

A Vietnam Truce Does Not Necessarily Mean 'Lasting Peace'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent
Results to date on the international Paris conference on Vietnam underscore the fragile nature of the cease-fire and the long distance remaining between truce and peace. The conference, in fact, already seems to have illustrated its lack of power to do what it is supposed to do.

In spite of North Vietnam's reneging on the prisoner release schedule, the cease-fire may prove effective enough to get the U.S. military out and perhaps even bring home all acknowledged American POWs. But from the look of things, the odds are that there can be no actual end to this war until either North or South is dominant. That can involve years.

Peace, as distinguished from truce, is stalled by frozen attitudes, and clearly the Paris conference can do little or nothing about it. The conference can hardly hope even to come close to carrying out its announced purpose, under the agreement, to "guarantee the ending of the war, the maintenance of peace in Vietnam and respect of the Vietnam peoples' fundamental right to self-determination."

The 12-party meeting can do little more than give formal approval to the cease-fire pact. Its even division between the Communists and non-Communists promises a repetition of what was produced by such arrangements in the past—paralysis.

The Americans and the North Vietnamese have agreed on how to reconvene the conference to deal with truce violations, but this requires seven votes. It is hardly likely, for example, that if Hanoi objects to a meeting there will be any break in the six-vote Communist side. No vote, no meeting.

The cease-fire pact supposedly guaranteed the "democratic liberties" of all and projected a democratic process to lead to peaceful reunification of Vietnam, but such terms have sharply different meanings for the two sides.

In the estimation of Communists, what they call the "bourgeoisie," no matter what its size and following, is something apart from "the people" and has no right to democratic liberties. In Hanoi's view, for a "democratic" process to produce a decision favoring anti-Communists would be unthinkable.

For its part, Saigon's government and its supporters guard against a possibility that the Communists will come out ahead. President Nguyen Van Thieu cannot see the Viet Cong or Communists as entitled to democratic processes.

As the two sides jockey for advantage and continue their land-grabbing thrusts, Hanoi may consider its possession of the U.S. prisoners a strong lever for indirect pressure on Saigon. The North's Politburo clings to the conviction that Saigon will do exactly as the Americans say, just as the Americans seek to apply pressure on Hanoi through Peking or Moscow.

That sort of pressure has its limitations. The Vietnamese have been clawing at each other a long time. Even if the huge allies of both genuinely wanted an equitable settlement, circumstances would make such an outcome just about impossible.

Henry Kissinger has said that after 25 years of war and revolution, the aging revolutionaries of the Hanoi Politburo are unlikely to surrender their longtime goal of taking over all Vietnam. The age of the politburo, in fact, can make it all the more anxious.

Weeks after the cease-fire was signed, Pham Van Dong, the North's premier, called the truce simply the beginning of a new phase in the "revolution" that began decades ago.

Five years ago, when the Vietnam war was at its peak of intensity, some Americans on the scene predicted the conflict would probably fade gradually rather than ever come to an abrupt end.

"I believe that it is better to tell the truth than to lie. I believe it is better to be free than to be a slave. And I believe it is better to know than to be ignorant."

ABWA Names Tarpley Its 1973 Boss Of Year

By BOBBY COMBS
Buz Tarpley, owner of Tarpley Music Co., was named Boss of the Year by the American Business Women's Association Tuesday evening during the group's Bosses' Night banquet, held in First United Methodist Church.

Tarpley was nominated by ABWA members Mrs. Bernice Nichols and Mrs. Doyce Shelton. Nominations were made through unsigned letters that did not mention the boss' name.

The winning letter was read by Jack Reeve, who was Boss of the Year in 1968. He was assisted in the judging by Wallace Bruce, 1963 Boss, and Elbert Walker, 1970 Boss.

VOW TO DIE Indian Band Gets Control Of Town

WOUNDED-KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Nearly 200 Indians were in control of this tiny town today, holding about 10 residents hostage and demanding that two U.S. senators come to their reservation to discuss Indian grievances.

A spokesman for the American Indian Movement said the demonstrators had vowed "to die if necessary" unless their demands are met.

The spokesman, Carter Camp of Ponca City, Okla., said in a telephone interview that the hostages had not been hurt and were in no danger "unless the police come in here and try to annihilate us."

He said the Indians would hold the hostages until Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and J.W. Fulbright of Arkansas, both Democrats, come to the 2,500-square-mile Pine Ridge Reservation, the nation's largest.

About 90 law enforcement officers sealed off the area after the takeover Tuesday night of the southwestern South Dakota town, site of a bloody clash in 1890 between Sioux and U.S. Army troops. Wounded Knee has a population of about 1,000.

Dairymen Pessimistic About Milk Aid

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Officials of a 43,000-member dairymen's cooperative, whose political arm put a six-figure amount into President Nixon's campaign coffers, are pessimistic about help from the White House in what they believe is a "milk crisis."

George Mehren, general manager of Associated Milk Producers Inc., says AMPI believes a hike in government price supports for milk will keep the nation's 400,000 milk producers stable in a period of soaring production costs.

Mehren claims the price support of milk should be raised from about 73 per cent of parity, where it currently sits, to 85 per cent for one year. The government hike, now in the

US Halts Withdrawal

SAIGON (AP) — The United States suspended troop withdrawals from Vietnam today because of Hanoi's delay in releasing more American prisoners, U.S. authorities reported.

The North Vietnamese also got a virtual ultimatum to dismantle an anti-aircraft missile site south of the demilitarized zone. The United States and South Vietnam contended the missiles were brought down from North Vietnam in violation of the cease-fire.

The body charged with supervising the cease-fire, the International Commission of Control and Supervision, grounded all helicopters for its members because of continued ground fire.

A commission source said four helicopters carrying members of the peacekeeping body were fired on the last four days. Two were hit, the source said, and an American pilot was reported wounded.

The source said a strong letter of protest drafted by the commission will be delivered Thursday to the Joint Military Commission comprising North and South Vietnam, the Viet Cong and the United States.

Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, the senior U.S. representative to the four-party Joint Military Commission, told the Communists the United States "reserves the right with its allies to take such actions as it deems appropriate" if the North Vietnamese do not remove the SAM batteries which the Americans and South Vietnamese say have been located at Khe Sanh since the cease-fire.

This was assumed to be an implied threat of air attack on the missile sites.

No progress was reported from the meeting of the senior members of the commission, and a parallel meeting of a subcommission on captured persons also failed to resolve the POW stalemate.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said the Communists told the commission meeting the POW release was being delayed because the United States and South Vietnam were still not observing all provisions of the cease-fire agreement.

No further meetings were scheduled until Friday.

High-ranking authorities said that the U. S. Command, on orders from President Nixon, had suspended its troop pullouts with 11,300 Americans still in Vietnam.

Since the cease-fire Jan. 28, an average of two planes a day have been leaving Saigon with 400 Americans, but U.S. officials said none left today. There was also no activity at Camp Alpha, the processing center for departing Americans at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base.

Some U.S. officials also suggested that Nixon may be considering withdrawing his offer of reconstruction aid to Hanoi and halting the mine-clearing operation in North Vietnam's waters until the Communists announce arrangements for the

POWs Release Demands Issued

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers urgently demanded today that North Vietnam resume the liberation of American war prisoners, but there was no indication he got a satisfactory response.

A North Vietnamese spokesman at the Paris conference on Vietnam said Hanoi will stop its stall in the prisoner releases only when the Joint Military Commission in Saigon guarantees the security of its Communist members stationed in South Vietnamese cities.

The Viet Cong's foreign minister, Nguyen Thi Binh, told newsmen that violations of the peace agreement by the United States and South Vietnam raise doubt about the conference's ability to underwrite the settlement worked out by Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

Rogers called the North Vietnamese minister, Nguyen Duy Trinh, to a special meeting at the international conference to protest the interrupted prisoner releases. He said the delay was a clear violation of the peace agreement signed here Jan. 27.

Acting on direct instructions from President Nixon, Rogers interrupted his activities at the 12-power Vietnam conference pending a satisfactory settlement of the prisoner dispute.

