Armed Pair Get $375 Cash From Man Here

Oil Station Man Is Lured From His Bed

J. H. Lloyd Relieved Of Receipts Monday Night In West Side

The latest wave of burglaries and hijackings continued unabated Monday evening as two armed men robbed J. H. Lloyd, Cosden bulk station manager, of $375 in cash.

Lloyd was lured from his bed under pretext that the pair wanted a truck load of oil. They greeted him at door of his home in the west part of town with a command to hold up his hands.

He was forced at the point of a gun to give them receipts of the station which he had taken home for safe keeping.

Darkness prevented Lloyd from gaining any accurate description of the two other than one was comparatively large and the other small.

Lloyd was called from his bed at 10:30 p. m. He immediately notified officers who were still investigating the robbery Monday afternoon.

The Lloyd robbery is somewhat similar to a recently attempted holdup of W. A. Sheets, proprietor of the Home Cafe. Sheets, however, was accosted as he placed his car in his garage. He had a gun in his hand and fired upon his assailants.

A prowler in a South Scurry neighborhood Monday evening had a bullet directed at him for his trouble.

Annoyed by the antics of the prowler, "Uncle Rufe" Slaughter, father of Sheriff Jess Slaughter, arose from his bed and took a long distance shot at the culprit who promptly fled.

Poker—General Johnson, the boss of NRA, is riding around town in a shiny new Lincoln and therein lies a story.

Across Secretary of Commerce Roper's desk the other day came a requisition for an automobile for the General. Roper looked around and discovered that the vanishing Shipping Board had a couple of machines. One of them, a LaSalle that Capt. E. F. Crowley head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation had been using, was sent over for Johnson's inspection.

Apparently it wasn't big enough. The General ordered a Lincoln.

The moral of the foregoing is this: The Lincoln is Henry Ford's deluxe product. Ford was the one big auto manufacturer who declined to adhere to the code drawn up by the Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Johnson's order was filled prior to President Roosevelt's executive order directing that the government trade only with the Blue Eagle but after the NRA chief himself had broadcast an appeal to the nation to do likewise.

It may be that Johnson had inside information Ford was going to capitulate. He told a Detroit newspaper man he was "only playing poker" with the flivver king.

New Provisions Of Laws Governing Rural School Aid And System Of Transportation Presented Here

Teachers And Trustees Of Two Counties Hear Deputy State Superintendent Bickley Monday Afternoon

More than a hundred school trustees, teachers, and visitors from Howard and Martin counties endorsed sweltering heat Monday afternoon to hear Deputy State Superintendent J. T. H. Bickley interpret new rural aid and transportation aid laws and reiterate State Superintendent L. A. Woods' campaign promise of "more school for the money."

In direct contrast to a year ago, Bickley painted an encouraging picture of school finances. He defended the 516 apportionment per pupil on the grounds that newly imposed taxes would yield a far more bounteous reserve than before, and that the twelve months payment plan would create another admirable savings.

Because the school system is to get all the cigarette tax and the two per cent crude oil tax has been increased to two cents per barrel, Bickley believed it probable that the deficit of this year's apportionment would be paid by September 10, 1933.

Bickley admitted the cry had been "more money for the schools" but held the intention of the present regime was to give more school for the money.

Inter-District System This, his declarations indicated, is dependent on the proper functioning of an inter-district transportation system. He hailed as a popular fallacy the belief that two teachers could adequately teach ten grades, or that any small district with limited resources could amply provide for eleven well instructed grades.

Where there are two or more schools within a comparatively small radius, he said in giving an example, let one school take up the task of teaching only elementary grades and the other the higher grades.

Present conditions in many districts, he said, lead to improving of the upper grades at the expense of the elementary grades. Bickley scored such a practice as a "fatal mistake."

"The group of elementary pupils is the most intelligent in the entire system," he declared. "It is necessary, however, that the teacher teach them if they learn." Existing conditions render class periods recitation periods instead of teaching periods, he said.

