Force would be justified, Shultz says

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States would be justified under international law to use military force against Libya to stop terrorist strikes against Americans, Secretary of State George P. Shultz said.

'A nation attacked by terrrorists is permitted to use force to prevent or preempt future attacks, to seize terrorists or to rescue its citizens when no other means is available," Shultz told a Pentagon-sponsored "Conference on Low-Intensity Warfare

Other conference speakers, including Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and former U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, agreed that Washington should use military force, along with diplomatic and economic means, to defend itself and its allies against Soviet-sponsored terrorists and insurgents.

Shultz, who has strongly advocated the use of force against terrorism, said international law, as set forth in such documents as the United Nations Charter, countenances the use of force in self-defense

He referred repeatedly to Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy, accused by President Reagan of training and harboring the terrorists who attacked the Rome and Vienna airports last month.

"To let ourselves be deterred by Khadafy's threats from doing what is needed to stop him will only establish in his mind, and in the mind of other fanatics, that the scheme has worked." Shultz said.

Earlier Wednesday, the U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga joined the carrier Coral Sea in Mediterranean Sea, where, two days before, Libyan MiG25 jets had shadowed a Navy surveillance plane in international airspace.

Shultz, who did not refer to the air encounter, told the Washington conference that "it is absurd to argue that international law prohibits us from capturing terrorists in international waters or airspace, from attacking them on the soil of other nations even for the purpose of rescuing hostages, or from using force against states that support, train and harbor terrorists or guerrillas.

Weinberger had struck a equally tough tone Tuesday night in remarks opening the two-day conference, calling for actions to roll back expanding Soviet influence and curb terrorism.

As defined by Shultz, low-intensity warfare is "the scourge of terrorism worldwide; the struggle for Nicaragua between the Democratic resistance and the Communist regime; it is the insurgencies against the Soviet and Cuban intervention in Angola and Ethiopia; the civil war and terrorism in Lebanon; our rescue operation in Grenada and the Cambodia resistance against the Vietnamese occupation; it is the heroic struggle of the Afghan people against Soviet aggression and occupation.

Rebate check shows sales down slightly in November

By LARRY HOLLIS

Based on the first sales tax rebate check of the new year. Pampa's retail sales and services for November dropped slightly in comparison with comparable 1984

State Comptroller Bob Bullock last week sent checks totaling $53.2 in local tax payments to the 1,017 cities levying the one percent local

The January checks represent taxes collected on sales made in November and reported to Bullock by Dec. 20. Although the checks represent sales made two months previously, the state Comptroller's office keeps its records on a calendar year basis on the month the checks are sent out

Thus, though the sales were made in November and reported in December, the checks were sent out in January. The Comptroller's office considers the November sales tax collections as the first check for the new year in its reporting system.

Pampa received a check this month for $100,309.54, representing taxable sales and services of approximately $10 million in November That's 3.01 percent less than the January, 1985, check for $103,422.14 for sales of $10.3 million.

The city ended 1985 with an increase of 3.81 percent over 1984 figures, based on Bullock's monthly reports.

Another of the two Gray County than the $9,597.21 check in the fared slightly better in the first report of the year.

McLean had a check this month for $895.27, a 2.94 percent increase over the previous January check for $869.66. The city ended 1985 with a 15.94 percent decline from 1984

Lefors had no check this month nor last January, with Bullock listing no comparable figures for the city. Lefors was showing a 15.20 fall-off at the end of last year

For the first report of the year, two Carson County cities were showing increases

Bullock sent Groom a January check for $1,389.04, more than $500 above the January, 1985, check for $884.91. That represents a 56.97 percent hike in sales, based on Bullock's reporting system. In December Groom was listed with a 1.97 percent decrease for last year.

White Deer received a check for $604.02, a 2.40 percent rise above last January's payment of $589.84. White Deer ended 1985 with a 19.33 percent drop.

Skellytown, however, showed a decrease. The city had a check this month for $1,124.54, falling 18.24 percent below the previous January payment of $1,375.38 Skellytown was registering a 24 22 percent dip for 1985 in Bullock's previous report

In Hemphill County, Canadian received a January payment of $8,656.52, approximately $940 less previous January a fall of 9.80 percent, according to Bullock. The city was listed with a 12.36 percent decline for 1985

The state sent Roberts County city Miami a check this month for $723.91, about $235 under the $958.07 payment the city had last January. Bullock listed Miami with a 24.44 percent decline for the first month of the year, comparable to the 25, 17 percent decrease the city recorded

In Wheeler County, Bullock listed Mobeetie as plummeting 100 percent in sales for the first report of the year. But the city received no check this month in comparison with a January, 1985, payment of $665.94. Mobeetie ended 1985 with a 48.70 percent drop from 1984 totals. Based on Bullock's reports, Wheeler fared much better. The state sent the city a January check for $2,679.61, just over $1,600 more than the $2,075.09 payment for the previous January, representing a 29.13 percent jump. Wheeler was listed with a 7 percent decline for

In Hutchinson County there was a wide variance among the cities collecting the local sales tax.

After ending 1985 with an 11.11 percent increase, Borger received a check this month for $66,644.89, a 19.14 percent drop from January, 1985, according to Bullock, But Fritch, with a payment of $8,797,14. was listed with a 228.01 percent hike, and Stinnett was recording a 59 02 percent jump after a payment of $3,791.43.

County balks on fire pact

BY PAUL PINKHAM

A fire service proposal by the city of Pampa has left Gray County officials feeling burned.

But, in the hopes of dousing their differences with the city they have directed County Judge Carl Kennedy to set up a meeting with the city commission.

At issue is the 1986 fire service contract proposed by the city, which calls for a 41 percent increase in the contracted amount for fire runs into the county by city fire crews. The new contract also contains mileage, time and equipment limitations beyond which the county would be charged additional fees

Wednesday, the county commissioners voted to extend the existing contract until an agreement can be reached on the proposed one. Under the existing 1985 agreement, the county is billed $532 per fire run.

That would increase to $750 per run under the proposed contract. The new contract also establishes: - a 30 - mile limit, beyond which the county will be charged $10 per mile; - a two - hour time limit, after which the county will be charged an additional $100 per hour, and; - a stipulation that two pieces of equipment and three fire personnel be used on county runs. The county would be charged half the total fee if more equipment were needed. City Manager Bob Hart defende the proposed contract Tuesday. claiming it reflects what the city calculates its costs to be and noting the rising cost of liability insurance and overtime liability. He pointed to city records showing 24.8 percent of the city's fire runs are made into the county while the county contributes 4.6 percent of the city fire budget. County records show the city makes about 100 runs into the county every year.

Hart said he feels the city will break even with the new contract. But the county commissioners disagree

'I wouldn't be in favor of signing this contract," Commissioner Ronnie Rice said, summing up the mood of Wednesday's meeting

"I think the city's just gotten kind of excited about the new agreement and we just need to sit down with them and try to be reasonable," Kennedy said. "We have to keep in mind that the city has reasons for proposing what they've proposed been led to believe that the city is questioning what Gray County has done for it

"If we want to stop and look at what the county has done for the city of Pampa - not necessarily paying for all the fire runs - but the list is a mile long," he said "They've got the equipment, sure, but we've got the airport and the hospital that we're responsible

He added that the majority of the users of those facilities are Pampa residents

Kennedy also complained about stipulation that the county pay half the replacement cost of any equipment lost during a county run. He said it puts the county in the position of having to pay for an error in judgement or an equipment malfunction

Commissioner Ted Simmons suggested the possibility of setting up a small fire station outside the city, staffed by a full - time employee and volunteers.

"I hate to get into it but at this price I don't know what we might consider looking at it anyway." he

Kennedy said the commissioners need to look into the "perils of liability insurance" associated with such a move

Another suggestion, made by Rice, was to continue to contract with Lefors, McLean and Pampa but only use the Pampa department when absolutely necessary to keep costs down

Commissioner O.L. Pressley said the Lefors volunteer department does not charge for false runs, such as smoke scares, like the Pampa department does The county's contract with Lefors amounts to about $10,000 per year. while the contract with McLean is about $9,500.

