Fighter Plane Crashes Into Apartment Houses

ONLY AN EXERCISE — Israeli artillery fire clouds the horizon in the Jordan Valley. It's the Golani Brigade on a 24-hour "attack" on "fortified positions." With a lull in Mid-East hostilities, except for minor skirmishes, the attack is only practice in preparation for possible resumption of the years-old conflict.

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Rescue crews searched today for more victims believed buried in charred debris after a Navy fighter jet crashed into an apartment house and exploded, touching off an inferno that spread to two adjoining apartment buildings. The local fire chief said as many as 40 persons may have perished.

Four persons were known dead and at least 17 were injured, with an unknown number of missing, including the plane's pilot. Many residents of the apartments were families of Navy men assigned to the nearby base where the plane was headed when it crashed Wednesday night.

Fire Chief Ernest Servente estimated that 42 to 45 tenants were inside when the jet slammed into the four-story, 27-unit stucco apartment building. The building exploded in flames and witnesses said they saw only a very few people escape.

Servente said that "it probably will take all day" for firemen, Marines, coroner's officials and rescue squad members to sift through the heap of steaming rubble that remained of the apartments.

Authorities said that in all, more than 200 persons were believed living in the buildings affected by the crash and fire in the San Francisco Bay area community.

"There's no question they're going to be pulling bodies out of there. There's no knowing how many are dead," said city councilman Malcolm Longaker.

Intense heat prevented workers from entering the rubble for several hours after the 8:25 p.m. PST crash. Workers wearing asbestos clothing and firemen protected by a stream of water finally were able to start a search of the smoldering, charred debris.

Military investigators prowled the area in a hunt for pieces of the aircraft.

The building struck by the A7 Corsair was a wooden, four-story, open-courtyard type. One of the adjoining apartment buildings was leveled, another damaged.

Witnesses in the residential area said they heard a "whining" noise just before the crash. Then there was an explosion that sent flames and smoke several hundred feet into the air; they said. James Haverberg, who lives across the street from the building hit by the plane, estimated that 75 persons were inside.

"As soon as it happened ... I was there in about 30 or 40 seconds and some guy helped me crawl in there and get this woman out and by that time it was really getting hot," he said. "I didn't see anybody else get out. I didn't see anyone leave on their own. The entire thing was too hot. There was no warning at all."

"It felt like an earthquake," said Lupie Perez, who lived in the rear of the four-story building. "We tried to get out, but the doors were jammed. Someone told us to get out in a hurry and kicked out the door, and we managed to get out," she said. Eyewitnesses said the plane came in low, heading in a westerly direction.

ON POWs

Peace Parties Hold Meetings

SAIGON (AP) — The four parties to the Vietnam cease-fire agreement held a series of meetings today, making arrangements for the release of the first group of American prisoners held in south Vietnam this weekend. U.S. officials said.

A senior American official in Saigon said Wednesday that the first group would be freed Saturday, but later reports from Defense Department sources in Washington said 27 prisoners of war would be handed over on Sunday.

U.S. officials said representatives of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong were ironing out the final details today. They would not elaborate.

The Pentagon sources said the Viet Cong plans to make the first transfer near An Loc, a provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon.

There was still no firm word on release of the first American prisoners by North Vietnam, but indications were that it would come in Hanoi early next week during the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Viet Cong, meanwhile, accused the Saigon government of violating the cease-fire agreement by releasing some 10,600 POWs who Saigon said changed their allegiance after political indoctrination.

A Viet Cong broadcast said the release violated Articles 1 and 5 of the prisoner protocol. Article 1 says all captured Vietnamese military personnel shall be returned to the South Vietnamese party under whose command they served. Article 5 specifies that the prisoners shall be returned at sites agreed upon by the Joint Military Commission, made up of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Canada, a member of the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision, announced that it has formally recognized the government of North Vietnam as a demonstration of its "objectivity and impartiality."

Michel Gauvin, the Canadian chairman of the International Commission, told a news conference that the South Vietnamese government — which Canada also recognizes — has accepted the recognition of North Vietnam as "realistic, dispassionate and very logical."

Canada is the only member of the commission to recognize both Vietnam, Hungary and Poland recognize only North Vietnam, and Indonesia recognizes only South Vietnam.

ON WATERGATE PROBE

Senate Rejects GOP Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting Republican attempts to expand its focus, the Senate has voted to form a special committee to investigate the Watergate bugging incident and other allegations of GOP political espionage against Democrats in 1972.

The vote Wednesday was 77 to 0 after Republican senators failed to gain equal membership on the panel and to broaden its inquiry to include charges of Democratic misdeeds in the 1964 and 1968 campaigns.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who has been designated chairman, said the committee probably won't be ready to begin public hearings for a couple of months.

Members of the panel will be named by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has pledged administration cooperation with any nonpartisan investigation. The White House was reported to favor an evenly divided committee. Two former officials of President Nixon's re-election campaign were convicted by a U.S. District Court Jan. 30 of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping in connection with the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex in Washington. Five other persons, including a former Nixon security man, pleaded guilty to similar charges early in the trial.

Democrats initiated the congressional probe, saying the trial failed to investigate the bugging, partly because the Nixon administration's Justice Department was reluctant to fully probe allegations that high-ranking White House officials approved the operation.

Debate on the resolution Wednesday often was acrimonious with Republicans accusing the Democrats of trying to stack the committee so they could conduct a partisan probe aimed solely at discrediting the GOP.

IN LAOS

Rogers Expects End Of Battles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the United States expects a Laos cease-fire soon and a withdrawal of all foreign forces from that country.

By U.S. estimate, some 60,000 North Vietnamese troops are in Laos, which has been a prime transit route for North Vietnamese forces heading to neighboring South Vietnam.

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rogers also got clear notice from Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., to go slow on pushing postwar U.S. reconstruction aid for North Vietnam.

Rogers said that the Nixon administration has not yet made any commitment for American economic help to Hanoi although he said it would be "an investment in peace" when supplied.

The secretary of state said other countries are considering providing postwar rebuilding assistance to Indochina too, and whatever U.S. aid money is involved "would be subject to congressional approval."

Kissinger Stops At Bangkok

BANGKOK (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Bangkok tonight to confer with Thai leaders and the American ambassadors to Indochina before taking off for Hanoi and Peking.

Kissinger, President Nixon's top foreign affairs adviser, stepped from the plane that brought him from Washington about 7:30 p.m. and drove with his 25-member entourage straight to the government-owned Erawan Hotel.

During his 24 hours in Bangkok, Kissinger will meet with Premier Thanom Kittikachorn and other cabinet and military officials.

Thanom told newsmen he would ask Kissinger for greater military and economic assistance, particularly for fighting Communist guerrillas. He made the same request to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew last week.

Kissinger has given no indication of topics he wishes to discuss, Thanom said. But Foreign Ministry sources said the long-term presence of American servicemen, now numbering something over 40,000, was likely to come up in detail.

Violent Attacks Continue Across Northern Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Five more persons were killed in Belfast as gun battles, bombing, rioting and arson raged across the capital of Northern Ireland.

The victims Wednesday night included a fireman shot by a sniper, a youngster murdered by an assassination squad and three Protestant guerrillas killed in a shootout with the British army. The confirmed death toll in 3 1/2 years of religious warfare rose to 717.

Rioting was widespread at one time every available fire engine in Belfast was at work; and the army was under fire from both sides.

"We have lost count of the number of homes and shops bombed and burned," a police spokesman said during the evening.

Roman Catholic homes also were burned in at least three other towns.

Protestant hoodlums roaming in packs called Tartan Gangs desecrated a Roman Catholic church in Belfast and started to smash up the home of the parish priest, but the army drove them off with a barrage of rubber bullets.

Other Tartans set fire to another Catholic church and besieged a convent school for mentally handicapped children. The 25 children were getting

APPROVAL EXPECTED

House Debates Bills On Reporters, Lobbies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Bills protecting reporters' confidential sources and regulating lobbyist activities were expected to win final House passage today.

Approval of the two measures, both backed by Speaker Price Daniel Jr., would send them on to the Senate for further action.

The House worked from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, with breaks for lunch and supper, to finish debate on the two bills.

After a 101-41 test vote to defeat a crippling amendment the House went on to give the so-called newsmen's shield bill preliminary approval, 135-8, Wednesday night.

The lobby registration and reporting bill advanced Wednesday evening, 156-27, with Daniel casting a crucial tying vote that killed an amendment described as a "gigantic loophole."

Rep. Dave Allred, D-Wichita Falls, a former newsmen and the son of the late Gov. James Allred, sponsored the newsmen's shield bill, which he said would help preserve the flow of needed information from confidential sources.

"This is not a bill for the press or the reporters so much as it is a bill for the public—for the public's rights to know," he said.

Allred's bill would prohibit grand juries and other investigative bodies from forcing newsmen to reveal confidential sources and information obtained in confidence.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Amarilloan Seeks Demo Nomination

By LARRY HOLLIS

A former record producer has announced his candidacy for representative from the 13th U.S. Congressional District against Rep. Bob Price of Pampa.

Ray Ruffin, an Amarillo resident, revealed his intentions to seek the Democratic nomination for representative in next spring's primary elections over a year away.

"You can't start early enough," Ruffin said in a visit to the Pampa area yesterday. Ruffin said his primary interest now is to meet a number of people and to form an organization for the contest against Republican Price, who is expected to seek another term.

A graduate of Amarillo schools, Ruffin said he had some ideas and opinions of his own, but "I believe a representative should represent the people."

He added that there will be time later on for meetings and speaking engagements. Right now he's interested in hearing the ideas of others.

Ruffin was born and raised in Amarillo and attended West Texas State University in Canyon and Amarillo Junior College.

From 1960 to 1965 he toured with his rock combo, Ray Ruff and the Checkmates, who had several chart records.

In 1969 he went to California to work on "The Truth of Truths," an opera based on the Old and New Testaments of the

A recent U.S. Supreme Court decision raised the issue by ruling that the U.S. Constitution does not exempt reporters from testifying about such information and confidential sources when ordered to do so.

The lobby control bill would require lobbyists not only to register, as they must now, but also to report periodically on their activities. They would have to furnish lists of legislators to whom they make contributions, gifts or loans of more than $50 in any month of a legislative session. A 12-member state ethics commission would administer the act. A lobbyist could go to jail for up to two years and pay a fine of $1,000 to $10,000 if caught violating any provision of the lobby control measure, such as making false statements to legislators or state officials. The bill forbids employment of lobbyists with fees contingent on success in passing or killing certain bills.

"The purpose of this bill is to trace where the money comes from, see where the money is going and make this information available to the public and to us in one central place," said the lobby control bill's sponsor, Rep. John Bigham, D-Bellon.

Daniel later called the measure "the best lobby regulation bill ever passed by a legislative body in this nation."

"The House has now clearly demonstrated its commitment to reform and openness in state government and to better serving the public interest," Daniel said.

Daniel's vote forced a 72-72 tie that blocked an amendment by Rep. DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi. A co-sponsor of the bill, Rep. Arthur Temple, D-Boll, called the amendment a "gigantic loophole."

The amendment would have exempted from lobby registration anyone contacting his legislators, the governor or lieutenant governor on his own behalf. Temple and Bigham said this would allow lobby groups to funnel campaign contributions and other attempts at influence through people in a speaker's or other lawmaker's home district without reporting them. They said the bill already allowed anyone to communicate with his legislators without registering as long as he did not spend $150 to do so in a calendar quarter.

The four miles of Loop 171 connecting State 70 and U.S. 60 will be finished in April, Kelley said. Another project on Highway 70 north of Pampa to rebuild and widen the highway from Chicken Creek south about seven miles should be under contract this year.

Due to the failure of the last Congress to enact a new law regulating Federal Highway Trust Funds and the impounding of existing funds by the President, all future highway programs are now in suspense. The Texas Highway Commission now has a backlog of approximately $200 million in approved projects, according to Kelley.

