Canada May Quit Peace Conference Commission

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers called on an international conference on Vietnam today to set up simple machinery to make certain peace there does not fall into jeopardy. Canada expressed its displeasure at the present system and threatened to pull out of the peacekeeping commission in South Vietnam.

Officers Granted Charter

A group of area law enforcement officers have received approval for chartering the Top Of Texas Chapter of the American Federation of Police.

Col. Robert Ferguson, national AFP president, sent the local group a letter informing them their charter had been accepted.

The Federation is the nation's largest professional fraternal association of law enforcement officers intent on the development of better professional standards for the nation's law enforcement officers.

The chapter was organized by a small group of area law enforcement officers who felt area law enforcement could be improved by uniting city, county and state law enforcement officers into a professional fraternal association.

The Federation is not a union, but is organized as a non-profit, patriotic and fraternal tax-exempt professionally recognized law enforcement association.

It is governed by a non-paid board of directors and a full-time professional staff, with elected national officers representing tens of thousands of members throughout the United States.

The local organization plans to provide better service to the community through better law enforcement, according to newly-elected president Ken Evans, Texas Department of Public Safety.

An intensive recruiting drive will be started soon. The organization is open to all law enforcement officers on a local, county, state or federal level, Evans said.

Other chapter officers are Charlie Morris, City of Pampa, vice president, Bryan Stafford, City of Pampa, secretary, James Laramore, City of Pampa, treasurer, and Lt. John Thomas, City of Pampa, sergeant-at-arms.

national authority is established to deal with cease-fire violations.

This stand put forth by Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp was supported in principle at least by Rogers during the 2½-hour session.

U.S. officials said the method for setting up an authority to deal with peace violations is open to negotiation.

However, Rogers said, "a simple mechanism for reconvening must exist."

It seems obvious, the secretary continued, that the parties have a responsibility in the event of violations which threaten the peace, independence or right of self-determination of the Vietnamese people.

This is both a joint and individual responsibility, he said, which means all participants should consult with each other on a regular basis concerning the agreement.

Rogers said there should be some link between the conference members and the four parties manning the International Commission of Control and Supervision — Poland, Hungary, Indonesia and Canada.

Such a relationship would permit the conference to keep track of important developments, Rogers added.

Sharp proposed that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who is attending the conference, be empowered to receive reports of cease-fire violations and reconvene the conference if he thought this necessary.

He stressed that the individual members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision should be allowed to report violations, and not just the commission as a whole, where unanimity would be required.

Sharp added that Canada may pull out of the commission if it is unable to function effectively.

"My government is well aware of the problems that a vacancy in the commission could create, and would, in practice, do whatever it could to avoid that situation arising," Sharp told the other 11 foreign ministers and Waldheim.

"But we should not be asked to watch in silence a resumption of hostilities, nor to accept direct responsibility for all the consequences that could ensue if we felt duty-bound to report to the world that the agreement had been seriously breached."

The Viet Cong foreign minister, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Bing, apparently spoke for the Communist delegations Friday when she said the conference should merely take note of the agreement, pledge its participants to observe it and call on other countries to help keep the peace.

NO LIST DELIVERED

POW Release Delayed Again

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman said today that no American prisoners of war will be released on Tuesday, but U.S. officials were hopeful of last-minute word from Hanoi announcing about 140 more POWs would be handed over.

"There will definitely not be any POW releases Tuesday," the chief North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, Bui Tin, told newsmen. He added that the list of the next prisoners to be turned over also would not be delivered today. He said word was expected soon from Hanoi, but he did not know when it would come.

Tin said the senior members of the Joint Military Commission would take up the POW issue at their next regular meeting Wednesday, indicating he expected no transfer of POWs before Thursday.

But a U.S. official told newsmen there was still a "distinct possibility" of about 140 Americans being released on Tuesday, "the last day of the second increment."

"That's what happened the first time," he said. "We're ready to go into action within short notice as soon as we get the specifics of when and where."

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong handed over 143 American prisoners on Feb. 15 days after the signing of the cease-fire agreement in Paris, and the United States expected the release of another group of the same size on Tuesday, 15 days after the first transfer.

Twenty more U.S. POWs were handed over in Hanoi on Feb. 18, but this was billed as a gesture of appreciation for the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Communists still hold 407 servicemen and 15 civilians in North and South Vietnam and Laos, according to Hanoi.

The United States maintains that the cease-fire agreement spells out that the repatriation of American prisoners is contingent on only one thing, the rate of the American troop withdrawal from Vietnam. The U.S. Command announced today that the withdrawal is slightly more than 50 per cent complete. U.S. officials pointed out that only 28 per cent of the American prisoners had been released.

Foreign Aid Bill Due Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is facing a Wednesday deadline for extending stopgap funding for foreign aid and the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Spending authority expires at midnight Wednesday. A vote was scheduled today.

The House has voted a continuing resolution to extend both appropriations until June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the four-month extension for Labor-HEW, but only two months for foreign aid.

President Nixon vetoed the annual Labor-HEW appropriation bill twice last year, saying it was too big.

The foreign aid appropriation for the current fiscal year was abandoned in Congress last year because of a House-Senate deadlock on a new authorization for military aid programs.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled a voting session today on a new military aid authorization.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright asked for only a one-month extension of foreign aid funding pending action on the new authorization bill.

In raising it two months, Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the Appropriations Committee concluded that one month was not enough time to get both an authorization and an appropriation through both branches of Congress.

Foreign aid bills have been encumbered for years with end-of-war and other extraneous amendments and bogged down last year over an amendment to require that all executive agreements for U.S. military bases on foreign soil be submitted for Senate ratification as treaties.

The continuing resolution would extend appropriations for Labor-HEW at an annual rate of $29.9 billion, $1.8 billion more than Nixon's budget, and for foreign aid at a $3.6-billion annual rate, $1.5 billion less than budget requests.

Golda Meir Says Crash Will Not Hamper Talks

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir said she left for the United States today that she thought the downing of a Libyan airliner last week by Israeli fighters would have no effect on her talks with President Nixon.

The 74-year-old premier looked drawn and admitted to newsmen she was "very tired." But she dodged other questions, saying: "I will tell you everything when I get back."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban told newsmen that Mrs. Meir would give top priority in Washington to the possibility of "proximity" peace talks with the Arabs. Under this formula, the Israelis and Arabs would meet separately and alternately with a neutral negotiator who would act as a go-between. The procedure was tried by Gunnar Jarring, the U.N. mediator for the Middle East, but was not successful.

On Sunday, the Israeli government reported that the French captain of the Libyan jetliner was not licensed to fly that type of plane. The government said it had found Capt. Jacques Bourges flying permit and that it did not list the trijet Boeing 727, the plane downed last Wednesday on the Israeli side of the Suez Canal. Bourges was licensed only as a copilot for the French Caravelle jetliner and several propeller planes, the Israelis said.

Air France, the French government airline, disputed the Israeli statement. It said Bourges had completed the training course for 727 pilots on Nov. 6, 1971, and this had been entered on his license five days later.

The government also announced that it was ready to make payments to the families of the 106 persons killed in the crash, including Bourges, and to the other seven aboard the plane, who were injured. But it refused to use the word "compensation" because that would imply guilt for the downing of the plane.

Instead, a cabinet communique announcing the offer used the term "ex gratia," meaning "out of kindness."

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has said the Israelis misinterpreted the situation but errors by the pilot and the Cairo air control center also were to blame in the downing of the airliner.