Commissioner Gerald Wright said he had spoken to other county officials about their contracts with cities. He said in a number of cases, a company responsible for a fire must pay for it. He added many insurance companies will pay for fire calls to rural homes.

'Some of this money can be recovered and a lot of the counties are doing it," he said. "I'm not saying we're going to get 100 percent but we're going to get a good portion of recovery

Kennedy said in the past, the city has not been responsive to county proposals that those responsible for fires should pay for them or that a lower charge be assessed for false alarms.

MIAMI - While Gray County argued with the city of Pampa over an increase in fire service fees. Roberts County Commissioners felt it was to their best interest to

At their regular meeting Monday, the Roberts County Commissioners accepted Pampa's 1986 fire service contract, which calls for a 41 percent increase from $535 to $750 - in the contracted amount for fire runs into the county by city fire crews.

Roberts County Judge Newton Cox said that although commissioners were upset by the increase and the additional charges, they felt they had no other choice but to accept.

Cox said the county depends on the Pampa Fire Department to handle fires in the southwest part of the sparsley populated county.

'There's a lot of road to cover in that area, and a lot of fields would burn up before we got there," he said, adding that the Pampa department usually takes care of fires along State Highway 70 between the Gray-Roberts County line and the Canadian River, 30 miles to the north. Pampa has gone north of the Canadian River, but usually Perryton fire fighters take care of that area

Commissioners also agreed to let the city of Miami conduct its April 5 election at what is now the county jail. Until October, the city shared the city-county building with the sheriff's office but had to move out when the jail was expanded. Commissioners discussed putting the voting booths in the garage of the Volunteer Fire Department, which is at the same address.

Commissioners moved the precinct ballot box from the Wayside Schoolhouse north of Pampa to the Miami High School football field. Cox said notices of the change were sent to the residents of the rural Wayside are a apologizing for the inconvenience.

Commissioners agreed to have Wallace Monument Co. of Clarendon inscribe the names of four World War II veterans, 11 Korean veterans and 54 Vietnam veterans on the Veterans' memorial marker on the courthouse front lawn. Cox hopes-

Nuclear proposal

Soviets say latest offer would eliminate all nuclear arms by year 2000

MOSCOW. (AP) - Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev appealed to all nations with nuclear arms to eliminate them in stages by the year 2000, but President Reagan said the new Soviet proposal still includes positions the United States finds worrisome.

Gorbachev's plan was made public in a statement read on Soviet television Wednesday night, the eve of the resumption of superpower arms talks in Geneva.

'Mankind is at a crucial stage of the new Space Age, and it is time to abandon the thinking of the Stone Age, when the chief concern was to have a bigger stick or a heavier stone," said the statement from Gorbachev unveiling the three-stage disarmament plan.

Gorbachev also announced the Soviet Union will extend its unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests, which expired at the end of 1985, for another three months, and repeated the Kremlin's call on the United States to join.

The official news agency Tass said Gorbachev sent a message today to a meeting of scientists and cultural workers in Warsaw. Poland, seeking support for his proposal and urging them to spread the "truth about terrible consequences of a nuclear conflict.'

His proposal is the first in which the Kremlin calls on the United States and Soviet Union to scrap their medium-range missiles in Europe without tying the process to simultaneous removal of French and British missiles.

However, Gorbachev linked the first stage of the plan, which also calls for a 50 percent cut in the superpowers' strategic missile arsenals, to U.S. and Soviet renunciation of space weapons. The United States has refused Soviet demands that it end "Star Wars" research into space-based missile defenses, and contends the program is purely Reagan said in Washington, "I welcome the Soviets' latest responses and hope that it represents a helpful further step in the (arms control) process. We, together with our allies, will give careful study to (Communist Party) General Secretary Gorbachev's

"Many elements contained in the response are unchanged from previous Soviet positions and continue to cause us serious concern. There are others that are first glance may be constructive," Reagan said, without elaborating.

Skellytown approves new fire building

BY PAUL PINKHAM Staff Writer

SKELLYTOWN - The city moved a step closer to a new fire building Tuesday night as the council approved proceeding with the $19,900 project

But the council also voted to wait several months before beginning construction. Fire Chief Vance Griffith said the $19,900 cost is a discount available until April

The new building will be constructed at the City Hall complex and will be used by the fire department and city maintenance workers. Griffith said the new building will provide more room for both departments. particularly the fire department, which, he indicated, is cramped for space in which to park rescue equipment

The new building could eventually help the city's fire insurance rating by improving the parking situation for emergency vehicles at the fire station. In other action, April 5 was set as the election date for city offices. Council members Edna Chaney, Bill Stephenson and Neil McBroom are up for re - election. The filing period for city offices

Chamber board is reorganized

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce board of directors approved changes in several director positions necessitated by the recent resignation of Steve Jones, first vice president, who has moved from Pampa.

Meeting Wednesday morning, the board appointed Norman Knox, administrator at Coronado Community Hospital, as first vice president, moving him up from the second vice president position.

Director Bob Chambers, manager of Alco Discount Store, was named as second vice president

Herb Smith, manager of Lights and Sights, was appointed to fill the remaining 21/2 - year period of Jones' director position. Smith had been serving a one year term under the appointment of President Bill Duncan.

The board selected Richard Barbour, manager of Wal -Mart Discount City, to fill out Smith's remaining nine months of his appointed term.

In other matters, Mike Keagy of Keagy - Edwards, Inc., was named as chairman for the Country Fair. Committee appointments included Dr. Louis Haydon as co - chairman of the Industrial and Community Relations Committee and Jimmy Clark of Security Federal Savings and Loan Association as co - chairman of the Membership Committee.

explained that the project is a series of improvements placed on private property to control water run - off and the erosion of topsoil. He called the project a service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture to preserve land for future generations.

Kennedy said it would be reasonable to assume the project will improve property values of land where the sites are located.

Because the sites are on private property, the commissioners also had to approve a supplemental easement agreement with landowners, which they did. McDonnell said the easements in this case are essentially a right to build and maintain the dams.

The easement agreement will now be sent to the state Soil and Conservation office for approval, Kennedy said.

In other action, the commissioners:

- directed Kennedy to draw up a resolution supporting Hansford County in its efforts to prohibit a toxic waste dump from being built near Gruver and present the resolution for consideration at the Jan. 31 meeting

- approved the 1986 holiday schedule. Courthouse holidays include: Good Friday, March 28; Texas Sesquicentennial, April 21; Memorial Day, May 26; Independence Day, July 4; Labor Day, Sept. 1; Thanksgiving, Nov. 27; Christmas, Dec. 25 and 26; and New Year's Day, Jan. 1 and 2.

- named Roberta D. Schimdt, 405 Lowry, Charlotte Delores Cooper, 1001 N. Sumner, and Dorothy L. Roth, 2201 N. Sumner, to the salary grievance committee, which also includes county officials. Kennedy said the committee is a state requirement but has never had to meet since it was set up in the '70s. The names were drawn from 1985 grand jury

Canadian school budget hike expected to be lower

CANADIAN - Superintendent Jim Pollard expects another budget increase for the 1986-87 school year, but he told trustees that it won't be as big as in recent

In an annual budget forecast he gave the school board Tuesday at their regular meeting, Pollard said he expects the school to spend about $150,000 annually in its budget over the next two years. However, since state education reforms went into effect in 1984, the school budget has increased $200,000 annually, he said, anticipating a budget of between $4.8 million and $5 million.

Pollard said that trustees will examine the forecast and meet back with him at the next meeting to tell him what to do with the budget.

He attributed the budget increase to the state mandates that are coming into effect. Decreases in state funding will make little difference to the district because it is "minimal as it is," Pollard said, adding that the school gets $200,000 per year in state funds.

He also expected property values to be down, but not that much. How much the budget will be

Groom approves new roof for gym

GROOM - School trustees decided Monday to finish a roofing project by seeking bids for roof repair on the gymnasium.

