

Bishops

Catholic clergymen debate confrontation, Page 5

Football

Kosar can't buy one in Monday night game, Page 10

Bombs

Numerous explosions shaking France again, Page 6

The Pampa News

25¢

Vol. 79, No. 189 2 sections, 18 pages

November 11, 1986

Tuesday

Hart sustains police shakeup

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

The demotion of the Pampa Police Department's former No. 2 administrator was upheld today by City Manager Bob Hart.

Former Capt. Roy Denman had formally appealed his demotion earlier this month to the rank of lieutenant.

Denman was a captain for seven years before being dropped to lieutenant on the recommendation of a consulting firm that studied Police Department operations earlier this year.

Denman made his unsuccessful appeal at 11:30 a.m. today before Hart, Personnel Director Phyl lis Jeffers and Police Chief J.J. Ryzman.

The $6,000 report by Stephens Management Consultants of Canyon was requested in May by Ryzman and Hart after they attended a city managers' and police chiefs' seminar in Dallas.

The study, of which the results were revealed in early September, recommended dropping the captain's position so that all three divisions in the department would be headed by officers of the same rank.

Denman currently heads the department's service division, while J.D. Laramore and Jesse Wallace, also lieutenants, are in charge of the criminal investigation and patrol divisions.

Hart said he denied Denman's appeal because the rank of lieutenant best matches his responsibilities.

"Just from an organizational standpoint, it doesn't make a lot of sense," Hart said of Denman's previous captain's rank. "Based on the information I had, I felt the lieutenant's position was what he ought to have."

In addition to eliminating the captain's job, the report also recommended sweeping changes in how the department conducts its business.

Many of the recommendations were designed to improve what the report said were the causes of low morale in the department's ranks.

Although the report recommended no specific firings or demotions, Denman said last week that he feels like "the first sacrificial lamb" and predicted other personnel changes.

Hart had no comment Friday when asked whether the Chief Ryzman's job was on the line because of the report's criticisms, but he said today that should Ryzman become a "stumbling block" in implementing recommended changes, he will be removed.

The city manager said Ryzman must institute 15 or 16 recommendations from the report by Jan. 1.

"I expect those recommendations to be implemented, and if they're not, then it's going to make me take the action that I think's necessary to

See SHAKEUP, Page 2

(Staff Photo by John Gerdel)

C.R. Atchley stayed busy checking antifreeze in cold motors Monday.

Frigid digits exposed

From Staff and Wire Reports

"The frost was on the pumpkin this morning, but ice was in the water dish this afternoon," a Pampa mail carrier observed Monday as temperatures plunged below freezing.

When Pampans had lunch at noon Monday, the temperature was a pleasant 49 degrees. But thanks to a fast moving cold front from Canada, temperatures fell to 31 degrees by 1 p.m. and to 22 degrees by 5 p.m.

The Pampa Amarillo area low this morning was 14 degrees, barely missing the record 13 degree low for this date set in 1911.

Chuck Hodgkinson, a meteorological technician for the National Weather Service in Amarillo, said today that the area record low for early November occurred on Nov. 10, 1950, when the temperatures plunged to 9 degrees.

And, although today's highs should climb to the 40s, Hodgkinson warned that another Canadian cold front was expected to arrive Wednesday, knocking Panhandle high temperatures back into the 30s.

"It was a good, hard, killing frost," said Gray County Extension Agent Joe VanZandt, predicting that the blast of cold will "kind of slow down the growth of wheat."

VanZandt said today that the cold wave didn't do any damage to crops or cause long delays, "except for those who haven't planted yet."

He said matters would have been worse if the cold snap had been accompanied by any moisture.

The cold Canadian air spilled southward across Texas today in the wake of the fast-moving cold front that roared across the state.

In addition to temperatures in the teens in the Panhandle, lows in the 20s fell across the South Plains and Low Plains of West Texas at dawn today.

Wind chill indexes across portions of West Texas ranged between zero and six degrees at dawn.

Light rain was reported across Central Texas, South Central Texas and the Rio Grande plains. Isolated showers and light rain dotted most of East Texas and Southeast Texas. Heavy thunderstorms were reported offshore from the upper Texas coast in the Gulf of Mexico.

It will be much colder across the entire state through Wednesday, the NWS predicted.

Freed French hostages on their way to Paris

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — An 85-year-old retired car dealer and a businessman freed in Lebanon by Shiite Moslem kidnappers left for Paris by plane today, and the French government thanked Syria for its role in the release.

The two Frenchmen, Camille Sontag and Marcel Coudari, 54, were released in Moslem west Beirut on Monday night into the hands of Syrian army officers, government sources said. Two statements signed by the Revolutionary Justice Organization, a pro-Iranian Shiite group, had promised the imminent release of some hostages.

The two Frenchmen were driven to Damascus during the night and given clean clothes and a bath at a government facility. They arrived early today at the Foreign Ministry, where they remained for more than an hour in an anteroom.

Sontag, who lived in Beirut for 40 years, sat quietly, saying nothing and slowly wringing his hands on his lap. He appeared well, but confused.

He wore a gray suit and had an unkempt beard. He said his kidnappers had broken his hearing aid when he was seized in a west Beirut street May 7 and he could not hear well.

Asked if he intended to go back to Beirut, Sontag said loudly: "Me? Me? Never!"

Coudari, missing since February, chain-smoked American cigarettes, talking constantly in Arabic with Syrian officials.

"It was very scary, he said. "I was frightened a

See HOSTAGES, Page 2

Pampan charged in death

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

A 20-year-old Gray County man was indicted Monday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the Oct. 18 traffic death of his cousin on Texas Highway 70.

Justin Avery Helton, Route 2 Box 445, Pampa, was accused in the indictment of unintentionally causing the death of Steve Monroe Helton, 25, 2400 Rosewood, in a pickup truck rollover just south of Interstate 40, 12 miles east of Groom in Gray County.

Also indicted Monday were William Edward Gray, 30, 428 Aft, on three counts of arson, Kimberly Morris, 19, of McLean, accused of possessing some of the marijuana from a $100 million marijuana field near Lefors, and Troy Lee Grimes, 27, 1013 Huff, who was arrested Sunday, on a charge of aggravated sexual assault of a child.

According to reports filed the night of the fatal crash, Justin Helton was driving a 1985 Toyota

See DEATH, Page 2

Veterans Day

Kiwanian John Pontious of Pampa and other club members raise the flags in downtown Pampa today in honor of Veterans' Day. See story, Page 5.

State: Money changers bilked Christians

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

A Carrollton man who used Church of Christ ministers to lure investors into an allegedly bogus investment scheme was indicted Monday in Gray County on charges that he swindled a former Pampa woman of $340,000.

Assistant District Attorney David Hamilton said the indictment is the first of many expected across the southern United States, from California to Florida, against associates of Comstock Financial Services and Preferred Financial Consultants.

The two companies and their associates are named in a Securities and Exchange Commission suit that accuses them of cheating 600 investors in 12 states, most of them fundamentalist Christians, of $9 million.

A 223rd District grand jury Monday handed down two four-count indictments against Charles

W. Huber, of the Dallas suburb of Carrollton, alleging that Huber deceived the former Pampa woman by getting her to sign a check and a power of attorney document under false pretenses.

The indictments charge Huber with "securing execution of a document by deception."

District Judge Don Cain set Huber's bond at $15,000 on each of the two four-count indictments.

In the indictments, Huber, identified as district director for Comstock, is accused of convincing Kerrie A. (Anderson) Rodriguez, who currently lives in Borger, to sign over a $340,000 life insurance benefit she received after her husband was killed in a Colorado traffic accident. The indictments accuse the Comstock employee of telling the woman that her investment would be used to buy treasury bills and other federal government securities, that it would be free from any risk of loss, and that it was insured.

All the guarantees were false, the indictments charge.

Huber also is charged with using the same deception to persuade Anderson to grant Huber "durable power of attorney" with regard to all financial matters.

In return, Huber promised an 18 percent return on the former Mrs. Anderson's $340,000, as advertised in the Christian Journal, a monthly magazine for Texas Church of Christ members.

Hamilton said the woman was introduced to Huber and his offered investment by her former minister, Bill Driver of the Church of Christ in Fritch.

The prosecutor said Monday that Huber apparently "got ministers to go in and attack their flock, as it were."

Anderson trusted the Church of Christ's Driver, who was probably the guiding force behind her decision to invest, Hamilton said.

"His presence was probably the thing that swayed her," he said.

A woman who answered the telephone at Driver's Fritch residence Monday night said Driver has moved to Pueblo, Colo. There was no answer at a phone number listed for Driver in Pueblo.

Hamilton said about $20,000 of the woman's money was invested in Huber's firm, Charles Huber and Associates, and in a Florida company that manufactures a mostly plastic handgun, but "the rest of it, nobody knows where it is."

The prosecutor said also Driver is under investigation in connection with the loss of the former Mrs. Anderson's money.

Hamilton said that, although Huber is "not the kingpin," he was indicted first because he traveled to Gray County and made the deal with Anderson.

Other indictments in connection with the invest-

See MONEY CHANGERS, Page 2

Texas/Regional

Otwell agrees to close home

AUSTIN (AP) — The Rev. W.N. Otwell has agreed not to operate his home for troubled boys in violation of state law and the state has agreed not to press for imprisonment or fines for the fundamentalist minister.

The agreement was made late Monday in the court of State District Judge Paul Davis. Otwell and Attorney General Jim Mattox shook hands after the proceedings.

Otwell surrendered to the Tarrant County sheriff Monday morning in Fort Worth after being a fugitive from the state for five weeks.

He was taken to Austin where Davis on Oct. 6 had ordered him arrested for disobeying a court order to get a state license for the children's home at Forest Hill, in the Fort Worth suburbs, or shut it down.

"I appreciate the judge not incarcerating me," Otwell said after the brief court hearing. "I still think the law is wrong and will try to get it changed in the next Legislature."

"I think they made the right decision to close the school and go to the Legislature," said Mattox, who personally appeared before Davis.

Otwell contends that getting a state license for the home would violate the separation of church and state guarantees in the constitution.

Davis ruled after Mattox and Shelby Sharp, Fort Worth attorney for Otwell said an agreement had been reached.

The agreement calls for Otwell and the Community Baptist Church, which he heads, to keep the school closed until, and unless, the Legislature changes state law that requires state licensing of all schools that care for minor children.

The agreement will modify the court order to prevent the church and other church property from being padlocked and sold to pay the $67,000 in fines levied by the court.

The Department of Human Services will make periodic inspections to see that the order is carried out.

Davis also agreed to suspend payment of the fines levied against Otwell and the church for operating the home without a license.

"That includes a waiver of any possible jail sentence," he said, referring to the contempt of court action.

However, Davis lectured Otwell sternly. "You took it upon yourself to decide whether to follow a law," Davis said. "That is a very unfortunate message you have given a lot of people."

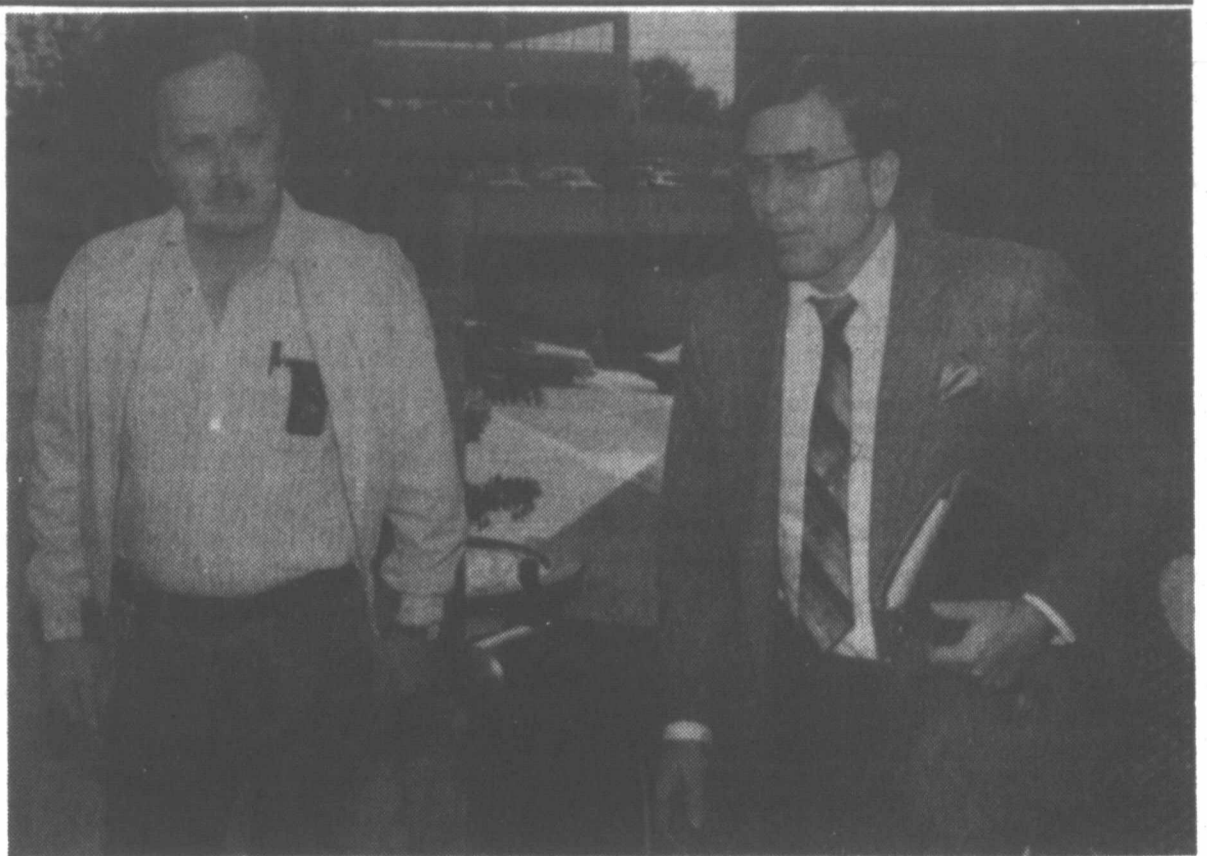

"To say you are above the law is something our society hopefully will never permit," Davis said. Otwell spoke briefly to the court saying he was serious at all times in his actions.

"I wasn't playing games," he said. "We felt the courts and the state had been unjust to us."

"We have suffered very much. We have paid the price," he said.

The minister's followers in mid-October thwarted the state's attempt to gain custody of the boys by spiriting them away before law officers made a pre-dawn raid. Otwell told reporters Monday that all of the children had been returned to their parents.

At one time, the home had as many as 100 boys.

The Rev. W.N. Otwell, right, is escorted by a Travis County deputy Monday in Austin. (AP Laserphoto)

State fights court decision

AUSTIN (AP) — State officials say they will appeal a Texarkana appellate court decision which Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said would give $2 million to Exxon Corp. and South Texas rancher Clinton Manges instead of the Permanent School Fund.

The attorney general's department said Monday the state's appeal of the Texarkana court ruling was being prepared and would be filed before the Nov. 28 deadline.

"It would be unconscionable for the opinion to stand," Mauro told a news conference on Monday.

Mauro said the Texarkana decision gives away half of a 1983 suit settlement filed against Mobil Oil Co. by the state on 28 oil wells in Duval County on the ranch operated by Manges.

Mauro said the case involves the Relinquishment Act of 1919 in which the state owns the mineral rights and someone else owns the surface rights. Those owning surface rights act as the state's leasing agents and are given half of the proceeds.

"In the lawsuit in question, Exxon was asked to help the state win the case and refused," Mauro said. "Now they want to share in the profit and that's not fair."

Local disaster exercise part of state-wide drill Wednesday

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Editor

Weeks of planning will come into play Wednesday morning as emergency management agencies, law enforcement personnel, medical services, schools, media and others participate in a disaster drill.

The local drill will be incorporated into a state-wide drill involving a simulated blizzard hitting the Texas Panhandle.

Into that situation, two accidents involving hazardous chemical materials will be added to test the response capabilities of city and county emergency management teams.

City of Pampa Environmental and Emergency Management Director Steve Vaughn said efforts will be made to make the drill as life-like as possible, including the activation of the city's warning sirens and live broadcasts over local radio stations and cable television systems.

Vaughn reminded Pampa residents to be aware of the drill tomorrow morning so they won't be surprised or disturbed by the sirens and broadcast interruptions.

"It's only a drill," he said, though it will be conducted with seriousness.

The drill will begin at 9 a.m. The local scenario, while using the blizzard conditions as a background, will incorporate the blowing of a valve at the Celanese Chemical Corp.'s Pampa plant, simulating the release of dangerous chemical fumes into the air shortly after 9 a.m.

A few minutes later an accident involving a tanker truck and a bus will be simulated at the intersection of 23rd Avenue and Perryton Parkway. (That location has been changed from the previously announced site near the intersection of Hwys. 60 and 70, Vaughn noted.)

The new location for the accident, which will concern a simulated hazardous chemical spill, will involve nearby schools and businesses into the scenario.

To add to the life-like conditions for the drill, traffic in the area will actually be diverted around the accident site for 15 to 20 minutes, Vaughn said.

The drill is designed to test response capabilities, emergency plans, interagency communications, medical services, law enforcement preparedness, municipal services, human service agencies plans and other aspects which would be involved in a communitywide disaster situation.

Coordinating the drill is the city's Environmental and Emergency Management Department, the Pampa-Gray County Office of Emergency Management and the Community Awareness Emergency Response (CAER) Committee.

Expected to participate in the drill also will be the city's Streets, Sanitation, Water and Parks department crews; Pampa Police Department, local Texas Department of Public Safety and Gray County Sheriff's Office personnel; Pampa Fire Department; Celanese, Cabot Corp. and IRI International Inc. industry personnel, and local Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation employees.