"I believe," he asserted, "we can have as good schools in this county as in Big Spring, provided we do not give the teacher more than he or she can do. The most serious thing in Texas is the maintenance of eleven grades at the expense of the elementary grades."

The state stands ready to render substantial transportation aid, according to Bickley. For every high school pupil transported a distance of two miles or more from district to district, the state will pay $2 per month transportation aid. Where a district line is uncrossed, the state pays $1 for the high school student. For all elementary students carried more than two miles, $1 is allowed.

Where the pupil is not accessible to a bus line, he is eligible to transportation aid on the same basis. No ruling has yet been handed down on the pupil coming from his home to a town school and then returning at the end of the week.

To allay fears localities hold against consolidation, the deputy superintendent said it was the desire of the state to have the de-

Following a meeting Monday evening J. E. Payne, who presided, announced practically every barber shop and beauty parlor in the city had agreed to operate under terms of the modified presidential agreement, or temporary code, prescribed for the trades by the National Recovery Administration.

FIGURES ON CLASS CONTEST STANDING

The attendance contest between the First Baptist and Methodist Men's classes appeared Tuesday to be gaining additional steam.

The Baptists challenged a statement of the standing of the contest published Monday. Instead of having lost 39 points, they only lost 3 points to the Methodists last Sunday, they declared, basing their statement on contention that 25 was the "basic" figure for them as 50 the basic figure for the Methodists at the outset of the contest.

The Baptists now lead by 95 points, they declared.

Meanwhile pastors of the two churches R. E. Day and J. R. Spann, were smiling broadly, confident that the "steas" would further stimulate class attendance, the real purpose of the contest.

The Baptists admitted, however, that the report they described as incorrect originated from an incorrect statement before one of the classes last Sunday and were "kidding" the member who made the statement.

ducers, processors and consumers. But unbridled speculation and violent price fluctuations such as the country has recently witnessed are no part of these useful functions.

Farmers, consumers and business generally must have orderly marketing based on laws of supply and demand. Prices must not be inflated or unduly depressed for the profit of men who never produce or process wheat, and whose transactions exist only on paper.

Nor can the government afford to jeopardize its production control program, on which it is spending $100,000,000 for the benefit of wheat growers, by letting speculators reap the benefit.

Fortunately, Administrator Peek has ample authority under new legislation to enforce the government's will. He can license grain exchanges and all other handlers of farm commodities. And he can regulate those licenses, and put the undesirable dealers out of business. Such authority heretofore has been lacking.

The Board of Trade and the grain trade are welcoming federal investigation. The price of wheat has been pegged temporarily and price ranges limited. Meantime lasting remedies for the future can be devised, and this is what the grain trade is attempting to do.

Cotton Shipments From Texas Ports Showing Increase

GALVESTON (UP)—Cotton shipments from Texas ports in July showed a decided increase over the corresponding period last year, according to a statement released by the maritime committee of the Galveston Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade.

Houston led the Texas ports, exporting 232,219 1-2 nominal bales of cotton, an increase of 102,458 1-2 bales over July, 1932.

Galveston also showed a marked increase, shipping 124,211 nominal bales abroad this July as against 104,169 bales last July.

Japan was the largest taker of cotton from the two ports during July, importing a total of 118,152 1-2 bales.

No grain was exported from Texas ports during July, and Galveston was the only port to export any cottonseed meal, shipping 112,000 pounds to Dunkirk as compared to 448,000 pounds in July, 1932.

Corpus Christi shipped 508,028 pounds of cottonseed cake abroad and was the only Texas port to export this commodity during July.

A sharp drop in shipments of flour from Houston was noted but Galveston slightly bettered her figure of July, 1932. Houston shipped only 1,461,882 pounds as compared to 2,250,494 pounds for last July while Galveston moved up from 2,246,485 to 2,350,011 pounds.

Metal and scrap cargo shipments from Houston improved during July, 6,687,073 pounds being exported last month as compared to 5,900,602 pounds last year. Galveston shipments declined 97,843 pounds.

