Young Drivers Hard Hit by Rate Hike

Insurance Will Jump Highest In Midland, Odessa

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Young, single male drivers in some areas will pay almost $100 more for car insurance next year, while most Texas drivers pay an additional $17 to $30 under rate increases adopted Wednesday by the State Insurance Board.

The increases will be effective Jan. 1.

Insurance will jump the highest in the Midland-Odessa area of West Texas, while the smallest raises were in Grayson County in North Texas.

But the biggest increase will be for unmarried male drivers under 25. Those who own their own car or are the principal operators of a car owned by someone else pay the highest premiums now, but that will jump from $496 a year in Houston to $587 under the new rates.

In Dallas, the premiums for unmarried male drivers under 25 will go from $435 to $530. Despite the increases to be imposed on all car insurance buyers, the rate hike still is lower than that asked for by the industry. It sought rate hikes of up to 27.7 per cent.

The adopted increases will be reflected in premiums after Jan. 1.

Increases for the average driver range from $17 to $30 per year for comprehensive, collision and liability insurance for a new car driven by a family with no male drivers under 21.

For minimum liability insurance, $100 deductible collision coverage and $50 deductible comprehensive coverage, Dallasites now pay $166 a year. That amount will jump to $192 under the new rates.

In Houston, the premiums will increase from $191 to $213 and in San Antonio, the increase is from $142 to $154 per year.

Tarrant County drivers will be paying $179 for coverage in 1971 compared to rates of $154 this year.

In the four lower Rio Grande Valley counties, the increase is from $134 to $154 and in 15 lower coastal counties, the hike is from $146 to $170.

In Midland, Ector, Howard and Scurry counties — labeled as the West Texas oil field district by insurance statisticians — the increase will go from $151 this year to $181 in 1971.

FOR THE LAST TIME — County Clerk Charlie Thut winds up 46 years of service as he turns the key in the huge steel vault at the clerk's office in the Gray County Court House. Thut goes into retirement at midnight tonight after having served continuously as county clerk since 1925. Newly-elected County Clerk Wanda Carter will be sworn in tomorrow.

Charlie Thut Retires After 46 Years' Service To This County

By ALETHA DAVIS
News Staff Writer

An era in the history of Gray County came to a close today amid the well-wishes of hundreds of county residents who dropped by the County Court Room on unofficial but very important business. The visits were to Charlie Thut, Gray County Clerk for the past 46 years. Charlie is turning in his keys and retiring today.

Forty-six years ago the County Judge of Gray County, the late Siler Faulkner, walked in the office and leaned over the shoulder of the young deputy County-District Clerk Charlie Thut and watched him fill out a marriage license application. Looking it over, he turned to the young man and said, "Kid, you write those good, they'll be here forever." Charlie Thut has since had his name on 9,335 marriage license applications, and still reminds his deputies to "write that good, kids."

It all began in a house in Lefors on Dec. 7, 1893 when Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thut Sr. announced the birth of a boy. He came into the world in a house built from lumber hauled by wagon — from Dodge City, Kansas, and grew up with two brothers, Henry Jr. and George, and a sister, Annie.

The span of years saw Charlie finish his education in the "little school on the river" which was located "right smack against the bank of the Salt Fork of the Red" in Lefors, and continued on to establish a legend in the county.

After cowboying and farming and making several trips to McLean for the school matron, Miss Cassie Dickey, Charlie entered politics "of a sort." As an employee of Sheriff W. S. Copeland, and later Sheriff E. S. Graves, he rode the circuit from McLean, Alanreed, Lefors and Pampa to collect poll taxes from the citizens. His dad was Gray County's first treasurer, appointed in 1902 when the county was formed and served as Postmaster in Lefors for many years, so it just seemed "natural" that Charlie joined County Clerk Rufe Thompson as a deputy in the clerk's office in 1924. Until 1930 he served as District and County Clerk.

Before the 1924 elections, Rufe Thompson announced he didn't really like living in Lefors and would not seek re-election. Harvey Haynes and Charlie made the bid for the position. As Charlie recalls, he won that

Thirty Nine Killed As Explosion Rips Through A Soft Coal Mine

HAYDEN, Ky. (UPI)—An explosion ripped through two shafts of a mountainside soft coal mine Wednesday, killing 39 miners inside. One man, working just inside the mine mouth, escaped.

The victims working 1,600 feet inside shafts no. 15 and 16 of the Finley Coal Co. Mine, apparently were killed instantly. The cause of the explosion was not known, but authorities ruled out a rock slide because they found very little rubble.

Officials speculated either a dynamite charge or a mechanical failure triggered the blast. A. T. Collins, who was only a few feet from the opening of the mine, fled when the blast shook the shaft. Officials said he would not have survived if he had been any deeper inside.

Another man, who was standing outside the mine, said he saw "a bale of smoke and soot as big as a mine hole." It blew toward the opposite face of the hollow, where bare trees were laden with dust and mine debris.

Frank Bartlett, a salesman, was driving down a rough dirt road toward the mine when he was hit by "a huge cloud of smoke." He said "it took several minutes before the smoke cleared for me to see my way."

The bodies of 15 men were taken out of one shaft by 10 p.m. EST, nearly 10 hours after the explosion. Three bodies were located in the other shaft, but the search for the remaining 21 was halted abruptly at 11 p.m. because of a heavy concentration of carbon monoxide fumes.

Mine officials said they would attempt to reconstruct the ventilation system in the shaft in an attempt to blow out the lethal fumes. They said precautions would be made not to blow the gas toward the area where the miners lay, in case some still were alive.

Gov. Louie E. Nunn's office announced all the miners had died. He estimated the death toll at 38 men, but Stanley Finley, mine owner, said 39 men were deep inside when the blast occurred.

State police also said all the men had been given up for dead, but Harrell N. Kirkpatrick, state commissioner of mines and mineral resources who was directing the operation, said he could not confirm the deaths until all the bodies were out.

"We're still holding out hope that some may still be alive," Kirkpatrick said, "because we haven't found all the bodies."

Nunn, who visited the scene, called President Nixon from a telephone in a trailer office at the mine.

"Oh, Lord, be with my boy! Oh, Lord, be with my boy!" the mother of one of the trapped miners wailed over and over.

Congress Races Toward Recess Before New Year Tolls Midnight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Still stalled in dispute over the future of supersonic flight, Congress raced today to end its year's work by time 1970 ends at midnight.

House-Senate negotiators met anew to seek compromise agreement on funds for the development of the supersonic transport plane, for which the House had voted $210 million and the Senate had voted nothing.

But House members sympathetic to the Senate's environmental arguments against the faster-than-sound aircraft hoped to convince the House to accept the Senate position and end the dispute, which has prevented Congress from adjourning.

These other issues also threatened to keep the 91st Congress working until its constitutional license to legislate expires at noon Sunday: —Food stamps. Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., complaining that "the will of the majority is once again thwarted," was ready to throw in the towel. He said he would accept a House-Senate compromise which continues the program lowering food costs for 8.3 million Americans but which cuts off food stamps for families if the head of the household refuses to take any job offered him paying at least $1.30 an hour. Passage of the compromise bill thus was assured.

—Foreign aid. The Senate, refusing to buy a compromise it says violates its principles, sent back to the House a $2.5 billion foreign aid appropriation bill with the stipulation $200 million worth of foreign military sales credits cannot be used until both houses enact legislation authorizing such an expenditure. If the House balks at the Senate proviso, another impasse is threatened.

Kremlin Commutes Two Jews' Death Sentences To 15 Years

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russian Supreme Court, presumably acting on orders from the Kremlin, today commuted to 15 years the death sentences against two Leningrad Jews convicted of plotting to hijack a Russian plane to Sweden. The sentences of three others of the 11 defendants were reduced.

The announcement by relatives who attended the final session in the court near Red Square touched off cheering and dancing in the snowy streets of Moscow by Jews who had gathered outside. But some complained later that 15 years two lives.)

at hard labor for defendant Mark Dymshits meant a slow death instead of a quick one.

(A Jerusalem dispatch said Premier Golda Meir led the Israeli nation in exulting over the commutations. In a statement issued by her office she said "the Jewish people in Israel and throughout the world rejoice." She credited worldwide Jewish solidarity, appeals by governments and personalities and a "general humanitarian awakening across the world" with helping persuade the Kremlin to spare the

The death sentences of Dymshits and defendant Eduard Kuznetsov came one day after Generalissimo Francisco Franco commuted to 30 years the death sentences imposed on six Basque nationalists convicted of murder and terrorism. It was not known if the Kremlin was moved by Franco's action but both cases produced worldwide furor.

The sentences of one of the Leningrad defendants was reduced from 15 to 12 years, another from 13 to 10 years and the third from 12 to 10. Sentences for the six others, including a woman, were confirmed.

Dymshits was ordered to serve his 15 years on "strict regime," the Soviet equivalent of hard labor and the longest sentence permitted under Soviet law. Kuznetsov's term was for "special regime," which is less rigorous. In the past such sentences usually have been commuted for good behavior at the end of seven years.

A Tass news agency report on the trial today repeated earlier official Soviet protests against "slanderers who are trying to create among gullible people the impression that the Soviet court tried the criminals not for the crimes they had committed but for their (Jewish) nationality."

News of the trial has not been published in the main Soviet newspapers for the general public to read.

Motorcycle-Pickup Crash Is Fatal To 12-Year-Old Pampan

A 12-year-old Pampan youth was dead on arrival at Highland General Hospital Wednesday following a pick-up-motorcycle collision one mile south of Pampa on Highway 273.