Superintendent Rex Peeples said the district would have to let bids for a roofing contractor to do the project, which he estimates will cost about $10,000. A bid letting date has not yet been set.

The school recently spent $50,000 to replace the roof over the rest of the school.

Chairwoman Peggy Rosson said the company, which claims Texas losses of $45 million in 1985, did not prove it needed a penny more. She also opposed the level of business service rate hikes needed to cover the toll call reduction.

'I'm very concerned about raising other costs so rapidly, 145 percent in one fell swoop," said. "The very small reduction in basic long distance does not outweighthat sufficiently."

The increase also includes higher prices for operator help.

The 2.5 percent cut covers intrastate long distance calls of 106 miles or more.

Company spokesman Phil Bode said the $53.4 million hike is not enough. The company wanted $114.5 million.

'We didn't come here asking for the amount we asked for because we didn't need it. It's less than we asked for and we're disappointed," Bode said.

Commissioners Dennis Thomas and Jo Campbell outvoted Ms. Rosson and approved the hike.

The increase will come from increases of up to 145 percent for outgoing WATS and private line service, a $1.05 charge for operator assistance on credit card calls up from 35 cents - and a $1.55 charge for operator help on station-to-station calls - up from

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -An 87-year-old nursing home patient died of colon cancer, the spreading of that disease, the effects of a stroke, heart disease and general old age, the woman's doctor testified in the trial of the nursing home.

Dr. Weldon Kolb testified Wednesday he found no evidence that infection or starvation caused the death of Elnora Breed.

The woman died Nov. 20, 1978, at an Autumn Hills nursing home in Texas City.

Kolb, who practices in La Marque, said he treated Mrs. Breed for 27 years up until the time she was admitted to Autumn Hills. Autumn Hills Convalescent

Protestors, some chained to buses, delay transit service

DALLAS (AP) - About 20 demonstrators hoped to tie their struggle for handicapped rights to the civil rights movement by blocking two downtown streets with wheelchairs and chaining themselves to buses on Martin Luther King's birthday.

While the four-hour protest over the lack of buses with wheelchair lifts succeeded in calling attention to the problem, it also agitated non-disabled citizens who called to ask police to arrest the protestors who were mostly from out of state.

Seventeen people were arrested on a misdemeanor charge four hours after they began creating havoc Wednesday by jamming traffic and delaying bus service, police spokesman Bob Shaw said.

The streets were cleared in time for rush hour traffic. George Cooper of Irving was the last to be arrested, as police used chain-cutters to unchain his wheelchair from a bus about 4:40

The protestors had wanted to remain in place until midnight in honor of King because they considered their plight to be a matter of civil rights.

"This day really is symbolic because of Martin Luther King's birthday," said Bob Conrad of Denver, shortly before he was put in a police car and driven away.

Now, I'm more than willing to admit I'm not the most exciting person to have around at some parties, nor am I the most knowledgeable person you're likely to meet. But I can think of a number of times in which my life has been expanded and my knowledge broadened because I've tried something new or looked at something in a different perspective. Sometimes it's been a result of self - willingness, at other times a result of being shamed into doing something or at still other times simply a result of having to do something I wasn't excited about doing in the beginning. While a junior in high school, my English class was assigned to read Moby Dick. I picked it up, read the first 30 or so chapters, then put it down; I had found it to be one of the most boring books I had And when a junior in college, I found myself faced with having that book thrust upon me again in a class. But this time, before we were assigned the book, the teacher took one class period to go over a few sections of the book and explain to us what Melville was trying to I reluctantly picked up the book the next day — and I found it to be one of the most exciting books I had ever read, just packed with action, humor, thought, ideas and explorations. I've read it twice Call me informed. While serving in the Army in Germany, I had a few friends that kept asking me to play racquetball with them. I avoided the invitations, knowing I would probably look like a fool. Believe me, sports has not been one of my biggest accomplishments. I had spent many years being one of the last ones picked while choosing up sides for basketball, baseball and similar activities.

Finally I acceded to their requests and went one night. And went back other nights. And in a few weeks I was playing the game and actually enjoying it. Sure, I stumbled around awhile, banged my elbow against the wall, hit myself in the head or leg a few times, or hit one of my opponents

But I learned I could play well enough to actually score a few points, and over the years I have won some games. And while I'm certainly not much of a challenge to many racquetball players, I find it to be good, invigorating exercise. And I developed some pride and self - accomplishment in finding some sport that I could enjoy. I even bought my own racquet, though it's been in my closet for three or so

I enjoyed music classes all through school in Pampa and learned to appreciate a wide range of music, from folk songs to rock 'n' roll to jazz to musicals and even classical. Most classical stuff, anyway; I just couldn't handle opera with all the screeching and the players all singing together in a jumbled mess of a foreign language. But in later college studies I was required to attend a number of foreign language films - with subtitles - in a class. No problem there; I enjoy a number of foreign films, even the arty ones

Then came an opera, The Magic Flute. It was directed by Ingmar Bergman, one of my favorite directors. Still, I approached it warily, prepared to be thoroughly bored even if it was a Bergman film. But because of the subtitles, I at least could keep up with the plot.

And I found it to be an enjoyable, even delightful film. In fact, I have caught it several times since, and I hope to be able to see it again some time. And I found myself attending other filmed operas Don Juan, The Medium - and watching a few PBS operation productions. Opera ain't really all that bad, though I admit I've yet to buy an album of one.

Over the years there's been other opportunities I've accepted, even relatively small things such as actually eating escargot (snails) and mountain oysters (both fairly good, really); learning to operate a self - service gasoline pump after years of dependency on a service station attendant (easy once you learn how to do it); and going on hiking, camping, mountain climbing and river tubing activities (some great, some not so great experiences there)

And I've learned there's some things I can easily do without, after trying them: Brussels sprouts, most country - western music, Dijon mustard, another Rocky movie and such dances as the waltz, samba

I don't want to grow old and find my only activity is watching television while sitting in a rocking chair.

Music industry bill hits a sour note

America's music industry contends that home taping of copywrighted music robs songwriters, performers and record companies of nearly $1.5 billion. Its answer is to ask Congress for a special tax on the sale of tape recorders and blank tapes.

Although the record industry unquestionably loses some sales to home taping, there is reason to doubt that the loss amounts to $1.5 billion. Recording equipment manufacturers, who ought to know, vigorously challenge that figure. They point out that, even through sales of records, tapes and tape recorders increased sharply during the last three years, blank tape sales grew by only a small percentage.

Nevertheless, legislation pending in both the House and Senate would impose royalty fees on the sale of blank tape and tape recorders

The Senate bill would levy a tax of 5 percent on the wholesale price of most tape recorders. The House versions calls for 10 percent. In addition, both would impose a 25 percent tax on dual-cassette recorders and a one cent per minute fee on high quality recording tapes.

These proposed fees are a form of costly and indiscriminate taxation that would punish millions of American consumers for the sins of a few

Record companies and artists are entitled to copyright protection and full compensation for their work. But they already have this protection. Songwriters, recording artists and record companies receive royalties whenever their songs are performed or their records played or

To be sure, when someone buys a record album and then records it on a cassette tape, no second royalty is paid. But this is no different from a reader making a photocopy of copyrighted programs on video tape. Should Congress enact roalty fees for photocpoiers and copy paper? Of course not. Nor should it impose such fees on tape recorders and tapes. The Supreme Court supposedly resolved this issue last year when it ruled that viewers did not violate copyright laws by video-taping television shows for their personal use. Why should audio-taping be treated any differently? The answer, of course, is that it should not.

Your bureaucracy at 'work'

BY GEORGE H. ROCHE

You may have noticed the proliferation of brakelights in car windows over the past year, and it may even strike you, as it does me, that the rear window is a silly place for an extra brakelight, not to mention it being ugly. We all got along for decades with lights on the bumpers or fenders, and most of us managed to figure out when the car ahead was slowing down or stopping, and not run into it. But some bureaucrat in the Department of Transportation decided that we're all too boneheaded to notice the existing lights, and made up a rule that says all new cars must come equipped with another one.

