County says farewell to a sheriff

By CATHY SPAULDING Staff Writer

MIAMI - Former Roberts County sheriff Eddie Brines was arrested Saturday and sentenced to an indefinite term at Lake Texoma. The charge: 30 years of service to the county

Wearing a blue farm shirt and blue jeans - his civilian clothes Brines and his wife Daisy were honored at a Saturday reception at the Miami American Legion Building.

Current sheriff Lando Brown placed the 65-year-old Brines under arrest, charging him with "excellent service to Roberts County County judge Newton Cox then levied the punishment, "confinement at Lake Texoma (where the Brines have a cabin) for as long as they please.

The Brines were levied no fines. Instead, they were given a currency-laden "money tree" as a going-away present

Brines' retirement originally was to become effective Oct. 1. But Cox decided to let Brines retire two weeks early, Sept. 13. so that the former sheriff and his wife could return to their home at the East Texas lake MONEY TREE — Retiring Roberts County Sheriff Eddie Brines and his wife Daisy are given a parting gift.

County to consider dam upkeep pact

BY PAUL PIKNHAM

Discussion of a maintenance agreement for McClellan Creek Watershed dams in southern Grav County will highlight a meeting of the Gray County Commissioners Court at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Under the agreement, the county will be responsible for maintenance of the dams and grass and ground cover in the area around them. County Judge Carl Kennedy said. He estimated the cost of each dam at about $2

The watershed project was set up to control run - off from McClellan Creek in southern Gray and Carson counties, the area surrounding Lake McClellan, Kennedy said. Of 13 project dams, two are in Carson County and the remainder are in

All but two of the dams are completed. Both uncompleted dams are in Gray County

Kennedy said the county will be responsible for making sure that vegetation is holding the seal around the dams and that land around the dams is properly fertilized and not overgrazed. Owners of surrounding lands will be permitted to have the land grazed, as long as it is not overgrazed, he said

The Gray County Soil Conservation District will monitor grazing of the lands. Kennedy said

Also on Tuesday's agenda is consideration of a request by R.B. Brummett to dedicate a roadway in Precinct Two to the county. The McGee plant, oustiside of Pampa

The commissioners will merely discuss Brummett's request Tuesday, Kennedy said. If they appear favorable to the request, Brummett will be required to prepare a formal petition turning the road over to the county The commissioners also plan to consider participation in a matching funds - type program to install warning lights at the city service road railroad crossing off Highway 60 near Pampa. The road runs from Price Road to the IRI Corp. plant (formerly Ingersoll - Rand) Under the project, the federal government will pay 90 percent of the total cost of installing the warning lights, while the state and the county each pay 5 percent.

road runs north off Texas Highway Kennedy said the cost of the last 152, just to the west of the Kerr - such project the county participated in totalled $120,000 meaning the county and the state each spent about $6,000

In other action, the commissioners are scheduled to:

 consider approval of easements and utility adjustments for a two - mile, unpaved stretch of Farm to Market Highway 1474, running from Lefors to a point east of Pampa.

- recognize the successful completion of an annually required justice of the peace training course by Justices Margie Prestidge of Lefors, R.C. Parker of McLean and David Potter of Pampa

- pay salaries and bills as approved by the county auditor. - consider time deposits and transfers as recommended by the county auditor

Index shows solid rebound for economy

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The government's main gauge of future economic activity rose a solid 0.7 percent in August, giving further evidence that the economy is at long last rebounding from a year-long slump.

The Commerce Department said the advance in its Index of Leading Indicators matched a revised 0.7 increase in July. Both months showed the strongest gains since a 0.8 percent February advance.

The July gain had originally been reported as a much weaker 0.4 percent increase.

Thus economists were heartened not only by the August gain, which was in line with expectations, but also with July's upward revision.

Many analysts believe the index is correctly forecasting that the economy will show growing strength in coming months.

The Reagan administration is forecasting that the economy will rebound sharply in the second half of the year, rousing itself from a prolonged period in which a soaring trade deficit severely depressed activity in the U.S. industrial sector.

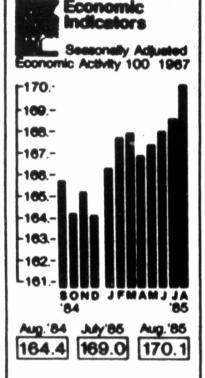

The August advance for the leading indicators put the overall index at 170.1 percent of its 1967 base, up from a revised 169 percent in July

The August advance was powered by positive contributions from six of the 11 available indicators.

The biggest contribution came from an increase in the money supply followed by gains in building permits, the length of the average workweek, the number of new businesses, new orders for consumer goods and a dip in the number of weekly unemployment claims.

Four indicators held the index back. The biggest negative came from a drop in stock prices followed by negative changes in the length of time it took to get deliveries of business orders, changes in sensitive material prices and in the amount of outstanding debt.

One indicator, contracts for capital equipment, was unchanged from the July level.

In another assessment of the economic future, the National Association of Business Economists predicted today that the economy would grow an anemic 2.2 percent this year, rebounding only slightly to 2.7 percent growth in 1986

In an even more ominous assessment, the association said 52 percent of the 350 economists who responded to the latest survey believed the country would be in a recession by the end of 1986

Kathleen Cooper, vice president of the association, said the majority of economists felt that the federal government's huge budget deficits would derail the current recovery in the next 15 months.

While fewer economists than a year ago are predicting an outright recession, their optimis. about total economic growth has weakened as well

Bullfight bleachers collapse

TECATE, Mexico (AP) — At least 120 people waiting to see American matadora Raquel Martinez were injured when temporary bleachers of a bullfight ring collapsed "like a deck of cards," authorities said.

Tecate Fire Chief Luis Villa Vicencio said there were no deaths in the collapse at 5:15 p.m. Sunday of stands erected two days earlier for the city's seventh annual Pamplonada festival. He said up to 150 people may have been hurt. 'There was only a warning of seconds." said Bill Robinson, the matadora's husband and a San Diego police spokesman. "I felt my seat begin to sway, and then I heard this cracking sound. I looked up and I saw the stands beginning to tumble like a deck of cards. Witnesses said those not hurt went immediately to the aid of the injured, using the fallen bleachers as makeshift stretchers to carry victims out of the rubble The most seriously injured had broken bones and were taken to Tecate's three hospitals or evacuated to hospitals in Tijuana. about 50 miles west. Others were airlifted to hospitals in the United States, officials said.

Officials first reported that about 200 people were injured. The Los Angeles Times reported in today's editions that about 120 people were

Officials at the various hospitals said victims' conditions ranged from fair to good.

Collapsed bleachers with dead bull in arena

The Pamplonada, or running of the bulls, draws thousands of U.S. residents and Mexicans to this border city of 80,000 about 40 miles southeast of San Diego. This year's festival was to have been held last week but was postponed because of the national mourning that followed the Mexico City earthquakes.

Martinez, a major attraction of the weekend celebration, had just entered the ring when the seats began to fall. "They just all fell down together, and I went into shock," she said

Martinez said it was the third time she's been in a bullring that collapsed. Robinson said the two other accidents occurred near Mexico City earlier this year and resulted in some deaths. There was no cause given for Sunday's incident, but Mayor Cesar Moreno said an investigation would determine what caused the Robinson said the Tecate bullring, designed to hold 2,000 people, was filled to capacity.

Tax rate tops school agenda

The Pampa Independent School Board is scheduled to consider adoption of a 71.8 cents per $100 valuation tax rate Tuesday at 5 p.m.

