Aides Outline Nixon's Achievement and Frustration

ident Nixon enters the second half of his term proud of his success in winning postal and draft reforms but disappointed at congressional inaction on other major domestic proposals such as revenue-sharing and welfare reform. Three of the chief White House advisers on domestic matters outlined the administration's achievements and frustrations in a two-hour session with newsmen. Under the rules of the meeting, they cannot be identified.

The officials generally declined to predict the future or to discuss possible changes in policy. They concentrated on the administration's view of the first half of Nixon's term.

One official said Nixon took office determined to emphasize domestic reform because there was serious doubt in the country about "the institutional credibility of the presidency, the ability of the federal government to get results, the responsiveness of our institutions and so on.'

The official said the jury of whether Nixon has restored credibility to the presidency. But he made it plain that the administration believes there has been progress.

One official exhibited irritation at civil rights groups and the "questioning-the perpetual questioning-of our commitment" to the cause of racial

He insisted that more school districts were desegregated in the last two years than in the entire 15 years between the gation decision and the Nixoninauguration.

He brushed aside, complaints that some districts desegregated only on paper while retaining black and white schools, or segregated classrooms within schools. These problems, he said, "flow out of the fact that you have black students in those (formerly white) schools."

The official also said the administration is de-emphasizing programs intended specifically to help Negroes or other concentrating instead on programs that will assist all people regardless of race.

Has Nixon succeeded in his campaign promise to "bring us together?'' the officials were asked.

"Obviously, there is a difference of opinion," one official responded. "But I would simply point to the fact that in the period of the last six months, a period that most observers were quite-apprehensive about ... there has been a remarkable change in mood and there has racial disturbance or communiareas that marked a similar period a year and two years

Each of the officials stressed that Nixon was disappointed his revenue sharing proposal for no-strings-attached grants fo the states and cities did not even receive a hearing by the House Ways and Means Committee. The bill was intended to send ultimately $5 billion a year to the states and cities, nearly all of which are hard-pressed

One official said states ty disturbance in the ghetto cities cannot raise enough money on their own because the voters will not tolerate additional taxes at the local level. But he refused to say if the administration would propose a federal tax increase, if necessary, to provide revenues to be shared with the states

The officials repeated the standard administration economic forecast, that 1971 will see business activity pickup and inflation decline.

The. Lighter Side

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI) -The next best thing to a guardian angel or a fairy godmother is a national association watching over you.

Realizing that many of us tend to become rattled during the holidays, several associations have been busy this week issuing seasonal safety tips and other cautionary advice.

The National Automobile Association advises us to put gas in our cars before we start out on holiday trips. The Tire Industry Safety Council admonishes us against driving on worn out tires. And the Air Transport Association cautions us to put identification tags on our luggage. To mention a few.

Although these warnings are invaluable (you couldn't pay enough for advice like that), they don't begin to cover all of the things that can go wrong at this time of year. So I have taken the liberty of setting forth a few more safety tips drawn from personal exper-

-When tying a string around a Christmas package, make certain to remove your finger before you tighten the knot.

(If the knot is tightened over the finger, circulation, will+ be cut off, causing the fingertip to turn blue. Additionally, makes the package unwieldy.

(There have been many times when people who tied knots over their fingers were obliged to lie under the Christmas tree all night because the label on the package said "do not open, until Dec. 25.")

-If you go to a Christmas Eve party, and if you receive a necktie as a gift on Christmas morning, wait at least 12 hours before wearing the tie.

(Upon arising Christmas morning, one may find that one's head is benumbed. Or one may find that one's head is riven with pain that renders all other pain indistinguishable.

(In either condition, one may accidentally tie one's necktie too tightly and fail to notice that one has cut off one's breath.) -Before climbing up the root to pose for pictures in a Santa-Claus suit, check the wind direction to avoid getting the whiskers entantangled with the weathervane. -If you go to a New Year's Eve ball dressed as Father Time, make certain to put down the scythe when you

-If you go to a party dressed as the Baby New Year, and if you have trouble keeping the diapers from slipping off, do not try to fasten them in place with thumb tacks.

WASHINGTON (UPI) -The House has passed a bill that would give retiring Speaker John W. McCormack $38,000 for each of the next two years to maintain his congressional office in Boston. The allowance, covering rent, help and supplies, is in addition to the congressional pension of about $44,000 a year for which he will be eligible.

The Kremlin has not had an easy time of it with the dominion established over Eastern Europe after World War II. Poland's riots are only the latest in a series of upheavals that have challenged the Soviets in every country except Bulgaria, It started with Yugoslavia's Tito, who broke with Stalin in 1948. The 1953 uprising of East German workers was crushed by Soviet tanks. Both Poland and Hungary erupted in 1956. Polish riots, centered in Poznan, were curbed with the return to power of Wladyslaw Gomulka, loser in the latest disorders. Hungary went on to open rebellion and bloody suppression. Hard-line Stalinist and Peking-ally Albania broke with Moscow in 1961. Runaway liberalization brought Soviet troops into Czechoslovakia in 1968. Although avoiding an open break, Romania's nationalist-minded leaders have followed independent foreign and trade policies since the mid-1960s.

Experts in the field defense research are coming up with glum and ominous forecasts of our decline in military strength. One official says flatly that we could be second to Russia in strike power by the middle of this decade.

If the observers of our national military posture are correct, we could be running behind in several fields. These include our intercontinental ballistics missiles, our fleet and the tactical weapons of land warfare. Our deficits, the experts say, are not so much in the weapons at hand but rather in the field of research and develpment. The Soviets, the observers say, are hard at it on the drawing board and in
