Reagan hails Soviet offer to slash arms

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, welcoming a new Soviet proposal to reduce nuclear arms by 50 percent, said Saturday he hoped the fine print will be "free of preconditions and other obstacles to progress."

"There is no reason why real reductions cannot begin promptly," Reagan said in his weekly radio address.

Reporting on his meeting Friday with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, the president said he welcomed what he called the Soviet counterproposal that was outlined at the session.

But Reagan added, "It is important that the counterproposal address our concerns about reductions and stability, just as we have sought to address Soviet concerns, and we hope it will be free of preconditions and other obstacles to progress."

At their White House meeting, Shevardnadze outlined to Reagan a Soviet proposal calling for 50 percent reductions in U.S. and Soviet nuclear arsenals.

The proposal would also ban efforts such as Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative search for defensive systems against offensive missiles. Shevardnadze said the proposal would be presented in more detail next week at arms control talks in Geneva, Switzerland.

Reagan said he and Shevardnadze agreed to set up a series of discussions between senior U.S. and Soviet experts to prepare for the president's Nov. 19-20 meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva.

The president said he told Shevardnadze that leaders of the two superpowers have "an overriding responsibility...to work for peaceful relations between us."

The president said he also called for "a more productive Soviet response" to U.S. proposals on nuclear arms.

"We will take further steps to show our readiness to do our part," Reagan said. "We will judge the results as Soviet actions unfold."

"I went over with Mr. Shevardnadze Soviet actions in various parts of the world which we feel undermine the prospects for a stable peace," Reagan said.

The talks in Geneva are virtually stalemated, with the Soviets continuing to insist on severe limitations on Reagan's search for a missile defense system, known popularly as "Star Wars."

Until now, the Reagan administration has accused Moscow of making propaganda statements about a willingness to curb the arms race, but not offering anything worthwhile at the bargaining table.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who sat in on Friday's meeting, said afterward that the United States welcomes the Soviet proposal. Soviet spokesman Vladimir Lomeiko described it as "certainly important and, we hope, useful."

Delivering the Democratic Party's response to Reagan's speech, Rep. Nick Rahall of West Virginia praised the president's summit plans.

"From the darkness of your first-term Cold War hostility toward the Soviets, the Democrats are glad you have seen the light and are going to meet with Mr. Gorbachev in a summit. Our hope is that through this meeting we can prevent a militarization of the heavens."

Police lose 'take-home' cars

Some officers say law enforcement effort to suffer

BY PAUL PINKHAM
Staff Writer

Beginning Tuesday, Pampa police officers will no longer take their patrol cars home, a move some officers feel will handcuff law enforcement and emergency efforts.

A ruling by City Manager Bob Hart brings to an end, at least temporarily, the police department's take-home vehicle program. Hart said the problem of replacing an aging fleet of city vehicles was the biggest factor in the decision to halt the program, but he added budget considerations also played a part in the decision.

The ruling will reduce the number of cars in the police department from 24 to 17. Police Chief J.J. Ryzman said. Four older cars will still be take-home vehicles for senior officers and will serve as back-up units.

Hart said the decision was made because the city wants to be in a position to perform preventive maintenance on newer cars rather than make frequent repairs to older cars. He said of 180 city vehicles and pieces of equipment, 98 are considered obsolete by normal replacement schedules, "which means you've got a big problem in a hurry."

An older car not only has to be maintained beyond what is considered its useful life, but also has to be replaced sooner, he said. Current patrol cars date back to 1979, he said.

Hart said he hopes the new plan will enable the city to replace cars on a regular schedule. He said a year when no replacements are made, like 1981, when the budget in that particular year but eventually costs the city.

"We figure to have funds available to replace vehicles when they're scheduled to be replaced," he said. The new ruling will mean fewer vehicles for which the city has to set aside funds, he added.

The city manager said, under a new schedule, new cars will serve as primary patrol cars for one year, as back-up units a second year and then be rotated into other departments. Patrol cars have never been on a replacement schedule before and the schedule should enable the city to better plan future expenses, he said.

Hart also said halting the take-home program will give the city time to determine how the U.S. Department of Labor will interpret a recent Fair Labor Standards Act ruling by the courts. The ruling requires local governments to pay overtime to all municipal employees who work more than 40 hours per week, including police officers and firefighters, positions where, traditionally, the length of the work week varies.

But three police officers, who spoke under the condition their names not be used, said they disagree with the ruling. One is a senior officer who will keep his take-home unit; the others will lose their cars.

The officers predicted a decline in police morale, a loss of visibility for the department and a longer response time, once the ruling takes effect. But, worst of all, they said, they feel Pampa citizens will be hurt.

"We used to be police officers 24 hours a day and now we're police officers eight hours a day," one officer said. "We're not in here for the money; we're in here because it's a profession."

With take-home units, the officers said, the citizens essentially receive 10 to 20 free hours of patrol time per officer each week.

"We can't put a figure on how many crimes were stopped because I was going to the store to buy a soda pop," one officer said.

"The people out there are going to be suffering, not us. What we're doing is taking a giant step backwards."

TEAMS
Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills

Relax, it's just a test: Area schools confident they'll score above average on initial exit exam

By CATHY SPAULDING
Staff Writer

Relax. That's the advice that area school counselors and principals are giving to high school juniors as they prepare for their first exit level test Tuesday and Wednesday. Under new state mandates, students must pass the TEAMS, (Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills) test in order to receive their diplomas.

Students will have several additional opportunities to take the test if they fail. The senior class of 1986 will not take the test.

Area schools gave their juniors brochures that explain the test and a list of sample questions from each objective. Unlike Amarillo schools, where English and math teachers are extensively going over the objectives with their students, officials in some area schools believe that the less "cramming" students do, the less worried they'll be.

And they expect their schools to have a lower failure rate than the 25 percent of juniors that the state expects to fail the test.

"I think we'll do better than the state average," Pampa High School counselor Steve Schneider of the 300 juniors at PHS.

"But I'm no prophet," he added. Schneider said the school will allocate three hours each on Tuesday and Wednesday, more if the students need it.

"This is not a timed test in the traditional sense of the word," he said.

He added that although it is a test of "minimum standards," he hesitates to dismiss it as an easy test.

"Easy is a relative term," he noted.

"We're not cramming or preparing for the test," he said. "All the teachers are relatively ignorant of the contents of the test. We're not allowed to open the test package until the day of the test."

Schneider is telling the students to relax, not to be worried about the test. After all, he reminds them, there will be three other chances to take the test before graduation.

"I think apprehension about the test will do more harm than good," he said.

Canadian High School principal Charles Russell also hopes the 55 juniors there won't be too apprehensive about the test.

"We're really not doing a great deal of preparing for the test," he said, expecting a most of the students to pass the test. "Our junior class was above average on SRA tests."

"What worries us is if we have a low academic student who fails the test, he may be discouraged and drop out of school," Russell said. "I hope that doesn't happen."

Lefors High School principal Gene Gee anticipates "100 percent of our students passing the test the first time."

"We're telling students 'do not fear, it can be passed,'" Gee said.

"It's not the type of test they cannot pass," he said. "By its very definition, this is a minimum skills test."

Gee wants Lefors students to have a positive attitude for the test.

White Deer High School counselor

Dwight Huffman is also accentuating the positive.

"With our smaller class, 33 students, we won't have that many fail; not as many as in a larger class," he said. "We're thinking all are going to master it," he added. "We'll let the test speak for itself. I feel it's not that difficult a test."

"I think the junior English teacher is doing a little bit of review," Huffman said. "As for the math classes, they're so scattered, it would be difficult to have a review."

Groom principal Kenneth Sweatt is also confident.

"I feel like all of ours will pass it," he said. "We're going to get them through this."

To help ease the apprehension, Groom juniors are doing some review for the test, Sweatt said.

"They're reviewing for confidence more than anything else," he observed.

Boulter predicts tough fight on move to outlaw abortion

BY PAUL PINKHAM
Staff Writer

America has strayed from the values represented by its forefathers, U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter told an assemblage of church members here Friday night.

Speaking to members of the First Assembly of God men's fellowship group and their families, the Amarillo Republican addressed church-state issues ranging from abortion to school prayer. He predicted a vote in this session of Congress on a balanced budget amendment and a tough fight on a "human life" amendment outlawing abortion.

"That is a civil rights issue," Boulter said of abortion. "To my way of thinking, the Supreme Court is now denying a certain class of people the rights of the constitution and that is the unborn."

The first-term conservative congressman said many conservatives are being accused of "bringing morality into the bedroom" because they respect the sanctity of human life. But he compared the abortion battle to the fight to get blacks recognized as human beings during the Civil War.

"Our forefathers are being misrepresented today," he said. He praised President Reagan for being in the forefront of many church-state issues.

Boulter decried efforts to "put a gag" on prayer, claiming the framers of the Constitution never intended for God to be "systematically, methodically eliminated from our public institutions, particularly our public schools." He said many problems in today's schools spring from the absence of absolutes and laws forbidding Bible reading or "the mere mention of the Bible."

"It is a problem and our country's paying for it," Boulter said. "We live in an age when we're kind of getting away from absolute rights and absolute wrongs. Our country wasn't built on that philosophy."

In a private interview preceding his talk, Boulter spoke extensively about the farm bill and briefly about trade and next year's Congressional race. He said he will be offering an amendment to the farm bill next week requiring the Secretary of Agriculture to announce the wheat program by May 1. Currently, the program is announced July 1.

"By July, most of our wheat farmers have harvested their crop," he said. He added his amendment has the support of private farmers and the major farm groups.

Boulter said he is still grappling with some of the more controversial aspects of the farm bill, now being debated in the House. He said he will not vote for a bill that does not provide "hope for the future," is not fair to all segments of the agricultural economy or is not "budget responsible."

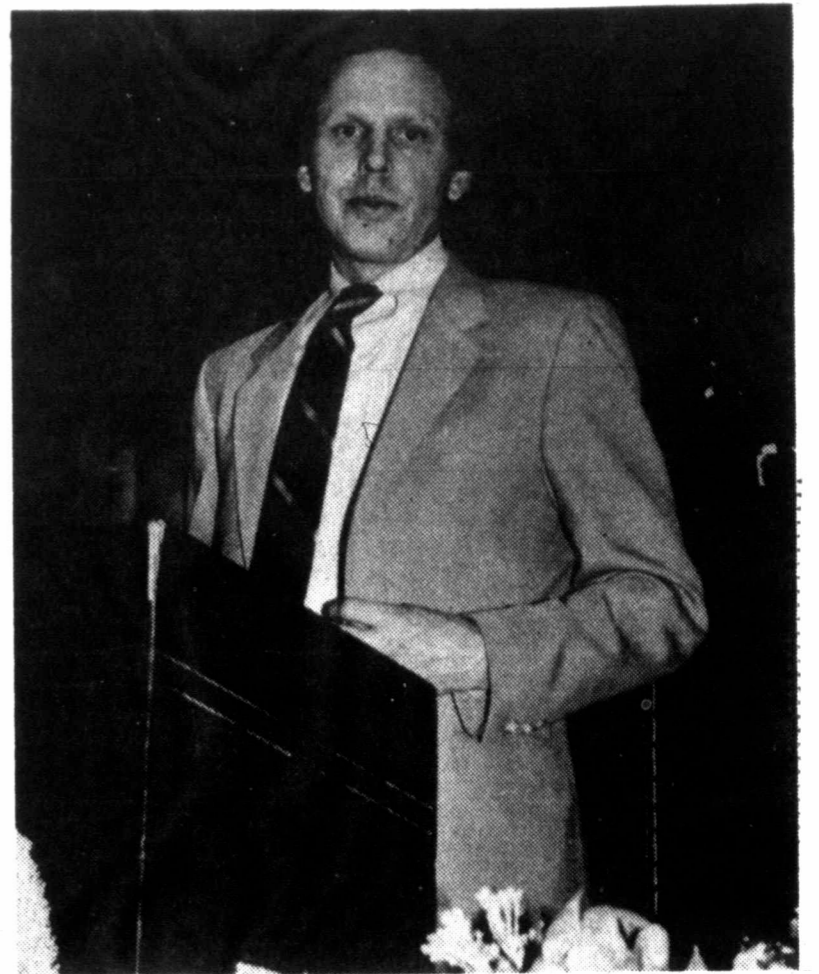

"We've got to have a bill that does provide help to the farmers immediately," he said. "It's got to be done with a lot of compassion. It's got to be done with a lot of income protection."

Boulter said he favors a policy of "easing into" a free agricultural market.

"They're in the shape they're in because of past government policies," Boulter said of the farmers.

On trade, the congressman said he favors some form of retaliation for nations, like Japan, that do not trade fairly with the United States. He said fair trade does not exist with many such nations.

"If Japan doesn't offer us a fair share of their markets, I am for retaliation," he said.

Boulter addresses church group here

However, he also said he fears Congress may repeat protectionist mistakes of the not-too-distant past, causing inflation and higher consumer prices on imported goods. He noted more than 300 "protectionist bills" are currently on the floor of Congress.

"I am concerned that Congress is going to go too far in the area of protectionism," he said. "We can't build a wall around America."

Boulter said a recent announcement by state Sen. Bill Sarpalius (D-Canyon) that he will not seek Boulter's seat next year or the prospect of a rematch against former Rep. Jack Hightower, the 10-year incumbent Boulter defeated in 1984, do not alter his reelection plans. He said the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee has targeted the 13th Congressional District race in 1986.

Vice-president George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York are both slated to make campaign appearances for Boulter in the district in November.

During a question and answer period following his speech, Boulter fielded questions concerning tax reform, arms talks, tobacco subsidies and the prospect of TV evangelist Pat Robertson running for president in 1988. He said the House may pass a tax reform bill but added he doubts one will come out of the Republican-controlled Senate.

"I guess (Senate Majority Leader) Bob Dole knows better than anybody but he says his calendar is pretty full," he said.

Boulter said tobacco subsidies will be difficult to eliminate. He said he cannot foresee cutting them off immediately, although, he added, as a conservative, he eventually would like to see an end to all government subsidies.

"I'm not one who believes in prohibition legislation, whether it be alcohol or tobacco," he said, saying people have the right to choose whether they want to smoke or drink. At that remark, one woman in the audience cried "No!"

Although he doubts a major arms control agreement will come from talks with the Soviets, Boulter said he feels such talks are important because they provide a forum for dialogue between the superpowers.

Boulter said he welcomes Robertson's potential candidacy for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination. He said Robertson deserves "serious consideration" because he is intelligent and knowledgeable on the issues, particularly economic issues.

"I welcome his entrance," Boulter said. "I'm not saying I'm going to support him if he runs."

Pampa students make all-zone choir

AMARILLO - Twenty-two Pampa High School Choir members qualified for the All Zone Choir during auditions Saturday at Tascosa High School.

Three of those students received top honors by being named First Chair in their divisions. They were: Staci Bennett, Soprano II (lower voiced soprano); Denise Chapman, Alto II (lower voices); and Ricky Chapman, Tenor I (high voice).

Also qualifying for the All Zone Choir were Soprano I - Leslie McQueen; Soprano II - Dana Wood, Cindy Epperly, LaGayla Larkin and Beth Reddell; Alto I - Kathy Smith, Shelby Lehman, Mary Cross, Ann Duncan and Julie Hamilton; Alto II - Paula Hubbard and Marla Jett.

Boys advancing included Tenor I - Chris Gustin, Dennis Daily and Barry Osburn; Tenor II - Kenny Stewart; Bass I - Danny Berry, Brian Hogan and Bass II - Chris Wilson.

Pampa was one of 18 high schools from throughout the Texas Panhandle competing in the zone competition. The 22 Pampans will advance to All District competition Nov. 8 at Perryton. PHS choir director Fred Mays has been named district director of the All District Choir.

About 28 PHS students were entered in the contest.

Education official calls for more reform

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Education reform should be implemented with the same fervor as the War on Poverty during the 1960s, says the state's top education official.

Speaking to teachers at the closing session of the three-day Texas Annual Migrant Conference in Corpus Christi, State Commissioner of Education William N. Kirby said the state should boost educational opportunities for minorities, the poor and those with limited English proficiency.

"The sensations of being poor are scarcely comprehensible to the 160 million Americans who are not poor. If the poor share anything, it is oppressors: credit dentists, credit doctors, credit furniture salesmen," he said Friday.

Kirby said it is up to teachers and school administrators to implement programs to provide better educational services to minorities and the poor.

But many school districts have tended to misinterpret many of the changes made by the Education Reform Act, he said.

Excessive paperwork imposed in many districts was not the goal of the reforms.

"If anybody is telling you you have to do something that is keeping you up half the night to finish, that is not what we want," he said.

Kirby also stressed accountability.

"It is not fair to say that a child's failure to learn is a problem with the child. It is a problem with the community and the school and the family," he said, calling for special attention to the children of migrant workers.

"If bilingual education has done nothing else, it has shown us how wrong it is to whip a child for uttering a word in his native language," Kirby said. "The poor, migrants and children with limited English proficiency, these children can learn like any other child if we believe in them."

Kirby talked about the struggle for civil rights in the 1960s and mentioned former leaders like Martin Luther King Jr., Wilbur Cohen and Michael Harrington.

"Our schools and newspapers point out that we believe in the freedom of opportunities," Kirby said. "Where are the national leaders like Lyndon Baines Johnson who remind us that many Americans live on the outskirts of that freedom?"

Earlier in the week, Bishop Rene Gracida of the Diocese of Corpus Christi told educators at the opening session that communities and churches, as well as teachers, were responsible for the education of migrant children.

"It would be easy to say you educators are responsible. After all, that's your job," Gracida said.

"But it is a responsibility which I have and others in the church and community must share with you."

Both the church and the community must work to see that education for the migrant child is successful, Gracida said. The first step toward that success is instilling in that child a sense of self worth.

"If we don't do that, all education is doomed to fail," he said. "Our job is to see that these people have their dignity. It's the foundation, the basis, from where education will take place."

Farmers and famine

One of my first - ever journalistic assignments was to cover the 1983 wheat harvest in eastern Kansas.

Having arrived in the wheat belt from the East Coast literally days earlier, I was at quite a loss, needless to say, where any farming matter, not only wheat, was concerned. Wheat was something one bought "whole" loaves of in the supermarket.

I didn't know the difference between a grain elevator and the elevator at Macy's and I had no idea what this stuff they called milo was. I first imagined it was some kind of cheese!

I learned fast. Not only about agriculture but about the problems it faces in today's world. You have no idea how watching a community of struggling farmers slowly sink aids the learning process.

Last Sunday's giant Farm Aid concert in Champaign, Ill., focused a lot of attention on those problems. And, in a way, it put them on par with the problems of starving people half a continent and an ocean away, who have also had gargantuan concerts held in their behalf recently.

In a sense, the two problems are distinctly related to one another. A grain surplus is blamed for many of the American farmer's problems, while the Ethiopians have not enough.

Of course, both problems go much deeper than that simplistic explanation. The famine on the African continent can be blamed on a variety of causes, from overpopulation to drought.

Likewise, today's farm problems have a myriad of causes, from economics to the weather. They have been the subject of much political maneuvering in Capitol Hill and by partisan economists and both parties share the guilt for exploiting the farm problem for political ends.

But it has always perplexed me that on this tiny planet, two such problems could co-exist. The governments, the special interests and the world's economic systems have all seemingly grown more important than the people they were set up to serve.

I'm not smart enough to solve these problems. After all, I'm a lonely writer who has been trained simply to report on and reflect what's going on in the world. I'm not an economist, a grain trade expert or a politician.

I realize there are political and economic realities to this situation that have to be taken into consideration.

But it strikes me as inherently wrong that people in one part of the world should starve from not enough food while those in another part of the world "starve" in a sense because they raise too much. Or that a government should pay its producers not to produce products that hungry mouths across the Atlantic are starving for.

Sure, overpopulation is a problem in Africa. But is that the fault of the newborn infant? Should she receive a death sentence for it?

And, certainly, there are farmers who spend and borrow recklessly and haven't properly managed their affairs. Should the hard - working family farmer, who is strictly a victim of economic and atmospheric circumstances, be punished for the transgressions of others?

The bottom line is he is being paid the same price for a crop in 1985 that he was in 1955. The grain market apparently pays little attention to inflation.

But how many of us would remain in a profession that did not offer even a cost - of - living raise in 30 years? And yet many choose to remain in the profession of feeding America, and thank God they do.

Money raised from the Farm Aid and Live Aid events held to benefit farmers and starving people might help a little. Far more should be gained from the attention focused by them on the problems of the American farmer and the obscenity we call world hunger.

As a reporter working in a free country, one thing I do know is that few earthly forces have the potential to be as powerful as an informed populace.

Mauzy to seek Supreme Court seat

AUSTIN (AP) — Longtime state Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas told top Democrats Saturday he will give up his seat next year to run for the Texas Supreme Court.

"The Supreme Court has a direct impact on the lives of every citizen of the state and I want to be a part of it," said Mauzy, a senator since 1967.

Also Saturday, the State Democratic Executive Committee backed the proposed state water plan and picked Austin as the site for the June 1986 state party convention.

Mauzy is seeking the Supreme Court seat now held by Democrat Sears McGee. He said he will run regardless of McGee's plans.

Contacted at his Austin home Saturday, McGee said he "definitely" plans to seek re-election.

During his years in the Senate, Mauzy has fought laws he felt could be intrusions on personal freedom, such as wiretapping.

"The Supreme Court is the last repository to protect the rights of the people of this state," said Mauzy, a longtime defender of individual rights.

In a unanimous vote with no discussion, the committee backed the two proposed constitutional amendments needed to enact the $1.4 billion water plan approved this year by lawmakers.

The amendments face voter review on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Ed Cogburn, resolutions committee chairman, said the plan is "fiscally sound and sensitive to the regional needs of the state."

Officials from Houston and Austin battled for the 1986 state convention, which means 12,500 visitors. Houston's invitation was filled with numbers, such as 11,000 taxi cabs versus 200 in Austin.

Don Ward, a member of the Houston delegation, said his city needed the convention because the "economy is not as robust as it once was."

The Austin bid was a flashy, convention floor-like demonstration. Mayor Frank Cooksey reminded the committee that Austin has long been a Democratic stronghold, while parts of Houston have voted Republican.

"If all those people in Houston hadn't voted for all those Republicans all those years, their economy would be in better shape," Cooksey said.

After Austin's well-planned presentation, Texas Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle joked, "Convention bids are never going to be the same again."

The committee also heard from other candidates for statewide office, including Houston State District Judge Hugo Touchy, who also wants McGee's Supreme Court seat, incumbent Supreme Court Justice Raul Gonzalez and Victoria Sen. John Sharp, a Railroad Commission candidate.

Touchy, who has served as a justice of the peace, county court judge and state district judge, said his experience makes him the best candidate.

Gonzalez, who expects to run unopposed in the Democratic Primary, said the party needs a Hispanic candidate on the statewide level. He is trying to become the first Hispanic elected to statewide office. Gonzalez was appointed to the court by Gov. Mark White last year to fill a vacancy.

Also speaking was Attorney General Jim Mattox, who confidently predicted he would be unopposed in the primary.

"I'm hoping no one is fool enough to run against me in the Democratic Primary," said Mattox.

Former Border Patrolman guilty

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A former U.S. Border Patrol agent will be sentenced next month after pleading guilty to charges he bribed another agent in order to smuggle illegal aliens into the United States.