Immediately after his meeting with Trinh, the U.S. delegation canceled a scheduled news conference and Rogers went into prolonged telephone contact with the White House.

President Nixon ordered Rogers to suspend all his activities at the conference until he met with Trinh, but conference sources stressed the order did not freeze their aides' efforts to agree on a formal declaration concerning peacekeeping machinery.

Election Deadline Nearing

Deadline for filing a candidacy for office in Pampa's April 3 municipal election will fall at 5 p.m. next Friday.

Pampans will vote city-wide on the election of a mayor and three ward commissioners.

As of noon today only six candidates had registered intentions of seeking vacancies coming up for mayor and commissioner in Wards 1, 2 and 3.

R.D. Wilkerson, who resigned as Ward 2 commissioner, was the only candidate for mayor.

H.R. Thompson, Jr. was the lone candidate for commissioner in Ward 1.

William Tuke and Joe B. Curtis have filed for the council seat in Ward 2.

Leo Braswell, seeking re-election for a third term, and William T. Broxson are candidates for the commission post in Ward 3.

The Ward 2 race will be to fill the unexpired one-year term of Wilkerson. The mayoralty and Wards 1 and 3 contests will be for the regular two-year term.

City Secretary S.M. Chittenden said his office will close at 5 p.m. Friday and candidacies should be filed before then.

Actually the legal deadline for filing does not come until midnight of Saturday, March 3.

"Anyone wishing to file on Saturday will have to find me," Chittenden said.

Rumors were afloat at City Hall today that there is a possibility of some late filings for the upcoming city election.

County Has Busy Slate

At the regular meeting tomorrow, members of the Gray County commissioners court will consider elimination of the probation clerk in the district judge's office and replace that position with an additional deputy in the district clerk's office.

Members of the panel will also consider tax and fire contracts with the city.

Vacation policies for county employees will come under discussion. Heretofore, there has been no clearcut policy with department heads usually setting the pace for those under them.

Insurance requirements on buildings and equipment will be outlined in the light of ever-increasing replacement costs.

Commissioners will also consider naming some county roads in Precinct Three. These arteries have previously had no designation.

Other business to be transacted is the routine measures needed for regular county business.

No Word Yet On Application

There still was no word today from Austin on Pampa's application for a $255,000 federal aid grant to bring the city's sewage treatment plant up to standards required by the Texas Water Quality Board.

The TWQB was in the second day of a two-day meeting to establish grant priorities among Texas cities.

Pampa reportedly was fairly high on the priority list to get the board's recommendation for the federal grant.

City Manager Mack Wofford said no word had been received and he had no word on when Pampa would receive notice of the board's acceptance or rejection.

"We're just waiting," Wofford said.

Total cost of bringing the Pampa plant up to required standards has been estimated at $340,000.

Manager Frowns At Phone Bill

A bill introduced in the Texas Legislature to establish a Texas Telephone Commission to regulate public utilities in cities over the state was frowned on today by City Manager Mack Wofford.

Wofford is a member of the Texas Municipal League's Legislative Committee which recently studied the proposal and turned thumbs down on it.

The city manager said he, along with other TML committee members, was of the opinion local negotiations with utilities operating in a city is the better method and would be of more benefit to citizens.

Mayor L. Ray Vahue of Amarillo also expressed an opinion that the advantage lies with local regulations rather than with a state regulatory body.

The bill to set up a Texas Telephone Commission was introduced by Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown.

Allen maintains that regulation of utilities by a state commission would be particularly attractive to small and medium size cities that cannot afford to hire consultants to review proposed rate changes.

Connally Deciding
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Texas Governor and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally is reported to be near a decision whether to join the Republican Party.

George Christian, who was Connally's one-time press secretary, said in a telephone interview from Austin, Tex., Tuesday, "I think he'll provide some answers pretty soon."

There is continuing speculation that Connally will quit the Democratic Party and perhaps seek the presidency in 1976 as a Republican. He served President Nixon as Treasury secretary and headed the Democrats for Nixon in the 1972 campaign. An unnamed source quoted by Knight Newspapers speculated Tuesday that a party switch is imminent. "I think he's decided to switch and I think he'll get it off his chest very quickly," the source was quoted as saying.

former Pampans, died at 12:02 a.m. Tuesday in Neblett Memorial Hospital at Canyon of injuries suffered in a car-pickup crash just north of Canyon.

Two persons who were injured in the crash, Joe Glenn Garrison, 19, of Dalhart, and Mrs. Joyce Kriling, 42, Amarillo, were in satisfactory condition in area hospitals.

The accident occurred about 10:55 p.m. Monday at the intersection of U.S. 60 and the VFW road.

Garrison and Miss Parker, both West Texas State University students, were southbound on the VFW road in a car driven by Garrison. The pickup driven by Mrs. Kriling's husband, Lloyd, was eastbound on U.S. 60.

Funeral services for Miss Parker were to be held at 4 p.m.

Stolen Charge Card Refused

Pampa police are seeking two men who attempted to use a stolen charge card at a local shoe store yesterday.

Because the men acted in a suspicious manner and because the issuing agency requests a card check on all purchases of $25 or more, the manager called St. Louis.

He was informed the card had been reported stolen and refused to honor the purchases. The men left the store.

Acting on clues the pair dropped in their conversation while making their selections, police are attempting to trace them.

The card had been reported missing by an Amarillo man, police said.

Citizens Band Radio Taken

A White Deer man told local police a citizens band radio unit was taken from his pickup sometime Saturday night or early Sunday morning here.

He said it could have been taken either while he was at a local lounge or a restaurant.

The unit was a Johnson Messenger Model 125, gray in color.

Police are investigating.

Two Arrested For Disorder

Two Pampa men, 21 and 37, were arrested for disorderly conduct at a local eating place last night after an incident involving two shotguns.

Summoned by the proprietor, the investigating officer found the younger man bleeding from a head laceration. According to the report, he told the officer he entered the place carrying two 410 gauge shotguns and was set upon, stuck with pool cue and the shotguns taken.

The operator of the cafe admitted disarming the man and surrendered the weapons to the officer.

While this investigation was underway, the older man arrested had become involved in a heated argument with another patron of the place. He was taken into custody.

The younger man was treated at Highland General Hospital before being placed in jail.

FROM JAPAN TO AMERICA % DODGE

ANNOUNCING THE '73 DODGE COLT

'Til now, little Japanese imports have had to depend on their own dealerships in the U.S. for parts and service. Now comes Dodge Colt, imported from Japan, but sold, serviced, and backed by Dodge, coast to coast.

Many imports that come to America come with one very real problem: how to provide parts and service on a nationwide basis.

Put another way, once the car gets here, who's going to take care of it?

'Til now, Japanese imports have pretty much had to rely on the dealerships they themselves set up in the U.S.

But now comes an import with a different way of doing things. An import that comes from Japan... to America... c/o Dodge.

The Colt is sold and serviced and backed to the hilt by a network of Dodge Colt Dealers that stretches from one side of the U.S. to the other.

Which means that though the Colt may be built over 5,000 miles away, it'll be cared for by a man who's right around the corner.

And speaking of being built, wait'll you see what Colt comes with as standard equipment...

Court Decides Fraternal Lodges Not Tax Exempt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Property tax bills may be going out to fraternal organizations throughout Texas as result of a Texas Supreme Court ruling affecting Masonic lodges at Amarillo.

In his opinion on a decision that overturned the Amarillo Court of Appeals, Supreme Court Justice Ruel C. Walker said fraternal organizations which send part of their funds to grand lodges are "not engaged exclusively in charitable activities," and thus are not entitled to claim tax exemption.

A bid to review the decision was denied Jan. 17.

Amarillo Lodge No. 731 A.F. & A.M. had not paid any property taxes to the city although it has been on the tax roll since 1968.

Jim Nugent, assessor-inspector, said more than $7,000 was involved. Another lodge the Palo Duro Lodge, owed about $3,000 and was awaiting the court decision. Since it came, both have paid fully, Nugent said.

The taxation of fraternal organizations has been spotty in other sections of the state.

