Justice gets expensive in Gray County

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

John Weaver has been an inmate at the Gray County Jail since Dec. 7, when he was arrested on a charge of murdering a Pampa woman.

By law, he is presumed innocent until proven otherwise.

But the 30-year-old Weaver will have been confined to a jail cell for more than a year by the time his Jan. 5 trial date rolls around.

While waiting for his chance to fight the charges against him, Weaver has been caught in the middle of a different sort of legal battle — a squabble involving a court-appointed attorney and the Gray County Commissioners Court.

Scheduled for the third time to go to trial Tuesday, Weaver's court-appointed attorney, Mark Buzzard of Pampa, was granted a motion to continue the case, saying he had reason to believe his expert witnesses would not be paid for their time and trouble.

Buzzard cited county commissioners' recent refusal to pay fees submitted by several court-appointed attorneys — and a lawsuit against the county currently pending before the 7th Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo.

The suit, filed by Pampa lawyer John Warner, seeks to force the county to pay a $13,000 bill submitted by Warner for defending convicted killer Richard Schreckhise in 1984. 223rd District Judge Don Cain ordered the county to pay the bill in February, but the county appealed Cain's decision.

Since then, commissioners have refused to pay a $7,000 bill from Warner for handling Schreckhise's unsuccessful appeal and have delayed action on a $9,000 bill from Perryton attorney J. Kenny Norris, who had been appointed to represent Bethany Trust founder Tom Etheredge of Pampa.

Etheredge, who has been in jail since February on charges of securities violations, has since been appointed another attorney.

Warner filed a second suit against the county in 223rd District Court, seeking payment for his handling of Schreckhise's appeal.

County Judge Carl Kennedy called Warner's requested payment "arbitrary and unreasonable."

Commissioners have been complaining about the cost of court-appointed attorneys' fees since budget time in August, when requested court expenses increased by $25,000 — from $73,600 this year to $98,800 in 1987. The request prompted Kennedy to wonder aloud: "Why the district judges are doing this to us, I don't know."

"No one else in the county government makes the kind of money the attorneys make," he said. "No one, not even the district judges."

Under criminal procedures, court-appointed attorneys submit their bills to the district judges for approval. The bills are then sent to the county for payment.

According to the Code of Criminal Procedure, the attorneys are to receive a "reasonable fee" of not less than $50 for each day spent in court and

Community Building put to use

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Editor

The use of the Pampa Community Building facilities is growing each month, according to Pampa Area Foundation board President Ed Myatt.

And that has been accomplished without any great effort to advertise the availability of the building. People and groups have been using the various rooms for meetings, banquets, seminars and other activities from the first day the building opened in September.

Myatt reported a total of 886 people used the building's meeting rooms facilities in September, with the number increasing to 1,850 in October.

That's in addition to the supervisors and employees of the regular organizations that have office space in the building. Those organizations attract people in and out of the building nearly every day to conduct business or obtain information.

Currently operating in the Pampa Community Building are the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, Pampa United Way, Clean Pampa Inc. and Pampa Board of Realtors. In addition,

Senior choir looks at aging through laughter and songs

By CATHY SPAULDING
Staff Writer

It's Wednesday evening choir practice at First United Methodist Church.

Director Ken McDonald enthusiastically makes sure the singers put out just the right note at just the right time at just the right pitch. Some of the choir members grimace when they miss a cue or flub a note. Then there are the cut-ups, who make light of the situation and tease their fellow singers.

Such a youthful camaraderie is expected from a teen-age choir. But these singers all have passed their 60th birthdays.

They call themselves the Senior Saints, and they are the oldest and, according to McDonald, the most faithful of the 11 choirs at First United Methodist Church.

The Saints will perform a musical-drama number, A New Hope at 6:30 tonight in the church's sanctuary at Foster and Ballard streets.

"It all started three years ago when we got a group of senior adults together for a musical with the youth choirs, Side by Side," McDonald recalled. "And they decided they wanted to continue doing it."

So, a group of 25 senior singers gather for a short rehearsal before the Wednesday night practice of the church's regular choir to learn their music, conduct a devotional and enjoy each other's company. Most of them are members of the church's regular choir and the chancel choir.

"But some just want to come and give it a shot; they seem to enjoy it," McDonald said, adding that his senior adult choir has an enthusiasm and dedication that his other choirs don't match.

"They're always in place 15 minutes before choir practice begins," he said. "They look at the music, loosen up on some exercises, practice and close with a devotional, which they take turns presenting."

Earthquakes shake volcanic Japanese island

TOKYO (AP) — Dozens of earthquakes shook nearly abandoned Oshima Island into the early Sunday hours, but the lava flow from a spectacular volcanic eruption slowed down after threatening the main town and forcing more than 11,000 people to flee.

News reports said the lava stream Saturday was about 600 feet from the town of Motomachi, several miles west of the volcano, but was moving at only three feet per hour.

The island's streets were empty, with some house doors left open and porch lights left on in the haste of departure, the reports said.

Only 255 people, mostly police, researchers and firefighters, remained on the island by Saturday night, an official at the Tokyo metropolitan government's Disaster Prevention Headquarters said.

The island's 10,300 residents and about 1,000 tourists were taken by boat to nearby Izu peninsula and to Tokyo after Mount Mihara cracked open Friday and began spewing flames, lava and black smoke into the air.

Hundreds of earthquakes shook the island from Friday through early Sunday. The strongest, at 9:41 a.m. Saturday, measured 6.1 on the Richter scale and could be felt in Tokyo and surrounding areas, said the Central Meteorological Agency, signifying a quake capable of causing severe damage.

Officials said about 60 emergency centers were set up in Tokyo, about 70 miles to the north, for volcano refugees. Many of the tourists had flocked to the island to witness the awesome eruption, the second in a week.

After an all-night boat ride from Oshima, about 2,000 evacuees were taken Saturday to Tokyo's Minato Ward Sports Center, where they camped out in a gymnasium. A ward official estimated it would be a week to 10 days before they could return home.

Some evacuees tried to call relatives or friends to reassure them. Others searched long lists to find out where their relatives were placed.

Oshima is one of seven islands in the Izu chain, considered one of the most volcanically active areas in the world. Mount Mihara, which had been dormant for 12 years, began rumbling Nov. 15 and produced a small fountain of fire that posed no real danger to residents.

However, Friday's eruption sent a stream of lava about 15 feet high and 240 feet wide flowing toward Motomachi. That prompted the Tokyo metropolitan government, which administers Oshima, to order an evacuation.

The Central Meteorological Agency said more than 14 quakes considered "rather strong" and two considered "very strong" were felt Saturday between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. The only quake for which a Richter scale reading was available was the 9:41 a.m. tremor, which the agency said was centered about six miles under the ocean near Oshima.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by the ground motion recorded on a seismograph.

Building

the Pampa Fine Arts Association and Big Brothers-Big Sisters have office space, though the offices are not yet staffed.

Two meeting rooms are available for public use: the Nona Payne Conference Room and the larger M.K. Brown Meeting Room.

Myatt said 33 groups used the conference room and nine groups used the meeting room in September. In October, 31 groups used the Payne Conference room and 29 groups the Brown Meeting Room.

Myatt said he is "very enthusiastic" about the reception the building has received from Pampa citizens since it was opened Sept. 2.

"We have paid for everything we have done to the building so far, and we have the $50,000 in a contingency fund drawing interest for future repairs and emergencies, as we promised at the beginning of the fund-raising drive," Myatt said.

"We are doing this on a pay-as-you-go basis," he continued, "and not a thing will be done unless we pay for it."

"We are to the point where we are almost completed (with the first floor), but we do not have the funds to finish presently," Myatt added.

He indicated that the only items remaining to be completed are finishing the kitchen facilities and purchasing some needed kitchen equipment, all of which will require an additional $20,000.

"A few people who made pledges during the drive have not paid them to date," Myatt noted. "However, if all the pledges were paid, we would still need several thousand dollars."

"Those who have intended to make a donation but who have not gotten around to it could help us complete this project in a short period of time if they would send their donations to us immediately," he stated.

Donations can be mailed to the Pampa Area Foundation Inc., P.O. Box 541, Pampa, Texas, 79066-0541. Myatt reminded donors that their donations are tax-deductible.

Chamber President Norman Knox also indicated his pleasure that the building is being used by the public as it was intended.

The chamber manages the building for the foundation. But both Myatt and Knox stressed that the building is not the "Chamber of Commerce Building," as too many people have been calling it. Instead, they emphasized, it's the "Pampa Community Building."

Knox said currently there is no charge for using the building, but donations for its use are accepted.

"However, in the near future, we will set a moderate fee for the use of the building facilities in an effort to recover the cost of utilities and custodial expenses," Knox said.

Knox said all meals currently served in the Brown Meeting Room are catered "and we plan to continue the catering when the kitchen is finished so our local restaurant owners can also benefit from the use of the building."

He continued, "The building was constructed by the citizens for their use, so we only wish to recover our expenses, not to make a profit."

Knox urged citizens to get behind the foundation board members "and help them complete the building as quickly as possible."

"The citizens of Pampa are known for their 'can do' attitude, so I feel they will help out this time also," he concluded.

Reservations for the use of the Pampa Community Building can be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce office at 669-3241.

Since the use of the building continues to grow, citizens and groups are urged to make their reservations early in order not to be disappointed.

Chamber secretary Deborah Musgrave released a breakdown of groups and residents making use of the facilities in September and October. The list shows a variety of organizations, groups and residents have been taking advantage of the meeting rooms.

For example, users of the Nona Payne Conference Room for September included building occupant groups and committee from the Chamber of Commerce, United Way, Board of Realtors, Clean Pampa and PFAA.

But others included Pampa Soccer Association, Lions Club board of directors, Business and Professional Womens Club, Cadillac Ball committee, Pampa Industrial Foundation, Sticherly Guild, Girl Scouts and a workshop for Pampa's Texas Cities for Economic Leadership (TEXCEL) program. Also, the chamber's defensive driving course was taught in the conference room.

In the M.K. Brown Meeting Room, September users included the United Way fund drive check-ins, Pampa Gifted and Talented Association, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Chamber Gold Coats, Downtown Business Association, Pampa Police Department, Pampa Community Chorus rehearsals and the Burton family dinner.

In October, many of the same organizations continued to use the facilities. But others also have used the rooms.

Conference room additions included Homemakers Extension Club, Leadership Pampa, Tralee Crisis Center board.

ing the holidays or during the summer," he explained. "But when they don't meet, they miss it."

As a result, the director has little trouble recruiting senior choir members when the new church year begins.

"We just publish the schedule and say, 'If you're interested, come join us,'" he said.

And don't expect a doddering rendition of Rock of Ages from these folks. The group, which sometimes incorporates whistling and kazoo in its routines, performs lively, upbeat music. Songs that are full of hope and joy.

The musical to be performed tonight is an example. According to McDonald, the musical looks at aging in a "sometimes humorous, sometimes serious" way through music and drama. A New Hope, is typical of numbers that are written especially for senior choirs.

"We're not afraid to laugh at ourselves," McDonald said of the group. "We have found that humor is a tool we can use to get at a meaning underneath."

And McDonald, who is only half as old as most of the group members said that by working with the elders, he has learned a lesson in growing older.

"I have always wondered how I was going to be when I'm their age," he said. "Many folks kind of slow down at 65. But these people have shown me that you can always learn and try new things."

"It takes a certain type person to be willing to take a chance on something that's not part of their routine," McDonald said. "But these people want to take chances and grow and learn something new."

"It's becoming part of their routine."

Gathering remembers Kennedy; 100 brave chill for ceremony

By SUZANNE GAMBOA
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — Bill Borom designated himself a volunteer tour guide Saturday and marked the 23rd anniversary of John F. Kennedy's assassination by mapping out the president's route for visitors to the downtown Kennedy memorial.

"It was a morning just like this. He was coming down the street and the sun suddenly broke through," Borom told a visiting family. "And the Secret Service men decided, 'Let's take the bubble canopy off and let the people see.'"

"If they had left it on another 10 minutes, he would be alive today," Borom said.

Although the city has not had an organized commemoration of the presidential slaying for years, at least 100 people came out Saturday in cool, foggy weather to see the infamous route.

At 12:30 p.m., the approximate time the fatal bullets were fired, one group of people clasped hands and bowed their heads, while others stood nearby in respectful silence.

Two pink bows and some silk flowers decorated the lawn flanking Elm Street, the street Kennedy's motorcade was traveling when he was shot.

A yellow and white plastic flower arrangement with a label reading "A Witness" also marked the site Saturday, and pink ribbons were tied around green lamp posts along the route.

Although some made a stop at the memorial, most gathered at the Texas Schoolbook Depository and at Dealey Plaza along the motorcade route.

"It's still overwhelming after all these years, after 23 years has passed," said Debra Johnson, a student of Lamar University in Beaumont. "It's still kind of sad in a way."

Ms. Johnson visited the site with several other Lamar students to fulfill a criminal justice class assignment.

"We're here just to look at the crime scene," she said.

Conversations of most of the visitors were dominated by personal theories on the assassination.

Following the moment of silence, several of the visitors sat and listened to Penn Jones, an elderly man who says he has researched the assassination and each year gives visitors his opinion in an informal speech.

"He was trapped by the police in this area," Jones said sweeping his hand across Elm Street.

"It is my opinion that there were nine guns that fired one shot each. One of those guns was on top of the Dallas County jail, and I assure you in order to get up on top ... you got to get permission from the sheriff," he said.

"The greatest short-selling in history took place on the morning of Nov. 22, 1963," Jones said.

A number of visitors were from out of state.

Two women from Madison, Wis., said they were in Dallas for a convention, "and so of course, if we were here we wanted to see this."

But Jenny Dahn, 27 and Patty Hying, 27, said they had expected a more organized ceremony.

"It seems like they're overlooking the importance of it," Ms. Dahn said.

Dallasite Jeff Porter said he had seen visited the site in the past on a previous anniversary of the assassination but said the television drama "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald" had rekindled his interest.

SMU president's resignation creates academic tug-of-war

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist President L. Donald Shields' abrupt resignation has left the university caught between its lofty academic goals and the desire to build a top athletic program, university officials say.

Some faculty members said in the wake of Shields' retirement announcement Friday that the university must decide its focus for the future — whether athletics or academics will forge its reputation.

The 50-year-old president, who has held the post the past six years, resigned for health reasons just two days after the SMU faculty senate voted to ask the administration to change its approach to college athletics.

Shields has been fighting a severe case of diabetes and had recently spent three weeks in California trying to improve his condition. He said his doctor advised him last week that he was in danger of more serious health problems because of the recent pressures of his job.

After the resignation announcement, Frank Sogandares, a biology professor who called for

Shields' resignation earlier in the week at the faculty senate meeting said, "I hope that the board (of governors) will now pull back and look retrospectively at what's happened and analyze it and not make the same mistakes again."

SMU's football program is on NCAA probation, and recent revelations in the media about further alleged wrongdoing could result in a two-year suspension of the football program. The faculty's vote was for the university to abandon efforts at building what some faculty members termed a "pro sports" type program.

When SMU was put on probation last year, Shields called the NCAA's enforcement policies "selective" and "harsh." He also said the school's recruiting violations were "totally unacceptable."

When new allegations surfaced recently, Shields took harsh criticism from some faculty members. Peter Winship, a member of the faculty senate executive board who has called for changes in the athletic department said he believes Shields will one day be seen "as building steps to improve the academic quality of this university."

Ruby's rabbi recalls slaying

Jack Ruby meted out "Texas justice" when he shot the accused assassin of John F. Kennedy 23 years ago in Dallas, says a rabbi who became Ruby's confidante.

"He did this in a fit of anger and passion," said Rabbi Hillel Silverman. "He was a great patriot and he thought he was doing a great favor for the people of the United States. He was doing justice, Texas justice, to a terrible man who had shot his beloved president."

Silverman, 61, has headed the Temple Sholom in Greenwich the past six years, but on Nov. 22, 1963 he was at the Dallas Trade Mart with about 500 other community leaders awaiting Kennedy's arrival at a luncheon. Ruby was a member of his Dallas congregation.

"It was a nightmare, and I don't really think about it anymore," Silverman told The Greenwich Time newspaper in a story published Thursday.

As Ruby's confessor, Silverman is convinced that Ruby acted alone and not as part of a conspiracy when he shot Lee Harvey Oswald.

"He was very neurotic, very psychotic. A number of times (in prison) he would go off the deep end in a very neurotic way. He would start accusing everyone of conspiring against him. He would duck under his table when he heard sirens outside."

On the night of the assassination, Silverman led a sabbath service at Temple Shearith Israel, where he had been rabbi since 1954. He recalled greeting Ruby after the two-hour service ended.

He buried Oswald

PFLUGERVILLE (AP) — It has been almost 23 years since Paul J. Groody handled his most infamous burial, but the retired mortician remembers it like it was yesterday.

Groody remembers well handling the services for Lee Harvey Oswald, the only man he buried twice. Oswald was identified by the Warren Commission as the person who shot President John F. Kennedy to death in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

It's the time of year when every year since that burial that Groody starts getting telephone calls and requests for interviews about the Oswald burial and subsequent exhumation.

Groody was funeral director in charge at Miller Funeral Home in Fort Worth on Nov. 24, 1963 when Jack Ruby shot and killed Oswald in the basement of the Dallas police station.

His first contact came later that day when a Secret Service agent asked Groody to handle the burial of Oswald in Fort Worth because that was where Oswald's mother, Marguerite Oswald, lived.

It took Groody 17 years to find out that the reason he was chosen for the job was that the Secret Service agent's father had attended embalming school with Groody.

Groody says he decided to place Oswald's remains in a vault of steel reinforced concrete to preserve the remains.

"Knowing the circumstances, and being an old undertaker, I realized that they might want to dig this guy up some day,"

Groody said. "And if so, I wanted him to be preserved to the point where at least identification could be made."

Groody, who has retired from mortician work and now works in real estate and construction in this Central Texas city, said a Secret Service agent came to him three weeks after the first burial and asked if he could recall certain scars on Oswald's body.

Groody said he told the agent he had not made any note of any identifying marks on the body and asked why the agent was making the inquiry.

"And he said to me, 'We don't know who we have in that grave out there,'" Groody said. He said the agent gave no further explanation.

The former funeral director says he is at a loss to explain why the vault was cracked when it was unearthed 18 years later for the exhumation.

But he does know that the body in the vault was the same body he placed there before the Nov. 25, 1963 burial.

He remembers down to the socks the clothing he used when he dressed the body.

"I saw those same socks when I dug him up. I know the body I dug up was the body I buried," Groody said.

The burial was not an easy task, Groody recalls.

He had difficulty finding a cemetery that was willing to have the accused assassin buried at their facility. Rose Hill Cemetery finally agreed to allow the burial.

Justice

funding up to $500 to pay for investigation and expert testimony.

But Kennedy complains that some court-appointed lawyers make up to $900 for each day in court. He said that amount is unreasonable.

"When you view the different persons involved in a trial, look at what the people involved make — the DA, the judge. That should provide some guideline for what you should pay a court-appointed attorney, who's going to be paid from the same source, which is the taxpayers' money," Kennedy said. "Why should the one attorney who's court-appointed be paid more than the district judge who's presiding over the case and who appointed him in the first place?"

He estimated that district judges average $200 per court appearance, while the prosecutor averages $135.

By contrast, he said, court-appointed defense attorneys are averaging more than $500 per appearance.

"No one else is making that kind of money in this county," he said.

Warner said he could not comment too extensively on his cases but said defending a criminal defendant often involves hidden costs.

"You may only ask a witness five minutes' worth of questions but you may have spent months looking for him, and you may have interviewed 15 people trying to find him," he explained.

He said that since 1959, when the Texas Legislature repealed part of the law that said commissioners courts could pay attorneys as they saw fit, "the Legislature has put it in the hands of the district judges."

In the Schreckhise case, 31st District Judge Grainger McIlhany granted Warner an average $75 per hour, $25 less than the $100 per hour Warner charges his private clients.

Warner said he submitted a bill listing every step he took in the Schreckhise case, in which his client received the maximum life in prison.

"I don't know why they feel it's excessive," he said.

Attorney Phil Vanderpool said the average rate of $100 per hour for Pampa lawyers may sound high to a layman but should be compared to accountant or plumber fees. Keeping up with ever-changing laws is not cheap, he said.

"People don't realize that once you buy the library book, it has to be supplemented," he explained. "The law book companies don't just publish these supplements for nothing. I think every lawyer recognizes his responsibility to do what we call pro bono work — freebies — but every lawyer also has to pay his overhead and has his family to feed."

Vanderpool said compensation of court-appointed attorneys must take into account more than courtroom appearances. A defense lawyer who cares about his client is under plenty of pressure, knowing that client's life is in his hands, he said.

"You'll spend a whole lot more time getting ready to go to court than you will in court," he said. "Say you spend five days in court at eight hours a day, you may spend twice that much getting ready to go."

Judge McIlhany said he would not have approved Warner's bill if he didn't think it was reasonable. Judge Cain declined to comment while Warner's cases against the county are pending.

Assistant District Attorney David Hamilton, who has not prosecuted a case involving a court-appointed lawyer since June, called the squabble a "serious problem" that has helped bring district court matters to a virtual standstill.

He said his office is caught in the middle of the controversy because cases cannot be prosecuted without defense attorneys.

"To me, that is a cost of prosecution," he said. "And as long as we have upheavals in that part of it, this office isn't going to run very smoothly."