Joe Navarrette, 38, who resigned after being indicted last February on alien-smuggling charges, entered the plea agreement Thursday. He will be sentenced Oct. 22.

Federal court records state that in exchange for the guilty plea, the government agreed to "move for dismissal the remaining (eight) counts of the indictment currently pending against Navarrette."

The government also agreed to recommend that the "maximum term of imprisonment not exceed 10 years."

Navarrette's attorney, Joe Calamia, referred all questions about the case to federal court records.

Of the nine counts Navarrette was indicted on, he pleaded guilty to trying to bribe Border Patrol agent Frederick Capio Jan. 27, 1985, in an attempt "to guarantee passage of illegal aliens through the El Paso International Airport without detention by Border Patrol agents," federal court documents state.

Navarrette, a nine-year veteran of the Border Patrol, was indicted Feb. 19. Charges included transporting and concealing illegal aliens.

Navarrette was honored by the Border Patrol in 1982 for helping to rescue a group of illegal aliens who jumped into a canal while trying to escape arrest.

Study cites problems of airliners

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — At least 39 American Airlines planes in the past 20 months had mechanical trouble that caused aborted takeoffs, forced landings or other problems, a study by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram shows.

The newspaper reported Saturday that in those 39 cases, at least 63 people had been injured, 51 of them this year. Most of the injuries were minor.

The incident reports are on file with the Federal Aviation Administration in Oklahoma City.

On Friday, American was slapped with a $1.5 million fine by the FAA, the biggest fine ever charged a commercial airline. The penalty was for maintenance inadequacies.

Safety Board.

Masiello also said that only two of the 63 people reported injured in FAA records actually qualified as being injured under NTSB guidelines.

The Fort Worth newspaper reported that in 1980, American reported 21 incidents per 100,000 flights, which was far above the industry average of 9.3 incidents per 100,000.

By 1984, the airline — the nation's second largest — had reduced its incident rate to 4.5 per 100,000 while expanding its service at the same time.

But that rate was still slightly above the industry average of 3.7 incidents.

American Airlines and Trans World Airlines were the only major airline companies in the past five years to report incident rates higher than the industry average every year, the Star-Telegram said.

Top officials of American say they are more scrupulous in reporting such incidents than other airlines.

The newspaper said its study, aided by the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association in Oklahoma City, covered accident and incident reports of 13 of the nation's major airlines between 1980 and 1985.

The study focused on cases in which mechanical and structural failures were the reported cause. Incidents in which the weather or pilot error were the cause were excluded.

Rocco J. Masiello, senior vice president for operations, said only five of the 39 cases are actually classified as "incidents" as defined by the National Transportation Administration. Masiello said that the FAA's definition of "incidents" is much broader than the industry's definition.

American Airlines officials, however, disagree that there have been 39 mishaps involving their planes since January 1984.

Rocco J. Masiello, senior vice president for operations, said only five of the 39 cases are actually classified as "incidents" as defined by the National Transportation

 TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

U.S. dairy policy milks the taxpayer

Out of every 100 pounds of milk produced in the U.S. between 1980 and 1984, more than half was surplus. Nobody wanted it, so the government took it, converted it to cheese, butter, dried milk or other products and stored it in warehouses to be sold at a loss or given away.

The paradox of America's fabulous milk production is that much of what our best cows produce is simply poured down an economic drain.

Federal dairy policy has crossed into the realm of the absurd. It would be laughable if it were not so hurtful to consumers and producers alike.

In order to keep dairy prices at certain congressionally-mandated levels, the government buys unlimited quantities of dairy products at those levels. It's a policy that perpetuates artificially-high prices and invites overproduction.

And the costs are staggering. Last year, the government purchased more than 16.6 billion pounds of dairy products at a cost to the taxpayers of $2.6 billion. That is in addition to what we shelled out because of higher milk prices.

Current dairy policy evolved from legislation passed in the 1920s and 1930s. Its original intent was to provide temporary assistance to dairy farmers during the Depression. But the Depression passed and the "temporary" measures remained. And the surplus milk problem has gotten steadily worse.

It would be a mistake to depict today's dairy farmers as impecunious victims in need of government help. Many of the nation's dairies are owned and operated by large corporations. Dairy men are a powerful lobbying group, generous with political contributions and frightful in their outrage when anyone suggests cuts in price supports.

But price-support programs are as harmful to the industry as they are to the consumer. It doesn't take a genius to figure out that high milk prices will encourage consumers to substitute other beverages for milk. And government intervention in the market can only encourage inefficiency and waste, at the expense of competition and innovation.

All of this suggests more strongly than ever the need to revamp the nation's agricultural price-support system, particularly in the dairy industry. A proposal pending in the House of Representatives would merely aggravate the current problem by allowing price supports to rise even higher by 1990. The Senate Agriculture Committee has proposed a more sensible plan, in which dairy price supports would be gradually lowered if the volume of government purchases remains high.

The best solution, of course, is to abolish agricultural price supports altogether.

Time is running out. Farm production is growing faster than the rate at which the government can distribute surpluses, and mountains of perishable foods have backed up in warehouses. Americans can be justifiably proud of their agricultural productivity, but too much production can be as harmful as too little. No one can reasonably label as successful any system which encourages producing too much of something at too high a price.

Why not a libertarian 'nation'?

They are already gearing up for the 1986 elections and some of my philosophical soulmates in the Libertarian Party will, no doubt, soon be scurrying about the country attempting to qualify as candidates in various political races.

I wish they wouldn't do it.

I hate to see such well-intentioned efforts wasted when they might otherwise find they way into activities that at least have a chance of accomplishing good.

Libertarian Party people, of course, valiantly seek to advance the cause of human freedom. But their efforts to accomplish that by entering the political arena are doomed from the outset, both by political realities and the nature of the activity itself.

In the first place, they cannot be elected to office except under the most bizarre circumstances. There is not a sufficient number of people left in this country who believe in freedom enough to vote for it to give Libertarians any chance of political success. And if through some miracle they did win an election, their transformation from candidate of officeholder would render them incapable of attaining the objective they profess to seek.

Think about it. A Libertarian must campaign on promises to abolish all taxes, make national defense a voluntary effort, repeal all laws against victimless crimes, such as the drug laws, turn education over to the private sector, sell the post offices and discontinue all social welfare programs.

In how many places does such a candidate have a chance of victory? None, of course.

But what if a Libertarian candidate did somehow manage to get elected? What would have been accomplished? Libertarians believe in individual freedom; the purpose of government is to restrict individual freedom. So when the Libertarian became a part of government, he would, by definition, no longer be a libertarian. If he remained true to his libertarian principles, he could not in any way use his new-found power to control others in order to attain his own objectives.

His only recourse would be to do absolutely nothing. What, then, would be his purpose in holding office? He might advocate less repression of citizens by government, but that's not the same thing as freedom. Anyway, some Democrats and Republicans already do that.

Therefore, a Libertarian who became an officeholder in government would either be completely ineffective or he would have to abandon his principles.

Is it possible, then, to organize a proper and effective institution for those who seek to advance the cause of human freedom through organized activity? Maybe. In an effort to do that, I'd like to see the Libertarian Party disband as a statist political institution and reorganize as a libertarian "nation" existing independently of the existing political state. If it did, I would join.

A libertarian "nation," of course, could not be a nation in the traditional sense. It could not have the power to pass laws or forcibly collect taxes. Its leaders might be elected, but the only power they could have would be the power of persuasion; to propose an agenda for the "nation" and try to sell it to members. Citizenship would be voluntary and could be discontinued at any time. The citizens who favored whatever agenda the "nation" adopted could pay voluntary "taxes" to support it. Those who didn't like the agenda could say to heck with it.

In this society, the people who wanted something done would pay for it; the people who didn't want it wouldn't. The element of coercion that makes political states morally unacceptable to libertarians would be removed.

What could this "nation" do? Anything it wanted. It could organize libertarian schools to educate youngsters (or adults) in the ways of freedom. It could establish a mechanism to help citizens defend themselves against encroachment on their liberty by the political state. It might even form a libertarian community and demonstrate to the world the advantages of life without local laws, government or taxes. The possibilities are endless.

While citizens of the libertarian nation would still be forced to obey the laws and pay the taxes of the political state, they would be inclined to ignore the traditional government as much as possible, refusing to turn to it for assistance or to seek its "services"

The ensuing demonstrated benefits of a society based on liberty, I think, would do more to advance the cause of real freedom than hundreds of self-defeating ventures into the world of statist politics.

You say such a "nation" or society could not exist unless it had the power to compel membership and use force to make citizens pay for its activities?

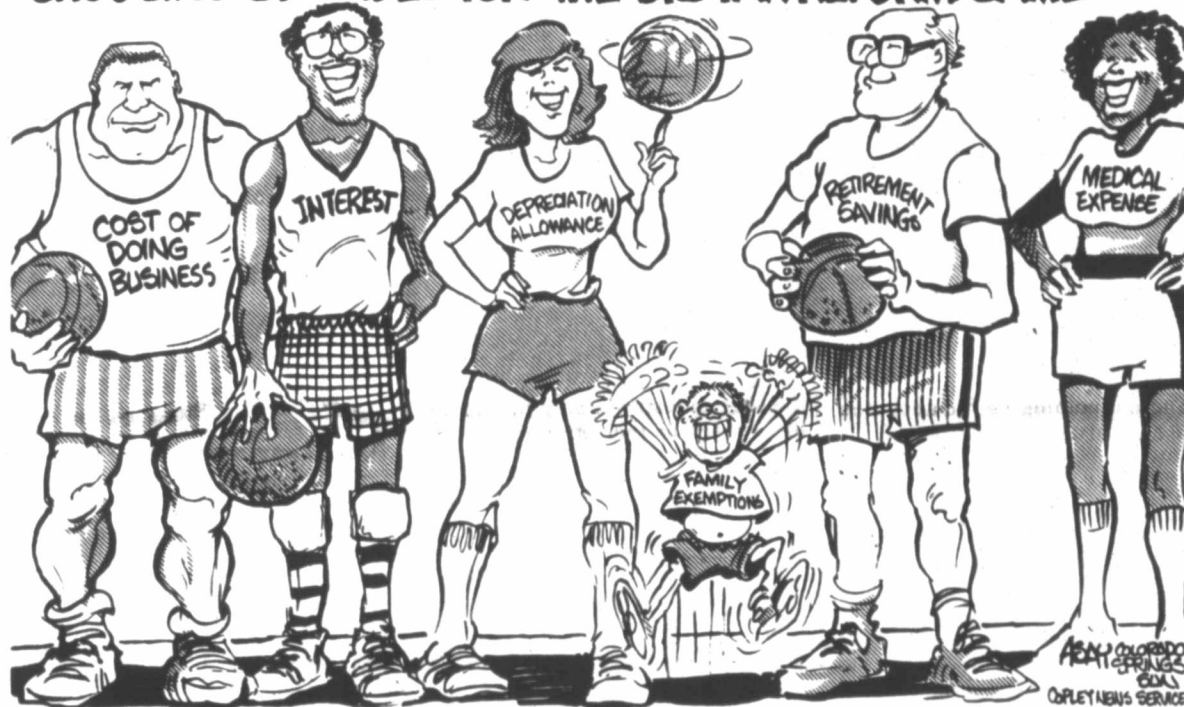

You are wrong. Such societies already exist in the United States, and they are doing quite well without resorting to coercion.

But we don't call them "nations."

CHOOSING UP SIDES FOR THE BIG TAX REFORM GAME!

Today in History

Today is Sunday, Sept. 29, the 272nd day of 1985. There are 93 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 29, 1978, Pope John Paul I was found dead in his Vatican apartment by his personal secretary. He had served only 34 days as head of the Roman Catholic Church.

On this date:

Ten years ago: Former Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Mets manager Casey Stengel died at a hospital in Glendale, Calif., at the age of 85.

Five years ago: American Roman Catholic bishops, in Rome for a synod, called on the Vatican for a "completely honest examination" of the birth control issue.

One year ago: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko concluded his talks with Reagan administration officials by holding a second session with Secretary of State George Shultz.

Lewis Grizzard

Some real help for Scared Silly

Because of my vast knowledge of many subjects, readers write to me and ask all sorts of questions.

Some of the questions aren't very nice. Like when are you going to leave town? And, how did a creep like you get a job with the newspaper?

However, I do get intelligent, interesting questions, and one that came recently was quite intriguing. The questions had to do with insomnia, which millions of Americans, including myself, suffer in varying degrees.

The reader wrote: "Dear Mr. Grizzard, I have insomnia. I lie awake all night in my bed and hear strange noises which make me very nervous and, of course, unable to sleep. What are these noises and are they really anything to worry about?"

The letter was signed, "Scared Silly, Tupelo, Mississippi."

I am glad you wrote to me, Scared Silly, and I hope I can help. From childhood, we all are frightened of "things that go bump in the night." Some of us grow out of this fear, others do not.

You obviously haven't grown out of this fear, and neither have I: For years I have suffered from insomnia because I know "something" is out there in the dark. I can hear "it" creaking and crawling and coming to get me.

I especially hear these noises when I have watched the Friday Night Horror Double Feature or when I have had lots of garlic for dinner.

I am sorry I can't allay your fears, Scared Silly, but I still may be able to offer some assistance by identifying the noises you may be hearing and explaining what they mean.

CREEEEA! This is a sound commonly heard in the night by insomniacs and other chickens. It probably is nothing. Then, again, it could be the sound of one of your doors slowly being pushed open by an escapee from a local mental institution who inspired the movie, "The Texas Chainsaw Massacre."

BLIP! BLIP! BLIP! Probably nothing more than a dripping faucet. But what if it were something else? What if it were the sound of blood slowly dripping onto the floor? Your floor. The floor in the next room. A wounded, mad-dog killer has escaped from the authorities and is looking for another victim. Either that, or Dracula has come to suck the blood from your neck. I'll take my chances with the mad-dog killer.

WHOOOOOSH! That's nothing. That's just somebody flushing a toilet. But you are alone in the house.

THUUUUUMP! Anybody who has ever been awake at night knows this one. You always hear it as you are just about to doze off. You awaken and you lie there, listening for another sound. You are afraid to move. If you move, "it" will know where you are and "it" will find you. If you should hear a second THUUUUUMP, don't even bother to scream.

I hope this helps, Scared Silly, and be sure to write me again if there is anything else I can do. Incidentally, before you go to bed tonight, there is one other thing I should mention.

"It" was last seen near Tupelo, Mississippi. Sweet dreams.

You know who will pick up tab

Man's search for something-for-nothing has always proved elusive. This does not mean the search is over. Some in Congress are still trying to repeal, amend or modify the laws of Mother Nature, and at least give the impression of creating something for nothing. But what their hocus-pocus is more likely to create are problems even bigger than the ones they are trying to solve.

Consider the free-trade issue. Congress has returned to Washington with a vengeance and with a rush to enact tough foreign trade legislation to protect American jobs and industry from "unfair" foreign competition.

Some Americans see such help as free — since it does not add to the federal budget — and thus, Presto Magico, congress has created something for nothing. But don't believe that. And hold onto your wallet.

Lets go through a small step-by-step examination of the problem, using the American shoe industry as an example. Since 1970, the American shoe industry has "lost" some 95,000 jobs. Today, another 30,000 jobs are threatened. But why the decline?

When U.S. consumers shop for shoes, most will choose the least expensive shoe over the same shoe that costs more. The bad news for U.S. footwear is that shoes from Korea, Taiwan or Italy are often less expensive than those domestically made. Therefore the consumer who chooses the less expensive foreign shoe over the domestic manufacturer's product has created a problem for the U.S. producer.

In free societies, of course, there's nothing wrong with individuals deciding one shoe is more of a bargain than another; who can be against that kind of freedom? Well, the domestic shoe manufacturers and their workers are against it. They want you to buy their products.

They could lure you to lowering their prices. However, that might mean lower profits and wages. And they don't want any part of that bitter pill.

So they appeal to Congress to enact legislation to restrict your choices. Their armies of lobbyists pressure Congress to reduce shoe imports through quotas and tariffs. Quotas place numerical limits on imports and reduce your selection of shoes; tariffs raise the price of imports and make foreign shoes less of a good buy.

Had President Reagan caved into the recent shoe lobby effort, 240 million American Consumers would have been forced to pay an estimated $1.5 billion more each year in higher shoe prices. That

Proud of Pirates

Dear editor,
Three cheers for Mr. Pinkham. I'm glad to know someone really does know who the real heroes are. The people of Lefors have always known, but when you've been downgraded so much you learn to keep your head high and control hurt feelings. Those hard-working Pirates deserve more than putdowns. I wish the journalist from Amarillo would walk down our streets or through the Pirates' hall at school and just maybe he would learn a few manners. This also goes to our friend at the Pampa radio station. He seemed to enjoy putting us down also. At least, Lefors has the manners and the sportsmanship it takes to be a hero and be proud of it.

A PROUD PIRATES MOM

Thanks for article

To the editor,
I would like to commend Paul Pinkham and the Pampa News for the fair coverage that they have given the Lefors Pirate football team. Your article in Off Beat expressed the feelings we have all shared. It is hard to keep your spirit up when all you can hear from some newspapers and radio stations is downgrading remarks. If those with negative reporting could come to the workouts and games, their opinions might change. These kids are being penalized for being small in numbers. Twenty-one kids comprise the Pirate team, including the managers. Most play the whole game with no relief. Lost their shirts?

To the editor,
According to previous letters to the editor, our city manager authorized the purchase of some polo green and gold shirts for certain city employees. It has been reported that these shirts cost from $12 to $13 each. If only $700 was spent for these shirts, that amount would buy about 50 to 55 shirts.

I understand there are between 200 and 215 city employees. If only 50 to 55 received their shirts, did the other city employees just "lose their shirts?"

On what basis did Mr. Hart decide who should receive shirts? Was there any discrimination against any city employee? How did he decide just what certain employees should get a shirt?

I have lived under the impression that city expenditures are governed by the elected mayor and city commissioners. By what authority did Mr. Hart make this purchase? Was this a budgeted item in the city's 1984-85 budget? Should the other city employees who lost out on the shirt deal be given a bonus equal to the price of a shirt?

A private business may spend its money as that business may decide. However, a governmental entity is supposed to be governed by the budget which the elected officials may approve. If Mr. Hart wants to supply city employees with shirts, or whatever, from his personal funds, I do not believe many taxpayers would object.

Texans fight back

Dear editor,
In regard to the recent law passed by our "Big Brothers" of the Texas Legislature concerning mandatory seat belts, I just wanted to say thanks—thanks for taking away another one of our already dwindling freedoms.

It's great to know that if we Texas drivers are too stupid to judge for ourselves whether to wear or not to wear seat belts that our state government will decide for us.

Seat belts may be okay. Mandatory seat belt laws aren't. Your "Our Opinion" editorial of Sept. 8 was right. I also think that Texas drivers must be some of the most regulated people around. With the mandatory license plate sticker, drivers licenses, inspection sticker, liability insurance and now mandatory seat belt laws.

Texans aren't used to all this, let's fight back.

If you're against mandatory seat belt laws, write your local representatives and Congressmen and let them know. Because the hog that squeals least gets butchered. Write today.

Pampa schools praised

Dear Mr. Simmons,
For several years I have been promising to write a "letter to the editor" on the subject of our local school system. I have had my sons in Pampa public schools from the 4th grade through all four high school years and have probably given and gotten as many ulcers as any parent that has ever had the privilege of working with the Pampa Independent School District.

From time to time I have gone to one of the schools in a fury that "My Kid" wasn't being treated fair. Inevitably it has proven to be a misunderstanding which was soon cleared to my complete satisfaction. I believe this is due to the fact that we have so many competent, caring teachers in our schools.

The story on page one of The Pampa News dated Sept. 25, 1985, about students being unprepared for colleges and colleges not turning out qualified graduates, prompted this letter.

I hear many of our local parents with this same complaint (that our students can't get a quality education here). They always start talking about "the teachers don't teach the subject right," or "all the teachers and administrators want to do is cause problems for my child, not teach."

Those same parents, when called by the school because of misbehavior by the child, seem to take the attitude that if they keep the child away from the teacher, school, or authority for awhile, all problems will resolve themselves. The student know that they can come home and their parents will believe whatever story the student cares to tell because, after all, "it's a lousy school anyway."

It has been my personal

Worried about Pampa

To the editor,
I am concerned about Pampa surviving. I am very worried about our economy. I wonder if others are concerned. What can we do about this?

My feelings are that every penny that every person in Pampa spends should be spent in Pampa. This includes businesses.

I realize that day care centers, schools, restaurants and other centers usually get their food, paper supplies and cleaning supplies from wholesale businesses in Amarillo or Lubbock. Is there any way these can be supplied in Pampa?

Perhaps our merchants are not interested in giving prices that these businesses can afford. Or, perhaps the businesses have shopped out of town so long that they have not checked with local merchants recently. Is there a need for new businesses to move into Pampa?

Some of the reasons people shop in Amarillo instead of Pampa are merchandise selection, high prices and uninterested sales people and owners.

If you own a business in Pampa, can you make an effort to supply what I need or what my children want? Can you make your prices comparable to Amarillo or Lubbock? Can you give your customers a smile and stay interested in their needs and desires? If you can say yes to the above, your business is probably doing well. If not, you will probably be like the umpteen businesses that have opened and closed in a short time in Pampa.

I would be interested in hearing how others Pampans feel. Only 76 shopping days till Christmas. Will you get the sales?

sleight-of-hand $1.5 billion handout to the shoe industry would have not shown up as a government expenditure, but it surely would have had a full effect of a tax on the public. Congressmen like handing out these kinds of favors, because few people make the connection between tariffs and quotas and the higher prices they end up paying. One of the tragedies of the trade restrictions is that they are actually more costly than the 'buddy-can-you-spare-a-dime' type of handout. Shoe import restrictions would have saved 30,000 jobs at a cost to consumers, in higher shoe prices, of $1.5 billion a year.

That means it would have cost the public $50,000 for every job saved. But guess what? The average salary of U.S. shoe workers is $14,000. Only in Washington does it make sense to spend $50,000 to save $14,000; sensible because it's somebody else's money. There is nothing sacred about the shoe industry. Some U.S. industries as a part of the natural technological evolutionary process. Others decline because of a federal tax, labor and clean air laws handicap them and make them less able to compete. After all, the IRS, OSHA and EPA have no jurisdiction in Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

The special-interest pleading of the shoe industry is only the tip of the iceberg of the 99th Congress's fall agenda. Special pleadings are coming from the textile, auto, steel and electronics industries.

One thing is clear. If your congressman votes for a free lunch for any of these industries, you know who'll pick up the tab. And it isn't mother nature.

City meet criticized

Editor, you should have missed your six o'clock Tuesday evening dinner date with the Mrs. and gone to City Hall for a lesson in city government.

This was supposed to be a "public" hearing on the 1985-1986 budget. Everything was well-oiled and slicker than a greased pig running under a gate.

The City Manager gave the invocation and settled back, sort of crouching in his chair. Ordinance number so - and - so was hurriedly read and passed. A second numbered ordinance was read regarding budget, and was passed by unanimous vote before anyone knew what was going on. No opportunity was given to those present to question the budget, and immediately item three on the agenda was being read. At this point the proceedings were interrupted and some questions were asked.

City Manager Hart gave a fast, garbled explanation stating that the budget presentation had been revised and improved, but it would possibly take two C.P.A.'s and a Philadelphia lawyer to untangle his detailing. The facts are that estimated revenue was increased nearly 17 percent, while estimated expenditures were increased 27 percent, indicating future deficit spending.