Investigating Department of Public Safety Officer, Paul Geisler's report stated that the youth, Steven Glen King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Danny King, 1308 W. 22nd, was traveling south on a dirt side road when his 90cc motorcycle hit the left front fender of a pick-up driven by Gary R. Stevens, 1100 Aleock, traveling east on Highway 273.

Funeral services for the youth will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday in the First Christian Church of Pampa with the Rev. Ralph Palmer, minister, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Roy L. King, pastor of Hillside Christian Church, Kansas City, Mo. Burial will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery directed by Carmichael-Whitely Funeral Directors.

He was born April 15, 1958, in Pampa and was a seventh grade student at Robert E. Lee Junior High School. He was a member of the Lee School Band and of the Pampa First Christian Church, and played on the Little League Farm Team.

Surviving are his parents, and one sister, Sharon Jun King of the home; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Williams of Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. James L. King of Fort Worth.

Series Of Articles Will Explain Tax Law Changes

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN

It's time for federal income tax filing again, but this year there's a difference. In fact there are many differences.

Biggest change for most wage earners is in the basic exemption allowed for every citizen of the United States under age 65. The magic $600 deduction is gone — done in by inflation.

But, for once, inflation is giving you, the taxpayer, a break. You and your dependents are now worth $625 each as deductions on your 1970 income tax.

This is just one of the major changes in income tax filing which make all the old instruction books outdated. There are new forms, new terminology, reduced surcharge, more generous allowances which exempt low income earners from any tax at all.

To find your way through the maze of new rules and forms, The Pampa News will carry a series of articles by Tax expert Ray De Crane beginning Sunday.

De Crane, business editor of The Cleveland Press, is author of "Cut Your Own Taxes," the line-by-line guide to income tax forms which has sold more than 3.3 million copies.

His 1971 newspaper series has been completely reviewed for accuracy by the Internal Revenue Service.

The series of articles in The News will cover highlights of current tax regulations and point out areas in which special care should be taken to avoid missing allowable deductions.

Watch for Ray De Crane's tax-saving articles, beginning next Sunday in The News.

Pampans All Set To Welcome A New Year

Pampans were ready today for the usual New Year's Eve observances of private and company parties to see the old year out and the new year in.

There will be special events at the Pampa Country Club and the Pampa Club at Coronado Inn.

Celanese Chemical Co. employees will have a New Year's Eve dance party and there will be other dance parties at the Moose and Elks lodges. Knights of Columbus also will welcome the new year.

Watch night parties are scheduled in several churches. Night spots around town are expecting heavier than usual patronage.

City, state and federal offices will be closed tomorrow, New Year's Day. There will be no mail delivery Friday. The post office will be closed except for box patrons. Regular delivery will be resumed Saturday.

The only county office open tomorrow will be the county clerk's office which will remain open until after tomorrow morning's swearing in of newly-elected officials in the District Court Room at the Court House.

The sheriff's department and city police department will operate as usual and the State Highway Patrol will be on duty to handle holiday traffic.

Some stores will be open but most will be closed for the holiday. Food stores will be open. Practically all business offices will be closed. Pampa banks also will observe the holiday.

The Pampa News will publish its New Year's Day edition early and there will be regular carrier delivery.

Pampa Building Activity Shows Decline In 1970

Building permits in Pampa during 1970 were at their lowest point in the last five years.

A report compiled today by Mrs. Verlene Ward, secretary in the city engineer's office, shows $735,760 in construction permits of all types were issued in the year ending today.

That compares with $2,706,831 last year, $1,117,515 in 1968 and $1,627,355 in 1967.

Topping the list in 1970 was $250,000 for the new Furr Food Store built on the site of the old store destroyed by fire.

A total of 117 permits were issued during the year. These included new building, additions, and remodeling.

Only seven new residences were built in Pampa during 1970 compared to 17 in 1969.

Pampan Held For Grand Jury On Burglary Charge

Bobby Joe West, 317, of 533 N. Dwight, was in Gray County jail today awaiting grand jury action on a burglary charge.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said West was arrested at his home by deputies Shirley Nichols and Buster Collins and charged with breaking into the G. W. James Materials Co., Price Rd., on the night of Dec. 7 and stealing cutting heads and welding equipment worth several hundred dollars.

West was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford and placed under $5,000 bond.

Sheriff Jordan said the stolen equipment was recovered.

NEW RATES EFFECTIVE MIDNIGHT

Average Texas Family Will Have To Pay $17-30 For Car Insurance

AUSTIN (UPI)—In dollars and cents, the new auto insurance rates announced Wednesday mean an average Texas family can expect to pay $17 to $30 more in 1971 for standard coverage on a new, medium-priced car.

The insurance board gave increasing numbers of accidents and higher costs of auto repairs and court settlements as the reason for the rate increases. Board chairman Ned Price said the new rates—the first to be computed under a new rate-setting formula which includes companies' investment income as part of their profits—do not allow for any increase in company profits.

The 23.4 per cent rate hike originally recommended by the board's staff was based on a contemplated profit for the companies of 5.6 per cent of assets or 11.7 per cent of net worth. Norton Masterson, a special actuary for the board, said the new rates are calculated on the basis of an after-tax profit of 5.1 per cent of assets or 10.7 per cent of net worth.

The new rates go into effect after midnight tonight. The 14 per cent hike is considerably less than the 23.4 per cent originally contemplated by the three-man insurance board, and nearly half of the 27.7 per cent increase asked by the insurance companies. The average increase statewide on all types of coverage—including vehicles other than private passenger cars—will be 13.6 per cent.

Profits and Rates Price and the two other board members had said earlier that insurance companies' profits were too low and rates in the past had been "confiscatory." But Wednesday they told reporters they think the new rates—which they said provide for an increase in profits—are adequate. "A rate is not confiscatory until it is declared by a court to be confiscatory," board member Durwood Manford said. Manford disputed critics' claims that the board is "guaranteeing" the companies a profit. He said the profit allowances used in the rate-setting formula are merely profit "ceilings."

Texas AFLCIO President Files Suit To Block Auto Rate Hike

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Hank Brown, president of Texas AFL-CIO, Wednesday filed suit in district court to block the State Insurance Board's hiking auto insurance rates for the coming year.

The suit alleges that the insurance rate adversely affects millions of Texans, is an arbitrary action and violates the state and federal guarantees of due process. Also it alleges the state law under which rates are set is unconstitutional, the rates unjustly enrich the industry, all relevant factors are not considered in setting rates, the board didn't hold proper hearings and the board's authority to set the rates is constitutionally vague. The suit asks the court to review the board action and void the increases. No hearing on the suit had been set.

'SOCK IT TO ME... HEY!' — As 1970 plays out its final hours, five-year old Ricky Taylor, gets the worst end of what started out a "fun game." Six year old Randy, left, "socks it to him" and tells him things will look better next year. The boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor, 1225 Darby. (Staff Photo)

That Has Issued 9,635 Marriage Licenses During Public Service

(Continued From Page 1) other in the history of the county leaves his mark when he retires. He has trained the incoming clerk Mrs. Wanda Roberts Carter (she's a Leora girl you know) for 17 years. She knows her business, he assures everyone. "And these girls up here are the best in the West. People just can't know how good my deputies are. Now Doyce Massie, she's an old-timer up here. She's been here 10 years. Joyce Combs is sharp too. Nearly five years she's been with us. Yes, sir! Give these gals some credit," he stresses.

His record stands for him, and he stands for his record and just to keep it straight. "Charlie" Thut has requested that the locks and safe combinations be changed at his office, because "I don't want anything to do with this business after this. There's a new clerk." It will take awhile for people to quit saying "Charlie's office" when referring to the "soul of the county," but Mr. Thut is retiring knowing he did a job well. The county thanks him for nearly a half century as an example of real Texas integrity, honesty and being "just plain folks."

New County And District Officials To Be Sworn Into Office Tomorrow

Newly elected county and district officials will be given the oath of office during a 10 a.m. ceremony tomorrow in the District Court Room. Don R. Lane, Municipal Judge, will administer the oath following an invocation by Rev. Dan Cameo, pastor of First Baptist Church. Swearing into public office will be Helen Sprinkle, re-elected District Clerk; Don Cain, newly-elected County Judge; Wanda Carter, newly-elected County Clerk; Jean Scott, County Treasurer; Gene R. Barber, County Surveyor; and L. B. Penick, County Superintendent. Commissioners taking the oath will be Don Hinton, Precinct 2, and John E. Dwyer, Precinct 4. Justices of the Peace elected to serve are Margie Prestidge, Precinct 1; E. L. "Ed" Anderson, Precinct 2; W. E. Beck, Precinct 5. Following the ceremony, Gray County Commissioners are scheduled to meet for a short session.

Schools Change Census Method

Pampa School District will not take a house-to-house canvass for a full school census this year but will send census forms home by students already enrolled in school. To comply with the Texas Education Agency suggestion to take a full census only once in five years, the district will not hire census takers, but will send the forms home to parents by the oldest child enrolled in school. Supt. Dr. James F. Malone said.

President Signs Antipollution Legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed today into law far-reaching antipollution legislation which orders the auto industry to produce a virtually emission free car by 1976. The new law states that the industry come up with an engine, by Jan. 1, 1975, that will reduce emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons by 90 per cent from the maximum 1970 permissible levels.

