Scout councils ponder closing Pampa office

Boy Scout leaders will be gathering at 7:30 p.m. today at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church Parish Hall to hear a plan for a proposed consolidation of the Adobe Walls Council with the Llano Estacado Council in Amarillo

Both executive councils have already voted to consider the consolidation in an effort to better handle financial difficulties facing the scouting

The consolidation of the two councils has been mentioned for several years, but talks began to get serious this summer as the councils found themselves facing budget problems.

The Adobe Walls Council executive board considered and passed a resolution Sept. 4 favoring the consolidation efforts with Llano Estaçado. The vote, however, was split 18 to 6 in favor of the consolidation.

Kiowa District Executive Tary Clump said the executive board for Llano Estacado Council voted unanimously last week to accept a similar resolu-

Both executive boards, however, will be taking further action to ratify or reject the consolidation. Clump explained that if the consolidation is approved by both councils, the headquarters office will be based in Amarillo. The Adobe Walls Council office in Pampa will close, though it will remain open until Dec. 31. Executive board members, Adobe Walls members-at-large and scouting coordinators are invited to attend tonight's meeting to consider the move to combine the two councils;

A similar meeting will be held for the Llano Esta-

Local scouting leaders were informed of the special called meeting in a letter dated Sept. 21. The letter indicated the meeting was being held "due to the number of responses ... regarding the proposed merger" of the two councils.

Clump, however, said the proposal is not for a "merger" but for a consolidation of the two councils to form an entirely new council with a new name. Adobe Walls will not be "merging" into Llano Estacado or vice versa, he indicated

He said both councils are presently in financial difficulties. The consolidation is an effort to provide more efficient services and to alleviate some of the budgetary problems the councils have faced from declining funds.

Board members from each council's executive board will be on the new council's board until the end of the year, then a new board will be chosen, he Clump said he will remain in Pampa as a district executive and will work out of his home, as some district executives already do. The major difference is that the council office will not be available in Pampa, he noted.

The new council will continue to provide the same services to scouting programs. But the contact "will not be as personal" as it has been from the local office in the present Adobe Walls area, he

Clump said his duties will remain about the same. The major difference is that he will have to get supplies from the Amarillo office. Also, he will have to attend staff meetings in Amarillo, as will other district executives and executive board members

Texas may mean taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans would face one of the nation's highest tax burdens if a plan making the rounds at the Capitol becomes law, says Comptroller Bob Bul-

He reacted quickly Wednesday to Rep. Stan Schlueter's talk of a possible 5½ percent state sales tax and 15-cent per gallon gasoline tax.

"The size and scope of the bill will have a profound impact on all Texans," Bullock said in a letter to Schlueter.

The state sales tax now is 41/8 percent. The gasoline tax is 10 cents per gallon. Increases in those taxes are among the plans being considered by lawmakers now working on a solution to the projected $2.8 billion state deficit.

Schlueter, D-Killeen and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, denied pushing any specific plan. But some House members said Schlueter laid out a plan during a Tuesday meeting in Speaker Gib Lewis' office.

Bullock called it the "Schlueter Tax Proposal," and said it includes the 51/8 percent sales tax and 15-cent gasoline tax, with the taxes rolling back to current levels in three years.

Losing streaks on line

MATADOR - In recent seasons, the McLean Tigers and Motley County Matadors have had to find reasons for playing football other than winning. The last year either school won a game was 1983. For 24 straight games, the Tigers have gone down to defeat. For the Matadors, the string of losses has hit 23. Unless Fate is cruel and waits with a tie, one of the teams will end its losing streak when the two meet at 8 p.m. Friday in Matador.

McLean and Motley County, West Texas Class 1A schools sporting a pair of the longest losing streaks in the state, understand the prime opportunity for one to end a winless drought.

"This is definitely the one," McLean head coach Bill Phillips said. "I have a good feeling, and the kids have a good feeling. The kids are due. They're due to Said Motley County head coach Chip Hollenback: "I really haven't heard a lot about the streak here. The superintendent told me the other day, 'The wolves are starting to howl,' but I think that's just one or two. The similarities between the schools are many, and enrollment at both hovers just above 80. On the football field, the teams have lost by large margins. Motley County has scored just six points this year and allowed 130. McLean also has scored a mere six points, while allowing 131. They're both in the bottom 10 of the Harris Poll, and Phillips and Hollenback are in their second years of trying to end the losing strings.

Phillips admits that a win Friday would be take a strain off of his coaching career and the Tigers'

"I think that we might be a little stunned at first if we won, and it would take a few minutes for it to sink in," he said. "But I guaran-tee you there wouldn't be a dry eye in the place. I'd cry like a new father."

703 S. Ballard, practiced their driving skills Pampa Mall until Oct. 4. House expected to approve

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters predicted approval by a comfortable margin today, but lobbying continued down to the wire, as the House began debate on the most sweeping tax code revision in four decades. 'We're plodding toward victory,' said

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., the assistant majority leader, said, "We're getting more and more votes all the time, a steady increase O'Neill added that Republican leaders had told him a majority of GOP members would vote to approve the package. Earlier, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.,

chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and a chief architect of the plan, said, "I think we could comfortably win this by 30 to 40 to 50 votes

sweeping tax measure today

The last major threat to passage of the measure evaporated Wednesday when House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois told his GOP colleagues he would exercise his prerogative as leader to offer a motion to send the legislation back to the House-Senate negotiators who drafted the final

Only one such motion is allowed on the bill. Thus, Michel's action ended an effort led by Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, to make a more detailed motion to force specific changes in the bill

The bill, most of which would take effect next Jan. 1, would significantly reduce individual and corporate tax rates and repeal or reduce several deductions and exclusions. The average individual would get a 6.1 percent tax cut, although several million people would pay more. Corporate taxes would rise by $120 billion over five years.

Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., in charge of counting votes on behalf of supporters of the bill, said late Wednesday there would be 150 to 170 Democratic votes for the measure. "And so it's up to the Republicans to produce enough votes" for a majority, Gephardt said.

They're off, maybe; racing makes the ballot

Issue scheduled for a vote next year

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas voters will decide next year whether the state should legalize gambling on horse and dog racing for the first time in half a century

Gov. Mark White on Wednesday allowed the bill, which could OK pari-mutuel wagering, to become law without his signature. The measure puts the question on the November 1987 election ballot. White said the issue has been too hotly debated for a single public official to decide it.

"I believe other Texans should have the right to make up their own minds just as I have, because we are all equally entitled to our own beliefs,' White said

"I will vote against pari-mutuel wagering, but each one of us will have one vote to cast — a very important vote - as equal citizens of Texas." he

Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, said

White's decision was a good one.

"I'd like to see a referendum and let the people decide on the issue once and for all," said Berlanga, who sponsored the gambling bill in the House

Berlanga said an earlier announcement that White was thinking of vetoing the bill rallied supporters and helped persuade the governor to allow

As approved by the Legislature, the bill calls for a statewide referendum next year on whether to legalize pari-mutuel wagering for the first time in half a century

That referendum was one of three requirements White insisted on in any gambling bill.

The other two, which White noted were included in the bill, were local elections in areas where race tracks would be located and protections against

Revenues, crime mentioned by opposing sides

By PAUL PINKHAM Staff Writer

Local opponents of pari-mutuel betting in Texas say race tracks in the state would be "fraught with difficulties" but at least two area horse breeders feel tracks can provide Texas with a much-needed economic boost

Texas voters will have the opportunity to vote on horse and dog racing in November 1987 following a decision Wednesday by Gov. Mark White that allowed pari-mutuel wagering to be decided by breeds horses east of Pampa. "It's about 20 years overdue," Sims said today. Sims and Leonard Hudson of Pampa, a major horse breeder, said horse racing would give Texas an economic shot in the arm and provide thousands of jobs at tracks, breeding farms and training farms. Sims said the absence of tracks in Texas has hurt breeders in the state, noting that she keeps her two best horses in New Mexico to qualify for that state's breeder incentive programs.

"If Texas had a similar thing, of course I would keep them at home," she said. Hudson said horse racing could become a billion dollar industry in Texas.

"We're going to work awful hard to get it passed." he said.

Both breeders maintained that surrounding states are profiting from the absence of Texas tracks. Hudson said 75 percent of those attending races in Hot Springs, Ark., are from the Dallas-

Fort Worth area. "You can drive through the track on racing day

Adobe Walls presently is without a council scout executive. Jerry Outlaw, who had filled the position since 1980, was transferred to the Sioux City, Iowa, during the last week of August. No replacement has been named.

The budget problems concerning Adobe Walls was expressed in mid-summer when scouting leaders and supporters received a letter from council president Bill Farris of Borger.

In the letter, Farris wrote, "Today the Adobe Walls Council ... is facing the most severe financial crisis since 1927," which may mean "life or death" to scouting as we have known it for the past 59

Farris indicated the council needed to raise $100,000 to continue to offer the proper scouting services to the youth of the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles in the council.

In an area newspaper, Farris indicated the council budget is projected to be $67,000 short by the end of the year. The entire budget is $308,196.