In Austin, masonic lodges have been paying city taxes and in Houston they haven't sought exemption. But in Dallas, which has the largest membership, and Fort Worth they have never paid. In Waco, the Scottish Rite bodies have paid, but not the grand lodge.

Harvey Byrd, secretary of the Grand Lodge, whose own lodge in Brownwood pays taxes, said it appeared to be up to the taxing bodies whether to tax.

There are 570 masonic lodges in Texas with about 240,000 members. More than 70,000 of these are in the Scottish Rite, with about 32,000 in the four Dallas lodges.

Author Says Astronauts Visited Earth Anciently

NEW YORK (AP) — Erick von Daniken insists that alien astronauts visited the earth in ancient times. To back him up, he has a pair of worldwide best sellers that have recently become paperback phenomena in this country.

"Maybe not all the theories in my books are correct," von Daniken said in an interview here Monday. "But there is no doubt that we were visited from outer space long ago."

Von Daniken, 37, a Swiss innkeeper by trade with no formal higher education, wraps an old theory with new words in his books.

The theory is that visitors from other worlds landed on earth in prehistoric times, created the rudiments of human civilization and departed.

Recast by von Daniken in the jargon of contemporary technology, the visitors become astronauts and their vehicles become nuclear rockets.

"Chariots of the Gods?" and "Gods From Outer Space," von Daniken's books, were published in Europe in the late 1960s. Translated into 32 languages, they have now sold more than 20 million copies, according to The Trade News Service, a publishing industry magazine.

The American editions, published in 1970 and 1971, enjoyed relatively good sales. More than one million paperback copies of "Chariots of the Gods?" had been sold at the end of last year.

Early in January, a film based on the books was shown on network television. Sales soared.

From nowhere, "Chariots of the Gods?" suddenly appeared as the second best selling non-fiction paperback in the country on The New York Times list. A survey of campus bookstores by The Chronicle of Higher Education ranked it third in sales this month. It was not among the top 10 campus sellers last month.

Von Daniken said religious doubts first caused him to question traditional explanations of man's past. Raised in a strict Catholic home, he began to wonder about Old Testament references to gods, instead of a singular god, and about the actual events that inspired the biblical writers.

Examining the holy books and mythologies of ancient peoples, von Daniken said he concluded that the often mentioned gods and fiery chariots were astronauts in space ships. They took such men as the prophet Ezekiel for rides into space and used nuclear weapons to purge the earth of such undesirables as the citizens of Sodom and Gomorrah, he said.

Traveling the world for a decade to look for himself, von Daniken decided that these prehistoric space visitors left behind great monuments and statues from Egypt to Easter Island, works he said early men could not have created without help.

Sex Change Patients Get Training Class

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Patients learn how to set their hair and sit and walk like members of "the opposite sex" as part of a Stanford University Medical Center sex-change program.

"Rehabilitation is the main focus of the program," program coordinator Pat Gandy said recently. "Surgery may or may not be part of an individual's rehabilitative program."

"However, if we're going to do this surgery, we want the individual to be able to fit the social norms, to fit into society as normal males or females."

Since Stanford began performing sex change operations in 1967, some 500 candidates have approached the hospital but only about 10 per cent actually underwent surgery, Gandy said.

Stanford offers the only such program on the West Coast and is among about 10 nationwide, he added.

Potential candidates undergo extensive physical and mental testing and are evaluated by a team of doctors, psychiatrists, psychologists and former patients, Gandy said. He said the evaluator's look for motivation and physical resemblance to the opposite sex. They must be physically capable of undergoing the surgery and must have no history of psychosis.

"For the 10 per cent who have surgery, it is not done for at least 12 months, when we feel comfortable and the patient feels comfortable with the decision," Gandy said in an interview. "People who would not be candidates may enjoy the role of the opposite sex but don't necessarily desire the surgical change."

During the year's wait, patients receive comprehensive counseling as well as hormone treatment, he said.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Mr. Hewitt is a clever editor, for he realizes the wisdom in the old adage that wholesome debate rooms reader interest. You wives can be the jury today. Do you agree with my clergyman "critic?" Or should a mother "feign" courage before her scared kiddies?

CASE W-539: Editor A. L. Hewitt is an astute California journalist.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "you will find a letter addressed to you and our News Tribune."

"The writer asks that I publish his letter, but I would prefer to publish it and your reply together."

WHOLESDOME DEBATE

Mr. Hewitt understands the newspaper axiom—that wholesome debate causes splendid "talk-up" among readers.

His local critic's objections were primarily to my statements that the usual wife is much less erotic than her husband.

So she should often feign interest in boudoir romancing in order to hold her husband's devotion and prevent his looking elsewhere for illicit satisfaction.

"As a marriage counselor for 10 years," says the critic, "I find that women ARE and CAN BE just as responsive sexually as men."

"The biggest response of anger I feel is from Dr. Crane's telling women to FEIGN sexual response."

"He is asking women to be dishonest."

"Perhaps Dr. Crane better reread the Bible he is so easily quoting."

His last sentence doubtless refers to my reminding you readers that patriarchal Jacob had 4 wives, so when one was disinterested, he could move to another tent for the night!

You wives can serve as judges as to whether you think women are just as erotic as men!

Wives CAN experience complete sexual satisfaction in marital indulgence.

But they don't crave such as often as do their husbands!

Jacob's 4 to 1 ratio is about the usual disparity nowadays between the ardor of husband vs. wife.

As regards "feigning"—what does the smart young mother do at night when her kiddies get scared at creaking noises on the stairs?

Although her own heart is also pounding with fright, do we reputable psychologists and psychiatrists ask her to further panic her youngsters by showing her terror? Certainly not!

Instead, we urge her to put up a bold front and "feign" assurance!

In fact, all good habits start out by our "feigning" the proper behavior until many repetitions make it "normal" or "honest."

Star salesmen also "feign" a smile and cheery greeting, though they may not feel so cordial at the outset.

"Act the way you'd like to be," is our standard axiom in psychology, "and soon you'll feel the way you act!"

So an uneducated person "feigns" correct grammar and avoids his "normal" slang or profanity, to make a good impression.

But soon that constructive "feigning" becomes natural via habit!

Send for my medical booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and see how a wife can prevent her husband's straying after outside sirens!

Successful wives are superb boudoir actresses, for they realize it is vital to serve as a one-wife harem to their mates! Boudoir "cheese-cake" involves a lot of romantic histrionics!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Melton, Indiana 47950. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and consequently misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential on tires built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of this tire and evidence of date of purchase reimburse the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Insurance Commissioner Gets Protests Criticism

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Two years after taking office as Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner, Herbert Denenberg continues to be an inextinguishable volcano of comment and criticism about the Establishment and its ways.

There is nothing he enjoys more, he insists, than kicking the vested interests in the posterior. "I get a buzz out of it," he says. And so those criticized, most of whom feel they have been attacked by a power saw.

What protects the 43-year-old lawyer and insurance expert from the frequent demands for his resignation is that he supports his criticisms with an almost constant cannonade of proof. He is often right, and he lets people know it.

Nevertheless, so steady are the dismissal demands — from the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the Association of Trial Lawyers, for example — that he offers critics a standard form letter pre-addressed to the governor.

While his job is to regulate insurance, he becomes involved in the worlds of medicine, dentistry, automotive vehicles, environment, housing and more because all are touched by insurance.

These are some of the criticisms that have angered individuals and institutions:

— There are 2 million unnecessary surgical operations each year in the United States. "Everyone screamed and hollered when I made that statement," said Denenberg in an interview, "but now it looks like the figure is 3 or 4 million."

— Five per cent of medical doctors are incompetent. Now, said the commissioner, that estimate seems conservative. "The American Medical Association itself says 5 million are alcoholics, drug addicts or mentally unstable."

— Forty per cent of insurance agents are unqualified. He hasn't withdrawn the statement. Instead, he adds now that most of the companies the agents work for aren't worth much either.

"Expert buyers of insurance would probably eliminate 80 per cent of the insurance companies in the market," he said. Life, health and casualty, he was asked? "Especially life," he replied.

