DIRECTOR SAYS

President Seeking Less Regulation Of Television

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House official says the Nixon administration wants less government regulation of television—not the censorship he said critics accuse the administration of seeking.

Clay T. Whitehead, director of President Nixon's Office of Telecommunications Policy, elaborated on the administration's proposed television license-renewal legislation in a Jan. 26 letter to a National Association of Broadcasters task force.

Release of the letter came after Whitehead conferred for a half hour with President Nixon Monday.

"The bill," Whitehead wrote,

"would add no new burden, impose no new obligation, or require no new affirmative showings on the part of any licensee."

Whitehead first disclosed the legislation in a Dec. 18 speech in Indianapolis, in which he said: "Station managers and network officials who fail to act to correct imbalance or consistent bias from the networks—or who acquiesce by silence—can only be considered willing participants to be held fully accountable by the broadcasters' community at license-renewal time."

The speech touched off a major controversy over control of the broadcast industry. Whitehead sent his letter of elaboration to Mark Evans, vice president of Metromedia Inc. and chairman of an NAB task force, after Evans wrote him asking for clarification of administration views.

Senate Upholds Airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring reports of possible vetoes, the Senate has moved to spend more for airport improvements than the President wants and to call back his already-installed budget director for a confirmation hearing.

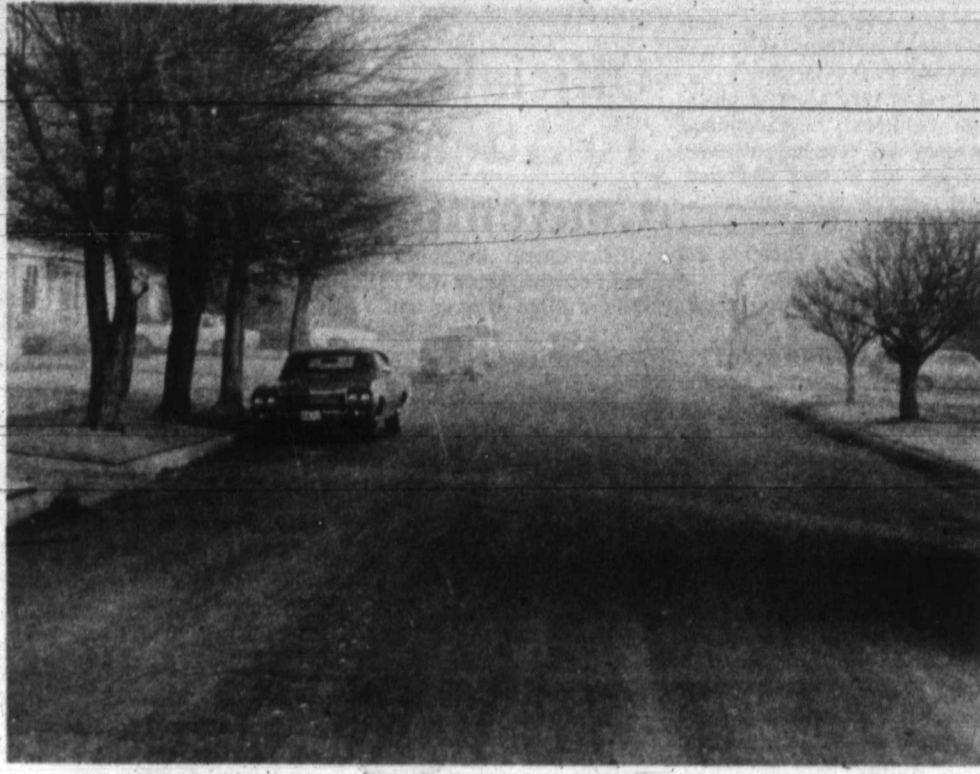

By a 65-15 vote, the Senate Monday passed a $450-million bill that would boost the federal government's share of airport improvements from 50 to 75 per cent.

Then, by a 63-17 vote, the Senate passed a bill requiring confirmation of all directors of the Office of Management and Budget, starting with Roy L. Ash, who was sworn in last week.

Neither bill has passed the House.

Some Senate Republicans said last week that a veto of the bill requiring confirmation of Ash probably could be expected in view of the fact he has been sworn in. Since the Senate confirms junior military officers, why shouldn't it confirm the man who writes the nation's budget? asked Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., manager of the OMB bill.

Ervin and other backers say the budget director is the second-most-powerful man in the nation.

A FOGGY MORN—A gray fog greeted residents this morning as they awoke to go about their daily tasks. Leaving a thin film of ice on vehicles and other articles, because of the 29 degree low, the gloom had disappeared by mid-morning as the sunshine again bathed the city. This picture was taken at 8:30 a.m. in the 100 block of North Sumner before the fog lifted.

Adviser Supports Fund Impoundment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's top domestic adviser says White House refusal to spend funds approved by Congress is legal and necessary for the good of the country, despite what critics say.

Congressional "appropriation isn't the last word" in the spending process, John D. Ehrlichman said in an interview Monday. "Whenever it's possible for the executive to save money, it's incumbent upon him to do so."

Such refusal to spend—impoundment, it is called—under attack in Congress and under investigation in Senate hearings, "has been the presidential prerogative ever since Thomas Jefferson," Ehrlichman said. "And every president has felt obliged to exercise control, in the national interest, over the expenditure of moneys."

In a report to Congress Monday, the White House said the Nixon administration is withholding $8.7 billion appropriated by Congress during the present fiscal year. But that figure does not include $6 billion in water-pollution funds the President has refused to allocate.

Senate hearings on the impoundments begin today in the subcommittee on separation of powers, chaired by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said in remarks for the panel that the Nixon administration is using impoundment powers not just to save money but "as a bald instrument of economic policy."

In a statement more critical of Congress than of Nixon, Byrd, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said "worthwhile programs are victimized along with those that are unwarrantable and which we ourselves have shown neither the wisdom nor the guts to terminate."

"Too many of us over the years," Byrd said, "have virtually outdone ourselves in carrying the favor of organized pressure groups that advocate more and more spending as the solution for more and more problems, this being the way to get more and more votes. The result: more and more deficits."

But in calling for greater restraints in spending along the lines Nixon has pursued, Byrd emphasized he thinks Congress should assert more control and "protect its constitutional authority to determine how the people's moneys will be spent, how much will be spent, and for what purposes."

Doctor Warns Pregnant Women Of Cats, Meat

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pregnant women should not handle cat litter or eat raw meat because of a risk of producing brain and eye defects in their offspring, an eye researcher warned today.

Not all women are susceptible to a cat-carried disease called toxoplasmosis, but those who are likely to be susceptible would not know it, Dr. G. Richard O'Connor of San Francisco said.

The disease produces few, if any, symptoms in most persons, and about 30 to 50 per cent of those living in many urban areas have been infected harmlessly by the age of 40, O'Connor added.

But in an unknown number of persons toxoplasmosis can affect the brain and the retina of the eye. As such, it is an important cause of blindness, said Dr. O'Connor, director of the Francis Proctor Foundation for Research in Ophthalmology at the University of California at San Francisco.

If a woman of child-bearing age has not been infected harmlessly, she stands a 40 per cent chance of passing the disease to her offspring if she is infected early in pregnancy, he said.

Cats have been found to be the main carrier of the infecting agent, a protozoan parasite called toxoplasma gondii, or TG, O'Connor told a science writers' seminar in ophthalmology.

Tests for the disease are expensive and not widely available, O'Connor said. He said he therefore strongly opposes any pregnant woman's handling of material containing cat feces that might carry the eggs of the parasite.

O'Connor said he is just as opposed to a woman eating raw meat, which could be contaminated by the parasite, transmitted by hand or house fly from cat feces.

However, a blood red rare steak is safe because heat of only 150 degrees Fahrenheit will kill the organism, O'Connor said.

The warning about cat litter applies especially where cats roam outside and feed on mice or rats, O'Connor said. A cat that does not go out and is fed only processed food should not pose a threat, he added.

APPEAL DENIED

Corona Receives 25 Life Terms

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Juan V. Corona has begun serving 25 consecutive life prison terms for the slaughter of 25 itinerant farm workers found buried two years ago in peach orchards along the Feather River.

The Mexican national was sentenced Monday by Superior Court Judge Richard Patton while a crowd of some 250 young Mexican-Americans demonstrated in support of Corona outside the white-columned Solano County courthouse. One demonstrator was arrested for malicious mischief.