In Washington, meanwhile, a leading expert on the Middle East said the air tragedy has not jeopardized the peace efforts in the area.

Court Continues Abortion Rulings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today told a lower court to re-examine its decision on a 1972 Connecticut law that prohibits abortion except when necessary to save an expectant mother's life.

The high court vacated a decision by a federal court in Hartford last September that declared the law unconstitutional.

The justices instructed the court to look at their decision of last month in which the court ruled that states may not materially interfere with the decision between a woman and her physician to terminate pregnancy within the first six months.

During the final three months, the court said, the states may limit abortions to those required to preserve the health of the mother.

The 1972 law supplanted Connecticut's 1860 statute on abortion. That law had been earlier appealed to the court. The justices sent that appeal back to a federal court in New Haven suggesting it was moot.

The high court on Oct. 16, 1972 had stayed the action of the federal court in Hartford, thus permitting the state to continue its ban on abortion. Today's action automatically removes that stay.

At the same time today, the court refused to reconsider its Jan. 22 abortion ruling in cases dealing with laws in Georgia and Texas.

In applying for reconsideration, Texas had accused the high court of imposing its own "social beliefs" in order to strike down the abortion law in the Jan. 22 decision.

The two Connecticut laws were similar. State officials had claimed the 1972 law was based on scientific evidence that "the unborn child is an alive, separate and distinct human entity from the time it is conceived."

GETTING SICK TWICE

Medical Cost Reform Studied

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — One of the things the legislature might want to "reform" is the way Texans get sick twice—once when they go to the hospital and again when they get the bill.

The problem was apparent to the 1971 Legislature, so the Senate created an interim committee to study rising medical costs, costs which have rocketed the daily price of a hospital room from $12 in 1940 to nearly $100 today.

But although the two-year study bemoans the seemingly inexorable upward march in health care expenditures, it offers few solutions or recommendations.

In fact, the only resolution it drafted calls for repeal of the state's anti-substitution bill. The repeal would allow pharmacists to substitute a generally-equivalent drug for a brand name.

A consumer group, the Texas Public Interest Research Group, supports the repeal—but only if it is accompanied by a bill to force listing of competitive drug prices.

One of the most potentially important—and controversial—parts of the study calls for an examination of the Texas ban on health maintenance organizations (HMOs).

HMO's, outlawed in 22 states, are consumer cooperatives which provide health care to members. HMO's typically operate as either a grouping of physicians in a common facility serving patients or individually practicing physicians reimbursed by a central organization.

"The committee sees certain merit in the concept of the health maintenance organization," the study says, and offers cautious and conscious advice:

"The committee recommends that the legislature continue to study the HMO concept and the related statutes as a means of improving the delivery of health care in the future."

Such a small, limited statement could lead to a pitched battle between doctors, lawmakers, and patients if the legislature decides to pursue the recommendation and remove the ban on HMO's.

So far no such legislation has been introduced.

The study also tried to pinpoint the causes of high medical costs and came up with three major reasons: "increased salaries, high capital expenditures, and the 'cost reimbursement' method of payment under Medicare and Medicaid."

Salary increases constitute two-thirds of the cost increase, the report said, but it wasn't complaining.

"This major factor in the rising cost of hospital care is one which no public or private body can justly touch," it said.

But many capital outlays for unnecessary equipment or space are not needed, the report said. Adding a nonessential bed costs both the price of the bed and the expense of maintaining it—both of which are passed on to the patient.

"In the end it is the patient, the insurance company, or the taxpayer in support of the indigent who must bear the expense of this community pride," the report declared.

It said the Medicare-Medicaid programs also contributed to rising prices because of the way they reimburse hospitals for additional expenses.

TO GET RATIFICATION

Leaders Pressing For Equal Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of 10 more states needed, President Nixon and the chairmen of the two major political parties have called for ratification of the equal rights amendment to elevate the status of women.

Nixon's appeal was made last week in an economic message to Congress. Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss and his Republican counterpart, George Bush, have been writing state legislators to urge approval.

Backers of the constitutional amendment had hoped it might win ratification before Aug. 26, the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage. But in the past month the amendment has run into opposition from some conservatives, and there are predictions it might take another year or more to push it through.

Twenty-eight of the necessary 38 states have ratified the amendment, which would bar the abridgement of civil rights on the basis of sex.

Opponents contend ratification of the amendment would play havoc with the nation's laws, destroy the family system and require that women register for the military draft.

Bush intervened unsuccessfully when the amendment was up for a vote in the North Dakota House of Representatives last Thursday. The House killed the proposal for the year. The GOP chairman also sent telegrams to Republican officials in Maine, whose legislature votes on the amendment Tuesday.

WITH FLEXIBLE LANGUAGE

Nixon To Keep Pay Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration decided today to retain its 5.5 per cent standard for pay increases, but agreed to use more flexible language by a panel of top business and labor leaders in specific cases.

The White House released a statement by the Labor-Management Advisory Committee urging cooperation with goals of the economic stabilization program this year so that the rate of inflation will decline 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year.

Although this appeared to be more flexible than the 5.5 per cent standard that prevailed for Phase II economic controls, Cost of Living Director John T. Dunlop told newsmen that the standard is no more flexible than it was in Phase 2.

He emphasized that even under mandatory price-wage controls, the 5.5 per cent standard was not always strictly adhered to.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said the administration would use the numerical standard as well as the statement by the Labor-Management Advisory Committee for enforcing wage controls this year.

But administration officials were careful not to suggest that so much flexibility was being built into the standard as to allow large wage demands this year.

The key portion of the committee's statement said that responsible wage behavior this year requires that the average rate of wage increases should be "consistent with the goals set by the President of getting the rate of inflation down to 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year."

A high administration source said Sunday the new flexibility for wage increases will make it possible for workers to regain the purchasing power lost because of the increase in food costs.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) The revenue sharing questions on my Federal tax form ask for my township. How can I find out what township I live in?

A) Less than one-half of the states have organized township governments which are eligible for revenue sharing funds. These states are listed in your tax form instructions.

Q) I elected to have the IRS compute my tax this year. Will this slow down the refund I'm expecting?

A) No. The IRS can compute the tax and issue a refund within 4-6 weeks from the date the return is filed with the IRS service center.

Q) I operate my own farm. Can I claim investment credit on my livestock as well as on my tractors and other qualifying farm equipment?

A) Yes. Livestock (other than horses) acquired by you after Aug. 15, 1971 (or before Aug. 16, 1972, but only if ordered after March 31, 1971) qualifies for the investment credit.

Q) Will the IRS be open extra hours this year to help taxpayers with their returns?

A) Yes. During the income tax filing season most local Internal Revenue offices are open an average of eight additional hours per week. Some offices are open additional hours on weekdays, while

A) If you itemize deductions on your return, the following are some of the items you can deduct as "miscellaneous deductions": political contributions (up to $50, or up to $100 if married filing jointly); cost of safety equipment, small tools, and supplies used in your job; dues to unions, professional organizations, chambers of commerce; fees you paid to employment agencies to get a job; gambling losses, but only up to the amount you won; and alimony payments.

Q) I purchased a car for my son last year. Does the amount I paid count toward his support when I figure out whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A) No. The purchase of an automobile, whether by you or your dependent, is not considered when determining total support.

Gold Records Hit High in 1972

By MARY CAMPBELL

Gold records hit a high in 1972, from the previous high of 169 set in 1970. Gold records in 1972 numbered 191 — 125 albums and 66 singles. In 1971, 146 records were certified.