President Signs Antipollution Legislation

The administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency is empowered to grant a one-year extension but after that no new cars could be sold that did not meet the new standards unless Congress extended the deadline. The industry may apply for the one-year extension by Jan. 1, 1972. There is no doubt that the industry will ask for the extra time. Even that is not enough, its spokesmen have confessed.

POLICE GET SUMMONS CHICAGO (UPI) — Thomas McNulty, a city pollution control inspector, noticed thick black smoke coming from downtown police headquarters Wednesday. He found John J. Haley, the building's chief engineer, burning drugs.

"I told him (McNulty) that the stuff was being burned by court order, just as it is every month," said Lt. Paul Duellman. "Nothing like this has ever happened before." McNulty wrote a summons that could bring the department a $100 fine for violation of the city's antismoke laws.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—

There are 1,040 players in the National Football League. By my calculation, compiled during a weekend in front of the television set, 934 of them are "unsung heroes."

I arrived at this figure by taking the number of players identified as unsung heroes in four games and then multiplying that by the number of teams in the league, divided by the number of play-by-play announcers and analysts.

The presence of so many unsung heroes on the screen gave my heart a wrench, and as the games wore on I began to try to think of some way to sing them.

At halftime, during the first game Sunday afternoon, I even went so far as to compose a song about them:

And Here It Is

"Sing a song of unsung heroes:

"Publicly-wise, a string of zeroes.

"How sad it is to-be heroic

"And not have anybody but a television announcer know it.

"So lift your voice to the highest rung.

"And let no hero remain unsung."

(These lyrics should be sung to the tune of Bach's third cantata for zither and chorus, Opus 23, in D sharp minor.)

Sometimes an outsider can see things more clearly than a person who is personally involved. Therefore, I auditioned the song for my wife, who is very unemotional about football, other than hating it a lot.

"It doesn't scan, crazythings," she said, addressing me by one of my nicknames. "And besides that, if you sing about an unsung hero, he won't be unsung any longer, and all of those sports announcers will be unable to identify 934 players."

Could Call Them "Sung"

"Well, they could start calling them 'sung' heroes," I said, but I knew deep down that it wouldn't work.

At the next time out, and again while the referee was giving the two-minute notice, I blitized my brains for other ways to honor unsung heroes.

The idea I finally came up with is an NFL Unsung Hero All-Star team. Plus an unsung hero "Hall of Fame" in which the busts of football's most eminent nonentities would be preserved.

Beyond that, I would have the UPI pick an "Unsung Hero of the Week" to provide more frequent recognition for obscure exploits.

And finally, at the end of the season, I would schedule yet another bowl game — the "Incognito Bowl," featuring the most anonymous experts in the league.

During the conference,

Buzzard has insurance policies for homeowners, for mortgage cancellation, for education financing for children should the father be disabled, for health, for automobiles, and for automobile financing.

Buzzard, who has been with Allstate since 1959, recently attended a two-day Allstate sales conference at the Hyatt House in Dallas.

lies in the fact that Allstate is a stock company and a subsidiary of Sears and Roebuck. Thus, the company is soundly financed. Also, the company pays dividends on certain policies.

"Life insurance," says Buzzard, "is money to help you put food on the table, clothe your family, keep your home, pay off your car-money for college. For retirement. For emergencies. It is a form of savings or investment."

What is enough insurance?

According to experts, says Buzzard, families should invest about five or six percent of its income in life insurance, with the minimum benefits equalling about five times the family income.

Los Angeles (UPI)—Federal authorities have seized some 8,000 pounds of kingfish from Los Angeles harbor because of contamination from DDT. It was the first federal action involving salt water fish, a spokesman for the federal Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday.

The fish, apparently caught within 20 miles of the Southern California coast, had a DDT content nearly four times the FDA limit, a spokesman said. Kingfish usually are sold for human consumption.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Between 400 and 500 persons will die in traffic accidents during the New Year's holiday weekend and another 19,000 to 23,000 will be injured, the National Safety Council estimated Tuesday.

Council figures showed 481 persons were killed on the nation's roads and highways during last year's four-day New Year's weekend.

This year's counting period begins at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Actual casualties have failed to reach safety council estimates in three of this year's holiday periods.

Industrial Needs Supplied By John T. King And Sons

John T. King and Sons, 718 S. Barnes, handles a complete selection of industrial magnetos, pumps, skids and industrial electronic automation equipment.

One of the newer types of magnetos stocked by John T. King and Sons, is the Alltronic, a magneto used for large industrial purposes.

J. T. King and Sons have Frank Murphy safety switches and electronic control units for field installation, Kenco controls and safety devices.

Among other safety devices King and Sons stock United Engineer PKM, and Keystone and Associated Well Sounders.

Specialties are working with L.A.C.T. units. These are Lease Automated Custody Transfer units, which King and Sons have authorized sales and service.

Rockwell water meters, Worthington Pumps, Fisher Controls, and Natural Gas Regulators as well as many other needs can be found and corrected by John T. King and Sons.

Quotes In The News

LAKE FISH WARNING
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—New York conservation officials said Wednesday fish in Lake George are contaminated with mercury and warned against their consumption. Sport fishing in the popular resort lake was not banned, however.

A state Department of Environmental Conservation spokesman said samplings of lake trout, rainbow trout and smallmouth bass from the 32-mile-long lake indicated mercury levels exceeding the safety level established by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

The spokesman said the contamination was from an unknown source and added there were no known sources of industrial discharge into the lake. The department previously recommended against eating fish taken from Lakes Erie, Ontario, Onondaga and Champlain and the Oswego, Niagara and St. Lawrence Rivers.

RADIOACTIVE MILK
LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Traces of radioactive iodine were found in raw milk samples from five states following a leak of radioactive dust from an underground nuclear test, the Environmental Protection Agency reported Wednesday.

A spokesman for the agency's Southwest Radiological Laboratory said the levels were not dangerous and dissipated quickly several days after the Dec. 18 incident.

The traces, all below minimums set by Federal Radiation Commission guidelines, were found in milk sampled in California, Nevada, Utah, Idaho and Wyoming.

FISH FIZZLED—DDT
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Federal authorities have seized some 8,000 pounds of kingfish from Los Angeles harbor because of contamination from DDT. It was the first federal action involving salt water fish, a spokesman for the federal Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday.

The fish, apparently caught within 20 miles of the Southern California coast, had a DDT content nearly four times the FDA limit, a spokesman said. Kingfish usually are sold for human consumption.

COUNT WHOOPERS
AUSTWELL, Tex. (UPI)—The latest official count of the whooping crane flock wintering at the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge shows 57 of the rare birds, one more than last year.

The world's total whooper population now stands at 73, counting the 57 wild birds, 14 others in government wildlife programs and specimens living in zoos in San Antonio, Tex., and New Orleans.

In 1941 there were only 15 of the giant cranes.

SHOTS HEARD AROUND THE WORLD were fired by National Guardsmen at Kent State University in Ohio. Four students were killed, at least nine wounded and 67 arrested in the campus clash on May 4. At year's end, 25 students, former students and faculty members had been indicted by a special grand jury that absolved Guardsmen of blame. (LIFE MAGAZINE PHOTO COPYRIGHT TIME, INC.)

BOMBINGS throughout the country, many attributed to the Weatherman faction of the Students for a Democratic Society, recalled World War I days and threats of anarchism. Accidental explosion destroyed "bomb factory" in New York.

CANADIAN TROOPS guarded government officials and buildings from terrorists after Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau invoked the nation's War Measures Act.

ARAB GUERRILLAS made a show of strength in September, hijacking four jettliners over Europe. The aircraft, bound for New York, were flown to a "revolutionary airstrip" in Jordan where three were blown up. Jordanian troops battled commandos when they threatened to overthrow the government.

ON TRIAL for the bizarre murders of actress Sharon Tate, the LaBiancas and four others were hippie cult leader Charles Manson, inset, and three female members of his "family." From the left are Patricia Krenwinkel, Leslie Van Houten and Susan Atkins, arriving in a sheriff's van at the Los Angeles courthouse where the trial was held.

APOLLO 13 proved unlucky, although packed with drama. This photo shows the explosion-torn service module as seen by the astronauts who circled the moon without landing.

FIVE OF A KIND make a full house. The Kienast quint, three girls and two boys born in February, leave New York City's Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center for their home in Far Hills, N.J. Mr. and Mrs. William Kienast are shown with nurses carrying Edward, Abigail, William, Sara and Amy.

THE END of a controversy. The bow of the aging Liberty ship LeBaron Russell Briggs is all that is visible as the ship sinks in the Atlantic Ocean, carrying with it a cargo of concrete coffins containing obsolete nerve gas.

CAMBODIAN MISSION—a huge task force ordered to cross the South Vietnamese border and destroy Communist sanctuaries and supply bases—is called "most successful operation" of Vietnam war by President Nixon. Here, some Cambodian youths give "V" sign to troops advancing through their country.

RUINS AND DEBRIS are all that is left of this street in Cuzco, Peru, after an earthquake and flood struck the city May 31. Tens of thousands of persons died in the disaster and many more were injured in what has been called the worst earthquake in Peru's history. Whole cities were wiped out in the catastrophe.

AIR MAILMAN. An Air Force member, turned temporary postal worker by Presidential order, sorts letters in New York City as servicemen tried to unclog mail in wake of postal workers strike.