"It may feel good to have all that money in the bank," he added. "The other side of the coin is, what is the cost to the community of not prosecuting? You can't put a dollar sign on it, but it's certainly out there."

Hamilton said all those involved in the situation — the commissioners, the attorneys and the district judges — are doing what they think is right. He said more dialogue among those involved would speed a resolution.

Commissioners have asked to meet with the district judges, but no such meeting has been held.

McIlhany said a decision by the Amarillo Court of Appeals in the Warner case — expected early next year — should offer all those involved some guidance.

"Whatever their decision is," he said, "I think we should all abide by it."

Building

the Pampa Fine Arts Association and Big Brothers-Big Sisters have office space, though the offices are not yet staffed.

Two meeting rooms are available for public use: the Nona Payne Conference Room and the larger M.K. Brown Meeting Room.

Myatt said 33 groups used the conference room and nine groups used the meeting room in September. In October, 31 groups used the Payne Conference room and 29 groups the Brown Meeting Room.

Myatt said he is "very enthusiastic" about the reception the building has received from Pampa citizens since it was opened Sept. 2.

"We have paid for everything we have done to the building so far, and we have the $50,000 in a contingency fund drawing interest for future repairs and emergencies, as we promised at the beginning of the fund-raising drive," Myatt said.

"We are doing this on a pay-as-you-go basis," he continued, "and not a thing will be done unless we pay for it."

"We are to the point where we are almost completed (with the first floor), but we do not have the funds to finish presently," Myatt added.

He indicated that the only items remaining to be completed are finishing the kitchen facilities and purchasing some needed kitchen equipment, all of which will require an additional $20,000.

"A few people who made pledges during the drive have not paid them to date," Myatt noted.

"However, if all the pledges were paid, we would still need several thousand dollars."

"Those who have intended to make a donation but who have not gotten around to it could help us complete this project in a short period of time if they would send their donations to us immediately," he stated.

Donations can be mailed to the Pampa Area Foundation Inc., P.O. Box 541, Pampa, Texas, 79066-0541. Myatt reminded donors that their donations are tax-deductible.

Chamber President Norman Knox also indicated his pleasure that the building is being used by the public as it was intended.

The chamber manages the building for the foundation. But both Myatt and Knox stressed that the building is not the "Chamber of Commerce Building," as too many people have been calling it. Instead, they emphasized, it's the "Pampa Community Building."

Knox said currently there is no charge for using the building, but donations for its use are accepted.

"However, in the near future, we will set a moderate fee for the use of the building facilities in an effort to recover the cost of utilities and custodial expenses," Knox said.

Knox said all meals currently served in the Brown Meeting Room are catered "and we plan to continue the catering when the kitchen is finished so our local restaurant owners can also benefit from the use of the building."

He continued, "The building was constructed by the citizens for their use, so we only wish to recover our expenses, not to make a profit."

Knox urged citizens to get behind the foundation board members "and help them complete the building as quickly as possible."

"The citizens of Pampa are known for their 'can do' attitude, so I feel they will help out this time also," he concluded.

Reservations for the use of the Pampa Community Building can be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce office at 669-3241.

Since the use of the building continues to grow, citizens and groups are urged to make their reservations early in order not to be disappointed.

Chamber secretary Deborah Musgrave released a breakdown of groups and residents making use of the facilities in September and October. The list shows a variety of organizations, groups and residents have been taking advantage of the meeting rooms.

For example, users of the Nona Payne Conference Room for September included building occupant groups and committees from the Chamber of Commerce, United Way, Board of Realtors, Clean Pampa and PFAA.

But others included Pampa Soccer Association, Lions Club board of directors, Business and Professional Womens Club, Cadillac Ball committee, Pampa Industrial Foundation, Sticher Guild, Girl Scouts and a workshop for Pampa's Texas Cities for Economic Leadership (TEXCEL) program. Also, the chamber's defensive driving course was taught in the conference room.

In the M.K. Brown Meeting Room, September users included the United Way fund drive check-ins, Pampa Gifted and Talented Association, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Chamber Gold Coats, Downtown Business Association, Pampa Police Department, Pampa Community Chorus rehearsals and the Burton family dinner.

In October, many of the same organizations continued to use the facilities. But others also have used the rooms.

Conference room additions included Homemakers Extension Club, Leadership Pampa, Tralee Crisis Center board.

Choir

ing the holidays or during the summer," he explained. "But when they don't meet, they miss it."

As a result, the director has little trouble recruiting senior choir members when the new church year begins.

"We just publish the schedule and say, 'If you're interested, come join us,'" he said.

And don't expect a doddering rendition of Rock of Ages from these folks. The group, which sometimes incorporates whistling and kazoo in its routines, performs lively, upbeat music. Songs that are full of hope and joy.

The musical to be performed tonight is an example. According to McDonald, the musical looks at aging in a "sometimes humorous, sometimes serious" way through music and drama. A New Hope, is typical of numbers that are written especially for senior choirs.

"We're not afraid to laugh at ourselves," McDonald said of the group. "We have found that humor is a tool we can use to get at a meaning underneath."

And McDonald, who is only half as old as most of the group members said that by working with the elders, he has learned a lesson in growing older.

"I have always wondered how I was going to be when I'm their age," he said. "Many folks kind of slow down at 65. But these people have shown me that you can always learn and try new things."

"It takes a certain type person to be willing to take a chance on something that's not part of their routine," McDonald said. "But these people want to take chances and grow and learn something new."

"It's becoming part of their routine."

Gathering remembers Kennedy; 100 brave chill for ceremony

By SUZANNE GAMBOA
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — Bill Borom designated himself a volunteer tour guide Saturday and marked the 23rd anniversary of John F. Kennedy's assassination by mapping out the president's route for visitors to the downtown Kennedy memorial.

"It was a morning just like this. He was coming down the street and the sun suddenly broke through," Borom told a visiting family. "And the Secret Service men decided, 'Let's take the bubble canopy off and let the people see.'"

"If they had left it on another 10 minutes, he would be alive today," Borom said.

Although the city has not had an organized commemoration of the presidential slaying for years, at least 100 people came out Saturday in cool, foggy weather to see the infamous route.

At 12:30 p.m., the approximate time the fatal bullets were fired, one group of people clasped hands and bowed their heads, while others stood nearby in respectful silence.

Two pink bows and some silk flowers decorated the lawn flanking Elm Street, the street Kennedy's motorcade was traveling when he was shot.

A yellow and white plastic flower arrangement with a label reading "A Witness" also marked the site Saturday, and pink ribbons were tied around green lamp posts along the route.

Although some made a stop at the memorial, most gathered at the Texas Schoolbook Depository and at Dealey Plaza along the motorcade route.

"It's still overwhelming after all these years, after 23 years has passed," said Debra Johnson, a student of Lamar University in Beaumont. "It's still kind of sad in a way."

Ms. Johnson visited the site with several other Lamar students to fulfill a criminal justice class assignment.

"We're here just to look at the crime scene," she said.

Conversations of most of the visitors were dominated by personal theories on the assassination.

Following the moment of silence, several of the visitors sat and listened to Penn Jones, an elderly man who says he has researched the assassination and each year gives visitors his opinion in an informal speech.

"He was trapped by the police in this area," Jones said sweeping his hand across Elm Street.

"It is my opinion that there were nine guns that fired one shot each. One of those guns was on top of the Dallas County jail, and I assure you in order to get up on top ... you got to get permission from the sheriff," he said.

"The greatest short-selling in history took place on the morning of Nov. 22, 1963," Jones said.

A number of visitors were from out of state. Two women from Madison, Wis., said they were in Dallas for a convention, "and so of course, if we were here we wanted to see this."

But Jenny Dahn, 27 and Patty Hying, 27, said they had expected a more organized ceremony. "It seems like they're overlooking the importance of it," Ms. Dahn said.

Dallasite Jeff Porter said he had seen visited the site in the past on a previous anniversary of the assassination but said the television drama "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald" had rekindled his interest.

funding up to $500 to pay for investigation and expert testimony.

But Kennedy complains that some court-appointed lawyers make up to $900 for each day in court. He said that amount is unreasonable.

"When you view the different persons involved in a trial, look at what the people involved make — the DA, the judge. That should provide some guideline for what you should pay a court-appointed attorney, who's going to be paid from the same source, which is the taxpayers' money," Kennedy said. "Why should the one attorney who's court-appointed be paid more than the district judge who's presiding over the case and who appointed him in the first place?"

He estimated that district judges average $200 per court appearance, while the prosecutor averages $135.

By contrast, he said, court-appointed defense attorneys are averaging more than $500 per appearance.

"No one else is making that kind of money in this county," he said.

Warner said he could not comment too extensively on his cases but said defending a criminal defendant often involves hidden costs.

"You may only ask a witness five minutes' worth of questions but you may have spent months looking for him, and you may have interviewed 15 people trying to find him," he explained.

He said that since 1959, when the Texas Legislature repealed part of the law that said commissioners courts could pay attorneys as they saw fit, "the Legislature has put it in the hands of the district judges."

In the Schreckhise case, 31st District Judge Grainger McIlhany granted Warner an average $75 per hour, $25 less than the $100 per hour Warner charges his private clients.

Warner said he submitted a bill listing every step he took in the Schreckhise case, in which his client received the maximum life in prison.

"I don't know why they feel it's excessive," he said.

Attorney Phil Vanderpool said the average rate of $100 per hour for Pampa lawyers may sound high to a layman but should be compared to accountant or plumber fees. Keeping up with ever-changing laws is not cheap, he said.

"People don't realize that once you buy the library book, it has to be supplemented," he explained. "The law book companies don't just publish these supplements for nothing. I think every lawyer recognizes his responsibility to do what we call pro bono work — freebies — but every lawyer also has to pay his overhead and has his family to feed."

Vanderpool said compensation of court-appointed attorneys must take into account more than courtroom appearances. A defense lawyer who cares about his client is under plenty of pressure, knowing that client's life is in his hands, he said.

"You'll spend a whole lot more time getting ready to go to court than you will in court," he said. "Say you spend five days in court at eight hours a day, you may spend twice that much getting ready to go."

Judge McIlhany said he would not have approved Warner's bill if he didn't think it was reasonable. Judge Cain declined to comment while Warner's cases against the county are pending.

Assistant District Attorney David Hamilton, who has not prosecuted a case involving a court-appointed lawyer since June, called the squabble a "serious problem" that has helped bring district court matters to a virtual standstill.

He said his office is caught in the middle of the controversy because cases cannot be prosecuted without defense attorneys.

"To me, that is a cost of prosecution," he said. "And as long as we have upheavals in that part of it, this office isn't going to run very smoothly."

"It may feel good to have all that money in the bank," he added. "The other side of the coin is, what is the cost to the community of not prosecuting? You can't put a dollar sign on it, but it's certainly out there."

Hamilton said all those involved in the situation — the commissioners, the attorneys and the district judges — are doing what they think is right. He said more dialogue among those involved would speed a resolution.

Commissioners have asked to meet with the district judges, but no such meeting has been held.

McIlhany said a decision by the Amarillo Court of Appeals in the Warner case — expected early next year — should offer all those involved some guidance.

"Whatever their decision is," he said, "I think we should all abide by it."

SMU president's resignation creates academic tug-of-war

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist President L. Donald Shields' abrupt resignation has left the university caught between its lofty academic goals and the desire to build a top athletic program, university officials say.

Some faculty members said in the wake of Shields' retirement announcement Friday that the university must decide its focus for the future — whether athletics or academics will forge its reputation.

The 50-year-old president, who has held the post the past six years, resigned for health reasons just two days after the SMU faculty senate voted to ask the administration to change its approach to college athletics.

Shields has been fighting a severe case of diabetes and had recently spent three weeks in California trying to improve his condition. He said his doctor advised him last week that he was in danger of more serious health problems because of the recent pressures of his job.

After the resignation announcement, Frank Sogandares, a biology professor who called for

Shields' resignation earlier in the week at the faculty senate meeting said, "I hope that the board (of governors) will now pull back and look retrospectively at what's happened and analyze it and not make the same mistakes again."

SMU's football program is on NCAA probation, and recent revelations in the media about further alleged wrongdoing could result in a two-year suspension of the football program. The faculty's vote was for the university to abandon efforts at building what some faculty members termed a "pro sports" type program.

When SMU was put on probation last year, Shields called the NCAA's enforcement policies "selective" and "harsh." He also said the school's recruiting violations were "totally unacceptable."

When new allegations surfaced recently, Shields took harsh criticism from some faculty members.

Peter Winship, a member of the faculty senate executive board who has called for changes in the athletic department said he believes Shields will one day be seen "as building steps to improve the academic quality of this university."

Ruby's rabbi recalls slaying

Jack Ruby meted out "Texas justice" when he shot the accused assassin of John F. Kennedy 23 years ago in Dallas, says a rabbi who became Ruby's confidante.

"He did this in a fit of anger and passion," said Rabbi Hillel Silverman. "He was a great patriot and he thought he was doing a great favor for the people of the United States. He was doing justice, Texas justice, to a terrible man who had shot his beloved president."

Silverman, 61, has headed the Temple Shalom in Greenwich the past six years, but on Nov. 22, 1963 he was at the Dallas Trade Mart with about 500 other community leaders awaiting Kennedy's arrival at a luncheon. Ruby was a member of his Dallas congregation.

"It was a nightmare, and I don't really think about it anymore," Silverman told The Greenwich Time newspaper in a story published Thursday.

As Ruby's confessor, Silverman is convinced that Ruby acted alone and not as part of a conspiracy when he shot Lee Harvey Oswald.

"He was very neurotic, very psychotic. A number of times (in prison) he would go off the deep end in a very neurotic way. He would start accusing everyone of conspiring against him. He would duck under his table when he heard sirens outside."

On the night of the assassination, Silverman led a sabbath service at Temple Shearith Israel, where he had been rabbi since 1954. He recalled greeting Ruby after the two-hour service ended.

He buried Oswald

PFLUGERVILLE (AP) — It has been almost 23 years since Paul J. Groody handled his most infamous burial, but the retired mortician remembers it like it was yesterday.

Groody remembers well handling the services for Lee Harvey Oswald, the only man he buried twice. Oswald was identified by the Warren Commission as the person who shot President John F. Kennedy to death in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

It's the time of year when every year since that burial that Groody starts getting telephone calls and requests for interviews about the Oswald burial and subsequent exhumation.

Groody was funeral director in charge at Miller Funeral Home in Fort Worth on Nov. 24, 1963 when Jack Ruby shot and killed Oswald in the basement of the Dallas police station.

His first contact came later that day when a Secret Service agent asked Groody to handle the burial of Oswald in Fort Worth because that was where Oswald's mother, Marguerite Oswald, lived.

It took Groody 17 years to find out that the reason he was chosen for the job was that the Secret Service agent's father had attended embalming school with Groody.

Groody says he decided to place Oswald's remains in a vault of steel reinforced concrete to preserve the remains.

"Knowing the circumstances, and being an old undertaker, I realized that they might want to dig this guy up some day,"

Groody said. "And if so, I wanted him to be preserved to the point where at least identification could be made."

Groody, who has retired from mortician work and now works in real estate and construction in this Central Texas city, said a Secret Service agent came to him three weeks after the first burial and asked if he could recall certain scars on Oswald's body.

Groody said he told the agent he had not made any note of any identifying marks on the body and asked why the agent was making the inquiry.

"And he said to me, 'We don't know who we have in that grave out there,'" Groody said. He said the agent gave no further explanation.

The former funeral director says he is at a loss to explain why the vault was cracked when it was unearthed 18 years later for the exhumation.

But he does know that the body in the vault was the same body he placed there before the Nov. 25, 1963 burial.

He remembers down to the socks the clothing he used when he dressed the body.

"I saw those same socks when I dug him up. I know the body I dug up was the body I buried," Groody said.

The burial was not an easy task, Groody recalls.

He had difficulty finding a cemetery that was willing to have the accused assassin buried at their facility. Rose Hill Cemetery finally agreed to allow the burial.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

The world could live without World Bank

The World Bank and other international development institutions are coming under the fire from environmentalists. A consortium of organizations, led by the Environmental Defense Fund, sent a report to Barber Conable, the World Bank's new president, condemning a project in Indonesia that would force the resettlement of hundreds of thousands of people, destroy millions of acres of virgin rain forest and place immigrants in an environment that would not sustain long-term development.

This protest is another sign that individuals and organizations concerned about the long-term health of the earth's environment and ecosystems are beginning to understand that government interventions are a more pervasive and dangerous threat than private development. Perhaps more people understand that economics and ecology — two words with the same Greek root, connoting household management or stewardship — are ultimately harmonious in the world as well as in lexicography.

The World Bank and other international development organizations — though they may have some of the trappings of private institutions — are government organizations, financed by money extracted by force from taxpayers. They are specifically set up to promote what they call development by financing projects the private market in unlikely to undertake.

It is not accidental that many projects that the private market views as economically unproductive are also environmentally destructive. While private development undertaken for private gain may sometimes result in things that others find aesthetically displeasing or disruptive of a pristine natural environment, there is little incentive in a system of private ownership for the kind of large-scale, massive disruption of the environment that often characterizes big government projects. To an owner of property, outright destruction of that property seldom makes economic sense — though one person's "enhancement" may be another's "desecration." To a non-owner in the service of "larger social goals," such destruction may be of little concern.

Thus we find dozens of dams and such projects that not only destroy wetlands and other habitats, but they also lose money. That's of small concern to a bureaucrat, but of overriding concern to a private owner.

It is helpful and necessary, but not sufficient, of environmental groups to urge the World Bank and similar organizations to take more account of the environmental consequences of their development projects. Such groups would be well advised, however, to go beyond urging more environmental impact statements and sensitivity, to demanding a simple standard: If a project doesn't make economic sense without subsidies, don't do it. Period.

Of course if the World Bank adopted such a standard, it might quickly discover that it had no useful role in the world — which, come to think of it, might not be such a bad development.

Totalitarians respect force

Our Judeo-Christian values along with a generalized disposition toward liberty makes for a great nation. Its fruit is seen in our respect for human dignity and prosperity. By word and deed too many Americans assume freedom and prosperity are the rule and take them for granted. To the contrary, the history of man is one of not only poverty but brutal oppression and arbitrary control of the weak by powerful elites. For only a small part of man's history, and for only a tiny portion of the world's population have we seen an exception to the history of brutality and material misery.

Our Judeo-Christian values and disposition toward liberty nurture dangers as well. They show up in our attitudes and perceptions of what is necessary to survive in a hostile world which, for the most part, is antagonistic toward liberty. Preachments of church leaders, diatribes by political spokesmen, and wild-eyed-wet-behind-the-ears college students calling for various forms of disarmament, show deathly naivete of the real facts of life in this world.

Between World War I and World War II, the West virtually disarmed. We were lulled into complacency by Adolf Hitler who swore, "We have given guarantees for the states in the West. We have guaranteed to all contiguous neighbors the inviolability of their territory... That is not a phrase — that is our sacred will. We are not interested in breaking peace." Shortly after these assurances were given, Hitler's tanks rolled into Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Those who warned of Germany's military designs faced Hitler's accusations of being "blood-thirsty warmongers." Hitler's most vicious verbal attacks were reserved for Winston Churchill, who did not see "peace in our time" as did Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. Chamberlain thought Churchill's call for a defense buildup was unnecessary and might even provoke Hitler.

Forty years after a bloody World War II, we seem to have forgotten the costly lesson that treaties and promises are breakable. President Ronald Reagan, like Churchill earlier, has been urging us to militarily prepare ourselves and, like Churchill, he has been castigated as a warmonger. Just as in the '30s, the propaganda is being orchestrated by a totalitarian beast — this time, it's Soviet General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev.

Gorbachev is somewhat bolder than Hitler. He's singing peace and disarmament while USSR troops engage in the brutal suppression of the Afghanistan people, while USSR surrogates operate in Angola, Nicaragua, and Cambodia, and while at home Russian Jews and dissidents face oppression and imprisonment.

Along with his Western sympathizers, Gorbachev not only calls for complete eradication of offensive nuclear weapons but of defensive non-nuclear systems as well. Even if the Russians could be trusted to honor a treaty banning nuclear weapons, it would be a bad treaty for us. The reason is simple. The West is outgunned and outmanned in conventional forces by Russia, China, and the Warsaw Pact nations. In a Warsaw Pact conventional attack on Europe, NATO forces could be expected to hold out for about a month before they would topple in utter defeat. The only thing that prevents attack is our nuclear umbrella. Gorbachev would love it if this nuclear deterrence was eliminated.

Hitler would have loved Gorbachev's propaganda advantage. With the growth of the welfare state in America, Gorbachev can offer our congressmen the irresistible temptation: scrap the defense buildup, stop SDI, and in return you can spend more on pork barrel and social programs.

Military might is the only known deterrent to aggression. Totalitarians have no respect for treaties and promises.

"CARE TO GO DOUBLE OR NOTHING?"

The next machine is dead

I've been considering measures to take against vending machines that refuse to work.

I haven't any concrete numbers, but I would guess that in the 30 or so years I've been feeding money into these callous contraptions, they actually have worked only about 50 percent of the time.

A few times when they don't work, the machines don't deliver the objects I have selected, but they do return my money. I can deal with this.

What happens mostly, however, is the machine not only doesn't give me my soft drink or candy bar or bag of peanuts, it also refuses to return my money.

I cannot deal with this. My eyes bulge out, my hands begin to shake, and I want to kill the machine.

To this point, I have never taken any drastic measures, however, because of my fear of the men in the white coats with their butterfly nets.