To qualify for certification as gold by the Recording Industry Association of America, a single must sell at least one million copies and an album must have $1 million in wholesale sales of the long-playing record and/or the prerecorded tape.

The first six months of 1972 saw 31 singles and 54 LPs certified. At that time, "Eat a Peach" by the Allman Brothers Band was listed incorrectly as a single when it was an album, and "An Old Fashioned Love Song" by Three Dog Night was listed, when it already had been listed during 1971.

The records turning gold during the second six months of 1972 follow: Singles — "Last Night I Didn't Get to Sleep at All," Fifth Dimension; "Daddy Don't You Walk so Fast," Wayne Newton; "Walking in the Rain with the One I Love," Love Unlimited; "Song Sung Blue," Neil Diamond; "Hey Girl," Donny Osmond; "Sylvia's Mother," Dr. Hook and the Medicine Show; "How Do You Do," Mouth and MacNeal.

Job Enrichment Needed

NEW YORK (AP) — The search for efficiency has brought American industry through many phases since the era of time and motion studies during the late 1930s and 1940s to the latest product, job enrichment.

Experimentation with human engineering, or the designing of products to better suit and serve humans, became popular late in the 1940s. Machine controls were placed at eye level, lathes were made safer, lighting was improved.

Following in the efficiency continuum came automation, the advent of electronic controls and other devices aimed at improving productivity by reducing the human component of routine activities.

And now in the 1970s there is a reaction to some of the techniques of the past. Workers are rebelling against piece work, lack of personal responsibility, repetition and inability to use skills. What was once accepted for the sake of efficiency, is now producing inefficiency.

Absenteeism, tardiness, lack of ambition, employe turnover and poor product quality are some of the manifestations. And so the latest goal of efficiency seekers is job enrichment.

Dr. John Drake, an adviser to many blue chip corporations on job enrichment, believes that the rebellion against the emptiness of the work day is an understandable consequence of two developments.

First, said Drake, who heads Drake-Beam & Associates, as a nation becomes more industrial its workers earn more. They satisfy immediate needs and have discretionary income. But they want more than money. They may seek meaning in their work.

Second, cultural pressures also develop. The individual views himself differently. He sees himself as a person of dignity. "I am good," he says in effect, an attitude which logically leads to "I should be treated as such."

The technique of efficiency in this decade, he said, will be to make work more meaningful, and thus encourage the worker toward higher production and better quality.

To be successful, Drake believes, any enrichment program must have these characteristics: it is a complete piece of work; it must provide the worker with decision-making control; it must offer feedback on performance.

Many routine jobs already have been enriched. In a television factory, groups of workers who once did simple, repetitive jobs on an assembly line now take full responsibility for the assembly and quality of entire units.

Dear Abby

Confusion over religious custom

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Some of my best friends are Jews, but I can't figure out something.

Once I went to a Jewish funeral service and I wore no hat. [I don't even own one.] After I entered, a little man ran after me and offered me a little skull cap, indicating that I should wear it. Of course I put it on. I looked around and noticed that all the other men were wearing one.

On another occasion I attended a Jewish wedding which took place in another temple, and this time nobody wore anything on their heads.

Are Jews supposed to wear something on their heads for funerals, but not for weddings? How about for regular Sabbath services? What's the rule? Please set me straight.

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Covering the head is an old Jewish custom. During the course of Jewish history, especially in Western Europe, and now in North America, many Jews have felt that this custom is no longer required; therefore, differing patterns of ritual apply.

Among Orthodox [the most religious] Jews, the skull cap [or "yarmelke"] is worn not only for prayer but for all the daily activities. Conservative Jews observe this custom only during prayer.

However, within the Reformed movement, various practices are observed, depending upon the particular custom of the congregation.

DEAR ABBY: I am an executive in my early 50s. My wife died three years ago and ours was a beautiful marriage. I am not looking for another wife, but I do enjoy female companionship occasionally.

A friend has a secretary who caught my eye. She is 26 and a really beautiful girl who dresses in wonderful taste. I asked her for a date, and took her to one of the finest places for dinner. She was dressed like a queen and I was proud to be seen with her. I offered her a cocktail and she said, "I'll have a beer."

When I realized she wasn't joking, I ordered her a beer, which she guzzled in nothing flat. When it came time for dinner she asked me to order for her, so I ordered a broiled lobster. When it was served she asked me how to eat "the thing." [She had never seen one eaten before.] She made an awful mess of it, and threw the shells all over the table.

During the evening, some terribly vulgar language came out of that beautiful mouth. I was shocked. The reason I'm writing is to tell you this was the third such disappointment I've had in a month!

What's the matter with the young women of today, Abby? Are they typical? Sign me.

NOT THAT LONESOME IN N. Y.

DEAR NOT: No. But you might have better luck with ladies nearer your own age.

DEAR ABBY: Last year, when my son was three years old and attending preschool, he came home with his little face all black and blue. I asked him what happened and he told me the teacher did it.

I called the teacher and she flatly denied it. She said he had fallen and hit his face on a chair.

Now my son is in the same class this year, and I have just been told by an eyewitness that my son was telling me the truth. That teacher did hit him in the face and caused those bruises! And it seems that mine isn't the only child this teacher has left marks on.

Abby, what would you do if it were your child?

CONCERNED PARENT

DEAR CONCERNED: I would call the support of the eyewitness and bring the matter to the attention of the teacher's superior.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22

Your birthday today: Relationships are erratic at best, with many sudden quirks of circumstances, odd timing, much excitement. Today's natives are generally conscientious, somewhat shy about assuming obligations, often interested in sports and athletics.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: With gentle care for those less fortunate, seek agreement amongst your equals, associates. Bright ideas are normal for today.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: It's quite all right to be satisfied with yourself in anticipation of what you may be able to do to improve your income.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Effrontery now fails. If you are going to be bossy, be sure you have the authority. In personal relationships, you don't.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Just being yourself may be all that is needed for a successful day. This is a good time to catch up on any neglected correspondence.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: Got started on something you've been putting off—distasteful responsibilities are better borne early and without comment.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: In the course of rather ordinary activities you gain a deeper perspective on yourself and your work—there's much to do yet.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: A long-standing question comes near resolution—you may be relieved at your reaction to not having to consider the question.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Differences of opinion exist, can easily become quarrels. See whether you can stay out of a game of trading harsh words.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You are apt to plunge right into self-expressive projects without thinking of costs or reactions amongst your friends.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: The pitch begins with "why don't we..." and from there it's a gamble if you join the scheme. You've lots of energy.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: An inner streak of mischief leads you to the words and deeds that dismay your associates—with the best intentions, too.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: You can't sit back and watch life happen to you especially today. You must get up and going and busy making things happen.

North's jump to three clubs was a limit raise. South decided that his 15 high card points warranted a rebid and tried three spades just in case North might happen to have four-card support.

North didn't have four-card support, but bid four spades anyway on the theory that 10 tricks might just come in with spades as trump while 11 tricks at clubs might prove to be out of reach.

He was wrong on the second count. Five clubs makes easily since declarer can make five trump tricks (including a ruff of a heart) plus four spades, plus two diamonds.

He was also right about spades. South had no trouble making 10 tricks there.

All that was required was a little mild restraint. West led out three top hearts and South just had to hold back the impulse to ruff. Instead he just discarded his four of diamonds which would have been a loser in any event.

Then all he had to do was to take the last 10 tricks with high cards.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

One cold February morning a young East Texas farmer—busy with outside chores—was startled by a terrified scream from inside the house. He raced the distance to the house and burst into the kitchen to find his wife backed into a corner, shielding her two children from a slobbering, trembling fox. He beat the crazed animal to death with a piece of stove wood.