Also to be involved in the drill are Pampa Medical Services, Coronado Community Hospital, Gray County Chapter of the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Pampa schools; personnel from Southwestern Public Service, Energas and Southwestern Bell Telephone; Gray County precinct maintenance personnel and nursing homes personnel.

During the drill the Emergency Operations Center will move into the First Baptist Church basement to use its communications center for broadcasting on Radio Stations KGRO-KOMX and KSNZ and Channel 6 on the Sammons Communications cable system.

Water wells, streets major topics at Lefors City Council

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Editor

LEFORS - Water well and street matters formed the main topics Monday night for the Lefors City Council.

Mayor J.W. Franks said he still has no definite cost estimates on drilling a new water well for city supplies but he has been making inquiries.

He said the project, though, will require the hiring of an engineer to check the project specifications and insure state requirements are met for the filing of a drilling permit.

Franks said the city is looking strongly into the possibility of drilling a new well near one of the present city well sites.

One well has been generally discontinued because too much sand had been pumped out with the water. But Franks said "we can probably move over some" and drill a new well nearby. If it is gravel packed right, the sand probably can be avoided, he explained.

"We know there's good water there" as long as the sand can be kept from the pump, Franks said.

The money for the project "is going to come out of the city pockets," he noted. The mayor said efforts will have to be made, however, to keep the costs down and yet still meet state specifications while drilling a good, operable well.

Franks said "there's still a couple of months to look into it" and added he should have some cost figures available for the December meeting.

In other matters, the council discussed problems with street repairs.

"The (dirt) streets are terrible," Franks stated, noting the numerous rains in the past couple of years have created holes and washouts. Manholes are sticking up above ground level in a few areas, he said.

He said the city has been using a grader to try to level the streets, but some streets will have to have material hauled in and spread out to cut back the erosion.

Franks suggested two options: the city could buy a dump truck and haul in its own material, or the city could ask for a contractor bid for the hauling of the material.

If the city purchased its own truck, then there would also be insurance and maintenance expenses added, he noted.

The council expressed general consensus to put out bids for the material. Franks said the city employees still would spread out the material to level the streets.

"We can rule out caliche," Franks said, adding sand and gravel mix would be preferable.

"Paving is out. We can't afford that, for sure," the mayor stated, adding that efforts will just have to be made to keep the dirt streets passable for now.

In other matters, City Secretary Yvonne Pittman said a letter had been received from Insbrok indicating it no longer wants to insure the city after its policy expires Dec. 11.

She reported Duncan Insurance Agency was looking into other insurers for the city.

Franks said the city also may check with the Texas Municipal League insurance programs or consider becoming self-insurers.

Finding municipal insurers "is getting to be a problem," Franks said.

The council also briefly discussed a problem with trash piling up on a piece of property and approved bills for payment.

White transition leader is named

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White on Monday designated Bob McPherson, deputy assistant for programs, as the chief liaison for the governor's transition team.

The governor's re-election bid failed when he lost to Bill Clements on Nov. 4.

Cinema IV
Call For Complete
Movie Reviews
665-7726 or 665-5460

Monday-Thursday
TOUGH GUYS-PG
Burt Lancaster & Kirk Douglas
7:30 p.m.
JUMPIN JACK FLASH-R
7:30 p.m.
CROCODILE DUNDEE
PG13-7:30 p.m.
TRICK OR TREAT-R
7:30 p.m.

STARGAZERS SPECIAL!

99¢

Mondays and Wednesdays the stars come out for just 99¢! That's right, the Video Emporium will rent you the VHS movies, regularly priced at $1.99, your choice on Mondays and Wednesdays for only 99¢. Choose from hundreds of titles ranging from your all-time favorites to the latest releases! Need a machine? We have specials on VCR's, too! Normally $4.99, they are just $2.99 on Monday and Wednesday, and the price includes a free movie rental! The stars come out for 99¢ on Mondays and Wednesdays at the Video Emporium!

THE VIDEO EMPORIUM

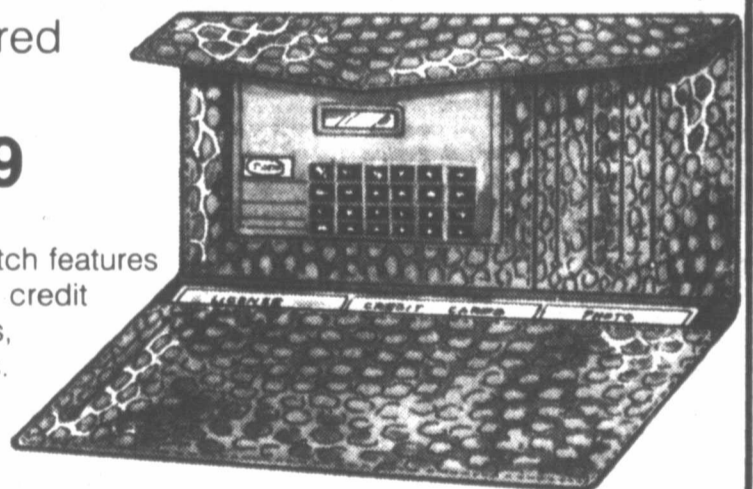

Monday-Thursday 9am-10pm
Friday-Sunday 9am-11pm

Calculate the savings...

Ladies' Lizard-textured Calculator Clutch

$14⁹⁹

Special Contemporary checkbook clutch features a calculator, back zip pocket, credit card slots, photo/card holders, checkbook and utility pockets. Basic colors and fashion brights, too!

Spode "Christmas Tree"

3-Pc. Buffet Set

19⁹⁹

Last year 46.00 Plan a special Christmas with this charming dinnerware at a new low price!

Shop Monday thru Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

DUNLAPS
Coronado Center

Dunlap's Charge, Visa, MasterCard, American Express

Viewpoints

The Pampa News

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Louise Fletcher
Publisher

Jeff Langley
Managing Editor

Opinion

Market needed for local phone service

Federal Communications Commission Chairman Mark Fowler continues to be the most interesting and innovative bureaucrat in Washington. He has presided over substantial deregulation of the broadcasting industry, led an attack on the infamous and unfair "fairness doctrine," and suggested even more deregulatory innovations. Each of his proposals has been backed by measured and informed argumentation, a rarity in the world of politics.

Now, in an article prepared for the Federal Communications Law Review, he and two associates are leading an attack on one of the genuine holy-of-holies, state regulation of telephone rates. The condition, which would bode well for consumers, would be subjecting local phone companies to the rigors of competition.

Fowler argues that the present system of ratemaking adds to the cost of doing phone business. Preparing documents and responding to requests for justification every time an adjustment in rates is desired require a great deal of time from well-paid specialists. The system is also cumbersome, making it difficult for companies to respond to rapidly changing conditions in a rapidly changing communications marketplace.

If local phone companies faced some measure of competition, Fowler maintains, they would have powerful incentives to bring more innovative services to the public more quickly. They would also face incentives to cut costs to improve efficiency; the rate-setting systems in most states operate on a "cost-plus" model, which encourages heavy investment in capital equipment no matter if it's really needed.

Fowler's idea is not a firm proposal but a "talking paper" designed to elicit commentary and criticism so that problems can be anticipated and any ensuing proposal refined and made more workable. That is a good way to introduce new ideas into the political dialogue, but most bureaucrats are too timid to put themselves on the line. More such boldness, please, from Washington.

About opinions

The views expressed in the opinion columns on this page are those of The Pampa News or Freedom Newspapers. Opinions expressed by the syndicated columnists are their own.

THE PAMPA NEWS
(USPS 781-540)

Serving the Top 'O Texas 77 Years
Pampa, Texas 79065
403 W. Atchison
PO Box 2198

Circulation Certified by ABC Audit

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Subscription rates in Pampa and RTZ by carrier and motor route are $4.21 per month, $12.63 per three months, $25.26 per six months and $50.52 per year. THE PAMPA NEWS is not responsible for advance payment of two or more months made to the carrier. Please pay directly to the News Office any payment that exceeds the current collection period.

Subscription rates by mail are: RTZ $12.63 per three months, discount offer $25.26 per six months and $50.52 per year. Outside of RTZ, $14.19 per three months, discount offer $28.38 per six months and $56.77 per year. Mail subscriptions must be paid in advance. No mail subscriptions are available within the city limits of Pampa. Servicemen and students by mail $3.25 per month. Single copies are 26 cents daily and 53 cents Sunday. Includes state sales tax.

The Pampa News is published daily except Saturdays and holidays by the Pampa News, 403 W. Atchison Street, Pampa, Texas 79065. Second-class postage paid at Pampa, Texas. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to the Pampa News, P.O. Drawer 2198, Pampa, Texas 79065.

Missing Your Daily News?
Dial 669-2525 Before 7 p.m.
Weekdays, 10 a.m. Sundays

Berry's World

"Hi, sir! Care to participate in the company drug-testing program today?"

© 1986 by NEA, Inc.

James J. Kilpatrick

Catfish swims in butter

SCRABBLE, Va. — I see by U.S. News & World Report that the catfish producers of Mississippi are going all out to sell their gastronomic delight. Through the American Catfish Institute they have retained a high-powered advertising outfit in Dallas. A $1.5 million campaign is under way.

Well, I'm for that, but it's kind of sad that my catfish friends have had to resort to such measures. It ought not to be necessary to hire ad men and p.r. types to promote the greatest of all domestic piscine delicacies. The catfish ought to be able to stand, or to be fried for that matter, on its own undeniable merits.

Alas, the food-buying public simply is not informed about the catfish sold on today's market. Most people, when they think about catfish at all, which is regrettably seldom, think of the critters that feed off the bottom of Southern rivers and bayous. As every schoolboy knows, these cats are cats of the order Ostariophysi, suborder Siluricea, and while they make for good conversation and are excellent in their own humble way, they are not what American Catfish Institute has in mind.

No, indeed. The catfish that are the object of the sales campaign are the elite of the breed. They are raised in the high-rent districts of Mississippi. They swim in spring water; they dine on a balanced diet of grain, essential minerals and sirloin steak; they go to high-class prep schools and the females make their debuts. These are not ordinary catfish.

Webster's Third International Dictionary, in one of its rare lapses from accuracy, says that the flesh of the catfish "is not of the finest quality." Fie upon these witless lexicographers! The editors evidently never have met the pond-grown upper crust. The flesh of a catfish that has been graduated from the Catfish Institute is flesh beyond compare. It is firm; it is tender; it is flaky; it mashes not. Of greater moment, the flesh is supremely tasty. Unlike the ubiquitous sole, which has all the flavor of a sauteed kitchen sponge, the catfish has a flavor all its own—definitive but subtle, unmistakable and yet elusive. It is like the expensive fragrance that is worn by a beautiful woman: It tempts, it enraptures, it ensorcells.

Much more must be said. The catfish has practically no bones, or at least it has no bones to speak of—a sturdy spine, a few ribs, and that is the size of it. The catfish has a large and brainy head, adorned by barbels in the fashion of Dali's moustache, and while the catfish is commonly thought to be ugly, it assuredly is not ugly to other catfish. In any event, today's catfish come skinned and filleted to the market.

The catfish has much in common with the black-eyed pea, the noblest legume of them all. That is to say, it is hard to cook a catfish badly. It is an accommodating fish, ever eager to please. The usual practice is to deep-fry the fillets after tumbling them in a batter of corn meal and eggs, but connoisseurs tend to prefer a simple braising in butter.

The Junior League of Baton Rouge, in its "River Road Recipes," suggests a court-bouillon of catfish steaks with onions, garlic and tomato sauce. The venerable James Beard offers a recipe for poached catfish with hollandaise, Bernaise or lobster sauce. Beard also provides a recipe for catfish head soup, which he describes as "a great favorite in the South." The recipe begins with three or four good-sized catfish heads, to be boiled in the agreeable company of onion, clove carrot and leek. Out of this comes a broth that could be served on Olympus.

More such recipes are in prospect. Delta Catfish Processors of Indianola, Miss., identified as "the world's largest catfish processor," recently retained a fancy New Orleans chef. He created a catfish mousse and a pan-sauteed catfish with sauce meunier. According to U.S. News, catfish now appears on the menus of chic restaurants in New York and other shrines of haute cuisine. If only the catfish were not called the catfish, its fortune would be made. Poisson de chat? This rose by any other name would smell as sweet.

These aspects of the catfish situation are not widely known. The industry now sells $200 million worth of catfish fillets every year, but this is but a drop in the old bayou. Producers in Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Louisiana see a potential market of twice that size as their delectable product catches the attention of consumers across the land.

Everything now depends upon the ad men and the p.r. folks. The catfish has done all it can do on its own.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

IF YOU DID VOTE YOU HAVE NOTHING TO COMPLAIN ABOUT.

Lewis Grizzard

Rednexus thrives in Georgia

The Associated Press recently quoted Doug Marlette of Charlotte, N.C., creator of the Southern-flavored comic strip "Kudzu," as saying good ol' boys are out of fashion in the South and currently are trading in their pickup trucks for BMWs.

Mr. Marlette points to the development of the Sun Belt, which is fast replacing the good ol' boys native habitat, as the primary reason Billy Bobus Rednexus, his term, may soon be a thing of the past.

Mr. Marlette may be correct in relation to Southern cities. In Atlanta, for instance, one rarely sees a pickup truck anymore, and it has even been reported Atlanta males have been spotted drinking wine coolers instead of beer.

I also consider myself somewhat of an expert on the Southern male (see my latest work entitled, "Jan Kemp: The First Teacher Who Was Sacked" or "The Revenge of the Pot-Bellied Alumni," in the December issue of the Smokeless Tobacco Illustrated) and I daresay Mr. Marlette needs to do more research outside the cities of the South before he pronounces the good ol' boy as a thing of the past.

As proof of that, let us hear from my favorite G.O.B., my boyhood friend an idol, Weyman C. Wannamaker Jr., a great American, who lives in my hometown of Moreland, Ga., where the late Curtis "Fruit Jar" Haney, the town drunk, grew the first recorded beer belly south of Baltimore.

I located Weyman relaxing over at the pool hall.

"Weyman," I asked him, "is it true good ol' boys are turning in their pickup trucks for BMWs?"

"Not that I know of," replied Weyman, "but Gator Turnipseed traded his shotgun for two tickets to 'Wrestlemania' last week. What's a BMW?"

"Never mind," I said to Weyman. "By the way, do you still carry your shotgun in the gun rack of your pickup?"

"Right next to my window decal," said Weyman.

"What does your window decal say?"

"Let's Shove Cuba up the Mississippi!"

I asked Weyman if he and his good ol' boy friends still enjoyed country music.

"Not as much since Willie started wearing an earring," he explained, "but Gator says, Willie sings all them duets with them foreigners and rock and roll singers and that's what can happen when you fall in with a bad crowd."

I wondered if Weyman and his friends were still drinking as much beer as always.

"Gator's wife tried to make him quit," Weyman said. "She wanted him to have a little more class, so one day, he sent her to the store to get a six-pack and she came home with some of them Barletts and James wine coolers they advertise on the television."

"And what happened?"

"Gator took his wife's Wrestlemania ticket away from her and gave it to me."

"Wasn't she upset she didn't get to go?"

"Betty Sue Ann?" asked Weyman. "Shoot, no. She had to change the oil in Gator's truck anyway."

Billy Bobus Rednexus—the legend continues.

Sitting around the cave and swelling

By Rusty Brown

LUBBOCK, Texas (NEA) — It's a great feeling when the mind is grabbed by a different idea. It's like hiking a mountain to the crest and finding a whole new world on the other side. You're breathless from the climb, but the new vision is a triumph. That's what happened on the Lubbock campus of Texas Tech University, where I came to participate in a women's symposium sponsored by the school's division of continuing education.

There are definitely no mountains here (cotton fields, yes), but I feel I have an overview after listening to 40 minutes of the collected wisdom of Karen Perkins. A longtime professor at two Texas universities, she is now director of the Women's Center of Tarrant County in Fort Worth.

She opened the conference in the manner of a storyteller, giving us her historical account of the relationship between the sexes. She called it "compressed history."

Starting with the Stone Age, she asked us to imagine people sitting around a cave watching some of them (later identified as women) swelling up all by themselves.

When the swelling culminated in birth, it seemed like magic. As the carriers of the life force, women held the power. This was the age of mother worship, female deities, goddesses and warrior queens.

"Over time," continued Perkins, "somebody figured out that it took two to procreate, and it was decided that men, not women, carried the spark of life. Men were the active progenitors and women were merely empty receptacles—wombs, as in "womb-man."

Attitudes changed, and the man-woman power roles did a complete flip-flop. Men became the "namers" and "sayers" of the cultural messages. According to Perkins, men believed they were born authorized to be the speakers and deciders. They wrote the literature, history, religion and law. They handed down judgments of right and wrong, the shoulds and should-nots. They decided who was greater and who was lesser. Perkins even reported that a church council in the Middle Ages debated at length as to whether or not women were human. (We won by one vote!)

"Those who were different from the namers and sayers," said Perkins, "were considered lesser—lesser genetically, lesser generically, also less rational, less creative and less worthy." Guess who that was? Women.

She said men defined our reality for us and boxed us in: "We turned ourselves into man-made images of womanhood. This lowered our self-esteem, causing us to suffer intellectual paralysis and powerlessness."

Perkins envisions a "new world where both men and women float around reality and speak what they see from where they stand, and all voices are heard."

That is certainly better than everyone sitting around the cave waiting for some of us to swell up.

Nation

Bishops near decision on facing off with Pope

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's Roman Catholic bishops are nearing a decision on whether to talk back to Pope John Paul II concerning his crackdown on Catholic liberals, including their brother bishop in Seattle.

Even if they decide at their annual meeting today or tomorrow that they do want to protest, they have to decide how loudly, how publicly, how clearly or ambiguously to do it — no easy matter for church leaders strongly inclined toward loyalty to the pope.