According to the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, the redundant brakelamp costs $27.42 per car. With American manufacturers expected to build some 7.5-million vehicles in 1986, this silly regulation will cost buyers of American cars more than $203 million this year - and when imports are factored in, the cost to consumers easily tops $300 million. Its a far cry from the $4 to $7 per car the Department of Transportation predicted when they announced the new rule; but they don't really know much about building cars. It gives "idiot lights" a whole new meaning.

That is the nature of bureaucracy. Why is it that desk-drivers in Washington always seem to know better than the average citizen or, in this case, automobile engineer, what is good for us?

Undoubtedly, given a couple of years, the Department of Transportation (DOT) will cook up some statistics to justify the rule - bureaucrats

A wise man once said, "There are lies, damn lies, and statistics." Statistics are the language of bureaucracy, existing primarily to justify it.

Unlike private industry, which operates on the stark objectivity of profit and loss, the bureaucracy has no real product, and so can only cook up statistics to show supposed benefits of agencies and regulations.

In business, if you make a profit, you win everyone gets a paycheck and can buy groceries and cars and things. If, on the other hand, you lose money, you eventually have to close up shop and look for other work. But the bureaucracy can have no such hard-and-fast results without a product. In this sense, the bureaucracy is diametrically opposed to free enterprise.

The promotion structure in business is based on merit, but in the bureaucracy it is based on such non-merit standards as seniority. Business rewards those who are the most innovative and work the hardest. Bureaucracy rewards those who least rock the boat and put in the most time. So an incompetent boob with ten years of seniority is often promoted over an intelligent, hard-working individual with five years experience. Short of embezzlement, it is almost impossible to get fired from government. Put in twenty-five years on the job, manufacture some statistics along the way, and collect retirement. This is not the way to encourage efficiency - in fact, it encourages just the opposite, the kind of thinking that has given us an ugly new brake light in our car windows.

No one even knows how many such rules and regulations there are - there are simply too many to count, and certainly no one has read them all. Here are just a few examples of the bureaucracy at "work" In an effort to help the rare and endangered Kirtland warbler by clearing away some brush, the U.S. Forest Service set fire to the bird's nesting area and burned out 25,000 acres.

When the Army Corps of Engineers built two outhouses in Minnesota, they were engineered "to meet federal environmental guidelines." They were four-holers, with no heat or water, and cost $25,000 each. Must've been some pair of outhouses.

In 1973 the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) forced a recall of glue in aerosol cans - a product almost indispensable to graphic artists, who use it for paste-up - because the agency discovered that aerosol glue can cause birth defects if eaten by pregnant women. Well, you know how pregnant women get cravings.

And I sure wouldn't sleep nights if our government had not spent $121,000 on a study of why people say "ain't." If that ain't a boneheaded way of spending our tax dollars, I don't know what

All of this might be mildly amusing trivia if our government wasn't spending our money, and playing fast and loose with our freedoms in the

The size of the government today is far beyond anything our Founding Fathers ever saw in their worst nightmares. They led a revolution against a far less-encroaching British bureaucracy. What would Jefferson, Franklin, and Washington do

Many in Congress have told us we need a tax increase to pay for all this government we have supposedly demanded. It apparently does not occur to them to simply cut regulation, cut bureaucracy, and restore government of, by, and for the people. But no doubt some bureaucrat would cook up statistics on why we cannot govern

In most countries to our south, the role of an army is that of a scourge. Rarely have the professional soldiers been called upon to defend their countries. Historically they have served primarily as instruments of internal repression, on their own initia-tive or at the behest of wealthy elites. They have been laws unto themselves, not controlled by, but usually controlling, civilian governments where such

The role of the United States in making Latin armies what they are is considerable. To start with there is the weaponry, for which the Pentagon is far and away Latin America's primary supplier. But more telling in the long run is the training supplied by the United States.

For four decades the leadership of most Latin military establishme has been shaped by the U.S.-operated School of the Americas, located until very recently at Fort Gulick in the Panama Canal Zone. The school became an incidental casualty of the 1979 treaties, which transferred title to the canal and authority in the zone to Panama. When the two governments could not agree on conditions for the school's continuation in Panama, the American faculty packed up and went home.

But between 1947, when it was established, and October 1984, when the flag was lowered for the last time at Fort Gulick, it had turned out more than 45,000 graduates from every Lat-

Four Lufkin schools have the program, and two more are expected to have it soon.

"The first 'act of reading' encountered by early writers is reading back the words they have written on paper. Students soon understand that the words and sentences they see on paper is 'talk' written down. They then understand that reading has meaning."

Katie's Writing to Read teache Candace Faison, said most students on entering school will say they can't read, but that they can write, even if it's just scribbling.

the Texas Hunger Act, says a Harvard University report that upset some Texas local officials may have pinpointed the wrong areas, but could help draw attention to hunger needs in the Parmer joined forces

AUSTIN (AP) - Sen. Hugh

Parmer, D-Fort Worth, author of

Wednesday with the Anti-Hunger Coalition in discussing the controversial report at a Capitol news conference.

"Hunger is a most serious problem in some areas of Texas," Parmer told the news conference.

There is minor disagreement with the Harvard report on the counties where hunger needs are heaviest but there is no disagreement that many Texans go to bed hungry each night," Parmer

"I disagree with the selection of a number of the counties, including Brazos County, the home county of U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, (R-Texas)," said Parmer.

Officials differ on effect

Parmer said the largest hunger problems in Texas exist in the Rio Grande Valley, in the Gulf Coast region where there is heavy unemployment because of the decreased oil and gas enonomy, and in the low-income areas of Texas' large cities.

"The Harvard University report concurs with the finding of the Texas Legislature that there is a significant problem with hungry people in our state," Parmer said. There is minor disagreement in those counties most heavily impacted

'The report released by Harvard has created confusion regarding the degree of hunger in Texas and is at the same time drawing attention from the fact that food of Harvard hunger report be reduced further because of the new budget-balancing law that oes into effect soon," Norma Plascencia Almanza, speaking for the Anti-Hunger Coalition.

The Harvard report issued earlier this week called 150 counties across the nation "hunger counties" because of the possibility that poor people go hungry. The report said 29 of the counties were in Texas, where a substantial number of residents live below the poverty level but don't receive food stamps.

"County officials may be correct in disputing the labeling of their counties as the hungriest in the nation or the state," said Ms. Almanza. The Harvard data does not take into consideration state efforts like the Omnibus Hunger Act passed in the last session of the Texas Legislature

Gubernatorial candidates report on campaign funds

AUSTIN (AP) - The top contenders in the Texas Democratic and Republican parties have reported receiving almost $7 million the past six months to push their campaigns for governor

In the hot GOP primary race, U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler and former congressman Kent Hance said Wednesday they have raised more than $1 million each in the July 1-Dec. 31, 1985, period, far outstripping former Gov. Bill Clements for the same time frame. Democratic Gov. Mark White reported contributions of more than $3.8 million and expenditures of more than $1.8 million.

Wednesday was the deadline for the first official campaign reports from statewide candidates in the 1986 elections.

The overall reports fromm the "big three" Republican candidate

- Hance, a total of $1,547,691 in contributions from the Kent Hance Committee and the Kent Hance for Governor Committee; expenditures of $460,399 for the period from June 1, 1985, to Dec. 31, with $1,076,504 cash in the bank.

 Loeffler, a total of $1,159,009 in contributions for June 1-Dec. 31, with expenditures of $1,815,714, and $438,558 cash on hand.

- Clements, $389,352 in contributions for the six months, $242,784 in expenditures, and $146,568 cash on hand.

White's report for the six months, including reports from the allied Gov. Mark White Committee, The Texas Committee, and Citizens for Mark White, showed a total of $3,859,329 in contributions and $1.833,994 in expenditures. There were $66,000 in loans and $71,000 in repayment of Hance's headquarters said the cash balance did not include $10,786 of in-kind contributions.