There wasn't the slightest doubt that the fox was rabid, driven to a maniacal recklessness by the fire in its brain. Only a mad animal would go brazenly and fearlessly into a farmyard and into a house where humans were present. One child was bitten during this particular incident.

Last December, a West Texas rancher was awoken to the sound of his favorite dog fighting off a rabid fox in his backyard. Before the rancher could end the intrusion by killing the fox, the rabid animal had bitten the mawtice.

Knowing how rabies can spread the rancher destroyed the dog, which had also been bitten, on the spot. About a month later, one of the man's sheep also turned up rabid.

In January of this year, during a basketball game being held in the high school gymnasium of a small community near the Gulf Coast, the referee of the game bent down to sweep away what appeared to be a dead bat lying on the playing court. The man was bitten, and immediately began the series of shots required for protection against rabies.

So far this year, rabies cases have been reported in East Texas (Rusk County), Central Texas (Llano, Austin, McCulloch, and Mason Counties), West Texas (Concho County), the Gulf Coast (Harris County), and North Texas (Montague and Ellis Counties), involving dogs, cats, skunks, foxes, bats, and a nutria. One such case reportedly involved some 18 dogs bitten by one rabid skunk.

Hundreds of variations of the same stories could be related—all tragic, all true, all preventable.

Texas may be a place just waiting for a rabies epidemic to happen. A year-end report of animal bites indicated that only about one-third of the dogs and five per cent of the cats involved in biting cases were reported as vaccinated against rabies.

Two-thirds of the dogs and 95 per cent of the cats involved in biting incidents in Texas had no rabies vaccination. Approximately three-fourths of all animals involved in bite cases were listed as owned.

State health officials point out that local health departments and county commissioners have the authority under existing state law to control the occurrence of rabies in Texas, although a few may be unaware the law exists. It authorizes the Commissioners Court of any county to declare their county to be in danger of a potential rabies outbreak in the animal population of the county.

Under such an order, the Commissioners could establish regulations requiring rabies vaccination, registration of domestic animals, quarantining of biting animals and rabies suspects, and requiring restraint of domestic animals.

Such an ordinance would become the legal minimum standards in existence throughout the entire county, including all incorporated municipalities even if their ordinances were not as strong as the county's. The state law's "teeth" include fines and jail terms for repeated violators.

Simple vaccination for rabies, the elimination of stray animals, and the discouragement of wildlife in populated areas and the general support of the public for rabies control programs would go a long way toward elimination of rabies as a threat to the population, says state health officials.

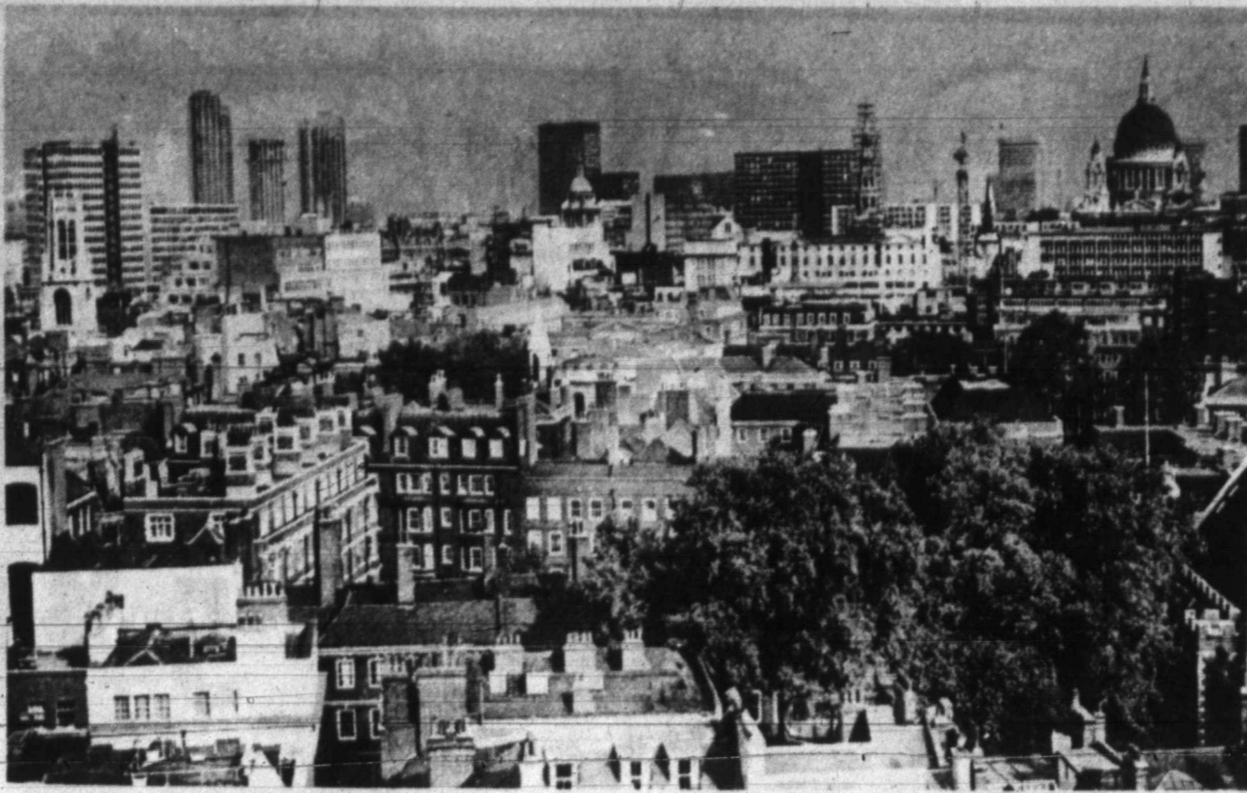

But when there is a human exposure, the State Health Department really swings into action.

The animal brain is examined by an intricate laboratory process for evidence of rabies. If the result is positive, the local physician is alerted to the need institute the series of rabies vaccinations. State Health Department Laboratories provided 634 rabies injections for the treatment of humans exposed to rabies last year.

During 1972 more than 7,000 persons reported animal bites. Children from birth through nine years of age had the largest number of bites of any other age grouping listed and accounted for 38 per cent of humans bitten.

With rabies endemic in the foxes and skunks in Texas; as well as bats, rabies protection for pets doesn't appear to be sufficient to prevent a rabies epidemic wherever these animals are allowed to run at large. State Health officials estimate that for every case of rabies diagnosed in Texas wildlife, there are ten cases that go undetermined and unreported.

THE NEW AND THE OLD blend pleasingly in this aerial view of London's skyline. St. Paul's Cathedral (right) seems to be getting smaller as those tall buildings keep rising in the area.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Monday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1973. There are 308 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1561, an earthquake in Portugal killed tens of thousands of people and flattened much of Lisbon and other cities.

On this date: In 1521, the Spanish governor of Puerto Rico, Ponce de Leon, sailed from San Juan on his second expedition to Florida.

In 1623, the Dutch massacred a group of English colonists in what is now Indonesia.

In 1802, one of the great figures in French literature, Victor Hugo, was born.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte escaped from the island of Elba, his first place of exile.

In 1918, in World War I, German planes bombed Venice, Italy.

In 1952, it was announced that Britain had produced its own atomic bomb.

Ten years ago: U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche was assigned the task of trying to end fighting in the Middle Eastern country of Yemen.