TRAGIC START for the new year was the finding of the bodies of miners' union official Joseph A. Yablonski, his wife Margaret and daughter Charlotte on Jan. 5. The three had been shot to death in their home at Clarksville, Pa. In December, Yablonski had lost a bitter contest for presidency of the United Mine Workers.

John McCormack Retired Speaker    Charles de Gaulle Heart stilled    Edward Heath Wins in England    Gamal Nasser Egypt's loss    Timothy Leary Escape artist    Walter Reuther Crash victim    Harry Blackmun New justice    Prince Sihanouk Ousted    Janis Joplin Blues for fans    Jimi Hendrix Rocks no more    Harold Carswell Rejected    Bertrand Russell Dies at 97

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN CURE

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating an attractive widower for a year. He is in his early 60's. He takes me to nice places and is most considerate of me, but on the very first date he told me not to get serious with him. He wants to date me steady, but he doesn't want any "involvements." He wants to play house with me but tells me that marriage is not in his plans. He even tells me that he is in love with me, but he isn't this mean?

Should I give him up or just be satisfied to date him and hope he will change his mind?

NOT SO GAY DIVORCEE

DEAR NOT: He is trying to tell you that he doesn't want to marry you, but if you waste our time "hoping," you can't say he didn't warn you.

DEAR ABBY: One of my husband's business acquaintances has made it a habit to come here once a week for drinks and a nice thick steak dinner. He is middle-aged, divorced, and a kind of happy-go-lucky fellow. After dinner he and my husband play pool in our rec room.

I don't want to be bothered with the man every week. My husband is the kind who can't say "no" to anyone, and I am sick of this man imposing on us.

How can I get rid of him without making my husband angry at me?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: If your husband would be "angry at you" if you got rid of this man, then it's obvious that your husband wants him. It's his house, too, so advise you to start being a more gracious hostess, or your displeasure will show, and your husband will be "angry" at you anyway.

DEAR ABBY: My elderly mother, whom I love dearly, made her home with me for many years. Caring for her this past year has been a 24-hour-a-day job. She became senile and sick, lost control of all of her bodily functions, had to be fed and dressed and watched constantly. I am not complaining. She is my mother and I know she would have done the same for me—and gladly. Two months ago, her doctor insisted that she be moved to a sanatorium because the equipment essential for treatment was there, plus other factors which made keeping her at home impossible.

DEAR ABBY

Remark have come back to me that have hurt me deeply. You would think I committed my mother to a lunatic asylum or "put her away" like a criminal.

Abby, the sanatorium is one of the best—and one of the most expensive—which puts a strain on me financially, but if I had to scrub floors to provide my mother with the best of care, I would do it. Please print this. So many are quick to criticize when they don't know the facts.

"HURTY" DAUGHTER

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WORRIED"

I BRISTOL, CONN.: No one can "build up" an immunity to venereal disease. After treatment he can be reinfected again and again and again! I urge you to see a physician or go to your public health department. You will not be lectured. In your state a doctor is authorized by law to test and treat minors without the consent of parents. Venereal disease is now the second most common communicable infection in the United States. (The common cold is first!)

I urge you to see a physician at once.

Television In Review

By LEON DANIEL

BANGKOK (UPI)—It seems to me a shame that Bob Hope had to be stung by a report that young GIs regard him as an establishment figure, which of course he is.

It must have hurt the old trouper when he read that the kids don't like him as much as their fathers did, which of course is also true.

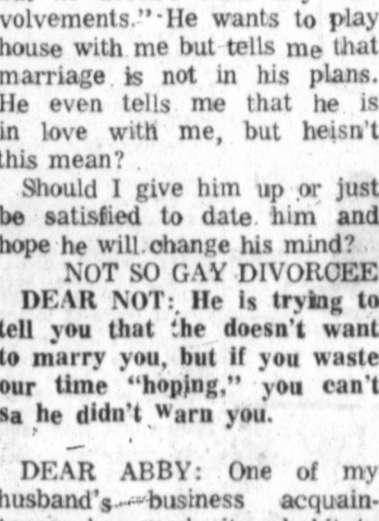

The 67-year-old comedian built a career, as well as a fortune, by needling the establishment, but a man who plays golf with presidents has to be part of it.

At Utopia, the B52 bomber base south of Bangkok, Hope and his 76-member troupe on their annual Christmas tour for GIs got a standing ovation.

That is a generous way to say the fellows kept applauding as they got up off the grass at the end of his show. But it was the

BERRY'S WORLD

... But I CAN'T get the picture in any better, that's a microwave oven!

Old Rapport Fades

It seemed to me then that the old rapport with the GIs was beginning to fade.

"At ease, men," he quipped. "Don't get up."

The broken young men from Vietnam grinned but the crack didn't quite come off.

The distance between hills named Pork Chop and Hamburger is measured in years, enough of them to change attitudes.

What I have observed is that few people seem interested these days in the state of the morale of youngsters fighting the Indochina War.

Hope still cares about such things and, because enough other people still do, filmed highlights of his 20th annual Christmas tour will be broadcast by NBC the night of Jan. 14.

Film Will Be Edited

The film no doubt will be heavily edited. All the crowds should be enthusiastic. All the lines should be buffed.

It probably will include some of the jokes on marijuana usage that got a lot of laughs from the youngsters in Vietnam. Hope's flacks interpret those laughs as proof that he is still making it as big as ever with young GIs.

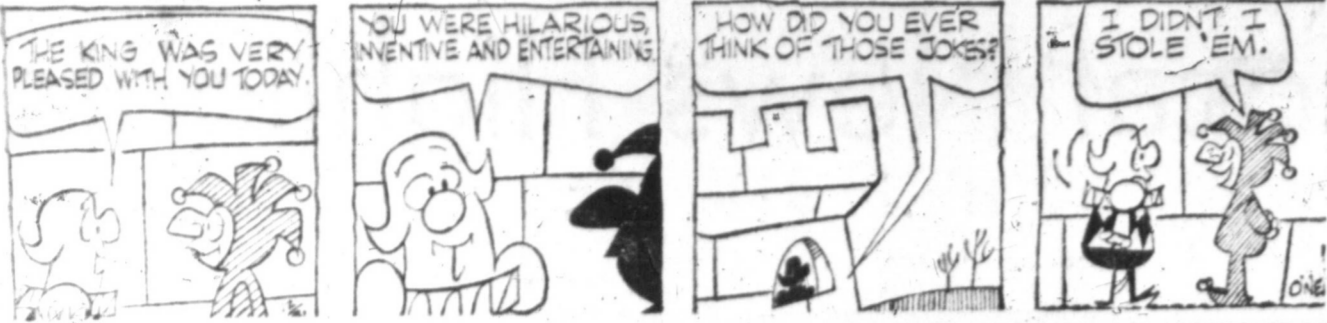

Here's another quote Hope's flacks were handing out in Bangkok:

"This year Bob not only found himself one of the 10 most popular Americans with teen-agers in a nationwide poll of high school students, but third in their esteem, ranking next to President Nixon and the kids' own parents."

His advance people didn't say who conducted that poll but they offered up another one by the Reader's Digest which showed America's youngsters "picked Bob and the Beatles as the top stars of the past decade."

JEANE DIXON Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, JAN. 1, 1971
Your birthday Friday—You now learn much from the pages around you. Emotional adjustment, deeper awareness of feelings of others comes naturally this year and next. Emerging psychic talents come strongly enough to cause a perceptual moment of stress—while most of us have latent powers, almost nobody knows how to cope with them appropriately. Your year is full of movement, probably many short journeys. Friday's natives are long of memory, and many drift into positions of great authority.

ARIES (March 21-April 19):—Make it as normal a day as the holiday conditions permit. Your friends are ready for any sort of activity. Fill the evening with lively conversation.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20):—If you are getting in more work than you are credited for, figure out something to do about it. Simplify your routines. Make a more austere diet, if your doctor approves.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Now is an excellent time to come to a work agreement or close a transaction. The later hours favor entertaining and socialization of cooperation among relatives.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): This weekend is a period of opportunity—social and ideas which open the door to advancement. You must make moves. Celebrate good news in the evening.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Get an early start—few others will manage this and take a look around. A beneficial modification is open only for the time being. Come to terms with a younger relative.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take a conventional approach in career matters, but go at it boldly, bringing with you all the help you can muster. Improving your local surroundings is possible now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Learning is Friday's main activity, although an offer to settle group money arrangements takes up promptly. Listen for several levels of information.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Delay your reaction to any intrusion; a better understanding helps resolve the matter. Conflict between personal and business affairs causes monetary inconvenience. Dispose of unused items.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): New Year's resolutions may actually work this year, at least in routine almost certain, perhaps in your home. Family life is comforting in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Extend your reach for a higher level of living. Begin a new course of self-improvement, health care. Plan some nice little surprises for your loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be aware of changing conditions so that you can revise your plans. Seek energetic associates. The more natural side of your personality surfaces now.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give and ask favors Friday, particularly of people of considerable resources; younger people with talent. You'll make a good career agreement at present.

Oklahoma Will Be Using Royal's Wishbone-T Play

By BOB DI PIETRO
UPI Sports Writer

Darrell Royal may help decide the winner of the Astro-Bluebonnet bowl.

That may seem strange because Royal coaches Texas and the Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day while Oklahoma battles Alabama in the 12th annual Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston's Astrodome on New Year's Eve tonight.

Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks has adapted Royal's wishbone-T offense and he makes no bones about going to the source for advice.

"I've talked to him (Royal) by phone several times since the season ended," Fairbanks said.