Loeffler's headquarters said his campaign fund showed a cash balance although expenditures exceeded contributions the last six months because Loeffler had received more than $2.3 million throughout 1985. The office said a total of $1.14 million was raised during May and June of 1985.

"When we first entered this race, critics were quick to hint that a Loeffler campaign would suffer from lack of financial backing and low name identification," Loeffler said in a statement. "By raising $2.3 million in 1985 we have shown that this campaign has tremendous financial backing and the resources to take care of any name identification problem.'

Shrimping ban may be lifted

HOUSTON (AP) - The annual May-to-July ban of shrimping off the Texas coast may be called off this year after a federal fishery council agreed to recommend the ban be lifted.

Texas shrimpers won the preliminary battle by convincing the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council that the ban, in effect since 1981, is discriminatory against shrimpers and driving them toward bankruptcy.

Advocates of the ban say the closed season allows small brown shrimp to grow to a larger, more profitable size. The closed zone extends from 10 miles to 200 miles

"If all of this is so good, why am I going broke?" Sydney Herndon, owner of a Port Aransas shrimping fleet, asked at Tuesday's committee hearing.

Herndon said shrimpers understood that if the closing proved successful it would be extended to other Gulf states. However, that hasn't happened, he

Texas could lose $45 million in cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas will probably be able to absorb the first wave of budget cuts under Gramm-Rudman without cutting services, says the head of the state's federal liaison office here.

Texas will likely lose as much as $45 million in federal money in fiscal year 1986, the first year the law is in effect, John Hanson, director of the Texas Office of State-Federal Relations, said Wednesda v

"That can probably be absorbed at the administrative level" through such strategies as not replacing personnel, Hanson said. Hanson said his office was still in the process of analyzing the effect of the budget-cutting law on Texas. A group of congressmen and a federal employees union have challenged the law in court.

Texas Republican Sen. Phil-Gramm was one of the primary sponsors of the law, which sets target deficit levels beginning in FY 1986 and requires automatic, across-the-board cuts in unexempted federal programs if the projected deficit exceeds the target by more than $20 billion.

The FY 1986 target is $172 billion. On Wednesday, the Congressional Budget Office and the administration's Office of Management and Budget both predicted an FY 1986 deficit of about $220 billion.

Gramm-Rudman sets progressively lower deficit targets aimed at balancing the federal budget in 1991.

The law requires cuts in both domestic and defense spending and exempts such programs as Medicaid and Social Security.

Hanson said an earlier assessment of state impact by Federal Funds Information for the States appeared to be accurate.

FFIS, a research group that serves the National Conference of State Legislatures and the National Governors Association, predicted that Texas would lose about $43 million in federal money in fiscal 1986 and $300 million in fiscal 1987.

The FY 1987 cuts will be a problem, said Hanson, because the axe can be expected to fall heaviest on service programs where Texas depends more on federal money. "That is going to hurt the state,"

he said. Gramm has said that the measure will help the state by improving the economy. He said lower interest rates could be expected to encourge new plant construction in the Sun Belt and create more jobs for Texans.

It's time to talk turkey about federal red ink; huge deficit triggering cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law is moving from the talking stage to real spending cuts, with federal officials saying they will delay space shuttle improvements, make college students dig a little deeper into their pockets and protect President Reagan's "Star Wars" plan by slashing other Pentagon programs.

Across the government, there will be "all but a freeze" in hiring, Office of Management and Budget Director James C. Miller said Wednesday in announcing the cuts, which were triggered by a record-breaking $220.5 billion cuts this year to the $11.7 billion, but the deficit estimate underscored that deep cuts or tax increases will be needed to meet the $144 billion deficit target for fiscal 1987, which begins Oct. 1. The automatic cuts take effect if Congress and the president fail to agree on spending cuts or tax increases to meet the target.

The fiscal 1986 cut technically does not take effect until March 1. following review by the General Accounting Office and an order by the president. But some agencies already were holding back hiring. purchases, travel or making other adjustments. Federal employee pay cannot be reduced, although Congress did not allow a pay increase either this year.

Domestic programs subject to cuts were trimmed back an average of 4.3 percent under Gramm-Rudman.

President Reagan earlier exempted uniformed personnel cutbacks, so the Pentagon would be cutting about 4.9 percent from most other programs to save its share. The limited flexibility in the law would be used to protect Star Wars research, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

The entire budget of $2.7 billion for Star Wars will be protected because Congress already cut that program so deeply, said Robert W. Helm, the Defense Department's comptroller. The president originally had requested $3.7 billion for Star Wars.

To cover the Star Wars expense, other research would be reduced by an extra amount, Helm said.

"Literally every aspect of the defense budget has been touched by Gramm-Rudman," he said.

Education official: history texts soft on communism

WASHINGTON (AP) -Education Undersecretary Gary L. Bauer says U.S. history textbooks are too soft on communism and too critical of the American way, but a publishing executive took strong exception to that stance Marlowe Teig of the Houghton Mifflin Co. said Bauer's speech Wednesday to the Association of American Publishers "suggests that authors and publishers in our free society become advocates for that free society.

If they did that, Teig asked, "how would we be different from the authors and publishers in the U.S.S.R. who advocate communism?"

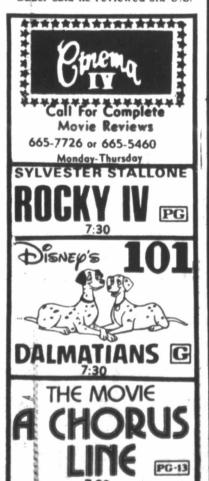

We seriously question any argument that urges American publishers to become the counterparts of the authors of Soviet teachers' manuals," said Teig, who heads the executive committee of the publishers' school division Bauer told the publishers he was not asking them to tailor their history texts to "the policy positions of this administration or any other.

"But they also should not read as if they were written by neutrals in the struggle between freedom and slavery," Bauer said.

Last year, Bauer's boss, Secretary of Education William J. Bennett, criticized "the cultural relativism" in many U.S. history courses. He said American teen-agers who have never heard of the Cuban missile crisis and know nothing about the Russian Revolution "will not recognize the urgency in Nicaragua.

Bauer said he reviewed six U.S.

secondary school textbooks of recent vintage and found them 'quick to be hyper-critical of American institutions, while glossing over the intrinsic character of totalitarian governments." He did not name

"There is much talk of the nuclear peril and of global interdependence," he said. "But there is rarely any mention of human rights issues; of repression and savagery: of freedom and tyranny; of the conflict between democracy and totalitarianism; or of the fact that only a small fraction of the globe's citizens live under regimes of their own choosing

Bauer said that "what happens

Shortages, zooming prices felt all along East Coast

wholesalers and restaurateurs along the East Coast say fish supplies are drying up and prices are zooming because of a strike that has tied up scores of boats at the nation's richest port.

"For me, to get a hold of northern fish such as scrod, flounder and haddock is extremely tight," said Buddy Levine, who buys about 2,500 pounds of fish a week for Collins Fish and Seafood Inc. in Miami.

"When I can find it available, those who are breaking the (picket) lines are charging outrageous prices for it," he said.

Two-thirds of New Bedford's 1,200 fishermen have vowed to stop fishing until boat owners back down from their demands for a larger percentage of catch profits. Owners of the port's 150 boats say poor catches and skyrocketing costs are cutting deeply into their

Since the strike began just after Christmas, the price of haddock at the Boston fish auction has jumped from $1 per pound to $3, about 20 percent higher than this time last year, said Ed MacLeod, director of the Northeast region for the National Marine Fisheries Service.

Sole reached $5.60 a pound in Providence, the highest Rhode Island Fish Co. owner Steve Shallcross said he's seen in his 30 years in the business.

"Especially, more than anything, it's scallops," said Richard Jaus, a manager at the Hayes Fish Co. in Amherst, N.Y., a suburb of Buffalo. "They're hard to buy and very expensive. We just haven't been using them at all."