Their first chance to at least send a signal of confidence in their own national organization was arriving today in the form of elections of top officers of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Promotion to president of the current vice president, Archbishop John May of St. Louis, would follow conference tradition and would turn the leadership over to a moderate bishop who has shown he is committed to the idea of an active national bishops' organization — something not in great favor among some high Vatican officials who see most authority emanating from Rome.

Going into the election, observers and participants agreed that electing almost anyone else president, especially one of the conservative bishops among the other nine nominees, would suggest a knuckling under.

The vice presidential election appeared more open, with candidates from the right, left and center. There was speculation the bishops would choose neither a pronounced liberal nor conservative but instead vote for a moderate with strong ties to the national conference — such as Cincinnati Archbishop Daniel Pilarczyk, chairman of the liturgy committee.

Late today, the nearly 300 bishops were going behind closed doors to hear Seattle Archbishop Raymond Hunthausen's side of his dispute with Rome and to decide what, if anything, to do about it.

Hunthausen announced in September — much to Vatican officials' dismay at his public airing of the situation — that he had been ordered to give up much of his authority to a Vatican-appointed auxiliary bishop.

The archbishop had been adjudged too liberal in such matters as ministry to homosexuals and divorced Catholics and in the dispensing of absolution for sins to large groups.

Concern about the Hunthausen case and about controversy surrounding Vatican disciplinary actions against several priest-dissenters caused the conference's outgoing president, Bishop James Malone of Youngstown, Ohio, to warn Monday of "dangerous disaffection" and "developing estrangement" between the Vatican and many American Catholics.

Archbishop Rembert Weakland of Milwaukee, an influential liberal who was a presidential nominee as well as the main author of the bishops' much-publicized pastoral letter on the U.S. economy, said Malone spoke for many in the conference.

But not for all, as was made clear by conservative Cardinal John O'Connor of New York, also a presidential nominee, who said he felt accounts of disagreements between the bishops and the Vatican had been "vastly overblown."

Veterans remembered

A man stands in the rain at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington early today. An American flag of red, white and blue flowers — one for each of the 58,200 names of war dead inscribed on the wall — stands atop the granite memorial.

Former hostages differ on U.S.-Iran arms deals to free Lebanon captives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former hostages in Lebanon differ on whether the United States should make deals for captives, with one criticizing any weapons shipments to Iran and the other supporting President Reagan's reported actions.

The Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco, a former hostage, said he opposed any arms shipments to Iran and would have preferred to remain captive had he known weapons might have been the price for his freedom.

"The trading of arms symbolizes violence," Jenco said Monday. "Why continue the war between Iran and Iraq?" he said in reference to the long-running war in the Middle East. "That troubles me very much, that innocent people might be killed because I was given freedom."

Meanwhile, President Reagan insisted Monday that no U.S. laws have been violated and that the U.S. policy against deals with terrorists remains intact.

The president, according to his spokesman, Larry Speakes, also asked his advisers on Monday to keep silent about the matter because "hostage lives are at stake."

Earlier on Monday, Speakes again refused to discuss reports that the administration secretly shipped arms to Iran in exchange for three hostages in Lebanon.

"We've said what we have done is legal, proper, right, in the best interests of the country and in the best interests of the hostages," he said.

Jenco, a Catholic priest, was freed last July. His views are similar to those of the Rev. Benjamin Weir, who was released in September 1985.

Last week, Weir said the "trading of arms for hostages" was a "questionable tactic," and he said he was against any move that could lead to bloodier fighting between Iran and Iraq.

But Jeremy Levin, the former Beirut bureau chief for Cable News Network, said he has long believed it probably would take "some kind of negotiating, some kind of deal" to spring the American hostages.

The Reagan administration's long-stated policy is that it does not negotiate with terrorists.

Levin, who spent 11 months in captivity before he was freed in February 1985, said he hoped any deal would not endanger Americans in the future, and he said he would have "preferred that arms were not the apparent quid pro quo in this particular situation."

But he said Reagan responded to the outpouring of sympathy from Americans for the hostages, and for that he should be congratulated.

"It (public pressure) appears to have motivated him to the point of fostering some extraordinary and highly controversial actions," Levin said.

The president apparently is willing to take the consequences of his actions, and, "from that point of view, I support him and I thank him for coming around," Levin said.

Weinberger hits defense-spending critics

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger urged Congress and the American public today to honor the nation's veterans by maintaining the military strength required "to stay free and at peace."

"Here in Arlington National Cemetery rests the soul of our nation," Weinberger said during colorful ceremonies marking Veterans Day at the huge military burial ground.

"Here also should be our conscience. So let there be no mistaking the message from the thousands of heroes who stretch in silent formation across these hills and fields. Their message to us is clear: 'Safeguard what we have won; honor us by carrying forward our cause.'"

The defense secretary, an Army veteran of World War II, said his main purpose was marking the federal holiday was "to salute the courage of our nation's veterans, to pay tribute to those who fell in battle and to renew the bonds that tie generation to generation and link the present to the past and to the future."

Weinberger also used his appearance to urge renewed support for President Reagan's military buildup, citing America's lack of readiness on the eve of World War II and the isolationist policies of that era.

"Only because we in the United States had the luck to be given a year and a half to rearm, and the resolution and the capacity to do it, were we able to survive," he said. "If there is a next time, we may not be granted that much time again."

Without singling out any political party or individual lawmakers, Weinberger criticized "those who would grasp every excuse for weakening America's defenses."

Weinberger also lauded the men and women in the military as well as those still listed as missing in action from the Vietnam War.

"We honor those whose fate in Southeast Asia still is not finally resolved, countrymen whom we will not forget. We remember those who still carry the physical and mental scars of war."

Veterans Day observances honor war dead

By The Associated Press

Parades, services and the reburial of an unknown Civil War soldier marked today's Veterans Day remembrances of America's military dead, and veterans held vigils and marched to honor those still missing in Vietnam.

Thirty-two marchers, many of them Vietnam veterans, were en route today to Springfield, Ill., where the parade was to cap a 42-mile trek to draw attention to the plight of those held prisoner or missing in Southeast Asia.

Parades also were planned in Georgia, to honor female veterans, and Oregon.

At the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., an American flag made of red, white and blue flowers — one for each of the 58,200 names of war dead inscribed on the memorial's black wall — was to be unveiled this morning.

"The Moving Wall," a 250-foot-long, half-scale replica of the Washington memorial, was on display in Westlake Village, Calif., and another replica was erected at the Michigan State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Detroit.

A 24-foot-long granite monument with the names of 139 Wyoming veterans was to be dedicated in Cody.

Plans were advanced this week for new Vietnam veteran memorials in Illinois, West Virginia and New Jersey. An 8-foot-tall bronze statue of a youthful, battle-weary soldier was to be unveiled today at the dedication of the Oklahoma Veterans Memorial in Oklahoma City.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger was to speak at ceremonies at Arlington

National Cemetery in Virginia.

In Michigan, the body of a Civil War soldier was removed Monday from a neglected grave in Grand Rapids for military reburial today in Battle Creek's Fort Custer National Cemetery. The reburial was the culmination of an effort by a handful of people who discovered the grave and fought for his recognition.

The soldier was a member of the predominantly black 102 U.S. infantry, and his remains had been marked by a small headstone bearing only the inscription "Unknown 102 U.S. Colored."

"I think he represents all the servicemen, both black and white," said Charles Wade, 56, a member of the American Legion Crispus Attucks Post 59, a chapter of black veterans.

FREE
2 LITER COKE
WITH DELIVERY OF A LARGE PIZZA
CALL 665-6566

USDA revises downward Soviet grain needs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department dramatically revised upward its estimate of this year's Soviet grain crop, based on improvements in productivity and better weather conditions than previously thought.

The department, in a report issued Monday, estimated the crop at 195 million metric tons, up from the 180 million ton estimate of a month ago and the largest month-to-month adjustment of the figures in recent years.

Such an outlook would mean a substantial drop in anticipated Soviet grain imports, which could worsen an already depressed U.S. export picture.

The Soviets will import about 26 million tons of grain in the period July 1986 through June 1987, according to the latest report, down 6 million tons from last month's outlook.

While still substantially below the official 210 million ton Soviet estimate, the new U.S. figure reflects steady improvements in irrigation, fertilizer use, mechanization and other practices, department analysts said.

Kid's Korner Day Care
1404 N. Banks

Open House
Today from 1-5 p.m.

Ruth Carden Owner Director
Freddie Dougherty Asst. Director
Accepting Enrollment
Monday-Friday, 1-5 p.m.
Call 665-8922

For Children 18 mos.—12 yrs. Transportation to and from school. Open from 6 a.m.—6 p.m.

Holiday Savings from Radio Shack

Color Computer 2®

Our Lowest Price Ever for This Popular Computer

Save $60

99⁹⁵
26-3127

Reg. 159.95

Low As $20 Per Month*

Radio Shack & COMPUTER CENTERS

Check Your Phone Book for the Radio Shack Store or Dealer Nearest You

*Citiline revolving credit from Citibank. Payment may vary depending upon balance.

A DIVISION OF TANDY CORPORATION PRICES APPLY AT RADIO SHACK COMPUTER CENTERS AND PARTICIPATING STORES AND DEALERS

World

(AP Laserphoto)

Firemen search for clues among the debris after a bomb went off early Tuesday morning at the headquarters of automaker Peugeot in downtown Paris.

Group claims responsibility, says bombs protest South African ties

PARIS (AP) — The extreme left-wing group Direct Action claimed responsibility for planting bombs that exploded almost simultaneously today at three Paris office buildings, slightly wounding one person.

In a statement delivered to the news agency Agency France-Press, Direct Action said the blasts were to protest South African President P.W. Botha's visit.

Botha, who arrived Monday, was scheduled to dedicate a memorial to South African war dead later today during Armistice Day ceremonies in Longueval, a village north of Paris.

Police said the first blast occurred at about 1 a.m. at the Peugeot building, just west of the Arc de Triomphe, and was loud enough to be heard for miles around. Firemen reported one person was slightly wounded and the building was damaged.

Two more blasts followed moments later, both at the suburban office complex La Defense west of downtown Paris.

Firemen said the explosions damaged the Total Tower and the Manhattan Tower, which are some distance apart in the huge complex, causing no injuries.

Shultz says Soviets, Cuba sending arms to subversives

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP)— Secretary of State George Shultz said today the Soviet Union and Cuba have been sending weaponry to subversive movements in South America and the Caribbean in addition to Central America.

In a speech prepared for delivery to a meeting of Organization of American States foreign ministers, Shultz called attention to the recent discovery of arms caches in Chile which authorities there claimed were intended for leftist rebels.

Some of those arms, Shultz said, were American weapons left behind in Vietnam and were "similar to ones the Soviets and the Cubans have recently shipped to subversives in Colombia, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Jamaica and other countries in the region."

The Reagan administration has long complained of Soviet arms shipments to Central American, but has not focused on Communist bloc deliveries elsewhere in the hemisphere.

Shultz said the recent assassination attempt against Chilean President Augusto Pinochet indicates a Soviet-Cuban attempt to head off the possibility of a democratic outcome in Chile. He said the United States has made "absolutely clear" to Chilean authorities its strong support for a "prompt and successful return to democratic government."

Shultz' speech was the highlight of a planned 20-hour stay in Guatemala, where extraordinary security measures were in effect for the OAS meeting.

He was to deliver the speech after a morning meeting with Guatemalan President Vinicio Cerezo and a closed-door meeting with his 30 OAS colleagues.

Nicaraguan Deputy Foreign Minister Victor Hugo Tinoco was expected to be at that session.

En route here Monday night, Shultz said support in the hemisphere for American aid to the Nicaraguan rebels is far stronger than is generally believed.

He said Latin American leaders had indicated "they would be basically scared to death" if the United States were to withdraw its support for the rebels. The United States resumed military aid to the Contras last month after a 2½-year suspension.

European moves against Syria are hailed by U.S. and Israel

LONDON (AP) — The United States and Israel praised the Common Market for adopting sanctions against Syria because of that country's alleged support of terrorism. But the Soviet Union pledged continued backing for Damascus and Libya said the sanctions could damage Arab-European relations.

Foreign ministers of 11 of the 12 member nations of the European Economic Community backed Britain's call for sanctions against Syria, which Britain accuses of complicity in a plot to put a bomb on an Israeli jetliner at London's Heathrow Airport in April.

Greece was the lone dissenter. "We wish to send Syria the clearest possible message that what has happened is absolutely unacceptable," the ministers said in a statement released at the end of their conference here Monday.

"We call on them (Syrian authorities) to end all forms of support for those groups which have been clearly involved in terrorist acts and to deny them all facilities. ... We look to the Syrian authorities for a constructive response," the statement said. Britain had earlier broken diplomatic relations with the government of Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The ministers prohibited arms sales to Syria, suspended high-level visits to and from that country and ordered tight surveillance on Syrian diplomatic missions and on the Syrian Arab Airlines' operations in Europe.

Israel Television quoted Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir as saying the sanctions were "a step in the right direction of fighting terror and those countries that use terror."

The United States, which withdrew its ambassador from Damascus for consultations in a show of support for Britain, praised the Common Market move. White House spokesman Larry Speakes called it "another sign of the growing concern about Syrian state support for terrorism."

Soviet Deputy Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Yevgeny F. Ivanovsky arrived in Damascus on Monday to pledge Moscow's support.

Chemical spill in Rhine causes alarm

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — A poisonous chemical spill in the Rhine has killed half a million fish, deprived towns of water supplies and stirred fears of long-term damage to one Europe's busiest and most scenic waterways.

French officials plan decrees against catching Rhine River fish for the next six months because of the spill Nov. 1 during an industrial fire in Basel, Switzerland.

Some critics are calling the spill Chernobole, after the Chernobyl nuclear disaster last April in Soviet Union. Bale is the French name for Basel.

"We don't know how damaged the Rhine is, but there's no doubt that there has been serious harm done," Walter Wallmann, West Germany's environment minister, said Monday.

About 30 tons of toxic herbicides, pesticides and mercury poured into the Rhine.

Extradition of suspected saboteurs sought

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Iceland says it will seek the arrest and extradition of an American and a Briton named as suspects in the weekend attack that sank half of Iceland's whaling fleet and wrecked the nation's only whaling station.

Thorstein Geirsson, permanent secretary in the Justice Ministry, on Monday identified the suspects as Rodney Coronado of the United States and David Howard of Britain. Their hometowns were not given.

A police spokesman, who commented on condition he not be further identified, said police had information linking the two with the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society, a North American anti-whaling group that has claimed responsibility for the weekend attacks.

However, an Sea Shepherd spokeswoman in Britain said she knew nothing of Coronado or Howard. Asked if anyone from Britain participated in the raid, spokeswoman Sarah Hambley said she could not give out such information.

Prime Minister Steingrímur Hermannsson, speaking on radio and television, said Iceland was trying to determine the suspects' whereabouts to have them arrested.

Geirsson said they allegedly took an Icelandair flight to Luxembourg Sunday morning. Hermannsson criticized police for not raising the alarm soon enough to prevent their escape.

Attorney General Hallvarður Einarsson said Iceland would seek to extradite any foreigners involved in the sabotage.

No one was injured in the attacks in which two 430-ton vessels were sunk in Reykjavik harbor, and equipment was destroyed at the remote Hvalur Whaling Co. station, where whale byproducts are processed.

Damage at the whaling station, which is not staffed on weekends, was not discovered until Monday morning when employees arrived for work.

Hermannsson called an emergency Cabinet meeting for today and requested a detailed report on the raids, which local officials estimate caused $2 million damage.

The attacks also have caused a surge of anger among the 240,000 inhabitants of this North Atlantic island nation, which relies almost exclusively on fishing for its livelihood.

"This action is dreadful. I see the activity of these hysterical people as an attack on a way of life," said Jakob Jakobsson, director of the Marine Research Institute.

"Here in Iceland we are harvesting our resources and through research we hope to assess the whale stocks in the North Atlantic and use what is around us without exploiting it," he said.

TENSION HEADACHE

If you're bothered by headache that seems to have its origin at the base of your skull, you may be suffering from tension headache.

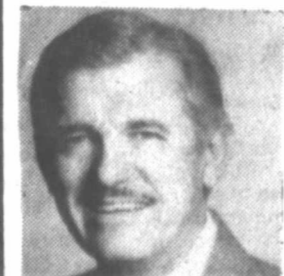

Tension headaches can be caused by an irritation of the nerves in the area of the spine immediately under the skull. These are called the suboccipital nerves. They pass through small openings in the spinal column to muscles in the surrounding area. Any abnormal pressure or dysfunction of neck and muscles can irritate the nerves, causing tension.

The tension doesn't cause the headache. To treat this form of headache, attention should be paid to the bone and muscle structures. They should be returned to normal balance so they can function properly again.

Medication is not the answer to tension headaches. Aspirin and other painkillers may give you temporary relief - but they won't solve the problem. Once the source of the problem is found and treated, THEN you can get the relief you need.

Dr. Mark Sherrod

Dr. Louis Haydon

CALL NOW: 665-7261

Haydon Chiropractic Clinic

28th Street at Perryton Parkway, Pampa, Tx. 79065

CARPET CLEANED

PRE-Holiday Special

$29.95

Any Living Room and Hall (Regardless of Room Size)

Additional Rooms (With either special) $18.95 ea.

ANY LIVING ROOM DINING AREA AND HALL (REGARDLESS OF ROOM SIZE) $39.95

CARPET DYEING can be done right in your home and the results are fantastic! We will also TINT your carpet while it is being cleaned at a slight additional charge. You will be amazed at the appearance!

WARRANTY - Our expert crews will clean your carpeting BETTER than you have ever seen before, or your money is returned IN FULL. Upholstered furniture, area and Oriental carpets included in this pledge.