The judge pronounced sentence in the largest mass murder trial in U.S. history after rejecting a defense motion for a new trial based on charges of jury tampering—involving a conversation between a sheriff's matron and a juror the night before Corona was convicted.

Patton also had defense attorney Richard Hawk arrested in

Mayors Knock Effects Of Nixon's Budget Cuts

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen parks that the city of New Orleans wanted to create this year are in jeopardy. Detroit, which hired 18,400 youths last summer, may not be able to hire any this summer.

Mayors Moon-Landrieu of New Orleans and Roman Gribbs of Detroit offered these examples as they began to assess the impact on their cities if domestic spending cuts proposed by President Nixon are not reversed.

The two Democrats were here to meet colleagues on the U.S. Conference of Mayors' Legislative Action Committee and to attend a conference on cable television. The Mayors had met Sunday to attack the budget publicly and privately plan strategy for pressing their objections.

Landrieu and Gribbs, who is president of the National League of Cities, sister organization to the Conference of Mayors, had been upset that newsmen asking for the total impact of the budget proposals got no specific answer, so on Monday they began counting their misfortunes.

Gribbs detailed federal cuts in ongoing programs during fiscal 1974 totaling $165.4 million, with several programs yet to be calculated when more information on the proposed budget becomes available.

Landrieu calculated a loss of $18.7 million for the same period on Model Cities, Office of Economic Opportunity and park programs alone. Figures for other programs had not been determined, in some cases because the city had not received word on whether its applications were affected by freezes on federal spending.

Both mayors said they would use some of their general revenue sharing funds, $42 million for Detroit and $16 million for New Orleans, to keep alive parts of the most needed programs which are losing federal support. But they said that Nixon had promised them general revenue sharing, enacted last year, would be in addition to existing forms of federal aid rather than a substitute for these programs.

The compromise provides that commission appointees as a group could be vetoed by a majority of both chambers—76 in the House and 16 in the Senate. Requirements to include women and all ethnic, social and economic groups and geographic regions on the commission were changed to show the legislature merely intended that they be represented.

Six state officials—the governor, lieutenant governor, house speaker, attorney general, chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court and presiding judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals—will select the commission. Speaker Price Daniel Jr. said he would submit the name of anyone House members recommended for the commission.

Monday, the House approved and sent to the Senate a bill postponing for two years a new public school calendar switching from the two-semester system to three trimesters, with an optional summer school quarter.

the courtroom. The judge ordered him to begin serving immediately 54 days of a total of 74 days in jail for contempt of court citations issued during the four-month trial.

Corona rose silently to his feet after Patton pronounced. "The order of the court is that the defendant be punished by confinement in the state prison for life."

A bailiff tapped the 38-year-old farm labor contractor on the shoulder and, clutching a pocket-sized Bible, Corona walked quietly to a nearby holding cell.

Under California law, a person convicted of first degree murder as Corona was can be paroled after seven years in prison. Fahey said it would be up to the term-setting California Adult Authority to decide whether Corona would be eligible for parole after seven years or 175 years, based on the 25 consecutive life sentences.

The Smithfield, Va., packer estimated banning the byproducts outright would cost the industry $42 million a year and raise prices to shoppers by 15 to 20 cents a pound.

Currently, hot dogs containing any type of flesh, including up to 15 per cent chicken, are labeled "All Meat." Hot dogs with only one kind of meat can be labeled "All Beef" or "All Pork."

But the courts have ordered the Agriculture Department to drop the "All Such-and-Such" labels, since hot dogs may also contain up to 30 per cent fat, 10 per cent added water and 3.5 per cent extenders such as nonfat dry milk and cereal.

As long as labels had to be changed, the department decided to do something about complaints they've been receiving on byproducts in cooked sausage products.

SAIGON (AP) — The chairman of the international cease-fire commission said today that the first groups of American prisoners of war to be freed in both North and South Vietnam would be handed over about Saturday.

Michel Gauvin of Canada, the chairman of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS), told newsmen as he entered a meeting of the commission: "I don't have any specific time or date, but I know it's around the 10th for American prisoners."

After the meeting, he expanded on this and told newsmen: "There are no definite dates, but I understand American prisoners will probably be released around the 10th of February, some of them, not all, from Hanoi."

Gauvin said he also understood that shortly after the first group of Americans is released, Vietnamese prisoners would be freed or exchanged in South Vietnam.

Gauvin mentioned two possible sites for the transfer of prisoners held by the Viet Cong in South Vietnam—the An Loc area, 60 miles north of Saigon, and Phu Hoa, also north of Saigon.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Military Command announced that 2,000 more American troops were withdrawn from Vietnam during the past four days, dropping U.S. strength to below 200,000 men for the first time since December 1964.

Under terms of the cease-fire agreement, all U.S. troops are to be out of Vietnam and all prisoners released by March 28. The Joint Military Commission—made up of the United States, North and South Viet-for the first time, American helicopters flew teams of five to seven Viet Cong representatives to Bien Hoa, Phan Thiet, My Tho and Can Tho, four of the seven regional headquarters.

U.S. C130 transports continued their daily runs between Hanoi and Saigon, bringing North Vietnamese personnel and equipment to the Joint Military Commission headquarters. The United States is providing virtually all the aircraft for the joint commission's operations.

Paris Chosen Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam announced today they had agreed on Paris as the site for a postwar international conference to begin Feb. 26.

The announcement, made simultaneously in Washington and Hanoi, said only that the two countries "have agreed to propose Paris as the site" for the international conference.

But it was clear that the location and date had already been locked up, and that the South Vietnamese government of President Nguyen Van Thieu had concurred.

The international conference was agreed upon in the accord signed on Jan. 27 ending the Vietnam war. The 13-party conference is intended to guarantee an end to the fighting.

The conference was agreed upon in the accord signed on Jan. 27 ending the Vietnam war. The 13-party conference is intended to guarantee an end to the fighting.

In addition to the United States and the two Vietnams, the conference is to be attended, by the Viet Cong, by the United Nations secretary general and by representatives of eight other countries—The Soviet Union, China, Great Britain, France, Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia.

The last four countries are members of the International Control Commission policing the cease-fire, the return of prisoners and other elements of the peace agreement.

Indications are that Secretary of State William P. Rogers will represent the United States at the conference, since the other countries will be represented by their foreign ministers.

The peace accord signed by Rogers in Paris last month stated that the international conference would be convened "to guarantee the ending of the war, the maintenance of peace in Vietnam, the respect of the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights, and the South Vietnamese people's right to self-determination, and to contribute to and guarantee peace in Indochina."

Constitutional Compromise Approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A committee took part of the lunch hour Monday to work out a compromise on constitutional revision so both houses could vote on it today.

Time, say the sponsors, is that important.

The proposal would create a 37-member commission to make a report by Nov. 1 on what the legislature, sitting next year as a constitutional convention, should do about rewriting Texas' constitution.

The compromise provides that commission appointees as a group could be vetoed by a majority of both chambers—76 in the House and 16 in the Senate. Requirements to include women and all ethnic, social and economic groups and geographic regions on the commission were changed to show the legislature merely intended that they be represented.

Six state officials—the governor, lieutenant governor, house speaker, attorney general, chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court and presiding judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals—will select the commission. Speaker Price Daniel Jr. said he would submit the name of anyone House members recommended for the commission.

BACK PAY, ALLOWANCES Returning Servicemen To Find More Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some American servicemen returning from war captivity in Southeast Asia will find as much as $100,000 waiting for them in back pay and allowances.

On top of that, they are in line to collect possibly thousands of dollars more by claiming a special payment of $5 for each day they spent in a POW camp. Each of the 562 U.S. military men listed by the North Vietnamese as prisoners has money piling up in an account drawing 10 per cent interest.

The same is true for 55 men who died in captivity and 1,327 who still are missing. In the case of the dead, Pentagon officials said, the money likely will go to their estates. The accounts of the missing will continue to grow until the men are located or there is a formal finding of "presumptive death," officials said.

Air Force records show that 79 men have accumulated between $50,000 and $100,000 each in back pay and allowances. Another 247 men have from $25,000 to $50,000 to their credit.

Similar information was not available from the other services, but their POW accounts should parallel the Air Force's.