Fishery officials say New Bedford supplies 75 percent to 90 percent of the nation's sea scallops and a significant portion of many other seafood.

C.E. Pittman of Pittman Seafood in Dover, Del., said he couldn't get sea scallops from Massachusetts. and Shallcross said he wasn't bidding on sea scallops because of their price, which reached $6.90 on

But scallops weren't the only problem, Shallcross said. Whatever is landed anywhere else (than New Bedford) is worth a fortune."

New Bedford was second only to Gloucester in pounds of fish landed in New England in 1984, the most recent year for which data is available, said Robert Hall, a statistician in the Gloucester headquarters of the NMFS

However, New Bedford's $109 million catch made it the nation's richest port. And most of the 99.5 million pounds of fish brought into New Bedford were edible, whereas a large part of Gloucester's catch was made up of non-edible fish byproducts. Hall said.

Preliminary statistics show the New Bedford catch has since fallen off at least 15 percent, MacLeod said.

Texaco: federal relief is needed in order to appeal

HOUSTON (AP) - Texaco Inc. had no choice but to seek relief from a Texas law requiring a $12 billion bond before appealing a landmark damage award won by Pennzoil Co., Texaco Vice Chairman James Kinnear says.

"Texaco has full confidence and we will pursue all legal remedies there (in Texas), but in order to do that, we have to stay alive," Kinnear said Wednesday from the company's headquarters in White Plains, N.Y.

But Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, joining the fight over which state has jurisdiction in the multibillion-dollar dispute, says Texaco tried to sidestep state courts by asking a federal judge in New York to reduce the bond.

Last week, U.S. District Judge Charles L. Brieant ruled Texaco should post no more than a $1 billion appeal bond and barred Pennzoil from trying to collect the record $11.1 billion won in a state district court in Houston.

Pennzoil, claiming Texaco had not exhausted all legal remedies in Texas before going to the federal court, has appealed Brieant's decision to the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York.

Texaco, the nation's third-largest oil company, has said it might be forced into bankruptcy proceedings if forced to pay the judgment, or post the entire $12 billion bond needed to appeal.

"The sum of it is that we had no choice but to seek federal relief to appeal in the Texas courts," Kinnear said.

Kinnear said the governors of Florida, Delaware, Oklahoma, Kansas and Wyoming all had filed briefs with Brieant supporting Texaco, which has operations in those states.

"They want Texaco to have the right of appeal and not to be forced into bankruptcy to achieve it," he said. "The attorney general of the state of Texas wrote a letter to the federal judge claiming that Texaco believed no justice could be had in Texas. That is absolutely untrue."

Mattox on Wednesday asked the 2nd Circuit for an expedited hearing on the bond issue, spokeswoman Elna Christopher said. Smaller companies have had to post bonds according to the 94-year-old state law, which requires the entire judgment, plus interest and court costs, Ms. Christopher said.

"If the law is on the books and it ? has been upheld, everybody ought to have to obey it," she said.

Homeless shiver in tent camps

MEXICO CITY (AP) - A rare cold snap with temperatures in the 20s has turned survival "from just miserable to impossible" for thousands of people still living outdoors, four months after earthquakes destroyed their

"You just can't imagine how cold it is if you don't live this way," Jesus Gonzalez Lopez said Wednesday, sitting outside a canvas tent that is home to his family of eight.

A 10-month-old girl wrapped in blankets and towels lay on the ground beside him, shivering despite the morning sunshine.

Gonzalez, one of an estimated 40,000 people living in official shelters or tent camps, smiled weakly at the federal Health Department's advice to eat a high-calorie diet and keep warm during the cold wave.

"Such advice always comes from people who have food to begin with," he said as traffic whizzed

"This matter of survival has gone from just miserable to impossible," said a man living in a camp near the downtown Garibaldi Square where mariachi musicians traditionally play.

Although the government has made available temporary shelters for earthquake homeless, many refuse to enter them because they want to stay near their damaged homes or object to what they call military-like regulations.

The Artists:

The glitter of colonial India

By JUDIE GLAVE ssociated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Opulent farshi pajamas with legs so wide they cascade at the feet, dupatta veils, peshwaz coats and shimmering gold tissue capes - all woven with strands of real gold are but a few of the exotic sights to drink in at the Costumes of Royal India exhibit.

The treasure-trove of priceless garments, rich in history, culture and value, are part of a magnificent new show at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The lavish selections, on loan from former royal Indian families, include state and court costumes from 12 of the more than 600 princely states once ruled by the rajahs, maharajahs, ranas, nawabs and nizams.

A walk through the wing where the exhibit will be until September is like a tour through colonial India and the time before England's Queen Victoria was crownedempress of the land in 1858

There are also ornate howdahs, canopied seats for riding atop elephants, elfin-like shoes and dazzling emerald and diamond jewels on display.

The exhibit also offers a glimpse of Eastern ways.

"Westeners tend to have such a limited view of India," said Jean Druesedow, an associate curator. 'We hope the exhibit will illustrate the kind of variety in the type of clothing people of India wear. We want to show it's not just saris."

The exhibit does include about a dozen saris - the traditional Hindu garment for women which is worn ankle-length and draped across one part of the diverse collection.

There are the somber yet beautiful black and gold-trimmed outfits worn during Diwali, the Hindu New Year, believed to be the darkest night of the year.

Costumes once worn by the wives of the maharajahs inside their walled fortresses and never before seen by outsiders are also on view.

The intricacy and craftsmanship of Indian tailors can be seen in such designs as a 19th century ghagara, or circle skirt, from the region of Jaipur that is nearly 40 yards in circumference and embroidered in real gold.

The gold borders, embroidery and threads used in almost all of the designs are real gold and silver. The metal content is purer according to the age of the year as Arbor Day for the state.

Arbor Day was first observed in Texas in 1889 when citizens of Temple held a mass meeting on a street corner and agreed to make Feb. 22 Arbor Day. The resolution was introduced by Senator Tyler of Belton to the state legislature and became law.

This law expired in 1955. For the next 24 years, the custom of observing Arbor Day on George Washington's birthday continued by a governor's proclamation. Then, in 1949, the state legislature adopted the present resolution. Arbor Day is an ancient ritual dating back 1,500 years to a little town in Switzerland where the people wanted a grove of oak trees on their common. A work day was set and the men, women and children went into the woods, dug up small trees and planted them on the common under the direction of a gardener. That evening they celebrated with a town festival.

Arbor Day, as now known, was first observed in Nebraska where only three percent of the land area was originally covered by trees. On Jan. 4, 1872, J. Sterling Morton, a member of the Nebraska board of agriculture, and later to become governor, introduced the first Arbor Day resolution that was later adopted

DALLAS (AP) — Tired of "the aggravation of the bench," Dallas Cowboys backup quarterback · Gary Hogeboom has asked Coach Tom Landry to trade him to another National Football League

Landry said Wednesday night, in an interview with Dallas television station KTVT-TV during halftime of the Dallas Mavericks-New York Knicks basketball game, that Hogeboom formally asked for the trade during a meeting earlier in quarterback prior to the 1984 season and starting 10 games, Hogeboom played only sparingly last season behind Danny White, who regained the job after Dallas failed to make the playoffs in 1984 for the first time in a decade.

After being named the No. 1

The Dallas Times Herald reported that Hogeboom made the trade request during a 10-minute meeting Wednesday in Landry's office at the Cowboys' practice facilities in suburban Irving.

"I don't want to be on the bench anymore," Hogeboom told the

"I think Coach Landry knows that it's time for me to play and maybe it's time for me to go elsewhere. I don't want the aggravation of the bench anymore. I feel I can play quarterback, even if it means going to another team."

Hogeboom said he would prefer to be traded in the next six weeks.

"I don't want to sit around and rust for two months. If I'm going to be traded, I need to go. I need to go now, and Landry knows that. I need to be with another team so I can start competing for the starting job. I don't need to be sitting here," he said.