The council currently is approximately $32,000 in debt, which may grow by another $36,000 before and it's fraught with difficulties," said the Rev. Darrell Raines, pastor of First Baptist Church, which boasts Pampa's largest congregation. Raines moved to Pampa from New Mexico, where he said the pari-mutuel gambling industry is "laced with problems." He said there were indications of races being fixed and "a lot of people are spending money that could be used for family

But opponents say Texas would do well to keep horse racing outside its borders.

Raines added that White should have vetoed the bill to prevent enormous amounts of money being spent on an election. He noted that White had previously taken a stand against gambling

"Mark White did not stand on grounds that he has stated to be his beliefs," Raines said.

The Rev. Ricky Pfeil, pastor of the Wheeler Christian Center, said voters, not government officials, should decide the issue but promised he would work hard to defeat it. He said he felt confident that a movement by Southern Baptists, United Methodists and small, independent churches, Hospital the budget problems, the consolidation probably will take place because of the cost savings that could be achieved. He noted only one council executive would have to be hired and only one office operated.

The Adobe Walls Council already has cut back its number of employees, dropping the council executive, one district executive and an office worker. Janitorial service was also discontinued.

The consolidation efforts are being undertaken at a time when the councils are unable to actively solicit funds because of the United Way drives presently underway in the area.

Under the United Way by-laws, assisted agencies cannot conduct any solicitation of funds for specific agencies during the United Way campaign

The consolidation decision will involve nearly 10,000 scouts under the one authority.

Adobe Walls serves approximately 3,600 Boy Cub and Explorer scouts in 12 Texas Panhandle counties, including Gray, Carson, Wheeler, Roberts, Hemphill and Hutchison. In addition, three Oklahoma counties are in the district.

Llano Estacado serves some 6,300 scouts in all of nine Texas counties and parts of three others.

If the two councils consolidate, the new scouting district will be the largest one in the south central region. Scouting leaders have indicated the national council favors the consolidation for its cost savings potential would be successful in keeping racetracks out of Texas.

"There's a lot of us across the state who will speak out loud and long about it," he said. "We certainly don't need horse racing."

Rep. Foster Whaley, D-Pampa, voted against the wagering issue when it finally cleared the House. Whaley said he has consistently voted against pari-mutuel wagering because of fears that organized crime will move in and because he feels tracks will bring in little revenue for the state.

Whaley said he agrees with White's decision to let the voters decide an issue that has stolen much of the Legislature's time but added that the Panhandle probably will not be greatly affected because tracks must be approved by a local option. Whaley said most voters in his district apparently disapprove of legalized gambling.

But Hudson said organized crime should not be a consideration. He said those who apply for horse racing licenses are screened in-depth and betting is closely supervised, making it nearly impossible for organized crime to infiltrate the tracks.

"I don't think we have any risk of organized crime," he said. "It's all controlled so well. There's no place for the organized crime horse to

Mobil's "proposed gas production facility"

Trio of oil tanks are gas production facility

By CATHY SPAULDING Staff Writer

When is a tank battery more than a tank battery? When it becomes an "gas production facility, as noted in an application to the Texas Air Control

The Pampa office of Mobil Producing is seeking a permit from the board "to construct a gas production unit facility" 2½ miles southeast of Kingsmill. A legal notice concerning the application gives no explanation on what this gas production facility is; instead it warns that the facility could emit such air contaminants as nitrogen oxide, carbon monoxide, sulfur dioxide, non-methane volatile organic compounds and particulate matter.

The notice evokes images of a major plant hiring a good number of Pampa residents while spewing pollutants into the Panhandle air.

The proposed gas production facility is a trio of tanks that have been setting placidly beside a country road two miles southeast of Kingsmill for nearly a year.

Herman Law, a production technician for Mobil Producing, Texas & New Mexico, said there's no new facility, just a new state regulation.

"It's a new Texas Air Control Board policy that went into effect this year," Law said, explaining the company now needs a permit for these tank batteries because there is a house within one-tenth

When a reporter went to the house twice to see if anyone objected to the tank batteries being there, nobody was home.

Gerald Fields, regional director of the Texas Air Control Board in Lubbock assured that the permit is nothing unusual.

We have tens of thousands of these units in the Panhandle and the South Plains, and we processed 10 applications in Gray County last year," he pointed out. "In this case, Mobil had a unit and they neglected to get a permit for it. They were the ones who reported it. They called us and said 'we didn't get a permit on this.'

As for the "air contaminants" that the facility emits, Fields said that with the exception of sulfur dioxide, they are the same chemicals that are emitted from a car muffler. He assured that the emissions will be in small, harmless amounts.

Asked how a tank battery can grow into a gas production facility, Fields explained that that's how the wording of the application went. As part of its permit application, Mobil must see if any one protests the existence of the facility. A copy of the company's application and all materials in the applicatin can be viewed at the Texas Air Control Board, Region 1 office in Lubbock or the main office in Austin.

Interested persons may inspect these materials and submit written comments to the Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board. Any persons who may be affected by the emissions of the contaminants may request a hearing from the board. The comments must be received in writing by Oct. 10.

infiltration by organized crime. Gambling on horse races hasn't been legal in Texas since a four-year period during the 1930s.

White issued a one-page statement explaining why he chose to neither sign nor veto the bill. He said his was an action taken as a public official, not as an individual.

"All of my personal and religious values are against it, there is no place for it among what I believe is good and right and best. My opposition stems from individual conscience, from my Baptist convictions and from my belief in the traditional values of Texas," White said.

However, he noted that Legislatures have been grappling with the question for years, and he acknowledged that there are arguments on both sides.

"I am convinced that unless the will of the majority is allowed to be expressed, this divisive issue will come back again to tie up — and even plague - future sessions of the Legislature,'

Under the bill, if voters next year approve the statewide question, local option elections would be held to determine if pari-mutuel wagering could take place within particular areas.

Hearing could decide Farm Credit System future

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A hearing to decide whether the Farm Credit System can use money from healthy Production Credit Associations to bolster weaker ones could alter the future of the entire system, an attorney says.

U.S. District Judge Halbert Woodward was to begin a hearing today on whether to grant a temporary injunction against the Farm Credit System Capital Corp.'s assessments on some PCAs, said Jerry Smith, who is representing 22 Texas PCAs.

Smith said the hearing "is extremely important. It's not the last step in the process, but the future of the whole Farm Credit System depends on it.

More than 1,600 Texas Panhandle Production Credit Association stockholders, in addition to many others in 19 other Texas PCAs, awaited

"If these assessments go through, we have no doubt that all other associations will be assessed,' he said.

If they don't go through, it will lay the groundwork for a number of lawsuits that are filed or are expected to be filed against the Farm Credit System, Smith said.

The assessments were set up as part of the Farm Credit Act of 1985 to combat the Farm Credit System's financial woes. Under the Capital Corp. prosperous PCAs would be assessed a fee that would be transferred to weak organizations.

A lawsuit filed on behalf of the 22 Texas PCAs charges the Farm Credit Act is unconstitutional and the regulations are invalid.

The lawsuit was filed in May, but the parties agreed the case would not go to court until assessments were made, and that Capital Corp. would give 14 days notice before the due date of the assessments to allow the courts to decide on the case, Smith said.

"This will only be asking for a temporary injunction," he said. "We must show the court that there is a substantial likelihood that when the real trial is held, we will likely win."

Fred Medero, chief counsel for the Farm Credit Administration, said he doesn't believe the PCAs can win their case and that "we believe the (farm credit act amendments) statue is constitutional.

Area PCAs' assessments are due Sept. 29. Associations which received notices and their amounts are Canadian PCA, $42,000; Plainview, $3.2 million; Rolling Plains, $700,000; Lubbock, $2.8 million; Sweetwater, $2.1 million and Marfa, Larry Albin, president of Canadian PCA, said the $42,000 assessment "would be a straight drain on our surplus and earnings. Financially we're in good shape, but we're experiencing farm problems like everyone else.'

The Canadian PCA has a little more than 400 members and an approximate $31 million loan volume, Albin said. The members come from Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Roberts, Hemphill, Gray and Wheeler counties.

Bill Black, Plainview PCA president, said he received an assessment notice for $3,212,414.

"We are fortunate we have a strong capital base and liquid position, but it will automatically mean higher interest rates to cover earnings lost on the $3.2 million assessment," Black said.

Some state-supported colleges lost money when enrollments dropped after the 1985 Legislature raised tuition.

The Senate voted Wednesday to transfer more than $42.5 million from the state highway fund. Nearly $18 million is earmarked for a special college tuition fund, if lawmakers enact a gasoline tax increase.

The Senate took a House-approved bill that would transfer $24.6 million in savings from the highway fund to general revenue and added an amendment by Sen. Bob Glasgow to transfer an additional $17.96 million from highways to a special "tuition shortfall fund."

Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said he understood a House-Senate conference committee had appropriated $18 million for tuition losses, and an extra $3.21 million also is available.

"When you put all that together, that would recoup all of the tuition shortfall" for 1986, Glasgow told reporters.