In general, officials said, the system works this way: After a married man is captured or becomes missing, his service automatically deducts 10 per cent from his monthly pay and allowances and sends the balance to his wife.

The 10 per cent is placed in his account under the Uniformed Services Savings Deposit system.

When the U.S. POWs reach hospitals in the United States, they will be given forms to apply for the special $5-a-day payment covering their time in captivity.

Powell remains on critical list

Larry Powell, 31, Pampa, is still on the critical list at Northwest Texas Hospital with head, chest and leg injuries suffered in a drilling rig accident late Saturday.

Powell reportedly toppled from atop a construction site where he was working and fell 30 feet to the ground.

The accident occurred on the Leonard Reed property a few miles east of Wheeler.

After emergency treatment locally, he was transferred to the Amarillo hospital.

Classes still open in adult education

Some 400 adults are enrolled in adult continuing education classes being conducted by the Pampa Independent School District for the spring semester.

Most are from Pampa, with groups from Miami, Clarendon, Lefors, White Deer, Skellytown and possibly other communities. Many classes reached maximum enrollment, early in the enrollment period, according to Don Nelson, adult education supervisor.

Enrollees are still being accepted for several classes and sessions not yet begun. These classes meet from 7 to 9 p.m., Monday and/or Thursday evenings at Pampa High School. Persons may enroll by calling Carver Center, 665-2376.

Surgery Worsens Stennis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The condition of Sen. John C. Stennis worsened following new surgery today and a hospital spokesman said his chance of recovery "is considered grave."

The 71-year-old Mississippi Democrat was in the operating room at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for 45 minutes after doctors suspected a blockage had developed in his small intestine, said hospital spokesman Ma. Frank Garland.

He said that while no blockage was found, "this additional surgery has resulted in a worsening" of Stennis' condition.

"He remains very seriously ill and the prognosis is considered grave," Garland added at a 6 a.m. EST. news briefing.

The next briefing was scheduled at 3 p.m.

Stennis' wife, Coy, and his son, John Hampton Stennis, and daughter, Mrs. Margaret Syme, were at the hospital during the night. Members of his staff also were present.

Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and one of the most influential members of the Congress. First elected to the Senate in 1947, he ranks seventh in seniority among the 100 senators.

He was shot twice in front of his home last Tuesday evening by two male teen-agers after they robbed him of his wallet and wristwatch. Police said Stennis offered no resistance in the robbery, but the youths decided to shoot him anyway.

The FBI and police have not arrested any suspects.

Stennis, who stayed conscious and walked 50 feet into his house after the shooting, underwent 6 1/2 hours of emergency surgery at the medical center.

A hospital spokesman said his general good health was a factor in his favor, but Stennis' condition was listed throughout the week as very serious, the hospital's designation for its most gravely ill patients.

Stennis has been conscious during much of the time and he was moved from intensive care into the hospital's Presidential Suite on Sunday. He was granted a request to wear his own pajamas.

Hospital Undergoing Remodeling Plans

A $75,000 remodeling program is moving into its final stage at Worley Hospital, according to Don Alexander, administrator.

The principal changes made, Alexander said, are designed to fireproof the building and bring the hospital up to life safety code standards.

These include a new fire exit and stairs leading from the third floor, a new sprinkler system throughout and the installation of steel frame windows and fire safety glass on the entire front of the building.

Alexander said the remodeling project is expected to be completed within a few days.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week, ABC's late-hour "Wide World of Entertainment," rolled out some critics to talk about television while on television. This was a giant step forward or something.

It was a distinguished panel, lacking only the perceptive views of a veteran television critic named Sinbad Brittle.

Who is Sinbad? He's a freelance critic who came to Manhattan years ago to set up his stand. Times were hard then and he existed by selling used rubes to confidence men.

He became fairly unknown, a man with no influence, possibly because he didn't write for anybody. He still doesn't. He just stomps up and down outside the network offices, damning and praising their shows.

Sinbad was asked for his autograph last week and I fear it went to his head. He's starting to talk the way big city critics write. This was noticed the other day when I asked him how things were going.

"Profoundly moving ... disturbing," he said.

"By what appears, hopefully, to be very fresh and funny, a near class in the established TV genre of sociological fantasy."

"What genre? ... A laugh riot. See it!"

"... A bravura performance."

"A what?"

"A delight to the eye and ear."

"What are you talking about?"

"Generally speaking, a great work translated with inspiration to the small screen."

"That's better."

"And it's not without merit."

"Do tell."

"It's brimming with suspense and romance ... terrifically entertaining ... a masterful romp."

"Come again?"

"MMM Somewhat contrived, saddled with a hackneyed plot."

"You're losing me."

"As a weekly regular, she should be than welcome in your living rooms."

"Not mine, I'm married."

"I shall await the next episode with great interest."

"Me, too, Sinbad. See you around."

"One of the season's best," he murmured. Then he was gone.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Lola's sex dilemma shows a definite difference between a man vs. a woman when they marry a second time. Wives, be on guard! Second husbands face a much more serious "ghost" than you do in the boudoir! Use that sex booklet below!

CASE W-519: Lola B., aged 34, faces a common sex dilemma. "Dr. Crane," she began, "this is my second marriage."

"My first husband and I were quite happy, but he got killed in an automobile wreck."

"So I went back to teaching. "That's where I met my present husband, for he was the school's principal."

"We dated for almost a year before he finally proposed."

"For he was a bachelor and rather jittery about forsaking all those supposed freedoms that he would surrender after the wedding."

"Our marriage was rather good except for the fact he appeared jealous of my dead first husband."

"And during the past few months, he seems to be irritated with a senior high school girl in the school."

"He knows that dating between faculty and students is taboo, but he has sneaked out to a drive-in movie with this girl on several occasions."

"What can I do to save our marriage and also his job as principal, for the School Board would force him to resign if they knew about his romance with this teen-age student?"

FIGHTING GHOSTS

Repeatedly I have warned you wives to be on guard if you marry a second time!

For second husbands soon are likely to indulge in a secret battle with a ghost.

And that "ghost" is the sex image they conjure up of your first husband's erotic vigor.

"But, Dr. Crane," Lola protested, "I've seen several men who broke up the marriages of other husbands by stealing their wives."

"Didn't Roberto Rosselini do that on several occasions?"

"And he then seemed delighted to marry wives he had stolen."

There is a vast difference in the minds of second husbands if they can flatter their own erotic ego by stealing a wife away.

from her husband.

But if that former husband is dead or divorced, the second husband can't feel superior in the boudoir, since he hasn't stolen his present mate away from her first spouse.

"But, Dr. Crane," Lola again objected, "doesn't a second wife also conjure up the ghost of her mate's first spouse?"

True enough, but the battle with that ghost of the former wife is not as severe as is the second husband's feud with the image of his former male rival.

Well, wives are relatively passive in the boudoir.

So a second passive wife knows her former rival can't "out-passive" her sexual participation.

But the male role in the boudoir requires aggressive, active initiation of such romancing.

And competition is obviously linked with two "active" roles instead of two "passive" roles.

Besides, most husbands hold the wrong notion about a wife's ardor and figure she MUST be passionate.

So when she reacts with the normal wife's passivity, her former mate soon imagines her former husband was a much more virile lover.

Lola's bachelor mate also feels he can more confidently strut his stuff before an inexperienced teen-ager without her making such odious comparisons with some other virile male!

Lola must reassure her frightened mate by feigning extra ardor and making him feel SUPERIOR erotically to her first husband!

Send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope plus 25 cents.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover postage and printing costs when you send for one of my booklets!

Short Tax Form Back This Year

EDITORS: Following is the second in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1972 tax returns.

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Internal Revenue Service estimates that as many as 32 million taxpayers, about 40 per cent of the total, are eligible to use the revised simple, short income tax form this year.

But it may not be right for you.

You are eligible to use it, except in special cases, if the bulk of your income — in any amount — consisted of wages, salaries and the equivalent, with not more than $200 in dividends or interest.

But if you choose the short form, you must take the standard deduction and not list the various items, such as local taxes, medical costs, contributions and interest, that you are entitled to subtract.

The standard deduction is 15 per cent of adjusted gross income up to a maximum of $2,000 for a single person or married couple filing jointly, $1,000 for a married person filing separately.

This is the highest standard deduction ever allowed. Last year the percentage was 13 and the limit $1,500. Even so, you may find your itemized deductions run higher, especially if you have not checked for several years if you can exceed the standard figure by itemizing, of course, you save money.

