the reason she had no date is because men are afraid of her, or if they assume she already has a date.

Then, imagine having to go through the whole traumatic bit over whether a man sees a Beautiful Face or The Real You. There are lots of women who simply have never had to THINK about this and yet they've never realized how lucky they are!

I mean, have you ever ONCE been standing elbow-deep in fry dishes and taught yourself to select if your husband thinks of you as just another pretty face in a crowd?
Or, have you ever had to put up with having a man automatically classify you as stupid just because you have perfect features? Of course not!

Well, models and beauty contest winners have to contend with this sort of thing. Constantly.

This proves that the ordinary-type girl has the best of all possible worlds. She isn't openly insulted by men who think she's beautiful but dumb. Also, as most men are rather gentlemanly about the whole thing, it's a good bet she's never had a man say flatly, "You must be awfully intelligent, Judy, because you certainly are lonely!"

The things the beautiful have to put up with! Do you realize they spend hours every day searching for blemishes? Never before have I realized how truly blessed I am. After all, I have never had to spend a minute searching for my blemishes. Lucky me! Mine have always been right there where I could see them first thing every morning.

Vitamin A is really a groovy nutrient. It's important for good vision, it helps resist infection, and it plays a part in building strong, good-looking teeth. Vitamin D has something going for it, too. It's necessary for the growth and maintenance of bones and teeth by helping the body absorb calcium and other minerals important in skeletal development.

No matter how carefully a mother plans and prepares meals for her young child, it does his growing body no good unless he eats everything on his plate. He should also enjoy his meal. Maybe he occasionally prefers raw carrots to cooked carrots, or ham/burgers to meat loaf.

POLLY'S POINTERS Suggestions Help Preserve Hi-Fi Records

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY— As a hi-fi bug I want to pass on a few tips concerning the care of records and hope they will help Carol. Store them in a dry place to prevent warping. Do not leave records on the turntable overnight or the heat will curl the edges. If you have an automatic changer (where the records drop down automatically) do not store overnight on the changer post or they may sag. Do not place records in direct sunlight.

DEAR POLLY— I have a couple of Pointers that will help Carol keep her phonograph records in good condition. They should not be stacked but played one at a time as dust on them tends to form a friction and serrates the surface. Be sure the needle is clean and the record wiped clean with a soft cloth. (Polly's note — Cheesecloth is often recommended.) Dust in a circular motion going one way to prevent friction and scratching. I stack them vertically rather than horizontally.

DEAR CAROL and other record owners — A record manufacturer suggests the following treatment for warped records. Put a stack of records on a flat board in a LOW (15-degree) oven and leave for 30 or 40 minutes WITH THE DOOR OPEN. Remove from oven, leave records stacked on the board and place another heavy board on top of the stack. Let cool in this position for about 24 hours.

Russia, Cuba Get Closer Again After Long Period Of Coolness

By K. C. THALER
LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union and Cuba are getting closer together again after a prolonged period of marked coolness ordering on estrangement.

Delegations have been coming and going between Havana and Moscow and a new trade arrangement has been negotiated involving new Soviet commitments.

Little has emerged as to whether the Kremlin has also made new political and military commitments to the regime of Fidel Castro.

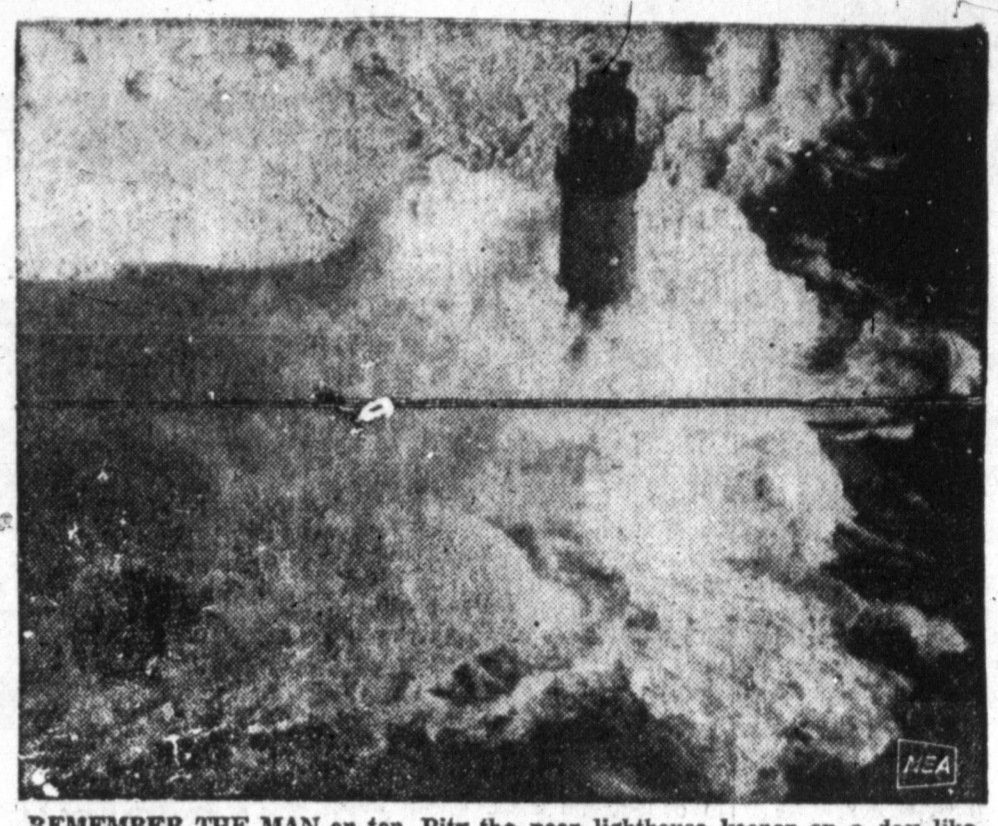

Fidel Castro, fiery and independent-minded, has been in ideological conflict with Moscow over the past year or two. He has been arguing with the Kremlin in favor of his own special brand of communism and on occasions has demonstrated his disagreement with the Soviets by staying away from major functions in Moscow.

There was a time when he was leaning over to the side of Mao Tse-tung. But he soon cooled off noticeably, resenting Peking's attempts to tell him what to do and how to do it. More recently the Cuban pendulum has swung back again toward Moscow.

The Kremlin, evidently relieved by the shift, has lost little time in rebuilding old links and re-opening former channels.