If adopted, the new tax rate will be an increase of 1.8 cents from last year's actual rate of 70 cents, a 2.6 percent jump. However, the increase is considered an 8.16 percent hike because the effective tax rate, the amount needed to raise the same amount of revenue as the previous year. is 66.38 cents due to an increase in property values.

No one protested the new tax rate at a public hearing Sept. 17. The district is not subject to a rollback election because part of the increase, about $162,000, is attributed to a loss of sstate aid.

Normally, an effective tax rate increase greater than 8 percent would subject the board to a rollback election.

In other action, the board is scheduled to consider a bill for about $28,800 for bleacher seating at McNeely Field House. Contractor for the project is Interkal Inc. of Kalamazoo, Mich.

The board also plans to nominate candidates for the Gray County Appraisal District Board of Directors and receive administration and board committee reports.

MADD official fired for probation request

HOUSTON (AP) - An official with Mothers Against Drunk Driving was fired after asking a judge to keep a repeat drunk driving offender on probation instead of sending her to prison, MADD officials said

Anita Hunt, MADD's Texas director of victim services, was fired Saturday after she refused to resign, said Marinelle Timmons, state director for the group.

"I really don't feel we had a choice," Ms. Timmons said after a three-hour meeting in which MADD directors decided on the dismissal Ms. Hunt testified Thursday at a probation revocation hearing for Caryl Pagenkopf, 27, who was arrested Aug. 26 on a drunken driving charge Ms. Pagenkopf previously was convicted of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Ms. Hunt's stepfather, Robert Daigle, who died in a November 1981 traffic accident.

Investigators said a blood alcohol test showed Ms. Pagenkopf was intoxicated when she drove head-on into Daigle's car. She was sentenced to 10 years' probation and ordered to pay Daigle's family $21,600 in restitution

Ms. Hunt used the restitution money - paid in monthly installments - to help pay for her sister's college education, Ms.

Timmons said.

Ms. Hunt, saying she represented Daigle's family and not MADD at the hearing, testifed Thursday that Ms. Pagenkopf should be left on probation so she could continue paying restitution.

State District Judge Woody Densen instead sentenced the defendant to 10 years in prison after revoking her probation Ms. Timmons said Ms. Hunt would have been allowed to keep her job had she told MADD officials about the hearing, but that to keep her on staff now would hurt the group's credibility "Anita and the MADD program do differ in individual philosophies as to the judgement against drunk drivers and specifically their punishment," Ms. Timmons said.

MADD advocates prison terms for every drunk driver who is a repeat offender or is convicted in a fatal accident, Ms. Timmons said.

"Had we advocated probation. Pagenkopf could have gotten behind the wheel and caused another death. I would not want that on MADD's conscience.

When Ms. Pagenkopf was sentenced for the involuntary manslaughter conviction, it was not unusual for judges to grant probation to drunk drivers who had caused a fatality, she said.

Life, sorrow in a city park

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Mexico Park, a little green oasis where babies once toddled and grownups played soccer, is now home to hundreds of people whose apartments and possessions were swept away by killer earthquakes.

There are still children here. But they are not playing. They huddle with their mothers in makeshift sleeping quarters ringing an elegant esplanade.

There is an eerie quiet. No boy scouts, no soccer games, no dogs leaping for tennis balls

It is a week and a half after the great earthquake of Sept. 19, and Mexico Park teems with people who have no other place to go.

We're making a new community here, a new village,' says Ricardo Castellano, 26, a self-described "kid of the streets" who helped organize the shelter in the heart of the middle-class Condesa neighborhood

A hollow-cheeked woman, her voice choking, clutches an 16-month old boy and asks a visitor for food for her children.

Behind her, women are frying meat for lunch, but everyone agrees it is not enough for the children

The National Fine Arts Museum. the Bellas Artes, has sent clowns, actors, mimes and puppeteers every day to entertain the homeless children of Mexico Park.

But this Sunday, the chief attraction is a bright-eved girl named Adriana Pacheco Hernandez. In her donated plaid dress and coat, she charms a group of adult volunteers

Nursing home, workers go on trial

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A Texas City nursing home and five of its workers caused the death of an elderly patient in 1978, a Galveston County prosecutor charged today.

District Attorney Mike Guarino made the accusation during the opening day of testimony in the state's murder case against Autumn Hills Convalescent Center Inc., a Houston-based nursing home chain, and five of its current and former employees.

The defendants are accused of murder by neglect in the death of Elnora Breed, 87, who died after living at the Autumn Hills Nursing Home in Texas City for 47 days The trial was moved from Galveston to San Antonio because of extensive publicity.

Reading from the indictments. Guarino said the defendants did 'on or about Nov. 20, 1978, knowingly cause the death of Elnora Breed."

In addition to the corporation, the defendants are Autumn Hills President Robert Gay, 58; Ron Pohlmeyer, 41,; Mattie Locke, 42, a nursing consultant; Virginia Wilson, 52, former administrator of the nursing home; and Cassandra Canlas, 31, former director of nursing services.

"Se cayo," she says brightly — It

And where was Adriana? "I was there but a lady grabbed me with her elbow and took me outsido." The young men laugh and cheer her. A woman bursts into tears "A lot of these people are like double refugees. They went first to the shelter at the military field but there they got nothing, just shoes with holes in the bottom, no sympathy, and their food and water were rationed," says a young Spaniard who says is name is Claudio. His home, too, was turned into rubble by the quakes. Now, he is working as an organizer to help other victims.

Clothes are piled in one corner of the park's esplanade, empty water jugs in another. A priest is coming later to say Mass, and people are trying to spruce up the settlement.

The little village will remain until the government tells them where they can go, the young men

Outside the victims' shelter, Carlos Andrade, his wife and daughters sit on a bench. They live nearby in a house undamaged by the tremors, and have come to Mexico Park as on any other Sunday

"But it's a little sad in the park today," Andrade says. "Not many people, except the ones in the shelter there.

"It's very sad," repeats his wife.

The mop up, cleanup, light up, count up tasks continue

By The Associated Press

More than 900,000 utility customers were still without electricity today in the Northeast, where officials said it could take days to restore power and count the cost of Hurricane Gloria, blamed for at least 16 deaths and $47 million in damage.

Gloria, which at one time packed winds of up to 150 mph, had been touted as one of the century's most powerful Atlantic storms, but it weakened to 120 mph before brushing the East Coast from North Carolina's Outer Banks to New York's Long Island, where it went ashore Friday with 90 mph wind speeds.

But the damage it caused was extensive

Long Island Lighting Co. said it brought in 1,000 workers from as far away as Baltimore and Cleveland to restore power to some of the 365,000 customers still in the dark three days after Gloria's

But after the utility said service would not be fully restored until the end of the week, Gov. Mario Cuomo on Sunday ordered a "detailed evaluation or LILCO's preparedness and response performance," a spokesman said. In Connecticut, about 318,000 customers were without power Sunday afternoon, and utility officials said it could take a week to restore service completely

That posed an additional problem for the 500,000 households with private wells and the 600 small water companies serving an additional 160,000 households, said Connecticut's Gov. William

"Without question it's the lack of power which means a lack of water. That's the immediate problem." O'Neill said

Some 200 000 Massachusetts homes and businesses were without electricity today as hundreds of utility crews worked double shifts trying to raise poles and power lines flattened by the hurricane Crews from Illinois, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Washington, D.C. and Quebec, Canada, have been called in to help the electric companies restore Damage to Boston, including lost wages, business and tax revenue, 'starts at $10 million and you can work your way up from there,' said Mayor Raymond L. Flynn.