Even if you use the long form because of the amount of your income from sources other than wages or for any other reason, you may still use the standard deduction if you wish. If there is any doubt in your mind, however, as to whether you might come out ahead by listing deductions, it would be worth the trouble to work out your return, in rough, both ways and compare.

For a quick check, IRS says you should come out ahead by itemizing deductions if your income is:

- Less than $8,667 and your deductions total more than $1,300.
- Between $8,667 and $13,333 and your deductions total more than 15 per cent.
- More than $13,333 and your deductions exceed $2,000.

These figures are for single persons and couples filing jointly. Married persons filing separately should divide the individual dollar amounts in half to find their cutoff points.

You can have IRS figure out your tax for you, saving you some trouble, if your income was $20,000 or less and all of it came from salaries and wages, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities — and if you take the standard deduction and do not itemize. Either form has instructions for obtaining this service. IRS does the final computations and sends you either a refund or a bill for tax due.

Another decision married couples must make at the outset is whether to file joint or separate returns. IRS says that in most cases joint returns, which in effect average out the income of the two spouses, are to the benefit of the taxpayer. One possible exception would be the case of a couple, one of whom had high medical expenses and comparatively little separate income.

'Godfather' Unrealistic, Italian Director Claims

ROME (AP) — An Italian director who says, "The Godfather" was only "spaghetti Mafia" — unrealistic fanfare — is one of several film makers responding with an Italian wave of Mafia movies.

The director, Vittorio Schiraldi, says the author of the novel and script writer for the American movie, Mario Puzo, "didn't know his Mafia." Schiraldi is the author of "Kiss the Hand," and has written a screen version of it that he says "will look at the Mafia from the inside."

At least six other Mafia films are being produced in Italy, where the subject matter can be sensitive because of Mafia entrenchment.

Rod Steiger and Ewa Aulin are two of the stars. Even Charles Siragusa, a real-life U.S. detective who tailed Mafia kingpin Lucky Luciano, is in one of the movies.

The films include "The Godmother," "The Godson," "Lucky Luciano," and Alberto Anastasia.

Spending Power Is On Rise

NEW YORK (APK) — With food prices bound to rise over the next several weeks, you may expect buyers to express their disapproval more shrilly—and to go right on choosing high priced products instead of stepping down.

This has been the practice over the past few years, and most experts — if they may be called that — believe it will be the case this year too. Spending power is rising. And while Americans might skimp elsewhere in their budget, they seldom do so for long with food.

It is especially true with beef. You can trace the growing prosperity of America in the rising beef consumption. In 1920, we ate 60 pounds a year per person. This year the estimate is 118 pounds, a 10-pound rise in five years.

There are reasons for rising food prices other than growing consumer demand, of course. Subsidies and acreage restrictions contribute. So does a chronic supply-demand imbalance, as does low productivity in some areas of processing and distribution.

But it can also be shown that rising demand adds to the price pressures and that no matter how high the price goes there will be a goodly number of shoppers who will chase it still higher.

This tendency leads to the almost absurd situation of some butchers attempting to talk their customers into lower priced cuts. Overhead the other day was this response to a customer who sought to buy file mignon at $4.25 a pound: "Mister, why don't you try our ground beef?"

QUALITY AND CONVENIENCE—Gibson's Discount Pharmacy has a selection of approximately 15,000 medicines to help their customers get the service they need. Three registered pharmacists are available to fill prescriptions efficiently and promptly.

(Staff Photo)

Gibson's Discount Pharmacy Offers Convenient Service

Realizing that illness hits most people at sometime in their lives, Gibson's Discount Pharmacy strives to maintain a high quality standard of service and yet provide the medicines inexpensively.

A full staff of registered pharmacists are always on hand to aid the customer in filling his prescription needs as they arise.

And this service is available even outside of normal store hours. At least one pharmacist is ready 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to help the customer obtain medicines that may be needed quickly to combat sickness.

Several clerks are on hand to take orders and to help provide fast and efficient service for the customer. This eliminates some of the time a pharmacist would have to spend on paper work, freeing him to spend more time with filling the prescriptions.

Dean Copeland, pharmacist in charge, says all the personnel in the pharmacy work together in an effort to give the customer the fast and efficient service that has become a trademark of Gibson's. And yet the low prices are maintained.

Working with Copeland are David Burns, who has been a member of the Gibson staff for over a year, and Dick Wilson, who joined Gibson's Discount Pharmacy this year.

Filling prescriptions for the customers, all three work promptly to keep the prices down without sacrificing any of the service. And only the finest of medicines are used.

The medicines are obtained from reputable pharmacy companies at less cost and without the high overhead encountered by many smaller pharmacies.

Gibson's Discount Pharmacy carries approximately 15,000 medicines to more than meet the needs of most illnesses.

Another special feature of the pharmacy is the stock of vitamins they keep in supply.

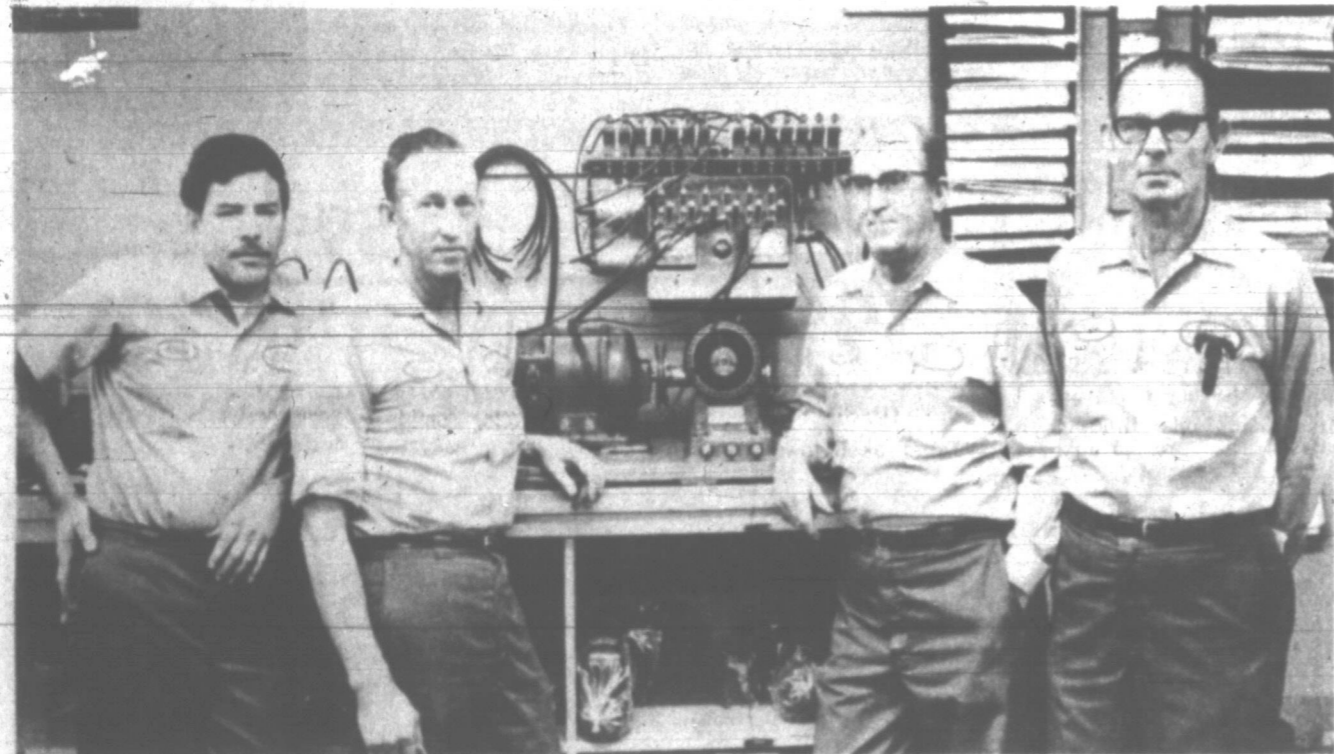

Many doctors believe many illnesses could be avoided or at least cut down if vitamins were used to supplement the regular diet.

Gibson's keeps an outstanding supply, whether its for children or for adults or for special diets.