Billy & Margie McAlister Owners

665-9535 Pampa, Tx.

CALL NOW FOR APPOINTMENT

CARPET DYEING, TINTING AND COLORIZING ALSO AVAILABLE. CALL TODAY!

RAINBOW INTERNATIONAL CARPET DYEING & CLEANING CO.

Dr. Patrick Crawford
Podiatrist (Foot Specialist)

Now seeing patients for surgical and non-surgical treatment of all types of foot disorders at Northcrest Medical Plaza (1 blk. West of Hobart on Northcrest Rd.)

For appointment call Northcrest Pharmacy 669-1035

PAMPA
WE WANT YOUR BUSINESS AT Pizza inn.

GOOD FOR DELIVERY • DINE IN • PICK UP

$6 OFF ANY LARGE SUPER SPECIAL-DELIVERED
$5 OFF ANY LARGE SPECIAL-DELIVERED
$4 OFF ANY LARGE TWO OR MORE INGREDIENT PIZZA-DELIVERED
$3 OFF ANY MEDIUM TWO OR MORE INGREDIENT PIZZA-DELIVERED
$2 OFF ANY SMALL TWO OR MORE INGREDIENT PIZZA-DELIVERED

This coupon must be presented to driver or cashier. Not valid with any other coupon or offer. Good for Dine in, Pick up or delivery. Expires 11-14-86

"BUFFET SUPER SPECIAL" $1.99 DAILY

MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY LUNCHEON BUFFETS, PLUS TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY EVENING BUFFETS ARE JUST $1.99. ALL THE PIZZA, PASTA, SALAD, GARLIC CHEESE TOAST AND COBLER YOU CAN EAT FOR JUST ONE LOW PRICE.

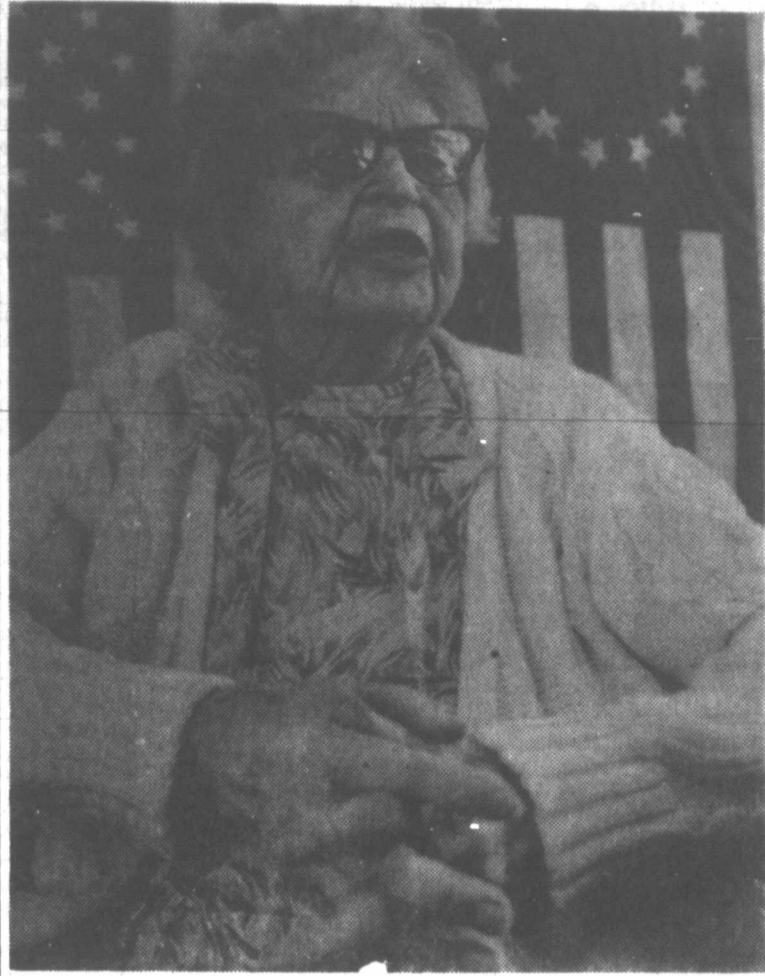

This coupon must be presented to cashier. Expires 11-14-86

WHAT COULD BE MORE HOMETOWN THAN LOCALLY OWNED

OPEN SUNDAY-THURSDAY 11 A.M.-10 P.M. FRIDAY & SATURDAY 11 A.M.-1 A.M.

Pizza inn.
DELIVERS IT ALL
CALL 665-8491

Oldest female vet

(AP Laserphoto)

Lou Luhrman, 104, the nation's oldest female veteran, chats about her plans for Veterans Day at a Veteran's Administration hospital in Menlo Park, Calif., Monday. Luhrman, who was born Dec. 8, 1881, joined the Army as a nurse during World War I when she was 36 years old.

How corporations get their names

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1888, an entrepreneur in search of the perfect name for his fledgling company picked his way through the alphabet, sampling letters like a finicky gourmet. He particularly savored "K."

In fact, he liked "K" so much that he decided the moniker simply had to begin and end with the letter. He scoured the alphabet until finally sinking his teeth into a tasty filling for his "K" sandwich.

Thus was one of the most famous names in corporate America created: George Eastman liked "K's" and Kodak met his criteria of being easy to pronounce, easy to spell, meaningless in any language and 100 percent his own.

Today, decisions like the one Eastman faced involve far more.

The spate of mergers, acquisitions, divestitures, diversifications and management shakeups across the country has created what some experts claim is a record number of companies seeking new identities.

As a result, a new breed of corporate consultants has evolved and flourished — the namers.

Scattered from New York to San Francisco, firms devoted to naming other companies — and often their products — are relying on everything from anthropologists to computers programmed in Greek and Latin.

But words don't come cheap. Prices start in the tens of thousands of dollars and can soar to $1 million if cumbersome legal research, logo design and other frills are tossed in. The process can take a few days or a few years.

According to a survey by the New York City corporate identity consultant Anspach, Grossman, Portugal Inc., 950 corporations changed their names in the first nine months of 1986.

"There's a greater awareness on the part of corporate America that the name is important," said Sharon Hollander, a market researcher who, along with industrial psychologist Dan Oromaner, founded The Name Works five years ago in a New York City suburb.

The Name Works favors a brainstorm approach for its 20 or so clients a year, which have included Burger King, American Express and Anheuser Busch.

For a starting fee of $20,000 plus expenses, the client can dispatch eight staffers to a two-day seminar with Hollander and Oromaner, who get the creative juices flowing through games designed to develop teamwork and stimulate the imagination.

"We tend to prefer and recommend real words because they have associations and are more memorable," Oromaner said.

Certain letters are thought to convey specific messages.

"The letter 'X' says high-tech," Hollander said. "It's kind of cold, very computerish ... a steely kind of sound. Personally, I recommend against it because it's not a warm, cozy kind of thing."

She takes an apple-pie comfort in the letters "S," "L" and "M."

Despite the success of IBM, GE and RCA, most corporate namers recommend against using initials.

"Initials are a passport to anonymity," said Clive Chajet, chairman and chief executive officer of Lippincott & Margulies.

Lippincott and Margulies' most-famous names include Amtrak and Duracell.

Lawmakers warn money to aid troubled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The savings and loan industry should not expect any quick infusion of funds for the beleaguered federal agency that insures savers' deposits, top congressional banking leaders are warning.

House Banking Chairman Fernand St Germain and Sen. Jake Garn, ranking Republican on the Senate Banking Committee, told S&L officials Monday that Congress is not likely to pass new legislation quickly when it convenes in January.

St Germain said the administration-

S&Ls may take time

backed proposal to pump $15 billion into the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. would have to go through the entire hearing and amendment process next year, even though both houses passed different versions of the measure in the waning hours of the last session.

State spending up $2.3 billion

AUSTIN (AP) — State government spending in the 1986 fiscal year was up 14.2 percent over the previous year as Texas spent $18.5 billion to carry out the functions of government, State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Monday.

Bullock said in his annual financial report increases in the payment of public debt and in highway spending "were responsible for 85 percent of the $2.3 billion increase in total state spending."

ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT BUFFET SPECIAL

 LUNCH BUFFET 7 DAYS A WEEK 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. Pizza Spaghetti Salad Bar $3.49 *Special Prices for Kids	 The best pizza in town. Honest! FREE DELIVERY 665-6566	 DINNER BUFFET Sun. - Thurs. 5:30 - 8:00 p.m. Pizza Spaghetti Lasagna Salad Bar $3.99 *Special Prices For Kids
---	---	--

ALCO
DISCOUNT STORE

ALCO CUSTOMERS:
The Pillow People shown on Page 7 of the ALCO Circular for this week were shipped late and to the wrong location by the manufacturer. They are not available at this time but rainchecks will be given. Please ask for one at the Service Desk. We regret any inconvenience caused you.
ALCO STORES, INC.

J/M Family Shoe Store
Children's Harvest Of Values

JJ Jumping-Jacks. 651 Pairs
Most feet are born perfect. They should stay that way.

Value

12⁹⁷

ENTIRE STOCK

TO

Keapa

29⁹⁷

Keeps

Selection

KangaROOS

Satisfaction

J/M Family Shoe Store

Hours 9-5:30 Daily

Your Choice

ONE PRICE $399 ANY STYLE

CONTEMPORARY, TRADITIONAL OR TRANSITIONAL

FREE DELIVERY

GREAT VALUE
FINEST QUALITY
FABULOUS SAVINGS
ACT NOW
LIMITED OFFER
REG. $599 to $649

Full body comfort comes packaged in prime contemporary style. With multi-tiered padded back, padded footrest, thickly cushioned seat and pillow-soft envelope arms.

SALE $399

Texas FURNITURE

DOWNTOWN PAMPA SINCE 1932
OPEN 9:00 TO 5:30
PHONE 665-1623

LAY-AWAY

Today's Crossword Puzzle

Release in Papers of Tuesday, Nov. 11, 1986

ACROSS

- 1 Footwear
- 6 Ere
- 12 Grows in Brooklyn
- 13 Carrier
- 14 Gaseous hydrocarbon
- 15 Pleasure trip
- 16 Spaceflight termination
- 18 Participle ending
- 19 Dry
- 20 Netherlands commune
- 28 Responsibility
- 29 102, Roman
- 30 Bases for debate
- 32 Happen to
- 35 Organ for hearing
- 36 Elliptical
- 37 For fear that
- 39 401, Roman
- 42 Defective
- 43 Mao
- 44 Leg bone
- 45 Airline information (abbr.)
- 47 Instant
- 50 Actress
- 53 Shields
- 54 Wipes out
- 56 More strained
- 57 Target seeker
- 58 Pronounces
- 59 Rains ice

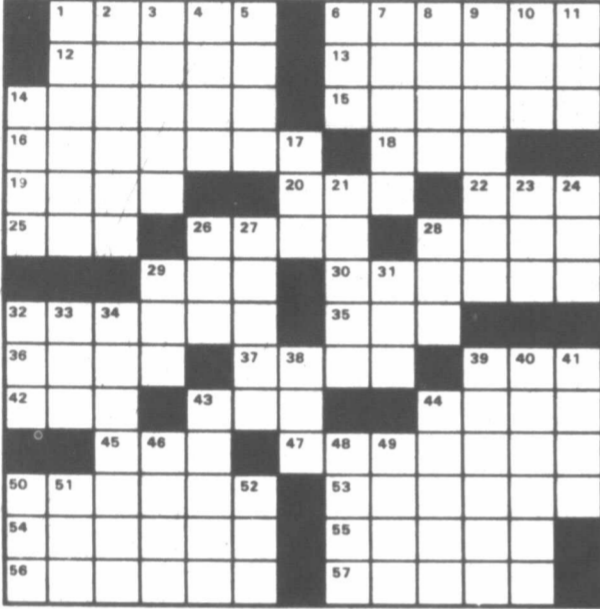

DOWN

- 5 Clairvoyant
- 6 English broadcasters
- 7 Mysterious
- 8 Woodland deity
- 9 Roots
- 10 Thing in law
- 11 Before
- 14 Scottish-Gaelic
- 17 Craving
- 21 Is excessively fond
- 23 Day of week (abbr.)
- 24 Curly letter
- 26 Type of fuel
- 27 Mountains
- 28 Over (poet.)
- 29 Tech
- 31 Bonnet, e.g.
- 32 Comedian Hope
- 33 Zsa Zsa's sister
- 34 Disappear gradually (2 wds.)
- 38 Wide shoe size
- 39 Gouge
- 40 Cafes
- 41 Draws
- 43 Captor
- 44 Hindu religious teacher
- 46 Carry
- 48 Slangy affirmative
- 49 Silkworm
- 50 Heat unit (abbr.)
- 51 Betrayer (sl.)
- 52 Vetch

Answer to Previous Puzzle

CAL SOCKS GAP
 ZOE ABBEY EOH
 ANO SISALRIO
 RENDS PLANT
 CAY CHI
 CAN BOOR SIZE
 EDE YORE POET
 NEVE HAWN TAA
 ONIT OLEO ALL
 SONAR LINKED
 CUE SONIC NNE
 ORA OVULE ETA
 PST NINES EEN

0037 (c) 1986 by NEA, Inc. 11

STEVE CANYON

By Milton Caniff

STRAIGHT WIRE
 Lieut. Col. Stevenson B. Cannon
 Redlands Air Force Base, California
 Your cousin POTEET CANYON, being sent to you today on Great Circle Airlines Flight # 414, since we are only living kin.
 Little DOGIE ORPHANAGE

THE WIZARD OF ID

By Brant Parker and Johnny Hart

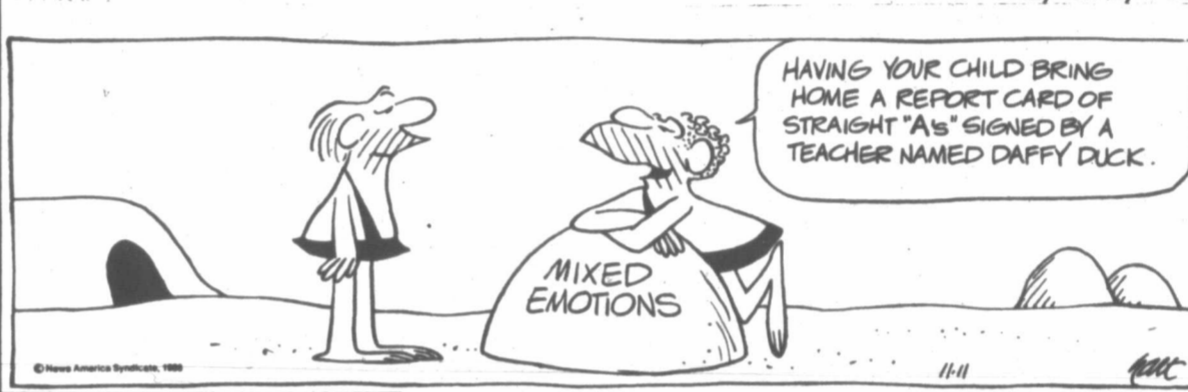

ECK & MEEK

By Howie Schneider

B.C.

By Johnny Hart

Astro-Graph

Nov. 12, 1986

You'll have greater opportunities in the year ahead to operate free from restraints. Things and conditions that tied you down previously will be eliminated. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do not be overly concerned about your financial involvements today. If you play everything according to Hoyle, you'll get what you deserve. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that will govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be more successful today if you use methods that have been tested and proven feasible, instead of experimenting with ideas fresh from the drawing board. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be successful with projects to which you give your full attention today. Tasks you merely try to fit in may not work out so well. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You have a good chance of gratifying your ambitious urges today, but be warned not to offend others in the process. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Don't get unduly upset with yourself if you make a few mistakes today. You'll still do more things right than wrong, and ultimately end up in the winner's circle. ARIES (March 21-April 19) What you are striving for today is reachable, provided you rely upon your own smarts and resourcefulness instead of someone else's. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In order to achieve a common objective today, let associates think your ideas are their own. Seek results, not pats on the back. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Socializing with friends will take the edge off your restlessness today, but don't neglect essential duties for a get-together. You'll have time to both work and play. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Hotshots who promise to do favors for you today cannot be counted upon. It will take dedication and hard work for you to advance your ambitions. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Treat serious matters with the respect they deserve today, and pleasurable pursuits as something fun. Don't try to mix one with the other. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make a concerted effort today to keep your material objectives foremost in your mind. If you are reward-conscious, it'll make you try harder. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually you are a very fair and sharing person. Don't let this quality desert you today. Treat those with whom you're involved as you'd have them treat you.