WHEAT GAMBLING TO BE ENDED

The recent orgy of gambling in wheat and the following spectacular crash of the market will have served a useful purpose if they bring about elimination of some of the evils that have so long characterized grain trading.

And there is evidence that they may. George N. Peek, administrator of the Farm Adjustment Act, minced no words when he told grain dealers that they must set their own house in order or the government would do it for them. He added that this was not just another warning of the sort issued so often in recent years.

"Abuses exist in the grain trades, and they acting as the marketing medium for the farmers, should correct these abuses," said Peek. "If they do not succeed, then the government will act. I know of no industry other than farming which has nothing to say about the price received for its product."

The Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges have necessary and useful functions for pro-

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Figures from Washington tell a reassuring story of the extent of activity in June and early July was 89 per cent of the 1923-25 average, an increase of 12 per cent over July, and 23 per cent over July of last year. Output of steel, automobiles, shoes, textiles, and many other products increased.

The American Federation of Labor estimates that 1,500,000 persons have found jobs since March. This is a distinct gain, but labor officials point out that 11,500,000 persons still are without work. Success of present efforts of NRA would mean that 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 of these would be employed by September.

There are indications that production is running ahead of consumption, since department store sales in June receded 1 per cent. An appreciable increase in employment would stimulate mass buying power.

Conditions still remain far from normal and the country is by no means out of the woods. But the curve is swinging upward.

Balanced Budget Near Reality, Barring Emergency Expenditures To Be Paid Over Period Of Years

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY, United Press Financial Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The federal government is near its goal of a balanced budget, except for heavy emergency expenditures which the administration believes should be paid for over a period of years rather than out of current receipts.

The emergency expenditures, including the $2,300,000,000 public works program and other extraordinary activities, are not carried in the "ordinary budget." The public works costs are to be amortized over a period of years by special taxes of $225,000,000 annually voted by the last session of congress.

Steadily rising tax revenues from legalization of the sale of beer and increased business activity, together with large reductions in running expenses of the government, have virtually achieved a balanced budget for ordinary operations.

In the first ten days of August the treasury collected in taxes and other income a total of $79,453,914 and spent $78,783,515 for running expenses.

Not included in the above figures were $62,407,200 spent in the first ten days of August for emergency relief expenditures such as Reconstruction Finance Corporation, public works and emergency conservation work.

From July 1, the start of the current fiscal year, to August 10, income of the government amounted to $242,667,485. Ordinary expenditures, including many millions of a non-recruiting nature, came to $274,401,484. This $32,000,000 deficit in ordinary operations is expected to be made up when full effects of the economy program are felt and September quarter income tax payments come in.

The total income of $242,667,485 from July 1 to August 10 was nearly double the $122,714,974 collected in the corresponding period of last year. Total expenditures, including emergency this year were $412,161,427, against $654,512,586 in the corresponding period of last year.

Member Of Consumers Advisory Board Of NRA Resigns Because He Feels Consumer Not Protected

By H. O. THOMPSON, United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Prof. William F. Ogburn, noted sociologist and economist, resigned from the NRA Consumers Advisory Board with a categorical denunciation of methods which have been adopted thus far in the consumers' interests.

Ogburn's resignation was the climax of a bitter quarrel within the organization, revealed exclusively Saturday by the United Press.

In resigning, Ogburn rejected peace offers by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson and Secretary of Commerce Roper, who sought to smooth the matter over by having Ogburn remain on the board.

Ogburn was waiting for Johnson when the latter returned from St. Louis and presented the resignation as soon as Johnson arrived.

The upheaval within the NRA has broadened to include more than a clash between Ogburn and Mrs. Mary Rumsey, wealthy chairman of the Consumers' Board, who was week-ending in Newport and had not returned to her office. Johnson was brought directly into the situation with the revelation that he directed Roper to notify Ogburn of his transfer from the board last week.

The telegram to Ogburn went out under Roper's signature but it was learned that it was sent at the direction of Johnson. Ogburn returned to Washington Saturday and was told to ignore the transfer message. However, he chose to resign under existing conditions.