Future projects considered by the committee included completion of the four-lane divided highway from Borger to Pampa. It was agreed preliminary work should be started even though prospects for funding are not good at this time. Also, since Highway 273 has been extended from McLean to Hedley, the committee agreed this portion of the highway should be widened and upgraded to primary highway standards.

Those attending the meeting were Fred Thompson, committee chairman; Harold Barrett, vice chairman; Howard Buckingham, Jr., Milo Carlson, Ray Duncan, Tom Kelley, James McCune, G.K. Reading, Roy Sparkman and Bill Tidwell.

Bible. The project took him five years to complete, he said.

During the same period, he produced records for various recording artists, including the Osmonds, Pat Boone, Brian Hyland and Oral Roberts.

He also played some professional baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

He moved back to Amarillo about six months ago. He operates a quarter-horse ranch, which he has owned for about 3 1/2 years, he said, near Old Tascosa. He owns the world champion cutting horse, Senor George.

Ruffin announced his candidacy during a news conference in Amarillo on Jan. 31.

RAY RUFFIN seeks election

IN CONGRESS, PRESS

Republicans Launch Attacks Against Nixon's War Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking their lead from President Nixon, some of his Republican allies have launched an attack on longtime congressional and press critics of his Vietnam policies.

In recent days, Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and John G. Tower, R-Tex., issued lengthy statements, one recalling war foes' attacks on Nixon's policies and the other listing various unsuccessful moves to force an end to the war.

In addition, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who recently stepped down as Republican national chairman, has proposed a congressional investigation of the origins of the war, with emphasis on events that occurred under the late Democratic President John F. Kennedy.

Nixon himself was asked at his news conference last Thursday if he had anything in mind to help heal national wounds over the war, specifically in relation to possible amnesty for draft evaders.

He said "we do" want wounds healed but attacked the idea of amnesty, saying "the most vigorous criticism or, shall we say, the least pleasure out of the peace agreement comes from those who were the most outspoken advocates of peace at any price."

Tower, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, placed a statement in Wednesday's Congressional Record entitled "Misguided Efforts to End the War in Vietnam."

"It included six pages of antiwar amendments and resolutions introduced over the past three years.

"There were many mistakes in handling the Vietnam war," said the Texas Republican. "I shall always regret the persistent misguided efforts by certain members of Congress to restrict the authority of the commander-in-chief while our men were still fighting overseas."

Tower declared that "congressional interference culminated in Sen. McGovern's campaign proposal in 1972 to withdraw unilaterally without making arrangements to get our prisoners back and our missing accounted for" and said "each of these cut-and-run plans tended to give the enemy encouragement to hold out, to refuse serious negotiation.

"Had some members of Congress not given Hanoi so much encouragement to abstain from serious negotiations," he added, "a just settlement in all probability could have come earlier."

A day earlier, Goldwater placed in the Record a compilation of anti-Nixon statements by newspapers, columnists and antiwar senators that he said he had mailed to 10,000 persons at his own expense.

"I did this because from the experience I had in 1964, I wanted to be able to show the public just what a man is subjected to by elements of the press and media that do not happen to agree with his philosophy," the 1964 GOP presidential nominee said.

He listed excerpts from editorials, columns and commentaries in The New York Times, Washington Star-News, Washington Post and St. Louis Post-Dispatch, on NBC, CBS, and ABC, and in Newsweek and Time, plus statements by eight senators and two House members, all Democrats, including 1972 presidential nominee George McGovern and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

A similar listing was placed in the Record by Rep. Robert Hubert, a freshman GOP congressman from Michigan.

Thompson Running For Commissioner

H.R. (Ray) Thompson Jr., son of a former Pampa mayor, filed his candidacy this forenoon for city commissioner in Ward 1.

Thompson is the first candidate to seek the post now held by Commissioner George B. Cree Jr., whose term is expiring and who no longer resides in the ward.

Thompson resides with his wife, Johnnie, and daughters Beckie, 16, Linda, 14, at 100 W. Nicki. A son, Douglas, 19, is a resident of Dallas.

H.R. (Ray) THOMPSON files for council seat

The offices of mayor and Ward 1 and 3 commissioners are to be filled in the upcoming city election Tuesday, April 3.

Two other candidates have filed for the Ward 3 seat on the council. Leo Braswell is seeking re-election and William T. Broxson, 832 E. Craven, is also a Ward 3 candidate.

Mayor Milo Carlson, now serving his second two-year term, has indicated he will not run for re-election.

Deadline for filing in the city election is March 3.

PET WORTH THE PAYMENT COVENTRY, England (AP) — Mrs. Audrey Braddock believes in paying for what she gets.

She makes a two-mile round trip to collect canal water for her gold fish, which, she believes, thrive on it.

But she felt she should pay for the jugful she takes twice a week. So the British Waterways Board drew up a special four-year contract, and Mrs. Braddock paid the full fee of one pound — that's around $2.40 — in advance.

Said Mrs. Braddock: "Nothing in life is free. It's only right that I should pay for the water and I was pleased to sign the contract. My goldfish are happier in canal water than that out of a tap."

FROM BUS ACCIDENT

Insurance Firm Seeks Injunction For Claims

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — An Iowa insurance firm is seeking a federal court injunction to prevent the estates of 19 victims of a bus-truck crash near Fort Sumner last December from filing insurance claims against it.

Automobile Underwriters Crop of Iowa, which insured truck driver Erby G. Wilmet, filed its petition in U.S. District Court Wednesday.

It contends the accident was caused by the negligence of the State Highway Commission, bus driver Jerry Estes of San Antonio, Tex., and the Texas firm that leased the bus to Woodlawn Baptist Church of Austin, Tex.

The firm named as defendants the estates of the 19 Woodlawn members, mostly young persons, killed in the Dec. 26 crash on a narrow U.S. 60-84 bridge. The 17 injured bus passengers. Estes, who was killed in the collision, and Transportation Enterprises, Inc. of Austin, which owned the bus.

Automobile Underwriters said in the suit it disclaims any liability for the tragedy and asked for a restraining order to keep the defendants from instituting legal proceedings affecting the insurance coverage.

The suit also asks the court to decide which, if any, of the defendants are entitled to compensation from the $10,000 policy.

The accident involving a loaded cattle truck driven by Wilmet, who was injured, and the bus carrying the Woodlawn group to an outing in northern New Mexico occurred east of Fort Sumner.

State police have declined to fix responsibility for the accident with either driver Federal, state and local investigations have criticized the bridge, described as outdated, too narrow and lacking adequate warning signs.

The suit said the Highway Commission had the duty "to maintain the bridge and highway in question in a safe and reasonable manner."

Lawyers Gather Forces Against No-Fault Rules

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lawyers from across the nation are marshaling forces to block a federal no-fault automobile insurance law as the American Bar Association convenes today for its midyear meeting.

The coordinating committee of state bar presidents scheduled a meeting this evening on the no-fault issue, and the panel's decision could be decisive says Ernest H. Fremont Jr., the Kansas City, Mo., lawyer who heads it.

A successful effort to put ABA on record opposing federal action on no-fault was led by the bar presidents last summer.

At the same time, a bill to create a federal no-fault program, sponsored by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., failed by a 49-47 vote.

"We turned their thinking around," Fremont said, "and I think we'll turn it around again."

Hart and Magnuson have reintroduced the measure this year and say its chances are "much improved."

No-fault insurance limits—and in its "purest" form, eliminates—law suits to recover damages in auto accidents since it is not necessary to determine who was at fault. Instead, each victim's insurance company pays its client's losses and medical bills.

Fremont favors state-by-state action on no-fault. "Congress doesn't have any business in insurance law," he said. "I don't believe you can standardize the law. It can't be applied universally."

However, the House of Delegates is due next week to receive a recommendation on a law that its authors call the "boldest effort yet" in the field of auto-accident litigation.

Nixon Loses First Battle For Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid congressional cries of whiplashing, bullet-biting and belaying over the battle of the budget, President Nixon has lost an opening skirmish—but indications are that he may eventually veto to victory.

After rejecting Republican ideas for compromise, the House voted Wednesday to require Nixon to restart the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) he ordered halted last Christmas. REAP helps farmers save their soil.

With 199 Democrats and 52 Republicans in favor of making REAP mandatory with $225 million through June 30, Nixon was beaten 251 to 142. Twenty Democrats voted against the bill.

But, if it had been a ballot to override a veto, Nixon would have won by 11 votes. A two-thirds majority is needed to override. Many believe another presidential veto is assured if it passes the Senate.

When several Republicans raised the threat of veto, Rep. W.R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the Agriculture Committee and chief advocate of the bill, responded in House debate: "Let him crack his whip!"

But Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said Nixon "asked Congress to go with him in cutting expenditures... and this is the first" let we're being asked to use. It may not be much money, but the world is watching the House to see if we have the courage to do the tough thing."

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., launched a series of efforts to amend the bill with proposals he called crucial to obtaining financial responsibility, said as long as Congress won't do what's needed in the budget. "We should applaud and not belay when the President does the job we should be doing."

Nixon killed REAP on grounds it is a low-priority program with no place in a tight budget. Democrats in Congress say it is up to the legislative branch to set spending priorities, and they accuse Nixon of stealing their power.

Inner Peace Movement Lecturer To Talk Here

Charles Mulcahey of Indianapolis, Ind., representative of Inner Peace Movement, non-political, non-profit and non-sectarian organization with headquarters in Washington, D.C., will lecture in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn Friday and Saturday nights.

Topic of his 8 p.m. Friday address will be "Discovering Your True Identity." An organizational meeting for a local chapter is scheduled at the 7:30 p.m. Saturday meeting.

Mulcahey said the Inner Peace Movement revolves around a program of self-development including understanding of the individual's psychic nature and life after death.

"The primary emphasis is placed on what you can do for yourself," he said. "The Inner Peace Movement, according to Mulcahey, is designed to help man identify and balance the physical, mental and spiritual forces in life so he can mold his own destiny and become the architect of his own success.

Mulcahey said it is hoped enough interest will be shown in Pampa to provide a community program through which local citizens may determine their potential resources for personal development and effective living.

Mrs. Mary Helen Ellis, junior high department chairman and Robert E. Lee Junior High English teacher, will direct a session on "Look! Think! Write! (Communications Based on Open-End Films, for grades 7-12)."

She will be assisted in her presentation by Mrs. Betty Cain, Pampa Junior High English teacher.

Mrs. Mabel Torvie, Pampa High School English teacher and department head, and Bill Hayes, PHS humanities teacher, will present "Objectives in Humanity: Bridging the Communications Gap, for grades 10-12," in their workshop session.

Mrs. Bette Truly, PHS English teacher, will also be attending the workshop.

Theme of the state workshop is "Meeting the Communications Shock."

Keynote speaker for the 2 p.m. Friday general session will be Prof. Hans Guth of the English department at San Jose State College of California.

English Prof. Owen Thomas of Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., will address the 8 p.m. Friday general session.

The workshop will conclude with an authors luncheon on Saturday.

When The Wind Blows, Windows Crack, Shatter

BOSTON (AP) — Plywood patches cover sections of New England's tallest building. When the wind blows hard, some of the glass panels of the skyscraper's exterior walls crack and fall, shattering on the streets below.

After spending $95 million and waiting through four years of construction, the owner, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., cannot move in.

The firm's new corporate headquarters — a 60-story, mirror-like high-rise angled into a corner of Boston's Copley Square — is too dangerous to walk near when stiff winds gust into the harbor.

Engineers don't know why the glass breaks or how to stop it. The insurance company wanted to move in at the end of February but now will have to wait six months or more while engineers try to find a way to keep the glass from falling.

Solutions range from changing the window gaskets to replacing the glass that covers 90 per cent of the building — the latter a job that could cost up to $8 million. The 16 acres of exterior walls are covered by 10,348 huge glass panes.

At last count, 340 of the panes had been broken. Officials are not sure how many were popped by the wind and how many were smashed by falling shards of glass. The company says up to 660 others have been nicked or scratched and most will have to be replaced.