Record Spending
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The petroleum industry plans to spend a record of $10.2 billion in capital dollars in the United States this year, a trade magazine said today.

The Oil & Gas Journal said that slightly more than half of the budgeted capital would go for exploration and production. Stepped-up refining construction also is planned.

Virginia Requirement Assailed By Spokesmen

AUSTIN (AP) — Virginia's requirement that uninsured motorists pay a special fee to get their license plates would be unconstitutional in Texas, an insurance industry spokesman said Monday.

David Irons of Dallas, representing the Association of Fire and Casualty Companies in Texas, testified before the Senate Economic Development Committee.

A bill that would set up the "Virginia Plan" in Texas was sent to a three-member subcommittee after the hearing.

The bill, by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, would require motorists to present their auto liability insurance policies before they could obtain license plates. Those without insurance would pay $60 into a fund that would be distributed from the state treasury to insure companies to help reduce premiums for uninsured motorist coverage.

Such coverage now is automatically part of the standard family auto policy, unless the policyholder specifically rejects it.

Irons said the payment of funds from the treasury to insurance companies would violate a Texas constitutional provision against using public funds for private purposes.

"If we gave the money to the Department of Public Safety to pay highway patrolmen's salaries, would that suit the insurance industry," asked Sen. William Moore, D-Bryan.

"Yes, sir, Irons said. A fully grown man, or devil ray, may be 20 feet wide from tip to tip and weigh more than 8,000 pounds.

China Is Expecting Production Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red China, which recently bought at least 400,000 bales of U.S. cotton, is expected to boost its own production of the fiber this year after having a drought-short crop in 1972, the Agriculture Department said today.

The prediction was included in a Foreign Agricultural Service report on the world cotton situation written by H. Reiter Webb Jr., a specialist in the USDA agency.

Meantime, recent rumors of a big sale of U.S. cotton to China were confirmed over the weekend.

Laurel C. Meade, general sales manager of the department, said he had received word from Plains Cotton Cooperative Association of Lubbock, Tex., that 400,000 bales of high-quality cotton it had sold to an English firm, Ralli & Coney Ltd., were destined for China.

Meade said reports that another 100,000 bales or more were being purchased by the Chinese were still unconfirmed.

In his report today, Webb said the Soviet Union appears to be stepping up cotton exports to Western Europe and Japan. The Russians, he said, produced another record cotton crop last year—the only successful crop in Soviet agriculture in 1972—and is reducing its exports to other Communist countries.

Preliminary information for 1972 indicates that this trend is continuing and that the USSR is likely to continue as a competitor for U.S. cotton in major markets, Webb said.

Officials here say China has increased cotton imports sharply to make up deficits, last year buying around 670,000 bales compared with an import average of between 300,000 and 350,000 four years ago.

The sale of U.S. cotton, estimated at approximately $78 million, follows sales last year of wheat, corn and soybean oil to China, the first American farm exports to the Communist country in more than 20 years.

Lee Walker, Bruce Childers Say Nuptial Vows In Keene

Miss Lee Ellen Walker became the bride of Bruce Layne Childers recently in the Seventh Day Adventist Church at Keene, Tex.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrell A. Miller of Keene and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Childers of Pampa.

Elder Joshua Surnyar performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with candelabra, ivy and palms.

The bride wore a formal gown of white velvet and lace fashioned in princess style. The bodice, featuring a low-cut neckline, long tapered sleeves and chapel train, were of lace accented with pearls. The skirt, of white velvet, featured a pearl edged lace pleat in the front and back. Her long veil was attached to a pearl headpiece.

Diana Walker, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Frances Jones, Brenda Pace, and Barbara White, all of Keene. They wore identical empire gowns of red velvet trimmed with white lace. Each carried a lighted candle surrounded with flowers and white streamers.

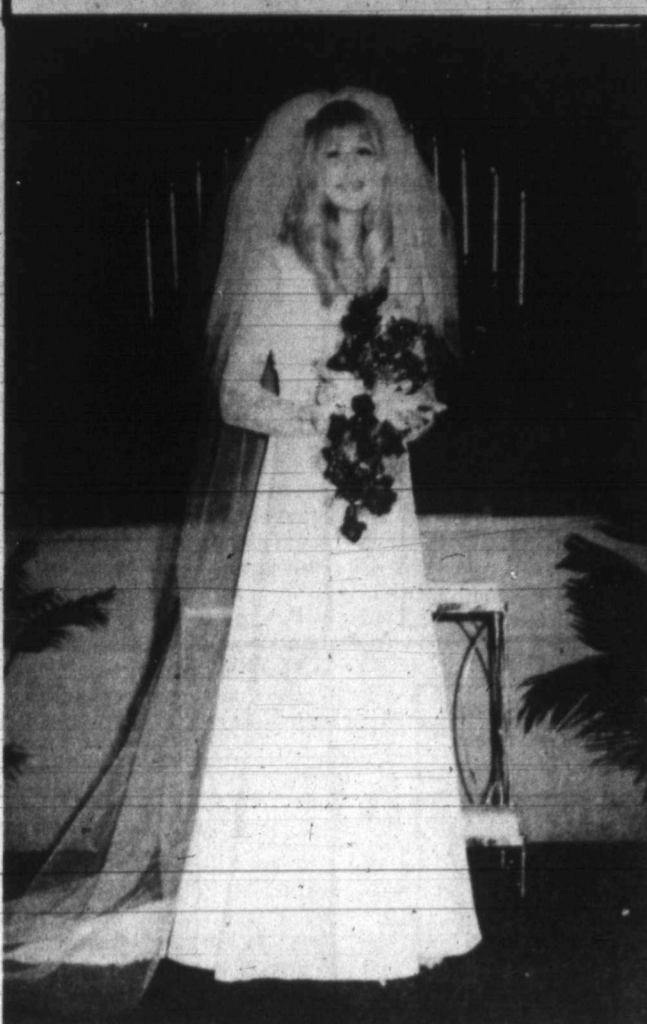

Dan Childers, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and groomsmen and ushers were Billy Sanders of Keene, Duane Hickey of Hondo, Tex., and Dan Voth of Watsonville, Calif.

The reception was held in the student center on the campus of Southwestern Union College where the bridegroom is a student. A white lace cloth covered the serving table. The seven-tiered cake, topped with wedding bells, was made and decorated by the bride and her attendants.

After a wedding trip to Red River, N.M., the couple are residing in Keene, where the bridegroom will complete his work at SUC in June and enter Harris Hospital for one year's internship before graduating as a medical technologist.

Pre-nuptial events included a shower given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood White in Keene, and one in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shaw in Pampa.

Treat Electricity With Due Respect

By BARBARA A. CURRY

The experts say "treat electricity with respect," or use grand terms like "harnessing energy to bring light into your life." Me, I verge on being terrified, so respect comes easier than fancy phrases.

If you understand what electricity is about—how home wiring works—it helps to keep your terror within tab "melts," breaking the round trip, or circuit, which then cuts off the electricity to that area. You can usually spot the burned out fuse fairly easily unless, of course, it controls the lights where the fuse box is.

Naturally, this is almost always the case, so have a flashlight handy. Always have extra fuses on hand. Ideally, although you probably won't, you should label what each fuse controls.

Before removing the fuse, pull the main switch if possible. If not, carefully unscrew the fuse with the fin-

Dear Abby

It's not the thought that counts, it's the gift

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've had a three-year romantic relationship with this guy who has got to be the cheapest man in the world. We get along just great until about two weeks before Christmas, then he picks a fight with me over nothing and we break up and I don't hear from him until after New Year's. Then he calls up and says he's sorry, and like an idiot I start up with him again.

Things are wonderful between us until just before Valentine's Day, which just happens to be my birthday. Then he pulls the same trick and disappears again so he doesn't have to give me anything for Valentine's Day or my birthday. As Feb. 14 approaches, I can see the signs already. If he pulls this again, should I tell him I'm wise to him and call it quits?
HAD IT IN CORPUS CHRISTI

DEAR HAD IT: Why don't you let him hang around until Washington's birthday? Then bury the hatchet and sever the relationship.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's favorite sister made an announcement yesterday. The man she's been going with for the past year is going to "join" her in her home.

She is 53 and was widowed several years ago. The man who is "joining" her proposed marriage to her several months ago, but she refused his offer because it would deprive her of collecting a pension left to her by her former husband.