Another source of my frustration when it comes to vending machines is there never seems to be anybody around to scream at when a stupid machine has just ripped you off.

You would think, since the machine is in a hotel or a restaurant, you could go to some sort of assistant manager and say, in a loud voice so others could hear you, "Your blankety-blank machine has robbed me of my money."

The problem is that when a vending machine refuses to work, it is impossible to find anybody who will take responsibility for it.

"We just lease the space to the vending company," I have been told.

"You'll have to talk to Mr. Wallakowske about that, and he's on vacation in Wyoming and will not be back until 1988," is another copout.

It would be easier getting your money back from a television evangelist.

I decided, however, it is possible to get something back that is better than your money — revenge. Here is how I have planned to get back at the next vending machine that robs me.

1. I am going to kick the machine. I don't mean a gentle kick. I mean, I'm going to rare back and kick the machine until there are large dents in it. I am going to kick it until it is in a terrible state of disrepair and then I am going to spit on it and call it ugly names.

2. After that, I am going to get violent. I am going to my car and get my lug wrench and I am going to beat the machine some more. I want glass to fly. I want things inside the machine to make awful crunching sounds. I want nuts and bolts and screws to roll around on the floor. I want nearby dogs to whimper and small children to cry.

3. Then, I'm going to get really mad. I'm going to set the thing on fire. I am going to take off my clothes and dance naked around the smoldering machine, throwing my hands wildly into the air, while giving off primal screams.

And after a few days of quiet rest in my padded cell, I will emerge a new man.

No patent on inquisitive minds

By Rusty Brown
Wanted: Women to invent stick-proof honey-jar lids, puncture-proof automobile tires and "pill"-proof collars for Oxford cloth shirts.

Why not women? They've already come up with some dandies, including improvements for cars and satellites, breakthroughs in medicine and scores of household inventions.

You can thank Mary Anderson for being able to see ahead when driving through a rainstorm. She invented the windshield wiper in 1903.

And in the space age, engineer Yvonne Brill, recently retired from RCA's astro space division, invented a satellite propulsion system that keeps communication satellites in orbit longer.

Forty years ago, microbiologist Dr. Gladys Hobby was a member of the research team experimenting with injections of penicillin. She went on to help develop streptomycin and co-discover terramycin. Think of the lives she's saved. Yet, in a classic understatement, she once told an interviewer: "It's been a good life. I feel I've contributed something."

Have you ever gasped as hang-glider pilots ran off mountain ledges to soar hundreds of feet above ground?

"I, an adventure-loving woman, Geade Rogallo, invented the hang glider in 1948. (Psst! Her husband helped.)

My grandmother could not have kept house without her Bissell sweeper. It wasn't electric, of course, but I remember it had "Bissell" printed on it in gold letters. Now, I've learned a woman, Annie Bissell, created the crumb collector that swept her name into millions of American households.

The "Woman's Almanac" describes how Catherine Littlefield Greene, a widow with five children, was a major contributor to the invention of the landmark cotton gin. Eli Whitney was one of her boarders when she complained to him how troublesome it was to separate cotton from its seeds before spinning the fluff into thread. Whitney's first device in 1792 was a failure — until Greene suggested he use wire instead of wooden teeth to do the job.

It may seem out of character, but one-time glamorous actress Hedy Lamarr co-patented a secret torpedo-control system for use during World War II.

It is understandable that much of women's inventiveness has centered on the house and children where, of course, we have bountiful expertise.

What mother hasn't been thankful for disposable diapers? Well — you guessed it — they were dreamed up by another mother, Marion Donovan.

According to an article in "Good Housekeeping" (September 1984), the New York City housewife experimented first with shower curtains, cutting and folding pieces in different ways, until the scheme was leak-proof. She also created diaper snaps, a big improvement over diaper pins. After obtaining a patent in 1951, Donovan started her own manufacturing company and, in just five years, sold the business for $1 million.

While composer Richard Rodgers was sitting at the piano writing hit songs for "Oklahoma" and "The King and I," his wife, Dorothy, was cleaning the bathroom. "I thought there just had to be a better way to scrub toilets than the old-fashioned, unsanitary brush method," she told "Good Housekeeping" writer Micki Segel. That's why she happened to invent "Jonny mop," a plastic handle fitted with a disposable, flush-away cleaning pad. I've been a "Jonny mop" consumer for years, but was unaware of its illustrious genealogy.

When Rodgers wasn't cleaning the bathroom, she fashioned other useful items, including sewing patterns made of washable fabrics and book-games for children called the Turn and Learn Books.

So here's a toast to designing women. And, while we raise our glasses, let's click rims for Elizabeth Flanagan, a New York barmaid during the Revolutionary War. She concocted a potent potion of rye whiskey, rum and fruit juice and embellished the drink with a feather from a rooster's tail. The French officer who took his first sip cried "Vive le coq's tail!"

Let's make that "Vive the mothers of inventions!"

Nothing but ingrates

To the editor:

On a recent Monday, the Pampa Police Department gave a shoplifting seminar—free of charge! There were three people in the evening class that I attended, two of whom were from our store. I can't believe these officers took their time out to do something for the merchants of our town, and this is the thanks they get.

The seminar was very interesting and very informative. If you missed it you will be sorry when shoplifting happens in your store (and chances are great that it will), and you are not informed enough to know what to do.

People are always complaining about our Police Department, but why should they put out any extra effort to help when they get no participation or efforts in return?

Thank you, officers Danny Lance and Bruce Deham. Your program was excellent!

Whose convenience?

To the editor:

The Pampa voters elected Mr. Muns as justice of the peace for Precinct 1, and he knew full well where the precinct office is located—in Lefors.

My question is: Why should county tax money be used to have an office opened on North Hobart for the convenience of Pampans to conduct their business, while those of us in Laketon and Lefors would be forced to travel to Pampa to conduct our business?

Who is providing convenience for whom?

I fail to see the rationale.

Lame duck limping

To the editor:

This is an open letter to you and to Texas Lame Duck Governor Mark White.

It's ironic that Texas would be faced with the most severe economic crisis in modern history, while at the same time, Mark White was sitting as Governor.

Yes, Mark White was sitting, doing nothing, as the oil and gas problem worsened. The Panhandle economy has gone down the drain, thanks to a complete lack of leadership from the state's top executive. Mark White, a man with nothing but condemnation for the Reagan administration, refused to represent Texas during these difficult times.

I went to all the major cities in Texas in July 1984, calling on the Railroad Commission of Texas and Mark White to protect the interests of Texas before a federal agency. They refused to do so. As a result of their inaction, we in the Panhandle now find that the federal side of government has the authority to replace the state of Texas in regulating the oil and gas business. The feds can now determine whether a well is an oil well or gas well, how that well can, or cannot, be completed, and whether or not it can ever produce at all.

During this past December, I traveled 6,000 miles in Texas, calling on Mark White to exercise leadership and stop the intrusion of federal authority into the Texas oil and gas industry. He refused again. Low oil prices and uncertainty in Texas have affected the state of the industry and the state of the state. The problems must be dealt with, by both Democrats and Republicans. The combination of Mark White and his purely partisan politics have created a disaster in Texas.

White has tried to place all the blame for the depressed oil economy on President Reagan, for not supporting the oil import fee.

Even the oil and gas industry can't agree on that subject. We can't control world oil prices or the movement of oil around the world.

The United States Congress will not approve an oil import tariff that imposes that fee on Mexico. In other words, if an oil import fee is established, it won't apply to Mexican oil. We would continue getting OPEC oil, through Mexico, without any benefit to stabilizing domestic oil prices or development.

The problems facing Texas are severe. Hopefully, our political leaders will attempt to become educated on the subject of oil and gas production. Mark White has thrown away our absolute right to determine well classifications, completion practices and methods of production. Ironically, had Mark White exercised leadership, he probably would have won.

The economic crisis will continue, but, as of January 1, one disaster will disappear.

Wants to plant kiss on Rocky and Scott

To the editor:

I would like to thank Rocky and Scott (I failed to get their last names) for the kindness they showed to me on Saturday, Nov. 15, when I had car problems between Lubbock and Hale Center.

Their company at the gas station was greatly appreciated. I am so glad that I wasn't alone. It is nice to know that there are still people around who are concerned enough to lend a helping hand.

Officials necessary

To the editor:

Steve Vaughn and the CAER Committee organized and staged a catastrophic emergency. This included a "toxic chemical spill resulting from a tank truck in collision with a loaded school bus." The simulated emergency was to have occurred during a blizzard condition.

That part of the problem was not "simulated." The temperature was 17 degrees, the wind was blowing at 35 mph, and the chill factor was 30 below zero.

The emergency teams, for the most part, reacted properly, and the command post received messages and dispatched personnel according to the "script."

As was expected, everything did not "go" correctly. Had this been a real emergency, one man would have been killed, and a major piece of equipment destroyed. Much was learned, and much more "practice" will be required.

Apparently, our elected officials were not convinced as to the importance of this simulated emergency. Of all the elected county and city officials—only the county judge, Carl Kennedy, was present to observe and participate. Neither the mayor nor any of the city commissioners were present, nor were any of the county commissioners present.

There have been four derailments in the proximity of Pampa that could have, except for good luck, resulted in a "real" emergency. It is imperative that both the county government and the city government are knowledgeable enough to assure that proper emergency actions can be taken.

One can not delegate away his responsibility. In a real emergency, proclamations or edicts may be required that only the elected officials can declare.

The chemical industry takes these training programs seriously, and so should our local governments.

My congratulations go to Steve Vaughn and the many people and organizations that made this drill a success. Pampa should be proud of these people for their efforts to make this a safer community.

W.A. Morgan

Editor's note: We know of at least one other elected official who participated in the drill, Precinct 3 Commissioner Gerald Wright.

Elect city managers

To the editor:

I would like to know exactly why Lt. Denman was suspended for speaking his mind about the Pampa police force. After all, Denman is over 21 years of age. He is old enough to say what he wants, to whom he wants, when he pleases.

If he can't say what he feels without getting in trouble, then what the heck is the freedom of speech for?

Since when did Pampa disregard the Constitution of America?

To me, that sounds a lot like communist rule. The city manager should be voted into office instead of appointed. I think we would be a lot better off if city managers were elected, and Bob Hart sure wouldn't get my vote.

I would also like to know whom Bob Hart talks to before speaking to the press.

Also, why weren't the Pampa citizens informed of the $6,000 of our money spent to bring people from Canyon into Pampa to investigate the Pampa Police Department? I think the public should have been asked about that first, before our money was spent.

In conclusion, I think that Bob Hart should take two days' pay out of his check and give it to Lt. Denman for the two days that were taken out of his check.

Name withheld

Efficiency improves

To the editor:

The so-called exorbitant $6,000 cost of the analysis of the Police Department by Stephens Management Consultants Inc. of Canyon—a highly respected firm—was not arbitrarily ordered by City Manager Bob Hart but was in fact requested by Mr. Hart and Chief J.J. Ryzman, as reported in The Pampa News on Nov. 11.

Any organization that operates efficiently must be designed efficiently.

An in-house investigation is never as effective as an investigation by an outside group with no personal connections. This fact was recognized by our police chief.

In Lt. Roy Denman's hearing, his immediate supervisor, Chief Ryzman, the personnel manager, Phyllis Jeffers, and City Manager Hart all heard his complaint.

Where are you people coming from? Come on, folks, does this sound like arbitrary, dictatorial treatment?

The police "morale problem" cannot be solved by promoting or retaining inefficient personnel, but only by promoting those qualified officers that we now have working the street.

The majority of the letters to the editor that criticize our city officials or employees are signed. This reflects the courage of these individuals and their willingness to accept responsibility for their beliefs.

We feel that those criticisms of public officials that are unsigned are no more than over-the-fence back-biting and show a lack of integrity on the part of the persons who submit them.

John Wright and Don Reed
Pampa

Don't need dictators

To the editor:

Who's next? Can Pampa city employees go to work now and not worry about losing their jobs because they didn't please Mr. Hart?

Mr. Hart seems to have the power to play with people's lives as he sees fit.

If President Reagan reprimanded every member of his administration who spoke out against his policies, I'm afraid Reagan, or any other president, would be a very lonely man.

After spending 20 years in the United States Navy, I can honestly say I never saw a morale problem corrected by reducing anyone in rank. Quite the contrary.

In the U.S. Armed Forces, if a morale problem on an Army, Navy, Marine, or Air Force base can't be corrected at the highest level of that base, then the commanding officer is relieved of command and replaced.

This rarely happens because commanding officers are always pre-qualified before taking command. But once in a blue moon one of them will become ill or injured or get on a power trip. When this happens, he is relieved for cause.

Now, someone says, city of Pampa employees are not in the U.S. Armed Forces. No, they aren't, but we all have the same things in common:

1. We all worship the same God.
2. We all salute the same flag.
3. We all have the same government.
4. We all have the same president.
5. We all pay taxes.
6. And most of all, we are each held responsible to support the Constitution of the United States.

During my 20-year career, I was in management for 15 years. I learned very early not to reprimand my subordinates publicly, especially senior personnel.

Demoting former Capt. Roy Denman to lieutenant for the reasons reported is one of the most unprofessional boners I've ever heard of.

The other one is threatening our police chief. I was a chief in the Navy and am still a chief in the Fleet Reserve, and nobody ever threatened to fire me because I didn't agree with him, certainly not in the newspaper.

I for one respect the law, and I know the majority of Pampans are law-abiding citizens and respect the way the officers in our Police Department enforce the law.

I'm not one who "rides a good horse to death," but why was $6,000 spent to find out how to correct a morale problem in the Police Department?

If Mr. Hart had asked any number of mature adults in Pampa, they could have provided the same conclusions as the consulting firm. The $6,000 could have been used in repairing more city streets or some other worthwhile cause to improve the morale of Pampa.

Yes, Mr. Hart, towns have morale problems, too, and townspeople are very effective in resolving their own morale problems without outside help.

By the way, Mr. Hart, I think the company you hired to investigate our Police Department owes you a refund. I don't think the consultant helped much.

I've been a resident of Pampa all my life (42 years) and plan to be here at least 42 more, unless Pampa loses its constitutional rights. The Preamble to the Constitution states, "We the people, in order to form a more perfect union..." Our country, states and cities have survived without dictators for 210 years, and I for one have fought and will continue to fight to keep it that way.

Pampa is going through some very difficult times because of the oil and farming problems throughout the country.

We don't need anyone inventing more problems from outside our community, or inside. Remember, the law can be enforced without the city manager, but it can't be enforced by the city manager alone.

A sister to Russia

To the editor:

I would like to make a few comments about the current situation in our so-called Police Department.

It seems kind of strange to me that Bob Hart thinks he can spend the taxpayer's hard-earned money on some stupid study on the Police Department.

Why can't we take care of our own problems! That is why we have our City Commission, school board, city manager (Ha!), and various other organizations.

The only thing that this shows me about our leaders is that they are somewhat less competent than it takes to do an efficient job.

Now to the "Hart" of the problem.

Is this country we live in a sister to Russia? Since when is freedom of speech against the law?

Mr. Hart, are you trying to hide something? Do you think someone is going to say something about an illegal act that is going on within your department?

Maybe all of the city employees work for you, but might I remind you, Mr. Hart, that you work for us, the citizens of Pampa.

If it were left to me, we would be looking for a new city manager.

This is America; we are free people.

Muns confuses me

To the editor:

Refer to Page 3 of The Pampa News on Wednesday, Nov. 5.

The story on that page read: "In Precinct 1, Republican Bob Muns, 1920 Lynn, said he plans to meet with commissioners before he takes office in January and try to get it all settled as to the location of the office."

The article continued: "Although he said he realized the final decision will be the commissioners, Muns said he feels the office should be moved from Lefors to Pampa to benefit taxpayers and to relieve some of the burden of the busy Precinct 2 office."

"Muns said he intends no slight to the people of Lefors and added he still plans to meet with Precinct 1 Commissioner O.L. Presley of Lefors to see about holding court in Lefors once or twice a week, if a suitable location can be found. He pledged to support all the people of Lefors, not just those in Pampa."

I have a few observations:

1. It is obvious Mr. Muns did not plan on working at the present location (which is in Lefors, and paid for!) when he ran for election.

2. Someone needs to explain to me what the overload in Precinct 2 has to do with Precinct 1, unless, of course, the taxpayers need to understand that they should take care of their justice of peace business in their own precinct.

3. Who will be available to carry on business in the suggested (rented) Pampa office when Mr. Muns is in the (paid-for) Lefors office in his "part-time" court sessions?

4. Is Mr. Muns going to make these trips between Lefors and Pampa at his own expense, or will the taxpayers have to pick up the tab for his travel?

5. If Mr. Muns works both offices on a part-time basis, where do taxpayers go who need a justice of the peace while he is working in the other office?

These comments and questions raise much confusion, to say the least. But, if they are confusing to the taxpayer now, just wait until we have to keep up with Mr. Muns' schedule between two offices!

Need some answers

To the editor:

Bob Muns hasn't been sworn into office yet, and already it appears he does not think he should perform his duties in the existing justice of the peace office in Lefors. An office, by the way, that is already paid for.

If Mr. Muns' opponent, Pat Steele, had won the race, I wonder if she would have asked that the office be moved to Pampa?

I have some questions:

(1) Would some county commissioners be trying to justify an office in Pampa? Why?

(2) If Steele had won the election, would the commissioners have asked her to move to Pampa and run the office in Lefors part-time?

(3) Can justice of the peace offices be run efficiently and economically on a part-time schedule? It is evident that Mr. Muns knew where the office was located when he ran for the position of justice of the peace. Why move the office?

Why can't Mr. Muns work where the office is presently located?

I need answers.

The greatest people

To the editor:

We are from London, Texas. Last week we were in Pampa, and as we were leaving town, our car caught fire.

We were astonished at the help we received from unselfish and caring people. Jerry Etheredge stopped and had the fire out so quickly that the paint wasn't even destroyed.

Guy Cook and his mechanic repaired the car as rapidly as possible and did a great job! We were given a private car to use as long as needed.

Margie Prestidge came and took us to lunch at Catfish Junction. The owners and all of their staff were so gracious and caring.

There were many other offers of help, from bringing us coffee, to offering us a place to stay. Never have I encountered such caring people.

Your town is one of the greatest. Many thanks to all.

Maintain our assets

To the editor:

Through the years, I sometimes hear the complaint that the south side of our city is short-changed.

A man recently charged in a letter to the editor that his taxes flowed from south to north for purposes benefiting only the north.

Logic indicates that this is not so. He objects to $50,000 being spent for the improvement of hike and bike trails in the parks. These trails and park lands scattered about the city have been donated by persons who loved our community. They are community assets that benefit all.

Good stewardship requires that we maintain them. J. Kirk Duncan

Beleaguered Basin watching for locust plague

Texas guest columnist

By KEN BROADNAX
The Odessa American

ODESSA (AP)—Don't be surprised if more than a few West Texans are keeping wary eyes on the horizon on the off chance that a plague of locusts might show up.

On second thought, it seems inevitable that a few billion of those critters are on their way.

After all, that's one of the few problems that Permian Basin residents have escaped in recent months.

And Odessans will be quick to point out that they've endured their share of those difficulties.

Anyone want to howl a few verses of, "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen?"

Even before the caprices of nature and the quirks of fate began to create havoc, things weren't all that rosy. A depressed oil economy laid waste to what had generally been considered a fat and happy West Texas.

Languishing in a stale business atmosphere (and waiting for the next bank to fail) would seem to be enough punishment for a single geographic area. Especially when one specific city in that region spent several years trying to live down a brief reign as Murder Capital of the Universe.

But, nooo. This was to be the year that was in West Texas.

First of all, one must consider that droughts in this area don't really qualify as disasters. Overly dry conditions are more like the norm.

By that reasoning, though, rain would be considered a welcome visitor. Right?

It still is. Up to a point. Trouble is, that point has been passed several times already in the past few months at several different West Texas locations.

You couldn't blame residents if they're wondering when the Basin might return to its prehistoric status as an ocean.

Meanwhile, tornadoes were toying with a few locations, the normally tame Pecos River went on a rampage and lightning was causing individual disasters by bonking out those indispensable television sets.

Between calling wrecker services and asking Santa Claus for a Wet Vac, West Texans had to keep an eye out for the Bacteria That Ate Odessa and a Few Outlying Communities.

Into the area rode a ghastly gastric distress that nobody could spell or pronounce. Few had heard of the stranger, but those who crossed its path had immediate regrets.

Shigellosis struck fear in the hearts—and tummies—of thousands of citizens. The several hundred who actually were stricken were joined by thousands of others who imagined the worst at the first stomach twinge.

Before that commotion died down, the ever-present spectre of hydrogen sulfide reared its ugly head. The potentially deadly gas seeped from a well and caused the evacuation of about a thousand Odessans. It was accepted as just another blow below the Basin's belt.

Chorus of critics taunts Reagan to admit error on Iran shipment

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many senior members of Congress are telling President Reagan to reverse course and concede his secret arms sale to Iran was an error, then revamp his staff to meet the challenges of his final two years in office.

That's the advice from his friends. Reagan's natural critics, the Democrats who will take control of the Senate in January and who hold power in the House, are eagerly picking at the controversy in hopes of tearing away the "Teflon coating" they claim has insulated the president from lasting political damage in prior controversies.

"Now there's a feeling the bear is bleeding," said one senior House Democrat, speaking on condition he not be identified. Since Reagan's news conference Wednesday night, the White House has maintained an official silence on how the president intends to further address the controversy.