Another ordinance was unanimously passed raising garbage disposal costs more than 30 percent, and sewage disposal is also being increased. All of this is what Mr. Hart calls a "tight" budget! If the slickers in Washington had been present for this meeting, they would have gotten a better slant on how to pick the public pocket.

E. C. SIDWELL

EDITOR'S NOTE: Last Tuesday's meeting was not a scheduled public hearing. The public hearing on the budget and

Seattle teachers approve contract

SEATTLE (AP) — The city's teachers approved on a voice vote Saturday a one-year contract worth $8.4 million, ending a strike that kept 43,500 students at home for more than three weeks.

Elsewhere, strikes continued in 10 school districts with nearly 35,000 students in Pennsylvania, Ohio and New Jersey.

tax rate had been held on Tuesday, Sept. 10. That hearing was covered in the Sept. 11 issue of The Pampa News. Advance articles announcing the hearing date had been published on Page 1 on Sept. 9 and in Mr. Hart's column on Page 2 the same day; a ¼-page advertisement on the hearing had been published on Page 7 in the same issue. In addition, legal notices advising of the hearing had been published on previous dates. Public comments were received at the Sept. 11 meeting.

Reunion a success

Dear Sir,
On Sept. 7, Pampa High School Class of '35 held its 50th reunion. It was outstanding.

Special recognition is due to Katherine Ward Taylor, Marie Tinsley Smith, Milo Carlson and many other who contributed to its success.

Thanks are offered to Warren Hesse, and to the crew at the Pampa Country Club who furnished their excellent facilities and food. And thanks to our returning teachers and to the members of other classes from the '30s who helped swell our attendance to over 220.

The Pampa News contributed publicity with pictures, articles and 'Peeking' at Pampa.

Our friends and grads from coast to coast came home and were impressed. We are anxiously looking forward to the next one.

Universities fight for recognition

Last of a five-part series on higher education in Texas.

AUSTIN (AP) — Everyone knows about the SMU Mustangs and the TCU Horned Frogs. But the UTA Mavericks?

That's part of the problem at the University of Texas at Arlington. It's called "recognition lag."

Not only are Texas Christian and Southern Methodist universities older and located in cities full of loyal boosters, UTA officials complained in the plan they submitted to the UT Board of Regents, but they also get more national attention because they have better football teams.

UTA can't be blamed for having something of an inferiority complex. This is the university that Texas A&M didn't want.

After three incarnations as a military academy, the school became Grubbs Vocational College, part of the Texas A&M System, in 1917. But A&M was a neglectful parent, pouring its money into the main campus at College Station and preferring that Grubbs, even with changed names, remain a small suburban college.

There was no protest when UTA moved to join the University of Texas system in 1965. But UT regents did not allow it to share the $2.3 billion Permanent University Fund.

Even the student newspaper is called The Shorthorn.

But if UT System Chancellor Hans Mark's vision is realized, glory days are ahead for the university that for years has played stepister to UT-Austin's dazzling Cinderella.

If a fleet could have two flagships, UT-Arlington would become the second one. Mark said he thinks Arlington will become the fourth major research institution in Texas, behind only UT-Austin, Texas A&M and Rice.

"It's clearly in a moving-up situation. All we need is a few centers like robotics and the people will come," Mark said.

"Even if we sat here and vigorously opposed the growth of the Arlington campus, we couldn't stop it. It will be there. The Dallas-Fort Worth community demands that quality, and it will get it."

That meshes nicely with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's hope that three more Texas universities can be elevated to the rank of major research institutions. He wants to see Texas Tech University at Lubbock, the University of Houston and one university in the Fort Worth-Dallas area achieve that status so that the state of Texas, which now ranks ninth in federal research money received, can improve its record.

The problem facing Mark and the UT regents is that there are 10 stepsisters in the UT system, and all aspire to be the second Cinderella.

And for the first time they have that chance, now that the Texas Constitution requires that they all share the Permanent University Fund, an endowment second in size only to that of Harvard's.

There is $320 million available for construction bonds between now and 1991. Already, the 11 UT universities and medical schools have asked for $758 million in new buildings, renovation, computers and equipment.

Arlington, which has only 88 square feet per student, compared to a state average of 115, wants new buildings for engineering, physical education, business and science.

There are other universities that want dormitories, student centers, administrative buildings, an indoor pool and tennis courts.

"The pie is not as large as people think," said Jon Newton, former regents chairman. "I was worried that there wouldn't be enough money for enrichment at UT-Austin. We need to make some hard choices based on real needs as opposed to just wants."

Former President Peter Flawn said it is already within the top five public universities in the nation. New President William Cunningham says it is well on the way to being world-class. Board of Regents Chairman Jess Hay says it can move to a pre-eminent position within the next 15 years.

It ranks 18th among 224 doctorate-granting institutions, according to an academic ranking system devised by Pennsylvania State University and based on departmental ratings made by the National Academy of Science in 1982.

UT-Austin has 136 chairs with an endowment of more than $500,000 each and 427 professorships with endowments of $100,000, but only about half of them have been filled.

Only UT-Austin, the constitutional "university of the first class," can use the Available University Fund, income from the Permanent University Fund that will amount to $185.2 million during the next two years. Texas A&M gets $61.7 million of that amount.

But the permanent fund is available to all UT components as backing for construction bonds, and the fast-growing universities in Arlington, Dallas, San Antonio and Tyler all want their share.

To deal with that, regents required each component to evaluate its mission and state its needs.

"We think each component should achieve first class quality in one or more fields," said board member Beryl Milburn. "They had wish lists to begin with that were way out of line. Visions of sugar plums were dancing in their heads."

Hard decisions were made. More hard decisions will come later this year when regents create a building plan that will allow some elbow room in the fund.

In the meantime, the university's specialized roles are emerging.

This is what Mark envisions: — UT-ARLINGTON — A nationally recognized research institution built around high technology. It will get a new engineering building to replace the one that has a leaky roof and windows that fall out in high winds. It will become more of a residential university. Now only 8 percent of students are housed on campus.

— UT-DALLAS — A more specialized high-technology institution. Hay noted that it now ranks third in the system in federal research grants and could become another major research school. Forget dreams of having a law school. Mark points out that SMU has a very good one down the road.

— UT-SAN ANTONIO — A biotechnology center to complement the military medical installations already in that city.

— UT-PERMIAN BASIN — This is a tough one. The school has difficulty attracting students just to fill its $14 million building. Mark thinks it could become a high-energy physics institution if Texas gets the Superconducting Super-collider.

— UT-TYLER — A cultural center for East Texas with a new performing arts center.

— UT-EL PASO — Texas' version of The City College of New York, a springboard into the mainstream for a new immigrant generation from Mexico.

"None of them get everything they want," Hay said. "We don't have enough resources to provide all their perceived needs in the time frame they would prefer."

Acquitted legislator says jury selection process key

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — State Sen. Carl Parker, the veteran lawmaker indicted twice on obscenity charges, credits the special selection of a grand jury with clearing him of the allegations once and for all.

Parker maintained Jefferson County Investigators' attempts to link him with the Happy Times Video Co. were "pure harassment," and proposed during the last legislative session that all grand juries be chosen randomly.

Lawmakers did not adopt Parker's suggestion, but a state district judge did and a randomly selected grand jury was impaneled in July to investigate the case.

The panel on Friday voted not to return any indictments against Parker, and the Port Arthur Democrat said the decision proved he was right all along.

"I've always maintained that a fair and impartial panel would do the right thing ... and they have," said Parker, 50, a 21-year veteran of the Texas Legislature.

The investigation began shortly after an April 19,

1984, raid in which police seized more than 400 X-rated videotapes, tape duplicating equipment and drugs from Happy Times Video, operated from a Port Arthur house co-owned by Parker and Daniel Joseph Lee.

Parker later said he had sold the property and was not involved in the business.

Parker and Lee were indicted in September 1984 on charges that included wholesale distribution of obscene material and promotion of prostitution. Pickett dismissed the charges against Parker in November 1984, saying the grand jury that returned the indictments was biased.

Parker and Lee were indicted again March 22 this year — along with David Earl Johnson. But Pickett, saying unauthorized people were in the courtroom, threw out the charges against all three men.

District Attorney James McGrath said the first set of indictments against Lee still stand.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, acting on a call for help from McGrath, assigned special prosecutor Joe Hendley to the case in July. Hendley withdrew from the case earlier this month.

Legislators cheer verdict

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Most of Sen. Carl Parker's legislative colleagues, past and present, reacted joyfully to the news that the Jefferson County special grand jury had cleared him.

For the most part, they credited a randomly selected grand jury and an outside prosecutor for clearing Parker Friday after two previous grand juries indicted him.

The previous grand juries were directed by Jefferson County District Attorney James McGrath and selected by jury commissioners appointed by local district judges.

McGrath asked for a special prosecutor and a randomly picked grand jury after a visiting judge threw out the indictments.

"Fantastic," former Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz, D-Galveston, a lawyer and longtime friend of Parker's, told the Beaumont Enterprise.

"The first time a fair prosecutor and a fair investigation and a fair grand jury heard the evidence, it resulted in a fair result."

"I'm delighted," said Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, a lawyer and Parker's closest friend in the Texas Senate.

"It shows me that we have still got a long way to go to improve the whole grand jury system," Mauzy said.

"We need to return to what its original function was in the old common law of England, and that is to stand as a shield between the citizen accused and the power of the state to harass and, in effect, allow a police state to come into existence."

Sen. H. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, a criminal defense lawyer, agreed with Mauzy's assessment.

"This just goes to show you that when the grand jury performs its function the way it was set up by our American jurisprudence, that justice will prevail," Santiesteban said.

Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, a frequent legislative opponent of Parker's, said he would continue to oppose major changes in the grand jury system.

Brown disagreed with Parker during the spring legislative session.

Texas company weathering tough times

By KIT FRIEDEN
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — These are not easy times for Southland Corp., the parent company of 7-Eleven, inventor of the Slurpee and the 30-second checkout.

The world's largest operator of convenience stores has been beset with legal, economic and image problems, but company chairman John P. Thompson says calmly it isn't "the end of the world."

A five-year federal bribery probe in New York led to a tax fraud conviction for Southland, a proxy fraud conviction for one of its top officers and a guilty plea to bribe conspiracy by another Southland official who resigned.

Then Southland's 2-year-old gas refining business, Citgo Petroleum Corp., suffered large losses, forcing big layoffs last year. More Citgo losses in the first quarter this year threatened the parent company's financial picture.

The volatile refinery business made a turnaround and Citgo turned profitable in the second quarter, boosting Southland earnings to a record $88.7 million.

But at the same time, the 7-Eleven retail division was hard hit by increasingly tough competition and a continued attack from right-wing religious groups who picket the stores for selling adult magazines.

Thompson, however, remains optimistic even as the company continues to pursue new merchandizing techniques.

The low-key, slow-talking Texan who, along with two brothers, runs the 58-year-old company, says Southland previously has had "tough years economically going way back."

"Obviously, the last two to three years have been difficult ones. I don't consider it the end of the world," he said.

Of the tax fraud and bribery case, Thompson said he was personally hurt to learn that former Southland official Eugene DeFalco had arranged a bribe scheme involving state tax officials in New York.

DeFalco resigned from the company and pleaded guilty to bribe conspiracy.

"When you have a lot of people, I guess once in a while you get a bad apple," Thompson said.

But he continues to argue the innocence of Clark J. Matthews II, the company's chief financial officer who is appealing his conviction on proxy fraud.

The Southland chairman said that even if Matthews does serve his two-month prison sentence, "I look forward to him returning to Southland as quickly as he can."

Southland also was convicted in New York of illegally claiming tax deductions for bribe money.

Still, Thompson doesn't brood about the past. "We've got a fine company, and certainly over the years have been involved in outside activities — charitable activities, the Olympics, which offset the negative with the positive."

For years the company has sponsored the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Association Telethon and the March of Dimes' March Against Birth Defects. It also sponsored the 1984 Summer Olympics.

However, the company came under attack earlier this month by the Rev. Jerry Falwell and several thousand anti-pornography protesters who gathered across the street from Southland headquarters.

The groups have launched campaigns targeting Southland for selling three adult magazines.

"I think it's a free country, and they're free to believe whatever they want," Thompson said.

Marketing vice president Frank McKeown said research indicates "the vast majority (of customers) agree with our policy," which has the magazines displayed behind the counter with false fronts.

Thompson believes the negative publicity surrounding the bribery investigation hurt the price of the company's stock, but "I don't think the general public paid that much attention to it. I don't think it hurt sales particularly."

Gloria leaves East Coast in the dark

By ROGER PETTERSON
Associated Press Writer

Utility crews worked Saturday to restore power to an estimated 1.6 million customers who remained blacked out by Hurricane Gloria, which was blamed for eight deaths and tens of millions of dollars in damage even though it proved less destructive than expected.

In the wake of Gloria's dash up the East Coast and across New England, sunbathers and strollers returned to beaches, and card dealers went back to work in the casinos of Atlantic City, N.J.

Connecticut and New York's Long Island bore the brunt of the storm but much of the damage was caused by fallen trees that blocked streets and pulled down powerlines. An estimated 3.5 million customers lost power temporarily as the hurricane passed.

Bob Blair, a spokesman for the Federal Emergency Management

Agency in Washington, said Saturday that FEMA had requests from the states of New York and Rhode Island for federal declarations of disaster areas and was surveying damage elsewhere.

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo estimated "millions and millions of dollars" in damages, mostly on Long Island.

"I think we have a good chance for qualifying" for federal disaster aid, Cuomo said Saturday after viewing overturned cabin cruisers, flattened trees, and isolated places where roofs were peeled back like sardine cans.

Cuomo acknowledged the damage was not as great as feared, but said, "We got hurt... We don't have any exciting pictures to put on television, but the damage is there."

"It could have been a lot worse," Connecticut Gov. William O'Neill said after flying over his state. "From the air, it didn't look that bad, but there was a lot of damage."

All in all, I would say the people of Connecticut were very lucky."

The storm brought a benefit in the form of heavy rain that raised New York City's drought-lowered reservoirs, which have sprouted grass on land that should be deeply submerged. However, water use restrictions will remain in effect, city officials said.

A small part of Gloria's destruction was welcomed. It ripped up the boardwalk along the beach at Ocean City, Md., where residents had set aside $1 million to replace the 23-year-old structure.

"Now we don't have to tear it up," said city manager Tony Barrett.

But in Connecticut, just over 500,000 electric customers remained without power Saturday and utilities said it may take a week to restore all service. At the height of the storm, Northeast Utilities counted 650,000 customers without power and United Illuminating said 184,000 of its clients were blacked out.

The repair costs to Northeast Utilities could run as high as $20 million, President E. James Ferland said.

Gloria had grown to one of the strongest Atlantic storms on record with 150 mph wind as it neared the East Coast last week.

Stocks hurt by earnings news

NEW YORK (AP) — Companies and investors beware: Wall Street is in no mood to hear bad news about earnings.

Just ask Wherehouse Entertainment, Litton Industries Inc., Apollo Computer Inc. and Kollmorgen Corp. Each of their stocks took a drubbing this past week after the companies said profits would be disappointing.

The same has held true for other companies, notably some airlines, whose earnings outlooks recently have been slashed by Wall Street analysts.

Obviously, the market — save the short sellers — never enjoys hearing that corporate earnings are under pressure. But the negative reaction has been particularly intense lately.

The calendar is much to blame, said A. Marshall Acuff Jr., portfolio strategist at Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co. The third quarter ends Monday, and portfolio managers are scrambling to weed troubled stocks from their holdings so as to present their clients the best possible third-quarter performance.

But the cause of the pullbacks stemming from earnings disappointments goes beyond quarterly portfolio adjustments.

For months the market has heard warnings of lower-than-expected earnings from many companies, even from International Business Machines Corp., as the economy showed only sluggish growth.

But there was the constant suggestion that business activity would pick up steam in the latter half of 1985, giving investors cause for hope that earnings would improve. That thinking kept the price-earnings ratios of some issues relatively high.

Instead, the economic outlook remains muddled and investors are becoming increasingly pessimistic. And as more companies report continued weakness in profits, it compounds their fears that the economic upswing might be even further away.

Stocks began with a major rally after the United States and four other leading industrial nations said they would try to lower the dollar's value against other currencies.

But the euphoria ended quickly after many investors took a second look at the five-nation effort and concluded that even if it works, companies are not likely to realize the benefits for several quarters.

Tests scheduled for this week extensive review. According to principal Phil Barefield, the English teacher has been reviewing the tests objectives with the students while the math teacher has been conducting tutorials. Barefield thinks about ten of the 22 juniors are taking the tutorials.

Barefield couldn't speculate on how many of the juniors will pass the test, since this is the first time they'll take it.

"In English class, we've been doing papers on it since the day school started," observed Miami junior Kristi Klaverwieden, who added that she's been attending some of the math tutorials. "We've been working hard on it every day in class.

The junior drum major says she's more confident about the English part than the math. But she admits she's a little worried by "the fact you have to pass it to get out of high school."

Canadian High School junior Stephanie Harris thinks she'll do best in reading.

"My math is not that good," Harris added, expressing both confidence and concern about the test. "I've been looking at that booklet that the teacher gave us."

"It shouldn't be too hard," said Suni Barnett of Groom. "English will probably be the easiest.

Spelling, yes. Vocabulary, maybe, I'll have to see what type of words they use."

Although Barnett expects to do "pretty fair" in math, she expects to pass the test.

"We've been studying on it in class and I've been studying on it since school started," she said.

Kambra Winingham of Pampa also expects to do well in English, especially with reading comprehension.

"Words are my strong point," she said, adding that she's taken two years of algebra.

Dan Passmore of McLean doesn't really know how well he'll do on the test.

"I've looked over the test booklet, and it looks hard, but I expect to pass," he said, adding that they've done a little studying in class. "But they can't prepare us too much for it."

The test seems "pretty easy" to Grant Gamblin of Pampa.

"I hope I'll do pretty good in math, maybe not in English," he said. "I have a little trouble with grammar."

"Math is my strongest subject," said White Deer's Staci Thompson. "English, I don't know."

"I've been studying the little pamphlet," she said. "It could be difficult, but I think I'll pass it."

The Texas Education Agency

claims the TEAMS tests measures a student's knowledge of mathematics, reading and writing skills. The 144 multiple-choice question test will be divided into 10 sections or "objectives," which students are expected to master.

Among the math objectives are to identify fractions, decimals and percents; round numbers; convert numbers from exponential (i.e. three to the fourth power, eight squared) to standard notation; proportions; geometric formulas; graphs and solving for the value of variables.

Language arts objectives include word definitions, spelling, reference material, punctuation and capitalization.

Reading skills include determining the sequence of events, logical conclusions, identifying the main idea of stories and distinguishing fact from fiction.

The officers said they anticipate an increase in response time resulting from the ruling, particularly during shift changes. Two of them are trained emergency medical technicians and said they often responded to calls on their car radios during off-duty hours. Without the radio, they would not have heard the calls and lives could have been lost as a result, they said.

As EMTs, the officers said they purchased, on their own, emergency medical equipment for their patrol cars, as well as regular police equipment. They said they doubted they would take the time to move the equipment from a patrol car to a private car each day.

A loss of visibility also worries the officers. If nothing else, they said, a take-home unit being used to run errands slows down traffic when motorists see it.

"This small a town, every officer should have a take-home unit," one officer said.

The policemen said the ruling has contributed to lowered morale on the force by fueling the feeling among officers that the city does not care about them. They noted a decrease in morale could cost the city if officers start requesting overtime pay in cases where they had volunteered time.

"I don't mind volunteering a little time but now I'm not going to volunteer any time because if they don't care about me, why should I care about them?" one officer asked.

He also predicted officers will care less about patrol cars than they did when they essentially had their own patrol cars, a factor that also could mean increased costs for the city.

"I have a tendency to want to take care of my own car. If I lose my car, where's my initiative?" he asked. "I'm not going to worry about the car somebody else drives. I'll just leave it at the shop and forget about it."

He said he normally takes care of minor maintenance on his take-home unit.

One officer noted off-duty officers also serve as the city's storm watch and lead funeral processions, utilizing take-home units.

Hart does not argue the point that the take-home program was effective in its goals of increasing visibility and deterring crime. He said he went into budget discussions this year intending to maintain the program and added it was not eliminated until the final round of budget cuts.

"By and large, the results that I've seen indicate that it is good," he said. "It maintains a high profile for the department and it is a deterrent to crime, by and large."

The city manager conceded that the savings generated by the plan, estimated at about $40,000, may not be worth the loss of profile for the department. He said he hopes the take-home program can be re-established in several years when the fleet is built up with newer cars.

"I think that over the long-term, the city would want to look seriously at getting back into the program," he said. "I wouldn't say it would be eliminated permanently."

Panama president resigns under fire

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — The National Assembly swore in a new president Saturday after Nicolas Ardito Barletta resigned his 11-month-old presidency, citing pressure from the military and members of his own government.

First Vice President Eric Arturo Delvalle, 48, was inaugurated as president to succeed Barletta, as provided for in the constitution.

Delvalle, a business executive and graduate of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, said in a brief speech that Panama's problems place it "in the midst of a social, political and economic whirlpool" that presents "one of the most difficult times in its history."

Barletta, the country's first democratically elected president in 16 years, had struggled since his inauguration to introduce austerity measures to pull Panama out of its worst economic crisis in half a century.

In a national television and radio address delivered at 2:45 a.m. Saturday, Barletta confirmed reports of his resignation that had been circulating since Friday, when he cut short a trip to New York where he had addressed the U.N. General Assembly.

In his farewell address, Barletta said he had been informed by members of his coalition, the National Democratic Union, and "its legislators together with the Defense Forces that they consider they could no longer work with my presidency," he said.

Because of this lack of support, and "to preserve the country's democratic institutions" he said he had decided to step down.

SINUS ACHE

People with colds often complain that their sinuses ache. A "sinus ache" is caused by membrane swelling and mucus in the sinuses. Sinus congestion usually is just an extension of a cold from the nasal passages. If so, a decongestant can often be used. However, sinus congestion may be caused by a bacterial infection of a sinus. Unlike the congestion of a cold, bacterial infections are usually more painful. The pain often localizes over one particular sinus. The skin over that sinus sometimes may be tender also. A sinus infection caused by bacteria needs to be treated with antibiotics in addition to decongestants. Consult a physician.

The "Drug Store with a Difference" B&B PHARMACY offers professional, concerned and personalized service so the next time your physician prescribes medication let us fill it. ENTERTAINMENT

James O'Sullivan portrays defense attorney Matthew McKay in ABC's "Family Honor."

In 1979 after appearing in several daytime serials, O'Sullivan walked away from a successful daytime career in order to rediscover his craft and broaden his acting opportunities. His subsequent move to the West Coast soon paid off in a number of guest star roles in night-time series and frequent television commercials. Finally, this past spring, he was cast as maverick defense attorney Matthew McKay in the pilot of the upcoming ABC series, "Family Honor."

Successful completion of the pilot and the good news that ABC gave "Family Honor" a spot on the fall lineup prompted O'Sullivan (with good reason, as any fellow Irishman would note) to celebrate. His high spirits were soon dashed, however, as so often happens in the inexplicable world of television. Due to "budgetary concerns," the role of Matthew McKay, along with his wife and child, was among those eliminated from the series.