I cannot approve of this arrangement and I told my husband that I do not wish to be in their company in the future. He feels that since it is HIS sister, he has to accept it, and he wishes to remain friendly with them.

What is your opinion?
NOT A PRUDE

DEAR NOT: If you choose to avoid your sister in law, that's your privilege, but since she is your husband's favorite sister, you can expect to be left at home while HE sees her. If you think you're punishing her by absenting yourself from her company, think again. With your self-righteous attitude, the chances are good that your husband, his sister, and her gentleman friend will have a better time without you.

DEAR ABBY: You frequently receive letters from long-suffering wives who complain because their husbands have a habit of getting "lost" in bars on their way home from work.

Allow me to suggest a solution which was used with considerable success by one such wife in Omaha: As was his custom when detained at the bar, the husband of the case telephoned home. The instant he heard his wife on the receiver at the other end of the line, he began, "Now, honey, before you say anything, I just want to..." He stopped talking when he heard his wife's voice. She was speaking in calm, modulated tones:

"When and if you decide to come home, you will find your dinner in the oven. But I won't be there. Don't try to find me. And by the way, go to hell. This is a recording."

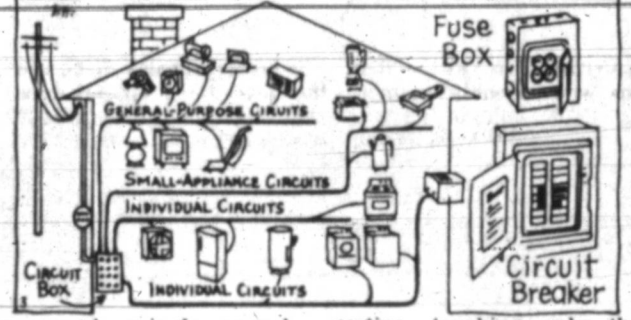

The husband rushed home in a panic. The house was dark. The wife's car was missing from the garage. To his relief, the husband found his wife in bed. She turned on a light and confirmed that the voice he had heard was no recording, it was "live."

The missing car? She had parked it around the corner on a side street. "But next time," she said, "it might not be a joke."
So far, there's been no "next time."
ROBERT McMORRIS [OMAHA WORLD HERALD]

DEAR ROBERT: Chalk-one up for the lady in Omaha!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 00706, L. A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

reason. Amazingly enough, the basic electrical system isn't wildly complicated.

Your friendly utility company supplies the main current to your house or apartment. Once the current gets there, it is split into smaller, workable electrical circuits by your fuse box or circuit breaker.

A black wire carries the current to outlets and switches, and a white wire (sometimes red) takes it back to the source. The black wire is called the "hot" wire, the white the "ground." Electricity has to be a round trip or it won't work. It's always in the wires. Outlets and switches are simply convenient "interruptions" along the way that control your use of electricity.

Big rule! When doing any electrical work in any household area, turn off its current supply at the fuse box or circuit breaker. For plug-in gadgets—appliances, lamps, whatever—always unplug before starting to work.

But first! Where is your fuse box or circuit breaker? Do you know what they look like? To find one or the other, look on the walls for a small metal door that's usually either painted closed so it won't open, or open so it won't close. In an apartment it can be anywhere, usually inconvenient. In a house, it's almost always in the basement.

The purpose of both the fuse box and the circuit breaker is the same. They split up the main current, as I said before, and they protect the wiring system from a dangerous overload of current which could overheat and cause a fire.

When overloading occurs (because of a short circuit in an appliance or more often too many things operating on the same line which draws more current than the line should handle, the fuse "blows" or the circuit breaker flips its switch to stop current from flowing into the overloaded area.

Fuses screw into sockets much like plain old light bulbs. They have a little window through which you can see a metal tab. When the circuit is overloaded, this gertips, touching only the outer edge. The circuit breaker is a new breed, a lot less trouble and a lot safer. You can't monkey with it even if you're tempted. When an overload occurs, the switch involved flips to the "off" position.

Needless to say, it doesn't make sense to replace a fuse or flip back the switch before you find out what caused the problem. Since fuses are very stubborn about protecting you, they'll just blow again. Most likely, you've turned on one too many heating appliances at the same time.

If you have one fuse that continually blows and some not-so-smart advice suggests putting a penny or a piece of foil behind the fuse so it won't blow—don't do it! Another snappy suggestion you may hear is to get a larger amp fuse—don't do that either!

The fuse and circuit breaker stand between you and an electrical fire. These fires can be nasty ones because they start in the wall, not necessarily out where you can see them. Better to be bored or mad at changing a fuse or flipping a switch than to burn up Valhalla.

Pampa Hosts Longhorns In Second Half Action

Caprock comes to Harvester Fieldhouse tonight at 8 o'clock for the second meeting of the year between the Longhorns and Pampa. The Harvesters won in the first outing between the two District 3-AAAA rivals, 61-49. That was in the season opener for each team.

All of that is long past now, however, as both teams need the win tonight as they go in quest of the district's second half title.

The crown was shared by Borger and the Tascosa Rebels after first half play in the district had been completed. Borger and Tascosa sported 4-1 records after the first five league games.

Pampa lost to each of the first half's title-holders: dropping its game with Tascosa, 44-41, and losing to the Bulldogs from Borger, 64-62, in the loop's first half finale for each team last Friday night in Borger.

Before the Harvesters get a chance at avenging either one of those losses, they have to get by the first hurdle in second half play—Caprock.

Despite a 2-3 district mark and a 13-10 over-all record, the Longhorns have played all of their district opponents very tough, close games.

Borger slipped by Caprock, 74-73, in the first meeting of those two teams on a last second field goal. The Longhorns led by as many as 12 points late in that game but the Bulldogs were able to rally for the win.

The Harvesters had essentially the same problem with Borger Friday night. It differed in only one respect. Instead of being a shot in the final seconds that doomed Pampa, it was entire fourth quarter that brought the loss down on the Harvesters.

Not that Pampa did not play good basketball in that final eight minutes, it was just that they were outplayed by the Bulldogs for the first time in the game in the quarter and that spelled the difference in the outcome.

"We were real pleased with the effort of the kids (in the Borger game)," Pampa coach Robert McPherson said. "They fought as hard to win a ball game as any high school team I've ever seen."

McPherson added, "We've got an opportunity to win this thing if we don't stump our toe. We have to play each game one at a time."

that they've matured a lot and can play under pressure."

Pampa (3-2 in league play) gets a chance tonight to do that very thing against Caprock, a team which has the talent and the desire to go out and beat any team in the district, as evidenced by its near-win over Borger.

The Longhorns also had Tascosa on pins and needles in their meeting last Friday. The Rebels came on strong in the fourth quarter of that game to win by six points, 41-35.

Whatever happened in the first half of league play, Pampa and its opponent tonight have as much at stake as any other team in the district and they will be out to get on the winning path for the last half's five games.

In the other district games tonight Borger plays Amarillo High and Tascosa and Palo Duro go at it in the Rebel gym.

Starting for the Harvesters tonight will be Steve Richardson and Billy Wilbon at the forward positions, Randy Warner and Freddy Wilbon at the post slots and A.J. Brewer at point guard.

Caprock's starters are guard Mark Glass, forwards Eddie Owens and Sonny Teague and post men Rod Skelton and Kendall Holman.

The varsity game gets underway at 8 p.m. It will be preceded by a JV contest at 6 o'clock.

Coaches Dissatisfied With Selection Method

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The two leading coaches in the American Basketball Association, preparing for tonight's All-Star game, say they are not satisfied with the way the players are picked.

The players for the teams are picked by the media.

East Coach Larry Brown of the Carolina Cougars told a news conference Monday he would like to have the teams picked by the media and the players in the league.

West Coach LaDell Andersen of the Utah Stars agreed, saying he felt factors other than scoring should be considered. He said the top 19 scorers are among the 20 players picked for the game. He said it might have made a difference if overall performance had been considered.

Meanwhile, the coaches spoke of their plans for the game and ABA Commissioner Robert Carlson talked about merger with the National Basketball Association at the league meeting in conjunction with the game.

"I think we'll run a two-platoon system in the first half," said Brown. "I'll go a quarter with the starters and put the other five in for the second quarter. In the second half, we'll use the people who seem to be having a good night. I just hope I don't overcoach them."

"We'll try for the most effective matchups," Andersen said. "I won't necessarily go for the two-platoon system, but all the players will get a chance to do what we feel they can do best."