He said his amendment was contingent upon the special legislative session raising the state gaso-

The bill transferring a total of nearly $42.56 million in highway funds was sent back to the House on a 24-0 vote for consideration of the amendment.

The Senate adopted on voice vote and sent to the House a resolution directing the State Board of Education to report on the spending of community education funds appropriated by the Legislature.

Resolution sponsor Carl Parker said legislators had no intention of paying to teach people "how to mix party punches or do Christmas wrappings."

Sen. Parker, D-Port Arthur, said a clear line needs to be drawn between community — or recreational — education and adult education. "The state is not going to bear the burden of recreational courses." he said.

In other action Wednesday, the Senate:

Approved a bill reinstating a three-year limit on driving information released by the Department of Public Safety to someone other than the driver. The bill also prohibits release of information about the completion of driving safety courses to third parties.

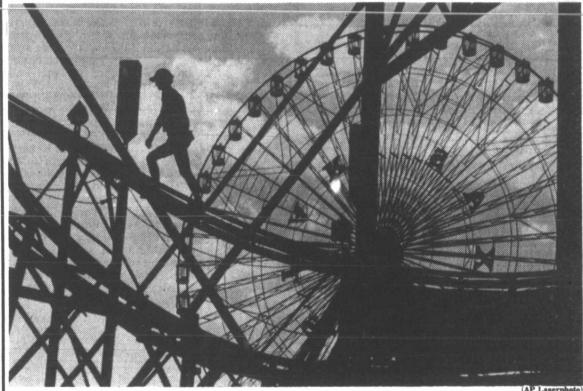

Complete driving information, including any beyond the three-year limit and driver safety training, could be released to a driver requesting his own records.

Fees for various DPS driving reports were raised, and Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, estimated the higher fees would bring in an additional $11.7 million over the next two years.

Mauzy's bill was sent to the House on voice vote. - Adopted a resolution directing the State Purchasing and General Services Commission to begin negotiating with telephone companies by Oct. 1 for a new state telecommunications system. The resolution was sent to the House on voice vote.

- Approved and sent to the House, 24-0, a bill that would place the Texas Conservation Corps sunder the Interagency Cooperation Act, which allows any state agency to cooperate with another agency for services, materials or equipment

Insurance problems closes State Fair roller coaster

DALLAS (AP) — The Comet to get the extra coverage. roller coaster, once the pride of the State Fair of Texas midway, has rumbled to a halt because of problems with obtaining liability

"It's kind of a sad day for me," working as a ride operator in

Allen, who during fair time lives with his wife in a house beneath the old-fashioned wooden roller coaster, says it won't be quite the same when the fair opens Friday.

"I just love it," he said. "I've seen probably three generations come through here.

Allen said the ride was popular with high school seniors and he has seen teen-age riders return to the ride with children of their

"I've even seen them come back with grandkids," he said. "I'm going to miss that."

Fair spokeswoman Nancy Wiley said the ride was closed this year because of difficulty in getting liability insurance.

The fair's overall package requires that each individual ride have its own liability insurance and since the state fair owns the roller coaster, it was impossible

"Premiums have shot up, but they've also changed the requirements. There's no way that we, the State Fair, can get the insurance to be that front-line carrier," said Ms. Wiley, the author says Bob Allen, 65, who began of The Great State Fair of Texas, a history of the park.

She said state fair officials would reopen the ride if insurance became available.

Allen said he was working at a corny dog concession stand when the 59-foot-high roller coaster opened in 1947 with the flourish of a smashed bottle of champagne. "It was like a homecoming," he said. A ride on the Comet meant plunging down breath-taking drops and then rocketing around curves on a wild and bumpy course. Allen said.

"I guess it's because it's made out of wood. It just has a thrill about it. It's kind of hard to describe," he said.

Allen said he was fascinated by steam engines as he grew up in Nacogdoches, but by the time he was old enough to go to work, the steam engine had faded. Instead, he turned to the intricacies of the amusement park rides.

Allen began working on the

Comet in 1953, under Paul Gris-

som, the original ride operator. Grissom built a house underneath the roller coaster and lived there until his death in 1975. Allen said he lives in the house only while the fair is in operation.

He said the sound of the ride rattling above his head isn't a problem.

"It sounds like sweet music to me. It's just something I love,' he said.

Another unusual feature of the Comet is the sheep that graze on the grass growing beneath the

The Comet was built by Sammy Bert Sr., who came to the fairgrounds in 1919. Bert also invented a motor-driven snow cone machine and popularized the crushed ices at the fair . He sold the ride to fair officials in 1976,

Ms. Wiley said. Ms. Wiley said although the roller coaster won't make much difference to the Midway, which bustles with other rides and attractions, it will leave a gap for people used to riding the Comet. "Certainly to those who are afficionadoes it's going to be strange," she said.

"It's kind of a landmark," Allen said.

Four named in Feazell indictment proffer no knowledge of bribes

WACO, Texas (AP) - Four people who allegedly had their cases favorably reviewed or dismissed in exchange for paying McLennan County District Attorney Vic Feazell say no mention of bribes was made when they paid their

The four were named in the indictment that was returned Sept. 16 and accuses Feazell of taking 14 separate bribes totaling $19,360 between May 1984 and April 1985.

The indictment charges that Feazell was paid $4,500 on April 10, 1985, to have cases pending against Virginia Shookman, James Kolachek and James Fauver dismissed

Kolachek, of Waco, said he was not asked to pay a bribe and that he paid Waco attorney Don Hall $3,000 to represent him on a driving while intoxicated charge, the Waco Tribune-Herald reported today Kolachek said Hall, who was McLennan County district attorney from 1962 to 1966, gave him no explanation of how the case was disposed of, and never mentioned

"I don't know what a reasonable (attorney's) fee is. I just paid (Hall) what he asked," Kolachek said. Kolachek said he has not talked with the FBI or been asked to testify before an Austin grand jury investigating Feazell

Ms. Shookman, of China Spring, declined to answer questions other than to say she had been arrested for DWI and that there was no mention of bribery. She declined to say what attorney represented her.

The indictment also alleges Feazell was paid $1,500 to dismiss a case against Jesse Moon of Moon said he was charged with DWI in September 1984 after he was stopped on Interstate 35, and that the case was dismissed after he paid Hall $2,500.

'(Hall) said, 'Go ahead and give me $2,500 and I'll take care of all the matters.' ... He said I wasn't legally intoxicated and everything was taken care of," Moon said.

Hall, who was subpoenaed to testify before the Austin grand jury in August and was jailed for four days on contempt charges for failing to produce subpoenaed records, declined to discuss the cases listed in the indictment. "I couldn't discuss my relations with (Feazell) or any of my clients because of the attorneyclient relationship," Hall said. Another of Hall's clients listed on the indictment, Richard Bowers, said he was arrested in March 1984 for allegedly delivering and possessing hydromorphone. He said he paid Hall and Hall's law partner, Dick Kettler, $12,000 in legal fees and was placed on 10 years' probation.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment

FCC should leave broadcaster alone

The 21-year struggle by RKO to hold onto its 14 radio and TV stations seems destined to be resolved within the next few months. It should be resolved in favor of RKO, for any other resolution would be inconsistent with the American tradition of respect for private RKO's troubles began in 1965, when a company called Fidelity Television challenged the license renewal application for its Los Angeles television station, KHJ-TV (Channel 9). Fidelity promised that if it were given Channel 9's license, it would offer better programming than RKO was offering — as though Fidelity, the Federal Communications Commission or anyone else were qualified to dictate what constitutes "good"

Fidelity also challenged RKO's "fitness" to operate a broadcast station "in the public interest." RKO is a branch of GenCorp, which was at that time known as General Tire and Rubber Company. And General Tire was accused of a number of supposedly unsavory business practices, including making payments to foreign officials for the privilege of doing business in their countries, and of favoring its own tire advertising, over the ads of competitors like Good-year and Fires-

Why either of these practices should be regarded as illegal is something of a mystery. U.S. businessmen have to make payments to officials to do business in this country too. The only difference is that here we call the payments "licensing fees" and "permit fees" instead of what they really are — bribes. Why is it the mark of an upstanding citizen to bribe City Hall for a piece of paper called a "business license," which guarantees that the municipality won't make trouble for him and disrupt the operation of his business, but it is immoral and illegal to bribe a Third World potentate for the same privilege?

As for giving yourself preferential treatment in the use of your own air time for advertising, this would seem to be common sense. If a man owns both a newspaper and a dry goods store, why shouldn't he give himself a better deal on ad space than he gives competing dry goods stores, if in fact he chooses to run their advertising at all?

But the FCC decided not to renew KHJ-TV's license, and the station has been broadcasting with out a regular license for two decades, while its case has proceeded through a series of appeals and other delays. Meanwhile, RKO's 13 other licenses, for major radio and TV stations in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, San Francisco, Washington, Memphis and Fort Lauderdale, have been placed in jeopardy. It seems GenCorp failed to tell the FCC 10 years ago about a then-current Securities and Exchange Commission investigation about charges that it was exercising its property rights and running its business as it saw fit instead of as the government saw fit. At that point, the FCC decided that RKO was unfit to operate any broadcast stations at all.