O'Sullivan's unemployment, though, was short-lived. The producers of the daytime series, "One Life To Live," had heard of his availability after the "Family Honor" axe had fallen and, in need of a heavy-weight actor to portray a charismatic defense attorney, tracked him down. O'Sullivan, however, didn't rise to the bait. "The role of Peter O'Neil sounded great - he would have to defend a woman accused of murdering his own brother," he explains, "but it would also mean leaving my wife in Los Angeles for a year and moving to New York. It just wasn't worth it."

O'Sullivan turned the job down and that, he thought, was that - until, a scant two hours later, he was paged to the phone again. The producer, a close and longtime friend, explained that O'Sullivan was perfect for the role and that they were prepared to accept a six-month commitment - almost unheard of in the daytime serial world. O'Sullivan left Dublin the next day for New York to create the role of attorney Peter O'Neil and try his hand at a limited-run commuter marriage.

to uncover the Le Soliel mystery. Cass sends Kathleen off to interview Edward while he gets ready to confront Daphne about her shady loans. A desperate Adrienne calls Larry after hearing a rumor in jail that there is a contract out on her life. Larry will not tell the police, afraid that will put her in more danger. Among Willa's personal things that Catlin has Brittany finds a cross that belonged to Evan. This convinces Brittany that Evan must be alive since she is sure that Willa would have buried it when the boy died.

THIS WEEK: Sally is in danger. Felicia has mixed feelings.
DAYS OF OUR LIVES--Speed tells the Viper about Ivy moving out of her place and into Kiriakis' and the Viper goes to Ivy's to crash for a few weeks, but finds Pete tied up. He manages to knock McBride out. But the Viper is killed by McBride. Hope tells Frances she is a police officer and the guy who wants to kill her is a bad cop. Liz feels guilty, and starts to blame herself in her depression over never being able to sing again. Pete arrives at the farm and is upset to find Tod and Melissa in bed together, even though it's part of their act. Kimberly continues her blind act, and begins to get information she would otherwise not be able to glean. Kim then goes to Bo's, and while there, sees McBride who is there to plant incriminating evidence on Bo's and Hope's.
THIS WEEK: Tod has his hands full. Kim jogs her memory.

'Salt and pepper' put in music video

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — On one of Stuart Shapiro's music video TV shows, a college librarian from Albuquerque tells the host she wants a Latin lover, adding that she speaks a little Portuguese, then speaking a little.

That's the "salt and pepper" that spices a show, says Shapiro, who's a sort of chef of rock video TV shows. Viewer participation is one of his favorite ingredients.

Shapiro is the 37-year-old executive vice president of ATI Video Enterprises and senior producer of the company's six syndicated video shows.

One of them is the hour-long "TV 2000," which started July 5 and is now shown on about 90 TV stations, mostly on Friday or Saturday nights.

Mention rock videos and most people think of MTV, the 24-hour cable channel. By contrast, Shapiro says, "We produce programs, with a beginning, middle and end. We have a script and a concept."

"In essence, 'TV 2000' is a top-10 video show," he says. "There are two or three others. How are we going to make a high-profile, very commercial show that plays only videos of hit songs different? I call it the salt and pepper of a show, the seasoning that makes it work."

"We put in an inter-reactive element, where the viewer has a chance to participate. I think that's important. Every week we give two clues to a rock star within the show. They aren't difficult. You can call a phone number to guess the name of the star. About 500 calls are intercepted electronically and answered. We averaged 75,000 calls a show during the summer."

"The callers' names are written on pieces of paper and we have a bonded lawyer come down and pick one out of a hat. The winner gets to have a telephone conversation with the star, a tape of the conversation and a video cassette player."

Sometimes Shapiro's seasoning is experimental. Comic John Kassir was a regular on the first 13 weeks of "TV 2000." On the second 13 weeks, he'll be an occasional guest.

Actress Joie Gallo, whose name sounds familiar because of her father's murder in Umberto's Clam Bar in Manhattan, introduces the video clips and interviews stars who come to the studio.

Shapiro, a native of Williamstown, Mass., tells how his music shows evolved several years ago.

He joined forces with Jeff Franklin, the owner of ATI Video who then had a rock concert booking agency, American Talent International. "I said the USA network has women's tennis at 11 p.m. Fridays. Kids want to watch rock 'n' roll."

So, together they devised "Night Flight," which started in June 1981, three months before MTV. It is still running rock videos from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights.

Next came "Radio 1990," which has been running over two years, Monday through Friday from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

Housing segregation dies hard in E. Texas

PITTSBURG, Texas (AP) — Only last year did blacks begin moving into what had been an all-white housing complex here, a quiet, often painful process taking place in 36 East Texas counties a federal judge ruled discriminatory.

Old ways die hard in this section of the state that more resembles the old South than the new Southwest.

In this Camp County community of less than 5,000, public housing had provided an opportunity largely for white elderly women.

"They have moved so many blacks in until I'm gonna move," vows Annie Laura Carpenter, an 80-year-old white widow who has lived in Pittsburg's subsidized housing since 1958.

"We can't get to sleep until 1 a.m. They won't quieten down. There's 25 ... kids from 5 years up to 18 and 20. They'll laugh and squeal and holler," Mrs. Carpenter said.

Millie Harrison, a black woman who became executive director of the Pittsburg Housing Authority just a few months ago, said complaints about noise from children seem to be the biggest problem at the modest little complex of one-story brick apartment houses.

"They've (elderly whites) been used to living in a quiet neighborhood with no children," she said.

At another Pittsburg complex, similarly designed, Helen Jackson has a different complaint.

The 43-year-old black mother of three said she waited seven years for decent housing and was turned away more than once from Pittsburg's white housing complex, which she said had vacancies at the time.

During that time, she lived in a mobile home that was in such bad condition her toddling grandchild fell through the floor.

The trailer house was so drafty, Mrs. Jackson said they kept warm by stuffing drapes and towels around the door and turning on the oven, which tended to leak gas fumes. The roof of the mobile home leaked, too.

"We all caught colds ... I wouldn't wish that on my worst enemy," she recalled as she sat with two daughters and a granddaughter in the living room of the housing project apartment her family now occupies.

She had joined a 1980 class action suit brought by two Clarksville women, Virginia Wyatt and Lucille Young, alleging discrimination by the federally-funded housing authorities in East Texas.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice severed the individual suits against the Clarksville and Pittsburg projects from the larger issue of whether there was widespread segregation in East Texas public housing.

In 1983, the judge ordered the Clarksville project integrated.

There has been no ruling in Mrs. Jackson's case against Pittsburg, but Elizabeth Julian, one of the attorneys who filed the suit, said a settlement is being negotiated.

The Pittsburg Housing Authority rented an apartment to Mrs. Jackson in 1982. And today, she says she is good friends with her white neighbors next door in a complex that used to be all-black.

But the most significant ruling in the case came July 31, with a decision from Justice that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development had violated the Constitution by intentionally segregating minority and white tenants in more than 200 housing programs in 36 East Texas Counties.

Several housing authorities are taking steps to remedy past actions which Justice described in his decision as "clearly animated by racial prejudice."

Atlantis shuttle to debut in secrecy-shrouded flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Atlantis, the fourth and possibly last space shuttle, makes its debut Thursday on a secrecy-shrouded military mission that reportedly will launch two satellites built to withstand nuclear assault.

The Air Force has said Atlantis and its five-man crew will be launched sometime between 10:20 a.m. and 1:20 p.m. EDT Thursday. The precise time will be disclosed nine minutes before the planned liftoff.

Throughout the flight, even less public information will be forthcoming from the Pentagon than was the case during the first all-classified Defense Department mission last January.

Even the length of the flight is a secret, but the landing will be announced 24 hours in advance.

Officials decline to reveal any details about the payload, but the Federation of American Scientists, citing public sources, reported last month the shuttle's cargo bay contains two Defense Satellite Communications System satellites, the advanced model known as DSCS-3.

On the January flight, the Air Force issued a statement every eight hours which said everything was going well aboard the shuttle Discovery.

Some Phillips oil wells perforate gas formation

Independent oilmen in the Texas Panhandle are being shut down and sued for producing gaswell gas through "high perforations" in oil wells.

But Phillips Petroleum Co., which has led the opposition against independents, may have been doing the same thing in some cases, according to Texas Railroad Commission documents.

Joe Cochran, attorney for Phillips, said that while Phillips may have high perforations in some of its oil wells, the company is not producing gas-well gas through its oil wells on a large scale.

Under federal pricing laws, oil-well gas - or casinghead gas - can be sold at substantially higher prices than gas-well gas, but oilmen cannot take gas from just any strata, according to a recent Federal Energy Regulatory Commission ruling.

Phillips has supported the ruling, saying that oil wells should not be perforated above the level where nearby gas wells are perforated.

A perforation is a hole in the well casing that allows gas or oil to seep in. Where a well is perforated is where a well produces its gas and oil.

An oil well should not produce from above the depths where a nearby gas well is producing because there is usually only gas there. Phillips has said, along with other major gas producers.

But a Globe-News investigation has found 27 Phillips oil wells perforated above the bottom producing depths of Phillips' own gas wells on the same acreage. Most of these oil wells, it was learned from the Railroad Commission in Austin, were classified to sell gas at one of the highest prices for regulated gas.

Phillips has notified the Railroad Commission of its intention to plug these wells.

Cochran did not dispute the Globe-News' confirmation of high perforations in 27 Phillips oil wells. The confirmation came by comparing oil and gas well completion reports Phillips has filed with the Railroad Commission.

Cochran said he wasn't surprised.

"Maybe they were producing only from a gas zone," he said. "If they were, they're plugging them off."

"Sounds to me like the company is trying to make sure that it's consistent and it's taking care of the problems," he said. "If there are only 27 wells out of 950 (oil wells Phillips operates in the Panhandle Field, a 1.5 million-acre oil and gas field just northeast of Amarillo), it sounds to me like they've got a pretty good record."

Cochran said Phillips probably perforated oil wells above its own gas well perforations because the company expected to find oil there.

"If there's oil up there, then it's not illegal to perforate a well at any level," he explained.

"I assume that they perforated up there because neighboring wells are perforated up there, and they wanted to see if there was some oil up in those zones," he said. "We found there wasn't and now we're plugging them."

Most of the wells examined were completed in 1962 or earlier, according to Railroad Commission documents.

Asked why it often took three to five years for Phillips to determine whether or not it had found oil in the upper zones, Cochran said, "I don't know. I assume that after we ran the last check they found those and were careful to come up with every well that looked like a problem."

Independent operators, in most cases, own only oil and casinghead gas rights. And on the basis of their oil-well perforations being higher than nearby gas-well perforations, they have been accused of diverting gas in addition to improperly selling that gas at casinghead gas prices.

Phillips is not diverting gas, according to Cochran, since the company owns both oil and gas rights.

But Phillips could be getting a higher price for its gas by producing it through an oil well rather than through a nearby gas well.

Asked if Phillips' oil-well gas were selling for more than Phillips' gas well gas, Cochran said, "I don't know. Maybe, maybe not."

Cochran said he didn't not know exactly what price each specific well got for its gas.

But according to Railroad Commission spokesman Ray Grasshoff in Austin, who checked records, almost all Phillips oil wells examined were classified to sell gas at "103" prices - one of the highest prices for regulated gas under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

According to Tamara Young-Allen, an FERC spokeswoman in Washington, D.C., who checked records, almost all of the offsetting Phillips gas wells examined were classified to sell gas at "104" prices (substantially lower than 103 prices), she said.

NGPA pricing categories establish the maximum price for which gas can be sold. They do not necessarily indicate what gas is actually sold for.

One reason different pricing categories were established under the NGPA was to provide an incentive for operators to drill on known reserves. By allowing casinghead gas to be priced higher than gas-well gas, the federal government hoped operators would drill more wells, Young-Allen said.

But the FERC ruled 35 Panhandle Field oil operators were taking gas-well gas and selling it as casinghead gas. Gas-well gas, in this case, was dedicated to the interstate market at 104 prices while casinghead gas could be sold intrastate at 103 prices. The operators had perforated their oil wells above Dorchester Oil Co.'s gas well perforations and had diverted interstate gas, the FERC determined.

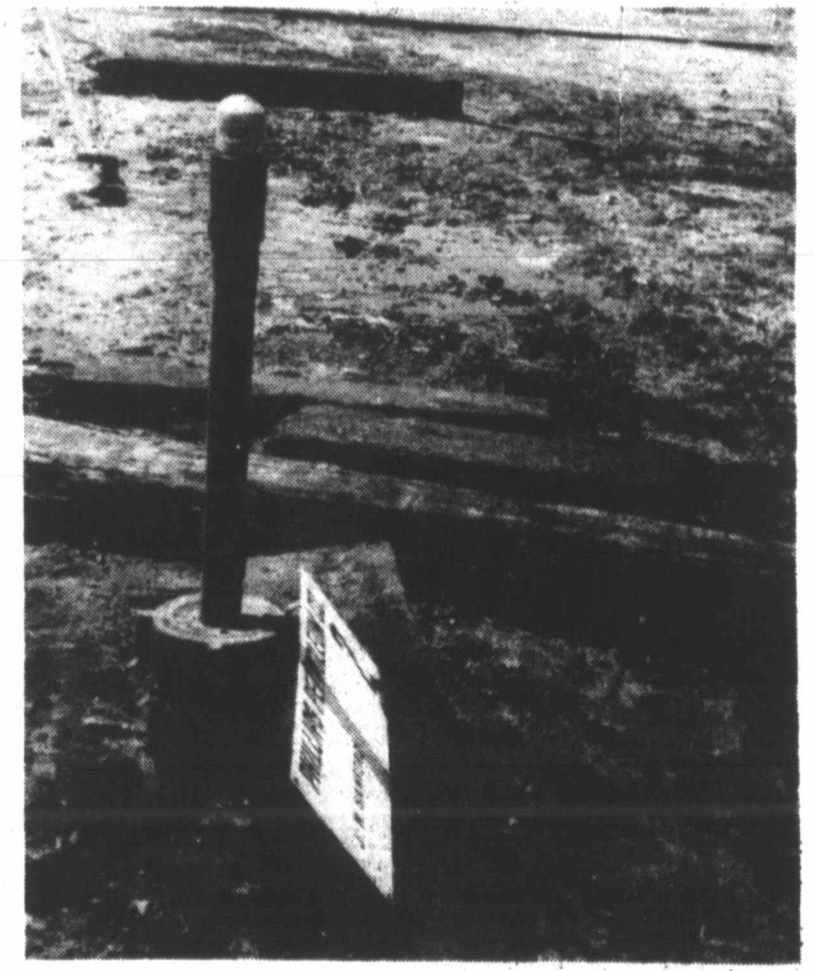

The FERC is now deciding if the 35 independents will have to refund pipeline companies for gas they are accused of diverting. These operators also may face fines. In addition to complaining to the FERC, Dorchester, now owned by Damson Oil Co., has filed suits against independents to recover losses incurred when its gas was diverted.

Phillips, in alignment with Dorchester, sent Cochran and Jennifer Cates, another attorney, to represent the company during the FERC hearing.

Phillips also has filed five lawsuits against six operators for high perforations, said Cochran. One of the suits recently was settled out of court, Cochran said.

Cochran said there is a considerable difference between what Phillips may have done with a few of its wells and what some independents have done with most of theirs.

"These operators, these so-called independents, every one of their wells is like that. That's what they're in the business to do," Cochran said. "In almost every instance, they don't own the gas rights. They're taking someone else's gas when they do it."

Plugged well . . . puddles of oil surround a plugged Phillips oil well in Hutchinson County.

"We're not doing what these people are doing. If we were, we could do a heck of a lot better job than we have been with 27 out of 950," Cochran said. "I think we've got engineers and geologists who know how to hit the gas zone if that's what we wanted to do."

The Globe-News investigated 41 oil wells in Carson, Gray, Hutchinson and Moore counties that Phillips filed "intention-to-plug" forms on this year.

Only three of those wells definitely were not perforated above nearby gas well perforations, according to a comparison of oil and gas well completion reports. Eleven wells did not have gas wells on the same acreage and could not be compared.

Cochran said he would be surprised if any more Phillips oil wells were found with overlapping perforations.

"I've told our engineers to check our wells and be sure that we are in compliance with these rules and regulations for the very reason: make sure that we're not out there complaining about or taking a position different from our operation," he said.

Plugged wells marginally proved five, Phillips says. PAGE 15-A.

White preparing to

name PUC member

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says he will appoint, probably this week, the "most-talented, experienced person" he can find to be a new member of the Public Utility Commission.

White made the comment in Beaumont about the time that State Republican Party chairman George Strake was urging White to quickly appoint a new "tough, no-nonsense" PUC member.

PUC Chairman Phil Ricketts' term has expired. White said that Ricketts, who did not seek to be re-appointed, agreed to stay on until White found a successor.

After the new commissioner is named, the three-member body will elect a new chairman.

Strake, in a statement issued in Austin, said White was appearing Thursday in Beaumont where electric rates are 32 percent higher than those paid by their Louisiana neighbors.

Strake also said unemployment levels in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area are much higher than last year.

"Balancing the utility company's budget on the backs of Texans who are fighting high utility rates and high unemployment is inexcusable, especially when those Texans are being billed for champagne tastes of officials who are supposed to represent them," Strake said.

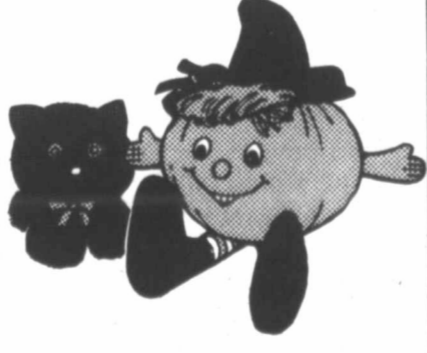

Earlier this week, Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, head of a House subcommittee, said he would conduct hearings in the Beaumont area to look into the high rates and reports that some top PUC staff members charged taxpayers for stays in luxury hotels, fancy meals and expensive taxi rides while traveling out-of-state.

Rains help wheat planting, range conditions

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Parts of the plains and western areas of Texas received good rains the past week, boosting wheat plantings and range conditions.

However, the cooler, wet weather slowed the development of cotton and late-planted sorghum in those areas. Another month of dry, warm weather is needed for the cotton crop to mature fully.

Although the rest of the state shared in the somewhat cooler weather, it did not share in the rains, except in a few coastal locations.

So, much of Texas remains dry, and this is causing a delay in small grain plantings and putting further pressure on cattlemen to reduce herds and increase supplemental feeding, said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

However, some farmers are "dusting in" small grains, wheat and oats, with the hope that rains will come soon to get the crops up.

With open weather over much of the state, harvest operations continued at full speed, noted Carpenter. A few early bales of cotton have been harvested in the Rolling Plains and West Central Texas, and some farmers are applying defoliant to prepare the crop for harvesting. Some sorghum harvesting continues in these areas, with good to excellent yields.

Harvesting of cotton and some corn and sorghum continues in parts of North Central and Northeast Texas, while peanut harvesting is active in southwestern, central and north central counties and in the Rolling Plains. Some rice and soybeans continue to be harvested in coastal counties.

On the vegetable front, gardeners and truck farmers are digging sweet potatoes in eastern and southeastern counties while harvesting of pickling cucumbers, collards and mustard greens continues in the Winter Garden, Carpenter said.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Scattered rains slowed corn and sugar beet harvesting, and the cool, wet weather slowed the development of cotton and late-planted sorghum. However, the beet harvesting. Some early cotton is opening but the recent cool, wet weather has slowed crop development.

ROLLING PLAINS: Rains of 1 to 5 inches over much of the region should boost fall grazing and the planting of wheat and oats. Harvesting of peanuts, cotton and sorghum will resume as field conditions permit. Some farmers are applying defoliant to cotton to prepare the crop for harvesting. Mung beans are being harvested in Wichita County.

NORTH CENTRAL: Cotton and peanut harvesting remains active while corn and sorghum harvesting is about complete. Crop yields have been good except for peanuts.

Some farmers are planting wheat and oats, but rain is needed in many locations to get the crops up. Pecan trees remain under moisture stress.

NORTHEAST: Cotton harvesting remains active while the corn harvest is winding down. Sweet potato harvesting continues. Some farmers are planting wheat and oats but rain will be needed to get the crops up. Many producers are feeding hay to livestock due to the lack of forage on pastures.

FAR WEST: Rains of up to 7 inches in some locations will give a boost to ranges and enhance small grain plantings. However, the rains and cooler weather have slowed cotton maturity. Alfalfa harvesting continues and a lot of the hay is being stockpiled for later sale. Some lambs and calves are moving to market, and sheep shearing continues.

WEST CENTRAL: Spotty rains did little to relieve dry conditions. Sorghum harvesting continues, with excellent yields of about 3,500 pounds per acre. Cotton is opening, with some early harvesting. Some farmers are "dusting in" wheat and oats. Calves and lambs are being marketed; the cattle market remains weak while sheep prices are stronger.

CENTRAL: Cotton and peanut harvesting continues in a few locations. Farmers are planting small grains, and rain will be needed in many locations to get the crops up. Grazing conditions are continuing to deteriorate, increasing the need for supplemental feeding. Hornflies and ear ticks continue to be a problem in some cattle.

EAST: Planting of wheat and oats is active in some locations although moisture is short. Dry conditions are hampering fall gardening activities and have caused increased nut drop in pecans. Sweet potato harvesting continues. Cattlemen are culling herds heavily in preparation for the winter season.

UPPER COAST: Some scattered harvesting of cotton, corn and sorghum continues. Some soybeans are maturing but are stressed for moisture. Pecans are maturing as well but remain under moisture stress. Farmers are getting ready to plant wheat and oats but need rain.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Harvesting of irrigated cotton continues. Peanuts are maturing but are under drought stress. Farmers are planting wheat and oats, but rain will be needed in some locations to get the crops up. The dry weather will reduce the size of pecans although a good harvest is expected. Livestock feeding continues due to poor grazing conditions.

SOUTHWEST: Cotton harvesting is winding down but the peanut harvest remains in full swing. Fall vegetables are making good growth under heavy irrigation. Pickling cucumbers, collards and mustard greens are being harvested for processing. Supplemental feeding is active due to a shortage of forage.

COASTAL BEND: An excellent rice harvest continues along with soybean harvesting. Farmers have started planting wheat and oats although moisture will be needed in many locations to get the crops up. Livestock feeding continues as grazing remains short. The pecan crop will be light.

SOUTH: Fall vegetables, soybeans and sugarcane are making good progress. Some vegetable planting continues, and crop irrigations remain active. Hay making continues in some locations. Cattle are in fair condition but grazing is generally short and markets are depressed.

TOMI SUBJECTS FOR OCTOBER

Discussions on year-end tax strategies, agricultural price trends, farm bill developments, foreign trade, cattle-on-feed, meat supplies and updates on dairying, grains and cotton will highlight TOMI discussions for October.

"TOMI" is the Telephone Outlook and Market Information program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Information provided by TOMI is designed to help keep agricultural producers updated on commodity markets and other vital information planning and managing their operations.