To what extent recent Soviet military moves — which sparked reports of plans for Russian nuclear submarine bases in Cuba — are part of the new Soviet-Cuba cooperation is a matter for diplomatic speculation.

REMEMBER THE MAN on top. Pity the poor lighthouse keeper on a day like this. A strong gale was whipping the Atlantic into milky foam, smashing it against the Wolf Rock Lighthouse, eight miles southwest of Land's End on the southern coast of England.

Vatican Appeals For Clemency For 2 Soviet Jews Sentenced To Death

SNOWDON IN HOSPITAL
LONDON (UPI)—Lord Snowdon, husband of Princess Margaret, will remain in a London hospital "for the time being" following a minor operation, a clinic spokesman said today.

Snowdon, 40, was admitted to the London Clinic Dec. 14 and underwent surgery several days later. He spent Christmas at the hospital.

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican announced today it has appealed for clemency for two Soviet Jews sentenced to death in Leningrad and 16 Basque separatists court martialed in Burgos, Spain.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said in an unsigned note Pope Paul VI has received numerous appeals to intervene on behalf of Mark Dymshits and Eduard Kuznetsov, sentenced to death in Leningrad as would-be hijackers.

action without distinction among persons.

"For the same reasons, the Holy See, which has continued to receive numerous appeals in favor of the defendants in the Burgos trial, has not ceased to carry out the intercession with the Spanish government which we reported Dec. 16," L'Osservatore said.

L'Osservatore said the Pope had received numerous appeals in favor of Dymshits and Kuznetsov, to whom it referred merely as "Soviet citizens" without mentioning the fact they are Jews.

Disapproval Of Emigration To Israel Is Cause Of Skyjacking

MOSCOW (UPI)—Jewish defendants in the Leningrad hijack trial told the court they would never have thought of commandeering a Soviet airliner if the Soviet authorities had permitted them to emigrate to Israel, dissident sources in Moscow reported Monday.

Two of the defendants in last week's trial were condemned to death while the nine others drew prison terms ranging from four to 15 years. The verdicts touched off protests around the world and from within the Soviet Union.

The Vatican announced Monday that Pope Paul VI had appealed to Moscow for clemency toward the convicted defendants. The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said the Pope sent his plea to Moscow after "numerous" appeals for him to intervene on behalf of the prisoners.

In an obvious response to the international outcry against the death penalties, the Soviets defended the sentences as upholding "the spirit" of a new international convention against air piracy which called for severe punishment of air pirates and branded foreign reaction as "slander."

At least half a dozen documents bearing more than 100 names appealing for clemency have appeared here since the trial ended last Thursday. They were addressed to the United Nations, to Soviet leaders, to Israel and to legislative bodies of other nations. Most of the signers were Jews.

POPULATION FIGURES
LONDON (UPI)—The combined population of England and Wales was 48.9 million in mid-1970, a rise of 161,000 over 1969 figures, the Registrar General's Office announced today.

But the statistics issued with the population count show an overall decline in population growth and birth rates over the past decade.

Deaths in the two countries increased because of higher numbers of elderly persons, the report said.

PROTESTS SHOOTING
BERLIN (UPI)—The commandant of West Berlin's American sector, Gen. George M. Seignious, protested Saturday against East German Communists opening fire on a would-be refugee trying to scale the wall early Christmas Day.

West Berlin police who saw the shooting said the man fell to the ground as he ran toward the wall and was removed later in an ambulance. Seignious, in a statement, described the incident "as a further sign of the wanton disregard of human life."

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If you are traveling in Bel Air and suffer the misfortune of a bee sting, chances are the culprit belongs to actor Steve Forrest. It's a bee freak.

Forrest likes honey. He also is partial to apiculture. Up on the hill behind his swimming pool, Steve keeps three hives, thrumming, humming, buzzing bee hives. In the full moon in springtime, there are likely to be as many as 250,000 bees working for him.

They produce hundreds of pounds of honey for Steve's friends.

Lots Of Honey
Sally, Steve doesn't have as many friends as he has jars of honey. His current inventory is 1,000 seven-ounce jars of the nectar.

Forrest disclaims any ownership relationship with the inhabitants of the hives, possibly because the little ingrates sometimes sting him.

But at 6-foot-3 and 200 pounds, Forrest is more than a match for his bees. He's read all the books he can on them.

"It's a marvelous hobby," said the handsome star of Disney's new "Wild Country."

"It all started when a swarm of bees set up a hive in the wall of my house," he explained. "I had to have an exterminator kill them all."

"I decided if more bees showed up I'd keep them and raise the honey. Sure enough, in 1965 I nailed up a stake with honey in a box and along came the bees so I bought a hive with 10 frames in it and thought I was in business."

Flightly Mission
The bees, off in search of a queen or some equally flightly mission, disappeared. Forrest found them swarmed on a tree limb. By night he sneaked up, saw a branch off a tree on which the bees were buzzing, and allowed it to fall on his head.

Fourteen of the bees were furious and stung him for his pains.

Steve survived and managed to collect the bees, queen and all, and move them to their new home behind the pool.

"I handle the bees four times a year when I draw off the honey," Steve said.

"They don't sting unless they're angry. Usually after a rain they're cross and I leave them alone. But when the nectar is flowing they're happy. Even so, it's best to wear a veil if you raise bees."

Forrest says his bees range about a mile and a half from home in their search for nectar — far enough to slip the unwary a stinger without danger of being traced back to Steve.

"My bees are very good stock," Forrest concluded. "They're an Italian breed called golden bandits."

Washington Window

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration's high hopes for rapid progress toward agreement with Russia on limitation of strategic nuclear weapons have diminished considerably in recent months.

As recently as last May, President Nixon flatly predicted that an agreement of some sort would be reached. He indicated that he did not think it would be too long in coming.

Now, however, with the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) recessed until March 15, top administration officials acknowledge that the discussions have not gone nearly so well as they hoped.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told a news conference last week that the SALT talks have "not proceeded as fast as we hoped they would." He added, however, that he still thought there were still "some prospects for progress in the future."

At the same time, a high White House official said the administration was "not disheartened that progress has not been spectacularly rapid." This was the same official who as recently as August was "confidently optimistic" that things were moving toward an agreement.

The administration position now appears to be best summed up by Rogers' statement that he was "neither optimistic nor pessimistic."

The Nixon administration began the nuclear arms limitation talks with Russia in November, 1969, with the idea presenting a simple proposal to limit the numbers of land and sea-based longrange nuclear missiles. The idea was that there would be no restriction on improving the quality of already existing missiles in order to get around the difficulty which would be posed by the need for a verification system to police a more restrictive pact.