Moreover, said Denenberg, who is a lawyer, economist and the first to hold a professorship in property and liability insurance at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance, agents push ordinary life policies because they pay the highest commissions.

Since he contends that the customer's needs should dictate the policy offered, he is proposing that agents be compelled to reveal the amount they receive on each type of policy. Sometimes it is 100 per cent of the first-year premiums.

Last week Denenberg's office issued its seventh in a series of shopper's guides, which soon may be widely distributed by a commercial publisher. The first were on needless surgery, hospital costs and various types of insurance.

This one, on dentistry, begins typically: "There is evidence that much dental care is substandard." At least 15 per cent of all dentists are incompetent or dishonest, he states.

Denenberg seems a bit surprised that the resulting criticism hasn't been more severe. "We don't get the arguments we did before," he said, "because we've demonstrated our criticisms are sound."

Girls Might Need Aid Before That Marriage

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What kind of boy should a girl marry?

That's easy. She should marry the kind she can be reasonably happy with — and whom she can keep reasonably happy.

What kinds of boys should she not marry? Well — lots of kinds. But she should take particular care not to marry the kind of boy who —

Thinks he has a perfect right to snap her garter half an hour after he buys her a steak.

Is willing to promise her anything, but can't write her a love letter that at least sounds sincere.

Insists on looking in every closet before he leaves her apartment — just to be sure she isn't hiding a rival there.

Doesn't keep her photo in his wallet, so he can show it to old ladies he sits next to on plane trips.

Never wants to go on a stroll with her under a full moon.

Refuses to light the candles if she thinks it would be romantic for them to dine by candlelight.

Is perfectly willing to buy her champagne on the first night of the honeymoon, but not on the second night.

Carries his old pet dog — instead of her — across the threshold when they first enter their new home.

Blows cigar smoke rings in her face to show he's annoyed with her.

Won't launder her stockings if she breaks her arm.

Is jealous even of her girl friends.

Thinks a woman looks out of place except in the kitchen or the bedroom.

Never puts his arms around her or kisses the back of her neck while she is cooking.

Is too prissy to go skinny-dipping with her when they're alone on an empty beach during a vacation.

Rushes out to buy a new toothbrush if she uses his by mistake.

Holds the family umbrella mostly over him, not her, if they have to go out in the rain.

Doesn't mind at all if she makes more on her job than he does on his — particularly if she spends the money on him.

Is unwilling to take out much life insurance on himself because — "well after all, if you women want to be so damn liberated, you should be perfectly willing to look out after yourselves — if a fellow dies."

Wants her to become the second mother of his life.

The big trouble, girls, is that by the time you find out this is the kind of boy you shouldn't marry — well, you and the big beast are about to celebrate your silver wedding anniversary.

IRS Is Slow on the Refunds

By RAY DE CRANE

With fewer extra temporary workers than in former peak filing seasons, Internal Revenue Service is passing out income tax refund checks at a much slower pace this year.

So far this year only 1.2 million checks have been prepared by the Treasury Department. This is down 55 per cent from the 2.6 million pace at this date a year ago.

The slow pace of refunds is creating disappointment among the car dealers, appliance salesmen, travel agents and other businessmen who had been anticipating a brisk increase in sales when the flood of refund checks was released.

But the most disappointed people are the taxpayers who impatiently count the days from the mailing of the tax return until the arrival of the refund.

Certified for distribution are checks totaling $416 million. This year's average check is for $346.52, an increase of $38 from the average payout of last year.

It is no great surprise that the refunds are running higher. This was widely anticipated because of the overwithholding that was called for on withholding tax tables in use last year.

The number of returns filed is down slightly from a year ago, but not nearly in proportion to the much slower pace of refunds. With 15.6 million returns already in hand, this represents only a 2.5% reduction from last year.

A total of 80 million tax returns is expected by the April 15 filing deadline.

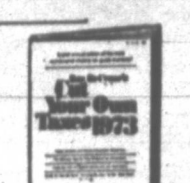

The bottleneck is at the service centers where the returns are processed after being received in the mail.

The curtailed work force is only partially responsible for the slowdown. Taxpayers, themselves, are contributing to the delay because of a failure to complete their return properly.

Osmonds May Leave U.S.A.

LONDON (AP) — The Osmond Brothers, American singing idols of millions of young people, say they may move to Britain because of death and kidnap threats back home.

Fifteen-year-old Donny Osmond and his brother Alan, 23, wouldn't discuss the reported threats, but their father, George Osmond, said this week. "We've had a lot of bomb threats lately. Things are getting pretty scary. We have had to take tremendous security precautions."

Osmond and his sons were keeping the location of their luxury hotel secret to avoid repetition of an incident four months ago when a mob of teenage girls fans — known as weenyboppers — used iron bars to batter their way into a hotel to get near their idols.

The brothers, members of a six-strong group, flew here unannounced at the weekend to receive an award for selling four million records in Britain last year.

Postmen's Hazards
Mailmen in the United States have difficulty with dogs, but things could be worse — Egyptian mailmen complain of being nipped by camels, postmen in Brazil have been bitten by jaguars, a Tongan island letter carrier was killed by a shark and Afghanistan had to suspend rural deliveries because leopards ate the mailmen.

heart and proceeded to cash his king and the queen of trumps. If he had led a third round the hand would have collapsed, but John knew better than to do that. He objected to the defense collecting a trump trick, but he couldn't afford to let them hold the last trump.

Therefore, John simply started on diamonds. West trumped the third diamond with one of his two trumps and did the best he could by leading out the last trump. John came to his hand with the ace of clubs and cashed the last two diamonds and dummy's club king to give him a plus score of 620, thereby beating those Souths who had bid and made the easy diamond game.

Veterans Get Tips On Taxes

The Veterans Administration today offered helpful tips to recipients of veterans benefits preparing to file federal income tax returns.

Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Office Director, noted that veterans benefits, in general, are exempt from taxation, and need not be reported as income.

An exception is interest on government life insurance dividends left on deposit or credit with VA. Such interest is considered income. Coker explained, and therefore should be reported as income.

Dividends and proceeds from G.I. insurance policies are not subject to federal income taxes, but proceeds must be included for federal estate tax purposes.

Officials said other major tax-exempt benefits include compensation and pension, G.I. Bill and other educational assistance, subsistence payments to vocational rehabilitation trainees, and grants to severely disabled veterans eligible for homes and cars.

GOOD YEAR FOR ALBACORE
LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — West coast commercial fishermen landed a near-record catch of 34,000 tons of albacore, or white meat tuna, in 1972, according to the National Marine Fisheries Service center here. There was a 91 per cent increase in the catch off British Columbia for a total of 22,200 tons there. The center, which scouts conditions in advance and sends out fishing advisories by radio during the season, had predicted a good year.

Leisure Time
Federal authorities estimate that in 1980, Americans will go on 666 million picnics, 422 million fishing trips, 173 million camp-outs, and 89 million hikes.

Bonnie Hinds Becomes Bride Of Michael Davis

MRS. MICHAEL DEAN DAVIS
nee Miss Bonnie Hinds

The marriage of Bonnie Lea Hinds and Michael Dean Davis both of Amarillo was solemnized at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 17, in Highland Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.O. Hinds, Pampa, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale M. Davis of Odessa.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. M.B. Smith officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Doris Good, organist, played traditional wedding music. The church was decorated with a center basket of white gladioli and red carnations, flanked by two candelabra holding red tapers. Pews were marked with red and white bows.

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride wore a formal gown of peau de soi and lace. The gown was designed with a high neckline, empire waist, long bell sleeves caught at the wrists by wide cuffs. Lace enhanced the bodice and hemline of the gown featuring a chapel train. Her shoulder-length mantilla of illusion edged in lace, fell from a flowered headband and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with red baby roses. For "something old" she wore a lavalliere belonging to her mother; for "something borrowed," she carried a white Bible; for "something new," a penny in her shoe; and for "something blue," a garter.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Donna Ann Hinds, Burlingame, Calif., was maid of honor, and LaJohanna F. Smiley, Pampa, was bridesmaid. They wore floor-length gowns of red velvet, red feathered headpieces, and white gloves and red shoes.