More detailed information on October topics is available by dialing 409-845-8664 (TOMI), according to this schedule:

- Oct. 1-3 — Year End Tax Strategies, Wayne Hayenga
- Oct. 4-7 — Agricultural Price Trends, Roland Smith
- Oct. 8-10 — Dairy Update, Bud Schwartz
- Oct. 11-14 — Grain Situation, Ed Smith
- Oct. 15-17 — Cotton Update, Carl Anderson
- Oct. 18-21 — Farm Bill Developments, Ron Knutson
- Oct. 22-24 — Foreign Trade Policy, Mickey Paggi
- Oct. 25-28 — October Cattle on Feed, Ed Uvacek
- Oct. 29-31 — Meat Supplies, Ernie Davis

Messages for TOMI are prepared by Extension Service economists, who provide the latest information available to aid producers in making decisions. The telephone information system operates seven days a week on a 24-hour basis.

TEXAS ANIMAL HEALTH CONFERENCE SET FOR OCT. 13-14

Livestock producers and veterinarians in Gray County will want to make a special effort to attend the Texas Animal Health Conference Oct. 13-14 at the Hilton Hotel and Conference Center in College Station.

The conference will feature discussions on practical health programs for swine, cattle and horses as well as in-depth discussions on certain animal health products and disease problems.

Of special interest should be a general session beginning at 8:15 a.m. on Oct. 14 that features discussion on antibiotics in animal feeds and in food animals. Speakers include Dr. Thomas Jukes of the University of Georgia and currently director of the Bureau of Veterinary Medicine with the Food and Drug Administration.

Another noteworthy speaker will be Lonnie "Bo" Pilgrim, founder of the Pilgrims' Pride chicken company based in Pittsburg, Texas. Pilgrim will discuss innovations in the poultry industry and the challenges facing animal agriculture.

The conference opens at 1 p.m. on Oct. 13 with three concurrent sessions. One will be on swine health programs, one will deal with stress management, and the third will feature discussions on a variety of topics, including vitamins for cattle, cattle and horse parasites, banking and the operation of a diagnostic laboratory.

Special sessions on horse health and cattle health will run concurrently at 1 p.m. on Oct. 14 along with an in-depth session for veterinarians.

Further details about the conference, which is being planned by the Extension Service, are available at the Gray County Extension office.

Harvesters pull off 23-20 homecoming win

HARVESTERS PULL OFF
By L.D. STRATE
Pampa News Sports Editor

Pampa's Harvester Stadium has no place for those with delicate heart conditions or ulcers Friday night. But one thing was for certain...the overflowing Harvester homecoming crowd got their money's worth as Pampa came from behind three times to pull out a 23-20 squeaker over Perryton.

The hard-earned win snapped a three-game losing streak and at the same time gave the Harvesters some momentum going into this week's District 1-4A opener with Dumas.

Pampa's gamebreaker was senior fullback Gary Jernigan, who rushed for 195 yards on 19 carries after being held to only 22 yards the first half. With Pampa trailing 20-16, Jernigan found a big hole up the middle and scampered 17 yards for the deciding touchdown with 4:01 remaining.

Jeff McKinley's two-yard run after a seven-yard drive on Perryton's first series of the fourth quarter had given the Rangers the lead for the third time.

Pampa's defense flexed its muscle in the final nine minutes and held Perryton scoreless on its last two possessions. The Rangers had scored on their other two possessions of the second half.

Perryton, however, did give Pampa a scare on its last series. Starting on their own 20, the Rangers used a 15-yard Pampa face mask penalty and a couple of passes to gain a first down on Pampa's 44. But quarterback Chris Wright's next three passes were incomplete as Pampa's

"Offensively, Perryton was shutting down our power play and crashing our ends in the first defensive secondary shut down the passing lanes. On Perryton's fourth-down play, Wright hit Damon Witt with a 19-yard pass, but the diving catch carried him out of bounds on Pampa's 25.

"Our defense really came through on Perryton's last possession," Kendall said. "They got the ball with 7:38 left and we held them."

Pampa took over with 2:26 to go and the 5,000 cheering Harvester fans had to suffer through just one more hair-raising moment when a pitchout was fumbled. A giant sigh of relief was heard when Jernigan covered the ball on Perryton's 35. On the next play, Jernigan put Pampa out of danger when he raced 23 yards for a first down. Perryton was out of timeouts and Pampa ran out the clock.

Jernigan, a 155-pounder, excited the crowd the second half with his breakaway, long runs. His 87-yard TD run, in which he broke a tackle and outran the secondary to the end zone in the third quarter, gave Pampa its second lead of the night at 16-14.

"That touchdown broke the icing and got the momentum going our way," said Pampa head coach John Kendall. "We knew Jernigan had some speed and he really uncorked it last night."

able to pick his holes."

Key plays by other Harvesters also paved the way to victory. Michael Mitchell demonstrated his all-around skills as a receiver and kicker. The 175-pound senior caught a 15-yard scoring pass from quarterback Brent Cryer to pull Pampa within one, 7-6, at halftime. His 22-yard field goal in the third quarter gave Pampa its first lead of the night at 9-7.

On Mitchell's field goal, which turned out to be one of the night's key plays because of the three-point winning margin, the snap was low and got away from holder Brian Gordzelik. But Gordzelik got the ball back on the tee and Mitchell's kick barely cleared the hands of three on-rushing defenders.

Mitchell also booted two extra points the second half.

Cryer kept Pampa drives alive with some accurate passing, completing four of seven aerials for 71 yards. Besides his scoring strike to Mitchell, the 165-pound senior helped set up two scores with perfectly-thrown passes of 23 and 18 yards to Michael Parker.

"Cryer threw the ball well," Kendall said. "He didn't throw that many passes, but he was completing them in key spots."

Perryton's two pile-driving backs, Mike McKinley (205 pounds) and Jeff McKinley (204 pounds), and the slippery Wright (79 yards in 16 carries) rolled up 300 total yards, but Pampa's defense made the stops when it counted the most.

Parker and linebacker Dean Larue combined to stop Jeff McKinley on a conversion run that would have given the Rangers a 22-16 lead early in the fourth quarter. Had McKinley been successful, the Harvesters would have had to make good on their next PAT to take the lead.

— Shawn Greene threw Wright for a three-yard loss on a quarterback keeper deep in Pampa territory the second quarter. Pampa took over one play later.

— Hard hits by John Roe and David McGrath forced Perryton to punt on its last possession of the second half, sending both teams to the locker room with Pampa trailing by only a point, 7-6.

Pampa is now 1-3 while Perryton drops to 2-2.

"This win is definitely going to help us going into district," Kendall said. "Perryton wasn't any slouch. They've beaten two good teams and they controlled the ball on us."

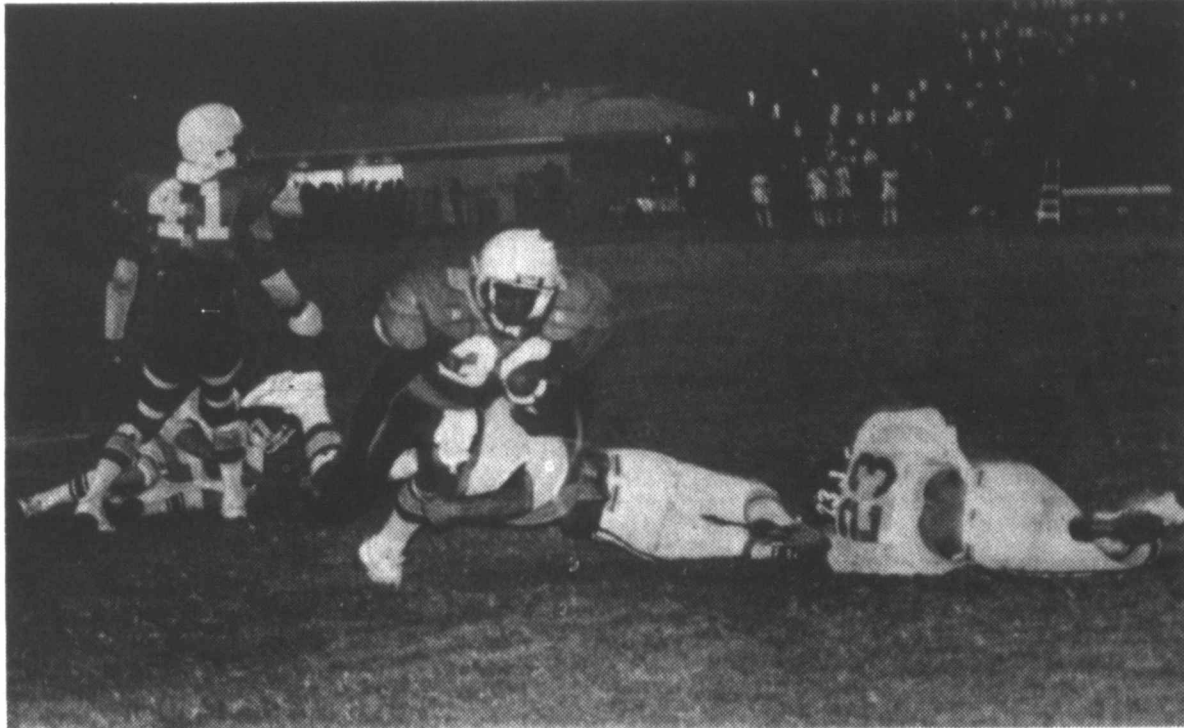

Scoring Summary

Longhorns hold off Stanford

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Tailback Charles Hunter's second touchdown late in the fourth quarter enabled Texas to survive a furious comeback by Stanford, 38-34 Saturday in a shootout between two high-powered offenses.

Hunter bulled over from the 3 with 3:55 left to cap a 75-yard drive as Texas regained the lead after being outscored 24-7 by Stanford earlier in the second half.

Texas' defense then stopped Stanford on the Longhorns' 37 with a minute left to seal the victory.

David Sweeney's 22-yard field goal put Stanford ahead for the first time in the regionally televised game, 34-31, with 8:36 left.

Stanford tied the game 31-31 early in the final period as quarterback John Paye fired a 44-yard pass to Greg Baty, hit Jeff James with a 25-yard TD pass and handed off to Brad Muster for two points.

Hunter's 1-yard TD run 10 seconds into the fourth quarter capped a 13-play, 79-yard drive that gave Texas a 31-23 lead.

After Texas rolled to a 24-10 halftime lead before a crowd of about 53,000, Stanford scored two TDs in the third period, but missed an extra point, to close the gap to 24-23.

Paye scored on a sneak a few inches from the goal line on the opening drive of the second half after Thomas Henley's 53-yard kickoff return to the Texas 46.

Stanford got good field position again with an 18-yard punt return by Craig Landis to Texas's 34. Paye scrambled for 24 yards, then fired a TD pass to Muster, who made a leaping catch in the far corner of the end zone. However,

Sweeney squibbed the extra point kick wide.

Texas scored in the first half on three big plays: starting quarterback Bret Stafford' 74-yard touchdown run on the third play of the game; quarterback Todd Dodge's 55-yard TD pass to Donovan Pitts, and Darron Norris' 62-yard TD run.

Texas, which also got a 26-yard field goal from Ward, racked up 289 yards rushing in the first half, and 380 yards overall.

After Norris' jaunt with 1:53 left in the half, Paye capped a four-play, 75-yard drive with a 29-yard touchdown pass to James.

Norris had 153 yards rushing to lead Texas. Hunter had 95 yards rushing.

Paye passed for 365 yards but Stanford managed only 83 yards on the ground.

NFL roundup

It's Marino versus Elway

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer

The Denver Broncos and Miami Dolphins meet at Mile High Stadium Sunday in a game that should stand on its own merits as a meeting of the two teams with the best records in the American Football Conference last season.

But the game is overshadowed by the first meeting of John Elway of Denver and Dan Marino of Miami, two peas from the same pod who have taken divergent paths to stardom since being plucked from the 1983 National Football League draft.

Miami, 14-2 last season, has taken two straight wins losing its opener to Houston, including a 31-0 blanking of previously unbeaten Kansas City last week. The Broncos, 13-3 last year, are also 2-1 — in a four-way heap at the top of the AFC West.

On other fronts, meanwhile, two preseason favorites will be trying to avoid dire early season trouble.

The Washington Redskins, winners of three straight NFC titles, will be trying to avoid dropping to 1-3 when they go to Chicago to meet the Bears, one of just two unbeaten teams left in the NFL after three weeks. So will the Los Angeles Raiders when they travel to Foxboro to meet the New England Patriots.

In other games Sunday, Seattle is at Kansas City; Dallas at Houston; Green Bay at St. Louis; Minnesota at Buffalo; the New York Giants at Philadelphia; Tampa Bay at Detroit; New Orleans at San Francisco; Indianapolis at the New York Jets; Atlanta at the Los Angeles Rams and Cleveland at San Diego.

The Monday night game is Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

— Washington (1-2) at Chicago (3-0)

This may be the pivotal game of the season for Washington, whose win over Houston was a gift from officials who negated two Oiler touchdowns with what the league later conceded were erroneous calls.

Last week the Redskins lost to the Philadelphia Eagles 19-6 in a game that pointed up their offensive difficulties — after averaging nearly 30 points a game for three years they have just 36 points in three contests this year.

The biggest problem for Chicago, which beat the Redskins 23-19 in a divisional playoff game last year, has been keeping Kamikaze quarterback Jim McMahon healthy. Last Thursday, he sat out most of the first three quarters, then came in to throw for 236 yards as he rallied the Bears from a 17-9 deficit to a 33-24 win over Minnesota.

Raiders (1-2) at New England (2-1)

Like the Redskins, the Raiders have been taking a beating — to the psyche as much as on the field. Last week, they were hammered 34-10 by San Francisco, and lost quarterback Jim Plunkett with a dislocated left shoulder.

The Patriots have been puttering along with a banged-up offensive line, barely edging Buffalo last week with the help of Irving Fryar's 85-yard punt return.

Seattle (2-1) at Kansas City (2-1)

The Chiefs, who scored 83 points in their two games, were shut out 31-0 in Miami last week.

The Seahawks, a second part of the four-team pack in the AFC West, also suffered their first loss, falling 35-24 to the Los Angeles Rams on Monday night as Eric Dickerson broke loose in the fourth quarter of his first game back after his holdout.

Dallas (2-1) at Houston (1-2)

After the Cowboys beat Cleveland 20-7 last week, Coach Tom Landry warned them about the same kind of letdown they suffered two weeks ago in Detroit.

The Oilers, after the Miami win and the near-miss in Washington, were limited to just 134 yards on offense in a 20-0 shutout in Pittsburgh last week.

Green Bay (1-2) at St. Louis (2-1)

The Packers will have a new quarterback — Randy Wright replaces Lynn Dickey, who asked to be relieved after a miserable five-sack, four-turnover performance in a 24-3 loss to the Jets.

The Cardinal offense pulled its annual New York disappearing act last week's 27-17 loss. That left St. Louis in a three-way tie with the Giants and Cowboys at the top of the NFC East.

Cowboys, Oilers friendly rivals

HOUSTON (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, once called America's Team, and the Houston Oilers, once called Texas' Team, will meet in the Astrodome Sunday in a game that once might have been billed as a fierce intrastate battle for pro football supremacy.

The series had the earmarks of becoming a serious feud in 1979 when the Oilers beat the Cowboys in Texas Stadium. Oiler Coach Bum Phillips called his Oilers "Texas' Team" and former Oiler center Carl Mauck invited all Cowboy fans living in Houston to move to Dallas.

But the two teams didn't play again until 1982 and by that time, Phillips and Mauck were gone and so was the Oilers' winning record.

It's tough to whip the flames of battle between teams that have met only four times in the regular season.

The two teams spent the week preparing for Sunday's noon kickoff before a sellout crowd by tossing praises back and forth between the two cities.

"I think rivalries come from within your division more than anywhere else," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "We've had rivalries with Washington, we've had it with Philadelphia when they were up on top and the (St. Louis) Cardinals now."

The Cowboys will bring a 2-1 record into the game. The Oilers are 1-2. They have a common opponent in Washington, who lost to the Cowboys and beat the Oilers.

Writers from throughout the state converged on both practice fields last week, sensing something akin to the bad-blooded games between the Redskins and Cowboys or the Oilers and Pittsburgh Steelers.

They found only bouquets.

"I grew up watching the Cowboys," Oiler running back Larry Moriarty said.

"It's like playing against your idol."

Oiler quarterback Warren Moon and Cowboy cornerback Dennis Thurman are close friends off the field.

The Oiler offense, after an impressive season-opening victory over Miami, has been clogged in successive losses to Washington and Pittsburgh.

Moon spent a frustrating afternoon in Pittsburgh last Sunday as the Oilers were shut out for the first time in 119 games, dating back to 1976.

The Oiler defense is ranked last in the NFL against the run and 26th in total defense.

Canadian rallies past S-F

CANADIAN — Canadian came back the second half with a 20-point third quarter to defeat Sanford-Fritch Friday night in non-district action.

Canadian extended its unbeaten record to 4-0 while handing Sanford-Fritch its first loss after three victories.

Trailing 14-8 at halftime, the Wildcats scored three unanswered touchdowns. Two of those scores came on Shawn Wright's TD runs of three and 24 yards. Quarterback Bobby White threw 10 yards to Jeff Kirkland for the other score.

Sanford-Fritch controlled the football in the first half and went to the locker room with a 14-8 lead. The visitors had led 14-0 after the first quarter.

"We just couldn't shut their offense down the first half," said Canadian coach Paul Wilson. "They kept the ball on us for a long time, but we also missed a couple of scoring opportunities."

White's 11-yard pass to Rodney Boyd prevented the Wildcats from being shut out the first half.

"Our lineman finally took charge of the game and we got after them the second half," Wilson said.

Wright, who rushed for 158 yards on 36 carries, scored the game's final TD on a three-yard run in the fourth quarter.

White completed just four of 15 passes for 48 yards, but two of those went for touchdowns.

White has tossed for six TD passes on the season.

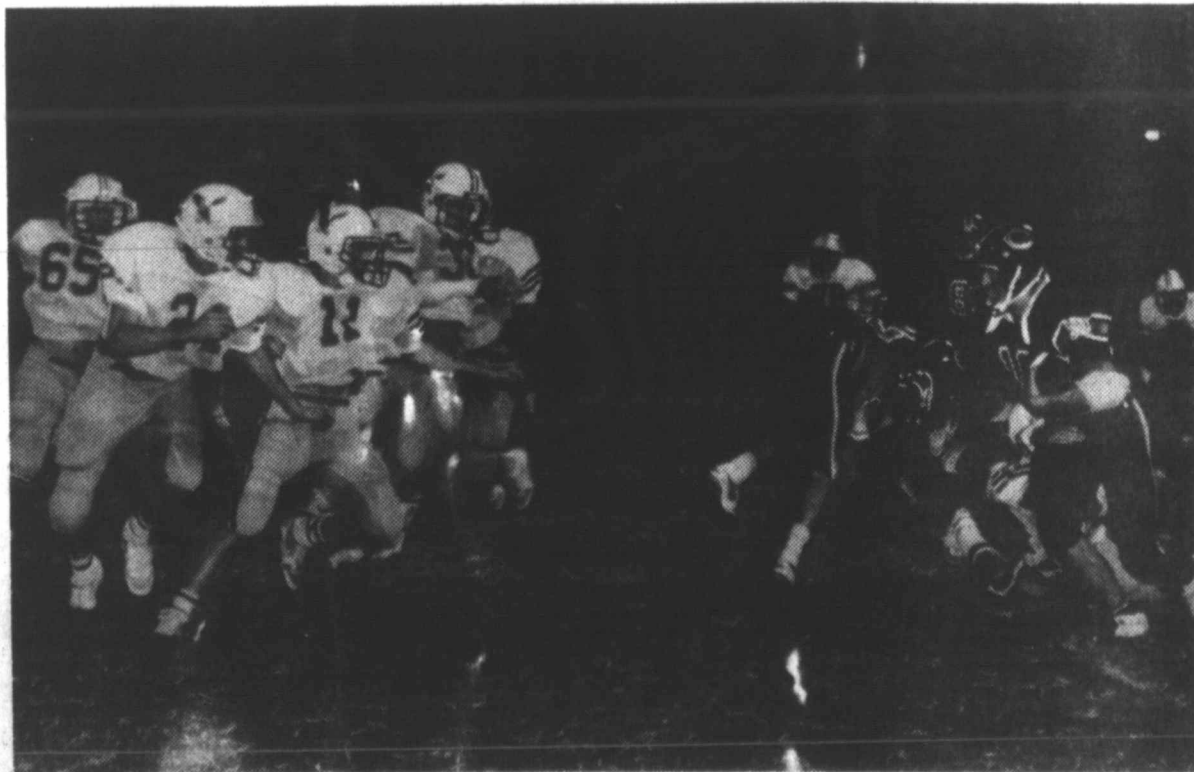

John Houston threw two TD passes for S-F.

Denny McLanahan, a 125-pound junior and Stacy Wheeler, a 210-pound senior, made the big defensive plays for Canadian the second half.

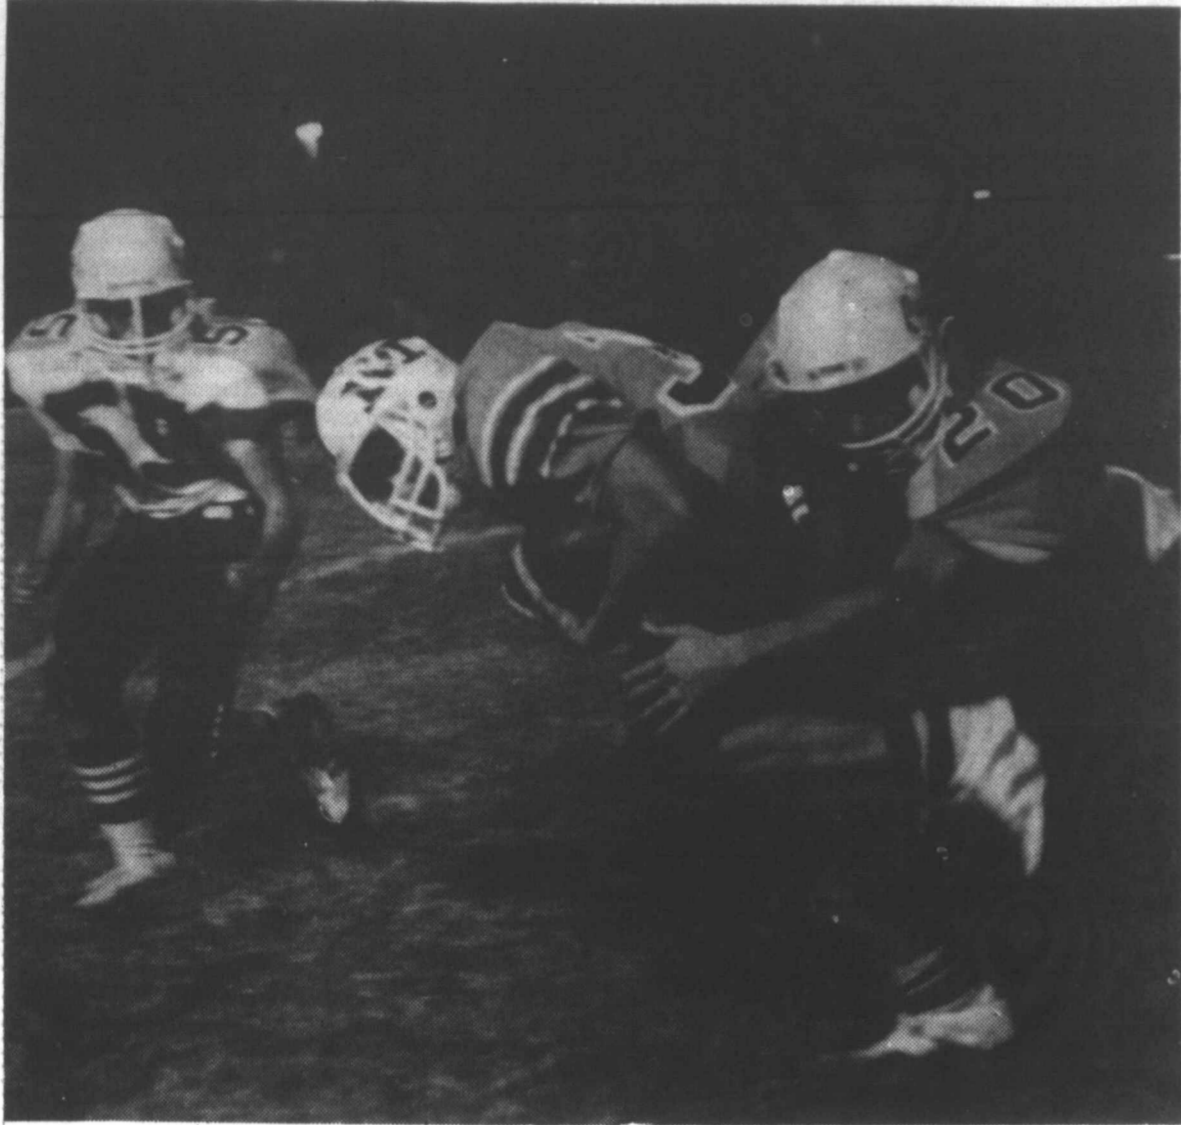

"Denny played exceptionally well and Stacy did an outstanding job," Wilson said.