U.S. negotiators, however, are being hobbled by Russia's insistence that forward-based American bombers capable of carrying nuclear bombs must be included in any overall ceiling on strategic weapons.

The situation at present, as explained by the White House, is that negotiations have reached the point where the positions of the two sides are clear and what is necessary is a political decision by Moscow to take a compromise stance.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — It appears some of the "thornier" problems plaguing the 1970 stock market are close to being solved, the Alexander Hamilton Institute says. The company predicts 1971 will be a "healthy year for the stock market," and adds "the Dow-Jones industrial average could reach the 850 level by Jan. 31, and approach the 1000 mark before year-end."

Those investors "who maintained a fully invested position in quality equities throughout the stock market's descent and recovery are ending the year with reasonably satisfactory investment returns," according to Wright Investors' Service. The company says 1970 was a year where "fair weather speculators" were separated from "seasoned" investors and added 1970 will be remembered "as a great opportunity for investors."

Seasonal factors should now become a "positive influence," Standard & Poor's Corp. says. It noted that often in January, with tax-selling completed, "reinvestment demand has spurred a further advance in prices in uptrending markets." S&P thinks this will occur again because "the market is in a sound technical position, having in recent weeks corrected an overbought condition."

During 1971 the market probably will view inflation "not as a beneficial force, like the early 60s, nor as an evil force, like the late 60s," according to Drexel Harriman Ripley, Inc. The company says the market will see inflation as "a more neutral factor." The firm foresees monthly inflation fluctuations but believes they will be around lower levels than the crisis conditions of the past.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Picking the 10 biggest news stories of 1970 is fairly easy. Picking the 10 smallest stories is another matter. I was only able to pick nine:
1. CLODS, N.H.—As Mrs. Noods was feeding her chickens today one of the roosters flew the coop and ran across the road.
At that very moment, Ubie Fetch, 10, came down the road on his bicycle and, as usual, wasn't looking where he was going. Ubie hit the rooster broadside and then ran into the ditch. Neither was hurt.
2. BUTTERMILK FALLS, Wis.—The annual Buttermilk Falls Clabber Festival was cancelled today owing to the fact that the milk failed to curdle in time.
Mrs. Fermus Whacker, the program chairman, said there must have been something about the weather that caused the milk to stay fresh longer than usual.
3. HARMONY POND, Md.—Gretchen Gittle, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Gittle, went to Spreadville Tuesday night to participate in her aunt Romona's piano recital at the Spreadville Community Auditorium.
Gretchen, who is taking piano lessons herself, turned the pages of the music Her mother said she did real good.
4. HOOPEE, Tex.—Deck Rangle took time off from his job at the gravel pit Friday afternoon to enter the goat roping contest at the Posthole County Fair.
He would have had a good shot at third place if his rope hadn't come unravelled. However, Deck said he had a good time anyway.
5. HEARTHSTRING, S.C.—

6. FORZEN NECK, N.Y.—Sarah Windsocket celebrated her 87th birthday today by going for a ride with her nephew, Neander Hatchley, on a railroad handcar.
She said it was something she had always wanted to do.
7. GNARLED TREE, N.H.—Abbis O'Mallett, a local welder, broke a sprocket on his drilling rig today and had to go all the way to Sandburr City to get it fixed.

WHITE WEEKEND
LONDON (UPI)—Snow piled up on the white cliffs of Dover Saturday as southeast England's white Christmas turned into a white weekend. Up to eight inches of snow accumulated in parts of Kent, a coastal county east of London. At least six major soccer matches and several horse race meetings were called off and train service was crippled. Many roads were impassable.

VOLCANIC PERIL
MANILA (UPI)—The Philippine Volcanology Commission reported Saturday the situation in Taal volcano remains serious and alerted all residents of the 15-square-mile volcano island 40 miles south of Manila for evacuation. The commission warned last Wednesday of an imminent major eruption after noting a buildup in the volcano's underground activity. The last major eruption was in 1965.

Harvesters Lose Third Game To Plainview Dogs

The Plainview Bulldogs increased their win column to 17 Monday by defeating the hustling Harvesters 34 to 44 in the Hobbs Invitational Tournament.

The Bulldogs, who now have three wins over the Pampa team now stand 17-1 for the season. The Bulldogs led the Harvesters at halftime 34 to 25 and kept the lead to the wire.

The Harvesters were led in scoring by Richard Bunton with 13 points, and Marsh Gambelin with ten. Charles Bassett kept the Bulldogs alive with his 20 point shooting spree and was closely followed by Curtis Thompson with 18.

Pampa had only Bunton and Gambelin in the double figure bracket while they usually place Mike Edgar and Donnie Cain in the high scoring. Edgar played a good defensive game but couldn't seem to hit the basket.

The Harvesters will play Cooper at 3:00 p.m. for the losers bracket and Plainview will meet the El Paso team of Eastwood, at 6:30 p.m. in the semi-finals.

Ablene Cooper lost to El Paso 63 to 54 in Monday's first round of the Hobbs Invitational.

The Bulldogs hit 50 per cent from the field and 12 of 16 from the charity strip. Pampa's loss to the Bulldogs gave them an 8-7 season.

January 5 Pampa will be traveling to Monterey for grid action with their next home game the 8th against Phillips.

Mike Jordan had six points for Pampa, Mike Edgar five, Donnie Cain four, Gary Haynes 3 and Larry Knutson three in the game against Plainview. Pampa had eleven team fouls against Plainview's ten in the loss. The Harvesters need the support from their fans to get back on the winning side of a losing road journey.

Wiggin's Has Bad News For Cowboys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Defensive line coach Paul Wiggin of the San Francisco Forty Niners has some bad news for the Dallas Cowboys.

Referring to the Forty Niners defensive line, Wiggin said: "It's a good group now and will get better—and better." His choice of two "betters" was appropriate.

For if San Francisco defenders get better against Dallas in their NFC championship game Sunday at Kezar Stadium, a victory might result.

And that would send the Prospectors into their first Super Bowl Jan. 17 at Miami where the defensive line could get better once again against either Baltimore or Oakland for all the marbles.

Rookie defensive end Cedrick Hardman, a 250-pounder from North Texas State, has suggested naming the defensive line the "Gold Rushers."

"We should be the Gold Rushers... we're rushing after all the money," he said, referring to the pot of monetary gold that goes to each player on the Super Bowl winner.