MARVIN

By Tom Armstrong

MARMADUKE

By Brad Anderson

KIT N' CARLYLE

By Larry Wright

ALLEY OOP

By Dave Grae

SNAFU™ by Bruce Beattie

THE FAMILY CIRCUS By Bill Keane

THE BORN LOSER

By Art Sanson

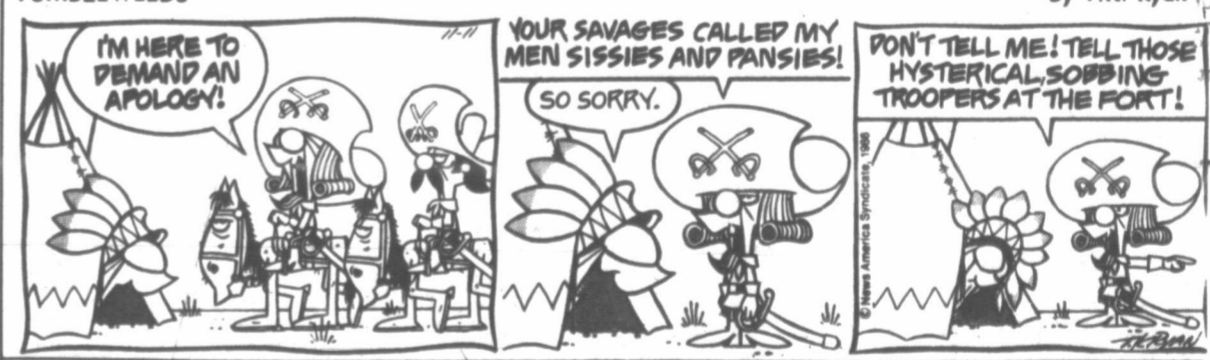

WINTHROP

By Dick Cavalli

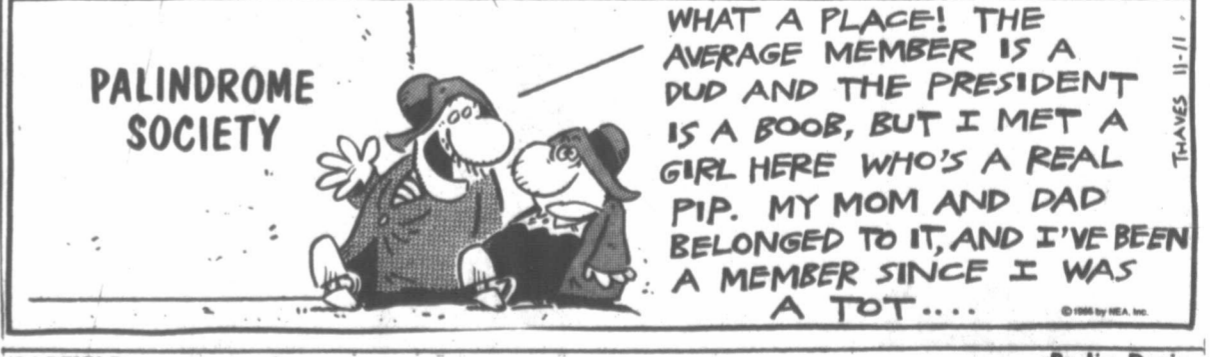

TUMBLEWEEDS

By T.K. Ryan

FRANK AND ERNEST

By Bob Thaves

GARFIELD

By Jim Davis

PEANUTS

By Charles M. Schultz

Lifestyles

Mail order furniture increases in popularity

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

The ads promise brand name furniture at big discounts. All you have to do is pick up the telephone, dial an 800 number and give the operator the style number of the furniture you want. Though there are no figures to prove it, authorities say that many thousands of Americans are taking those offers in the belief that they will save money. With so many satisfied customers, it must be a good idea, mustn't it? The answer, however, is not always. "I don't recommend it for all types of customer. If you need design service or fast delivery, it's not a good idea," says Edgar Broyhill, a furniture-by-mail merchant himself. Despite the caveats, buying furniture by mail has apparently caught the fancy of the public. Indications are that consumers can save at least 10 to 20 percent off rental prices. This is possible because mail order retailers have lower costs and can pass those savings on to their customers. They may, for example, have no store or a small store in a town with low overhead. They may do little advertising and they don't have to maintain large staffs or a warehouse crammed with expensive furniture, explains Nancy High, consumer affairs specialist for the American Furniture Manufacturers Association. As in other areas of life, she adds, there is a trade-off. What you give up includes: decorating service; a chance to see the furniture "in the flesh" before buying; a local dealer who will handle the headaches, making sure the furniture is delivered and placed where you want it, and who will be there if something goes wrong. Potential customers of long distance furniture retailers need to ask lots of questions before they send in their money, according to Miss High. She says it can be aggravating to deal at long distance with a product as cumbersome as furniture. So even though there is a certain cachet in buying your furniture from North Carolina (where most of the dealers are clustered), you could be better off buying from your local retailer. To be sure that furniture by mail is right for you, she suggests you ask the following questions before placing your order: — What happens if the furniture arrives damaged? — Is delivery included in the price? (It is usually not included and adds from 4 to 10 percent to the cost.) — What type of carrier is used? Does the carrier deliver the furniture to the home or curb? Is it placed where it will be used and unpacked? — How long a wait is there? If the date is not met, can the order be canceled with full refund? — How can a sample be seen, especially if there is a choice of fabric or finish? — How much of a deposit is required and when does the balance have to be paid? — If service should be needed later on, is any available? Broyhill answered these questions by noting his firm will try to have damaged pieces repaired in the customer's home. "If that is not possible, we pick the piece up and take it to our service department in Clemmons (N.C.) for repair or we order a substitute from the manufacturer." Broyhill added that he uses independent moving van lines to deliver furniture, which arrives blanket wrapped and is placed where the customer wants it. Delivery charges vary depend-

Despite the problems, furniture by mail has caught the public's fancy.

For Genesis House

(Staff photo by Dee Dee Laramore)

Lois Still, right, director of Genesis House for Boys and Girls, accepts a $100 check from Bethel Robinson, district treasurer for Top O' Texas Cattlewomen. The donation is to be used towards buying beef for the Genesis House residents. Top O' Texas Cattlewomen is an organization of women directly involved in the cattle business with a primary goal of promoting beef and beef products.

Craftsmen sought for Trades Fair '86

PANHANDLE — Panhandle Trades Fair '86 is to kick off National Arts Week, Nov. 16-22, at the Square House Museum. Everyone in Carson and Armstrong counties are eligible to submit their handwork for showing in the museum gallery Nov. 19 through Dec. 5. Texas history themes are in order in celebration of the Texas Sesquicentennial, but are not essential. Sesquicentennial ribbons will be awarded for first, second, third and honorable mention in several categories.

All types of handwork is needed including quilts, needlework, lace work, painting, photography, sculpture, woodwork, prints, drawings, ceramics, literature, poetry, and cartoons. Gallery space will be assigned on a priority basis. All people having craft booths at the Trades Fair will be eligible to display selected items. If they sell the item at the Fair, they may ask for permission to hold a selected article for showing during National Arts Week. Everyone in Carson and Armstrong counties may bring their creations by the museum on Nov. 18 for selection on a space available basis. For more information about Trade Fair '86, contact Don Markham at the Carson County Square House Museum, (806) 537-3118.

Talent show nets $1,200 for Cystic Fibrosis fund

CLARENDON — Two Pampans were among contestants from nine Panhandle cities performing at the seventh annual Tumbleweed Talent Show, Oct. 25, at Clarendon College campus. More than $1,200 was raised in this year's event with all proceeds going toward the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and student scholarships for deserving students from the West Texas Panhandle area who are attending Clarendon College. The 500 people attending were entertained by musical numbers, including dancing, singing, twirling, piano solos and band numbers. Dustie Michelle Quisenberry of Pampa performed a pompon routine to Boogie Woogie Jitterbug and Tandi Morton also of Pampa sang and danced to Pink Shoe Laces. First, second and third place awards were given to the winners in three different age divisions from five years old through adult. Special Judges Awards were also given in each category. Next year's event is set for Oct. 17. Information on entering or attending the performance may be obtained by writing Tumbleweed Talents, Clarendon College, Box 968, Clarendon, 79226.

DUSTIE QUISENBERRY

TANDI MORTON

ENMU alumni Weekend set Nov. 14-15

PORTALES, N.M. — An Eastern New Mexico University Alumni Weekend has been scheduled for Nov. 14-15 with activities in Amarillo and Canyon. The ENMU Alumni Association has scheduled a Friday social and reception beginning at 6 p.m. at the Fifth Season Inn located at 6801 I-40 West in Amarillo. The social is open to all alumni and friends of ENMU. Event coordinators include Amarillo ENMU alumni Kathleen Best and Jon Krebs. University representatives are to be President and Mrs. Robert Matheny; B.B.

Lees, athletic director; Dallan Sanders, campus union and housing director; and Winston Cox, alumni and information director. The ENMU-West Texas State University football game begins at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Canyon. ENMU alumni may purchase tickets on the east side of the stadium for the designated ENMU seating area. A post-game ENMU Texas Alumni Early Chili Supper will be after the game. Alumni can obtain information about the supper at the Friday social or by calling (505) 562-2134.

Lust in the heart not the same as lust in action

DEAR ABBY: "Sincerely in Christ in Ohio" is the epitome of naivete if he really believes that the girl who danced topless is guilty of instilling lust in men. Men are born that way; it is undisciplined submission to lust that causes problems. Men go to see girls dance topless because they are already filled with lust. If they didn't go there, they would probably go elsewhere and do worse. "Sincerely" drove for the green, but he landed on the wrong fairway. BEEN THERE IN OXFORD, MASS.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR BEEN THERE: Been where? On the wrong fairway? Or where men go to lust after girls who dance topless? Lust is a natural urge found in women as well as men. Without it, we could not perpetuate the human race. You hit the bull's-eye. It's "undisciplined submission" to lust that creates problems. The Good Book tells us to hate the sin, but love the sinner (but not literally). DEAR ABBY: A few years ago I could have written the letter from "Massachusetts Mom," whose handsome, popular teen-age son had girls calling him at all hours of the night. Only I had two such sons. "Mom" said her son had to catch the 6:45 school bus every morning, so he tried to get to bed by 9:30 p.m.

on school nights but girls would call him at 10:30 p.m. and 11:00, disturbing the entire household. I'm surprised she had to write to you for help. The solution is simple. Here's how I solved it: I would answer the phone personally after 9 p.m., and if it was for one of the boys, I'd politely say, "He has gone to bed and cannot take any calls after 9 p.m., but if you'll give me your name and phone number I will ask him to call you tomorrow."

It didn't take very long for them to catch on. PENNSYLVANIA MOM DEAR MOM: Many wrote to say that they had solved the problem in that manner. One young man said his mother refused to call him to the phone after 9:30 p.m., but she'd call his teen-age sister to the phone regardless of the hour — if a boy was calling!

Fashion Boots by Joyce

Announce yourself with joyce.

Convertible Boots take a fast turnover to meet many moods of fashion

High and Mid Heels Sizes 4-10, N., M. $72
$100 Value

High heel in black and taupe.
Mid heels in black, taupe, navy blue, winter white.

Hub's Booterie
Latest in Women's Shoe Fashions

119 W. Kingsmill 669-9291

"The Catfish Junction"

Where Fish Is Not A Sideline—We Specialize In Catfish And Shrimp
732 E. Frederic Pampa 669-7521

Carl and Jean Finley, Owners, cordially welcome you to our
NEW RESTAURANT!

Try Our Fresh Water, Farm Raised Delicious CATFISH STRIPS AND FILETS...

Prepared With Our Own Special Seasonings And Fried To A Rich Golden Brown.

Our Portions Are Large And Served With Special Care.

We Also Have
●Hamburgers ●Steaks
●Southern Fried Chicken
●Steak Fingers
●Home Cooked Chicken Fried Steak
●Hot and Cold Sandwiches
●And Many Other Favorites
—All Prepared to Perfection

- Breakfast Served 7-11 a.m.
- Children's Menu
- Senior Citizens' Menu
- Take Out Orders Available

Different Lunch Specials Tuesday through Friday

HOURS
7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday-Sunday

WHEN YOU'VE TRIED THE REST—COME TO THE BEST!

Sports Scene

Browns down Miami to stay atop AFL Central

By CHUCK MELVIN
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns Coach Marty Schottenheimer refused to be drawn into a debate about young quarterbacks.

"I'm pleased to have the quarterback we have," Schottenheimer said Monday night after 22-year-old Bernie Kosar passed for a career-best 401 yards to lead the Browns past 25-year-old Dan Marino and the Miami Dolphins 26-16.

"Without any question, Bernie had an outstanding performance," Schottenheimer said. "He came off some primary reads to hit receivers off the backside reads, because of things the defense did."

Kosar completed 32 of 50 passes without an interception and without a touchdown pass, although three Cleveland receivers dropped potential scoring passes in the end zone.

The more celebrated Marino finished with 22 completions in 39 attempts for 295 yards and two touchdowns, with one interception.

Kosar was rated fourth in the AFC and Marino was fifth entering the game.

So which quarterback is more valuable?

"I won't answer that," Schottenheimer said. Harry Holt and Curtis Dickey ran for touchdowns and Matt Bahr kicked four short field goals for the Browns, 7-3.

Kosar's 401 yards matched Otto Graham's total, achieved in 1952, for the second-best passing game in Cleveland history. Brian Sipe set the club record with 444 yards against the Baltimore Colts in 1981. Kosar's previous high, 293 yards, came against the Cincinnati Bengals in September.

The Browns dominated the game statistically, compiling 558 yards of total offense to 353 for Miami, 4-6. But Cleveland's inability to finish off its drives kept the game close until well into the second half.

The Browns led 16-10 at halftime after Bahr kicked field goals of 32, 19 and 18 yards and Holt, a tight end, ran 16 yards on an end-around for a touchdown.

Cleveland receivers Webster Slaughter, Ozzie Newsome and Brian Brennan each missed passes in the end zone to force the Browns to settle for Bahr's field goals.

"The balls were a little slick," Kosar said charitably. "I think both teams had trouble holding onto the ball early."

Marino threw a 24-yard scoring pass to Mark Duper and Fuad Reveiz kicked a 20-yard field goal for the Dolphins in the first half.

A Miami turnover helped Cleveland open up a 23-10 lead 10 minutes into the third quarter. Miami's Ron Davenport fumbled after catching a pass at the Miami 29-yard line, and Dickey ran 13 yards for a touchdown four plays later.

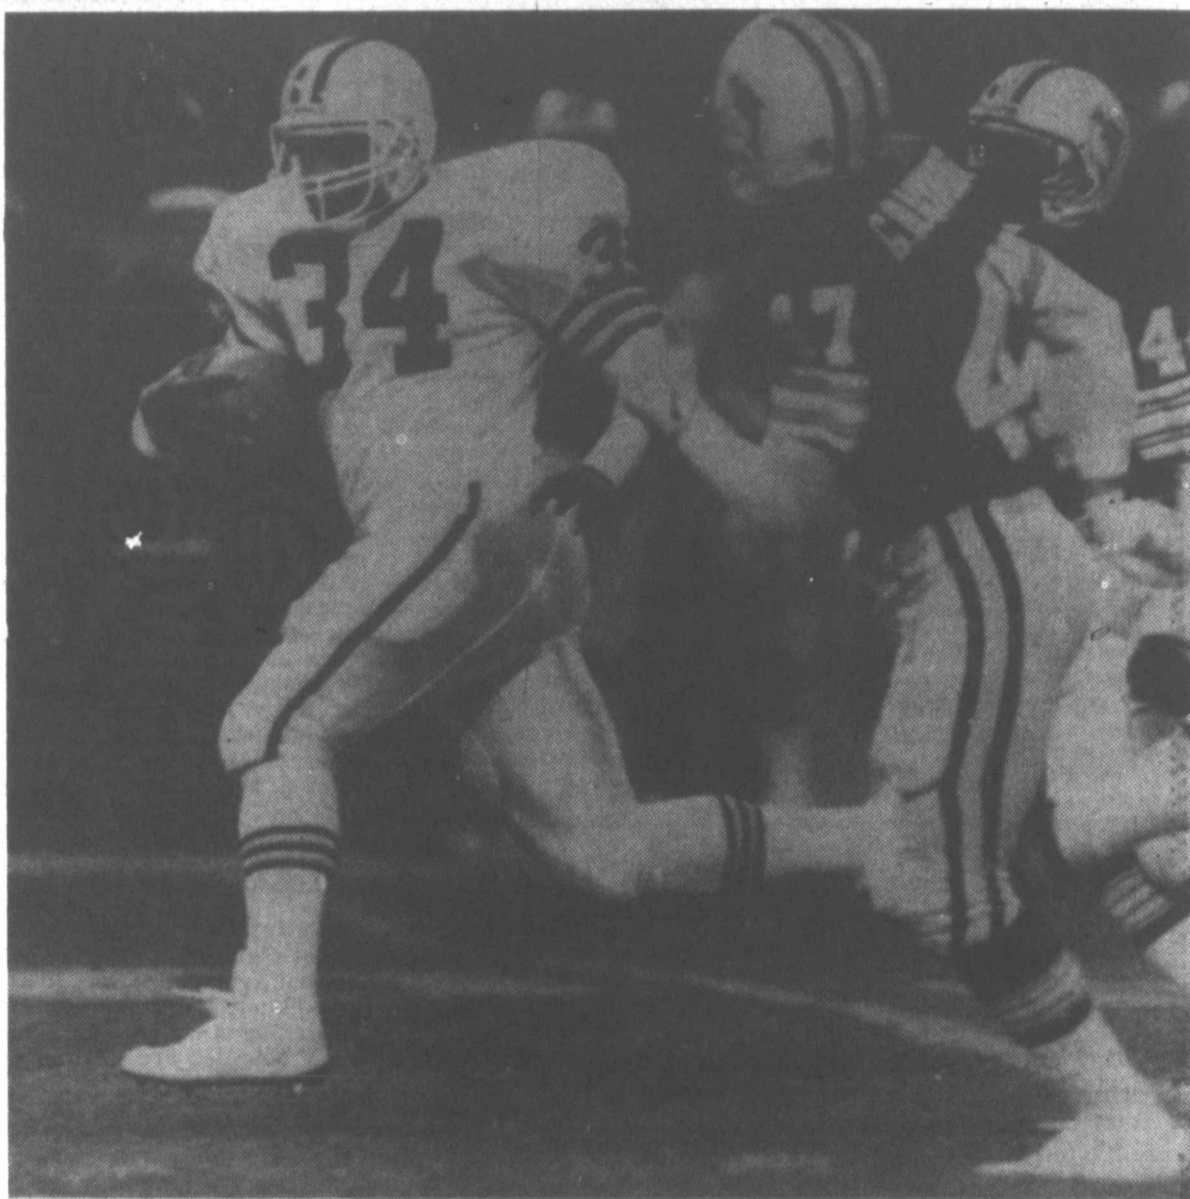

Dickey finished with 92 yards on 15 carries.