Oklahoma Favored

Oklahoma, 7-4, switched from the veer-T offense to the wishbone earlier in the season because the Sooners did not have the passing attack to make the veer-T work.

Oklahoma is a 2½ point favorite to defeat the Crimson Tide of coach Paul "Bear" Bryant (6-5).

The rest of the bowl lineup has Ohio State (9-0) the 9½ point choice over Stanford (8-3) in the Rose Bowl, Nebraska (10-0-1) picked by 6½ over Louisiana State University (9-2) in the Orange Bowl and Tennessee (10-1) tabbed by 9½ over Air Force (9-2) in the Sugar Bowl. Texas (16-0) is seen as being 3½ points better than Notre Dame (9-1) Auburn (8-2) and Mississippi in the Gator Bowl on Jan. 2 with Auburn picked by 8½.

"Alabama has not played against the wishbone this year, and we'll have to see what defense they use," observed Fairbanks.

Bama's Bryant: 'Prepared'

"I'm pleased with our preparation to recognize the wishbone," countered Bryant.

Although the tide has only three seniors on defense, Bryant said he felt "our defense has improved." Our offense usually beat our defense with turnovers.

This will be the third time the Sooners have entered a bowl game against a Bryant-coached team and the third time that they've entered the fray with the better record. The Sooners lost the two previous encounters, however.

Earlier Meetings

The first time was in the Sugar Bowl of 1951 when the Bear's Kentucky team disrespectfully downed the national champion Sooners, 13-7. It happened next in the 1962 Orange Bowl when the Crimson Tide scored a 17-0 victory over a Bud Wilkinson-coached Sooper squad that included Lance Rentzel, Joe Don Looney and Ralph Neeley.

Alabama's balanced attack is led by quarterback Scott Hunter, who hit 103 of 179 passes for 1,240 yards and eight touchdowns, and Johnny Musso, whose 1,137 yards rushing is the third highest season total in Southeastern Conference annals.

Oklahoma, which likes the running game, is paced by sophomore Joe Wylie, who gained 984 yards this season, surpassing the first-year season totals of Billy Vessel and Steve Owens, Oklahoma's Heisman Trophy winners.

Milestone In Sports Will Be On March 8

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—March 8, 1971, will mark a milestone in sports history.

That's the day agreed upon Wednesday for Joe Frazier, the world heavyweight champion, to meet Cassius Clay, the undisputed possession of the championship.

And making it that much sweeter will be the knowledge that the bout will be the richest one-shot sporting event in history, with a guarantee of $2.5 million to each fighter and an expected gross of close to $30 million.

'Spectacle Of All Time'

Jack Kent Cooke, the West Coast Millionaire Sportsman, who is behind the fight, set for Madison Square Garden in New York, termed the bout "the greatest entertainment and sports spectacle of all time."

Jerry Perenchio, president of Chartwell Artists of Los Angeles, copromoter along with Madison Square Garden, said closed-circuit television would provide the biggest payoff in sports history. Perenchio said there would be no radio broadcast of the fight in the United States or Canada nor would there be any delayed television tape setup. Perenchio said he hopes to have more than a million closed-circuit theater television seats available in the two countries.

Details of the fight were announced at a Wednesday afternoon news conference in which both fighters engaged in the now-routine bantering and both, as usual, predicted knockouts.

Both Are Undeclared

"The showdown is here," said Clay after arriving an hour late. "Al the talking is over. This match will match an amateur champion against a professional champion, which is me. Joe Frazier got his chance to be a champion when I sat down and I will beat him when we meet."

Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, said Frazier was "no champion" and told the present title holder: "I'm going to punch you all day."

Frazier, calmer and more controlled than Clay, countered with, "All does the talking, I do the fighting. He'll go in seven. He can call me anything he wants. We've got all the time in the world when we get in that ring."

Ali-Frazier Meet For First In Restaurant

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Somebody far back in the crowd was the first to spot him.

"He's here, he's here!" a shout went up.

Everybody immediately knew who "he" was. It had to be Muhammad Ali, or Cassius Clay if you like, and it was.

He had come downstairs at Toots Shor's Restaurant now ostensibly to sign the contracts for a world heavyweight title fight with Joe Frazier at Madison Square Garden March 8, contracts guaranteeing each $2.3 million, but what he had really come for was to put on another one of his inimitable shows.

A Magnificent Performance

This might have been his best ever.

He was all revved up. He gave a magnificent performance.

"Now I'm back to prove I'm best," Ali began in what started out as a monologue. "It's time to straighten the whole mess out... We're gonna settle this right now... We're gonna shut you all up... the press... the critics... everybody."

Ali, all dandied up in a moderately mod brown ensemble complete with gold-colored metal buttons, was ushered to a chair behind a six-foot table and sat to the left of benevolent-looking Edwin Dooley, commissioner of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Ali kept talking and both TV and still cameras kept clicking away.

"There's Joe Frazier!" said John Condon of the garden's publicity staff.

"Where's Frazier?" Ali said standing up. "Where is he? I wanna see him."

Fighting Postures

"Aw shuddup!" Joe Frazier said sitting down to the right of Dooley.

Ali shot a jab out across poor Dooley sitting there in between both men and Frazier said: "Don't tear my coat."

"I ain't tearin' your coat," Ali replied keeping his hand extended.

Frazier then got up and put his right fist inches from Ali's face. They grabbed each other momentarily.

"You ain't whipped nobody," Ali said.

"Let's have some attention," he went on, "the real champ is speaking."

"Siddown!" Joe Frazier said.

"Siddown!" Ali pretended he didn't even hear.

"I want Joe Frazier... I want Joe Frazier," he kept booming.

"You got me," Frazier said quietly.

'You Are In Trouble'

"I'm gonna jab you to death," Clay said, working himself up good now. "All you got is that hook and you'll never catch me. Your jab is too slow. Your feet are too slow. Frazier, you don't even look like no world champion. Too short. You think Ellis and Foster got you in the first couple rounds? Wait! I get through with you. I'm gonna whip you. You are in trouble. You are in trouble. You are in trouble."

Dooley couldn't take much more.

"Unless this preflight bickering stops," he announced, "they're each going to be fined $500 today. So they better cut out this... this... horse manure. That's the proper word but let's change it to 'bickering'."

The Predictions

Absolute silence followed. For 10 seconds.

Then Ali, in response to a question, got up again and said: "All I have to say is this: I am the two-time United States gold medal Olympic champion; the two-time United States national AAU champion and the Golden Gloves champion. When Joe Frazier first came into the light I already had defended my world championship against Zora Folley for the 10th time. They ask me if I'm ready for Joe Frazier. I'm not calling the round. This will be a good amateur meeting; a professional. This will be no contest."

Frazier said the fight wouldn't go the distance when they asked him for his prediction.

Later both fighters and the crowd of media people augmented somewhat by "friends" of the principals and just plain hangers-on moved into the dining room.

There Harry Markson, the Garden's boxing chief, said he expected the fight to be the biggest in history.

Notre Dame's Parseghian Is Happy To Be In Cotton Bowl

By MIKE RABUN
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI)—Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian wants to clear one thing up.

He is happy to be in Dallas and his players are happy to be in Dallas, even if they do open the local sports pages to see pictures of Nebraska and LSU players romping along Miami Beach with bikini-clad lassies in tow.

It had been reported soon after Notre Dame accepted the Cotton Bowl invitation that the Irish players had wanted to make the trip to Miami and take on the Nebraska Cornhuskers. But, the report went, Parseghian persuaded the players to opt for Dallas and the Cotton Bowl and the hopes of meeting No. 1 Texas.

That's not the way it went at all, Parseghian said. This is the way it went.

"After the Georgia Tech game," said Parseghian, "Father (Edmund) Joyce, who is head of our athletic council, came to me and said maybe we ought to take a straw vote of our players."

"We asked them four questions. We asked them if they would like to come to Dallas and play the winner of the Southwest Conference. We asked them if, instead, would they like to go to the Orange Bowl and probably play Nebraska. We asked them if they wanted to play in a game at all if we lost to LSU, and we asked them if they thought a bowl game would interfere with their studies."

The straw vote indicated the players did not think making a bowl trip would hamper their academic life, and, surprising to Parseghian, they said they would like to go bowling even if they did stumble against LSU.

"And they voted 52 per cent to 48 per cent in favor of making the Orange Bowl trip over the Cotton Bowl," Parseghian said. "I was surprised the vote would be that close."

Then came the LSU game and a squeaky 3-0 Notre Dame victory. Bowl invitations were offered by both the Orange and Cotton people.

"The vote was almost unanimous in favor of the Cotton Bowl," said Parseghian.

"The story which appeared about the players wanting to go to the Orange Bowl was based on the earlier vote."

And so Notre Dame came to Dallas and Parseghian and his players have found everything just fine. Well, almost everything.

Some of the Notre Dame players—flanker Tom Gatewood in particular—have complained about a dusty material floating up off the Cotton Bowl Astroturf.

"We have found out it is a sort of a film on theatrical turf," Parseghian said. "It makes the ball dry and the players hands dry."

"I'm told by an official at the University of Texas (which has had Astroturf on its playing field for two years) that the problem is inherent in the turf for about six months after its installation.

"I think we can solve it easily by spraying some tacky substance on the receivers and backs hands."

Bruins Are More Dangerous Than A Cornered Bear In Last Seconds

By United Press International

The Boston Bruins are never more dangerous to National Hockey League rivals than when they're wounded.