S-F had one more first down (16-15) than Canadian, but the Wildcats led in total yardage, 230-221. Canadian also had to overcome 102 yards in penalties compared to 65 for the visitors.

Canadian has an open date this week before taking on pre-season district favorite Perryton Oct. 11.

CLOSING IN — Canadian back Shawn Wright draws a group of Sanford-Fritch defenders as he breaks a tackle for a short gain. Wright ran wild against S-F, scoring three touchdowns while rushing for 137 yards as Canadian posted a 36-20 victory. (Staff Photo by Cathy Spaulding)

Miami loses to Higgins

MIAMI — Unbeaten Higgins scored 22 points the first quarter on the way to a 54-12 win over Miami in 6-man football action Friday night.

Brett Blackwood scored three touchdowns and Elly Burt added two more as Higgins ran its record to 4-0. Miami dropped to 1-2.

Higgins led at halftime, 54-12.

The game marked the first regular season contest in three years that Higgins had to play four quarters. In six-man football, a game is called when one team gets 45 or more points ahead in the second half.

Blackwood caught two scoring passes from Burt, and also hauled in a touchdown aerial from Matt Farris.

Burt, who gained 148 yards on 29 carries, scored on runs of two and 12 yards.

Arba Ward and Jim Deal scored additional touchdowns for the Coyotes.

Miami's scores came on a 17-yard run by John Locke and a 28-yard pass from David Scott to Raymond Maurico.

Higgins compiled 400 total yards while holding Miami to 187.

Aggies rout Hurricanes

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Kevin Murray, starting his first game in a year, threw four touchdowns passes Saturday night as Texas A&M rolled over Tulsa 45-10 in an intersectional football game.

The loss was Tulsa's third straight to a Southwest Conference school after the Missouri Valley Conference team defeated the SWC's Houston in its opener. The victory was A&M's second after an opening-game loss to Alabama.

Murray, who broke an ankle on Sept. 29, 1984, threw touchdown passes of 8 and 13 yards to flanker Jeff Nelson in the first half, and fullback Roger Vick carried a Murray swing pass 59 yards for a touchdown early in the third quarter.

Murray's fourth touchdown throw was a 23-yard swing pass to Harry Johnson with 7:13 left in the game.

Vick, subbing for leading rusher Anthony Toney, who sat out with a hyper-extended knee, barged over from the Tulsa 5 for a second-quarter touchdown and scored on a 1-yard run late in the third quarter.

The field was slick from a heavy pre-game rain that carried on into the first half. But Tulsa's Gordon Brown kept on his feet on a 47-yard sprint to the A&M 5, and quarterback Steve Gage ran 5 yards for a 7-0 Tulsa lead with 10:11 left in the first quarter.

The 58-yard drive started with an interception of Murray by Tulsa linebacker Steve Kropp — the first given up by A&M this season.

A&M responded with a 26-yard scoring run by Keith Woodside and Murray's scoring loss to Nelson, the first touchdown passing for A&M this season.

White Deer ties Stinnett

STINNETT — White Deer and Stinnett traded field goals in the second quarter and the score stayed that way as the non-district football game ended in a 3-3 tie Friday night.

Alan Jones booted a 33-yarder in the second quarter to put Stinnett on top.

Lance Cross came back in a few minutes to offset it with a 25-yarder.

The Bucks now have three wins, no defeats and the tie. The Rattlers now stand 1-2-1.

Stinnett led in first downs, 10-9, yards rushing, 140-78, but trailed in yards passing with 67-54. White Deer lost three fumbles. Each team had one pass intercepted.

White Deer visits Panhandle this Friday night.

Purdue knocks off Notre Dame

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue quarterback Jim Everett passed for 368 yards and three touchdowns Saturday, while the Boilermakers' defense consistently held Notre Dame in check for a 35-17 college football victory.

The Purdue senior, primarily utilizing five receivers, guided scoring drives in each of the four quarters. Two of his touchdown passes were to fullback Ray Wallace.

A 14-yard run by Everett set up a 1-yard touchdown run by Rodney Carter in the first quarter. Then Everett hit touchdown passes to Wallace in the second period, to Steve Griffin in the third quarter and to Wallace in the final period.

Purdue safety Rod Woodson iced the victory with a 30-yard interception return for a touchdown.

Notre Dame, whose only points had come on a 48-yard field goal by John Carney in the second quarter, finally got a touchdown midway through the final period. It scored again on a 1-yard run by Hiawatha Francisco.

Wheeler blows away Stinnett, 33-3

WHEELER — Toby Collins rushed for 131 yards and three touchdowns, and Wheeler's defense dominated throughout to spark the No. 4 ranked Mustangs to a 33-3 District 1-1A football win over Stinnett Friday night.

The Mustangs are now 2-0 in district play and 4-0 on the season, while Booker now is 0-2 in loop play and 2-2 on the season.

Collins scored on runs of one, 34 and seven yards in the first, second and fourth periods respectively.

Mustang quarterback Randall Hugg chipped in with a one-yard touchdown sneak in the third period and hit Grayson Benson with a 23-yard scoring pass in the final stanza.

Wheeler's defense came up with two pass interceptions and a fumble recovery while holding Booker to 122 total yards.

Booker's only points and the first to be scored against Wheeler in four games this season came on a Robert Winchester field goal from 37 yards out in the second period which cut the halftime margin to 14-3.

Dickie Saylor added 56 yards on 13 carries to the Wheeler cause that amassed 337 offensive yards.

Threshers tie Valley View

VALLEY VIEW — The Pampa Threshers rallied from a two-touchdown deficit to deadlock the Valley View Vikings, 14-all, in a ninth-grade football game Thursday.

Trailing 14-0, the Threshers drove from their own two-yard line in eleven plays to score their first touchdown. The drive was led by the passing duo of quarterback Bradley Bass and tight end Dustin Miller. Miller caught three passes for 88 yards on the drive and capped it off with a 22-yard waltz to paydirt. The extra point attempt was incomplete for a 14-6 Vikings' halftime lead.

Pampa knotted the score early in the third quarter when tailback Kerry Brown raced around left end for the score, then threw to Miller for the extra points.

Fullback Cam Moore powered into the end zone in the fourth quarter for what appeared to be the winning touchdown, only to be called back for holding.

"We had 85 yards in penalties and three lost fumbles which kept our back to the wall all night," said coach Steve Porter.

Pampa had 202 yards total offense, 151 yards rushing and the same number passing.

Outstanding defense by Chad Bell, Paul Ambriz, Brent Davis and Ray Ward shut out the Vikings the second half.

The Freshmen Threshers take on the Borger Bullpups this Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in Harvester Stadium. The Threshers have a record of two wins and one tie. Their victories came over Amarillo Fannin and Dumas.

Deer season favorable

AUSTIN (AP) — Prospects for the white-tailed deer season is much better in Texas than a year ago, officials with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department say.

Deer are numerous, antler development is good, and habitat conditions are favorable, officials said Thursday.

During the 1984-85 season, Texas hunters took an all-time high 373,000 white-tails, including more than 100,000 antlerless deer.

"That kind of harvest will be difficult to match. But I hope we can," Horace Gore, of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said Thursday.

Gore, white-tailed deer program leader for the department, said even with improved range conditions, "most areas have more deer than they can support."

He said favorable weather conditions and the resulting good range may hold the harvest at lower levels than last year because the deer might not be moving around as much.

Rainfall beginning in last winter continued through the spring and early summer, he noted.

"Some areas started getting dry toward the end of summer, but a lot of those areas have gotten some rain in the past few weeks. This is putting a lot of deer food on the ground, including acorns which are going to be fairly abundant in some areas this fall," Gore said.

Gore said hunters should be advised that prospects may be much improved later in the season than during the first two weeks.

The white-tail season is Nov. 9 through Jan. 5 in most counties.

Mean Green posts victory

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Quarterback Mike Rhone ran for 91 yards and two touchdowns and Todd Smith kicked two field goals to lift North Texas State to a 22-10 victory over Kansas State in a non-conference football game Saturday.

Tom Middaugh blocked a Kansas State punt to add a safety for the Green Eagles, who evened their record at 2-2.

Kansas State, which lost its last opportunity for a victory before facing No. 2 Oklahoma, was led by Dimitrie Scott's touchdown and Ray Wilson's 51 yards rushing.

Mark Porter added a field goal for the Wildcats, who fell to 0-4. The loss was the second for Kansas State since Interim Coach Lee Moon assumed the helm in the wake of Jim Dickey's resignation.

Rhone, who completed two of 12 passes for 69 yards, put the game on ice with a 1-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter after Kansas State rebounded from a 12-0 halftime deficit.

John Welch, who replaced Randy Williams as Kansas State's starting quarterback, completed only seven of 23 passes.

WARREN HASSE

"WHEN YOU MULTIPLY the system you just multiply the number of problems by the number of schools," explained Ed Lehnick, former director of athletics for the Pampa Independent School District, now serving in a similar capacity for the Amarillo public school system. "To do the job properly the athletic director is not a coach any more."

Lehnick had done an excellent job of administering the many sports programs and levels of competition for the Pampa system for several years. "My final year we had a great year, winning in basketball and being competitive in nearly every program," he said. Then he went to work in a newly created position in a newly created taxing office, and frankly expressed a sadness at non-association with athletics, the focal effort of a 30-plus year in public education.

"When the opportunity came to join the Amarillo system as an assistant, and work with John McGuire, I welcomed it, although it meant leaving Pampa. There are good people in Amarillo. Both towns have a lot going for them in every way. Both want their school athletic programs to be successful and are willing to give us an opportunity to be successful. Both have made a large commitment to that end."

"It was a shock to all of us when John (McGuire) died. I was very fortunate that they selected me to continue the successful programs he was operating. We have eight junior highs and four high schools. "There's a lot more to look after. I have three very, very capable assistants. I'm starting my third year with the program, and I get a great deal of satisfaction seeing people progress within the program. The young coaches, men and women, gain experience and learn how to better handle situations, both on and off the playing field."

"With the four high schools I have four times as many opportunities to watch our kids be successful. The words 'win' and 'success' are not synonymous, but a lot of people don't understand that. I have a great, understanding and knowledgeable school board and administration with which to work, and that makes everyone's jobs a lot easier."

Can a person do a competent job as athletic director and also serve as head coach of a sport?

"The jobs should be separated. There's just not enough time to do it all, and do it right. I don't have time for personal contacts and following our teams. When I was in Pampa wherever PHS went, I went. I seldom see anything out of town now.

"All this hubbub about tightening the rules (HB 72), the rules aren't nearly as strict as they used to be. When an athlete failed they use to be ineligible for an entire semester, now it's only five weeks. They can regain eligibility in summer school, something they never could do before. There are just a lot of loopholes."

You told me a year ago, I reminded him, that it was surprising to you that Pampa officials weren't knocking your door down trying to schedule games with the four Amarillo schools. Do you still feel that way?

"Pampa ought to play all four Amarillo schools home and home in all sports. We're too close and have too good of rivalries not to play. If we took the time to research it I'm sure we'd find out that the Amarillo rivalries were the best thing either system had going. The games always draw great crowds, reduce travel time and expense, and give fans of both schools an opportunity to attend and see their kids play. And I don't know how Pampa let the Hereford game get away in football. It used to be the biggest gate of the year. Being the opening game annually helped."

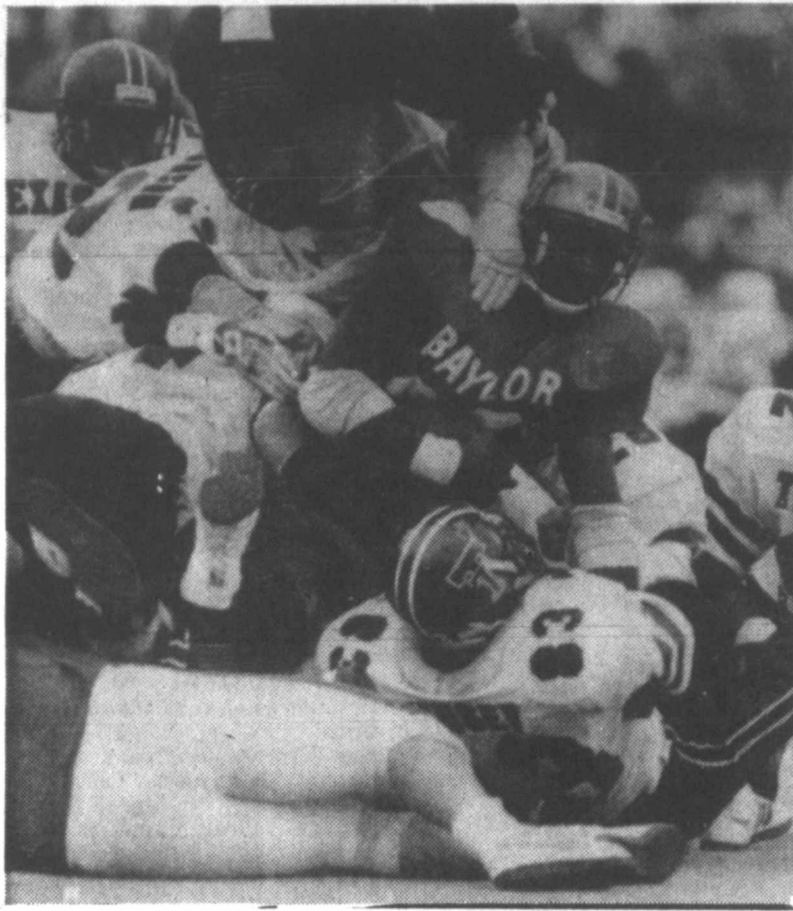

"Girls sports, especially volleyball and basketball, are very important to our fans and our schools, just examples of the growth of activities and the increase in responsibility of the athletic director's office."

Which brought memories of an attempt to add a competitive sport, swimming, when Ed was AD at Pampa. He argued against it for over a year, despite almost being ordered to do so by the school board. And when finally accepted and added, as so many times happens, his son was an outstanding championship swimmer! Where is Mark today?

"He's with the First National Bank in Tucumcari, after graduating from West Texas State. Daughter Debbie is teaching at Deer Park, where her husband is choir director. You know, he's one of those singing Talley boys whose brother was choir director at PHS. Debbie still sings and she and her husband have a new gospel album out," he said proudly.

And then we both settled back to watch one of his Amarillo school teams play. It was obvious he had the same solid control over the multi-school system's athletic programs that he exhibited while faithfully serving the students and taxpayers at Pampa.

He...along with many, many others...never understood why that changed.

BEAR TRAP — Baylor back Broderick Sargent is stopped by Texas Tech's defense after a three-yard gain.

Bears bounce Tech

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Baylor Bears Saturday proved their upset victory over Southern California last week was no fluke.

Baylor mauled previously unbeaten Texas Tech 31-0 in a Southwest Conference football opener, and the Bears dominated on both sides of the ball.

"That was just a good old licking by Baylor," said Texas Tech Coach Jerry Moore. "They took it to us on both offense and defense. We never could do anything in the game."

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said, "Our defense played great. We just shut 'em down. Wishbone teams have trouble coming back when you get them down."

Bear quarterback Tom Muecke agreed, adding that "I just hope that we are as good as we played today. I think we are a definite Top 20 team for two reasons — our schedule and the way we are playing right now."

The Baylor Bears' Eugene Hall and Steve Grumbine destroyed Texas Tech's Wishbone-T while a hard-striking horde of runners overpowered the Red Raiders.

The Bears, who upset a No. 3 ranked Southern California 20-13 last week, increased their season record to 3-1 while the previously unbeaten Red Raiders suffered their first defeat in four outings. Baylor dipped deep into its third string as it unleashed fresh runners on every series of downs out of the veer offense.

Seven different runners carried the ball with Ralph Stockemer scoring from 40 yards out and junior college transfer Randy Rutledge dashing seven yards for another touchdown.

Muecke threw a six-yard touchdown pass to Derrick McAdoo and scored himself in the final four minutes on a 23-yard run.

Baylor built a 14-0 halftime lead on Muecke's touchdown pass and Stockemer's touchdown run, which came off of fourth-and-one with the Red Raiders deployed in a goal line defense.

The Bears upped it to 17-0 in the third quarter on Terry Syler's 26-yard field goal and put away the Red Raiders with 14 points in the final quarter.

A Parents' Day crowd of 36,000 fans watched Baylor dominate on a gray, misty day. Tech quarterback Aaron Keesee was sacked four times, two each by Hall and Grumbine.

The frustrated Red Raiders finally got inside the Baylor 10-yard line late in the game, but linebacker Byron Johnson intercepted Travis Price's pass at the three.

Angels, Royals stay tied for AL West lead

By BEN WALKER
AP Sports Writer

The way Neal Heaton saw it, the California Angels were the least of his troubles.

"I've got worries about losing my house, getting it buried in Long Island by the hurricane (Gloria)," Heaton said after combining on a five-hitter with Vern Ruhle to help the Cleveland Indians beat the Angels 7-3. "I tried calling all day and I couldn't even get an open line to New York."

The victory enabled the Indians to avert their 100th loss this season, but more importantly, stalled California's bid to take over first place in the American League West.

The Angels remained tied for the division lead with the Kansas City Royals, who lost to Minnesota 4-1. On Monday night, California begins a four-game series in Kansas City.

While the AL West stayed even, Toronto extended its lead in the AL East to six games by downing Milwaukee 5-1. The Blue Jays lowered their magic number to five as second-place New York was rained out against Baltimore.

In other AL games, Detroit beat Boston 5-1, Seattle blanked Texas 6-0 and Chicago nipped Oakland 4-3.

Heaton, 9-17, gave up Doug DeCinces' two-run homer, his 18th, in the first inning, but allowed only three more hits in the six innings he pitched. Ruhle finished up and permitted just one hit, Bobby Grich's 12th homer in the ninth.

Twins 4, Royals 1
Frank Viola pitched a three-hitter as Minnesota beat Bud Black and visiting Kansas City.

Viola, 17-14, struck out five and walked one in winning his fourth straight game. The only hit he allowed through five innings was Frank White's 21st home run.

Black, 9-15, gave up homers in the fifth to Gary Gaetti and Kirby Puckett. Gaetti led off the inning with his 19th homer, and one out later, Steve Lombardozzi doubled and Puckett followed with his fourth homer.

"That's what happens when you get engaged," beamed Puckett, whose marriage proposal was accepted earlier Friday by Tonya Hudson. "I knew I had it."

Blue Jays 5, Brewers 1
Jesse Barfield and Cecil Fielder connected for consecutive home runs in the fourth inning, and Lloyd Moseby and Damaso Garcia also hit solo homers to power Toronto past visiting Milwaukee.

The Blue Jays hit all four home runs against Teddy Higuera, 14-8.

Dave Stieb, 14-12, broke his three-game losing streak. He gave up seven hits and left in the ninth inning with no outs and runners on first and second. Dennis Lamp finished up for his second save.

White Sox 4, A's 3
Scott Fletcher's line drive to right field wound up as a forceout at second base, but it still drove in the go-ahead run in the ninth inning that gave Chicago its victory over Oakland.

The triumph kept the White Sox afloat in the AL West. Chicago, which has won 16 of its last 22 games, is six games behind Kansas City and California.

Rudy Law led off the ninth with a pinch-single off Steve Ontiveros. 1-3. Jerry Hairston followed with a pinch-single off Jay Howell that sent Law to third.

Fletcher then hit a liner that right fielder Mike Heath recovered in time to throw out pinch-runner

Bryan Little at second as Law scored.

Jose Canseco's single in the eighth lifted Oakland into a 3-3 tie.

Reid Nichols had three hits, including his second homer, drove in two runs and scored twice for Chicago.

Mariners 6, Rangers 0
Frank Wills broke his personal eight-game losing streak by pitching eight innings of one-hit ball. Wills wound up combining with Ed Vande Berg on a two-hitter in pacing host Seattle over Texas.

The Mariners broke the game open with five runs in the eighth. Dave Henderson capped the outburst with a three-run homer, his 14th.

Tigers 5, Red Sox 1
Alan Trammell hit a two-run homer in the third and Larry Herndon added a two-run single in the eighth that led Detroit over Boston.

Walt Terrell, 14-10, gave up one run on seven hits over 7 2/3 innings, and Willie Hernandez got his 31st save.

The host Tigers pinned the loss on Dennis Boyd, 15-12, who had won four straight decisions.

Browning Wins 20th

Reds remain alive in National League West

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati catcher Dave Van Gorder isn't surprised that rookie pitcher Tom Browning has won 20 games, but he can understand why the rest of the National League might be.

"He's never been touted as one of the great pitchers of tomorrow," Van Gorder said Saturday after Browning became the major leagues' first rookie 20-game winner in 31 years. "I'm not surprised, but it has to be somewhat of a shock to the baseball world. It's unbelievable, I think."

The Cincinnati left-hander pitched 7 1/3 strong innings in a 5-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Browning, 20-9, became the National League's fourth 20-game winner and the first rookie to reach the mark since Bob Grim went 20-6 for the New York Yankees in 1954. Harvey Haddix was the last National League pitcher to win 20 in his first season, going 20-9 in 1953.

Browning has been successful with a screwball, good control and fast work on the mound.

"He's a tremendous pitcher," said Reds player-manager Pete Rose. "He just keeps working hard, even when he gets into trouble."

"He's a bulldog. He's got a lot of character. He's not a worrier. When he gets into trouble, he goes right at 'em."

Browning drank champagne

Saturday, a gift from his teammates. He took a swig, made a face showing dislike, and poured a trickle over his head.

"When I came off the field, I could feel tears in my eyes," Browning said. "I don't think it's sunk in yet."

"The fact that I've gotten to 20 (wins) means something to me personally, but it would be nice if we were in first place."