CHAPTER 42

LATER, in the silent, lamp-shaded seclusion of Foster's office, he stopped his dictation quite abruptly to say:

"Mary, you are a treasure of a secretary. You have no idea how I have missed you. And what I should do without you during these busy weeks. I dread to think it is shameless how a man grows so depend upon a good secretary."

Mary thought, "Now, he will ask me again to marry him. Now is my opportunity. I must tell him my decision before I lose courage. I think I am ready—perhaps, for Mom's sake. She smiled. 'Oh! I am sure there are many who could take my place, if necessary. You had been in business for a long time before I happened along—'

"But I never had a secretary who could compare with you. Strange—how very different you are from your sister, isn't it? Now, she could never—"

"My—sister?" surprised.

"Why—yes, of course. I look ed at her queerly. er, you know I've taken a great interest in Bonnie—"

"I didn't know you knew Bonnie, Mr. Foster. Did she come in to tell you about Mom for me?"

"Oh, no—I first saw her at Jameson-Hall's. And we've become very good friends on the few occasions we have been out together—"

Mary stared with incredulity. Then she grasped the situation with a few quick mental calculations and managed a casual interest.

"Yes, Bonnie is very unlike me," she agreed, her thoughts in a turmoil of wonder, doubts, fears, disappointments. "Bonnie needs to be taken care of," she added, with significance. She wondered if it were possible that Foster, after all, could harbor a passing fancy for a pretty girl. Why should he be taking Bonnie about? She would not betray her sister to him in any way, of course. But she must talk with Bonnie.

Mary wondered why she had not told her that she knew Foster and had been out with him. Perhaps Bonnie had told Mom about it, resenting Mary's interest in her affairs. Mary guessed why—and sighed. Bonnie knew she had been going about some with Foster since Dick had deserted her. She sighed, and turned her attention to the work at hand. She hoped Foster would offer no more confidences tonight.

Foster did drive her home afterward, but only with perfunctory obligation. He appreciated that she was anxious to get back to her mother, the lateness of the hour, and the fact that it was all in the family.

Sitting beside him, so aloof and strange to her in the close privacy of the car, Mary tried to realize that this was the man she had decided to marry. Some remote thought almost hooted in her brain. How absurd she had been to think she could calmly do such a thing! It was odd, how immediate conditions and needs could so affect one's reasoning. When her concern for Mom had been most imminent and she had recognized the solution to her problem, Foster's proposition had seemed quite sane and acceptable to her. Here, in his immediate presence, everything was so different. Mary knew that she would have to find a new solution to her problem. Was Miffin Frasier the answer?

When Mary went upstairs, she found Mom asleep, so she did not disturb her. Bonnie was in bed, but Mary knew that she had been looking out the window and saw her get out of Foster's car. Bonnie looked at her suspiciously.

"Hello, Old Faithful back on your job, aren't you? Work late tonight or out with the boys?" She tried to sound indifferent, but failed. She was aching to know all about it, so Mary will know.

"Work and more work. No. I can't say that stepping out with the boss is such a thrill."

"Oh, no? When did you get that way?" Bonnie's voice sounded real.

"That would depend upon the boss, of course."

Mary met Bonnie's eyes, squarely. "Don't try to keep it from me, Bonnie. I know that you have been out with Foster, too. I don't care, only I shouldn't want you to do something foolish, you know."

Bonnie was resentful. "There you go—always razzing me. That's some more of my private business—see? And if you must know, I mean business. I hope—whatever you decide—will be for your happiness, clear. But don't rush into something you may regret. Mr. Foster is a fine man—it isn't that. I just want you to be satisfied and—happy."

"Oh, well—marriage isn't for life, you know, especially if there's a chance for alimony. Times have changed since it was the thing to stick it out until death did them part. In the meantime, he may pass out before long—and the world belongs to a pretty and wealthy widow," airily.

"Bonnie!" Mary pleaded.