The Bruins were just that 4½ minutes into the second period when the Minnesota North Stars held a 2-0 lead and were outskating and outshooting the Boston strongmen.

Then it happened. Phil Esposito, Ed Westfall and John MacKenzie scored in rapid succession to give the Bruins a 3-2 lead at the end of the second period and Bobby Orr, Johnny Bucyk and Esposito added goals in the third period for a 6-2 Boston victory.

The triumph, the Bruins' 25th against six losses and give ties this season, moved them one point ahead of the idle New York Rangers in the race for first place in the NHL's Eastern Division. The Bruins fired 39 shots at Cesar Maniago while the Stars took 33 shots at Gerry Cheevers.

Center Dave Keon scored the 25th goal of his career and assisted on Gary Monahan's first-period goal to lead the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 3-1 victory over the California Golden Seals.

Marc Tardif scored on a 60-foot slapshot midway through the final period to earn the Montreal Canadiens a 3-3 tie with the Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Penguins had taken a 3-2 lead at the 16 of the second period and a goal by Glen Sather, which goalie Phil Myre but let trickle out of his glove into the net.

Ron Berson scored a goal and had four assists—twice helping Tim Ecclestone score—as the St. Louis Blues downed the Philadelphia Flyers, 5-2.

Andre Boudrias snapped a 1-1 tie with his 16th goal of the season at 6:10 of the third period and the Vancouver Canucks went on to defeat the Los Angeles Kings, 4-1.

Almost Countless String Of Holiday Tournaments Is Over With Top Teams Cruising To Victories

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The almost countless string of holiday tournaments is over with the top-ranked teams continuing to cruise along and a few highly-regarded squads catching their lumps.

UCLA, the nation's No. 1 team, had some unexpected problems with Pittsburgh Wednesday night before putting the Panthers away 77-64 to win the Steel Bowl tournament.

South Carolina, ranked second, survived a last-minute scare from fifth-ranked West tern Kentucky to win 56-54 and take the Holiday Festival in New York. Third-ranked Marquette stopped Wisconsin 72-69 to win its third consecutive Milwaukee Classic.

Southern California, ranked fourth, defeated Houston 77-64 to capture the Trojan Invitational.

Some Favorites Dumped

While the leaders struggled to victory, others weren't so lucky. Western Kentucky didn't lose too much prestige with its fine showing against South Carolina, but eighth-ranked Jacksonville suffered a stunning 78-77 defeat at the hands of Wake Forest in the Gold Coast Classic and Villanova (No. 10) was dumped for the second straight night, losing 103-87 to Michigan in a Rainbow Classic consolation game.

Kansas (No. 11) won the Big Eight Tournament with a 72-52 romp past Nebraska and Tennessee (No. 12) stopped Michigan State 81-70 in a Trojan consolation. But St. John's (N.Y.) suffered its second consecutive loss, 94-80 to Providence in a Holiday Festival consolation. Oregon (No. 17) fell to Oregon State 69-64 in the Far West tournament. Indiana (one of three ranked 18) beat Ohio State 85-77 in the consolation game of that tourney.

Utah State ripped Louisiana State 97-81 in a battle of 18th-ranked teams in the All College tournament.

John Brodie Is Listening To His Coach On Dallas Defensive Play

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—You can bet San Francisco quarterback John Brodie has been listening to his coach this week during sessions on the Dallas defense.

No one, with the exception of the Dallas coaching staff, probably knows as much about the Cowboy defense as Forty Niner coach Dick Nolan, who coached the defense for Dallas mentor Tom Landry and thus knows the Cowboy veterans' strengths and weaknesses.

Nolan says, however, that his knowledge of the Dallas defense won't give the 49ers an advantage over the Cowboys Sunday in the National Football Conference championship game, because he has been away from the Texas team for almost three years. "Some changes have been made," Nolan said.

In Dallas, Landry acknowledged that the two teams' basic formats would be about the same.

"But we'll change things up a little to try and confuse him and I know he'll change things some," he said. "So we really don't know what to expect."

Harvesters Defeat Odessa High In Final Hobbs Game

The hustling Harvesters pulled out of defeat in their final game of the Hobbs Invitational Basketball Tournament by defeating Odessa High 83 to 59 Wednesday afternoon.

The Harvesters were battling to keep out of the number eight hole of the tournament and by defeating Odessa they finished seventh. Odessa had three men in double figures in the Harvesters victory. Thornhill with 18, Been with 14 and Shields with 12 but between the three of them couldn't pull enough points for a win over the desperate Pampa team.

Mike Jordan, after a few games of rest came back with his second 19 point game of the season. Jordan has almost interest factor for about two games and then comes back in the superstar slot.

Donnie Cain after having a rough go of it in the first two games pulled 15 points against Odessa and should develop into a fine basketball player in the next few years.

Mike Edgar played a good game knocking down eleven points for the Harvesters but was hampered by foul trouble in the third quarter of play.

Richard Buntun playing one of his best defensive games of the season didn't score as many as his team-mates but set up many of Pampa's points. His rebounding is still up to par as well as his determination to win.

"O'Reliable" is a tag to be used by Marsh Gambin. Gambin who has averaged over ten points per game for the season keeps on raising his total points. Gambin and his fantastic set shots from the outside gave the Harvesters 16 points in the Odessa High defeat.

Other Harvesters to be looking for are Freddie Wilbon, Gary Haynes, Micky Sims and Larry Knutson.

Phoenix Suns Make It A Great Night For Arizona

By United Press International

The Phoenix Suns made it a great night for the state of Arizona.

After having the start of their Wednesday night game delayed so that Arizona fans could watch Arizona State's football team thump North Carolina in the Peach Bowl, the Suns did some thumping of their own as they ripped the Los Angeles Lakers 132-114.

Centers Neil Walk and Mel Counts combined for 44 points as the Suns broke open a close game in the second half to win easily. Walk had 23 points and a game high 15 rebounds and Counts, a former Laker, had 21.

Wilt Chamberlain led Los Angeles with 32 points while Jerry West had 27.

In other National Basketball Association play Wednesday night, Philadelphia downed Milwaukee 119-107, New York beat San Francisco 111-103, Detroit edged Cincinnati 119-115, Baltimore ripped Buffalo 106-90 and Seattle beat Chicago 128-109.

Billy Cunningham scored 10 of his 35 points during a fourth quarter surge and tossed in 17 consecutive free throws to power the 76ers over the Bucks.

Walt Frazier, Dave DeBusschere and Bill Bradley keyed a late-game rally that enabled the Knicks to beat San Francisco.

Dave Bing scored 28 points to lead the Pistons over Cincinnati and Jack Marin scored 11 of his 24 points in the first period to lift Baltimore past Buffalo.

Dick Snyder's 25-point performance boosted Seattle over Chicago.

Thoughts For New Year

Not only a new year, but a new decade, is upon us. The past, for better or for worse, is gone, finished, kaput. And, as Omar put it in the Rubaiyat, neither sorrow, nor cunning, nor tears can "cancel half a Line" or "wash out a Word of it."

But, does that mean that the past should be forgotten? Not at all. In fact, it is only by reviewing the past—the wrong decisions made, the consequences suffered as a result of those decisions, and the lessons learned thereby—that we can hope to correct our mistakes and go forward to a brighter future. There is more truth than cliché in the warning that those who do not learn from history are doomed to repeat it.

In the beginning, of course (a fact largely unknown today), the marking of the New Year was a priestly function attended by ritual, rigid ceremony, and the offering of sacrifices, human and otherwise, to various gods as bribes for favored treatment. Upon the proper observance of these rituals, ceremonies and sacrifices depended, so it was thought, the fertility of the tribe, the bounty of the harvest, the mildness of the weather, and other phenomena for the coming year. In the cold north, for example, primitive man believed that the return of the sun from its apparent journey south in the winter would not occur without his prayers and exhortations.

We know better today. We know that rituals have nothing to do with human fertility or the paucity or plenty of crops, that the seasons will come and go, and that the earth will continue wheeling around the sun, no matter what we do, even if we devastate its surface.

And traditionally, over the years, although celebrated at different times in various places, the New Year has developed into an occasion when man, recalling his bad judgement and mistakes of the past, has resolved to do better in the future.

Some pool-pool the practice, of course, pointing out that "good resolutions" made on New Year's day are soon forgotten and broken. And that is true, of course; the breakage rate is terrific. But the pool-poolers miss the import of the practice, we think. For, in resolving to do better in the future, the individual is demonstrating his capacity to rise above his myth and superstition ridden past and a healthy awareness that actions DO have consequences, that his actions today WILL have an impact on his tomorrows, and that he is NOT a helpless pawn in a world he never made.

What, then, is our message for the coming year?

The people of the world, perhaps as never before, are in a reflective mood. Let us resolve, both in our relations with our immediate neighbors and with others further abroad, to compete with ideas and productivity, rather than the resort to force and use of arms. Let us begin thinking and acting like free and peaceful people as we have never thought and acted before.

When it is recalled how the IDEAS voiced in the Declaration of Independence raged around the world in a time of slow communication, there is reason to believe that, in a time of almost instant communication, the PEOPLE of the world, as differentiated from their conflict oriented governments, will accept the IDEAS of freedom and peaceful competition IF we begin really believing them, living them, and applying them here at home.