"We showed a lot of offensive weapons, and that keeps the defense honest," Kosar said. Bahr added a 21-yard field goal — after an apparent 5-yard touchdown pass to Kevin Mack was nullified because Kosar was ruled to have been in the grasp of a defender — with 10 minutes to play.

The Dolphins, who had the second-ranked offense in the NFL behind Dallas entering the game, were held scoreless in the second half until Marino hit Mark Clayton with a 22-yard touchdown pass on the last play of the game.

"It was a big game for us if we were going to get back in the playoff race," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "We needed to come out of Cleveland at 5-5, but now at 4-6, we're in tough shape."

Cleveland, with six victories in its last seven games, leads the Bengals by one game in the AFC Central Division.

Browns' back Kevin Mack scampers for a long gain. (AP Laserphoto)

Yeoman announces retirement after 1986 football season

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Yeoman, who invented the veer offense and used it to build powerhouse offenses at the University of Houston, says he is stepping down as coach after 25 years at the SWC school.

Yeoman, 58, assured of his third losing record in four seasons, said Monday night he would step down as coach at the end of this season.

Yeoman told KPRC-TV sportscaster Craig Roberts, who hosts Yeoman's weekly television show, that he would remain at Houston as a special assistant to the chancellor working in fund raising and public relations.

Houston already has a nationwide search under way for an athletic director and recently hired Pat Foster as basketball coach to replace retired Guy Lewis.

Neither Yeoman nor school officials could not be reached by The Associated Press Monday night for comment.

Yeoman told Roberts that recent criticism of the football program had nothing to do with his decision.

"A lot of people will think that's the reason but it's not," Yeoman said. "I've got a pretty crusty old hide."

Yeoman, who will take a 160-106-8 record into Houston's next game against Texas Tech. The Cougars are 1-8 this season, assuring Yeoman of his second consecutive losing season. The team won the conference title in 1984.

Yeoman will be stepping aside with the entire Houston athletic program surrounded by controversy.

The school's athletic program was $3 million in debt before this season and attendance has continued to dwindle.

College football poll Penn State drops; Michigan moves up

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

Prospects of a shootout between the No. 1 and No. 2 college football teams dimmed somewhat today when Penn State slipped from second place to third in The Associated Press poll.

Miami held onto the top spot following a 37-10 victory over Pitt. But Penn State's 17-15 squeaker over Maryland — a game in which the losers missed a two-point conversion with 14 seconds left that would have tied the score — cost the Nittany Lions second place and enabled Michigan, a 31-7 victor over Purdue, to move up from third. All three teams have 9-0 records.

The change in the rankings did not deter efforts by the Fiesta, Citrus and Gator Bowls to arrange a national championship showdown between Miami and Penn State.

When advised of the new rankings, Chuck Rohe, executive director of the Citrus Bowl in Orlando, Fla., said, "It doesn't surprise me, I guess, with the trouble they (Penn State) had this week. But it still doesn't mean that the Penn State-Miami winner won't be the national champion."

"It doesn't really affect the Penn State-Miami dream game, and if Penn State beats Notre Dame (on Saturday) I think they could very well jump back to No. 2. It doesn't change the possibility of an unbeaten-untied Miami team meeting an unbeaten-untied Penn State team."

Miami received 57 of 60 first-place votes and 1,195 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. The Hurricanes have been No. 1 for seven consecutive weeks since beating then-No. 1 Oklahoma on Sept. 27.

Michigan, No. 3 the past two weeks, received one first-place vote and 1,102 points while Penn State had one first-place ballot and 1,075 points.

Don Meyers, chairman of the Fiesta Bowl's selection committee, said the Tempe, Ariz., bowl still wants to match Miami and Penn State.

"We still think it would be a national championship game," he said.

Meyers added that both schools have indicated they might play in the Fiesta Bowl even if Penn State loses to Notre Dame.

John Bell, president and interim executive director of the Gator Bowl, said the change in rankings "doesn't make any difference as long as they (Penn State) are ranked high and the possibility of playing the No. 1 team is still alive."

Elsewhere, Alabama's 14-10 loss to LSU prevented the Crimson Tide from clinching at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference title and dropped them from sixth place to 11th, while fellow SEC member Mississippi made the Top Twenty for the first time in 10 years.

Nebraska climbed from seventh place to sixth with 878 points by defeating Iowa State 35-14, while idle Texas A&M jumped from eighth to seventh with 830 points and Auburn rose from ninth to eighth with 782 points by crushing Cincinnati 52-7.

Ohio State, No. 9 in the preseason poll, finally made it back to the Top Ten after an eight-week absence, including six polls in which the Buckeyes didn't even make the Top Twenty after an 0-2 start. Ohio State, a 31-9 victor over Northwestern, has won eight games in a row and received 711 points in jumping from 11th place to ninth.

Washington rounds out the Top Ten. The Huskies, No. 12 last week, defeated Oregon State 28-12 and received 606 points.

Holmes leaves boxing on down note

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Boxing Writer

Angelo Dundee said it all about Larry Holmes in five words: "He worked at his trade."

It took Holmes six years to reach the top, but once he got there he remained the premier heavyweight fighter in the world for seven years.

"He fought every tough guy on the way up," recalled Dundee. And Holmes went to school in countless rounds as a sparring partner to Muhammad Ali, Joe Frazier and Earnie Shavers.

Now, after 14 years in the ring, Holmes, at age 37, says he is finished.

Like many fighters before him and like many to come, Holmes leaves boxing on a down note — the only two losses of his 50-bout career, both to Michael Spinks, and some statements he now regrets.

"He was the first guy to get hit with the cloak of Ali," Dundee said of the near-impossible task of following such a champion. "He was snake-bit. He tried to be like Ali and he couldn't be. He couldn't handle the stuff outside the ring."

Ali might have gotten away with saying, "Rocky Marciano couldn't carry my jockstrap." But when Holmes said it in the wake of his International Boxing Federation title loss to Michael Spinks, it touched off much protest.

The outrageous was expected of Ali. When Holmes let his fists do the talking, they told a story of success equaled by few heavyweights.

"He was always a steady fighter," Dundee, the trainer who was key member of the Ali circus, said. Added Eddie Futch, who trained Holmes for several fights, "He was a good ring general and had great mobility."

Dundee and Futch agree on something else. "He had a left hand (jab) second to none," Dundee said. "It was a steady left hand. He kept you off-balance with it."

"He had one of the great left jabs the heavyweight division has ever seen," Futch said. "Ali's jab was quicker, but it was more of a flick. He also had a fast, hard right hand and a left hook," Futch said. "He didn't use the hook very much, but when he did he was effective."

With the skills and the conditioning he honed and hardened in long hours in the gym and in lonely miles jogging on roads, Holmes possessed a granite chin, great recuperative powers and heart.

With 45 seconds left in the seventh round of a World Boxing Council title defense against Shavers, who was one of the hardest hitting heavyweights in history, Holmes was caught with a right to the jaw. He crashed to the canvas as though he had dropped from the roof, but he got up and staggered around the ring until the bell rang. Holmes stopped Shavers in 11th round.

"He was a great fighter," Shavers said. "He and Muhammad Ali are the only two guys I know of who could have taken my shots and survived."

Fighting was his profession. He worked at it and was proud of it. It should be proud of Larry Holmes.

Layne remains in stable condition

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Hall of Fame quarterback Bobby Layne remained in stable condition at a hospital here, a spokeswoman said.

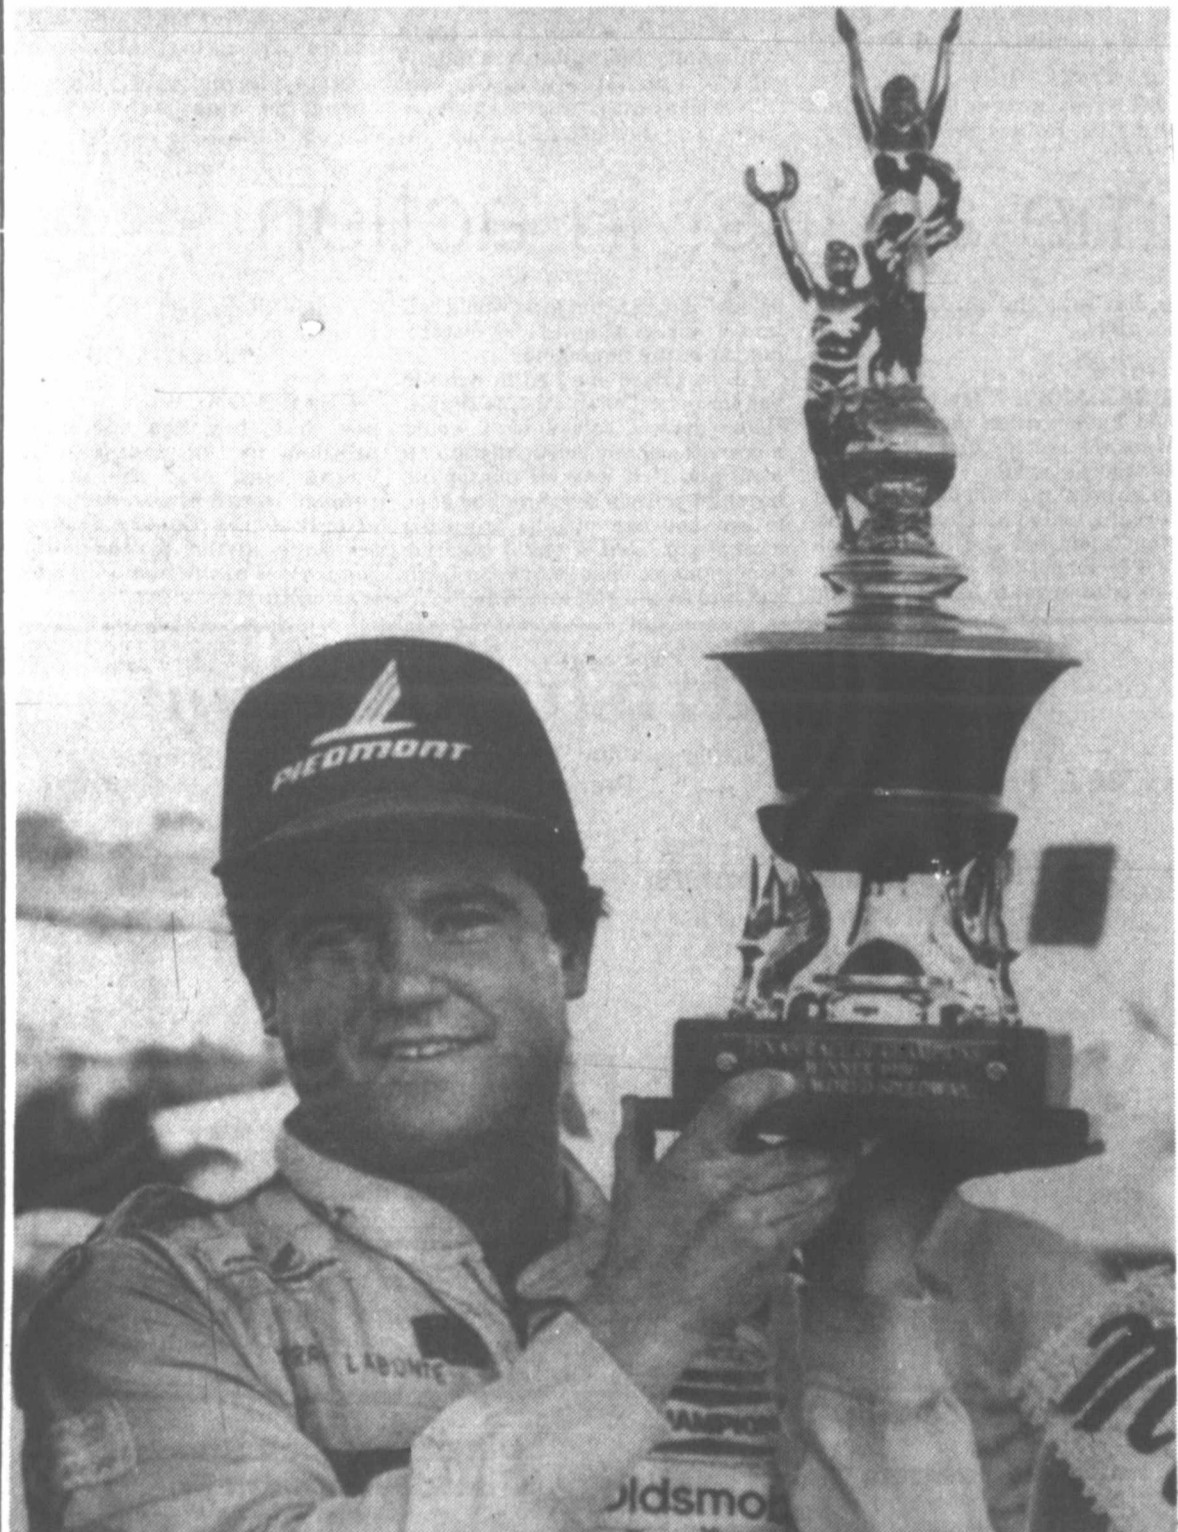

Layne, who quarterbacked the Detroit Lions to three NFL titles during the 1950s, was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital late Saturday after attending an annual dinner of former Detroit players and club officials.

Layne, 59, was listed as stable for a second day

Monday, spokeswoman Madge Lawson said. Nick Kerbawy, commissioner of the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame and the Lions' general manager from 1948-58, said Layne underwent tests Monday related to a recurrent liver ailment.

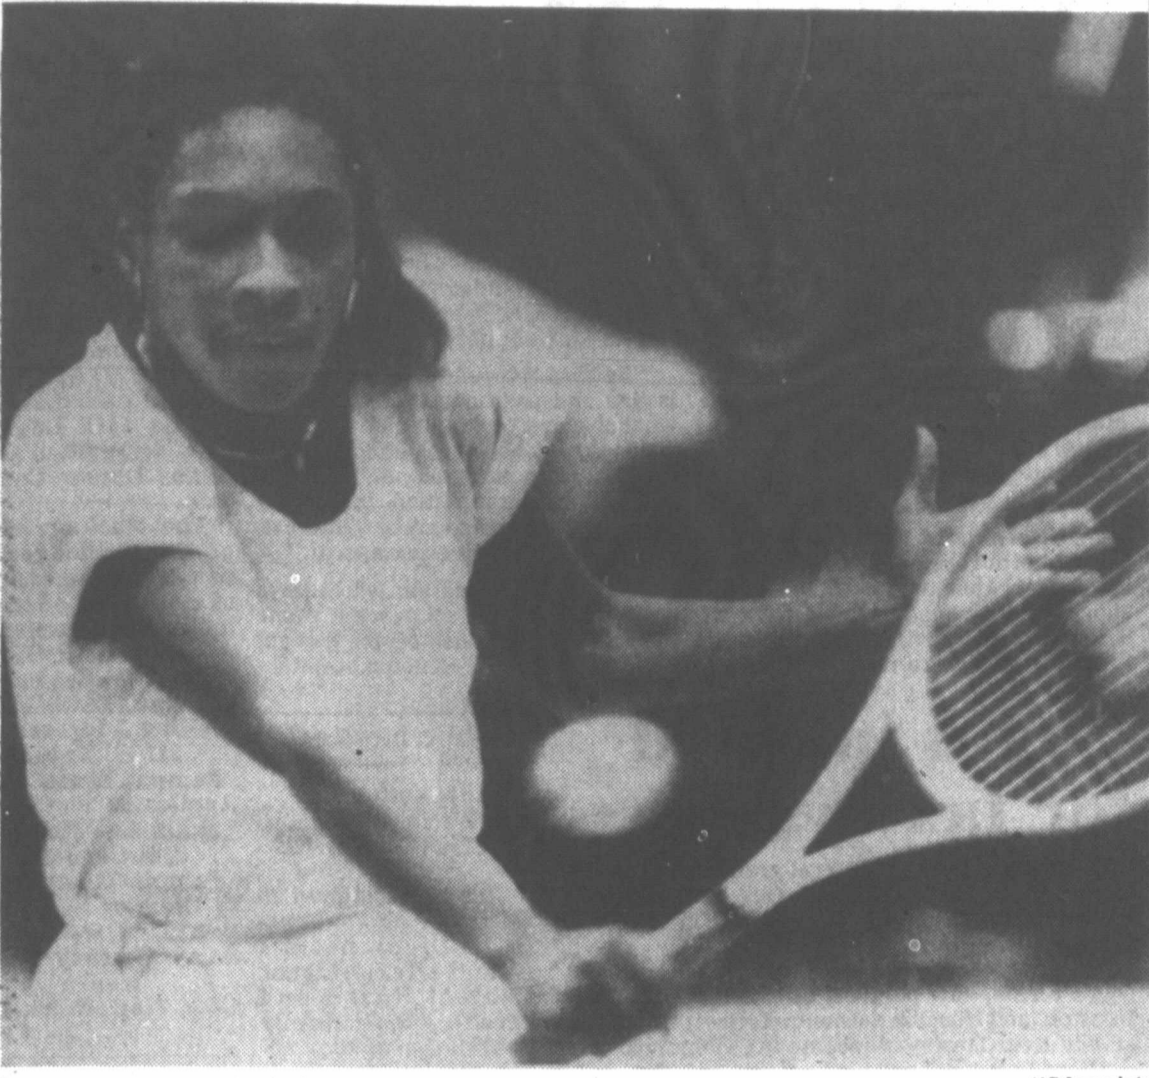

"He went through a similar episode in Hawaii four months ago," Kerbawy said. "Bobby's a sick man; I wouldn't want to minimize the seriousness of his problem."