Whatever advice he takes, whether from his top aides or from the people outside government to whom he periodically turns for help, the president is embattled in a way that neither he nor Democrats are accustomed to. Reagan has twice tried to put the Iranian arms sale controversy behind him, and has twice failed, judging by public opinion polls and the criticism in Congress. Recent days have produced the following:

■ After his nationally televised speech on Nov. 13, a public opinion poll published by the Los Angeles Times reported that 14 percent of those surveyed found Reagan's statement that he did not trade the weapons for American hostages in Beirut, Lebanon, essentially true.

■ An ABC News poll released on Thursday said that 57 percent of the public approve of the way the president is handling his job, a decline of 10 points since September. The network said that was the sharpest drop in five years. The poll also reported that 59 percent of those surveyed did not think the president has told the truth about the Iran operation.

An ABC News poll released on Thursday said that 57 percent of the public approve of the way the president is handling his job, a decline of 10 points since September. The network said that was the sharpest drop in five years. The poll also reported that 59 percent of those surveyed did not think the president has told the truth about the Iran operation.

■ In the 24 hours after Reagan's news conference Wednesday, Republicans and Democrats in Congress were calling the arms sale a mistake, and said the president may have broken the law by not telling Congress about the shipments. At his news conference, Reagan defended the sale and said he violated no law.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., who lost his chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when the GOP lost its Senate majority in this month's elections, said Friday that the Reagan administration "is not falling apart."

But at the same time, Lugar, who has worked closely in the past with Secretary of State George Shultz, advised Reagan to remake the lineup of his administration.

He added, "The Republican Senate gave them a good deal of protection these past six years. But that shield is gone." Outgoing Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said of Reagan's aides: "I think they need to sort of have a meeting. I hear a lot of statements coming from people who were apparently involved, sort of pointing the finger of blame at one another. I don't believe that will be very helpful."

Reagan will face a Democratic-dominated Congress come January for the first time since he became president in 1981. And while Democrats emerged from the election professing a willingness to cooperate with him, they have not hesitated to criticize the sale to Iran. They have already served notice that they will move swiftly to draft trade and farm bills and challenge Reagan's policy of aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Add to that the investigation Republicans and Democrats both want into the secret arms deal to Iran, and the short-term outlook for Reagan is less than promising.

Said Lugar, "The best thing that you can say about this Iranian situation is that the White House will learn that it's a new ball game."

Safety advocates slam delay for auto air bags

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some auto safety advocates reacted sharply Friday to a tentative decision by the Transportation Department to extend the deadline, possibly as long as four years, for requiring automatic passenger restraints in all new cars.

Auto manufacturers are required under a regulation adopted more than two years ago to install passive safety belts, which automatically wrap around a car occupant, or air bags in all new cars by September, 1989, to protect front seat occupants.

But the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration announced Friday it was proposing a change in the regulation that would extend the deadline "several years" and possibly as many as four years to September, 1993.

The agency said it has concluded that an extension "is warranted by the various technical, engineering and supplier resource problems" that hinder development of passive restraints for both driver and front-seat passengers by the 1989 deadline.

Under the revised regulation, an automaker would be allowed to continue to have manually fastened seat belts, such as those required now, for the front-seat passengers if the driver-side has an air bag, which inflates to act as a cushion in an accident.

The extension of the deadline was suggested by the Ford Motor Co., last July, which in return offered to put air bags for the driver side only in "a majority" of its North American-designed automobiles beginning with the 1990 model year.

Reacting to the tentative decision to approve the request, Robert Munson, director of automotive safety at Ford, said "gives the manufacturer the flexibility to install driver-side supplemental air bags in large volume."

General Motors Corp. issued a statement saying the proposed change "could assist manufacturers in developing non-belt restraint technology including air bags," but the manufacturer did not elaborate on whether GM might provide air bags in more cars.

But others were not as enthusiastic.

The action brought immediate criticism from Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., one of the staunchest congressional advocates of air bags. He characterized the decision as giving in to the manufacturers while demanding no guarantee they will widely embrace air bag technology.

In tentatively approving Ford's request, the Transportation Department "has failed to make public safety 'Job 1,'" Danforth snapped, referring to Ford's widely circulated advertising motto.

Clarence Ditlow, director of the Center for Auto Safety, said the regulatory change would be a step backward in auto safety that would "deprive (front-seat) passengers the same superior life saving technology (afforded) ... the driver."

Auto workers ratify contract with GM

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — Auto workers, whose strike at a key plant idled tens of thousands of General Motors Corp. employees nationwide, overwhelmingly approved a new contract Saturday, a union official said.

With about 3,000 votes cast, approximately 99 percent of the striking Delco Electronics plant workers approved the new contract, said Mike Thayer, shop Chairman of United Auto Workers Local 292.

The 7,700 UAW workers at the GM subsidiary, which makes and ships parts used in all GM cars, walked off the job Monday in a dispute over job subcontracting and transfer of some radio work to Mexico.

By Friday, the ensuing parts shortage forced 37,550 layoffs at other GM plants. By Monday, more than 47,000 workers at 16 assembly plants nationwide would have been idled, GM spokesman Donald Postma said Saturday.

The plants that face layoffs on Monday are in Missouri, Louisiana, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, Kansas, Indiana and Delaware.

John Grix, another company spokesman in Detroit, said the company was working to determine how long it would take to return the affected plants to full production once the Kokom strikers return to work.

Thayer estimated the first full shift of Delco employees would return to work around midnight Sunday.

Thayer said the new contract keeps radio production at the Kokomo plant. In return, employees promoted to a new radio product line would not transfer to other units for 12 months, saving the company training costs.

He said that during negotiations, which ended early Friday, GM offered to keep the radio lines in Kokomo if UAW negotiators could find $25 million in cost-cutting measures.

Group seeks to stop Texas Air's takeover

MIAMI (AP)—An Eastern Airline employee coalition, joined by famed defense attorney F. Lee Bailey and a former Eastern president, have urged a federal judge to block an imminent takeover by Texas Air Corp.

The coalition said it has a better deal to offer. "If the injunction relief is not granted, the consequences will be disastrous for the employees, for the shareholders, for the airline, as well as the Miami area," said Stephen Lowey, a New York attorney who with Bailey made the employees' plea late Friday to Chief U.S. District Judge James Lawrence King.

Lowey asked King for an injunction to stop a planned Nov. 25 meeting at which shareholders will be asked to formally approve a Feb. 23 deal in which Eastern's board agreed to cost-slashing airline entrepreneur Frank Lorenzo's offer to save the airline by taking it over.

Eastern employees, aided by a bank-investment company, say they can buy the airline for $11.50 cash per share, while Lorenzo's complicated $10-per-share bid called for only $6.25 a share in cash, the rest in paper.

Lowey also asked King to order Eastern's board of directors, which already has let Texas Air Corp. acquire 51 percent of Eastern's outstanding stock, to consider the employees' offer "in good faith and in the best interest of all shareholders."

"We seek a level playing field," Lowey said.

Attorneys for Eastern and Texas Air said the union move was too late and noted that Texas Air already held 51 percent of the stock under a binding agreement.

Eastern attorney David Ross said the deal was at "11:59," and said further delays would jeopardize the airline's solvency. He said lenders for the purchase of three new Boeing 757 jetliners pulled out Thursday because of the employee lawsuit.

Bailey told the judge was the suit "is a capital case. It's the life or death of Eastern Airlines."

He said Lorenzo would kill Eastern as a major carrier and hire 30-year-old pilots at cut-rate wages.

Ross, dismissing the union's portrayal of Lorenzo as "the Prince of Darkness," said Bailey's arguments were "beyond reality. (Bailey has) taken us into the Twilight Zone."

Former Eastern president Samuel L. Higginbottom agreed Thursday to head the Eastern Airlines Employee Coalition Acquisition Inc., which announced at the same time that it had raised its $600 million cash purchase offer for the carrier from $10.25 a share to $11.50.

Higginbottom was Eastern's president from 1970 to 1974 and headed Rolls Royce Inc. until his retirement last month.

"We think it's significant that (Higginbottom) has joined the union—this adds a lot of credibility to our offer," said Dick Buxton, chairman of Private Capital Corp., the San Francisco firm handling financing for the Eastern workers.

Eastern spokesman Jerry Cosley said Thursday that management had no immediate public comment about Higginbottom's appointment to the coalition. Cosley has previously said the company did not take the coalition's purchase offer seriously. Two federal regulatory agencies have already approved the Texas Air takeover.

Although the coalition has no money now, another document was filed in federal court here Thursday to support their suit to stop the Texas Air-Eastern merger, in which Lorenzo offered $676 million in cash and bonds for the carrier.

Frank Nickell, a partner in New York takeover specialist Kelso & Co., said in documents that the coalition offer is possible.

WALKING BY THE SPIRIT

"But I say, walk by the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit and the Spirit against the flesh; for these are contrary the one to the other; that ye may not do the things that ye would." (Galatians 5:16-17.) In this exhortation we note that the best way to avoid defilement through sin is to follow the direction of the Holy Spirit. The Spirit directs through the written Word of God, the Bible, particularly nowadays, the New Testament. Before Jesus died on the cross He assured His disciples that He would send the Holy Spirit. He also assured them that the Holy Spirit would guide them into all the truth (John 16:7-15.) After Jesus ascended back to Heaven, the Holy Spirit come upon the apostles and they began to speak the Word of the Lord (Acts 2:1-4.) Later the spoken Word was written down and thus we have the teaching and direction of the Spirit today (I John 1:1-4.) This nation is undergoing a siege of ungodliness and immorality unsurpassed and unparalleled in all its history. All manner of immorality, indecency, and downright filth is displayed before us on movie screens, television, magazines, newspapers, and in some instances, taught in our schools! The devil certainly has things going his way as far as the works of the flesh are concerned. Even many of the modern day fashions in clothes are of such a nature as to reveal a great deal more than they conceal which of course suggests and entices. It is difficult for godly people to overcome that to which they are so constantly subjected. To oppose the things of immorality is to expose oneself to criticism and uncomplimentary labels. Nevertheless, all godly people must speak out on these issues as well as others which are contrary to the Word of God. The saddest thing of all, regarding these things is that many will lose their souls as a result thereof (Galatians 5:19-21.) But we are assured that if we "walk by the Spirit" we shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh. This, most assuredly, we all need to do.

Communist comedian

A humorous sight at first, this Chinese actor portrays a Chinese official disgraced and humiliated during the 1966-67 Cultural Revolution. The paper hat and typewriter that hang from his neck symbolize pennance for slavish subservience to foreign ideas. The Chinese actor was playing a minor role in the film, "The Last Emperor."

Pope rubs with Maoris

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Pope John Paul II on Saturday touched noses with Maori tribal leaders in a traditional greeting ceremony and praised the values of the Maori culture.

"The strengths of Maori culture are often the very values which modern society is in danger of losing," he said. He listed among those values loyalty to family and an acknowledgement of the spiritual dimension of life.

India sues Union Carbide for leak

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government on Saturday sued Union Carbide Corp. for $3.12 billion in damages stemming from the 1984 toxic gas leak at the company's Bhopal plant that India said killed 2,347 people.

It was the first time the government specified the damages it is seeking in the world's worst industrial accident. India rejected a company offer of a $350 million out-of-court settlement.

State-run All-India Radio said the suit was filed Saturday in Bhopal District Court in central India.

In its court papers, the government put the death toll in the Dec. 3, 1984 accident at 2,347. Earlier official estimates ranged from more than 2,000 to more than 3,000.

India said 30,000 to 40,000 people were seriously injured and 520,000 claims were filed with the Madhya Pradesh state government.

Security tightens for Filipino coup

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Gunmen firing from a car killed a Moslem ally of President Corason Aquino at a hotel late Saturday, and security was tightened around armed forces headquarters as new and insistent coup rumors swept Manila.

The shooting of Ulbert Ulama Tugung, 47, was the third assassination of a political figure in the Manila area in 10 days and followed widespread allegations of a campaign to undermine the Aquino government.

Tugung headed the autonomous government of Western Mindanao. He had come to Manila to declare his support for ratification of a new constitution, seen as a vote of confidence in the Aquino government.

Police and witnesses said Tugung was waiting for a car in front of the Aurelio Hotel about 9:45 p.m. when a blue sports car screeched to a halt and men inside fired M-16 rifles.

Tugung, an aide and a hotel security guard fell dead. Others were wounded, but accounts varied as to how many.

Presidential counsel Rene Saguisag said senior military commanders conferred Saturday at Camp Aguinaldo, but he said he did not know why the meeting was called.

Saguisag said those at the session included Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, who figured prominently in recent coup plot rumors, and Chief of Staff Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, widely credited with heading off a planned military move against the government earlier this month.

Later Saturday, security was increased around the camp, which includes the headquarters of the Ministry of Defense and the armed forces general headquarters.

At one gate, about 20 soldiers led by colonels and majors stood guard after midnight. They were armed with M-16 rifles and grenade launchers.

Gorbachev lubricates Soviet-Indian relations

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — When Mikhail Gorbachev arrives in New Delhi on Tuesday, he will bring the same message he recently sent to an Indian schoolgirl who wrote to the Soviet leader about her desire for peace.

"Dear Praveena," Gorbachev replied, "Soviet-Indian friendship really could set an example of good relations for other countries. Fruitful today, it promises to be even more so tomorrow."

The Kremlin chief comes to India just one month after a visit by U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger. The back-to-back visits testify to competing American and Soviet interest in India's economic potential and strategic location.

But India's relations with the Soviet Union have been less erratic than with the United States. Moscow is India's major arms supplier, and the countries have many common interests that Gorbachev can draw on during his four-day stay.

The Indians are treating the visit as a major event, and Soviet and Indian diplomats have been shuttling back and forth between New Delhi and Moscow to make sure all goes well.

As part of a publicity blitz, the Indian news media reported widely this month on Gorbachev's reply to 13-year-old Praveena Kattaya of Guntur, the daughter of a retired air force officer.

The reports said the girl wrote to the Kremlin leader after visiting the Soviet Union.

Feeding the OLDER DOG

Most dogs reach "Senior Citizen" status at 5 or 6 years of age. At this time their dietary needs start to change. Like their owners in middle years, they're slowing down, and require fewer calories. Weight control is often a big problem (sound familiar?) Next week we'll discuss some ways to handle this one, but for now I recommend "Science Diet Reducing Diet (R/D)-MOST DOGS LOVE IT and they lose weight with it.

Regardless of the diet fed, most dogs need supplemental vitamins, especially Inositol and Choline. The diet which restricts protein, salt and minerals, while providing greater amounts of essential vitamins and fiber, puts less strain on the heart, kidneys and digestive system. I usually recommend either "Cycle 4" or "Science Diet Senior" You should also have your veterinarian do an in-depth physical at least once a year, checking everything from toes to teeth, and hair to heart. In this way, many major problems will be "nipped in the bud" saving you and your dog from undue distress. Next week; THE OBESE Pet.

FARM-CITY WEEK IS NOVEMBER 21-27

"Farm and City: Partners in Progress" is the theme of this year's Farm-City Week, Nov. 21-27.

Purpose of the observance is to focus on the teamwork of farm and city people as partners in the growing, processing, marketing and consumption of food and fiber.

In other words, Farm-City Week is aimed at promoting better understanding between farm and city people and increasing the knowledge and appreciation of each for the American way of life.

Farm-City Week is under the direction of the National Farm-City Council, Inc., which is coordinated by Kiwanis International.

Agricultural production, marketing and processing provides jobs and income for about a fourth of the working force in Texas.

One out of every 35 Texans is a farmer or rancher, and about 25 percent of the state's retail trade business is directly associated with agricultural production and selling of food and fiber products.

Total cash receipts from Texas agricultural sales were about $9.3 billion in 1985. Economic activity generated from these marketings exceeded $30 million.

Total farm assets in Texas are estimated at $98 billion. With 160,000 farms in Texas, assets average about $60,000 dollars per farm. Many commercial size, full-time operators have much more than a billion dollars invested in their farm or ranch business.

Texas ranks in second place in total cash receipts among the leading agricultural states, surpassed only by California. Texas, however, is traditionally number one in the sales of cattle and calves, cotton, grain sorghum, sheep and wool, goats and mohair, cabbage and spinach.

One farm worker today provides food and fiber for more than 80 people. He also creates jobs for more than five nonfarm people who produce the things farmers need and who process, transport and merchandise the crops farmers harvest.

American agriculture is the world's largest commercial industry with assets exceeding $1 trillion. This industry employs nearly 23 million people, a full 22 percent of America's total labor force. The agricultural industry encompasses manufacturing, farming, transportation, processing, and merchandising.

Farm and city people make the best food and fiber team in the world and give this country the capacity to feed its own people and to export for economic gain as well as for humanitarian purposes.

AG COMPUTER SCHOOL
A three-day short course on "Farm and Ranch Accounting" with microcomputers is scheduled Dec. 9-11 at the Stiles Farm, near Taylor north of Austin.

The cost of the short course is $185 and is limited to 18 participants. This school is designed to teach farmers and ranchers with beginning to moderate accounting skills the basis of financial statement preparation, double vs. single entry accounting, cash vs. accrual-basis accounting, and use of a computer in keeping financial records. Emphasis will be placed on initiating the use of a computerized accounting system in a typical farm or ranch situation.

More complete pre-registration information is available at the Gray County Extension Office as well as information on other short courses dealing with microcomputers in agriculture.

CHECK EARLY WHEAT FOR WEEDS

Wet weather favors weeds, and the Texas Panhandle has had a lot of wet weather. Flixweed, tansy mustard, treacle mustard and small seeded false flax are emerging in wheat fields that were planted earlier this fall. These fields should be checked for weeds as soon as possible.

Yield losses caused by the weeds are about 10 percent for every week per square foot that is not controlled and allowed to grow to maturity. As of now, most dryland fields have the potential of producing about 20 bushels per acre. That being the case, one weed per square foot would cost 2 bushels of wheat per acre. At $2.20 per bushel, getting rid of the weeds would be worth $4.40 per acre. This is also the amount that could be spent spraying a field and break even. Spending less to kill the weeds would turn a profit.

Opportunity for profit is greater in fields with more weeds, or irrigated wheat fields with higher yield potential. Fields should be checked carefully because weeds are usually worse along edges and in low places. Careful observation may show that parts of a field may need spraying. Some fields may not have enough weeds to justify spraying.

Growers have a selection of herbicides to control broad-leaved weeds in small grain. Two, 4-D and Banvel are old standbys that are applied at 0.5 and 0.25 pound per acre to wheat that is fully tillered. Wheat that was planted in late August or September is fully tillered now and should be sprayed if weedy, according to Dr. Allen Wiese, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Weed Scientist at the USDA Conservation and Production Laboratory at Bushland.

MCPA, Glean and Ally can be sprayed anytime wheat has 3 to 4 leaves. Application rate MCPA is 0.5 pound per acre of the 75 percent dry flowable product. Ally is a 60 percent dry flowable product that must be sprayed with 0.25 percent of non-ionic surfactant in the spray carrier or control will be poor. None of the herbicides should be applied in the spring after wheat starts to joint. By then, weeds are too big to kill and herbicides may injure the crop.

Glean persists a long time in the soil when applied at one-quarter ounce or more per acre. The period of persistence is determined by soil pH. In research at Bushland, one-half ounce active ingredient of Glean lasted 15 months in the clay loam soil with pH of 6.5. At another location on the Research Laboratory having a soil pH of 7.5, one-half ounce of Glean persisted 25 months.

Ally and Glean are very toxic to most crops other than small grains but especially to sugarbeets and vegetables. Because of long persistence, these herbicide should never be used on land that may be planted to the two crops.

The researcher says persistence has advantages. For example, one-fourth ounce of Glean applied in the fall or winter kills mustards that are growing and residual in the soil will keep fields weed free through harvest. In most cases, Glean will persist long enough to save the first plowing after harvest.

Investor files suit on Boesky

NEW YORK (AP) — An investor who contends Ivan F. Boesky rigged the stock market has filed a class action suit against him and others implicated in a massive Wall Street insider trading scandal.

Angelo Oriolo of Pennsville, N.J., claimed in the suit filed in federal court last week that he was hurt financially when he sold 100 shares of General Foods common stock on Sept. 30, 1985.

It was believed to be the first suit filed against Boesky, one of Wall Street's wealthiest speculators, since the announcement last week that he had agreed to pay a record $100 million penalty for illegal insider trading on about a dozen corporate takeover situations in 1985 and 1986.

The stock market's turmoil over the scandal subsided Thursday, with stock prices rebounding from the dive they took earlier in the week. Wall Street's best-known indicator, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, jumped 34.03 points to close at 1,860.66.

Boesky neither admitted nor denied guilt in his settlement of a Securities and Exchange Commission civil action, but he also agreed to plead guilty to a single federal felony charge of securities fraud.

Half of the $100 million penalty is set aside for people who claim they lost profits because of Boesky's activities.

"We're not waiting for the SEC," said Lester L. Levy, Oriolo's attorney. Oriolo and other small investors were looking for money "wherever we can find it," Levy said.

Also named in the suit are three limited partnerships and three companies controlled by Boesky; investment banker Dennis Levine, who pleaded guilty to four criminal counts earlier this year; the brokerage firm of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc.; and four Wall Street professionals implicated in the Levine scandal.

In the suit, Oriolo claimed he and other investors "relied on the integrity of the market in selling their stocks" but Boesky "engaged in fraudulent, deceptive or manipulative acts" after learning about proposed or actual tender offers for securities of General Foods and other companies.