An estimated $5 million to $7 million of Massachusetts' $25 million annual apple crop and 30 percent of its $3 million silage corn crop were damaged. The state's peach g orchards also received heavy damage, and Agriculture Commissioner August Schumacher said the estimates could go higher.

About 30,000 Central Maine Power Co. customers were still blacked out Sunday night, while less than 4,000 Public Service Company of New Hampshire consumers, mostly coastal residents, were also without power.

In New Jersey, where officials in three coastal counties estimated damage at $8.5 million, fewer than 60 utility customers were still without power Sunday and authorities said all should be restored by today.
In Maryland, the Army Corps of Engineers estimated about $6 million damage to Ocean City, a vulnerable barrier island and the state's resort capital.

There was no official damage estimate for Rhode Island, where preliminary estimates predicted etween $2.6 million and $4 million

LILCO and Northeast Utilities said Sunday that they carried no hurricane insurance, and it was unclear whether customers would have to cover the cost of repairing the damage caused by the storm Friday, the New York Times reported in today's editions.

Delta crash report is due today

DALLAS (AP) - The National Transportation Safety Board will issue a report today that will provide near-conclusive evidence that Delta Flight 191 was slammed to the earth by a powerful wind shear despite the crew's frantic efforts to fly through the severe weather by boosting the plane's power, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

The flight crashed near a runway at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport Aug. 2, killing 136 passengers and crew members. There were 27 survivors.

The copyright story said the NTSB report will include the release of a transcript of the last minutes of cockpit conversations.

"Push it up, push it, push it up, pilot Edward Conners directed co-pilot Rudolph Price Jr. seconds before the crash, in an apparent effort to take the engine to maximum power and compensate for a loss of airspeed and altitutde. tne newspaper reported. The pilots then attemmpted to abort the landing, but it was too late.

The newspaper said such an action indicates that the crew apparenlty knew it had encountered a wind shear, a rapid change in wind speed and direction, and started procedures consistent with efforts to recover from the life-threatening phenomenon.

The release of the cockpit tapes today will mark the first time portions of the conversations have been made public.

The report, drawn up after two months of investigation, will be strictly factual and draw no conclusions, the newspaper said. The final report will not be will include further evidence to be

The reports will also analyze the weather situation, the newspaper said. Earlier reports indicated that air traffic controllers and weather observers should have been aware of a thunderstorm forming near the airport and moving toward the runway where Delta Flight 191 was

City begins new fiscal year

By BOB HART Pampa City Manager

Today marks the end of our fiscal year for city operations. We, like most municipalities in the state, have a fiscal year from Oct. 1 to Sent 30 of each year This time frame corresponds to the tax year as set forth in state law

With the close of the fiscal year our auditors will be on location in preparing our annual audit. The auditors this year are H.V. Robertsons Inc. of Amarillo. They have extensive experience in auditing public enities. Public enities account for funds on a fund accounting system with audit procedures considerably different than private enities. We expect to have the audit completed and returned by the middle of November, at which it will be publically presented to the City Commission. The commission will then decide whether or not to accept the report. Once the audit has been received, it will be available for public in City Hall and Lovett Memorial Library

Tomorrow marks the beginning of the new fiscal year. We will be operating under the budget adopted at the last City Commission meeting. The budget is presently at the printers to be printed and bound. Once it is complete, six copies will be placed in the Lovett Memorial Library. Three copies will be available for reference material and three copies will be available for check out. I expect the budget to be placed in the library by about the 22th to 25th of October.

Our vehicles now have the new logos on them. This should help you identify a city vehicle when thay are at work sites or traveling in the

We will be testing new dumpster lids at selected sites around the community. We will be comparing our existing plastic lids to a new style of plastic lids and steel lids. Both the steel lids and the new type of plastic are less expensive than those we are presently using. We expect to have many of these lids in place within the next two weeks. We hope to be able to make a decision on the most cost effective type of lid within the next six to eight weeks

Critics say state senator abused his trial privilege

DALLAS (AP) — State Sen. O.H. 'Ike'' Harris' use of a controversial legislative privilege to delay a child support trial has renewed debate over a statute allowing lawmakers who are attorneys to automatically delay court cases.

Harris, R-Dallas, signed court documents asking for a continuance of a case in Dallas County that concluded last week after nearly 10 months of delay. He said he used the tactic as a matter of strategy.

"You can call it anything you want," Harris said Friday. "It was the best strategy you could employ at the time. On Thursday, a state district court jury ordered Michael Hernandez, a 36-year-old Dallas businessman, to increase child support payments for his 13-year-old daughter from $125 a month to $450 a month.

Because of the continuance, however, Hernandez was able to delay his court date and subsequent verdict for nearly 10 months. He originally was due in court on Dec. 5, 1984.

State law says a judge must grant any motion for a legislative continuance filed by a lawmaker claiming to be an attorney on a certain case. The only exception comes when an opposing attorney convinces a judge irreparable harm or injury could result from

The law, designed to help attorneys maintain their regular practices while serving in the state House or Senate, calls for postponements of all trials or hearings within 30 days of a legislative session if a lawmaker is

John Withers, the attorney representing Hernandez's former wife, Charlsey Holler, said the use of the legislative continuance by Harris was unethical.

'I think it is obscene that an elected official would use his position to delay a case especially a child support case — to deprive a child what is due her," Withers said.

Withers said he believes Harris did nothing in the case other than to file the motion for a delay. The only formal court action in which Harris participated was to file a motion for legislative continuance, according to court records. Harris said he worked in the background on Hernandez's case, giving advice on settlement

Harris acknowledged that he filed the motion as a delay tactic because he believed Ms. Holler and her attorney acted unreasonably in refusing settlement offers. State District Judge Frances

Harris, who is not related to the state senator, said she felt compelled to grant Harris' request for a continuance because no permanent harm would befall Hernandez's daughter. She said Harris had claimed to have participated in preparing the case.

"I can't look at the information I have and say it was a delay tactic. There is no way for us to be in the attorney's office when the preparation is done," the judge said. "There is no way for a trial judge to invade the mental processes of the attorneys.

In 1971, the Legislature modified the statute to say a lawmaker has to be retained in a case at least 30 days before a regular session or 10 days before a special, or emergency, session. But attempts in 1983 and 1985 to repeal the law

State Sen. Cindi Krier, R-San Antonio, the author of the latest attempt to scuttle the law, said she will attempt next session to close loopholes in the statute to prevent

Weather extremes give a hint of Texas winter

By The Associated Press

Cool weather was expected to linger but heavy thunderstorms dissipate today after a weekend which brought freezing temperatures and snow flurries to the Panhandle, balmy 80s to far South Texas and flash flood warnings to the east.

Readings plunged into the 30s across the Panhandle and South Plains Sunday morning, and heavy thunderstorms covered much of the state through the afternoon, the National Weather Service said.

Early Sunday, Amarillo recorded a chilly 32 degrees and Lubbock reported 38. The Amarillo mark ties a record set in 1984 on the same day. A light snow sprinkled the Panhandle city between 6:30 a.m. and 7:30 a.m.

A traveler's advisory was issued in some areas of North Texas cautioning motorists to be aware of possible freezing drizzle and blowing snow

Meanwhile, in far South Texas, McAllen temperatures climbed to a sizzling 99 degrees by afternoon, the National Weather Service

A flash flood warning was issued for Bexar County after storms moved across San Antonio, raising creeks to near-flood levels and flooding low-lying streets Sunday morning.