Hancock carries casualty insurance on the building through another company. The policy covers window breakage and weather damage, but would not cover replacement if the breakage is due to architectural error.

When winds at the top of the tower hit 45 miles an hour, police block off streets around the building to protect pedestrians from flying glass. This happens about twice a month. And when the winds reach 50 m.p.h., the panes begin to crack and smash.

On Jan. 20, winds to 75 m.p.h. smashed 15 to 20 of the $750 panes, and flying glass broke another 40 to 50. Hundreds of others were scratched.

Thus far, there have been no reported injuries.

Officers Act On Drug Tip

Acting on what he termed "confidential information," police officer Bryan Stafford obtained a search warrant from Justice of the Peace Ed Anderson to check a local residence for illicit drugs.

Accompanied by Police Chief Jim Conner and Assistant Chief George Wallace, Stafford went to the home of a man suspected of selling valium pills.

According to the official report, nothing was found for a case substantial enough to jeopardize the safety and identity of the police informant.

Burglars Strike Two Businesses

Burglars made two strikes in Pampa last night — at a service station on North Hobart and a liquor store on East Frederick.

Entering and leaving by an overhead opening door with a broken glass, thieves took $150 in cash, two new Sonic tires and two cases of oil and oil products from the station.

At the Service Liquor Store an undetermined amount of money was taken, including some roles of collector items from a cigar box. Other currency was contained in two money bags hidden on the premises.

Entry was made into the liquor store through the storeroom by breaking a bar on the door in what police termed "a neat job."

Police are investigating both incidents.

Pills For Skunks

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — Birth-control pills are the latest weapon against skunks. A $25,000 project to hide the pills in dates—a favorite food of skunks—was approved Tuesday by Imperial County supervisors.

The county has been declared a rabid area because past efforts to eliminate skunks have been ineffective.

Hale-Dwight Repeat Vows In Panhandle

The First United Methodist Church, Panhandle, was the setting for the Dec. 26 wedding of Miss Barbara Sue Hale, to Pvt. Dan Alan Dwight.
 Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shirley Hale of Panhandle and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dwight, 1124 Darby.
 The Rev. Keith Wiseman, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with two baskets of red roses.
 Miss Janna Mills provided a nuptial prelude and accompanied Dennis Taylor as he sang, "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

 Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white formal gown trimmed in English lace. The fitted bodice featured a high neckline and long full sleeves ending in points at the wrists. She carried a bouquet of red roses, gold mums and baby's breath. For something old, she wore a part of her great-grandmother's wedding dress; the traditional blue garter and borrowed a headpiece for her veil.

Miss Sandra Hale, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a red knit floor-length dress trimmed with gold velvet ribbon. She carried a basket of red roses and gold mums.
 Malanie Morehead, Hereford, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Glen Morehead, Canadian, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.
 Kenny Dwight, El Paso, attended his brother as best man. Steve Whipple, Canadian, cousin of the bride and Chris Beck, Pampa, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a red and white dress and coat ensemble, and the bridegroom's mother wore a royal blue and white two-piece suit.
 For the reception in fellowship hall of the church, the bridal table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. An arrangement of red roses and gold mums completed the table setting.
 Toni Whipple, Marsha Morehead, Debbie Wolfenbarger, Carol Lynn Williams and Mrs. Barry Broadway, presided at the serving table. Miss Jane Dwight, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest register.
 The bride is a graduate of Panhandle High School and is a sophomore at West Texas State University.
 Pvt. Dwight is a graduate of Pampa High School and attended WTSU. He is presently serving in the U.S. Army in Aschaffenburg, where the bride plans to join him in the near future.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, FEB. 9
Your birthday today: Brings on a sustained drive to consolidate and deepen present achievements. Today's natives possess potential power for gathering crowds, attracting friendly cooperation from all sides. Personal energy is usually high.
Aries (March 21-April 19): Aside from taking special care of emotional needs of your loved ones, it's a great day for striking out on your own.
Taurus (April 20-May 20): Consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, predicted that prices will rise on items in short supply.
 Currently, citrus continues to highlight Texas fruit counters.
 "Oranges and grapefruit are in greatest quantity, while tangerines, tangelos and lemons are still available."
 Other fresh fruits and vegetables in best supply at the most economical prices include apples, bananas, avocados, potatoes and hard shell squash.
 Also yellow onions, green cabbage, purple top turnips, rutabagas, sweet potatoes, carrots and broccoli.
 "Prices on fryer chickens are up a bit also." Mrs. Clyatt continued. "Nevertheless, they are versatile and offer protein at an economical price."
 "Although egg prices are higher than the last quarter of 1972, that is the normal price trend of former years."
 "Most markets feature some cuts of mature beef at special prices. In general, look for best beef values on short ribs, ground beef, round steaks and roasts, chuck steaks and roasts, and beef and calf liver."
 Pork buys consist of smoked ham portions, picnics, Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks and roasts, end cut loin roasts and chops, pork liver.

If you can't afford —don't buy

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I teach a course here in Dalton Junior College in consumer self protection, so I was especially interested in that letter from "Broke and Disgusted," whose wife insisted on an expensive wedding for their daughter even though they were in hock up to their ears. May I offer some practical suggestions?
 Throw away your credit cards, and don't buy ANYTHING you don't have the cash for. If you can't keep up with the Joneses, stay away from them. When it comes to buying groceries, check the newspaper ads carefully and compare prices. You can save a small fortune and eat a lot better if you buy house brands. Develop some self control! Don't buy anything on impulse. Go to two or three other stores and see what's available there, then wait a day or two and think it over. You'll be surprised how much you DON'T want what you thought you couldn't live without yesterday.
 RAYMOND L. CHAMBERS, DALTON, GA.

DEAR PROFESSOR: Gee, I wish I were in Dixie. I'd sign up for your course. You make a lot of sense.
DEAR ABBY: I am writing this from the hospital after having given birth to our first child. He is a healthy, beautiful baby boy and we are so thrilled because my husband is an only son, and now we are assured of having someone to carry on the family name.
 My husband and I decided to name our son . . . .
 Please don't mention the name if you use this letter. It's an unusual name, but my husband and I both like it. Well, last evening his mother called and begged me to please change the baby's name. She said that nobody in the family liked the name we selected and she thought out of respect to my father in law, we should have named the baby after HIM. [My father in law is still living.]
 I didn't know what else to say, so I just said, "I will talk to my husband about it."
 I spoke to my husband, and he said he will leave it up to me. Abby, now I am on the spot. I don't want his family against me, but I don't want to change the baby's name. Can you help me?
 NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your husband that you don't want the responsibility of making that decision alone. Discuss it—and let it be known that the decision was jointly made. And since you wrote to me, I'm all for naming the boy exactly what you prefer!
DEAR ABBY: I am 83 and live alone; my principal activities since my retirement from the teaching staff at Purdue University are "relative hunting" and working crossword puzzles. I take time out every morning to read the headlines, editorials, and Dear Abby.
 I am moved to comment about the Dad who took his 14-year-old son to a football game, left at halftime to take some pills for his asthma, and had not returned by the time the game had ended. The frightened lad waited by his Dad's parked car until the stadium lights were turned off, then made his way to a phone and called his sister to come and get him. Together they drove to the nearest police station to report the "missing" Dad, and there they learned that he had been locked up by a policeman for "drunkenness."
 That reminded me of a similar incident which occurred near Corning, N. Y., where I was raised. A local workman on his way home from work tied his horse and wagon at the watering trough and went into a bar for a drink. Later that evening the local constable found him leaning against a tree and locked him up for drunkenness. The next morning the horse was still at the trough, but its owner was dead—in jail. He had been sick, not drunk.

WIN AT BRIDGE 'Hard Luck Joe' Errs Again

the last heart before playing further. East would have shown out and West would be marked with 10 cards in those suits. Then, Joe should cash the king and queen of spades. West would follow and two more of his cards would be known so that he could only hold one club.
 The ace of clubs play from dummy would mark East with the last three clubs. At this point even Joe could work out a way to lead twice through East's jack-nine-six and make the slam.

 A—Bid four spades. Your partner can't be good enough in diamonds to warrant a three no-trump call, but you have a very good hand and should try game with the 4-3 spade fit.
TODAY'S QUESTION
 Instead of bidding two no-trump your partner has bid three clubs over your two spades. What do you do now?

It apparently first began in Rumania in mid-September of 1971 and was soon epidemic in other parts of Eastern Europe, but was first clearly identified as a separate strain of the influenza A virus at the World Influenza Center in London in February, 1972.

That is how this new strain of flu virus came to be known as the England, or London, flu.

Since that time, the London flu has spread to far stretches of the world, including the United States and Texas. Although the clinical disease was relatively mild in most countries of occurrence, widespread outbreaks struck Russia, Germany, Australia, Korea, Malaysia, and Singapore.

Localized epidemics have struck almost all sections of the United States. In reports to Texas health officials, the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., indicates that pneumonia and influenza mortality (deaths) reported from 122 U.S. cities is above the epidemic threshold for the third consecutive week.

However, the regional area encompassing Texas has shown a decreasing incidence of mortality in this section of the country. Surveillance data suggests that influenza occurrence is decreasing in the Northeastern states but continuing in the Midwest and Far West, and is considerably higher in the Pacific and Middle Atlantic states.

At the end of January, 1973, a provisional total of some 12,000 cases of influenza and influenza-like infections had been reported to the State Health Department.

This is less than half the number of cases reported at this same time in 1972 during the Hong Kong flu epidemic outbreak in Texas. Because of the difficulty in making exact determinations of the different flu strains, health authorities do not know exactly how many of these cases were London flu.

However, confirmed cases of influenza A strain, thought to be the London virus, have been found in areas scattered all across the State of Texas. Confirmed cases have been reported from Littlefield, Childress, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Linden, Tyler, Austin and San Marcos.

Since the statewide surveillance of influenza cases began in 1968, a systematic surveillance of absenteeism reported from industry and the public schools in major population areas has been one of the key indicators of the prevalence of influenza cases in any given area.

At the present time, the statewide surveillance on absenteeism indicates no unusual activity. Each week, state health officials check the 12 most populous areas on a routine basis for absenteeism in selected industries, schools, and for cases reported through emergency rooms at certain hospitals.

Above normal absenteeism was reported in schools and industry in Amarillo, Brownsville, and Dallas during the week of January, but since that time absenteeism has

Oil Sensoring Planes Readied

BOSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard says two Grumman Albatross amphibian aircraft will be fitted with a device so sensitive it can spot an oil spill no larger than 50 feet in diameter.

Lt. John LaFlamme at Otis Air Force Base said the sensors will operate at altitude as high as 5,000 feet. The Coast Guard estimated the device, expected to be ready for service next summer, will enable the planes to survey about 6,000 square miles of sea a day.

The first plane from this area will be sent to Ann Arbor, Mich., within two weeks for installation of the equipment by Bendix Aerospace Systems Division, LaFlamme said.

Scanners mounted underneath the plane will relay information to two monitoring screens inside. Officials said one scanner will pick up the difference in sea surface temperature and the other will record ultraviolet reflections of any oil detected.

Operators in the plane will be able to make continuous photographs of the areas shown on the monitors.

A quaker gun is a dummy piece of artillery, usually of wood, placed in a manner to deceive the enemy. The term refers to the Quaker doctrine of nonresistance.

fallen off and is reported as normal across the entire state.

"The severity of influenza in Texas at this time does not appear to be a great problem," said Dr. M.S. Dickerson of the State Health Department. "It is largely determined by the level of a person's immunity. The majority of our population already has some immunity from prior exposure to related influenza viruses."

There has been a steady but not a dramatic increase in flu during the first four weeks of January, 1973, with 4,185 reported cases the first week, 6,476 the second week, 10,110 cases the third week, and 12,003 reported cases the fourth week.

"During the past two years, the State Health Department has been working to implement a fairly effective reporting system from across the state, and as a result we now know better than we ever have before in what areas and in what amount flu-like illnesses are occurring in the state," said Dr. Dickerson.