"The theory is, you're supposed to have a level playing field with no one having an inside advantage," said Levy.

Anger at Boesky flared anew last week with the report that a fund managed by Boesky sold at least $440 million worth of stocks shortly before the SEC announced the penalty against Boesky, enabling the fund to avoid losses other investors had posted.

"Clearly there are many, many people who are outraged and deservedly so," said Marshall B. Front of the Chicago investment and mutual-fund management firm Stein Roe & Farnham. "I think it's something that clearly should be thoroughly investigated."

Deer hunt off to good start

AUSTIN (AP) — White-tailed deer hunters are generally having good success over the state, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said.

The season opened Nov. 8 and a cool front on Nov. 9 helped hunting, said Horace Gore, whitetail program leader.

"I think a lot of hunters had a holiday from work on Veterans Day Nov. 11 and hunted the first four days of the season," Gore said.

"It appears the overall harvest was pretty good the first week."

Texas leads the nation in whitetail numbers and harvest, as hunters take more than 350,000 deer annually from the herd which numbers approximately 3.7 million.

Early results of public hunts on department wildlife management areas reflected favorable hunting conditions.

Biologist Brent Ortego said hunters have already taken more deer during the first three to four hunt periods from the three East Texas wildlife areas than were harvested all last year.

At the Engeling area in Anderson County the hunting has been better than the past four seasons.

Good hunting also was reported from the two areas in the Edwards Plateau in Kimble and Kerry counties.

Labor officials wait for Christmas boost

AUSTIN (AP)—Labor officials are waiting to see if the Christmas shopping season will provide its usual boost to the sagging employment picture across the state. Urban area unemployment figures for October, which were released Friday, showed no significant changes from the September figures. Austin had the lowest unemployment rate; 5.8 percent, the same as it had in September. McAllen-Edinburg-Mission had 20 percent unemployment in October, also the same as that area had in September. "It seems to be in kind of a holding pattern. I don't see any trends," said Stanley Whiting, a labor market analyst for the Texas Employment Commission. Christmas shopping, underway across the state, usually means seasonal jobs for many Texans. "When you have an 8.9 percent unemployment rate, a lot of people don't have the money (to shop). We'll have to wait and look at the figures when they come in," Whiting said. The statewide average for October unemployment was 8.9 percent, compared with 9.1 percent in September.

Texas senators blast arms sale

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both U.S. senators from Texas condemned President Reagan's covert policy permitting the shipment of arms to Iran as a mistake.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat, said he was attending a meeting of the North Atlantic Assembly in Istanbul, Turkey, when news spread around the globe about the administration's arms deal with Iran and the related release of U.S. hostages.

"I was meeting in Istanbul last week with other parliamentarians from NATO countries as details of the U.S. arms sales to Iran were being revealed," Bentsen said.

"They were incredulous, frankly. These were people whose arms we had twisted to not do business with Iran and now it was being revealed that we had not just done business with them, but provided them with weapons."

"Most of these legislators are from European countries. They're all our allies. Most of them had the attitude that 'There must be something we haven't been told yet that will make it all come clear.'"

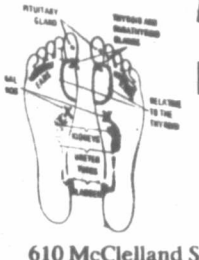

Republican Sen. Phil Gramm, usually a firm backer of the president, said this was one time when Reagan had badly blundered.

"Let me just put it simply and I think I can end my comments on the issue," Gramm said. "Even very bright people tend, from time to time, to do dumb things. And this was a dumb thing."

Gramm said he thought the president was telling the truth to the American people when he said the objective of the policy was to promote rapprochement with Iran's moderate factions and not an arms-for-hostages swap.

Culberson-Stowers acquires Pontiac, Buick, Toyota lines

By CATHY SPAULDING
 Staff Writer

Few 60-year-old businesses are willing to run the risk of quadrupling their product lines in one fell swoop, but Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet is doing just that.

The Chevrolet dealer, 805 N. Hobart, is buying out Nicky Britten Pontiac - Buick - GMC - Toyota, 833 W. Foster.

Executives with Culberson-Stowers have signed contracts with Pontiac and Buick sales representatives and are expected to finalize negotiations with General Motors Corp. this week and with Toyota within 60 days.

Richard W. Stowers, vice president and manager of Culberson-Stowers, said his dealership has been negotiating with Britten since May 1.

Stowers said the new GM and Toyota products will broaden the sales base for the dealer, which has sold Chevrolets in Pampa since 1927.

"Chevy is the least expensive of the GM line, then comes Pontiac, then Oldsmobile, then Buick, then Cadillac," Stowers said, adding that the new lines, plus the GMC trucks and the Japanese Toyotas will appeal to a wider variety of buyers.

"It will enable us to expand," Stowers said. "We can go from the cheaper lines to the higher-priced cars."

Stowers explained that in order to get franchises for GM cars, a business must get approval from officials at the district, zone, regional and national levels of each division (Chevrolet, Pontiac, etc.) of the company.

The Britten buy-out will leave Pampa with two General Motors dealers, the newly named Culberson-Stowers Inc., and Tom Rose Motors, which sells Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs.

"Rose doesn't want to sell out," Stowers said, adding that he'd "rather not say" whether his dealership desires the Oldsmobile and Cadillac lines.

Nicky Britten, owner of the Pontiac, Buick and GMC dealership going to Culberson-Stowers, said Friday that he will retain his used car business on West Foster for a while, "then I don't know what I'll do."

"They've been trying to get us for a long time," Britten said of the Stowers takeover.

He said that despite a sluggish economy, car sales at his business have been pretty good this year.

"They were good during September, when (GMAC finance company) had the 2.9 percent interest rate," Britten said. "Then the 1987 models came in, and people were interested in them."

Stowers said sales were hefty when his dealership was offering the low interest rate, but have slowed since then.

Neither Britten nor Stowers wished to give any figures on the transaction.

Frank M. Culberson established his Chevrolet dealership on North Ballard Street in 1927.

Teague attends implant clinic

ADA, Okla. — Pampa dentist Dr. Keith L. Teague was among participants in a two-day "over-the-shoulder" dental implant clinic held in the offices of Dr. H. Dale Hall and Dr. R.W. Evasic in Ada, Okla., Nov. 6-7.

Dr. Teague attended the first course in March. "Course Two: The Subperiosteal Implants" is for the dentist with implant experience and expands on skills learned for endosteal implants and demonstrates a greater variation of subperiosteal implant procedures.

Dr. Teague also participated in a hands-on demonstration of various types of subperiosteal implants and prosthetic considerations.

Included were unilateral, universal (circumferential), augmentation and subperiosteal (endosseous) implant techniques, as well as information on CAT scans and hydroxyapatite (H.A.) coatings.

The clinics, which Drs. Hall and Evasic give every other month, are designed to provide intensive training in all aspects of implantology theory and practice.

Dental implants are devices attached firmly into or onto bone as supports for replacement teeth and alternatives to removable dentures. They provide the patient with the closest possible approximation to the function, fit and appearance of natural teeth.

Drs. Hall and Evasic are recognized authorities in the field of dental implantology. Their Ada seminars attract dentists from all over the country.

Warren Hasse

Dr. JAMES P. CORNETTE. No finer individual has lived or served the people of the Texas Panhandle. In his own words as recited in the March 1960 edition of The Readers Digest, he "enjoyed building tents and digging holes." And he did that more successfully than anyone ever had or ever will for 25 years as president of West Texas State University.

His death a week ago today brought many vocal and written salutes and acknowledgements of his unequalled stewardship and leadership of education across the area and state. But overlooked in it all was his unending and dedicated support of sports programs. I have been privileged to meet and know many outstanding educational leaders, but none understood the role and value of athletic programs at the college level better than Dr. Cornette. He knew the value of well-run and successful programs as the No. 1 public relations tool with the area and a bridge of communication with the major percentage of the school's alumni.

For that reason he personally handpicked people for his athletic program, people he knew, people who grew up with Panhandle associations, and thus understood what the WT Alumni wanted and what the area and the institution deserved....the very best. That is why he built his winning athletic programs with people like Frank Kimbrough, Joe Kerbel, Tommy Bryant, David Kent, Bob Sloan, Vern Farquhar, Dennis Walling, Cloyce Box....not a stranger to the Panhandle in the bunch. And they, along with Dr. Cornette, had one goal: to make West Texas State a No. 1 institution in every respect, playing the nation's top athletic teams in the top NCAA division and in a major, respected conference.

He felt that this area was No. 1, and the people deserved nothing less in return from its educational leader, and he and his staff worked 24 hours a day to reach that goal and stay there. They had many hard times, very difficult times, but they met those challenges quietly, and solved the problems without a drop in quality.

During his quarter-century of service his football teams played and won its only four bowl game ventures, and missed invitation to a fifth by 60 minutes; his basketball teams played in both of the prestigious post-season tournaments, the NCAA and the NIT; his track and tennis teams won championships in the nationally recognized Missouri Valley Conference; athletes received post-season academic and participation awards; football crowds averaged over 16,000 per game in a stadium over which he supervised construction.

He was close enough to the programs so these successes were attained without athletic department scandal. The nation's major schools....Arizona State, Brigham Young, Louisville, and the state schools like UTEP, North Texas, Lamar, and even Texas Tech....were willing to play the Buffs. Many of those sports figures he hired went on to the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame, an honor they would not have attained without his initial support by giving them a chance. And despite months and months of meetings and effort, Dr. Cornette never could convince Clifford McNeely to leave Pampa HS for the WT post. Mac just wanted to finish his coaching career at Pampa, apparently, and finally gave a final 'no' to a greatly disappointed Dr. Cornette. But again he had shown the desire and effort to employ locally successful, quality people.

Dr. Cornette understood the coaching business and what it took for success. After hiring Joe Kerbel he gave the ebullient one free rein with his program for two years, realizing that as president of the school he might have to overlook some things. But with the Sun Bowl victory of 1962 he called Kerbel in and told him that success should allow him to recruit better and improve the quality of his athletes. The same message was withheld until Walling had attained the NIT success in basketball, and then was issued to him.

Everyone associated with the school knew who was in charge, and had total respect for their president. His communication skills, high moral character, love for the area and its people were all real, not faked or phony or being used as a stepping stone or political purposes. He could make decisions. Example: he was notified at 8:30 one night of a faculty member in night school caught by a superior taking advantage of a student. By 11:30 p.m. the man and his wife had met with Dr. Cornette and the immoral instructor was fired immediately. There was no question in Dr. Cornette's mind about his duty to the school, its students, his God. No fear of the consequences of his action.

It was the mid-Sixties, student riots were taking place on college campuses across the nation. Early one mid-November evening the students gathered near the cafeteria on the WT campus. The raucous group, carrying signs and placards, noisily marched several blocks down the street to the president's on-campus modest, state-owned home. They poured onto the lawn, climbed onto the porch, banged on the front door, hollaring and shouting. When Mrs. Cornette answered, they demanded to see "The school's President!" Dr. Cornette made his appearance, and the students immediately broke out into singing "Happy Birthday" and presented him with a lighted birthday cake.

The past years, since his retirement, have been difficult as he watched the tents he had built being knocked down, the holes he dug being filled. Obviously totally distraught, he called me one Sunday night about 9 p.m., and talked for an hour and a half. He talked of many things, obviously mostly sports related. He said one of his greatest disappointments was being shocked just prior to walking into a Board of Regents meeting in Dallas in February 1971 when told that his recommendation to rehire Joe Kerbel was going to be rejected and Kerbel would be fired. And even more appalling was the "stupid reasoning" behind the decision.

Dr. Cornette suffered a heart attack in early September, which eventually claimed his life of 77 years, 364 days. But those who knew and loved the man must feel his heart wasn't attacked as much as it was broken as he watched the tents fall, the holes fill.

It's doubtful anyone had a greater impact on the overall sports scene in the Panhandle than Dr. Cornette. For sure no one understood it better and administered it more sincerely and dedicatedly. And though the hour is late, one week late as of this writing, I would nominate him for the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame and urge such an honor not be delayed any longer....that Dr. James P. Cornette, a true friend of sports, be inducted next January 18th.

No one who has already been nominated, absolutely no one, can possibly be more deserving.

Penn State crushes Pitt

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Blair Thomas' 91-yard touchdown kickoff return and D.J. Dozier's 28-yard scoring run in the first half triggered second-ranked Penn State to a 34-14 victory Saturday over Pitt, unofficially setting up a Jan. 2 confrontation in the Fiesta Bowl with No. 1 Miami.

Penn State's (11-0) triumph made Joe Paterno only the second coach in modern college football history to produce six regular-season undefeated, untied teams. The late Paul "Bear" Bryant is the all-time leader with seven.

Miami still has to dispose of East Carolina Thanksgiving night to remove the last obstacle to the seventh meeting of two top-rated teams for the national title. The 10-0 Hurricanes are overwhelming favorites to defeat the Pirates, 2-9.

Massimo Manca's 44-yard first-period field goal started Penn State toward its 22nd straight regular season victory and 24th bowl appearance in the university's 100th year of football.

Pitt, 5-5-1, threw a momentary scare into the Nittany Lions when the Panthers drove 80 yards on nine plays to go ahead 7-3 with 2:12 left in the opening period. Craig Heyward dove one yard for the score.

But the Panthers hadn't finished celebrating when Penn State's Thomas returned the kickoff 91 yards for a touchdown that gave the Lions a 10-7 lead.

Mustangs trample Petersburg; Wilson next playoff opponent

By JOHN GERDEL Jr. Sports Writer
It will be the Mustangs versus the Mustangs next Friday night as Wheeler advances into the next round of the playoffs.

Wheeler and Wilson will tangle at Fair Park Stadium in Childress at 7:30 p.m. Preston Smith, Wheeler head coach, announced Saturday. Wheeler will be the visitors for this game.

Friday night, Wheeler earned a berth in the regionals by downing Petersburg 21-8 in a bi-district game at River Road Stadium in Amarillo. The Mustangs have a 10-2 record with the victory.

Wilson advanced to the next level of the playoffs with a 23-21 win over Fort Davis. Sunray also stayed in the state title pursuit by defeating Sudan, 26-7.

"Pleased" was the word that kept cropping up in Coach Smith's vocabulary Saturday as he discussed the Mustangs' victory over the Buffaloes.

"I was pleased that we played good defense again," Smith said, then adding, "Our offense is starting to come around."

The intensity was another point that caught Smith's attention Friday night. "I was pleased with the intensity with which we played," Smith remarked. "That's one of the characteristics of winning."

Doing what they do best, the Mustangs capitalized on a pair of Buffalo goofs in the first half to take an early lead.

Jones got to the Petersburg 5-yardline before being tackled. Cody Wiggins went in from the three two plays later, scoring the first touchdown. Grayson Benson kicked the extra point.

"Cody Wiggins made some big plays for us with his rushing," Smith said. Wiggins led the Mustang ground game, carrying 18 times for 92 yards.

Apparently stymied on the ground during the first quarter, Gonzales went airborne in the second. on his first pass attempt, Wheeler's Bobby Sword was waiting.

Sword picked off the pass at the Petersburg five and returned it to the Petersburg 29. Wiggins and Bubba Smith took turns running for the Mustangs and Smith got the call for the final dash, a 9-yard off-tackle run. Richard Smith's kick put the Mustangs up by 14 with 1:28 left in the first half.

In the third quarter, Wheeler added an insurance touchdown with one of their patented clock-eating drives. Starting from their own 20, the Mustangs needed 13 plays to go the length of the field.

Petersburg's lone touchdown also came in the third quarter, set up by a 45-yard keeper by Gonzales. Mark Escalon then snared a 15-yard pass from Gonzales for the touchdown. Gonzales went left for two extra points.

Augie Hennard, the Mustang quarterback, posted a couple of important plays while guiding Wheeler to victory. "Augie had two big rushes for two big first downs," Smith said.

He also cited Hale Hughes, a defensive tackle for a good game. "Hale sacked the quarterback twice and had other big plays," Smith said.

The Mustangs outran Petersburg, picking up 184 rushing yards while holding the Buffs to 50 yards less. Both teams completed two passes for 27 yards.

And the Mustangs' kicking game was the final nail in the Buffs' coffin. The Mustangs punted four times for a 48.5-yard average while Petersburg punted five times for a 32.5-yard average.

That kept them deep in their end of the field," Smith noted.

Cowboys go looking for miracles

By DAVID GINSBURG AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry says his team "needs a few miracles" to win the NFC East for a second straight year.

With five games left in the regular season, Dallas trails co-leaders Washington and the New York Giants by two games. The Cowboys, 7-4, face the Redskins Sunday in a game they must win to keep their fleeting title hopes alive.

With a victory, Washington could knock its arch-rival out of the division race as well as cripple the Cowboys' chance to make the playoffs as a wild card entry.

It's a golden opportunity the Redskins relish.

"It feels good knowing we can knock them out of the division race if we win this game," said Washington linebacker Neal Olkewicz. "We don't like them and they don't like us," claimed Redskins tight end Don Warren. "A win Sunday would be very sweet."

The Cowboys barely averted their third straight loss last week when they scored two touchdowns in San Diego to salvage a 24-21 victory. While the triumph kept Dallas in the title hunt, Landry still has reservations about whether his team can recover.

"We've got to be considered a long shot," the veteran coach said. "It wouldn't be so bad if we were chasing one team, but we've got two teams ahead of us. We'll need a few miracles to win it."

Washington has won 33 of its last 39 at home, including all six this season. But the Cowboys have won three straight over the Redskins and four of their last five games at RFK Stadium.

Tickets are selling for up to $300 on the scalpers' market as Washington fans hope to see the Redskins avenge an embarrassing 30-6 loss to Dallas earlier this year. Herschel Walker accounted for 200 yards in total offense in that game, but the Cowboys' star running back is nursing a sprained ankle and has seen only limited playing time in the last two weeks.

"It's getting better," Walker said. "I'm hoping it will be 100 percent by game time."

The Redskins have also been hobbled by injuries. Defensive back Darrell Green missed most of this week's practices with a bruised shoulder, and quarterback Jay Schroeder has been slowed by a back injury.

Sandies blow past Harvesters

By L.D. STRATE Sports Editor

AMARILLO — Amarillo High played like a bunch of...well...like a bunch of defending Class 5A state champions Friday night against the Pampa Harvesters.

The Sandies combined accurate outside shooting with solid rebounding to overpower the Harvesters, 76-47, in AHS' basketball opener.

Pampa, now 0-2, trailed the entire game and was behind by 21-5 at the end of the first quarter. Halftime score was 37-18.

While Sammy Simpson and Anton Nowak were taking care of business with their outside shooting, 6-4 Brant Capps and 6-5 Lance Perry had the situation well in hand under the boards. All four scored in double figures. Nowak and Simpson tossed in 15 points each while Perry also contributed 15 points along with 8 rebounds. Capps added 13 points and grabbed 13 rebounds to help give the Sandies a 31-21 rebounding edge.

The Sandies were impressive in their first game, not only with their shooting and rebounding, but also with their ballhandling. AHS committed only 8 turnovers and 7 of those came in the second half when the game was well under control.

The Sandies came on strong the second half of the season last year to win the state title with a 31-5 record.

Lonnie Mills provided most of Pampa's scoring punch with 16 points, but the 6-0 senior was held to only a field goal the first half. Mills was also Pampa's leading rebounder with 8.

Troy Owens followed with 8 points, then came Mark Spain with 6, Derrick Ryan 5, Jason Farmer 4, Grant Gamblin 4, Kerry Brown 2 and Keith Barr 2.

AHS made it a clean sweep, winning both the junior varsity and sophomore games.

Pampa jvs lost 47-37. Top scorers for Pampa were Chirs Hoganson with 9 and Mark Wood 7.

The final score in the sophomore game was 62-36.

Jason Garren led Pampa with 11 points, followed by David Fields with 7.

Pampa hosts Amarillo Caprock Tuesday night for the Harvesters' first home game. The varsity game is scheduled to tip off at 7:30 p.m.

An invitational tournament, sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled to begin Friday in McNeely Fieldhouse.

Amarillo Tascosa and Dimmitt tip off the double-elimination tournament at 11 a.m. Dimmitt, a 3A school, is a frequent visitor to the state tournament. The Bobcats reached the state finals a year ago and may return again this season. Dimmitt has a balanced scoring attack, led by 6-3 all-stater James Alexander, and 6-1 juniors Warren McDonald and Jeremy Warren.

Defending 2A state champion Morton, and their ace sharpshooter, Jerry Joyce, plays Plainview at 12:45. Joyce recently canned 33 points in a 86-64 win over Lubbock Dunbar.

Pampa's game with Big Spring is next at 2:30 p.m., followed by the Amarillo Palo Duro-Lubbock Dunbar clash at 4:15 p.m. to conclude first-round play. Losers of games 1 and 2 meet at 6 p.m. and losers of games 3 and 4 meet at 7:45 p.m. to finish the first day of play.

Saturday's format starts at 11 a.m. and continues on until the championship game, set for 8 p.m.

Buffaloes claim Lone Star title

ABILENE. (AP)— West Texas State scored four touchdowns in the game's last 10 minutes Saturday for a come-from-behind 32-28 victory over Abilene Christian and the Lone Star Conference football championship.

The Buffaloes overcame a 28-7 deficit with two touchdown passes from Tod Mayfield to Wayne High and Stan Carraway and two 5-yard runs by J.R. Compton. Compton's second 5-yarder came with 2:04 to play.

West Texas State, in its first year in the LSC after moving from the NCAA I-AA Missouri Valley Conference, finishes at 7-4 for the year and 6-0 in LSC play.