They carried nosegays of red and white carnations. Beverly Ann Smiley, LaDonna Smiley and Sheyla Gayle Wood were flower girls, wearing floor-length white gowns trimmed in red. They wore red velvet bows in their hair and carried baskets of daisies and red carnations.

Gayle M. Davis was best man and Ronnie Wood was groomsmen. Tony L. Higgins and Gary L. Huffman were ushers and also lighted the candles.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the church parlor, the bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth edged with lace. The bride's bouquet served as the table centerpiece and silver appointments were used. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with red roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a red cloth with white lace overlay. Silver candelabra centered the table and silver appointments were used. Coffee and banana nut cake were served from this table.

Lela Wood and Barbara Long assisted at the punch service and wedding cake was served by Irma J. Rynders. Theresa L. Huffman registered wedding guests.

The bride traveled in a navy blue and white empire styled dress and lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a 1967 graduate of Pampa High School, attended West Texas State University and is presently employed in Amarillo.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Shiprock High School in Shiprock, N.M. and is attending Amarillo College.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored recently with a miscellaneous shower at the Flame Room, hosted by Ruby Foote, Jo Wallace, Glenda McCausland, Kim Roth, Wilma Hinds, and Ruby Higgins.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were Donna Hinds, Burlingame, Calif.; Rose Ozwir, Belmont, Calif.; May Rountree and Mary Coulter, San Mateo, Calif.; Rosalie Roder, Van Nuys, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Nest egg not meant for birds who have flown

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: During our 30 years of married life, I worked two jobs so as to provide a good home for my wife and children. Now the kids are married and on their own—or so we thought.

My wife and I saved a little nest egg for our retirement years, but it seems that the style these days is to hand over the money to the kids for down-payments on homes, furniture, or just to help them pay their rent!

I'm against this, I say, let them work for it the way we did. When they work for things themselves, they appreciate them more. Why should we dig into our savings to make life easier for them.

My wife is a softy and has started to hand out money to our kids. Of course, there is no such thing as a "loan" or a "note" with your own children. It's just a present. Please print this with your answer. She thinks I am tight and hardhearted when I say, "No more!"

DAD IN HACKENSACK, N. J.

DEAR HACKENSACK: Let the kids hack it themselves—in Hackensack and everywhere else! I'm with you, Dad.

DEAR ABBY: How does a guy go about finding one of those girls who's a sure thing? Know what I mean? The kind who meets a guy, and if they dig each other, she'll have an affair with him without getting too serious. They may even live together without any strings attached.

I've had the marriage bit, thanks, and I played it square, but she sure had me fooled. And when we split up, she took me for all I was good for.

I've thought of running an ad in the paper, but I don't know how to word it without being downright blunt. I'm no bum. I've got a job and I don't wear my hair long. Vital statistics: 34 years old, 6 feet tall, 180 pounds. Have brown eyes and dark hair, and can be amorous.

Please publish this. I may get a straight answer. You can skip the sermon. I once believed in love and marriage, but no more. At least this way there's no phony baloney, and everyone knows the score.—LOOKING-IN-ST. PAUL

DEAR LOOKING: You need me to help you find a "sure thing" like a moose needs a hatrack. The pickup joints in St. Paul are full of them. A word of warning, however, if you are seriously considering such a girl: Make a standing appointment with your physician every morning. You're a cinch to need it.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the process of suing my husband for extreme physical cruelty. He settles all disagreements with his fists, and the people at the emergency ward at the hospital are sick of seeing me.

My lawyer advised me to find somewhere else to live until we could get into court, so some friends took me in. While living with them, I became attached to their 22-year-old son. (I am 30, and have three children.)

I was given custody of the children and also the house and furnishings my husband and I owned jointly. When he was served and ordered to leave the premises, he stripped the place of all the furniture, including two television sets and the radio. He even took the light bulbs. He was ordered to pay me a certain amount for child support, but I haven't seen a penny of it.

My husband has been seen out dancing every night. My lawyer told me not to go out with any men, but I am losing my sanity sitting here in an empty house with nothing to watch or listen to and sleeping in a borrowed sleeping bag. I called my lawyer and his answering service said he went on a vacation and will be gone for six weeks. What should I do?

STIR CRAZY IN ARKANSAS

DEAR STIR: Every lawyer should have a colleague his clients can consult in his absence. If yours has not, you would be justified in finding another lawyer. Check with your local Legal Aid Society or the County Bar Association.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

When the Pampa Harvester basketball team took the court for the first time this past season, no one really had any idea what to expect from them. Well, some people thought they knew how the year would come out. The district coaches had them picked to finish fifth in the loop, right ahead of (mercifully) the Amarillo Sannies.

Others picked them as high as third (behind Berger and Caprock). It's not certain where Coach Robert McPherson and the team thought they would finish.

They played, however, through most of the year like they were district contenders and they most assuredly were that.

Although beginning the year without a single returning starter and with only two players (Freddy Wilbon and Bill Simon) who had logged much playing time last year, the Harvesters compiled a 20-9 regular season record, including an 8-2 mark in district.

After losing their opening game of the year to the Clovis Wildcats by 23 points (96-68) in Clovis, the Harvesters came right back to defeat the New Mexico team 55-52 in Pampa.

The eight other losses that Pampa incurred were by an average of less than 4 1/2 points. Eight points was the greatest losing margin in those games and two was the smallest.

In fact, the Harvesters were "in the game" in every one of the games they played this year with the possible exception of the first meeting with Clovis. They were in that one too until the fourth quarter.

McPherson said before the season began that the only hope the Harvesters had for a good season (because of their lack of experience and height) was for them to out-hustle their opponents.

They did exactly that throughout the year. Not only in the games they won but in the ones they lost as well.

Not one time this year, in the games this writer saw, did an opponent of the Harvesters show more effort, desire or hustle than Pampa.

Finally, it was the inexperience of the team that cost them games. They made mistakes. Sometimes very costly mistakes.

The Harvesters had cold spells shooting and suffered rashes of turnovers. But these were errors caused by over-anxious, not lethargic, and Pampa never gave up or stopped trying to win a game it was playing. Not ever.

Most particularly not in the game with Tascosa for the District 3-AAAA title in Canyon Saturday.

They were not able to hit from either the floor or the free throw line through most of the game but they played defense and that kept them alive.

Pampa was behind by 14 points with only six minutes left, but the Harvesters outscored the Rebels 15-4 in that span and nearly pulled the game out.

McPherson and his assistant Jerry Pope did a pretty good job coaching and getting the most out of their players this year despite the obvious disadvantages of negligible height and experience.

Great credit deserves to be given to the "Hustling Harvesters" of Pampa High School. They certainly lived up to their nickname.

The North Carolina State basketball team keeps playing like there's no tomorrow—figuratively and literally.

While the nation's No. 2 power wheels on undefeated, it's all academic because a two-year suspension has locked the Wolfpack out of the NCAA playoffs.

For that reason, North Carolina Coach Dean Smith was not ready to quit after losing an 82-78 thriller to North Carolina State Tuesday night.

"We'd welcome the chance to play them again," said Smith, whose Tar Heels have lost three close decisions to the Wolfpack this season.

The two could meet in the madcap Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs, which decide the ACC representative to the NCAA's post-season party.

But even if North Carolina State winds up the season undefeated in its 25th game Saturday against Wake Forest and then goes on to sweep through the tough ACC playoffs, the NCAA is a no-go for the Wolfpack. They were put on probation by the NCAA after using alleged illegal recruiting tactics to get star David Thompson.

So Smith was looking forward to another meeting with his arch rivals, hopefully in the ACC playoff finale. That would mean, of course, that seventh-ranked North Carolina would go

Schramm Has Good Chance

DALLAS (AP) — Tex Schramm, long an advocate of sudden death dramatics to decide tied National Football League games, believes the rule has a good chance of approval by owners at the spring meeting in Scottsdale, Ariz.

"We've got a better chance than we had last year and it came fairly close to passing," said Schramm, the general manager of the Dallas Cowboys and chairman of the NFL competition committee.

Schramm said, "There is an attitude in the league that we do have to have progress."