Happy Winner

Terry Labonte, Corpus Christi, holds up the championship trophy from the 10th annual Texas Race of Champions last weekend. Labonte finished first in the 32-car field to take his third TROC win.

Taking aim

Zina Garrison of Houston returns a shot during her match with Pam Casale in Monday's opening round of the Virginia Slims Tournament. Garrison won 6-4, 6-1.

Cowboys have 'giveaway blues'

IRVING (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys aren't dead yet in the NFC East but they need to cure their giveaway spirit quickly.

"Our backs aren't up to the wall — they are against it," said running back Tony Dorsett. "We aren't Santa Claus but the last two weeks we've been like 45 of his helpers."

The Cowboys had two touchdowns called back on penalties and lost 17-13 to the Los Angeles Raiders on Sunday as quarterback Steve Pelluer suffered five interceptions. The week before they lost 17-14 to the New York Giants.

"We've given away three of our four losses this year," said strong safety Bill Bates. "They are calling us 'giveaway Cowboys.'"

Pelluer has discovered the downside of life as an NFL starting quarterback.

Pelluer was sacked six times and had a touchdown run called back on a holding penalty in the to the Los Angeles Raiders.

"Steve has had positive days and now he's seen a negative day," said Dallas' offensive coordinator Paul Hackett. "In both cases you have about 24 hours to forget it and get back to work."

Pelluer was starting his fourth NFL game because of Danny White's long list of injuries including a broken wrist.

"It just seemed like my head wasn't working as smart as my heart was," Pelluer said. "I don't think I made as many mistakes as I did poor decisions. I kind of got away from my reads of the defense."

Pelluer said he hoped he learned something.

"With the interceptions and all, I think that it really taught me to have a lot of mental toughness," Pelluer said. "I really felt like I needed to keep my poise as the game wore on. I'm sure I'll lose some confidence, but I know I'm capable of playing in this league and capable of taking this team to the playoffs."

Hackett said it's important that Pelluer responds favorably when the Cowboys travel to San Diego on Sunday to meet the Chargers.

"We'll find out about him," Hackett said. "What happens with a young guy who has had success is that he tries to make all the plays himself. It's just a crying shame that his great run (25 yards) for a touchdown was called back. He had some bad luck."

Oilers take day off after victory

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston Oilers still have mistakes to correct but Coach Jerry Glanville isn't worrying about them.

The Oilers took today off following Sunday's 32-29 victory over Cincinnati that ended an eight-game losing streak.

"We had some bad calls and foolish penalties but they don't matter," Glanville said Monday. "In Cincinnati today, they are all talking about their mistakes like we have been for the past eight weeks."

The Oilers, 2-8, had spent a tense week of practice, criticized by the media.

"We're stronger than what anybody can throw at us," Glanville said. "I don't wake up looking for negatives every day. I feel sorry for people who do."

Glanville had a mid-week meeting with quarterback Warren Moon, who criticized the team's conservative offense following a loss to the Miami Dolphins two weeks ago.

"He told me some of his reasons for doing some of the things he did in Miami and he made some valid points," Moon said.

With the losing streak and several locker room exchanges with the media, the Oilers were charged up for Sunday's game, Glanville said.

"It was obvious from the opening kickoff that we were trying to make someone pay for a hanging," Glanville said. "There was electricity on the sidelines that we all felt from the opening kickoff."

The Oilers sprinted to a 26-0 lead and then had to hold on in the closing minutes.

The Oilers wanted to make the Bengals pay for a 31-28 victory Oct. 19 in Cincinnati when James Brooks scored the winning touchdown with 43 seconds left in the game.

"Mentally, we had a tightly wound football team," Glanville said. "The hitting on the opening kickoff was the hardest I've seen in three years here."

"Now we can go on and make corrections and get better."

The Oilers played risky defense against the Bengals, Glanville said.

"It was very risky what we did," Glanville said. "I'm sure they (Cincinnati) are looking at film today and saying we were crazy."

Glanville said the Oiler strategy left the defense vulnerable to trap plays up the middle.

The Oilers were able to get off to a fast start because of improved pass protection for Moon, who completed 25 of 44 passes for 310 yards and was sacked only one time.

"We'd like to play like that every game, to have protection like that and no throw any interceptions," Glanville said. "But we have to get better."

The Oilers also avoided the early mistakes that have put them behind early in previous games.

Glanville also gave the Oiler fans an assist for the victory.

The Bengals trailed 29-28 with 4:24 left in the game when Cincinnati

quarterback Boomer Esiason was thrown for a no-gain on fourth down on a bobbled play.

Cincinnati Coach Sam Wyche said the crowd noise caused the ball to be snapped one count early.

"I don't know how many fans were there but the right ones were there," Glanville said. "Our fans took them out of it at fourth and one."

The Oilers, 2-8, play at Pittsburgh Sunday.

Longhorns have a different look each week, Akers says

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas coach Fred Akers says he's not sure what the real Longhorn football team looks like.

Asked about his team Monday, Akers said, "It's never the same team. It's never the same team physically, and it doesn't seem to be the same team on the scoreboard each week either. We've had several different teams out there this year."

In recent weeks, Texas has defeated Southern Methodist 27-24, lost to Texas Tech 23-21, then rebounded to whip Houston 30-10 in what Akers called the Longhorns' best offensive game of 1986.

Texas had 538 yards total offense against Houston on Saturday, and Akers told his weekly news conference, "It was our best offensive performance — in terms of big plays and points, yards, everything else — for this season. I think the difference was we just came up with so many big plays."

Injuries, however, continued to slice away at the Texas squad as defensive tackle Terry Steelhammer was lost for the season with a hurt knee and backup center Alan Champagne suffered a severe ankle sprain.

Of the Texas players who started in the season opener against Stanford, three are out for the season with injuries and seven others have missed one or more games. Of those who became starters during the season, two have been lost for the season and five have missed at least one game.

"We're getting critical in that offensive line area," Akers said.

It now appears that walk-on Pat McFarlin might start at center against Texas Christian this Saturday. Walk-on Tal Elliott already has taken over as the deep snapper from Steelhammer, and three other walk-ons are either on the second team or special teams, Akers said.

Levy instills winning attitude

By JOHN F. BONFATTI
AP Sports Writer

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Harvard-man Marv Levy has brought the wisdom of higher education to a confusing state of affairs.

The contrast between the often volatile Hank Bullough and the generally serene Levy may have helped him become the only coach in the 27-year history of the Buffalo Bills to win his first game.

Levy, a Phi Beta Kappa, had relatively little input into the game plan that resulted in a 16-12 Buffalo victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday. But he seemed to instill a new attitude and quiet confidence.

"It's been a long time since I've seen fire in the boys' eyes in the huddle," veteran nose tackle Fred Smerlas said. "Marv had a lot to do with it. He patted us on the back. He treated us like gentlemen. It's a heck of a change."

Bullough, dismissed Nov. 3 after a loss to Tampa Bay, coordinated some top NFL defenses before coming to the Bills.

But under Bullough, the Bills defense seldom seemed able to stop late drives. Against the Steelers, however, the defense held as cornerback Rodney Bellinger intercepted a Mark Malone pass at the 1-yard line with 12 seconds remaining.

While some players went out of their way to avoid blaming the team's 2-7 start on Bullough's methods, more than a few Bills said the team was more relaxed under the low-key Levy.

"The preparation was very relaxed and it wasn't tight," said Bellinger, who, with Smerlas, was a key defender in the Bills' Sunday victory. "We didn't feel that if we made a mistake, we weren't going to get a second chance."

Several players expressed relief when Levy ended the long practice and meeting schedule instituted by Bullough.

"Everybody gets to relax a little more," said Jim Kelly, the quarterback signed to a five-year, $8 million contract in August to help the Bills rebound from consecutive 2-14 seasons. "There aren't meetings eight or nine hours a day."

Added Smerlas: "The extra hours of practice really fatigue you. A lot of guys feel they had better legs than they've had in a long time."

1-4A standings

District 1-4A Standings
(Overall record in brackets)

x-Lubbock Estacado 6-0-1 (8-0-1); Hereford 6-1 (8-1); Borger 5-2 (6-3); Canyon 5-2 (7-2); Levelland 4-3-1 (6-3-1); Dumas 2-5 (3-6); Lubbock Dunbar 2-5 (3-6); Frenship 1-6 (2-7); Pampa 0-7 (0-9).

x-closed playoff berth

Last Week's Results
Lubbock Estacado 27, Borger 24; Canyon 34, Pampa 6; Dumas 21, Frenship 7; Levelland 28, Lubbock Dunbar 0; Hereford, open.

This Week's Games
Borger at Hereford; Frenship at Canyon; Lubbock Dunbar at Dumas; Pampa at Lubbock Estacado; Levelland, open.

Points Scored
Lubbock Estacado 336; Hereford 237; Borger 206; Levelland 190; Canyon 189; Frenship 121; Dumas 102; Pampa 100; Lubbock Dunbar 93.

UT inks McTavish

AUSTIN (AP)—Steve McTavish, a 6-foot-7 guard-forward from Minnesota, says he will accept a scholarship to play basketball at the University of Texas next season.

McTavish said Monday he had also considered Southern California, Northwestern, Stanford and Wisconsin before picking UT.

NFL standings

By The Associated Press

AMERICAN CONFERENCE
W.	L.	T.	Pct.
N.Y. Jets	9	1	0	.900
New England	7	3	0	.700
Dallas	4	6	0	.400
Buffalo	3	7	0	.300
Indianapolis	0	10	0	.000

NATIONAL CONFERENCE
W.	L.	T.	Pct.
N.Y. Giants	8	3	0	.800
Washington	5	4	0	.556
Dallas	5	4	0	.556
Philadelphia	3	7	0	.300
St. Louis	3	8	0	.263

Monday's Game
W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Cleveland	7	3	0	.700
Cincinnati	6	4	0	.600
Pittsburgh	3	7	0	.300
Houston	2	8	0	.200

Sunday, Nov. 16
W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Chicago at Atlanta	7	3	0	.700
Detroit at Philadelphia	6	4	0	.600
Houston at Pittsburgh	5	4	0	.556
Miami at Buffalo	4	5	1	.455
New York Giants at Minnesota	3	7	0	.300
New Orleans at St. Louis	3	7	0	.300
Baltimore at Cincinnati	2	8	0	.200
Tampa Bay vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee	2	8	0	.200

Monday, Nov. 17
W.	L.	T.	Pct.
New England at Los Angeles Rams	6	3	0	.667
Kansas City at Denver	5	4	0	.556
Indianapolis at New York Jets	3	7	0	.300
Dallas at San Diego	3	7	0	.300
Cleveland at Los Angeles Raiders	2	8	0	.200

TONIGHT!

THE SONS OF KATIE ELDER

WITH JOHN WAYNE

7:30pm

LATE NIGHT'S EARLY ALTERNATIVE.

THE LATE SHOW

STARRING

Joan Rivers

MORE THAN JUST TALK

TONIGHT'S GUESTS:

Tom Jones

SCHEDULED TO APPEAR

NOW ON CABLE CHANNEL 9

TV 14

KCIT

WEEKNIGHTS

10:00PM

Odds & Ends

SALE

Prices Good Monday-Saturday
Nov. 10-15, 1986

AMANA REFRIGERATOR

Model Tm16SPG
Reg. $649 with trade
Sale Price $545
With Trade

15 Cu. Ft. FREEZER

Amana
Model C15SPBW
Reg. $450 with trade
Sale Price $375
With Trade

Amana MICROWAVE Model RRL-50 Reg. $350 Sale Price $225	Amana DISHWASHER Model DU5000 Reg. $499 Sale Price $399
--	---

AMANA WASHER & DRYER

Washer Model TAA300L
Dryer Model TEA300L
Reg. $948
Sale Price $748

KITCHEN AID DISHWASHER

KDC-21A
Reg. $549
Sale Price $489

Kitchen Aid COMPACTORS KCC150 15" Wide Reg. $449 Sale Price $349	Panasonic Upright VACUUM CLEANERS Model MC-5110 Reg. $119 Sale Price $79
KCS200 18" Wide Reg. $549 Sale Price $459	Model MC-5115 Reg. $119 Sale Price $99

CALORIC RANGES

30" Gas RLD312 Almond Reg. $399 W.T. Sale Price $299 With Trade	30" Gas RLD340 Almond White Reg. $489 W.T. Sale Price $379 With Trade
RMA395 30" Gas Double Oven Continuous Clean Reg. $699 W.T. Sale Price $579 With Trade	ESD345 30" Electric Harvest Gold Self Clean Oven Reg. $649 W.T. Sale Price $449 With Trade

Caloric COOK TOP RTP201 24" Gas Almond Reg. $169 Sale Price $99	Caloric VENT HOOD 30" & 36" Almond White Reg. $99 Sale Price $79
---	--

Prices F.O.B. Store Extra Charge for Delivery

Crossman Appliance Co.

Maytag Amana KitchenAid.

Sales and Service
David Crossman - Owner 848 W. Foster

665-0463

Chilly task

(Staff photo by John Gerdel Jr.)
 Tammy Melton, 29, of McLean, battles the wind and rapidly plunging thermometer Monday afternoon as she gazes her car at a service station on Hobart Street before returning to McLean. Melton had been shopping in Pampa when the cold front moved through.

Hughes: Texas prisons could reach 97 percent capacity

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Despite early release programs, the Texas prison system may reach 97 percent capacity within three months, forcing officials to not allow any new inmates, the chairman of the prison board said.

"When we hit about 97 percent, we're going to shut the front door and then the Legislature is going to listen to us," Al Hughes, chairman of the Department of Corrections Board, said Monday after a board meeting, referring to efforts to get more funds.

Under state law, some inmates must be released when the prison population hits 95 percent. The population has been hovering near that level, about 38,000 inmates, TDC spokesman Charles Brown said Monday. Several programs to prevent overpopulation have been proposed. Some are tied up in the courts.

In an effort to alleviate overcrowding, the board on Monday tentatively approved a plan calling for a work release program in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and arrange for house arrest programs.

One pilot project calls for a private company to build a facility for about 200 inmates to live and work in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The project, unanimously approved by eight of the nine board members present, would allow selected inmates to work in the community and pay for their incarceration, therefore not costing the state.

Those eligible for the program will probably be low-risk inmates that can better serve their time working than being behind bars, Hughes said.

"Hopefully, it will effect our crowding," he added. "But crowding is going to resolve itself."

The board also asked TDC Director O.L. McCotter to submit a formal plan for a project in 90 days for another vote. A similar program approved by the board in January was never activated because of legal ramifications.

Hughes also said his board and McCotter would not be resigning as suggested by Republican Gov.-elect Bill Clements.

"It's not my intention to resign," the chairman said. "I think all the board members plan to stay."

Mauro: Democrats got what they paid for

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Democrats "got what we paid for" in last week's election by spending less money this year in their efforts to get out the vote, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said.

"We spent $3 million in 1982 and $800,000 this time," Mauro said at a meeting of editors of Associated Press member newspapers. "We got what we paid for."

The lower expenditure and antagonism to incumbents contributed to Gov. Mark White's loss to Bill Clements, Mauro said. He said he was surprised that White made as good a showing as he did.

"White should have been dead meat," Mauro said. "He shouldn't have been able to raise money. He shouldn't have even been close."

Mauro said a poll he took showed White began the campaign 27 points behind Clements. Eventually, White lagged behind Clements by 7 percentage points.

Mauro defeated Republican M.D. Anderson, but he said the campaign was difficult because he was fighting the name of a Houston hospital instead of a viable candidate.

In addition, he said his office suffers from a lack of publicity.

"We go to 254 counties and talk about issues and positions that are somewhat obscure," he said. "Most of what we do is very boring. In effect, we run an office without much public awareness and media attention. In an election year, we have to make it interesting and make it have sex appeal."

Mauro said Anderson, who runs a dance hall, had a 65 percent name identification because people thought he represented the Houston hospital.

Ogg is indicted for tax evasion

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has accused former State Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston of failing to report about $135,000 in income on tax returns during 1979 and 1980.

An indictment released Monday also accused Ogg's former law partner, Charles L. Sowell of Houston, and Houston accountants Scott C. Mitchell and Reid Tinsley of income tax violations.

Attorney Bruce Locke, who represents Ogg and Sowell, said the indictment apparently stems from a dispute over technical accounting issues that should be settled in civil court.

"I find it incredible that the government would make this into a criminal case," Locke said. "This matter has been the subject of a dispute between Mr. Ogg, Mr. Sowell and the government for two years."

The charges say Ogg, 53, a Houston attorney, avoided almost $40,000 in income taxes during the two years.

The indictment concludes a federal investigation into a $25,000 payment Ogg received from Houston-based Browning-Ferris Industries to help block a landfill permit to a rival garbage disposal company, officials said.

The case led to Ogg's indictment of perjury in January 1985 but the charges were dismissed five months later for lack of evidence.

Ogg served as a Democratic state senator for 10 years. He gave up his seat in 1982 for an unsuccessful bid for state attorney general. He served as a state representative from 1967 to 1972.

If convicted, Ogg could receive 10 years in prison and $20,000 in fines.

Sowell, who was Ogg's law partner at the time, is charged with failing to pay about $19,000 in taxes during the two years and with filing a false corporate tax return for 1981 for the law practice of Sowell and Ogg, P.C.

Sowell faces 13 years in prison and $115,000 in fines if convicted.

The accountants are charged with three counts each of helping Ogg and Sowell file the returns. The three could receive nine years in prison and $110,000 fines if convicted.

Names in the News

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Linda Marchiano, who starred as Linda Lovelace in the pornographic movie "Deep Throat," is asking for donations to help pay for a liver transplant.

She was admitted Monday to Presbyterian-University Hospital for seven to 10 days of testing in preparation for a transplant.