Now the FCC is said to have decided to appoint a federal arbitrator in the case and require that arbitrator to report his findings in 75 days. Since this sorry record of federal harassment of RKO began, the composition of the FCC has changed. And given the explicit enthusiasm for the free market of the current FCC chairman, Mark Fowler, it is perhaps not utopian to hope that justice will at last be done and RKO be allowed to go on about its business unmolested.

He's really not a monster

WASHINGTON - So the monster Rehnquist at last has been confirmed, and if you would believe Sen. Howard Obnoxious, D-Ohio, my grandchildren thus are doomed forever. They will live in a world in which an iniquitous chief justice will wipe out their civil liberties. Every civil liberty! Poor kids! Rehnquist alone will do

The vote for confirmation was 65-33. On CBS, disappointed commentators viewed the count with disparaging eyes. They let us know that more votes had been cast against Rehnquist than had been cast against any previous chief justice nominee in history. What a statistic! Of Rehnquist's 15 predecessors, only six were confirmed by roll-call votes. Ellesworth (21-1), Waite (63-0) and Burger (74-3) were shoo-ins.

What of the others? Taney won confirmation 29-15, with 66 percent of the vote. Fuller won 41-20 with 67 percent. Hughes won 52-26 with 66 percent. If you will run Rehnquist's 65-33 through your pocket calculator, you will understand why some of us believe that CBS is, well, biased.

The campaign waged against Rehnquist was disgraceful. No other word will suffice. One looks back on the past three months with a sense of disbelief. What would his enemies have us

The monster was a drug addict. Suffering from a painful back ailment, Rehnquist had taken pharmaceutical drugs prescribed by his physician, and he had rected badly to them. That was all there was to this story

The monster was unethical. At the Department of Justice, 15 years ago, he had provided legal advice on a short-lived program of Army surveillance of civilians. When a case that challenged the program reached the Supreme Court, Rehnquist declined to disqualify himself. This upset a gaggle of law professors, but the professors had not done their homework. Rehnquist's decision was firmly in line with Supreme Court precedents from John Marshall to Hugo Black. So much for that charge.

The monster was a racist. As a young Republican activist in Phoenix a quarter of a century ago, Rehnquist had dared to question the eligibility of a black voter. The evidence on this point was so shaky that Rehnquist's accusers could not even remember the year in which the dreadful incident had occurred. The nominee denied that he had harassed anyone

The monster had purchased property encumbered by ethnic covenants. Senators Edward Kennedy and Joseph Biden found this outrageous. Then it transpired that Biden's family had also been so attainted. So's your old man, said the monster's friends, and the horror story was shelved pianissimo.

The monster was insensitive to women. That is to say, as a private citizen Rehnquist opposed the Equal Rights Amendment. What a beast! What a scoundrel!

The monster was an evil deceiver. While in private practice in Arizona, 30 years ago, he had drawn up a trust agreement for his father-inlaw. At the specific direction of his client, he had kept the details to himself. Was this not scandalous behavior?

There was more, much more, but at bottom was one charge more grievous than all the rest: Rehnquist was — he really was — he was a conservative! Boo! Hiss! THe Washington Post summed up this heinous offense in a telling sentence: "Justice Rehnquist is a forthright proponent of legislative over judicial decisionmaking.

Did you ever hear of such a thing? It boggles the mind. Rehnquist's opinions, said the Post, consistently adhere to this wicked notion. Rehnquist actually believes that Congress should make decisions. He will not bestir himself to rewrite federal statutes to the Post's desires. He will not take advantage of the considerable discretion that the Constitution affords Supreme Court justices for precisely such occasions." Who could vote for so vile a creature?

Let us weep for The Washington Post, and let us grieve Kennedy, Obnoxious and Biden. They did their best to smear the reputation of a decent, honorable man who happens also to possess a keen intelect and a fine sense of jurisprudence. Those of us who cover the Supreme Court closely have known Bill Rehnquist over the past 15 years as a workhorse, a fine writer, a charming human being who is genuinely liked even by fellow justices who dissent from his opinions.

Rehnquist probably will not take the keen interest in judicial administration that was evidenced by Taft and Burger. He may not prove a consensus builder in the fashion of Earl Warren, but he will do a superlative job

American Dream on wheels

Charles Hardy, who sells Chevrolets, Pontiacs, Buicks and Chevy trucks, is my favorite automobile person

You want Iacocca, you got him. I'll take Charles Hardy, a giant in South-eastern car sales, if for no other reason because of his radio commercials.

Charles Hardy, whose Southern accent is somewhere between the late Slim Pickens and everybody named Billy Bob and Roy Earl, sounds like he wants to sell you a car so badly he could spit.

Drawls Charles:

"We luv you and we need you, and if you're gonna do it, for goodness' sakes, let's do it with the Hardy boys.

I firmly believe there is a country song there somewhere I called Charles to ask him what the current interest war among the nation's major automakers was doing for his business. First, automakers went down to 2.9 percent financing, and now American Motors is down to zip financing until mid-October. The '86s have to

"It's amazing," Charles said. "You're busy, then?"

"Busy? We've been working 18 hours a day. We've sold 300 cars since this thing got started, and I've only got 150 left. I'm sending people to other dealers everywhere so I can get more."

Just listening to Charles, I could feel my checkbook beginning to pulsate. I gained control, however, and remembered the deal about the myth of the free lunch.

"Charles," I asked, "what's the gimmick

"There's not one," he said.

"The manufacturer is absorbing the cost. The only catch is being able to beat somebody else to the car you want.

"We don't have enough salesmen to go around, so when people find a car they want, the whole family stands around it and waits to be helped.

"If somebody else comes up and looks at the car, they say, 'This one's ours,' and they won't budge. You know what I was thinking as I heard

Charles Hardy go on about his landslide business? I was thinking, isn't all this a nice little portrait of the American Dream coming true

We've been talking high prices, forever, it seems. And inflation. And high interest rates. And recessions and rumors of recessions

But isn't this more like it? Want a new car? Fine, good buddy, you got one. This is America. "Folks who weren't even thinking of buying a new car are buying them," said Charles Hardy.

No brag, just fact. Happy days are here again. U.S. automakers are once again the walking man's friend. They luv us, and they need us.

At least until the new models come out in October.

Battle for the Senate won't end in 1986

By Robert Walters

BISMARCK, N.D. (NEA) - If you liked the 1982 and 1984 versions of 'The Battle for Control of the Senate," you'll love the 1986 variation and certainly won't want to miss the 1988 rendition.

Throughout most of this decade, the politicians and the press have promoted a biennial renewal of essentially the same drama - the struggle between the two parties for a Senate

The result is certainly crucial in determining the outcome of countless public policy debates. But the hoopla surrounding the confrontation in recent even-numbered years suggests a degree of finality that does not exist. This year, for example, the public is being repeatedly told that the Re-publicans dominate the Senate by a 53-47 margin, but the Democrats could win enough fiercely contested races to recapture control of the chamber.

Not mentioned is the very real possibility that, regardless of which party wins this year, the 1986 results could be reversed in 1988 and switched again in 1990.

Nowhere is the evanescence of the situation more apparent than in North Dakota, where almost as much attention is focused on the 1988 Senate contest as on the 1986 race.

This year, Republican Sen. Mark Andrews is being challenged by Democrat Kent Conrad, the state's tax commissioner

Although Andrews remains the favorite, Conrad probably is within striking distance and has a chance to stage an upset. "It's closer than I expected it to be," admits Andrews' campaign manager. Indeed, Andrews has been on the defensive in recent weeks and one credible analysis says Conrad is "the best long-shot bet in the country.

Although a crucial month of campaigning remains before Election Day, political aficionados already are ng beyond this year's race to the 1988 North Dakota Senate race.

Veteran Democratic Sen. Quentin N. Burdick, 78, insists he will seek reelection in two years. But Democratic Rep. Byron L. Dorgan, 44, has, in effect, served notice that if the senator does not retire he will face a primary with the energetic, ambitious Dorgan.

Republicans naturally are enthusiastic about the prospect of a bloody Democratic primary. Among the GOP politicians already being talked about as potential nominees in 1988 are the party's two leaders in the state legislature and a member of the state's Public Service Commission.

North Dakota is hardly the only state where politicians are thinking about 1988. In California, Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston faces a spirited contest to retain his seat this year, but some politicians are looking ahead two years to when Republican Sen. Pete Wilson's term expires. At least three Democratic members of the House are being discussed as potential Wilson challengers.

Similarly, in the state of Washington, Democratic and Republican members of the House are positioning themselves in case Republican Sen. Dan Evans does not seek re-election when his term expires in 1988.

Such developments always have been of interest at the state level but they had little national significance during the 1960s and 1970s.

Suspect's mother issues plea for his surrender

WRIGHT CITY, Mo. (AP) — The mother of a former mental patient suspected of killing three people during a three-state crime spree pleaded for him to surrender, and police say they hope they are closing

The FBI, meanwhile, has issued a nationwide alert for Michael W. Jackson, who has not been seen since a Monday night shootout with a police officer that may have left him wounded.