"Oh, don't be so darned serious, old thing! Can't you see a joke? Well, wish me luck! One thing is sure, and you may check that up in your list of never-will-be's—this baby is not going to slave all her life for a mere existence while the world in its wealth rolls by. I don't need to. I've got look, and that's what men want. Let them pay for it. No use to give mine away for a song, or youth. I want comfort and pleasure, and I'm going to have it. No one can stop me," defiantly.

No one tried to stop her.

prohibition enforcement law. Thousands of people who were just ready to buy a new auto are hesitating. We heard one man say within a week that he had made up his mind to buy a new Buick automobile, but with the probable repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and with drunken drivers certain to follow, he had decided to postpone indefinitely the buying of a car, until he sees how things turn out.

Another man, a large manufacturer, said to The Bulletin editor that he and his family had 11 automobiles, but that if the Eighteenth Amendment was repealed and public liquor selling came back, he would sell them all except one little car to run errands around town. He would do no more long distance driving and have no use for most of his cars. There is no question but that the automobile business and the oil business are two lines of business which are going to be tremendously hit and hurt by the return of public liquor selling.

Canada had a weak prohibition law up until 1923, when it was repealed, and a so-called state control law was adopted. The result has been that there has been an enormous increase in drunken driving in the last ten years. In fact, as computed from official figures of the Minister of Trade and Finance at Ottawa, Canada, there has been an increase of 504 per cent in drunken driving since prohibition was repealed in that country. If drunken drivers increase five and one-half times the present rate in this country after prohibition is repealed, it should be repealed, that will wreck the automobile and oil business in America.—Civil Bulletin.

ALCOHOL AND AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS.

A friend in California wrote The Bulletin editor under date of January 5, saying: "Yesterday at a luncheon I heard Mayor Porter of Los Angeles speak. He said that his chief of police had reported an increase of 300 per cent in drunken driving and 200 per cent in arrests for drunkenness in that city since the repeal of the Wright State Prohibition Enforcement Act, which repeal went into effect the middle of December."

That is a tremendous increase in drunkenness in a little over two weeks after the repeal of the state prohibition enforcement law, and if the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, it is going to mean an enormous increase of drunken drivers and accidents all over the country. Auto accident policies will be increased probably at least 25 per cent for that reason. They have already been increased in Massachusetts since repeal of their state side of the state department not to destroy community centers, but added it was only fair and right that "you put the welfare of the child before community pride."

In extending transportation aid, the state had so arranged it as not to penalize consolidated districts for that reason old district boundaries are being kept intact in consideration of such aid.

The county board will approve and manage all transportation.

Rural Aid

"If your tax rate is $1 and you can effect a 75 per cent tax collection," said Hickley, "the state will extend you sufficient financial aid to insure an eight months school." It was authoritatively learned from another source that perhaps the 75 per cent level would not be demanded in this drought-stricken area.

Taxable valuations should run $2,000 per pupil, he said. In event of a 75 per cent collection under such valuations, Hickley believed state aid would be unnecessary.

Where tax maintenance rates are more than fifty cents and are lowered, no state aid will be forthcoming.

Danger

Speaking of the 3,000,000 youngsters who have graduated from secondary schools and colleges since 1929 and been added to the unemployed adult population, he says: "This army of young people is potentially very dangerous if the members remain unemployed and potentially very helpful in creating social stability if they get jobs."

"In Chicago the high school students who are soon to join the ranks of the unemployed have been cooperating closely with the unpaid teachers, helping in demonstrations, going on strikes and that sort of thing."

Leisure

If the New Deal works America's leisure hours are going to be increased enormously. Although codes now being signed average about 40 working hours a week, the administration is shooting at an eventual 30-hour week.