Carlson told a news conference Monday that he expects a bill to merge the two leagues to be introduced in Congress again Thursday.

Carlson said he expects the players associations in both leagues to support the proposal. Carlson also said the league would hold its draft of college seniors April 10.

The club owners were scheduled to meet all day today.

Berry, Parker Honored

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Raymond Berry and Jim Parker, superstars in a victorious Baltimore Colts era, were named to Pro Football's Hall of Fame today along with former Detroit linebacker Joe Schmidt.

Selections were announced by Dick Gallagher, director of the shrine who said the three inductees represent the smallest number named in any year since the Hall was initiated in 1963.

The 275-pound Parker, generally considered a prototype for interior offensive linemen, was the heart of Baltimore's offensive line when John Unitas was firing the ball to Berry in the 1950s and early 1960s.

Schmidt "quarterbacked" the Detroit defense from middle linebacker, making All-Pro eight times and eventually being named head coach of the Lions.

Oddly, a disappointed Schmidt resigned his coaching job a month ago and his replacement, Don McCafferty, named Berry as his first assistant coach.

Berry's great years were 1958-60 when he led the NFL in receiving for three straight seasons and the Colts won two championships. In the famous overtime playoff against the New York Giants in 1958, Berry caught 12 passes for 178 yards in the Colt triumph.

Parker won the 1956 Outland Trophy at Ohio State as college football's No. 1 lineman and, with Baltimore, was All-Pro four times at guard and four times at tackle.

Schmidt was a stocky fullback at the University of Pittsburgh, but knee problems forced him to make a change.

Berry became a Dallas Cowboy assistant after retiring from the Colts' active roster and then moved to the University of Arkansas before returning to the NFL with Detroit last week.

Berry and Parker both retired in 1967 and the 6-foot-3 former lineman lives in Baltimore where he operates the Parker Package Co.

UCLA Bruins On Top; N.C. State In Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The membership of college basketball's Top Ten club remained unchanged today from last week but except for top-ranked UCLA and No. 2 North Carolina State there was considerable shuffling of positions.

Long Beach State, fourth last week, moved into third place in The Associated Press' poll of sports writers and sportsmanagers as Maryland lost twice and tumbled to ninth.

Indiana remained fourth. But Minnesota jumped to fifth from ninth; North Carolina moved up from eighth to sixth; Marquette advanced from 10th to seventh; Missouri fell from seventh to eighth; and Alabama fell from sixth to 10th.

UCLA again was an easy first choice. The Bruins, who beat arch-rival Southern California in their only game to run their record to 17-0, gathered 35 first-place votes and 736 points.

North Carolina State, 16-0 after beating Maryland and Virginia, got two first-place ballots and 670 points.

Making the Second Ten were Houston, Providence, Southwestern Louisiana, St. John's of New York, Memphis State, Jacksonville, San Francisco, Oral Roberts, Kansas State and New Mexico.

Raymond Berry Says Other Honors Pale

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Other honors during a superb career pale beside that of being inducted into the professional football hall of fame, honoree Raymond Berry said today.

"Is there nothing comparable? Heck, no," the native of Paris, Tex., responded. "This is just tremendous. I'm humbled."

Berry, 39, who was a Baltimore Colts receiver for 13 years until he retired in 1967, set a career record of 631 receptions that stood until last season when it was broken by Don Maynard of the New York Jets.

Typically, Berry credited much of his own success to others.

"Consider the guy I had throwing to me," he said, praising former Colt quarterback John Unitas. "That was not a bad arrangement for me, now was it?"

Berry, a regular churchgoer, says he knows the hand of God is involved in his being tapped for the honor, "just as it is in all such honors, blessings and benefits."

"Every ability and opportunity you have is a gift of God," he said. "The thing to do is to make the most of them the way God would want you to."

At 6-foot-2 and 185 pounds, which is what he still weighs, Berry never had exceptional size in his favor as a pro receiver. Nor did he have exceptional speed.

"I ran the 40 in 4.8," he said. "But he said there is a widespread misconception about how important speed is for the pro athlete."

"Speed is vital," he said. "But the misconception is over how much speed is required. There are a lot of great athletes on the Pro Bowl squads, on championship teams, people who make all-pro, who don't have near the speed everybody thinks they do. Of course, their speed is adequate."

Berry said great athletes also must have endurance, which can be the result of proper conditioning. That also can help an athlete get the most out of what speed he has, Berry said.

War Changes Location

Barring trickery by their Communist captors, American prisoners of war in Vietnam will be released in 50 days, and servicemen now serving in Vietnam will be returned to the homeland. That was the good news in the truce announced by President Nixon. Generally speaking otherwise, the American people appear to have muted their rejoicing, and we believe their conservative reception of the truce announcement is well taken. For it appears to us that the war has not so much ended as that it has changed locations. After all, the Communists are still Communists. So far they have not renounced by either word or deed their aspirations for world rule. Indeed, it would probably be impossible for the ruling elite to do so and retain the party zeal that makes their tyranny possible.

The expectation, therefore, would be for continued pressure by military incidents along the truce lines in Vietnam and in Korea with outbreaks of hostilities at other points on the globe. These outbreaks, it can be predicted, will take place at locations contiguous to the Red bloc where those countries can provide a sanctuary for combatants and afford supply routes. But in all honesty, total blame cannot be placed upon the Red regimes. Those who read Churchill's History of the English-Speaking Peoples and Lord Macaulay's History of England will recognize the pattern of belligerencies since World War II. These recent wars have in common with the wars of the past at least one element. They provide a method for placing the national population under closer regulation than the inhabitants would otherwise tolerate. War has thus become a tool of domestic policy.

That the war in Vietnam continued for 10 years when—as so many servicemen who battled there understand—it could have been ended by a denial of food grains to the enemy, signifies that the belligerency was a mutual convenience to the political governments on both sides of the conflict.

The war inflicted a division in the American populations. Both sides deplored the war and hoped for an early termination. One side would have ended the war even at the cost of defeat. The two American factions will now continue their strife to see which shall dominate the governmental apparatus from which the woes of both stem. Only a few have the clarity of vision to recognize that reduction of political power is the only means for reducing the damage that political power inevitably causes.

Weather Now in Arsenal

Weather has been added to the arsenal of the U.S. military. But, according to Edward Epstein, head of the University of Michigan's department of meteorology, "geophysical warfare, or the manipulation of weather for military purposes, most certainly cannot be compared to the apocalyptic weapons now available to modern armies." Causing severe storms by cloud seeding could hamper enemy movements, while dispersing clouds and fogs can be used to aid bombing.

There have been rumors that the military is also interested in more potent weather-warfare aids such as using earthquakes and giant tidal waves as weapons. But, like other of our super-modern, ultra-effective weapons, the results of their uses remains highly unpredictable. Causing earthquakes or giant waves, Epstein says, "is far too hazardous for all concerned. The results are unpredictable and could just as easily affect friend as foe."

Where Will History Put Mr. Nixon?

By PAUL HARVEY
President Nixon's popularity is as great as it is going to be for a while.

Daring diplomacy, perfect political strategy and the tides of history carried Richard Nixon to such heights that from up there all directions are down. What is likely to be this President's place in history? President Nixon says, "Sen. McGovern was defeated the day he was nominated."

Listen to the President's reasoning; it explains him: "When any candidate takes basically an extreme position on issues, inevitably he splits his own party and assures his own defeat."

And this replies to the President's critics, left and right, who have complained that he deserted them.

Now, with a luxurious mandate representing the widest possible spectrum of political opinion, President Nixon—during what must be his last four years—can dare to be more narrowly definitive in his policies and pronouncements.

President Nixon has watched our nation, since F.D.R., concentrate more and more power in Washington. More and more, our states and our citizens have yielded prerogatives to "big government."

He believes if the republic is to remain a republic that power must again be diffused.

In his own words, we will stop trying "to hide our problems under piles of money" and seek, instead, to solve those problems.

Where his previous Cabinet was comprised of reorganizers, his new Cabinet appointees are trouble-shooters, problem solvers.

His previous Cabinet was largely a defensive team, the new one will be more an offensive team. This team will try to run the ball back toward the goal of State's rights and individual self-reliance, toward "big people" as opposed to "big government."

That much I know; this much I believe.