Wiggin noted that youngsters such as Harman, Earl Edwards and Bill Belk are constantly improving under the guidance of such veterans as Charlie Kreuge and Roland Lakes in the defensive line.

Head coach Dick Nolan and Wiggin have installed a "front eight" on the defensive line this season. Hardman, Edwards, Belk, Kreuger and Lakes join Tommy Hart, Stan Hindman and Sam Siltis on a constant shuttle, depending on whether it is a goal line situation or whether a definite pass or run is expected.

Nevada oddsmakers have installed the Forty Niners as 3-1 1/2 to 4-point favorites. Dallas and San Francisco tied 24-24 the last time they met during the 1969 season.

The game pits Nolan against his former boss, head coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys.

"Tom taught me everything I know," said Nolan. "I have a lot of respect for him but we welcome this opportunity to beat him and go to the Super Bowl."

Safety Mel Phillips came out of the win over Minnesota with a sore wrist and Harman scratched an eyeball but both said they would paly against the Cowboys.

Royal Scared When Either Team Starts Putting The Ball In Air

By EDWARD A. FULTON
DALLAS (UPI)— "It scares hell out of me whether we throw the ball or they throw it."

It was Darrell Royal, the coach of the University of Texas Longhorns, reaffirming the philosophy that has brought him two straight national championships—get the ball and run; pass when you have to.

Royal's history explained half of his quote, but the other half is wrapped up in Texas' Cotton Bowl opponent New Year's Day, Notre Dame, and its passing combination of quarterback Joe Theismann to tight end Tom Gatewood.

"This year they allow Gatewood to break a pattern; to change and run a different route. And Theismann has the ability to scramble around and pick him up," Royal said.

He spoke to Dallas newsmen in a telephone press conference from Austin, where Texas is preparing for the bowl game.

But, Royal said, Notre Dame is not all Theismann and Gatewood. The rest of the team is impressive too.

"They are by far the largest team we have faced," Royal said. "They are so physical. They are so big and strong. They have three big running backs; big, strong linemen and big men on the defensive line."

"You can't neutralize a guy who is big, strong and can move," he said.

Royal talked most about Theismann. He said the Irish quarterback has the ability, like his own quarterback Eddie Phillips, to gain yards when the rest of the team gets momentarily staled.

"He (Theismann) gives the impression of being frail, of not being durable enough, but he's an excellent runner. He gains as much yardage as any man in their backfield."

Royal confirmed that Cotton Speyer, the split end who broke his arm during the regular schedule and missed the last half of the season, will definitely not play for the Longhorns.

Speyer, who caught what few passes the Longhorns threw and usually in clutch situations has been working out with the Longhorns, but his arm has not improved enough to allow him to play.

Royal dwelt at length on the spirit of both teams entering the game, perhaps because Texas' emotional level was at its peak when the Longhorns thrashed Arkansas in the last season game to win the Southwest Conference title.

"I don't think anyone ever knows if a team is ready, or flat, or anything. We're always worried in the dressing room before a game about how they will play," he said.

The Texas coach, pointing to the prestige of the game and a possible undisputed national championship for Texas with a victory, added, "I can't see anybody not being ready to play."

Another opinion is one Theismann gives it a passing grade.

Theismann and his Notre Dame teammates have romped around on the Cotton Bowl's AstroTurf three times now in preparation for Friday's meeting with No. 1 Texas. And the Irish quarterback blurs it right out.

"I like it," he says.

"It is great for offensive backs and receivers. They have the advantage over the defense. I think, because they can cut sharper and they know where they are going in the first place."

The 1970 Cotton Bowl struggle between the Longhorns and Irish was played on a slow field despite beautiful weather. The Cotton Bowl turf had been chewed up only days before by the Cleveland Browns and Dallas Cowboys.

Since then artificial turf has been installed.

"We played Michigan State on Tartan turf," Theismann said, "and I like the stuff in the Cotton Bowl much better." The AstroTurf resembles a huge, green sponge, while the Tartan surface is made up of tiny fibers that comes close to resembling real grass.

"Against Michigan State I was getting up in the pocket and got one cleat caught in it and I feel real end-over-head."

In preparing for Texas, Theismann said the chief reason he wants a victory is "the obvious one."

"It will be my last game in a Notre Dame uniform, and I feel like I have something to make up for."

"I feel I have cheated Coach (Ara) Parseghian. I have been a part of a team that could have given him an undefeated season and a national championship."

"Of course he had won a national championship—before (in 1964), but he has never had an unbeaten, untied team. If we can beat Texas and break his winning streak, we can at least give him a little part of what he couldn't have."

"We are just going to go out and show the people the kind of football Notre Dame can play."

Another South Carolina native, Jack Anderson of Clemson, also aided the Southern cause before 23,000 fans and a national television audience.

Anderson carried the ball only five times for 23 yards, but picked up two touchdowns on short runs. Ray Yauger, Anderson's Clemson teammate, picked up 44 or 14 carries.

David Abercrombie of Tulane, Most Valuable Player in the 1970 Liberty Bowl, caught five passes for 48 yards and a score. Linebacker Rick Kin-

Landry Knows His Cowboy Defensive Unit Will Be Having Their Troubles Against San Francisco

DALLAS (UPI)—Tom Landry came away from his television set over the weekend knowing his Dallas Cowboys' offensive unit will have its troubles next Sunday in San Francisco.

"It was somewhat surprising," Landry said of the 49ers' 17-14 decision over Minnesota. "I knew San Francisco had been playing well the last few games, but its defense really impressed me Sunday."

The matchup brought about by San Francisco's victory and Dallas' 5-0 win over Detroit brings together Landry and his star pupil Dick Nolan.

Nolan played for Landry at New York and coached under Landry at Dallas before bailing out the 49ers.

"My first reaction to San Francisco's victory was disappointment," said Landry,

"because this means we will not get to play in Dallas on our home field."

"But my second reaction was gladness in that Dick Nolan was able to get into the championship game. We will be playing a good football team. They looked much better than when I saw them earlier, especially on defense."

"From this standpoint we will have a tremendous opponent, because they are always excellent offensively."

Landry said he was resigned to playing on a heavy field at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium, particularly after seeing the Miami Oakland American Conference playoff affair played in the slop at Oakland.

"Kezar Stadium has a wet field, just like the one in Oakland," said Landry. "So Oakland," said Landry. "So we're going to have a pretty heavy track to play on."

"Because Dallas' defense has shut its opponents off without a touchdown for 21 straight quarters, Landry said he did not expect this string to continue in the championship game.