"When the State Health Department knows through its absenteeism indicators and its statewide reporting system that flu is occurring in larger than expected numbers in a given community, then we work with local health officers in the affected area to distribute kits to proper authorities to get specimens from as many locations across the state as we can, rather than receive a lot of specimens from one given area," said Dr. Dickerson.

"This allows us to help control the outbreak more effectively. Influenza derives its importance from the rapidity with which epidemics evolve, the height of the attack rates, and the seriousness of complications—notably bacterial pneumonia. Incubation period is short, usually 24 to 72 hours.

The period of communicability is probably limited to three days from the clinical onset of the disease. Influenza is generally a self-limited disease, with recovery in two to seven days. The symptoms of flu include fever, chills, headache, sore throat, and generalized aching. Patients are urged to get plenty of bed rest, drink plenty of fluids, do not come in contact with other persons, and see their physician for treatment.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Rich Little gained a measure of fame by doing uncannily accurate vocal impressions of such folk as John Wayne, President Nixon and Ed Sullivan. It's caused him a few problems.

One involves little people, usually between the ages of nine and 10. They stomp up to him and insist on doing their impressions. Another problem occurs when he speaks in his own voice.

He keeps getting asked, "Who are you doing now?"

Little, in town to do a voice or two on ABC's Jack Paar show, talked about the performing life and related matters during a hurried dinner at a big hotel here.

"I'm like the piano player," he mildly groused. "Wherever I go, people are always wanting me to get up and perform, even on the street."

"It's just lately that when I'm on the road that a lot of kids who are studying impressions come into the dressing room and go through their routines."

"There was a 16-year-old in Oklahoma I remember well. He came in and opened with Ronald Coleman. Then he went into his Ed Sullivan—eight minutes of introductions—and then went into Walter Pidgeon, another one of his favorites."

How does Little deal with these verbal urchins?

"I never criticize them," he said. "They're too young for that. I picture myself at their age and I used to do what they do, too."

Little, a regular on ABC's "Julie Andrews Show" and a fair actor and singer when he isn't doing voices, was born in Ottawa, Canada. He got into show business because of his classmates in school — they cheered his impressions of their teachers.

His first engagement was at a club in a Quebec mining town. The job paid $15 and the patrons paid no attention.

"Not only did they not react, but they didn't speak English," he said. "It's a wonder I didn't get into aluminum siding right then."

As the years went on, his fame grew and so did the voices in his repertoire — he now can do about 125. Singer Mel Torme got him his first big break in U.S. television in 1964.

But his real start in America began with his first engagement at a night club in St. Petersburg, Fla. He warmed up the audience for the headliner, Joan Fairfax and Her All-Girl Orchestra.

He admits to being a basket case when he first went on. He also recalled doing Ronald Coleman and Walter Pidgeon imitations, but other details were hazy? What happened afterwards?

Those Rituals Help Us To Stay Happy

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by the Pavement Plato: Do you ever stop to think how much of your life is spent in performing rituals?

A wild animal lives largely by obeying his instincts, a human being by the rituals he follows.

Rituals are the little habits of conduct by which we meet the common occurrences of our existence. They govern us from dawn to dawn, from Monday through Sunday. They are helpful because they tell us what to do in most situations, but sometimes they also bore us half to death.

They become too patterned, too chorelike, and at times we yearn to break out of the confinement of rituals and do something wild, free and mildly insane. And, of course, at times most of us do.

Here are a few commonplace rituals:

Shaving, the most irksome task of any man's life. Brushing your teeth.

Spraying something in your armpits so you won't smell like nature meant you to.

Telling a hospital patient he looks swell when he looks like hell.

Saying something nice about the hero of the occasion at a funeral, when your private opinion is that the world would have been better off if he had died ten years before.

Picking up bar and restaurant checks for liberated women.

Laughing at the right time when the boss tells a joke, no matter whether you memorized the joke yourself when you were in high school.

Congratulating the pastor of your church on Sunday on the powerful sermon he preached that you never really listened to.

Going to functions where they have after dinner speeches.

Going to cocktail parties

where everybody is either too clever or too pontifical.

So we wear out our lives from birth to the tomb, performing this little ritual...that little ritual. What would happen if for a single day every person in the world ceased to go through any of his usual rituals whatsoever?

That's easy. We'd all be thrown in jail before nightfall. Without rituals, people get into nothing but trouble.

POWs Face Adjustment To Foods

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Readjusting former American prisoners of war to the American diet is going to be "pretty tricky," a Navy dietitian says. "They're going to be amazed at what we're eating now. We have a lot more convenience foods, frozen and packaged, and there are a lot more fat foods."

Lt. Georgiana Banellis of Memphis Air Station said Tuesday. The 25-year-old Logan, Utah, native will be in charge of reconstructing diets for a group of POWs from mid-South states who are scheduled to stay at the base hospital.

"They've missed all this stuff, this fat food. They're going to have it rough adjusting to the United States again. They may not remember what the food tastes like," she said.

"We will give them 1,200 calories intake and six light meals a day to begin. The main criteria is that you don't push them into it."

"We might start with one or two of the foods they particularly like and build from there. They will get meats, liver, dark green vegetables, oranges, tomatoes, and other foods with plenty of iron and vitamin C."

"Food might be a shock to the body so we'll begin without spicy, high-fat foods that are harder to digest."

Many Factors Involved In Fixing Jobless Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are one of the 4.4 million to 4.7 million jobless members of the labor force you can hardly be expected to appreciate the administration's attitude toward the unemployment rate.

That rate is now down to 5 per cent of the work force, lowest since July 1970. It is falling rather steadily now, and conceivably could be somewhere around 4.5 per cent late in the year.

But already the administration has made clear its fear that the rate might drop too swiftly. Yes, fear; fear that a jobless rate of less than 4.5 per cent might signal more inflation.

It has, therefore, set that rate as an end-of-the-year goal.

By what logic can idleness purposely be tolerated? The explanation goes something like this:

If the jobless rate is descending it means the economy is expanding and absorbing once idle workers. This is healthy, to a point, but it also could signal the onset of inflation.

This has been the story of free economies. They often seek to produce more than their capacity to produce and when that happens it means that supply is insufficient to meet demand. Up go prices.

Wages might rise and be an element in those prices, but even more importantly, labor costs rise. There is a difference; wages could rise 50 per cent a year if productivity rose 50 per cent. That wouldn't be inflationary.

But, when the demand for workers is high, such as in an expansion, there is a tendency for the less productive workers to be used. They are less skilled or lack motivation or proper work habits, or may have other deficiencies.

Speed up this process and you run the risk of throwing elements of the expansion out of balance. A sharp demand for labor, for example, might push up labor costs and then prices, leading to demands for higher wages to meet prices, and so on until a self-sustaining spiral is generated.

The fear of rekindled inflation is illustrated by figures for the fourth quarter of 1972 showing that labor costs per unit of output rose at an annual rate of 3 per cent, after having fallen for two straight quarters.

Those who seek a red inflation signal in the falling jobless rate use these statistics to indicate that caution is advised.

It's Hard To Get A Rock Back

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Navajo tribal officials say they believe it's easier to send a rock to the moon than to get it out of the hands of officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA, they said, agreed about 18 months ago to take a piece of turquoise to the moon and then present it to the tribe.

Peter MacDonald, tribal chairman, said the agreement was made after the Navajos permitted the Apollo 15 crew to train at Gray Mountain, south of Kayenta.

"The turquoise is regarded as a sacred stone by the Navajo people," said MacDonald. "The moon figures prominently in Navajo tradition and religion. Such a stone, having traveled to the moon and back, would be considered symbolic value to the Navajo people."

MacDonald said NASA officials reported the stone has been flown to the moon and returned, but he said it has not been returned to the tribe.

'Spot Welding' Techniques For Blindness Under Study

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nationwide study of 1,800 persons is being set up to find out whether "spot welding" of blood vessels in the eye helps to prevent the eye damage of advanced diabetes.

Sixteen clinical centers across the country are to enroll 100 to 150 diabetics each for the five-year study. All will be volunteers in a study of the most rapidly growing cause of blindness.

A key feature of the planned study is that only one eye of each patient will be treated. And the choice of which eye is to be treated will be done at random to assure objectivity, scientists said.

If in the course of the study it becomes apparent that very good or very bad results are being produced, the treatment will be changed, according to the researchers designing the study.

The study was described Tuesday at a science writers seminar on ophthalmology by Dr. Genell Knatterud, a biostatistician at the University of Maryland, the coordinating center for the study.

The seminar was sponsored by Research to Prevent Blindness Inc., a national research foundation based in New York.

The eye disease to be studied is called diabetic retinopathy, a major complication of diabetes. In 1930, it caused less than one per cent of all new cases of blindness in the United States. Now it is considered responsible for more than 15 per cent of all new cases of blindness.

Two methods of treatment will be tested, both of them including the use of light beams to coagulate the ballooning or bursting blood vessels in the retina that mark the disease.

One light beam comes from an argon laser beam and the other from a xenon white light arc. They differ in wave lengths. The idea is to test the value of photocoagulation itself and the value of the differing

Space Center Name Change Is Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The manned spacecraft control center at Houston may be named in honor of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson.

A resolution to name the center after Johnson passed the Senate Tuesday and now goes to the House.

Sen. Lloyd Benisen, D-Tex., sponsored the name-change, saying much of the U.S. space activity occurred during the Johnson administration. He said this included the entire Gemini orbital flight program and the first eight launches in the Apollo moon landing program.

Scouting Head Gives Program

Bob Moody, district scouting executive, presented a program and slides at the Top O' Texas Kiwanis Club's regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Moody stated today's scouting program is designed to prepare boys for life. The scouting program is constantly changing in order to meet the needs of contemporary youth, he said.

Guests at the meeting included members of the Downtown Kiwanis Club, Key Club, and prospective members.

BYU Student Spy Dismissed

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A Brigham Young University graduate student who admitted being a spy in the Watergate case has been dismissed from school for at least two semesters.

Thomas Gregory, of Green Village, N.J., a key witness for the prosecution in the trial in Washington, D.C., had been scheduled to graduate this spring.

University President Dallin Oaks said in an announcement Tuesday that the 26-year-old Gregory concealed from the university the nature of his activities, violating the school's honor code, which requires students be "honest in all behavior."

State Officials Worry About Budget Cut

By GODFREY ANDERSON Associated Press Writer

Local governments in Texas braced this week to meet requirements of President Nixon's tightened federal budget, and some officials worried about changes it would bring.

Projects ranging from community action programs to construction of mental health centers will have to be taken over locally or just junked. City and county payrolls may rise with some public service jobs are no longer federally financed.

Some agencies, like the Farmers' Home Administration with state headquarters in Temple, already have been hit. The interest credit on rural housing, the emergency loan program and grants for water and sewage systems were among the first suspended. John Barnes, assistant state director, said he "couldn't even guess" about what more might be in store.

Funeral gloom enveloped the Dallas regional headquarters of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which is headed for the dump by July 1.

Samuel Martinez, the regional director, was in Washington to discuss dismantling of the Texas end of the War on Poverty, which President Lyndon B. Johnson started in 1965.

Spokesman John Chavez said it was thought OEO's manpower programs might go the Labor Department, its housing programs to Housing and Urban Development (HUD), its pre-natal and post-natal and dental care programs to Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). "But we've no way of knowing yet just what will happen," he said.

Some of the Dallas staff will move over with the programs they administer; others will just become refugees from the War on Poverty and have to seek jobs elsewhere.

In the state Capitol at Austin, members of the Texas Legislative Budget Board were trying to figure out what the statewide effects might be, but they had no immediate figures to offer.

LI. Gov. Bill Hobby predicted a probably "net loss of federal funds for Texas this next biennium, despite revenue sharing funds."

The Legislative Budget Board explained its lack of figures by saying Washington had not yet broken down the cuts administratively. But community action programs, emergency employment action programs, and some HUD training programs were expected to suffer most.

