Both Parties In Texas Put Ok On Tickets

Near-Riot Occurs In G. O. P. Convention At Dallas; Repeal Favored

DALLAS (AP)—Nominees for president and vice-president were endorsed overwhelmingly by Texas Democrats and Republicans in county conventions Saturday. Early reports were that the Democratic platform, including the plank advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment, also was approved generally. Some conventions were stormy. Dallas county Republicans had a near riot over factional control. One partisan was knocked down by another and hit a policeman with a cane. He was taken to the police station. The Harris county Democratic meeting was thrown into an uproar by a resolution condemning President Hoover's actions in the bonus army disturbances at Washington. A vote by individual precincts favored adoption of the resolution.

The board of city commissioners of Abilene, where the mayor is the executive officer and there is no city manager to put all of his time into administering municipal affairs, set the tax rate at $2.10, a reduction under last year's rate, but the officials were not only set at the rate before the board of equalization met. They also based that budget on 100 per cent collection of taxes.

If property valuations are reduced in the board of equalization meeting—and they certainly won't be raised this year—and if only about 65 per cent of taxes are paid see where they will be.

Big Spring could save a lot off her tax rate under a budget based on collection of all taxes levied. But she'd be in the hole at the end of the year. Having a city manager trained for just such emergencies as this year presents, Big Spring is on the black side and not the red side of the ledger. Prospects are she will remain there.

Expenses of operating the Big Spring city government have been greatly reduced and the city officials are watching every day, figuring additional means of making reductions. They are making a serious, successful effort and should be encouraged. The same goes for the county commissioners. Instead of heaping more difficulties upon the unusually heavy amount they have in times like this citizens should lend their cooperation in such worthy efforts as are being made by the city and county officials.

In 41 West Texas counties Sterling and Ferguson forces will vie for a prize of 25,384 votes cast for Tom Hunter in the first primary.

In these counties Ferguson received 25,671 and Sterling 22,065 votes. The proportion of votes cast in this section of West Texas for Hunter and Sterling was much larger than for the entire state.

Mrs. Ferguson carried 17 counties, Hunter 11, Sterling 12 and Hunter second in 11 and Sterling second in 11, Mrs. Ferguson was third in two, Jeff Davis and Mitchell; Hunter was third in Andrews, Bandera, Brewster, Coke, Crane, Crockett, Ector, Hudspeth, Kimball, Midland, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Sutton, Upton, Uvalde, Winkler. Sterling was third in Brown, Coleman, Comanche, Concho, Edwards, Gillespie, Howard, Irich, Kimball, Llano, Lubbock, Martin, Mason, McCulloch, Menard, Nolan, Runnels, San Saba.

Ferguson carried Andrews, Bandera, Coke, Coleman, Crane, Edwards, Gillespie, Irion, Kimble, Llano, Martin, Nolan, Runnels, San Saba, Upton, Uvalde, Winkler and tied with Hunter in Glasscock. Hunter carried Comanche, Concho, Howard, Lubbock, Martin, Mason, McCulloch, Mitchell, Schleicher and Tom Green. Sterling carried Brewster, Crockett, Ector, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Midland, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Sterling, Sutton.

The Texas Election Bureau is preparing to tabulate one million votes in the second primary. The first primary vote went to 910,000 or more. Officials of the bureau, a non-political organization maintained by newspapers for the purpose of gathering and tabulating election returns much more rapidly than would be done without some special set-up, usually are about the best forecasters of the size of the vote.

If one million votes are cast Texas will not have a new governor for two more years. If 900,000.

Lead Regained By Woods In Race For Superintendent

DALLAS—L. A. Woods of Waco assumed a lead of about 15,000 votes over C. N. Shaver of Huntsville in the race for state superintendent of public instruction as additional returns were received from last Saturday's democratic primary. Shaver, who was appointed state superintendent by Gov. R. S. Sterling after the death of D. M. N. Marra, had been leading Woods by narrow margins on most tabulations of the Texas Election Bureau. The reversal in standing came with complete returns from Tarrant county. Returns from 253 out of 254 counties, including 2213 complete, gave Woods 412,002 and Shaver 396,704.