"To be shut out, as Detroit was by us," he said, "a team has to have some tightness in it. Greg Landry Detroit's quarterback seemed pretty tense, and he indicated he had been after it was over."

"I know this, we'll have to do some scoring against San Francisco because the 49ers will be scoring with a guy like John Brodie in there."

In the past Cowboy opponents have enjoyed meeting Dallas on a muddy field. The belief around the league was that Dallas did not play well in the go.

The Cowboys, however, defeated Cleveland 6-2 in a mudbath earlier this year.

Blue-Gray Game May Be Last One For Short Tommy Suggs Of S.C.

By JIM MCGREGOR
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)— If the Blue-Gray game was the last football contest for Tommy Suggs, the South Carolina quarterback went out in fine style.

The 5-9, 190-pound native of Lamar, S.C., who thinks he is too short to make a professional team, passed for 211 yards and two touchdowns to lead the South to a resounding 38-7 win over the North in the 33rd annual charity game.

"I would love to play pro, but I think I'm going to be too short," said Suggs as he posed with his mother and his Most Valuable Player Trophy.

Suggs had lots of help in the win from Don Pederson of Florida State, who was a last-minute replacement of the Gray squad, filling in for flanker Frank Lewis of Grambling who did not report because of an injury, caught seven passes for 132 yards and a touchdown.

Anderson Aids Cause
Another South Carolina native, Jack Anderson of Clemson, also aided the Southern cause before 23,000 fans and a national television audience.

Anderson carried the ball only five times for 23 yards, but picked up two touchdowns on short runs. Ray Yauger, Anderson's Clemson teammate, picked up 44 or 14 carries.

David Abercrombie of Tulane, Most Valuable Player in the 1970 Liberty Bowl, caught five passes for 48 yards and a score. Linebacker Rick Kingrega, also of Tulane, picked off a pass by Mike Sherwood of West Virginia and rambled seven yards for a score. Jack Simsack of Virginia Tech was good on five extra point tries and added a 22-yard field goal.

Sherwood and Frank Harris of Boston College, the other Blue quarterback, never got their team rolling against the tough South defense. They completed only six of 20 passes for a minus two yards.

The Blues did somewhat better on the ground with James Harrison of Missouri, Fred Willis of Boston College and Ward Walsh of Colorado combining for 147 yards.

North's Outstanding Players
Harrison, a 235-pound fullback, picked up 46 yards and a touchdown and was named most outstanding offensive player for the North. The press voted Jay Wallace, a middle guard from Missouri, as the North's top defensive player.

South defensive honors went to end Rusty Garas of South Carolina, but Coach Paul Dietzel of South Carolina had considerable praise for Kingree and Dick Biddle of Duke, his two linebackers.

"I have never seen two better ball players," Dietzel said.

Biddle, Mike Walker of Tulane and Dick Bumpas of Arkansas stopped Blue drives with fumble recoveries. Georgia Tech's Bubba Hoats stopped another with a pass interception.

The win gave the South an 18-13-1 edge in the series.

Clay-Frazier Fight Plans Stalled In Madison Square

NEW YORK (UPI)—The last remaining obstacles to a heavyweight title bout between Cassius Clay and Joe Frazier March 8 at Madison Square Garden were to be ironed out today.

A hitch arose on Monday when the Garden and a California organization that is footing most of the $2.5-million guarantee per man were unable to settle on what their shares would be from the potential $10-million bout. The California group will handle the ancillaries while the Garden will be responsible for the live attraction.

Clay and Frazier had planned to come to town on Tuesday for the official announcement, but those plans were shelved by the difficulties. Tentative plans now call for the news conference to be held on Wednesday.

John Brodie Wins The 1970 Jim Thorpe Award

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (NEA)— At the age of 35, the ultimate pay-off as a professional football player has come to John Brodie. More satisfying, spiritually, than the $827,000 he got not to create waves when the war between the leagues was settled (John had signed to jump to the Houston Oilers). More stimulating, emotionally, than the close to six figures he gets annually as the quarterback of the San Francisco 49ers.

The veteran signal caller, the leading passer in the National Football League this year, was today named the winner of the 1970 Jim Thorpe Trophy as the most valuable player in professional football.

Brodie was chosen by a vote of players from the 26 teams in the National Football League. The poll was conducted by NEA with the cooperation of the NFL Players Association.

Brodie, in his 14th year with the 49ers, has completed his most satisfying season, leading the team to its first division title in history. Almost diffidently, in being told he was honored by his peers as the NFL's top performer in 1970, he said, "No one guy can do that much. It's a reflection of what we've had here this season — by far the best team I've ever been on."

And in 1957, when he was a rookie out of Stanford, playing behind Y.A. Tittle, the sparse-haired slinger was on a team which came within a play-off victory of reaching the NFL championship game. It was the start of a generally frustrating career, infrequently marred by injury, often mired in defeat. The 49ers during his tenure have finished in last place three times, most recently last fall when his arm went bad on him.

"I compounded the problems," admitted Brodie, "by never finding the source of the bad arm, although I continued to play."

And yet, with a winter and spring of rest, he came back to throw more completions for more yards and more touchdowns (24) than any quarterback in the NFL. So what about his aging arm?

"Obviously," he said, "it's not as strong as when I was a kid. But the distance isn't what you really need. It's the speed with which you throw. And knowing where you throw. "At the age of 35, you know more about what's going on."

Brodie also knows, finally, acceptance by a Kezar Stadium audience which has been critical of his performance, challenged his dedication and sided with several challengers for his job over the years.

"I never thought I wanted to quit," he mused. "I couldn't see where there was a better way to go. I was never disenchanted with San Francisco. It's where I come from and it has always been home."

Another veteran quarterback across the Bay — George Blanda, age 43, of the Oakland Raiders — was the only serious competitor to Brodie in the voting.

The Tar Heel attack centers around RB Don McCauley (23), who led the nation in scoring this season with 126 points (21 TDs). Arizona State (10-0); few teams can run like the Devil's QB Joe Spagnola (11), has a speedy halfback in Dave Buchanan (22), and fleet receivers in J.D. Hill (20) and Ed Beverly (80). Both teams feature solid defensive lines. Jack Drees and Pat Summerall report the action.

Kentucky Moves Into Top Ten Lead Over Jacksonville

NEW YORK (UPI)—Western Kentucky today parlayed its stunning victory over Jacksonville last week into the No. 5 ranking in the nation.

The Hilltoppers, led by seven-footer Jim McDaniels' 46-point performance, stunned previously unbeaten Jacksonville, 97-84, to move into the top 10 in balloting by United Press International's Board of Coaches.