'He's on the run. He has no money and no transportation," state Highway Patrol Lt. Walter Palmer said late Wednesday. "I feel encouraged that we might see something in the next day or so.

About 100 law officers have scoured the area for three nights and two days, as residents of this farming community about 45 miles west of St. Louis locked their doors, kept their children home and bought ammunition for their guns.

Jackson's 75-year-old mother appeared Wednesday night in an interview broadcast on WCBI-TV in Columbus, Miss.

'Mike, please give up before anyone else gets hurt. I love you," said Modine Embry, of Oxford, Miss.

Jackson, 41, is suspected of killing two people in Indianapolis and a man from O'Fallon, Mo. He also is suspected of wounding a Wright City police officer and abducting at least five people during a 13-hour rampage Monday across Indiana, Illinois and Missouri

We've been through these things before," Highway Patrol Capt. John Ford said of the tedious manhunt. "If you don't get him in the first 30 minutes, sometimes it takes a while.

Ford said the search would not be called off unless police found evidence that Jackson had left the area.

Also Wednesday, the FBI notified its agents nationwide to be on the lookout for Jackson, said Indianapolis special agent Garry O. Schoon.

Highway Patrol Lt. Paul H. Jones said authorities believe Jackson was wounded in a shootout with two Wright City police officers Monday night because bloodstains were found on the steering wheel of the stolen car he was in.

Casey: news media helps Soviets by publishing leaked documents

WASHINGTON (AP) - Central Intelligence Agency Director William J. Casey says the U.S. news media is handing vital information to the Soviets "on a silver platter" when it publishes leaked secrets, and he wants tougher laws to punish the press for such disclosures.

But Sen. Dave Durenberger, the chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, said the Reagan administration is itself to blame for news leaks that have damaged U.S. spying efforts.

Both Casey and Durenberger, who traded barbs over the issue of leaks last fall, were part of an unusual colloquium Wednesday night that included two prominent investigative reporters, including James Polk of NBC-

Casey asked the Justice Department last May 21 to consider prosecuting NBC for broadcasting a brief Polk report on the background of the Ronald Pelton spy case.

Before the evening was out, Casey told Polk he wasn't really a candidate for prosecution, and the spy chief assured the other reporter, Bob Woodward of The Washington Post, that he wasn't tapping any journalists' phones - including Woodward's.

"My daughter will feel much better." said Woodward, an assistant managing editor of the Post, who is completing a book on the

"Ask him about senators' (phones)," Durenberger said.

Casey told the 140 people at a meeting of the Washington chapter of Sigma Delta Chi that he will press for tougher laws to punish both government employees who leak secrets and the news media for willfully publishing sensitive information.

"The KGB and other hostile intelligence services every year spend billions of dolars trying to acquire this information. But the unauthorized publication of restricted information hands to them on a silver platter information that their spies, their researches, their satellites are working 24 hours a day to uncover and use against us," Casey said

But Durenberger, a Minnesota Republican, said the administration itself let sensitive information slip on several occasions earlier this year to bolster support for the bombing of Libya and aid to the Nicaraguan

He cited the leak of a message from Libyan officials that was intercepted before the bombing of a Berlin discotheque last April 5, and a leak about U.S. spies within the Sandinista government that resulted in the arrest of three Nicaraguan officials.

Durenberger said Casey himself emerged from a White House briefing a few months ago and revealed that Soviet pilots were flying reconnaissance aircraft in Nicaragua. Though the damage in some of these cases is considerable ... I really don't know of any effort to restrain or to punish the officials that were responsible in each of these cases,' Durenberger said.

Last November, after Durenberger criticized Casey's management of the CIA, Casey issued a public rejoinder calling the senator's criticisms "tragicallay wrong" and charging that congressional oversight was to blame for "repeated compromise of sensitive intelligence sources.

Durenberger said it was ironic that the congressional intelligence committees often were "cut out of the information loop" because of leaks they had nothing to do with.

'Generally, journalists are all too willing to be used in return for information. ... It is deplablcy stories which harm our interest, and potentially our citizens, are published for the sake of a scoop," the senator said.

Third of nuclear weapons flawed, Pentagon says

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Pentagon official, defending nuclear tests against a House effort to sharply limit them, says underground blasts were needed to help correct flaws in a third of the U.S. atomic weapons developed since 1958.

'This is not a problem that has gone away thanks to the innovations of advanced computing skills and modeling," said Frank Gaffney, deputy assistant defenseecretary for nuclear forces and arms control policy.

Among the weapons that required "post-developmental" modifications were the Polaris and Poseidon submarinelaunched missiles; the Minuteman 1 intercontinental ballistic missile, and the air-launched and ground-launched cruise missiles that are still being deployed today

Gaffney spoke a Pentagon news briefing called by the administration to attack legislation that would sharply limit nuclear

The House, responding to a self-imposed test moratorium by the Soviet Union, has added an amendment to the Pentagon's budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 that would ban all but the smallest underground tests. Reagan has vowed to veto any billith such a provision.

The administration, according to a report in today's Washingtpost, as decided after considerable internal dispute to approve a visit by five Soviet scientists to survey potential seismic monitoring sites for U.S. weapons ditioned on willingness of the Soviets to observe and measure the explosive yield of an underground explosion in Nevada, and it was not certain the Soviets would agree. Non-government U.S. scientists have installed measuring equipment at three Soviet sites.

Approval was said to be con-

"In our experience, over onethird of all nuclear designs put into the U.S. stockpile since 1958, after what was considered to be adequate testing, required called developmental testing to fix unexpected problems and restore confidence in the reliability of those weapons," Gaffney said.

Citing concerns about secrecy, the Pentagon official offered few specific tails. But he did release a picture of an unidentified type of U.S. nuclear warhead that suffered catastrophic damage when subjected to the effects of radiationfrom a nuclear blast.

Gaffney also noted that the problems with the Polaris, which have been previously disclosed, could be traced directly to a point in history when the United States accepted a Soviet call for a moratorium on testing in 1958. That moratorium lasted about three school dropout problem Texas' most precious resource is not oil or gas, but rather the young men and women of the state. Unfortunately, a large proportion of these youths will never reach their fullest potential because of their decision to drop out of school. They end up cheating themselves, and society, out of the contributions that only they and their unique talents can make.

SWBT supports program that addresses

Recently published statistics reinforce the severity of this problem: The dropout rate in Texas hovers around 30 percent. Last spring alone, one out of every three potential high school seniors in the state — about 80,000 — failed to graduate.

This problem affects all of us, since young people with little education often turn to crime when they are unable to find a iob. In 1985, more than 100,000 people under the age of 17 were arrested in Texas. And, this is not a new phenomenon — 85 percent of the 30,000 inmates in Texas prisons are high school

Although these numbers paint a grim picture, a group of concerned citizens have approached this age-old problem with a new and promising solution — it's called Communities in Schools (CIS). We, at Southwestern Bell Telephone, feel that CIS will pay future dividends to the people of Texas because it addresses the individual needs of our state's troubled youths.

A highly focused program, CIS coordinates efforts of many social service organizations into a centralized, efficient, vet humanized, unit. It works closely with public education personnel to encourage students — who run a risk of dropping out — to complete their education.

CIS treats students as individuals

CIS counselors work one-on-one with these students to solve problems that often cause them to drop out. It takes a "whole child" approach, recognizing that many factors — including family, financial and psychological concerns — affect a youngster's decision to leave school.

Southwestern Bell Telephone has been an enthusiastic supporter of CIS since it began as a pilot program in 1979. Through the past seven years, we have provided direction, money, equipment and manpower to give floundering students in Texas another chance at a good education.

SWBT believes in the program because it works: Since its inception, CIS has helped more than 5,000 students. Even more impressive, over the last two years, 87 percent of the youngsters in the CIS summer program are still in public school, or have gone on to college, additional training or unsubsidized jobs.

We are happy to report that under the leadership of SWBT's Texas Division President Jim Adams, the program is spreading into additional school districts across the state.

Although CIS is not available in all Texas communities, SWBT is committed to building a better state, through its participation in organizations like CIS. We feel it's our obligation — and privilege to enhance the quality of life for all Texans, through state-ofthe-art telephone service, as well as worthwhile community

Be sure to check your local television schedule for the airing of "Hispanic Dropouts: America's Time Bomb," a documentary that explores why so many Hispanics are leaving school and what can be done to prevent it. The administration, led by Treasury

Secretary James Baker, says it may be forced to push the value of the dollar lower unless America's major trading partners do more to pump up their economies and provide markets for U.S. exports.

But on Wednesday, Volcker said he felt that the dollar, which has lost about one-third of its value against some key currencies in the past 18 months, has declined far enough.

The central bank chief said any further drop could trigger serious economic problems such as renewed inflation in the United States and weaker, not stronger, growth meetings aimed at keeping the current worldwide economic recovery alive.

Baker's comments were aimed directly at officials in West Germany and Japan, who, the administration believes, have not done enough to promote growth in their countries.

The administration would like both countries to cut interest rates further as a way of stimulating their economies, in the belief that faster growth would provide more markets for American products and thus help to alleviate the huge U.S. trade deficit.