Five years ago: North Vietnamese troops mauled a U.S. patrol outside the Khe Sanh base in South Vietnam.

One year ago: At least 116 persons were killed in a flood when a dam made of coal slag burst in West Virginia's Buffalo Creek hollow after three days of heavy rain.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Jackie Gleason is 57. Ohio Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr., is 56.

Thought for today: Let us never negotiate out of fear, but let us never fear to negotiate — President John F. Kennedy.

Lee Trevino Wins Gleason By Default

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino had a word of warning for Forrest Fezler, the heart-broken young man whose collapse let Trevino take the title and the $52,000 first prize in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary-National Airlines Golf Classic.

"He'll be nervous again," a sober and subdued Trevino said.

"I know. I've been there a lot more times than he has."

"There was a tremendous amount of pressure on him," Trevino continued. "But there was a lot of pressure on me, too."

"You know, you go for a while and you don't win—you're supposed to be one of the best players out here and you haven't won for a while and everybody starts wondering 'what's wrong with him?' Well, that puts pressure on you, too."

Trevino, the current British

Open champion but a non-winner since last September, benefitted from Fezler's shaky putting on the last two holes Sunday and won the tournament while in the clubhouse.

"It's the first time I've ever won like that," Trevino said. "I've never before been in a position where a miss by someone else meant a win for me."

Trevino, who had been struggling and had broken 70 only once in the first seven weeks of the season, chased the front-running Fezler for 70 holes before finally acquiring his 14th American tour triumph with a par 72 final round on the 7,128-yard Inverrary Golf Club course.

He had a 279 total, nine under par and one in front of Fezler, a 23-year-old tour sophomore who was seeking his first victory.

ry. Fezler, the leader through the first three rounds, blew to a fat 76 in the occasional drizzle that fell from gray skies in the last round.

Bob Murphy was third with a 71-281—but only Trevino really challenged the front-running, but stumbling, Fezler. Australian Bruce Devlin and incredible Sam Snead, a 60-year-old marvel from another golfing era, followed at 282. Devlin had a 72 and Snead 71.

Jack Nicklaus, the man most people expected to win this event that offered $260,000 in total prize money, never really got it going but finished with a 71-283. Arnold Palmer, a winner in his last previous start, wasn't a factor. He finished with a 73 and was far back in the field at 292.

Wilbon, Brewer Named

Pampa Harvesters Freddy Wilbon and A.J. Brewer were named today to the Amarillo Globe News All-District team.

Wilbon was also named Player of the Year in District 3-A AAA. Harvester coach Robert McPherson was chosen Coach of the Year and Billy Wilbon, Freddy's younger brother, was named the league's Sophomore of the Year.

Freddy Wilbon was second in the district in scoring with a 16.4 average in league play and led in field goal percentage with 62.0, making 67 of 108 attempts.

He also was fifth in the district in rebounding and was one of the leaders in free throw percentages.

Brewer (11.9) was eighth in the league in scoring and his play in the latter part of the year was highly instrumental in getting the Harvesters into the district playoffs.

Joining postman Wilbon and guard Brewer on the Globe News' first team all-district were Palo Duro postman Fred Mitchell, Caprock forward Sonny Teague and Borger forward Russell Dickson (normally a guard).

Named to the second team were Tascosa's Bill Fountain and Randy Burkett, Borger's Alfred "Bobo" Jackson and Chuck Ballman and Amarillo High's Larry Hamner.

Club Owners, Players Have 3 Year Agreement

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Baseball's training camps prepared today to sweep out the off-season cobwebs and finally make way for the bats and balls and playing and, believe it or not, spring training.

The go-ahead to open shut-down camps from Florida to Arizona to California was given in New York Sunday following a three-year agreement reached at another in a series of meetings between representatives of the Major League Baseball Players Association and club owners.

Among those teams which announced plans to begin workouts today were the Chicago Cubs, New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Philadelphia Phillies.

In a joint statement, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, and John Gaherin, representing the 24 club owners, said they had "reached complete agreement for a three-year term subject to ratification by the clubs and players." However, ratification appeared to be a mere formality.

The settlement covers the so-called Basic Agreement, which governs active player-owner relations and the pension-benefit plan. It reportedly permits arbitration of salary disputes for players who have been in the major leagues for at least two consecutive seasons or a total of three years.

John Holland, vice president and general manager of the Cubs, termed the arbitration clause "a milestone in baseball." He called the accord "a very good settlement with give and take on both sides."

Holland said he didn't think the arbitration clause would lead to management problems. "Hockey has had arbitration for several years and it's worked very well for them," he said.

Chub Feeney, president of the National League, said players may "report to camp as soon as they can." He and his American League counterpart, Joe Cronin, then notified the 24 clubs that they could open their camps.

The owners had refused to open the training camps pending a settlement. They were fearful of a player strike similar to last year's two-week April walkout over the pension-benefit package which first delayed and then shortened the 1972 season.

The reaction from management and players alike was one of relief, that they finally could get down to the business at hand, namely, preparing for the 1973 pennant races. Both sides realized that fans were getting tired of talk and ready for runs, hits and errors.

"The publicity surrounding it (the negotiations) turns fans off, and judging by phone calls and letters I received during the negotiation period that very definitely happened this year," said Frank Cashen, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

"I think all the ballplayers, including myself, are very happy they have reached the settlement," said Jim Palmer, a Baltimore pitcher.

College Roundup

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The countdown will begin this week to determine which four teams will meet each other in St. Louis.

On Thursday, the National Collegiate Athletic Association will issue bids for the nine at-large berths in the University Division tournament. Conference champions go to the tournament automatically. Two conferences, the Atlantic Coast and Southern, have post-season tournaments to decide their NCAA representative. The NCAA finals will be held in St. Louis this year.

The National Invitational Tournament will begin extending bids Thursday for its tournament to be held at Madison Square Garden in New York. The NIT usually invites the conference runners-up and the at-large teams that the NCAA passes up.

Long Beach State, Memphis State, Miami of Ohio and Weber State qualified for the NCAA tournament over the weekend winning the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference, the Missouri Valley Conference and the Mid-American Conference, respectively. Weber State had won a berth earlier by taking the Big Sky Conference crown.

UCLA, the defending national champion and possessor of a 58 game winning streak, clinched at least a tie in the Pacific-8 and is expected to win the conference for the seventh straight year against California and Stanford this weekend. If the last six years are any indication, the Bruins will be in St. Louis on March 24.

The leading candidates for the nine at-large berths are Marquette (22-2), Providence (21-2), Syracuse (19-4), Houston (20-3), South Carolina (18-5), Jacksonville (16-4), Oklahoma City (18-5), Oral Roberts (20-5), Virginia Tech (16-5) and Southwestern Louisiana (22-2).

This is the situation at a glance in some of the still undecided conferences for NCAA berths.

Ivy League—Penn beat Yale 78-69, taking over sole possession of first place from Princeton.

ton, a 68-62 upset victim by Brown. The Quakers can wrap up their fourth consecutive Ivy League title by beating Harvard and Dartmouth next weekend.

Ohio Valley—Austin Peay leads Murray State by one game with two to play. The title will be decided Saturday when Austin Peay visits Murray State.

Big Ten—Minnesota has an 8-2 record with four games left to play. The Gophers beat Michigan over the weekend 98-80 to remain one percentage point over 9-3 Indiana and 8-3 Purdue. The second and third place finishers will probably go to the NIT.