The weather service posted flash flood watches Sunday for the Hill Country, the Edwards Plateau, South Central Texas and wide sections of North Texas. East Texas also reported heavy rains during the morning.

But by late afternoon, most of the flash flood warnings had been lifted and rains had dissipated. No major flooding had been reported.

The forecast for today called for temperatures to stay chilly but scattered showers to end by tonight over most of Texas

Waco recorded 2.6 inches of precipitation by 7 p.m. Sunday, and Corpus Christi about 3 inches during the last 24 hours.

More than 2 inches was also reported in Houston and San disrupted the 72-hole event. Antonio

The Texas Open golf tournament in San Antonio, an annual Professional Golfers Association event, was one of the casualties of the weather. Officials were forced to schedule the final round for Monday after weekend downpours

Late Saturday, a violent thunderstorm system moved through the Midland-Odessa area,

There were no reports of serious damage or injuries, according to a spokeswoman with the Midland County sheriff's office.

Joy after seventeen years

Our community was rejoicing over the weekend because the Pampa Harvester football team beat Perryton during the local high school's homecoming observance

The 23-20 squeaker over the Perryton Rangers brought cheers from the overflow crowd at Harvester Stadium — it was the first win for the Harvesters in four outings during the current season But, for the current high school students and the numerous former students, the victory had a special meaning It was the first time in 18 years — according to the students — that the Harvesters had been victorious during a homecoming game. That was apparently what made the victory so sweet for so many

Having a member of the present senior class in my household, I also found out that Friday night's victory also had an extra special meaning for those students in their last year in the Pampa schools. It was the first homecoming victory they had witnessed and it came during their senior year.

Could all of the community support - including the signs in local businesses and the numerous other indications of the community backing the team - have been the added spark needed to get the football team going? At least it didn't hurt

Maybe city crews will not have to dig up any more of the concrete paving on North Russell, between Browning and Cook.

Recently, the city's water department abandoned the ancient water line beneath the middle of the street. All of the residents except for one at the south end of the five-block area - have now been connected to newer lines installed several years ago in the alleys or utility easements behind the houses

That one near the south end, as well as a business at the corner of Russell and West Browning, do not have access to the utility easement east of Russell so the city had to place a new section of water line beneath street to reach them. That is a reason for those awful, car-jaring holes in the 400 block of North Russell Speaking of the city's water department, I understand Glen Moon, the department superintendent, is operating on a tight budget. At least that is what he is telling some of the local residents Maybe it wouldn't be so tight if the water department would go back and collect all of those abandoned meter boxes in the front yards along that section of North Russell and reuse them, instead of spending the city's limited funds to purchase new ones There has been an abandoned meter box in my front yard for several years and another one is adjacent to my driveway, next to the curb. The metal covers are still good and I cannot see anything wrong with the concrete boxes. In fact, they look better than the one the water meter is in behind my back fence Surely, the water department personnel have enough spare time to remove the abandoned meter boxes so then can be used again.

Several weeks ago I mentioned the problem with some of the traffic lights having lengthy timing cycles — especially the one at the intersection of West Francis and North Frost, near the Gray County Courthouse One day recently, that time consuming delayer of traffic was showing red for all four directions. Talk about confusion late in an

Since writing previously about the traffic lights, I have discussed this problem with city officials.

They tell me the problem is that the antiquated light system utilized by the city is no longer manufactured and parts are not available. So, city personnel are trying to keep patching the controlling mechanisms much for the city's already tight budget, they report What I keep wondering about, are all of the lights necessary Surely the lights at Francis and Frost are no more important that the lights, still mounted on poles, at the intersection of West Foster and

Replacing the traffic lights would be expensive and would be too

Somerville which have been turned off for years. Couldn't the lights at other intersections be abandoned and the parts used to keep the remaining traffic signals working better? At some of the less important intersections, where traffic lights are abandoned, four-way stop signs could be installed — if needed One thing is for sure, it wouldn't be any more difficult to cross Francis on Frost than it is to cross Foster on Somerville.

Demos backing water plan

AUSTIN (AP) - Two proposed constitutional amendments needed to enact a $1.4 billion water plan approved this year by the Texas Legislature have won approval by the State Democratic Executive

The committee decided to back the amendments, which face voter review on the Nov. 5 general election ballot, in a unanimous vote with no discussion.

Ed Cogburn, resolutions committee chairman, said Saturday the plan is "fiscally sound and sensitive to the regional needs of the state.

Also Saturday, longtime state Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas said he will give up his seat next year to run for the Texas Supreme Court.

'The Supreme Court has a direct impact on the lives of every citizen of the state and I want to be a part of it," said Mauzy, a senator since Mauzy is seeking the Supreme Court seat now held by Democrat Sears McGee. He said he will run regardless of McGee's plans.

McGee says he "definitely" plans to seek re-election. During his years in the Senate, Mauzy has fought laws he felt could be intrusions on personal freedom, such as wiretapping.

"The Supreme Court is the last repository to protect the rights of the people of this state," said Mauzy Other candidates for statewide office, including Houston State District Judge Hugo Touchy, who also wants McGee's Supreme Court seat, incumbent Supreme Court Justice Raul Gonzalez and Victoria Sen. John Sharp, a Railroad Commission candidate. also spoke to the committee.

The committee also voted Saturday to stage the 1986 state party convention in Austin.

triggering wind gusts up to 82 mph.

It's easy to get so wrapped up in ourselves and what we're interested in that we fail to show people we care. Sometimes we're simply too impersonal.

Our Lord was not afraid to let people know how he felt. His dear friend, Lazarus, died. Jesus went to be with the man's two sisters. When Jesus saw Lazarus, it is written, "Jesus wept." Then those about him remarked, "See how he loved him!"

Don't be afraid to tell people you care; don't be afraid to show you care. Don't be afraid to share a tear or a smile. The man who changed the course of history for all time was not afraid for people to know that He cared.

Will Castro tell how to welsh?

Should there be any doubt that the world is a crazy place, consider the news that Simon & Schuster is negotiating with Fidel Castro to have the Cuban despot write three books. Well and good—Casto is a world figure and what he has to say might sell books. If the publisher is willing to shell out $1.3 million, as reported, that's the company's business.

The craziness is the subjects of Castro will address U.S. News and Wrold Report said that one book will address economics and the Third World and a second is to deal with religion. There are no details about the third

Here is the essence of Castro's economic acumen. At a meeting of Latin American radicals in Havana, he advised Latin debtor nations to refuse to pay their debts. Much of the more than $360 billion in debt is owned to U.S. banks through the International Monetary Fund. Casto said the portions of the debt owed to U.S. banks should be absorbed by the U.S. government and financed by defense spending cuts.

Peruvian President-elect Alan Garcia put Castro's advice in perspective when he said Castro has no business advising other nations on what to do about their debts, considering the vast amount of assistance Cuba receives from the Soviet Union, some of which is written off by the Soviets. "Cuba is part of another world," Garcia said.

The Peruvian leader said his country intends to begin paying off its $13.6 billion debt as soon as it economy improves.

He at least honors the responsibility of paying one's debt. Castro's treatise on economics in the Third World thus can be simply stated. Ignore obligations, welsh on your debts.

Don't blame trade deficit

There are very few things on which most economists agree - but one where there is now almost no disagreement is that a rise in U.S. protectionism would pose a serious threat to the U.S. and the world economy - and could easily bring on world-wide depression.