President Nixon would like future historians, looking back on his 26 years in public life, to note his capacity for "growth" and I expect they will.

President Nixon is not lovable; he is admirable. He will not be revered; he will be respected.

I recall no man ever elected to the Presidency of the United States whose "understanding" was immediately capable of filling those huge shoes.

Each past President increased in stature until he more nearly did—or else proved incapable of growth.

In an era of vastly accelerated evolution, this President's greatest challenge is to manipulate our own sails so that the winds which could blow us backward or onto the rocks will propel us, instead, ahead.

If he can, though historians may blow him no kisses, they will stand in salute.

No Excuse For Littering

TERRE HAUTE, IND., TRIBUNE: "Litterbug sounds cute, but there's nothing in the least cute about the litterbug. He—or she, for the female of the species is as deadly as the male—is rather a nasty creature who brings to mind the bird that fouls its own nest. More or less innocent carelessness plays a part in littering, granted. Is carelessness much of an excuse? We think not. A park or picnic ground or roadside blighted with people residue—scraps of paper, garbage, throwaway cups and cans and bottles—is no less so because the litterers were not vicious nor nasty, but simply careless. The results are the same."

Technology's Ill Use Our Real Foe

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—With more and more people shouting "energy crisis" on the one hand, and the developers of resources and living places chewing up the landscape on the other, we could do with some clear thinking. No better way to start than with this business of "technology." To begin, let's drop this notion that man and technology are somehow enemies, that technology inevitably "dehumanizes" man and must therefore be curbed, stopped, even run away from. The distinguished Mexican historian, Prof. Edmundo O'Gorman, laid it out clearly in a lecture at the Smithsonian's Museum of History and Technology. Man's goal through eons of time has never been to harmonize with Nature. He is a rebel against Nature. All other animals accept and try to adapt to the hostile, adverse circumstances this earth lays upon them. Man sees these as a kind of "cosmic injustice" from the beginning, he has sought to change these circumstances, to create within the universe as "world," more suitable to him. His armament for this struggle has been technology. Far from being "alien" to him, it is his deliberately forged, very personal weapon of rebellion. To attempt to consider it apart from him, as some sort of impersonal force lying outside of him, is to misunderstand it altogether.

Thus, in O'Gorman's view, to blame "technology" as such for any of man's ills is "like reproaching the iceberg for sinking the Titanic." If you should stumble upon some country commune peopled today by a band of folk retreating from the smog, dirt, noise and chaos of this urban society, you may automatically feel some sympathy. Yet, pity should be the broader response. They are not embracing man's "humanity," as they imagine, but denying it. For, again, man has spent his whole existence building a human edifice to free him of Nature's cruelties—disease, filth, cold, flood, famine. He has, says O'Gorman, always had a "project of life," a program, driven mainly by the engines of technology, to lift him up. Call the project civilization. There have been many, and there are now. What they have in common, what gives human history its unity, is that they are all projects of life, directed toward betterment—whether or not they achieve it.

H. L. Hunt Writes

THE RICHARDSON AND WEINBERGER APPOINTMENTS

Shortly after his re-election in November, President Nixon announced his appointments of the men to head the two biggest and most costly departments of the Federal government for his second term: Elliot Richardson as Secretary of Defense, and Caspar Weinberger as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. These appointments will be coming up for Senate confirmation early in the current session of the 93rd Congress, just convened. They are fraught with grave danger for our country. As Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Richardson proved to be easily influenced and often dominated by farleft ideologues whose hostility to a strong national defense is well known. A member of the Council on Foreign Relations, Richardson has endorsed the proposals of a State Department clique which for years has been pushing for a giving our nuclear submarine technology to other countries. And a former Defense Department official reports him to have strongly opposed restrictions on trade in strategic materials with the Soviet Union.

No wonder this appointment, according to columnists Evans and Novak, "has caused singular disquiet in the defense community" and was strongly opposed by G. Warren Nutter, present Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security. Weinberger has won a reputation for fiscal conservatism, but his past record belies this. Former Congressman John G. Schmitz of California has pointed out that as California State Finance Director in 1968, Weinberger was responsible for one of the largest budget increases in that state's history, and that in 1964 he was known as "Rockefeller's man in California." These appointments should be much more closely scrutinized and the Senate should be urged to reject them.

Confidence thrives only on honesty, on honor, on the sacredness of obligations, on faithful protection and on unselfish performance. Without them it cannot live.—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Inside Washington

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — A new chapter is opening in the long struggle for recomputation of military retired pay.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee, is reintroducing his "one-shot" recomputation proposal which was approved in the Senate by an overwhelming 82 to 4 vote last year, only to be subsequently junked in secret deliberations of a House-Senate conference committee.

In reoffering his measure, Hartke says he has assurances from leaders of the Armed Services Committee that public hearings will be held. So far, none have been scheduled. Also, there is no indication when they will be.

Last fall, when Hartke's recomputation bill (attached as an amendment to the multi-billion-dollar military procurement authorization measure) was ditched at the insistence of the House conferees, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., was explicit in promising hearings on the issue this year.

On the Senate floor he stated hearings would be held by the Senate Armed Services Committee "early in 1973 with the objective of reporting out a bill by April 15."

If and when that commitment will be made good remains to be seen.

Hartke confidently thinks it will be — although no date has yet been set. Similarly, he professes not to be discouraged by the recent report of a special House Armed Services Subcommittee flatly rejecting the recomputation principle. While conceding this is an adverse factor, Hartke feels it is not insurmountable. "I haven't the slightest doubt," he said, "that if recomputation can be brought to a vote in the House and Senate, it will be passed as decisively as it was approved by the Senate 82 to 4 last year. I am also convinced it will be brought to a vote in the House, as it is going to be in the Senate."

"It will take some doing in the House, but I am sure it will be done. Time and events will bear me out on that."

How It'll Be Done While hopeful his "one-shot" recomputation bill will be sanctioned by the Senate Armed Services Committee, Hartke isn't wholly counting on that. If the committee doesn't give it favorable consideration, he will again offer it as an amendment to some priority military legislation—and thus force a showdown vote on it.

"In that event," he declared, "I am sure the result will be the same as last year. It will be passed overwhelmingly by the Senate."

What happens after that is conjectural. Hartke admits that if the issue again goes to conference with the House Armed Services Committee, his amendment would be in serious jeopardy—particularly in view of the recent adverse report. But he thinks there is a chance that a recomputation amendment can be maneuvered to a vote in the House.

Admittedly that would be difficult under normal House procedure. But a way could be found if support for the measure is sufficiently strong in the House to force consideration.

It largely depends on the extent and pressure of rank-and-file backing. If it's powerful enough, the House leadership will have to give away.

Hartke's proposal provides the following on the basis of Jan. 1, 1972 pay rates:

- (1) Immediate one-time recomputation for military retirees with a disability of 30 per cent or more; (2) the same for non-disability retirees age 60 or older; (3) the pensions of all other non-disability retirees to be recomputed upon reaching age 60.

"My plan is fair and equitable to the nearly one million military retirees," said Hartke, "and reasonable in cost. Congress cut off recomputation rights in 1963, and as a result, military retirees with the same rank and the same number of years of service receive widely different retirement benefits. That doesn't make sense on any basis."

"Congress perpetrated this gross injustice, and it should remedy it. It's long overdue." Estimated cost of Hartke's bill is $275 million—$13 million less than a "one-shot" recomputation plan projected by the Pentagon last year but never pressed for consideration.

What Next? With the Vietnam war concluded (at least as far as the U.S. is concerned) radical youth leaders are pondering what next to start agitating and demonstrating for and about.

Secret pow-wowing is taking place among officials of the Marxist-Leninist Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), the Worker Student Alliance (WSA), and various other leftist youth organizations and splinters. WSA, an offshoot of SDS, is now dominated by the Communist Progressive Labor Party (PLP). The desperado Weathermen, another SDS offshoot, are not in on this backstage parleying. Since their mindless 1970-72 bombings, including the Pentagon and the Senate wing of the Capitol, the fanatical Weathermen have gone underground. More than 30 of them are fugitives, on indictments including murder. The Worker Student Alliance, which split off from the SDS in 1969, now regards itself as the "only true SDS." A third split-off, the Revolutionary Youth Movement, has virtually disappeared; nothing remains of it except a minuscule hard-core of extremists.

"Given a free press, we may defy open or insidious enemies of liberty."