It takes 20 affirmative votes for a rule change and Schramm said that although the measure failed last year "I've felt somewhat of a switch in feelings of some. I feel we have a realistic chance of getting it."

Schramm said, "The best odds for a rule change would be sudden death as it now stands in post-season games... a coin toss with the first team scoring the winner."

He said other suggestions include both teams getting possession of the football and a specific length of time for the sudden death.

"With the latter suggestions it's more overtime than sudden death," Schramm said. "And you get into complications when you try to decide whether a team had the ball or an opportunity to have the ball—for example a muffed punt or an onside kick."

"Pure sudden death will have the best chance."

He said, "There's still a segment in the league feels strongly about the two-point conversion. I don't know whether sentiment has changed on that. I feel that it wouldn't be necessary to do both. My personal preference is sudden death."

There were six NFL games ending in ties last season—four in the National Conference and two in the American Conference.

"There are usually around 10 or 11 tie games," Schramm said. "It would certainly add another measure of suspense and strategy to the game."

Astro's Larry Dierker Injured

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Astro pitching staff already has recorded a loss. Starter Larry Dierker will miss the start of the season because of surgery to his pitching hand.

Dierker, who underwent surgery to remove a calcium deposit from the base of his right index finger, was scheduled to begin throwing by next week. Doctors now say it will be the latter part of March.

"Something happened to the sutures and the cast had to be put back on Larry's hand," General Manager Spec Richardson said Tuesday after talking with Dierker. Houston's only 20-game winner.

The Astros are hoping to get a solid start this year from the pitching staff; which failed to reach expectations last season. New manager Leo Durocher was planning on selecting his four starters from seven hurlers.

"Leo now just has to get four starters from six pitchers," Richardson said.

"We know what Larry can do when he's healthy," Coach Grady Hatton said. "Now we have to get another man ready in his place and he just might come in and knock somebody out of the rotation. He might catch hold and never let go."

Hatton, who has known Dierker since he broke into the majors in 1964, said Dierker could come back fast when his hand is given the okay.

LIKE LANCERS waiting to joust, these skiers line up for a ride upslope at Val D'Isere, France, during World Cup competition. Coming down feels easier, no doubt.

Basketball Roundup

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — "Name anything you want to name about the game of basketball—they did it well," said Boston captain John Havlicek shortly after his Celtics were drubbed by the New York Knicks 123-91 Tuesday night.

The Knicks were at the top of their game, constantly pressuring the Celtics on defense and hitting their outside shots on offense. They broke the contest open by scoring 18 straight points during the first half, then put it away with a 44-point fourth quarter.

By winning, New York cut Boston's lead in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division race to three games.

"We played good, aggressive defense," declared the Knicks' Dave DeBusschere, who scored eight of those 18 points as New York jumped in front 40-19.

"They had a real frustrating evening," DeBusschere said. "They tried to fast break—and we were back on defense to stop 'em. Bill Bradley did a great job stopping Havlicek, one of Bill's better games."

Havlicek, who's playing despite a painful inflammation in his right knee, sank just four of 21 field goal attempts and was limited to 11 points by Bradley's constant hounding and the Knicks' alert team defense.

Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn put it succinctly: "They just beat us, that's all."

In other NBA games, Detroit defeated Golden State 114-100, Houston beat Buffalo 112-105, Baltimore edged Cleveland 99-95, Atlanta squeezed by Seattle 131-130, Chicago beat Portland 125-110 and Kansas City-Omaha upended Los Angeles 107-103.

In the night's only American Basketball Association clash, Utah beat Kentucky 103-97.

The Knicks had a balanced scoring attack, with Frazier and Phil Jackson being the top men with 20 apiece. Jackson scored 15 of his points in the final period, when both coaches emptied their benches. Bradley

Art Asks For Study

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns' owner Art Modell has asked for a National Football League investigation of his charges that the Los Angeles Rams are guilty of tampering in hiring away assistant coach Ray Prochaska.

Modell revealed Tuesday that he filed charges with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle Feb. 5.

A Reported $675,000 Sox's Dick Allen Signs For Most Money Ever

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Just a year ago, Dick Allen was baseball's bad man. No team, it seemed, was willing to put up with his idiosyncrasies for very long.

The Chicago White Sox took their turn with the temperamental slugger last season, acquiring him from the Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for pitcher Tommy John. Now the White Sox are not only willing to put up with Allen, they're paying him more money than any player in the history of the major leagues.

Allen, who changed the White Sox from an also-ran into a solid pennant contender, signed a three-year contract Tuesday for $675,000.

The previous top salary in baseball was negotiated by Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, who is in the second of a three-year contract for $600,000.

Allen's remark on the contract was: "I can't count that high."

The White Sox' first baseman wasn't the only slugger signed to a six-figure pact Tuesday. Frank Robinson of the California Angels, acquired from the Dodgers in an off-season deal, signed a two-year contract for a reported $300,000.

"We have recognized what he has done in the past and what he can do in the future for us," said Angels General Manager Harry Dalton.

Allen, who will be 31 next month, broke into the majors with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1964. He was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals where he played one year before being traded to the Dodgers for another one-year stint.

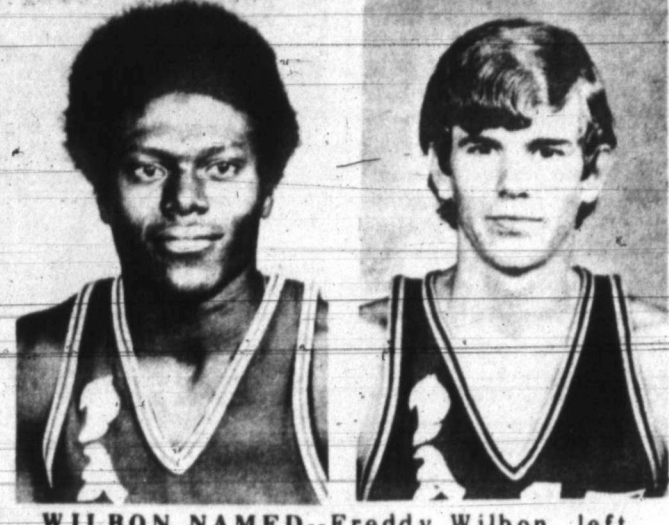

When he learned about his trade to the White Sox, Allen reportedly was reluctant to sign. He finally came to terms for $130,000 and turned out to be a bargain.

He led the American League with 37 home runs and 118 runs batted in and his .308 average was only 10 points shy of batting champion Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins. He was voted the American League's Most Valuable Player and proved to be a boon for the White Sox.

"I'm excited about this ball club after the way we played last season," said Allen. "There's no doubt in my mind that we can win the pennant."

Stagger Rusty Staub agreed to a three-year, $330,000 deal with the New York Mets — but General Manager Bob Scheffing said a fringe benefit clause was holding up the contract signing.

"There's something Rusty wants, but I don't want to give it to him," Scheffing said.

WILBON NAMED—Freddy Wilbon, left, Pampa's outstanding senior postman, was named today to the District 3-AAAA Coaches All-District Basketball team. A. J. Brewer, right, Harvester senior guard, was given honorable mention.

Freddy Wilbon Is Picked By Coaches

Freddy Wilbon was named today to the District 3-AAAA Coaches All-District Basketball team and was also chosen Player of the Year in the district for his outstanding play at the high post position for the Pampa Harvesters.

Receiving honorable mention for the Harvester's senior guard A. J. Brewer. Freddy's younger brother, Billy Wilbon was named Sophomore of the Year in the district.

Freddy Wilbon was second in the district in scoring in league play with a 16.4 average. He led the loop in field goal percentage with a hitting mark of .620.

He was also fifth in the district in rebounding and was among the leaders in free throw percentage.

Named with Wilbon to the all-district team were Palo Duro's Fred Mitchell, Berger's Russell Dickson, Caprock's Sonny Teague and Amarillo High's Larry Hamner.

Chosen to the second team were: Tascosa's Robert Durrett, Bill Fountain and Randy Burkett; and Berger's Chuck Bailman and Alfred Jackson.