That, as President Reagan reminded us recently, was the very warning given to President Herbert Hoover on May 5, 1930, when 1,028 economists told him NOT to sign the Smoot Hawley Tariff bill - then speeding toward final passage. They warned that higher tariffs would kill far more jobs than they would "save" because total U.S. and world economic activity would be cut so drastically.

Unfortunately, Hoover didn't heed their advice, and on June 16, 1930, he signed the fateful bill that most economists, from left to right, now agree was the principal force in turning a fairly mild recession into a world-wide devastating

At the time of this bill's 1929 launching in Congress, the U.S. economy had an unemployment rate of 3.2 percent - but within two years of its passage, unemployment soared to 24

No wonder the Democrats who had joined the Republicans in pushing through this perfectly ghastly bill turned and ran against "Republican protectionism" in 1933 - and kept their free trade posture for the next fifty years.

Now, given the appalling failures of left-wing economic ideologies both here and the world around, it is easy to understand WHY the far left is so eager to use protectionism as a cover to push the U.S. and world economy into a depression without it, they have no political future. What is more surprising is how willingly the Republicans seem to be joining in this rush to economic disaster - like lemmings in pursuit of suicide. Indeed, besides the president, the only Republican showing real leadership on this issue is Rep. Jack Kemp (N.Y.). The rest are running for the tariff

Yet, there is absolutely no economic reason for such panic. The notion that all, or even a significant share of the 147,000 manufacturing jobs we have "lost" over the past twelve months is due to the trade deficit is simply fatuous.

If Congress is looking for the real culprit, it should haul Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker up to the Hill and ask him to explain why in April 1984, in a 10 percent growth economy, creating new jobs at 5 million a year, he suddenly shut the nation's money supply down for six months of ZERO growth. That, not the trade deficit, explains ALL of the job slump this year.

If you doubt this, cast your eyes over the attached table which shows how little relationship there has been between U.S. manufacturing employment and our "balance of trade" over the

Indeed, look carefully, and you will be stunned to observe that in our three "strongest" manufacturing world-trade year, 1979, 1980, and 1981, in which we ran maufacturing export SURPLUSES over imports of $4.4 billion, $18.8 billion, and $11.8 billion, total U.S. manufacturing employment FELL by 122,000, 665,000, and 643,000 jobs respectively - so a combined three-year manufacturing trade SURPLUS of $35 billion produced a combined three-year LOSS of 1,430-thousand manufacturing jobs.

Look again. From 1974 through 1977 we ran manufacturing trade surpluses every year, totalling $44.3 billion - and had a net four-year LOSS of 157-thousand manufacturing jobs.

Look again. In the 2.7 years from January 1983 to August 1985, we have run huge manufacturing trade deficits of $159.2 billion and we INCREASED manufacturing employment by 1,319 thousand.

In short, there is no credible evidence that the trade deficit is in any way responsible for any significant loss in jobs in this country.

On the contrary, the evidence is the opposite. Since 1980 we have created a total of more than 8-million new jobs - a job growth rate that dwarfs the growth rates of ALL the countries which now have trade surpluses with the U.S.

Canada, for example has a $20 billion trade surplus with the U.S. and an unemployment rate of 10.4 percent, with almost no significant job growth over the past four years. And Japan, with its huge 1984 $35 billion trade surplus with the U.S., created less than 10 percent of the new jobs created in the U.S. last year.

History proves that the balance of trade is a relatively insignificant factor in U.S. employment unless we start a trade war and shut down growth for the entire world economy.

Today in History

Today is Monday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1985. There are 92 days left in the year

Today's highlight in history Thirty years ago, on Sept. 30, 1955, actor James Dean, star of the films "Rebel Without a Cause," "East of Eden" and "Giant," was killed in the collision of his sports car with another automobile near Cholame, Calif. He was 24.

On this date: Ten years ago: Spanish Premier Carlos Arias Navarro denounced international protests over the execution of five terrorists and called on the Spanish people to unite behind the government.

Five years ago: Iran's spiritual leader, the Ayatollah Khomeini, rejected a truce call from Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, saying war between the two countries would continue "to the end."

One year ago: Italian police continued their round-up of organized crime suspects, described as one of the largest operations of its kind ever conducted.

Today's birthdays: Former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox is 70. Actress Deborah Kerr is 64. Actress Angie Dickinson is 53 Singer Johnny Mathis is 50. Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., is 49.

Educators' new challenge

The Soviets were first in space, remember.

When the Soviets scared us witless with their first Sputnik in 1957 American educators responded to our national chagrin. Pour on the coal! Bear down on the sciences! Teach trigonometry in junior high school! We've got to catch the Russians

We caught them and we passed them.

Now it is 1985 and our educators have a new

It is the Japanese who are overwhelming us with manufactured stuff at lower prices, seizing our world markets, drowning us in red ink. And our backsliding in productivity has happened simultaneously with a decade of diminishing quality in American education.

When the United States first began buying abroad more then it was selling abroad our easy excuse was to "blame the unions."

Today unions represent less than 30 percent of America's workers

Then who is to blame? Why can't we compete? Market Opinion Research International cornered the top men in the top industries in the top five industrial countries and asked them what

Almost unanimously they blamed "a shortage of qualified people." They did not blame high interest rates, they did not blame unions, they did not blame government

Each CEO said that his firm could multiply its effectiveness with "enough qualified people Peter Hyde, president of the Princeton laboratory which conducted this research, summarizes it: "We are simply not producing enough qualified people to use technology

It is not just the Western world. Japanese also, when they got fat, tended to get lazy. Japanese CEOs feel they are not producing enough skilled

But the continuing imbalance in world trade makes it plain that the United States has more to worry about in this respect than do they

Our education system must mobilize another decade of diligence in upgrading its product. Education Secretary Bill Bennett is trying to encourage excellence, needs public support

In the 1960s we made the scientific frontier exciting, inviting. Today we need somehow to do the same for computers, telecommunication, machine tools, organic chemicals, plastics, medical-scientific engineering and products maybe whole new sciences - which aren't even in the dictionary yet!

Before her neighbors in Valley Stream, N.Y., complete the hour commute to their jobs in the Big Apple. Carol D'Agostino is already at work. She's had her breakfast of an egg salad sandwich, snapped on her earrings and logged on to her at-home Through the miracle of electronics, she's in communication with her boss still bumper to bumper on the Grand Central Parkway. Ms. D'Agostino is a "telecomuter" working for Electronic Services Unlimited, a telework consulting arm of in Manhattan, while her neighbors are

She's a woman on the cutting edge of a dramatic change in America's work patterns. Whereas the Industrial Revolution drew people to places of employment, in the next century we're likely to see the work dispersed to where the people are.

Computer-equipped homes are being nicknamed "electronic cottages.

Already, 450 companies and 100,000 employees are said to be involved in telecommuting, and one futurist, Jack M. Nilles of the University of Southern California, predicts the number of people working at home on computers will double every year.

Telecommuting may have its biggest impact on women. Even now, the largest number of telecommuters are women, mostly in the insurance, banking and telephone fields. Linked to a central computer at the main office, the women are processing insurance claims, loan applications and other types of what used to be called "paper

Telecommuting is also opening new options for women. Here are some real-life examples:

A stenographer has clients around the country who dictate letters over the phone or send material that she assembles into reports on her word processor. Customers can then OK the letters and reports via electronic mail.