Abilene Christian finishes at 7-3 and 4-2 for the runner-up spot in the LSC. It had built its 28-7 lead on two touchdown passes from Rex Lamberti to Reggie McGowan and short runs by Lamberti and Gerald Todd.

Mayfield threw for 359 yards and Lamberti threw for 230. Lamberti's two TD passes give him 32 for the season (national collegiate leader and LSC record), and Mayfield finished with 3,664 passing yards for one of several of his LSC records.

Plano notches upset in schoolboy playoffs

By The Associated Press

Brooks Hanesworth returned a kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown and Plano used a wide-open passing attack to upset North Mesquite 37-21 and knock the No. 2-ranked and previously unbeaten Stallions out of the state high school football playoffs.

The defending state 5A champions, Houston Yates, also were eliminated Friday night in bi-district play.

A national high school passing record bit the dirt Friday night in Post, courtesy of Kirk Saul of Valley High School, who threw four touchdown passes during a 34-6 Class A bi-district win against Bronte. Saul broke the national record for the most scoring passes for a high school student.

Saul's performance ran his season total to 54 touchdown passes, breaking the previous mark of 50 set by Sol Graves of Quachita Christian High School in Monroe, La. last season.

Saul, who tied the record with three touchdown passes against Roscoe the previous week, set the new mark with a 2-yard scoring pass to Matt Barrett with 7:53 left in the first quarter.

Plano quarterback Bobby Schrader, who threw for 112 yards and scored on a 58-yard run Friday night at Texas Stadium in Irving, said the Wildcats knew they were facing "a superstar offense."

"All week, that's all we've been hearing. We knew we could beat them," he said. "If we executed, there was no question we could beat them."

Yates was defeated by surprising Houston Madison, 12-6. In the second game of the Astrodome doubleheader, Katy Taylor tied Houston Sterling 14-14 and earned a berth in the next round of the playoffs on penetrations, 5-3.

Austin Reagan also won on penetrations, 5-4, after tying Willowridge 26-26 at Austin's Memorial Stadium.

In another 5A playoff game, Highland Park scored 24 points in the second half to knock off Dallas Carter, 31-11, at the Cotton Bowl. Quarterback Cacy Clyce threw a 27-yard touchdown pass and ran four yards for another score to lead the Scots.

"I always set my sights high," Clyce said. "I knew we could win like this. We had one vision all the way."

Amarillo defeated El Paso Eastwood 31-10 in a 5A playoff game at the Sun Bowl.

In Class 4A bi-district action, defensive back Mike Sims returned an interception 100 yards for a touchdown as Corsicana beat Sulphur Springs 28-3.

A 37-yard field goal by Vernon's Bobby Cochran hit the left upright and bounced wide with no time left as Cleburne held on for a 21-20 win in Abilene. The Lions drove from their 20-yard line in the last 1:32 before the three-point attempt.

Clint Eads of Dumas and Preston Schrade of River Road get tangled up during the Texas Amateur Wrestling Association meet held at Pampa's McNeely Fieldhouse. Around 230 wrestlers competed in the one-day meet in 6 divisions from 6 to 17 years of age. Participants were from surrounding areas, including Oklahoma.

Buckeyes accept invitation to Cotton Bowl

By RUSTY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State accepted a berth in the 51st Cotton Bowl Saturday, but it was obvious that the Buckeyes were California dreamin' all along.

The Buckeyes dropped a 26-24 decision to Michigan on Saturday at Ohio Stadium and then elected to become the first Big Ten Conference college football team to accept an offer to the Jan. 1 game in Dallas.

By virtue of its victory, Michigan could begin packing its bags for a date with Pac-10 champion Arizona State on Jan. 1 at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

On the heels of a loss which ended a nine-game winning streak and left them with a Big Ten co-championship, the Buckeyes said they hadn't thought about an alternative to the Rose Bowl.

"I was planning on going home," said Jim Karsatos, the Ohio State quarterback, who grew up in Fullerton, Calif.

Ohio State will play either Texas A&M or Arkansas in Dallas. If Texas A&M defeats Texas on Thanksgiving Day, the Aggies will go on to the Cotton Bowl. If Texas wins, Arkansas will be the Buckeyes' opponent.

Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce said, "Obviously, we're pleased to go to the Cotton Bowl and play in a New Year's Day game. But when you are the Big Ten co-champs and have the championship game in your grasp, it's a letdown when you don't win."

Sooners slip by Cornhuskers to win Big 8 title

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Tight end Keith Jackson caught a 17-yard touchdown pass with 1:22 remaining and made a one-handed 41-yard catch to set up Tim Lashar's 31-yard field goal with six seconds left as third-ranked Oklahoma defeated No. 5 Nebraska 20-17 Saturday. The Sooners won the Big Eight championship and a third straight trip to the Orange Bowl.

The Sooners, who trailed 17-7 entering the final period, began their comeback on a 22-yard field goal by Lashar with 10:39 left to play.

Oklahoma committed three turnovers in the final 18 minutes and appeared doomed when a punt by Nebraska's John Kroeker was downed at the Sooners' 6-yard line with 4:10 to go.

Jamelle Holieway completed three of four passes for 60 yards as the Sooners stormed the length of the field to tie the score.

Aggies roll to second straight SWC crown

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Precision passing by Kevin Murray and a four-touchdown performance by Roger Vick powered 13th-ranked Texas A&M to a record-shattering 74-10 victory over Texas Christian Saturday, clinching at least a tie for the Aggies' second consecutive SWC crown.

"We played today for that ring (SWC title)," Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill said. "That's something nobody can take away from them. Next week, we'll play for the right to go to the Cotton Bowl."

"The Aggies, 6-1 in SWC games, could win the SWC title outright Thursday with a victory or tie over the Texas Longhorns and earn the host berth in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

In addition to beating the Horned Frogs by the second biggest league victory margin ever, the Aggies amassed a school record 705 yards, the second highest total in SWC history.

Murray hit his first six passes of the game and completed 11 of 12 in the first quarter. He moved into second place on the SWC's career passing yardage list with 6,249 yards and his 6,189 yards in total offense is third in the league.

Second half rally lifts Rice by AF

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Rice never changed its game plan despite an awful first half that left them trailing Air Force 10-0.

"It took the offense a half to get going, but it was really the same game plan throughout," Rice quarterback Mark Comalander said after he tossed two touch-down passes in the fourth quarter to erase a 17-7 deficit and lead the Owls to a 21-17 non-conference college football victory Saturday.

"It was a night-and-day difference between the two halves," he said. "The reason was in the second half we made some big, big plays."

The biggest plays included a 37-yard scoring toss to Keith Lewis on the opening play of the fourth quarter and a 60-yard scoring play to Darrell Goolsby with 7:02 left that gave the Owls the lead.

"I was trying to lead him across the field and Darrell had great speed," said Comalander, who alternated with Quentis Roper for much of the game.

On the play, Goolsby leaped higher than his Air Force defender, who was falling, and ran the final 20 yards untouched to the end zone.

"When two people go out to get the ball and our guy gets it, it's great," Comalander said.

It was the same play that earlier clicked for Comalander and Lewis.

"Give Comalander credit," Air Force Coach Fisher DeBerry said. "He did a great job and kept his cool under pressure."

But it was the Rice defense that rescued the game for the Owls, 3-7.

"Our defense played like bandits," Coach Jerry Berndt said, adding that the defense was playing so well, he threatened at half-time to replace a so-far anemic offense with the defense.

"It is unbelievable what can happen if you go out and play hard and see if you can make things happen and don't get discouraged and don't let the problems you're having on the field affect you," he said. "And that's what our kids did."

DeBerry, whose club rushed the ball 77 times and passed only six times, blamed the loss on the Falcons' inability to come up with the big play.

"We moved the ball well, but several times we were our own worst enemies," he said. "We have not been able to take it down the field and score. That is the difference right now between this team and the team we had last year."

Last year, Air Force demolished Rice 59-17.

Kelton boys finish third

MOBEETIE — Kelton hammered Lefors 50-38 to claim third place in the Mobeetie boys basketball tournament Saturday night. In the girls' side of tourney, Kelton claimed the third place trophy with a 56-31 win over Mobeetie.

In the consolation bracket, the Sweetwater boys stopped Allison 74-37 and the Sweetwater girls edged Lefors, 34-22.

The finals Saturday pitted Mobeetie against Briscoe in the boys bracket and Briscoe against Higgins in the girls tournament.

For most of Mobeetie's rematch with Lefors Friday, it looked like the Pirates would take advantage of Hornet overconfidence. Mobeetie had beaten Lefors 72-54 earlier and most of the first half was the same song, second verse, as it ended with the Hornets ahead 32-24.

But when the Hornets cut back on defense and stopped hitting baskets, the Pirates pulled through and forced a tie at the end of the third quarter. A free-throw by Ronny Vandever and a pump by teammate Kent McLaughlin clinched Mobeetie's second victory, 39-38.

Stephen Batton led Mobeetie scoring with 13 points while McLaughlin contributed 10. Kent Kirbo was the top scorer for the Pirates with 10 points.

In girls' semifinal action a 14-point performance by Lady Hornet Christina Rowley wasn't enough for the Mobeetie girls to catch up with the Higgins Lady Coyotes, who worked together for a 57-27 victory.

Lambert scores 44 for Groom

By JOHN GERDEL Jr.
Sports Writer

GROOM — Daniel Lambert found the range for 18 field goals and eight free tosses Friday night as he led the Groom Tigers to a 69-55 victory over Alamo Catholic of Amarillo.

Not only did Lambert score 44 points hitting 66 per cent from the field, he also pulled down 16 of the Tigers 48 team rebounds and helped slow Alamo's scoring machine Dwight Miller as the Tigers won their season opener.

"He was enjoying himself," Groom coach Gary Rambo said of Lambert's night on the court. "He's going to be a good one for us."

Lambert, along with Jack Britten and Brent Thornton, limited Miller, an all-stater last year, to 29 points. In one outing last week, Miller put 50 points on the board for Alamo.

Lambert, a post man for Groom, got most of his shots from the inside, Rambo said.

Britten, an all-district player for the Tigers last year, ran into foul trouble while guarding Miller and missed most of two quarters, Rambo said, adding that he expects Britten to be double figures for most games. Lambert scored seven points against Alamo.

"We played real good defense," Rambo added.

Noting that this was the first game of the season for the boys, Rambo remarked, "We didn't play real smooth. We would blow them away, then let them back in."

Groom — 19 - 17 - 13 - 20 — 69
Alamo — 10 - 15 - 18 - 12 — 55

Groom's girls opened with 20-8 lead in the first quarter and then held Alamo Catholic of Amarillo to 10 points for the next two periods and coasted to a 60-32 victory. The win boosted Groom's record to 2-0.

"Our first two games, all 10 kids have been contributing," said Coach Frank Belcher of the team's early season success. "Last year about three kids did most of the work."

"The whole last quarter the second team was in and they did a good job," Belcher noted. Groom's second team scored 16 points while limiting Alamo to 14.

Suni Barnett led the Groom assault with 16 points. Erin Eschle scored 11 points and Karen Bohr picked up nine. Bohr and Eschle had nine rebounds each.

Groom — 20 - 9 - 15 - 16 — 60
Alamo — 8 - 6 - 4 - 14 — 32

Lake MacKenzie fishing looks promising

SILVERTON — Lake Mackenzie in the Texas Panhandle is going to produce some excellent largemouth bass and crappie fishing in the near future, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Biologist Joe Kraai said a dramatic increase in the 900-acre lake's water level during 1985 allowed the fish populations to expand. "We compared fish population data in 1986 to that collected in 1982, and found significant increases in the bass and crappie densities," Kraai said. White crappie showed the biggest gain in numbers, increase from an estimated 200 per acre in 1982 to 5,700 per acre in 1986. "Most of this resulted from fish spawned in 1985 as the fish took advantage of increased cover and food availability after the rise," Kraai said. Largemouth bass increased from 7.7 pounds per acre in 1983 to 38.7 pounds per acre this year. "As with crappie, the 1985 year class accounted for most of the increase," Kraai said. "These fish were mostly eight to nine inches long during the July sampling period and with the minimum size limit of 12 inches, they should contribute to the fishery starting in 1987." There is a daily bag limit of five largemouth, smallmouth and spotted bass in the aggregate at Lake MacKenzie. The lake is located between Silvertown and Tulia.

Deer season gets off to a good start

AUSTIN (AP) — White-tailed deer hunters are generally having good success over the state, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said Thursday. The season opened Nov. 8 and a cool front on Nov. 9 helped hunting, said Horace Gore, whitetail program leader. "I think a lot of hunters had a holiday from work on Veterans Day Nov. 11 and hunted the first four days of the season," Gore said. "It appears the overall harvest was pretty good the first week." Texas leads the nation in whitetail numbers and harvest, as hunters take more than 350,000 deer annually from the herd which numbers approximately 3.7 million. Early results of public hunts on department wildlife management areas reflected favorable hunting conditions. Biologist Brent Ortega said hunters have already taken more deer during the first three to four hunt periods from the three East Texas wildlife areas than were harvested all last year. At the Engeling area in Anderson County the hunting has been better than the past four seasons. Good hunting also was reported from the two areas in the Edwards Plateau in Kimble and Kerry counties.

Duck hunting good, improvement expected

Goose populations seem to be fairly good across the state with dark and light geese plentiful on the upper coast and probably through the mid-coast. Lower coast hunters have been getting limits of dark geese, fish and blues are in short supply. The prairies west of Houston have good populations of geese, but young geese have not come down yet. Mid-coast goose hunters have been bringing in a few greater Canada geese weighing above 10 pounds. Duck populations are fairly good but will improve with next window-rattling norther. The weather is still a little too mild, but hunters should get limits if the present weather holds.

West Texas fishing is generally slow

BAYLOR: Water clear, 62 degrees, normal level; black bass real good to 10 pounds; 6 ounces, a 9, a 9-3, a 7, and a 6-1, on crawdad colored cranks, fish full of crawdads; crappie fair to 15 fish per string on minnows; catfish slowing.

GRANBURY: Water clear, normal level; black bass fair to 6 pounds, 6 ounces on buzz baits; striped fair; crappie very good since the cold front to 40 fish per party around boat stalls on minnows; white bass good early and late around power plant underpopping corks with fleaffies; catfish slow.

GREENBELT: Water clear, 59 degrees, 6 feet high; black bass slow; crappie beginning to bite after cold spell; white bass very good to 10 fish per string on slabs; catfish good to 4 pounds on earthworms; walleye slow; one fisherman brought in 5 rainbow trout to 1 1/2 pounds on minnows from Greenbelt, possibly from stockings 3 years ago.

POSSUM KINGDOM: Water clear, 73 degrees, lake full; black bass fair to 4 pounds on plastic worms and cranks; striped slow; crappie slow; white bass excellent to 60 fish per string on slabs in the Peanut Patch and TWA area this week; catfish slow.

SPENCE: Water clear, 68 degrees, 15 feet low; black bass slow; striped fair to 9 pounds on live bait; crappie slow; white bass fair to 10 fish per string on slabs; catfish slow. Not many fishermen.

Red Raiders win

LUBBOCK (AP) — Texas Tech wrote a surprise ending to a storybook season Saturday with a 34-7 thrashing of Houston that netted it an invitation to play Ole Miss Dec. 20 in the Independence Bowl. "It was just like a storybook," said defensive end Calvin Riggs as the Red Raiders overcame a disastrous early season start to post their first winning campaign in eight years. "You couldn't write it any other way," insisted Riggs, referring to early lopsided losses to Miami, Baylor and Texas A&M. "The team kept getting better and better with each game." Saturday's victory was the fifth in the last sixth games for the Raiders and was a crowd-pleasing conclusion to coach David McWilliams' rookie season at Texas Tech.

Mavs whip Suns in overtime

By WALTER BERRY
AP Sports Writer

PHOENIX (AP) — Dallas Mavericks Coach Dick Motta says it was only a matter of time before a change of luck would come for his National Basketball Association club. After losing two close games on recent road trips, the Mavericks rallied to beat the Phoenix Suns 130-122 in overtime Friday night. "We've had our share of tough luck," Motta said. "We had an overtime loss in Portland where we had the last shot. We had a seven-point lead with 24 seconds left in Utah and lost. I always say these things even out. Sooner or later, something right's going to happen to you. We just had complete control in the overtime." Rolando Blackman scored six of his 31 points in the overtime period as Dallas downed Phoenix for the seventh time over the past three seasons. The loss snapped the Suns' three-game winning streak and was their first setback at home in five games this season. "We had our chances. We just didn't do it in the overtime," said Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "We made a couple of big buckets when we were down 116-112 to come back and tie it. We made the first bucket of the overtime. Then, we went flat." Alvan Adams' layup nine seconds into the overtime period gave the Suns a 118-116 lead before Dallas rattled off eight unanswered points with Blackman scoring four of them for a 124-118 lead with 2:21 left. Blackman's jumper with 52 seconds remaining made it 126-120 before Derek Harper and Mark Aguirre added the final Maverick points in the waning seconds. Aguirre finished with 28 points for Dallas while Harper had 25. Detlef Schrempf and Sam Perkins added 13 apiece. Phoenix got a game-high 32 points from Walter Davis. Larry Nance had 23, Adams 13 and James Edwards 12. Dallas trailed 30-22 after the first quarter, 55-46 at halftime and 89-84 after three periods before mounting its rally. Aguirre pumped in 11 quick points and Schrempf's free throws with 6:09 left gave the Mavericks their first lead of the game at 101-99. The lead then see-sawed until Blackman's free throws with 1:24 left and Harper's three-point goal with 49 seconds showing put Dallas up 116-112.

Davis' jumper with 36 seconds left and Adams' layup with four seconds remaining forced the overtime. "We got up by four and we knew they were going to go to Walter," said Motta. "We had two guys on him and he buried a Superman shot (from the baseline)." "We just didn't do the job in the overtime," Davis said. "We had a couple of good shots, but we just didn't hit them at the end. They just didn't go in." "You have to give Dallas credit," MacLeod said. "They had a couple of situations in overtime when the (24-second) clock wound down to three or two seconds and they wound up getting the basket. They made some big plays."

Balanced attack lifts Bucks over Claude

Sports Writer

WHITE DEER — The White Deer boys boosted their record to 2-0 Friday night with a 68-35 hammering on Claude. Todd Haynes, Lance Cross and Bart Thomas led the assault with 12 points apiece. "We played pretty balanced," Scott Murray, Bucks head coach remarked, pointing out that Mike Bradley and Haynes also shared the rebounding mark with nine each. "We have been concentrating on defense with only two starters back," Murray added. The Bucks defense held Claude to six points in each of the first three quarters. Deryll Friday, White Deer girls coach, has a young and inexperienced squad. "It's going to take us a while to learn to play," he said after the team suffered its second setback in as many starts. So Claude, with a second quarter outburst, downed White Deer 44-20. White Deer played played Claude even in the first stanza. Julie Gortmaker led White Deer with eight points. In a girls junior varsity game, Claude stopped White Deer 38-23. White Deer — 6 - 2 - 2 - 10 — 20

A sparkling second half lifted the Canadian girls to 52-42 victory over Follett. After trailing 19-24 at the intermission, the Canadian girls scored 33 points in second half while limiting Follett to 18. "The second half we looked real good when we got our press working and finally started shooting," Jackie Burns, girls coach remarked. His tried only 19 shots in the first half had a total of 47 for the game. Stephanie Harris led Canadian with 13 points and Tonya Vanhooser scored 12 points Van Hooser also had six rebounds. Canadian is 2-0. Canadian — 6 - 13 - 14 - 19 — 52

M.G. Flyers Doing Their Best!

Story and photos by Dee Dee Laramore

Three members of the MG Flyers gymnastics team are to compete today in the North Texas Championships in Richardson. Four of their teammates competed in the semi-finals championships in Fort Worth earlier this month.

Traci Bertram, Katina Thomas and Michelle Abbott, all Class IV gymnasts from Pampa, are vying for the chance to compete at a state level today in the Richardson Recreation Center along with 250 gymnasts from the upper half of the state.

Jennifer Graves, Allyn Scaub, Traci Baumgardner and Kari Bertram, all of Pampa, competed recently at the Class III level at the North Texas Championships in Fort Worth.

Other members of the MG Flyers include Haley Going, Delania Colley and Gina Hugg, also of Pampa, and Sarah Walker of Panhandle.

The MG Flyers, coached by Madeline Graves, first began U.S. competition about six years ago. There are now 11 team members and five aspiring gymnasts on the training team: Sherry Raines, Jeanne Brown, Kim Buchanan, Suzie Hahn, all of Pampa, and Kylea Burkes of Fritch.

Graves says she emphasizes "good competitive spirit" in teaching gymnastics. "We know that they're not all going to be Mary Lou (Retton, U.S. Olympic gymnast). But we want them to enjoy what they're doing, feel good about what they do and to compete with a good attitude. Then they've learned something about life."

A special part of the MG Flyers team, Graves said, is the way the older gymnasts help the younger ones. "It's special the way our younger ones really look up to our older girls," she said.

"We try to teach them that what's important is not always being the best but doing your best," she said.

Thoughts turn toward Thanksgiving

Peeking at Pampa

By Katie

On the last stretch before the Thanksgiving holiday, thoughts turn to holiday fare with all sorts of goodies, of families together once more, and a check on what happened around town.