But Volcker, in congressional testimony Wednesday, warned that the United States must put its own economic house in order and should not rely on further declines in the value of the dollar to alleviate the trade deficit, which is expected to top $175 billion this lar staged a two-day decline, falling to a fiveyear low against the West German mark. However, over the weekend, countries of the European Community said they would fight back, intervening to prop up the dollar in order to preserve their U.S. markets.

Asked Wednesday to assess the situation, Volcker said, "I don't want an overly depressed dollar either. If we rely solely on changes in the dollar to try to correct the (trade) situation, we are going to run into a lot of other problems.'

Marijuana ingredient causes

aging in brain cells of rats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The active ingredient in marijuana causes a loss of brain cells in rats similar to that attributed to aging, raising a new concern about the popular illegal drug, a researcher says.

Dr. Philip W. Landfield of Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C., said Wednesday that animal research indicates the marijuana compound, a chemical called THC, may affect the structure of the brain in the same way as aging.

While the researcher said it is too soon to say that THC causes brains to age prematurely, he said the animal studies raise a concern that should be explored more fully

At a briefing sponsored by the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration, other researchers testing cocaine in animals said the anesthetic effect of the illicit drug can make the brain more sensitive to later. potentially fatal, seizures from small amounts of the chemical.

Researchersat the National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda, Md., said studies with rats show that cocaine can have a 'kindling" effect that makes the brain more sensitive to the drug over time.

The researchers, Drs. Robert Post and Susan Weiss, said their work indicates the brain may be more susceptible to developing lethal convulsions from repeated cocaine use than from a single large dose, which also can cause fatal seizures.

Cocaine is unusual in that it is both a stimulant like amphetamine and an anesthetic similar to the drug lidocaine, they said.

Because of the kindling effect, the anesthetic aspect of cocaine increases sensitivity to the drug to such an extent that what was once a normal dose for a user can become a fatal one. Post said.

Demos launch new farm plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional Democrats have opened a policy debate that they hope will at least nourish the seeds of political discontent in farm states, even if it falls short of plowing under Reagan administration agriculture policy.

Using campaign-style rhetoric, a dozen House and Senate Democrats Tuesday unveiled their solution to America's slumping farm economy: a sudden and sharp curtailment of agricultural production designed to wipe out surpluses and force commodity prices upward.

The effect would be to shift the costs of supporting U.S. farmers from the government, which will spend $30 billion on subsidies this year, to consumers, who would see their grocery bills rise by 3 percent to 5 percent, said Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa.

"It's become clear, one year after its misguided conception, that the 1985 farm bill is not working,' Harkin said at a news confer-

Actually, the new law has been in effect for less than nine months, and economists warned that it would take several years to restore the health of U.S. farm exports through its strategy of lowering prices to make Amera ican-grown commodities more competitive.

But Democrats are betting that the patience of farmers has already been exhausted. They cited a litany of what they said were the law's failures: the continued slump in U.S. farm exports, the law's expected $30 billion cost this year and a continued farm economic depression.

'Reaganomics and the Reagan farm program have been a disaster for farmers and a disaster for America," said Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., a possible presidential contender for 1988 who made his public debut in farm policy at the news conference.

'Today, Democrats are launching a counterattack against Ronald Reagan's policies of neg-

The lawmakers argued that farmers are united as never before in favor of such a supplycontrol approach, citing a list of farm organizations that have backed the bill. The list includes, for the most part, traditionally liberal organizations like the American Agriculture Movement and the National Farmers Union.

Other groups, like the American Farm Bureau Federation, oppose the idea, which was defeated several times last year during congressional consideration of the new farm law. There is little chance that Congress, with its crowded and election-shortened schedule, will have time to address any massive rewrite of farm law this year.

Your Shawnee Dealer Has The Answers

But Democrats are hoping that problems with the farm economy, and the unevenness of the nation's economic recovery during the Reagan era, will turn into a potent issue between now and the Nov. 4 elections, enhancing anticipated Democratic gains.

"It is important that we get this out before the elections, so voters can ask their candidates where they stand," said Rep. David Obey, D-Wis.

Senate Republicans, meanwhile, are taking a different tack in pursuit of rural votes. Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., has proposed boosting subsidies to wheat, corn and soybean farmers to enable them to sell their commodities overseas at lower prices

The proposal would cost some $5.5 billion on top of already record farm-program spending this year, however, and Dole has said he is looking for other places to save that amount before going ahead with the idea.

The Democratic proposal calls for grain farmers and dairy producers, beginning in 1988, to vote on whether to institute national limits on how much of a crop each farmer may market. If approved by a majority, price-support levels would be raised dramatically and farmers would have to cut their planted acreage by up to 35 percent.

Fall hairstyles move from tough to tender

hair and fashion are all about style - and lifestyle. Just as fall fashion derives from the feminine form, hairstyles take their cue from curves, says a team of salon owners and educators from across the country.

The group, the Helene Curtis

Master Trainers, has developed a collection of fall hairstyles based on fashion's silhouette and style, and have named it the Tough and Tender Collection.

Tough style reflects a woman's self-confidence, they point out. For the woman who favors a bold fashion statement, there are slim skirts and slim jackets in gutsy leathers and form-fitting knits. Tough looks in hair might mean deep, dramatic waves sweeping off the face or a combination of precisely defined waves and freeform curl. On longer hair, fingerstyling achieves a rough finish that has all the impact of spiky looks with a more modern feeling.

Tender looks turn up in soft suedes, laces and cashmere. Skirts are longer and flirty while tops and jackets curve to the body, emphasizing the waist and

Tender hairstyles take wave and finish it with polish and softness. Perms are used to create a diffused, delicate texture or glamorous, '40s-style curl. Short cuts are styled smoothly up and back, while longer looks may be based on bold wave that fades into soft curl

"Finally, designers have given women the option of dressing to

'tough' black leather suit or 'tender' sweater set and suede skirt." says master trainer Douglas Marvaldi of Winter Park, Fla. "Any hairstyle has to be able to easily make the transition from one look to the other. A cut based on form allows the versatility that fall fashion demands.'

The form the master trainers see as most influential for fall is a geometric one that can be adapted to any length of hair, in "tough," avant-garde interpretations or a "tender" look of subtle sophistication. The hair moves in waves off the face - a departure from the forward-moving styles of seasons past. There is extension and volume at the front and back, while the sides and crown remain close to the head.

"It is the detailing which makes the difference between a tough and tender look, both in fashion and hairstyle," says master trainer Richard Calcasola of Long Island, N.Y. "Working from a basic form, a woman can style her hair according to her mood. For a night out, she might use gel to mold a dramatic wave into the front, then pull the rest back into a ponytail. By day, the same cut can be styled with mousse to create smooth waves at the front and add volume to the nape area."

Perms are essential for fall. says Calcasola, for the textural interest they add and the style support they offer.

'Fall fashions are so sleek and simple that they really demand a hairstyle with 'presence.' That usually means a lot of hair," he explains. "Not all women have the hair they want and need, so we can get the feeling of a lot of hair with the right cut and perm.

Adds master trainer Paul Morey, "Perms are not just for women with straight hair. This season, we will be using perms to the right direction with exactly the right size and amount of curl."

Morey notes that fashion's emphasis on refinement demands a more "finished" look from hairstyles. "Hair for fall is more 'done' than it has been recently, but it still must be easy,' he says, noting that glazes and gels give greater control than mousses, and add shine that emphasizes fall's waved styles.

'Mousses are important in styling high-volume looks and will still be necessary, but they will be used only in those areas of the style where a woman wants to create the look of more hair," he adds. "Where a style calls for control and direction, glazes and gels are needed."

Though the perm is becoming increasingly important, hair color will remain a strong influence, according to master trainer Brooxie Summers of Memphis.

DEAR ABBY: Recently a 17-yearold Florida boy pleaded guilty to possessing hallucinogenic drugs. He had also been charged with violence toward a Miami Beach police officer.

Judge Alfonso Sepe sentenced the youth to one year in the county stockade and four years' probation. The comments of the judge so impressed me that I ordered the transcript from the court reporter so that I may read it to my own children.

Your column is so widely read I am sending you the "lecture" Judge Sepe gave that boy in the presence of the grieving parents. I hope you will publish it and give it the national forum I think it deserves. MRS. A.A. CATES, do I devote an entire column to 5 cents raising you. I don't know one letter, but I agree, this is worth it. Here it is:

Judge Sepe spoke directly to the youth and said: "Do you know who is going to serve that year? Not you; your mother and father will serve that year. That is what's wrong. They get sentenced. They get sentenced for a lifetime. You serve a year. Your body is in the stockade for a year, but their souls are tormented for a lifetime. Why? Because you are a selfish, spoiled boy, that's why.