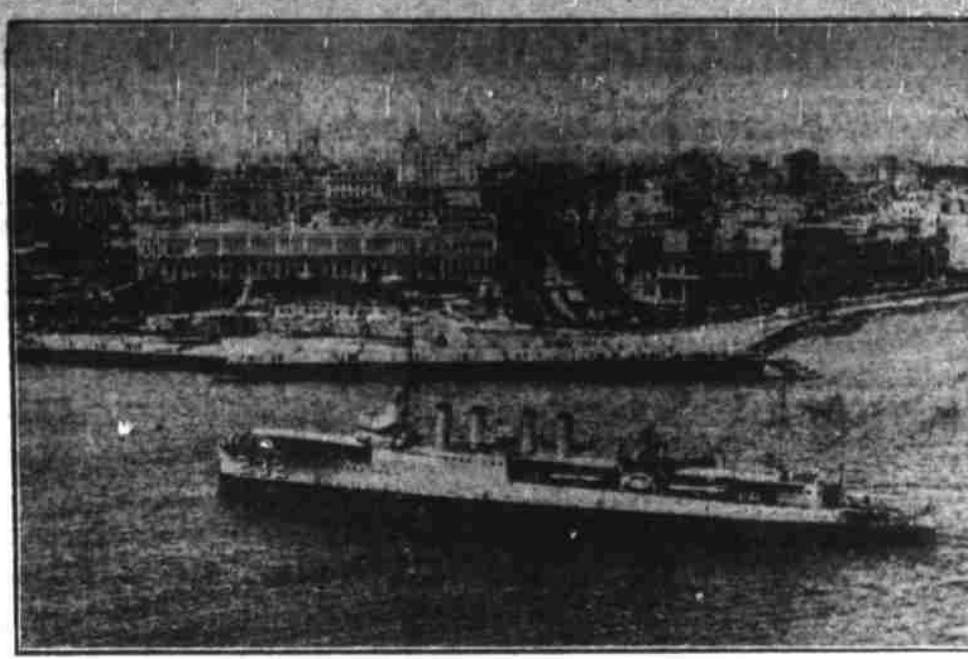

"Implications of this in the field of adult education and in the field of directed recreational activities are very large," says Miller.

"Possibly within five years we shall need two million instead of our present one million teachers."

Mules

Andy Mellon is going to be right up with Henry Ford as a Grade A problem for NRA mule tamers.

Andy's Aluminum Co. of America doesn't see much sense to all this Blue Eagle stuff. Its competitors recently filed a complaint that not only has it failed to sign a code, but is actually selling its product below cost. The competitors claim this makes it impossible for them to live up to their own code agreements unless the government clamps down in a hurry.

The trouble is that Andy's outfit hasn't yet recovered from NRA's failure to show proper respect for such a mighty corporation. As our Washington columnist pointed out at the time, the Aluminum Co. brought its own code to the capital and said "Here it is—approve it." NRA didn't, so the boys went home in a huff and vowed they wouldn't play. So far they have kept the vow. They are privately convinced that they are big enough to get away with it.

The fact that the "Aluminum Trust" is a near-monopoly complicates things. If the government uses the licensing provisions of NRA on a cooperate-or-quit basis it might make it hard to get aluminum. That might act as a brake on recovery in other ways. An effective boycott would be almost impossible. Aluminum Co. is counting on these factors and refuses to budge.

It looks to be a case of irresistible force versus immovable body. But local insiders say Uncle Andy's men underestimate NRA's resources. A solution is cooking on publicly lines which may have the effect of a tack on a sofa. At any rate nobody here is betting on the mule against the Eagle.

Sidelights

The New York banks want people to know they are in a liquid condition. They are, all right. Seems like painting the lily to stress the point. Published bank statements are based on a gross deposits. Weekly Clearing House report on net (uncollected items omitted). That's another reason why published figures are bigger. Speculators crave more inflation. If you even mention Jimmie Warburg or Prof. Warren they prick up their long flexible ears.

Church Music Will Be Topic

Capacity Crowds Hear Sermon Monday Night By M. J. Wise

Melvin J. Wise, local minister of the Church of Christ, who is doing the preaching in the revival meeting now in progress at Fourth and Johnson streets, will speak tonight on "Why We Do Not Use Instruments of Music in the Worship." Mr. Wise said that many people wonder why the Church of Christ excluded instrumental music from its worship, and announced that the purpose of this discourse is not to tell why others use instruments of music in their worship, but to "humbly and inoffensively present scriptural reasons for the mode of worship practiced by this church."