Big Eight—Kansas State took a 1 1/2 game lead over Colorado by defeating Oklahoma 82-78, with three games to play against Nebraska, Oklahoma State and Colorado. Third place Missouri (18-4) will probably go to the NIT for the second straight year.

SEC—Tennessee leads Kentucky with a record of 12-2 to 11-4 with four games left, including road games at Vanderbilt and Kentucky, Alabama, 10-4 in the conference and 17-4 overall, may go to the NIT.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "I just told myself, 'Sweetie, this is it!' and I did it," said Billie Jean King, whose victory over Margaret Court pushed her into today's championship match in the $25,000 Indianapolis Women's Professional Tennis Tournament.

Mrs. King, playing in only her second tournament since October after coming back from a wrist injury, downed Mrs. Court Sunday 6-7, 7-6, 6-3.

Jimmy Connors Takes National Indoor Open

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Jimmy Connors could be excused if he paraphrased an old New York Yankees' truism and said loud and clear: "It's great to be young and a tennis player."

Connors, hardly at the peak of his game at age 20, has added the National Indoor Open to his list of titles and run his guaranteed earnings for the year to almost $40,000.

The title match with Karl Meiler of West Germany was a bit tougher than expected Sunday, but the confident left-hander settled down to record a 3-6, 7-6, 7-6, 6-3 victory.

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Carolina Cougars have already made the American Basketball Association playoffs. They are trying to gain the home-court advantage in them by having the most victories. The Memphis Tams are trying desperately to make the playoffs.

Sunday night, the Cougars got another victory and the Tams fell further away from the New York Nets for the fourth playoff spot in the East Division.

The Cougars were paced by Steve Jones who scored 25 points as they squeaked out a 128-127 victory over Memphis.

The victory came despite a furious fourth-quarter rally when the Tams, down by 12 points, closed to within one point. Unfortunately, there was only one second left on the clock when they got that close. Johnny Neumann paced the Tams with 27 points.

The triumph gave the Cougars a 4 1/2-game lead over the second-place Kentucky Colonels in the East Division while the loss dropped the Tams 3 1/2 games behind the Nets.

In other ABA action Sunday, New York bombed the Indiana Pacers 128-127, the Denver Rockets edged Kentucky 87-86 and the San Diego Conquistadors conquered Dallas 102-94.

In the National Basketball Association Sunday, Boston defeated Cleveland 105-92, Phoenix edged Kansas City-Omaha 111-109, Philadelphia squeaked

Volleyballers In Amarillo

The Pampa High School volleyball team is in Amarillo today for its third District 1-AAAA game of the year against the Amarillo High School squad.

Pampa is in first place in the district with a 2-0 record. It beat Tascosa Feb. 12 and Hereford last Saturday to earn first place.

Pampa leads by a half game over three Amarillo schools — AHA, Tascosa and Caprock — each of which have 2-1 league marks.

Bullish on central air conditioning? Consider investing just a little more in a long-term, blue chip Gas air conditioning system.

Only a Gas air conditioning system pays you regular dividends for many happy years. That's because the heart of a Gas cooling system is a simple gas burner, rather than an electric, mechanical compressor. A clean-burning gas flame doesn't wear out — so there's less to go wrong, fewer maintenance calls, a longer life with no loss of original cooling capacity. And because natural gas is the prime energy source, you'll also save money on operating cost.

Time To Be Silent

The best tribute Americans could pay to their returning POWs, as well as to those thousands of men who will never return from Vietnam, would be to regain a little of their faith in their country—not a blind, chauvinistic patriotism but the simple acknowledgment that for all its faults and shortcomings, America has always stood for certain noble ideals and that it still upholds those ideals.

Certainly we have had enough of the kind of national self-abasement still mouthed by the likes of antiwar priest Philip Berrigan.

"We should go very humbly on our knees for what we have done (in Vietnam)," he said the other day. "People around the world consider us one of the most dangerous nations in the world. The violence of this nation and this empire is almost limitless."

(Oh, yes, Western Europe in particular is so fearful of our violence that it trembles every time anyone so much as suggests it might be a good idea to bring home some of the 300,000 American troops stationed there.)

It is rather the Berrigans who should perhaps go very humbly today. When the final analysis of this war is made, the world may learn just how much their well-intentioned efforts actually prolonged the killing and the dying by encouraging North Vietnam to believe it need not negotiate seriously with a despondent-ravaged United States but could achieve its goals on the field of battle.

If the peace activists did indeed prolong the war, they are responsible for infinitely more human suffering than was caused by a Calley at My Lai. Would they have the moral strength to live with the fact? If they did not prolong it, then they should be very humbly grateful that America is a country in which men are free to oppose their government when they believe it to be wrong, even if that government does not always listen as they think it should.

Blessed are the peacemakers—but only when the peace they profess to seek is a just peace, when their appeals to humanity and morality are made not only to their own countrymen but also to those who chose to take up the sword in the beginning.

Yet not one word of reproach is or ever has been uttered by the peace activists against North Vietnam for the violence it unleashed against hundreds of thousands of innocents in South Vietnam. Not the slightest suggestion is made that the Communist supporters of North Vietnam also have a responsibility to bind up the wounds of war.

It was not the alleged proneness to violence of the United States but this moral myopia of the protesters which stained with violence which they themselves initiated or were not always entirely innocent of.

The same blindness renders them pitiful today when they continue to attempt to preach morality to America.

But the war is in the past. There is a cease-fire among ourselves.

This is still America. This is still the country where human freedom has found its highest expression, where the greatest good for the greatest number remains the sought-for ideal.

It is still a country worth loving.

Two-Home Families

The two-car, two-TV, two-child and two-that family, long since commonplace, is rapidly being overtaken by the two-home family.

While most people have enough to do to meet single mortgage or rental payments, there are already three-million two-home families and their number is growing at the rate of more than 200,000 a year.

According to the National Association of Home Builders, residential housing starts will total about 2.35 million for 1973 when the final figures are in, and 10 to 15 per cent of them are estimated to be second homes.

At the same time, the mobile home industry will have sold almost 600,000 units and an undetermined, but considerable, number are believed to be second homes.

The value of private residential construction in 1972 is put at $53 billion. If the 15 per cent estimate is correct, that means that almost $8 billion will have gone into second homes—not to mention second refrigerators, furniture, bedding and all the other conveniences and necessities that make an American house a home.

You don't have to preach honesty to men with creative purpose. Let a human being throw the engines of his soul into the making of something, and the instinct of workmanship will take care of his honesty.—Walter Lippmann, American journalist.

BRUCE BLOSSAT Trade Rivalries Pinch Have-Nots

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Out front, the world's trade dilemma centers on the super-producers: the United States, Japan, and an increasingly cohesive Western Europe. Backstage, the underdeveloped lands are proving to be the keenest sufferers from the rich-nation rivalry.

In the past two decades, their share of world trade has declined from one-third of the total to one-fifth, and their plight is getting worse. It is their exports which most feel the squeeze as the wealthier countries maintain or heighten protectionist barriers in their own competitive struggle.

Some 75 per cent of their foreign exchange is earned by exports, yet prices for these (usually raw materials or low-technology goods) have dropped even as the prices of the things they import have risen.

we are talking of course, about the impoverished lands of Latin America like Colombia, Ecuador and Peru; nearly the whole of Africa, and much of Asia, including huge India, but also some nations such as Taiwan and South Korea which have showed modest promise in low-technology industries.

I have written often of trade experts' judgment that the great gap between the rich and the poor nations is really never going to narrow substantially. The advanced countries, with their high-technology base, their sophisticated work force and their pools of capital, will always be on the upward move as the less developed places fight for betterment.