Did you know Pampa High School has four foreign-born students this year? Johanna Hanka of Finland lives with Connie and Johnnie Hoke. Birgitte Jepsen came from Denmark to spend the year with Sharon and Bruce Potter. Betty and Jack Goddard are the American parents of Erik Engelaar of Sweden. All three students are with the American Intercultural Student Exchange, of which Sue Hutchinson is local representative. Kay Dammholz an American Field Service student from West Germany lives with Lilith and Ed Brainard. Lilith is president of the Pampa AFS Chapter. Darlene Birkes is student representative. All four students will celebrate the American-only special day.

A warm Pampa "Welcome!!!" to Sandra and Don Kay and their children Christi-9, Justin-7, and Amy-3, recently of Elk City. Sandra is the busy manager of the new Braum's. Don is employed by Cabot Carbon Company. They attend Lamar Full Gospel Assembly.

Ditto to Sandy and Gary Smethers family, who recently moved here from McPherson, Kansas. Gary is area supervisor of Mid-America Pipe Line Company. Sandy and Gary and their children Shanna — nearly 3, and Ryan in Middle School, and oldest son Paul enjoy family camping trips. Rolanda and Sandy are sisters.

Middle School Choir directed by Suzanna Wood sang to a full house for the Sunday morning worship service at First Presbyterian Church two Sundays ago.

Congratulations to Leta Hering of the Dietary Department of Coronado Community Hospital for being named employee-of-the-week.

Janyth and Charles Bowers are looking forward to completion of an extensive remodeling project of their country home. With three pre-schoolers, they are pretty brave, huh?

Rev. John Denton, minister of Calvary Baptist Church, attended the Baptist General Convention in El Paso.

Larry Mayo spent a week-long vacation in Las Vegas.

Jack Reeve made a business trip to India.

Georgia and Maynard Johnson, Evelyn and H.J. Johnson returned rested and refreshed from an island-hopping vacation in Hawaii. Aloha!

Louise and Ronnie Richardson have just returned from El Paso where they attended a Southern Baptist Church convention. Their trip was also one of sightseeing as they visited Carlsbad Cavern and Riudosa, N.M., on the return trip.

Charlotte Cooper attended a hospital business meeting in San Antonio last week.

Following the morning worship service today members of First United Methodist Church will honor Ernest Upton with a church-wide dinner. It's an appreciation dinner for the 20 years Ernest has spent working with church youth. For many of those years he spent summer vacations as a church youth camp sponsor. That says a lot of good words for a lifelong bachelor!

Jerry Arrington is busy as can be as minister of youth and administration at First rather than Central Baptist Church as previously reported. Jerry and his family are enjoying meeting and greeting old friends from a former stay in Pampa. Friends are enjoying them, too!

Special congratulations to Wil Stanley for his many achievements as a Boy Scout and especially for receiving his well-deserved Eagle Scout award. John Durry, a dedicated Scoutmaster who has known a lifetime of Scouting, deserves special recognition for sharing his time, knowledge, influence and leadership abilities with your Scouts year in and year out.

Jerry Richards, a young man of multiple talents, was recognized at the Amarillo Arts Association's Fall Citation Show '86. He is a sculptor, an artist in water colors and a clever cartoonist. Broad spectrum talents, eh?

About 300 Pampans enjoyed a chili-or-stew plus homemade pie and the added benefit of lots of visiting at the annual First Christian Church Bazaar last Saturday. It deserved the adjective "ecumenical". General chairman was Lavonia Skidmore. Bea Dwight supervised the all-night cinnamon roll making and baking. Nancy Brogdon, Phyllis Cherry and Virginia Caruth arrived at 5 a.m. to make the larrapin' stew and Paula Green and Dixie Nickel to make chili. Jackie Gindorf sounded like a pro in auctioning off a quilt made by Hazel Mulanax. The quilt top was pieced by Hazel's mother many years ago. Also auctioned was a classically beautiful ceramic nativity scene made by Mary McWilliams, afghans made by church members and ski caps by Phyllis Laramore. A good time was had by all.

Nancy and Gerald Hammer of Bowie are in Pampa this weekend to attend the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Stroebel. Local family members include Kathy and Bill Hammer (sisters married brothers). There are four grandchildren, Todd of Chico, Malley of Denton, Hoyt of Arlington and Amy of Pampa. Congratulations on this milestone accomplishment.

Saturday morning shoppers at Pampa Mall were early birds. Some were Nancy and Mike Ruff and their two children, and Norma Morrison and her daughters, Kim and Marcia. Daddies were babysitting at home. Patsy and Virgil Poole were doing some brisk walking. The Mall manager Becky Salyer, full of vitality, has a healthy, natural well-groomed appearance. A joy to see, lovely to look at.

Joy and Ronnie Rice spent a wonderful, lively week babysitting their little granddaughter from Germany. Tracy spent a few days in Philadelphia, maybe so Joy and Ronnie could have the little one all to themselves. What a nice treat!

Have you seen young Miss Meredith Hite with her up-to-the-minute hairdo? She has every right to be proud of it as evidenced in that she makes it bounce with every step. It is cute and so is Meredith!

There is still time to volunteer sharing a heaping Thanksgiving Day dinner with elderly and homebound clients of Pampa Meals on Wheels. Just call Ann Loter tomorrow at 669-1007. You'll be glad you did and Ann will be, too.

May you share a beautiful Thanksgiving Day with family, one sure to make warm and wonderful memories. Drive safely!

See you next week. KATIE

Next five months crucial to staying quit

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

Quitting smoking was difficult but staying that way is harder still, members of the city's "I Can Quit" smoking clinic were warned during their final meeting Thursday.

By virtue of some nifty scheduling on the part of Police Chief J.J. Ryzman, who set up the clinic, the four-week course wrapped up the same day as The Great American Smokeout, the American Cancer Society's annual plea for smokers to kick the habit, even if only for a day.

Police officers, firefighters and other city employees had spent the previous three weeks tapering off their cigarette habits.

Most class members in attendance Thursday said they had quit entirely and all said they had been able to cut down considerably the amount of cigarettes they smoke each day.

One woman, a smoker since age 11, said she had cut her habit more than in half "and when I convince myself I want to quit, that'll be it."

Another long-time smoker said he had cut down to one mid-morning smoke a day.

By the time a smoker has cut down that much, course director Linda Haynes said, the cigarette addiction is largely a psychological one. And once one quits, she said, lighting up even once risks a return to the old habit.

"A smoker really just has to make up his mind that he's just like an alcoholic," she explained. "You can't ever take another puff. This is the biggest temptation and the hardest to overcome."

Not that the old urge won't return, Haynes warned. It will.

"That's something that I don't want to lie to you about," she said. "Quitting is not the difficult part. Those of you who have quit are fixing to face the most difficult part and that's staying quit."

Haynes said the first five months are the most crucial for the ex-smoker. That's when the cravings come most frequently and the temptation is greatest to light up again.

But, she added, even six years after quitting a three-pack-a-day habit, she still gets an occasional urge to smoke, particularly during stressful situations.

The secret, she said, is remembering that the urge lasts about 10 seconds and can be fought by taking deep breaths.

"There is no problem that smoking a cigarette will solve," she said. "It will, however, increase your problems."

Instead, she said, ex-smokers should focus on what they can do instead of smoking such as going for a walk or even chewing on the end of a pen.

"There is nothing wrong with chewing on a pen," she said. "It's better than chewing on something with tobacco in it."

Research shows that many smokers are passive people who "light up and shut up," Haynes said. She added that they need to be more assertive instead of lighting a cigarette.

Haynes offered the class several tips on "staying quit," including the old Alcoholics Anonymous credo to take quitting one day at a time.

"Worry about today," she said. "Don't think about 'Well, am I going to be able to make it to Christmas or New Year's without a smoke.'"

Exercise is also important, she said, both to relieve tension and to help with the weight gain that many smokers experience after quitting. She said ex-smokers may gain 10 pounds or so but should not worry too much about minor weight gains until at least six months after quitting.

"Don't put the pressure and the guilt of losing weight on your shoulders until you're a confirmed non-smoker," she advised. "Do one thing at a time."

"To do as much damage to your heart as you're doing smoking cigarettes, you've got to add 80 pounds to your ideal weight and carry that around."

Changing former routines and avoiding situations in which one is tempted to smoke, such as a bar, were also recommended.

"It is very difficult after you've had a drink or two to still have that same willpower," Haynes said.

One firefighter in the class said he visited several friends in the hospital who have emphysema and that helped convince him not to light up.

"It doesn't take you very long to see that that's why they're in there and that's not where I want to be," he said.

One final warning Haynes issued was for the ex-smokers to realize they are human if they slip and light up.

"If you fall off the wagon," she urged, "for heaven's sakes, don't say, 'Well, I've blown it,' and go out and smoke two packs."

It's for them—and me

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

Now, I've been told, is when the tough part begins.

I've been off cigarettes about a week and a half now and so far, so good.

I still get plenty of cravings to smoke, though.

Weekends are tough — the times when I used to relax with a cigarette.

So are the stressful situations that seem to come so often in this job, especially recently.

One morning last week, I was proofreading a story and caught myself tapping my left hand about my desk in a frantic reflex search for a cigarette.

Linda Haynes, who conducted the recently-concluded "I Can Quit" sessions at City Hall, told our group that "staying quit" is most definitely harder than quitting itself.

But the signs are encouraging. This week, I made it through my first party without a cigarette — without succumbing to the urge to smoke.

I also made it through my first real stress-test — a situation that a month ago, would have "required" three (or more) cigarettes to get through.

I've been doing several different things to keep from smoking or to keep my mind off it.

One thing I've done is to take this whole thing one day at a time. Each morning, I challenge myself, "Let's get through today without a cigarette."

(Kind of like my own Great American Smokeout, every day!) I've also been chewing plenty of sugarless gum, and that has helped.

Having a cold hasn't hurt either. I never craved tobacco as much when I had the sniffles.

Admittedly, I've put on some weight since quitting.

(Of course, I haven't stopped putting on weight since I got married five months ago, thanks to the wife's cooking!)

But that problem should at least be partially taken care of when I start exercising again, as soon as this cold has run its course.

I can run again — without coughing!!

And that's one of many benefits, I see ahead now that I don't smoke.

I'm freer from worry about my health now, or at least free to worry about other things.

I can breathe much easier when singing in the church choir — or the community chorus — and I think quitting has actually helped my singing.

The money I'm saving I have privately pledged to a local charitable organization and that makes me feel better about myself and my responsibility to God and this community.

Rage over affair fuels revenge

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago, when I was 43 and pregnant with my seventh child, I found some pictures of a pretty young girl in my husband's wallet. Steve swore he didn't know how they got there, but I'm not stupid. I had enlargements made and hung them all over the house. My kids thought I was nuts, and Steve and I have been fighting ever since.

Last year I had a tap put on our phone and I learned plenty. Steve and this girl, Jill, have been seeing each other for 15 years and they have a 9-year-old son together. Jill's married and has two sons with her own husband.

Steve and I own our business and if it weren't for me we wouldn't have anything. He can hardly read and write, and he needs me to do all the paperwork.

I called up Jill's husband and told him everything. He couldn't believe it. He said Jill was a perfect wife and mother. And get this — she never misses a Sunday at church! I called her minister and told him all about her, and all he said was, "If she were perfect she wouldn't need to go to church."

To make a long story short, Jill's husband is giving her a divorce because (as he told me) after 15 years, Steve and Jill must really love each other, and he wants her to be happy. He told me I ought to do the same for Steve. I said, "Over my dead body."

Abby, I hate my husband and want to make his life miserable. What should I do? I know he loves Jill, but why should I step aside after what he did to me?

HURTING BAD

DEAR HURTING: Don't make any decisions while you are in this bitter, vengeful state.

Holiday salad

Stir in eggnog. Chill until partially set. Fold in celery; turn into a 12x7 1/2x2-inch pan. Chill until almost firm.

Heat cranberry juice to boiling; stir in raspberry gelatin until dissolved. Chill until partially set. Fold in relish. Carefully spoon on top of eggnog mixture. Chill until firm. Cut into squares to serve. Makes 12 servings.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

You desperately need to vent your anger and unload your hostility. See a counselor and try to get your emotions under control. Then decide if you will be better off with him than without him, under the circumstances.

Living to make someone miserable will only make you a miserable old woman in the end. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, a reader came down hard on you for using the term "Army brat" in your column. For your information, that term is alive and well. As a matter of fact, at my husband's 50th West Point reunion last June, Gen. Bruce Palmer said, "Many of us were 'Army brats' — as my mother used to call us."

Since Gen. Palmer is over 70, that term has been around for at least that long. My son, a retired colonel, was an Army brat, and his son was an Army brat, and we're proud of it.

MRS. R.J. QUINN JR.,
SAVANNAH, GA.

DEAR MRS. QUINN: Finally!

Many wrote to say that they were called "Army brats" and never felt that the term was offensive, but I had hoped that some high-ranking Army officer would use that term publicly, thereby officially confirming its respectability. Your letter made my day. And a 21-gun salute to Gen. Palmer.

DEAR ABBY: A family problem has arisen recently and I'd like your opinion. My parents' divorce was final a year ago. They had been married for 33 years.

Every year our family (parents and seven brothers and sisters) go to Colorado on a skiing trip. This year my dad wants to bring his girlfriend along, and our mother refuses to go if the girlfriend goes. My older sister says Mom and Dad are divorced so Dad has the right to bring anyone he wants, and Mom has nothing to say about it. I say, this is a family trip, and Dad's girlfriend is not "family" — she's just a girlfriend — so she should stay home, especially since she and Dad would share the same cabin if she went along.

What is your opinion? And would your answer be any different if my Dad and this girlfriend were married?

DEBATING IN DALLAS

DEAR DEBATING: Dad's girlfriend? No. If she were his wife. Si.

K mart, Kiwanis to distribute food baskets

On Monday, Pampa's K mart store will participate in a nationwide K mart Good News Program. In preparation for the K mart food basket program, employees and Top of Texas Kiwanis members will gather up the food.

When the food baskets are delivered, they will contain turkey, potatoes, stuffing mix, vegetables, bread, pumpkin pies and other items.

The Salvation Army will help identify needy families in the area. K mart employees and Kiwanis members will deliver the food baskets to each family.

The Pampa K mart is one of 2,000 K mart's participating in the nationwide Good News committee program. Good News Committees are organized by employee volunteers in each K mart store.

A second chance

NEW YORK (AP) — A second marriage can be a new chance for happiness as well as a chance to correct the errors made the first time around.

"Identify patterns of behavior that occurred in the past, then make an effort to react differently," says psychologist Judith Kuriansky in Family Circle magazine.

"If you complained a lot, make an effort to be more cheerful," she says. "Most important, take the emotional risks you probably avoided the first time."

Avoiding 'turkey trauma' or 'trouble with trussing'

By DONNA BRAUCHI
County Extension Agent

When holiday gatherings are planned, many of us plan a traditional turkey dinner. As you plan your holiday turkey treat you may be suffering a certain amount of "turkey trauma". Hopefully, today's column will leave you feeling more confident and ready to "tackle your turkey".

According to Extension Poultry Specialist, Dr. David Mellor, prices for whole turkeys should be in the range of $.60-.70 per pound, while national brand basted turkeys will cost $.90-$1.00 per pound. For greatest economy, the consumer's best bet is to look for holiday sales on plain, store brand turkey.

The cost-per-serving may also vary according to what type of turkey you buy. Many smaller families are choosing to cook a turkey roast or parts. The cost per pound may be higher, but it may be worth it on a per serving basis, especially if it reduces waste from leftovers that aren't used.

You can expect the following 3½ ounce cooked edible servings per pound from different types of turkey: Whole turkey — 2; Bone-in-Breast — 2½ to 3; Boneless Breast — 3 to 3½; Netted Turkey Roast — 3 to 3½; Deli-Cooked Turkey — 4½; Hind Quarter — 2½; and Boneless Pan Roast — 3 to 3½.

Turkey isn't a hazardous food, but what the cook does, or doesn't do, to the bird can literally make you sick. Like all protein foods, turkey can harbor food poisoning bacteria, such as salmonella. Because it's large, dense food that requires several steps in preparation, bacteria has even more opportunity to grow if proper precautions aren't taken.

Homemakers' News

If you're bewildered about basting, troubled about trussing, or stumped by stuffing, here are 10 easy steps from freezer to table to give you a tender, juicy turkey every time.

1. Thaw turkey in its wrapper in the refrigerator as recommended on the package directions. Thawing the bird in a microwave oven or by putting it in a watertight package under cold running water are also safe thawing methods. But don't thaw the turkey by letting it sit on the kitchen counter, since room temperatures allow bacteria to grow. When completely thawed, remove wrapping.

2. Remove neck and giblets from cavities; refrigerate until needed for stuffing or gravy.

3. Wash the defrosted turkey thoroughly, running water over its inside and outside areas. Drain the body cavity and wipe the turkey fairly dry.

4. Stuff the turkey right before you cook it. Stuff the body and neck lightly. Pan on ½ cup stuffing per pound for turkeys under 10 pounds; ¾ cup per pound for turkeys over 10 pounds. Turkey may also be roasted unstuffed.

5. Tuck legs back under band on skin; turn wings back to hold neck skin in place. Lift turkey onto rack in an open pan, approximately 2 inches deep.

6. Spread oil or melted shortening lightly over the skin to prevent it from drying out and cracking during roasting. Further basting won't help keep the bird moist because hand basting only penetrates ¼ inch deep.

7. Insert a meat thermometer into the thickest part of the thigh, next to the body, not touching the bone.

8. Roast at 325 degrees F. Consult the roasting chart on the wrapper for approximate roasting time. When light golden brown, place a lightweight foil tent loosely over the breast to prevent over-browning.

Cooking in a very slow oven at 200 to 250 degrees is not recommended. Because of the low temperature, the turkey and stuffing could take more than four hours to reach a high enough temperature to destroy bacteria.

9. Your turkey is done when: (a) Internal thigh temperature reaches 180-185 degrees F. on the meat thermometer. (b) Thigh skin is pricked and juices run clear, no longer pink. (c) Thigh meat feels soft when pinched. Protect your fingers with a paper towel.

10. Once the turkey is completely cooked, remove all the stuffing from the cavities. Harmful bacteria is more likely to grow in the stuffing if it sits in the bird after cooking.

Remember that after dinner, the turkey and stuffing should be refrigerated immediately. Food poisoning bacteria can grow quickly in high protein food left at room temperature.

Museum to exhibit Reaugh's work

CANYON — From Nov. 23 to April 5, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society and Museum will exhibit "Frank Reaugh: The Southwestern Landscape," drawn from its collection of pastels by Frank Reaugh, according to Dianna Everett, Museum Publicist. A public reception from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, November, 23, will open the exhibit.

Thirty-three of Reaugh's most important works, 32 pastels and one oil, emphasize his importance as a landscape artist. The works date from the 1890s to 1940s and primarily depict Texas scenes, although Reaugh's portrayals of landscapes in New Mexico and Arizona are included.

The exhibit is supported through a grant from the Texas Commission on the Arts, and a color catalogue with biographical and critical essays is included in the project.

A major Texas artist, Reaugh came to the state in 1876 at age 16. Self-taught, he began sketching and painting open range scenes around his father's farm near Terrell, Texas. In 1884-1885 young Reaugh attended the School of Fine Arts in St. Louis, Missouri. Later, he studied in Paris in the Julien Academic and in Holland with Anton Mauve. During his student years, Reaugh became interested in pastel, which quickly became his favorite medium.

He returned to Terrell in 1889, and later, from his life-long home in Dallas, he began roaming the Cross Timbers and prairies in search of scenes. By the turn of the century his work was earning acclaim at shows in the Chicago Art Institute and in the National Academy, as well as at the Chicago and St. Louis World's Fairs of 1893 and 1903. As his fame spread, he was able to supplement his income by teaching.

LAST-MINUTE LIZZIE

If you're having a spur-of-the-moment wedding, or simply find yourself with too much left to do and not enough time to do it before the wedding date, here are some ideas to ease the pressure.

If you're having a hard time arranging for a formal wedding photograph — your dress isn't ready or you just don't have the time — fear not. Many newspapers will run announcements after the event has taken place, and you can use a formal shot taken on the big day. An advantage is that you can include your bridegroom!

If you don't have a chance to send out thank-yous for shower gifts and early wedding presents, you can wait until you get wallet-sized reprints of your favorite wedding picture. By enclosing them with your thank-yous, you're providing a self-evident excuse for the delay, and a welcome memento as well.

No time to furnish your new home? Consider renting furniture for a month. The cost is not prohibitive, and it will give you a chance to shop gradually, think about what you really need, and learn each other's decorating styles.

It's never too late! We're always willing to help accommodate your last-minute wedding needs.

4-H scholarship training set

By JEFF GOODWIN

DATES

Nov. 21 — Deadline for registration for January Teen Leader Retreats

TEXAS 4-H FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIP TRAINING

There will be a scholarship training provided for 4-H'ers, parents, leaders and agents at the District Extension Office, 6500 Amarillo Blvd., West, Amarillo, on Nov. 25. Two identical sessions will be conducted via the Extension teleconference network from the state 4-H office at Texas A&M.

The two sessions will be held at 1:30 p.m. and at 7 p.m. and will inform those attending about Texas 4-H Foundation scholarships. Some items to be discussed include how to apply, when to apply and how applications are judged.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE 4-H LIVESTOCK PROJECT

Feeding project animals for show is specialized activity to give 4-H members training in responsibility, citizenship, pride of ownership and wholesome interaction with other boys and girls. It is a youth development project with goals no different from other 4-H projects. The same objectives may be reached with any 4-H project such as clothing, foods, bicycle care, rabbits, safety or a host of others.