A cut in federal aid to libraries is expected to leave the state library system shy the usual $2.5 million of federal money. Only $1 million in state aid will then be available unless the legislature votes more.

University of Texas officials fear they will lose millions in research programs, but they've no way of telling yet which programs will be the hardest hit.

Officials of the Economic Opportunities Development Corp. in San Antonio, which oversees operations of the local OEO programs, expect some 30 centers and offices of various poverty programs in the city will have to be boarded up if OEO is disbanded there.

"The main thing the public has to understand is that the loss of the programs will cause rising in the welfare rolls and in crime rates that will cost the community more than what is currently being spent," warned EODC director Gene Rodriguez.

One program which may be discontinued when funding runs out Sept. 30 is Project Free, which provides food and medicine to the aged. Legal aid programs for migrant and seasonal farm workers are likely to be absorbed into other agencies.

Rodriguez said he will mount a community awareness campaign in support of his agency.

James R. Favor, assistant city manager, said he wasn't too worried about the effect of the federal cuts on Dallas.

"We're looking over the budget," he said, "but I don't think there are any specific problems so far, as to exact projects. We have no Model Cities (project) with direct OEO involvement."

Dallas has decided to use its revenue sharing funds for capital expenditure, but the city council already has voted $1 million of that for operating the city's Cross Roads Community Center.

Samuel Price, executive director of Harris County Community Action Association, was worried that the order to phase out grants under the section providing administrative services for community action programs would mean the end of his association.

He said the cuts would amount to $3,437,013 in Harris County, leaving only $11 million for operations.

"But that $3.4 million is the heart of the entire program," he said, explaining that it pays for all the services needed to run the agency's many projects.

James R. Noland, Houston public employment administrator, said the proposed cancellation of emergency employment funds could affect up to 270 people on payrolls of local agencies that received more than $2 million in such funds over the past 18 months.

The city currently is using such funds to man 15 garbage trucks, to upgrade park operations, and to operate city garages around the clock. They also supply some workers for Houston and Aldine school districts, Harris County Hospital District, and Houston Housing Authority.

Noland said more than 600 persons have been hired under the program and of the 270 currently employed, the various agencies will try to hire as many as possible on a permanent basis out of regular budgets, but it appeared "inevitable that a substantial number will have to be fired."

Houston school officials say the cuts mean the end of the district's subsidized milk program, involving between 25,000 and 30,000 children a day. Claude Keen, director of food services, said, however, that the cutback will not affect the serving of milk with an additional 55,000 to 60,000 free breakfasts and lunches, served daily under another federal program that is not involved.

Like Dallas, Houston intends to use its revenue sharing funds for capital improvements.

The Houston Model City department, working to improve the plight of residents in inner-city areas, is in the third year of a five-year program and facing a possible cutback of its $13.4 million operating budget from HUD. Officials at the last minute delayed allocating funds for the program, which were due last Thursday.

Model Cities projects employ 1,600 persons in 14 square miles of Houston poor neighborhoods. The programs cover health and dental care, job training, business development and other social services. Right now the program is being continued for 30 days with leftover funds. But time and money are running out.

Five construction jobs at Houston hospitals may be affected by the proposal to cut off federal aid for building and renovation.

William Collier of the construction division of the State

Health Department said Texas receives $23 million in grants from the Hill-Burton program, which for 26 years has provided matching federal funds for hospital construction. His office currently has 50 applications for such funds, Collier said.

Five concerning Houston are for additions at Hermann Hospital, the teaching hospital for the new University of Texas Medical School there; an addition to the Eliza Johnson Home for the Aged; new facilities at the Jewish Home for the Aged; a new neuro-sensory center at Methodist Hospital; and additions and renovations at the Texas Institute for Rehabilitation and Research.

David H. Hennington, Houston library director, said the ending of library resource grants would "drastically restrict" the city's library services. He said $186,000 from Washington made up 27 per cent of last year's library budget and "we spent where we felt there was the most need—books."

If funds given to school districts in areas with heavy federal employment are cut as proposed, the effect will be sharply felt at some points in Texas.

The Pasadena school system, which includes the children of parents working at Ellington Air Force Base, received $404,000 in such aid last year. Houston Independent School District received $300,000 out of its total $140 million budget from such funds.

Bridge Expert Takes Backgammon Title

LAS VEGAS — (NEA) — Bridge columnist Oswald Jacoby is now the world's champion backgammon player.

The title was conferred upon him recently in Las Vegas, where he came from behind to win the Seagram's 100 Pipers World Championship of Backgammon played at the Tropicana Hotel. The contest was a benefit for United Cerebral Palsy.

Jacoby, whose mastery of bridge, poker, canasta, gin rummy and pinochle is legendary, won by defeating Edward Burns, a retired California businessman, with a score of 26-19, after beating Phillip Martin, the American champion, 21-20 in the semifinals. It was Jacoby's fourth victory in 12 major backgammon tournaments in this country and abroad.

The victory earned his backers $25,000 for a $2,000 investment in the player auction. Runner-up purse was $14,000.

Backgammon, along with chess, is among the country's fastest-growing board games. Jacoby's recent book on backgammon is regarded as one of the best volumes ever published on the game.

 2 teaspoons salt
 two-thirds cup vinegar
 ½ t. onion juice (may increase according to taste)
 2 cups salad oil-but never olive oil (use Wesson)

A Special Dessert For Valentines

For a special Valentine, a special dessert. In spite of the fact that meringues are easy to make, their resulting elegance usually means that they are saved for special occasions. And Valentine's Day is one of those occasions.

For this meringue, beat egg whites with sugar until stiff-add cinnamon and a little red food coloring; then form into a heart and bake. The secret of the meringue is to allow it to cool slowly in the oven as the oven cools after baking.

Then fill with ice cream, and add the topping of applesauce spiced with cinnamon, and a spoonful of cherries. The contrast of textures as well as flavors makes this dessert special company fare.

The apple sauce topping is the ingredient that ties all of the flavors together. For with its tart-yet-sweet mild apple flavor, it has the ability to blend and enhance other flavor and food combinations. That's one reason children are so enthusiastic about apple sauce.

We don't really outgrow the taste for apple sauce, but we do sometimes forget the nice things it can do. Here the apple sauce has been cooked with brown sugar, cinnamon and lemon rind for an extra touch...and it makes a good topping for ice cream just like this. But for your Valentine, put it in a pink heart!

APPLE SAUCE MERINGUE HEART
 3 egg whites
 ¼ Tsp. Cream of Tartar
 ¼ Tsp. Cinnamon
 1 Cup Sugar
 Red Food Coloring—few drops
 1 ½ Cups Apple Sauce

One-Third Cup firmly-packed Light Brown Sugar
 ¼ Tsp. Cinnamon
 ¼ Tsp. Grated Lemon Rind
 1 Pint Vanilla Ice Cream
 1 Can (1-lb. 8-oz.) Cherry Pie Filling

¼ Cup Light Rum, (Opt)
 In mixing bowl, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Gradually add cinnamon and sugar, beating until mixture becomes very stiff and glossy. Add food coloring until desired shade of pink is reached. Cover a baking sheet with brown paper. Form beaten egg whites into a 12-inch diameter heart-shaped shell. (Draw an outline on the paper first). Bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour. Turn oven heat off; let meringue remain in oven 1 hour. Carefully peel off paper. Cool thoroughly on wire rack.

Combine apple sauce, brown sugar, cinnamon and lemon rind in small saucepan. Bring to boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Reduce heat; simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Let ice cream soften at room temperature for 10 to 15 minutes. Gently spoon evenly into meringue shell. Place in freezer until ice cream is firm. Garnish with apple sauce mixture. To serve, combine drained pie filling and rum; blend well. Spoon over each portion. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

For George Washington Pie—substitute a 9-inch baked pastry shell for the heart-shaped meringue shell.

Another recipe suitable for a Valentine—pink and pretty, apple sauce is combined with beaten egg whites, strawberries and gelatin, and served with more sliced strawberries.

APPLE STRAWBERRY SNOW
 1 Envelope Gelatin (Unflavored)
 ¼ Cup Cold Water
 2 Cups Apple Sauce
 ¼ Tsp. Nutmeg
 Dash Salt
 2 Cups Fresh Strawberries Sliced
 1 Tsp. Vanilla
 2 Egg Whites
 One-Third Cup Sugar

Soften gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Combine apple sauce, nutmeg and salt and heat. Add gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Cool until slightly thickened. Add 1 cup strawberries and vanilla. Beat egg whites stiff, gradually add sugar, beating constantly. Fold into apple sauce mixture. Pour into 1 quart mold. Chill until firm. Garnish with 1 cup sliced fresh strawberries. Makes 8 servings.

Apple-Y Valentine's Treats
VALENTINE FRENCH TOAST
 Make French toast in the usual way, but serve topped with apple sauce that has been heated with hot cinnamon candies...pink and tasty.

MID-MORNING SNACK
 Mix apple sauce with maraschino cherry juice. (There's always some left in the bottle.) Put in a small bowl and use as a dip for vanilla wafers or cookies.

F O R LUNCH-APPLEWITCHES
 Take a piece of bread. Top with a slice or two of processed cheese; then a spoonful of applesauce. Garnish with strips of pimiento and bake until cheese melts and apple sauce is bubbly.

Valentine Apple Mold

So light it's hardly there—yet so rich you can't resist it. So perfect for your Valentine.

Creamy Apple Mold, sour cream and eggs baked with apple sauce. When it's unmolded and served with sliced frozen or fresh strawberries it will be the piece de resistance for the Valentine's Day dinner.

This dessert is in the French style, magnificently rich and made to be served in small portions. No more calories than a big piece of cake, but somehow more special.

Apple sauce makes an interesting contrast with the sour cream. Its slight tartness makes the sour cream seem not so rich and the sweet apple flavor blends with and accents the flavor of the sour cream. The overall effect is that of a light dessert. Fresh or frozen strawberries add just the right touch of color.

This dessert can be served year round. Its versatility lies in the sauce or topping you decide to add. It can be your choice of fresh, canned or frozen fruit, or just a spoonful of creme de meth or coffee liqueur. Even a drizzle of chocolate sauce goes well. And chopped toasted almonds add a delightful crunch. You can make Valentine's Day last all year long!

CREAMY APPLE MOLD,
 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
 1 ½ cups apple sauce
 2 eggs
 3 tablespoons sugar
 1 pint (2 cups) sour cream

BOULEZ REHIRED
NEW YORK (AP)—Pierre Boulez's contract as music director of the New York Philharmonic has been extended another three years, from the 1974-75 season through the 1976-77 season.

Boulez currently is serving during his first three-year contract with the orchestra. There had been speculation that it might not be renewed, since he programmed much modern music, which a number of long-time subscribers did not like.

Carlos Mosley, president of the Philharmonic, said that the concerts had been 98 per cent sold out this fall.

Boulez followed Leonard Bernstein as Philharmonic music director.

Taxpayers Can Deduct Some Child Care Costs

EDITORS: Following is the fourth in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1972 tax returns.

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent changes in tax law give a break to groups as varied as working mothers and Vietnam servicemen.

The rules for deducting the cost of child care and domestic service a taxpayer must obtain in order to be able to hold or find a job have been greatly liberalized.

Payments up to $400 a month for care of dependents may be deducted. Dependents for the purpose of this provision are children under 15, spouses or close relatives unable to care for themselves because of physical or mental illness.

You may deduct payments to domestics such as cooks or maids — but not to bartenders, chauffeurs or gardeners. Nor may payments to household members or close relatives be deducted. Nursery school costs are deductible, but not regular school expenses from first grade on.

In general, eligible payments are for services in the home. But in the case of children under 15, away-from-home services may be deducted up to these limits: $200 a month for one child, $300 for two, $400 for three or more.

The deductions are scaled down for incomes above $18,000, one dollar for each two dollars of extra income, so that at $27,000 income no deduction is available.

Disability payments to a spouse unable to work, and annual income above $750, including disability payments, to a dependent 15 or older also act to scale down the deduction.