A vice president of a Philadelphia brokerage firm, making $130,000 year, telecommutes in jeans and clogs from her farm in Vermont.

 A computer programmer prefers to work at home to care for her 2year-old.

 An economist, who heads a bank's commodity analysis division, took a leave-of-absence for childbirth. With a home computer, she kept in touch with staff and clients; when she returned to work, she had hardly missed a step. Most women get into telecommuting if they already work for companies that are heavy computer users. Some firms experimenting with the at-home alternative are: American Express, New York Life Insurance, South Carolina Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Control Data, Minneapolis Honeywell, Mountain Bell Telephone and Best Western International. Carol D'Agostino, however, got into telecommuting for other reasons. She developed a metabolic disorder that prevents her from joining the rat race for long commutes and 10-hour work days.

She "attended" data-processing classes for homebound students offered by Queensboro Community College via telephone, and that led to her

"I'm fortunate that I can be selfsupporting despite my illness," she says. "I am also involved in a wave of the future and feel I'm growing in every direction.

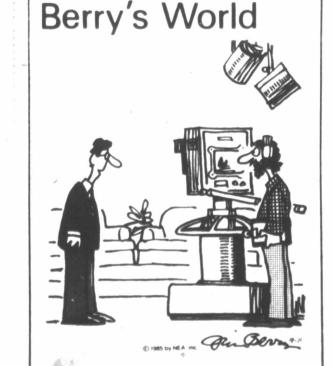

So far, the feedback from employers and employees is positive. Some unions are critical of telecommuting, probably because they know it's not easy to organize scattered workers. Labor leaders argue that at-home employees will get reduced benefits and 'piece work" pay.

If that threat is valid, there may be a day when such work will have to be federally monitored and/or regulated. Also, in this growing job area for women, we should be careful not to trade away any of the market value of our work for the convenience of pouring a cup of coffee in the kitchen and walking down the hall to our offices.

On the most-wanted list, Scutari's name replaced that of Gilbert James Everett, who was apprehended Aug. 12 in Bismark.

"Scutari, a former karate instructor, is reportedly armed with unlimited ammunition, weapons, and is known to use bulletproof vests," the bureau said in its announcement. "He has vowed not to be taken alive. Scutari should be considered armed and dangerous.

The FBI said Sterling had been undergoing treatment as a sexual psychopath when he escaped from the Washington mental institution.

"At the time of his escape, he was serving five consecutive life sentences for a brutal series of aggravated rapes and assaults which occurred in Clark County, Washington, in 1982," it said.

Jordan's King Hussein is pressing for arms deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jordan's King Hussein, holding talks today with President Reagan, is campaigning to win congressional approval of a $1.55 billion U.S. weapons package even though the outlook for peace talks with Israel

Tke king has declared his willingness to discuss peace terms with the neighboring Jewish state. But two of his conditions - an international conference and preliminary U.S. meetings with Palestinians who are approved by the Palestine Liberation Organization - are meeting stiff U.S. and Israeli resistance.

And yet, mindful of congressional opposition to the arms deal, Hussein made a speech last week to the United Nations declaring "we are prepared to negotiate" under Security Council resolutions that implictly accept Israel's right to exist

The speech seemed aimed, in part, at pacifying Israel's supporters in Congress and other critics of the proposed sale, which includes 40 advanced jet fighters.

At the same time, though, Hussein insisted the talks be held in an international conference, hosted by the United Nations and with the Soviet Union participating. Both the United States and Israel are opposed to involving the Soviets in the delicate negotiations.

There are no diplomatic relations between Moscow and Jersualem, and the Soviets have provided arms to Syria and other Arab countries hostile to Israel. U.S. policy since 1975 bars negotiations with the PLO until it accepts Israel's right to exist and the 1967 and 1973 U.N. Security Council resolutions.

deterrent against aggression."
U.S. and Jordanian officials contend Jordan faces a threat from Syria, especially as it moves toward the peace table.

An amendment adopted by Congress in June bars the sale of new advanced American weapons unless Hussein commits himself publicly to recognize Israel and to negotiate "promptly and directly" with his neighbor.

Blocking the arms deal would require a two-thirds vote in both the Senate and the House.

USDA reporting mixed success in combining agency operations

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -Reformers in the Agriculture Department say it would make sense and save taxpayer dollars if the government's various farm agencies joined in publishing a single newsletter for employees instead of each having its own.

Other steps of even greater importance are being considered by a "streamlining task force" to make USDA's far-flung agencies more efficient and less costly. No final recommendations have been announced, but some basic ideas are rapidly taking shape.

According to a working paper drafted over the last few months, five farm service agencies are the main target. Each reaches into virtually every one of the more than 3,000 counties in the United States.

The agencies are the Agricultural Stabilization and

Dear Abby

Forget about the windows; take cover in a tornado

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a regular reader of your column in the Cape Girardeau (Mo.) Bulletin Journal, in which I read a letter from a Texan asking about tornado information. Your advice to open two windows is no longer correct, according to Robert Hamilton, meteorologist-incharge, National Weather Service Forecast Office in St. Charles, Mo.

For many years, we also advised people that in the event of a tornado warning, to open a window (or windows) on the side of the structure away from the approaching storm.

However, in the last few years, we instruct people to stay away from windows, and immediately seek shelter in the basement, in a closet under a stairway or in any strong supporting structure.

Abby, also tell your readers never to try to ride out a tornado in a mobile home or vehicle. There is much more safety under a substantial structure, or in a ditch or culvert. Two-thirds of the persons killed in the Wichita Falls, Texas, tornado of '79 were trying to escape the storm

My parents live about an hour's drive from me, but in heavy traffic, it takes two hours each way. I visit them faithfully at least once a week-usually on the weekend. I also try to spend every holiday with them, but every time I go there, I'm asked why I don't come more often. They tell me I'm a selfish, ungrateful daughter who doesn't care about her lonely parents. I hear this lecture for the first 30 minutes I'm there. And when I start to leave, whether I've stayed for two hours or 10, they say, "You're leaving already? You just got here. You always have to rush off. Come back when you have more ae to visit.' Their constant complaining about how little time I give them makes me angry. I honestly do the best I can, but if they don't lay off, I won't visit them as much in the future as I have in the past. Please help me. I dread those visits home.

Helpers needed for food drive

Volunteers are being sought to help with the annual High Plains Food Bank drive scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 12, from 10 a.m. to Meg Parsons and Suzie Wilkinson, co-chairmen for the local Food Drive, said a door - to door collection of canned foods will be conducted by the volunteers.

Contributions of food will remain in Pampa and will be divided among Good Samaritan Christian Services, the Salvation Army, Meals on Wheels and Genesis

The food drive is supported by the Pampa Ministerial Alliance, with youth from the local churches helping in the collection.

Volunteers are needed to help collect the food, drive vehicles and transport the collected food. In addition, volunteers are needed to help sort the food as it is collected.

Groups or individuals interested in aiding the collection are asked to call Parsons or Wilkinson at 669-1021.

"Holding a local food drive entitles Pampa agencies to buy food from the Amarillo High Plains Food Bank at 10 cents a pound,' Wilkinson said.

This is the second year for the

The 1985 goal is 12,000 pounds, Wilkinson said. That will help to feed Pampa needy people during the winter months, she added.

"It is hoped that each home could donate at least one can of food and make this possible," she said.

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church has donated storage space for the food collected; from there it will be distributed to the agencies.