The objectives of most youth organizations are the same — to give boys and girls useful values, attitudes and philosophies to make them more productive citizens. The avenue or vehicle to get this job done varies and the 4-H livestock project is one of these vehicles.

4-H Corner

We also might keep the following example in mind also: feeding and showing club lambs is to commercial lamb feeding as playing Little League Baseball is to the Major Leagues. They are both baseball, but vastly different in the approach and purpose.

The livestock projects, perhaps more so than some other 4-H projects, are successful only through a total family involvement. The really successful 4-H members have the help, support and encouragement of the parents, brothers and sisters.

It is difficult for a 4-H member to be successful without the help of the parents. Parent involvement needs to include parents becoming knowledgeable and proficient in making decisions concerning the project animals. The County Agents and adult leaders will help as much as possible, however, they cannot give the everyday personal attention to the project that is really needed for success.

The 4-H livestock project animal is a family affair and time that a family spends together is never wasted.

4-H INTERNATIONAL PROGRAM BROADENS HORIZONS

The 4-H International program can broaden the horizons of youth interested in learning more about the world around them.

Objectives of the program include these:

— Build an international dimension into 4-H projects and activities.

— Experience other cultures and ways of life through 4-H International exchange and training programs.

— Learn about similar youth programs in countries around the world.

— Become better informed on international affairs.

— Contribute to the development and expansion of programs around the world similar to 4-H.

— Promote international and cross-cultural awareness.

Many opportunities exist for 4-H youth to get involved in programs of an international nature. To find out more about these, contact the County Extension Office.

David and the Giants

'Little Ricky' drumming again

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

Members of the Christian rock group David and the Giants like to say they have the best-known unknown drummer in music.

Keith Thibodeaux, as he is listed on the group's album covers, is indeed unknown.

But, 30 years ago, he was known to millions as Little Ricky Ricardo on the I Love Lucy show.

In between was a trip through the drug-laden world of hard rock and a conversion at a Louisiana country church that convinced Thibodeaux to begin drumming for Jesus instead of for himself.

Thibodeaux and the band—consisting also of brothers David, Clayborn and Rayborn Huff—will be performing at M.K. Brown Auditorium's Heritage Room at 7 p.m. Monday with local gospel artist Sheree' Spann. The concert is being presented by Faith Tabernacle Church of Pampa.

In a telephone interview from his home in Jackson, Miss., Thibodeaux said he began playing drums at age 2—well enough to win a local television talent show and tour the country as a big band drummer by age 4.

The spot on the Lucy show "just happened to be because I looked the part, I was the right age and I could play the drums, which was part of the character they were looking for," Thibodeaux explained.

Thibodeaux stayed with Lucille Ball for three seasons—from 1956 to 1959—and later found himself doing special appearances on early '60s shows such as Route 66 and The Joey Bishop Show. Later he appeared as Opee's friend John Paul on The Andy Griffith Show.

He said he has mixed feelings about his Hollywood days.

"I felt kind of privileged in a sense," he recalled, explaining the thrill for a young boy appearing with such notables as Bob Hope, Maurice Chevalier and Lucille Ball herself.

But, he added, the other side to the story is that he would have liked to have had the chance to be around more youngsters his own age. It was almost like living two lives, he said.

"I had my Hollywood life and I had my normal life," he said. "The Hollywood life was kind of boring, especially for a kid."

After Andy Griffith, Thibodeaux said he moved back to Louisiana with his mother and started playing drums in rock bands in the Lafayette area. In 1969, he met up with David and the Giants, then a secular rock band.

At this point, Thibodeaux said, he "was doing all sorts of drugs" and drinking heavily. But the life of a rock musician soon took its toll.

"I finally started suffering physically, mentally and emotionally," he said. "I more or less got down to the end of my rope and cried out to God."

His prayers were answered in 1974 in the form of a charismatic Christian group his mother had become involved with. He said he does not think he could have survived without divine intervention.

"If He wouldn't have answered me, I wouldn't be here at all," Thibodeaux said.

Thibodeaux said he then went to work trying to convince the other members of David and the Giants, whom he refers to as like his brothers, to turn back from drugs and alcohol. It took some time—the three brothers first tried to conduct Bible studies with marijuana and wine—but "they all ended up coming to the Lord in 1977," he said.

Thibodeaux left David and the Giants and the music business entirely for awhile during the mid-1970s, marrying the principal dancer with the Ballet Mississippi and beginning to raise a family.

But in 1979, the band, now committed to playing exclusively Christian rock, contacted him with the news that they needed a drummer. He rejoined the band that year.

"I knew it was the Lord's will that I start playing again," Thibodeaux said.

Thibodeaux described the group's music as straight-ahead rock'n'roll with a Christian message. For those who say Jesus and rock music don't mix, he noted that many of today's Protestant hymns are set to the music of old German drinking songs from Martin Luther's day and David and the Giants is taking the music of today and doing the same thing with it.

He said the group has a new album, Magnificat, due out in January but probably will stick with material from its latest Under Control release during Monday's performance.

Tickets for David and the Giants with Sheree' Spann will be available at the door. For further information, call Jamie Thames at 665-6918 or Faith Tabernacle Church at 665-3676.

Spann won't forget audition

By PAUL PINKHAM
Senior Staff Writer

Whatever the future holds, Sheree' Spann will probably never forget her trip to Nashville to audition for Word Records about six weeks ago.

Spann, 26, who with her husband Rick manages Western Sizzlin' Steakhouse of Pampa, has dreams of becoming a professional gospel singer. She will be appearing at M.K. Brown Auditorium, opening for Christian rock band David and the Giants at 7 p.m. Monday.

For Spann, the dream of singing professionally has almost always been present. But it began to crystallize last summer after she competed in the July 4 contest in Pampa and was handed a card belonging to a man from Word Records, a gospel music label. She said she called the man and set up an audition in Nashville, Tenn., about six weeks ago. But her desire to sing gospel music professionally was sorely tested between the time she left Pampa and the time she arrived in Nashville.

It started with a flat tire outside of Conway, Ark. Spann said she was forced to run across a field and climb a barbed-wire fence at 1 a.m. in a driving rainstorm to get help.

Then, 195 miles outside of Nashville, the timing chain on her car broke. This time, she hitched a ride with a trucker to a service station in a nearby small town, where she spent the night.

Almost as if it were a final test, Spann said she arrived in Nashville only to learn that the man who set up the interview was a nobody and that the record company had no idea she was coming or even who she was.

"I just basically walked in off the street—to them. I thought I had an appointment," she said.

Ironically, Spann said it was the fact that she had travelled so far, and been through so much along the way, that convinced Word executives Neil Joseph and Barry Landis to take the unusual step of letting her audition without an appointment.

"If all that had not happened, I may never have gotten to audition with them," she said.

They were not disappointed with what they heard.

Word rated her a 9.5, saying she lacked only in experience. They urged her to "sing anywhere and everywhere" to gain experience, she said.

Spann said she plans to meet with Word producer Dick Tooney, who handles gospel Grammy-winner Sandi Patti, in Lubbock next month.

As a mother of two five-year-old twins, Andrea and Amber, and manager of Western Sizzlin', Spann definitely keeps busy. But, exuding a quiet confidence, she speaks of her musical ability as a God-given gift that she's expected to use.

"Everybody has got whatever their gift is from God and music has always been mine," she explained. "That's always been my understanding with the Lord."

Spann, who moved with her family to Pampa two years ago because of the family's involvement with the Western Sizzlin' chain, grew up singing in a Pentecostal church in Little Rock, Ark. She sang her first solo at the age of 7.

In 1977, as a high school student, she was one of only two Arkansas high school students chosen to tour Europe with America's Youth In Concert. The group picked two singers from each state.

Today, she sings regularly at Lamar Full Gospel Assembly church and at various functions around Pampa. She said it's important for her to remember her Christian roots.

"When you sing gospel music, your heart has to be right," she said. "You can get up and give a performance, but people can tell the difference between a performance and the real thing."

Spann said she is excited about the potential for music in Pampa—noting the auditorium and the wealth of talent she has found since moving to the community. And that leads her to a second dream.

One of the first things she remembers being told in Nashville was that Pampa, Texas, is not a very good place to launch a singing career.

"I'm hoping that I can prove that wrong," she said.

Tickets for Sheree' Spann and David and the Giants will be available at the door the night of the concert. For more information call 665-6918 or 665-3676.

Astro-Graph

Nov. 24, 1986

You are now in a good achievement cycle, but you will have to work hard for what you hope to gain. If you're prepared to pay the price, you'll be extremely successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though career conditions may be a trifle hectic today, remain hopeful regarding the outcome of events. Positive thinking assures positive results. Major changes are ahead for Sagittarius in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Companions will overlook your shortcomings today, provided you don't make an issue of theirs. Look for the good in friends, not their faults.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Business conditions look favorable for you today. However, if you need advice, consult experts, not close friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be doing yourself a great disservice today if you pre-judge persons with whom you're involved. Those you write off could turn out to be good people.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Joint ventures should work out reasonably well for you today, even though there is likely to be some discord between you and your associates.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have good judgment today, but you may also have strong inclinations to ignore it. This could create a problem in your financial affairs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) The support you've been hoping to get from another might be forthcoming today. But it's best to rely solely upon yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Things you enjoy doing you will do extremely well today. However, if you're plagued with a distasteful chore, you might botch it up.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being too hasty or impulsive will work against you today in your financial affairs. Time is your ally, so use it patiently to make the best deal possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In order to be an effective leader today, you must be both tactful and considerate. If you throw your weight around, your methods will prove counterproductive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unfortunately, we sometimes get in our own way. Be mindful of this today so that you don't disturb a financial situation that thus far is running smoothly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This can be a very rewarding day for you if you apply yourself. Hopes and wishes can become realities only if you act upon them properly.

Group to study hazing incident

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Black leaders and Citadel officials have agreed to set up a committee to look into race relations at the state military college in the wake of the resignation of a black cadet who was hazed by white students.

Black leaders said they were dropping their demand for the resignation of retired Maj. Gen. James Grimsley Jr., president of the college.

And while they still don't agree with the punishment of five white cadets involved in the hazing, they said the committee can look into that when it is appointed after Thanksgiving.

"We believe we are on the way to meeting the objectives in regard to the Kevin Nesmith incident and urge all citizens of Charleston to strengthen our community and put this incident behind us," said Rev. Frank Portee of the Old Bethel United Methodist Church.

Six black ministers and community leaders met with Grimsley because of the incident Oct. 23, when five white cadets wearing sheets and towels entered Nesmith's room chanting curses. They left a charged paper cross behind.

The five were sentenced to 195 additional marching tours and confined to campus for the rest of the school year.

Black leaders have said they should have been expelled.

Nesmith left school last week, saying he was "mentally drained" because of harassment.

Cabinet heads often form strange political alliances

By BARRY SCHWEID AP Diplomatic Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Boys from Bechtel are together again.

George Shultz and Caspar Weinberger, who were top officers in the huge California construction company, see eye-to-eye on U.S. arms deals with Iran.

They are against them.

Shultz and Weinberger have had their differences in the Cabinet. Shultz, for instance, favored striking out against terrorism, while Weinberger was reluctant to use force.

But they both think President Reagan made a mistake in approving a weapons purchase by Tehran.

They stood side-by-side in opposing the decision privately, and after the secret sale surfaced, the two senior Cabinet officers made the public aware of their objections — Weinberger more indirectly than Shultz.

That isn't the way Reagan — or any other president — likes his advisers to behave. He doesn't mind dissent in the Cabinet room but not in the public arena. And yet, Reagan evidently can live with it.

Dismissing rumors that Shultz might quit over Iran, the president said Wednesday night: "He knows that I want him to stay, and he has in advance said that he wants to. There's been no talk of resignation."

Meantime, there has never been a suggestion that Weinberger would quit over Iran, even though he let it be known as late as Wednesday, while Reagan was hoping the controversy would melt away, that he had fought the Iran initiative from the start as "absurd."

Back in June 1985, Weinberger compared the idea of developing new ties with Iran to "inviting (Libyan leader Moammar) Gadhafi over for a cozy lunch," said a source, speaking on condition he not be identified.

In a striking example of how the game is played in Washington, Weinberger was out of town at a military computer trade show in Charleston, W.Va., saying that Reagan's position on terrorism was "fully understood and supported."

An AP New Analysis

Anonymously, however, an official close to Weinberger suggested "if you're looking for a culprit in this who led the policy down an alley, it would be McFarlane."

And yet Robert McFarlane, the former national security adviser, told The Washington Post that while it was sensible to try to open a dialogue "with reformist people in Iran" it was "a mistake to introduce any element of arms transfers into it."

Confusing? Not any more than the way alliances take shape within the Cabinet room and across the top echelons of government.

Shultz and McFarlane were a cozy duo before McFarlane quit his White House post a year ago. They frequently lined up against Weinberger on arms control issues and other aspects of U.S.-Soviet relations.

The fact that Shultz and McFarlane worked well together was, in itself, unusual. The fact that Shultz and Adm. John Poindexter, the current security adviser, disagreed over Iran was not surprising.

Alexander Haig, who was Reagan's first secretary of state, fought frequently with William Clark, then the national security adviser. The struggle was mostly over access to the president.

In the Carter years, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski had sharp differences over the direction of U.S. foreign policy. The disagreement boiled over when Vance's advice not to attempt a military rescue of American hostages in Iran was not taken by the president. Vance quit.

Dead woman symbol of homeless

DALLAS (AP) — In her mind, Sadie Thomas was a model, a musician and world traveler who found herself living in a shelter for the homeless in Dallas before resuming her journey to a grander life in San Francisco.

When she was found dead near downtown Dallas last week she was a penniless, anonymous victim of street crime, her head bashed by a brick that was found nearby, not far from a paperback Bible.

Miss Thomas was 60. She had been in and out of mental institutions all her life.

She was from Alexander City, Alabama, 60 miles southeast of Birmingham. She had left home before, but she left for good in the summer of 1985. She had lived at the Union Gospel Mission in Dallas for the past 14 months, the Dallas Morning News said.

Her body was found early Thursday about a block from the mission. Police said whoever killed her had first tried to rape her. Her head had been smashed with a brick.

In her coat was a letter to her brother, D.C. Thomas, the first communication to her family since she left home.

"She was highly intelligent but wherever she was, she was in a world of her own," said her sister, Virginia Thomas Marbury. Both Mrs. Marbury and Thomas live in Alexander City.

Residents of the United Gospel Mission remembered Miss Thomas as a friendly person who swung between intense, rambling chatter and blank silence.

They also saw her as a symbol of the homeless.

"The ones who are here are down on their luck, but they're still humans," said Artie Thomas, an out-of-work painter. "People who pass by don't see us that way."

Thomas said some people on the streets get killed over nickels and dimes.

"The muggers come for your money, and when you have almost nothing, they kill you," he said.

Police could give no accurate information on the number of crimes involving street people. Often they are not reported, and sometimes the victims don't live to report them.

College merger plan rouses emotions

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A proposal to merge universities in Corpus Christi and Kingsville has opened the door to serious discussions of creating a comprehensive university in South Texas, says the president of Corpus Christi State University.

But residents of Kingsville fear merging Texas A&I with CCSU may cause an economic loss the city can ill afford.

The University System of South Texas' regents voted 4-3 last week in favor of the merger proposal put forth by Larry Temple, chairman of the Select Committee on Higher Education.

The vote came at a meeting in Kingsville attended by about 400 people, many of them local residents opposed to the plan.

Campuses would be maintained in both cities, but CCSU would be the lead university, according to the select committee's recommendation.

CCSU is a two-year upper level university with 3,827 students. Texas A&I has an enrollment of about 5,000.

Battered by declines in the oil and gas industry and in cattle ranching, Kingsville would be unable to absorb the loss of students, faculty, staff and research dollars that could result if Texas A&I loses its status as a free-standing university and becomes a branch, said Regent Gilbert Acuna, a Kingsville pharmacist.

"It would be too big of a blow," said Acuna. "Emotions are so high right now," said CCSU President Alan Sugg, who endorsed the regents' vote.

The board's decision "continues the dialogue ... not to maintain the status quo of higher education" in South Texas," he said.

"The action of our board supports the recommendation of Mr. Temple to at least keep the door open for future discussions with the select committee regarding the need for a comprehensive university in South Texas," said Sugg, also the interim chancellor of the University System of South Texas, which governs A&I, CCSU and Laredo State University.

"We need to make sure we don't slam the door shut at this time ... it may be a very small door of opportunity," Sugg said. "It's not in the best interest of the region or the state or anyone else" to close that door.

"It's a terribly important issue facing this region right now," he said.

Texas A&I President Steven Altman said

Kingsville residents fear their city's economy and quality of life could suffer if the university "is relegated to inferior status or a secondary role."

"It's a very emotional issue in Kingsville," he said.

"The vote represents a divided opinion of the board on a complicated question. The ultimate decision is with the Legislature and there is a long way to go until that resolution is achieved," Altman said.

Nat Lopez, chairman of the Pan American University Board of Regents, said he hopes the discussion leads to "a way to see that South Texas gets a comprehensive university."

Lopez said he favored grouping Pan Am, in Edinburg in the Rio Grande Valley, Laredo State, Texas A&I and CCSU into a comprehensive university, with each school offering different programs.

"It could have an economic impact on all of South Texas, not just Corpus Christi," Lopez said. "We don't want it all, but we'd like a part of it."

Pan Am is governed by a nine-member board of regents and is not part of the South Texas University System.

Harte-Hanks to sell Worrell Enterprises

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc., which earlier this month announced it would divest almost half of its divisions, will sell 28 properties to Worrell Enterprises Inc., company officials said.

The San Antonio-based company said it has signed a letter of intent with Worrell to sell 25 of its newspaper divisions and three shopper publications, but terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

"We're both committed to closing before the end of the year," said Bob Marbut, Harte-Hanks' president and chief executive officer.

Tucker Sutherland, president of Harte-Hanks Newspapers, has announced plans to leave Harte-Hanks to form his own media company. Under the agreement, Sutherland has an option to buy nine of the divisions to be acquired by Worrell, which is based in Charlottesville, Va.

Those divisions are the Corsicana (Texas) Daily Sun, the Herald Newspaper Group in San Antonio, San Antonio Monthly Magazine, the Copperas Cove (Texas) Leader-Press, the Valencia County (N.M.) News-Bulletin and four in San Diego County, Calif. — the La Jolla Light, Colorado Journal, Star-News Publications and Publishers' Offset.

Worrell Enterprises owns and operates 36 media properties in 10 states and the U.S. Virgin Islands, including 16 daily newspapers, plus non-daily, broadcast and other related entities.

"I'm extremely pleased and proud to acquire these exceptional publications," said Tom Worrell, the company's president and owner. "We fully intend to maintain the high standards Harte-Hanks has established over the years."

Harte-Hanks announced earlier this month plans to sell about half its operating divisions, representing about 15 percent of the company's revenues and operating profit. The company said it plans to focus on operating its larger divisions.

Newspapers that will be bought by Worrell, in addition to those on which Sutherland has an option, are the Paris (Texas) News, The Mountain Press-Mountain Visitor in Sevier County, Tenn.; eight in Arkansas, the Charleston Express, Post-Dispatch in Dardanelle, Greenwood Democrat, Malvern Daily Record, Paris Express-Progress, Daily Courier-Democrat in Russellville, Daily Citizen in Searcy and Stuttgart Daily Leader; and six in Georgia, the Sweetwater News Enterprise in Austell, Bowdon Bulletin, Haralson Gateway-Beacon in Bremen, Daily Times-Georgian in Carrollton, Douglas County Sentinel in Douglasville and Villa Rican in Villa Rica.

The three shoppers to be sold to Worrell are the Austin Shopping Guide and the El Paso Shopping Guide in Texas and The Buyer's Guide in Oklahoma City.

"This is an announcement we make with very mixed emotions," Marbut said in a statement. "The vast majority of these divisions have performed exceptionally well over the years, primarily because the people involved are so capable and committed. Yet these units no longer fit our strategy, so divestiture is the right thing to do."

After completion of all 56 of Harte-Hanks' announced divestitures, the company will own and operate 16 daily newspapers and more than 63 non-daily publications, including community newspapers, city magazines, military base publications and targeted publications.

The company also will publish six shoppers, own three VHF network-affiliated television stations and seven cable stations.

Aggie students use phones to register

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Thousands of Texas A&M University students let their fingers do the walking last week as they signed up for spring semester classes by telephone.

The university has inaugurated a dial-in registration system that permits students with touch-tone phones to register for classes from anywhere in the United States. Officials expect more than 30,000 students to use the new system before spring registration ends in December.

The register-by-phone system is among the largest and most extensive in the nation, said Steven Williams, director of the university's Student Information Management System. Students dial a campus number for a taped message from the voice-response computer.

After punching in a student identification number, the caller can register by punching in the code numbers for his or her chosen courses and sections, Williams said. The computer can even tell students if the classes they have selected are full or not.

After registering, bills and confirmed class schedules are mailed to the student. The result is an end to standing in lengthy lines, long a campus registration tradition.

Similar telephone registration systems are now in use at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, and the Maricopa County Community College in Phoenix, Ariz. Other systems are being installed at the University of Colorado in Denver and the University of Arizona in Tucson. There are only 12 functioning systems in the United States.

The new system is part of the hardware and software being installed in Texas A&M's Student Information Management System which will include all records from the time of applying for admission through graduation.