Married taxpayers must file a joint return in order to claim the deduction and, if both are able-bodied, both must have worked essentially full time or looked for work.

Members of the armed services may exclude from their reported income all or part of the compensation they received for any month during which they served in Vietnam or its adjacent waters, or during which they were hospitalized anywhere as a result of wounds.

disease or injury suffered in the war zone.

Enlisted men, warrant and commissioned warrant officers may exclude all their compensation for such months. Commissioned officers may exclude the first $500 of monthly compensation. Beside regular pay, the exclusion covers such things as dislocation allowances, re-enlistment bonuses and awards.

The low income allowance, designed to relieve from income tax all persons below the poverty level, went up for 1972 incomes from $1,050 to $1,300. The change is taken care of automatically in the tax tables for almost all those entitled to use it.

However, it is important to remember that persons relieved by the low income allowance from the obligation of filing tax returns should file anyhow if they had earnings from which tax was withheld. The only way to recover the sums withheld is to file a return showing that no tax was due.

A special exception to the no-filing privilege applies to young persons who had some income, but still could be claimed by their parents as dependents.

Under the general application of the low-income allowance, a single person with income less than $2,050 would not have to file. But a child in this category who is eligible to be claimed as a dependent and who had at least $750 income must file — even though he may owe no tax — if any part of his income came from interest, dividends or other non-earned sources.

For example, a student may earn $800 in a year and have a savings account which pays him $10 interest. He must file, using the long form. He may use the standard deduction, or the low income allowance, only against earned income.

Congress wrote this requirement to block efforts by parents to avoid taxes by transferring substantial income-producing assets to children. A dependent child who has less than $750 income of his own, regardless of the source, need not file.

Special instructions accompanying the tax form apply.

WORRY CLINIC

Donna's marital tragedy faces probably 1,000,000 young wives who work to help their husbands get through college or established in business. Beware that you faithful wives aren't then cast aside for some gushing society debutante!

CASE W-521: Donna K., aged 27, came to me in tears. "Dr. Crane," she moaned, "what has come over my husband?"

"We married when he was in his second year at medical school. "And I had to work as a secretary to help pay his way along."

"But I didn't mind, for I knew he'd make a success as a doctor."

"Because of his heavy studying and my trying to earn a living, as well as keep house, our first years were pretty hectic."

"We were often irritable and quarreled, but not because of any serious differences, only over petty matters due to our tension and heavy schedules."

"Now my husband is in private practice and doing quite well."

"But he has fallen in love with a society belle, whose wealthy parents are showering him with attention."

"And it isn't because I lack in feminine charm for my 'measurements' would equal or even exceed those of this other girl."

"Several other wives of physicians and dental surgeons also helped work their husbands' way through professional school."

"And I find many of the wives are also threatened with divorce, so what makes men discard their faithful early partners and fall for glamour gals after the men have gained success?"

CHRIST'S DIAGNOSIS
Jesus aptly diagnosed this dilemma in reverse when he stated:

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house."

Which merely indicates that Donna's husband feels she knew him "way back when" he was a struggling student and without funds except for her weekly pay check.

So such a man tends to fear that his wife doesn't look up to him with the awed admiration and respect that his ego demands.

At Nazareth, Jesus thus couldn't perform his usual miracles of healing, for his fellow townsmen refused to admit his greatness.

Instead, they derided him as being the carpenter's son, and said Christ's brothers and sisters were still living in the village with them; hence, Jesus certainly couldn't be a "big shot" in their eyes!

Another danger which you working wives of male students must guard against, is their secret ego deflation at feeling under obligation to you for their support.

Sometimes, too, in an angry quarrel, such a wife may even "throw this up to her mate."

That's anathema to a young husband who wants to feel like a "big shot!"

So the doctor or lawyer or other talented professional man is often ensnared by the flattery of society belles who know to these men as if they are movie stars.

This tickles the ego of such new doctors, lawyers or dental surgeons until they lose perspective.

Tragically, they may thus divorce a faithful wife and become enamored of a "Jill-come-lately."

"Familiarity breeds contempt," runs an old adage that helps explain why they divorce the woman who helped them in those lean years.

So you working wives should join my "Compliment Club" and feed your mate's ego deserved verbal praise, supplemented with A-1 boudoir "cheesecake!"

Send for that "Compliment (Club)" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. It is ideal divorce insurance!

Labels write Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Brando Expected To Reject Oscar

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Will Marlon Brando follow George C. Scott's lead and refuse an Oscar if he wins one?

That is the speculation in Hollywood following Brando's refusal earlier this week to accept a Golden Globe from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association. He had been nominated as best dramatic actor for his role in "The Godfather."

Brando did not appear, nor did he designate anyone to accept his award for him. The presenter, Carol Burnett, merely walked off the stage at the Century Plaza Hotel with it.

The Foreign Press Association received a telegram from Brando: "There is a singular lack of honor in this country today what with the government's change of its citizens into objects of use, its imperialism and warlike intrusion into foreign countries and the killing not only of their inhabitants but also indirectly of our own people, its treatment of the Indians and the blacks, the assault on the press and the rape of the ideals which were the foundations of this country."

"I respectfully ask you to understand that to accept an honor, however well-intended, is to subtract from the meager amount left. Therefore, to simplify things, I hereby decline any nomination and deny anyone representing me."

His action brought immediate memories of George C. Scott's "Patton" award nomination for "Patton" two years ago and his refusal to accept the Oscar when he won. Scott's reasons were professional, not political; he had assailed the Academy Awards as a "meal parade." His Oscar rests unclaimed at the Academy.

Marlon Brando is certain to be nominated for a best-actor Oscar on Feb. 12, and nearly everyone expects him to win it on March 27. He has become increasingly reclusive in the past two years, and there were doubts that he would appear for the ceremonies.

Brando won a previous Oscar as best actor of 1954 for "On the Waterfront," and he was present to receive the award. That was before he became a political activist.

Rapist Gets 100 Years

DALLAS (AP) — Johnny Lee Hays, 19, was sentenced to 100 years in prison this week for raping a 16-year-old girl who was selling candy door-to-door for her school.

The girl told the jury that Hays dragged her inside the house and raped her twice at knife point, then took the 50 cents she had made selling candy and one of her candy bars before pushing her back outside.

Hays had been released on parole from serving a two-year burglary sentence three weeks before the rape occurred.

FEATHER DUSTING for a fighter? Closeup of a Canadian CF-5 is not what it would appear to be at startling first glance. It's actually a routine refueling rendezvous, below, high over northern Quebec. The "duster" at the end of the fuel line is a guide for the pilot in approaching the tanker.

Welcome Home, Soldier

ALVAREZ, EVERETT LT. (J.G.) 644124

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON—(NEA) — It was August 5, 1964. Americans were reading news accounts of man's first (Ranger 7) soft-landing on the moon. Casey Stengel was leading his New York Mets to their third consecutive 10th-place finish in the National League. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, was declining the support of the Ku Klux Klan but urging other followers to become "Freedom's Missionaries."

And somewhere over North Vietnam, a nation secret to most of the world, a 26-year-old naval lieutenant, Everett Alvarez Jr., became the first known U.S. prisoner in a war that few knew about, fewer cared about and virtually no one comprehended.

August 5, 1964.

Almost nine years ago.

Alvarez was the victim of what the New York Times then denounced as a "mad adventure by the North Vietnamese Communists." That nation had allegedly sent one of its PT boats to attack and strike a U.S. destroyer, the Maddox, in the Gulf of Tonkin. The American military retaliated with a then-unprecedented wave of air strikes over the enemy heartland. Lt. Alvarez, un- luckily, was in one of the first waves.

"I was always good at geography," says the pilot's mother, Soledad Alvarez of Santa Clara, Calif., "but I didn't know where he was shot down. I knew about Indochina, but I didn't know Hanoi. In our family, we had to look at a map to tell where he was."

In the more than 100 months since his family first went to the maps, Alvarez, now a lieutenant commander, and middle-aged at 35, has become the longest confirmed POW in the nation's history. (Another Vietnam pilot, Air Force Capt. Floyd Thompson, was shot down before Alvarez, in March of 1964, but his fate is not publicly known. Thompson's next of kin have asked Pentagon authorities not to release information on his status.) Now, with the American involvement in the war apparently ended, and agreements signed which may bring POWs home before the end of March, the nation, the Alvarez family and surely Alvarez himself must be concerned with a question: To what is he coming home?

In one obvious sense the prisoner Alvarez is still living in August of 1964, a time far different from today. U.S. military officers believe he has been allowed some information on the changed society by his captors, yet feel it would "still be hard for the guy to imagine hippies, women's liberation and three-inch heels on men's shoes."

One U.S. soldier who has already gone through the cultural shock of returning to the United States after long months of war captivity is Army Maj. James Rowe. He, a former Green Beret, was held by the Viet Cong for 62 months. He escaped.

Mrs. Alvarez, too, has changed. "I'm nine years older for one thing." And she believes nine years wiser. "I used to believe in the government. I was quiet and took things as they were. Like so many people. Now I know different. I never did like the Vietnam war; now I'm not afraid to stand up and say so. I was all wrong."

And so Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez comes back to a nation that will be for him almost alien. "Just wait," says a Pentagon officer, "til he sees the braless look." And jumbo jets. And Afro haircuts. "The one thing we hope," adds the Pentagon official, "is that the freaks don't get him. A lot of people in this country won't look at him as a hero, but as a mad bomber. That's another thing that's changed since he was here."

And there is one more thing that has changed. In August of 1964, Everett Alvarez, a citizen in the service of his nation, went to war and left behind a wife of four months. Last year his sweetheart asked for and was granted a divorce.

Welcome home, soldier.

Golden Bear Gets Lead With A First Round 64

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus said the putting greens were rough, joking, "I couldn't hardly get a thing in."

He smiled broadly as he told how close he came to losing his ball in the rough.

Despite such "misfortune," professional golfer's premier performer blistered the Indian Wells Country Club course Wednesday with a first-round 64—eight under par—in the $100,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Two strokes behind were veteran Gay Brewer and two tour non-winners, Bob Barberossa and George Johnson. Another stroke back at 67 were Charles Coody, the 1971 Masters champion, Canadian Ben Kern and two-year pro Dwight Neill.

The newly planted, frost-burned greens at Indian Wells were "probably the roughest" of any in his four-course, 90-hole marathon in which pro team with amateurs for the first 72 holes, Nicklaus said.

Yet the Golden Bear from Columbus, Ohio, required only 28 putts, three of them from 30 feet for a lone bogey. He had an eagle three on the 468-yard 14th hole with a 25-foot putt.

On the 18th tee, his shot went to the right into foot-high rye grass.

He used a seven iron to escape the rough and parred the hole.

Monte Irvin Elected To Baseball HOF

NEW YORK (AP) — Cities were fighting to get into baseball's major league. It was 1867, two years after Lincoln was assassinated.

A stand was taken.

"We unanimously report against the admission of any club which may be composed of one or more colored persons," said the major league nominating committee.

The slaves weren't altogether free.

Seventy years later, Monte Irvin's baseball talents were emerging. He ran like the wind, hit with muscle and had a rifle of a throwing arm.

But, he was black.

"I was ripe at age 19 for the big leagues," says Irvin, now almost 54. "It was 1938 and Negroes would not be permitted to the majors until Jackie Robinson broke the line in '47."

Irvin bounced around in the Negro National League, starting for the Newark Eagles when he wasn't playing winter baseball in Mexico, Cuba or Puerto Rico.

"I was 30 when the big leagues called—well past my peak," he said. "But, I'm thankful to have gotten any chance. So many great ball-players were finished before the big door opened."

Irvin, now an aide to Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, was voted in the Hall of Fame Wednesday by a special committee on the old Negro leagues.

"If the majors had broken the color barrier 10 years earlier, there would have been a dozen black Hall of Famers," he said. "Leon Day, Willie Wells, Ray Dandridge, Cool Papa Bell, they all were good enough."

The New York Giants gave Monte his shot at the majors in 1949. Seven years later, he was finished at age 37 with a career batting average of .293.