Western Kentucky, 7-0 through games played through Sunday, Dec. 27, received 169 points from the 32 members of the 35-man UPI board who participated in the fourth weekly balloting.

UCLA ran its record to 6-0 with victories over Missouri and St. Louis and easily retained the No. 1 ranking for the fourth straight week. The Bruins received 29 of the 32 first-place votes cast and 317 points.

South Carolina took second, followed by Marquette, Southern California, Western Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Jacksonville, Drake and Villanova.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation comprise the UPI ratings board. Each week they select the top 10 college teams in the nation, with points awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis on votes from first through 10th.

Ghost Of The Red Man

Our growing awareness of the environmental crisis we have brought upon ourselves with our technology has had a curious side effect.

The American Indian—the dead and vanished one, not the living one relegated to the backwaters of civilization—has re-emerged as a sort of folk hero and model whose way of life, it is suggested, we ought to try to return to.

The red man lived on this continent for tens of thousands of years before the white man came. We are told, yet it was as unspoiled as it was before the Indian himself crossed over from Asia between the last Ice Ages.

The red man lived in harmony with nature, we are told, adapting himself to his environment. He felt a kinship with all living things. He was in some ways more of a practicing Christian than those who self-righteously ousted him from his home.

Some of our hippies, in their rejection of hectic modern society, have gone back to the land and have adopted lifestyles similar to that of the Indian, complete to beads, feathers and magic.

But while the Indian certainly deserves this tardy appreciation of his character, and while he had many admirable qualities worthy of imitation, it would be a mistake to romanticize the Indian to the point where we consider him altogether noble and the white man's displacing him an unmitigated tragedy.

The Indian did not so much live in harmony with nature as exist at its mercy. He did not despoil his environment on any significant scale simply because he lacked the power to do so.

The Indian did not practice conservation, nor did he need to. He hunted game until it was depleted, then moved on to new hunting grounds, fighting wars with his own kind for control of them.

He practiced the wasteful method of sometimes setting whole forests on fire to drive game into a small area, killing

H. L. Hunt Writes

CHILE RED
There are strong indications that the government of President Salvador Allende is pushing Chile across the line into the dark chasm of communism. Thus, the international communist conspiracy will have overwhelmed the second nation in this hemisphere, Cuba having gone under a long time ago.

President Allende is now keeping up a sham by vowing his political allegiance to Marxist doctrine and declaring that he is not a card carrying communist. But it will be recalled that Fidel Castro used the same ruse. Then he propagandized and socialized the nation before he officially took it into the communist fold. The Cuban economy has been sick, and the people hamstringing in their pursuit of freedom since then.

What makes the case of Chile so pathetic is that the people themselves elected Allende in what appeared to be legal balloting.

Now the United States is coming under strong attack in the Chilean newspapers and on television. This nation loses a second friend in what used to be a sort of family of nations in the same hemisphere.

It should be obvious to all that a vigorous U.S. foreign policy is necessary to combat the evil of communism. That policy should include improved trade relations. And our intelligence in those suspect countries ought to be sharpened. If a nation appears on the brink, we should react with vigor in the fields of propaganda and diplomacy.

Two thorns in our side are enough. Direct intervention in the affairs of another nation are not proper. But our way of life with all its good aspects is a saleable product. It has worked for us and it could be made to work for others. It's a far better prospect than communism for those peoples thinking of change.

I remember when artists either learned to paint good or they starved. Now the slingers and the chislers live off of an "Arty" programme boondoggle supported by the little tax-paying feller...

In a stormy debate over increasing funds to the National Endowment for Art and Culture, that Rep. Scherle (R-Iowa) lit into them. His words are herewith quoted:

"The State Dept. spent $31.5 million on the cultural exchange program last year. The Smithsonian Inst. paid out $33 million. The Kennedy Center got $56.7 million. HUD financed a $13-million housing project for artists and their families in New York City.

"The American Bicentennial got $450,000. The Corp. for Public Broadcasting receives federal funds. The Dept. of Defense subsidizes public band concerts. The Interior Dept. pays for folk festivals. The National Zoo and the Library of Congress are heavily funded with public money.

"I virtually every department of the government contributes handsomely to art and culture... it is time we give consideration to the one person who is bearing this staggering load—the taxpayer."

Scherle's plea got a rousing hand from his colleagues. Then they turned out in force and voted to Double the Budget of the National Endowment.

When it comes to wasting taxpayer's money there ain't nobody as artistic as it as congressmen...

Tensions Continue; Russia Willing To Take, Not Give

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—It can be said with authority there is growing suspicion here in top government circles that the Soviet Union is not ready for a meaningful long-range settlement or co-operation with the United States in strategic arms limitation, in the Middle East, in Vietnam or in the Middle-West Europe.

The belief is strengthening in high circles that the Soviet Union is bent on following traditional 18-and-19th-century imperialist policies, which centered on grabbing every immediate advantage possible and exploiting every local situation to the hilt in the belief that these small advantages would add up to major gains over the long run.

There is, as a result of events over the past year, a strong conviction in White House, State Department and Pentagon circles that the men in the Kremlin are not ready to sacrifice immediate gains for long-range good.

Tragically, these conclusions come at a time when (if these analysts are correct, the men in the Kremlin are strongly determined to attain objectives which should by Western reasoning lead the Russians to meaningful mutually beneficial compromises:

1—The Soviet Union, these analysts say, wants desperately to avoid a full-fledged confrontation with the United States on Cuba, in the Middle East or anywhere else.

2—The Russian rulers want to avoid open war in the Middle East and would like to see an end to open warfare in Southeast Asia, according to thinking here.

3—The men in the Kremlin are extremely anxious to have the West formally recognize the status quo in Eastern Europe.

4—The Soviet Union desperately needs the kind of economic relief that an end to the arms race and greater East-West co-operation would bring.

The problem is that the Russians are involved in other ambitions and other problems which may make meaningful compromise impossible:

The Soviet Union, for example, is so caught up in a contest with Red China for domination of the worldwide Communist movement that it cannot afford to make any compromise with capitalist countries which would seem to sell out world revolution or otherwise to lose Moscow followers in Communist parties worldwide. Soviet leaders know that Communism, China will make strong capital out of any Soviet-U.S. agreement both weakens the United States internationally and restricts the power of Red China.