The Reds went into the game Saturday trailing the Los Angeles Dodgers by 5 1/2 games in the National League West. The Dodgers played at home Saturday against the San Francisco Giants.

Browning gave up seven hits, struck out six and walked four in 7 1/3 innings as he earned his 11th victory in a row. His last loss came on Aug. 9. He also has one no-decision during that time.

The rookie left the game with two men on and the Reds leading 5-1 in the eighth. Ted Power, who earned his 26th save, gave up an RBI single to Phil Garner, then induced Mark Bailey to hit into an inning-ending double play and retired the Astros in order in the ninth.

Buddy Bell hit a three-run homer off Astros starter Mike Scott, 18-8, to help the Reds to a 5-0 lead in the third.

Dave Concepcion tripled and scored the first run of the game on Dave Van Gorder's single, the first of his three hits, in the second. In the third, singles by Max Venable and Pete Rose and a ground-rule double by Dave Parker made it 2-0. Bell followed with his sixth homer of the season.

Parker's double raised his league-leading RBI total to 120, the best of his career, and extended his hitting streak to 13 games.

Browning became the first Reds rookie this century to win 20 games and the first 20-game winner for Cincinnati since Jim Merritt went 20-12 in 1970. Tom Seaver was 21-6 in 1977, a season he split between the New York Mets and the Reds.

Royals win

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rookie Dennis Burt, making only his second major league start, combined with relievers Pete Filson and Ron Davis on a four-hitter as the Minnesota Twins beat the Kansas City Royals 5-3 Saturday.

Burt, 2-1, gave up three hits, struck out four and walked four in 6 1/3 innings in only his fourth major league appearance. Filson and Davis finished up, with Davis gaining his 24th save by holding the Royals hitless and striking out three over the final 1 2/3 innings.

Danny Jackson, 13-12, went the first 5 1/3 innings for the Royals, taking the loss.

Jackson was the victim of two Royals errors at the start of the game. Kirby Puckett, leading off, went all the way to second on shortstop Buddy Biancalana's wild throw on a routine grounder. Mickey Hatcher's double scored Puckett and he went to third on Darryl Motley's fielding error. Hatcher then scored on Kent Hrbek's ground out.

Beta Sigma Phi

Girls of the Year

"Autumn Brilliance," the theme of last night's Fall Fling, colored the presentation of the Beta Sigma Phi Girls of the Year. The following women were chosen for the honor in recognition of their outstanding work and contributions to their respective chapters during the past sorority year.

PRECEPTOR CHI — Four women tied for the honor of Girl of the Year in this chapter — Millie Bond, Albert Jeffries, Retha Jordan and Shirley Stafford.

Millie Bond holds a lifetime membership in Beta Sigma Phi, having been associated with the program for 26 years. She and her husband Dewey have one daughter, Rhonda Biard of Amarillo. They also have two grandchildren, Preston and Lindsey Biard. During the past 26 years, she has been a member of chapters in Borger, Abilene, Andrews, and Fort Myers, Fla. After her husband retired from Oilwell Supply, the Bonds moved back to Pampa where they have lived for the past five years.

Alberta Jeffries is also a lifetime member of Beta Sigma Phi. She has served as president of Ritual of Jewels, Exemplar, and Preceptor chapters and is past president of City Council. In addition, she has served in other chapter and Council offices. Alberta has two sons and two grandchildren. She is a member of First Baptist Church where she works as secretary for ninth grade department. She has worked as treasurer for the local March of Dimes chapter many years also. She is an active member of Desk & Derrick Club.

Retha Jordan has been a member of Preceptor Chi since 1958. A lifetime member, she has received the Order of the Rose and Silver Circle. She is married to Ray Jordan and they have two daughters, Karen Burnett of Broken Arrow, Okla., and Teresa Hicks of Amarillo. She has held many offices in her chapter and has served as City Council secretary. Retha also served as advisor of the Nu Phi Mu chapter when it was organized. Active in the community, she is a member of Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ and is a volunteer for the Tralee Crisis Center for Women.

Shirley Stafford has progressed in three chapter during her 22 years in Beta Sigma Phi. She has been married to Don Stafford for 31 years. They have a daughter, Donna Ann, of Austin. During her tenure with the sorority, Shirley has been president of City Council and of her chapters. She also served as recording secretary, treasurer, Valentine Sweetheart and Girl of the Year. She is presently chairman of the publicity, service and friendship committees.

PRECEPTOR THETA IOTA — Marilyn Howell is this year's Girl of the Year for Preceptor Theta Iota. She has been a member of Beta Sigma Phi for four years. She and her husband Jim have two children, Amy, age 16, and Lance, age 13. The Howells have lived in Pampa for five years. Marilyn has served her chapter as corresponding secretary.

Lowrey-Stark

Lee Ann Lowrey and Lee Ryan Stark were married Friday evening in a ceremony at Hobart Baptist Church performed by the Rev. Jim Fox, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shults of Pampa. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hughes of Pampa.

The bride's sister, Janice Drinnon of Childress, was maid of honor. Best man was Eddie Quarles. Special wedding music was provided by Gayle Stewart accompanied by Dana Phillips on the piano.

A reception for the couple was held in Fellowship Hall after the ceremony. Assisting were Ruby Royse, Lanell Hooper, and Laquita Kotara.

After a honeymoon trip to Carlsbad Caverns, N.M., the couple plan to make their home in Pampa.

The bride is a 1985 Pampa High School graduate. The groom graduated in 1982 from Pampa High School and is employed by Stubbs Inc., of Pampa.

Choose new fragrance for fall

Fall stirs a desire to try a new perfume. Good ones are expensive. Choose carefully. An attractive name, appealing advertising and pretty packaging are no indication of whether a perfume suits you.

Try a fragrance on the inside of the wrist or elbow allowing a few seconds for alcohol evaporation before sniffing the scent on your skin.

Never try more than three scents at any one session. Buy a small size for further testing to see how the fragrance melds with your skin chemistry.

Engagements

SANDY CARROLL & LISA GRIDER

Grider-Carroll

Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Grider announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa Dianne, to Sandy Lynn Carroll, son of Ken Carroll of Pampa and Betty Carroll of Oil City, La.

Oct. 19 has been set as the wedding date in the Central Baptist Church here.

The bride-to-be is a 1981 graduate of Pampa High School and a 1982 graduate of the National Institute of Technology. Carroll graduated from Pampa High School in 1978.

Edgell-Weatherly

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Beck of McLean announce the engagement and forthcoming wedding of their daughter, Traci Lynn, to Quincy Bob Weatherly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Weatherly of Wellington.

The wedding date has been set for Nov. 15 at the United Methodist Church of McLean.

Miss Beck attended McLean High School and is currently employed with Taco Villa in Pampa.

Weatherly attended Wellington High School and is engaged in ranching with his father at Wellington.

Morley to speak here

Members of the Pampa Knife & Fork Club will be "brought up-to-date" at their next meeting Thursday when John Morley, noted foreign correspondent, and frequent visitor to the hot spots of the world, will be guest speaker.

Knife & Fork members and their guests are invited to attend the meeting at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, at the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn. Tickets are available at Dunlap's store and may be purchased until 2 p.m., Wednesday.

Since graduating from the Blackstone College of Law, where he received his LLB in 1933, Morley has been in the thick of things nationally and internationally. He has met many of the world's principal leaders through personal visits and in-depth interviews.

During World War II, Morley served the War Department as director of a military intelligence campaign against foreign spies in this country, an experience he says helps him analyze present international conditions. In his address here, he is to report on the latest world events he covered during his trips around the globe while talking to leading figures in England, Germany, Italy, Russia, the Near East, India, Thailand, Hong Kong, Communist China and Japan.

The author of "I Believe," Morley has on occasion been a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, the Reader's Digest, and the Ladies Home Journal.

Current Knife & Fork officers are Jerry R. Lane, president; Charles Bowers, vice president and Helen Wagoner, secretary. Others on the board of directors are Jack Bailey, Lilith Brainard, Thelma Bray, Bob Carmichael, Joe Gidden, Fred Haiduk and H.J. Johnson.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — As you know, making soup is a job for a big pot. I've found an easy way, especially if you don't have a big enough pot for top of the stove cooking. Put all the ingredients in your largest covered roasting pan, then cook in the oven at 350 degrees until the soup is done. There's no danger of boil-overs and ingredients won't stick to the bottom. Also, the cook doesn't have to stand over a hot stove watching the soup so closely. — MARTHA

DEAR POLLY — Here's a trick for making the job of washing sticky cooking utensils easier. The minute you empty a sticky pan (from baking, casseroles, etc.), rinse it well with soapy dishwater. Turn it upside-down on a smooth surface. After the other dishes have been washed, you'll find the sticky pan will be almost as easy to wash as crystal. — AUGUSTA

George Brock III

Evangelist

George Brock and his family make their home in the Oak Grove community, just outside Drumright, Oklahoma. He and his family have understood God's call into the ministry of full-time evangelism, and they are confident that Jesus Christ is the answer for all the world. George states that one has no problem that Christ cannot solve, no question that Christ cannot answer, no tear that Christ cannot lift. Therefore, his message is "Jesus", simply glorious and gloriously simple, trusting that message to be used of God to transform lives.

The Bill Murphy Family—Singers

Bill Murphy, his wife, Vicky and their daughter, Christina, have been serving Jesus for years in Texas and New Mexico. Recently, they surrendered their lives to full-time evangelism.

Bill was adopted at the age of five, and accepted Jesus Christ at the age of seven. The Lord has blessed Bill with the talent and ability to communicate the gospel of Christ through his music.

Vicky was born in California and has a unique and inspiring testimony. The most important experience she had was during a Vacation Bible School where she accepted Christ as her personal Lord and Savior, at the age of twelve.

Christina is fifteen years-old. She accepted Christ as her Savior at the age of seven and is committed to serving Him through her music talents.

Dear Abby

Bachelor's day would honor a host of singular people

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: We have a Mother's Day, Father's Day, and now someone has proposed a Wife's Day. Therefore, why not a "Bachelor's Day"?

There is a long list of bachelors who have made worthwhile contributions, and I think it's time the state of bachelorhood was appropriately honored. Some famous bachelors:

The saints: Paul, Luke, Francis of Assisi, Thomas Aquinas, Jerome and both Augustines.

There were Plato, Voltaire, Immanuel Kant and Thomas Paine. Also, Christopher Marlowe, Walt Whitman and Marcel Proust. And the famous artists Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael and El Greco. Musicians: Beethoven, Brahms, Liszt, Chopin, Schubert and Handel.

And let's not forget Roger Bacon, Sir Isaac Newton, Andrew Carnegie and Thomas E. Lawrence (known as Lawrence of Arabia). Also J. Edgar Hoover.

What do you say, Abby? Does Bachelor's Day get your vote?
ED P. IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR ED: Absolutely. If Congress can rule that Oct. 26 be declared Mule Appreciation Day, I see no reason why it would not also approve a National Bachelor's Day. And lest you think I jest, Rep. Robert Garcia, a Democrat from New York, introduced the bill to "honor" the mule, and it was passed unanimously.

P.S. You overlooked two of the most important bachelors of them all: Jesus Christ and the pope.

DEAR ABBY: My sister is 35 and I am 32. We're both married and have families. We get together occasionally and have always gotten along fine, until now.

The other evening my husband and I decided to go to bed early. He was in his briefs and I was in my nightgown when our doorbell rang. It was 8 p.m. and we weren't expecting anyone, so we didn't answer the door.

The next day my sister called to say that she and her husband had been in the neighborhood around 8 p.m., had rung our bell, but apparently nobody was home.

I told her we were home but didn't answer the door because we weren't expecting anyone and were ready for bed. She became very upset and said she thought we were very rude. I said I thought they were rude to ring our bell without calling first. Now we aren't speaking. I want very much to make up with her, but she's still mad.

Is she blowing this all out of proportion, or am I the one who's wrong?

RIGHT OR WRONG?

DEAR RIGHT: Your sister is wrong. They should have phoned in advance to ask if it was convenient for you to have company. This is a basic rule of common courtesy, and family members are no exception to the rule.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning your reply to "Aunt Cassie in Ottawa": "Motherhood is not for everyone," thank you, and triple thank you!

I've been married for nine blissful years and am childless by choice. Unfortunately in this town, that's a no-no. I've been asked whose "fault" it is—mine or my husband's. I've been told from the pulpit to pray that my "curse of barrenness be lifted, that I may be fruitful."

I've also been told that one day I'll want children, then I'll be too old, and I'll be sorry.

In the meantime, my husband will probably have his instrument pilot's license and I'll almost have mine and we won't miss not having children.

It's awfully hard to miss something you've never had.

REBECCA I.

DEAR REBECCA: Your triple thank-you was doubly appreciated after having been soundly scolded for my "motherhood is not for everybody" comment. Several critics suggested that everybody should have children to look after them in their old age.

To them I say: With people living to 90 and 95, we had better develop an elixir that will extend the lifespan to at least 110. (I'll drink to that!)

Girls of the Year

Make more noise to make more quiet

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Making today's office quieter often means creating more noise.

The noise is called "masking sound," according to Michael P. Webster, a consultant for Steelcase Inc.

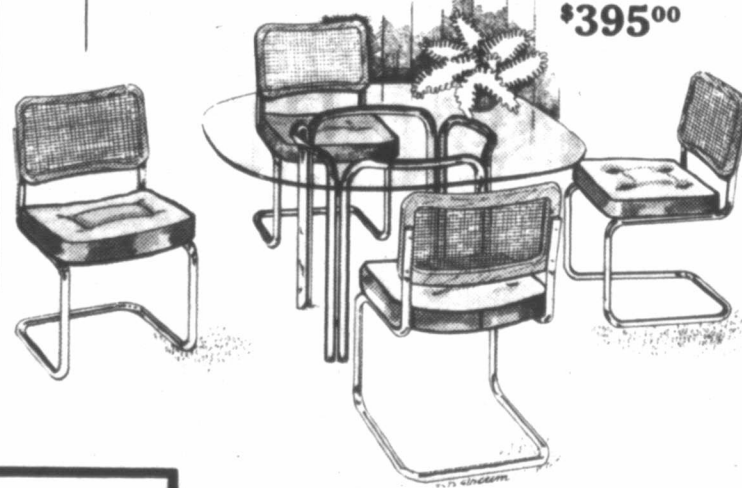

"It's electronically emitted sound that masks other noise in the office like clicking typewriters and ringing telephones," says Webster. He compares masking sound to wind that masks the sound of the car radio when the window is rolled down.

"Facts, when combined with ideas, constitute the greatest force in the world." — Carl W. Ackerman

Clothing terms come out of mothballs

DALLAS (AP) — Researchers here have buttonholed the origin of some of the terms for men's clothing, including the practice of calling one article of clothing a "pair" of trousers: until the 14th century each leg covering was separate, not sewn together, making it literally a pair of trousers.

Slacks: It was in 1926 that the Haggard Co. started business, making what founder J.M. Haggard Sr. and his son Ed called slacks — pants that didn't match a suit jacket.

Blazer: This term for a solid-color sports coat traces its roots to the sea. During the 1860s, the captain of the HMS Blazer ordered all of his sailors to wear identical jackets which had metal British Navy buttons; the jackets were, of course, navy blue.

'Christmas in October' set for Friday

Pampas extension homemakers clubs are to exhibit arts and crafts items at their annual Christmas in October sale from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Friday, in the National Guard Armory, East Hwy. 60.

Each club will offer a door prize at their exhibit in addition to door prizes being awarded at the end of the day. You do not have to be present to win.

A light lunch of homemade stew, cornbread and dessert will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. for $2.

Two special programs are planned at this year's event, American History in Patchwork Patterns and Wreaths for All Occasions.

Ione McIntyre, a quilt historian and researcher, is to present the slide-lecture program featuring slides of quilts that have pattern names referring to people, places or events in American History. A mini-quilt show of 12 to 20 or more quilts accompanies this program. The admission price is $1 for this program beginning at 10 a.m.

McIntyre has made more than 140 quilts using a variety of techniques and fabrics. She is the author of "American History in Patchwork Patterns," Vol. 1 "The Charter Oak," and has been teaching quilting since 1971. She toured Southeast Alaska in 1976 giving lectures and workshops on quilting and has been lecturing on quilting since 1970.

At 1 p.m., Jana Pronger will present a free program on wreaths for all occasions. Pronger is county extension agent for Hutchinson County.

Christmas in October is sponsored annually by the Gray County Extension Clubs.

"Skin" bars to wash the face with may look alike but can be quite different. If the bar is labeled "beauty bar," or "cleansing bar" with the word "soap" not used on the label, then its formula is not the same as soap.

Prepare outdoor furniture for winter

By DONNA BRAUCHI
County Extension Agent

Many of us have a considerable investment in the outdoor furniture we use on the deck, patio or by the pool. Whether you have expensive wrought iron or redwood outdoor furniture or less-costly aluminum and plastic webbing chairs, you can avoid the expense of replacing it with good maintenance.

Here are some suggestions for cleaning different types of outdoor furniture before winter storage.

Aluminum and Plastic: Most outdoor furniture is constructed of tubular aluminum which tends to gray with age and accumulate dirt and grime. Wash with detergent and warm water to remove most of the soil, and rub with fine 4-0 steel wool to remove discoloration. Aluminum jelly can also be used, but not on new or anodized aluminum.

Wash the plastic seat webbing and straps on tubular furniture with a long bristled brush and then wax with auto paste wax. Hose down or wash plastic furniture with water and a mild detergent. Don't use abrasive cleaners. Protect the surface with an application of auto paste wax. If the plastic is chipped or broken, it often can be fixed with epoxy glue.

Wood: Wipe down hardwood furniture with warm water and detergent, then protect it with auto paste wax. If the finish is cracked or flaked, remove it with paint or varnish remover, sand and apply a new coat of marine or exterior-type finish. Also check any painted metal supporting framework for rust and touch up if necessary.

Wash redwood furniture with warm water and detergent. Remove soft drink stains with a solution of chlorine bleach and then rinse. Smooth all the wood surfaces with 3-0 steel wool and apply a protective coat of penetrating sealer. Redwood furniture should not be varnished and coated with shellac.

Cast Metal: Use a mild detergent to wash cast aluminum, cast iron and wrought iron. If the enamel surface is scratched or chipped, or if rust has appeared, smooth the area with steel wool, apply a metal primer and then touch up with matching enamel paint.

Rattan: Rattan, cane, reed and willow furniture should be vacuumed and then damp washed with warm water and mild soap. After it dries, protect it with a liquid furniture wax.

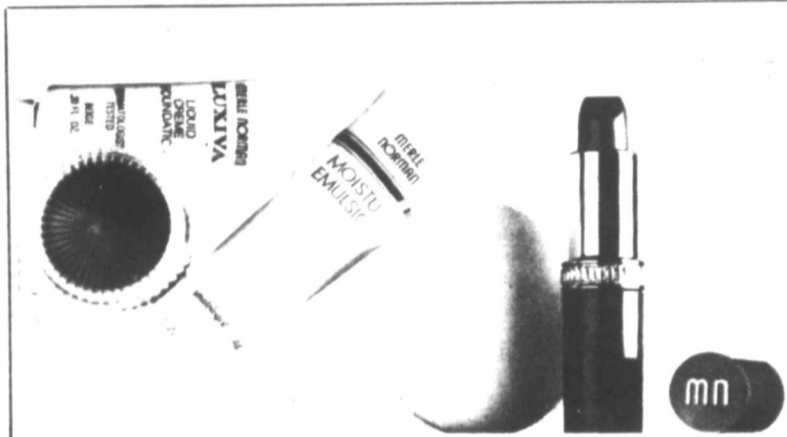

Fabrics: Cushions and other items made of vinyl laminate, cotton duck or canvas may be damp cleaned and dried with a cloth. Dry clean heavily soiled cotton if possible.

Wash and dry umbrellas made of vinyl laminate fabric in the open position. Check the pole for corrosion and rust and protect it with a liberal waxing of auto paste wax.

Brush hammocks to remove soil, scrub with warm water and detergent or machine wash and hang back in place to dry wrinkle-free. Wax the hammock suspension cords with paraffin to prolong their life.

Storing Outdoor Furniture: Indoor storage, in a garage, storage shed or the house, is ideal. You may want to use outdoor furniture to provide extra indoor seating and table surfaces during the winter. But if you do keep items in the house, keep them away from direct heat.

If you have no indoor storage space, cover the furniture with plastic, securely tie it down, and store on the porch, balcony or deck.

Peeking at Pampa

A new season emerged, all cranked up for a full to overflowing schedule. Happenings all over town emerged, too.

Security Federal, Northgate, celebrated its first birthday with cake, punch, balloons and a festive air. Many happy returns, Northgate!

Do put on your thinking caps as you remember names and addresses of 1941 Pampa High School graduates. Please send your list to Betty McAfee Ward, Box 158, Canadian, 79014. Plans are in the making for the 45th reunion of that class.

A coffee in the home of Martha (Mrs. Bob) Campbell served as the season opener for the 20th Century Culture Club. Plans for next spring's antique show are already underwood.

Bob Gee is operating the local Peanut Shack long distance from Lubbock where he accepted a position as Mini-Mall manager. That's not all. He recently opened Bob's Place in the Mall and still operates a Peanut Shack in Lubbock. While that may not mean a total move, it does represent a loss of a neat family group — Bob plus Barbara, Laura and their two grandchildren Skyler and Cassy. Good luck to the Gee family!

Saw Sue (Mrs. Frank) Snow, Shari (Mrs. Chas.) Langen and Donna (Mrs. Wayland) Acker having lunch together. It was Donna's birthday.

A host of friends attended the 78th birthday party — a friends - are - invited affair — for Carl Lawrence. Belated birthday wishes, Carl!

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Marshall were honorees at a traditional Pampa reception at the Pampa Club where Gerald is the manager. Behrman's presented a collection of luxurious furs.

A warm Pampa welcome to Chris and Reed Kirkpatrick and boys Matthew, 6, and Danny, 4, recently of Ennis. With an educational background in parks and recreation, Reed, as Parks and Recreation Director, will supervise operation of city parks and the swimming pool and introduce municipal recreational programs. A survey is underway now to determine adult recreational interests in such areas as CPR, Bargello, ceramics, country and western dance, photography. Plans are afloat for a Halloween parade and party for the kiddoes who will meet at Lovett Library with costumes and a bag for candy at 5:30 p.m. Oct. 31. Police will escort the youngsters in parade to the Fire Station for Halloween cartoons. WalMart will furnish candy for 1,000 children. Watch for more details.

Danny Parkerson came from Wichita Falls to serve as manager of M.K. Brown Auditorium. His track record is super: music and special education degrees from Midwestern State University.

Wichita Falls; former choir and youth director of Methodist and Christian churches; member of Miss Texas Pageant; emcee for 20 pageant preliminaries per year; present director of Wichita Falls pageant and past director for eight years; director of a variety show group; a tenor singer and entertainer. One more! He's a private voice teacher. Welcome to Pampa, Danny!

An anonymous benefactor provided funds to entertain the over - 80 gents of Groom. Joyce Hutsell, Neysa Friemel and Margaret Babcock pinned hanky boutonnieres and performed hostess duties for the breakfast party. Attending were John Hickox, 89 and oldest; George Latta, four months younger; Cecil Culver, Crim Goodlett, Rex Brown, the Rev. C.R. Copeland, Ross Nix, Pete Fields, Wish Britten and Clarence Merrick. Four more were unable to attend.