Maybe Roy Campanella, the crippled former Dodger catcher and Hall of Famer, said it best when congratulating Irvin by telephone from a hospital bed.

"What disturbs me is that my plaque at Cooperstown lists only 10 years of baseball," Campy said. "I played 10 seasons in the Negro leagues and 10 with the Dodgers. It should say I am a 20-year man, but the first 10 are forgotten."

Sam Houston State remains No. 1 in the Associated Press College Division poll and the distinction is driving their fans into a frenzy.

Coach Archie Porter of Sam Houston State is a happy man. "We're delighted to be the top dog. I think the top rating has helped our confidence."

Augustana, 18-1, received one first-place vote in the voting by a national panel of sports broadcasters and writers, and advanced from third place to second with 222 points.

Stephen F. Austin, 18-2, garnered the other No. 1 vote and climbed from fourth to third with 206 points.

Permian Coach Bartosh Is Anticipating Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was suggested by a punster that Texas Coach Durrell Royal and Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard settle "The Battle of Odessa" in a dogfight of their own over the West Texas city—the prime recruiting ground in the rush for school-boy football talent.

Gil Bartosh, the head coach of Class 4A state champion Odessa Permian, said "It's boiling down to Texas and Texas A&M and the pressure is building every day."

He laughed and said "That dogfight idea might not be a bad one."

There are five All-State seniors off the Permian team plus a number of fringe players who could develop into excellent major college players. Fourteen Permian players were signed to football scholarships last year.

"It's like a giant checker game," Bartosh said. "If a kid visits Texas A&M then everybody is waiting to talk to him again to try and offset the visit."

"I've never seen so many recruiters in West Texas. And, boy, are they baby sitting. Recruiting is different than what it has been. They can't take the kids out to the Dairy Queen for a coke or buy the parents a steak anymore. It puts a tremendous burden on the recruiter."

They gather like flies around here every day about 1:30 p.m. before we have our track workouts. They talk 10 to 15 minutes and then visit the kids again that night at their homes. It's been disruptive—we've got more people sitting around the office. We enjoy visiting and try to make them (the recruiters) as comfortable as possible but a man can enjoy just so many coffee breaks."

The signing date for Southwest Conference letters of intent is Feb. 13. The national letter of intent signing is April 5.

The Big Five at Odessa Permian are All-Staters quarterback David Shipman; linebacker Grady Wilkerson; receiver Joe Bizzell; tackle Scott Mann; and guard Greg Davis.

Davis has committed to Texas Tech and Mann says he is going to Baylor. Bizzell is apparently going to Texas with the Aggies and Longhorns in mortal combat over Wilkerson and Shipman.

John Paul Young of Texas A&M has been here more than anybody," Bartosh said. "He saw 11 of our games. He's here now. Bellard, Royal and (Baylor coach Grant) Teaff have been here about three times. Bartosh said "It's getting down to the head coach level now. The preliminaries are over. I imagine everyone will be glad when next Tuesday gets here."

Lentz To Be Replaced

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Arthur Lentz, 330,000-a-year executive director, is slated to be the main victim of a shakeup this weekend in the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The former University of Wisconsin publicist, administrative head of the USOC since 1966, will be replaced by his present assistant, Victor, Col. Don Miller, a close associate to the situation told the Associated Press today.

Philip O. Krumm, the incoming president, declined to discuss the report other than to say: "There will be some important changes in our organization—yes, they will affect Olympic House. But I can't reveal them for a couple of days."

Krumm is a 66-year-old former sales representative from Kenosha, Wis., who succeeds Clifford Buck of Denver, a retired sporting goods executive, as USOC president in the organization's darkest hour.

Around 150 delegates poured into this fashionable winter resort today to attempt to regrid America's greatest amateur sports body, already deserted by major colleges and under heavy fire from Congress and a militant, college-backed group known as The Committee for a Better Olympics.

Missing were delegates from the powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association and 37 individual conferences, making a total absentee list of about 135. The NCAA withdrew its support shortly before the ill-starred Munich Olympics, calling for a complete overhaul of the USOC structure.

Lentz, who could not be reached immediately for comment, reportedly had hoped for a four-year renewal of his contract, which has another year to run.

If Lentz goes, so may other top administrative officials, excepting Col. Miller.

Prior to today's meeting, at which he will officially take office, Krumm made it plain that he planned broad and decisive measures intended to restore the USOC's tattered image.

"We will study all the criticisms and examine them one by one," he added. "We will bring outstanding athletes—old stars and present ones—into our policy making. We intend to rectify whatever mistakes we have made in the past."

One of the main criticisms has been that the USOC is run by a group of self-perpetuating "old fogeys" with small regard for the welfare of the athletes.

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Havlicek came back Wednesday night and he couldn't have picked a more opportune time.

Havlicek, returning to action after missing two games because of an inflamed knee tendon, hit a turnaround jump shot with two seconds left in overtime to clinch a 103-102 victory for the Boston Celtics over the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association contest.

Havlicek came through as the 24-second buzzer sounded after Boston had the ball with 26 seconds left and called time with nine seconds to go. The Lakers had goodied to within a point as Gail Goodrich hit a jump shot and added a free throw with 26 seconds to go. The Celtics let Wilt Chamberlain score unimpeded as the buzzer sounded ending the game.

In other NBA action, Detroit beat Phoenix 113-107. Baltimore crushed Atlanta 137-108 and Kansas City-Omaha upset Milwaukee 105-96. There were no games scheduled in the American Basketball Association.

Dave Cowens led the Celtics with 34 points, while Havlicek added 30. Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 35, followed by Jerry West with 28.

Elgin Hayes scored 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in leading the Baltimore Bullets over the Atlanta Hawks.

Phil Chenier added 27 points for the Bullets, who led by 37 points at one point in the fourth period.

The Detroit Pistons won their fifth straight game over the Phoenix Suns and it marked the first time in two years the Pistons had won more than three in a row.

Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 26 points and 14 rebounds while Dave Bing added 22.

Charlie Scott and Dick Van Arsdale each scored 21 points for the Suns.

Nate Archibald poured in 39 points and veteran Johnny Green came off the bench to play an important defensive role for the Kings.

Sam Lacey kept Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in check down the stretch to help preserve the victory. Lacey scored 18 points and grabbed 12 rebounds.

Jimmy Bond Is Banquet Speaker

Tickets are now on sale for the annual Harvester Basketball Banquet, scheduled for March 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria.

Featured speaker for the banquet will be Jimmy Bond, former all-state basketball player at Pampa in the 1950's and college player at Pasadena (Calif.) College.

Bond is presently the pastor of the Lakeview Park Church in Oklahoma City, Okla. He has just completed a year's missionary work in Brazil.

During Bond's career at Pampa High School, the Harvesters compiled a 56-2 record and won two state championships (1953-54).

Tickets for the banquet are on sale at Hood Pharmacy, radio station KPND, John McGuire Motors and at the athletic office in the football fieldhouse.

Sanderson Returning To Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Derek Sanderson, a mod swinger who claims the only change in his living style is that he can afford it, is returning to the Boston Bruins after finding his pot of gold in a brief venture with the World Hockey Association.

Sanderson, who had to go only as far as Philadelphia for his fortune, took a whopping cut in pay without a tear Wednesday as he signed a National Hockey League standard contract with the Bruins.

The two-year contract, extending through the 1973-74 season, reportedly will provide the 26-year-old flamboyant center another $200,000 for pocket money, taxes and other incidentals.

"I believe the contract is very fair and I see no problems in sight," Sanderson said. "I'll follow orders and play when and where they tell me."

Long-haired, mustachioed and controversial, Sanderson helped the Bruins to a second Stanley Cup championship in three years last May. He was offered $80,000 a year in a new contract, but elected to follow the rainbow.

He signed with the Philadelphia Blazers of the new WHA for $2.4 million over a 10-year period.

Lawyer Finds Principle

"Politics is attempting to turn advertising on its head by establishing counter advertising. In the process, freedom of the press is endangered, and the political process itself runs the risk of subversion." An alarmist statement, obviously. But it's worth at least a moment to consider whether it is true. The statement was made by former Federal Communications Commissioner Lee Loewinger. He is a former justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court and at one time was assistant U.S. Attorney General in charge of the U.S. Justice Department's anti-trust division.

Counter advertising works like this. If a firm buys radio time and claims its product is good, some other group can demand radio time without charge for advertising that the same product is bad. Loewinger asserted that "the demand for counter advertising is not a demand for free speech at all, but is a demand that government sanction and mandate a particular kind of speech and the expression of some special viewpoint."

As an example of the extremes to which counter advertising may be carried, he cited a recent complaint to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). The complaint dealt with dog-food commercials. It charged the commercials misled the public into thinking that the dog is man's best friend without warning of the danger of animal-borne diseases. Another complaint demanded time to reply to a United Fund appeal on the ground that an inadequate share of the proceeds went to blacks. Other complainants, he said, are vegetarians and astrology advocates who claim unfairness toward their views.

To be sure, not all adverse ads would be as absurd as those that Loewinger cited, but absurdity does tend to breed absurdity, and who knows how far the game would be played? Moreover the former FCC commissioner makes two further points that do apply across the board.

The first of these is that radio time costs the station money and, for the government to mandate a giveaway, is to discriminate against a mode of free speech.

The second is that the logic of counter advertising could carry over into the political administration period when only spokesmen favorable to the current administration would be allowed to speak. "It is no secret that every administration thinks that news reporting and commentary on its activities is unfair," the ex-bureaucrat asserted. He was speaking with experience on his side.

"Freedom in a large and diverse country will ultimately produce fairness, but a government-banned 'fairness' cannot produce freedom," Loewinger declared. "The exercise of government power to establish a period for the broadcast expression of any government specified or controlled viewpoint is inherently contrary to the whole concept of free speech and free press."

Behold, a lawyer who has found a principle!

Word For Medication

One of those truths we take for granted these days is that we live in a drug-oriented, overmedicated society.

Deluged with drug advertising on television, watching their parents pop aspirins and tranquilizers, it's only natural that kids—who are apparently incapable of independent, rational thought—stick needles in their veins. Or so it is explained by many experts.

But while an undetermined number of people use medications excessively, at the same time, another undetermined but certainly greater number of people who should be on medications ignore them because they don't get medical attention, can't afford it, refuse it, fail to get prescriptions filled, endure pain needlessly in accordance with the Puritan ethic, or are being educated to equate drug use with personal failings.

So writes C. Joseph Stetler in a letter to Science, submitting the novel conclusion that "on balance, then, we are probably an undermedicated society."

He adds that critics give little attention to the present gains drug therapy affords society in lives saved, illnesses aborted or relieved, hospital stays shortened or prevented entirely, time saved on the job, etc.—all of incalculable human and economic benefit.

Stetler writes as a representative of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, a fact which in some eyes will cast suspicion on anything he might say about drugs.

It is always useful, however, to question accepted wisdom, if only to keep the wise men in touch with reality.

A Bedtime Story With New Twist

By PAUL HARVEY Today, here's a bedtime story. I got this off the Teletype from Pecos, Texas, police department. I can't take the credit but I am willing to plead guilty to being an accessory.

Once upon a time there lived a little girl called Red Riding Hood. One day her mother asked her to take a basket of fruit to her grandmother who had been ill and who lived alone in a cottage in the forest.

It happened that day that a wolf was lurking in nearby bushes, overheard the conversation and decided to take a shortcut to Grandmother's house and intercept the basketful of goodies for himself.

The wolf arrived first, killed the grandmother and ate her. The wolf then dressed himself in Grandmother's nightgown and jumped into bed to await the arrival of Little Red Riding Hood.

When she arrived, the wolf made overtures to the girl, tired to grab her. The terrified child ran, screaming, from the cottage.

A woodcutter working nearby heard the cries, rushed to the rescue, killed the wolf with his ax.

Red Riding Hood was saved. Townspeople, when they learned of the rescue, converged on the scene and proclaimed the woodcutter a hero.