Doctor George Boardman, some months before his death wrote: "As long as I believe in the philosophy of freedom, I am unable to think in terms of force and compulsion and threats." If the reader will reflect upon that statement, we believe it will become readily apparent that, only by the acceptance and growth of that philosophy do we have a chance to ever emancipate the warring governments of the world which, with a vested interest in keeping people at each others' throats, continue to grow and expand feeding upon the proclivity, for violence in individual man which, in turn, stems from the mistaken belief that force is a proper means to an end.

If once it is ever realized that the only way this world is ever going to be made a better and safer place to live is by individuals, one by one, improving themselves, then it will be seen, we think, that efforts directed at mass conversion via resort to coercion and force must prove fruitless and can, in fact, only add to the reservoir of enmity in the world.

And, if this be so, it follows that a place for major examination and improvement of the self relates to our willingness to objectively judge the motivations of the other fellow. When we find ourselves out of harmony with someone, it is so easy to attribute evil intent to them. After all, we reason, our own motivations are "good" and, therefore, those of the other person must be "bad."

But this is usually not the case. Our differences rarely relate to motivation. They relate to incomplete and incorrect assessment of information and, as a consequence, to the use of wrong means to achieve an otherwise laudable end. Even if we do not understand the other person, it is usually wiser to assume ignorance and error than to presume evil intent.

The same applies to people in government: ours, as well as others. They are not "evil" people intent on destroying the world as it often appears, but merely mistaken people with wrong ideas and a swollen sense of omnipotence who believe that we are incapable of governing ourselves. Unfortunately, by our actions, we too often lend credence to their mistaken beliefs.

Let us, beginning with the New Year, show them that they are wrong. Let us emasculate government with its warmaking potential, not by recourse to violence and revolution, but by refusing to use government to impose our ideas, beliefs and values upon others. Let us, by making use of the peaceful and voluntary exchange of the market place, show the mistaken people in government that we have no need of them to manage us, and regulate us, and rob us, and draft us "for our own good."

If we can do this at home, never fear, the world will be watching.
Happy New Year!

Hooray for that governor of California. He must have yashed somebody's mouth out with soap. A fellow named Vandergriff who is welfare agent has said—

"The state has no business providing a financial incentive for immorality, irresponsibility or family breakup..."

Which I have been saying right along. The only trouble is, only the welfarees seem to understand it—never the bureaucrat. But Vandergriff goes on—

"Unwed pregnant minors from middle and higher income families are being granted aid, often without regard to the resources of their parents or the prospective father."

Hooray again. This all came about thru an unwed woman who refused to name the father of the child, plus the governor's new policy to "squeeze and cut and trim" the Medical budget.

They have a $140 million deficit in California's programme. Other states do too, more or less, but the bureau-cats only holler for more money, instead of looking for ways to cut down.

THE POLITICS OF HUNGER

While many of the former Kennedy New Frontiersmen have discarded hunger as a political cause, finding increased mileage in attacks on the "military-industrial complex," a rearguard of officeholders associated with the Kennedys continues to press the hunger issue.

The public is reminded of this by the publication of The Case Against Hunger by U.S. Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, a close associate of the Kennedy clan. This book is an important political document, for it describes the Kennedys and their allies as concerned about hungry people and presents the Nixon administration as unconcerned.

Political reporters will note the intensity of Sen. Hollings' praise of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. He says: "Kennedy channelled all of his restless energy into helping the disadvantaged. He knew where hunger struck most tragically—in children—and Bob Kennedy loved children." Other Americans might reach a different conclusion, namely, that Robert Kennedy channelled all of his restless energy into helping himself and Kenned family political causes, using family political causes, using emotional issues with great shrewdness.

Writers who are following the struggle inside the Democratic Party for the vice presidential spot in 1972 certainly won't overlook these comments by Sen. Hollings on leadership of the anti-hunger fight: "Martin Luther King tried, but they said he was only trying to keep his movement alive. When Ralph Abernathy tried, they charged him with the need for an issue." Generous observations of this kind surely won't be ignored by the party leadership, especially if Sen. Edward Kennedy dominates the '72 nominating convention.

The political aspects of The Case Against Hunger are too significant to overlook, but the substance of Sen. Hollings' position deserves equally close attention. His case is summed up in the final section of the book on "suggestions for a national policy."

Sen. Hollings says: "Enough money must be made available to the poor so that they can eat and achieve at least a decent standard of living." Note that wording: "made available." It may sound humanitarian to some readers. But the "only way to make money 'available' to welfare cases is to take it in the form of taxes from productive, working people. And how will we make money 'available' to taxpayers who have to foot the bill for a free food stamp existence on the part of non-workers?"

Sen. Hollings also calls for a "total, nationwide effort to recruit every family eligible to participate in food programs." Do the American people want to go all out in encouraging a dependent existence? Do they want to spread food stamps around the country like manna from heaven—at tax-payer expense?

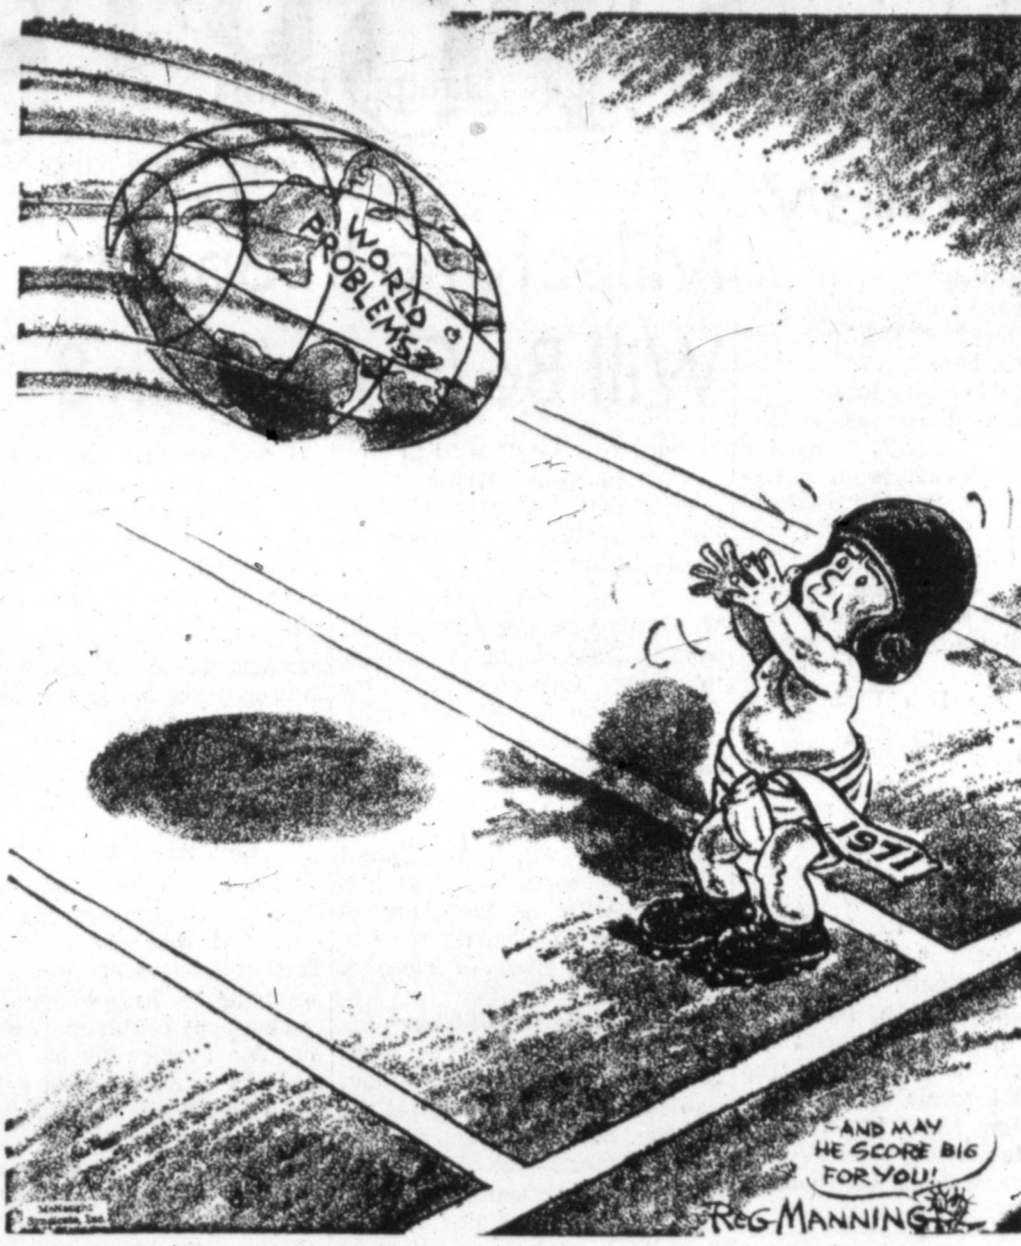

Sen. Hollings also insists that "stamps and commodities must be available at all times, not just once or twice a month, and at as many locations as possible." He says that "people should be allowed to buy what they feel they can afford." In other words, the senator argues for virtual abandonment of controls on the food stamp program.

In addition, the junior senator from South Carolina says that "national health insurance must be expanded," a position with which the bulk of the nation's doctors disagree.

The Case Against Hunger is a remarkable book for a Southern senator in that it is so completely in line with the Eastern Liberal Establishment's giveaway philosophy. He even criticizes the Nixon's Family Assistance proposal for concentrating on work for welfare recipients!