Worst yet, in considering agreement, Communist-Soviet strategy demands that Russia attempt to exploit any situation whatsoever for every possible gain it can show—short of an open military showdown. That is, the Russians will attempt a missile base in Cuba one year and a submarine base in another, if they believe the climate is right and a showdown will not be involved. Or Moscow will openly break a cease-fire in Egypt, or a gentleman's agreement not to do nuclear testing in the atmosphere, regardless of the effect these actions might have on prospects for profitable long-range agreements.

Another Russian trait which makes agreements difficult is their traditional unwillingness to give up anything in return for something they want. Information is available in top administration circles that Moscow today passionately wants Western recognition of the status quo in Eastern Europe. There is all manner of evidence pointing to this conclusion. But there is no evidence the Russians are prepared to give anything in return. Thus far, for example, in dealing with the West Germans, Moscow has insisted on German recognition of the status quo in East Germany; it has not been willing to make equivalent concessions on the status of West Berlin.

In most cases recovery begins within a week and three-fourths of the patients are fully recovered in a few weeks. Rarely does damage remain.

Many treatments have been tried without much success. Adrenal hormone may have shortened the illness in some patients. Surgery to relieve pressure on the swollen nerve has been advocated but recent studies suggest that untreated patients do about as well in their early illness as treated patients. If recovery is prolonged then surgery is sometimes helpful in relieving any pressure on the nerve caused by swelling and speeds nerve regeneration.

Dear Mr. Lamb—I have heard that new enzyme detergents are dangerous. Do they cause you skin to break out and is there any real danger in using them?

Dear Reader—They may indeed be harmful. They can cause a skin rash in sensitive persons. Some animals exposed to detergents have died suddenly after inhaling the enzyme and others have had lung disease. Asthma and other lung problems were reported in workers in detergent plants in Europe.

The Federal Trade Commission has reopened the study on enzyme detergents. It isn't clear as yet if the amount you might get by using detergents around the house would have the same effects as reported in animals. The animals got far bigger doses than you might expect in normal use. The same might be said about the lung problems seen in factory workers.

It probably doesn't take much enzyme detergent to cause a skin rash in people sensitive to it.

Most democratic of men are executives who overeat. They carry lunch buckets around all the time.

Anyone who doubts the magic of Christmas need only recall that all voices, no matter how much off-key are beautiful when singing the beloved carols.

Hey, you image-builders: How about changing the concept of "dirty, old man" to one of "sexy senior citizen"?

Just think—this year, fathers had a whole weekend to track down the missing bolt for the assemble-it-yourself gizmo.

Everyone can't be perfect; Someone has to be boss.

Nerve Must Regenerate To End Bell's Palsy

Dear Dr. Lamb—My niece has Bell's palsy. One side of her face is paralyzed. Can you tell me what the causes, symptoms and cures are?

Dear Reader—Bell's palsy causes paralysis of the muscles to one side of the face. This results in muscles at the angle of the mouth being drawn back on one side. Generally speaking, one side of the face droops from paralysis and the other side contracts. There may be difficulty in closing one eye and the sense of taste over part of the tongue may be lost or diminished. The onset of the problem is usually abrupt.

The muscle paralysis is caused by failure of the nerve to the facial muscles to function normally. Actually, there are two nerves, one to each side of the face, and one of the pair is affected and the other not. We really don't know what happens to the nerve, whether it is a type of virus infection or a localized allergic response. The nerve does become swollen and in a few cases is so badly damaged that it has to regenerate before normal function of the muscles is restored.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have heard that new enzyme detergents are dangerous. Do they cause you skin to break out and is there any real danger in using them?

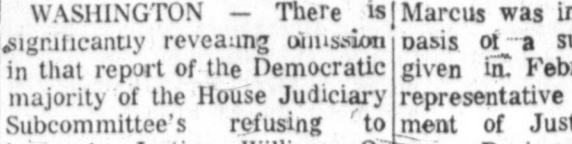

Dear Reader—They may indeed be harmful. They can cause a skin rash in sensitive persons. Some animals exposed to detergents have died suddenly after inhaling the enzyme and others have had lung disease. Asthma and other lung problems were reported in workers in detergent plants in Europe.

The Federal Trade Commission has reopened the study on enzyme detergents. It isn't clear as yet if the amount you might get by using detergents around the house would have the same effects as reported in animals. The animals got far bigger doses than you might expect in normal use. The same might be said about the lung problems seen in factory workers.

It probably doesn't take much enzyme detergent to cause a skin rash in people sensitive to it.

What the Douglas Report Didn't Say...

WASHINGTON—There is significantly revealing omission in that report of the Democratic majority of the House Judiciary Subcommittee's refusing to impeach Justice William O. Douglas.

This glaring omission, symptomatic of many throughout the 924-page document, is an underlying reason for its caustic condemnation by Republicans as a "partisan whitewash."

The particularly striking omission is on pages 30-31 and involves Irving Marcus, listed as "former comptroller" of Albert Parvin & Co.

Parvin and Douglas have long had close personal and business ties. From 1960 to 1968, the ultra-liberal jurist was paid $96,680 for heading a foundation set up by Parvin—which derived most of its income from Nevada Gambling interests. Douglas also received a considerable sum for "expenses," and expensive gifts on his third and fourth marriages.

Marcus was one of seven former employees of the Parvin Co. interviewed by staff members of the Judiciary subcommittee. These interrogations, like all those conducted by the staff, were informal and not under oath—one of the major criticisms of the GOP.

Purpose of the questioning of the ex-Parvin employees was to obtain information regarding the activities of the company and Parvin's dealings with Douglas.

The staff interrogators got nowhere. The former employees, not being under oath, divulged nothing—and that was the end of it. The committee, under Democratic control, did nothing further. The report of the proceedings leaves the whole matter suspended aimlessly in the air.

The report does record that Marcus refused to talk on the advice of his attorney—in whose office the informal interrogation took place.

As "former comptroller" of the Parvin Co., Marcus was in position to be well informed about operations and dealings with Douglas. Some months earlier he did give considerable information to an FBI agent investigating organized crime. Marcus' statement was in possession of committee staff members when they talked with him.

Marcus' lawyer demanded they be shown this statement before Marcus answered questions. When the staff balked, the lawyer directed Marcus to remain silent.

THE PAY-OFF—Following is the subcommittee's published report of this curious episode: "On August 20, 1970, Mr.

Marcus was interviewed on the basis of a statement he had given in February 1970 to a representative of the Department of Justice Strike Force...

During the course of the August 20 interrogation it became apparent that Mr. Marcus' statements to the subcommittee staff differed substantially from statements attributed to him in the Department of Justice memorandum of the February interview.