Bolivia And Paraguay Are Near Warfare

Two Forts Reported Taken In Disputed Area By Paraguay
LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Bolivia was in an uproar of war fever Saturday on the basis of a government communique announcing that Bolivian troops captured two Paraguayan forts, Corrales and Toledo, in the disputed jungles of Gran Chaco.

Contributions to a war chest grew by leaps and bounds. Newspapers carried stories of foreigners as well as Bolivians donating money for defense of the fatherland. Reports there that Paraguay was purchasing martial of war, including airplanes.

Howard County Democratic Party Gives Delegates Dry Instruction

Howard county, which went two to one for re submission, one week ago in the democratic primary, will be represented by a dry instructed delegation in the state Democratic convention in Lubbock early in September. Resolutions introduced by Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas committing the state Democratic party to a dry plank and enforcement instead of repeal, and binding delegates from Howard county to vote for "dry men only" as members of the state Democratic executive committee carried without a dissenting vote. In a meeting entirely devoid of oratory, the Howard county Democratic convention Saturday selected Mrs. Clyde Thomas, Dr. J. R. Spann, Mrs. Fox Stripling, and E. Reagan as delegates to the state convention. Thomas J. Coffee, M. H. Morrison, F. P. Cantrell, and George White were selected as delegates to the district convention at Lubbock August 27. Speaking from his study over radio the Democratic nominee quoted from the party platform which he called forthright and genuine. He declared the only hope for improved conditions lay in a drastic change in economic and government policies. He condemned the Republican tariff.

The hold-up men gained admission and held up the crowd. At the knock of the Ranger captain on the outer door, they answered it, as they had been instructed. The 125 occupants of the roadhouse were relieved at the sight of the rangers as they had feared they would have to be searched by the "stick-up" men.

If We Had The Saloons—

If prohibition had nothing more to its credit than the absence of the saloons during this period of depression, that one achievement should be sufficient to justify its being given a further chance to demonstrate its value.

Manager Lois Madison of the Big Spring All-Stars and Skipper Julian Vega of the Mexican Tigers put on an excellent interpretation of two small boys squabbling over a stick of candy or some other such valueless article yesterday.

Manager Madison stood on the East Third diamond. Around him were gathered his Cosmos friends, Earl Reed, Les Walker, Bud Mahoney, Young Cook and such athletic stalwarts as Bob Potter, Billy Bass and so on.

As to which was right we dare not express our opinion. However, the last game between the two teams was, we believe, played on the East Third field. In case of error we hastily, immediately and at once, apologize.

Years ago, as narrated before, the writer and another little boy used to quarrel over whose yard we'd play in. However, there was a little girl's about halfway between the block and we always compromised by playing there.

Maybe next year the United States will win the Davis cup. America has, we are sure, the greatest players in the world. Day in and day out Ellsworth Vines is the best player in the universe.

And that reminds us that the Philadelphia Athletics haven't won the American League pennant yet and are still games and games behind the flying Yankees.

Walter Duff of San Angelo, well-known sportsman, says there is not a flaw against the eligibility of George Delker, Robert fullback, and despite the charge made by the Brantow district officials will approve Delker's record.

Smitty Smith, the Brady sports writer, comes forward with a statement that Blondy Cross is without a doubt, the greatest, wisest, and most truthful sports critic and chronicler in West Texas.

We drank some of that stuff once and that night kicked the clock out doors and wound up the cat.

The Olympic games and the continuation of the Davis Cup play offer an interesting week of athletics. The United States is almost sure to sweep the Olympics on the unofficial point tabulation, but is expected to have a close run of it for first places with Finland, even though Paavo Nurmi is once and for all time declared ineligible for amateur competition.

Texas fans can sit back and read reports of how Babe Didrikson won the women's division for the Stars and Stripes. Incidentally Babe is her real name, and she does not like to be called Mildred.