Mr. Wise spoke last night to a capacity crowd on "Why I Am Not a Campbellite." He said in part: "We are forced to the consideration of this question many times because some people persist in calling us Campbellites, notwithstanding the fact that we tenaciously contend that we should not wear a human name in religion. My purpose in this discourse shall be to show you by the Word of God just why Christians should refuse to be recognized by this and all other human names."

"The most profound and recognized religion historians do not refer to us by the name 'Campbellite,' but they say that we are called by that name in derision. I am not talking about those little sectarian historians who refuse to tell the facts, and write to create prejudice rather than to impart information. It is quite a popular theory with some to contend that there is nothing in a name. But names mean something. They are signs of distinction. God gave Adam the privilege to name all things, in order that on down the stream of time, man might distinguish one creature from another."

"If there is nothing in a name why did God change the name of Abram to Abraham, and the name of Jacob to Israel? The descendants of Jacob were not called Jacobites, but Israelites. The name of Jacob was a human name, but God didn't want His people to be called by a human name, so he changed the name of Jacob to Israel. The word 'Israel' is the Hebrew word for prince, and the word 'El' is the Hebrew name for God. So in speaking the name 'Israelites' they spoke the name of God. Deut. 28:10. Gen. 32:28. Who wore the name Israelites? The descendants of Jacob only, God's chosen people. All others were considered Gentiles. Since we are not descendants of Jacob, then is there a name for us to wear that gives honor to the Lord? In Isa. 62:2 Isaiah prophesied of that new name, and he said it would be given after the Gentiles see the righteous of God, and that it would be named by the mouth of the Lord. In Acts 10 we read for the first time of a Gentile conversion. So then we can begin to look for that new name. We find it in Acts 11:26, and here it is: "And the disciples were called CHRISTIANS first in Antioch." In the speaking the name Christian, we speak the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, who is indeed our Saviour and Redeemer today.

"So my first and paramount reason for not being a Campbellite is that I am a Christian and a Christian only. That denotes that I am a disciple of Christ and not Alexander Campbell. David said in Psal. 118:8 "It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man."

"The next reason for which I am not a Campbellite, is that I was not baptized in the name of Campbell,

Make The Pennies Bigger

Church Music Will Be Topic

Capacity Crowds Hear Sermon Monday Night By M. J. Wise

WHEN James Buchanan was President and tall beaver hats were in vogue; when gentlemen wore broad cavats and ladies wore hoop skirts, the pennies they tossed to children were as big as quarters. But the cart-wheel coppers your grandfather got for keeping his lace collar clean were not as big in buying power as the pennies of today.

A penny then might buy a pastry, or ten of them take one to the Fair, but your great-aunt and great-uncle couldn't have gone to a movie at any price.

Sixty years ago the ladies could go shopping for dry goods and buy silks that would make you green with envy, linens that were linens and broadcloths that beggar description. But what their favorite store did not have they usually got along without.

You can pick up your daily newspaper and in fifteen minutes you can know what the different shops are offering in fabrics, patterns, varieties and qualities that great-grandmother never dreamed could be gathered together under any conditions.

Times have changed, and so have merchandise and business methods. One of the influences that has helped to bring about so much of change, that has helped to multiply opportunities and increase the spending size of our pennies is advertising.

Every merchant, every manufacturer knows that advertising materially reduces selling costs by increasing the demand for and distribution of the products of hundreds of thousands of mills. Indeed, many of the things we count today as necessities or simple luxuries could not be made and sold at their reasonable prices except as advertising has created a broad market for them, making millions of sales at little prices and little profits.