Donna and Kent Crow and little two-year-old Matthew moved to Pampa from Lawton, Okla. Kent is merchandising manager for J.C. Penny Company. Both Donna and

They are members of the Mary Ellen & Harvester Church of Christ.

The new owner of Firestone is Virgil Smith. The Smiths are outdoors people who love sports. Julie, 11, a student at Middle School, is a member of 4-H, an all-around cowgirl who is deeply interested in horses. There are two grown children, too. Mary Etta is a painter in both water colors and oil. Mary Etta, Virgil and Julie are members of Mary Ellen & Harvester Church of Christ, too. Welcome to both families.

After living in Big Spring for the past 12 years, Glenda McCrea recently returned to Pampa for her fourth stint at Pampa living. Her daughter and her family are Angie and Jack Peoples, and little Stephanie. She's a Methodist and an outdoor person. Welcome back, Glenda!

Congratulations to Betty and Merle Bohlander who became grandparents last week of their fourth grandson Jeremy Cole, son of Jeri and Jimmy of Amarillo.

Last week the Dallas News ran an illustrated feature story written by Tom Marshall, a former Pampa News editor, about his present career as a househusband. Tom, Jane, and their bright-eyed baby daughter, live in Denver where Jane is lifestyle editor for the Denver Post. Tom has a second career — that of a freelance writer. There was a retirement party last week for Jo Stafford, food service secretary at Carver Center for the past 27 years, attended by a host of friends and well wishers. Several freezers of homemade ice cream, cookies, brownies and other goodies were consumed. Jo and Jack will attend First Baptist Church today for their last time before moving to Okiahoma to make their home. Happy retirement to both! See you next week! KATIE

Don Braswell

Midshipman Lt. Commander Don Braswell is serving as the fall semester commander of the Fifth Battalion (Companies 25-30) at the U.S. Naval Academy. He has also been named to the Superintendent's List for the sixth time. He is a 1981 graduate of Pampa High School and a senior electrical engineering major at the academy. Mid'n Braswell spent his eight-week summer cruise in an exchange program with the British Navy on board H.M.S. "Berwick." While on tour, he spent several days in Belgium with a group of British midshipmen. He also spent a week touring London, Oxford and Cambridge before returning to Annapolis for the fall term.

Braswell's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Braswell of Pampa, recently visited the academy for First Class Parents Weekend. The midshipmen took their parents to classes with them on Friday, treated them to a dinner in King Hall (the midshipmen's mess) and a picnic at the naval center. The parents watched the traditional noon drill formations and the first night game in the history of the Naval academy at Navy - Marine Corps Memorial Stadium. Before leaving Annapolis, Braswell took his parents to visit Capt. (USN Ret.) and Mrs. Bill Richardson, long-time friends of Pampans Ben and Marjorie Guill.

Mary Tonemah

Mary Tonemah, a native of Pampa, has been appointed to director of personnel and training at WEOKIE Credit Union in Oklahoma City. She will be responsible for employee orientation, training and employee benefits for the $53 million credit union.

Carl Meyer

Carl Meyer of Skellytown, a member of the Hardin-Simmons University board of development, was invited to attend a special dinner commemorating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the development board on Sept. 26. The board members were joined by trustees for dinner in HSU's Moody Center to mark the occasion. The next day, they met in joint session and then separately. Ben Mathers of Canadian is current chairman of the board of development.

Stephen W. Edwards

Army Staff Sgt. Stephen W. Edwards, son of Morgan W. Edwards of Pampa, has arrived for duty in West Germany. Edwards, a military police specialist with the 59th Ordnance Brigade, was previously assigned at Fort Polk, La. He is a 1969 graduate of Pampa High School.

Carrie Carter

Carrie Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Alexander of Pampa, has pledged the Theta Zeta chapter of Delta Delta Delta at the University of Texas in Austin.

Angela S. Brooks

Angela S. Brooks of Pampa has received a bachelor of arts degree in Spanish translation during summer commencement exercises at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. She was among 2,038 graduates who received their diplomas.

Michele Hughes

Renee Sprinkle

Michele Hughes and Renee Sprinkle, both of Pampa, have pledged to Sigma Kappa sorority at Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls. Hughes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Hughes of Pampa. Sprinkle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Sprinkle of Pampa.

For Horticulture: fruit growers to meet

By JOE VANZANDT
County Extension Agent

A shortcourse for beginning fruit growers plus discussion focusing on peaches, blueberries, Asian pears and grapes will highlight the 1985 Texas Fruit Growers Conference Sept. 30 - Oct. 2 at the College Station Hilton and Conference Center. Particular emphasis will be on pruning peach trees and thinning peaches for top quality production. Other talks will deal with weed control, girdling of peach tree limbs to increase fruit size, alternatives for marketing Texas fruit, and using computers in small farming operations.

STORING SEEDS - LEFTOVER OR FRESH

Every gardener worth the title has a few packets of flower or vegetable seeds left from spring and summer plantings, or they may have collected seed from their own or from their neighbor's plants.

Although old seed often has a lower germination rate as well as reduced vigor, especially if left in a hot shed or storage area, the temptation is to try to save it for next year. Proper storage can greatly increase the shelf life of many seeds.

If time does not allow for a fertilizer treatment prior to planting, the wise gardener will wait until plants are well established and growing before applying the raw fertilizer at the same time.

Prepared annuals, perennials, and vegetable beds should be dug to a 12 to 18-inch depth. Areas for trees and shrubs should be prepared 8 to 12 inches beyond the width of the plant's existing root area. All planting beds should be raised slightly above normal ground level to allow for settling and to insure surface drainage.

Opposition party strength unprecedented in Chihuahua

By JUDY GIANNETTINO
Associated Press Writer

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Although the majority of Mexico remains in the firm grip of the Institutional Revolutionary Party that has dominated politics for more than 50 years, several northern states are giving unprecedented election victories to a rival.

The support for the opposition National Action Party, known by its Spanish initials as PAN, now is strongest in the state of Chihuahua. There, party leaders say 70 percent of the population resides in PAN-controlled towns.

"We are organized in all states of the nation, but not as strongly as in the north and in this city and state," said Alberto J. Torres, PAN president in Ciudad Juarez, the state's largest city.

"Here, we're away from the city of Mexico, we don't feel the pressure of the center and from that we get some strength," he said.

But Torres and other party officials said several factors have contributed to the PAN's ability to strip power from the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, in Chihuahua.

"I think people in the north of the country are more independent," said Ciudad Juarez Mayor Francisco Barrio Terrazas, whose July 1983 election victory broke the PRI's 54-year stranglehold in the city.

Since Barrio became took the reins of the city, which sits just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas, his party has gained control of all its elected offices.

Three federal representative seats and two state representative districts were captured by the PAN, although the election results of one of the state seats were invalidated and one of the federal district races currently is being disputed by the PRI.

Still, Torres said, "The municipality of Juarez is in our hands."

Six other cities in Chihuahua have PAN mayors, he said.

"And, this will never change," he said. "We will only continue to grow. It will never go back. We are in an upward trend."

Torres said the PAN's success in Ciudad Juarez largely is due to its proximity to the United States.

"We are neighbors to a democratic country," he said. "In just five minutes, we can cross the border and see democracy at work. Democracy for us is a living example."

Torres said that public response to the troubles in the administration of former U.S. President Richard Nixon was an example of the democratic principles Mexicans in Ciudad Juarez learn by living near the border.

"Nixon, the way he had to leave office after the public outcry, showed us that in the United States, nobody's above the law," Torres said. "In Mexico, it's the other way around."

The president is king, he's above everything, he controls everything."

Since 1929, the PRI has controlled Mexico's government, politics and economy, and the party and government have been synonymous.

That, Torres and Barrio said, is another reason the PRI is suffering in northern Mexico.

"During the last 12 years, Mexico has offered the worst presidents we've ever had and they've originated the worst crises we've ever had," Torres said. "They represent a ruling party that's based on corruption."

Barrio said, "The performance of our last two federal governments has been disastrous, almost in every aspect."

"You see the economy, the ages of corruption, the bureaucracy and so forth, and it's all associated with the PRI," he said. "The PRI has held every presidency, every governorship, every position in the Senate and most of the representatives and mayors for more than 50 years. People tend to make a very strong relationship between government and the PRI."

Conversely, Barrio said, the conservative PAN, the country's largest opposition party, is offering Mexicans "a way out of the mess."

The mayor said the PAN is neither associated with nor entrenched in corrupt politics, which generally is blamed by citizens for most of the country's problems under the PRI.

"We are offering the people a change from the past, a change from the system that is bringing ruin to our country," he said.

PRI officials, however, discount the PAN allegations and contend that the conservative party is not as strong as its leaders would like the public to think.

"A lot of it is talk," said Lorenzo Holguin Cisneros, party president in Ciudad Juarez.

"Just look at their rallies," he said, referring to several PAN gatherings this year that were planned for tens of thousands of people, but at best only drew 3,000.

"They can only get a small gathering ... they can't ever muster any more," Holguin said.

He also criticized the PAN for focusing its political campaigns and rhetoric on the PRI and the government's problems.

"They don't talk about what they want to do for the country, they only talk about what they find wrong with the PRI," he said.

"That is not a sign of strength."

The PRI was founded on the principles of the Mexican Revolution of 1910-1921. Social peace and democracy have been its slogans.

However, Torres said that in Chihuahua, four of 14 state representative districts have been won by the PAN.

"They are unprecedented victories," he said.

But they haven't been easily won.

For the second time in three years, the Chihuahua House of Representatives has voted to annul the election results of the 4th district in Ciudad Juarez.

A member of the PAN had won the seat in a July special election, which was called after the first annulment by the House. The same PAN candidate had won the seat in July 1983.

Torres said the annulment was "a classic sign" of how the PRI operates.

If the PAN candidate, Juan Saldana, had been allowed to fill the seat, the PAN would have a one-third majority in the House, Torres said. "That would be a powerful position for us."

After the second annulment was announced, several PAN leaders in Ciudad Juarez criticized the PRI.

City Manager Sergio Conde Varela called the move a "complete setback in the opening of democracy."

"For 30 years the government has been trying to get people to register to vote," he said. "The people register, they vote and then afterward, the government annuls the election."

Ciudad Juarez Vice Mayor Augustin Corral said the annulment was "a fraud against all the voters of Chihuahua, not just those of the fourth district."

However, Holguin and other PRI officials throughout the country disavowed that any fraud existed in this year's elections.

And Holguin said the PAN only claims wrongdoing as "an explanation as to why their candidates lost."

Two days after the House's vote, Barrio, Torres and about 30 other party members staged a protest.

Several similar campaigns, including hunger strikes, have been launched by the PAN in Chihuahua to protest the handling of elections.

But the protests always are peaceful.

"We don't believe in violence," said Torres. "The only way to fight the government is through votes."

Protests of alleged voter fraud and corruption "let the people know what's going on. Through them, we can cash in at the next election," he said.

But PAN officials said they believe they will be victorious in nine months when elections are held.

"We'll grow even more," said Barrio, who is being touted as a potential candidate for the Chihuahua state governor's race.

The PAN recently also has gained important victories in southern Mexico, giving party members hope for the future, Torres said.

"If the PRI continues to disallow the voters to have their say and if we continue to show them the wrongs of the PRI, we are going to collect what they're taking from us," he said. "We'll have the votes."

In Ciudad Juarez, Torres estimated that eight out of 10 people are PAN supporters.

"That strength can't be ignored forever," he said.

Pampa Fine Arts Members Thank These And So Many Others Who Helped With CHAUTAUQUA

The following people or organizations are greatly appreciated by the Chautauqua Committee and the Pampa Fine Arts Committee for their stellar efforts in making our "celebration of summer" a total success. There are many with these organizations who have donated time, money or talents to assure the community spirit a time of joy, enrichment and education.

Of course we do not want to forget the participants of CHAUTAUQUA '85 who made the festivities a true celebration. Thanks to all of you for your work, donations and patronage at CHAUTAUQUA.

WORKING AT RELIGION

Most religious folk regard their religion as an added convenience. That is, they look at it as something they have added to their lives as a benefit, much the same as joining a bowling league, bridge-club, or social organization of some kind. And, this added at their convenience, not as something to take pre-eminence to everything else.

Many members of the Lord's church have the mistaken idea that they can give a small part of their lives (and a very small part, at that) to the Lord and have eternal life assured them. This persuasion is evidenced by their casual, indifferent approach to doing the Lord's work. Also, they resent any "extra" work (that is, anything more than attending services once a week) being placed upon them.

Our Lord taught: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me" (Matthew 16:24.) He also said, "Whosoever doth not bear his own cross, and come after me cannot be my disciple" (Luke 14:27.) James wrote:

"For if any one is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a mirror: for he beholdeth himself, and th goeth away, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was" (James 1:23-24.)

Many more passages of scripture could be noted to emphasize the necessity of doing the will of God and not just hearing it. Jesus used the illustration of the vine and the branches (John 15) to show the importance of His disciples bearing fruit. No amount of comment could lend emphasis to this clear illustration. The sobering thought is that the unfruitful branches are broken off and burned.

We must learn that Jesus Christ and His gospel must not be just a part of our lives, He must be our lives. Paul said: "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain" (Philippians 1:21.) Paul was so devoted to doing the will of God that his entire existence was devoted to Christ. So should it be with us today, those who profess to be followers of Christ.

Reagan's impact: revolution or just a blip?

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — To President Reagan, nearing the end of his fifth year in Washington, his administration is "the dawn of the Second American Revolution." To Democrat Clark Clifford, a fixture in the capital since the Truman administration, it's "a blip on the screen."
As the president struggles with Congress over taxes, trade and deficits, not only liberals like Clifford but some of his fellow conservatives are questioning the boasts of Reagan's backers that his presidency will work long-term changes in American political life. Reagan declared in his second inaugural address that "we are creating a new America." He has repeated the theme often, as when he rallied a crowd in Oshkosh, Wis. in May to support his tax revision plan and said, with Lincoln-esque phrasing, "Let us resolve here today, during this, the dawn of the Second American Revolution, that this great task shall be accomplished."

Reagan booster Faith Ryan Whittlesey, before she left her post as head of the White House Office of Public Liaison to become ambassador to Switzerland, said, "This presidency is having the most profound effect on the political landscape since FDR ... We've changed the whole direction of this country."

More recently, White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters, "There's no doubt that President Reagan has changed the direction of thinking about how government should do business."
Maybe so, say some, but how long will the change last?

Clifford, a Washington lawyer who was counsel to President Truman and served as secretary of defense in the Johnson administration, said in an interview, "If he is able to carry on in his second four years as successfully as he did in the first four years and if he pursues his major goals, then I think he will have accomplished a profound change in the political climate of the country."
"I consider it a blip on the screen," he said. "You have read electrocardiograms. It just goes along with a steady vibration and then you come to an era where for a number of years you get an entirely different tracing. I think that's what's going on now."

Clifford predicted Reagan will run into trouble between now and 1988 because of a downturn in an economy plagued by a huge budget deficit and a growing international trade deficit.
From another perspective, Edwin J. Feulner II, president of the conservative Heritage Foundation, wrote in an assessment of Reagan's first term, "Not all the old problems have been solved, and some have not even been tackled. More important, policies must be fashioned to ensure the continuation and permanence of the Reagan revolution."
In an interview, Burton Pines, vice president and director of research for the foundation, said Reagan "managed in his first four years to absolutely win the argument that government must be smaller, that government cannot continue to grow inexorably, and I think that is going to continue and that's a legacy that is going to last for certainly as long as the Roosevelt legacy, which is that government can do everything."

But Pines said Reagan will face a milestone if Congress, as many expect, sends him an over-all spending bill for the coming fiscal year that fails to meet his budgetary goals.

"If he signs it reluctantly or whatever, I will say that he has failed a major test and maybe his legacy of leaving a significantly smaller federal government will not be as strong as it might have been," he said.

James David Barbour, a Duke University expert on presidential character, struck a similar note, saying, "I think obviously there has been change. But we still have a Department of Education; we still have a Department of Energy" — two departments Reagan came into office pledging to abolish.
"My sense is that radical change in the American political order among the population is probably going to happen only in the face of a severe social trauma that I don't see on the scene," said Barbour.
A different view is presented by two Cornell University professors, Martin Shefter and Benjamin Ginsberg. They note that the Reagan administration has stemmed the flow of federal funds to legal service agencies, appointed conservative legal scholars to the federal bench, captured a majority of the Senate, built a strong political fund-raising apparatus, and presided over five years in which Congress has not enacted a single new major domestic spending program.

Clements denies having role in college football probes

DALLAS (AP) — Former Gov. Bill Clements has angrily denied that he and Southern Methodist University have been helping the NCAA investigate alleged football cheating at other Southwest Conference schools.
"SMU has had nothing to do with this, and certainly neither have I," Clements told a Dallas Republican gathering last week.

His comments followed reports in the Dallas Times Herald quoting sources as saying that Clements, chairman of SMU's board of governors who is again running for governor in 1986, could be hurt politically because of his role in helping the NCAA investigate other schools.
SMU was recently hit with a two-year probation and severe penalties because of NCAA findings that football players had been paid by college boosters.

The Houston Post reported last week that Aggie booster and Dallas Cowboys owner H.R. "Bum" Bright said Clements had predicted several other Southwest Conference schools would be dragged into the scandal.

"Gov. Clements says the next one is TCU, then Texas Tech, then the University of Houston and finally the University of Texas," said Bright, a longtime supporter of Texas A&M.
The Times Herald quoted unnamed Republican sources as saying Clements' gubernatorial bid could suffer as a result.
"In Texas, the politics of football are probably more important than the politics of politics," one leading Republican said.

Clements' denial Thursday that he and the university are targeting other schools contradicts SMU president L. Donald Shields, who said in a letter to university alumni that the school "did respond to a request for extensive information concerning alleged NCAA violations at other institutions."

FAA fines American Airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration fined American Airlines $1.5 million Friday for a variety of aircraft maintenance violations. It was by far the largest fine ever levied by the government against an airline, the agency announced.

An FAA spokesman said the airline, the nation's largest, has agreed to pay the fine as part of a settlement in connection with the enforcement action.

The penalties stem from violations involving maintenance conducted by the airline, including instances of work being improperly postponed as well as improper procedures for monitoring maintenance work, spokesman Stephen Hayes said.

The maintenance problems at American were uncovered in a special inspection conducted by the FAA earlier this year.

FAA Administrator Donald Engen said that American "has taken prompt action to correct all deficiencies" uncovered by FAA inspectors.

He said the FAA has been "assured that the airline is operating, and will continue to operate, in accordance with the highest standards of safety."

The $1.5 million fine is three times as high as the largest fine previously levied by the FAA against an airline.

EXCLUSIVE MORTGAGE ASSISTANCE PLAN

Offer made possible by America's #1 log home company.

Selected local families will be invited to participate in a program which can provide the owner not only a nationally recognized log home, but also an opportunity to earn substantial income while enjoying a quality home.

The income should easily cover mortgage payments. Many of our customers have paid off their homes in less than five (5) years.

If you have ever considered living in a high quality log home offered by one of the nation's leading log home manufacturers, you owe it to yourself to investigate Yesteryear Log Homes' mortgage assistance plan. Requirement: Ability to purchase a minimum $15,000.00 log home.

WILLIAMS & WEBB AUCTION

A COLOR VIDEO PRESENTATION
SELLING THE SURFACE AND MINERAL RIGHTS OF 714.52 ACRES OF FARM AND GRASS LAND LOCATED NEAR GROOM, TEXAS FOR THE U.S. SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION IN FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS. 10:00 A.M.-TUESDAY-OCTOBER 1

LOCATION: On the South Steps of the Gray County Courthouse, Pampa, Texas.
LOCATION: From the I-40 Intersection near the TOWER TRUCK STOP on the East side of Groom, go 1/2 mile Southbound on the North service road of I-40 to a county road that angles off service road due East. Take this road for 1/2 mile to the intersection which forms the Southwest corner of the property.

EASEMENTS: The Above Described Property Has six Utility and pipeline easements of record.

COMMON DESCRIPTION: A contiguous dryland farm and ranch operation located 2 miles East of Groom, Texas. Section 39 contains 620 acres less a 17.488 acre airstrip along the West edge of the property as well as an additional 3 acre tract home site on the North end of the airstrip, and also less 20 acres previously conveyed out of the Southeast corner of the Section. This leaves 579.51 acres more or less in Section 39. Section 34 has a common boundary with Section 39 on the East side. The North 135 acres more or less of the West 1/2 of Section 34 is a part of the property being sold. This makes the total acreage to be sold 714.52 acres more or less. Graded County roads run the length of the property on both the South and West sides of the property. A similar road exists along the North property line, however, it has been closed due to the soil conservation dam flood plain that will cover this road. Fences surround the property and separate those areas conveyed. These fences are both electric and multiple wire on wood posts. Two heavy duty cattle guards are in place in the North perimeter fence. Additional cross fences are a part of this sale. Other improvements to the property are described in the following descriptions of the four separate parcels that will be offered both as individual units, in combination of units and in it's entirety.

PARCEL NO. 1: (The SW 1/4 and the SE 1/4 of Section 39- 277.58 acres more or less). A basically level parcel of land containing approximately 229.58 acres of farm land that was planted to wheat and was grazed out. The remaining 48.0 acres approximately are in permanent pasture. The soils are excellent for crop production.

PARCEL NO. 2: (The NW 1/4 of Section 39 containing 146.94 acres more or less). This portion of the land also contains a mixture of grass and farmland with the grass being 100 acres more or less. The 46.94 acres of farmland joins the farmland described in Parcel No. 1 and was also planted to wheat. Graded roads through this parcel access the grassland which has a gentle rolling terrain.

PARCEL NO. 3: (The NE 1/4 of Section 39 containing 155 acres more or less). This land is all grassland. It contains a small portion of the watershed described in Parcel 4 on the Northeast Corner.

PARCEL NO. 4: (The North 135 Acres more or less of the West 1/2 of Section 34). This portion of the land is all grass. It Contains 27.7 acres of the 34 acres comprising the permanent lake created by a watershed erosion dam located on this parcel. This dam is approximately 1,320 feet long and 69 feet high and has a capacity of 200 acre feet of water. This dam as completed in 1982 under the RATIFICATION ACT concerning the Red River and its tributaries. The basic purpose is for erosion control and the water can be used only for domestic and livestock consumption until the year 2,000. At that time, a permit will have to be obtained for other uses. Flood stage will allow coverage of 140 acres. A total watershed of 35,280 acres drains into the lake.

Minerals: All Minerals owned will be conveyed. It is believed that all minerals are intact but this is not guaranteed (Production exists in the area).

TERMS: This farm is being sold via a color video presentation in foreclosure proceeding for the United States Small Business Administration, and said agency reserves the right to enter the bidding process. It will be offered separately and in combinations of the above described four parcels and its entirety, selling in the manner bringing the most money. The seller will require all cash for the property. Twenty (20%) percent of the price as determined at auction to be escrowed with the auctioneers sale day with the remaining eighty (80%) percent of the purchase price to be due at closing. Closing to be within 30 days. Property is being sold subject to any or all taxes due. Seller will furnish a substitute trustee's deed only conveying the property to the purchaser or purchasers. No policy of title insurance or abstract of title to be furnished by seller. Survey, if desired, to be at purchaser expense. Possession to be at closing subject to any existing growing crop leases. All income generated after closing to be property to purchaser.