"Let these men contemplate the terrific disorders which would have occurred if booze had been legally and freely sold among the unemployed. Imagine turning a few heads into the center of a mob which was already inflamed by alcohol."

"Prohibition, incomplete as it is, began by destroying the rallying places for plotters against the public peace—the saloons," remarked Willis J. Abbot, editor of the Christian Science Monitor. "It then put the workman on a new and higher social and economic plane which made him less responsive to the suggestions of revolutionary agitators. No factor which led to riotous outbreaks at the times of the Homestead or the American Railway Union strikes is missing today except the open saloon. It is only logical to conclude that to be steady in these stormy days. On the contrary they try to convince a confused public that the dry law is to blame for a depression that is worldwide, and that is far less under control in countries that license the sale of liquor than in the United States.—(Submitted by W.C.T.U.)"

Manager Lois Madison of the Big Spring All-Stars and Skipper Julian Vega of the Mexican Tigers put on an excellent interpretation of two small boys squabbling over a stick of candy or some other such valueless article yesterday.

Now you and I remember that when we were very, very young we would draw a line in the ground with our toe and dare the other fellow to step across. If the party of the second part was anywhere near our size he would do the same, making sure that the lines were so apart that they wouldn't coincide. Then we would hurl challenges, verbal abuse, and derisive glances across the safety of that mark.

Manager Madison stood on the East Third diamond. Around him were gathered his Cosmos friends, Earl Reed, Les Walker, Bud Mahoney, Young Cook and such athletic stalwarts as Bob Potter, Billy Bass and so on. Mr. Madison announced to whoever questioned him that he was waiting for the Tigers to show up and then he would have his ball club could lick the socks off the North Siders. Over on the sandlot north of the tracks Julian Vega's team went through batting and infield practice, and Vega confided his friends that he didn't see why people thought Lola Madison had a ball club when his could knock 'em all over the North Side sandlot.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Adjournment at Geneva

After long months of patient negotiation the Disarmament Conference at Geneva is on the point of adjourning until next January. No definite agreements which actually limit or reduce armaments have been reached and the formal statement of principles, hopes and intentions which the conference will publish appears at best to imply a moral obligation to keep on trying to make real agreements. To recognize this is no ground for complaining about the work of the conference or of the governments represented. On the contrary, the conference itself has been a great achievement; to have kept fifty nations talking amiably about their vital interests, to have explored and debated questions which touch the pride, the honor and the fears of so many peoples, to have had no explosions but rather to have increased understanding, is in any broad perspective a unique performance. Nothing like it has ever been attempted before in the whole history of the world and not to have failed ignominiously is almost a triumph.

The primary credit belongs to the delegates, to the foreign offices and to the Secretariat of the League of Nations. The delegates have conducted themselves as honest and civilized men, disdaining with a restraint which is beyond all praise, the easy popularity which any of them could have won by appealing to the passions of the voters at home. The opportunities for profitable mischief have been enormous. No one exploited them. When it is recalled how much informed people dreaded the convening of the conference at a time of such disorder in the world, how much fear there was that Geneva would be used as a stage on which to make spectacular gestures, it is a cause for wonder and for confidence in the ultimate integrity of men that the adjournment comes with the governments better prepared than they ever were before to reach agreements.

In this achievement, President Hoover and Secretary Stimson played a great part. They have been persistent and resolute and loyal. The American delegation at Geneva, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Davis, Mr. Wilson, Senator Swanson and Miss Woolley, has performed a kind of public service for which there can never be adequate public appreciation because the most important part of it consists in things done for which no credit can be taken. The prodigious patience which such negotiation requires, the tenacity and the tact and the ingenuity which are needed to keep a conference of this kind harmoniously in being are difficult to imagine and almost impossible to describe.