Now—the rest of the story: At the inquest, certain facts emerged.

1—The wolf, prior to his execution, had not been advised of his rights.

2—The woodcutter had made no warning swings before striking the fatal blow.

3—At the inquest, self-invited representatives of the Civil Liberties Union stressed the point that, although the act of killing and eating Grandma may have been in bad taste, actually the wolf was merely "doing his thing" and thus did not deserve the death penalty.

Further, the ACLU lawyers contended that killing the grandmother could be construed as self-defense inasmuch as the wolf's intent was to "make love, not war" and it can be reasonably assumed that the grandmother resisted overtly and might, given the opportunity, have killed him.

Based on these considerations the coroner concluded that there was no valid legal basis for charges against the wolf and that, in fact, the woodcutter was guilty of unprovoked assault with a deadly weapon. And the woodcutter was so indicted, arrested, arraigned, convicted, sentenced: 20 years.

The Wednesday night following the sentencing the woodcutter's cottage was burned to the ground.

One year from the date of the "incident at Grandma's" her cottage was dedicated as a shrine for the wolf who had bled and died there.

Village officials spoke at the dedication. Red riding Hood, herself, gave the most touching tribute. She explained that, while she was grateful for the woodcutter's intervention, in retrospect she realized that he had overreacted. As she knelt and placed a wreath in memory of the brave wolf, there was not a dry eye in the whole forest.

Cicero Said It

Two thousand years ago Cicero said to the politicians of Rome: "Budgets should be balanced, the treasury should be refilled, the public debt should be reduced, the arrogance of officialdom should be tempered and controlled. Assistance to foreign lands should be curtailed, lest Rome become bankrupt. The mobs should be forced to work and not depend on government for subsistence."

The United States now suffers from the same ailments that caused the death of Rome: Will we go the same downward way that Rome did? Or will we return to Constitutional government?

"Doctor, how long will I have to lie here?" asked one of God's servants who had sustained a hip injury. Replied the wise doctor, "Just a day at a time!"

"He who is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he who rules his own spirit than he who takes a city."

—Proverbs 16:32

'I KNOW, HE'S RIGHT! WE CAN'T WASTE THESE BEAUTIFUL SIGNS!'

BRUCE BLOSSAT Let's Not Blame It All on Vietnam

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Long after the last American soldier has left the jungles of Vietnam, we here at home will be struggling through the transplanted mental jungle which the war bequeathed us. I was absolutely thunderstruck to read a long epitaph to the war written by one of America's most celebrated journalists. He spoke of the experience as shattering, divisive, undermining of our confidence, sobering and corrective of our judgments about ourselves as a people and a nation, destructive of authority in every realm of life, right down to the family itself.

Yet I could not find a line in this recital which laid upon us—some of us—the proper charge that we were grossly distorting the experience even as we were undergoing it.

Perhaps that was because the writer himself was clearly caught up in these distortions. Certainly his war epitaph, in the painful narrowness of its view, was a masterpiece of misrepresentation.

It would take a book to set down adequately all the forces and events other than the Vietnam war which have for instance, affected American attitudes toward the authority of government, schools, press, church and family.

Among them, of course, are the strange workings of affluence, the great racial struggle, the huge, unbroken migration to the cities and their environs, the breakdown of the cities as workable living places, new definitions (and not always accurate) of what freedom is, the headlong sweep of the scientific revolution and its applications to material living.

For clarity in many things, we must wait for history's long-range lens. But not in this instance. We can laugh right now at the absurdity of the notion that so much of our trouble comes from the Vietnam war.

If it were truly so, then the rational response could only be: We are not such a people. And our institutions, raised up through the ordeals of two centuries, are neither worth saving nor even revamping in a fresh mold. Such an interpretation stamps us as hopelessly, enduringly unstable—irrational and ill-suited to the trials of life.

To read some of our self-anointed amateur historians and many among the professionals who style themselves "revisionists," that verdict is indeed wholly applicable.

No decent American impulse had any place at all in the Vietnam experience. Bright men, imprisoned by history, contrived inescapably to behave blindly and stupidly.

There never was a "Cold War." That is an American invention, rooted in false fears of the Soviet Union and communism. If the Russians ever acted badly, it was only in response to our provocation. The Cuban missile crisis was not the product of Kremlin misjudgment or irrationality, but ours.

The terrible tensions over Berlin in 1961-62 (hardly mentioned in recent retrospectives) were just nervous over-reactions in White House and Pentagon.

If you believe all or any of this, you must believe that compacted into our 210 million people there is more day-to-day working stupidity, more blindness to history and present reality, than can be found anywhere else on earth.

Nobody else among the rest of the world's 3.6 billion people suffers these awesome handicaps. We are the only moving factors in history. If we Americans will just do right; all will soon be well in the world.

It's quite a theory. The people who buy it may be a long time finding their way out of the jungle.

The state of the world; on every Communist border with the free world, the guns point in to keep the captives from escaping; on the other hand, the missiles all point out, aimed against the frenations that stand in the way of their goal—an all-Communist world.

Your Health No Cholesterol In Coconuts

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—In one of your columns you recently said that vegetables did not contain cholesterol.

Ordinarily I've found your information to be both interesting and factual but in this instance it appears that you've overlooked the fact that one plant product that is high in cholesterol is the common coconut and because many of the coffee cream substitutes are based on coconut products they should be avoided even though no such information appears on the label.

Dear Reader—Coconut oil does not contain one single drop of cholesterol and I'll be happy to be quoted on that anywhere. The confusion results from the point that saturated fats, and coconut oil is high in saturated fat, stimulate the body to form cholesterol. This is the reason that it is not recommended to use coconut oil. This is quite different from saying that coconut oil contains cholesterol.

Our body normally forms cholesterol. Apparently it will form excess amounts of cholesterol and cause excess amounts of cholesterol and fatty particles in the blood stream in people who eat too much of almost any type of food, including too much carbohydrates, and all kinds of fats.

Incidentally, a synonym for coconut oil by the food companies is often "vegetable oil." Thus, if you want to avoid coconut oil don't buy products that simply say "vegetable oil" because it very often means coconut oil. Why do food manufacturers use coconut oil? Because it's saturated and therefore doesn't become rancid so early and that means the shelf-life of the product will be longer. The coffee whiteners and artificial creamers that are used by many people to avoid the saturated fats that are in cream contain coconut oil which is rich in saturated fat and defeats that purpose for using it.

I've had several letters from people challenging my statement about coconut oil and cholesterol. I hope that this reply will clarify the matter.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Is it true that fertilized eggs are more healthful than unfertilized eggs because they contain hormones that help to utilize any cholesterol that may be in the eggs? Do fertilized eggs contain more vitamins than unfertilized eggs?

Dear Reader—Pure stuff and nonsense and shades of quackery. It's a real shame that the beneficial effects from good nutrition and eating properly have to be obfuscated by unscientific and just plain downright untruths that are used to bilk the gullible public. About the only way that a fertilized egg is going to contain more hormones is to keep it around long enough until the chick embryo develops far enough to have its own developing endocrine system.

Inside Washington

Lowenstein Holds Testimonial for Himself

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It should be quite an affair—if they show up, which is doubtful!

Allard Lowenstein, bumptious head of the New Left Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), is giving himself a testimonial dinner, nominally sponsored by assorted prominent leftists, ultra-liberals, dove activists and other militants.

Actually, the whole thing was conceived by Lowenstein to promote himself for something—almost certainly another campaign for public office.

He's been panting for that ever since being decisively defeated in 1970 for reelection as Congressman. Last year, he made two costly unsuccessful tries to stage a comeback, but he is still ardently yearning.

Exactly what the voluble ADA leader will next run for is still hazy.

Not given to modesty or lack of ambition, Lowenstein has evinced lively interest in various possibilities—mayor of New York City, governor of New York, the U.S. Senate, and even another race for his old House seat.

When it comes to being a political candidate, he isn't too choosy. He's prepared to run at the drop of a hat.

That's what the self-generated "testimonial dinner" is all about. It's to set the stage for launching a boom of some kind, an elaborately contrived send-off for Lowenstein's fanfare return to the hustings.

The Boosters

With one exception, the list of "sponsors" is what could be expected for this kind of an affair—top names and high office holders on the left.

Heading the list is, naturally, Sen. George McGovern. The South Dakota radical and Lowenstein vigorously stamped for each other last year, with mutual disastrous consequences.

Also ceremoniously listed as "Honorary Co-Chairpersons" and "Honorary Co-Vice Chairpersons" are:

Mrs. Martin Luther King, Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers under rank-and-file fire in his union for electioneering for McGovern, Sen. Birch Bayh, Ind. who made a short-lived scramble for the Democratic presidential nomination last year, Charles Evers, mayor of Fayette, Miss.; Ohio Gov. John Gilligan, Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., avowed Marxist and Black Panther supporter.

Also Mrs. Hale Boggs, widow of former Democratic House Leader Hale Boggs who is running for his Louisiana seat, Maine's rookie Democratic Sen. William Hathaway, Wisconsin Gov. Patrick Lucey, a leading McGovern backer, Mrs. Frances (Cissy) Farenthold, New Left member of the Texas legislature, Rep. John Riegle, New Left Michigan Republican and frequent Nixon critic, Boston Mayor Kevin White.

One exception to these assorted leftists is Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss.

Sharp controversy surrounds the inclusion of his name.

Close lieutenants flatly say he did not authorize it. Whether he did or not, it's on a "Lowenstein Testimonial Dinner Committee" letterhead soliciting sponsors to "honor Al Lowenstein for twenty years of remarkable public service."

There is no hint of what this exceptional performance might be.

Signers of the mimeographed letter are two rancorous leftist doves and Nixon baiters—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif.

Curiously, they frankly admit "few of us will be able to attend in person." But they stress it "will mean a great deal (to Lowenstein) if you will join your name with ours to commemorate this unusual occasion."

Two other oddities: (1) Office address on the letterhead is an apartment on Central Park West; (2) at bottom of the page is an unexplained notation "New York Dinner Committee in Formation."

The Gauntlet

It looks as if things will be different this Congress in the way the prestigious Senate Foreign Relations Committee functions.

Led by veteran Sen. George Aiken, Vt., Republican committee members have served notice on Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark. They are not going to tolerate his testy high-handed rule any longer.

As a starter, they are demanding the right to name one-third of the committee's six-member staff.

Fulbright has arbitrarily monopolized these patronage appointments. He has loftily claimed the staff assistants are "professionals" and "above partisan politics."

That contention is now being bluntly challenged. Says Aiken, senior GOP committeeman, "Every other Senate committee has minority representation on its staff. There is no reason why this policy should not apply to the Foreign Relations Committee. We want our fair share of the staff, and we intend to get it."

Privately, the Republican stand is supported by several Democratic committeemen who differ sharply with Fulbright's gurgulous dovism.

Old-Timer

Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., has several unique distinctions.

He is the only member of Congress whose father served in the Civil War, now beginning his 33rd year as a legislator, he has seen more than 2,000 colleagues come and go in that time and only six current House members have served longer than he has.

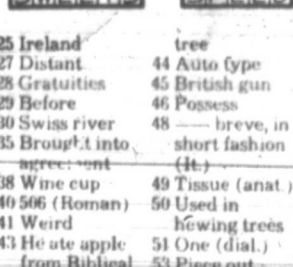

They are Reps. Wright Patman, D-Tex., dean of the House with 27 terms, Leslie Arends, R-Ill., and George Mahon, D-Tex., 20 terms, W.R. Poague, D-Tex., 19 terms, and F. Edward Hebert, D-La., 17 terms.

Of the seven senior House members, three are from Texas. Sikes is familiarly known among intimates as "Hee Con." Says his close friend Rep. Don Fuqua, D-Fla., "We are proud of Bob Sikes and his unique record. Not only has he served a long time, but he has served with distinction and ability. He is an outstanding credit to his district, his state and his country."

If guns kill people, we should be arresting and trying guns and not arresting and trying people. You see, if guns kill people, only guns could be guilty of murder.