DEAR BRUCE - Three years ago, deeded over 50 percent of my condo minium to my son who was then 47 years old. I felt that he had had some bad breaks in life and wanted him to have half the condominium if anything happened to me.

Now, his situation and mine have both changed, and I would like to get his half of my condominium back so I can leave it to all my children — to share and share alike

But my son refuses to give it to me. He says that half of it is his, and he's going to keep it. He has ignored letters from my attorney. What can I do to get my property back? — C.J., FORT MYERS, FLA.

DEAR C.J. - Unfortunately, very little. Unless you can demonstrate (and are prepared to go to court to prove) that your son used undue influence on you and you didn't realize what you were doing, he owns half of the condominium.

You made a very unfortunate mistake. I can't imagine, however, why your son is being so stubborn in this matter. He should recognize that you have a right to change your mind.

But technically half the condominium belongs to him, unless he decides to sell his half or give it to you or to another person.

DEAR BRUCE - Could you explain land contracts to me? SPRINGFIELD, LA.

DEAR P.C. — In one short sentence 0.5 you've asked a question that could 0.5

take days to answer in detail. Essentially, a land contract or contract for deed allows one to "purchase" a piece of property while keep-ing the former owner's mortgage in place. It frequently allows the former owner to carry part of your mortgage? in his or her own name.

The problems with this arranges? ment are many. Often, there is a "due on sale" clause on the owner's mort? gage. Simply put, this means that if the bank learns of this arrangement, it a can call the mortgage or demand that, it be paid in full.

If the land contract is properly recorded, it will have standing in the courts, but there are many things that can go wrong. For example, the property remains in the former owner's name. If you make the payments to the former owner, and the former owner in turn makes the payments to the bank for interest, principal and taxes, all correspondence is directed to the former owner

You can imagine what happens if the former owner fails to make the payments. There is a very distinct possibility that you won't be aware that the payments haven't been made until foreclosure proceedings begin, and you may not be in a position to make up the deficiency at that point.

In many parts of the country, however, it is quite common to purchase under a land contract, and there are certain situations where it might be desirable. For a person who has gone through a bankruptcy and is simply unable to obtain conventional financing, for example, it is almost the only way to go.

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK IS OCT.

National 4-H Week, Oct. 6 to 12, reflects on the role of youth in shaping America

Some 350 4-H members in Gray County, part of the 180,000 members in Texas and nearly 4.5 million across the country, will participate in the week-long celebration using the theme "4-H For Youth, For America.'

What we do for our youth today, we do for America tomorrow. Through 4-H, young people can acquire knowledge and develop life skills that enable them to become self-directing, productive and contributing members of our society. Specifically, they learn good health habits, develop respect for themselves and others, explore career and leisure time opportunities, share responsibility for preserving the environment, learn how to use technology, and develop leadership and citizenship skills through participation in 4-H.

But 4-H is not only for youth. It's for adults, who as volunteer leaders, can share their skills and expertise with young people. It's for families, who can participate in the fun and learning together. It's

Cowboys' sack record barely bags Oilers

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys' defense sacked Houston quarterback Warren Moon a National Football League record-tying 12 times, intercepted four of his passes and recovered one of his fumbles.

Still, it took a 75-yard drive in the final two minutes, leading to a one-yard touchdown pass from Danny White to tight end Fred Cornwell, for the Cowboys to pull out a 17-10 victory Sunday.

Before improving their record to 3-1, the Cowboys had to overcome four missed field goals by Rafael Septien to score the winning touchdown with 1:47 left in the

'When you get the opportunities like we had today, you've got to cash in if you want to win, Cowboy running back Tony Dorsett, who set up the winning touchdown with a 31-yard run to the Oiler one-yard line.

"Our backs were to the wall. Someone had to come to the front and do something. Fortunately, it Dorsett rushed 23 times for 159 yards, going over 100 yards for the first time this season. White completed two touchdown passes the one to Cornwell and another a seven-yard score to Timmy relentless pursuit of Moon, including two interceptions by Ron Fellows and two sacks each by Victor Scott and Randy White, that provided the difference.

'This isn't the kind of team we had in 1981 and 1982," Danny White said. "That team depended on its offense. Now it's just the opposite. It's frustrating to see just 17 points on the scoreboard. We've got to rebuild our offense.

While the Dallas quarterback was worrying about points, Houston's Moon was more concerned about survival.

Only three other NFL games since 1966 have registered 12 sacks. Moon said there was no question the continual pursuit affected his performance.

"You get more worried about where the rush is coming from and you lose your rhythm," Moon said. The pressure certainly did bother me today. I can't say it didn't."

Newsome's touchdown catch held up for a 7-0 Cowboy halftime lead. After misses of 47, 33 and 36, Septien gave the Cowboys a 10-0 lead in the third quarter with a 35-yard field goal.

Houston, 1-3, came back with a 57-yard touchdown bomb from Moon to Drew Hill and Tony Zendejas' 33-yard field goal in the third quarter for a 10-10 deadlock.

Moon finished with 11 completions on 26 attempts for 215 yards.

"He took some shots and a few times he should have swallowed the ball," Dallas defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones said. "We showed them a lot of different looks and kept them guessing."

Moon had been decked seven times by halftime. He got a break from the banging with no sacks in the third quarter but the charge returned in the final period.

"We had to make a lot of adjustments," Moon said. "They had guys going through the gaps all the time. We did a better job in the second half.

Moon's sacks were for losses totaling 82 yards.

"I don't mind if I'm on the ground as long as I'm going forward," Moon said. By H AP S

Family feud to hit SWC

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

The Southwest Conference. which has one of its best intersectional records since the league was organized in 1914, gets down to four games of family feuding this week while Southern Methodist goes to Arizona to try to improve the league's gaudy 17-6 record.

Arkansas, which swept all of its intersectional matches, opens its season against the shell-shocked Texas Christian Horned Frogs, who are still reeling from a slush fund scandal and Saturday night's 56-21 crushing by SMU.

The game will be on regional television at 12:04 p.m. from Amon Carter Stadium in Fort Worth.

The Baylor Bears, fresh off a 31-0 trouncing of Texas Tech, travel to the Astrodome to play the Houston Cougars, who finally got on a winning track against Louisville.

Unbeaten Texas hosts Rice at Austin and the Texas Aggies are at Texas Tech in other SWC clashes.

Baylor is now the SWC leader because SMU is on probation and can't win the SWC title. However, the Mustang games against other league schools do count, such as the trouncing of TCU

"I certainly feel we should be ranked in the Top 20 now," said Baylor quarterback Tom Muecke, who threw a touchdown pass and ran for another score. "We beat Southern Cal and blanked a tough team in Texas Tech before traveling to Waco. It was Baylor's first shutout of an opponent in 44 games.

Indeed, the Red Raiders were 3-0

"I just hope we are as good as we played today," Muecke said.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff, who has loudly proclaimed his team isn't a second-division team like many experts picked, refused to go out on a limb himself when asked if Baylor should be ranked in Top 20.

'Not yet," he said. "Maybe in a few weeks if we keep improving." In other games Saturday, Texas held on to beat Stanford 38-34 in the first meeting between the two schools; Texas A&M compiled a school record 702 yards in blasting Tulsa 45-10; Houston got its first victory with a 49-27 slashing of Louisville; Arkansas remained unbeaten with a 45-13 crushing of New Mexico State; and Rice ended the nation's longest losing streak at 11 with a 29-28 victory over Lamar University of the Southland Conference.