"There is no punishment in the world that I could inflict upon you that could in any way compensate for what you are doing to your mother and father. I have not spent you from Adam. But your mother and father have put their lives, their hearts, their sweat, their money and everything else they have into bringing you up. And now they have to sit in this courtroom and listen to a total stranger who had nothing to do with your upbringing scold you and put you in jail. "This is at a time when phony kids your age are yelling, 'You adults have your alcohol, we want our drugs; you have polluted our water and our air, you have polluted this and that,' and all the rest of the garbage that comes out of your mouths. Meanwhile, you put yourselves above everybody else. I feel want you to think of this for one year, and the reason why I say it: If you are sick, a doctor will treat you and he won't be on drugs. The lawyer who represents you won't be high on drugs, and the people in whose custody you'll be won't be on drugs. Your astronauts are not on And your engineers who build the bridges that you drive across and the tunnels that you drive through are not on drugs, and those who build the planes that you fly in and the cars that you drive are not. Neither are those who build the bathrooms that you stink up with your lousy, rotten drugs. None of them have been on drugs, and this is because of people like your mother and father.

"But in the world of the future the same may not be true. Teachers, doctors, lawyers, legislators products of the new drug-oriented generation - may well be high as kites. You won't know whom to send your child to, or whom to trust your Sepe sighed and closed the case file. "Let's see what kind of world you leave to your children before you talk about the world that we left

Well, readers, did Judge Sepe have a crystal ball? Because recreational drugs are illegal, there are not accurate statistics. But it would appear that this country is facing a major drug problem of unprecedented proportions and that the judge's worst prophecies have been fulfilled.

Clarendon College - Pampa Center experienced a 21 percent increase in enrollment this fall when compared to enrollment figures from Fall 1985.

Jana Turpen, right.

'We had a super enrollment this year," said Larry Gilbert, director of the local community college. "We increased to 300 from 237 last fall." Adding that the enrollment figures pertain only to the academic courses, Gilbert said vocational and continuing education enrollment is not included.

"We had every day class cept one make this semester," he said. "There's more day classes going on than ever before."

Forty-five different academic classes, both day and night, are being taught at the Pampa Center this fall, Gilbert said. He was particularly pleased to see that for the first time since he has been director of the college, four different biologies are being taught — anatomy, physiology, chemistry and botany.

Art classes are also strong this fall, he said. For the first time in * some time, he said, both water color and oil painting classes are being taught. Four different kinds of real estate classes are also in progress, he said.

Most of the students this semester are centering their studies around nursing, business and education, Gilbert said, with some in real estate. He attributes the increase in enrollment to:

1. Increased awareness of local educational facilities. "People are realizing that they can get two years of fully transferable courses at the Pampa Center.

2. Economic factors. "Community college tuitions are generally lower than those of universities. Universities are $16 per semester hour and are due to change to $24 per semester hour next fall. We're $8 per semester hour." Gilbert added that Frank Phillips College in Borger and Amarillo College both raised their tuition rates by $2 per hour while Pampa Center's tuition has remained the same.

3. Desire for self-improvement. 'People are trying to look at different fields. They're trying to improve themselves.

Pampa Center's faculty members are composed of 33 members of the community, Gilbert said, adding that this number does not include the many area residents who teach vocational or continuing education courses.

'We have a lot of special interest courses going strong, too,"
Gilbert said. More information about these classes offered by the college will be available at a later date, he said.

Girl Scout troops forming

Daisy, Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scout troops are now being formed here. Girls between the ages of five and 17 are eligible for one of the troops.

Daisy troop is for girls in kindergarten. Girls in first through third grade are eligible for Brownies and Junior Girl Scouts are for girls in the fourth through sixth grade. Cadette troop is for girls in the seventh through the ninth grade and Senior Girl Scouts are formed of girls in the 10th through 12 grades.

Survey forms have been distributed in Pampa schools. Parents of any girl, ages five through 17, who did not bring nome a form and who terested in joining the Girl Scouts, may call Cindy Cooper at 665-5477 or the Girl Scout office at 669-6862.

Openings are also available for adult volunteers for troop leader and assistant troop leader positions.

clinch tie for NL West championship

By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer

Number Thirty

The Houston Astros have been limiting the number of pitches Nolan Ryan throws ever since he returned from the disabled list because of a sore elbow

But there are times for exceptions - like during nohitters and the National League playoffs.

Ryan, who has been held to 100 pitches by Manager Hal Lanier since June 24, pitched no-hit ball for 6 1-3 innings Wednesday night as the Astros clinched a tie for the NL West championship by beating the San Francisco Giants 6-0.

One more Houston victory or one more loss by runnerup Cincinnati will give the Astros their second division title, the first since 1980.

Ryan, who holds the majorleague record of five nohitters, had another one going until rookie Mike Aldrete grounded a clean single to left in the seventh inning. That was the only hit Ryan allowed in his eight innings.

Ryan, 11-8, struck out 12 and finished his night by striking out the side in the eighth. He walked three.

'He threw 108 pitches toinght and we wanted to see him stretch it out a little," Lanier said. "When you get into the playoffs, you can throw that 100 pitch figure out the window, unless he's tired."

Said Ryan: "I was ready for tonight. I wasn't planning on having an off ight. This is probably the best I've had since I came off the disabled list."

In other games, Chicago beat New York 8-2, Pittsburgh defeated Montreal 2-1 and St. Louis downed Philadelphia 7-1. The San Diego at Los

Hall struck out eight and walked two. He is 1-1 since being promoted from Class AA. Hall also got his first major-league hit in the seventh and Chico Walker followed with a two-run single Sandberg had an RBI single in the fifth and a two-run single in the seventh. Rick Aguilera, 8-7, took the loss Shawon Dunston hit his 17th homer for the host Cubs, and Gary Carter hit a two-run homer, his 22nd, for the Mets. It was the Mets' 139th homer this season, tying the team mark set in 1962, when they went 40-120.

GROOM — The last time Phillips and Groom played, as they will at 8 p.m. Friday here in the Tigers' homecoming, it was for a playoffs berth. The Blackhawks won and Groom's season was

Oh, the difference a year can make. The two teams no longer are in the same district, and they appear to be bound in different directions

Phillips is on the ropes as a school district due to eviction notices from its massive namesake oil company. As a football team the 'Hawks are scrappy, but they don't appear to have playoff caliber. Groom, on the other hand, is on its way up. The Tigers are 3-0 with impressive wins over Clarendon (41-6) and Gruver (42-14), and currently ranked No. 8 in the Class 1A Harris Poll. If things go as they should, Groom will make the playoffs for the first time in 10 years. Head coach Terry Coffee and the Tigers know all this, and along with Phillips' offense, they know it's something they must defend against. This is exactly the type of game in which good teams sometimes give lackluster performances.

"We've got to watch that for sure," Coffee said. "There are two ways you can approach it, and what we've done is set goals in football homecoming contest for ourselves on offense and de-

"What's worrying me is we come off a big game like Gruver, and the kids know Gruver beat Phillips (27-14), and how the kids are going to react to that."

So Groom's going into the game looking to accomplish within. The Tigers haven't allowed a team a first down in the second half this year, but they've only led by one and been tied at halftime. Coffee wants a complete defensive

"We want to put two good halves of defense together," said. "We want to be able to shut a couple of teams out, and we want to hold our opponents to less than 100 yards of offense. Those are our defensive goals.

"Offensively, we want to try to pass more. We want 4 yards a carry from our backs every play, and we want to control the ball, have 15-play drives and score on every possession.

We have to try to work on throwing the ball a lot more, but at the same time not get away from what we do good and that's

"If we're going to get on down the road a ways we've got to be balanced on both of 'em (running and passing). We've got to run and pass or we'll be doing punts and kickoff returns a lot.

"We're still making some mistakes and we've got to eliminate them. We're not a great team vet. We've still got a long ways to go.'

So those are the things Coffee wants from his Tigers against 1-2 Phillips, which last week beat

In that game, the 'Hawks got three touchdowns each from Casey Boyer and Danny Charleton, and rolled up a Groom-like 353 yards rushing, though it was against one of the area's weakest

But Coffee says the 'Hawks have always been thorns in Groom's side, and, "They're a real scrappy little team. I think they'll get after you."

Barring a huge upset Groom should win, but it's the improvement Coffee's looking for. He's already seen some, especially in his linemen. James Miller and Daniel Lambert were the only returners, and Coffee expected them to play as well as they have.

But he didn't know what to expect from Tony and Travis Homer or Jason McCoy.

"We've got some linemen that we hadn't even counted on that are playing some pretty dadgummed good ball for us," Coffee said. "Those three have really come around and done a good job

It's Groom's homecoming Friday, an event more for the fans than the players and sometimes a big distraction. Coffee looks at it

"What we do when the lights come on Friday night is our contribution to homecoming."

Consistency the key for injury-t

By DAN MURRAY Sports Writer

CANADIAN - On the surface, you'd think Canadian head coach Paul Wilson isn't asking for much. All he wants is the same 11 faces in his starting lineup two weeks in a row.

But Friday night's 8 p.m. non-district game at Boys Ranch is the 1-1-1 Wildcats' fourth this season, and Wilson has yet to receive the little that he has requested.

The injury bug's taken a permanent residence in Canadian this year. Two starters were already out for the year before quarterback Wade Wilson went down with a dislocated knee early in last Saturday's 14-12 loss to Lubbock Roosevelt.