Plagued with excessive population growth, some of these lands have tried gamely to offset falling raw materials prices by building labor-intensive industries like textile and shoe manufacture.

As indicated, Taiwan and South Korea are among those which had a certain success. But moves like America's 1971 textile quota system, advanced to meet competition mainly from Japan, struck hard at these lesser countries. ## Your Health Boiled Water Won't Help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—is there any proven medical value in boiling water for its trace minerals to cure diabetes or arthritis in older people? Also since goat's milk is lower in fat, is it better for a diabetic or for overweight people?

Dear Reader—There is absolutely no supportable evidence that boiled water is a satisfactory cure for either diabetes or arthritis. I know that boiled water has been pushed by some individuals for this but most reputable scientists would say that there is no evidence of it having any value for this purpose.

As far as goat's milk is concerned, it is not lower in fat. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, goat's milk is 4 per cent fat whereas the commercial variety of cow's milk sold is usually 3.5 per cent fat. Thus, there is no advantage as far as fat content is concerned in drinking goat's milk as opposed to cow's milk. Goat's milk has sometimes been recommended because it is more easily digested or sometimes because of allergies to cow's milk. This is unrelated to the fat content.

Now, it is true that if you have a local milk supply available you can get milk which is considerably richer than that commercially available. Milk from Jersey cows, for example, often contains more than 6 per cent butterfat while other breeds of cows, such as the Holstein, produce milk which is much lower in butterfat content.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My mother-in-law had a stroke seven years ago which damaged her brain and she was told not to use salt which she uses constantly. I would like to know if tomatoes, ketchup, or tomato juice is hurting her condition. I feel it is because it contains calcium salt.

Dear Reader—The reason your mother-in-law asked your doctor to restrict salt was to avoid sodium. Normal table salt is made up of sodium chloride. This really doesn't have anything to do with calcium. Usually the sodium is restricted to help control blood pressure or to prevent the accumulation of fluid in people who have this problem, for example, with heart failure.

Certainly if she is using salt and her doctor advised her not to it's not doing her any good and may be causing her some significant harm. If she has high blood pressure and is supposed to be on a salt-restricted diet it will make it very difficult to manage her problem.

Fresh, raw, ripe tomatoes are relatively low in sodium content and are fine. Products made from tomatoes often contain lots of salt. Commercial tomato juice is one of these unless you get a dietetic type of juice which is low in sodium. Ketchup (except dietetic low sodium products) is exceptionally high in sodium salt and certainly should be avoided by anyone on a low-salt diet.

Individuals on low-salt diets should not add salt to the preparation of any of their foods, and if they limit the animal products in their diet and follow this procedure, they will have a fairly low sodium diet.

Arms Testing During U.S.-China Talks —What Could Stark Contrast Portend?

WASHINGTON — The two Communist colossi—Russia and China—are hair-raisingly at it again.

Looming direly over Dr. Henry Kissinger's secrecy-cloaked discussions in Peking were a series of sinister events on the 6,000-mile Sino-Soviet border that raise the gravest doubts about what the future portends.

If the two venomously feuding powers are not steadily edging toward nuclear conflict, they are engaged in terrifyingly menacing gestures.

What impact these had on Kissinger's talks with Premier Chou En-lai is unknown.

Certainly there must have been some kind of consideration or reference to them. They are too stark and forbidding to have been completely avoided—even indirectly.

But while little known generally, what is grimly transpiring on the militarily bristling Sino-Soviet border is being intently and minutely followed by President Nixon and top Pentagon and State Department authorities—with good reason.

What they're Up To
Following are recent principal developments:

—Russia test-fired eight to ten SS-11 ballistic missiles north of China in the region between Lake Baikal eastward to the Kamchatka peninsula. The SS-11 is an intercontinental ballistic missile with a range of more than 6,000 miles. But these shots extended only around 1,500 miles. Not only was this threateningly exceptional but so was the number of these firings and their timing—10 days before Kissinger's arrival in Peking.

—China is set to test its first intercontinental ballistic missile—believed to have a range up to 5,000 miles. China already has perfected nuclear warheads for this lethal global weapon; their latest tests were last March. Also China already has medium range (600 to 1,000 miles) and intermediate range (1,500 to 2,500 miles) ballistic missiles. Around 50 of them are deployed in areas from which they can strike vital targets in Russia's Pacific maritime provinces and as far west as industrial and population centers in the Ural mountains. Some of these missiles are sited in steel-and-concrete underground silos, others in facilities carved into mountainsides.

—Lately, Russian aerial reconnaissance of the Chinese border has been considerably increased; it is now extensive and frequent, with occasional deep intrusions of China. There have been several "incidents" as a result of these overflights, but warily neither side has said anything about them publicly, although there are indications both lost planes. Obvious purpose of this large-scale Soviet aerial reconnaissance is to "fix" the location of radar and other military targets.

—China has stepped up to 15 a month the rate of production of its F-9 fighter-bomber that would be used to retaliate against a Russian nuclear strike. China now has some 300 F-9s, with at least 200 of them in forward border areas—rotating on "air alerts" so as not to be caught on the ground by surprise attack.

At least three Soviet divisions have been added to the 45 already concentrated along the 6,000-mile border. One of these reinforcing divisions is armored—with Russia's heaviest battle tanks. The Kremlin now has some 800,000 combat troops in this tinderbox theater. This does not include an air force of at least 1,000 planes of all types.

—First-line Chinese divisions and air squadrons are being moved to forward areas. This has been underway for several months. Some of these units, particularly tank, are shifted around, but overall combat strength in advance positions remains high upwards of 500,000. The troops are well equipped and trained—also continually indoctrinated against the "Soviet aggressor."

Meanwhile, as these warlike preparations are taking place on the Sino-Soviet border, Kremlin leaders have been furiously fulminating against the Chinese "betrayers" and "Marxist deceivers."

Premier Chou En-lai is making no bones that he considers these exhortations as designed to "isolate us ideologically, economically and militarily from the other Communist countries. They are trying to make us pariahs before they close in for the kill."

Two factors were behind the French ban of that so-called "World Amnesty Conference" that was to take place this week in Paris:

(1) The affair was conceived, organized and financed by Communists, with pacifist, clerical, bleeding-heart and do-gooder personalities and elements used as fronts and smoke screens.

(2) Inside information that the French Communist-Socialist coalition vigorously opposing the Gaullist regime of President Pompidou in next month's Parliamentary elections planned to use the amnesty meeting as an electioneering platform, with leading coalitionists as the tub-thumpers.

Actually, if the conference had taken place it would have been distinctly counterproductive so far as promoting amnesty sentiment in the U.S. It would have done this agitation far more harm than good—particularly at this time with the heroic U.S. POWs returning from North Vietnam.

There isn't the remotest prospect of amnesty for the thousands of draft dodgers, deserters and defectors. Congress is overwhelmingly against it, and so is President Nixon. Their attitude is succinctly summed up by his forceful comment: "Amnesty means forgiveness. We cannot provide forgiveness for them. Those who served paid their price. Those who deserted must pay their price. The price is a criminal penalty for disobeying the laws of the United States—it would be the most immoral thing I could think of to give amnesty to draft dodgers and those who deserted."

Reason, too late perhaps, may convince you of the folly of misspending time.—George Washington.

Chess Craze? What Chess Craze?

By RALPH NOVAK

CHICAGO — (NEA) — All those people who have been talking about the chess craze sweeping the country should have been here for the recent U. S. Championship playoff tournament.