Landry said he would try to meet Hogeboom's request after completing his evaluation of the club's 1985 season.

The Times Herald quoted Hogeboom as saying he was informed by Landry last September that either he or White would be traded before the 1986

"Gary wants to play elsewhere if he can't play here," Landry said. "He feels strongly about it. We will do what we can do. This is not the time that you just go out and make trades, but we will give it some

Landry added, "I will help Gary the best I can. That is where I am headed. But I will also ask for something that will help us. We must still have the best interest of the team in mind."

Hogeboom started only two games in the 1985 season - both times after White was sidelined by injuries. The Cowboys lost both contests. Against Philadelphia, he threw two interceptions near the goal in a 16-14 defeat. Dallas led San Francisco 16-10 at halftime after Hogeboom had passed for 202 yards, but the Cowboys ran out of gas in the second half, losing 31-16.

Landry said Hogeboom would have a good chance to start with the Cowboys "before it is all over with ... but you get impatient. He feels this (a trade) would be best for him. Gary feels he has paid his dues, he feels he's ready to play. and he wants to go where he can play."

Lendl breezes, McEnroe struggles

By BOB GREENE

AP Tennis Writer NEW YORK (AP) - A year ago, he was the undisputed king of tennis. Today, John McEnroe is struggling to find that magic touch.

"I'm not moving as well as I normally do. I'm not serving as well. I'm not hitting the ball as solid. I'm making too many mistakes, and my concentration isn't what it used to be," McEnroe said Wednesday night after being ousted from the $500,000 Nabisco Masters tennis championships by hard-hitting Brad Gilbert.

Ivan Lendl has none of those

"I feel good about my game," Lendl said after blasting fellow Czechoslovak Tomas Smid 6-1, 6-0 in his first-round match in the season-ending tournament at Madison Square Garden. "I feel that if I play well, everything is going my way.

"If I don't play well, I keep trying and eventually start playing Gilbert's 5-7, 6-4, 6-1 victory over McEnroe made sure that this year's tournament final won't be a repeat of the last three, when Lendl and McEnroe clashed for the title. Lendl, the reigning U.S. Open champion and top-seeded in this select 16-player field, won in 1983, while McEnroe was victorious the last two years.

"I've had a lot of great experiences here (at the Garden), and I'm just embarrassed at the way I played," McEnroe said.

Also advancing into the quarterfinals with victories Wednesday were Tim Mayotte, who stopped Yannick Noah of France 6-4, 6-4, and Anders Jarryd, who outlasted fellow Swede Joakim Nystrom 0-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Tonight's quarterfinal pairings will send Ecuador's Andres Gomez against Johan Kriek and Wimbledon champion Boris Becker of West Germany against French Open winner Mats Wilander of Sweden.

On Friday, Lendl will take on Mayotte and Gilbert will face Jarryd.

Although a native of New York, McEnroe has never been a crowd favorite here, more than likely because of his fiesty attitude. And Wednesday was no exception. Asked if the crowd was a factor in his loss, he said:

"It shouldn't have been, but it was. I've dealt with it for eight

"I think I have dreams or hopes that every time I come to New York it will be different, and it doesn't happen. It hurts a little bit because being from New York and playing here and having such good memories, I guess I just try to build it up. And then I just bring myself down.

"I don't know why, but unfortunately the fans that I guess I have in New York really didn't come to this match."

The cavernous 18,880-seat Garden was only half filled Wednesday night, and the crowd was decidedly in Gilbert's corner. At one stage, McEnroe had a heated exchange with one beer-drinking spectator who was heckling him between points.

McEnroe broke Gilbert's serve in the 12th game of the opening set. It was the only time in the match the evenual winner would lose his Lendl was awesome in his destruction of Smid, who actually didn't play that poorly. But against Lendl, Smid was up against the world's No. 1 player who was on the top of his game.

"The game was a lot closer than the final score. You hear that a lot of times when you have a four, six or eight point game, because the team behind has to take some extra shots and take some extra chances," Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers said.

The game marked a return to action of Baylor's Michael Williams, who was sidelined for the first part of the SWC race because of an NCAA-ordered suspension. He played all but four minutes of the game and finished as the Bears' leading scorer with 13 points.

Texas led 29-28 at halftime and 46-40 with 8:17 left and held a 54-50 edge with only 1:51 remaining. But Todd Holloway went the length of the floor with a steal to cut it to 54-52 and then Gary Lewis made another quick steal and fed Don Marbury for the tying goal with 1:09 remaining.

In the waning seconds, Texas' John Brownlee missed a short jumper and the rebound before Marbury came down with the ball and called a timeout with five

Sutton shares Hope lead

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) -In his first four seasons as a touring pro, Hal Sutton won:

Rookie of the Year honors, the 1963 money-winning and Player of the Year titles, the PGA national championship, the important Tournament Players Championship, three other PGA Tour events, and $1.2 million.

So, naturally enough, he wants to improve. To do so, he's gone to a new set of clubs and is tinkering with his swing.

"The swing worked pretty good for four years, but I believe the change will be a major improvement," Sutton said Wednesday after he'd compiled a 7-under-par 65 that gave him a share of the first-round lead in the $600,000 Bob Hope Chrysler

He shared the position with Bob Tway, who won more than $164,000 as a rookie last season.

Tway, who did not make a bogey in his round, and Sutton both played in warm, sunny weather at Bermuda Dunes, one of four desert courses used for the first four rounds of this 90-hole, five-day tournament.

They .shared a one-shot advantage over Jeff Sluman, Larry Mize and Paul Azinger, tied at 66. Sluman and Mize played at Indian Wells, Azinger at Bermuda Dunes.

Craig Stadler, a playoff loser in this event a year ago, led the group at 67. Also at that figure were Bruce Lietzke, Steve Pate, Gary Koch, Jim Thorpe and Gene Stalder played at Eldorado, Lietzke at La Quinta, Pate and Koch at Bermuda Dunes, Thorpe and Sauers at Indian Wells.

The pros play one round on each of the four courses, each day with a different three-man amateur team. before the field is cut for the pros-only finish at Bermuda Dunes on Sunday. Lanny Wadkins, who used a victory in this event last season as a springboard to Player of the Year honors, managed a 68 despite the distractions with an amateur group that consisted of the host comedian, former President Gerald R. Ford and House Speaker Tip O'Neill at La Quinta. The team was 10 under par. Individual amateur scores are not compiled.

Calvin Peete, a run-away winner of the Tournament of Champions last week, struggled to a 73.

Sutton, who won two individual events and combined with Ray Floyd for a team title last year, said his swing change involves his take-away, is designed to produce more clubhead speed and has given him an added 20 yards off the tee. "I feel it's going to be easier on me in the long run, give me more length and accuracy," Sutton said. He missed only two greens and saved par on both of those. His only bogey came on an aggressive 3-putt on the 17th, and he got the shot back with a 2-putt birdie-4 on

Tway, a frequent contender as a first-year man last season, made his big move with a burst of four birdies - all on 10-12 foot putts - in a 5-hole stretch beginning on the

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -San Antonio Spurs point guard Johnny Moore has contracted a case of meningitis and will miss the rest of the current season, his doctor said Wednesday.

Tubbs defends WBA tit

ATLANTA (AP) — Tony Tubbs wants to be a hit with boxing fans, but the World Boxing Association heavyweight champion isn't fooling himself. "I'm Tony Tubbs, and my style is going to be Tony Tubbs," said Tubbs, who will make his first title defense Friday night against aggressive Tim Witherspoon.

A charge against Tubbs is that his counterpunching style is boring.

"When's the last time you've seen anybody get on his toes and throw combinations and look like Muhammad Ali?

"Joe Frazier did it his way. Muhammad Ali did it his way. To each his own," Tubbs said

And the 26-year-old Tubbs plans to do it his way against Witherspoon in the scheduled 15-round bout, to be televised by HBO from the 18,000-seat Omni.

"He really doesn't like pressure," said Witherspoon, 28, a former World Boxing Council champion.