In the SMU-TCU game, the Mustangs simply mangled the Horned Frogs, who were missing five starters on defense. Seven TCU players were recently dismissed after they admitted taking money from school

"We just got physically whipped," TCU Coach Jim Wacker "We had to play too many young kids. It was a great day for

It was SMU's 14th straight victory over the Horned Frogs.

A guy named Wilson and a no-name offensive line made forgettables of the powerful San Francisco 49ers for a day.

"It's not bad for a makeshift line," said tackle Ralph Williams, one of the key players for the New Orleans Saints in Sunday's upset 20-17 victory over the defending Super Bowl champion 49ers. "It's an awfully sweet victory.

The Saints lost three offensive line starters with injuries a week earlier. Their starters Sunday included left guard Pete Perot, signed last Monday as a free agent.

"I can't give them enough credit for the job they did," said quarterback Dave Wilson after outperforming his more heralded opposite number, San Francisco's Joe Montana, who was sacked six times and had two passes intercepted.

In action tonight, Cincinnati plays at Pittsburgh.

The Saints, who last beat the 49ers in 1982, recorded their winning TD when Wilson threw a 43-yard touchdown pass to Eugene Goodlow early in the fourth quarter.

A 79-yard San Francisco drive, ending with Roger Craig's two-yard touchdown run, gave the 49ers a 17-13 lead two minutes into the fourth period. But three minutes later, the Saints got the ball and scored on a three-play, 83-yard drive which began with Wayne Wilson's 38-yard run and ended with the TD pass to Goodlow.

Both teams came out of the game with 2-2 records. The 49ers lost only one game last season, going 15-1 in the regular season and 18-1 overall for an NFL record for wins.

'Nothing seemed to be working," said Montana, who completed only 12 of 26 passes for 120 yards. "It seemed like every defense they were in was just the Brigham Young were idle. If you're looking for a No. 1 coach, there's a tie at 323 victories between the late Bear Bryant and Eddie Robinson, who matched the Bear when Division I-AA Grambling State beat Pac-10 member Oregon State 23-6. Robinson likely will get No. 324 next weekend when the the Tigers meet Prairie View A&M in Dallas.

Lady Harvesters get district win

The Pampa Lady Harvesters won their first district volleyball match of the season over the weekend, coming from behind in the final game to knock off Lubbock Dunbar, 15-9, 15-17, 14-14.

Pampa was down 10-14 in the final game, but scored six straight points to take the victory. The win gives the Lady Harvesters at 1-1 district record. They travel to Perryton Tuesday night for their next game.

Coach Phil Hall praised the serving of Andrea Hopkins, the hitting of Irene Perez, setting of Amy Green and blocking of Taya Liddy as the keys to the late rally its match, 15-7, 15-6 Also this weekend, Pampa's eighth and ninth-grade volleyball teams won consolation trophies in

Dodgers 7, San Francisco 2 Pedro Guerrero hit a two-out single with the bases loaded in the fifth, driving in two runs for a 3-2 lead, and Mike Marshall hit his

25th homer in the seventh to bring in two more runs for Los Angeles.

The Dodgers were down 2-0 going into the fifth, but San Francisco shortstop Jose Uribe's one-out fielding error on a Steve Sax grounder up the middle opened the door for three unearned runs.

Bob Welch, 13-4, lined a single to right field, sending Sax to second. One out later, Ken Landreaux drove a single up the middle past second baseman Mike Woodard to drive in Sax.

Giants rookie Roger Mason, 0-3, walked Bill Madlock to load the bases and Guerrero singled to left. Reds 5, Astros 0

Jay Tibbs, who started the season as Cincinnati's No. 2 starter but went down to the minors after a 4-11 start, struck out seven and scattered five hits without a walk.

Tibbs, 10-15, says it was a three-week trip to Class AAA Denver that helped him regain his composure — he's 6-4 since being recalled Aug. 1. On Sunday, he retired 11 in a row at one point.

"I've pitched well since I've been back," he said. "I feel I'm more aggressive, challenging the hitters more. I've got my confidence

Buddy Bell drove in a pair of runs and Tibbs helped himself with an RBI single in the sixth inning. Braves 3, Padres 2

San Diego reliever Gene Walter walked Rafael Ramirez with the bases loaded in the ninth to force in the winning run. Milt Thompson reached base to open the ninth when Lance McCullers hit him with a pitch. He went to second when Brad Komminsk was safe on an error attempting to sacrifice, and both runners advanced when Albert Hall was intentionally walked. Kevin McReynolds hit his 15th homer for the Padres. Cubs 6, Phillies 2

Keith Moreland drove in two runs with a pair of two-out singles, extending his consecutive-game hitting streak to 18.

That matches teammate Ryne Sandberg for best in the National League this season.

WASHINGTON (AP) -White residents in the nation's capital, unlike other urban areas, are victims of violence nearly twice as often as blacks, according to a government report.

The report by the Bureau of Justice Statistics found that 110.2 whites per 1,000 were victims of crimes of viovence, compared with 57.4 blacks per 1,000. The period under study was May 1981 to April 1983 and the crimes included assault and robbery but not murder.

From 1977-81, the nationwide victimization rate for violent crime was 42.9 per 1,000 for blacks. compared to 33.1 per 1,000 for whites.

Investigators probing wreckage

JENKINSBURG, Ga. (AP) — A single-engine plane packed with 16 parachutists that crashed shortly after takeoff killing the pilot and all of the passengers had been grounded two days earlier by federal inspectors because of contaminated fuel, officials said.

It was not known if the problem had been corrected before Sunday's fatal flight or if it could have caused the crash, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said

The single-engine Cessna 208
Caravan made a normal takeoff from the grass airstrip owned by the West Wind Sport Parachute
Center, then crashed about 12:30 p.m. in a pasture less than a mile away.

The plane "was apparently climbing out after taking off and a witness stated that the engine stalled," said Preston Hicks, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator.

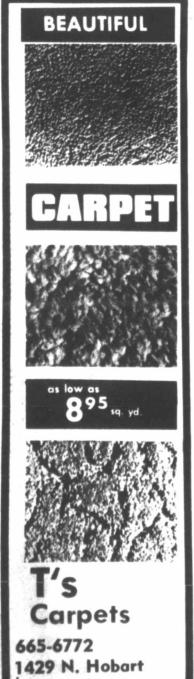

The crash scene "just didn't look real - bodies on top of bodies." said David Aukerman, owner of the horse farm 50 miles south of Atlanta where the plane went down. "It looked really like mannequins. When we walked up, we just knew the'wy alive.'

The contamination was found in a pre-fligt check by a FAA inspector at Atlanta's DeKalb-Peachtree Airport, where the plane was based, said FAA spokesman Roger Myers.

"They all agreed - the chief mechanic, the owner-operator (of the plane) and the pilot that the plane was unairworthy," Myers said. A sign was put on the plane indicating it had been grounded, he said But Myers said it was not known if anything was done to correct the problem before Sunday's flight. Myers said the fuel problem would be checked as a possible cause of the crash, but refused to say if fuel contamination could have caused the plane's engine to stall.

Heckler states case to Reagan WASHINGTON (AP) - Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler, whose management ability and loyalty to conservative ideals are being questioned by top administration officials, is meeting at her request with President Reagan to discuss her future.

Her critics, reportedly led by White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan, want her removed as ambassador to Ireland.

If offered the Dublin post, Mrs. Heckler would "make an appropriate decision," an aide to the secretary said. The meeting was scheduled for