Somebody should have been here. As it was, the players drew crowds that did not have to be estimated, since they could be tallied on the fingers and toes of the reporters present. Both of them.

Still, the isolation seemed blissful and not at all discouraging to the players themselves, no doubt accustomed to the public anonymity that has traditionally engulfed even the greatest chess masters.

Robert Byrne, a soft-spoken 43-year-old from Long Island who emerged from the playoffs here with his first U.S. title, said he is convinced that chess is leaping and bounding to greater popularity.

"Chess would make a good spectator attraction of wide appeal, especially on television," Byrne said. "There's no reason why we couldn't have a chess game of the week just as we do with football, since you can always vary the time limit of a game to suit what is available."

There was no television coverage of the playoff and even the Chicago newspapers provided only a sketchy account of the match, despite a Herculean public relations effort by president Richard Verber of the Chicago Chess Club, which sponsored the tournament.

What the tournament lacked in terms of newsworthiness was the mixed but lucrative blessing that would have been provided by the participation of Bobby Fischer.

Fischer, as world champion, no longer has to worry about competing to become U.S. champion, just as Richard Nixon no longer has to worry about competing to become U.S. senator from California. And the prize money involved here—$2000 for first place—would be paltry for Fischer, who can hardly be persuaded to answer a telephone these days for anything less than $50,000.

Byrne and Samuel Reshevsky, who finished second in Chicago, won the right to advance to next year's international matches in Brazil and the Soviet Union, part of the elimination process to choose a challenger for Fischer in the next world title match in 1975. (Byrne and Reshevsky tied with Lubomir Kavalek in last April in the U.S. championship, necessitating the playoff among the three for the two U.S. spots in the world elimination.)

But while they are both Fischer's competitors, Byrne and Reshevsky are also among Fischer's admirers. Reshevsky, a spunky 60-year-old, has held or shared the U.S. championship eight times but he remains anonymous enough that while he was walking into one of his playoff games against Kavalek, a door attendant asked him for his ticket. He says, though, that Fischer's eccentric and publicity-drawing genius have brought more money into the chess tour and made all chess players more marketable commodities.

Byrne calls Fischer "the greatest asset to the game America has ever had."

"Because of him," Byrne says, "hundreds of thousands of American kids have taken up chess."

"Americans love a winner, for one thing. And before, the general public didn't know how competitive chess was. They thought it was just a genteel pastime."

"Reykjavik opened their eyes to the fact that chess is like a tank of barracudas. Now that the game is perceived as being more savage, maybe it can become more popular."

The disappointing playoff turnout of (about 100 spectators per game) notwithstanding, there are signs that chess is making a small breakthrough.

Since there are now only a half dozen or so fulltime American chess pros, what the players would like is a tour of matches sponsored by wealthy, publicity-seeking corporations, like the tour the pro golfers and bowlers follow. And a recent San Antonio tournament sponsored by a prepared chicken chain and a $25,000 tournament planned for this fall in Hollywood, sponsored by entertainer Bobby Darin, encourage them to believe that may be a realistic hope.

Still, the only big money being talked about is a rumored $1 million offer from a Las Vegas source for a rematch of the Reykjavik confrontation between Fischer and exchampion Boris Spassky. The question is whether Fischer will, like Muhammad Ali, end up doing a sublime job of promoting himself with being able to change things for his less flamboyant competitors.

"Will it last?" says George Koltanowski, a columnist and international master who was playoff tournament director. "We'll have to wait five or 10 years to find out if today's young people will stay enthusiastic about chess. Maybe by then somebody will come along who is a spectacular Ping Pong player. Then everybody will be playing Ping Pong."

WORRY CLINIC

Daniel used me as a dental "guinea pig" 7 years ago. But he warned me of the danger to my public speaking! Despite his joking, dental surgeons now can perform miracles in transplanting teeth and maintaining "tooth banks."

CASE W-537: One of my sons is a dental surgeon. Since one of my teeth required removal, he asked me if I'd like to be a dental "guinea pig."
"What do you mean?" I inquired.
"Well, we now are able to transplant teeth with a fair degree of success, especially if they are your own."
"But we can also implant the extracted tooth of one patient into the mouth of another."
"Since I have a number of teeth that I have preserved from former patients, how'd you like to have me implant one of them in your empty socket?" That sounded intriguing, so I consented.
And he inserted a tooth that he had extracted several weeks earlier from a teen-age coed. "Sometimes the strange tooth is rejected after a few months," he warned, "but we'll wait and see what happens."
"Occasionally, it gains a fresh blood supply and becomes permanent."
"How come you implanted a young woman's tooth into my jaw?" I inquired.
He grinned and facetiously replied:
"Maybe it will rejuvenate you. But you must be more careful hereafter when you are out on the lecture platform."
"For you may find you lack proper terminal facilities, since women are noted for not being able to stop talking!"
Despite his joking, the tooth served me well for almost 18 months, after which it became so loose I had to have it removed.
But nowadays the modern D.D.S. is rivaling the medical surgeon in transplants.
The latter have gained front page acclaim for heart and kidney exchanges.
But dental surgeons not only replant your own teeth which have been knocked out in athletic contests or auto accidents.
But they also are now taking the unusable teeth from your mouth and putting them back at more strategic spots.
For example, suppose you have an impacted wisdom tooth, which needs to be pulled. And somewhere else in your jaws a molar is missing.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — News documentaries by local television stations tend to be the phantoms of broadcast journalism. Despite the work that goes in them, they usually appear just once and vanish for good.

Now, thanks to public television station WNET here, at least 10 award-winning documentaries from commercial television stations around the country are getting a second airing.

They've been compiled into a seven-week series of one-hour shows broadcast on Monday night. The series, called "Replay" unfortunately is seen only in the New York area.

It was completed too late for submission to the Public Broadcasting Service as part of PBS' national program schedule this season, according to WNET officials.

But they hope it may be included in PBS' schedule for next fall and include outstanding network, as well as local, documentaries.

Only two of the documentaries included in "Replay" are from New York stations: WNBC and WABC.

The others are from stations WCCO in Minneapolis, Minn.; WBZ in Boston, Mass.; KUTV in Salt Lake City, Utah; WRC in Washington, D.C.; WZZM in Grand Rapids, Mich.; WTJY in Miami, Fla.; WGN in Chicago and WMC in Memphis, Tenn.

The networks occasionally have broadcast local docu-

Fight To Finish

TOKYO (AP) — The high command of the Pathet Lao armed forces has ordered its officers and men "to fight to the finish" in "a new situation" following the signing of a cease-fire agreement in Vientiane, Peking reported.

Peking's Hsinhua news agency, quoting the Khaoan Pathet Lao press agency, said Sunday the order was issued by "the supreme command of the Lao People's Liberation Army."

The order said Wednesday's cease-fire agreement was a victory with a very glorious historical significance.

The instinct of man-ox herds is to stand and fight when attacked, instead of running away.

Prisoner Weds Wife-At Last

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — A newly returned prisoner of war was honeymooning at near-by Lake Tahoe Saturday following a midnight wedding to the woman who waited more than seven years for his return.

Lt. Cmdr. William Shankel, 33, of Jackson, Calif., was married to Mary Ann Hotop, of Dallas, Tex., shortly after midnight Friday.

"We were tired of waiting," said a good-humored Shankel at the lakeside resort hotel where he and his blonde bride are spending their honeymoon.

Shankel, shot down over North Vietnam Dec. 23, 1965, said his wife "wants to sneak around for a while" and did not want any publicity about the marriage.