'Our Objective Is The Reemployment Of Six Million Persons Before Winter, In Addition To Widespread Increases In Wages,' He Says
By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
National Recovery Administrator
WASHINGTON—Since the inauguration of the President's emergency reemployment campaign, the statement has been made many times: "This is a real war in which we are engaged." Possibly many persons may have felt that such statements merely were the outbursts of well-intentioned but rather over-emphasized emotion. There are no soldiers marching along our streets, no bands are playing martial airs to encourage the enlistment of recruits, no lists of casualties are coming in from the front, no foreign foe is seeking to land an invading force upon our shores. Yet, the fact remains that we are at war with an enemy that has invaded our shores and reduced one third of our population to destitution, thereby causing, perhaps, as great a sum total of suffering as any war in which this Nation ever engaged.
And it is in this spirit that the people of America should view the present situation. For the first port of these loyal employers who have signed the President's agreement and supply the compensating patronage and support. You can tell who these employers are by the Blue Eagle which they will display in their establishments.

The women of America control a major amount of the buying power of the country. I have heard it quoted as high as 80 percent. The women of the Nation have it within their power to throw the business of the Nation into the hands of Blue Eagle firms.
Many of these merchants have gone into the campaign feeling that their profits will be tremendously curtailed for a while—possibly wiped out entirely—but it is the price they are willing to pay to restore national prosperity. We are in duty bound to support and protect them. We must not go through another winter such as the last three have been.
It is impossible to over emphasize to the Nation the great seriousness of our situation, and the tremendous responsibility that rests upon them at this time. We, in Washington, who are working in this drive against unemployment, are counting on them to back us up loyally and vigorously. The watchword is "Look for the Blue Eagle." Buy at Blue Eagle establishments. Buy Blue Eagle merchandise. And buy just as liberally as your purse will permit.
If the women of America will follow these simple suggestions we will be well out of this depression within the next few weeks.

Bond Scandal Investigation Is Spreading
Authorities Seek Evidence In Colorado And Chicago
TOPEKA (UP)—Investigation of the $1,000,000 Kansas forged bond scandal may extend to Washington as well as Colorado and Chicago, it was indicated.
United States District Attorney M. E. Brewster was announced as going to Washington for a conference in connection with the matter. He announced last week the government would submit evidence to the Wichita grand jury and press cases regardless of state action.
Ronald Finney, Cornell graduate charged with forging bonds, maintained a representative in the Mayflower hotel at Washington and was reported to have had a direct wire from his offices here to the capital.
Investigators learned over the week-end that Finney entertained many state officials and state office employees at his mountain ranch in Colorado.
An investigation is underway in Chicago in connection with young Finney's frequent trips there by airplane.
Gov. Alfred Landon who ordered guardsmen to take over the state treasury's office as a result of the scandal today drafted a special message for the legislative council meeting. He also continued his conferences with investigators.
Most council members were here today or en route. The body will convene early tomorrow in the state senate chamber and begin work at once, Lieut. Gov. C. W. Thompson announced. As soon as the governor's message is heard, a committee is expected to be named to go over the bond evidence unearthed by state and federal investigators.

5-1 Majority For Beer Reported In Fort Bend County
RICHMOND (UP)—Fort Bend county's two largest communities have voted five to one in favor of beer sales, indicating to observers how the prohibition wind blows in South Texas.

Secretary of State Hull is regarded around the state department as one of the most unselfish chiefs ever there.
Soon after the new administration came in, Under Secretary Phillips went to Hull and said he would like the names of anyone whom the secretary wanted appointed to diplomatic posts.
Hull said he had no list. Phillips was dumfounded. It had never happened before.
Finally however Hull did have one Tennessee man, Edward Albright, who wanted to be minister to Finland. In the meantime Postmaster General Farley had decided to give Finland to his patronage aide Emil Hurja, who is of Finnish descent and wanted the job.
But when Hull asked for the post as the only one he wished to fill, Farley did not have the heart to stand in his way. He assured Hurja that he would find another job for him.

Knox reeled into the steel propeller's arc yesterday as he stepped from the plane after a short ride. The ride apparently had made him dizzy. An inquest found the fatality to be the result of an "unavoidable accident."
Shiplett's plane was one of several which participated yesterday in an American Legion air circus at the airport here.