Sen. Hollings calls for a "War on Hunger," but his "suggestions for a national policy" may strike many citizens as a war on working, taxpaying people who pay for giveaways.

U.S. Troops Won't Be Used To Fight War In Cambodia

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)

Take it as gospel when President Nixon says he isn't going to use U.S. ground troops in the Cambodian war.

This is only partly due to American public opinion, though that certainly is a factor.

The plain and simple fact is that the United States has at last learned that native people fight better when they're running their own wars and must depend on their own men (with U.S. air, sea and dollar support).

This is a lesson Mao Tse-tung has taught for a long time—to anyone who would listen.

He refused to put Chinese troops in Vietnam (though he did put in labor units and some advisers).

Through Lin Piao, he publicly warned Ho Chi Minh that putting a heavy load of North Vietnamese troops in the south might lose him the war. And this may turn out to be the truth.

Like Ho Chi Minh and Mao, the United States had to learn this lesson the hard way. In three wars in Southeast Asia.

Take Laos. When U.S. aid was heavy and Americans had a major hand in running the show, they complained vigorously that Lao troops would run at the rumor of North Vietnamese forces around the next bend. This was all too frequently true.

But when the American forces left, the Lao did not collapse. Slowly, erratically and sometimes frustratingly, they began to claw their way upward as a fighting force. Not all units. But some. They are no longer pushovers.

Take Vietnam, where the United States began by Americanizing the war, only to find the Vietnamese (often by necessity) began to leave the fighting to us. But we began to learn that where the South Vietnamese had to fight they could. And at Tet 1968 we (and they) learned that they would, when the chips were down. As American troops leave, we're learning that the South Vietnamese are becoming a fighting force. In part, this is due to a steady upgrading of equipment, officers and training. But a chunk of the new spirit comes from the realization that this is going to be their war.

And lastly, Cambodia. The Cambodians were on their own (as ground forces) from the beginning, except for U.S. and South Vietnamese diversionary attacks on Viet Cong-North Vietnamese bases and some other excursions by the South Vietnamese forces. The Cambodians had no experience in war these many years. The small army was expanded with raw, inexperienced recruits at an incredible rate. These virtually untrained men were thrown green into battle.

And they have done incredibly well against the hardened veterans of the North Vietnamese and VC have thrown against them. They're still on their feet long after military analysts have counted them down and out.

The thing the United States has learned in this war is that men will fight for their homes when it's them facing the invader. They may not fight expertly. But when the crunch comes they will fight bravely. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

NATO OBLIGATIONS

Administration assurances to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that our forces will not be reduced corresponded with an obviously stiffened attitude by Great Britain and West Germany toward the Soviet Union. Our NATO allies were told that U.S. strength in Europe would not be cut unless "there is reciprocal action on our adversaries' part."

The President's message was read in Brussels, where high officials of Britain and West Germany warned of Soviet power that is now being broadened from the Indian Ocean to Central Europe. They called for a stronger military posture by the West and talked less about a detent with Moscow.

And well they might sound warnings and well we might heed them. A rapidly expanding Russian high sea fleet has pushed into the Mediterranean and Indian oceans. Her ground forces along the Iron Curtain remain massive. Her capability in nuclear weapons reportedly is growing; some fear it now outstrips ours.

It has been argued, and not without some merit, that the might of the communist forces in Europe would overwhelm the NATO military effort in a few short days after war broke out. This may or may not be true. But we have a solemn treaty obligation to our allies and so far our muster in Europe has gone unchallenged by the aggressive Red Army. Our very presence there has probably been the deterrent. That deterrent ought to be kept in being until such time as men forsake war and live in peace.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers suggested that the Warsaw Pact powers talk to NATO about a mutual reduction in forces. But it was pointed out in Brussels that Moscow has always opposed such talks. We cannot be optimistic at this time that Moscow will change its tune.

Bipartisan Group Set To Reopen Probe of Douglas

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — A bipartisan move is being launched to reopen the investigation of Justice William O. Douglas — this time by an independent committee selected from the general membership of the House.

Charging that the recent report of the three Democrats controlling the House Judiciary Subcommittee was a glaring "whitewash," a bipartisan group is set to offer immediately after the convening of the new Congress a resolution for a sweeping probe by a special six-member committee of the extrajudicial financial affairs and activities of the ultra-liberal jurist.

Spearheading this new demand are Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., Joe Waggoner, D-La., and William Scott, R-Va.

They have long been in the forefront of the effort to thoroughly explore Douglas' off-the-bench operations — which official records reveal enabled him to pocket $473,940 above his salary in the years 1960-1969. It was their clamor for such an investigation that caused Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee and strong Douglas partisan, to abruptly name a sub-committee to conduct an inquiry.

After seven months of secret deliberations, Celler and two other Democratic committee members produced a report clearing Douglas of wrongdoing. These findings were caustically assailed in a dissenting opinion by Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich.

Wyman, former attorney general of New Hampshire, in explaining the new move to reopen the Douglas probe, declared the Celler Subcommittee report "raised more questions about Douglas' conduct than ever before."

Wyman pointed out that the document "doesn't reflect a single word of testimony under oath or otherwise, and that Douglas received nearly one-half million dollars in extrajudicial income while on the Supreme court, as well as gifts, favors and reimbursed travel, hotels, meals and all the rest."

"And no one asked him to testify about these matters. Why not?" continued Wyman. "There should be an objective, meaningful investigation by an independent committee of the House, under oath and with adversary attitude. Then, and only then, can the American people really know whether or not Justice Douglas has been of the 'good behavior on which his judicial tenure is conditioned by the Constitution.'"

APPEAL TO HOUSE MEMBERS — Last spring, at the time Judiciary Chairman Celler sprang his diversionary probe, the Wyman group had the signatures of 116 Republican and Democratic congressmen on a resolution calling for an independent investigation.

In a move to renew this broad-gauged bipartisan support, the group is sending a memorandum to every member of the new House citing the need for a "meaningful" probe of Douglas. The legislators are being asked to co-sponsor the resolution that will be introduced on the first day of the new Congress.

"We do not consider that the Judiciary Subcommittee conducted a meaningful investigation into the charges," says the memorandum. "It called no witnesses, took no testimony under oath and held no hearings. The report, consisting of the views of the three Democrats controlling the subcommittee, was simply an attempt to whitewash some very serious charges of misconduct by a sitting member of the highest court in the land."

The memo points out that the new resolution does not call for impeachment. "It requires an investigation into possible 'misdeemeanors,'" states the memo, "or lack of 'good behavior' as these phrases appear in the Constitution."

As drafted by the Wyman group, the resolution sets up a special six-member committee made up of three Republicans and three Democrats. The panel is given subpoena power and directed to report its findings to the House within five months.

"The special committee," says the resolution, "shall proceed to investigate and determine whether Justice William O. Douglas has committed high crimes and misdemeanors, or has failed to be of the good behavior upon which his commission as a justice is conditioned by the Constitution."

Thank You, George Blanda

By PAUL HARVEY

Football is mostly behind us for another season. Your team either did well or did not. But every man over 40 enters a new year with renewed self-confidence. Thank you, George Blanda.

Do you realize, at the beginning of this football season George Blanda was available to anybody? His phenomenal record notwithstanding, he'd had 43 birthdays. When not one of those other 25 teams offered him a job, he resumed practicing with Oakland's Raiders.

He's been kicking those other teams and they've been kicking themselves ever since.

In game after game after game, the old man came off the bench to replace ailing or ineffectual quarterback Daryle Lamonica. Five games in a row, George Blanda passed or ran or kicked his team to a come-from-behind victory in the closing minutes.

And he'd have made it six in a row except for a teammate's untimely offside and the resultant penalty.

Off season George Blanda is a near neighbor in LaGrange, Ill. We know him mostly as a golfer and handball player, never letting himself get much over his playing weight of 218.

George started pro football with Chicago's Bears in 1949 and in the years since has kicked more field goals, more extra points, and has completed more passes in one game (37) than any other player in history.

So he did not "come out of nowhere" this season to bring spectators to their feet screaming. But his renaissance was perfectly timed.

Pro football had been fragmented by too many teams and scandalized in books by ex-players purporting to reveal "insider" information to player welfare by some teams' management, doctors, sinister and seamy aspects of the lives of some players.

Then along came George. And Sunday after Sunday he'd trot onto the field to do what men half his age had tried to do and could not do.

And all of us armchair athletes would watch the snap, the fake, the pass, it's good! The snap, it's spotted, the kick, it's good!

Quarterbacking with savvy gleaned from 270 games over twenty-one seasons, Old George would pass and scramble and pilot his team to first down after first down after first down to victory.

Raider center Jim Otto says "George is out there getting banged by 270-pound tackles, getting up to pass with poise or run like the wind and all the time yelling encouragement to us."

Coach John Madden says "George asks nothing, gets nothing because of his age. When we need him he's ready, when we use him he fires up the whole team."

Tell old George that a young waitress in downtown Oakland is taking bets that Blanda could kick one "over the Rockies," he just grins.

And those of us who admired great passers Sammy Baugh and Charlie Conerly and Y.A. Tittle who hung in there until they were 38 get a great lift from good-natured, easygoing George Blanda who at 43—at least—just had his greatest year and is still looking forward.

Wit And Whimsy

We know several people who are employed, though not working.

Do two-faced women need twice as much make-up?

New Year's resolutions are like heirloom china; lovely to contemplate, but they're apt to shatter at the slightest strain.