Sickness has also kept company, with the Roosevelt game marking the first action for tight end Luke Thrasher, who's had a stomach ailment. Thus far Wilson has had to move players around like chess pieces in a wide-open game.

"Inconsistency is probably our worst enemy right now," Wilson said. "Sickness and injuries within our team have kept our practices to where we don't have the same 11 in practice each day. It's really kept us unsettled.

'We've got to settle down and keep kids in one position. It really hasn't been our kids fault. They've had quite a bit of adversity this yearr. We were pretty inexperienced when we started, then to be shuffled and moved around all the time...It's been a real problem.'

One the 'Cats hope to begin putting behind them starting with Boys Ranch. With Wade Wilson out, junior Wayne Hand will become Canadian's fourth starting quarterback this season

Wilson and Dan Dockray are probably out for the year, and though Shawn Wright filled in for Wilson when he was hurt, he's needed at tailback.

Hand has absolutely no varsity experience, and quarterbacked only part of two junior varsity games last season. He'll alternate with Wright some, but Canadian really needs Hand to take the job for keeps.

"He's a little nervous, but I think once the game starts he'll be all right," Wilson said. "He's the type of kid who has a little bit of confidence in his capability. I really feel like he's the type who'll jump in there and take the bull by the horns and do a good job for us."

With Perryton next week, Friday's game with Boys Ranch could be the perfect time for Hand and Canadian. The Roughriders are 0-3, and as former district foes familiar to the Wildcats. Vega beat Boys Ranch 18-13 last week in the closest game the 'Riders have played so far. Muleshoe beat 'em 34-14 and they lost to Panhandle 48-7 on opening night. But Canadian already has a tie with Fritch that should've been a win, and Wilson says the 'Cats can't take the Ranchers lightly.

"I think Boys Ranch is probably better than most people give 'em credit for,'' Wilson said.
"They're a decent little ballclub. We can't go in that game like we did against Fritch and make mistakes when we have an opportunity. If we let 'em stay in the ballgame we'll be in a world of

Against 3-0 Vega, the Roughriders led in first downs (18-11) and total yardage (196-176), but they turned the ball over three times to Vega's none, including one miscue in the second half that killed a serious threat to take the lead.

What also hurt the Ranch in that game was ineffective passing. As they prefer to do, the Roughriders threw the ball 23 times against the Longhorns, but completed only four. They'll put it up as many times against Canadian.

'Our pass defense will be tested severely,' Wilson said, adding that sophomore Heath Rigdon has moved from JV into the starting middle linebacker role.

Canadian's offense shouldn't be so tested, but with all the personnel changes Wilson has no way of knowing. He does know that his Wildcats have fought through adversity that would've ripped some teams apart.

The kids have really hung in there, hung tough," Wilson said. "That's one thing I was tickled with against Roosevelt was the way we hung in and wore them down. I know some of our kids were exhausted, but they kept after it.

"The only thing that's been disappointing is how good we could've been by district. We could-'ve been 3-0 and building momentum. If things keep going like they have been we'll be starting district like we're starting the season instead of being a well-oiled machine.

"We want consistency and we want our breakdowns to stop. We need more poise. We want to feel comfortable and we want to whip 'em in certain areas. We've got to start doing that to teams.'

Getting the same 11 faces back in the huddle would be the best start.

Preston Smith. "If you play very good people you're going to lose a game or two. That's part of it. The kids are in as good a frame of mind as we could ask. It's a week to week thing where we just need to try to play a little bit better.'

Salver's loss has shown it's effect on Wheeler's once-potent offense. The Mustangs gained only 232 yards in beating Shamrock, and just 138 in the Hobart loss. Smith's looking for the answer to changing that.

'Sometimes it makes you change your philosophy a little bit when you lose a player like Dicky," Smith said. "Offensively we're trying to find the chemistry with the guys we have out there that will work for us. Maybe we'll have to run more power. I don't know exactly what."

Wheeler wasn't without its bright spots in the Hobart loss. The Mustangs' Black Death defense stymied the Bearcats until Hobart's size took its toll in the fourth quarter. Offensively, Smith said, things weren't as bad for the Mustangs as they initially seemed. 'We executed better than I thought we did the night of the football game," he said. "We moved the ball well at times...but at other times we just didn't execute.

"One good thing was that we didn't have problems with turnovers and penalties, and we're pretty excited about that.'

Vega should be a much more gauged test of what Wheeler can do without Salyer. The 3-0 'Horns compare with the Mustangs in size and experience, and the two met in the playoffs last year.

Wheeler won 22-0 in the game played in cold Pampa fog, and Friday night "I'm sure they'll probably have that in their minds," Smith said.

Vega's wins have been 19-0 over Phillips, 28-15 over Hereford's JV and 18-13 over Boys Ranch last week, but they haven't been convincing.

The Longhorns had to rally from a 15-6 late third quarter deficit to beat Hereford's JV. Boys Ranch outgained Vega in their game, but turned the ball over three times, once near the 'Horns goal.

Vega's strength is at the skill positions, led by returing quarterback Lynn Pulliam. Running backs Klay Waters and Damon Tanck have played big roles in the three 'Horns wins.

Wheeler's concern with Vega, however, is as a gauge. The Mustangs have to solve their own problems, then see where they

"We're trying to win a football game and get our kids' heads and confidence back up," Smith said. 'We need to win and see what it feels like. We need to establish something we can do offensively.

"After Vega, we should pretty well have a good idea where we're at.

U.S., Soviet Union considering two-stage plan to free Daniloff

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Secretary of State George P. Shultz has left the door open to another high-level meeting as U.S. and Soviet officials consider a two-stage U.S. proposal for the return of American reporter Nicholas Daniloff, officials said.

The U.S. proposal advanced to Moscow shortly after Daniloff was arrested by the Soviets Aug. 30 calls for the newsman's immediate release and for the trial of Gennadiy Zakharov, a Soviet U.N. employee arrested Aug. 23 in New York and charged with spying. If Zakharov is convicted, he would be exchanged for an unspecified number of Soviet dissidents, according to the proposal. 'We're working on it," Shultz said Wednesday of the Daniloff case. Other U.S. officials described the negotiations as active and said they might require another session between Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze, who met twice on Tuesday

The talks, which Shultz is conducting with the assistance of a few State Department specialists in Soviet affairs, apparently are now concentrated on how many dissidents would be freed along with Dani-

Administration officials publicly refuse to equate the Daniloff and Zakharov cases, saying the U.S. News & World Report magazine correspondent is innocent. They also rule out any trade.

But privately, they acknowledge the proposal has been put to the Soviets for consideration.

An administration official in Washington, who demanded anonymity, said on Wednesday that the Soviets were still demanding that Daniloff be tried. But U.S. officials stressed this would be unacceptable because he is innocent

However, The Washington Post today reported that the Soviet Union had offered to release Daniloff - apparently without putting him on trial - if the United States modified the expulsion order for 25 members of the Soviet U.N. mission, some of whom already have left.

The Post, quoting unidentified non-Soviet East-bloc sources, said the Soviets were also reported to be willing to release several dissidents, including some Jews, as part of a package deal for Daniloff's

It was not clear, the paper said, whether they were offering to release the dissidents before or after Zakharov's trial.

Israeli warplanes bomb Fatah camp outside Sidon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) -Six Israeli fighter-bombers blasted suspected Palestinian guerrilla targets this morning at a refugee camp outside the southern port of Sidon, police

"There is extensive damage but no immediate report on casualties," state-run Radio Beirut reported.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli military command said the raid was on a base belonging to the Fatah faction headed by Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The communique said the base consisted of several tents in a forest south of Sidon.

The pilots reported accurate hits and all planes returned safely to base, according to the Israeli announcement.

The attack was the second Israeli air raid on Lebanon in three days and the 11th so far this year.

Unexplained dismissal shakes VOA staff

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — The unexplained firing of a part-time correspondent in politically sensitive Honduras has shaken the news staff of the Voice of America, the overseas broadcasting arm of the U.S. govern-

The decision to dismiss the relatively obscure reporter was made at the highest levels of the VOA without prior consultation with the correspondent's newsroom or field supervisors and without subsequent explanation.

Ed DeFontaine, director of news and English programming for the VOA in Washington, said in a telephone interview that neither he, News Director Don Henry nor Joseph Chapman, chief assignments editor, were consulted about the decision to fire Laura Brooks, 27

"It came from higher up," De-Fontaine said. "I don't support

The reason for her dismissal was not disclosed to Ms. Brooks, a native of Alfred, N.Y., who had worked for the VOA in Tegucigalpa for six months. She also reports part-time for several other news organizations, including the British Broadcasting Corp., National Public Radio and Mutual Radio.

'I don't feel I have a satisfactory answer to what happened." Ms. Brooks said. "Nobody will tell me, and it really bothers me because I feel that in some way my reputation has been damaged.

Ms. Brooks speculated that either of two acts on her part may have offended the Honduran government, the VOA, or both.

She, two other reporters and their Honduran guide were detained without charge by the Honduran army for 30 hours last June after they were stopped by a civil defense patrol while trying to enter a camp of the anti-Sandinista Nicaraguan rebels, known as