With the technical discussions about various kinds of armaments few of us can be or need to be concerned. The actual form that limitation and reduction may eventually take will not greatly matter. What does matter is the evolution of the will to limit and reduce. The terms of the actual treaty will be merely a concrete record and a series of symbolic facts that register the progress of the nations toward confidence in each other's purposes. The debates about big guns, and tanks, and aircraft, and poison gas, and budgetary limitation, are to the reality of peace what temperature, pulse, respiration, blood pressure and the like are to the reality of health. Agreements about particular armaments will be significant and easy when international relations are pacific; they will remain insignificant and difficult while international relations are troubled.

Looked at in this fashion it can be said, I think, that since the conference assembled last February, world relations have improved at the center of our civilization and have deteriorated on the fringes. The affair in the Far East both in Manchuria and in Shanghai has been a grave setback. Not only has it revealed the weaknesses of the post-war machinery of peace, but it has set the stage for prolonged disturbance in the Orient. It would be idle to pretend that it is not now more difficult than it has been for ten years to make naval agreements in the Pacific, or to feel at ease about the part of the world. Confidence in pledges has been shattered and while it does no good to shout about the dangers which have been revealed, they will not be forgotten.

On the other hand, the progress in Europe has been greater than any one dared to hope. By a strange irony the greatest achievement in the direction of peace and stability has provoked irritation in the United States. I refer to the Accord of Confidence between France and Britain. The value of this understanding has been somewhat injured by the bungling diplomacy and the execrable showmanship with which it was presented to the world. The explanations explaining the explanations may conceivably have hurt it irreparably, but if Britain and France have the good sense and the courage to do what the Accord promises, to work as partners rather than as rivals in Europe, there will exist for the first time since the debacle of Versailles a center of stability in the constitution of Europe. There is no other way that order can be restored. Britain and France are the strongest powers; as rivals they must keep Europe embroiled, as partners they can make Europe coherent.

It is a fair assumption that the Franco-British Accord at Lausanne provides the diplomatic foundation for the resumption of the conference at Geneva. On that foundation, assuming that Germany precipitates no new situation under the pressure of Hitlerism, France may be expected to take the steps which will make possible the first stage in the limitation and reduction of European armaments. Cooksey, 1301 Dixie for July. Both received the many attractive gifts offered by the members of the club.

The organization was created in the belief that too little recognition is given the new heir when he . . . or she . . . arrive to take command of the home. Under the plan adopted, club members will extend congratulations to baby an dparents in a concrete, substantial form.

The following list gives the names of members together with gifts they will present this month to the fortunate child and its parents: Cunningham & Philips stores, a baby record book; J. C. Penney Co., a pair of baby shoes; Collins Bros. Cut-Rate Drug Stores a Johnson & Johnson Baby Set; Dairyland Products, a 40-quart milk coupon book; Big Spring Laundry Co. $2 worth of laundry work; Barrow Furniture Co., a baby swing; and L. C. Burr and Co., a baby blanket.

The baby-of-the-month for August will be determined in this way—The first white boy or girl to be born in Big Spring after midnight of June 30, 1932, will be officially decided as the winner of the gifts. The same plan of selection will be used each of the other months of the life of the club.

In order to qualify, the baby's birth certificate, signed by the attending physician, should be brought or sent without delay to The Herald office. The certificate should show the exact date, hour and minute of birth. As soon as the baby-of-the-month for August has been determined its name will be given to The Herald. Watch for the announcement.

Olympic Girls Like Romance In The Movies

Film Stars Greet Female Entrants At Fox Studios BY MARY ALICE PARENT United Press Special Correspondent LOS ANGELES, Cal. (UP)—Olympic girls like their movies romantic. Save the sophistication and heavy emotional drama for the non-athletic theater-goer.

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are eminently satisfactory in any language. The German girls being ably assisted by the co-featured pair, boosted them on their shoulders while a cameraman recorded the team's tribute. Canada's vote was divided between the Gaynor-Farrell combination and Will Rogers, who signed almost as many autograph books as there were people and spent the rest of his noon hour greeting each individual athlete as though she were from Claremore, Okla.