"People think my husband and I are filthy rich from the bad experience I had, but it's far from that," said Mrs. Marchiano, 37.

"Deep Throat" was filmed in 1972 and she began speaking out against pornographers in 1973. Mrs. Marchiano, a homemaker with two young children, also is a part-time author and lecturer.

"My husband ... is a laborer, and we go week to week like everybody else in middle America," she said in a telephone interview. "I've asked for people, if they find it in their hearts, to send donations to the American Liver Foundation."

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pro football Hall of Famer Bobby Layne has serious medical problems and is undergoing tests, a colleague says.

Layne, who quarterbacked the Detroit Lions to three NFL titles during the 1950s, was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital late Saturday after attending an annual dinner of former Detroit Lions players and club officials.

Nick Kerbawy, Lions' general manager from 1948-58, said Layne was suffering from a recurrent liver ailment, was given a blood transfusion and was undergoing tests. "Bobby's a sick man; I wouldn't want to minimize the seriousness of his problem," he said.

Material girl fashion

(AP Laserphoto)
 Madonna, holding number 54 placard, models a leather looking suit with a short skirt, mesh stockings and denim jacket during a charity fashion show Monday evening in New York for the benefit of St. Vincent's Hospital in New York. The show's proceeds will go to the Sister Patricia Murphy AIDS hospice at the hospital.

Public Notices

Application For PACKAGE STORE PERMIT

The undersigned is an applicant for a Retail Liquor permit from the Texas Liquor Control Board and hereby gives notice by publication of such application in accordance with provisions of Section 10, House Bill No. 77, Acts of the Second called session of the 44th Legislature, designated as the Texas Liquor Control Act.

The Package Store permit applied for will be used in the conduct of a business operated under the name of:

OWL LIQUOR
 217 E. Brown
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Mailing Address:
 217 E. Brown
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Applicant:
 Janet Ann Romack
 2428 Christine
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Hearing Nov. 12-3 p.m.
 Gray County Court House
 C-39 Nov. 10, 11, 1986

3 Personal

MARY Kay Cosmetics, free facials, Supplies and deliveries. Call Dorothy Vaughn, 665-5117.

MARY Kay Cosmetics, free facials, Supplies, deliveries. Call Theda Wallin, 665-8336.

OPEN Door AA meets at 300 S. Cuyler, Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 8 p.m. Call 669-2751 or 665-9104.

FAMILY Violence - rape. Help for victims 24 hours a day. 669-1788.

AA and Al Anon meets Tuesday and Saturday, 8:00 p.m. 727 W. Browning. 669-2808, 665-3810.

TO Pricilla Derry, contact William Derry at P.O. Box 1495, Altoona, Pa. 16603.

VISA/Mastercard. Get your card today! Also new credit card. No one refused. Call 1-518-459-3546, extension C-1732, 24 hours.

BEAUTYCONTROL

Cosmetics and SkinCare. Free Color Analysis, makeover and deliveries. Director, Lynn Allison. 669-3848, 1304 Christine.

4 Not Responsible

AS of this date November 10, 1986, I George B. Hause will no longer be responsible for any debts other than those incurred by me. Signed George B. Hause

5 Special Notices

LOANS

Borrow money on most anything of value. Guns, jewelry, tools, stereos, TVs and more. AAA Pawn Shop, 512 S. Cuyler.

MOVED to new location. Brandt's Automotive has moved to 103 S. Hobart. For information call Bob at 665-7715.

TOP O Texas Lodge 1381. Monday November 10, study and practice. Tuesday 11th, 2 EA degrees.

PAMPA Lodge 966. Thursday, 13, MM Proficiency. Paul Appleton, W. M. Vernon Camp, Secretary.

13 Business Opportunity

PRIVATE Club or Recreation Facility with small investment. 318 W. Foster 1-353-1601.

BEST part time business. Brand name candy/nut vending. Cash investment required. Call 1-800-293-5674 for free information.

SUCCESSFUL business. 2 laundries and all equipment. Owner will train you. Gene Lewis, Realtor, Coldwell Banker Action Realty 669-1221.

14a Appliance Repair

WASHERS, Dryers, dishwashers and range repair. Call Gary Stevens, 669-7956.

ATTENTION: Hot Point and G.E. Owners, call Williams Appliance for factory authorized parts and service. Phone 665-8894.

14d Carpentry

Ralph Baxter Contractor & Builder Custom Homes or Remodeling 665-8248

Lance Builders Custom Homes - Additions Remodeling Ardell Lance 669-3940

BILL Kidwell Construction. Roofing, patios, concrete work, remodeling. 669-6347.

TOMWAY Contractors - New construction. Remodeling. Cement, steel and vinyl siding. Tom Lance, 669-6085.

Nicholas Home Improvement US steel, siding, roofing, carpentry, gutters. 669-9991.

Additions, Remodeling, new cabinets, old cabinets refaced. Ceramic tile, acoustical ceilings, panelling, painting, wallpaper, storage building, patios. 14 years local experience. Free estimates. Jerry Reagan, 669-9747, Kari Parks, 669-2848.

14e Carpet Service

CARPET Installation and Repair. Mike, 665-0676, Roy, 669-3676.

CARPET Installed and repaired. Call for Free Estimates. 669-1791, ask for Rick.

SERVICES UNLIMITED

Carpet Shampooing. 665-3111

Public Notices

Application For WINE ONLY PACKAGE STORE PERMIT

The undersigned is an applicant for a retail liquor permit from the Texas Liquor Control Board and hereby gives notice by publication of such application in accordance with provisions of Section 10, House Bill No. 77, Acts of the Second called session of the 44th Legislature, designated as the Texas Liquor Control Act.

The Wine Only Package Store permit applied for will be used in the conduct of a business operated under the name of:

OWL'S BEER DEPOT
 414 S. Gillespie
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Mailing Address:
 217 E. Brown
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Applicant:
 Janet Ann Romack
 2428 Christine
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Hearing Nov. 12-3 p.m.
 Gray Co. Court House
 C-38 Nov. 10, 11, 1986

Application For BEER RETAILER'S OFF-PREMISES LICENSE PERMIT

The undersigned is an applicant for a Beer Retailer's Off-Premises License Permit from the Texas Liquor Control Board and hereby gives notice by publication of such application in accordance with provisions of Section 15, House Bill No. 77 Acts of the Second called session of the 44th Legislature, designated as the Texas Liquor Control Act.

The Beer Retailer's Off-Premises permit applied for will be used in the conduct of a business operated under the name of:

OWL LIQUOR
 217 E. Brown
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Mailing Address:
 217 E. Brown
 Pampa, Texas 79065
 Applicant:
 Janet Ann Romack
 2428 Christine
 Pampa Texas 79065
 Hearing Nov. 12-3 p.m.
 Gray Co. Court House
 C-40 Nov. 10, 11, 1986

2 Area Museums

WHITE Deer Land Museum: Pampa. Tuesday through Sunday 1:30-4 p.m., special tours by appointment.

FANHANDLE Plains Historical Museum: Canyon. Regular museum hours 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 2-4 p.m. Sundays at Lake Meredith Aquarium & Wildlife Museum: Fritch. Hours 2-5 p.m. Tuesday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. Closed Monday.

SQUARE House Museum: Panhandle. Regular museum hours 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Weekdays and 1-5:30 p.m. Sundays.

HUTCHINSON County Museum: Borger. Regular hours 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays except Tuesday, 2-5 p.m. Sunday.

PIONEER West Museum: Shamrock. Regular museum hours 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, Saturday and Sunday.

ALANREED-McLean Area Historical Museum: McLean. Regular museum hours 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Closed Sunday.

ROBERTS County Museum: Miami. Hours - Sept.-May. Tuesday through Friday 1 p.m.-5 p.m. Sunday 2 p.m.-5 p.m. Closed on Monday and Saturday.

MUSEUM of the Plains: Perryton. Monday thru Friday, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Weekends during Summer months, 1:30 p.m. - 5 p.m.

FREE

2 Liter

WITH DELIVERY OF A LARGE PIZZA CALL 665-6566

The best pizza in town. Homest!

WATER WORKS

407 W. Foster

PURE DRINKING WATER

30¢ Per Gallon

Bring Your Own Bottle And Save! Buses & Cones Also Available

Senior Citizens Discount Available

Mexican grammar school textbooks source of controversy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Textbooks that Mexican children are required to read in elementary school are under fire from business groups that claim they are biased against free enterprise and carry a leftist ideological undertone.

The books are distributed free by the federal government.

The texts also have met criticism from the left, which contends they are too tame in their viewpoint.

But conservative business groups are more outspoken.

"You can't modernize and make your country more effective in international markets, more efficient, create more employers, more companies, more impresarios, and at the same time be teaching everyone that that guy is an exploiter," said Claudio X. Gonzalez, president of the influential Business Coordi-

ning Council, one of the complaining groups.

He said he is starting to get "interesting reactions," even from President Miguel de la Madrid and Education Secretary Miguel Gonzalez Avelar, to the debate about modernizing the Mexican educational system.

Gonzalez Avelar, who has been mentioned as a potential presidential hopeful for 1988, recently was asked about critics who say the textbooks teach Marxism.

"I think they don't know the schools of Mexico," he replied. "I invite those who talk and pontificate about education and schools to simply come and see the reality of our schools."

"Here, what there is is work," the education secretary said. "The people are learning things that are useful for them. That is the truth of the Mexican school, not what they say it is."

The issue of control of public education in Mexico long has been a source of controversy.

Luis Medina Pena, deputy secretary of educational planning, in a recent interview traced the roots of the dispute back to the 19th century when liberals tried to take control of the schools from the Roman Catholic Church.

A system of lay, public education was decreed in 1917 and is considered a key principle of the Mexican Revolution of 1910-21.

But the controversy was heightened by the system of free, compulsory textbooks for elementary schools started in 1962.

The books' discussions of such topics as colonialism, imperialism and capitalism rattle the conservatives — for example, these passages from the social science textbook for sixth graders:

"This domination of some countries by others is called colonialism, and the economic and political system that makes it possible, imperialism."

"The capitalists (of Britain, France and the United States) sometimes joined with Mexican capitalists, exploited our resources, but the situation hardly improved, because they were not interested in solving the problems of the country but rather only in doing business."

Asked about conservative charges that the textbooks promote leftist ideology, Deputy Secretary Medina Pena replied: "Let them tell me where the center is."

"Ever since the textbook program started, certain groups have used the issue. Since then, they have tried to paint it as a monopoly of minds, which is not the case."

Medina Pena noted that the free textbooks were the only books available in many poor homes.

Almost one in every three Mexicans is enrolled in a public school system or extension program, about 25 million students in all. A private-school student body of 2 million also must study the government-distributed textbooks.

The National Parents Union, a private association, has called regularly for better quality of instruction in the free textbooks and ridding them of what it calls a leftist ideological content.

"The dark forces, the same that meet in the dismal halls of the Public Education Department, would like for the compulsory textbooks to be more deficient all the time, since they have been conceived as a means to maintain the people in ignorance," the union's president, Jose Ruiz de Chavez, said in a recent press statement. The union claims the educational system helps the government maintain control of the masses.

Medina Pena said the federal Education Department is open to any criticism of the textbooks' quality, but not of their ideology. "Education has to be formative — of attitudes, of perception of the country," he said.

SUNNY FRESH FARM JUMBO EGGS 29¢ WITH EACH FILLED BIG BLUE BONUS BOOKLET	LAYS POTATO CHIPS 49¢ Reg. 1.39 WITH EACH FILLED BIG BLUE BONUS BOOKLET	REGULAR OR DIET COCA-COLA $1.39 6-12 OZ. CANS WITH EACH FILLED BIG BLUE BONUS BOOKLET
White Cloud 12" OFF LABEL BATHROOM TISSUE WHITE CLOUD 99¢ 4 ROLL PKG.	ABSORBENT PAPER BOUNTY TOWELS 77¢ JUMBO ROLL	CRISP N' TASTY JENO'S PIZZA 99¢ 10 OZ. PKG.	MINUTE MAID 10 OZ. REDUCED ACID OR 12 OZ. REGULAR FROZEN ORANGE JUICE 89¢ CAN
FOR GREAT COOKING WESSON OIL $2.49 64 OZ. BTL.	KEEBLER TOWN-HOUSE CRACKERS $1.49 16 OZ. BOX	WITH BEANS ELLIS CHILI 59¢ 15 OZ. CAN	REGULAR & EXTRA THICK BONUS PAK SLICES VELVEETA $1.49 13 1/2 OZ. PKG.
HILLS BROS ALL GRINDS COFFEE HILL'S BROS. $2.59 1 LB. CAN	TURKEY TEXAS SWEET POTATOES 3 LBS. 99¢ LOCAL GROWN TURNIPS 3 LBS. 99¢ TEXAS RUBY RED GRAPEFRUIT 2 LBS. 99¢	ALL PURPOSE RUSSET POTATOES $1.69 20 LB. BAG	VAN CAMP'S PORK & BEANS 3 $1 16 OZ. CANS
OCEAN SPRAY REGULAR/PINK GRAPEFRUIT JUICE 48 OZ. BTL. $1.89	Packer Trim BEEF BRISKET $1.09 SHURFRESH SELF BASTING TURKEYS 10-22 LB. AVG. LB. 79¢	SWIFT 10-20 LB. AVG BUTTERBALL TURKEYS $1.09 SHURFRESH BAKING HENS 78¢ WILSON BONELESS HALF HAMS REG. OR HONEY LB. $2.69 OWENS SMOKED SAUSAGE $1.69 OWENS SAUSAGE & BISCUITS 12 OZ. $1.59	KRAFT LIGHT SPREAD PARKAY 2 LB. TUB 89¢ PIZZA ALL READY PIZZA CRUST 10 OZ. CAN 99¢ KRAFT GRATED PARMESAN CHEESE 8 OZ. PKG. $2.39 PHILADELPHIA CREAM CHEESE 8 OZ. PKG. 89¢ KRAFT SHREDDED MOZZARELLA 4 OZ. PKG. 89¢ SHURFRESH CHOPPED BROCCOLI 2-10 OZ. PKG. $1.00 BANQUET PUMPKIN OR MINCE PIES 20 OZ. PKG. 99¢ COMSTOCK REGULAR OR LITE CHERRY PIE FILLING 20 OZ. CAN $1.29
LIQUID CLEANER PINE-SOL 40 OZ. BTL. $3.19	"THE SUNDAY BACON" HORMEL BLACK LABEL SLICED BACON 1 LB. PKG. $1.79	FRANK'S FOODS NO. 1 Store 638 S. Cuyler 665-5451 NO. 2 Store 421 E. Frederic 665-8531 We Accept Food Stamps No. 2 Store Hours 7 a.m.-9 p.m.	OUR FINEST Top-of-the-Line 8-BUTTON, 17-CYCLE DURA 10" UNDERCOUNTER DISHWASHER $374.95 PLUS LIMITED 10-YEAR COMPRESSOR WARRANTY
1.00 OFF LABEL TWIN FABRIC SOFTENER BOUNCE 40 CT. BOX $3.39	HEAVY DUTY LAUNDRY DETERGENT RINSO 38 OZ. BOX 99¢	WE GIVE AND REDEEM BLUE STAMPS	OUR SPECIAL SALE PRICES $399.95 LESS MANUFACTURER'S REBATE - $25.00 YOUR COST AFTER MANUFACTURER'S REBATE..... $374.95

PRE-HOLIDAY SALE!!
18 Cu. Ft. NO-FROST

FREE ICE MAKER
TPK180AN
with Refrigerator Purchase
Regular $839.90 NOW
SAVE $260.00 $579.00 WT

BARGAIN BLITZ ON MAYTAG

SAVE BIG ON RANGES DISHWASHERS, DRYERS AND...

MAYTAG A412H
SAVE $50.00
HEAVY DUTY WASHERS
First in preference. (Based on a national survey asking consumers which brand of washer they'd like to own.)

MAYTAG

ENERGY-SAVING 30" ECONOMY GAS RANGE 31F92KW

Lighted Oven
Window in door
Clock with timer
12 standard features
SAVE $100.00

Regularly $559.95 NOW $459.00 W.W.T.
All Ranges Are On Sale
22 Models are on Display to choose from.
30" Gas Ranges From $349.00 For Model 31F-7 (Not Shown)

22.0 CU. FT. NO-FROST TOP MOUNT REFRIGERATOR

$50 CASH BONUS DIRECT FROM MAGIC CHEF

PLUS LIMITED 10-YEAR COMPRESSOR WARRANTY

OUR FINEST Top-of-the-Line 8-BUTTON, 17-CYCLE DURA 10" UNDERCOUNTER DISHWASHER

93-Level Wash
Temp Boost
Reversible Panels
Super Scrub
Soft Waste Disposer
Much, Much More

$25 CASH BONUS DIRECT FROM MAGIC CHEF

Plus Limited 10-YEAR Door and Tub Parts/Labor Warranty
Regular Price $529.95
OUR SPECIAL SALE PRICES $399.95 LESS MANUFACTURER'S REBATE - $25.00 YOUR COST AFTER MANUFACTURER'S REBATE..... $374.95

MICROWAVE/CONVECTION OVEN

$50 CASH BONUS DIRECT FROM MAGIC CHEF

Combines convection broiling with microwave speed at the same time
LIMITED 5-YEAR WARRANTY
*Rebate offer ends November 30, 1986

From MAKER APPLIANCE "Service Since 1939"
2008 N. Hobart 669-3701

FRANK'S FOODS
NO. 1 Store 638 S. Cuyler 665-5451
NO. 2 Store 421 E. Frederic 665-8531
We Accept Food Stamps No. 2 Store Hours 7 a.m.-9 p.m.

THRIFFTWAY

PRICES EFFECTIVE NOV. 11-17, 1986