"I got to go to him to make it a good fight. If I lay back and pick, pick, they'll start booing."

"It takes two fighters to turn it into a slugging match," Tubbs said. "Tim is a better slugger than I am. I'm a boxer. I've got to keep opponent, but if see the shot, I take the shot," said Tubbs, who has good left jab and quick left hook.

While Tubb's style might not be attractive to many fans, it has paid off for him. He has won all 22 of his fights, 15 by knockout.

Witherspon has scored 16 knockouts in winning 23 fights against two losses — to Larry Holmes and to Pinklon Thomas.

Witherspoon lost a 12-round split decision to Holmes in a WBC title bid May 20, 1983, and he lost the WBC title in his first defense on a 12-round majority decision to Thomas Aug. 31, 1984.

He had won the vacant WBC title March 9, 1984, on a 12-round majority decision over Greg Page. It was Page from whom Tubbs won the WBA title on a 15-round unanimous decision last April 9.

The other heavyweight champion is Michael Spinks, the former undisputed light heavyweight champion, who upset Holmes for the International Boxing Federation title last Sept.

"Other than me, Pinklon Thomas is a force in the division," Tubbs said. "He's got a jab-like right hand.

"Michael Spinks, he's just too small. I wouldn't have any trouble with Michael Spinks."

Victories over Thomas and Spinks certainly would bring Tubbs recognition, even if he achieved them his way.

Pearson hired as announcer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -Dallas Cowboys' all-time leading pass receiver Drew Pearson will join a television station's sports staff as weekend anchor, officials announced.

Pearson, who retired after the 1983 season, will join the KENS-TV sports staff as weekend anchor, starting Feb. 1, said KENS Sports Director Dan Cook

The announcement was made by Cook on the station's 10 p.m. show Wednesday. Pearson will start offering commentaries next week on the weekend show.

What can you say; this has to be one of the biggest coups in San Antonio TV history," said KENS reporter Gary DeLaune, who played a major role in signing Pearson. "There's not many more recognizable faces in the state of Texas."

Pearson, who worked six games as an NFL color commentator for CBS two years ago, signed a six-month contract. Pearson last season worked as the Cowboys' receivers coach.

"I'm still involved with the Cowboys," Peason said Wednesday before being introduced on the KENS 10 p.m. show. "When the time comes, we'll evaluate my progress. By that, I mean the three of us - Cowboys, KENS and Drew Pearson - will decide on my future."

Pearson said he's worked for the CBS affiliate in Dallas but mostly as a commentator.

"It's only been two years but I've learned a lot about putting a sportscast together," he said, "but it's still going to take time. It'll probably be rough in the beginning but eventually things will work out. Pearson plans to live in Dallas where he has several business ventures. He will commute to San Antonio on Friday nights and leave again Monday morning. "I'll subscribe to the San Antonio newspapers and will keep in touch that way," he said, "and I'll still have contacts with KENS too." Pearson also plans to tape his shows and "work at it consistently.

I want this to work," he said. "I

Cancer clinic will operate in Bahamas and in Mexico

NEW YORK (AP) - A controversial cancer clinic is ready to reopen in the Bahamas and also begin operating in Mexico, six months after it was closed for dispensing drugs investigators said were contaminated with AIDS virus.

The Immunology Researching Center, Ltd., in Freeport, Grand Bahamas, "may reopen in two or three weeks," its director, Lawrence Burton, said Wednesday.

The clinic was closed July 17, 1985, after Dr. Gregory Curt of the National Cancer Institute charged that the blood-derived drugs Burton was dispensing were contaminated with the AIDS virus. Investigators at the Centers for Disease Control later confirmed that the drugs contained active

The Bahamian ministry of health has agreed to let Burton reopen if he adheres to a variety of conditions to assure the safety of patients, said Dr. Vernell T. Allen, chief medical officer of the ministry.

Among the conditions is a requirement that the drugs be tested for acquired immune deficiency syndrome and hepatitis B, she said in a telephone interview from Nassau. She had no comment on when the clinic might reopen.

As many as 1,000 people could have been exposed to the AIDS virus in Burton's drugs, according to Curt, assistant director of the cancer institute's division of cancer treatment.

Caddo Indians were Texas' first farmers

By The Associated Press

American traveler Amos Andrew Parker paused to investigate some baffling ancient Caddoan Mounds in East Texas and recorded in his diary: "I have seen no satisfactory explanation given of the origin and use of these mounds ... and, at this late state of the world, their origin and use may never be fully and satisfactorily understood." The year was 1834.

Today, we know only a bit more than this 19th - century traveler, according to a Texas Parks and Wildlife booklet, the source for the quote. Even contemporary Caddos know little of their ancient ancestors. After periodic study by archaeologists during the last century, we do know that prehistoric Caddos were an industrious people, more complex than their prehistoric neighbors to the west. Although most prehistoric people who lived in what we now call Texas for over 11,000 years were hunters and gatherers organized into small, migratory bands, a more settled way of life based on farming developed in late prehistoric times. Most notable of these scattered Caddoan - speaking tribes in the woodlands of Northeast Texas.

The cultural tradition of the Caddos can be traced back more than a thousand years, says anthropologist Dee Ann Story, to at least 800 A.D. They dominated an area that extended from the central portion of East Texas northward in to the Ozarks. The evident success of the Caddos derived partly from the mixed nature of their economy and partly from the social and religious systems they developed for integrating individual villages into cohesive and apparently peaceful large social groups.

Archaeological evidence indicates that large groups of Caddos with varied heirarchical status coexisted in prehistoric times. Of particular interest are the regionally distinct details of material culture, especially decorations on pottery vessels, marked differences in the amount of energy expended in the burial of some individuals, and the existence of sites that served as ceremonial centers.

Ceremonial centers are earthen mounds. The centers vary considerably in size and complexity, perhaps reflecting the degree of socio-political integration among Caddoan groups, Story says. The smaller, less complex centers appear to have functioned primarily as special places for rituals. The major centers, among them the Caddoan Mound State Historic Site on the Neches River, served as seats of civic, economic and religious power, as nodes in far - reaching interregional exchange systems, and as special mortuaries for the elite members of society. It is primarily these centers that have yielded such extraordinary objects as human effigy smoking pipes sculpted in stone, copper covered ear ornaments, elongated celts and many other items signifying high social status.

By the time of European colonization in the 17th century, most of the Caddoan Mounds had long been abandoned, though many characteristics of the culture

Court may rule on how far religion rules can be bent

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court justices had questions for the lawvers: What if a person's religious beliefs demanded he wear a big cross with his military uniform? Or a beard, or a turban?

"What if your client wanted to satisfy his religious rights in the military by wearing a derby?" Justice Byron R. White said.

Would the government be guilty of violating his constitutional rights if it told him "no"?

What if someone's religion required cocaine for ceremonies? Must the government say OK on grounds of religious freedom?

The point the justices were trying to make as they heard arguments in two religious-freedom cases was: How far must the government bend its rules in order to allow Americans their constitutionally guaranteed right of "free exercise" of religion?

Lawyers for two clients fighting welfare and military - uniform restrictions on religious grounds didn't pretend to have the answers. But the "what if" questions from several of the nine justices including John Paul Stevens, William J. Brennan and Chief Justice Warren Burger as well as White - seemed to show a court thinking hard about the broader ramifications of the decisions it will make this year on the subject.

In the two specific cases argued Tuesday:

-A federal appeals court here had ruled last year the Air Force was within its rights in telling Capt. S. Simcha Goldman, an Orthodox Jew and an ordained rabbi, he had to quit wearing his yarmulke, or skull cap, when in uniform as a clinical psychologist at March Air Force Base in California.

-A federal district court in Pennsylvania had ruled health officials had to resume welfare payments they cut off to a 5-year-old named Little Bird of the Snow, whose parents refused to let the government use her Social Security number.

Goldman, the former Air Force captain now on inactive reserve, is appealing to the high court to overturn the appeals court's negative ruling on his yarmulke.