Receiving honorable mention were Brewer, Caprock's Eddie Owens and Rodney Skelton; Palo Duro's Jim Ratliff, Terry Harris and Zan Walker; and Berger's Kevin Fraley.

Dave Camfield of Tascosa was named Coach of the Year.

Lamar And Austin Win

Final games in the Pee-Wee Basketball Tournament were completed Tuesday night at Harvester Fieldhouse. Lamar sixth-grade defeated Travis 29-25 to capture the sixth-grade championship. In the fifth grade, Austin defeated Travis 17-7 in the championship game.

Third place in the sixth grade went to Austin which defeated Houston 25-18. In the fifth grade, Mann defeated Houston 20-13 for third place.

The outstanding individual performance in the tournament was turned in by Stevie Duke in the sixth-grade championship game. He scored 20 of Lamar's 29 points in an outstanding shooting exhibition.

The fifth-grade championship game was a close defensive game by both teams as Austin finally pulled ahead in the last half to gain a 15-9 perfect season.

In the Heritage Classic he hit a tee shot just 16 inches from the hole.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Action Is the Yardstick

We are believers in the examination of actions. Men's actions, we believe, rather than their words and "reasons" offered for acting, provide reliable clues as to how they think.

With this as our yardstick, we will attempt to explore the typical bureaucratic mind.

Bureaucrats, of course, are individuals like everyone else; consequently, no two of them can think exactly alike in all respects. Nevertheless, it may be instructive if we can place them in several broad categories based on likely held basic premises and then examine those premises in the light of their actions in the politico-bureaucratic area.

Most individuals holding either elective or appointive office will fall, we believe, into one or more of the following categories:

(1) Sincere individuals who honestly believe that, once elected or appointed to office, they really represent all the people and that, in their official acts, are really serving the best interests of everyone.

Such a person would do well to ask himself the following questions:

(a) Since some of those I presumably serve voted against me or opposed my appointment, while others refused to act politically at all, how can I possibly represent everyone?

(b) If I, in fact, represent everyone, it would follow that my every action would meet with the approval of everyone; in which case, coercive action on my part would be unnecessary. Why, then, all the laws and regulations on the books designed to compel those I represent to do what they would do anyway?

(c) Since I, as an individual, am incapable of knowing what is in the mind of even a single other individual and, in fact, often do not know what my own real best interests are, how could I possibly act, coercively, in the best interests of everyone? Or, for that matter, anyone?

(2) Those individuals holding office who, just as sincerely, believe that might makes right; that, by virtue of the power of the office held, they are right and those who disagree or oppose them are wrong.

Individuals falling into this category should think, and think hard. For if might makes right, on what grounds do they object when an assassin, acting on the same premise, guns down one of their number?

(3) The individual who simply looks upon political or bureaucratic office as an opportunity to line his own nest. The taxpayers are suckers to be fleeced and the only sin is to get caught in the act.

With respect to this category of office holder, little more needs to be said. He is simply a charlatan and a crook who obviously should never be put in a position of power over other people's earnings and lives.

The answer to the problems besetting the world does not exist in putting "better men" in office, no matter how sincere they may be, but in returning (or, better, going forward) to the principles of the voluntary market place. Only there is it possible for everyone's best interests to be served.

It is not possible for one man to represent another, except in a very limited, clearly understood, voluntary way.

Might does not make right. There are no "appointed of God" or by "majority rule" qualified to dictate to others.

Ah, Er, You Know, Uh---

You've heard of "pregnant pauses." Linguists and other students of human behavior now report that ordinary conversation contains all kinds of different pauses and they have divided them into main categories.

First are the Silent Pauses (pregnant or otherwise). These may be natural pauses at the ends of sentences or phrases. Or they may indicate that the speaker is thinking of what to say next or allowing his listener to absorb what he has said.

Then there are the Filled Pauses, which include false starts, repeats, cliches like "You know" and what are called "filling" sounds—uh, umm, er and other noises. The latter are especially useful in helping a person keep control of the conversational ball by signaling, "I'm still talking; don't interrupt me."

According to one scientist, spontaneous speech actually contains about 40 to 50 per cent silence. A good guess would be that the uhs, umms and ers, not to mention the "You knows," account for another 40 to 50 per cent. That leaves from zero to 20 per cent for "meaningful dialogue."

Is it any wonder we complain of a communications gap?

Everything Equal? Take A Good Look

Thomas I. Emerson, a legal professor at Yale University, used 114 pages in the Yale Law Journal to set forth some of the implications of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution. Professor Emerson points out that the requirements set forth are absolute and the wording of the amendment allows for no exceptions.

If this is the case, then Americans may be in for a lot more than they bargained for when the rush was on across the nation to ratify the proposal. In fact, the bargains may not be bargains at all for the supposed benefactors of the measure—America's women.

At any rate, 20 states have already ratified the proposal but the voters in Connecticut, Michigan and Oklahoma had some second thoughts and turned it down. It may be that more states, including Alabama, will have second thoughts as more law experts examine the measure.

Here are some points that one legal scholar concluded about the measure that might prove interesting to women and others:

—All existing state laws relative to working hours (usually less for women), working conditions, divorce, support, etc., would be wiped out.

—Women would be forced to register for any draft at the age of 18 and required to serve in all kinds of military units including combat duty. Rights of privacy due to sex cannot be respected.

—Seduction laws, statutory rape laws, laws prohibiting obscene language in the presence of women, all prostitution laws, etc., will be invalidated.

—There can be no difference under the law in roles for men and women within the family on the basis of their sex; women may become obligated for furnishing one-half of the family support.

—All men's clubs and lodges will be required to admit women and all women's clubs will be required to admit men.

If all of these interpretations are true, then some supporters of the proposed amendment likely did not know what they were fighting for all along and there may be some switching of the sides in coming months.

Otherwise, Americans will be in for some interesting changes in basic traditions and customs.

RAY CROMLEY Traces $ Crisis To Initiative Lack

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From firsthand experience this writer can testify as to what some foreign businessmen think of the dollar crisis and the U.S. unfavorable balance of trade.

A while back, a friend who is president of one of Japan's largest spinning firms said that in a visit to the United States he had been offered the chance to buy, at a very reasonable price, one of this country's major textile companies. But he turned the deal down. The mills were obsolete, he said, and labor-management relations poor.

Yet the science and technology is at hand to improve the textile mills.

Another friend, this one an engineer for one of the nation's major equipment producing companies, some time back made a survey of major mills in selected areas of the country. He was able to suggest, offhand, production improvements which would increase output by 10, 15, and in some cases 20 per cent with very minor net investment. With major capital input and imaginative new production methods these firms could have cut operating costs sharply.

The problem here was not the lack of technology, or that the technology was hidden in some back drawer. The problem was a lack of initiative.

A German remarked the other day that if Detroit would only wake up, use its imagination, it could produce cars that would capture a considerable share of the world market. Detroit has the technical know-how, this German said, but not the imagination or the will.

Note that in the two cases mentioned, the major problem is not cheap foreign labor. It is not foreign technical superiority in the laboratory. It is management — management which has abdicated its responsibility for innovation.

This reporter remembers interviews with Detroit auto makers over the years in which they jeered at the concept of small cars. Who would want a small car, they said, when he could buy a bigger one? The answer, of course, is thousands of Americans and thousands of Asians, Europeans and Latins.

We have in this country thousands of plants which are the envy of the world. But almost side by side are thousands more which are obsolete, which turn out goods at high cost. And in too many cases these goods do not meet the tastes or the needs of sizable segments of the American and foreign markets.

We frequently buy not what we want but what is available, then spend much of our time having it repaired or altered. And in too many instances the inefficient drive up the costs of the well managed.

Your Health Elderly Couple Troubled by Sex

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like for you to explain to me, if you can, the actions of a man in his early 70s whom I was going to marry. I am the same age. When he could not perform the sex act, he blamed it on me and called off the engagement and said we were not compatible. I told him people who marry at our age marry more for companionship. He said he wanted a wife, not a companion. Please set me straight on this if you can as I have worried and wondered about it.