"In the light of this development, Mr. Goldner (Marcus' lawyer) advised Mr. Marcus not to proceed with the interview until a copy of the memorandum had been made available to Mr. Marcus. The staff did not do that, and on August 31, Mr. Goldner advised the subcommittee staff that there was no change in his advice to Mr. Marcus and that a copy of the Justice Department memorandum had been requested but had not been made available."

And that's all the report says about the matter. Like numerous other pertinent details it is left hanging unfinished in the air.

Although carefully unmentioned in the report, what this really means is that the committee just dropped the issue and let it go at that. No further attempt was made to uncover not only what Marcus knew about Parvin and Douglas but the reason for the "substantial difference" in his statement to the Justice Department and what little he told the staff men.

But the most significant omission of all is that not long after Marcus' brushoff of the committee, he was rehired by the Parvin Co.—now known as Parvin Dorman.

There is not one word or hint of this highly important development in the Democratic report. And that isn't all.

The report also is totally blank on the equally intriguing fact that the other former Parvin employees who refused to talk are back on the company's payroll.

All this may be a coincidence, but it certainly is very strange. That's why Republican Floor Leader Gerald Ford, Mich., leader in the demand for Douglas' impeachment, scathingly characterized the report as a "partisan whitewash."

And Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., member of the subcommittee, in a blistering minority report declared the investigation "is incomplete and the evidence is not all in. In my opinion, this matter should be pursued further."

PATRICIA YOUNG SAYS

Learning From Jerry Rubin's Book

By PATRICIA YOUNG

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Not long ago, Jerry Rubin published his manifesto-cum-autobiography "Do It" which the publishers call: "The most important political statement made by a white revolutionary in America today." The trouble is, just as Hitler wrote in "Mein Kampf" which spelled out his theme for a "superior race" which would rule the world, most people tend to laugh off the Jerry Rubins and Eldridge Cleavers.

Strangely enough, few people know anything about Rubin and think of him as a radical "kid" doing his thing on campus. Actually, he is a chubby, fortyish self-declared communist who affects the clownish garb of the Yippie-Hippie. He tells us he was introduced to communism as a child by his Aunt Sadie. He was once a clean-shaven cub reporter for the Cincinnati Post and Times, and says: "Adlai Stevenson made me a radical in 1952. Since then he has been a drop-out from Berkeley, a draft dodger and campus agitator in causes ranging from civil rights, peace marches, free speech movements, and the Chicago riots. He says: "Communism to us means not Stalin, but the heroic, romantic Fidel Castro, Che Guevara and the Viet Cong." (page 251.)

On page 20, we learn how Rubin and 84 other American students first visited Cuba in 1964 where they saw the Guevara and were given guerrilla training in the hills. Thinking that they would be involved with revolution in Latin America, Cole told them that their job would be to fight "in the middle of the beast"—at home in the U.S.A!

The first bit demonstration occurred at Berkeley where 400 radicals were arrested for distributing revolutionary literature. When the administration backed down, Rubin concluded "Students could do anything they pleased. The war against America in the schools and in the streets thus commenced!" He tells us: "The politicians considered us traitors and we were traitors—using tax money to carry out our treason!" Page 56 tells us: "Instead of just talking about communism, we began to live it."

"We learn that the generation gap was invented by radical Jack Weinberg in 1968 at a Free Speech Rally at Berkeley (page 89) We read: "Shoplifting gets you high. Don't buy, steal." (page 22). We read: "Two hundred psychological terrorists could destroy any major University without the firing of a shot." (page 211). "We've got America on the run. Subvert! That is the task of every young person." (page 251) it is impossible to read "Do It" without thinking of Hitler's "Mein Kampf" and the way we also ignore it.

A One-Word Sermon

A couple of American generals were held captive by the Russians for a couple of weeks after their plane strayed and went down inside the Red border.

One of them was Maj. Gen. Edward Scherrer.

At a news conference following their release, a reporter asked Scherrer what he missed most while in Russian hands.

"Freedom," he replied. One-word sermon. Give it some thought.

History And Prices

Inflation is not necessarily a built-in factor in the economy, says a leading banker.

"If the idea that inflation is inevitable is to be accepted, it has to be based on the assumption that the future is to be different from the past," writes George W. Coleman, director of the American Bankers Association.

Coleman analyzed 2½ centuries of American prices in a recent issue of the Illinois Business Review, published by the Bureau of Economic and Business Research of the University of Illinois.

Taking the index of prices in 1957-59 as 100, the price index was about 20 in 1720 and 113 in 1969.

Thus over a period of almost 250 years, excluding the Revolutionary War years, American prices rose at an average rate of about four-tenths of one per cent a year.

But there were many up-and-down fluctuations during those 250 years, almost exclusively the result of wars and their aftermaths. A part, sometimes all, of the price advance associated with a war was wiped out in a later deflation, Coleman points out.

In fact, as late as 1932, the price index was only 35.6 as compared with 36.5 in 1776.

However, the plummeting prices of the early 1930s were caused by the most disastrous business crash in history, something that the nation resolved must never happen again.

Coleman found that if anyone had made a bet in any year of those 250 years that prices would be higher 50 years later, he would have been right almost 72 per cent of the time.

That seems like a pretty fair definition of "inevitable," and if the only choice is between rising prices and recessions or depressions and all their attendant miseries, most people will take inflation.

Three Murder Suspects Nabbed By Quebec Police

MONTREAL (UPI)—Three prime suspects in the kidnap slaying of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte were arrested Mon. ending the most intensive manhunt in Canadian history.

Quebec police, spotting a light in a supposedly empty farmhouse, moved in early today and arrested Paul and Jacques Rose and Francis Simard.

Provincial Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said he now expected a "return to the normal course of justice." Many civil rights have been suspended since the kidnap emergency, the worst crisis in modern Canadian history, began in October.

Police said the suspects were taken into custody in a raid on a farmhouse at St. Luc, about 20 miles south of Montreal. Pickup 3rd pgh: The raid,

A Fable of Our Time

Once upon a time there was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He had trouble hearing so he had no radio. He had trouble seeing so he had no television and he read no newspapers. But he sold good hot dogs.

He put signs up on the highway telling how good they were. He stood on the side of the road and cried, "Buy a hot dog, mister." And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him. But then something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you been reading the newspapers? There's a big recession on. The Indochina and Middle-East situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse. Everything's going to pot."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, so he reads the paper and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his advertising signs and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs. Ans his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

You're right, my son," the man said to the boy. "We certainly are in the middle of a great recession."