Dear Reader—Many older people enjoy an active sex life, and many men over 70 years of age have fathered children. It is usually said that in the American population about half of the men over 75 years of age lose their sexual ability. Obviously then, about half of them retain it, at least to some degree.

From the large volume of mail I receive from older people about sex, it is clearly an important consideration in their lives just as it is to younger people. As in younger people, the level of interest and activity is highly variable.

With increasing age a number of medical problems do occur which can cause difficulties. If the woman is deficient in female hormones, which commonly occurs after the menopause, in the course of time she may have developed enough changes to cause her real physical difficulties. Other women in their 70s maintain a strong sex drive and continue to be active. A woman's sexuality in later years can be protected by replacement of female hormones after menopause if she needs them.

There isn't a yes or no answer to your question. Men sometimes blame a woman for their own problems and vice versa. It is also true that while sex is important, it is not the only aspect of life and certainly not the only basis for a good relationship between two individuals in or out of marriage. I suspect that no marriage is a rip-roaring success over very many years if the only ingredient that is holding it together is sex.

Dear Dr. Lamb—In your opinion do today's children have pinworms as they did a few years ago. If so, what are the symptoms? How do you detect them?

Dear Reader — Pinworms are still very common. It is not exactly a social disgrace to have them either since it affects all people regardless of economic level or ethnic origin and whether they are city folks or country folks. The pinworm's lack of discrimination concerning whom it infects leads one observer to comment that pinworms have been known to attack the highest seats in the land.

The diagnosis is made using a swab, often a tongue depressor, covered with ordinary cellophane tape, sticky side out. In the morning before bathing the sticky side of the tape is pressed against the itchy area.

National Inventors Day—Good Thing

By DON OAKLEY

Thomas A. Edison's birthday, which fell on Feb. 11, was designated by Congress as National Inventors Day to honor the nation's inventors, past and present, for their contribution to making America the world's greatest industrial power.

The recognition comes nearly 183 years after the U.S. Patent System was established by Congress in a bill signed by George Washington on April 10, 1790. Its purpose was to encourage invention and innovation in the useful arts and sciences by granting limited monopolies in the form of patents.

The number of inventions that have been or are being protected by the U.S. Patent System is now approaching four million. Since patents run for only 17 years, about three million of those four million have expired.

In the early days, an inventor had to provide a miniature working model of his invention, but in time this built up such a bulging repository that the requirement was dispensed with.

Many of these models can still be seen at the U.S. Patent Office in Crystal City, Va., and others in "the nation's attic," the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, including Eli Whitney's cotton gin and Cyrus McCormick's reaper.

Abraham Lincoln, himself holder of Patent No. 6,469 for a device to buy vessels over low water areas, once said the patent system "added the fuel of interest to the fire of genius."

In a special message to Congress on science and technology in March, 1972, President Nixon paid tribute to the patent system for its important role in building and maintaining the nation's technological progress and industrial strength.

Last year an organization called Intellectual Property Owners, Inc. was formed to increase public awareness of and appreciation for the basic social and economic values of a strong patent system.

"Intellectual property" is a phrase which covers patents, trademarks, copyrights and other proprietary interests.

IPO was established because of growing uncertainties in recent years about the rights of patent owners as a result of actions by Congress, the antitrust division of the Justice Department and court decisions.

Far from shutting off competition, as is sometimes alleged, the patent protection period stimulates competition that leads to still better ideas, says William E. Schuyler, chairman of IPO and a former U.S. Commissioner of Patents.

"Because of the protection given an original idea, any rival producer has to do more than merely imitate a successful machine or product. He has to 'go back to the drawing board' and create something that is discernibly different. Often this leads to something that does the job better, or cheaper, or faster than the protected item."

"That's competition—productive, upgrading, competition—and it's furthered by the patent system."

We need our inventors more than ever now that the comfortable technological leadership enjoyed by the United States for so many years is being challenged by other countries.

In 1971, the United States registered a $1.5-billion balance of trade deficit, the first since 1893 and much of it attributable to the rising importation of high-technology products. The deficit tripled in 1972.

Recognition of America's inventors, past, present and—hopefully—future by means of National Inventors Day has been long overdue.

H. L. Hunt Writes CUBA SKYJACKING TREATY

A first step forward in the fight against skyjacking was the signing of a five-year agreement between the U.S. and Cuba providing for extradition or stiff prosecution of skyjackers. Under the terms of the treaty, a skyjacker who causes a plane to be commandeered to Cuba must either be returned to the U.S. for prosecution or tried in Cuba under laws carrying a severe penalty for the offense. It remains to be seen if the communists in Cuba will honor their obligations under this agreement in view of the track record the communists have earned for perfidy and violation of international agreements whenever it is to their convenience or liking.

The agreement reached with Cuba contains a loophole clause making the extradition and punishment provision not applicable in the event of a skyjacker who is being sought for "strictly political reasons." But, even for this loophole to apply, there must be no financial extortion or any physical injury to the plane or crew or any other person. While this loophole may afford the communists the means to avoid enforcing the extradition provisions of the agreement, nevertheless, it is still a plus that the first of such agreements has been negotiated.

Double Standard

Private school supporters, who have learned that private education is ineligible for non-profit status while private school tuition is denied tax deductibility, will find little encouragement from the latest double standards by the government.

Members of Congress were recently invited to attend an acrobatic performance by Red Chinese at the John F. Kennedy Center, called under the patronage of Mrs. Nixon. The admission tickets, ranging from $75 for a box seat to $7.50 for a side seat, carried the notation that portions of the admission cost were tax deductible. For example, $64 of the $75 box seat ticket and $2 of the $7.50 seat ticket were tax deductible. Education of Americans in Communist acrobatics received a tax deductible status, but American education in private schools does not.

Then, we have the announcement of a health care program for Soviet scientific visitors through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Blue Cross-Blue Shield program gives all Soviet scientific visitors complete medical coverage at the low premium of $18.98 per person from HEW but paid by the U.S. taxpayers. The health service for Communist visitors from Russia in their education program is borne by us without benefit of tax deduction.

And so, the strange double standard of tax deductions in anti-American causes for wealthy foundations and for foreigners continues, while private education remains a stepchild with its supporters, and students denied any relief from dual tuition independence and how to complete federal controls and domination.

—Congressman John Rarick

WHAT LIGHT AND WHAT WAY?

"Give light and the people will find their own way" is a favorite slogan of many newspapers. What light and what way? Education without morality produces a nation of educated criminals. Freedom and morality are indivisible.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — The honors season officially gets under way this Saturday night when the CBS Television network broadcasts live coverage of the record industry's "Grammy" awards bash.
The show is coming from Nashville, Tenn., for the first time in the 15-year history of the event. Singer Andy Williams will be the master of ceremonies for the third consecutive year.
There are 47 award categories, ranging from "best inspirational performance" to "best album notes."
And there are more than 200 entries, ranging from "Papa Was a Rolling Stone" to a performance of Ravel's "Concerto"

Fortunately, we won't have to sit through all the awards and attendant speeches. The program only lasts 90 minutes and will feature just 12 categories of recording achievement, CBS says.
As usual, the televised portion of the show is overlaid with assorted popular, country and western and rhythm and blues music award and performers.
All the nominees came from an original list of 4,000 entries submitted by members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, according to George Simon, a NARAS consultant.
Simon, a veteran jazz chronicler and an editor-writer for 20 years on the now-defunct Metronome magazine, has more than a professional interest in this year's Grammy awards.
One of his nieces, singer Carly Simon, is a nominee in the category known as "best female pop, rock and vocal performance." She won the academy's "best new artist" award in 1971.

"I'm terribly proud of her," says Simon. "She's a wonderful, straight-ahead gal."
Bank Wins Box 'Game'
OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Thieves broke the real night deposit box outside an Osaka bank Sunday night, left a note telling customers to use a substitute box on the other side of the building, and "please don't forget to get the receipt."
Sixty-eight customers dutifully followed instructions, depositing the equivalent of $45,200. But the 69th depositor noticed the weight of the money was breaking open the bottom of the box—it was made of plywood—and called a bank guard.
The guard called the police, and the thieves got nothing.
